Heads-up officers aid ailing victim

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Two Kentucky State Policemen probably saved the life of an elderly man Monday evening who was allegedly being threatened and terrorized by another man.

G.C. Blair began having chest pains after Kenneth Stewart, 33, was arrested by state police while allegedly trying to break into Blair's home.

State police trooper Bobby Day and sergeant Lynn Cross noticed that Blair grabbed his chest and slumped backward while the officers were putting Stewart into the back of the police cruiser.

"When I saw Mr. Blair clutch his chest and collapse onto the porch swing, I thought 'Oh my God...,'" trooper Day said Tuesday. "Me and sergeant Cross ran back up the hill to Mr. Blair's home and from all the evidence we saw, we felt that Mr. Blair was about to go into cardiac arrest."

Trooper Day said that Blair commented that he was having severe chest pain. Day said that Blair also had shortness of breath and his heart rate was 140 beats per minute.

"We got him up from the swing and positioned him on the porch in case we had to do CPR (cardio pulmonary resuscitation), and we maintained an open airway.

"It appeared that he was about to go into shock, so we treated him for symptoms of that," Day explained. "I feel if we had not gone back up to his house, he surely would have gone into cardiac arrest."

Blair's daughter, whose name Day was unable to provide, came to her father's residence after apparently hearing the incident on a police scanner, Day said.

Attendants from Respond Ambulance arrived at the scene and whisked Blair to Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg, where he was treated and released.

"The guys from Respond did a fantastic job," Day said. "They really got him out of there quick and on to the hospital. We were ready to respond if he went into cardiac arrest. We've had emergency medical technician training and we're certified in CPR."

Day commented it is not too often that officers are able to render first aid to an apparent crime victim.

"I felt good about it," Day said. "When we were about to leave (the scene), I radioed (Post Nine in Pikeville) to call back to the residence to make sure that he was all right because he was so upset."

"A lot of times we don't get the opportunity to offer this kind of service to the people," Day continued.

Thief snatches deposit from night manager at restaurant

Kentucky State Police are pursuing leads in an effort to find out who robbed and assaulted an assistant manager Saturday night at Long John Silver's in Martin.

Margie Lou Stapleton, 42, of Paintsville, was pushed down from behind at approximately 11:45 p.m. as she was leaving the restaurant to make a night deposit. Stapleton's head hit a concrete curb and knocked her unconscious.

Stapleton was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where she was treated and released.

The robber made off with an undetermined amount of cash.

State police detective Terry Thompson said Monday that officers are checking out several tips in the case.

Responding to the scene Saturday were Thompson, trooper Bobby Day, officers from the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Martin Police Department.

Branham injured in crash

Susie Branham, 40, of Prestonsburg, received numerous broken bones and bruises last Thursday when the car she was driving crashed through a store front in Prestonsburg. Prestonsburg police officer Ricky Conn reported that authorities believe Branham suffered a diabetic seizure which caused her to lose control of the car. Branham was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center and later transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in West Virginia. (photo by Susan Allen)

Arson try at housing complex draws endangerment charges

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for today (Wednesday) to determine if nine first degree wanton endangerment charges filed against a Floyd County man should be heard by a grand jury.

Aaron Tackett, 48, of Prestonsburg, was charged Thursday by Prestonsburg police officers for allegedly setting fire to a gasoline can on September 6 and placing it at the front door of a tenant at the Dixie housing project.

Prestonsburg arson investigator Larry Adams said Monday that Tackett allegedly put a wick in the gas can, lighted it and placed it on the doorstep of Frankie Newsome. Newsome, who lives in apartment 131, and Tackett, who resides in apartment 90, had allegedly had some type of domestic dispute in the past, Adams said.

Prestonsburg firefighters put out the fire before any substantial damage was caused to the unit of five apartments, Adams said.

Tackett was charged with nine counts of first degree wanton endangerment because of the number of people in the apartment block at the time of the fire. Officer Gerald Clark assisted Adams in the investigation.

Tackett was released Friday on a $30,000 surety bond provided that he have no contact with Newsome; that he violate no laws; that he not be in the housing complex; and that he continue his psychiatric treatment.

In March, Tackett jumped off the bridge at Goble Roberts in an apparent suicide attempt. Tackett was arrested by Prestonsburg police for alcohol intoxication. He managed to escape from the back of the police cruiser and jumped off the bridge. Police officer William Petry and firefighter Billy Chaffins pulled Tackett from the river.

Prestonsburg man killed in single-car mishap Saturday

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man was killed early Sunday in a one-vehicle accident approximately 2,000 yards from his home near Prestonsburg.

Louis H. Johnson, 27, originally from Florida, was killed instantly when the vehicle he was operating hit a stone culvert on KY 1428. Floyd County Sheriff's chief deputy Linzie Hunt said Johnson's vehicle apparently ran off the road, veered back across the roadway, hit the culvert and flipped about 30 feet in the air before landing on its top in the yard of Mike Jarrell's home near Sugar Loaf.

Johnson, who was not wearing a seat belt and was the only passenger in the 1987 BMW, was pronounced dead at the scene by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson.

Members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad removed Johnson from the vehicle.

Kentucky State Police trooper John Hunt said that alcohol is suspected as a contributing factor to the accident because beer cans were found in the vehicle. The trooper said that the results of a blood test are pending.

Trooper Hunt said that Johnson was recently paroled from the Otter Creek Correctional Facility at Wheelwright.

The accident is under investigation by trooper John Hunt.

Authorities seeking leads, suspects in burglary at city filling station

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Kentucky State Police and Prestonsburg authorities are investigating a burglary last week at a Prestonsburg service station.

State police detective Lee Weddington said Tuesday that Gold

Slope's gas station was broken into last Tuesday, September 6.

Thieves entered the business through a side door and used torches and a metal bar found inside the station to open the safe, Weddington said. An undetermined amount of cash and bank statements were taken from the station.

Weddington said that officers believe the burglary occurred early Tuesday morning.

The incident is under investigation by Weddington and Prestonsburg officers.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the state police at 437-7311 or city police at 886-1010.

Council may take regional route to code

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Prestonsburg's city council has tabled for a second time final approval of a state-mandated ethics code, deciding Monday to study an alternate proposal.

Council gave tentative approval in early August to an ethics code modeled by the Kentucky League of Cities, but has stalled enactment in the past two meetings.

Adoption of the code was initially planned for August 22, but action was delayed at the urging of city attorney Larry Brown, who suggested council members thoroughly review financial disclosure requirements set out in the document before enacting the code provisions.

At council's meeting Monday evening, Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin noted that council may want to consider scrapping the League of Cities model altogether and replace it with one being developed by the Big Sandy Area Development District.

The Big Sandy ADD version, executive director Roger Recktenwald said Tuesday, would incorporate a regional approach to the law's requirement that an ethics board be appointed to enforce code provisions.

The regional board would include one member from each of the five counties in the Big Sandy ADD region, and that board would oversee the provisions of individual codes or, if various local governments could agree on one version, a single code for all municipalities and county governments within the region.

The requirement for adoption of ethics codes was enacted by the state General Assembly this year, and codes must be in place by January, 1995. Among other things, the codes establish rules for financial disclosure by candidates and officials—elected or appointed, and they must develop criteria for the employment of relatives of local government officials.

The Big Sandy ADD board of directors is expected to review the regional ethics board proposal Thursday, and Prestonsburg's city council will likely bring the issue up again at its next meeting on September 26.

In other business Monday, the Prestonsburg council gave first reading to an ordinance updating the city's building code provisions that reinforce the city's adoption in 1981 of Kentucky Building Code criteria.

Building permit fees set out in the ordinance remain the same as those adopted in 1976, city building inspector Larry Adams said Tuesday, but occupational tax requirements have been altered.

The city's current ordinance sets occupational tax fees for construction projects at one-half of one per-

Police net marijuana, fugitive in separate searches Monday

The onset of autumn usually signals the end of the marijuana growing season, but local law enforcement officers have not put up their hiking boots.

In pursuing anonymous tips given to the Floyd County Sheriff's Department, Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and detective Jim Rederick found and destroyed over 200 marijuana plants Monday, taken from three separate locations in the county. The plants ranged from six feet to four feet in height, Rederick said Tuesday.

Rederick reported that approximately 200 plants were seized from a plot in the Price/Hi Hat area; 15 plants from Bull Creek; and about 35 plants from Bonanza.

Thompson and Rederick spent most of the day Monday hunting the marijuana crops on hillside sites in the various locations. A mature marijuana plant generates an estimated $1,000 worth of pot.

The sheriff's department has found and destroyed about 600 plants this growing season.

In other police activity Monday, Kentucky State Police troopers Bobby Day, Ron Peppi, John Hunt and detective Larry Woods arrested an Indiana fugitive in the Minnie area.

Donald R. Holcomb, 34, was taken into custody Monday evening and charged with being a fugitive from justice. Trooper Day said Tuesday that Indiana officials notified local authorities that Holcomb was in the area.

Holcomb is wanted for a parole violation and is lodged in the Floyd County Jail.

Allen City Commission puts sharp teeth into stray dog law

Allen City Commissioners held second reading of an ordinance Monday evening, aimed at curbing the city's problem with stray dogs.

Persons caught setting out a stray dog in Allen can be fined $500. The ordinance will become effective after it is published.

Commissioners have been trying for several months to find a solution to the dog situation in the city and once considered employing a dog catcher.

In other action at Monday's meeting:

- commissioners will seek additional estimates for installing vinyl siding on city hall;
- commissioners approved a revised city budget to include pay raises for the mayor, commissioners, city clerk and police officers; and
- authorized policeman Tony Conn to seek quotes for the purchase of a radar gun.

All members were present at Monday's meeting.

Pulling together

Education is sometimes a battle between educators and students as was evident in a faculty-student tug-of-war held recently at Prestonsburg Community College for a faculty-student get-together. The event was sponsored by PCC's Nursing Retention Committee and the Kentucky Association of Nursing Students (KANS). Students and faculty were treated to pizza, watermelon and soft drinks before competing in games of tug-of-war and volleyball. In the tug-of-war competition, the faculty was soundly defeated.

Task force nabs four in Pike

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Four Pike County men were arrested over the weekend in separate raids conducted by the Mountain Area Drug Task Force assisted by the Pike County Sheriff's Department.

Friday evening officers arrested Ricky Lewis Varney, 23, of McCarr, after stopping a van he was driving. Approximately five pounds of marijuana was seized from the vehicle and Varney was charged with trafficking in marijuana, over five pounds; second degree illegal transaction with a minor; no operator's license; and disregarding a stop sign. In another raid Friday, Edgar Varney, 40, of Pike County, was arrested at his home and charged with trafficking in marijuana, less than eight ounces; trafficking in marijuana, more than eight ounces, less than five pounds; cultivating marijuana, less than five plants; and possession of drug paraphernalia. Task force director Frank Fryman said Monday that an eight-foot marijuana "bush" was confiscated from Edgar Varney's home.

On Saturday, Handsol Prather, 37, of Turkey Creek in Pike County, was arrested and charged with trafficking in marijuana, over eight ounces, less than five pounds; possession of a controlled substance, cocaine; possession of a controlled substance, codeine; three counts of prescription drugs not in proper container; and possession of drug paraphernalia. Prather was arrested at his home.

On Sunday, officers arrested Lewis Woodford, 60, of Jamboree, and charged him with illegal sale of alcoholic beverages in dry territory and illegal possession of alcoholic beverages in a dry territory. Agents confiscated 1,978 bottles and cans of beer and 71 bottles of whiskey.

The four were lodged in the Pike County Detention Center.

War or peace, "Mail for Our Military" boosts morale

This year's "Mail for Our Military" program is now underway! Mail from participants in every part of the U.S. will be combined and then separated into more than 1,000 packages of varying size and sent to units, bases and support agencies (USOs, Armed Services YMCAs, hospitals, etc.) all across the U.S. and around the world.

"Thank you for...the Christmas cards your organization sent to us...This was an important boost to morale!" wrote a Navy chaplain.

"Mail for Our Military" is a project for everyone, of interest in every locale from which someone is serving, or where anyone is interested in the morale of our men and women in uniform. Scores of individuals, groups, churches, military, schools and colleges are so "into" this program that they send more than 1,000 cards and letters each. To find out what the excitement is all about, and how to help boost morale and spirits at more than 1,000 places all across the U.S. and around the world, interested readers should send a first-class postage stamp for return postage (a stamped, self-addressed envelope cannot be used—just the stamp), along with their name and address, to: MAIL FOR OUR MILITARY, P.O. BOX 415, FORT CAMPBELL, KY. 42223-0415. Locally, Charlyn Davis-Hager of Auxier and Pikeville Methodist Hospital participated in the Christmas 1993/Valentine 1994 "Mail for Our Military" campaigns.

Pikeville College professor and students test statistical theories

Dr. Homer White, Pikeville College assistant professor of mathematics, has returned from a year's leave under the prestigious Pew Fellowship. White was awarded the Fellowship to study Bootstrap Confidence Intervals, a series of methods for calculating margins of error in statistical samples.

White initially looked for a research project that would involve Pikeville College students. The Bootstrap project was attractive because it would require intensive computer programming, an area many Pikeville students are very strong in. After winning the Fellowship, White went to the University of Kentucky to study the theories and develop tests.

Pikeville College students Chris Kidd and William Hall joined White in Lexington for the summer and were responsible for creating the test programs, based on White's specifications. Their time was also funded by the Pew Fellowship. The program built by the students outperformed more complex programs already being used at the UK Statistics Lab.

Says White, "One reason this research is exciting is the input of the students involved. In this case, they taught me quite a bit about programming. I hope they learned a little from me, too."

Kidd is now a senior and Computer Lab Manager. He plans on entering graduate school next fall in the computer arena. Hall graduated in the spring and is now in the PhD computer program at UK.

The Bootstrap Confidence Interval theories have raised quite a bit of excitement in the statistical community over the last fifteen years because it allows the same methods to be used for a variety of different statistical surveys. Traditionally, new methods to calculate margins of error had to be developed for each type of survey. This area of statistical inference, measuring reliability of estimates based on samples, should allow surveys based on smaller samples to have lower margins of error.

White's research shows that the Bootstrap methods are reliable in certain situations, but not as reliable in others. He has already presented a paper of the findings at UK. The paper will also be presented at the Undergraduate Conference in the Oregon National Lab by Kidd and Hall. The paper will ultimately be housed in the University of Kentucky Technical Report Series.

As with most good research, this has opened doors to new possibilities of research for White and his assistants. He plans to move the testing back to Pikeville, and will probably begin work on discovering why the Bootstrap method did not work in certain situations.

Nursing home admission tips

Mary Anne Hall, an ombudsman with the Big Sandy Area Development District, recently offered some suggestions to make the transition from home to a nursing home go smoother.

She suggests the guardian:

- Bring the new resident's Social Security, Medicare, insurance and/or Medicaid cards.

- Have note cards with phone numbers of family members or other contact persons to distribute to administrators.

- Supply copies of such legal documents as guardianship papers, a power of attorney, living will, and a health care declaration.

