Revenue, collection not meeting projection:

Waste woes not over yet

by Susan Allen Staff Writer and Janice Shepherd Managing Editor

Floyd County's solid waste woes could be just beginning, despite what appeared to be the county's saving grace in July when an Ohio Company took over waste disposal for the

The Floyd County Solid Waste Commission entered into a five-year agreement with Rumpke of Kentucky in June, which was touted as a pact to keep residential garbage rates at an affordable $10 per month for the term on the contract.

But after almost three months into the agreement, Rumpke is reporting that only 45 to 50 percent of Floyd Countians are paying their monthly bill, which is causing financial problems for the company and the county.

Under the agreement, the solid waste commission and the fiscal court is to receive 15 percent of all fees collected from household and nonhousehold customers. Also, the commission and court is to receive seven and a half percent of fees collected from all non-Floyd County solid waste program users.

Those monies received from Rumpke for garbage fees were to be used by the commission and the county for paying the debt service on $3 million worth of bonds sold to pay for the long-term debt of the solid waste commission; to pay for closing the county's old landfill; to clean up a mound of garbage dumped on the ground at the landfill site; and to pay off lease agreements on equipment purchased to be used at the landfill.

But, the low collection rate and an apparent miscommunication concerning the number of commercial customers in the county, have solid waste commissioners saying there is not enough revenue generated to pay their debts, and company officials are in danger of losing money on their Floyd County venture.

Medical waste incineration heats up solid waste meeting

by Janice Shepherd Managing Editor

An incinerator used to burn medical waste became a hot topic at a meeting of the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission Monday evening.

Attorney Kevin Costetto, representing the company, Medisin, which owns the incinerator, asked the solid waste board to amend its solid waste plan to allow Medisin to take in 561 tons of waste per year. Costetto called year limit a "clerical error" because an assistant for Floyd County Judge dergraduate studies, medical school that facility, not the amount coming The plan was amended on July 16, from Perry County.

A trailer fire Saturday evening at McDowell killed a 27-year-old Floyd Preliminary autopsy reports indicated that Larry Wayne Collins, of Ned's Fork, died of smoke inhalation, Floyd County Sheriff's detective Jim Rederick said Tuesday.

The fire started at approximately 7 p.m. Saturday in the kitchen area of the mobile home, Rederick said. Collins' body was found in the east end of the home and no foul play is suspected.

Rederick said that Collins lived in the home with his wife and three children, who were not home at the time of the blaze. The trailer was completely destroyed.

Members of the Left Beaver Rescue Squad and Fire Department responded to the scene, along with deputy coroner Glenn Frazier and Rederick.

The fire is under investigation by Rederick.

Collins' survivors include his wife, Angela Kaye Moore Collins; three daughters, Tiffany Collins, Sabrina Collins and Savannah Collins of McDowell; his parents, Cullen Collins of Jenkins and Mazie Spears Collins Hamilton of McDowell; and his stepfather, Bobby Dale Hamilton of McDowell.

The meeting came to order at 7 p.m. and at ten minutes after seven the members of the commission went into closed session to talk on the telephone with a representative from Landrum and Shouse Law Offices for approximately 25 minutes.

Upon returning to regular session, Mayor Marley Sammons announced that no information about the telephone call would be given out until a later date.

Almost as interesting as the mystery phone call was the presence of two South Floyd High School students, Tiffany Compton and Sharlonda Sammons, who were covering the meeting as part of their class work in the American Studies class taught by Bud Reynolds and Delores

After the phone conversation the commission went through the announced agenda which included: Approving KLC convention;

Annual teacher reviews reaffirmed by board

Staff Writer

by Susan Allen

Floyd County school board members held firm on their decision that teachers be evaluated each year, but agreed to a proposal that would eliminate a second semester review if teachers make passing grades in the Prestonsburg principal Karen Trivette and South Floyd principal Allan Osborne asked the board at Monday's meeting to reconsider their decision to evaluate teacher performance each year. Both principals said that annual teacher reviews would leave little time for them to oversee the operation of their schools.

Trivette said that she was speaking on behalf of a majority of school principals and explained that principals usually know the weaker teachers in their schools.

Board members were presented two plans for Monday's meeting from the evaluation committee. Board members approved annual teacher evaluations last month, but superintendent Steve Towler said that he had been asked to bring the issue back before the board.

Plan A would require that teacher performance be evaluated at least once every three years. Plan B called for an annual teacher review, but would eliminate the second semester evaluation if a teacher was rated satisfactory during the first semester depend on the services and that primary care physicians could see a 20 percent cut.

Eastern Kentucky doctors have expressed their opposition to the reimbursement cuts and to a Discount Option Program that will allow individuals with incomes below the 200 percent federal poverty level, $29,600 for a family of four, to pay the same rates as Medicaid patients by purchasing the care from state Medicaid providers.

More than 120 physicians, representing Floyd, Johnson, Pike, Letcher, Lawrence, Martin, Magoffin, Fayette and Bell counties, met on September 15 at the Holiday Inn during a meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Physician's Network to express their opposition to the cuts.

During the meeting, Dr. Ardis Hoven, president of the Kentucky Medical Association, headquartered in Louisville, urged Eastern Kentucky doctors to not let Frankfort drive a wedge between them and the rest of the state. She said the problem was a statewide one and not just an Eastern Kentucky problem.

She said under the proposal, hospital emergency rooms would only receive $14 reimbursement. "You can't get a plumber for that," she said. Plumbers are paid $35 per hour in Cleveland, Ohio, according to a report from the Eastern Kentucky Physician's Network.

Hoven said the Cabinet for Human Resources (CHR) does not understand health care in Kentucky. "There are clinics throughout Kentucky that are not going to be able to function," she said.

Hoven said that Cabinet for Human Resources officials, during a meeting, had likened the Medicaid controversy to a poker game.

"(The officials) said, 'If we hold these cards close to our chest, these doctors are going to fold," Hoven said.

"That's not in the best interest of patients," she said and cautioned physicians to watch out for "things" coming from Frankfort to split them up.

Hoven said the Medicaid reimbursement cuts were meant as a last resort and that the Cabinet was supposed to achieve the $50 million in savings by improving Medicaid through stopping fraud and abuse of the Medicaid system.

"There isn't anyone at CHR who knows the figures (of those patients on the Medicaid payroll who don't issued Monday, physicians said they belong). That's scary," she said.

After the KMA president finished her speech, the physicians went into a closed session. In a press release strongly rejected any reductions for primary care physicians and that they would continue to provide treatment for the poor and indigent.

Board members voted for Plan B. Board member Dolores Smith commented that the board understood the process would take time, but that an evaluation should not be viewed as negative.

The tests scores are not scheduled to be publicly released until the end of September. Towler said that the district received the test results early in order to evaluate the information and compile reports.

The challenge

Task force must find ways to make good domestic violence laws work

On paper, Kentucky has a system to protect victims of domestic violence that has become a model for other states. Unfortunately, the system does not work so well in practice. Too often, victims are not receiving the protection they've been promised.

Enter the Legislative Research Commission's Task Force on Domestic Violence, the latest in a long series of groups formed to study violence in Kentucky's homes. While other commissions have recommended new laws to protect spouses and children from abuse, the newest commission seeks ways to make existing laws work better.

In many ways, Kentucky is fortunate. The General Assembly has enacted strong domestic-violence legislation and funded emergency shelters for battered women and children. Special training exists for police officers and prosecutors. Police have broad authority to make arrests in assault cases. There is to be 24hour access to emergency orders.

Although such initiatives moved Kentucky ahead of many states, some portions of the new legislation have not been implemented fully. There also is concern about the lack of accountability when the system fails.

Twenty-eight perfect of the emergency order courts issued to protect domestic violence victims in the last fiscal year were never served because they expired in a computer system that purges them at their expiration date—but that doesn't tell why they weren't served. Orders that are never served may be worse than worthless because they give victims a false sense of secu-

The task force is well-rounded, combining legislators, judges, prosecutors and specialists in the field. Together, they must develop creative ways to make good laws work. The safety of thousands of Kentuckians is at stake. -The Daily Independent

Shades of Mayberry "Barney" rides again

I had always thought Prestonsburg to be a very pleasant little town to visit, one that I might like to live in one day. I felt this way until my most recent trip in August when I discovered that Prestonsburg had "Barney Fife" on the city police force.

While in Prestonsburg, my 17year-old son and his cousin were pulled over, made to get out of their vehicle, searched and put in the back of "Barney's" cruiser. While doing this, the officers failed to ask for identification and the boys were not told why they were being detained. One of these "so-called" officers (the first officer had called for back-up) even had his gun pulled. Thank goodness neither of the boys moved the wrong way or there could have been two innocent young people injured or

It's a shame that just because these men are police officers they felt they had the right to harass these young men. I think the City of Prestonsburg needs to evaluate the men they put in positions of authority a little better and hold them accountable for their errors in judgment.

Concerning the Code of Ethics

Editor: The people of Floyd County should be concerned about how their tax dollars are spent.

All elected officials should have to abide by the Ethics Code and serve the people and not be the dictators they are. They were elected to be servants for the people and not for their personal gain. As soon as they are swom into office they forget the people who elected them.

The fiscal court meetings should be held in a place large enough for all the people to attend and all the voters and taxpayers should attend every meeting. We need to unite and get our county government back on the right

It looks as if our future generation will not have anything to look forward to, only the mess we left them in. Garbage everywhere, our water and air polluted, and the county bankrupt. This Code of Ethics is to take effect January 1, 1995.

