Brackett, Honshell stay, Smith loses seat :

Two incumbents win, one loses in school vote

Wilcox

Brackett

Honshell

After two decades of representation by the same board member, Floyd County's school District 1 will soon have its third new face in four years.

In a runaway vote Tuesday, Auxier resident Ursal Ray Wilcox captured the District 1 seat from appointee Dolores Smith, who was named to the board last year by Education Commissioner Thomas Boyesen to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Eddie Billips. Four years ago, Billips upset longtime board chairman Dr.

James D. Adams for the seat.

Wilcox drew 62 percent of the district vote Tuesday, beating Smith by a 1,387 to 862 vote total.

Two other incumbents fared better Tuesday, with current board chairman Ray Brackett winning easily in District 2, and Phyllis Honshell turning back a late surge in District 5.

Brackett, a former Floyd County Schools superintendent, earned a four-year term by beating Janie Bailey-

Bamer by a 1,489 to 633 vote margin in District 2.

Honshell will serve the two years remaining in the unexpired term of former board member Hattie Owens in District 5. Owens resigned her seat in January to take a job with county government. On Tuesday, Honshell got 55 percent of the district vote, beating challenger Paul J. Branham by a 947 to 767 vote margin.

A complete, precinct-by-precinct report will be published Friday.

Gee-Oh-Pete!

Hal Rogers writes history with win in Floyd County

Rogers sweeps Floyd...

U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers rewrote Floyd County's political history books Tuesday, riding an unprecedented 3 to 1 vote margin to an equally unprecedented win.

Rogers, a Somerset Republican, apparently became the first GOP candidate ever to carry heavily Democratic Floyd County in a congressional election. He is the first Republican to win any general election race in the county since the mid-1950s, when Gorman Collins Sr. was elected sheriff.

Depending on the outcome of other national races, Rogers re-election in Kentucky's 5th Congressional District could prove to be a double blessing for his Eastern Kentucky constituents. The win guarantees Rogers will retain his seat on a powerful House appropriations committee and the possibility of a Republican majority in the House after Tuesday's vote could mean a chairmanship of that committee for Rogers.

In Floyd County Tuesday, voters gave Rogers a plurality in all of the county's 41 precincts. He beat Democratic challenger Walter "Doc" Blevins, of West Liberty, by a 7,036 to 2,729 vote total.

District-wide, Rogers was declared the winner by news organizations shortly after the polls closed at 6 p.m.

The 1994 vote was the second for Rogers in the realigned 5th District, which was created when the state's 7th Congressional District was eliminated, the victim of population declines statewide.

Floyd County and other parts of the old 7th district were combined with old parts of the state's 5th District to form the new 5th. Rogers lost the Floyd County vote in the 1992 race to Democrat John Doug Hays, a Pikeville lawyer, but won the seat in a district-wide tally.

Just 10,724 of Floyd County's 29,205 registered voters cast ballots Tuesday.

Constitutional Question

Floyd County voters also gave their approval Tuesday to a constitutional amendment which requires local governments to operate under balanced budgets.

The question drew 3,312 "yes" votes and 2,359 "no" votes to pass in the county by a 58 percent to 42 percent margin.

Fewer than half of the voters casting ballots Tuesday voted on the constitutional question.

Statewide, the amendment appeared headed toward adoption late Tuesday by a slight margin.

With 91 percent of the state's precincts counted, "yes" votes held a 37,000 vote margin.

Making history

Members of the May family signed a five-year lease with the City of Prestonsburg on Monday, November 7, giving the city their family home, the May House. Also on hand for the signing were Lt. Governor Paul Patton, Representative Greg Stumbo and Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin. The house will be deeded to the city if an ISTEIA grant is awarded to the Friends of the May House for repairs to the home. Rep. Stumbo announced to the gathering that he had received a commitment from Gov. Jones' administration that the project would be given priority if the home qualified. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Principal must be reinstated to post

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County Circuit Judge has ruled that a former school principal demoted to a homebound teacher should be reinstated to his position and receive back pay and benefits.

Judge Paul Burchett ruled last week that former Adams Middle School principal Thomas Tackett was wrongfully demoted to a teacher and should be reinstated as an administrator in the school system.

Cliff Latta, attorney for the Floyd County Board of Education, said Tuesday that he will recommend to board members that the decision be appealed.

Tackett was demoted to a homebound teacher two years ago by interim Floyd superintendent Eldon Smith on grounds that Tackett's "effectiveness in managing the school is detrimental to the system."

Smith decided on May 14, 1992 to demote Tackett, one day before the May 15 deadline established by state law for demoting a tenured teacher. State law also requires that specific reasons be given for a demotion.

Judge Burchett ruled that Smith's reasons for demoting Tackett were not specific and that Smith did not notify Tackett by the May 15 deadline. Smith sent the demotion letter to Tackett by certified mail on May 15, but it was not received by Tackett until May 16.

Burchett ruled that Tackett be reinstated as an administrator but not at Adams Middle School because there is a principal in place at that school. Tackett is to also receive any lost fringe benefits and retirement benefits since the demotion.

Caudill takes race for judge; Combs does too

District Judge Danny Caudill will take a step up the judicial ladder in Floyd County after posting a decisive victory Tuesday in a race for circuit judge.

Caudill will serve out the five years remaining in the unexpired term of the late Judge Harold Stumbo, who died in January. Caudill beat challenger Paul Burchett in balloting Tuesday.

Burchett was appointed to the seat earlier this year by Governor Brereton Jones.

In Tuesday's vote, Caudill drew 65 percent of the votes cast in the judicial race, outdistancing Burchett by a 6,508 to 3,537 vote total.

Caudill's election Tuesday will create a vacancy in the district court bench. That vacancy will likely be filled by an appointee, who will serve until another special election can be held next November.

In another judicial contest, this one with a district-wide impact, Sara Combs appeared to be the likely winner of a race for an unexpired term on the state's Court of Appeals.

Combs, the widow of former Governor Bert T. Combs, has served on the appellate bench since January.

Area ROTC units to mark Vets' Day

Approximately 1,000 Junior ROTC students from high schools in several Eastern Kentucky counties will march in review at Veteran's Island, Jenny Wiley State Park to commemorate Veteran's Day.

ROTC students from Floyd, Lawrence, Pike and Magoffin county high schools will participate in the 45-minute ceremony Friday, November 11.

when she was appointed to fill a vacancy created by the election of Janet Stumbo, of Prestonsburg, to the Kentucky Supreme Court.

Stumbo beat Combs last November in the race for the Supreme Court seat.

In Floyd County Tuesday, Combs easily turned back a challenge from attorney Stephen L. Hogg, winning 78 percent of the vote here. Combs drew 6,622 votes to Hogg's 1,847 in Floyd County.

In other voting Tuesday, Mary Beth Stephens and Curtis W. Tufts were officially selected for two seats on the Wayland City Commission. Stephens and Tufts were the only candidates for the two unexpired terms in that race.

Also, State Representatives Greg Stumbo, in the state's 95th District; and newcomer Donnie Newsome, in the 92nd District, were officially elected to two-year terms.

County ethics code gets first look by fiscal court

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County may enact an ethics code soon, but Floyd Countians may never know if its provisions are enforced.

Under the county's proposed ethics code—unveiled for the first time Friday, less than two months before the January 1995 deadline—calls for all allegations made against county officials or employees to be kept secret. The accused, the accuser or the county's ethics commission cannot disclose the existence of a preliminary investigation into any allegations of violations of the code. Also, there is no provision to make a public disclosure of the disposition of a complaint.

The county's ethics code was presented at a special fiscal court meeting Friday and there was no discussion on the contents of the document.

Earlier this year, state legislators passed a law that requires county and city officials to enact an ethics code by January 1995, but lawmakers left the specifics of such a code up to elected officials.

Floyd County's code calls for a seven-member ethics commission to be made up of persons recommended by the county-judge executive and approved by the fiscal court.

There is no criteria for selecting commission members other than only one member may be a public official. Also, members may not serve more than four years on the commission.

The commission will be responsible for investigating alleged violations of the ethics code, but the code does not outline any specific timeline for making a final determination concerning the alleged violations.

After the commission receives a complaint, it has 10 days to initiate a preliminary inquiry into the alleged violation. Within 30 days after the beginning of the inquiry, commissioners shall notify the person accused of a violation.

After that, the commission, if it

Jail time approved; new courthouse is back on the agenda

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County's Fiscal Court voted Friday to adopt an ordinance which allows jail time for people who do not pay their garbage bills. The court also voted to proceed with plans to build a new courthouse.

Magistrates approved second reading of an ordinance requiring mandatory participation in the county's solid waste program which calls for criminal charges and penalties, including up to 90 days in jail, for those who do not pay their monthly bills.

Magistrate Tommy Neil Adams said it was not the court's intention to jail those who do not pay their bills, but added that it is not fair that everyone not pay their garbage bill.

"First, the fiscal court is not trying to put people who can't pay their debts in jail," Adams said. "Our obligation with Rumpke is to get something set up for those if they can pay, that it be mandatory to pay. It's not set out to put people in jail. We want people of Floyd County to know that it's mandatory by state and county government that everybody has to participate."

County Attorney Jim Hammond told the court that the county had the right to levy criminal penalties because the ordinance relates to the health and welfare of Floyd Countians.

Hammond added that if anyone felt there was a flaw in the county's authority, the issue could be settled in a "judicial setting." Hammond commented that the situation was similar to the county's authority to create its own police department to ensure that the health and welfare of the county was protected.

The ordinance was one of the county's obligations in a contract signed with Rumpke of Kentucky to provide door-to-door garbage collection. Rumpke officials have been concerned that collection rates have been below 50 percent since it took over the garbage pick-up service on July 1.

In other business Friday, court members were swayed to change their minds somewhat on a proposal to build a new courthouse.

Last Monday, court members balked at approving a $15 million proposal to building a new facility to house the county's judicial offices and county government offices.

On Friday, Harry Hoffman, director of facilities for the state's Administrative Offices of Courts, suggested to magistrates that they approve the most expensive proposal with an option that they can downsize the project at any time. AOC has over $6 million budgeted for a new judicial facility in Floyd County and the county would have to issue bonds for any costs over AOC's budget.

Hoffman suggested that plans for the new facility could proceed and magistrates could also look at renovating the old courthouse to rent out as office space.

Magistrates appeared deadset against anything other than committing to AOC's $6 million project coming into Friday's meeting, but decided to go for the $15 million project provided it did not commit them to it.

County Attorney Jim Hammond told magistrates if they went with building just two floors for AOC's needs, the county would have to come up with $1.2 million to reduce the county's bond indebtedness. Hammond said if the magistrates opted for the $15 million project, the county would not have to have "a down payment" to proceed with the plan.

Hoffman said that it would take approximately $1.3 million to renovate the existing courthouse and when county offices were moved into a new facility, the old facility could be leased out for office space.

Part of the parking problem in downtown Prestonsburg could be alleviated with the city's plan to buy additional property for parking where Whitten's Taxi stand is located, Hammond said.

The county padded the new jail project by $1 million to have funds to buy Prestonsburg's municipal parking lot for $375,000, which is to be the site for the courthouse facility.

Adams first suggested Friday that the county could use those extra funds to reduce the bond indebtedness in order to go ahead with AOC's part of the project.

Hammond told the court that bonding agent Terrell Ross had misled the court at Monday's special meeting by saying that $1 million in excess funds was in the jail project because part of that money was to be used to buy Prestonsburg's parking lot and that $625,000 left after the purchase was obligated for other purposes.

Adams asked what the $625,000 was to be used for, but Hammond did not explain.

County officials are scheduled to meet with AOC representatives in Frankfort (today) Wednesday to discuss the project.

Patton calls for patience in job market campaign

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Eastern Kentucky can compete in the battle for new jobs, Lt. Governor Paul Patton said Monday, but the region must be patient in the fight.

Patton, a former Pike County Judge-Executive who is expected to announce his bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination this week, was the keynote speaker Monday for a public affairs forum sponsored by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce at the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg.

With economic development as the focal point of the forum, Patton suggested that success in that arena depended on three things.

"Education, education and education," he said.

Until the region improves its skill levels, Patton said "low-skilled people will be doing low-skilled jobs or they will be on welfare. That's a fact."

"We need medium wage jobs to provide employment for all," he added.

But the Lt. Governor, who served the first part of his term in the dual role as the state's Secretary for Economic Development, suggested there was hope for the region's job development dreams.

"Now, for the first time ever, we have the tools to solve our problems," Patton said.

Those tools include KERA, the Kentucky Education Reform Act, and funding resources provided by coal severance taxes.

"KERA ensures our children equal access to adequate educations," Patton said. Coal severance taxes will allow the region to develop sites for industry interested in relocating.

"We have most of the things we need," Patton said, "but we need to have patience. With committed local and state leadership and 20 years, we can build a new economy for Eastern Kentucky. But we must stay the course. If we stay the course, we will have a better Eastern Kentucky."

WinterCare fund gets big boost from utility refunds

On behalf of Kentucky Utilities Company customers, KU Vice President Gary Blake, presented a check for more than $38,000 to Jack Burch, president of the WinterCare Energy Fund. The money will help low income families and individuals pay their winter heating bills.

KU encouraged its customers to donate refunds they received from a coal contract dispute to WinterCare. In July through September alone, KU customers' donations increased 443 percent from the same period of 1993. WinterCare also received more than $11,000 in direct donations.

WinterCare supplements other forms of energy assistance to low-income families statewide. Funded by private donations, utility customers contribute to WinterCare by adding a donation when paying their utility bill to the 26 participating utility companies.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Shed a little more light, please

by Scott Perry

After a quick look at the county's proposed code of ethics, we can see at least three areas that need some polishing.

First, the code makes no mention in its section concerning financial disclosure for public officials of out-of-state holdings or interests.

As we have seen from the recent fuss over the state lottery and the connections state official L. Rogers Wells had with out-of-state companies servicing the lottery board, those ties need to be made public.

Secondly, the commission proposed for hearing ethics related claims is to include seven members. The county's proposed code suggests that one of those commission members may be an elected county official.

Whatever for?

The ethics board should be as diverse and non-partisan as possible so that ethics complaints can be heard through unbiased ears.

Having a member of the political power structure in one of the chairs could taint the process and create the potential for political retribution against those who might bring complaints.

And that brings us to our final concern for the moment. Conducting hearings in secret might be appropriate for weeding out trivial or politically inspired complaints, but the public ought to be privy to those that have merit.

If the ethics board can operate in total secrecy, what's the point of having an ethics board or an ethics code at all?

The purpose of the code is to assure the voting public that their officials are operating on the up and up.

If they're in the dark, then so are we.

If they're in the dark, then so are we.

If they're in the dark, then so are we.

Questions answered in mobile home fire

Editor:
We, the members of the Left Beaver Rescue Squad and Volunteer Fire Department would like to express our feelings toward the article published last week by the family of the late Larry Collins. We certainly want to comfort the family and answer any questions they ask regarding our response and observations of the fire.

First, the call reporting the fire was received at 6:30 p.m., the fire department left station #2 at 6:35 p.m. and arrived at the scene at 6:50 p.m. Secondly, it had been raining very hard that evening and the road was treacherous due to the buildup of water, mud, and oil. In fact, our captain was involved in a car wreck en route to the fire. Therefore, we were very cautious traveling up the narrow Frasure's Creek road, in those large fire trucks, to assure motorists or others were safe. The response time to the mine site on Frasure's Creek was a different situation; it was planned for several weeks, many county agencies were involved, everyone was there waiting for the call, everyone knew the exact location, and weather conditions were favorable. Anyone who has experience in providing emergency service will tell you that 20-30 minutes is a great response time for a volunteer fire department. We made the run in 20 minutes, with 2 fire trucks, a tanker, a rescue truck, two ambulances, and nineteen members. When we arrived the trailer was fully engulfed in flames.

The members of the Left Beaver Rescue Squad are not paid for their service; we donate many hours of our time so our communities will be safer. Our members donate time for extensive training in fire fighting; January 1993-September 1994 we received 270 hours training, and attended 106 continuing education classes in an effort to become more educated and experienced. During the same period of time we responded to 81 car wrecks and 64 fire runs, without receiving any monetary compensation for our work.

The Rescue Squad and Fire Department was not involved in the subsequent investigation by the coroner's office. Information we receive after the fire is public record to which the family has access.

We hope this information is some consolation to the family and their situation. It certainly is tragic to lose a loved one in this manner, that is why we continue to try to do our best as a volunteer fire department.

Hopefully helping,

Left Beaver Rescue and Fire Department members
Fred Rife, co-captain

The residents of Town Center and The Town Center Group would like to say thank-you to the Beaver Creek Grass Music For All Occasions.

The band provided good clean entertainment for the residents involved. The music was enjoyed on two different occasions October 19 and November 2. A great big thank-you to all the guys in the band.

The law should be applied equally

Editor:
It is apparent that "strict compliance with the law" applies only to Kentuckys' poor. For politicians, apparently substantial compliance is good enough for a good ole boy. And just as important—when a part of the state constitution bothers one of our beloved politicians—that part becomes "obscure and unenforceable" and thus does not apply to them.

However, the concept of substantial compliance might prove to be a windfall for Kentucky's poor people. If a creeker bought insurance the day after being caught driving without it—would that be substantial compliance? Why not—if it works for judges and such? Say a creeker gets caught for drunk driving—but could establish that he drove sober most of the time—would that get him off the hook under substantial compliance. We all know the answer to these questions as we know only too well how the law is applied to Kentucky's poor. Our beloved politicians are only held accountable in federal courts—never in county or state courts. It is indeed a great shock that the Supreme Court of Kentucky would rule against the good ole boys.

