Grand jury issues final report

Offers advice on juvenile code reform

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The sitting grand jury in Floyd County issued its final report on Wednesday, returning one indictment and requesting a report from the attorney general on changes in the state's juvenile code.

The grand jury returned an indictment against Robert Compton, 41, of East Point, on one count of allegedly engaging in sexual contact with a minor and one count of sexual contact with an adult.

Also in the grand jury's written report, jurors requested that Attorney General Chris Gorman look at ways to hold adults responsible for the criminal acts of juveniles.

"The grand jury knows that juvenile crime is on the rise, and much of this increase is caused by or contributed to by adults,"

Commonwealth Attorney John Earl Hunt said in a letter to Gorman. "It seems that juveniles can be charged with felonies and tried as adults while sometimes adults who instigate failed crimes can be charged with only misdemeanors. The grand jury believes that adults should be held more responsible than the juveniles for crimes arising from the same or similar occurrences involving both juveniles and adults."

The grand jurors are also asking that Gorman inform those rewriting

Kentucky's Juvenile Code of their concerns and report to them the progress in changes in the code and other related laws.

During their term, grand jurors requested an investigation by the attorney general into problems surrounding the county's lack of implementing an E-911 system and funds allegedly missing from the county's solid waste program and the sheriff's office.

Also, 83 indictments were returned against 98 persons, which involved 277 criminal charges.

Jurors reported that 26 cases they heard resulted in no true bills.

Grand jurors also mentioned in their report some recent improvements in housekeeping at the courthouse.

"The grand jury has toured the courthouse to view the condition of upkeep and repair of the courthouse," the report noted. "Several improvements have been made in the upkeep of the courthouse within the last two months and these are

Major fire is averted thanks to lodge meet

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

A fire Tuesday night that could have destroyed almost a block of businesses in downtown Prestonsburg was contained early due to a meeting of the Rebekkah Lodge.

Mike Wells, with the Prestonsburg Fire Department, said a meeting of the Rebekkah Lodge Tuesday night on the third floor of the old Elizabeth Hotel probably saved a series of connected offices, extending from Billy Ray's Restaurant to Mountain Comprehensive Care.

"We would have had a difficult time later in the night," Wells said. "It would have been a major blaze in this town."

Firefighters were called to the building around 8:46 Tuesday night and discovered a fire in the second-floor office used by Mt. Comprehensive Care as a computer room.

On the floor above, members of the Rebekkah Lodge, the women's group of the Odd Fellows, had been conducting a meeting, Wells said. Firefighters helped the women down the stairs and out the building.

Several women had complained of smoke inhalation, but none needed treatment at the scene and none were transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center, Wells said.

One of the firefighters, Bill Callahan, broke two bones in his thumb when he pulled boards away from a wall in the computer room.

The fire started from computer wiring, Wells said, and was contained to one room. The fire created a lot of smoke, but resulted in minimal damage to the building.

A similar situation occurred about two years ago, Wells said. That fire also occurred during a meeting and was discovered early, Wells said. Because the fires occurred when people were nearby, firefighters were able to stop the flames from spreading, he explained.

About 15 firefighters fought Tuesday night's fire for about two hours. At least two to three more hours were spent back at the firehouse refilling air packs, changing hoses, and preparing for the next fire call, Wells said.

Pair blames job losses on school politics

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Two former Floyd County school administrators are seeking over $1 million in a lawsuit filed April 26 against superintendent Steve Towler, other school personnel and unknown board members for alleged political retaliation.

Prestonsburg attorney Keith Bartley filed the suit on behalf of Eloise Hall and Dan Collins, who were former directors of the district's Summer Youth Employment Training Program. The two were also involved with the in-school student work program at South Floyd High School and Floyd County Technical School.

The lawsuit alleges that the school board eliminated the administrative positions held by Hall and Collins because the two refused "to support certain political factions and/or candidates."

"The unknown school employees, agents and/or board members are thought to have conspired, acted, failed to act, encouraged or in any other manner, took action to eliminate the positions held by (Hall and Collins)," the lawsuit alleges. "That the actions... were intentional and outrageous, and as such, entitle the plaintiffs to punitive damages."

The suit also claims that Collins was wrongfully demoted from his administrator's position in the school system.

The suit seeks $1 million in punitive damages; unspecified compensatory damages; a trial by jury and attorney fees.

Note: a civil lawsuit lists only the plaintiff's cause for action.

Graduating grandmother keynote PCC ceremonies

Two speakers will have words of wisdom for the 1995 Graduating Class of Prestonsburg Community College.

One is a successful basketball coach and businessman.

The other is a grandmother with valuable life experience who will urge her fellow graduates to never give up their dreams.

Retired University of Kentucky Basketball Coach Joe B. Hall and Doris Duimstra, a candidate for graduation with the Class of 1995, will be the speakers for this year's commencement exercises. Degrees will be conferred upon 108 students in ceremonies to be held May 11 at 7 p.m. at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre. The ceremonies will be open to the public.

Hall, who retired from coaching in 1985 after 13 years with the Wildcats, guided the UK basketball team to a NCAA title, three appearances in the Final Four, two appearances in the NIT and an NIT title. During that period, he also guided the Wildcats to eight SEC titles, one SEC tournament title, six Final Eight appearances and three Mideast Regional titles. Under Hall, the Wildcats had an overall NCAA tournament record of 20-9.

Hall's Wildcats had 182 victories, for an average of 22.8 victories per year and a winning percentage of 74.8. Hall saw 23 of the Wildcats who played for him drafted by the NBA.

Hall continues to live in Lexington, where he works for Central Bank & Trust Co.

Mrs. Duimstra, of Paintsville, is the wife of Chuck Duimstra. They are the parents of a daughter, Melissa, and a son, Brian. She also has a son-in-law named Bobby Joe and two grandsons, six-year-old Chris and two-year-old Cody.

She says she enjoys being a wife, mother, grandmother and student, but also enjoys remodeling

House search nets plants, paraphernalia

Members of the Mountain Area Drug Task Force executed a search warrant at the home of Robin Jarrell, 38, in West Prestonsburg Thursday afternoon and came away with 31 marijuana plants, processed marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Officer Jim Roderick and Floyd Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson had to enter the home through a window. Jarrell showed up at her home after the search began and she is charged with cultivating marijuana, over five plants; trafficking in marijuana, less than eight ounces; and possession of drug paraphernalia. Floyd veteran to participate in state commemoration of war's milestone

A Floyd County veteran of World War II has been asked to participate in a ceremony Monday, May 8, at Frankfort commemorating the 50th anniversary of VE Day in Europe.

E. H. "Ted" Stumbo of Harold will be honored during the ceremony which begins at 1:30 p.m. in the new Capitol Rotunda. Stumbo, chairman of the Joint Executive Council of Veterans Organizations of Kentucky, served as a staff sergeant radio operator aboard B-17 "Yankee Bell" Army Air Corps 91st Bomber Group, 324th Squadron. He was shot down over Germany and taken prisoner of war on February 3, 1945.

A reception will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the Old State Capitol and a special showing of the Kentucky Historical Society's exhibit "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition, Kentuckians in World War II."

In commemoration of the event, Governor Brereton Jones has asked churches across the state to ring their church bells on Monday.

Assault allegations to go to grand jury

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County Grand Jury will hear the case against an Ohio man who is accused of assaulting three police officers during an alleged altercation at David last month.

At a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Floyd District Court, Kentucky State Police trooper Ron Peppi testified that Martin Shepherd Jr., 48, of Roundhead, Ohio, fought with officers Bobby Day, Joey Howard and himself while they were attempting to arrest him April 16.

Peppi said that it had been reported to the Pikeville State Police Post that someone driving a black Trans Am was intoxicated and had been threatening persons in the Open Fork area of David. Trooper Day spotted Shepherd's vehicle and had taken him into custody, Peppi said.

"The subject was in the back of the car and began knocking on the window," Peppi testified. "He told trooper Day that he wanted me to stand back so that he could scan me with his x-ray vision and see if there was any static (electricity) on my body. Trooper Day told him to calm down and get back in the vehicle."

Shepherd then began to "violently beat at the windows in the car" and when Trooper Day opened to car door to talk with him, Shepherd kicked the trooper and grabbed him by his ear, Peppi said.

An altercation ensued and when officers sprayed Shepherd with pepper spray, "It had no effect on him and he growled and showed his teeth," Peppi testified.

During the struggle the subdue Shepherd, Shepherd hit troopers Day, Howard and Peppi, the officer testified.

On cross-examination, defense attorney Cassie Allen asked Peppi why Shepherd, who was injured in

Complaining witness arrested before testifying in court hearing

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The complaining witness in an assault case had to delay his testimony during a preliminary hearing Wednesday because he was placed under arrest in the courtroom. Doug Vanderpool, 33, of Drift, was taken into custody by bailiff Homer Neeley just prior to his case being called on the court docket. Vanderpool was arrested on a warrant obtained by deputy sheriff Bobby Hackworth Jr., charging Vanderpool with two counts of first degree wanton endangerment; theft by unlawful taking, auto; and attempt to elude. Vanderpool allegedly stole a vehicle belonging to Wendy Mosley. The warrant did not disclose what events led to Vanderpool being charged with wanton endangerment.

When District Judge James Allen called the case against Ricky Scarberry Jr. and Scottie Huff, public defender Kristi Gray said, "Your honor, Homer just arrested the complaining witness."

Judge Allen deferred the hearing until after the other cases on the docket were called.

Vanderpool was returned to the courtroom and testified about the alleged assault by Scarberry and Huff.