I can go back 70 years, when it was a pleasure to live. Now it's hard to try and make an honest living. Truth is gone, and God is left out of everything. Think about it! Let's do something for our future genera-

Guess we owe former President Jimmy Carter an apology for snickering about his involvement in crisis diplomacy.

Carter wasn't much of a foreign policy president, but he's apparently been the man with the plan lately.

A few months ago the former president defused a nuclear confrontation in Korea, and this weekend he staved off a U.S. invasion of Haiti just in the nick of time.

Don't know all the details of the Haiti settlement, but it's possible that Carter employed a tactic that succeeded in Korea to stress why the Haitian military rulers ought to step down.

Shortly after Carter left Korea, Korean dictator Kim Sung II croaked.

Perhaps the Haitian leaders, who have been known to put a lot of stock in voodoo, were more concerned with being hexed by Carter than bombed by the U.S. Air Force.

Well, we've had voodoo economics and now we've had voodoo diplomacy. Hey, whatever works.

We need to get in on this act.

Now, if there's one thing we mountain folks know how to do well, it's cook. Bet there are all sorts of specialty items we could develop for inclusion in the gift guide and, perhaps, create our own new industry and jobs at the same time.

Let's get cooking.

Speaking of cooking, the timer is set to go off sooner than you think on a state law requiring local governments to adopt ethics codes.

Those governments which have yet to begin the process of enacting ethics code ordinances have just over three months to complete them.

That's not a whole lot of time when you consider the procedural aspects, which require first readings, time for discussion and amendments, maybe another first reading, more amendments and discussion, another first reading and then a second reading to enact the code after it is published.

Three months to get all that done is no time at all.

Note: This week's Coffee Break was cut short by the publisher's trip to the emergency room Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Perry suspected appendicitis. The doctors did too, and he underwent surgery Tuesday evening. At presstime, he was doing well.

We wish him a speedy recovery, and we suspect his readers will hear all about his surgery in the weeks to come. Get well soon, Scott.

Whitesburg public radio station receives grant to increase power

WMMT-FM, the community radio station of Appalshop in Whitesburg, has received a grant of $48,300 from the US Department of Commerce for equipment to increase its power from 1,000 to

The power upgrade will enable WMMT to reach an estimated 50,000 additional listeners in Eastern Kentucky, southwest Virginia and southern West Virginia. It will also improve reception in areas where mountains now block the signal. The more powerful signal is expected to reach communities such as Hazard, Jackson, Paintsville, Grundy, Virginia, and Williamson, West Virginia.

Construction for the power increase is scheduled to begin in spring 1995, pending approval from the Federal Communications Commission, said Rick Kirby, WMMT station manager.

The station will install a new directional antenna system at its current transmitter site atop Pine Mountain in Letcher County. The system will aim the additional power to the east, north WMMT is an independent, community radio station operated by Appalshop, a media arts center in Whitesburg celebrating its 25th anniversary this year. The radio station produces almost all its own programming, with the active assistance of some 50 volunteer programmers from Kentucky and Virginia.

The Commerce Department's Public Telecommunications Facilities Program (PTFP) provides funding for noncommercial radio stations to extend their signal to communities that are unserved by public radio. The grant will provide funding for 75 percent of the cost of equipment needed for a power increase. Kirby said WMMT will be organizing a fundraising effort this fall and winter to raise the additional funds from both local supporters and national foundations. -staff

Paintsville Lake represented the Huntington District in competition with three other sister districts-Louisville, Pittsburgh, and Nashvillefor the Project of the Year at the Ohio River Division level, and was recently selected for that

"Paintsville Lake is a unique project in many respects," commented Huntington District Interpretive Specialist Paige Cruz. "Their outstanding program of community involvement in the development of the Mountain Homeplace Historic Area in cooperation with the Paintsville Tourism Commission is an excellent opportunity for an historical and cultural program. The formation of the Paintsville Lake Historical Association was a unique organization for the purpose of development of the homeplace—the first of its kind in the nation for the Corps of Engineers."

Resource Manager Bob Beverley said, "Paintsville Lake had one of the highest numbers of volunteer hours contributed in the Huntington District. Our volunteers have added to the beauty and enjoyment of the project by the development of such features as the Kiwanis Trail, which was dedicated this past year as a part of the Department of the Interior's National Trail System."

The lake has a long history of public involvement and innovation in its operation and management. For example, public participation in the annual Paintsville Lake Cleanup Contest has resulted in the removal of 42 tons of trash and litter from lake lands since 1987. Resource manager Beverley said, "This unique contest received national recognition in 1990 as a part of the 'Take Pride in America' program."

Vance reported that the mound of garbage had been cleaned up by Rumpke at a cost of approximately $150,000. Part of that cost, approximately $113,734 will be paid to Rumpke out of proceeds of an equipment sale to Rumpke, which is expected to generate $261,148. The remaining $147,414 must be used to customers when company officials pay-off leases on the equipment being sold, Vance said.

DISCREPANCIES IN ESTIMATED REVENUES

On Monday, the solid waste commission met and the issue of the number of commercial customers was raised by Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond, who with Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo negotiated the Rumpke deal.

that former court-appointed solid waste custodian Bob Meyer reported that there were 1,300 solid waste commercial customers in the county, but only about 300 customers were being billed for garbage disposal. Hammond said that Rumpke officials went on the assumption that there were that many commercial formulated their bid for services.

day and explained that he reported that there were approximately 1,500 "non-residential structures" in the county, according to the 911 data bases. Meyer said that he explained to officials at the time that those structures could be churches, vacant build-

"It could be a miscommunication on someone's part," Meyer said. "There was a lot of information on the street when the Rumpke agreement was being developed, some of it accurate, some of it not accurate. I made it clear what non-residential structures were."

Meyer said he did not know what Cooley meant by saying he said those commercial customers did not exist.

"I was not privvy to the later discussions with Rumpke," Meyer said. As for the county being due $2

"If Rumpke could collect even 85 million from past accounts, Meyer said that figure is not realistic, bewe would have $22,000 to $26,000 cause of past accounting methods per month or more to pay ongoing that were used in the solid waste

"Some of those are literally dead accounts," Meyer said Tuesday. There was a policy in place that no one was taken off the billing list, even if they died. On the books it shows that $2 million is owed, but it doesn't necessarily mean that is a true amount. It is an unrealistic figure to go by."

Also part of the deal, is that Rumpke build a 400-ton transfer station at the old landfill site, which is expected to be used by non-Floyd County customers. Floyd County officials are to ask state officials for a permit for the transfer station, but Rumpke is required to construct it, which is expected to cost $500,000.

At Monday's solid waste meeting, it was apparent that commissioners are not happy and neither are Rumpke officials.

"If we don't get 85 percent, we can't pay our bills, Rumpke manager Hammond told the commission Ron Henke told the commission.

Henke also asked for the board's help in making customers pay their garbage bills and said that he would assist in locating the customers.

The University of Kentucky Transportation Center has just concluded the first series of training courses designed to improve the safe transportation of coal. During July and August, the sessions were conducted three nights a week in Pikeville and Prestonsburg. One hundred and ten coal truck drivers received certificates for completing the nine-hour course. They represented 43 coal transportation companies and five coal producing companies.

The course was sponsored by Coal Operators and Associates (COA), a Pikeville-based trade association. Each evening class covered different safety concerns for coal truck drivers. The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, UK, Federal Highway Administration, Kentucky State Police, COA, law firms, and private industry provided instructors for the course.

Charles Baird, president of Coal Operators and Associates, was instrumental in the creation of the coal truck safety training. "We want everyone to know that our industry is committed to improving highway ext. 232. safety in Eastern Kentucky and sav-

The training program was launched when COA contacted State Highway Engineer, J. M. "Mac" Yowell, at the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. Yowell requested that the Transportation Center help develop and present the training course. Yowell stated, "The coal industry is to be commended for taking steps to ensure the safe transportation of coal. These people are actively seeking ways to share the road safely with the public. The next step needs to be educating the public on the special needs of the trucker and how we must all get involved if we are to provide safe, efficient travel for everyone."

Additional sessions are planned in November and December. For more information or to register, call Kentucky Transportation Center at 1-800-432-0719 or 606-257-4513,

Tragedy at Fourmile, Part 4 by Jadon Gibson

Only eight miners survived the Fourmile disaster which occurred when explosions rocked the Bell County, Kentucky, mine on December 26, 1945. One of those died hours later in the Pineville Hospital.

Fires and gases in the mine forced rescue workers to abandon their heroic efforts. The mine was sealed and 20 miners were entombed.

It was an agonizing time for the families and friends of the trapped miners. It was generally felt that they had died in the final days of 1945, that is, if they had survived the explosions. But some worried that there were still men alive down there, waiting, praying, hoping...

Joe Hatfield was one of the seven miners to survive. He had broken ribs and a badly-hurt shoulder when he was "drug out."

Bud Townes was lauded for saving the lives of the miners that were brought to safety but Townes said Joe Hatfield played an equal role.

"We lay in there a long time not doing anything but sleeping and thinking," Hatfield explained. "There wasn't much to talk about but there was a lot to think about. We knew there was fire in the coal all around us and there was smoke and gas all over

"It looked like we wouldn't get out of there. I said a little prayer or two before I passed out. I never was what you'd call a religious man," Hatfield said in 1946. "I never went to church very much but that don't keep a man from praying. Especially when he's two miles down in the earth, can't get out and ain't hardly got a chance to live."

Hatfield explained that he passed out and didn't know anything until the men were rescued from the mine.

"When I finally got well enough to go home, the Cumberland River rose up and buried Wallsend," Hatfield added. "My wife told me that everything in my house was wet except for a couple Bibles that were on the top shelf."