Columnist hurt by cancellation of her column

Editor:
First of all, I ask that this letter be printed out of fairness, if nothing else.

On October 24, Mr. Scott Perry telephoned me to inform me that my column, Kim's Korner, would be on "hold" (quote, unquote) until he was able to reach his insurance people to see if he was liable for what was said in my column.

When I asked how long that might take, I was told, "I don't know." On October 26, the issue to appear after Mr. Perry removed my column, I received seven telephone calls before 9 a.m., from readers telling me, when they phoned the newspaper to ask where Kim's Korner was, they were told the column had been canceled due to problems it had caused in the past.

Imagine my surprise. "Canceled," I was hearing, after Mr. Perry had told me I was being placed on hold.

Let's see, hold, in Webster's Dictionary, means to take and keep as in ones hand; to grasp.

Canceled, however, means to invalidate or annul.

Then, I was approached by some, who had spoken to Mr. Perry, himself, and they told me, my column was suspended.

Okay, suspended in Webster's Dictionary means to bar from a privilege for a certain time, as a means of punishment. Punishment is exactly what I feel, too!

Why I'm being punished I have yet to figure out. Could it be for expressing freedom of speech just like Mr. Perry himself in his own

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Now that the election is over, we can get down to the real business at hand which, of course, is the next election.

For the next seven months we'll be hearing from the various and sundry candidates for governor, who'll tell us their primary opponents aren't worth beans.

Then, after the May vote narrows the race down to two, the primary losers will rally 'round their party's choice and tell us that, while he may have been a poor choice to begin with, he's still better than the other party's guy, who really, really isn't worth beans.

When it's all said and done, we usually discover that they're all full of beans, but we end up with the indigestion.

How do you spell relief, anyhow?

Lt. Governor Paul Patton, who by the time you read this will be gubernatorial candidate Paul Patton, never fails to impress us with his grasp of the issues relating to economic development in Eastern Kentucky.

Patton has a knack for taking the complexities surrounding job development in the mountains and making them easy to understand.

There are three key elements, Patton noted this week, to successful job development in Eastern Kentucky...

Education.

Education.

Education.

Can't argue with that, but we might differ on the Lt. Guv's suggestion that "patience" is also a virtue in the battle to employ more of our folks.

We tend to think we've waited long enough and it's high time we started doing more to win the war.

Despite the "sex sells" theme the U.S.

entertainment industry has adopted as its poster child, a recent survey suggests America isn't the Sodom and Gomorrah we've made it out to be.

The survey suggests, in fact, that most folks are pretty conservative about the sex thing and that we don't spend most of our waking hours trying to steam up our car windows.

The surveyors said nothing, though, on whether our society is as violent as it is portrayed, but that's probably just as well.

A fellow can get killed asking the wrong questions, you know.

One of the most necessary elements for succeeding in the world around us will be a little tougher to obtain next year.

That's when college tuition rates will increase.

That's just the opposite of what they should be doing.

With the emphasis on education in the workplace, we ought to be making college more accessible, not less.

Our state legislature needs to take a serious look at adequate funding for state colleges, particularly regional universities and community colleges, to ensure that everyone has a chance at a college diploma.

Especially those who can't afford to pay for it.

Friday is Veterans' Day.

Take a moment to thank them...from the Minutemen at Lexington and Concord to those who fought and died in the World Wars and in southeast Asia and the Persian Gulf...for the freedom we enjoy today. It was paid for with their lives.

We must never forget that.

-Letters to the editor

column in the Friday's editions?
 This newspaper and my column have been a part of my life for six years.
 I have cherished being a part of this paper as well as the employees I have worked along with.
 I have had my feelings hurt countless times while a part of this newspaper, but "never" like I am hurt now.
 I asked Mr. Perry to put something in this paper telling those who do read Kim's Korner that it was on hold, but he declined, (in other words.)

 I have tried to understand this situation since October 24, but I can't.
 I mean others who write for this very newspaper have written articles and received the same (if not more) attention that I received over the A.M.S.-Pikeville game, yet they continue to write each week.

Why put me on hold, suspend my column, or cancel it, Mr. Perry? Why? There are four (five including Mr. Perry) columnists that appear in either the Wednesday or Friday edition of the Floyd County Times. Clyde Pack, a Johnson Countian, Joe Adams, who resides in Florida, Sara Hopson, a Johnson Countian, and Scott Perry, also a Johnson Countian, and I am the only Floyd Countian, who has now been either canceled, suspended, or put on hold. I don't know which, and I don't know why!
 When I went to the game between Adams and Allen Central I was astounded, elated, and touched beyond words to see two women who have boys on the team and one who also has a cheerleader, travel the stands with petitions on behalf of Kim's Korner.
 You people have no idea what your calls, your cards, and your comments have meant to me. The gratitude is overwhelming that I feel for you.
 Several of you have asked why I did not write a letter to the editor last week. My step-father passed away last Sunday and his funeral was last Wednesday. So, this incident in my life was erased for awhile.
 When I returned home on Wednesday night, there were four messages on our machine relating to this newspaper. "Don't give up, Kim," I heard.

"You belong in the Floyd County Times." That is out of my control, only Mr. Perry can choose what appears in this newspaper.
 One thing I must clear up is the rumor that has gotten back to me that I received some kind of letter from Pikeville. Let me assure you that I have not. And, if this newspaper has, I am not aware of that either.
 I did receive phone calls. One of which I was told I would "pay" (quote, unquote) for what I said in that column about the Adams-Pikeville game.
 Which is why I took that particular column and the letter to the editor that appeared after it, to my attorney. No legal action has surfaced.
 To my husband and daughters, and family, I thank you for your love, support and drying the tears.
 To my friends and readers, thank you from the bottom of my heart.

 To the A.M.S. football team, cheerleaders, coaches, sponsors, teachers, students and secretaries, principal and vice principal, thank you!
 Peachie Collins, thank you for your kind words in your letter to the editor.
 To all of you who've read Kim's Korner, I'll sincerely miss you.
 Till we meet, again.

The writer also suggests, inaccurately, that hers was the only column by a Floyd County author. The following columns appear regularly or frequently in The Floyd County Times: Ed Taylor, sports columnist, a Floyd County resident; Willie Elliott, author of Mountain Voices, a Floyd County resident; Beverly Carroll, author of Sunshine Lines, a Floyd County resident; Jason Gibson, author of From the Mountains, a Floyd County native. Other columnists appearing regularly in The Floyd County Times include members of the Floyd County Ministerial Association; student columnist Sheldon Compton; students participating in the Floyd County Adult Literacy program who write in The Times' New Readers column; and a variety of students participating in the county's Young Authors program.

Ethics

has been determined a violation has occurred, may publicly reprimand the violator; issue an order that the violator cease the violation; issue a copy of the reprimand to the executive authority and recommend discipline or dismissal; and refer any evidence of criminal wrongdoing to the appropriate prosecuting agency.
 The code does not specify what discipline the commission may take against a violator.
 Any person who knowingly makes a false complaint with the commission can be found guilty of a misdemeanor but there is no penalty for commission members who may fail to investigate a complaint.
 Any person found by the commission to have violated the code may appeal the decision to circuit court.

in effect as long as the current official is serving in any capacity in county government or an employee remains employed.
 The definition of an immediate family member is a spouse, a child residing in an individual's home or a person claimed as a dependent by the individual or individual's spouse for tax purposes. Family member is described as any relative who is a member of the immediate family.
 The second reading of the ordinance is set to be held at the November 18 regular meeting of the fiscal court.
 At Friday's meeting, Magistrate Tommy Neil Adams encouraged the public to attend the November 18 meeting to offer input on the ethics code.
 The full text of the code will be published in the Friday, November 11, edition of the Times.

Financial Disclosure

Under Floyd County's proposed code, elected officials, candidates for public office, management personnel and officers and employees with purchasing power exceeding $500, must disclose certain business relationships.
 The code does not require those targeted for financial disclosure to name any business interests outside the state of Kentucky.
 Those named must disclose any business interest in which the filer received over $5,000 over the last year and in any business in which the filer had over a $10,000 interest.
 Also, the filer must disclose the location of all commercial property within the county in which an interest of $10,000 was held.
 Immediate family members of the county judge-executive, magistrate, commissioner, sheriff, jailer, corner, constable, surveyor, county attorney or county clerk must disclose any private interest in a matter pending before the court for approval. Once the disclosure is made, that official is disqualified from participating in any decision or vote on the issue.
 Only the judge-executive or magistrates could vote on an issue before the court.
 Elected officials or candidates for office must file a financial disclosure statement, but the code does not state when such a disclosure statement is to be filed.
 At Friday's fiscal court meeting, County Court Clerk Carla Boyd pointed that out to the court, and County Attorney Jim Hammond said that issue would be addressed.

Someone knowingly filing a false financial statement would be guilty of a Class A misdemeanor.
 Pay and benefits would be withheld from anyone not complying with the financial disclosure provision and candidates and nominees for office who do not comply would be fined $50 per day that they are not in compliance.

Nepotism

Floyd County's ethics code calls for no officer or employee of the county to lobby for, recommend or effect the employment, promotion, transfer or advancement of a family member to an officer in the county or the discipline of a family member.
 The nepotism clause of the code, however, does not apply to any public officer who held office before January 1, 1995. The exception stays

Wanted: a lot of good men and women

The Internal Revenue Service is seeking volunteers to help taxpayers, free of charge, during the January 1 through April 17 tax filing season.
 "The volunteers, who are fully trained by the IRS, help taxpayers with their tax returns at locations in libraries, community centers, schools and churches," Debbie Campbell, taxpayer education coordinator for the IRS in Kentucky, said. "Or, if a community is in need of a site, they may help set up a location where such assistance is provided."
 Volunteers are frequently retirees, members of community organizations, college students and various professionals.
 This free tax assistance is specifically aimed at persons with relatively low income, non-English speaking persons, the elderly, and people with disabilities.
 Campbell said the IRS is ready now to plan free classes to train new volunteers. Those interested in volunteering their time should call Campbell's office in Louisville at (502) 582-6259, or call toll-free 1-800-829-1040, and ask for extension 6259.

Rogers honors Prestonsburg Social Security

Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers honored John Faulkner recently on his retirement from Prestonsburg's Social Security Administration (SSA) District Office. Faulkner retired at the end of September.
 A Pike County native and 29-year veteran at SSA, Faulkner has served the Big Sandy Area for more than 17 years and was known for his prompt, dedicated and personal service.
 Faulkner resides in Johnson County with his wife Bonnie.

Patton to advise education officials

A member of the Floyd County Board of Education has been appointed to a panel that will counsel state education officials on issues and concerns of local school districts.

Eddie Patton of McDowell will serve on the Local School Board Members Advisory Council, a collaborative effort between the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE), the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) and the state's 176 local boards of education.

Patton is one of 44 representatives who will advise KDE staff on policy issues, administrative regulations and other issues relating to the operations of Kentucky's public school systems.

"This initiative to get input from local board members in areas of regulatory issues and what their communities want from their schools is very promising," said KSBA President Margie Bradford, a member of the Bardstown School Board. "This effort can give a much-needed local perspective to state-level decision making." Education Commissioner Thomas C. Boyesen said, "It is imperative that the department know what communities want, what they are able to provide as resources and how citizens, parents and educators feel about issues that affect the educational climate of their area."

The council conducted the first of its quarterly meetings October 28 in Frankfort.

Nursing program committee meets

The Prestonsburg Community College Nursing Advisory Committee met on the Prestonsburg Campus on Monday, October 10, for a get-acquainted luncheon.

The purpose of the committee is to serve as community advisers and contacts for the college's nursing program.

This was the committee's first active meeting.

Members attending the luncheon included PCC Nursing Program Coordinator Lynn Weddle; Susan Ellis, representing Highlands Regional Medical Center; Venice Branham, representing Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center; Dr. Chandra Varia, as a physician representative; Teresa McGuire, representing Pikeville United Methodist Hospital of KY Inc.; and Billie Turner, representing Our Lady of the Way.

The committee is scheduled to meet two times each semester.

State government changing numbers

All State Government Numbers will soon begin with 437. The changes will occur during the conversion to South Central Bell's Digital Essex service scheduled for November 15-17. All numbers will change including the Kentucky State Police, the Department of Transportation, the Cabinet for Human Resources, Circuit and District Judges as well as Vocational Rehabilitation.

This change is needed to allow for the conversion to digital technology. This allows state agencies to call one another using 4 digit dialing and to add additional line features. The Pikeville offices will then be tied together with the rest of the State Network.

Telephone books being delivered, while the changes are being made, will reflect the new numbers. In addition, all state numbers changing will have a recording which will give the new number to call.

Nursing graduates

Nursing instructors, left, Connie Workman, R.N., J.R. Conley, R.N., and program coordinator Sue Garland, R.N., C. prepared to present nursing pins to the 1994 Practical Nursing Program graduates.

Nurses' pinning ceremony held at Mayo State Vocational

On Saturday, October 15, the Practical Nursing Class of Kentucky Tech Mayo Campus held its Pinning Ceremony at the auditorium on the campus of Mayo State Vocational Technical School.

The ceremony is a part of the graduation process for students in the Practical Nursing Program, signifying successful completion of all nursing coursework and practical clinical experience.

Approximately 200 family members and friends were in attendance as the twenty Practical Nursing graduates received their nursing pins from the three faculty members.

Recognition of class members was performed by Monica Jones, and Amber Estes, class members and Vice President and President, respectively, of the Mayo Chapter of Health Occupations Students of America, the professional student organization.

Musical accompaniment was provided on piano by Bryen Lynne Goble and by guest performer Amy Wallace-Whelan with an inspirational vocal/guitar solo number.

Special recognition was paid to three members of the class by the trio of instructors awarding "High Grade Point Average" plaques to Beth Minix of Salyersville and Belinda Butcher of Paintsville. "The Nightingale Award" given to the student who best exhibits the ideals of nursing care as expressed by Florence Nightingale was awarded to Kenneth Slone of Dema.

At the end of the ceremony, the custom of providing refreshments to the guests was performed by members of the Mayo HOSA Chapter.

In Memory of Ethel Mae Collins

Mom, 10 years ago today you left us. God called you home to be with him. Mom, it was as if my world fell apart, and mom, it did, but I keep on going. Mom, I'm still going, but I can never go home again, because mom, there is no home to go home to. I can go south and I can go north, but there is no home for me without you. You were my home. The old home place is still standing, but that is all. There is no home without you. Mom, if I live one day or a hundred years I will never forget you, and I hope someday I will be with you again. Thanks, Mom, for the wonderful lifetime of memories of you.

*Missed and loved by your son,
Carl Jr. Collins and all your kids,
Tony, Morrow, Danzel, Lee, Hattie,

Playing the gourd fiddle

Ninety-year-old "Fiddlin'" Dewey Shepherd of David recently played one of his old-time mountain tunes on a gourd fiddle he made a few years ago. Another of his gourd fiddles is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C. His late father, Summer Brice Shepherd, was also a fiddle player who won the World Champion fiddle contest in Utah in the early 1900s. (photo by Polly Ward)

Deskins Motor Company breaks ground on $2 million facility

Another milestone event for economic development in Pike County takes place on Friday, November 11, at 4 p.m. At that time, Deskins Motor Company will hold groundbreaking ceremonies for its new sales and showroom, service department, body shop, and eight-acre car lot. Deskins Motors is Pike County's Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge and Jeep dealership, and will be located on U.S. 23 North, next to Green Meadow Country Club.

Lt. Gov. Paul E. Patton will serve as keynote speaker for the event. The public is invited to join representatives of Chrysler Corporation and all Deskins Motor employees for the groundbreaking celebration.

Paul Deskins, president, explained that the main headquarters building will feature a state-of-the-art drive-thru service department with 21 service bays adjacent to an expanded parts department. This section of the building alone will be 17,300 square feet. Sales and management offices and a five-vehicle indoor showroom will comprise another 11,200 square feet. A new top-of-the-line body shop will be housed in a separate building.

The project also calls for an impressive outdoor playground and flagpole area, something a little unusual for car dealerships.

Ron McPeck, advertising manager for Deskins Motor Company, said that the groundbreaking ceremonies will take place "rain or shine." The access road off U.S. 23 will be graded and compacted with gravel and plans are to erect a tent to accommodate the guests.

Words of life

Now is the best time to pray

A couple of nights ago I was standing in line to pay for my gas. The young man in front of me knew the clerks, and they told him how glad they were that he did not join the Marines the way he had previously told them he would because they didn't want to see him killed in the war America was about to enter. I fear that their fears are all too common among Americans today. They were frustrated because they didn't want to see their friend killed, and they felt there was nothing they could do about it.

There are many people who may be alarmed by the world news this week. American soldiers are now in Haiti, and thousands of others are heading back to the middle east. Our nation still has a vested interest in the situation in Bosnia, and, like those clerks at the gas station, many Americans are now bracing themselves for an American military involvement somewhere in the world. Some people believe that we are on the verge of World War Three, and they are scared. Perhaps there is cause to be concerned, but this is not the first time the world has been in danger. There was a time shortly after the second world war when another global war seemed imminent, but people all over the world took one night to pray for peace, and this is what happened.