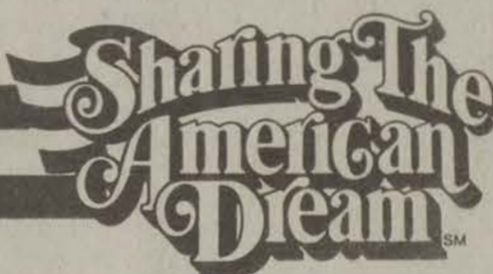

She also recommends that guardians should not feel pressured to sign any document that they do not understand. "You may have the document reviewed by your attorney," Hall said.

For more information about admission to a nursing facility, write Hall in care of the Big Sandy Area Development District, 100 Resource Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

What's a value worth?

by Scott Perry

It is interesting to note that nearly two years after former Vice President Dan Quayle was thoroughly ridiculed for asserting that most of America's woes could be attributed to a breakdown in family values, the criticism has come home to roost.

Even Quayle's staunchest detractors admit now that perhaps the best rule is, in fact, the Golden Rule.

Since a majority seems to have arrived at the same conclusion, it's of no particular importance to argue about who got there first.

It's more important to put words into action.

Forget party affiliations.

Republicans have no monopoly over Democrats on matters relative to common decency.

As tired a cliché as it is, mainstream America must begin to stretch its legs and flex its muscles.

This country has been held hostage long enough by the zealotry of the radical right and the licentiousness of the liberal left.

Time the man (or woman) in the middle stood his ground and demanded change.

Change to what?

What the heck is a family value?

Well, that depends a lot on you.

Maybe it's something as simple as teaching the kids to take off their hats when the band is playing the National Anthem.

Perhaps it's something as unpretentious as learning to say please and thank-you.

Suppose its nothing more than realizing that the world doesn't stop at the end of our own noses.

Values can really be cheap to come by, yet priceless to behold.

Don't waste $409,000 on useless land

Editor:

In recent weeks the Floyd County Board of Education has moved forward with plans to purchase a piece of property as a proposed site for a middle school for the Harold-Betsy Layne-Stumbo area.

The approximate purchase price for this land is $409,000. It is my understanding that there will be no money to actually begin construction on our middle school for at least three years. But as with most school construction projects, a more realistic completion date is probably four to eight years away.

Many things can change in four to eight years. For instance, will the demographics show that this is the most appropriate site when actual construction begins, or will the student population shift over the next four to eight years?

Will other, more desirable sites become available? Our board of education already owns some property adjacent to Betsy Layne High School. Should they consider acquiring other property on the hill near the high school in order to make use of existing roads and utilities. This would avoid future expense in supplying utilities to a new site.

When construction needs in Floyd County are so great and available dollars so few, is it wise to tie up $409,000 in a piece of property that cannot be utilized for four to eight years?

I'm sure this money could be used now in ways that could improve the quality of education for our children for the next four to eight years and beyond.

For example, money is needed for improvements at Prestonsburg High School. We need money to build the new Martin-Maytown Elementary School. How far could $409,000 go toward an addition at John M. Stumbo Elementary? Could we use that money for asbestos removal at the Betsy Layne dome gym, which serves students from Harold, Betsy Layne and Stumbo?

Our gym also needs funding to repair other serious safety hazards. The list of needs is endless and could encompass any and every school in Floyd County.

I'm sure parents and school personnel countywide would have suggestions as to how $409,000 could be used to improve conditions now. If our board of education feels a duty to use this money for an investment toward our middle school, why not use it for something that children can make use of in the years while we await construction.

We have never had adequate science equipment at Betsy Layne Elementary. If we invested $409,000 in science equipment for Harold, Stumbo and Betsy Layne, our children could be benefiting from it now and until our new school is occupied.

Upon completion of our middle school, our science equipment could be moved into the new building.

We can choose a middle school site when we are ready to build, and base that decision on what is best at that time.

Please, don't waste $409,000 on land that is of no use now. Our children cannot afford such a decision.

Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank some very special people for their generosity.

As members of the Prestonsburg Community College's Single Parent Program, we were able to receive complimentary tickets to this summer's theatrical performance at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre for my friends and family.

We would like to acknowledge and thank Jean Rosenberg, director of the Single Parent Program at Prestonsburg Community College, Teddi Vaughn, director of the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre, and also the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre for their greatly-appreciated generosity.

One-million-dollar middle school site?

Editor:

Could the Floyd County taxpayers possibly end up with a $1 million tab for a middle school site in the Harold area?

Very possibly. Here's how. The property purchase price for the middle school site has been quoted at $409,400 in the papers. Then add in $300,000 for required site preparation. This $300,000 is a board "gestimate." If you are a realist, add many more thousands to this "gestimate." This gets us up to a low-end estimate of $709,400 ($409,400 + 300,000) minimum.

There are a couple of additional costs that can kick this site tab well above $1 million. One added cost will be the necessity to build a 2-story vs. a 1-story building because the stable portion of the site that the board is considering is so small. A 2-story building requires heavier construction techniques that a 1-story building. This means more costs. A 2-story building also requires stairs and elevators that drive up construction costs.

A second thing that can rapidly drive the site cost up would be excessive site preparation costs. Past estimates in the county have been low. This particular site has only a very small "stable" area. If this small area isn't large enough to accommodate the building and associated gym, large costs would be incurred to try and create more stable area or to install caissons for building support.

Do you reckon we need to look much more closely at this site before we potentially spend $1 million or more before laying the first brick?

Come to Allen for car racing thrills!

Editor:

As the season for stock car racing draws to an end, for all you die-hard fans, don't despair. You're all invited to come join me and my neighbors to sit on my front porch and watch speed racing, and it's all free.

It's more exciting than the regular races, the drivers come in all shapes, sizes, sex and ages. The only thing they have in common is that none can read the 35 m.p.h. and/or 20 m.p.h. speed signs.

There's no certain time for these races to begin, you can come watch anytime you want. The most fun is when it's raining. There's always a little excitement as some poor soul forgets how fast they're going and can't make the curve on 1428 here in

by Scott Perry

Appellate Judge Sara Combs made an interesting observation this week during a brief visit with the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce concerning the attitude our society has developed toward politics.

Politicians are so typecast by our cynicism, she suggested, that it is almost impossible to find leaders who don't live down to our expectations.

She's right, too.

All too often we set standards for our political leaders that we couldn't meet ourselves, then we scream bloody murder when they fail to measure up.

Heck, that's not just cynical...it's downright hypocritical.

And that's why people who have the ability and desire to be good leaders wouldn't touch politics with a ten-foot pole.

Quoting the highly regarded missionary Albert Schweitzer, Combs said, "public service is the highest human calling."

Perhaps we need to put the phone back on the hook.

We are, of course, experiencing a crisis of trust in this country that carries well beyond the boundaries of politics.

Everybody is suspect...the media, the lawyers, the ministers, even the girl next door.

Somebody, somewhere is out to get us and the object, it seems, is to get them first.

An ounce of prevention or mass paranoia?

We fear it's the latter.

Sometimes our cynicism is well-founded.

Not everyone is innocent.

Matter of fact, there are some folks out there who are guilty of innocence.

Our seven-year-old son and his band of merry mischief-makers come to mind as examples.

A few days ago the gang of youths was nabbed in a neighbor's backyard where they were digging industriously at a mound covering an old well.

Seems they misinterpreted the neighbor's explanation for the dirt mound, believing she said an old "whale" was buried there.

The archaeological expedition was cancelled immediately.

Anybody missing a pair of shovels?

Saw a story this week about the formation of a support group to help small-town Eastern Kentuckians deal with the "culture shock" of life on the University of Kentucky campus which caused us to reflect on our first-year adventures in Lexington more than two decades ago.

We had a support group of sorts back then, too.

Whenever we felt the pressures of big campus life bearing down on us, we'd gather on a wall in the center of campus.

Sooner or later, someone would streak by...buck naked.

On those occasions, cultural differences didn't seem to matter much.

All you had to do to fit in with the crowd was wear something more than a smile.

Foreign students pursue degrees at Pikeville College for fall semester

Simon Truesdale and Adrian Houston are a long way from their homes in Northern Ireland, but not half as far as Node Nimsomboon. Node is from Bangkok, Thailand.

These are three of several overseas students enrolled at Pikeville College this fall. With a total of six, admissions staff can't recall a semester with more foreign students on campus. Each arrived at Pikeville through widely varying means. The administration at Pikeville College is eager to bring overseas students here to study, believing the added cultural diversity only enhances the overall experience for all students.

Truesdale, from Banbridge, and Houston, from Derry, are attending Pikeville College through a program called the "Business Education Initiative." The program, sponsored by Queen's University in Belfast, sends engineering students to a college in the United States for a year of intensive business coursework. The students are assigned a college by the program.

"We didn't know much about Pikeville College," said Houston. "We only knew it was a small college in the mountains."

Pikeville College's involvement in this program is through the Association of Presbyterian Colleges and Universities which works with Queen's University.

Nimsomboon, on the other hand, arrived at Pikeville through the guidance of the University of Kentucky graduate program. He already holds a Civil Engineering degree from King Mondkut Institute of Technology in Bangkok, and will pursue a Master's degree in Engineering at UK. His registration for UK's program was late, so one of the professor's in the program suggested he attend Pikeville for a semester to prepare.

All three of these students enter an environment completely different from the one they are used to. Nimsomboon, whose hometown population is in the millions, is getting acclimated to small town life. He likes the friendliness of the people he has met.

Truesdale and Houston, whose homes aren't as drastically large as Nimsomboon's, are also adjusting to small town life, Pike County style. All hope to explore and learn about the area, but are a bit stymied by a lack of transportation.

Says Truesdale, "At home, we can get anywhere by train or bus...here, you need a car."

Also, cultural differences have been quite apparent. "Last night, the students were taken to the cinema for a movie," said Houston, "at home, we would have all gone to the pub."

Lottery puts weekly player in hot water!

Frances Russell loves to play Kentucky Lottery games, especially Pick 4 and instant scratch-offs. She says she plays a few dollars per week, and that was enough to put her in hot water! That's because Russell and her husband, Albert, won a hot tub in the Lottery's Summer Fun '94 promotion.

"This is the way to get into hot water," Russell laughed. "This hot water is relaxing, not trouble!"

The Russells won their prize, valued at over $4,300, by sending in just two entries to the Lottery's Summer Fun '94 promotion. One of their entries was selected from a total of over 130,000 sent in by other players.

"I won $100 in Pick 4 a few weeks ago," Russell said. "I thought that was great. But, this is even better."

To enter the Lottery's Summer Fun '94 promotion, players had to send in five non-winning Kentucky Lottery instant scratch-off tickets per envelope. The Russells' hot tub was one of 80 prizes given away during the eight-week promotion. There were two grand prizes—a Hydra-Sports Fish and Ski boat won by Evansville, Indiana, police officer Tim Morris, and a 1994 Ford Mustang GT convertible, won by Pikeville newspaper worker Lola Weddington.

Letters to the editor

Old Allen. Nobody has been killed as of yet, but give 'em time and it's bound to happen.

Now who do we have to thank for this free live entertainment? The good-hearted state highway department is the guilty bird. Something bad is going to happen on this little bit of road, then they'll come running in to save the day. The department has been petitioned for the last two years for a traffic light, maybe a caution light, or whatever.

What did they do? They came up and took down the yield sign that we had up, painted some white lines on the street beside the stop sign on a side street and that was it.

I've been told that one time we had a traffic light at this intersection, but the good ole boys on the city council at that time let them take it down. I don't know why. The highway department says we don't have enough traffic for a red light. We get the same traffic that goes through the red and caution light at Martin near the hospital. If we don't have enough for a light, what does it take?

We have some people in our little town who don't like to work, but most of the people in our town are taxpayers just like the majority in our surrounding cities and would like a little consideration from our state and local governments.

If Martin can have one where they want it, and Prestonsburg can have one at every intersection, then Allen should be able to have one in the middle of their busy little town.

But life goes one and so does the speeding through Allen, until something or somebody slows the traffic down. If you're driving through our fair town, please be careful. I counted 15 children getting on a school bus the other morning. Let's pray it doesn't take the safety of a precious child to get something done.

Looking for sister

Editor:

Just a few years ago, I was told I have a half-sister born in 1945 or 1946 to my father Sterling Clark and his second wife, May (Clifton) Clark.

I have called many people in and around Floyd County to see if I could get information on her whereabouts, but had no success.

The only information I have is she went by the nick-name of "Pinky" and was or is married to a Dr. Perkins.

Since my parents and only sibling are dead, it would be nice if I could find her for friendship and perhaps share health information.

If anyone has information on this person, please contact me. It would be most appreciated.

Consider the alternative!

Editor:

The problem of growing old. After 40 years, things wear out, fall out or spread out! Your teeth fall out! Your hair falls out! Your eyes fail to do the job!

Then, it's arthritis, pericarditis and/or rheumatism, heart trouble, cancer. The doctor tells you to watch your weight, so you keep it in front where you can see it. Ha!

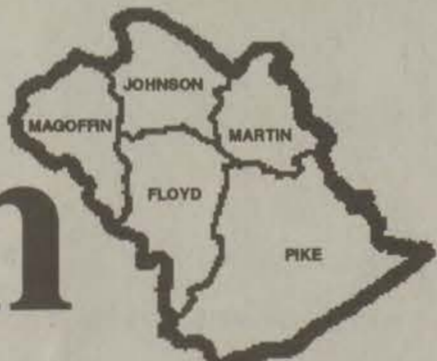

The only consolation or comfort is that you are not alone. You see others worse off than you are. For instance, you look across the street and see a man without feet then you don't harp anymore about not having shoes.

No one likes to get old wrinkles that looks like elephant's hide!

Yes, thank God you've lived as long as you have. Take good care of self, trust your faith for a few more years.

Harlan housing agency awarded grant program

A Harlan housing agency was one of five agencies in the state to share over $500,000 in grants from the U.S. Agriculture department's Farmers Home Administration.

COAP Inc. of Harlan was awarded $48,000 to assist six families.

The funding will be released from the Housing Preservation Grant Program and will help families with low and very low incomes to improve their homes, U.S. Senator Wendell Ford announced Thursday. Families which receive this assistance must own and live in their own houses needing rehabilitation and repair. — staff report

Eastern Kentucky health network offers new choice

McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital is part of an alliance formed between the University of Kentucky and 33 Eastern Kentucky hospitals to offer health care options to government workers.

About 45,000 state, county and school district workers are eligible throughout Eastern Kentucky to participate in the Commonwealth Healthcare Alliance Inc. Open enrollment begins October 1, and coverage begins January 1.

The alliance establishes a three-tiered health-care system made up of the primary-care physician at the local level, a regional hospital in the area and UK Hospital for patients who cannot be treated locally.

In some counties the alliance will be one of several choices available to government employees. In others the choice will be limited to the alliance or Kentucky Kare, the state's self-insurance provider. — Associated Press (The Courier-Journal)

Judge won't move Pennington trial

A prosecutor said Monday that she would not appeal a judge's decision not to move Scott Pennington's double slaying trial to Jefferson County.

"It is within the judge's discretion," Assistant Attorney General Barbara Whaley said. "An appeal ... would not be in the best interest of the case."