Although Hatfield developed emphysema he lived to be 85 years of age before passing away in October 1990. He was the last survivor of the Fourmile disaster.

A Chicago Sun reporter called on Bessie Fisher, the widow of Jim Tom Fisher and the mother of eight chil-

Their humble dwelling survived the flood and, like most of the other houses nearby, was heated by coal. It had no icebox, running water, cur-iams, carpet of imoleum. It was raining heavily as the flatlander made his way to the door. He had to pass a cow and her calf that were on the porch attempting to escape the inclement weather.

"His grave is over there—deep in the mountain," Bessie Fisher later told the reporter. "Eight of the men were raised from the grave on the third day, saved from the hot, smoky, mine. The stone was rolled back and they came out like an Easter miracle. But my Tom remains buried deep in

"He was a good Christian man but the resurrection from the mine was

The hand of God has been on this The Parish Mission begins each region," she continued as the hens cackled beneath the floor of the fourroom house. "The hand of God is a loving hand, but there is justice in it, too, and vengeance. He smites the just and the unjust. Merciful men are taken away from the evil to come."

She then lamented about the difficulty of getting to her home and the necessity to fetch the family's water.

"It's an awful climb up here," she added, "And it's an awful climb from here to the top of the mountain where we fetch our water from a cold spring. We get it two pails at a time.

"But what's important is that we get to the holy mountain, that we get to heaven. I've missed so much here on earth. I can't take a chance on missing heaven too. The way I feel is that Tom's just gone ahead to get things ready for the rest of us."

The residents of Fourmile and Pineville received national press coverage during the mining disaster and the flood that followed. Papers reported that area residents were hospitable, courteous, and courageous.

"They can take an explosion that kills 24 men and not whine about it," the Chicago Sun printed. "And they can take a flood and laugh about it." The Cumberland River waters were 29 inches higher than the previous record flood which occurred in 1929.

"Nearly every church in Pineville was baptized by submersion," Nell Putnam said in 1946. "I was in one when the water began rising. I managed to get the carpet up with some help from friends but before we could get it out the door the organ was covered and the hvmn books were

With the assistance of Mrs. Clyde Guthrie and Sgt. Dewey Gamble, Miss Putnam converted her hilltop summer home into a commissary and fed 500 people the first day alone. Later it became too cold and those that needed meals were fed in the ballroom of the Continental Hotel.

Meanwhile Col. Matt Colson, John Broughton and Barry Howard were exchanging tales in the office of Sheriff John J. Howard. Blind Sam Duff was heard to say nearby, "Don't pity me because I can't see, 'cause there are people worse off. Like the miners lying dead in the mine up the road at

McDOWELL REUNION Classes of '33 through '93

Where else in the world would people work so hard in order to pull together or reunite a group of old friends, classmates, and teachers except for the Floyd County, Kentucky people?

I want to personally thank the Drift Women's Club and all the people who care enough about the stray classmates like me to organize a meeting that will always be with me.

I had such a wonderful time at the reunion for classmates from 1933

I saw people who were periodically in my thoughts over the years but I simply accepted the fact that I probably would never see them

I know that such a meeting requires organization, concentration, and more love than an ocean could hold.

I hardly recognized anyone besides my teachers and classmates of 1958, but my bifocals certainly were well used and worked overtime straining to coordinate faces and names.

All week, I have floated on "cloud nine" because I felt the love and companionship that only a "real" family knows.

I wish we could have an ongoing newsletter or perhaps we could use the Floyd County Times as our "grapevine" to communicate among us

I miss my friends and family who remain in Floyd County and I love to visit every opportunity I have.

I feel that I am very fortunate to have been reared and educated in the mountains. I had a very simple life, but I had the greatest gift, which

Resolve to get fit

by Christopher Fleming

Regular physical activity will improve a person's overall health. Improved quality of life, increased longevity, and the psychological benefits of exercise are well established. The human body is similar to an automobile; if a car is not used on a regular basis or maintained properly, it is destined for a premature death and provides little enjoyment to its owner.

The improvement of quality of life is the most established benefit of regular physical activity. A 1992 study by the Tufts School of Public Health found that strength training by nursing home patients in their eighties and nineties improved their ability to perform daily living activities. Many of the patients were able to move to nursing home care units that provided a more self-sustaining living style. Some were once again even able to live on their own,

Improved quality of life comes to all exercisers, regardless of age. Exercisers are more productive, have lower health care costs, are less prone to job related injuries, use fewer sick days, are more psychologically stable and have improved self-esteem. These issues are why so many

Fortune 500 companies provide improve the youths self-esteem, dewellness programs for their employees. When employees are provided a half-hour for physical activity on company time, the company receives more productive employee. Total productivity is greater than pre-exercise productivity even though the employee spends less time working. Thus, a regular exercise program benefits individuals, employees, as well as society.

Longevity may be increased for individuals who exercise regularly. A 1989 study, by Dr. Steven Blair and Associates, indicated those whose cardiovascular fitness was gauged to be in the 25 percentile or below had significantly greater mortality rates for all causes. Other studies report similar findings. The increase in longevity from exercise varies widely with each person. However, individuals benefited most if they were at increased risk of premature death due to other risk factors such as family history of early death, hypertension, elevated lipid profile, high-fat diet or Another factor that may affect exercise and longevity is exposure time. The longer a person is physically active, the stronger the effect of the exercise. One must be physically active throughout his or her lifetime to achieve optimal results; therefore, the best time to start an exercise program is now.

Physical activity may increase longevity through several mechanisms. Regular exercise may lower blood pressure, increase glucose tolerance, produce a more desirable body composition, allow coronary arteries to obtain greater dilation, slow the loss of muscle mass due to age, maintain a higher resting metabolic rate, and improve the immune system. These adaptations of the human body to physical activity decrease the risk for cardiovascular disease, stroke, cancer, pulmonary diseases and other causes of early death.

The psychological benefits of regular physical activity are well documented. Individuals who exercise may have a higher self-esteem, suffer fewer incidents of depression and have less stress in their lives.

Physical activity has been demonstrated as an effective treatment for juvenile delinquents. Exercise may crease depression, and enable them to handle stress more effectively. The results are the same for all individuals, but are less dramatic because most people already have higher selfesteem, suffer less from depression, and have more efficient coping mechanisms for stress.

In conclusion, regular exercise will enhance an individual's quality of life. A weekly commitment of at least an hour-and-a-half of cardiovascular activity (thirty minutes every other day) and at least half an hour of weight training or calisthenics (fifteen minutes twice a week using all the major muscle groups) benefit the individual and society as a whole. The YMCA motto of "a sound mind in a sound body" summarizes the role of regular physical activity.

South Floyd Raiders fall hard, 64-6

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

If you are looking for consolation in the Pikeville blowout of South Floyd this past week, it can be found in the fact that the Raiders are the last county school that must face the highly ranked Panthers this season.

For the second consecutive week, the Pikeville Panthers blitzed a Floyd County team by rolling to a 64-6 win over the South Floyd Raiders in high school football last Thursday night at Brackett Field.

A week earlier, Pikeville dismantled Allen Central 77-18.

Pikeville ran a surprising 42 plays against the Raiders. It was surprising in that they did not take time to run an offense because they scored three times on first down plays from scrim-

The Panthers scored on their first three possessions in the game, but scored four straight times when they put their hands on the football. Josh Barone intercepted a Justin Ray pass and ran the ball back into the end zone from 32-yards out for the Panthers' second TD of the game.

They had scored on their first play from the line of scrimmage when Eddie Deramus broke up the middle and to the right for a 42-yard touchdown run. Diego Ramos kicked the PAT for a 7-0 Pikeville lead.

Ramos nailed eight PATs in the game to give him 29 consecutive kicks in the first four games of the

On their second possession of the game, Ray was set in the pocket when Barone picked on a pass intended for Kevin Johnson. He ran the ball back and Ramos PAT made it 14-0 with 8:45 left in the first period.

Sophomore sensation Brent Coleman made it a 21-0 game when he scored on a 18-yard run and the PAT made it 21-0 with 3:02 remain-

The Panthers recovered a South Floyd fumble, and one play later, John Hatfield scored on a 26-yard run before the quarter ended. Pikeville led 42-0 at the half.

The Raiders' lone touchdown came in the fourth quarter on a drive that started on their own 34 and concluded when Ketrin Mays scored on a 1-yard plunge with 4:19 left in the game. It was the only time in the contest that the Raiders were able to penetrate into Panther territory.

East Carter defeats Betsy Layne, 35-8

Newsome's 17 tackles lead Bobcat defense

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Defensively the Betsy Layne Bobcats had some pretty impressive stats, but it is on the offensive side that football games are won.