On March 25, Scarberry and Huff went to Vanderpool's residence at Grigsby Heights at Martin around 3 a.m. and began drinking beer with Vanderpool and girlfriend, Vanderpool testified.

"Ricky Scarberry got up and said I owed him some money," Vanderpool said. "I said, 'what do I owe you money for?' and he said for a bag of dope."

Vanderpool said he denied owing Scarberry money and Scarberry hit him in the head with a half-full bottle of beer and Huff hit him in the back of the head with a full bottle, Vanderpool said.

Judge Allen ruled that probable cause had been established and the case was referred to the grand jury.

Also Wednesday, a case against Gary Phillips, 46, of Prestonsburg was also referred to the grand jury.

Phillips was charged with 15 counts of first degree wanton endangerment, driving under the influence, no drivers license and no insurance, but all but one charge of wanton endangerment was dismissed.

Deputy Homer Neeley testified that he observed Phillips driving recklessly on April 27 near Shell Mart in Prestonsburg. Phillips allegedly forced several vehicles off the road and Neeley said that he had failed to stop his vehicle three times.

Neeley said that he had to pull beside Phillips' vehicle, which had pulled off at Mays Branch, and reach inside it to turn of the ignition to get Phillips to stop.

Neeley testified that Phillips was extremely intoxicated and that he radioed the sheriff's office for assistance in removing Phillips from his vehicle.

"He had to be carried from his vehicle," Neeley said. "He couldn't produce his drivers' license because he was so intoxicated. He was not capable of operating his vehicle in a safe manner."

Phillips almost hit Neeley's vehicle, the deputy testified, while he was attempting to stop him. Neeley was on his way home when he saw Phillips.

Judge Allen ruled that there was only one person to whom Phillips' conduct was wanton and that was Neeley and referred the case to a grand jury.

Phillips' attorney, Clyde Johnson, asked that his client's bond be reduced. Judge Allen dropped the bond from $75,000 to $15,000 or 10 percent cash.

Assistant county attorney Bob Bishop asked that part of the bond require Phillips to refrain from consuming alcoholic beverages; that he not be on the premises of establishments that sell alcoholic beverages; and that he not operate a motor vehicle without a valid driver's license.

Judge Allen granted Bishop's request.

the fray, was handcuffed to his hospital bed when he was treated at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Peppi said that Shepherd had managed to slip off one of his leg irons and charged at trooper Matthew Scott in the emergency room.

"He was almost impossible to control," Peppi said.

District Judge James Allen ruled that probable cause had been established and referred the case to the grand jury.

Shepherd is charged with three counts of third degree assault on police officers; driving under the influence; possession of marijuana; operating on a suspended or revoked license; attempt to elude; no registration; no insurance; and failure to dim headlights.

Car accident that injures six referred to grand jury

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The case of a Floyd County man charged in a July 5, 1994, car accident that sent six people to the hospital was referred Wednesday to a grand jury.

At a preliminary hearing Wednesday, Prestonsburg policeman Mack Stewart testified that blood tests for Steve D. Thacker, 19, showed that he had marijuana and prescription drugs in his blood stream at the time of the accident.

Thacker was driving a vehicle northbound on U.S. 23 near Rudd Equipment last year and crossed over into the southbound lane of traffic. Thacker's vehicle struck four vehicles and injured six people.

Stewart said Wednesday that two of those injured, Rita Stumbo, 45, of McDowell, and Marshall Edwards, 44, of Lexington, sustained permanent injuries from the accident.

Thacker is charged with two counts of first degree wanton endangerment and two counts of first degree assault in connection with the accident.

Warrants for Thacker's arrest were obtained in November, Stewart said, but officers had been unable to locate him until last week. Prestonsburg policeman Gerald Clark and deputy Homer Neeley arrested Thacker April 26 at Abbott.

District Judge James Allen found that probable cause had been established and the case was referred to the grand jury.

In another hearing Wednesday, Laura Blackburn of Mud Creek testified concerning an alleged assault by her boyfriend, James M. Martin, 18, of Beaver.

Martin is charged with fourth degree assault, terroristic threatening, first degree criminal mischief and first degree wanton endangerment.

Blackburn testified that the two argued at the home of Martin's sister at Tinker Fork and that Martin began beating on her car. She said that her boyfriend then began pulling her hair and smacking her. Martin came at her with a baseball bat and later pulled a gun on her and threatened to shoot her, Blackburn said.

Blackburn said that Martin caused over $1,000 in damages to her vehicle.

Judge Allen referred the case to the grand jury.

well received by the grand jury and the public.

"However, much more action needs to be taken to insure that the Floyd County Courthouse adequately serves the citizens and the government of Floyd County," the report said. "Much improvement in facilities can be made for the citizens of the county and the grand jury would very much appreciate a more acceptable facility to hold grand jury meetings."

Note: an indictment is not an indication of guilty, but a determination by a grand jury that the charges merit further judicial review.

International Shrine Hospital Day

International Shrine Hospital Day will be observed on Sunday, May 21. This year marks Seventy-Three Years of helping needy crippled children regardless of their race, religion or relationship to a Shriner. The Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are dedicated to the glory of God and the return to health of crippled and burned children. Hundreds of thousands of young patients can hope for a normal life, free from crippling and burned deformities because of the efforts and dedication of the staff at the Shrine Hospitals.

The Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children located at 1900 Richmond Road in Lexington, receives patients primarily from five states including Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, Indiana and Ohio. However, patients are admitted from other states and foreign countries. The Lexington Unit is one of (22) Shriners Hospitals located throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico offering quality orthopaedic care and burn treatment to patients (infancy to 18 years). There is no charge to patients or their families for this care. No public solicitation is made for funds. Much of the money comes from donations, wills, bequests, and special fund raising events undertaken by Shriners, Masonic Boards and other interested groups.

In 1994, 1,103 children were admitted to the hospital in Lexington. In addition, 14,274 Outpatient Examinations were performed. The Active Patient List at the end of December 1994 was 8,206. The Average Daily Census was 26 children or 53% capacity. The total number of operations was 826 and the average length of stay was 8.3 days. The 1995 Operating Budget for the Lexington Unit is $9,454,703.00.

Shriners Hospitals also play a major role in medical education. More than 2,500 physicians have received residency education or postgraduate fellowship training in the orthopaedic hospitals and burn institutes. By maintaining a strong link with major teaching facilities, the Lexington Unit fosters an academic environment committed to providing high quality orthopaedic care to all patients. The Lexington Unit maintains teaching affiliations with the orthopaedic residency programs of the University of Kentucky and the Medical College of Ohio, Toledo.

Celebration of Hospital Day at the Lexington Unit will begin at 10 a.m. with tours of the facility. A Brass Band concert at 1:30 p.m. will be followed by a parade of Shrine units outfitted in colorful regalia. The public is encouraged to attend and participate. Dignitaries on hand will include Robert J. Turley, Emeritus member of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Governors of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children and John Miller, Jr., who serves on the Board of Trustees of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children Hospital system. Conducted tours of the hospital facility will be available until 2:00 p.m.

Referrals to Shriners Hospitals
To refer a patient to the Lexington Shriners Hospital, referring physicians can contact Chief of Staff Chester M. Tytkowski, M.D. Application forms can also be obtained by calling any Shrine Temple or Shrine Club, or 1-800-237-5055.

For emergency burn admissions to one of the three Shriners Burns Institutes, the referring physician should telephone the chief of staff at the nearest Shriners Burn Institute (Boston, Cincinnati, or Galveston, Texas) and indicate that the patient needs emergency care. Emergency care is not available at the orthopaedic units. Non-emergency admissions of burn patients for reconstructive or plastic surgery can be arranged in the same manner as orthopaedic admissions at the nearest Shriners Burns Institute or Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children.

Motor fuel program showing positive results

Kentucky's motor fuel testing program is living up to its billing. In just nine months, there's been a significant decline in violations of federal fuel quality standards.

Through April 18, there was a 2.96 percent violation rate on 3,793 fuel samples taken from gas stations throughout the state. That was down from a high of 3.8 percent last year, and from 8.5 percent on 200 samples taken during a pilot project in 1993.

The 1994 General Assembly passed legislation making Kentucky the 45th state to have a program ensuring that gasoline meets federal quality standards. The state Division of Weights and Measures started the inspection program last August, obtaining fuel samples at retail outlets and sending them to a private laboratory for testing.

The test results show if the fuel meets requirements for octane level, volatility and other qualities important to vehicle performance. The national quality standards are set by the American Society for Testing and Materials.

Agriculture Commissioner Ed Logsdon, who pushed for the legislation authorizing the program, said the statistics underscored the need for inspections.

"We found 8 percent errors when nobody expected to be checked, but now that everyone knows we're coming, we're down to 3 percent. I'd say we've attracted some people's attention," Logsdon said.

Violations have been found at retail outlets in 85 communities in 69 counties throughout the state.

The program is funded by a licensing fee on retail gasoline outlets.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Give them just a little more time

by Scott Perry

Magistrate Jackie Owens has every right to "squall like a mashed cat" at the news the owners of Thunder Ridge want the county to pick up the tab for bond payments due soon on that facility.

Owens has been a consistent opponent of the public-private partnership that developed the entertainment facility, and the financial difficulties now plaguing the facility seem to back up his concerns.

Commendably, Owens isn't beating his chest and hollering "I told you so," he's just sticking to his guns.

Unfortunately, that isn't going to resolve the dilemma facing not just the track owners, but Floyd County taxpayers, as well.

Whether the county agrees to pay this year's bonded indebtedness for the track, or not, the fiscal court appears to be in one of those pay-me-now or pay-me-later predicaments.