In an order signed Friday, Judge Samuel Long ruled that Whaley failed to offer "any authority to transfer the case to Jefferson County." Whaley had asked Long for the move late last month after he scheduled the trial for February 1, 1995, in Johnson County, where the trial had been relocated from Carter County. That was the earliest available date lawyers in the case could agree upon for the trial in Paintsville, but Whaley didn't want to wait that long.

Pennington, 18, is charged with two counts of capital murder in the January 18, 1993 shooting deaths of Deanna McDavid, an East Carter High School teacher, and Marvin Hicks, a janitor. — The Courier-Journal

Call before you dig

Getting ready to do some digging? If you're not careful, you could receive a bill for hundreds or thousands of dollars if you sever an underground utility.

South Central Bell reports bills to repair their underground cables have run anywhere from $500 to $450,000.

"Digging accidents are a major cause of utility and telecommunications service disruption, and there's no reason for that with services from agencies like Kentucky's BUD—Call Before You Dig Center," said South Central Bell manager Tom Tucker. "One call to its 1-800-752-6007 toll-free number will alert South Central Bell and other member companies to locate underground utilities before you dig."

In addition to being billed for damages, you could be fined up to $1,000 starting January 1, 1995. This is when the new Kentucky Underground Facility Damage Prevention Act of 1994 will require contractors to call the BUD Center and underground facility owners that are not BUD Center members before digging.

Shriners' campaign gives children and parents hope

Coty Burgess

by Pam Burgess
Contributing Writer

"I'm sorry Mr. and Mrs. ... your child has ... of which there is no cure, only treatment and this treatment will be very extensive and expensive."

Those are probably the worst words parents can ever hear. I know. I have heard them.

My son, Coty, has potassium deficiency rickets, a condition for which there is no cure. With the constant medication that his body receives four times each day, his legs should straighten as he grows. My husband and I had never heard of this condition until our son was diagnosed at the Shriners Hospital in Lexington.

Early in our child's development, we were like any other new parent, encouraging our toddler to do the normal things: talk, walk, eat by himself and so on. But his legs were already starting to bow at 12-14 months old.

His father and I were concerned, despite our family and friends assuring us that it was his diaper that made his legs bow with such definition. So, after much discussion and speculation, we took him to a reputable orthopaedic doctor, who turned out to be no help at all.

Poetry contest seeks entries

Arcadia Poetry Press is offering a $500 grand prize in its new "Poetic Achievement Awards" poetry contest. The grand prize is one of 48 cash prizes being offered. Entry in the contest is free and there are no fees of any type. Entries are also considered for publication in Arcadia's American Poetry Anthology, a hardcover collection of poetry.

Poets are to submit one poem of 20 lines or less. Poems can be on any subject and written in any style. Deadline for entering is November 30. Winners will be notified by February 28, 1995, with prizes awarded immediately.

"There is a great number of persons writing poetry today and many, many others who want to write," said Paul Church, poetry editor. "All are encouraged to enter since we are looking for creativeness and originality above all. One does not have to be an experienced poet to win."

Poets are encouraged to send their work as soon as possible. Mail to Arcadia Poetry Press, Dept. K, 1101-A Sovereign Row, Oklahoma City, OK 73108.

Then, my husband obtained an application for Shriners Hospital through a co-worker who was a Shriner. From then on, there was hope in our lives.

We completed the application and sent pictures of Coty, showing his legs and the distinct bowing. In about three weeks we were contacted by the hospital to set up an appointment for Coty's evaluation.

I can't convey the torture it is to look at your child and ask yourself: "Why him? Is there anything I can do? Anything I should have done, or didn't do?"

The only thing there is for you to do is wait and pray that there is another answer. That answer for my son was the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. At Shriners Hospital, my son receives the finest medical care available, absolutely free.

The Shriners Hospitals are caring and professional and have the finest medical staffs in the country and the latest medical technology. My son receives, on any given visit, x-rays, lab work, renal ultra sound — and the list goes on — because the physicians are thorough and study every test result before making a diagnosis and possible treatment decision.

For me, there are no words to properly say thank you for the wonderful help and support we have gotten from the Shriners Hospital of Lexington and the experienced and caring staff.

Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children is a network of 22 facilities, including 19 orthopaedic hospitals and three burn institutes.

The Shriners have a three-fold purpose: 1) To save children's lives and restore their bodies to the highest level of usefulness; 2) To conduct research into orthopaedic and burn care; and 3) To educate new physicians and other medical professionals in the care and treatment of orthopaedic disabilities and burn injuries.

The 1994 budget for the Shriners Hospitals is $394 million. The operating cost is $304 million, including $20 million allocated for research. The capital expenditures budget is $90 million. Of the $304 million operating budget, 96 percent is used directly for patient care and research.

To this date, approximately 488,000 children have been helped at the 22 Shriners Hospitals and all were treated at no charge to the family or any insurance company. As of May 1994, 123 children from Floyd County were treated at the hospitals.

Where does the money come from?

This philanthropy is supported by each Shriners' annual hospital assessment, fund-raising events and by contributions and requests of their many friends who want to "make an investment in humanity." Tax deductible contributions can be made to Shriners Hospitals through gifts of cash, securities, real estate, life insurance and through provisions in wills or trusts.

On September 17, members of the Oleika Shrine Temple will have a hospital fund-raising road block throughout Floyd County. All proceeds from this drive goes directly to the Shriners Hospital Fund. I ask you as a parent of a Shriners' child to give generously to this most worthy endeavor.

These Shriners give freely of their time and money all year, every year, and their only reward is to see a crippled child lead a more promising and productive life.

For more information on obtaining applications for a crippled child. Call toll-free 1-800-237-5055, or contact a local Shriner.

Father

by Priscella Bays

It's been a year since he's been gone; but, to me it seems all wrong.

Nothing or no one could take the place of my dear father and his smiling face.

I would give anything to see him again. But, I know Jesus said: "Welcome home, my child. Enter in."

Now I seem to notice what I really deep in my heart miss,

How much he meant to me is a plain picture I can see,

How my heart just felt torn inside my chest on that sad day when they laid dad to rest.

Now he is not here with us anymore. When he left this world, Jesus just opened the door.

I know he is in heaven and not in the grave. So, I look up to you and say, "Dad, I love you. Thank you for the love you gave."

A DAY OF PRAYER FOR AMERICA'S YOUTH IN CRISIS

See You At The Pole (SYATP) is a teen-led national prayer movement. It is a united effort to allow the biblically prescribed solution for crisis in a nation. It focuses attention on the crisis faced by American teens. It summons the community to get involved in the crisis. Also, it is a declaration of our dependence on God as the solution to the crisis through the reconciliation of lost people to Him. SYATP is not a demonstration protest, an equal rights rally, a publicity stunt, a patriotic rally, or an alternative to prayer in schools. SYATP is allowed by the U.S. Constitution as a First Amendment right. In 1993, more than 1 million people participated in SYATP prayer rallies all across America.

HOW CAN YOU BE INVOLVED?

Plan to join a SYATP prayer rally on the morning of September 21, 1994. Teenagers are encouraged to gather at their school flagpoles. Adults are encouraged to meet at the courthouse flagpole in Prestonsburg. Exact times will be listed in Friday's paper.

Cougars roll up yardage in 21-6 win over Bobcats

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

To borrow a phrase from Gomer Pyle: "Surprise, surprise, surprise!" And that is just what the Betsy Layne Bobcats were Friday night -- surprised.

The Morgan County Cougars, known to be struggling on the ground in their first two games, looked like anything but a hapless ballclub. They mixed their offense to perfection and ran past the Bobcats 21-6 for their first win of the season.

The Cougars had zero yardage rushing for the first two games. Then Cougar coach Terry Chinn's seven ball carriers amassed 218 yards on the ground to go with 94 passing yards, equalling 321 yards offense.

Coach Chinn ran different players out of the backfield in hopes of finding someone to spot the open holes. Senior Wade O'Connor (5'10, 160) led the rushing game with 62 yards on five carries. Aaron Cummins (5'11", 173, junior) totaled 46 yards.

Quarterback Danny Deborde completed six of 11 pass attempts for 94 yards. Damon Ballinger was on the receiving end with four completions for 70 yards receiving.

Morgan County did all their scoring in the first quarter, taking advantage of some defensive breakdowns by Betsy Layne.

On the first series of plays for the Cougars to start the game, it took 11 plays to cover 70 yards for the first Morgan County score. Deborde ran into the end zone from 2-yards out and the extra point gave the Cougars the 7-0 lead.

Morgan County was called for two clipping infractions and a holding penalty on the drive. But when the Cougars looked to be in a bad situation, Deborde would find a receiver or Cummins would break for long yardage.

With 2:02 left in the first quarter, Deborde hit Ballinger with a 46-yard touchdown pass and the extra point made it a 14-0 game.

After Betsy Layne was unable to move the football, the Cougars found Betsy Layne running back Rocky Hamilton was the center of attention on this carry against Morgan County last Friday night. powerful Panthers. He thinks that his team can play with them.

"If we play hard and take care of the football, we can stay with them," he said. "But we have to hang onto the football. That has been a problem for us lately."

Daniels said that the Raiders will have to concentrate on stopping sophomore sensation Brent Coleman (5'7", 175).

"He's a very good back," the coach said. "He has excellent speed and will be hard to handle."

Eddie Deramus (6'1", 250) will be at a fullback slot for the Panthers. But Coach Daniels likes him better elsewhere. "I think he's a better nose guard," he said. "He's a very good nose guard."

"We'll have to double down on them and hit from all angles," he added.

Jonathan Pruitt (6'3", 180) will quarterback the Panthers. Pruitt is completing 60 percent of his passes. However, he will not pass that much with a runner like Coleman behind him.

Perhaps the back who is leading the Panthers in rushing, John Hatfield, will be the one the Raiders will watch.

"I like the Hatfield kid," said Daniels. "He's quick. Hatfield is averaging just under 14 yards per carry for his team's first three games. Coleman is averaging just over 11 yards per carry."

Ben Wagner (5'10", 145) is the top receiver for the Panthers and a favorite target for Pruitt.

Chad Slone is the leading rusher for the Raiders and will find the Panther line a little suspect on defense. Slone is a strong runner and the feature back for the Raiders. He rushed for 150 yards last week at Phelps and has scored eight touchdowns in the first three games.

Adam Wright and Chet McCarty complete the backfield for the Raiders.

Senior Justin Ray will quarterback the Raiders. Ray threw for 48 yards last week against the Hornets. Look for Aaron Hall, Kevin Johnson and Jarrod Compton on the defensive side of the football for South Floyd.

The Raiders will be looking for their first win as a new school.

der of the season.

Both teams were considered the two district teams that would be fighting for the top spot and a home field advantage in the playoffs in November.

But it was the Yellowjackets that came to Prestonsburg and took home a 10-7 win over the Blackcats in a game that Prestonsburg did not seem up for.

A breakdown in the specialty team allowed the Yellowjackets to take a punt and return it 70 yards untouched for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Prestonsburg continued to turn the football over. They fumbled five times, giving them 15 fumbles in their last two games. The Blackcats had 10 fumbles against Lafayette the previous week.

Junior tailback Billy Stamper gathered in a Mike Shepherd punt at his own 30-yard line. Then he scampered through the Prestonsburg line and around the final defense for a 70-yard return that gave the Yellowjackets a 6-0 lead.

Charlie Wright, who quarterbacked the Yellowjackets in the absence of regular quarterback Chester Adams, ran the two-point conversion for an 8-0 game.

Prestonsburg had the football inside their own 10-yard line after the ensuing kickoff from Whitesburg, but fumbled the ball away with Whitesburg recovering at the 8-yard line.

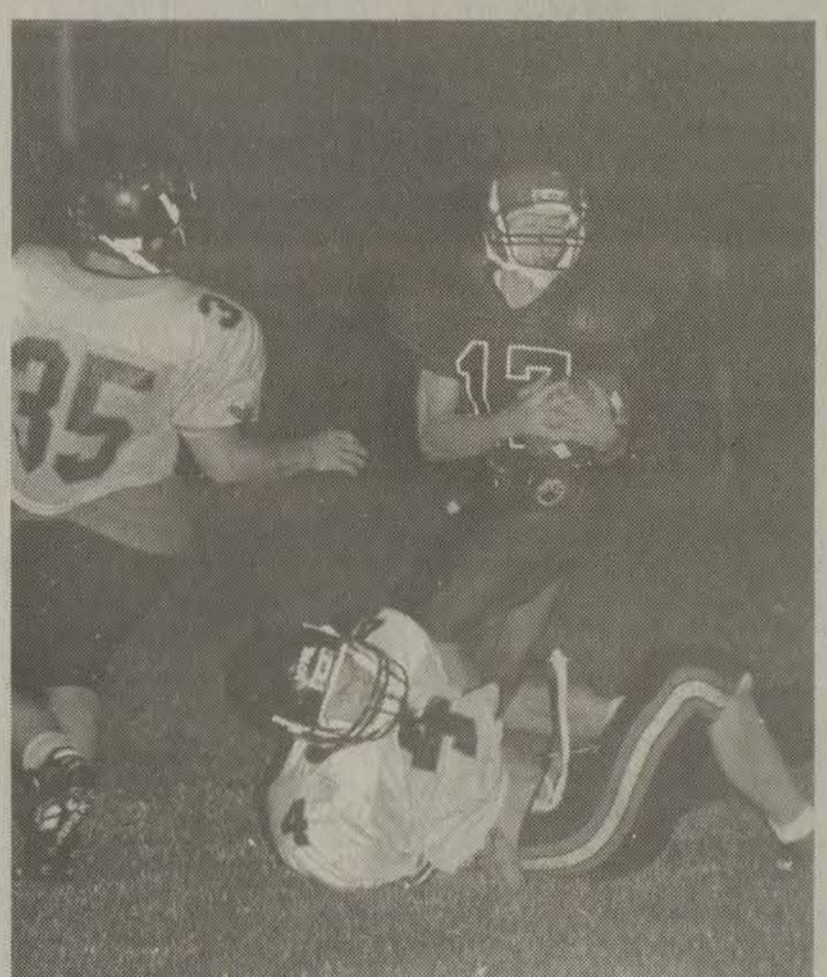

Prestonsburg's defense held the Yellowjackets when the Blackcats took over on downs after a good stand.

But Prestonsburg quarterback Thomas Ratliff was tackled in the end zone for a safety that gave the Yellowjackets a 10-0 lead.

The Blackcats were forced to free kick to Whitesburg after the safety. The Yellowjackets, behind the running of Stamper, moved the football to the Prestonsburg 31 before a penalty put them back on the 41 where they punted the football.

South Floyd Raiders fall in double overtime at Phelps

Ferrell's 27-yard field goal helps sink Raiders 3-0

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was a disappointing evening for the South Floyd Raiders and coach Donnie Daniels after the Raiders fell victim to the Phelps Hornets in double overtime at Phelps this past Friday night.

In a turn around from the previous two games, South Floyd played an excellent defense for the entire game.

It took a 27-yard field goal by Donald Ferrell in the second overtime to defeat a very game South Floyd team.

"The players are disappointed, I am disappointed," said Coach Daniels, "but we have to go on."

Disappointed?