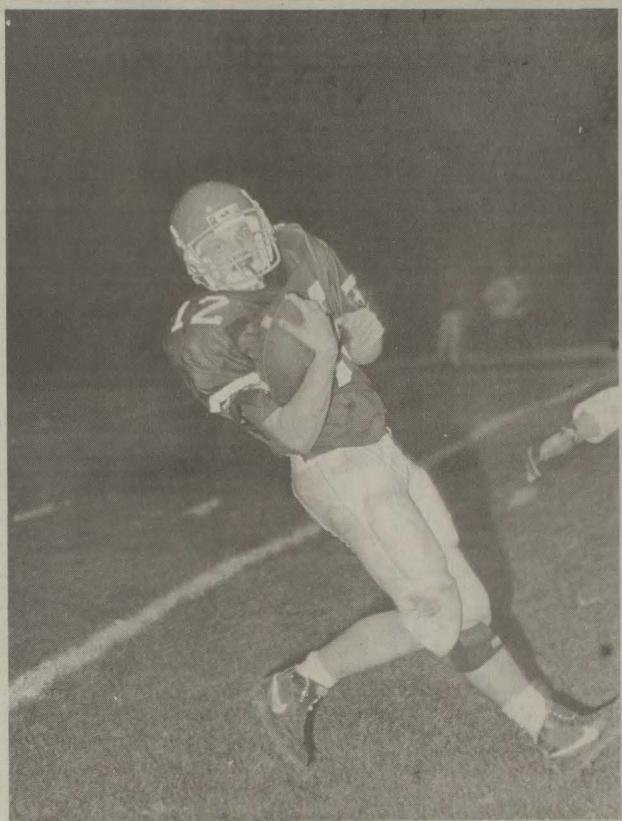

Jarrod Newsome, a 5' 9", 165 pound sophomore, was outstanding for the Bobcats on the defensive side of the football. He had 17 tackles to lead the Bobcat defense that gave up 35 points to a very strong East Carter team this past Friday night on the road. The Bobcats fell 35-8 to drop to 1-3 on the season. East Carter improved to 4-0.

"Jarrod had a standout defensive game for us," said Bobcat coach John Derossett. "Chris (Hicks), Bobo (Hall), Bubba (Combs) and Rocky (Hamilton) also had an outstanding defensive game."

Combs had 11 tackles with Craig Hamilton and Hicks coming up with 10 each, Rocky Hamilton had nine hits in the game.

Hamilton scored Betsy Layne's lone touchdown and led the ground game with 127 yards on 15 carries. Betsy Layne had 168 yards rushing.

Allen Central's Brad Blackburn had an outstanding game both offensively and defensively against Berea last Friday night. Blackburn had a two catches for a touchdown and conversion. Neither coach was too happy with the officiating in the football game.

"The officiating was the worse that I have seen in the six years that I have been coaching," said Berea coach Anthony Barsch. "It was awful. We had three touchdowns called

'We need to get our own officials association started here in Floyd County," said Allen Central coach Glenn Reeves. "We have three (Keith Henry, Marty Maynard and Dale Conn), who are from Floyd County who are officiating. We need to start our own officials association and start training them by doing junior varsity and grade school games.

The officials, when they got there, wanted to know what Levi Wells' number was," said the Rebel coach. "Of course, we switched numbers. But they wanted to single Levi out."

But the deciding moment in the game came when Bruce Chasteen scored when time was winding down. Chasteen scored from 8-yards out and helped the Pirates defeat the Rebels 20-14.

Coleman had a completion of 8 yards to Beau Tackett and hit Blackburn with a 28-yard reception

After an good kickoff return by Bruce Chasteen for Berea, the Pirates were in good field postion as they took the ball to the Allen Central 38yard line. But Coleman intercepted a Scott Kaylor pass, after Blackburn had batted the football in the air. Allen Central then marched from their own 39-yard line to the Berea six. Coleman found Estill Stumbo all alone in the end zone and hit him with a touchdown pass from the 6-yard

Allen Central was hit with a penalty after the touchdown and the ball was spotted at the 20-yard line for the conversion try. Coleman attempted to pass for the conversion, but the pass was incomplete.

However, a pass interference flag was thrown against Berea and the Rebels got another chance from the 10. From there Coleman hit Blackburn with a pass to give the Rebels the 14-8 advantage.

Belfry was quick to answer. A third-down pass play from Matt McCoy to Hobie Dotson was good for 27 yards that put the football at the Blackcats' 34-yard line.

The two teams traded drives the remainder of the first half, with neither team able to punch the ball into the end zone.

Prestonsburg opened the third quarter strong as they took a 14-7 lead. Robbie Risner gained 14 yards on a carry and Cling Shutts hauled in a Ratliff pass for a 41-yard gainer. Risner then scored from 4-yards out and Ratliff added the kick for a 14-7 game with 8:37 left in the third pe-

Never mind the records — two good football teams played at Belfry Friday night.

And when it was over, Belfry had made a big play or two more than Prestonsburg and pulled out a 21-14

"It wasn't pretty, but we won," said Pirate coach Phillip Haywood, whose Bucs evened their mark at 2-2 on the season. "And that's the way Belfry football is sometimes. We need to get out there and bang for 48 minutes, and when its over, we'll come out on top on the scoreboard. It took the whole 48, I can tell you that."

They stunted their outside linebacker and hit our quarterback, a loose ball and they get down in our territory," Letton said. "That was a big play for them."

Haywood agreed.

"Big play. Big play. That's what we've been missing on our defense this year. We haven't been making any plays. That was a big play in the football game. It turned it around and got us ahead," said Haywood.

The drive was classic Belfry. It took 10 plays to cover the 33 yards, ending when McCoy scored from the three with 3:33 showing.

Brown steps down as coach of Paintsville Big League team

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

After seven years at the helm of the Paintsville Little League's Big League team, Paul David Brown has decided to step down to become a part-time assistant coach with the Pikeville College Bears baseball

Indoing so, Brown rejoins Johnnie Lemaster, who also helped with the Big League team, at the Pike County school where he was recently named the head baseball coach replacing Roy Cutwright.

The Paintsville Big League, under the tutoring of Brown and Lemaster compiled an excellent record of 106 wins and 58 losses.

Included in the success of the Paintsville program were two state championships.

Brown said that the tenure has been an enjoyable one.

"I have always enjoyed coaching sports," he said, "ever since Robert Baldwin asked me to help him with seventh and eighth grade basketball in 1980.

'In the past 16 years I have coached junior high basketball, senior league baseball, high school basketball, high school football, minor league baseball, big league baseball and now I have an opportunity to help Johnnie with Pikeville College.

"Even though I have had an opportunity to coach in the boys basketball state tournament, in high school playoffs, and even win two state championships as the big league coach, that is not what I remember the most."

Brown said that his fondest memories are the kids that he had the opportunity to coach. He detests the bad rap that kids have gotten over the years.

"You hear people say kids are not like they used to be. Kids today are lazy, and it is those kind of comments that I disagree with.

"In the past 16 years, I can't remember one bad kid. I have had kids with home problems, physical handicaps and every sort of problem, but they all have worked hard and seem to beg for guidance and discipline." Brown said that the only bad thing he had to deal with were the few parents who forgot what athletics was

'Instead of adults telling kids they are lazy, or spoiled, or making some other negative comment, how about a little bit of 'Way to go!' or 'You did a good job!" Brown has many people that he wants to extend his heartfelt thanks to—people that includes the staffs of Paintsville school system, Paintsville Little League, and "people like Robert Baldwin, Bill Mike Runyon, Charlie Adkins, Walter Brugh, Leon Burchett and all the others who allowed me to be a part of coaching. It is a part of my life that I will always remember."

I have known Coach Brown, as well as Coach Lemaster, for the past four years. I have followed the Paintsville Big League team to the state finals and even onto the National tournament scene.

I can say without exception that these two men have done an extraordinary job in putting the Paintsville Big League among the elite in summer baseball.

The term terra cotta is Italian for "cooked earth.

When they put together a team, they went into Magoffin, Floyd, Johnson and Martin counties to find players that wanted to continue to

I have observed the two coaches during many games that I was fortunate to attend. I saw how they handled themselves professionally among the kids that made up the squad.

They earned respect from all who played for them down through the years. Many fine young men have come out of the program and went on to the next level of competition knowing that they can succeed because Coach Brown and Coach Lemaster taught them that they could.

I, for one, appreciate all that these two men have done for baseball in this area. They took it seriously, not just on the field, but in life as well. They taught these young kids that there was more than just baseball. They instilled in them pride and self Someone will take the helm again for the Big League teams. But he will have some pretty big shoes to fill.

The Paintsville Little League Association is now looking for a head coach for the Paintsville Big League team (players are ages 16-18). Anyone interested in the position should contact the Paintsville Little League board members.

Lemaster makes coaching debut with 5-4 win over Lee's College

Johnnie Lemaster, Pikeville College's new head baseball coach, made a successful debut this past week when his Bears defeated Lee's College 5-4 at the Charlie Adkins Field in Paintsville this past Tuesday.

Several players from Johnson, Floyd and Pike County graced the Pikeville College roster, a trend that he hopes to strengthen.

Lemaster's goal is to make Pikeville College the premier small college program in the tri-state area. He and his assistant Paul David Brown, intend to recruit Eastern Kentucky players very hard. Both coaches feel Eastern Kentucky is somewhat overlooked when it comes to baseball talent.

COUPON

DF

The fall season is primarily intended for conditioning and scrimmage games to allow coaches Lemaster and Brown an opportunity to get to know their players and to get their system in place. Pikeville will be losing 11 players after the spring season and Lemaster will hit the recruiting trail in May '95 in an attempt to attract the best players in the area to join the Pikeville program.

With Lemaster's 14 years of major league experience and his knowledge of the game, and with a new look for his team, the Bears could very well be one of the tri-state's best this coming season.

Green wins second annual Muscle Madness title

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Muscle Madness Bodybuilding Championships are in the history books and a local talent, Marty Green, took home first place in the event last Prestonsburg. John Rodney very impressive. McKinney, owner of the gym, said that the show was an overall success.

"Being we had to compete against the UK and UofL football game and the stock car racing that went on at Thunder Ridge, it was a good show," he said. "We still had a 100 spectators or more at the meet.'

Green, who has been working in bodybuilding for the past three and half years, competed in the event for the second time.