If the track fails to recover from bankruptcy, the county is obligated to take over much of the debt.

Track owners contend that this summer season will play a pivotal role in that fight for survival and they need all the breaks they can get.

Since Floyd County already has a sizable investment in the project and is at considerable risk if it fails, we grudgingly recommend that the court allow one last chance to make a go of it.

If that chance doesn't pan out, we'll line up behind Owens and join his call for the sale of the facility.

If we desert the project now, we may save face but we won't save anything else.

Maybe only a miracle can save Thunder Ridge from collapse.

Perhaps with a little more time, the track owners can pull one off.

—Letters to the editor

To change conditions, change your politics!

Editor:
I have given much thought to writing this letter and I have decided that I can no longer put it off.

My first concern is property taxes. Like so many others, I feel that while some are paying too much, according to our incomes, others aren't paying their fair share. I would like to see everyone's taxes published in this paper. Not just the delinquent taxes but all taxes. That way we can see who's paying their fair share and who isn't.

I want to pay taxes, as I'm sure everyone else does, but I want us all to pay our fair share. Taxes are a necessity, but people, let's be fair. The other thing I want to see is a complete change in our county and state politics. I've been a Democrat all my life, but if my mind doesn't change, I will never vote another Democrat vote. My whole family was always Democrat but my mother, and I nagged her until she changed a few years before she died. I realize now she was the only smart one in our family.

I cannot change my registration until after the primary, but you can rest assured I will be back down there just as soon as the books are opened again and I'm hoping to meet all of those who are as fed up as I am.

People, if we want to straighten out the county and state, this is the only way I know to start. We'll try a change and if that doesn't work, let's go for a third party. My God, how much more can we take? We've got to get off our seats and get busy now, or we can just sit back and have more taxes and more restrictions laid on us.

Lovel Hall has always been there for us until the last two years. I made several calls and was in the office twice and never got to see or talk to him. I was trying to help a family member out because they worked and couldn't get down there to see Lovel. That was last year. This year I didn't even try, because I knew it would do no good.

When you walk in the sheriff's office with a tax bill you know isn't fair, it's hard to smile and their attitude didn't help at all. I realize it's not their fault, because all they do is collect, but maybe just lending a sympathetic ear would make it a little easier.

Just once again, I want to say that all of you who are fed up, let's get things rolling by going to the courthouse and changing our politics. We've got some good people in the courthouse, but we're going to have to start at the bottom to get to the state higher-ups who are forcing some of these laws and taxes on us.

Oklahoma City blast not the only disaster

Editor:
During the past few days we've all been in somewhat of a state of shock because of the loss of so many lives and the devastating destruction brought on by the heartless bombing in Oklahoma City.

And I ask myself: why? Why do we care so much about a few innocent lives? And why does this cold-blooded act of violence shock us?

We are dismayed that such a criminal act could occur in our own country—perhaps even at the hand of one of our own countrymen.

And again I ask: why? When day-in and day-out, baby after baby is maliciously and without one gasp of concern ripped from its mother's body and thrown into a trash can among other innocents—and that at the hands of its own mother—whence comes the righteous indignation which prompts us to go about the streets wagging our heads and voicing our disgust for the perpetrators of the Oklahoma City bombing?

Whether an unborn child is viable apart from its mother's body or not, it is a baby. And when it is aborted, it dies—just like the people in Oklahoma City. Some of the babies there were so young that they were not viable without aid from a parent or guardian, yet we weep and gnash our teeth, proclaiming that no punishment known to man is harsh enough for a maniac who would stoop so low as to take the lives of innocent little babies.

And I say: amen!

Girls at beauty shop angels in disguise

Editor:
I would like to express how kind some folks are.

I went out to Garrett to have my hair done. I took along rollers to roll it, then I would go home and give myself a perm.

As I came from Cleveland, we moved here to the mountains over two years ago. I get lonesome. These girls at the beauty shop were most gracious. They treated me like a queen. The owner, Loveda Coburn, and two other girls, Lisa and Fayla, said Grace, didn't you have a birthday. I said yes, April 7. They said, we are going to give you a complete perm for your birthday. Perms are expensive. At first I just stood petrified. Then I said, Girls, now I believe in miracles.

The perm was just lovely. Besides, they talked and I felt so happy.

I think there are two angels on Earth. These girls were tops. I hope some day to do as much for them. More folks should be as kind and thoughtful.

I might add, it hasn't been easy for us living here. We don't make friends as easy as we did in Ohio. So, we do get lonesome. We miss our church and the members.

There are good people everywhere if you just get to know them!

But I might add, none like the girls that are at the beauty shop in Garrett. God bless them! They are angels in disguise!

I say, "Thank you girls, so much."

Thankful for interest shown in May House

I am so thankful for the interest shown by so many people in the restoration of the Samuel May House, and was pleased to read Robert Perry's letter of thanks to E. B. and William May and their families for the donation of the property, and to so many who have supported the project, so far.

I am always concerned that any good structures—especially those of historical value, and in Prestonsburg and Floyd County—be preserved and cared for and used for good purposes. I am especially interested in the May House, though, because although I have visited it only two or three times in my life, my little grandmother, Laura May Davidson, was born in that house, and was married in front of the mantle in the living room.

So I want personally to thank E. B. and William May, and all the persons who are helping, and who will decide to help with this good project; and especially I want to thank Robert Perry, who came from afar, recognized the historic and intrinsic value of "the oldest house in the Big Sandy Valley," and whose good will and hard work have brought us together to preserve this treasure.

Words of life

Having a positive attitude, part 2
My grandmother died with cancer in the kidneys. Three of her children have had problems with that same part of the body. They say it is genetic. Will my mother develop cancer? Will I have those same problems?

It would be easy to worry and to have a negative outlook on life as I "wait" for that to happen. But I have Christ in my heart and the Holy Spirit dwells in me (1 Cor 6:19). That means something, doesn't it? Of course it does! It means I have resources available to me to deal with every problem and to help keep me from becoming negative. What can I do?

We have already seen how that the activity of inspection can help us develop a positive attitude. Another activity we can do is to commit. In the story of the infant church in Acts 2:41-47, we find the most positive situation and attitude among believers that has ever existed. Who wouldn't be positive when you have people being saved every day, every physical need being met, and a support group around you constantly that loves you completely. "Special situation," some may say. Perhaps. However, I believe that we miss what the Lord expects of us when we ignore what the Word says that they did. Let's look at how they committed to the Lord and how that contributed to their positive attitude.

They first committed their faith to God through the church. Verses 41-43 state that they received salvation (41), then continued studying the Word together with worship and prayer (42), and many "wonders" were done by the apostles (43). Now we know the apostles didn't work those wonders in their own power, but in God's. We know the apostles didn't teach their own ideas, but Christ's. And we know the apostles didn't save people, but people came as the Holy Spirit drew them. In order for the situation to occur the way it is described, the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit had to be the focus of peoples' faith, not the apostles. If we are going to have a positive attitude about life situations, we must also have this focus for our faith. Commit your faith to God, not preachers, the church, doctors, medication, politicians or even certain "theological" ideas. Your faith should be directed through the church but directed to the only one who can really do something about your situation. This is not to say I will not use other things to help me work through situations (such as medicine in an illness) but simply that I commit my faith to God, who can work the situation out through the things I use. This is the most important thing we can commit, but there are other things.

We can commit ourselves to the situation. Verse 44 of Acts 2 tells us that the believers were "together." I talked to a couple once who told me that every couple they knew when they were younger had divorced. Why do some couples stay together while many others get divorced? It is difficult to speak in generalities here, but those couples who stay married have committed themselves up-front to being "together." They share hopes together, dreams together, and they have children together and work to communicate together. It is not always easy for them, but they will always try to be there for each other and not just for themselves. It takes two doing this for a marriage to work. It takes two people committing themselves to each other in life's situations to bring about a positive attitude. The Lord is one and He is always there for us, without failing. You must commit yourself to being together with Him and staying with Him no matter what the situation brings.

Finally we are told in verses 44-47 that the believers committed their resources to the Lord to use in the situation. In order to have a positive attitude about life's situations we must do the same. Our time, abilities, relationships, money, and possessions must be committed to the Lord to use as He sees fit. It releases us from many pressures when we do this and helps bring about a positive attitude.

When difficult times hit me, I know for sure that it helps me knowing that others are committed to me to help me through them. But how much more it can help if I commit my faith, my self, and my resources to the Lord to use for His purposes because I know He cares for me.

"A Birthday Card for Dallas"
Happy birthday, Dallas, you turned 61 years old today,
I planned a celebration, and there's some things I'd like to say.
There'll be no cake, candles, and no presents will I give,
But I'll celebrate within my heart, 'cause that's where you now live.
In July it will be four years, since I last saw your face,
But you are still with me, Dallas, I see you everywhere.
And when I get too lonely, and the tears that flow get dry,
I look inside my heart, again, where you will never die.
So, happy birthday, Dallas, this card is just for you,
But I'll let others read it, so they'll share your day, too.
I'll love you forever; you took all my love with you.

Local team will play at Georgetown May 12

The Prestonsburg 13-year-old AAU basketball team will find their way to Georgetown next week when they will be one of the teams in the state tournament.

Prestonsburg earned a trip to the finals by virtue of a 52-47 win over Virgie in the finals of the regional tournament played at Virgie last weekend.

Coach Neil Turner's team placed three players in double figures led by Jeremy Caudill's 18 points.

Eric Fleming added 13 points with Mark Burchett tossing in 10. Joseph Crockett just missed double digits with nine points. John Dixon had two for the game.