On October 13, 1960 Nikita Khrushchev visited the United Nations and boasted that the Soviet Union "would bury us"—would annihilate us! And to emphasize his boasting, he took off his shoe and pounded the desk before a horrified world assembly. This was no idle boast. Khrushchev knew his scitists had been working on a nuclear missile more powerful than any other and had completed their work and were planning on November 1960, the 43rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, to present it to Khrushchev.

The response from the Christian community was immediate. In an almost unprecedented ecumenical move, Pope John XXIII, the spiritual leader of the world's nearly 1 billion Catholics, and the presidents and spiritual leaders of thirteen other Christian denominations urged Christians around the world to join with them on the night of October 12-13, 1960, in prayer and penance for world peace. That night, an estimated 25 million people gathered in places to worship to spend the night in prayer. Nearly a million pilgrims gathered outdoors in the Covadaria at Fatima, in Portugal, in fasting, prayer and penance. They watched and prayed, despite a penetrating rain, which chilled them to the bone.

Few people realize what happened as a result of the Christian response. On the night between October 12 and 13, right after his shoe-pounding episode, Khrushchev suddenly pulled up stakes and explained in all haste for Moscow, canceling all subsequent engagements because word had reached him that the new missile was ready to be tested. Marshall Nedelin, the best minds in Russia on nuclear energy, and several government officials were present for the final testing. When the countdown was completed, the missile, for some as yet unexplained reason did not leave the launch pad. After 15 or 20 minutes, Nedelin and all the others came out of the shelter. When they did, the missile exploded, killing over 300 people. This set back the Soviet nuclear program for 20 years and, perhaps, prevented all-out atomic warfare—and the burying of the United States. All this happened on the night when Christians from around the world gathered in an unprecedented manner to pray to God for world peace. It is true that there have been many wars between nations since the day of that great ecumenical gathering, and some critics have remarked, based on the number of military conflicts that have occurred around the world since that night, that it didn't appear to do very much good, but I cannot help but consider what kind of shape this world of ours might be in if Christians did not constantly gather and pray for peace. To stop using a pesticide because it is only killing eighty percent of the unwanted pests is to invite them to destroy the entire garden because evil, like pests, if left unchecked will take over or destroy everything in its path. God does not want another world war, but it is very important that each and every one of us prays often and sincerely that it will never again happen. The scriptures remind us to "ask and you shall receive; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened (Luke 11:10)." Prayer is the language of faith; the more deeply we believe, the more constantly and comfortably we pray.

Some people may say they do not know how to pray, or even what prayer is. A simple but accurate definition would be to say that prayer is the voluntary response to the awareness of God's presence. This definition involves four main points. God's presence, awareness, response and voluntariness. God's presence means that we are always present to God. He is constantly conscious of us and constantly active in our favor. Awareness on our part is the subjective counterpart of God's objective presence. He is present whether we know it or not, believe it or not, are conscious of it or not. But we are praying only if we are aware of His presence. Response goes beyond awareness for when we respond to God's presence, something in us reacts to that realization and something happens within us. Finally, the response in prayer is voluntary, somewhere along the line we freely and thus voluntarily choose to respond to the awareness of God's presence, if for no other reason than we freely decide not to respond to other kinds of awareness. This voluntariness spells the difference between people who pray and those who do not. Those who do choose to become aware of God's presence, while those who do not are merely saying the right words and going through the motions. The essential thing in prayer is with whom we are in contact, not about what we pray. Prayer should be directed toward things in our lives, which, through prayer, will receive the grace they need. We can best teach others to pray by mastering the art and by appreciating the need for prayer and praying to pray better. It is the greatest joy on earth.

If the girls behind the counter at the gas station truly articulated the fear of many Americans, then it is important that we be able to do something about those fears in a very concrete way. It is not enough to be glad that a friend may not now be involved because as evil spreads it will sooner or later involve every man, woman and child. Let us turn back to the Lord and constantly and sincerely offer our prayers and petitions to Almighty God for world peace. The prayers of one person can make a big difference. But the prayers of all Christians, gathered in houses of worship can change the world.

Card Of Thanks

The family of John Marcelous "Morris" Dunfee would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one; those who sent food and flowers, or just spoke comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to Rev. Big Sandy Mended Hearts, Chapter #220 cordially invites you to honor the achievements of those you admire, or remember those you love by sponsoring a light on its LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE this holiday season.

This lovely holiday display of light and beauty is located at Highlands Regional Medical Center on a handsome live tree. It illuminates the night from November 15 until after New Years, showing all of the Big Sandy area your remembrance and your care of others.

This year, proceeds from the LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE will go to Mended Hearts, Chapter #220. Your gift will do double duty; it will represent your care for someone you admire or love and it will help support our local heart patients.

Each gift of $5.00 for A LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE light will be acknowledged by a card to the person you honor or the family of the person you remember. You will also receive a letter of thanks serving as your tax-deductible receipt.

When you make a gift to the LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE, you are automatically invited to be our guest at the tree lighting ceremony, Tuesday, November 15, 1994, at the entrance of Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Mayo respiratory therapy students score above average

Students from Kentucky Tech Mayo Respiratory Therapy Technician Program have scored above the national average on their credentialing exams during the first two years of the program's existence. The latest test results show Mayo students outperformed the national average of a 65 percent pass rate on the exams by 15 percent. The exam, administered by the National Board for Respiratory Care, is a comprehensive, detailed evaluation of the students knowledge of respiratory care and a passing score is required to obtain the credentials of Certified Respiratory Care Technician (C.R.T.T.).

The program director, Bryan K. Hammond CRRT, RRT, RCP, believes the reason for the success lies with the students. "Our students show a great desire to learn all they can during the 15-month program. They are dedicated to the profession and this is reflected by their performance on the exams," stated Mr. Hammond. He added, "Not only does this benefit the students enrolled in the program, but the needs of the area residents for quality healthcare is being accomplished also."

This program is also supported by the area hospital and healthcare facilities. Students receive valuable clinical training at Highlands Regional Medical Center, Paul B. Hall Medical Center, Three Rivers Medical Center, Kentucky River Medical Center, and Appalachian Regional Hospital-Hazard.

The clinical director, Richard C. Bickford, believes that the wide array of clinical facilities in the area and the desire of the management of the facilities to bring quality healthcare to the area residents has enabled the students of the program to obtain the experience needed to be successful in their new profession.

For more information call Mr. Bickford or Mr. Hammond at (606) 789-5321.

Candlelight vigil honors victims of drunk drivers

The Kentucky State Organization of Mothers Against Drunk Driving will sponsor their fifth annual State-wide Candlelight Vigil on Saturday, November 19, in Frankfort. This year's Candlelight Vigil will be coordinated by the MADD Russell County Chapter.

The ceremony will begin at 5:00 p.m. EST and will be held outdoors, on the front steps of the State Capitol. Immediately following the vigil, a reception will be held at the auditorium of the Investor's Heritage Insurance Building, located at the corner of Second and Steele Street. Participating in the vigil will be families who have been impacted by drunk driving, as well as concerned citizens, and representatives from MADD and the Kentucky State Police. During the vigil, the names of those who have been killed in alcohol-related traffic crashes will be read, and a segment of the ceremony will also be devoted to those victims who have been injured.

Kentucky statistics show that in 1993, 208 people lost their lives on our state's highways as a result of drunk driving, and more than 5,200 were injured. Between Thanksgiving and New Year's, on Kentucky's highways, Kentucky State Police reports that there were at least 11 alcohol-related traffic crashes that involved fatalities. Since the holiday season may be an especially difficult time for those who are facing the loss or injury of loved ones, MADD wants to provide families with an opportunity to come together to share their concern and to show a common bond of mutual support and understanding.

In addition to sponsoring the Candlelight Vigil, MADD Kentucky is also promoting "Project Red Ribbon," a national public awareness campaign in which citizens are encouraged to tie a red ribbon to a visible location on their vehicle to show a commitment to drive safe and sober during the holiday season. MADD Hardin County has coordinated this statewide effort and will be distributing cases of red ribbon to law enforcement agencies throughout the Commonwealth to make available to motorists who are interested in supporting the program.

"Now, more than ever, there is a need to reach out to those who have been so tragically affected by the violent crime of drunk driving. MADD is encouraging all citizens to join together in an attempt to stop the tragedies that are daily occurring on our Commonwealth's roadways," comments Paula Freeman, MADD State Executive Director. "We hope that the citizens of Kentucky will join us in remembering the families across the state whose lives have been touched by the problem of drunk driving. The Candlelight Vigil is a beautiful way to commemorate those who have been injured and those who have lost their lives as a result of someone's choice to drink and drive."

If you would like to have your loved one remembered at the State Candlelight Vigil, or if you would like to attend, please contact the MADD State Office at 1-800-944-6233. If there is no one there to take your call, please leave a recorded message which includes the following information: your name, address, and telephone number, the name and age of the person to be remembered, and the date of the crash and the county in which the crash occurred. Or, write to the MADD Kentucky State Office, P.O. Box 274, Harrodsburg, Kentucky 40330.

Anyone who is interested in joining MADD or in helping develop a MADD chapter is encouraged to contact the MADD Kentucky State Office for further information. MADD is a national non-profit volunteer organization whose mission is to stop drunk driving and to provide assistance and advocacy to the victims of drunk driving.

Harmon attends legislative seminar

Brock Harmon, 18, of Ivel, was among a group of college students who attended a seminar on the legislature at the Capitol on Thursday, November 3.

Harmon is a freshman political science major at the University of Louisville. He is the son of Tommy and Shirley Harmon.

The Legislative Research Commission sponsored a series of seminars on the legislature and invited government, journalism and political science students from colleges and universities statewide to participate.

Students heard from Senate President John "Eck" Rose, House Speaker Joe Clarke and other prominent legislators, along with legislative agents and media representatives who cover state government.

Robertson first in county to place in state

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was a historic time for Floyd County this past Saturday afternoon when Prestonsburg's Stewart Robertson became the first cross-country runner to medal in the state cross-country meet.

The state meet was held at Lexington's Horse Park, a course that was not unfamiliar to Robertson. Robertson ran in the Meet of Champions at the Horse Park where he placed third.

Thomas Murley of Elizabethtown placed first with a time of 15:10.8. Brandon McKinney of Warren East finished second at 15:50.0 with Matthew Tabor of Bowling Green running in at third with a time of 16:07.0. Fourth place went to Joey Galloway of Pendleton County at 16:07.6. Robertson took fifth with a time of 16:23.0.

"It's just a great feeling to be able to place in the top five in the state meet," said the senior runner. "I was just proud to be wearing a Prestonsburg uniform.

"I couldn't have done it without the backing and help of my teammates. Ryan Hardee did as much as anyone because it was his running this year that allowed him to place third in the regional and get here to the state meet."

Robertson, who won the regional meet at Ashland two weeks before, has been a hard worker in the cross-country game for several years. He has said that running cross-country requires a lot of strategy.

"I wanted to find a pack of runners to get behind," he said, "because it was a bit windy that day. That way I could use them to knock the wind off of me."

After Robertson had completed the first mile of the race he knew that he was ahead of his course.

"I finished the first mile at 5:06," he said. "That is the fastest I have run the first mile. I knew then that I was going to have a good race."

The first mile is a check-point for Robertson, who takes in consideration whether he is comfortable, feeling good and how his arm swing is.

"Those things are important," he said. "You don't want to start too fast or too hard and lose on the last two miles."

Robertson said that his normal time in the first mile is somewhere between 5:12 and 5:14.

"It was a good race for me," he said. "I held my time. Warming up before a race is important, also."

Robertson said that two days before a race he likes to rest and conserve his energy.

"On Monday and Tuesday I ran hard, and then Wednesday I slacked off and ran easy," he explained. "On Thursday, I just ran three miles and didn't do anything Friday."

In the second mile of the meet, Robertson said that he lost sight of the leaders and joined the pack in front of him.

"I held my pace pretty well," he said. "I just wanted to stay close until the last 1,000 meters. Coach (Forrest) Hughes discovered that the last 1,000 meters is my best asset. I seem to have more strength than most runners in the last 1,000 meters and that proved true Saturday."

In the final half-mile, Robertson said the adrenaline started flowing.

"I accelerated and the adrenaline was pumping," he said. "I was nervous and just wanted to get the race over with."

"My body was screaming to stop. My legs were fatigued and it was tougher the last half-mile."

Robertson said that interval training has helped him over the years.

"Interval training is where you teach the body to run tired," he said. "Whoever is the strongest at the end is the one who wins."

"With about 40 yards to go, I was running in sixth place. I then kicked by the one in front of me and beat him by 14 seconds."

Robertson said that the problem is not stamina with him, but keeping pace with the other runners.

"Yeah, holding the pace and adapting to the pace of the other runners has always been a problem for me," he said. "I know if I can stay with the other runners until the final 1,000 meters, I can kick by them."

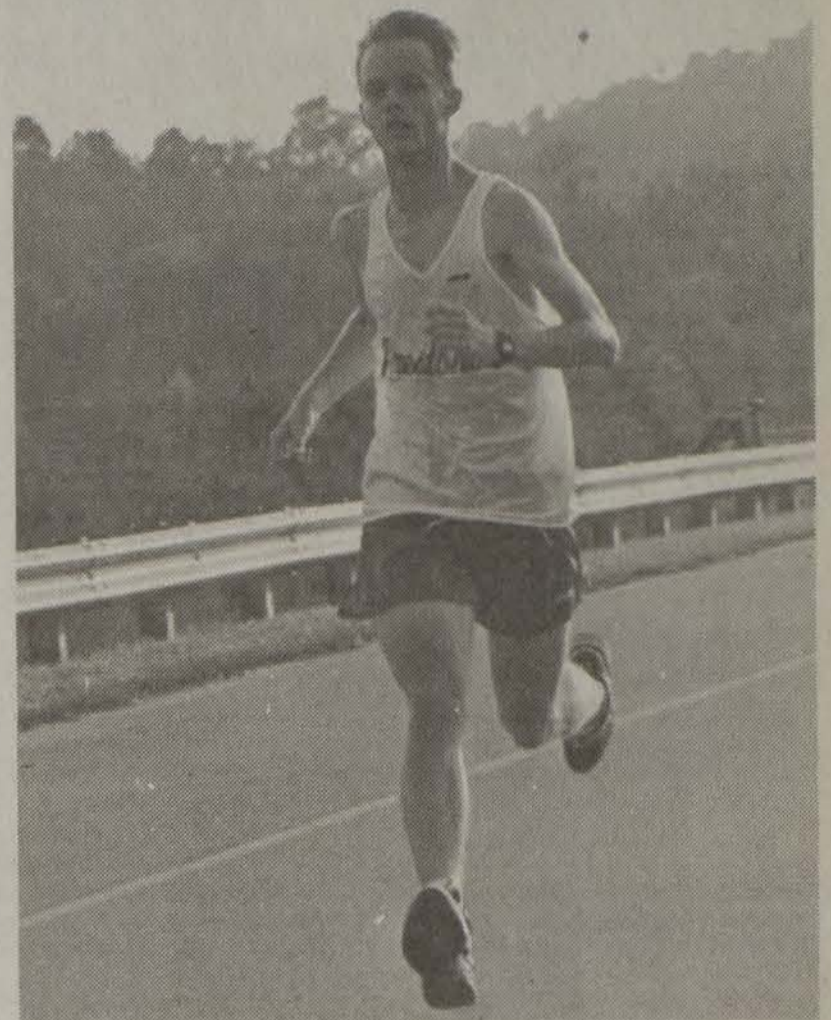

The Prestonsburg runner had set as his goal to finish in the top 15 at the state meet.

"My goal was to be in the top 10 the first of the year," he said. "I figured if I had a good day, I could finish in the top seven."

"I knew that I had beaten most of the ones that I ran against before and, if I could just do that, I would finish seventh," he said.

Finishing in the top five almost assured Robertson a spot on the All-State team that will be announced later this month. Last year he was honorable-mention in the state meet.

Ratliff's field goal sinks Raiders 37-29

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg stadium was no place for the faint-hearted last Friday night where the Prestonsburg Blackcats hosted a good East Carter Raider team.

What appeared to be a blowout in the making in the first half turned out to be a nail biter in the second half.

Senior Thomas Ratliff kicked a 19-yard field goal with just eight seconds showing on the stadium clock to give the Blackcats a 37-29 win over East Carter and a second-round game in the regional playoffs.

The eight-point difference in the score was misleading because Prestonsburg scored again as the clock expired.

Linebacker Larry Morris intercepted a David Marshall pass and ran the ball back for a 60-yard touchdown return that gave the Cats the eight-point advantage.

East Carter appeared out of the game in the first half after taking the lead early on their first possession.

The Raiders moved the ball at will against a strong Prestonsburg defense. They took the opening kickoff and marched 76 yards for the touchdown that gave them the 6-0 lead. Tail back Darrell Fite scored from 3-yards out for the Raiders.

Prestonsburg roared back and scored the first three times they touched the football and built a 28-9 first half lead.

The Raiders were not ready to concede the game to the host Blackcats. The Raider seniors took charge in the second half.

"We just came in at halftime and talked with the seniors," explained East Carter coach Gary McPeck. "We wanted them to understand, this is it. We have 24 minutes of football left to play and if you want to go to the next level of the playoffs, you're going have to go out and play."

Play they did and they roared back both on offense and defense. The Raiders slowed down the running game of the Blackcats in the second half and took the lead at 29-28 with only 37.5 seconds left to play in the game.

Marshall connected with Clyde Jordan for a 9-yard touchdown pass and the PAT gave the Raiders the one-point lead.