"I really enjoyed it," he said about his victory. "I had a good time and an enjoyable time."

Green works out at the Top Dog Gym and said that it was "the only place to work out."

"Rodney has great facilities here," he said. "It a good place to come and relieve stress. I enjoy it."

Green used to be an avid worker in the bodybuilding ranks but a job conflict took him away for a short period. He is now back and working hard to be a strong competitor.

"Right now I have no future plans," he said. But he hopes to be part of a team that McKinney is starting up to compete around the country.

"That's what I want to do next year," said McKinney. "We will go a round as a team and do other competitions representing the gym."

Randy Buriss, Prestonsburg, was a guest poser for the bodybuilding

"He stays in top condition," said McKinney, "and tonight was no exception. He is another one who trains at our gym."

The first division to enter the show's stage was the teenage division, Cody McClenahan of Kingsport, Tennessee, was runner-up to Joe Emerson of Louisville. Emerson had previously won the 16-17-year-old divsion at the Mr. Kentucky Bodybuilding Championships in Louis-

The only lady to enter the women's division of the event was Marie Lafferty and she was awarded first place. Lafferty, from Prestonsburg, also trains at the local gym.

Barboursville's Byron Hammonds took first place in the master's division, which is for men in the 35 and over division.

If the shallow brush is out of the water, use your senses or your depth finder to figure out where the bass have gone.

The same group of bass seldom show up in the exact same place twice. However, a new group will usually take the old one's place, given time. What separates the pros from other fishermen is knowing where to locate fish in between this time frame. When nature surprises us and our bass have had to pull out because of low water, they may have only moved 75 yards or so away. Many fishermen will give up and go look somewhere else when they don't find bass where they would like to find them or even where they expect to find them. A good bass angler will start looking for clues to tell them where the bass are.

You should begin by finding the first drop off from the edge of the current water level. Often bass will retreat with the water level and look for the first available cover or struc-

So when you find the water is low, use your imagination and let go of your favorite spot. You'll soon find the bass have just relocated and probably to some place very nearby.

Green, who is originally from Iowa, is an assistant principal at the David School.

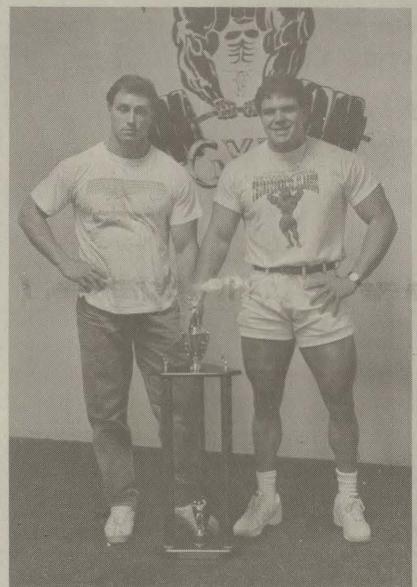

"We work hard here at the gym and in putting on the competition that we do," said McKinney. "The reason that we sponsor the show is to display our local talent. That way, no one has to go to Lexington or Louisville to see a show."

whistled for a late hit. A first down later, Ratliff again combined with Shutts for a 17-yard play, putting the ball at the 8-yard line with 1:43 re-

An injury to Pirate Jason Vance then stopped the game for several minutes. The delay was long enough that the officials allowed both te time to stretch again before play con-

Letton said the delay probably had an adverse effect on his team.

"We had a lot of momentum, and that took a little of the momentum away," he said. "As football players and as coaches, we've got to be mature enough and show enough character to keep the momentum alive.

"We've got to be able to step it back up and pick up where we left off," he said.

After a run lost 2 yards on first down, two incomplete passes set up a fourth-and-goal at the 10.

Ratliff dropped back to pass, but was chased from the pocket. He connected with Shutts, but the receiver was brought down at the 5-vard line by Bo Copley and Adam Eastwood, giving Belfry the ball on downs.

Letton said his receivers did as they were told.

"He did what he's been told to do. He did a good job of coming back to the ball," he said.

"We forced him about 15 or 20 yards deep, and even though we didn't sack him, he had to get rid of the ball, and we kept them in front of the end zone," Haywood said.

The Pirates ran the final seconds off the clock to preserve the win.

Unofficially, Belfry ran the ball 37 times for 124 yards. The Pirates completed seven of 11 passes for 110 yards.

Copley led the Pirates on the ground with 70 yards on 14 tries. Carroll caught five passes for 59 yards.

Prestonsburg gained 127 yards on 32 rushes. In the air, the Cats completed seven of 15 for 95 yards. Shutts caught five passes for 80 yards.

Letton said that he liked what he saw from both teams.

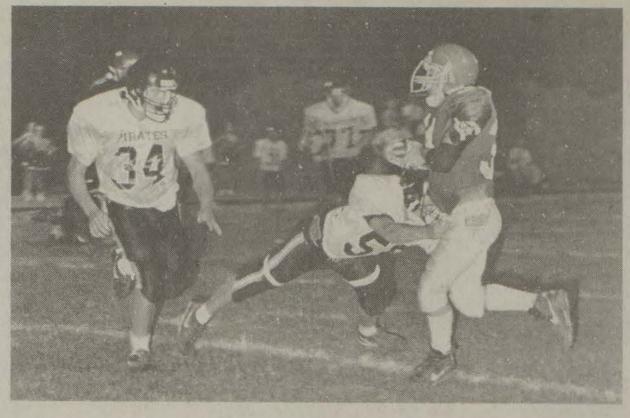

"I think both teams improved tonight," he said. "I think we improved and I thought Belfry looked a lot better tonight. So, if you try to find some positives out of a loss, I think we stepped up a notch. "We played our hearts out. I don't think there was any lack of effort out there by either team."

Haywood, too, was thrilled with the effort he received. "We played a little smarter and a little better this week," he said. "I felt they worked hard."

DEFINITION OF CLASS

Under the Settlement, Galecron® is defined as chlordimeform or any chlordimeform-containing product, either manufactured, formulated, packaged, distributed or sold by or on behalf of Ciba-Geigy Corporation or related parties, regardless of the trade name of the product; or any metabolite of Galecron®, including the substance known as 4-COT or 5-CAT.

The Settlement Class is defined as:

II. IMPORTANT MEDICAL NOTICE To Plant Workers, Formulators, Applicators and Other Covered Workers (as defined above):

You may have an increased risk of developing bladder cancer if you had on-the-job exposure to Galecron®. Workers exposed to Galecron® should participate in a medical monitoring program because early detection of bladder cancer can result in more effective treatment. As part of the Settlement, Ciba-Geigy has agreed to establish a medical monitoring program for the detection of bladder cancer for those individuals who do not exclude themselves from the lawsuit. Within six months, this program should be available free of charge to all Exposed Persons who do not exclude themselves

If you had on-the-job exposure to Galecron®, it is recommended that you or your doctor call 1-800-565-3126 to roll in the medical monitoring program.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF LITIGATION

On February 8, 1994, a class action lawsuit was filed against defendant, Ciba-Geigy Corporation ("Ciba-Geigy"), in Alabama State Court, which lawsuit was later removed to the United States District Court for the Southern District of Alabama. The Complaint, as amended, alleges that the Settlement Class as defined above is entitled to damages for medical monitoring and other compensation as a result of Exposed Persons' exposure to Ciba-Geigy has filed an Answer denying all essential allegations of the Complaint, and asserting affirmative legal defenses. The Court has decided that the case can proceed as a class action for purposes of settlement only. This does not mean that the Class Representatives would have been successful had the case gone to trial. The Court has made no such determination, and the proposed Settlement is not to be construed as an expression of any opinion by the Court as to the merits of any of the claims asserted against Ciba-Geigy.

IV. PROPOSED SETTLEMENT

A Settlement has been entered into between the Class Representatives, Class Counsel and Ciba-Geigy, which will resolve all past, present and future claims against Ciba-Geigy arising out of Exposed Persons' exposure to Galecron®. The Settlement provides for the establishment by Ciba-Geigy of two funds to provide medical benefits and compensation to Exposed Persons or their legal representatives

(1) The Medical Monitoring and Treatment Fund ("The MMT Fund"). If the Settlement is approved, Ciba-Geigy will make an initial deposit of $5,000,000 into the MMT Fund, and will thereafter make additional deposits on an as-needed basis. There is no limit to the amount of money Ciba-Geigy can be required to contribute over the life of this Fund.

The MMT Fund will pay for a medical monitoring program designed to detect at an early stage the form of bladder cancer alleged to be associated with Galecron®: specifically, primary urothelial carcinoma of the urinary collecting system i.e., renal pelvis, ureter, bladder and urethra. The MMT Fund also will pay for all medically necessary treatment not paid for by Medicare or Medicaid if the Exposed Person has been or in the future is diagnosed with such bladder cancer.

The MMT Fund will pay for medical monitoring to Exposed Persons for a period of 20 years, and will pay for medical treatment until one full year passes with no claims for treatment being filed but in no event less than 20 years. Ciba-Geigy will have no obligation to continue the medical monitoring and treatment program if the Settlement is not approved. Only Exposed Persons, i.e., eligible Plant Workers, Formulators, Applicators and Other Covered Workers, as defined in this Notice, will be entitled to medical monitoring and treatment.