Brad Johnson led Virgie with 16 points, including a three-point basket. Cory Robinson netted 11 with Bobby Collins scoring nine. J.R. Johnson scored six, as did Michael Riddle, and Michael Burke had three. Burchett hit a three-point basket in the first quarter for Prestonsburg and buried a second one in the fourth quarter.

Caudill scored eight of his 18 points in the first quarter to stake Prestonsburg to a 13-8 first period lead.

Riddle buried two three-pointers in the second quarter as Virgie trailed 25-20 at the half. Crockett and Burchett had four points each for Prestonsburg in the second period.

Crockett and Caudill handled the scoring for Prestonsburg in the third quarter as they maintained a seven-point cushion over the Eagles. Caudill had six points in the quarter with Crockett tossing in seven.

Fleming was a perfect six of six from the free throw line in the final quarter as Virgie made a late run. Caudill scored four points and Burchett hit his trey to stave off any comeback attempt.

Both teams shot poorly from the free throw line with Virgie hitting six of 17 and Prestonsburg connecting on eight of 20.

Prestonsburg opened the tournament with a 55-43 win over Phelps. Prestonsburg's defense was just too much for the young Hornets as they committed 13 turnovers.

Josh Turner led Prestonsburg's scoring with 15 points. John Dixon and Eric Fleming added 10 each. Mark Burchett tossed in seven and Robbie Holbrook scored six. Joseph Crockett and Brian Mullins had three and two, respectively. Jeremy Caudill scored two.

Turner hit three of the five three-pointers Prestonsburg scored in the game. Turner drilled a trey in each of the first three quarters. He scored six points in the final period.

Burkett had a three-point basket in the first period and Holbrook buried one in the initial period.

Prestonsburg led 12-9 after the first period and maintained a three-point lead at the half, 23-20.

Dixon scored six of his 10 points in the third quarter when Phelps made a run. Fleming had four points in the quarter with Holbrook scoring three and Crockett two.

Phelps missed seven free throw attempts in the final quarter and was held to just two field goals by the Prestonsburg defense.

J. Martin led Phelps with 14 points while Fletcher and Blankenship scored 11 each.

John Dixon tossed in 20 points in the semifinal game against Dorton on Sunday afternoon. Dixon hit three treys in the game to lead Prestonsburg to a 64-55 win.

Fleming finished in double figures with 13 points and Jeremy Caudill added 10 points.

"We played really well," said Coach Turner. "It was a different player each game leading us."

Burchett added eight points and Crockett had six. Turner finished with three points, that was a three-point basket in the first quarter. Turner didn't take another shot after that.

Athletes need to open eyes early to college exams

Allen Central coach Johnny Martin looked on as Matt Baker signed a letter-of-intent with Alice Lloyd College Wednesday afternoon.

Baker was the second Rebel player to land a scholarship. Jeremy Hall signed earlier last week with the University of Wisconsin (Big 10).

Another player from Allen Central was hailed as being better than most of the players that Pikeville College had recruited this season.

But like a lot of young players, getting eligible through an acceptable SAT score has become the enemy of most.

Sometimes young high school players who are loaded with basketball, football or baseball talent, feel that alone should warrant a good look from most colleges.

But schools look at more than how many points you averaged, the number of assists, how many touchdowns you ran or home runs you hit.

They look at the grades, core curriculum and other aspects first. Players that are looking for a scholarship in the upcoming years had better start taking their studies more seriously.

There are several players who have all the talent to be college players, but do not have, yet, what it takes to get in the door -- grades.

I know some of these young men and I know also that they can do it. They should attend PCC for a semester or a year and then pursue their basketball dream the following year.

It takes more than just a good basketball average. The grade point average has to be there, as well.

"We keep telling them when they are juniors to get their grades up and work at it," said Dewey Jamerson, track and field coach at Allen Central. "But they won't listen to you."

Jamerson said that he had several who could be in line for track scholarships in two years and he is going to start looking at their grades and encourage them on.

To get ahead requires a lot of determination. If there is no drive to excel, then there will be no positive results. But where there is determination, opportunities are unlimited.

I would encourage all students to decide to apply themselves in the classroom. Make sure that the grade average is better than their point average or the batting average.

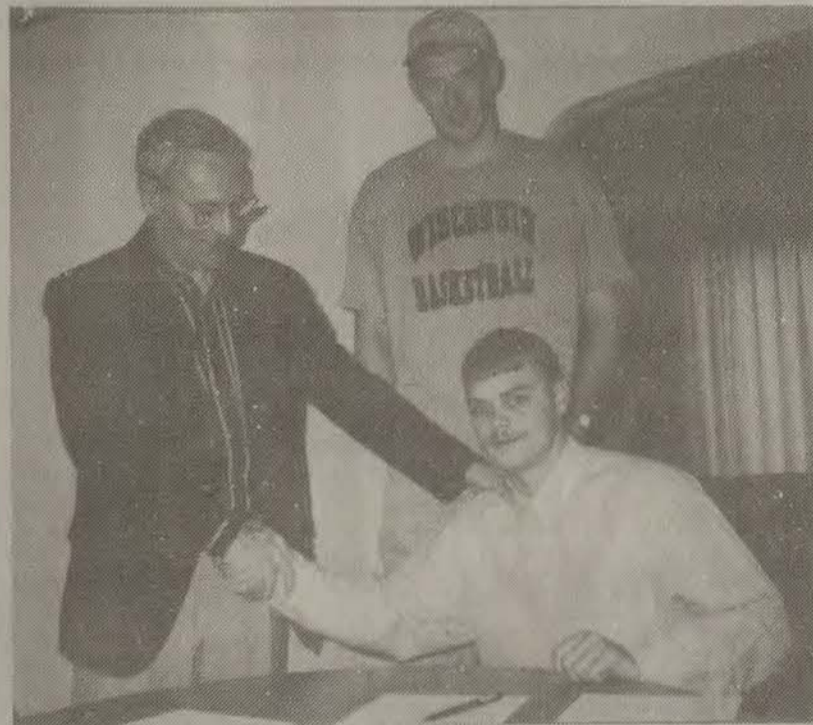

Know more about what is in your textbooks rather than what is in the TV guide.

Know more about what core subjects are needed than what play of the game to run.

We have some fine young men and women in Floyd County. Their future rests in their own hands. I, for one, believe in our young Signs with Badgers!

Hall expects to contribute early for UW Badgers

Allen Central's Jeremy Hall became the first Floyd County player since Wheelwright's Jeff Riey to sign a national letter-of-intent with a Division I school.

Hall signed with the University of Wisconsin Badgers, members of the Big 10 Conference, this past weekend, ending speculation as to where the point guard might go.

Hall, who was courted by other schools, said that he believes that he made the correct choice.

"I'm real excited about going there. It's what I've been working for for a long time to get a good Division I college. I'm happy about it," he said.

"I'm real pleased with all of this," said his mother Brenda Francis. "First, I thank my heavenly Father for this opportunity for Jeremy. All good things are sent from Him."

"There have been a lot of different people that have contributed to Jeremy's success," she added. "Lonnie Robinson had him in junior pro basketball, as well as Steve Jenkins."

"He played for Stanton Watson at Garrett Grade School and later for Danny O'Quinn and Ronnie Patton. Barry Hopkins and Ricky Hamilton coached him. He then went to Prestonsburg and played junior pro under Dr. Hyden."

Hall's step-father, Paul Francis, accompanied Hall on his visit to Wisconsin and came away much impressed.

"I was really impressed with the coaching staff," he said. "They seem to be real fine people. We spent time with them, three days, and I have always been in touch with them over the phone since they started recruiting Jeremy."

Allen Central coach Johnny Martin has always contended the 5-11 guard could play Division I basketball.

"I always did think he had the ability to play Division I basketball," he said. "I've thought that the last two to three years. Everybody worried about his size. One thing it took for him to go was a program to where size didn't make any difference."

Coach Martin said that he informed Badger head coach Dick Bennett of Hall's height.

"I told him that Jeremy was only 5-11 and I knew they had a point guard coming back. He said it didn't matter. Jeremy could play the two-guard for him. Bennett said that Jeremy can shoot and play a little two-guard. It didn't bother him."

Wisconsin became interested in Hall when he played in the Kentucky/Ohio All-Star game two weeks ago. His name was passed on to Bennett who made contact with Coach Martin. Martin forwarded tapes of Hall, and the Badgers were in the hunt.

"I made my official visit," Hall said, "and some of the players and I played some 3-on-3 and 5-on-5 while I was there. Just like a shoot around."

Hall said that he liked the facilities as well as the personnel.

"They have nice coaches and people, as well as a nice campus," he said. "Right now there is only one

Matt Baker real find for Alice Lloyd Eagles

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Alice Lloyd College head basketball coach Jim Stepp summed up the signing of Allen Central's 6-5 Matt Baker this way: "He's a good catch for us."

The Alice Lloyd coach, who has guided the Eagles to three consecutive national tournaments in the NAIA-II Division, thinks that Baker is going to be a big, big addition to the Eagles' program.

"Matt's going to be a great player at Alice Lloyd," he said, "and we're glad to have him sign with us."

Baker, who played most of his high school career at Shelby Valley High School where he was one of the 15th Region's best big men, transferred to Allen Central late in the season this past year.

At Shelby Valley, he averaged just over 21 points per game and pulled down 12 rebounds per contest. He played the last four weeks for Allen Central after missing three weeks awaiting KHSAA approval of his transfer.

Baker said that he was pleased with Alice Lloyd and looked forward to playing for Coach Stepp.