"We showed a lot of guts the second half," said Coach McPeck. "It would have been easy to roll over on the road. You're here and it seems you don't have a friend in the world and things are not going your way."

"They just sucked it up at halftime and the senior showed some leadership. We showed a lot of pride the second half," he said.

As Prestonsburg had done so many times in the past, they did not panic.

Senior leadership now belonged on Prestonsburg side as they took the football on their own 44-yard line following a unsportsmanlike penalty against East Carter. On first down play action, Ratliff laid the football broke down the sideline. Ratliff lofted the football and it fell in Shutts' hands as he stepped out of bounds to stop the clock.

"Clint saw that his defender had rolled up on him," said Letton. "So, he just blew on by him and Thomas made a good throw and Clint made a good catch. That opened the door for us and that was all we needed."

A holding penalty was called against East Carter after an incompletion by Ratliff. The ball was moved to the 8-yard line where Jon Morris picked up some valuable real estate with a 2-yard pickup to the 6-yard line. Morris then ran the football to the 1-yard line where he was stopped.

On third-and-goal from the one, the Blackcats went for the win as the football was teed up. Ratliff booted the ball and it skimmed over the crossbar with eight seconds left to play. Prestonsburg took the lead, 31-29.

East Carter had the football with just four seconds remaining in the game. On first down play, Morris intercepted Marshall's pass and ran in for the touchdown.

"It really didn't matter, the game was over with," said Morris. "But I got the ball and said, 'The heck with it. I might as well go with it.'"

Coach Letton said that his team showed a lot of poise in the final 37 seconds.

"Our kids showed a lot of character in the end and the second half," he said. "We didn't panic and didn't lose our heads. We stayed right in there and that's what we had to do."

"I'm awful pleased that we were able to keep our mental composure. It worked out, fortunately, in the end," he said.

Senior running back Mike Shepherd recalled the last time he watched Ratliff's field goal attempt.

into the hands of wide receiver Clint Shutts, who got out of bounds at the Raiders' 13-yard line with 27 seconds to play.

The long bomb was not the way the coaching staff had drawn the drive.

"Clint broke off his route," said Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton. "It was a good read on his part."

"We thought we would run short stuff, side-line out, different things and move the football down the field. We would use our timeouts and try to get the football in field goal position.

Shutts observed that the Raider defender was crowding him and he

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISHES TO...

Ryan plays forward for the Duff Elementary Bulldogs. Happy birthday, Ryan!

ROBERTSON: EXAMPLE OF DEDICATION

Stewart Robertson may not be the fastest runner in cross-country, but I don't know of one who is more dedicated than he is to the sport.

Robertson takes the sport very seriously and he is constantly working out to be better and stronger.

His determination paid off after he placed fifth in the state meet this past weekend out of nearly 200 runners.

It was a historic moment for Floyd County as he became the first Floyd County to ever place in the state meet.

Floyd County should be very proud of the accomplishments of this young man. He has parents who have been very supportive of him all through his high school career.

Not only does he make time for cross-country, but he is an excellent student as well.

Much credit goes to Forrest Hughes for the way he has taken Stewart under his wing and trained him for this special moment.

Stewart will be quick to tell you what Hughes has meant to his development as a runner.

This sports department tips its hat to Stewart Robertson and the Prestonsburg Blackcat cross-country team and for their accomplishments at the state meet Saturday.

Prestonsburg be proud!

ELEMENTARY BASKETBALL
The grade school basketball season officially got underway this past Monday night with several of the county schools playing.

I attended the opening round of the first annual Adams Middle School Invitational and what a turnout for the first round.

The fans are ready for basketball. They have survived the baseball strike, endured the football season and are now ready for basketball.

I made my way to Martin this past Saturday and sat through 15 grade school games. That, coupled with the Adams tournament, means I have already seen 18 games.

I enjoy going to the panoramas because the events allow me to see most of the county teams and get an idea of which teams are going to be strong and which are rebuilding.

I can say for a certainty that there are some fine, fine basketball players in the county heading into the high school ranks -- both girls and boys.

This Adams team is awesome. They have everything it takes to be a good elementary basketball team. They have speed, quickness, defense, scoring and rebounding.

Duff Elementary looks strong. Ronnie is going to have a good ballclub up Right Beaver. The Bulldogs have good size inside and good guard play.

Betsy Layne, coached by Dwight Newsome, is as scrappy a bunch as you will ever see. They play hard all the time. They have a couple of players that you will be hearing a lot about.

John M. Stumbo will be a competitive ballclub this season (they always are). Coach Hayes Hamilton will have some size and when they start to jell, they will be tough.

The Mountain Christian Academy is a very surprising ball team. Good outside guard play. A good disciplined team. They will pull some upsets this season.

Martin will be strong in the middle and at guard. Coach Doug Derosset's quintet will be a team to be reckoned with.

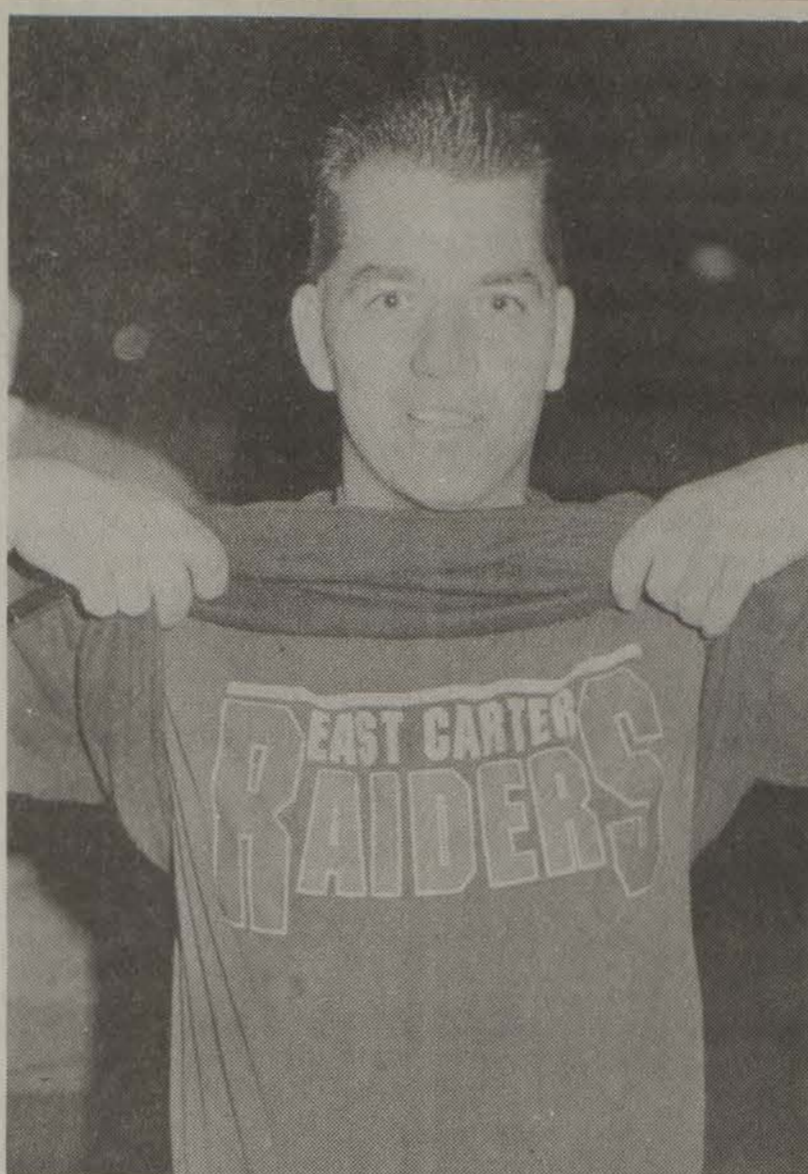

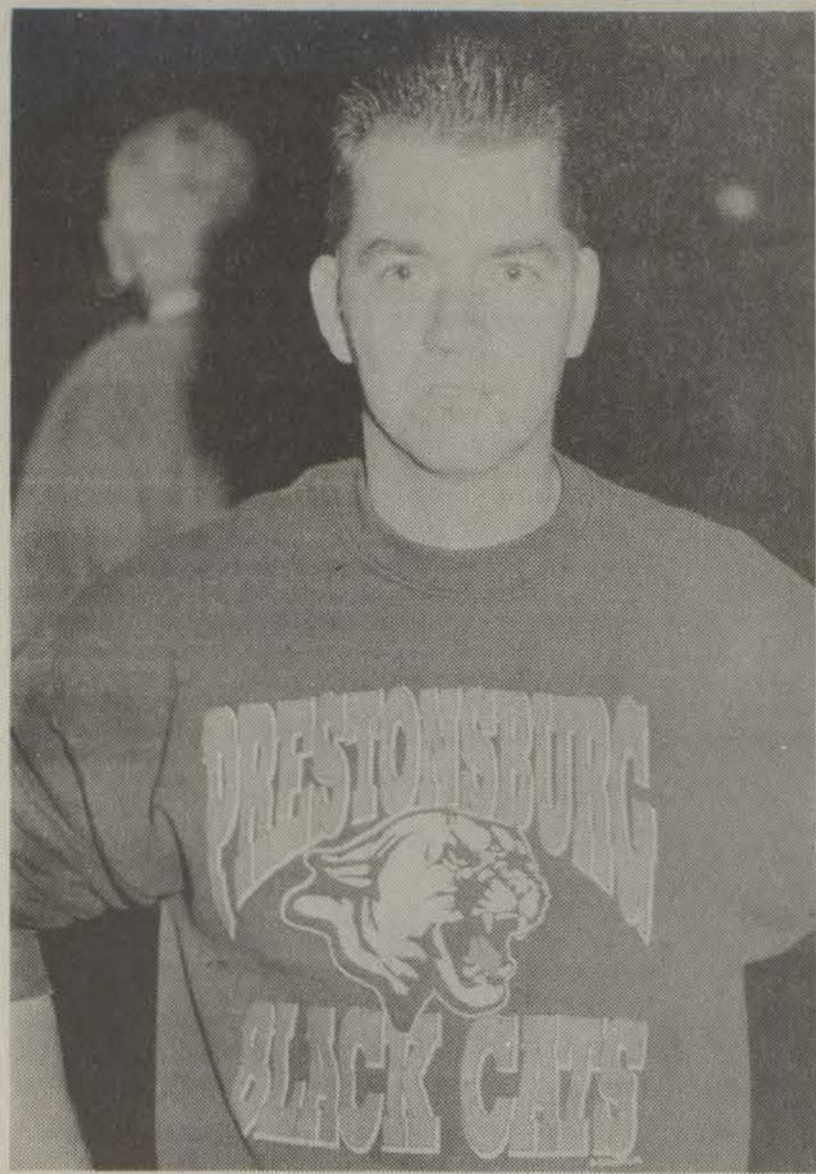

The Allen Eagles have three players that will be dominating forces inside as well as outside.

I haven't seen Henry Webb's McDowell Daredevils, but they tell me that he will have a good strong ballclub.

John Martin at Melvin has a good club coming into the season. They were impressive at Martin.

I think the competition between the girls teams in the county is wide open. I don't really see one team dominating a season like we have seen in the past.

Cat/Raider man!

It was a hard night for Rick Hughes as he had divided loyalty Friday night at the Prestonsburg/East Carter football game. Hughes is an avid Blackcat fan, but he graduated from East Carter. Here he dons both Prestonsburg colors as well as the Raiders' colors. One thing about it, he couldn't lose. The Blackcats pulled out a 37-29 win over the Raiders to advance on to Russell Friday night. (photos by Ed Taylor)

Bartley, Kidd combine to lead Red Devils past Falcons, 64-52

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Justin Bartley and Doug Kidd combined for 24 points to lead the Harold Red Devils past the Mountain Christian Academy Falcons, 64-52, as both teams opened their 1994-95 basketball season.

Bartley and Kidd each scored 12 points in the game.

Mark Burchett led the Falcons with 17 points.

The Red Devils built a 13-7 lead after the first period and led by seven, 31-24, at the half.

Harold looked to blow the game wide open after they had built a 19-point cushion after three quarters. But the Falcons mounted a strong comeback that fell short.

Scott Collins scored 11 points for the Red Devils as Josh Kidd tossed in nine. Bradley Brooks had seven points in the Harold win.

Mike Gross scored six with Brad Conway netting three points. Robert Rose and Chase Gibson each scored two points.

Hall finished with 15 points for the Falcons. Luke Luster added eight with Collins scoring six. Alan Reed tossed in four points with Turner scoring two.

Brooks had the only three-pointer for Harold while Burchett hit a trey for MCA.

Harold improves to 1-0 while the Falcons start at 0-1.

Harold 13-18-23-10 (64): Bartley, 12; Kidd, 9; Collins, 11; Gross, 6; Kidd, 12; Brooks, 7; Gibson, 2; Conway, 3; Rose, 2

"This time I just didn't watch him kick it," said Shepherd, "because of the one against Mayfield (in the state championships) last year. I watched that one and he missed. This time I just prayed and the Lord came through for me."

It was Shepherd who got the Blackcats on the scoreboard after East Carter took the 6-0 lead. Shepherd gathered in the kickoff and returned the football 85 yards for a touchdown.

"I wanted to show some senior leadership out there," he said. "I got some good blocking down field. Larry threw a good block, Waylon (Bevins) threw a good block and I just headed up field."

Ratliff kicked the PAT and the Cats led 7-6.

Prestonsburg defense held the Raiders to three downs. With 3:01 left in the first period, Jon Morris broke loose for a 43-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage for the Blackcats. Ratliff added the extra point and it was a 14-6 Prestonsburg lead.

Things went from bad to worse for the Raiders as Jordan fumbled the football on a second-down play. Larry Morris was there to scoop up the football and he took it in for the score from 45 yards out. Ratliff kicked the PAT and it was 21-6 as the first period ended.

East Carter moved down to the Prestonsburg 9-yard line, but had to settle for a 22-yard field goal with 8:26 left in the half.

Prestonsburg took a 28-9 advantage with 3:49 left in the half when Jon Morris scored from 48-yards out and the extra point by Ratliff was good.

East Carter had the final possession of the first half and moved to the Prestonsburg 10-yard line.

Jordan was thrown for a 4-yard loss by Waylon Bevins, bringing up second and 14. Marshall tried to pass for a score twice with both falling incomplete. Coach McPeck sent in the field goal unit with 19 seconds left in the half. The kick was wide right as the half ended.

It was a different Raider team that took the field the second half. They held Prestonsburg to three downs and out to start the second half.

With the football on their own 43, Fite broke for a 27-yard pickup. A personal foul penalty against Prestonsburg moved the football to the Prestonsburg 20-yard line where full-back Curtis Mackley scored for a 28-15 game.

Prestonsburg moved to the East Carter 38 before punting away the football with 5:06 left in the third.

The Raiders found themselves in poor field position as they took over on their own 11. But the running of Fite and Mackley, coupled with a 15-yard penalty on Prestonsburg, moved the football into the Blackcats' red zone as the quarter ended.

With 9:52 left in the fourth period, Mackley plunged into the end zone from the 1-yard line and the PAT was good to make it a 28-22 game.

A 43-yard punt return would have given the Blackcats excellent field position, but a penalty on the Cats brought the football back to the Cats 40-yard line. There they were flagged for an illegal procedure and then an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty.

The double penalty buried the Cats back at their own 20 where they had to punt the ball away.

East Carter got excellent field position at the Prestonsburg 47 with 7:01 left in the game. The Raiders picked up four first downs in a drive that covered 47 yards on 14 plays. The Raiders scored on the touchdown pass from Marshall to Jordan and the PAT gave the Raiders the 29-28 lead.

Coach Letton didn't think the problem was his team being flat in the second half.

"I like to think they got their intensity up and made some adjustments at halftime," he said. "He (Coach McPeck) didn't let his kids get down at halftime and that's a tribute to him and his football team."

"What can you say? They showed a lot of character and they kept the football away from us."

The Prestonsburg coach said that his team was ready to play against East Carter after the drastic first half they experienced at M.C. Napier the previous week.

"We were disappointed that we weren't ready to play last week," he said. "We came out flat and we have really emphasized that this past week," he said.

Quarterback Thomas Ratliff suffered a twisted knee early in the third period, but he returned to the lineup.

"I just wanted to keep everybody calm," he said. "My knee got twisted just a little bit. I knew that we had plenty of time to score again and I just trusted in the Lord."

"It was like last year at Louisville. I was praying every minute when I kicked that field goal."

Jon Morris, who led the Cats on the ground, said that the defense of East Carter was different compared to the first half.

"They did a pretty good job in the second half," he said. "Their defense was up and they were just getting all over us up front."

"We're a better football team than what we showed in the second half. Last week it was all reversed. But this week, we'll just try and get it all together."

Defensive end Waylon Bevins agreed with Morris.

"If we ever get it all together, then we are going to Louisville again," said Bevins. "It seems that we play a good first half and then play bad in the second. Or it might be reversed at times."

The Blackcats have had trouble in putting together four full quarters this season, to which all agreed.

Bevins said that he was ready to take on Russell then. "That's how good I feel," he said.

Jon Morris carried the football 12 times for Prestonsburg for 118 yards rushing. He scored two touchdowns. Shepherd finished with 88 yards on three carries.

Ratliff completed five of six pass attempts for 90 yards. Shutts had two catches for 57 yards and Larry Morris had two for 21 yards. Blake Leslie had one catch for 12 yards.

Larry Morris scored two touchdowns for the defense and had 105 all-purpose yards.