The Raiders had the ball the final time in the second overtime after they intercepted a pass to take control of the ball. The Raiders were in a game-winning situation looking at a second and goal from the Phelps' 4-yard line. South Floyd then fumbled the football, giving the Hornets control from the 10-yard line.

The Raiders held for three downs when Phelps elected to kick the field goal for the win. Ferrell's kick sailed through the uprights, and the Hornets stung the Raiders 3-0.

Coach Daniels saw his club with the football in the first overtime and then he had to make a decision whether to go for the field goal or try to take it into the end zone.

"After looking at the field position we had, I felt the decision I made was the correct one," he said.

"The decision? South Floyd would try to take the ball into the end zone. Quarterback Justin Ray went to the air only to have his pass intercepted by the Hornets.

"We played a good game," said Coach Daniels. "Probably the best game we have played in two years. We are starting to grow up some."

"Someone asked me if I was going to have a good team this year. I told them to wait until the fifth game. Our kids have nothing to be ashamed of. They played their hearts out. They put a lot of heart and tears into it," he said.

Chad Slone led the ground game for South Floyd with 150 yards on 33 carries. Adam Wright rushed for 47 yards on seven carries.

Junior highs to play before Raiders, Panthers

South Floyd fans will be treated to a doubleheader of football tomorrow night (Thursday) at Brackett field.

In addition to the regular scheduled high school game pitting the Raiders against Pikeville, the Pikeville Junior High team will square off against the South Floyd Junior High squad beginning at 4:30 p.m.

The high school game is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

The grade school matchup should be a good one to watch since South Floyd has a strong junior high team and Pikeville is a traditionally strong team. The game should be a great battle on the gridiron.

"Weak" Three for county football teams...Raiders play Thursday night

The third week of the high school football season could better be described as "weak three."

All four county high school teams found their opponents a little better. As of now, all four county teams have losing records.

South Floyd has to be heartbroken after their 3-0 loss to Phelps. Coach Donnie Daniels said that it was a bitter loss and hard for the Raiders to accept.

Prestonsburg fell to district foe Whitesburg in a game termed a must for the Blackcats. The ground game for Prestonsburg hasn't gotten into high gear.

Allen Central would just as soon forget the Pikeville game. They allowed more points than the University of Kentucky (77 versus 73).

True to form, Coach Glenn Reeves had the ball in the air as Adam Coleman passed for three touchdowns.

Betsy Layne, outside of a drastic first period, looked good on defense. The Bobcats definately need some kind of passing game. The opposition is keying on hard running Rocky Hamilton.

Three of the four county teams will be on the road this week with Allen Central hosting Berea in their annual homecoming game.

Prestonsburg will head to always tough Belfry for a fourth straight strong encounter. If these first four games don't prepare the Blackcats for the final six district games, nothing will.

Betsy Layne faces a strong East Carter team on the road.

South Floyd will hook up with Pikeville in an odd night for high school football. The Raiders will face the Panthers at Brackett Field in Wheelwright.

The game schedule shows it being played at Pikeville, but because of the Autumn Jam, the game was moved to South Floyd tomorrow night (Thursday).

Good news for Raider fans, though. WPKE-FM, 103.1, will broadcast the game. So, tune in if you can't come out.

Allen Central will be holding their homecoming ceremonies this Friday night when they host Berea.

A good thing for the Rebels to do is forget last Friday night's game and go on. Enjoy the rest of the season. This team really has some good talent.

KENTUCKY PROGRAM SET-BACK...

Coach Bill Curry of UK has to be wondering what happened at Florida.

The 'Gators were anything but a nice host as they blitzed the Wildcats 73-7 in a farce last Saturday.

The blasting will make it even harder for the Cats to get good recruits. Florida can use that game as a recruiting film.

What good the Louisville/Kentucky game two weeks ago did to promote football in the state was taken back three more steps by this game.

BASEBALL STRIKE...

Do you miss it?

Most people that I talk with say they are over the baseball season and don't really care if the season is finished or not.

Jim Allen, WQHY, says, "I don't really miss it."

The boys of summer are finding out that the owners are just as serious about the strike as the players. Basketball isn't far off.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports. It pays!

World 50 Modified coming to Thunder Ridge

The biggest Modified Race in the world, the United Midwestern Promoters (UMP)/Pepsi World 50, will get underway this weekend at the new Thunder Ridge Racing and Entertainment Complex. Drivers from across the nation will be on hand in hopes of earning the championship and the record winner's share of $6,000.

"The UMP Modified is the division of the future in dirt track stock car racing and we want to be the home of their biggest event," said Thunder Ridge Motorsports Coordinator Chris Blair. "This first UMP Modified Pepsi World 50 is a giant step in gaining more national attention for the Modifieds."

"The response has been tremendous," added Blair. "UMP President Bob Memmer has been flooded with phone calls from drivers who plan to attend. He is sending all of his modified staff to work at Thunder Ridge this week because he anticipates we will be overrun with race cars."

The UMP Pepsi World 50 will get underway on Thursday with a practice session from 5-8 p.m. On Friday night, following another round of practice, the Modifieds will race for the Pepsi pole award in two sessions of time trials to determine the top three drivers who will be locked into the feature event. A full program of racing is scheduled for Saturday with Bombers and Thunder 'N Lightin' cars joining the Modified heats, last chance race, and feature.

Grandstand admission for Pepsi Pole Night on Friday is $5 for adults and $3 for children 6-12. Saturday's main event admission is $10 for adults. A two-day grandstand pass is available for $13. For additional UMP Pepsi Modified World 50 information, call Thunder Ridge at 1-800-204-4088.

Betsy Layne wins three of four in fall baseball league

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Football season is upon us and high school baseball's fall schedule is underway.

The boys of summer just can't get enough of the game. The Betsy Layne Bobcats improved their overall record to 5-2 by winning three of four over the past week.

The Bobcats posted a double-header sweep of Elkhorn City Saturday at Alice Lloyd College and then split two games with Morehead on Sunday afternoon at Morehead.

Brandon Castle went the distance for the Bobcats in game one Saturday when the Cats posted a 6-2 win over Elkhorn City.

Betsy Layne scored five times in the fourth inning to snap a 1-1 tie. Castle tripled home two runs.

Shannon Potter started the inning by reaching on an error. Chad Case singled, but Dwayne Hughes reached on a fielder's choice, forcing Potter at third.

Case scored on Matt Kidd's RBI single and after Brad Kidd reached, Castle tripled in two runs. He scored on a sacrifice fly off the bat of Doug Keathley.

Elkhorn scored single runs in the third and sixth innings off Castle. Matt Kidd collected two of the Bobcats' four hits.

In the nightcap Saturday, Betsy Layne got a strong pitching performance from Chad Case and defeated Elkhorn City 6-3 to complete the sweep.

Case fanned six batters in going the distance. Doug Keathley led the Bobcats from the plate with three hits, which included a triple and two doubles. Case contributed two hits in the game.

Elkhorn took a 2-1 lead after the first inning, but Brandon Castle singled and scored on Keathley's double in the third to tie the game at 2-2.

Elkhorn City reclaimed the lead at 3-2 with a run in the fourth inning on two walks and a single.

Eight batters paraded to the plate in the fifth for Betsy Layne when they pushed across four runs to take a 6-3 lead.

Elkhorn threatened in the bottom of the fifth, but left the bases loaded as Case fanned Randy Tosbic to end the game.

At Morehead Sunday afternoon, Morehead scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning to post a 7-6 extra inning win over Betsy Layne in game one.

Betsy Layne had scored three times in the top of the seventh to tie the game at 6-6. Brent Tackett singled to start the seventh for Betsy Layne. Shawn Rose and Joe Burkett drew back-to-back walks to load the bases before Chris Holbrook singled home Tackett and Rose. Burkett scored the tying run on Brad Kidd's RBI single. Betsy Layne left the go-ahead run stranded at third.

A leadoff double by Ingram to start the bottom of the seventh for Morehead allowed the Eagles to win the game. Ingram scored on a run-scoring double by Mann.

Betsy Layne went out in order in the eighth inning. Potter suffered the setback for Betsy Layne.

Brandon Castle picked up the save for Betsy Layne in game two when he hurled the final inning in the Bobcat's 2-1 win over Morehead in game two. Castle saved the game for starter Brad Kidd, who pitched a strong five innings.

Betsy Layne took a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Potter walked and Case reached on an error. After Brad Kidd fanned, Keathley doubled home Potter and Case scored on Shawn Rose's RBI single.

Kidd shut out Morehead over the first three innings, then allowed a run in the fourth when Ingram scored on Bumgardner's base hit with two out.

Betsy Layne collected only three hits in the win. Potter, Keathley and Rose had singles.

November deer gun season closed on two WMAs sites in Kentucky

Cyprus Amax and Robinson Forest Wildlife Management areas (WMAs) will be open to bucks-only deer hunting during statewide archery and muzzleloader seasons. No other gun hunting for deer is allowed on these WMAs.

The season limit is one deer from both areas combined.

Hunters using Cyprus Amax and Robinson Forest WMAs must have a user permit in possession and check in and out at self-service check station.

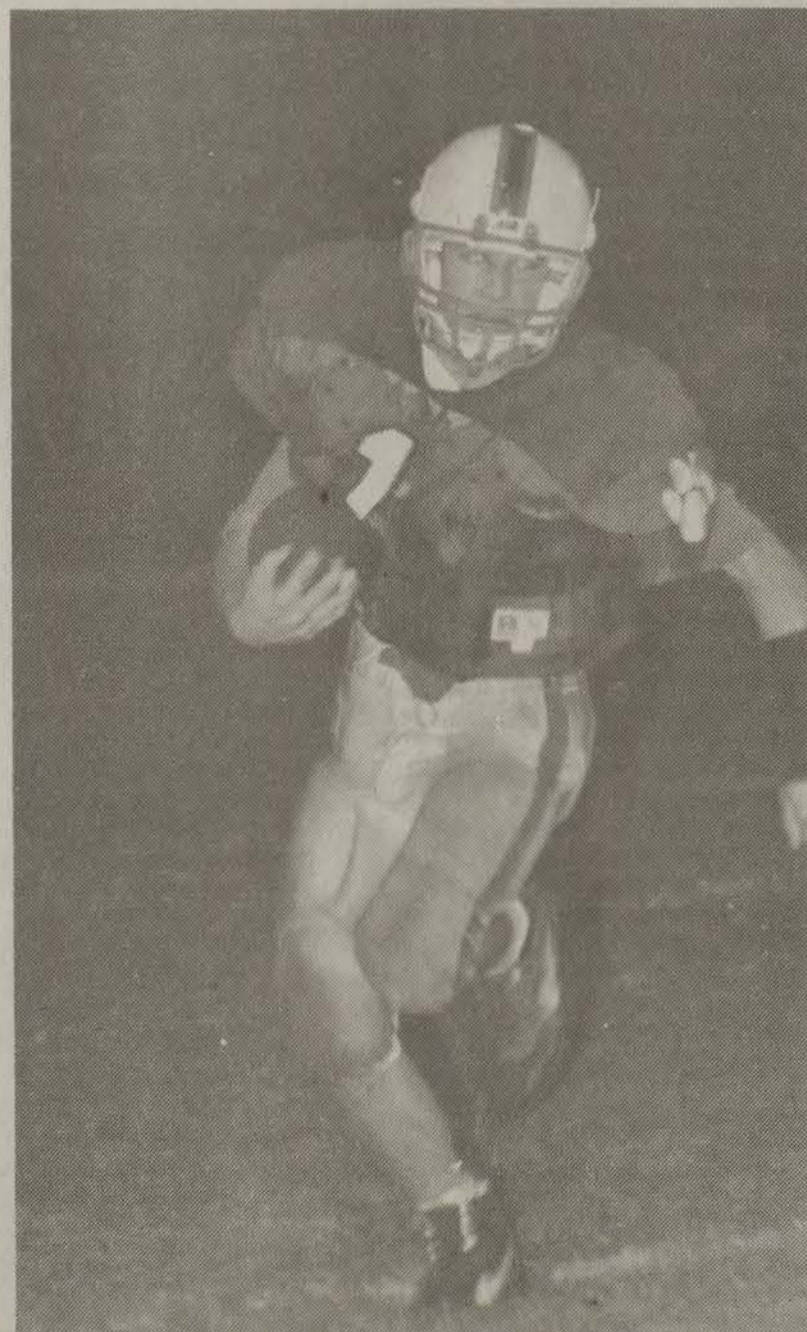

This information does not appear in the current deer hunting guide since laws for these WMAs (301 KAR 2:111) were not finalized prior to printing the guide.

Kentucky's statewide deer archery season runs October 1, 1994 through January 15, 1995. Muzzleloaders may be used for hunting deer October 15-16 and November 10-16, 1994.

User permits are required for Cyprus Amax and Robinson Forest WMAs. A permit costs $10 and is valid for both areas. User permits are available from several vendors in the area.

Permit holders are reminded that the main block of Robinson Forest WMA is closed to hunting. The closed portion is more specifically described as lands owned by the University of Kentucky in the Clemons Fork, Coles Fork and Lewis Fork watersheds and the Buckhorn Creek watershed below Hurricane Branch and above Lewis Fork. The perimeter is marked with no hunting signs.

Additionally, all terrain vehicles and other vehicles not legal for use on public streets are prohibited on these WMAs.

BASEBALL ... IT GOT LATE EARLY, NOW COLLEGE & HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL IS IN

As Larry 'Yogi' Berra said so eloquently, "It got late early." As much as I love the game, the sun set on Baseball '94 when Labor Day came and went.

I don't care—and I'm betting you don't either—what the owners and players do now, it's mid-September, the college and high school sports seasons are underway and not even a PR trumped up, TV network spin doctored, banded-up World Series could wind back the Big Clock.

Bring us Ken Burns' Baseball and the hot stove leagues. You 1990s guys are history.

UK-UofL REFLECTIONS

On-field, the new age Kentucky-Louisville game was more a Super Bowl involving the Minnesota Vikings. The hype outdistanced the quality of play by a light year or two.

"But the game was still suspenseful enough that you couldn't take a bathroom break," one armchair QB said.

Right.

Howard Schnellenberger's Cardinals did enough things to win, but bungled just enough to let Bill Curry earn the right to talk about storing the Gov's Cup at the Nutter Center this winter.

Still, reactions from (some) UK fans after the game were predictable and a little incredible.

"So, what happened to our running game?" said one.

"Why didn't Curry play Daymon Carter? Donnell Gordon?"

"Boy, did we miss Marty Moore," chirped a third.

And, naturally: "Why is Ralph Hacker still doing radio play-by-play?"

Answers? Never mind. All the questions (except the last one) will change next week. The end result was a victory, Hizzoner Brereton Jones said, "for the Kentucky taxpayer."

The University of Louisville didn't do badly either.

• Director of athletics Bill Olsen deposited a check for something more than $200,000.

• Schnellenberger has a bargaining chip, (crowbar?) he can use to raise money for a new ballyard on campus. Something like: "Arrrrgh, you people wanna play those guys down there all the damn time or what? Arrrrgh."

UK's winnings?

• Season ticket sales. C.M. Newton's dream: Seven games sold out.

• Season opening victory. A 'W' that should help in-state recruiting.