The Disease Compensation and Administration Fund ("The DCA Fund"). If the Settlement is approved, Ciba-Geigy will also make an initial deposit of $30,000,000 into the DCA Fund. In addition to medical treatment paid for by the MMT Fund, the DCA Fund will make cash payments of up to $410,000, as set forth in more detail below, on behalf of an Exposed Person who, after exposure to Galecron®, has developed or in the future develops the form of bladder cancer alleged to be associated with Galecron®: specifically, primary urothelial carcinoma of the urinary collecting system, i.e., renal pelvis, ureter, bladder and urethra. Cash payments will vary depending upon the Exposed Person's age, smoking status and participation in the health screening program. For Exposed Persons who are nonsmokers and participants in the health screening program, the cash payments will be as follows: (a) $10,000 in the event of treatment involving an invasive procedure (this is a one-time payment regardless of the number of procedures); (b) up to $150,000 in the event of a radical cystectomy (bladder removal) with diversion of the urinary tract, which amount will decrease with a person's age to a minimum of $10,000 if the Exposed Person is 85 years or older, and (c) up to $250,000 in the event an Exposed Person's death is found to be caused by bladder cancer, which amount will decrease with age to a minimum of $17,500 if the Exposed Person is 85 years or older. An Exposed Person may collect separately for (a), (b) and (c) above, so that the maximum payment to an Exposed Person is $410,000. The cash payments described above will be reduced by 12.5% if the Exposed Person had smoked in the five years prior to diagnosis. A separate 12.5% reduction will be made if he or she had failed to participate in the health screening program in each of the three years prior to diagnosis (or in each year that the program was available, if less than three years). The DCA Fund also will pay $1,000 to any Exposed Person who was diagnosed with hemor rhagic cystitis within three months following exposure (this is a one-time payment regardless of the number of manifestations) In addition, the DCA Fund will pay for administrative costs, and class counsel's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses as determined by the Court. All cash payments from the DCA Fund are paid only on account of a compensable claim of an Exposed Person, i.e., an eligible Plant Worker, Formulator, Applicator or Other Covered Worker, as defined in this Notice. Cash payments to a spouse, parent, child or other relative will only be made if they are the legal representative of an Exposed Person.

The benefits of the DCA Fund will continue as long as the MMT Fund continues, or until the DCA Fund is exhausted as set forth below. Ciba-Geigy has agreed to pay up to a maximum of $45,000,000 for the benefits afforded by that Fund. If the DCA Fund is exhausted, Ciba-Geigy may continue paying for compensable claims. If Ciba-Geigy does not continue to pay, Settlement Class Members will be able to opt-out of the DCA Fund and will regain their right to pursue any legal claims they may have, except for claims for medical monitoring, medical treatment, fear of illness or cancer, or increased risk of illness or cancer, because medical monitoring and treatment will continue

(3) Other Conditions. The Stipulation of Settlement presently provides for medical monitoring, treatment and compensation payments for certain medical conditions set forth in this Notice. In the event, however, that a Court approved Epidemiology Panel determines to a reasonable medical certainty that any other medical condition is caused by Galecron® exposure. that condition will be deemed a compensable claim, and will be eligible for medical monitoring (if feasible); medical treatment; and cash payments. The cash payments will not exceed the maximum amounts payable for the covered medical conditions set

(4) Administrator. A nationally recognized entity or entities with substantial investment and medical claims administration experience will be appointed by the Court to administer the Settlement. The Administrator will determine whether a Settlement Class Member is eligible for benefits under the settlement. Any disputes concerning a Settlement Class Member's ntitlement to benefits will be resolved by a Medical Advisory Panel or by a single arbitrator, depending upon the issue in dispute. The decision of the Medical Advisory Panel or arbitrator each have the effect of an arbitration decision and shall be binding upon all parties, including the Settlement Class Member.

(5) Release. Settlement Class Members who do not exclude themselves from the Class release all past, present and future claims: (i) relating to the covered medical conditions listed above; and (ii) relating to an Exposed Person's exposure to Galecron®, including all claims alleging that any other cancers, personal injuries or risks are caused by exposure to Galecron®. This means that claims that Galecron® exposure caused any condition other than those medical conditions listed above will be released, but will receive no compensation or treatment, unless the Court approved Epidemiology Panel finds that such other condition is caused by Galecron® exposure. The release is effective as against Ciba-Geigy and certain additional releasees as defined in the Stipulation of Settlement, including Ciba-Geigy, Ltd., the parent of Ciba-Geigy.

If you believe you are a member of the Settlement Class, and have any questions regarding any of the benefits set forth above, you are urged to call 1-800-565-3126 for further in-

CLASS REPRESENTATIVES AND CLASS COUNSEL

The Court has designated the following Settlement Class Members, Russell W. Price, Leslie E. Hoven, Grady W. Brown, Jennie Ropp Brown, Jack Harley Woodward, Alta Woodward, Joe H. Bowman and Martha Annie Bowman, as class representatives to represent all Settlement Class Members. The Court has also designated as Class Counsel the following individuals: Timothy E. Eble; J. Cecil Gardner; Joseph J. McKernan; S.C.

Middlebrooks III; Charles W. Patrick, Jr.; and Patrick W. Pendley. The Class Representatives and Class Counsel believe that the proposed Settlement is fair, reasonable and adequate. Class Representatives and Class Counsel have entered into the proposed Settlement after weighing the substantial benefits against the probabilities of success or failure, and the long delays that would be likely if the case proceeded to trial.

There has been no agreement between the parties regarding attorneys' fees. At the fairness hearing, Class Counsel will request the Court to award attorneys' fees and reimbursement of costs and expenses, to be paid from the DCA Fund. Class counsel will request a percentage fee award not to exceed 20% of the benefit conferred on the class, half of which will be requested to be paid over a 4-year period while legal work continues.

The high school cross-country season got off to a big start this past Thursday at the Paintsville Lake where 11 schools gathered for com-

Allen Central's men's team placed second in the opening meet with the women placing third overall.

Annie Harvey and Dreama Isaac took the first and second positions in the women's division in competition which had 53 runners.

Harvey had a time of 19:28.87 for first place. Isaac ran a close second, finishing at 19:49.21. Both runners are sophomores at Allen Central.

Crystal Martin, a freshman, took the 16th position with a time of 24:42.85. Mary Baldridge was just nine seconds behind and finished with a time of 24:53.31. Heather Conley, a junior, finished 28th at 28:03.25.

Paintsville finished first in the meet with Prestonsburg taking second and Allen Central third.

Josh Patton ran in fifth place in the men's division out of 65 runners. Patton posted a time of 21:27.83.

Eighth place went to Mike Elzokari, a senior, with a time of 22:19.16. Shawn Amburgey, a freshman, was close behind and placed ninth overall at 22:25.08.

Jay Harvey finished 10th at 22:25.48. Other finishers were James Seward, 20th; Todd Howard, 21st; Sam Bentley, 28th and Brian Crawford, 30th.

Allen Central coach Dewey Jamerson was that pleased with the "We'll get better."

"We missed so much practice," he said. "While the times weren't all that bad, race-wise we just weren't ready.

"Our endurance level was under what we should have been," he said. "We're young and it showed." This past Saturday at Wildwood Park in Ashland, the Rebels were part of the Boyd County Invitational where several top state schools competed.

Allen Central's Patton finished 32nd overall with a time of 21:0947. Amburgey ran in 45th and Harvey placed 54th overall. Crawford was 68th and Bentley placed 70th overall.

"They had their eyes open at Boyd County," said Coach Jamerson. "Because of the caliber of the runners who were there.

"Our times were a little slower than at Paintsville. But not much," he

According to the Allen Central coach, Heartbreak Hill was just that to his runners.

"They gave shirts to the top runners that said 'I survived Heartbreak Hill," said Jamerson. "Some were just walking up it and then they would run the rest of the way. It was a tough course. We haven't really run any hills. We don't run any at Paintsville."

Annie Harvey placed 19th overall out of 53 women runners. Harvey had a time of 21:43.37. Isaac placed 26th overall and Martin came in 39th. Baldridge finished 45th.

ON FAITH AND FUNNIES

About four times a year I take time to clean out my attaché case. Mostly what's in it are old pieces of junk mail and clippings that people have given me, or I've gathered myself, in hopes a column idea might jump

It's kind of like panning for gold because, once in a while, I find a real nugget. Such is the case this time. And, unlike most of the randomly stuffed stuff inside my battered Samsonite companion, I remember exactly where I got this once.

The item in question is a July 3, 1994 church bulletin from Paintsville's First Baptist Church. It was brought to my office and handed to me personally by Jane Tackett, one of my old teaching buddies. Well, she used to be. That is to say, she still is, but

At the bottom of the second page, under the title, "Faith," was a two-paragraph item about something that occurred a hundred years ago, on August 20,

The story goes that on that date, during the Civil War, 14 Union prisoners locked in a cell in Georgia's Andersonville prison prayed that God would send them water. Upon completion of the prayer, a spring outside the prison broke loose and water began running through the walls. Quite naturally, the prisoners considered the stream, which according to

Clyde Pack

What makes this fascinating story even more special to us is that one of the 14 inmates was 23-year-old George W. Greene of Red Bush. He was the great-grandfather of Escom Chandler, Finetta Mullins and Ellis Hamilton of Paintsville; former Paintsville High teacher Jim Chandler, who now lives in Texas; Edra Hill of Flat Gap; Ford Hamilton of Red Bush; Reva Hutchinson and Ruby Caskey of West Liberty; and Emily Chandler Lyons of Salyersville. Another great-granddaughter, Merle Trent, lives in New Jersey.

According to Escom Chandler, Green was one of about 2300 prisoners of war being housed at Andersonville at that time.

Chandler remembers that he was about seven years old when Green first told him the story of the miracle of the spring.

According to the item in the church bulletin, Green died in 1923.