"Alice Lloyd has always had a good basketball program," Baker said. "I like the coaching staff. They have excellent coaches. They are a local college that's close to home."

Baker's mother, Teresa Baker, liked the idea of going to school close to home.

"I'm happy for Matt," she said. "I'm glad he's going to a local college. I hate to see him leave, but he is close enough that I can go watch him play."

Mrs. Baker said that she has followed Matt most of his high school career and is "very proud of him."

"He's a good person and a good player, as well as a good student," she said.

Baker said that he hopes to contribute early to the Eagles' program other point guard and he's going to be a junior next year. I don't expect to start but they said I will play as a freshman."

The former Rebel point guard realizes that he must step up his game to fit in at the next level.

"I've got to step up my smartness," he admitted. "I've got to be smart on the floor. Up there I won't be able to penetrate like I did in high school."

Hall said that he will have to work on his speed and definitely get stronger because it is going to be a challenge that he is ready for.

"It is going to be a challenge to me," he stated. "It's a big school with big-time players. It's going to be a lot harder than it was in high school. It will be in one of the tougher conferences in the nation. I'll need to step up my game a lot."

Brenda Francis feels it will be a good move for Hall.

"This is a big move for Jeremy," she said. "This is what he needs to grow up. He needs to be on his own."

"I think he is ready for it. We've talked about it. I'm proud of him. Young men have to go away when they grow up."

"We'll miss him. But everybody's excited about it. We'll gather around the television and watch him play when they're on. Plus, we're going to some of the games."

Coach Martin said there will be adjustments that Hall will have to make, but the biggest one may have nothing to do with basketball.

"Getting there and being able to adjust to the school is going to be his biggest adjustment," said Coach

Martin. "Homesickness. Once he handles that problem, and I think he will, he is going to have to go full speed everyday in practice and games. It's so competitive up there."

Hall, at 5-11, had the ability to create shots for himself in high school which will be a plus for him in college, according to his coach.

"A lot of players can't create on offense," Martin said. "Even Travis Ford had to come set before he could shoot."

But Martin said that Hall's playing time will be determined by how he reacts on defense.

"Defense is going to be a big adjustment for Jeremy," he said. "That will be the main thing. Whether he plays a lot or not will be determined on how he does on defense. He's capable of being a good defensive player."

Martin said that Hall will have to be there and play half-court, man-to-man defense as long as they want him to play.

"It's going to be his biggest adjustment on the court," said Martin.

Martin said that Coach Bennett was "a legend" in Wisconsin and knows his players.

"He obviously thinks that Jeremy is a great player or he wouldn't have signed him," said the Allen Central coach. "He had two players go pro this year and it's going to be a rebuilding year for them. Coach Bennett feels that Jeremy will play for him as a freshman."

As far as high school, Hall said that will be memories.

"I will miss it, but I have to get on with my life. High school has been fun," he said.

"I'm excited for Jeremy," said Paul Francis. "I'm glad he is going to get that opportunity to play at Wisconsin."

"Things worked out for him in the end. When he needed to shine he was determined enough to do that. I'm just real happy. He can do well there if he wants too. If he decides to play at that level and produce, I think he can."

Francis said that Wisconsin plays some of the best competition in the country and he has no doubt that Hall can play there.

Hall breaks stolen base record at Lees College

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was a banner baseball season for former Allen Central baseball standout Stewart Hall. Hall became the all-time stolen base leader for Lees College this past baseball season.

Hall ended his two-year stint at Lees this season and ended the season batting over .400. He broke the stolen base record by stealing 38 bases in 40 attempts. He had the most stolen bases in one season of any other Lees College player.

"The only time he was thrown out this year was when they pitched out on him and got him," said Hall's father, Teddy Hall.

Hall played shortstop for Lees and

"They seem to come across with young people at Wisconsin," said Francis. "They're going to be real good for Jeremy."

"This is going to be a real challenge for Jeremy," said Coach Martin, "but he has never backed down from a challenge yet."

"He's a good student and he'll do all right with some encouragement from the coaches. It will be a big difference in his life."

Hall averaged 25.4 points per game last year for Allen Central. He dished off an average of 10.2 assists.

as a freshman, but that concentrating on his grades will be the important thing.

"I just want to have a good career there," he said. "It will be a learning experience for me the first year. But I hope to contribute some this year."

Coach Stepp said some of the things he was impressed with and liked about Baker was the way has a nose for the ball.

"And he is an excellent rebounder. He has enough strength about him and lower body strength. He's going to develop even more."

"He'll be able to post up at the college level at the power forward position. He's a good enough shooter that he can go to the outside and shoot the basketball as well," said Stepp.

"I just wish that I had Matt longer than I did," said Allen Central coach Johnny Martin. "Matt is such a good kid—as fine a boy as I have ever coached."

Coach Martin said that not every player that goes to Alice Lloyd plays early, but he feels Baker will be an exception.

"I believe Matt will play a lot for Jim at Alice Lloyd. He's far along in skills and he has the body and size to play," he said.

Coach Stepp explained that Baker would be used at the five-spot (power forward).

"In our system, I see him primarily what I call a five-spot. The four-spot is your center," he said. "The five-spot is a guy that gets out on the break, shoots the threes, rebounds to start the fast break."

"He's to rebound the ball for you as well as shoot the outside shot and post up his man. That will be Matt's primary position."

The Alice Lloyd coach said that with the potential that Baker has, he expects him to contribute early.

"I think he has the potential. The potential is there for him to contribute early," said Stepp. "Matt's going to be a good player. He's a good catch for us."

Baker said that he hasn't decided on a major as of yet, but just wanted to put a lot of emphasis on his grades.

"I'm going to try to have a good time," he said. "I just want to pursue a good education."

Not being able to play in a Sweet Sixteen eluded Baker in high school, but the quiet giant said there were no disappointments for him.

"I've had a good high school career," he said. "It's been a circus ride at times. But it's been fun. I've enjoyed it."

Alice Lloyd has been nationally ranked for the past four seasons and will return a good crop of players who should make the Eagles very competitive this coming season.

"We've got a good program up here at Alice Lloyd, as you know," he said. "Things have gone real well for us."

"If anyone saw the championship game of the NAIA-I game between Birmingham Southern and Piffier, they saw two teams that we played against."

"We beat Birmingham Southern in their own tournament and lost by three to Piffier. Our play here has been at that caliber. We've won 28, 27 and 26 games the past three years."

Coach Stepp admits that the Eagles do lose a lot in senior Rick Conley, who was a second team All-American the past two years.

"That's going to be a big hole for us to fill," said the Eagles' mentor. "Rick averaged 21 points a game and 11 rebounds."

"We're hoping that we can beef up our five-spot, get good low post production, which Matt is part of, as well."

Stepp said the Eagles' guard play should be awfully good next season.

"We return basically all the key players," he said, "with the exception of one Avery Fairchild. Jeremy Johnson, who was redshirted last year, will be eligible and he's going to be a nice player."

"Everyone else coming back will have a year's experience."

Stepp said that Baker would find the college campus scene different and must step in all areas.

"He's going to have to step his game in every way," said Stepp. "Because he's going against people a lot quicker than what he's used to seeing. Instead of going against 16-17 year olds, he will face 22-24 year-old players."

"I'm not concerned about Matt, he's going to be ready quickly. Defensively, he's got all the potential to be a good defensive player. He's not a good defensive player for the college level right now, but he has the mobility and intelligence that he can be."

"I think he will get a lot of playing time," said Coach Martin. "He has excellent timing. He knows how to block out. He's a smart kid and a good student."

Coach Martin said Baker would have to work on his ballhandling some.

"I expect him to get stronger, be a little quicker. He's going to be a great college player," he said. "I wish I had him a lot longer. He was an outstanding player, one of the best to come to this school."

each scored two points in the Prestonsburg win.

Prestonsburg found themselves down 18-14 to Dorton after the first quarter. The Wildcats buried three treys in the period as John Wright hit two and Justin Bryant one.

Dorton, continuing their hot outside shooting, got two more three-pointers from Bryant and took a 36-32 lead to the locker room at the half.

Prestonsburg's defense picked up in the third period as they held Dorton to two field goals, one a trey by Bryant, to take a 45-44 lead after three quarters.

Burchett hit a three-pointer in scoring six points in the fourth quarter as Prestonsburg went on a 19-11 run to win by nine.

Prestonsburg attempted 38 free throws and hit only 18. Five were front ends of bonus shots.

Dixon had two three-point baskets for the Blackcats and he attempted 14 free throws hitting six.

Bryant led Dorton with 17 points. Wright and Josh Tackett scored 12 each while Kip Sanders had nine points.

Prestonsburg opens Division play next Friday night at Georgetown in the state tournament.

HALL TO SPEAK AT PCC COMMENCEMENT

Former University of Kentucky basketball coach Joe B. Hall will be one of two speakers at this year's graduation commencement at Prestonsburg Community College.

Hall, who retired from coaching in 1985 after 13 years with the Wildcats, guided the UK basketball team to an NCAA title in 1978. He also won an NIT title as well.

Under Coach Hall, Kentucky had 182 victories for an average of just over 22 per season and a winning percentage of 74 percent.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to church Sunday. You'll be glad you did.

"Duff students enjoy a day off from testing!"

Discovering Alpha

Local students exhibit artwork at Prestonsburg Community College

"Discovering Alpha" is the name of an exhibition of artwork by artists/students in Prestonsburg Community College's painting class.

The show, which is free of charge to the public, opens May 3 at the PCC Art Gallery with a reception from 5 to 8 p.m., and remains on display through May 12.

Thomas J. Whitaker, art instructor at PCC, says, "Although certain techniques are encouraged, a teacher must be careful to allow each student to express himself or herself in each student's own way."