• Curry's team found a way to win a game in the fourth quarter, forcing an enemy fumble that resulted in a winning touchdown drive.

• The defense produced a critical turnover to seal a victory instead of the other way round.

• The offense produced enough to win despite the loss of a starting quarterback, a replacement who fumbled three times. And it demonstrated a fullback dividend when the tailback was stopped cold.

"... HEART OF HEARTS"

Bill Curry and Louisville's Howard Schnellenberger, what did the coaches say to one another before and after Game One last Saturday?

Curry paused a moment, seemed to decide against repeating niceties, then chose a visionary spin.

"In our hearts we thought this (series) would be big," he said. "But in our heart of hearts both of us did not dream it would be this big."

UK-UofL SERIES POPULARITY

Is it possible the popularity of the Kentucky-Louisville football series could outdistance its counterpart in basketball?

That question came from Todd Hamilton, football analyst on the Hilltopper Radio Network during a half-time interview recently.

Yes, I said. In part because the football series is new. But also because UK has dominated the 11-year-old hoops series, winning nine of 12, the last four in a row.

Attending the UK-UofL game last week only confirmed that view. The air in Commonwealth Stadium was as electric as I've seen it when UK was playing Tennessee with a bowl bid hinging on the outcome.

FOOTBALL POPULARITY

"Some people complain that football isn't as big in this state as basketball," one man said midway through the second half of the UK-Louisville contest. "You give them a game like this to start a season and see how fast that changes."

Right.

Curry: "Now we want to play our way onto national television."

Says here, that one's in the bank. ESPN decision-makers botched it Sept. 3, airing Indiana's 28-3 rout of Cincinnati, when it could have offered a rock 'em-sock 'em, down-to-the-wire drama in Lexington.

DAMON HOOD

"He was magnificent," Curry said after the fullback's 108 yards on 13 carries against UofL. "I promised him when he came here that he could play tailback. But when he got here, Damon looked around and told our offensive coordinator, 'Guess, I better learn both positions (tailback and fullback).'"

"I never expected to carry the ball that much," Hood said. "Everything I heard all week was Moe, Moe, Moe. Louisville was keying on him."

"This is a high mark for me at UK, but I don't care. Next week it might be somebody else. Long as the team wins, I don't care."

KY. FOOTBALL RECRUITING

Receivers. UK, UofL are among several Div. I schools recruiting 6-3, 187-pound Versellias Hammond of Ballard and 6-2, 195 lbm Green of Male.

Quarterbacks. Male High's Chris Redman—UK and UofL are both interested. Hunch: Redman will sign with Howard Schnellenberger.

Kentucky, with a stable of QBs already in camp, has its sights set for next year - 64, 190-pound Tim Couch of Leslie County.

Greg Hergott, 6-3, 190 quarterback at Beechwood, has received scholarship offers already from Indiana and North Carolina State. The list will grow.

1,000 yards passing? How about 2,000? After two games Redman had 529 yards passing and eight touchdowns which is second in the state to Couch's 629 and eight.

PREP MILESTONES

One week into the season Brandon Warren was a sub halfback for Knox Central. Then presto, the 6-1, 160-pound sophomore got in a game and rushed for a school record 265 yards and touchdown runs of 45, 47, 56 and 64 yards.

Muhlenberg North's Chris Wilson established a school record with a 92-yard kickoff return for a touchdown.

Webster County's Ryan Hill needs only two quarters in the season opener against Reidland to set a new school standard—295 yards rushing on 16 tries (five touchdowns and six PAT's).

WESTERN OFF TO FAST START

Last time the Western Kentucky opened a season 3-and-oh was 1980. Jim Feix's Hilltoppers were on their way to 9-1-0.

A victory this week over Austin Peay would do it.

If the Sagarin Ratings are legitimate, and if Western's offensive production is for real (31 points per), then the Hilltoppers should rip Peay by, oh, seven touchdowns.

Last week's Sagarins listed WKU 117th, higher than all but two future foes—Troy State, No. 62 and Central Florida, No. 96.

Impressive: The Hilltoppers of offensive line play, protecting quarterback JJ Jewell.

Samons, Cooley attend basketball camp at Western Kentucky University

The Allen Central Lady Rebels have been tapped to be one of the stronger teams in the women's 15th Region this coming basketball season.

The inside play of Amanda Samons is one of the reasons the Lady Rebs are a highly regarded team.

Samons, along with Natalie Cooley, recently attended a basketball camp at Western Kentucky University held by WKU women's coach Paul Sanderford.

Samons and Cooley attended the Post Camp (learning how to play the middle) at WKU. Allen Central coach Bonita Compton made the trip with the two players.

"Natalie is in the seventh grade at Duff Elementary," explained Compton, "but she played on Allen Central's AAU team this past summer and did a fine job for us."

"I thoroughly enjoyed the camp," said Compton.

The two were the only players from Floyd County who took part, although other teams around the region were represented.

"Teams from Millard, Elkhorn City, Pike Central and Belfry were represented at the camp," Compton said.

"Natalie also went to camp at Eastern Kentucky University and the RIM Converse Camp at Belfry this summer. She was a contributing factor for us in some games."

Samons, who averaged 10 points per game last year, will be looked at as a threat to the opposition when the season starts. She is a solid inside player who possesses a soft touch near the basket.

Allen Central will begin their regular season on November 28 when they host the Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals.

had a pass intercepted by Owen Parker when the first half came to an end.

Prestonsburg fumbled four times in the first half and lost the ball three times.

Prestonsburg put some points on the scoreboard on their first possession of the second half and it looked as if the lecture at the half was going to bear fruit.

The Blackcats got excellent field position on the ensuing kickoff and marched from their own 42 to the Yellowjackets' 24-yard line. There, Ratliff hit Ryan Ortega in the end zone for a 24-yard touchdown pass.

The football actually hit a Whitesburg defender in the end zone and bounced off his chest into the hands of Ortega. Ratliff kicked the PAT and it was a 10-7 game with 8:22 left in the third period.

The Blackcats got excellent field position once more when a high kick settled at the Whitesburg 36-yard line with 1:45 left in the quarter.

On a second-and-nine, the Blackcats fumbled the football and knocked it out of bounds, recovering the football. They lost 5 yards on the mistake and were forced to punt the ball back to Whitesburg.

Perhaps the biggest play of the evening for Prestonsburg came in the fourth quarter with 2:34 showing on the stadium clock. The Blackcats were on the Whitesburg 5-yard line and looking to take the lead.

Coach Bill Letton, on fourth down play, elected not to go with the field goal that would have tied the game. Instead, he wanted to win the game and decided to go for the score.

Whitesburg got a break when Prestonsburg fumbled the football at their own 5-yard line and the Yellowjackets took control with just over two minutes to play.

Whitesburg was slow in running their offense as they wanted the clock to wind down. The Yellowjackets were forced to punt the football with :56 seconds left to play.

Ratliff, on a desperation pass to Ortega, had his pass intercepted by cornerback Roger Caudill and the clock ran out of time on the Blackcats.

Although the Prestonsburg camp felt disappointment, Blackcat coach Bill Letton thinks that his team is on the road to being a good football team.

"I'm disappointed that we loss," he said. "But the main thing is that we learn how to play and we will be a good football team."

"We are going to try and do everything we can to be a good team by the time the playoffs roll around," he said.

The Blackcat coach said it was themselves deep in their own territory with the ball on the 23. Morgan County found plenty of running room as they used the sweep, draw play and just went up the middle against the Bobcat line and scored just before the end of the quarter.

Cummins ran into the end zone from 9-yards out, and the third extra point gave the Cougars a 21-0 lead as the quarter ended.

Betsy Layne got on the scoreboard in the second quarter on a 64-yard drive that concluded when Rocky Hamilton scored on a 5-yard run with 3:35 left in the first half. The conversion attempt failed when Hamilton was stopped at the line of scrimmage.

Morgan County took over the football on the first down play to start the series when they intercepted a Craig Hamilton pass. But the turnover was reversed when the Cougars were called for a personal foul, giving the Bobcats the ball and a first down.

Brent Akers and Hamilton alternated in carrying the football and moved into Cougar territory on short yardage plays. Hamilton broke loose for a 23-yard pickup, putting the ball on the Cougars 20. Akers ran for 12 yards after Craig Hamilton had picked up 3 yards to the 17.

Morgan County had a drive stopped when Craig Hamilton came up with a big interception at the 1-yard line. Betsy Layne took control and moved the football from their own seven to the Cougars' 29 where the drive stalled out.

Rocky Hamilton led the ground game for the Bobcats with 132 yards on 24 carries. Akers finished with 82 yards on 10 carries.

The Bobcats rushed for 224 yards on the ground, but could not get anything. Craig Hamilton was zero for four in passing. He was intercepted once.

Akers and Craig Hamilton had the two interceptions for the Bobcats. Jackie Bush came up with a fumble recovery for Betsy Layne.

Betsy Layne was flagged only three times for 25 yards. Morgan County was seeing yellow all night. They received 95 yards in penalties on nine flags.

Betsy Layne had 14 first downs to Morgan County's 11.

Betsy Layne (1-2) travels to East Carter this Friday night.

Kevin Johnson had one reception for 16 yards and Wright caught two passes for 32 yards.

"Kevin played a heck of a defensive game for us," said Daniels. "He had four solo hits. Jarred (Compton) had four hits and Chad had four."

"Aaron Caudill had two real big hits for us toward the end of the game."

South Floyd had two fumble losses and two interceptions.

The Raiders took the opening drive in the first quarter and moved the football to the Hornets' 18-yard line where they fumbled the ball away.

Phelps put together a couple of strong drives only to see the Raiders' defense rise to the challenge.

"We had two goal line stands," said Daniels. "They got the football inside the 15 on us twice. We stopped them once and they fumbled the other time."

"We looked good at times and then looked like a grade school team at other times. It eats like cancer at you to lose a game like this. Then we have to go and try to straighten it out against the state's 18th ranked team (Pikeville)."

The Raiders will host the Pikeville Panthers Thursday night with kickoff set for 7 pm.

Pikeville pulls off 77-18 win over Rebels

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Pikeville Panthers scored 11 times en route to a 77-18 humbling of the Allen Central Rebels in high school football action Friday night.

Unlike the Florida Gators, who humbled the Kentucky Wildcats this past Saturday, Pikeville wasn't looking for any number one ranking, just a district win over the Rebels.

Sophomore sensation Brent Coleman scored two touchdowns and rushed for 114 yards and Jonathan Pruitt completed seven of 10 passes for 127 yards to lead the Panther attack.

Pikeville totaled 556 yards on offense, rushing for 429. John Hatfield ran for 52 yards and scored two touchdowns. Eddie Deramus grounded out 50 yards on three carries. He scored once.

Pruitt scored the Panthers first TD on a 4-yard run and Diego Ramos kicked the first of his six PATs to give the Panthers a 7-0 lead.

Pikeville scored twice more in the first quarter to take a 21-0 lead before the period ended. Hatfield scored on a 1-yard run and Coleman ran into the end zone from 3-yards out. Ramos kicked both PATs for a 21-0 game.

Allen Central did score in the second period when Kevin Stumbo, making his appearance as a Rebel, took an Adam Coleman pass and scored from 10-yards out for a 21-6 game.

Deramus scored the first of four touchdowns for Pikeville in the second quarter that gave them a 49-12 halftime lead.

After the Deramus score, Beau Tackett hauled in a Coleman pass and went 77 yards for an Allen Central touchdown. Pruitt scored from 10-yards out and Hatfield came in on a 2-yard run for the final two Pikeville touchdowns in the first half.

After Coleman scored to start the third quarter and gave Pikeville a 56-12 advantage, tightend Thomas Jenkins gathered in a 64-yard touchdown pass from Coleman.

Pikeville scored two more TDs in the third period and added a final score in the fourth to finish the rout.

Allen Central dropped their third consecutive district game and are 0-3 on the season and in the district.

The Rebels will face Berea Friday night in their annual homecoming events at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

Hunter Education course offered at fish and game club

The last session will include actual range firing and examination.

Upon successful completion of the course, a graduate card will be issued which is valid in any state where such certification is required. Attendance at all sessions is required for certification.

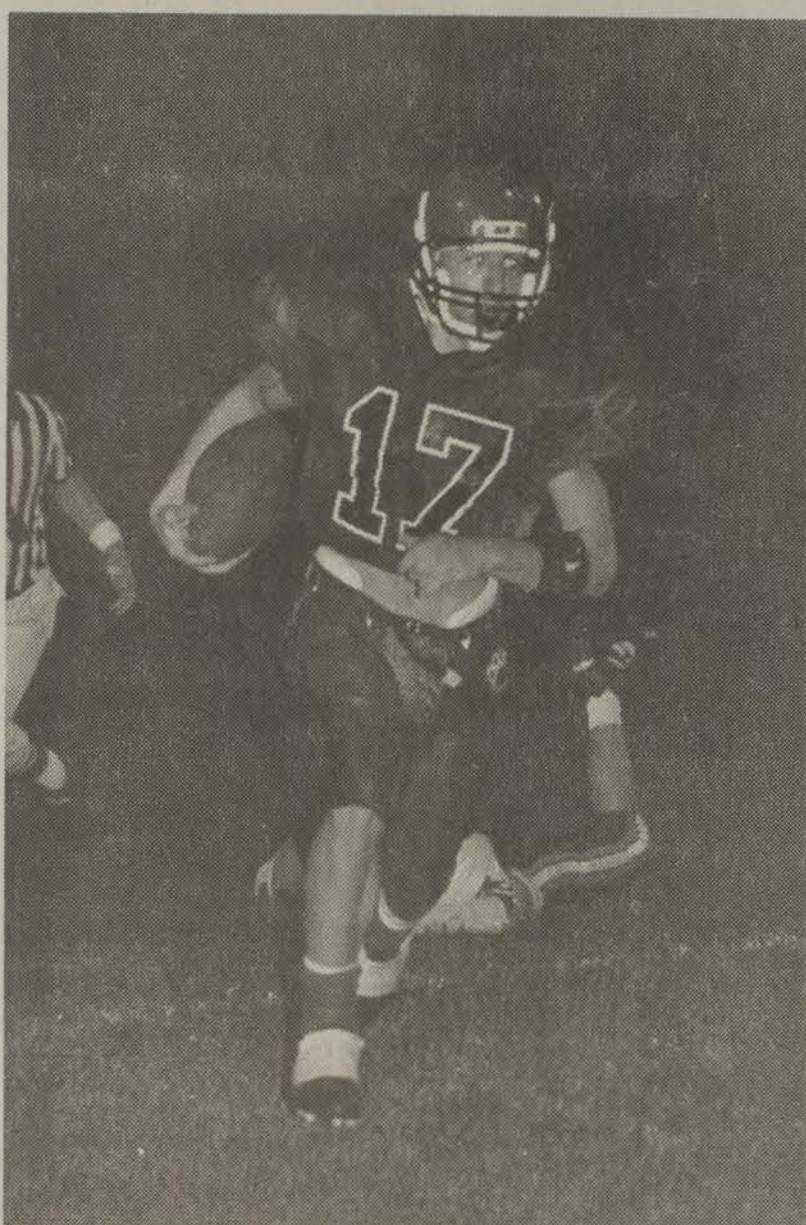

Effective March 1, 1991, all hunters born on or after January 1, 1975, must, while hunting, carry a valid hunter education course graduate card in addition to the appropriate Kentucky hunting license requirements.