When I was a kid, a popular saying when departing friends was, "See ya in the funny papers." I've said it myself hundreds of times.

Little did I know that I'd someday live to fulfill that promise...a fact that if I'd known then would have scared me to death but now gives me a great

Paintsville to host first licensed dog show

by Polly Ward Times Feature Writer

Paintsville is the place to be this weekend if you are a

The Eastern Kentucky Kennel Club will be holding its first licensed American Kennel Club Conformation Point Show and Obedience Trial this Saturday and Sunday at Johnson Central fieldhouse and Central elementary gym-

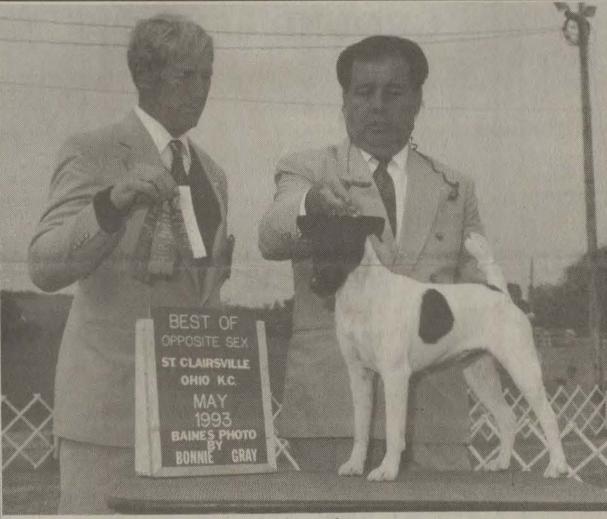

During the two-day affair, dog owners and handlers will be "putting on the dog," so to speak, in an effort to impress licensed AKC judges with their purebred canines with the goals of gaining points toward championships in conformation and high scores in obedience. The show and trial are the opening events of the Kentucky Apple Festival, and exhibitors from several states have entered their canines in the competitions.

There are 1,082 entries and 101 different breeds entered, representing purebred dogs from the seven major groups of dogs recognized by the American Kennel Club. Over 100 dogs have been entered in the obedience trial, according to Nathan Frisby, vice president of the Eastern Kentucky Kennel Club (EKKC) and chairman of the

The EKKC was formed seven years ago by Frisby and other dog lovers in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Pike and other counties in Eastern Kentucky. "It was founded for the public education concerning AKC purebred breeds," said Frisby, who lives at Staffordsville in Johnson County, and who also owns and shows Smooth Fox Terriers. "Our purpose is to promote the purebred dog and to educate people toward the knowledge of the different breeds. We also offer a referral service for those who want to buy a purebred dog from a (reputable) breeder, and we offer informative bulletins on the care of different breeds according to AKC standards."

The area the EKKC covers is east of Winchester to the Virginia border. "We have club members from Pike to Boyd County," Frisby said. "We have some in the Huntington, West Virginia area. Our base location is in Paintsville."

Since its first match seven years ago, the club has held other matches. The competitions were preliminaries to AKC sanctioned shows, and they served to train and educate club members about holding a licensed AKC show. "This is what we have worked for, for seven years," Frisby said about the licensed show. "We held our first fun match at Prestonsburg Community College seven years ago. It was very informal." The last seven years have been "a proving process, to show that we were responsible enough to go through the steps to hold matches" which award no points in conformation or obedience, Frisby said.

The "proving process" is over, and this weekend's show will be the real thing. Competitors will compete for points that eventually lead to championships.

Accordingly, the show will be more formal than those the club has held in the past. For one, a professional organization from Oklahoma that supervises dog shows throughout the United States will take care of all the paperwork and the handling of entries, Frisby said.

For another, "the judging is a lot more formal," Frisby said. "At matches, the judges are in training."

Floyd 4-H'ers excel at state judging contests

The 1994 State Fair broke records in attendance and many people from Floyd County were there to help.

Floyd County's Horticulture and Poultry Judging Teams represented Floyd County well. The Poultry Judging Team consisted of Chad Martin, Ethan Martin, Jessica Martin, Todd Howard, Nick Green, and Neil Fannin.

The students learned to judge the quality of poultry and also learned to use logic and reason to come to a conclusion. The students must also be able to tell why they judged the animals as they did.

Robbie Mayton, Floyd County 4-H Council member, assisted with the training of these young people as did Russell Sparks, Magoffin County agriculture agent.

The Floyd County Horticulture Team also did well at area and state competitions. Students learned to identify and judge the quality of plants, trees, fruits, and veg-

Ethan Martin was chosen Reserve Champion at the state contest, and Chad Martin will represent Floyd County and Kentucky at the national contest this year in Biloxi, Mississippi.

Floyd County has three active judging teams, Poultry, Horticulture, and Horse. If you are interested in becoming involved, contact Chuck Stamper, Floyd County 4-H Agent, at 886-2668 for more information.

HE'S GOT A WIFE THAT'S TOUGH TO TOP The two Easter egg hunters

They pushed, threw elbows and grabbed one another's arms as they scanned the grass and the nearby swing set for hints about where the blue, pink and yellow eggs might be.

As they caught sight of the same two eggs, one slammed the other into a fence.

"Are you OK?" asked the one who did the slamming, all the while pushing the other away from the

"Yes," the other said. "But I'm going to get those

You hate to see children act like this.

But these weren't our children.

It was my wife and me.

Our 5-year-old hid the Easter eggs for us, and the rest of the experience was, let's just say, a bit rough.

The result was even worse for me. She found more eggs than I did on two out of three hunts.

"I beat you!" she taunted. The truth hurts.

DUKING IT OUT

My wife really isn't crazy about seeing me lose. She just like to top me at any game she can. Not that I feel any different about her.

That kind of mutual caring is what a loving relationship is all about, you know.

Our rivalry goes back to our dating days before we got married 13 years ago. It's about bragging rights and getting your way.

But our way of competition haven't always been

Take the game of Risk, for instance. Risk is a board game in which the players try to take over the world, piece by piece.

It's a fun game to win, but you can see losing coming from a mile away. It's a slow, painful process and it's hard to make a comeback.

During one game I became so upset that I nearly broke my hand by slamming it against a table. In a game I was winning, her face became so red that I thought her head was going to blow off.

For health reasons, we've agreed never to play Risk with one another again.

Too risky.

We have no agreements on other endeavors.

I would probably be better off if we did.

We went fishing a while back and I did a lot of trash talking about my prowess with a pole.

But when we closed the tackle box for the last time, there wasn't much I could say. She caught the most fish, the biggest fish of the day and the biggest fish with the smallest worm. When the NCAA basketball tournament rolled around this year, we predicted the teams that would win and assigned points to each winning team.

I know far more about basketball than she does. But she had whipped me by 20 points at tournament's end.

SHE HOLDS THE CARDS

Even when I win, I can't win with her.

I usually thrash her when it comes to playing the card game of rummy. She gets so mad at me that she won't play most of the time.

And I usually wish she hadn't when we finally deal

"You've got that smirk again," she'll say.

"What smirk?" I ask, honestly having no clue what she's talking about.

"You're winning and you're laughing at me about it," she says.

"But I'm not laughing at you. I'm not even smiling," I'll say.

"No, but you're dying to do it. I can tell," she says. Before I can make another point, a card hits me in the head.

Then another.

She's throwing in her hand-right at my head. "I quit," she'll say. "Just leave me alone."

What am I supposed to do but duck? I could have my mouth taped shut with two-inchwide black tape and she'd still say I'm wearing that smirk, whatever that is.

Besides, I wasn't smirking the last time we played.

She beat me. I need to figure out a way to get on the winning side again, regain my edge. Maybe I'll find some misplaced confidence along

When a child is experiencing it, imagine how scared they must be.

They need kind, considerate, caring, calming individuals to help them through this awful experience.

And the teachers, Joy Wells, Bridgette Clay, Robin Nairn, principal Gwen Harmon, and secretary Sharon Watkins at Prestonsburg Elementary are exceptional.

I can't express gratitude enough for their kindness with my child. I can only hope that other schools, teachers, principals and, yes, even coaches have the same considerate caring, calming individuals around other children who suffer from asthma.

Taking for granted (which none of us should ever do) that you missed News of the Weird Friday. Guess, if you dare, what sport sent 1,455 people to emergency rooms in 1992.

Part 4

I have to share a couple of situations that a very, very dear friend of mine has experienced.

Her name will be withheld due to the fact that I want to continue to live.

The first episode occurred when she and her husband (newlyweds) exited the airplane after their arrival in Mexico.

"Honey," she leaned to whisper, "have you ever in your life seen so many Mexicans?"

I promise it's true!

Then as the cab pulled up to take these newlyweds to their motel my friend, bouncing into the cab, instructed the driver, "San-yaz-a-door, please."

The driver looking puzzled, Mexican of course, said "Excuse

"San-yaz-a-door Motel," my friend repeated.

"You mean Sanyesadro (Sansay-dro)?" the driver asked, looking puzzled. "Whatever," my friend said.

"Just get us there." Then as if nothing she could ever do would top that trip, she did it. Just last week this very friend was given two model numbers of car parts and a telephone number to order them for her husband.

Being the good wife she is, she made the call.

Just as the lady answered something caught my friend's attention and she hurriedly asked to be connected with the parts department. A gentleman answered, "May I help

Stop smoking program

Do you know someone who would like to become a nonsmoker? Even people who have smoked heavily for years can quit by following the Cooper/Clayton method to stop smoking, which is now available through the McDowell ARH.