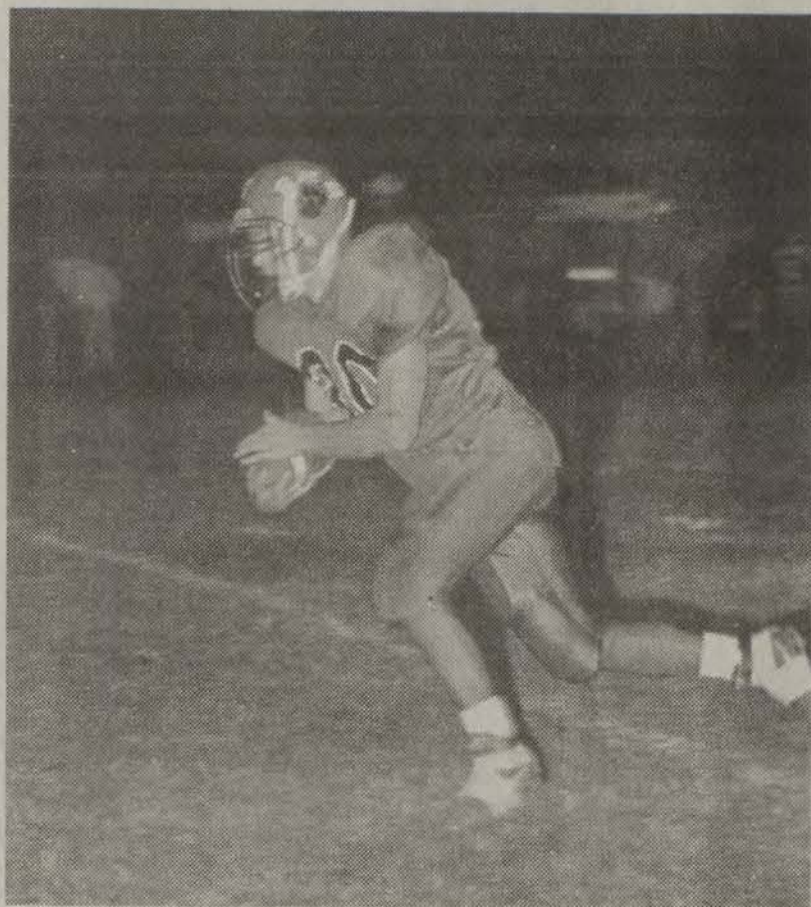

The game's leading ground gainer was Fite who rushed for, unofficially, 208 yards on 36 carries. Mackley finished with 66 yards on 15 attempts. Marshall completed five of 14 attempts for 30 yards.

Prestonsburg was hit hard with penalties, something that brought the displeasure of the Prestonsburg crowd. The Cats were flagged 14 times for 140 yards in penalties. They did not fumble the football.

East Carter received 45 yards in penalties on three flags.

It will be a rematch between the Russell Red Devils and Blackcats this Friday night at Russell. Prestonsburg has beaten Russell in the last two regional playoffs, and won at Russell last year on their way to the state finals.

Start of long jaunt!

A Look At Sports

I did some see some very good girl basketball players though and some fine players that will make some high school coaches happy.

I'm not even going to try to name any of the players here, but will in our grade school basketball tab that will be coming out in a couple of weeks.

Go out and support the grade school teams. We will be trying to get around to as many as we personally can before the high school season begins.

We are willing to print all game results that we can if the coaches will turn them in. There are 15 grade school teams in Floyd County and it is humanly impossible for me to get to each one. I wish I could. But let's face it, I can't.

UK football at a crossroads: Tim Couch is worth changes to keep him at home

No sentence is devoted to Tim Couch in the quarterback section of Street & Smith's modest high school page. An oversight only because Couch is a junior, albeit, a strapping 6-4, 205-pound piece of work.

Wait until next year. Or, don't wait. College recruiters will not.

Couch is special. And those who make a living viewing video tape deep into winter nights and recognize what made, say, Montana different from whoever was second team at Notre Dame, know it.

The pride and joy of Leslie County, Couch is arguably the finest college prospect in Kentucky since Paul Hornung left Louisville for Notre Dame, and won the Heisman Trophy, then helped the Green Bay Packers to football nirvana (place of perfect blessedness).

Couch demonstrates having the skill, brains and (get this!) presence to ascend to special places, perhaps even heights on which Phil Simms, tried on a Super Bowl MVP ring with the New York Giants.

Simms' path to Broadway? Southern High and Morehead State.

For Couch, heady praise then for a 17-year-old.

"Athletically, Tim is big, strong, smart and he's competitive," Leslie County coach Mike Whitaker chirped last week. "He's the kind of player who, you know, wants the ball in his hands in the last two minutes of a game."

Statistics? Most important Couch marched Leslie County to a school record 10-0 season. Along the way, he pushed his passing yards to nearly five miles, 7,192 ... and counting.

"If we play five playoff games and then with next season still to go..." Whitaker says.

All these star-crested numbers and goo-ga accolades bring us to a circumstance of considerable magnitude. Where Couch plays college football will impact careers of men in six-figure salary land.

Bobby Bowden wants him, so does Phil Fulmer, and Gary Moeller, and so does everyone else.

"Of course, Kentucky has got to have him," deadpans Whitaker. And there is no certainty in his voice that UK has more than a passing chance against Florida State and Tennessee and Michigan.

After all, Couch will attend summer camps in Knoxville and Tallahassee next year.

But, yes, Kentucky must land Couch in the same sense that UK had to have Rex Chapman in 1986.

"One thing I want him to do that I didn't is take all five as official visits," Whitaker says. "I was so sure I was going to UK, I didn't even consider other schools. That's the one thing, if I had to do over, I would do different."

Couch is considering Kentucky, but typical of a QB, he is thoughtful and savvy to the process as well.

"UK's in the picture, absolutely,"

Whitaker says. "With his family, and most everybody up in this part of the state, it's always been Big Blue country and still is.

"But Tim's a real independent kid. You couldn't ask for or mold a person to be better prepared for all this (recruiting)."

Tim's older brother Greg might be the starting quarterback at Eastern Kentucky U. if John Sacca had not arrived from Penn State.

Among those attending Leslie County High's final home game to wrap a 10-0 regular season were four assistant coaches from UK.

"That went a long way with Tim," Whitaker says. "But you never know. Those coaches might not even be at Kentucky next year."

Ironic and disappointing that UK's football program, coming off a Peach Bowl trip, is at yet another crisis point just when a major prospect comes of age.

Bill Curry ought to be the front runner for a youngster from this hot bed, heartland of UK devotees, instead of showing up, hat in hand, and pitching the obvious—an opportunity to play early; a football physical plant second to none on Couch's short list; Lexington is two hours from family and friends.

Despite its record and anemic tradition however, says here UK and Curry could employ two weighty stratagems in its effort to persuade Couch to "stay home."

1. Show evidence that a major commitment is under way to overhaul UK's interior line(s). Include list of red shirt freshmen, locate and sign JUCO prospects.

And, offer a scholarship early to one of the state's premier linemen. Say, George Massey, 6-3, 247-pound allstar at Cumberland High School who, some coaches say, "is the best and quickest lineman prospect in the state."

2. Arrange a visit for Couch from Doug Pelfrey, Marty Moore, Jeff VanNote and Rodger Bird. All are ex-Kentucky players who work(ed) in the NFL. All remain close to UK football and "know the score."

"When all is said and done," says Whitaker, "it's players who recruit a kid really."

3. Commit to adjusting the offense to compliment Couch's skills. It was done for Pookie Jones.

"If I had a chance to get a kid like Tim, I'd do it," says Whitaker who installed Florida State's shotgun offense at Leslie County.

Option. An idea UK's staff ought to consider: Examine video tapes of Dan Baker, Couch's favorite receiver the last two seasons. A senior with a 5-10, 160-pound body and 4.6 speed, Baker's accomplishments are reminiscent of former UK receivers, Troy Hobbs and Tim Calvert, as well as another small body (with big heart) Kentucky did not recruit. Steve Bird (Rodger's nephew) from Corbin became an All-American receiver at EKU.

For Leslie Co., Baker caught 60 passes in 1993, and 17 touchdowns this year, and set a school record for 1,000 yards and counting.

The view here is: keeping Couch at home is as important to Kentucky's football future as it was a major setback when Paul "Bear" Bryant lost Hornung to Notre Dame. It came at a time when UK football needed a talent infusion to sustain what Bryant was building.

Audacious, these ideas? Yes. And for UK football these are times that call for a little audacity.

'BASKETBALL SCHOOL'

Looking at other programs in other states, I still maintain the idea—University of Kentucky is a 'basketball school' and therefore can never have success in football—is a myth concocted by rival recruiters, perpetuated by the media herd and swallowed by unhappy and frustrated fans.

Consider the University of Florida, 'football school.'

Coach Steve Spurrier's Gators were ranked No. 4 last week. Yet, Lon Kruger's basketball team, not so much as an 'also receiving votes' last year, is preseason ranked No. 10.

On Oct. 14 Florida 'the football school' had an SRO for its basketball Midnight Madness.

One success, an appearance in the Final Four, forces recruiting rivals to eliminate a line from their pitch, "Listen, son, forget about UF, it's a football school."

Kentucky? Even a modest success, like one being hatched in the Big Eight, can change the landscape dramatically.

Two years ago Kansas State was a doormat, a laughing stock. But two weeks ago, before you could say Moe-for-Heisman and not get laughed out of town, the Wildcats beat Oklahoma in Norman (first time in 24 years), showed up at No. 18th in the rankings, was on target for a 9-2 season, and is a candidate for a berth in the Aloha Bowl.

The laughing has stopped in Manhattan. It can be turned to cheers in Lexington, too.

RICK PITINO PRESS

High praise. Rick Pitino says Kentucky will be the best full-court pressing team he's ever coached.

Aw-right, say Wildcat fans. So, circle these dates on your calendar—Dec. 3 and 7, then answer this question: Are there two teams in America you would enjoy trying to smother the life out of more than UCLA (Dec. 3) and Indiana?

Did someone say Louisville and North Carolina?

RUSSELL WILLIAMSON TIP-OFF CLASSIC

New kid on the block. If you are a day and night high school hoops fan, the first annual Russell Williamson tip-off Classic is set. A seven-game card (two 16 minute halves) on Saturday, Nov. 26 at Sheldon Clark High School in Inez.

At noon (all times are eastern) Prestonsburg plays Lawrence Co.; 1:30: Belfry-Bath County; 3 p.m.:

Greenup Co.-So. Laurel; 4:30: Boyd Co.-Anderson Co.; 6 p.m.: Allen Central-Lex. Catholic; 7:30: PRP-Mason Co.; and 9 p.m. Sheldon Clark-Lex. Dunbar.

Ticket information: Contact Coach Sam Sparks, Sheldon Clark High, 606-298-3591.

WORTH REPEATING

Fan in Mt. Sterling: "I lost a little respect for Rick Pitino last week. First, he hit the nail on the head about UK football recruiting, then he backed off."

PARTING SHOT

LSU football coach Curley Hallman "has to go," Louisiana senator Larry Bankston says. "...believe it or not, right or not, the tide of higher education rides on the backs of the football players on Saturday night." And so it goes.

Betsy Layne to hold intrasquad scrimmages Saturday night

The Betsy Layne Bobcats and Lady Cats will hold their annual Blue, White intrasquad scrimmages this Saturday night at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

The freshmen will take on the junior varsity in the first game that gets underway at 6 p.m.

In the second game of the evening set for 7 p.m., coach Bill Newsome will divide up his defending 15th Region champion Lady Cats and send them through their intrasquad game.

At approximately 8 p.m., the boys squad will take the court. A three-point shooting contest will be held between the second and third game.

Admission for the intrasquad games is $2 for students and $3 for adults. (PSA)

Basketball-hungry fans crowd Martin gym

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was an extra long baseball season. Football has finally ended and basketball nuts are just starting to get their season underway.

At the Martin Elementary gym this past Saturday afternoon, basketball fans crowded the small Martin gym for the first game this season of organized basketball in the county.

Martin coach Doug Derosssett said that fans are hungry for the basketball season to start.

"We had around 1,200 people in the gym today taking in the basketball games," he said. "That's counting players as well. We sold around 765 tickets at the door."

Fifteen games were played at the Martin gym in a marathon that started at 9 a.m. None of the teams has had much time for practice and that was evident.

Betsy Layne versus Duff girls

Betsy Layne's girls faced the Duff Lady Bulldogs in the opening game with Duff pulling out a close 19-18 win over the Lady Bobcats.

Natie Cooley led the Lady Bulldogs with 13 points. Brown, Martin and Slone scored two each for Duff.

Robinette led the Lady Bobcats with eight points. Gregory added four with Gearheart and Tackett scoring two each. Hopkins also scored two points.

Duff versus Betsy Layne boys

In the boys' first game, Duff edged Betsy Layne 30-28 with Ryan Owens scoring 12 points to lead the Bulldogs. Gary Hunter added eight points. Barry Conley, Rodney Bentley, Slone and Corbett Howell each scored two each as did Paige.

Shannon Williams led the Bobcats with 11 points.

MCA versus Harold

The Mountain Christian Academy defeated the Harold Red Devils 25-22. Mark Burchett was impressive for the Falcons as he tossed in 13 points. Luke Luster hit a three-point basket and free throw for four points. Collins added four with Alvin Reed and Josh Hall scoring two each.

Gross topped Harold with seven points. Conway scored six with Keathley adding four for the Red Devils. Collins and Cecil had two each.

Allen vs Millard

Nathan Leslie scored 14 points to lead the Allen Eagles to a 36-27 win over the Millard Mustangs. Jason Keathley added 10 points in the win with Seth Crisp scoring eight points. Robbie Holbrook tossed in four.

Millard was led by Bill Bevins with 10 points. David Mullins netted nine while Chris Syck scored six. Joe Belcher had the other two points for the Mustangs.

Leslie scored 10 of his game-high 14 points in the first half.

Bevins hit two three-pointers for Millard.

Adams Lady Blackcats versus Harold

The Adams Lady Blackcats got a 15-point performance from Crystal Slone and rolled to a 33-11 win over the Harold Lady Red Devils. Kim Nunnery tossed in six points as did Brani Slone. Stephanie Hackworth came on in the second half and scored six points for Adams.

Clark led Harold with eight points. Stevens scored two and Steele had one point.

Martin versus Mullins

Mullins edged the Martin Purple Flash 31-28 behind the 10-point outing by Jody Hinkle. Kyle Cordial added six points with Wes Mullins and Brian Samons scoring four apiece.

Tyler Mullins, Doug Boyd and Josh Slone scored two apiece.

Martin was led by James Seward, who tossed in eight points. Matthew Mayo added eight, hitting six of six free throws. Jesse Hall scored five while Jeremy Sexton, Patrick Martin and Matthew Compton netted two each.

Larry Mullins had the only three-point basket and he finished with three points.

Adams versus Millard

Defending Floyd County champions, Adams Middle School, showed why they are expected to repeat after posting a effortless 44-20 win over Millard.

Kalen Harris, with some big moves on the inside, scored 10 points to share game honors with Joe Campbell. John Ortega scored nine points while Russ Music tossed in six.

Adam Hall had three points with Caudill, Turner and Amburgey scoring two each.

Stumbo girls versus Melvin girls

Amanda Hall scored seven points, hitting two key free throws with five seconds left, to help the Stumbo Lady Mustangs to a 15-13 win over Melvin.

The two Hall free throws broke a 13-13 tie.

Krystal Newsome scored five points for the winners. Sheena Akers tossed in three.

Misty Berger scored five points for Melvin. Monica McKinney scored four, and it was her free throw with 10 seconds left that tied the game at 13. Shawna Hall totaled four points.

Melvin versus Beaver

Charlie Williams scored a game-high 15 points to help lead the Melvin Cougars to a one-sided 30-16 win over Beaver.

Williams scored 11 of his points in the first half as coach John Martin played his reserves the second half.

Dusty Tackett, Steve Johnson, Blaine Atkins and Kenneth Younce had two each. James Slone came off the bench and scored four points for Melvin.

Kenny Slone and Jamie Hall had four points each for Beaver. Jeremy Johnson, Ray Slone, Jared Thornberry and Matt Martin scored two each.

Martin versus Auxier

Both teams had problems scoring, but the Auxier Lady Hornets stung the Martin Lady Flashes 17-2 with Tonya Honeycutt scoring 10 points to lead Auxier. Shelly Greathouse tossed in four points and Mandy Music scored two. Samantha Crass had one point.

Jennifer Hopkins scored Martin's lone two points.

Melvin versus Maytown

Maytown edged Melvin 16-14 on a basket by Delenda Howard with 36 seconds to play. Howard led all scorers with 11 points. Jenny Wells added two while Scarberry scored two.

Misty Berger led Melvin with six points. McKinney added two as did Tackett. Hall hit a three-pointer for Melvin and finished with three points.

One "B" team game was played during the afternoon and that was between Martin and Porter.

Chad Samons hit two three-pointers and finished with 10 points to lead Martin to a 32-15 win over Porter. Samons made a desperation shot at the close of the first half, a shot that came almost at center court.

Jeremy Sexton also scored 10 points for the winners. Larry Mullins finished with three points and Patrick Martin scored four. Brett Patton scored three and Shawn Flannery added two.

Kyle Jennings scored eight to lead Porter. Alex Skeens totaled four, as did Brian Hale. Ben Hale scored two.