Works on display cover a wide range of subjects from "folk" topics to the bizarre, according to Whitaker. He said the artists have used oil, acrylic, watercolor and pastel for their work.

Whitaker said he and his students invite everyone to "come feast on 'Discovering Alpha.'"

Additional information may be obtained by calling PCC at 886-3863 and asking for Brenda Miller.

Working for education

Ryan Jones received a gym janitor work study award during Alice Lloyd College's annual Work-Study Awards Ceremony, held April 18. The awards recognize students who have excelled in their particular work field throughout the school year. Gary Perry, Work-Study Director at ALC, along with the 11 assigned work heads, presented the awards according to each work category.

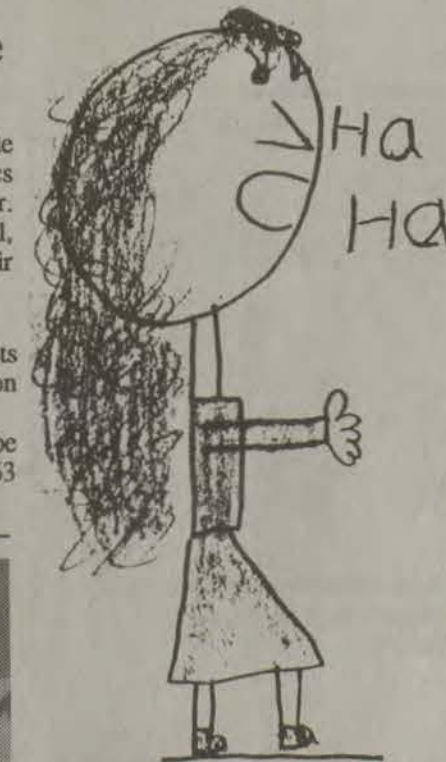

Young Authors

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly feature the student work of Allison Curry, a Primary III Young Author's winner from Melinda Hopkins' class at Melvin Elementary. Allison is the daughter of Brady and Melissa Curry of Bypro. Her book, Santa, was the winner in the Primary III illustrated book competition. Her book is printed with permission.

Janie is sad because every Christmas she never gets to see Santa. Soon she began to believe that Santa wasn't real.

One day Janie's little sister Maria was writing a note to Santa. Janie just laughed.

One night Janie woke up and she saw somebody putting presents under the Christmas tree. It was Santa!

Santa gave Janie a little box. Then he was gone.

The next morning Janie opened the present. It was a little necklace with a heart on it.

They all opened up their presents and had a Merry Christmas after all.

Harold Academic Team wins at district

In the past couple of months, the Harold academic team has strived hard and accomplished many things. The first big meet of the year came when Harold competed in the district competition, which was hosted at Harold Elementary. Many good teams from all over Floyd County competed in this competition.

Awards were given to those students placing in the top four. Harold's academic team members worked hard and placed in many categories on February 3, when the district competition began. This competition was just a stepping stone for the meets yet to come, because in order to advance to the regional meet, the student had to place at district.

Those placing in the top four were:

- Mathematics: J. R. Conn, second place.

- Social Studies: Brian Parker, first place; Ryan Lawson, second place; Beth Lawson, third place.

- Language Arts: Beth Lawson, first place; J. R. Conn, third place; Kristy Stevens, fourth place.

- General Knowledge: Kristy Stevens, third place; Beth Lawson, fourth place.

- Science: Brian Parker, first place; Ryan Lawson, second place.

Harold then competed in two team competitions. These were Quick Recall and Future Problem Solving. The whole team participated in Quick Recall and did well by taking first place.

The last event was Future Problem Solving. There were six people in this. They were Justin Bartley, Brandis Bradley, Scott Collins, Andrea Keathley, Jessica Lykens, and Kristy Stevens. These students took home first place in this event.

The Harold academic members hope to do just as well in the upcoming events. The coach is Bonnie Ward, a seventh-grade teacher at Harold.

John M. Stumbo Elementary's eighth grade stock market team gains first place in state

An eighth grade stock market team coached by Gary Spears, has placed first in the region and the state.

The stock market game is sponsored by the Kentucky Council on Economics Education. Student teams can invest an imaginary $100,000 in the real stock market.

They are provided with a weekly report of their performance in the market. Each team invests their money in the stocks of their choice.

Included in the competition are elementary schools, secondary schools, and colleges. The teams are ranked weekly by region and state for ten weeks. At the end of the ten weeks the top teams in the region and state receive awards and prizes, including money.

There are six teams of eighth grade students at John M. Stumbo Elementary. At the end of the sixth week of the game, one team ranked number one in the region and in the state.

The captain of the first place team is Anthony Craig Tackett. After only six weeks his team's stock portfolio has gained over $30,000. As noted by Mr. Spears, it is very difficult to compete against college and secondary teams. Teams from Stumbo Elementary have previously placed first in the region, but this is the first time placing number one in the state. The team in second place is from Powell County Middle School and the team in third place is from North Hardin High School.

Domestic violence awareness seminar

Dr. Baretta Casey, M.D. will be speaking at the Kentucky Medical Association Domestic Violence Awareness Seminar. The seminar will be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Louisville on May 20 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The seminar is intended to provide practicing physicians, nurses and other health-care providers practical information on identifying, treating and reporting patient abuse.

At the completion of the seminar, participants will have a better understanding of:

- The need for health care providers to know the signs and symptoms of spouse abuse in their patients.
- The importance of documentation and reporting of suspected abuse.
- Statistics about victims of domestic violence and the role of the provider to help lower the statistics.
- The involvement of health-care providers in the legal arena when reporting suspected abuse in patients.
- Communication techniques and questions which are essential for discussing domestic violence with patients.

Dr. Casey has been a member of the Medical Staff at Pikeville Methodist Hospital since June 1994. Dr. Casey is a Family Practice Physician and has served as the Chairman of the Subcommittee on Domestic Violence since 1992.

She is a 1991 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. She completed her Family Practice residency at Trover Clinic in Madisonville in 1994.

Wolf Creek lays off employees

Employees of a Martin County coal company were laid-off Monday as a result of contract changes with Carolina Power & Light Company.

Wolf Creek Collieries Company laid-off 245 hourly employees and 31 salaried employees on Monday. Only 100 of the hourly employees are considered temporarily laid-off.

The lay-offs came about when a six month old contract dispute with CP&L was resolved with a new coal supply agreement, said Larry Jones, vice president and general manager of Wolf Creek Collieries Company.

"We remain hopeful of conducting a recall of highly represented employees following the completion of mining on our last longwall panel," said Jones.

He said that their ability to be as efficient and cost effective as they can be while mining their last longwall panel is key to conducting a future recall of employees.

"While we have no guarantees of a recall at this time, I am confident that our current work force can work safely and productively to ensure our ability to compete at or near market price," Jones said.

William Chapman, financial secretary of UMWA local 7093, said that the permanently laid off workers will receive 60 days severance pay, 60 days full benefits and life insurance which will expire on June 29.

He said the severance pay will be paid in one lump sum payment and will be determined by whatever benefits are accumulated under the terms of their contract.

The temporarily laid off workers will not be eligible for these benefits until it is determined that they are not going to be called back to work, Chapman said.

"We are also checking to see if this layoff doesn't fall under the Clean Air act which would entitle the workers to additional grants and subsidies from the federal level," he said.

He also said that the layoffs had been done by seniority and qualification.

"It is my feeling that several of the layoffs will be challenged because a lot of the men feel like seniority should override qualifications and others think the other way," Chapman, a 19-year veteran of Wolf Creek Collieries, added.

UMWA International Board Member Howard Green said his office has contacted the proper government agencies that will be able to help the laid-off miners.

"I have spoken with the governor's office which has a rapid response group helping with the Joint Training Partnership Act (JTPA), which if properly used, can be better than unemployment benefits," Green said.

Green assured the miner's that the UMWA will be doing everything in its power to help ease the blow of the layoff.

Based on the terms of the new agreement between Wolf Creek and CP&L, the parties have agreed to jointly dismiss all claims pending against one another.

Other key elements of the new agreement include:

- revised and more flexible quality specifications;
- flexibility for coal shipments;
- pricing that will lower CPL's coal costs while allowing Wolf Creek to maintain the value of its business with CP&L;
- a reduction in coal shipments to approximately 1.5 million tons per year in 1995 and 1996, 1.875 million tons in 1997, and 2 million tons per year from 1998 through 2004;
- a new contract termination date of December 31, 2004 (the prior agreement terminated March 31, 2004).

Pauley acquitted of complicity

A Martin County man was acquitted of robbery charges last week because of lack of evidence, despite testimony from a key witness.

Jody Pauley, age not known, of Inez, was charged with complicity to first degree robbery when he allegedly planned the robbery of the Martin County business, Debbie's Hair Design, last year.

Pauley was acquitted of those charges in a trial last week when testimony from the prosecution's key witness failed to convince jurors that Pauley was involved.

A juvenile, 16 years-old, who now lives in Tennessee, testified via VCH tape that Pauley planned the robbery telling him that since he was a juvenile, he would not be punished as severely as an adult would be.

The juvenile also said that Pauley took him to the Hair Salon at Beauty, let him off, and agreed to meet him after the theft at the head of Marrowbone in West Virginia.

The juvenile, who lived with Pauley at the time of the robbery, pleaded guilty to robbing Debbie's Hair Design at gunpoint on February 25, 1994 and spent six months in solitary confinement at the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center where he attempted suicide, a police official said Tuesday.

Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Cheryl Neff provided the tape of the juvenile's statement as evidence. The juvenile was given a five year unsupervised probation in exchange for his testimony against Pauley.

Neff called Debbie McCoy, the owner of the hair salon to the stand, but she nor a customer, Kathy Ward, who was also called, could say they saw Pauley at the scene of the crime.

A 1986 Buick belonging to Ward was stolen and used as a getaway car by the juvenile.

The vehicle was found by Martin County Chief Deputy Sheriff Pete Fitzpatrick and Deputies Dallas Sweeney and Kevin Alley at the head of Marrowbone. None of the deputies were called to testify by the prosecution.

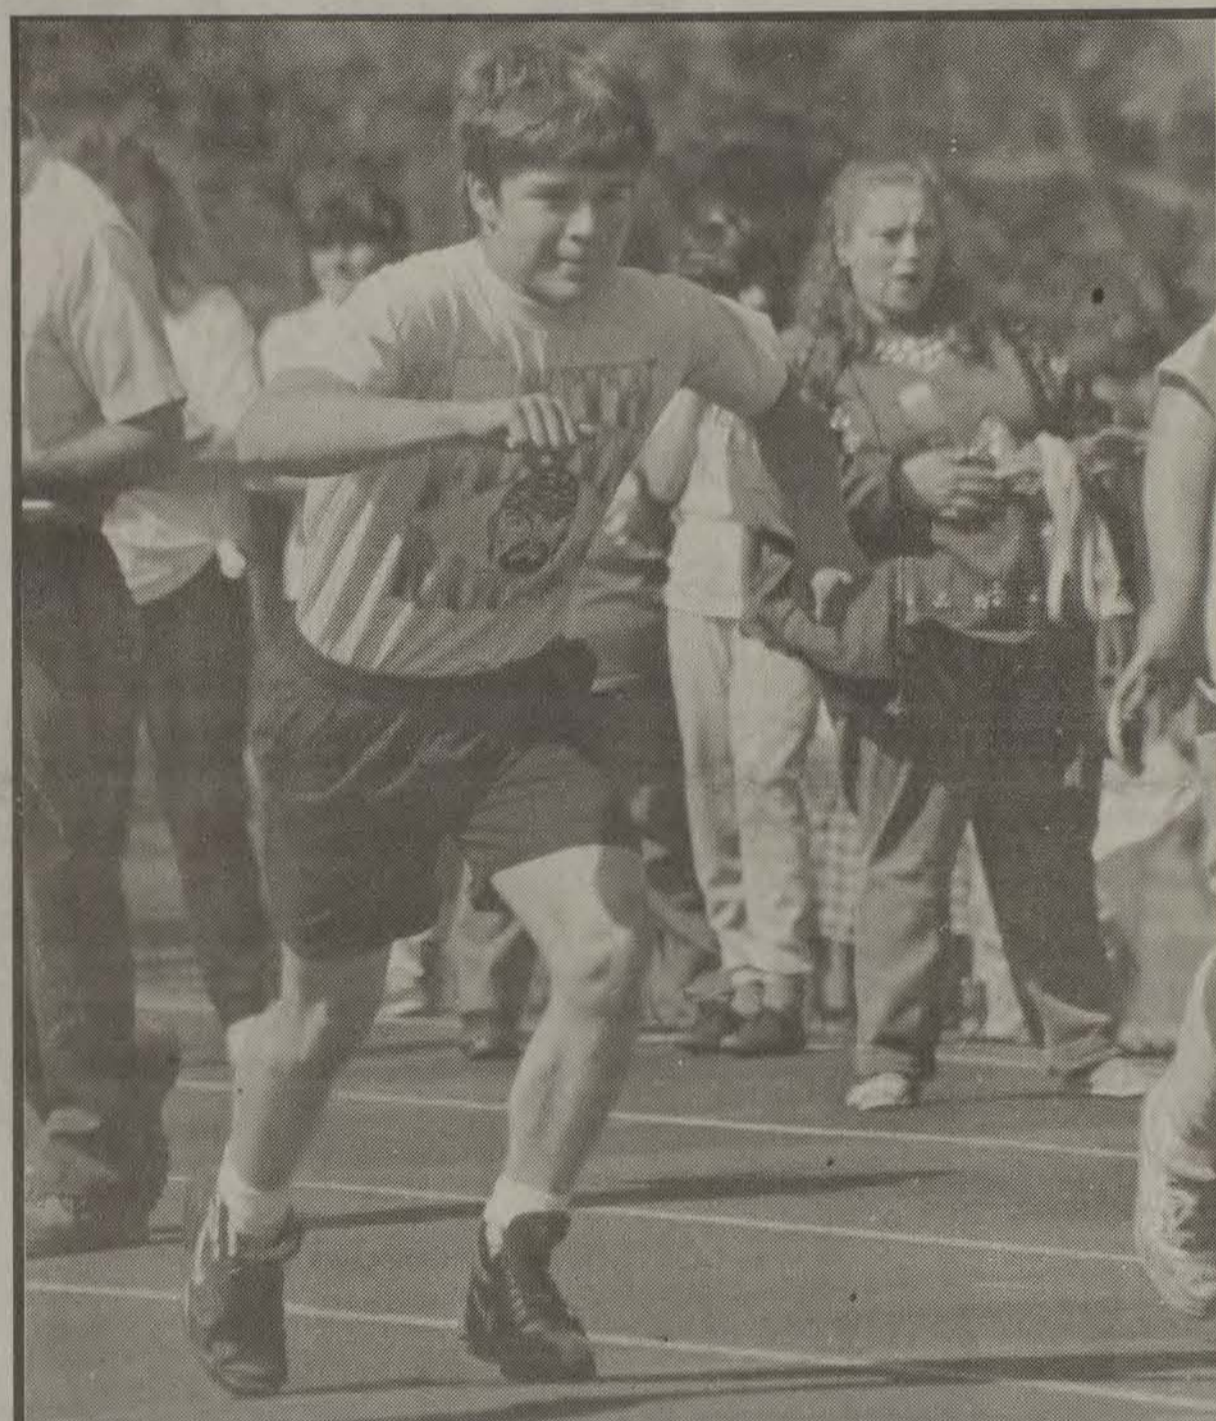

The juvenile was arrested by Kermit West Virginia police officials on the night of the robbery and Pauley was with him and $80 was confiscated.

Pauley was not suspected of having anything to do with the crime at the time the juvenile was arrested, police said.

Witnesses for the prosecution included Richardson, Kentucky State Police Detective Steve Bowman, McCoy and Ward.

The defense also called Bowman and a character witness for Pauley.

Pauley was also charged by the Commonwealth as a persistent felon but that charge was dropped in lieu of the not guilty verdict.

911 guidelines implemented

by Tony Fyffe
Paintsville Herald Editor

After being criticized by a 911 official for not responding to calls, Johnson County Sheriff Don McFaddin has implemented a policy on what emergency calls his office will answer from the emergency telephone system.

According to McFaddin's "911 Response Guide," the sheriff's office will respond to certain types of calls "when we have available personnel."

"If the center has any type of emergency not covered, we will be glad to screen them on an individual basis as to our response," the policy says.

Chris Haney, supervisor for the Paintsville-Johnson County 911 system, criticized McFaddin and his office in March for not answering most 911-referred calls. Haney said the fact that the sheriff's department doesn't have officers available makes the 911 service look bad.

McFaddin blamed the lack of response on the lack of money and said a lot of the calls his office receives are not emergencies.

In an April 21 letter to Haney, McFaddin said his agency is receiving "routine response dispatch calls" from 911 personnel. Calls he listed as routine included possible drunken drivers, reckless driving and stranded motorists. Such calls, McFaddin said, should be directed to the sheriff's office.

"We have full dispatch services from 8 a.m. until 12 midnight," McFaddin's letter said. "I am requesting that you route any calls wanting or needing routine response to our regular business numbers. The 911 emergency operators should only route extreme emergency traffic to our office during regular hours, all other callers should be admonished for misuse of the 911 system.

"I realize that the 911 operators double as (Paintsville Police Department) dispatch and I feel this may be confusing to them. However, to obtain the proper information we need for routine response, we need direct contact with the person filing the complaint."

McFaddin's 911 policy was forwarded to the 911 center on April 24. According to the policy, the sheriff's office will respond to the following type of emergencies from 911 personnel:

- Shots fired or a person with a "verified" weapon.
- Hostage situations.
- Armed robbery.
- Felony assaults only.
- Domestic violence.

Attorney indicted in Floyd Court

by Tony Fyffe
Paintsville Herald Editor

Almost immediately after he was charged last November with soliciting sex from two teen-aged girls, Toyray Adams said a family member received the first in a series of phone calls from a man trying to extort money.

"He called a family member within an hour of the arrest and advised them of it," Adams, a Paintsville attorney, said. "He knew all about us, about the whole family. We had never heard of him in our entire life."

Adams, who was indicted Tuesday, April 25, in Floyd County on two misdemeanor counts of promoting prostitution, identified the alleged extortionist as Donnie Williams, 46, of Prestonsburg.

Williams, whom Adams said is the father of one of the girls, was also indicted by the Floyd County Grand Jury on bribery charges. Williams allegedly offered the girls goods or money if they would change their testimony.

Adams said he was hoping Williams and "other parties" would also be charged with extortion by the grand jury. But he expects those indictments to be returned later.

"This whole thing, to the best of our knowledge, is an extortion scheme; an attempt to obtain money," Adams said.

The indictment claims Adams, 31, allegedly offered the girls money for sex. The alleged incident occurred last November 22 in the Prestonsburg Village parking lot.