The program was developed ten years ago at the University of Kentucky by Thomas Cooper, D.D.S., and his colleague, Richard Clayton, Ph.D., an expert on drug addiction. The Cooper/Clayton method combines the use of a nicotine patch or gum with 24 weeks of group session.

The patch or gum allows the smoker to gradually reduce his or her intake of nicotine, dramatically decreasing the discomfort and withdrawal symptoms of quitting cold turkey. By following this program, Dr. Cooper, a heavy smoker for 36 years, quit for good.

The Cooper/Clayton plan helps smokers change their behavior. Smokers have developed patterns of smoking, such as a cigarette first thing in the morning, or during breaktime, or whenever they're nervous.

The Cooper/Clayton plan acknowledges that nicotine patches or gum alone are not enough. Unless smokers change their tobacco behaviors, they're not likely to break their tobacco habits. Therefore, in addition to using a nicotine supplement such as the nicotine patch or gum, participants in the Cooper/Clayton method attend support group sessions with other smokers throughout the program, and learn how to live without tobacco.

Fall planting tips for springtime blossoms Kim's

for raking leaves, carving pumpkins, hay rides, and football games, autumn is also the best time for planting flowering bulbs. Planted during fall, in flower beds, rock gardens, along a hedge or fence, or in the lawn, bulbs are a great way to add a splash of color to any landscape.

Easy to plant and cultivate, bulb blossoms will thrive next spring if they are given a hospitable growing environment and are properly groomed this fall for winter dormancy. Bulbs should also be protected from foraging animals by soaking them in a repellent, such as Ro-Pel Bulb Protector, prior to planting.

Bulb Varieties

The most difficult part of planting spring-flowering bulbs is choosing from among the hundreds of species and hybrids available. Some of the most sought after varieties include:

Tulips-The most popular of all spring flowering bulbs, tulips offer gardeners a wide range of choices in height, color, shape and bloom time.

Narcissus-More commonly referred to as daffodils, this winterhardy flower comes in many shapes and colors. These bulbs develop extensive root systems in fall and provide better flowering results in colder climates.

Muscari-Nicknamed the "Grape Hyacinth," these tiny, bright purple flowers multiply quickly and re-

Stephanie is trophy winner

Stephanie Lasha Gibson, two-yearold daughter of Thomas and Vada Gibson of Prestonsburg won five trophies in the Kentucky Coal Pageant in Pikeville September 11. She was awarded trophies in the categories of Most Beautiful, Best Dressed, Best Portfolio, and Beauty and a first runner-up trophy for Sportswear. She is the granddaughter of Bucky and Patty Collins of Prestonsburg, and Deanna and Charles Martin of Hueysville.

Traditionally considered a time semble bunches of upturned grapes. Flowers stay in bloom for one to ered, spray the blossoms with Ro-Pel three weeks and thrive in sun or shade. They are an excellent choice for bor- and rabbits from chewing on flowers > Chiondoxa-Commonly known as "Glory-of-the-Snow," this spring flower blooms in loose clusters of white, blue or pink, and can vary from three to 10 inches in height. This bulb type is an ideal plant for borders and rock gardens.

Planting tips

Whether they are planted individually or in groups, spring-flowering bulbs will thrive and flourish if you follow these few simple planting procedures:

Prepare the Soil-Once the planting bed has been selected, turn the soil over to a depth of about 10 inches to aerate the site and give bulb roots ample room to grow. Quick to rot if left in standing water, spring-flowering bulbs flourish best in light, well-drained soil. Where necessary, condition soil with fertilizer as required.

Plant at Proper Depth-Using a bulb planter or trowel to dig holes, the general rule of thumb is to plant bulbs to a depth of three times their overall height. With the soil removed to the required depth, lightly press bulbs into place, bottom side down (the flat side is the bottom), return the soil, and water thoroughly.

Remember, if bulbs are planted too shallow the freezing and thawing of surrounding soil may interrupt their dormant phase, permanently damaging root systems and limiting your chance of bright, healthy blossoms.

Protect Against Pests-Bulbs are a tasty treat for many hungry creatures, such as mice, moles, squirrels and chipmunks. To keep these animals from making a restaurant out of your garden, soak each bulb for a minute, prior to planting, in Ro-Pel Bulb Protector, a safe and effective animal repellent that works on the principle of aversive taste. Non-hazardous and ecologically-sound, Ro-Pel will give any bulb-feasting creature a "bitter" reminder that this property is off limits.

To ensure that hungry animals don't return to feed, Ro-pel is also formulated with a mild medicinal tag scent. After one or two visits to your garden, animals quickly associate the odor with the subsequent vile taste in their mouth. As a result, raccoons, chipmunks, squirrels and other animals can be literally "trained" to leave your garden alone and move on to someone else's garden.

Beverly Carroll

Last week we applauded the many friends senior citizens have in our five-county area. We know that this newspaper, the Floyd County Times, is our friend. It is because of the concern of this newspaper that we are able to read Sunshine Lines every

We know that WPRG-TV 5 at Harold is a friend to senior citizens. Because of its interest in our welfare we are able to watch a program especially produced for us, called Senior Citizen Spotlight.

We know that WZLK/WLSI Radio and Commodore Griffith are our friends. The Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens has been highlighted on Mr. Griffith's show, Salute to Senior Citizens, many times.

Today we are going to talk about another set of friends, friends separate and apart from those of the media. We are going to talk about volun-

At one time or another we have all been volunteers. We may not have thought of ourselves as a volunteer when we were fulfilling a self-appointed obligation but that is exactly what we were. We choose to perform a certain duty without expectation of being paid to do it. Sunday School teachers are volunteers. Homeroom mothers are volunteers. People who donate their time and talents so that others can benefit are volunteers. We have people who volunteer in hospitals, nursing homes, learning centers, prisons, senior citizen centers, adult daycare centers, schools, churches, clinics, health departments, fire departments, police departments, business offices and organizations throughout the nation.

No one appreciates a volunteer more than the person or organization served by a volunteer or a team of volunteers. Even our government seemed to be lax in understanding the vital and important role volunteers could fill in virtually all facets of our society. Happily that attitude is changing. Today more and more incentives are offered to volunteers and to those businesses and organizations—public and private-who utilize them. Now that the government has learned what an asset volunteers can be, and how volunteers can do things for people that the government cannot afford to do because of lack of resources, they now encourage the programs they fund to utilize volunteers.

The Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens is funded with federal and state monies. And, guess what? That funding allows for very few paid employees. But that same funding has worked into its budget, two-day state-wide training seminars where it picks up the lodging, meals, and travel expenses of qualified volunteers. Why does the government offer this if funds are so limited? They have learned that volunteerism is a good investment. What they pay out is far cheaper than if they had to pay employees to perform the same services. The fact is that our government cannot afford to hire employees to do all the work that needs to be done. They have learned that volunteers are the answer to many of our social, psychological, and economic woes. Volunteers are feet, hands, heads, hearts, voices, and compassionate shoulders that money, or lack or it, can't buy. The Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens was designed thinking success depended on a strong volunteer program.

Senior citizens, we need volunteers. We are looking for volunteers from age 18 to 88. We only ask that a volunteer agree to donate 8 hours a month to this program. If one wants to work 20 hours that could probably be arranged. We try to match the volunteer's job to his or her interests and we try to locate our volunteers in areas close to their homes.

Our program provides free training, mileage and any long-distance telephone calls that have been preauthorized. We want volunteers in the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program to help us help you get what is legally and rightfully yours.

If you are interested in learning more about volunteering for the KBCP call me at 886-3876 or 1-800-556-3876. Our program needs you. Our senior citizens need you!

If you are interested in volunteering in numerous other aspects, and would like to help fill a need in this five-county area, I encourage you to call Stephanie Marshall, coordinator of volunteers, Big Sandy Area Development District at 886-2374.

Our volunteers are our special angels. They help to do for others what the system cannot afford to do. They do for others what would be left undone if our volunteers did not exist. We cannot thank our volunteers enough. We do beg for more. Our people in Eastern Kentucky need you!

Pizza possibilities from the American Cancer Research

Pizza is one of the best-loved foods in America and it can be one of the most nutritious. A single, modest serving of pizza provides at least 26 percent of the daily recommended intake of protein, 28 percent of the calcium, 10-22 percent of B vitamins, and 15 percent of vitamin A.

Although some commercial pizzas get up to 32 percent of calories from fat, you can make wholesome, delicious pizzas at home using fresh, lower fat ingredients. It's as easy as

If you have the time and inclination, you can make a whole-wheat pizza crust, but frozen pizza dough and pre-cooked shells like bobolis are available in most stores. You can also use plain bagels, pita pocket bread, English muffins, French bread, Scandinavian flatbreads or even matzohs as a foundation. The real key to nutritious pizza is picking the right

Take a lowfat approach to cheese, using part-skim mozzarella or other reduced-fatcheeses. Or, you can skip the cheese altogether and brush your pizza shell with a little olive oil before adding vegetable toppings.

Almost any vegetable is delicious on pizza. Make a ratatouille pizza with eggplant, bell pepper, garlic, tomatoes and Italian herbs. Or, sample a Mexican pizza with corn and mild green chilies (with salsa and a bit of shredded Monterey Jack cheese). For a gourmet pizza, top with asparagus, marinated artichoke hearts, red pepper, tomato sauce and a sprinkling of crumbled blue cheese.

PIZZA POSSIBILITIES

Meat adds a lot of fat to pizza, so lighten up on the traditional pepperoni and Italian sausage. Instead, use chicken, turkey or lean ground beef. Shrimp also makes a delicious lowfat pizza topping.

Deep-Dish Vegetable Pizza makes a nutritious and very filling meal.