Maytown versus Auxier boys

Nathan Goble scored 12 points to lead Maytown to a 36-10 win over the Auxier Hornets. Brandon Hoover and Johnny Murphy added six each.

Chris Owens scored five points with a three-point basket. Shawn Ousley scored three and Jeremy Hayes had two points. Tim Davis netted three points.

Chris McCown scored four points to lead Auxier. Ricky Powers, Jason King and Brandon Hall added two each.

Campbell scores 12 points in Adams' win over Duff

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Defending county champion Adams Middle School got their season off on a winning note after defeating a good Duff Bulldog team 56-31 Monday night.

The two teams met in the first round of the Adams Middle School Invitational Tournament that will run through the week.

Joe Campbell topped the Blackcats in scoring with 12 points, but he saw limited playing time.

Coach Jack Goodman played his entire bench in the game with the starters sitting out most of the second half.

Adams jumped out to a 14-4 first-quarter lead as they overcame stall tactics by the Bulldogs.

John Ortega and Campbell scored four points each in the first period. Campbell gave the Blackcats a 2-0 lead. Then Ortega buried a three-pointer and followed with a layup as Adams vaulted to a 7-0 lead.

A rebound basket by Adam Hall, followed by Campbell's layup and Kalen Harris' free throw, gave the Blackcats a 12-0 start.

Shawn Henson put the Bulldogs on the scoreboard by drilling a baseline jumper from 10 feet out.

Adams led 25-8 midway in the second period and went to the locker room with a 30-12 halftime lead.

Harris hit three of four free throws to start the third period as the Blackcats rolled to a 19-point, 33-14, lead.

Duff fell behind 38-17 on a basket by Campbell. Harris completed a three-point play and Campbell hit a layup to give Adams a 45-18 third quarter lead.

Duff only scored one field goal in the third period, a six-foot jumper by Leslie Slone. Nick Samon connected on two free throws while Ryan Owens hit two of four.

Eric Price scored four points in the final quarter for Adams as they built a 28-point margin. Todd Kidd hit a three-point basket and one free throw for Prestonsburg.

The Bulldogs buried three treys in the final quarter. Samons and Owens connected on back-to-back treys. Barry Conley hit one later.

Samons led the Bulldogs with nine points. Owens finished with seven and Conley three.

Henson, Corbett Howell and Brent Slone each had two points.

Ortega scored nine for Adams, as did Harris. Hall finished with six and Ryan Hardee scored five points off the bench.

Price and Kidd had four points while Jeremy Caudill tossed in three. John Dixon netted two points with teammates Russ Music and Amburgey had one each.

Adams advances to the finals of the tournament where they will face the winner of the Allen/Stumbo game Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

Osborne heads Duff girls past Betsy Layne, 25-19

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Kari Osborne scored a game-high nine points to lead the Duff Lady Bulldogs to a 25-19 win over Betsy Layne in the first game of the Adams Middle School Invitational Tournament Monday night.

Nattie Cooley and Beth Combs each scored six points for Duff.

Mendy Robinette had six points to lead Betsy Layne.

Combs scored all four points for Duff in the first period as they led by one, 4-3, after the initial period.

Betsy Layne was cold from the free throw line as they missed five attempts in the second period and trailed 13-7 at the half.

Duff built a 10-point lead, 21-11, on a three-point play by Cooley to start the fourth quarter. Baskets by Candice Gregory, Robinette and Ashley Gearheart cut the lead to four points, 21-17, with 3:23 left to play.

Osborne then scored back-to-back baskets sandwiched between a basket by Robinette, to give the Lady Bulldogs their first win.

Gearheart and Gregory finished with four points each for Betsy Layne. Leslie Hopkins had three points and Amanda Clark scored two.

Kari Brown and Mary Mullins each scored two points for Duff.

Duff (1-0) will take on John M. Stumbo tonight at 6 p.m. in the second round of the Adams invitational.

1-800-228-TALK

When You Feel Like There's Nothing Else Left, Call.

When it happens, it happens slowly. The good things in your life get consumed by something else. Depression. Abuse. Loneliness. Addiction. Alcoholism. Despair.

If you suffer from any one of them, you know just how hard it is to feel better again. You might not even know that you can feel better again. You can.

The first step is easy. Call Clear View. The call is completely confidential. You don't have to talk long or even say your name. But, at least you can find out what your options are.

The person on the other end of the phone is someone who sees these problems every day, and knows how to help. In fact, our entire staff, from doctors to social workers, receives ongoing education in the latest theories and practices.

Clear View is the department at King's Daughters' Medical Center devoted entirely to emotional problems of all kinds. Please call us. We listen. We help. We're here.

One of the state's best!

Darrell Fite (32) of East Carter got good blocking as he went on a sweep against Prestonsburg Friday night in playoff action. Fite rushed for over 200 yards against Prestonsburg. However, the Cats came home with a 37-29 win. (photo by Ed Taylor)

"It felt good to beat the three runners that were ranked ahead of me," he said. Robertson has consistently been ranked in the top seven in the state all season.

He won all five local meets at the Paintsville Lake this fall.

He hopes to attend the University of Kentucky where he will pursue a degree in engineering. He doesn't know if he will take the challenge of cross-country in college or not.

"I just don't know right now," he said. "I'm tired and I was just hoping to get the season over with. I don't know if I can handle the pressure of training over again and trying to keep up my studies."

Robertson is hoping to be named to the All-Area team this year.

"I'm going to miss competing in cross-country," he said. "I hope with the younger runners coming in that the program will keep going here at Prestonsburg."

Robertson will compete in the Junior Olympics next week.

He put in 50-60 miles of running per week which comes out to about 20 hours a week.

"I had a good team around me," he said. "It was a good atmosphere and there seem to be more interest. Ryan was very important to our team this year."

Robertson said that Coach Hughes was a big factor in his running career because he shared so much with him.

"It is beyond words to describe what he has done for me," he said. "He just knows so much about running. He spent evenings with me, training me, when he could have been home.

"Coach Hughes was a big encouragement to me. He would give me things to read on running. He had videos on running and I borrowed them. He just shared a lot of things with me.

"He's helped the program at Prestonsburg. He designed my workout scheduled for me. Without him I would not have been where I am today."

"Stewart is an exceptional individual," said Hughes of his student. "He does what you tell him to do. He has parents who are understanding of what you are trying to do. You couldn't ask for better parents.

"This is a big moment for Floyd County athletics. This is the first time that anyone from Floyd County has placed in the top fifteen. Jessica Wade placed 16th her senior year."

Robertson said that he appreciates all the respect the Prestonsburg cross-country team has gained across the state.

"Mrs. (Karen) Trivette has been so supportive of us," he said. "She wanted us to look like a team when we went to the state meet, and she purchased new sweats for us and we did look like a team."

Stewart Robertson. A winner. A determined young man who one day hopes to be able to return to Floyd County and help others like he was helped.

Fishing with Scott Patton

One thing just about any man-made reservoir has is riprap. This too is a man-made structure. Riprap is the large, 7-to-10-inch rocks along bridges. The core will also put riprap along areas that may have land sliding. Riprap is a key structure in the spring and fall.

In the spring, the rocks will collect heat and hold it when the water is still cold. This is one area that heats up quicker so fish are attracted to it for these reasons.

To me, fall is a much better pattern to fish. The rocks have collected a coating of moss growing on them. If you would rub your hand on the ones that are submerged you'll feel the slickness of them. This is the moss. It is what shad are drawn to during the fall.

What fall brings is cooler water and there is more oxygen in this area of water now. The bass are attracted to the abundance of shad. The angler who knows these things will be quicker at finding catchable fish and can usually run the riprap all over the lake in a day's time and have a very successful catch. Now we know when, where, and why to fish riprap, so let's talk about how to catch them.

There are several baits on the market that will catch fish on riprap, but keep in mind the fish are looking for shad. I try to imitate the shad. Certain days it may take other baits but my choices are usually crankbaits, spinnerbaits, and buzzbaits.

One other bait that the pros will use is a floating worm. This is used to catch really big bass. I'll use a Bass Pro Shops floating worm with 14 lb. test camouflage line on either bait casting or spinning outfits. I twitch it really slow and hang on. I know that this pattern will catch fish just about anywhere, providing of course there's fish there.

This fall be sure to try this pattern and please always help keep our waters clean. Keep a positive attitude, Keep casting, and Keep FISHING!!!

What I like in a good author is not what he says, but what he whispers.

Allen Eagles get by Betsy Layne as Crisp scores 24

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Seth Crisp and Nathan Leslie combined for 44 points to lead the Allen Eagles past a strong Betsy Layne team, 63-53.

It was the opening of the new season for both ballclubs as they squared off in the opening session of the Adams Middle School Invitational Tournament this past Monday night.

Crisp led all scorers with 24 points while Leslie tossed in 20. A third member of the Eagles hit in double figures as Jason Keathley scored 17 points. Robbie Holbrook had the only other two points for the Eagles.

Betsy Layne placed three players in double-figure scoring led by Josh Howell's 16 points. Kevin Hughes added 12 and Shannon Williams netted 11. Tyler Puckett just missed double figures as he scored eight before fouling out. John Boyd tossed in six.

Allen held a nine-point lead early in the second period, 21-12, until Hughes and Howell ignited a rally that netted the Bobcats the lead.

Howell drilled a three-pointer to cut the lead to six. Boyd scored on a layup and Howell connected on one-of-two free throws for a 21-18 game. After Matt Tackett missed two free throws, Hughes scored on a 18-footer and then on a layup to give Betsy Layne their first, and only lead, at 22-21.

Crisp then scored five of his team's next seven points to send them out in front 28-22 at the half.

Allen got a lot of easy baskets underneath to start the second half to build a 13-point lead, 37-24.

Crisp hit his second trey and Leslie went on a tear, scoring 10 points as the Eagles rolled to a 45-31 lead.

At the onset of the fourth period, Keathley scored back-to-back baskets to send Allen out to a 52-36 lead and the Eagles were soaring.

But the Bobcats still had some claws left and battled back to within seven points as they went on a 11-0 run. Allen turned the ball over several times and went cold down low.

Williams hit a short jumper, Howell connected on three of four free throws and Hughes scored consecutive baskets to pull the Bobcats to within seven.

A three-point play by Keathley sent the Eagles back out to a 57-47 lead with 2:52 left to play. But the Bobcats, though wounded, still had some fight left.

Hughes scored on a layup and Howell hit two free throws to cut the lead to six, 57-51. Following an Allen turnover, Howell scored on a rebound basket to narrow the margin to four, 57-53, with 1:40 left to play.

Crisp then took charge by hitting a 6-foot jumper and two free throws. Leslie completed the scoring with a 10-foot jumper ahead of the final horn.

Crisp had the only three-pointers for Allen with Howell connecting on one for Betsy Layne.

The Eagles go to 1-0 on the season while Betsy Layne falls to 0-1.

HIGH ON THE HOG

This is really not meant to be a book review, but if you like, you can consider it one.

It's just that an old country boy like me can't resist sharing some of the good stuff in I Hope You're Living As High on the Hog As the Pig You Turned Out to Be (Longstreet Press; $18.95) by country music star "Whispering" Bill Anderson.

This book appeals to me not because of what it is, but instead, because of what it isn't. It's not the typical biographical effort we've come to expect by established Nashville stars. Instead, it's a collection of stories gathered through Anderson's long career in the music business. Most of the tales are about other country music performers with whom we're equally familiar.

Here are a few samples.

* "Bill Monroe has never been known as a man of many words. He has preferred, over the years, to let his world-renowned bluegrass music do most of the talking for him.

The story goes that the late Clyde Moody, then a new member of Bill's famed Bluegrass Boys band, had trouble dealing with the fact that Bill would often travel for days on end without speaking to him. A car loaded with musicians can grow awfully small if the air is thick with tension. Clyde felt he had to speak to Bill about the silence.

Clyde Pack

"Mr. Bill," he said one morning as the group was loading the car to leave on a long trip, "maybe I don't belong in this group. I've been with you several weeks now and you haven't even spoken to me."

To which Bill replied, "Good morning, Clyde. Git in."

And he never said another word."

* "A fan asked Dolly Parton how long it takes her to do her hair.

To which Dolly replied, "I don't know. I'm never there.""

* "Loretta Lynn, on an overseas tour, after having received an unfavorable review in a London newspaper:

"If I can get my hands on the guy who wrote that, I'll whup him all over the state of England."

* Little Jimmy Dickens once had a band member quit his job without warning.

"Aren't you even going to give me a notice?" Jimmy asked, puzzled by the player's unexpected actions.

"Yeah," the musician answered, disrespectfully, "Tomorrow when you look for me, you'll 'notice' I'm gone."

Of course, all of Anderson's tidbits aren't quips from his fellow entertainers. He also pokes a little fun at the industry itself.

"Question: How many country singers does it take to screw in a light bulb?"

Answer: Five. One to screw in the new one and Senior citizens and students share the joy of reading at Osborne Elementary School

"I try to read my best when my senior comes to listen to me."

"He tells me stories about a long time ago, and it's fun."

"She makes me want to try harder in school, and I feel good when she hugs me good-bye."

These remarks from children capture the spirit of a unique project in South Floyd that began its fifth year on October 17.

Twice each month 10 senior citizens from the Wheelwright Senior Citizens Center travel to Osborne Elementary School and spend time with 2nd and 3rd graders. Carlotta Jones, Chapter I teacher at the Osborne School, and Lois Curry, director of the Wheelwright Senior Citizen Center, coordinate the project.

During their time together, each child reads to his/her senior. The pair spend time talking and sharing stories, and often join together in a group activity.

"There is no generation gap here," said Jones. "The children love their seniors and are proud to show them how they are improving their reading ability. The children always look forward to the visit."

Seniors benefit from the project, too. Lizzie Thornsby of Weeksbury, a former teacher, said, "I enjoy sharing poems with the children. I have always loved children and I want to help them."

Beatrice Jones of Melvin said, "I feel that this project also teaches children about respect for older people."

Sue Johnson of Wheelwright exclaimed, "It's a great time for us. We know that the children listen to us, and it makes us feel important in their lives."

All the seniors stated that the project was one they enjoy. Other seniors participating include Hershel Fouts of Melvin, Gertrude Lawson and Andy Collins of Price, Ecie Moore of Hi Hat, Audrey Hall of Buckingham, Roxie Branham and Mary Sanders of Wheelwright.

Children participating in the project include Crystal Johnson, Jason Johnson, Kimberly Tackett, Dana McCown, Justin Caudill, Brandon Johnson, Byron Johnson, Brandon Little, Stephanie Mullins and Timothy Bates.

Vivian Whitehead, Vista volunteer and coordinator of Family Literacy for the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council praised the project. "I heard about the project when I conducted a Reading with Children workshop for the senior citizens in Wheelwright in September. I could tell that these seniors did not need to be convinced of the importance of intergenerational experiences and the unique role seniors play in reading with children. This project is a model for other schools and senior citizen groups in Floyd County."

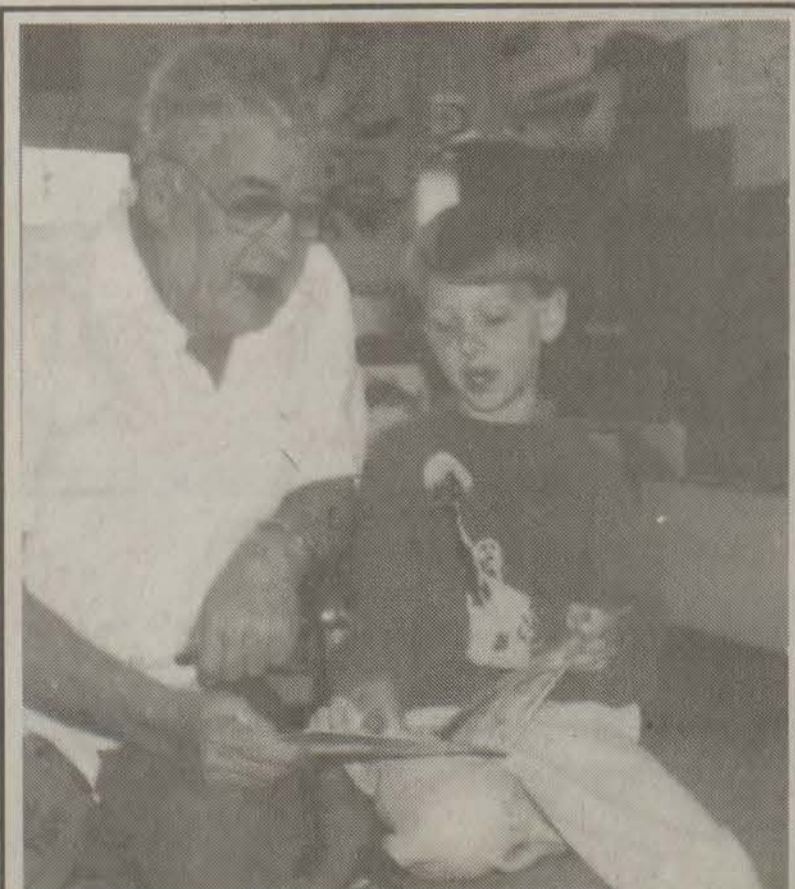

Reading lesson

Lizzie Thornsby listens as Kimberley Tackett reads from a book about bears. Audrey Hall and Timothy Bates also enjoy the reading session.