A bow hunter not in possession of a firearm may carry a "National Bowhunter Education Program" course completion card in lieu of the hunter education card.

Children under age 10 and persons exempt from purchasing a hunting license are not required to possess the card while hunting. Children under age 10 must be accompanied by an adult of at least 18 years of age while hunting.

Forget the strike; baseball plays on KET

With major league baseball players on strike, we don't know whether the talk this fall will be of pennant races and record chases or of salary cap fights and players' rights. In any case, there will be Baseball on television, as KET premieres Ken Burns' epic 18 1/2 hour miniseries about America's favorite pastime beginning at 8 p.m. on Sunday, September 18. The series airs in nine episodes, or "innings," with innings one through five from Sunday, September 18 through Thursday, September 22. After two "travel days," the series resumes play with the final four innings Sunday, September 25, through Wednesday, September 28.

"The story of baseball is the story of America," says Burns. "Of the clash of labor and management; the ever-present tension between people based on race; immigration and assimilation; the nature of heroes; popular culture and advertising; the role of women; and the nature of democracy itself." All these themes and more come through in Baseball, he says, because there is "an extraordinary alchemy" between this game and the American people.

Burns' films follow a unique approach to storytelling. The filmmaker sees himself as a kind of archaeologist, determined to discover not just the facts and dry dates of history, but the "emotional glue" that holds those events together. Like Burns' documentary "The Civil War," the story of Baseball comes alive through Burns' careful use of a telling detail or a small, rarely told anecdote. The section on Babe Ruth, for instance, examines both the glory and the shame of celebrity, including as it does the sad tale of Ruth's first wife whom he abandoned and who later died in a fire. And there are numerous and painful stories underscoring how racial injustice has marred baseball's (and America's) story. "The great manager John McGraw carried a piece of rope from a lynching in his pocket as a good luck charm," says Burns, recalling one poignant tale. "Yet when he died, they discovered among his belongings a list of Negro League players he would have liked to have had playing for him on the New York Giants."

Baseball is also humorous. "It's filled with wildly comic characters like Rube Waddell, Casey Stengel, and Bill 'Spaceman' Lee," says

Burns, "and with comic moments that break the tension supplied by its many tragedies." The film includes the saga of the lovable and laughable 1962 Mets, whose bumbling play entertained baseball-starved New York fans even as they lost three times as many games as they won.

To tell the story of Baseball, Burns mimics the rhythms and patterns of a baseball game itself. The series' episodes, each of which begins with the accompaniment of the Star Spangled Banner, are laid out in nine "innings." Each inning is then divided into many smaller events, like at-bats. In between, the members of a kind of Greek chorus - some of them baseball experts, others former players or fans - punctuate the storytelling with insights of their own. Thoughtful, reflective, filmed in casual settings where they can lean back in their easy chairs, these men and women are watching the film (or, by analogy, the game) with us.

Baseball is a production of Florentine Films and WETA, Washington, DC. It is funded by a major grant from the General Motors Corporation. The series is described for blind and visually impaired viewers and close captioned for the hearing impaired.

Massive fish kill; deadline has been extended for deer hunt applications

A massive fish kill in mid-August at Carpenter Lake in Daviess County was apparently caused by a combination of natural occurrences.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) owns the 64-acre lake northeast of Owensboro.

"We hauled away three and one-half dump truck loads of fish," says Rob Rold, KDFWR assistant district fisheries biologist who assisted with the cleanup. The biologist estimates the dead fish amounted to between 20 and 22 tons.

Fish normally need three parts of oxygen per million parts of water to remain healthy. At the time of the fish kill, the lake's oxygen level had dropped to less than one part per million.

The lake was also shallower than normal at the time of the fish kill. Making repairs to the spillway at the dam demanded that the water level be lower than usual. Whether or not the lower water level played a role in the fish kill is unknown.

Although the fish kill at Carpenter Lake was massive, both small and large specimens of bass, crappie, redear and bluegill survived.

Remedial stocking will be necessary to bring the lake back to fishable conditions. Fortunately, the KDFWR has surplus fish from another lake stocking and plans to release 11-inch bass in Carpenter Lake this fall.

Deadline extended for deer quota hunt applications

The deadline to submit 1994 Kentucky deer quota hunt applications has been extended to September 26.

Applications didn't arrive at the KDFWR until late August, making the extension necessary. August 31 is the normal deadline for deer hunters to apply for deer quota hunts.

The 1994 applications are printed in a dull orange color. The words "Managed Deer Hunt Application, 1993-94 Deer Season" appear at the top.

This year the KDFWR is offering deer hunters 17 conventional hunts, seven youth hunts and one special hunt for hunters with disability licenses.

Applicants may apply for only one conventional quota hunt. Youngsters under age 16 may apply for one youth hunt and one conventional hunt. A $3 check or money order (for processing) must accompany each application.

Complete instructions on how to fill out and mail applications are printed on each application form. Follow these instructions carefully. Incomplete applications or failure to send the processing fee or to place a stamp on the return form will void your chances of being drawn.

Deer quota hunt applications are available from county court clerks' offices, state conservation officers and the KDFWR's central office at #1 Game Farm Rd, Frankfort, KY 40601, or its Louisville office at Bowman Field.

Bassin' with the Pros

TOPWATER FISHING STARTS IN EARNEST THIS MONTH

If given a choice, most bass fishermen prefer spring over all other seasons because the fish are shallow and easier to catch.

Not David Wharton, a former guide on Sam Rayburn Lake in Texas. He likes the summer.

"Summer means topwater fishing," says Wharton, a veteran bass tournament pro and member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff. "It's exciting, it means big bass, and it's easy."

Topwater fishing generally begins in May in the deep South, but by June, lakes throughout much of the rest of the nation have warmed enough that surface plugs will draw vicious strikes from active largemouth and smallmouth bass.

Wharton's three favorite topwater lures can be categorized as chuggers, concave-faced plugs that pop and spit water; slush baits that feature one or more propellers; and walking baits that sashay from side to side when retrieved in quick jerks.

"Water conditions usually determine which of these lures will be the most effective," explains Wharton. "For example, with a slight ripple on the water, or when I'm fishing very fast, I use a chugger. When the surface is calm and I'm fishing slower, a slush bait is usually much more productive."

The walking baits normally produce fewer strikes, explains Wharton, but larger bass. He likes to use these lures in calm water, but others have equal success in choppy conditions. He also uses them when fishing over deep water because they pull fish up from the depths.

"In the summer, the best times to use topwater lures are normally early and late each day," adds the Johnson pro, "but if you see fish activity at mid-day, then by all means consider using a topwater lure."

"Also, if you've been catching bass on the bottom with a worm or jig and suddenly the action stops, the bass may have moved up to suspend, and a topwater lure often starts bringing strikes again."

Wharton's best-ever topwater bass, a giant weighing more than eight pounds, hit a walking surface lure at mid-day. The water was calm and the sky was bright.

"Don't put away your topwater lures just because it's hot and bright," he says. "I've seen many times when topwater lures produced excellent catches during the hottest part of the day."

Wharton prefers to fish topwater lures around vegetation, boat docks, or the shaded sides of bushes and trees. He uses a six-foot light action rod and 14 pound test-line.

Regardless of the type of tackle or lure being used, the one key rule about fishing all topwater lures, Wharton emphasizes, is not to get in a hurry when using them.

"You don't ever want to cross the ripples," he says. "You make a cast and let the ripples die. Then you move the lure."

naturally, from whence Kilcullen cometh, Dec. 3.

By the time Western plays its biggest December home date against Alabama-Birmingham, the 'Tops could be flying or dragging what with stops at Jacksonville, Ball State, Massachusetts and Eastern Ky.

Incidentally, John Calipari's UMass team will be preseason rated in America's Top 5. And the Minutemen are already arming for next season, having gotten an early commitment from a high schooler Rick Pitino wanted at Kentucky, 7-0 Mark Blount.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

D.A. Sturgill of Lexington on Geri Grigsby and Jaime Walz. "My travels around the state provides an opportunity to 'see lots of good high school athletes (boys & girls). I think comparing (Highlands junior basketball standout) Jaime Walz with Geri Grigsby (McDowell) is like comparing oranges and apples. Walz is outstanding and has already played five years and will play two more. I'm sure she has a wonderful future, (but) Grigsby accomplished her feats in only three years. Her career average is more than 46 points a game."

Sturgill says he has never seen a more exciting player than Grigsby. "Those long shots (she made) would be three pointers today. There are ballplayers who have that something extra special and Grigsby is at the top of my list. Do you know where she is and what she's doing?"

COMMENT: Inducted into the Kentucky Athletic Hall of Fame only last month, Grigsby is now an attorney in Washington D.C.

COMMENT II: Grigsby is the state's all-time leading high school scorer. Her 4,385 is better than 'King' Kelly Coleman's 4,337.

COMMENT III: Walz has scored more 2,000. An exact figure has not been made available by Highlands High School.

COMMENT IV: Grigsby and Walz have 'fraternal' connections to UK. Grigsby's father Pete attended UK and she graduated there. Walz's father Roger was a quarterback under Charlie Bradshaw, 1965 and 1966.

DIS 'N DATA

UK replacing Marty Moore by committee? Mike Schellenberger, Matt Neuss and David Snardon.... Damon Hood's 108 rushing yards against Louisville was "the first time since high school I've gone over a hundred yards." But it was Hood's crisp clear-out block that sprung Moe Williams for UK's first touchdown of the season that had the Bowling Green native grinning. "Heck, I'd block like that all the time if it meant a hundred thousand (NFL dollars) a year," he said.

PARTING SHOT

Terry Bradshaw on Deion Sanders' tour: "Who cares? I don't care what he does. We're playing football. The show's over. I'm tired of Deion. I don't care what he does."

Bradshaw wasn't finished. "I get tired of the baseball players. And Sterling Sharpe (Green Bay). They do these stupid things all for the love of money."

And so it goes.

THIS THE SEASON

It may have something to do with my age, but this is my favorite season. No, I'm not talking autumn and I'm not talking football. What I'm talking about is even more important; I'm talking reunion season.

Every year between the first of September and the first of October, Wilma and I attend three reunions: The Pack reunion, which we've already had; the Muddy Branch reunion, which will meet on Apple Friday; and the Meade Memorial school reunion which will congregate on Apple Saturday night.

Although I have no stats to prove it, I suspect that since we hillbillies are so clannish, reunions are more prevalent to the mountains than most places. I guess that's because life was difficult, at best, for many of our early ancestors and in order to survive over the years, we've always stuck together.

I learned about that sticking together stuff early in life when I attempted to be peacemaker between two brothers who'd come to blows because one had tried to hang the other when we were playing cowboys and Indians. I was about ten years old when I discovered that it was hazardous to step between fighting siblings. I healed nicely, though, and only a few of the scars still show.

I'd love to see those guys again at the Muddy Branch reunion, but if I do, I don't plan to mention the earlier altercation. One can never tell; they might feel they have a little unfinished business to take care of. I may be ignorant, but I'm not stupid.

Our family reunions are great, because if we hadn't started getting together about 10 or 12 years ago, I'd have first cousins running around in this very community that I wouldn't have been aware of. Some of them may have preferred it that way, but I'm glad I've come to know them over the past few years. I don't suppose our separateness has been anybody's fault, really, it's just that traditions have changed. For instance, forty or fifty years ago when a son or daughter got married and moved away, what they actually did was move away over the creek and up another hollow. These days to move away usually means what it says; another state, or sometimes, even another country.

The school reunion is fun, too, because not only do we get to see how all our old classmates have changed, it's also an excellent way to justify the way your life turned out.

For instance, (speaking in general terms here with absolutely nobody specifically in mind) the pretty young thing you may have had such a crush on when you were experiencing pimply pubescence, could now be the female Sumo wrestling champ. On the other hand, though, the tall, dark and handsome athlete of forty years ago...the one all the cute girls were crazy about, the one all the boys envied and wanted to be like...is still slim and still trim and still has all his hair and it's still black. Or is it? And is that really his hair? Yeah, it probably is, but I bet he had to make payments on it.

Yep, I really like this season.

Large crowd attends opening and dedication of new center

by Celia Little
Contributing Writer

Over three hundred people attended the dedication and open house of the Viola Bailey Memorial Community Building at Minnie on Sunday, August 21. The one-story brick structure is the home of McDowell Senior Citizens Center and a day-care center.

The dedication service began with an invocation given by Elder Woodrow Pack. Dr. Mary Hall, chairman of the board of directors, gave the welcome and expressed her thanks to the board of directors for their efforts in making the building a reality. Members of the board of directors are Ruby Akers, Roney Clark, Donna Hall, Violet Hall, Eddie Meade, Buddy Smith, Celia Little, Helen Stumbo, Burton Collins and Lizzie Burton.

Bonnie Hale of Big Sandy Area Development District introduced Ellen Brown, director of the McDowell Senior Citizens Center. Brown explained the services the center provides. Those services include home-delivered and congregate meals, information and referral for older adults, health promotion activities, telephone reassurance and friendly visiting to shut-ins.

Dignitaries who spoke during the dedication service were Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, Senator Benny Ray Bailey and Lieutenant Governor Paul Patton.

A portrait of the center's namesake, the late Viola Bailey, was hung in the center. Mrs. Bailey was the mother of Senator Bailey, who helped secured funding for the new facility. A plaque was also presented to the center by Jerry Haynes, administrator of McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

Also in attendance for the open house were Roger Recktenwald of Big Sandy ADD; Jianna Hunter, home-

Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center gets involved with Reading With Children

Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center is the first Senior Citizen group in Floyd County to become involved with the National Program, Reading With Children (RWC).

At a general meeting at the Center on August 18, seniors learned about their unique role in promoting RWC. Vivian Whitehead, a Vista worker with the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council and the David School, spoke of the national effort to involve senior citizens in inter-generational activities with children.

Whitehead admitted that sometimes seniors feel that they have raised their own children, and that's enough for one lifetime. She added, "There is such a need in Floyd County for seniors to be involved with children. The relationship that develops between a senior and a young child is unique, different from that of a parent, one that will help the child develop educationally and emotionally. Reading With Children is an excellent way to promote inter-generational activities."

Seniors at the center watched as Whitehead read The Very Hungry Caterpillar by Eric Carle to three children, Alanna Greene, Heather Shepherd and Jamie Shepherd. After the reading, some of the seniors assisted the children in making storybook puppets.

Patsy Evans, director of the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center, applauded the program. "Anything that can help our seniors become more aware of the needs of children, and find out how they can help, is not only good for the children, but it is good for the seniors, too."

On August 25, the kindergarten children from First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg came to the center. Whitehead, with the aide of some of the seniors, presented a story hour for the children.

On September 8, two senior citizens, Wanda Rodebaugh and Thelma Hall, and staff member Joyce Joseph received certificates for completing all the requirements for the National Program RWC. They joined the list of 40 adults in Floyd County who have received certificates for this program.