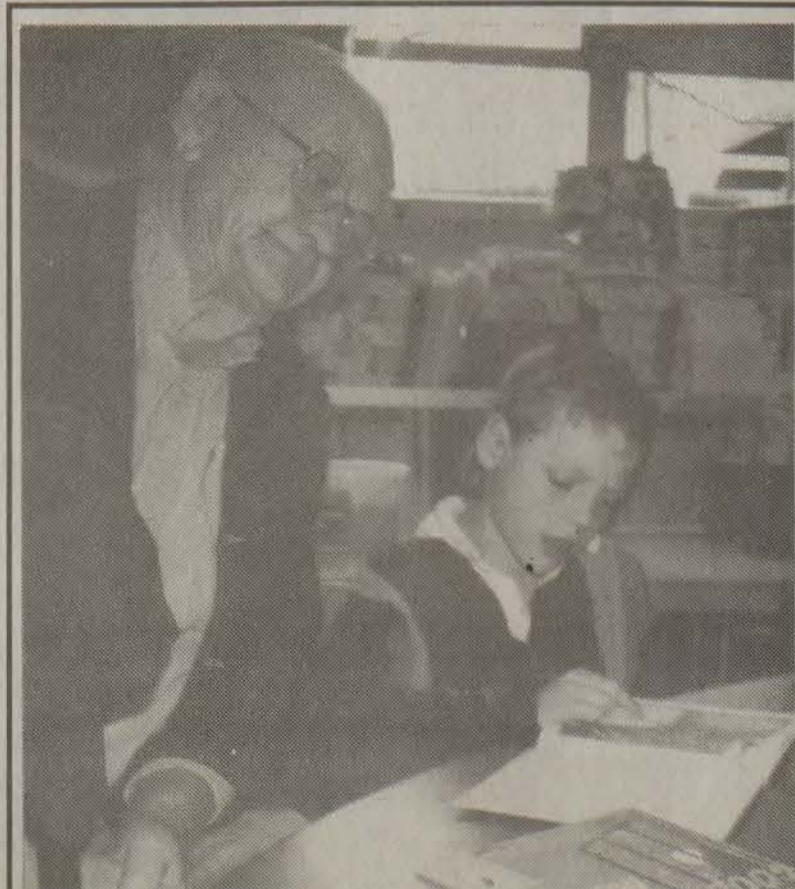

Learning experience

Wheelwright senior citizens and Osborne Elementary students learn from each other. The senior citizens visit the second and third grade classes at the school twice each month.

Delightful book

Reading aloud

Wheelwright senior citizen Andy Collins listens intently as Osborne Elementary student Brandon Little reads aloud.

LOOKING FOR BALANCE WHEN FEAR TAKES HOLD

Our 5-year-old son ran screaming from the back yard and darted into our house.

My wife, who had gone inside on this sunny day to get a drink for him and his 2-year-old sister, thought maybe one of them had been hurt. Or perhaps they had gotten into an argument.

No big surprise there.

But she was stunned when he told her why he was upset.

"Mommy!" he said. "You left the back gate open. Somebody might get us."

At first I wrote that story off as a typical fear of a typical 5-year-old. How many kids aren't afraid of the dark and just about every thing else at that age?

But this was unlike anything I had heard him mention before.

This was a sunny day. He was relaxed and playing in his own back yard.

But he freaked out when he saw the open gate.

After thinking it over, I realized this wasn't an isolated instance of fear around our house.

My wife had been talking about how she doesn't always feel comfortable getting out alone after dark with the kids. She worried someone might try to harm them if the car broke down.

And I'd been awakened at least twice last week by dreams of someone breaking into our home.

Even my daughter has been touched with the epidemic of paranoia.

"I scared of my room," she's been saying.

We're still unsure why she's been such a scaredy-cat.

But I've got a pretty good idea of what's gotten into the rest of us.

WALKING A FINE LINE

In today's society, you can't start early enough teaching your children about the perils of strangers.

Kids get abducted every day. You've heard the horror stories. Sometimes I think our son has heard too many of them too early in life.

We've told him about why he shouldn't talk to strangers, about what to do if a stranger approaches him. We want him to be able to protect and even defend himself if necessary.

But where do you draw the line?

Do we want our kids to be so paranoid that they never want to speak to anyone they don't know, or to automatically suspect the worst about them?

I don't think so.

But we don't want them to wind up being another statistic, either.

Still, being frightened of leaving the gate open in your own back yard in broad daylight seems extreme to me, especially when you grew up in the country like I did.

My wife's fears about going out at night seem a bit much as well, not that I blame her. Seems like we read or hear about somebody running into a whacko just about every day, and the victims aren't always in big cities.

We've been trying to talk our daughter out of her fears.

We've heard no reports of any killer Big Birds or Barneys on the loose in her room or anywhere else.

I'm sure she hasn't either.

But we still don't like to see her being so tentative and so hesitant about basic things, such as playing with neighbors or going into a room by herself.

Perhaps it's a phase that will pass.

People have been doing bad things to other people ever since people began. But sometimes it seems there's a lot more of it going on today.

Most people who grew up prior to the 1980s don't remember having to worry about child abductors, home invaders or muggers at the mall. I wish we didn't now, but that's the way life is.

Fortunately there's still plenty of good out there, too. There are still people around—and many of them young people—who sincerely try to help others in need and to show compassion to others. And not every stranger is a pervert with bad intentions.

As much as I want my children to use their heads and avoid putting themselves at risk, I also want them to learn to anticipate the good in people.

I would like to think this fear thing is just a blip on life's big radar screen.

Guess time will tell.

Leadership meeting

ACHS Future Homemakers of America

Members of the Allen Central Future Homemakers of America organization attended the Fall Region Eleven Leadership Meeting held at Shelby Valley High School on September 17.

The annual training session is presented to give local chapter officers the opportunity to obtain knowledge of office responsibilities and duties.

Rister, treasurer; Veronica Flannery, reporter; Crystal Taylor, parliamentarian; Kim Hunter, historian; and Staci Conn, activity leader.

Chapters were represented from Floyd, Pike, Martin, Magoffin, and Johnson counties.

The chapter attended a national F.H.A. meeting in St. Louis, Missouri on October 21. The meeting brings together chapter organizations from across the United States. The meeting provides instruction in leadership skills, team building skills, and focuses on current teen issues.

The members have plans for a variety of projects and activities.

Lunch bunch

Dr. Chandra Varia of Martin visited Prestonsburg Community College on Tuesday, October 18 to meet with participants in PCC's Homemaker and Single Parent Program. Dr. Varia spoke to the "lunch bunch" on the subject of Women and Leadership. Participants then enjoyed a lunch of pizza and soft drinks.

Rebekah Lodge No. 31

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held November 1, with the new noble grand, Wanda Elste, presiding.

The sick members were noted with cards being signed for them. Communications were read and disposed of. The date for initiation was set for November 15. This will also be the lodge's Thanksgiving dinner. Plans were completed for the dinner. All members are invited to attend and bring a dish of food.

The altar was draped in memory of Sam Moody of New Liberty, a past grand master of the I.O.O.F. of Kentucky who passed away in October.

Practice session was set for November 10, at 6:30 p.m. All officers are urged to be present for the learning session.

Members present for this meeting were: Wanda Elste, Paulena Owens, Hope Whitten, Violetta Wright, Susie Clifton, Maman Leslie, and Mable Jane LeMaster.

The next regular meeting will be Tuesday, November 15, at 6 p.m. in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Reception to honor former residents of Martin area

A farewell reception will be held Saturday, November 12 to honor Earl and Altonette Bentley, formerly of Martin. The reception will be held from 2-5 p.m. at the Stephens Branch Baptist Church, Martin. Mr. and Mrs. Bentley have been life-long residents of the Martin and Maytown communities and will now be residing in Underwood, Indiana.

Gobles host dinner

Don and Maxine Goble of Auxier Road entertained members of the Tall Tale Campers to a soup bean supper at their home on Friday night, October 28.

Those enjoying the meal were Walker and Thursa Keathley of Ashland; Don and Etta Lafferty of Oil Springs; Harold and Alice Conley of Oil Springs; George and Laura Vaughan, Dallas and Ruby Sammons, Frank and Kristal Bradley, Nickie Bradley, Cheryl Jarrell, and Donnie Goble, all of Prestonsburg; Dallas

Faye Sammons of Morehead; Melanie and Marc Lester of Louisa; and the host and hostess, Don and Maxine Goble.

The house was decorated in a Halloween theme.

Williams visit Cincinnati

Mrs. Ronda Williams and children, along with Jean Williams, were out-of-town guests of her parents, Ron and Judy Hooker in Cincinnati, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Hooker are former residents of Prestonsburg.

In Cincinnati, the family and friends shopped, and later attended a Cincinnati Bengals-Dallas Cowboys game.

Gobles tour New England

Don and Maxine Goble of Prestonsburg; Walker and Thursa Keathley of Ashland; and Don and Etta Lafferty of Oil Springs, have returned from a 21-day motor home tour of all the New England states. They had a lovely view of the autumn foliage and on their way home, they spent a few days at Niagara Falls.

four to sing about how much they miss the old one."

Anyway you look at it, though, this book is a fun read.

And while we're talking about country music, when is someone going to come up with a name to call what they're now calling country?

Folks like Loretta, Dolly, Hank Snow and Porter Waggoner are country. Garth Brooks, Travis Tritt, Marty Stuart, Reba McEntire, and the like, aren't.

That's not to say that their music isn't good or anything, but to say those in the first group sing the same type of music as those in the second, is like putting me and Stephen King and Tom Clancy in the same category because we all write.

National contest launched to find babies, children for 1996 "kids" calendar

Aristar Calendar Company, in cooperation with the Children's Wish Foundation International, has launched a national contest to select youngsters—infants to age 12—to be showcased in a new 1996 "Kids" calendar. Proceeds from a portion of the sales of the calendars will benefit the Children's Wish Foundation, which fulfills the wishes of terminally-ill children.

Twelve first-place winners and 50 runners-up will be selected by a panel of judges in New York City with the winners sharing $25,000 in cash and prizes. The 12 first-place winners will participate in a professional photoshoot at the sponsor's expense and be featured in the 1996 Aristar "Kids" calendar to be sold nationally.

The non-profit, Atlanta-based Children's Wish Foundation International, was founded in 1985 in memory of 14-year-old Susan Dozoretz who died of bone cancer. Since then, the Foundation, whose mission is to bring to life the dreams of terminally-ill children, has granted thousands of wishes to ailing youngsters.

The wishes granted have ranged from a trip to New York City for three-year-old Brittany and her family to meet and be embraced by Big Bird and Telly Monster, her favorite characters of "Sesame Street," to a visit in Atlanta arranged by the Foundation for six-year-old Jonathan to meet with his favorite actor, Bill Cosby.

Aristar Calendar Company, a manufacturer and distributor of specialty calendars, is accepting photographs of candidates for the contest. To enter, parents should send a black and white or color photograph (snapshot or professional, in any size) of their child with his or her name imprinted on the back of the photograph. In addition, parents should print on a separate piece of paper their names, address and telephone and the name and age of their child.

Entries, which must be postmarked no later than December 31, should be mailed to Aristar Calendar Company, 575 Madison Avenue, Suite 1006, Dept. 3A, New York, NY 10022. For return of the photograph, a self-addressed, stamped envelope should be included with the entry.

The Aristar "Kids" calendar winners will be announced at a gala ceremony in New York City to be attended by the winners and their families as guests of the sponsor.

Farm & Family

Kentucky Farm Bureau not just for farmers

The Kentucky Farm Bureau in Floyd County is undergoing changes. The Farm Bureau members have a new home, new officers and a new agent. On October 21, the Farm Bureau hosted an open house to show off its renovated offices on South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg. The building has been newly renovated by the Floyd County Farm Bureau Federation under the direction of Donald Hicks, Billy Hicks, Charles Hackworth and Eddie Akers.

The open house celebration was also held to help spread the word about its various programs.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation was organized more than 75 years ago to give farmers an effective voice in public policy matters. Currently, farm bureau lobbyists are working to help the tobacco farmers and to prevent insecticides harming water supplies, Delphia Hicks, secretary of the Floyd County Farm Bureau Federation, said Monday.

Farm Bureau's full-time lobbyists are on duty anytime the state legislature, congress or regulatory agencies act on matters affecting farmers. The federation's many legislative achievements include working toward better roads, lower taxes and better profit potential through market-oriented programs to enhance farm income.

Farm Bureau programs include representation before legislative and regulatory agencies, public information, safety and rural health, women's leadership training, young farmers programs, market information services, environmental education, ag in the classroom activities, insurance, and programs offering discounts on the purchase of various products and services.

In Floyd County, Farm Bureau members award four $500, 4-year scholarships annually to students whose parents are members of the federation. The county bureau is assisting seven students through college, Hicks said. The local group can have as many as 16 students on the program. In the past, students received two-year scholarships, but last year, the scholarship program was increased to a four-year membership.

The group also aids the Betsy Layne High School Future Farmers of America (FFA) greenhouse project. It supports Prestonsburg High School's FFA achievement banquet and the 4-H camp. It also contributes to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and sponsors trips to the Kentucky State Fair.

It will also help sponsor Outstanding Farm Bureau Youth competitions. Chuck Stamper, with the Floyd County 4-H program, is working on developing competitions in the county for next year.

Floyd County teachers and students participate in the Farm Bureau Ag in the Classroom program. An Ag Education Lending Library is also available to Floyd County teachers.

The federation also helps young farmers in the area develop leadership abilities. Michael Hackworth, a young farmer in Floyd County, is just one of the young adults 30 and under who participates in the program.

The Floyd County Farm Bureau is also working to develop recycling programs.

Officers of the Floyd County Farm Bureau Federation are Eddie Akers, president; Billy Hicks, vice president; and Delphia Hicks, secretary.

Board members are Billy Merritt, Michael Hackworth, Arnold Lowe, Saul Akers, Jack Friar, Joe Hicks, Charles Hackworth and Donald Hicks.

All members of the board serve without pay, except for the secretary.

Membership to the federation costs $20 annually. The Floyd County Farm Bureau keeps $8.25 of that amount, and that money is used to fund local programs.

Membership in the program has its advantages, including a discount on medications from participating pharmacies. For their $20 membership fee, members also receive an accidental death policy, which pays up to $1,500.

Members can also purchase insurance through the Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance Agency. The agency is now under management of Floyd Greene, who is agent and owner. He is assisted by his son, Doug.

Farm Bureau members also receive discounts on vehicle purchases or rentals, stays at Howard Johnson Motor Lodges, Ramada Inns, or Kentucky State Park Lodges. Members get discounts on theme park admissions, purchase of eyeglasses, hearing aids, jewelry or shoes.

To find out more about this program, or to become a member, contact Mrs. Hicks at 886-8597.

The group meets on the second Friday of each month.

Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

Senior citizens, have you seen either Estelle Getty of "The Golden Girls" or Floyd Patterson past heavy-weight boxing champion, hanging around lately?

Were you to be at my office at Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky Inc. (Legal Services) in Prestonsburg, the sponsor for the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens in the Big Sandy area, you would see them. Through efforts of the American Lung Association, posters bearing the pictures of these celebrities are being circulated. Their message to you is, "Be A Fighter. Knock out the flu!"

Thousands of people die each year in the United States from the flu. Senior citizens are especially at risk. For this reason one should give special consideration to receiving a shot for the 1994-95 flu season. Flu season in the United States is generally considered to be the months of November through April. This year's vaccine contains viruses from three strains that health professionals, who track epidemics, feel will be most likely to occur this winter. This virtually painless injection can safeguard you through the months ahead.

Medicare Part B will pay for flu shots this year. Check with your doctor to determine whether or not you will be charged for an office call. Also, don't forget your county's health department. County health departments are making appointments now for those who desire to have flu shots whether or not you are a Medicare recipient. I had my shot today at the Floyd County Health Department. The charge was $4.00. Fees may vary slightly between counties. Since I work near the health department it was more convenient for me to go there than to my private physician. However, the choice is yours. I do want you to be aware of the options available to you.

When going for your flu shot be sure to tell the health professional if you are allergic to eggs; if you've had serious reactions to other influenza vaccinations or other vaccines; if you have been paralyzed with Guillain-Barre' syndrome; if you are pregnant or think that you might be; or if at the time of your appointment you are not feeling well, or have a severe illness.

It is rare that anyone has a serious reaction to a flu shot. However, should you have a severe reaction ask your doctor, nurse, health care professional, or health department to file a Vaccine Adverse Event Report form or call: 800-822-7967 toll free.

Halee celebrated second birthday

Halee Jazmin Hicks

Halee Jazmin Hicks, daughter of Tim and Edwina Hicks of Prestonsburg, celebrated her second birthday on September 9 with a party at home. A Barney ice cream cake was served to her guests.

Those attending were her mother; her brother, Weston; Peggy Ousley; Geneva Ward; Tanda, Cameron, Kelsey, and Taylor Bailey; Trent, Lynn and Trista Hicks, Vicki and Lauren Hughes, William, Sherry and Micaya Canterbury.

Halee is the granddaughter of Ed and Peggy Ousley and Carl and Billie Jean Hicks all of Prestonsburg. She is the great-granddaughter of Tandy and Ethel Bartley of New Smyrna Beach, Florida, formerly of Williamson, West Virginia.