Wanda Rodebaugh said, "This program confirmed what I have always believed. I have a special role to play in the lives of young children. There is a closeness you can feel to a child, especially when you hold them and read to them."

Thelma Hall, who also writes poetry, stressed that you can teach valuable life lessons to children through books. She presented the book, The Chick and the Duckling by Mirra Ginsburg, and told about the lessons in that book. Joyce Joseph stated, "I learned new ways of being with children, better ways to read to them, to do activities, and even entertain them with 'doodle stories.'"

Plans are in the making to offer the RWC program to other senior groups. If you are interested in learning more about the RWC program, contact Vivian Whitehead at 886-7323.

MONEY-WISE SON COUNTING ON WINNEBAGO

Birthdays aren't what they used to be for my son.

Getting him presents used to be easy. Buy him a Ninja Turtle doll, G.I. Joe commando truck or another batch of Lincoln Logs and he would glow. But he just turned 5, and it's different now.

He wanted a Winnebago motor home.

He asked for it after he saw one at the garage where we took our car for repairs. Camping in the rig would be a blast, he said. And the fact that you can watch TV in the vehicle also made a big impression on his young mind.

"Those are like houses with wheels, dad, you know that?" he asked me.

"Let's get one."

We didn't.

We would have, we told him, but there was this matter of being several thousand dollars shy on the price.

He's just starting to learn about money. He decided he likes it.

His grandfather sent him a $50 check for his birthday. He decided he didn't like the check.

"This is not any money," he told his mother.

His mother explained that they had to take the check to the bank and get money for it.

He wanted to go right away. It nearly killed him to wait until his sister finished her nap.

"I want the money in fives," he said once they got to the drive-through at the bank.

The teller delivered the money in a small white envelope to his mother. She handed it over to the wide-eyed boy in the back seat.

"I've never been happier in my life," he told her.

My wife didn't know how to respond.

She was laughing too hard.

NO SPEND POLICY

Come to think of it, I can't say I've seen our guy any more thrilled than when he gets out his greenbacks.

He guards that cash in his red Velcro billfold like gold. He likes to whip out the money and drop it bill by bill on the kitchen table.

His eyes light up as the mosaic of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln faces cover the table's slick wood grain.

"Look at that pile, dad," he said to me.

The kid loves to watch the pile, but spending it's another story.

He's been wanting a new squirt gun because his leaks. The model he desired was the Super Soaker XP 75. The "XP" stands for extra power.

I make it a point to learn all I can about toys he wants.

After all, I'm the guy he shoots with the squirt gun. He especially likes to get me when I mow the yard.

"You know what, dad? I would really love to have that new squirt gun," he told me. "But I don't want to spend my money on it."

The kid's learning this money game fast.

Wait until he starts really wanting things and doesn't have the money to think about it.

He didn't have to worry in this case.

We took the soaking.

We spent our money on the squirt gun for his birthday.

COUNTING ON MONEY

We're trying to use our son's sudden interest in money for a good cause: helping him learn to count.

He's been struggling with learning his numbers between 10 and 20. We can't figure out why.

He's been counting since he was about 2. He's even learned to count up to 100—once he gets to 20.

But he's been a broken record when it comes to the teens.

"Eleven, fourteen, seventeen," he says.

The situation bothered us even more recently when his 1-year-old sister rattled off the numbers up to 14.

For some strange reason, he just hasn't wanted to learn to count up to now.

We don't want him to get behind in kindergarten just because we couldn't find a way to motivate him to learn now.

Perhaps that's where the money will make a difference.

He needs those counting skills to keep up with how many bucks are in his wallet.

And to see how much more he's got to save for that Winnebago.

Birds, Bees and Alcohol-Free
Remember the good ol' days when babies came from the stork? And alcohol was only a disinfectant?

by Kim Frasure

What I'd give to have had a few more years without having to explain the birds and bees, and effects of alcohol to our teen-agers. It amazes me how much faster paced life is and how much more children actually know, than we did at their age.

My, time certainly does fly! I can also now understand my own mother's difficulty with these very same explanations.

How much do I explain? And what, and how much does this teen already know?

Sadly, more than any parent wishes and wants at this age.

Yet, peers, street talk and T.V. help move these topics right along.

It's so scary today, with HIV and teenage alcoholism and teen pregnancies on the rise. Every word a parent says to their child has to be executed with intricate care.

How easy it would be to turn our heads and believe with every ounce of our being that we need not discuss such topics with our children. For our child surely wouldn't do wrong.

Well, this household won't be turning heads, or deaf ears. And prayers will be going out by the dozens, for this age has got to be the toughest of any there is. And I'll be talking till I'm blue.

Erma Bombeck had a column Sunday about teen-age pregnancy and how, from a very early age, little girls are taught to play with babies (dolls of course), and how appealing a baby actually is to a young girl, without any knowledge of responsibility.

She told how someone came up with the idea for teens to carry around a sack of flour or an egg to kind of get a better feel of what toting around a real infant is like, how fragile, and learn what some responsibilities would be. Yet, those sacks of flour or eggs don't wake up in the wee hours of morn to be fed, stay up all night with colic, or ever have to be hospitalized either.

Teen pregnancy is rising according to statistics and so far this generation hasn't found a solution to lower those statistics.

It's got to start at home with parents being the educators, don't you think?

Same goes for alcohol and drugs.

As far as I know, every school in this county participates in the D.A.R.E. program.

Some have sex education classes. These are bonus rounds of information our children may receive. But, it's up to us to set the standards, the morals, and guidelines and pray our young ones will follow.

Just when you think, as a parent, you can rest from worry, you've got 'em out of diapers, off the formula, and off to school. WHAM—More worry—Bigger Worries—and sixteen is still a few years away and a whole other column.

Oh, woe!!!
Till next week.

World War II Veterans met in Lexington

On August 9, several veterans from I Co., 39th Infantry Regiment of the 9th Infantry Division invaded Lexington. They used the Holiday Inn North as the Command Post. Lt. Trent Palmer served as the commanding officer.

The first thing Lt. Palmer did was to have a reconnaissance made of the city and the countryside. The unit found many beautiful horses and friendly people as they toured the city, the horse farms, Keenland Race Track and the Horse Park. People commented on the hospitality shown to the visitors.

Much time was spent talking about combat experiences and what the veterans have done since 1945. They also talked about the anniversary

East Point Homemakers report on summer activities

The East Point Homemakers Club held its first regular meeting of the fall at the Fellowship Hall of the First Church of God on Little Paint on Tuesday, September 6.

Reports were given by the ladies who attended cultural arts camp, helped with the 4-H camp, or assisted with other community-oriented activities this summer.

Many handmade crafts which had recently been completed were displayed at the meeting.

Also during the business session, Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd County Extension Agent, discussed upcoming workshops, including a quilt workshop in November. Mrs. Pitts also announced that the area annual meeting will be held September 23 in the Pikeville College gym.

which was celebrated in England and France. The unit I Co., was not in the first assault, but landed a few days later on the beaches of France.

Some of the men that met in Lexington had been in all of the campaigns starting in North Africa and ending with the defeat of the German army. Of nine of the men attending the reunion this year, three of these were wounded by the same shell on the morning of August 6, 1944. After stays in the hospital in England, they returned to I Co. and was there at the end of the war.

At the reunion, most of the men talked about the good times and the bad times they experienced during their combat days. Most of the talk was about the hedgerows of Normandy, the mud and darkness of the Huertgen Forst, the deep snow and blizzards of the Battle of Bulge and crossing the Rhine River on the old Ludendorff Bridge. A video of a Combat Engineer Battalion putting a pontoon bridge across the Rhine River was shown. The video contained a lot of German combat film.

The group started having reunions in 1988 and since that time three members of the group have died. A few could not attend due to sickness and other reasons. Men from seven states attended: Paul Callahan from Pennsylvania, Jack Radabaugh and Ralph Burris from Ohio, Cecil Jenkins and Ralph Elkins from Kentucky, Don Lavender from Iowa, Nick Chipura from New Jersey, Joe Charvat from New York and Trent Palmer from Louisiana.

The group plans to meet again next summer and hopes that attendance will be larger.

1994 Layne reunion

The 1994 Layne Reunion was held Sunday, September 4, at the Tom's Creek Baptist Church at Ivel. Most of the family members who attended are descendants of Moses "Sant" Layne, son of Lindsey and Adeline Mead Layne and grandson of pioneer settlers James Shannon and Katy Hager Layne. Members of the Layne family have been meeting Sunday of Labor Day weekend for many years.

Charles Walker opened the reunion with a prayer. A covered-dish dinner was available. After dinner, master-of-ceremonies Joe Hinchman presented several gifts. The oldest person present was ninety-three-year-old Constance Layne Lackey and the youngest was eighteen-month-old Cory Boyd. The L. D. Layne family had the most family members present. Charles and Ruth Layne of Phoenix, Arizona who were celebrating their 46th wedding anniversary traveled the farthest. Nelson Randolph won a flower arrangement door prize which he presented to his mother-in-law Alpha Thompson. Several other door prizes were presented.

Constance Lackey displayed a plaque recently presented to her by the Carl Perkins Association for her contribution to community service. Entertainment was provided by several Layne family members. Dolores Layne Hicks and Bertrum Layne played guitars, while Joe Hinchman and Charles Walker assisted in the singing of "By the Eastern Gate," "Come and Dine," and "Somebody Loves Me." Bertrum Layne played the guitar and sang, "Why Me, Lord."

Layne family members and guests present from Floyd and Pike counties were as follows: Joe, Mary, and Kevin Hinchman; Ralph Wilhelm; Richard, Patty, and Rakia Rickman; Dolores Hicks; Charles and Geneva Walker; Beulah Walker; John Walker; Edith Meeks; Debbie Warrix; Bertrum Layne; David and Norma Hinchman; Sammy Nelson; Michael Shepherd; Misty, Selena, Cody, and Dawn Boyd; Constance Lackey; John Lackey; Ernestine and Virginia DeBord; T.J. and Goldie Hall; James, Belle, and Jeffery Conn; Jake Layne; Betty and Katrina Montgomery; Jillian Shepherd; Tom and Bonnie Hinchman Porter; Florene Wallen; David, Susan, Ashley, and Kristin Boyd; George Smith; Mac and Loretta Risner; Michael, Susanna, Chelsea Goble; Hazel George; and Clifton and Shirley Street.

Family members from other places were as follows: Harold and Helen Morgan, Olive Hill, David and Michelle Wright, Ashland, Charles and Garnett Wright, Ashland; Elsie Layne Leisure, Ypsilanti, Michigan; Rosa Lee Shelton, Albion, Michigan; Eddie Smith, Ashland; Melvin and Wanda Fletcher, Salyersville, Charles and Ruth Layne, Phoenix, Arizona; Jerry and Gerry Collins, Concord, Michigan; Nelson, Galenna, and Stasha Randolph, Birmingham, Alabama; Gale and Alpha Thompson, Melbourne, Florida; Guy and Verlina Whitten, Paintsville; Jay D. Nesbitt, Paintsville, Ronald and Janet Layne, Ypsilanti, Michigan; Steven Smith; Ruth Smith; and Loretta Wright Smith. 81 people attended.

FROM THE MOUNTAINS by Jadon Gibson

Tragedy at Fourmile, Part 3 by Jadon Gibson

It was shortly after dawn, three days after the December 26, 1945, explosions, when word came that some of the men had been found—dead.

Thirty-one miners were trapped in the coal mine at Fourmile, in Bell County. Families, friends, rescuers and the curious were at the mine to find out the identity of the men.

All 31 were presumed dead so elation abounded when, at 1:30 p.m., the large crowd which was gathered for news of death, received word that nine miners were found alive. The news traversed the valley at Fourmile as quickly as the initial news of the disaster. Hope and anticipation mixed with disbelief among the families of the missing miners.

Were nine miners virtually coming back from the dead? If so, which nine? Family members waited and hoped.

Wives and family members of the 31 miners crowded around the elevator shaft along with mining officials and soon a blanketed body appeared. "Who is he?" several onlookers asked almost in unison.

"Al Bennett," someone answered. "He's dead though. He just died. But the others, I guess they're alright." At age 64, Bennett was the oldest of the trapped men in the mine.

"Is my man coming up?" a woman asked one of the rescuers.

The man shook his head sorrow-fully. None of the other women asked. They waited.

An ambulance soon entered Fourmile Hollow beneath the railroad underpass. Its siren screamed giving everyone a feeling of urgency.

"They're live men coming out, baby," a woman told her youngster. "It's true. They don't hurry like that with the siren blaring to carry away dead. It's for live folks."

Then three more ambulances appeared—each with sirens screaming. The bell of a train rang but it was somehow different than before. On the morning of the disaster it signaled a forewarning whereas now it rang of hope.

Soon a hysterical joy passed through the crowd as Charles Lingar was brought to the surface and soon seven other miners—McKinley Leath, William Branstutter, Ivan Philpot, Bud Townes, Joe Hatfield, Tom McQueen and Huey Miller were brought out alive. McQueen, nearly dead at the time of the rescue, died within hours at the Pineville, Ky. Hospital.

Others shed tears when their loved ones were not among the survivors. Yet they hoped that maybe, just maybe, the remaining 21 lost miners would be found.

Huey Miller, 31, father of six children, lived near the mine. He had waved goodbye as he entered the mine tunnel. Miller prayed aloud for himself and the other men after being trapped. Later he was brought unconscious from the mine as the children applauded. Soon he was able to recount details of the explosion and entrapment.

"I prayed I'd come out alive and get back home," Miller said. "And now blessed Father, I'm safe at home."

"When the explosion came it almost tore our ears off," Joe Hatfield, another of the surviving miners, said. "It started several fires although the fires didn't touch the group I was with. We tried to work our way out but the heat was too awful and the gas and smoke made us go back. Only a miracle could have saved us. We found a room with fairly good air. At times there was considerable heat but air kept coming in from some place. That was a miracle."

Bud Townes, a black miner, also survived. He had been trapped in the Kettle Island mine in 1929 and his past experience helped save his fellow workers at Fourmile.

At first the men crawled around picking up the other men while looking for a safe place to stay. It was cold and dark except for their lamps. The passageways were narrow and low and there was a smell of smoke wherever they went. The trapped miners scratched arrows on the slate wherever they crawled.

"We did that to show them where we were," Townes offered. "We finally got to a place where the air wasn't so bad and we barricaded ourselves inside what amounted to a side room. We had to keep the smoke and gasses out."

Before sealing the room one of the men scrawled 'Nine miners in here, 11 a.m. Thursday' on a pile of slate. The remaining hole was then closed.

The Chicago Sun reported that Townes took charge of the lunch pails and water which the miners carried into the mine. He rationed the food and water and had the men stretch out on their backs to conserve their supply of oxygen.

"We burned only one light at a time so that they would last," Joe Hatfield said. "We had used up all the lights except mine and it was barely flickering when we were found."

As if the mine disaster wasn't enough to contend with, torrential rains caused Cumberland River to rise to historic levels flooding Pineville and Wallsend at the mouth of Fourmile Hollow. In addition to rescue efforts, trucks from Fort Knox arrived with cots, blankets, and supplies for many people suffering from the flood.