If you get the flu, symptoms usually are fever, chills, cough, soreness and aching in your back, arms, and legs. For most people the flu is short-lived but in more serious cases people must be hospitalized, and yes, sometimes people die from it or related complications. There is no guarantee, once you've had your shot, that you won't get the flu, but usually it is a much lighter case with far less serious consequences. The flu shot is the safest way to battle the bug and win. I strongly encourage you to make arrangements to be vaccinated today so you will have greater assurance of enjoying the forthcoming holidays flu-free. For most people it takes a week or two for the vaccine to "kick in." Be a fighter. Knock out the flu before it gets you down. That was Floyd Patterson's philosophy in the ring. Estelle Getty shares his philosophy in regard to our health.

This information is shared with you by the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens. Sunshine Lines is your column. FRUIT COCKTAIL CAKE

Cream together:
1/4 c. brown sugar
1 1/2 c. granulated sugar
1/2 c. butter or margarine
Add:
2 eggs
1 tsp vanilla
Sift together:
2 cups flour
1/4 tsp salt
2 tsp. soda
Add to creamed mixture gradually, beating after each addition.
Then add:
1 (No. 303) can fruit cocktail, well drained
1/2 c. nuts (broken pecans are best)
Pour into greased and floured 9x13x2-inch pan.
Bake approximately 45 minutes in 350° oven.
Serve plain or with topping.

"TOPPING"

Combine in saucepan:
1/3 c. butter or margarine
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 c. milk
3/4 c. sugar
Boil one minute, stirring constantly.
Remove from heat. Pour over cake.
Top with:
1 (3 1/2-oz.) can coconut
1/2 c. broken pecans
Brown under broiler if desired.

DELICIOUS DESSERT

Beat until stiff:
3 egg whites
Gradually add:
1 c. sugar

1/2 tsp. baking powder
Then add:
1 tsp vanilla
Fold in:
3/4 c. nuts
19 to 20 party snack crackers, crushed

Pour into ungreased 9x9-inch pan.
Bake about 35 minutes in 300° oven. Cool.

Whip: 1 cup whipping cream
Spread over top. Refrigerate overnight. This will keep for two days.

MACARONI CASSEROLE

Combine:
1 c. grated cheese
1 (7 oz.) pkg. macaroni
1 green pepper, chopped
1 (10 3/4-oz.) can cream of mushroom soup
2 T. butter
1/2 c. mayonnaise
1 onion, chopped
Thin mixture with milk. Pour into 2-qt. greased casserole. Bake 30 minutes in 350° oven.

HOT BROWNS

(Turkey or Chicken)
Fry until crisp:
1/2 lb. bacon
Toast:
6 to 8 slices bread
Slice:
Tomatoes to make 6 to 8 slices.
Warm slices of turkey or chicken to make 6 to 8 servings.
Combine in saucepan:
1/2 stick margarine
1/2 lb. grated sharp cheese
1 (5 1/2-oz.) can evaporated milk
1 (10 3/4-oz.) can mushroom soup, undiluted
Heat until cheese melts.

Place toast in bottom of baking pan. Place sliced turkey or sliced chicken on toast. Cover with a layer of tomatoes and layer of bacon. Then pour cheese sauce over all. Broil until hot.

CHICKEN CASSEROLES

Butter:
2 slices of bread and cut into cubes.
Set aside. Place 6 slices of bread in bottom of buttered glass baking dish or pan.

Combine:
1/2 c. chopped onion
1/2 c. chopped celery
1/2 c. chopped pepper
2 c. cooked, diced chicken
3/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
1/2 c. mayonnaise

Combine with bread cubes. Pour over bread in baking dish.

Then combine:
2 slightly-beaten eggs
1 1/2 c. milk (or 1 c. milk and 1/2 c. broth)

1 (10 3/4-oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom soup

Pour over chicken mixture. Chill about 1 hour.

Sprinkle over top:
1/2 c. shredded cheese

Bake 1 hour in 325° oven.

Note: You can substitute leftover turkey for the chicken.

CHICKEN AND DRESSING CASSEROLE

Cook:
1 large stewing chicken. Dice and set aside (3 to 4 cups)

Brown:
1 c. dry bread crumbs in 2 T. butter. Set aside.

Combine:
3/4 c. chopped celery
1/2 c. chopped onion
2 T. chopped parsley

Sauté for about 15 minutes in 1/2 c. butter or margarine.

Add to 6 c. day-old bread, cut into small pieces. Toss lightly with fork.

Then add:
1/2 tsp. salt

1/2 to 1 tsp. poultry seasoning
1/8 tsp. pepper

Sprinkle with:
3 T. chicken broth

Toss lightly. Pour into greased 14x10-inch pan or 2 1/2-qt. casserole. Prepare Chicken Custard.

Pour half of the custard over dressing. Cover with the diced chicken.

Pour remaining custard over top. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in 350° oven until chicken is thoroughly heated and crumbs are golden brown.

CHICKEN CUSTARD

Melt in large saucepan:
1/2 c. butter or margarine

Blend in:
1/2 c. sifted flour

Gradually add:
4 c. chicken broth
1 c. milk

Stir constantly

Then add:
2 tsp. salt

Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens.

Blend a little of the hot mixture into 4 slightly beaten eggs. Combine with balance of hot mixture. Cook over low heat 3 or 4 minutes.

new students for the second quarter

The second quarter of the 1994-95 school year began on Thursday, October 27. One hundred-fifty new post-secondary students registered in one of the 17 program offerings. The total post-secondary enrollment now stands at approximately 500.

Some of the areas from where these students commute are Pike, Floyd, Martin, Knott, Perry, Letcher, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Morgan, Elliot, and Powell counties in Kentucky. Also students drive from Wayne and Mingo counties in West Virginia. For more information about Mayo call (606) 789-5321.

Census Bureau to collect employment data here

The U.S. Census Bureau will collect data on employment and unemployment from area residents the week of November 13-19, according to Susan Hardy, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office. The local labor force data will contribute to the national employment and unemployment picture to be released December 2 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This month's survey will also include questions on voting and registration, and on computer usage.

Information supplied by individuals to the Census Bureau is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

New PCC students should apply now for financial aid

New students at Prestonsburg Community College need to apply for financial aid now in order to receive their money by the start of classes January 11. While students can apply for aid through May, the money is delayed in getting back, resulting in the student having to pay tuition, books and living expenses out-of-pocket and then waiting to be reimbursed.

For more information about financial aid or applying for entry to PCC, call the Prestonsburg Campus at (606) 886-3863.

THE SAGA OF BOONESBOROUGH

by Jadon Gibson

When Daniel Boone returned to Little Chillicothe, the Shawnee community in present-day Ohio, he found about 500 Indians ready for war.

He had journeyed to Detroit with Shawnee Chief Black Fish and others to sell prisoners to the English. Upon their return there were several well-armed tribes of Indians gathered and making ready for war.

He heard talk of their plan to attack Boonesborough. He decided he must escape and return to warn the residents of Boonesborough to make ready for war. Yet Andrew Johnson, who duped the Indians by pretending to be a simpleton, escaped and it led Black Fish and the Shawnees to be more watchful of Boone and the others.

Finally, early one morning, Boone slipped into the woods and he traveled with great haste to put as much distance as he could between himself and his captors. As he sped along, he waded through creek beds and eventually began leaving false trails including the appearance of traveling in a circle. Boone found a leaky canoe when he reached the Ohio River and rode it to the opposite shore.

Boone evaded the chasing Indians while continuing his 160-mile journey both day and night. He refused to stop for rest or food for two days because his life and those at Boonesborough were in jeopardy.

Finally at the Blue Licks he paused for a short rest and to eat some parched corn and buffalo jerky before jumping back to his feet and continuing his flight from captivity. Late on the fourth day the bruised and tattered Boone appeared and trudged across the stump-dotted clearing at Boonesborough. He was totally fatigued.

"Help, help, it's me, Dan'l Boone," the strange looking figure yelled. "Indians are coming."

"It's Daniel Boone, he's alive," someone inside finally yelled, prompting several to come to his aid. "The Indians are at war," Boone said as he exhaled. "We must prepare to battle. Hundreds of Indians are coming."

Void of any energy, Boone, whose attire and appearance was like that of a Shawnee, then collapsed. As soon as Boone was taken into the stockade everyone crowded around to see him.

"It is Dan'l, maw," a young lad told his mother. "Look! Look at his head. His hair's most all gone."

Their leader, whom they thought was dead, now resembled their enemy. It wasn't uncommon in that era for captured settlers to be adopted as Indians but not many of them escaped.

Daniel Boone's exploits led him to be held larger than life. There was whispering at Boonesborough of his allegiance with Black Fish and that he assisted the Indians with the capture of the saltmakers—fathers, sons and husbands of many of the residents.

Everyone wanted to know about their loved ones. Twenty-seven of their number had vanished and their fate remained unknown. Following his escape and return, Andrew Johnson led a raid on the Indian Village in Ohio which resulted in the return of a number of horses that had been stolen. Heretofore the Indians emerged from the wilderness to attack the settlers before vanishing mysteriously.

Boone's wife, Rebecca, left earlier for North Carolina when she thought the Indians had finally outsmarted her husband, leading her to give up hope for his return.

Yet most of those fears dissipated with the return and warning from the spent Boone. Many of the settlers whom he led into the wild frontier were elated at his return. They thought he was dead, since few men, and even less women, returned from Indian captivity. Boone was missing for months.

After eating, exchanging news, and warning of the Indians plan to attack, Daniel retired to bed where he slept soundly.

When he arose the following morning he inspected the defenses of the settlement and found them lacking.

Boonesborough was surrounded by 16-foot spired logs pointing toward the sky, four feet of which was embedded in the earth. A platform for lookouts and for firing was built six feet above the ground around the inside of the walls. The rectangular fort was roughly 175 by 250 feet. Four towers were constructed in each corner and workers, hunters and scouts exited and entered Boonesborough through two large log gates.

Daniel longed to return to North Carolina for Rebecca but he found Boonesborough in disrepair and he knew the Indians planned to attack. In the days that followed, the palisade and cornertowers were completed, new gates were built, and the bastions strengthened.

The Indians continued their preparations for war but their travel was slow, enabling Boone and the others to strengthen the fort. Now, Boone thought, they had a chance to survive the onslaught.

In early August, Boone and several men went on a scouting expedition and saw the approaching war party. They returned to make final preparations.

They arose early the following morning and watched. As the fog lifted, at about ten o'clock, what Boone and the settlers saw made their heart race.

A war party, numbering over 400, was in plain view at a distance. It was the largest Indian force ever seen in the Kentucky settlements.

Editor's note: Boone tries to avert disaster before the siege in Jadon's From the Mountains, next week in the Floyd County Times.

Business/Real Estate

Century 21 hosts real estate career seminar

Century 21, American Way Realty, will hold a free career seminar on Thursday, November 10, from 7-8 p.m. at their office on South Lake Drive.

The seminar will explore the rewards and challenges to selling residential real estate. Individuals considering a change of career or re-entering the workforce are encouraged to contact broker/owner Dorothy Harris to learn more about real estate careers and reserve a place at the upcoming career seminar. There is no fee or obligation and everyone is welcome to attend this one hour seminar.

"There is always a need for quality real estate professionals," said Harris. "This is a special opportunity for people to find out how they can realize their professional, financial and personal goals in a flexible work environment. A real estate career gives you the chance to be paid what you're worth, not what someone else thinks you are worth."

The Century 21 system offers many resources to help its sales associates build an exciting, rewarding career, including comprehensive performance development programs, a nationwide and international referral system and extensive marketing support.

"Last year, thousands of people participated in Century 21 Career Seminars," Harris said. "Many of them are now enjoying successful careers as Century 21 sales associates and have been able to put into practice many of the key lessons learned, such as the importance of quality customer service."

Quality service is the number one priority throughout the Century 21 system and the organization has instituted a number of programs to ensure broker and agent commitment to this philosophy.

A real estate license obtained in Kentucky is a requirement to sell real estate. Century 21 American Way Realty will provide information about pre-licensing training courses to help interested individuals fulfill this requirement.

For more information about the free career seminar, contact Harris at 886-9100.

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation is a wholly owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The Century 21 system is the world's largest real estate sales organization, with presence in 15 countries and territories.

Holmes Safety Association awards

On October 27, the Pike-Floyd County chapter of the Holmes Safety Association met at the Landmark Inn in Pikeville. The meeting was to recognize mining companies in this area with excellent safety records. To qualify, a company had to compile an entire year of work and a minimum of 30,000 employee work hours without a lost time injury during the calendar year of 1993. Martin County Coal Corporation was the recipient of two awards.

The I-C underground mine was honored with a "Certificate of Achievement In Safety" award for completing a full year without experiencing any injuries leading to days away from the job. David M. Hensley, I-C mine superintendent, was in attendance to accept the award. Lee Surface Mine Number 1 was also honored with a "Certificate of Achievement In Safety" award for working the same period of time without a lost-time injury.

Business leaders support PCC's development plans

Five local business and education leaders, devoted to promoting quality higher education in Eastern Kentucky, have generously agreed to donate their time and expertise to Prestonsburg Community College's "Partners in Progress" Campaign.

Burl Wells Spurlock, president of the First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg, will serve as chairman of the campaign's selection and enlistment committee. Committee members include Bob Hutchison, owner of McDonald's restaurants in Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Salyersville, Louisa and South Williamson; Dr. Deborah L. Floyd, president of Prestonsburg Community College; John R. Triplett, a partner of Marcum and Triplett law offices in Martin County; and Tim W. Weddington, president of the Salyersville National Bank.

The "Partners in Progress" Campaign is a fund-raising promotion designed to secure financing for four targeted projects identified by community leaders and the college as necessary to address future workforce training needs and overall health conditions in the region.

These projects include the construction of two buildings, the Regional Center for Health Education and Wellness at the Prestonsburg Campus and the Regional Classroom & Technology Center at the Pike County Campus; installation of Technology, Telecommunications and Equipment; and the creation of College Endowments.

Ninety percent of PCC's full-time faculty and staff have already participated in an internal fund-raising drive for the "Partners in Progress" Campaign. The faculty and staff collected and donated in excess of $24,000 to help finance PCC's expansion and development efforts.

Valley Welding Supply creates Valley National Gases

Gary E. West, president, and Lawrence E. Bandi, CEO, of Valley Welding Supply Inc., Wheeling, West Virginia, announced the formation of a new corporation, Valley National Gases Inc. (VNG). According to West, VNG will focus on accelerating the growth of Valley Welding Supply by acquiring gas and welding distributors on a national scale.

"Over the past three decades," says West, "we have added numerous companies throughout the region to the Valley Welding family. We employ 250 people in 32 locations in seven states—Kentucky, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, and our home state of West Virginia. We estimate total 1994 revenues will exceed $45 million."

Bandi notes that "members of the Valley distributor network enjoy the benefits of an entrepreneurial management style supported by modern technology. For example, we are one of only a few distributors to operate our own specialty gas plant, which gives our locations the opportunity to penetrate growing gas markets in their areas." All Valley locations are linked in computer network. EDI has been instituted with both customers and suppliers.

Valley Welding's 30,000-square-foot Ultra-Spec rare and specialty gas plant near Pittsburgh features state-of-the-art production, palletizing, and laboratory facilities. Other divisions include Bulk Gases, Carbon Dioxide, Propane, and Fire Safety Service.

In addition to West and Bandi, VNG senior management includes vice presidents John R. Bushwack (Sales), Keith B. Woodruff (Operations), William G. Kennedy (Marketing), and Gerald McGlumphy (Human Relations).

Flat Gap, Johnson County, KY

Aerial View

NO MINIMUM BID REQUIRED! YOU SET THE PRICE!

AUCTIONEERS NOTE: I fell in love with this property the first time I saw it. The property lies on both sides of the Ross Branch Road. I first walked out on a beautiful grassy knoll containing about ten acres on the right side of the road. This part of the property backs up to Lower Laurel Creek and is now called High Meadow. I then crossed the road where there was another field with wooded hillside behind. After walking through the field and up the ridge line I realized that this part of the property was suitable for a baby farm or for division into several home sites. When I started back to my car, there were three deer keeping an eye on me. That's how Deerfield got its name. On another part of the property there is a four acre tract of land, most of which is wooded, lays well and could be divided into lots, but it's been left as one tract. It's so beautiful! If you walk over this part of the property (Tract 12), you will understand why!

There is another area (Tracts 13, 14, & 15) in a large bend of Lower Laurel Creek with a beautiful overlook of the creek and rocks below. Be careful though, it's a steep drop!

DIRECTIONS: From Paintsville, take U.S. 23 North approximately 2 miles. Then turn left on KY 201, then go approximately 6 miles and turn left on KY 1092 to Flat Gap, then past the Flat Gap school to Ross Branch, then left on Ross Branch. Signs will be posted.

NOTE: You can also reach the property by way of KY 172 & KY 69 but there are traffic delays at the Paintsville Stockyard and Flea Market on Saturdays.

TERMS: 20% down on day of auction with balance due in 30 days. The auctioneer reserves the right to group and regroup the tracts. Announcements made on the day of the auction take precedence over previous written material or statements made.

Consumers Like Their Electronic Products

(NAPS)—Ninety-six percent of consumers think consumer electronics have a positive impact on their lives, a national survey recently found.

Consumer electronics improves the quality of family life, a survey shows.

Other opinions expressed during the Electronic Industries Association's Consumer Electronics Group survey of 1,000 consumers were:

* Ninety-three percent thought quality the most important factor in their purchase decision, 92 percent thought reliability important and 75 percent thought price was an important factor.

* One in four would purchase a consumer electronics product if they had $500 to spend, second only to a vacation.

* Eighty-six percent agree with the statement "stores where I purchase consumer electronics products do a good job of helping me understand the product."