Editor's note: Read more about the Fourmile Mine Disaster in Jadon's From The Mountains next week in the Floyd County Times.

Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

by Beverly Carroll

In last week's column I promised that we would talk about many of our friends. Senior citizens, we have a host of them. Just who are some of our friends? Well, let's see. Gee, there are so many. Where shall I start? Let's say thank-you to...

The Floyd County Times. Without the support of this newspaper you would not be able to read Sunshine Lines week after week. It is because of this newspaper that many senior citizens learn about the KBCP and call my office for assistance, advice, or to see if we can make a referral that will help to fill a very real need in their lives. It is because of The Floyd County Times that Sunshine Lines is able to keep senior citizens informed of benefits available and what you must do to obtain them. One also learns through this newspaper that the KBCP is your advocate and that we provide our services to senior citizens free of charge. We work with you and for you to help you get those things that are legally and rightfully yours.

WPRG-TV5, Harold. This locally owned and operated television station provides air time, technology, and technicians to bring you and your very own TV program, Senior Citizens Spotlight. This thirty minute program is dedicated to senior citizens. Through the effort expended by WPRG-TV5, you learn about the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens, it's purpose and what it can do for you.

Highlighted on every telecast is either an outstanding senior citizen from Appalachia, or an organization that in part, is committed to meeting the needs of senior citizens. Recent programs highlighted on Senior Citizen Spotlight included a county health department and the role it fills in helping to meet the medical needs of senior citizens throughout the Big Sandy region; a senior citizen center where members of that center were present to discuss center activities and to offer an invitation to all senior citizens to become involved in a local senior citizen center near you; and at a recent taping the Hospice of Big Sandy at Paintsville was highlighted.

These were all programs of vital interest to senior citizens. It is through the concerned management of WPRG-TV5 that I am allowed to produce and host a program where interesting people—senior citizens like yourself—can visit with you in your living room month after month. If you live in the viewing area but do not know when Senior Citizen Spotlight will be telecast, call (606) 478-4200 and ask when it will be shown.

WZLK/WSLI Radio. The Commodore Griffith Show, Salute to Senior Citizens, airs live at 10:05 a.m. every Friday. Commodore is well-known throughout the senior citizen community, especially in Pike and Floyd counties. Senior citizens who know him know that this man is their friend. Senior Citizen Center directors know he is their advocate. I believe that the senior citizen center is his "home away from home."

Mr. Griffith has invited me to be a guest on his show several times. Through his efforts, senior citizens are kept abreast of what is happening in Eastern Kentucky that's of interest to them. I appreciate the time the management at WZLK/WSLI Radio allows for the production of his show and for their interest in the welfare of our senior citizens. On behalf of our senior citizens, I am indebted to the host of Salute to Senior Citizens for the way Mr. Griffith includes and promotes the KBCP through the air time he controls. He knows that we are here for you.

Volunteers. Well, we'll talk about your guardian angels next week.

Newspapers! Television! Radio! Senior citizens, they've got you covered. You, the senior citizens of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties have so many who care about you. Because of these, senior citizens throughout the five-county area are being helped. Many, before reading about us, or watching TV, or listening to the radio, didn't know help was available. Now, thanks to our many friends for their outreach, their loyalty, and their dedication, you know about the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens. You know that we are here for you free of charge.

Devoted gardeners

The Garden of the Month for September belongs to Jack and Viola DeRossett of North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg. "It is evident that they are devoted gardeners," wrote one judge of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club Community Improvement Committee. The judges liked the DeRossetts' annual and perennial plant selection and placement which assures bloom in some areas of the yard from spring through fall. The plantings include vanilla marigolds, pink geraniums in pots and a red hibiscus in a planter. "We love to work in the yard," Viola said. "I'm in the yard all the time," Jack said. "I hardly miss a day." (photo by Polly Ward)

The 1995 Old Farmer's Almanac—predictably more than you thought

There is something refreshing, and even downright delightful, about getting more than you expected out of anything, especially The Old Farmer's Almanac. Where else can you find a 203-year-old publication loaded with new, fascinating things to read every year?

While you probably know The Old Farmer's Almanac is filled with wit and wisdom, contains the 1995 weather forecasts, and has plenty of interesting articles and advertisements... who would have thought that the 1995 edition could also help you find the perfect mate? Or clue you in to the healthiest vegetable of all? (No, it's not Brussels sprouts.)

On September 13, The 1995 Old Farmer's Almanac, Southern Edition—still with its recognizable yellow cover and nail hole in the corner—can be found at newsstands, supermarkets, and bookstores all across America. Plus, with a price tag under four dollars, it's probably cheaper than you ever thought, considering it has hundreds of pages packed with entertaining, informative articles guaranteed to spice up your life—or at least your bedtime reading!

Even though it's the nation's oldest continuously published periodical, the Almanac prides itself on remaining up-to-date. In the opening pages of this year's edition, readers will find a section entitled "Consumer Tastes and Trends for 1995." Do you have any chain-saw or hobo art, old computers, or hammered aluminum handbags or jewelry? These are some of the "hot" collectibles for the coming year. Also listed are food, fashion, and home trends, plus new answers to old questions, including "Where does lost airline luggage end up?" and "Is it safe to go swimming after eating?"

While always looking to the future, The Old Farmer's Almanac remembers the past as well. Aside from hosting the 1996 Summer Olympics, Atlanta was also in the spotlight a hundred years ago. The article entitled "Atlanta's First Big Show" recalls the 1895 Cotton States Exposition, at which visitors could listen to John Phillip Sousa's band, touch the Liberty Bell, or even shake President Cleveland's hand. "Seven Miles North of Memphis" is a story that remembers the fateful morning of April 27, 1865, when an explosion claimed the lives of more than 1,800 homeward-bound Union soldiers on the overcrowded steamer Sultana.

"Our goal is to pack the pages of the Almanac with useful wit, wisdom, and entertaining, insightful articles," explains Judson Hale, the publication's 12th editor since it was founded in 1792. "We also throw in some uncommon information. Where else would you find a Gestation and Mating Table that includes rams and boars right next to a list of plants that attract butterflies?"

The 80-percent-accurate weather predictions in The Old Farmer's Almanac always seem to get a lot of attention. The general November through March forecast for the country calls for near record amounts of snow for the upper Great Plains, Great Lakes, New York, New England, and much of the Appalachians, as well as the higher elevations of the western part of the country, including southern California. Overall, precipitation totals for the winter will be well above normal for much of the country, but well below normal from the central Great Plains to the Gulf of Mexico, in portions of Florida, and in the extreme Northwest.

The popular "Anecdotes and Pleasantries" section offers insight into the bathing habits of today's college students; how to get rid of cockroaches, itchy-bitsy spiders, fleas, and ants in your house; and even something to think about while listening to a boring speech. (i.e., try creating the shortest sentence that includes all the letters of the alphabet, such as Quick frowzy lambs vex the pen judge.)

Other articles specific to the Southern edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac include "How to Appreciate, Prepare, Cook, and Eat a Mess of Turnip Greens" (don't forget the corn bread!); "40 Acres and a Llama"; and "The Always-Hot Brunswick Stew Wars," which gives an update on the controversy between Brunswick County, Virginia, and Brunswick County, Georgia, about who holds the title to the original Brunswick stew.

Lately, the historic Old Farmer's Almanac no longer stands alone on the newsstand. The Almanac editors now produce three other annual periodicals: the Hearth & Home Companion in July; the Gardener's Companion in January; and a brand-new HomeOwner's Companion in March. These offer even more down-to-earth, sensible information and advice for readers particularly interested in traditional Almanac subject categories covering the home, food and garden. (Customized versions of these three publications, as well as The Old Farmer's Almanac itself, are made available as promotional tools for groups and companies.)

The Old Farmer's Almanac licensing program is growing by leaps and bounds, with a complete line of licensed food and lawn and garden products appearing in stores all across the country. Other licensed products include vitamins, wallpaper, decorative tins, and clothing—all utilizing the Almanac's good name that signifies reliability, quality, and traditional down-home values.

With predictably more within its pages than you ever imagined, The Old Farmer's Almanac guarantees that you will find something to tickle your fancy. And, if you're still puzzling over the healthiest vegetable...try sweet potatoes. They're loaded with beta-carotene, vitamins A, C, B⁶, potassium, and even dietary fiber. Who would have thought it?

Yellowjacket plague strikes parts of the nation this fall

Experts are predicting yellowjacket populations will reach epidemic proportions this fall in many parts of the U.S., due in part to favorable weather conditions earlier this summer. Many hospital emergency departments are already reporting record numbers of bee sting patients as the insects begin to take their toll.

"Yellowjacket populations are cyclical. Every few years when weather conditions and food supplies are favorable, nest populations explode," according to Miles Guarlick, entomologist at Vespa Labs Inc. and expert on North American yellowjacket biology. Guarlick adds that, "by the time their numbers have peaked, food supplies are dwindling, forcing them to forage at picnics and garbage areas. This is where most stings occur."

To protect yourself against this threat, avoid open refuse areas and keep all food covered when eating outdoors. Have problem nests destroyed by a professional exterminator and never swat at flying yellowjackets as frantic motion incites their attack behavior.

If you are stung, treat the area with ice for swelling and take an antihistamine if discomfort persists. If your reaction is "allergic" in nature (affecting areas of the body other than the sting site) seek medical attention immediately and consult an allergist about preventive immunization, a treatment that virtually eliminates the risk of a future allergic event.

For more information on treating allergic reactions to yellowjacket stings, call 1-800-23-STING.

Cyrus discussed labor-management

The Big Sandy Area Labor-Management Committee will meet Tuesday, September 20, at 6 p.m. at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Mike Dixon, representing the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, will speak about the union's apprenticeship program.

During the business session, Bruce Coleman, will discuss grant funding and Rebecca Derossset, executive director, will talk about the School-to-Work program.

At last month's meeting of the labor-management committee on August 16, Ron Cyrus, secretary/treasurer of the Kentucky AFL-CIO was the guest speaker.

Cyrus reviewed the history of labor management relations as a class system. This division created a lot of confusion in industry, Cyrus said.

Today, global competition has come to realize if U.S. industry is to successfully compete with the foreign market, both sides need to cooperate in a joint effort to improve labor management relations, the union representative said. To emphasize his point, Cyrus informed the group that a sizable Lexington construction project had been awarded a low bid to a firm in Mexico.

A major concern of business in recent years has been the astronomical rise in Worker's Compensation costs, Cyrus said. In 1986 Kentucky's unemployment insurance debt was $380,000,000 when Gov. Martha Layne Collins instigated a movement to solve the problem. The debt has been paid off, and Kentucky has surplus unemployment insurance funds of $400,000,000, he explained.

Cyrus also explained about major changes in Worker's Comp brought about by the legislature's passage of House Bill 928. Worker's Comp affected include the following aspects:

- HB 928 does not allow claims for stress problems unless they can be proven to be job-related.

- The term "physician" is more clearly defined.

- Medical benefits are allowed for duration of illness.

- RIB benefits will be paid directly to learning institutions if a miner is still working at the mine.

- 50 percent disability benefits have been extended from 425 to 520 weeks.

- When a disabled worker reaches 65, benefits are reduced to 40 percent.

*Attorney fee cap is $15,000.

One advantage of HB 928, Cyrus said, is that it offers an alternative to dispute resolutions. Companies can have their own Worker's Comp system through collective bargaining, thereby resolving their own problems, he said.

Cyrus said that as HB 928 is implemented throughout the state, Worker's Comp reform will lead the way to health care reform. Labor and management are working with government leaders to create a Health Care Alliance using competitive state funds.

A voluntary labor management board is in place, and its members are working on an affordable health care plan that will result in 45 percent savings to employers, Cyrus said.

The state AFL-CIO representative emphasized that labor management is a real part of U.S. industrial history. Labor-management will never die, Cyrus said. He advocated applying the Golden Rule to labor management relations to ensure that everyone would share the wealth.

After a question and answer session, the meeting adjourned.

BEAUTY Q & A

What Every Woman Should Know About The Newest Skin Revitalizing Products

(NAPS)—The latest breakthrough ingredient in skin care are alpha hydroxy acids. Susan Netteheim, Manager of Product Development, Facecare for The Pond's Institute answers the most commonly asked questions about AHA products like Pond's new Age Defying Complex with Alpha Nutrium:

1. I feel a tingling or mild burning sensation on my skin when I use an alpha hydroxy acid product. Does this mean that I should discontinue use?

It is normal to feel some tingling when you first start using an AHA product, it means that it is working. For the first two weeks apply the product just once a day at bedtime to allow your skin to adjust itself to the product. If the tingling is still uncomfortable, wait 10 to 15 minutes after cleansing to apply the AHA product. If the sensation persists you should stop using the product.

2. My skin looks very dry and flaky the morning after I use AHA products. Does this mean that these products are too strong for my skin?

Slight flaking is a sign that the dry, tired surface skin is being removed and is not an indication of over-drying. The best treatment is to follow with the application of your favorite moisturizer.

3. How close to my eyes can an AHA product be applied?

AHA products should not be applied to the eyelids. It is fine to use an AHA product under the eye as long as great caution is taken not to get the product into the eyes.

4. My skin is sensitive. Are AHA products right for me?

If your skin is sensitive, look for products that contain a lower concentration of AHA ingredients like Pond's Age Defying Complex for people of all ages who want their skin to have a natural healthy glow, and ideal for skin that is beginning to show signs of aging, but it's never too late to start. There is no age limit to its benefits, every woman will also notice a difference in how her skin looks and feels.

5. When should I start using AHA products? Is it too late to start if I am in my 50's?

AHA products are appropriate for people of all ages who want their skin to have a natural healthy glow, and ideal for skin that is beginning to show signs of aging, but it's never too late to start.

6. If I stop using an alpha hydroxy acid product, will my skin return to its original condition?

The improvements derived from use of AHA products will stop if you discontinue use. Your skin will gradually return to its former appearance.

7. I have very dry skin. Are alpha hydroxy acid products good for my skin type?

Yes, alpha hydroxy acid products are very good for dry skin. They also help to remove dry surface cells to improve skin's appearance and feel.

If you would like to know more about Pond's Age Defying Complex with Alpha Nutrium call the Pond's Institute at 1-800-34-PONDS.

Managing Your Finances

(NAPS)—One way to know you have a CPA you can count on is to work with a firm that's a member of the American Institute of CPAs' Private Companies Practice Section, a voluntary association of more than 6,500 CPA firms serving private companies. Here are some questions you should consider asking:

Your company's general finances could improve with the help of a Certified Public Accountant.

1. Which indicators of my company's financial performance should I track weekly, monthly, annually? Should I calculate these key indicators or should a CPA do it?
 2. When does a business need a full-time controller? What background should he or she have? Can you suggest guidelines for hiring the right person? Can you help me identify appropriate candidates?
 3. Do I need a credit policy? What should it cover and how should I set it up?
 4. How much is my business worth? Can you help me with a professional valuation?
- You can find additional questions in a free brochure: "101 Questions To Ask Your CPA." For a copy, send a self-addressed, stamped business envelope to the Private Companies Practice Section, American Institute of CPAs, 1211 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036-8775, or ask a local PCPS member firm.