In an interview with the Paintsville Herald Wednesday, April 26, Adams declined to discuss specifics of the charges against him. He did, however, maintain his innocence and offered additional information about Williams' alleged extortion attempt.

"None of this is true," he said. "It's very frustrating. It makes you very angry that this has occurred and that the allegations have been made."

Adams, who never personally spoke with Williams, said the man made "several" calls to a family member following his arrest. After the initial conversation, state police were notified and subsequent calls were tape recorded, he said.

"The first conversation was, 'Contact me and we can discuss this matter,'" Adams said. "Basically, his offer was, in exchange for $100,000, it would go away."

Adams denied knowing Williams or the girls involved in the case, and he couldn't explain why he would be the target of an extortion attempt.

"That is something, at this point, that we don't know," Adams said. "We do have several suggestions as

McClanahan pleads innocent

Gary McClanahan, an inspector for the U.S. Mine Safety and Health Administration, pleaded innocent Monday to charges of taking bribes from a coal operator and filing false reports.

U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood scheduled a June 13 trial for McClanahan, 51, of Freeburn. McClanahan was released on his own recognizance.

A grand jury last month charged McClanahan, who worked in MSHA's Phelps office, with taking $500 from an officer of Burning Ridge Coal Co. between May and June of 1990.

The indictment said $300 was for not citing violations at the firm's No. 1 mine and $200 was a "gratuity."

McClanahan was also charged with three counts of lying on forms about inspections.

He is one of six MSHA officials from Pike County indicted on bribery charges since last year.

Sturgill hangs up mail sack after 32 years of service

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Last Friday, April 28, Leonard Sturgill sold his last postage stamp, put up his last piece of mail, and greeted his last customer as postmaster of the Stanville Post Office.

It was retirement day for the Betsy Layne resident, who is a 32-year veteran of the United States Postal Service.

"It was my choice," Sturgill said last Friday. "I could have worked on. I could have retired last July with full retirement benefits. I really feel that while I've still got pretty good health, I need to do the things I want to do."

And what is that?
"I always garden," he said. "And I love to play golf and fish."

Sturgill said that his wife, Ethel, has a part-time job, but that may change. "She may want a full-time job after being at home with me a few months," he joked.

Sturgill spent nineteen of his years in the postal service at the Pikeville Post Office. Then eleven years ago, he was appointed postmaster at Stanville. The retiree will be 56 in July.

"Customers tell me I'm too young to retire," Sturgill said. "Some don't like it too much. But they wish me the best."

Last Friday, postal patrons were treated to soft drinks, sandwiches and chips during a day-long informal reception at the office. That morning, postal officials visited the office for to present Sturgill with special awards.

Joe Plummer, manager of post office operations at Hazard, gave Sturgill a retirement plaque. Edith Risner, Prestonsburg postmaster, and Diane Smith, postal system coordinator in Prestonsburg, gave the retiring postmaster a silver platter that was engraved with his name and years of service.

"He is probably one of our better postmasters," Risner said about Sturgill.

"He is one who did his job and did it well. He came from the older school. He believed in service."

"It's an excellent job," Sturgill said about the position of postmaster. "In Eastern Kentucky, it is one of the better jobs. I've enjoyed doing it."

Until a new postmaster is appointed at Stanville, Blue River postmaster Liz Crider will serve as officer in charge.

Postal retirement

Leonard Sturgill, postmaster at Stanville, received a silver tray from Diane Smith, postal system coordinator, in honor of his years of service with the United States Postal Service. Sturgill retired as postmaster last Friday.

"The Deliverer" delivers powerful message of love

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

For the past three weekends in April, the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheater in Prestonsburg in Floyd County has come alive with a remarkable dramatic pageant based on the life of Christ.

The professional quality production titled "The Deliverer," a life of Christ pageant, is the work of the music and drama ministries of First Baptist Church of Pikeville. Over a hundred lay persons were involved in the production, from construction of detailed sets and creation of colorful costumes to the actual performances.

At the end of its eight-performance run on Saturday night, April 29, an estimated 6,400 persons had seen the story of Jesus from His birth to His ascension, said Reverend Rick Shannon, pastor of First Baptist.

"People from just about every denomination and every age saw it," Shannon said. "Some said they had seen passion plays by professionals, and they were not as good as this one."

"The Deliverer" was created two years ago by staff members K. Rebecca Martin, who wrote the script, and Yvonne Clark, who orchestrated and had the music arranged in a Paducah studio on an accompaniment track. Martin and Clark also wrote two original songs for the production.

Although the two had collaborated on church productions before, this was the first major project they had staged outside the church walls. After three months of rehearsals, and two months of building sets and creating costumes by volunteers, the pageant debuted at the amphitheater last spring. Over 4,000 saw last year's performances.

The cast and crew is composed of teachers, hospital employees, housekeepers, carpenters, lawyers, and others who have no professional acting or singing experience. "They were real scared, and we were as scared as they were to do such a major event," Martin said. "But we had already staged dramas at church. We looked at it as a step of faith..."

"The Deliverer," which features a dramatic scene of the crucifixion, was so successful in drawing crowds that First Baptist decided to stage the production again. This year the outdoor drama has been performed in front of capacity audiences of 850 to 900 people.

"It is a tremendous presentation of the life of Christ," Shannon said. "I'm pleased and proud of our people for our effort."

Health agency gets approval to expand services

Lake Cumberland Home Health (LCHH) has received approval to expand home health services into Johnson, Magoffin, and Martin counties. The Interim Office of Health Planning and Certification issued the favorable decision April 5.

The agency is a pioneer in home care in southern Kentucky, having been medicare and medicaid certified since 1969. With the addition of the three new counties, LCHH's service area will cover 19 southern and eastern Kentucky counties.

LCHH opened offices in Floyd, Morgan, and Pike counties over five years ago to provide the people of the area with Home and Community-Based Waiver services, since no local healthcare provider was offering the service at the time. The Waiver program is designed to provide medicaid-eligible residents an alternative to nursing home care by providing intermittent assistance with personal care, homemaking, meal preparation, laundry, and respite care, as well as case management and minor home adaptations. Martin County residents have also been the recipient of these services, but have been served out of the Pike County office.

"We are looking forward to working with the people of this area to provide the kind of healthcare services they deserve," stated Gerald Erp, LCHH administrator. "With over twenty-six years experience, LCHH has established a tradition of excellence and quality care which, we believe, will be a welcome addition to Johnson, Magoffin, and Martin counties."

Through the approved expansion, LCHH will be able to provide a number of services in addition to the Waiver program for residents of Johnson, Magoffin, and Martin counties. New services will include: skilled nursing, medical social services, and home health aide services, as well as speech, occupational, and physical therapies. In addition, LCHH will offer home psychiatric nurse services and pediatric services, both unique to the area.

Roberts appointed administrator at Harlan ARH

Appalachian Regional Healthcare announces the appointment of Randy L. Roberts as administrator of Harlan ARH Hospital in Harlan.

Roberts is currently administrator of Grafton City Hospital, formerly managed by ARH, in Grafton City, West Virginia. Prior to his association with Grafton City Hospital, Roberts served as assistant administrator at ARH hospitals in McDowell and Whitesburg.

A native of Pikeville, Roberts earned a bachelor's degree in English at Pikeville College, and a master's degree in public administration from the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

"Our policy is to be actively involved in the communities we serve," continued Erp. "We plan to open our Paintsville and Inez offices early this summer, as soon as we can prepare office space and hire new staff, and our Salyersville office should be opened within a year. However, we will begin accepting referrals for all three counties as soon as the licensing process is completed."

LCHH is accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations. The agency's services range from those as basic as personal care to high-tech, such as chemotherapy, and patients range in age from newborn to the very elderly. Home health services are appropriate for patients whose conditions require long-term care, as well as those who need medical support to help them recover from accidents, stroke, heart attack, surgery, and other temporary conditions.

For more information about services call the following numbers: in Johnson County, 789-0045; in Martin County, 298-3300; and in Magoffin County, 1-800-467-6336.

to why, but I don't want to get into it specifically."

Adams said that during the investigation, Williams and others signed affidavits stating that they knew the charges against him were false.

"There were papers prepared pursuant to the state police being in-olved," Adams said. "Whereby, it is our understanding, that they were signed by all the parties that this did not occur. And they are in the possession of either the Prestonsburg city police or the state police, we're not sure which."

No trial date has been set for Adams in Floyd Circuit Court. He said the case should have never ended up in circuit court.

"The charges were misdemeanors originally, but they were listed as felonies," he said. "So as a result, it got bound over to the grand jury by mistake. It should have never got to the grand jury because it should have stayed in district court to start with."

Mammography unit accredited at Pikeville

Pikeville Methodist Hospital and The Breast Care Center have been approved by the American College of Radiology's Mammography Accreditation Program. Both facilities have met the necessary requirements, which include a stringent review by a panel of breast cancer-detection experts.

The reviewers evaluate the staff qualification, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs at a facility applying for accreditation. The quality of the image and the amount of radiation are measured and must meet rigid standards. Accreditations must be renewed every three years.

Mammograms can be performed at Pikeville Methodist Hospital or at the Breast Care Center located at 804 Pine Street, Pikeville. For more information contact the center at 432-6058 or Melissa Wallace at 437-3515.

News of the Weird by Chuck Shepherd

In March, eight Connecticut legislators, and almost three dozen other guests, became ill, with diarrhea and stomach cramps, from eating food at a reception sponsored by lobbyists for the Connecticut Food Association. Meanwhile, in Maine, a legislator introduced a bill to force lobbyists, while on duty in the State House, to wear oversized name tags of the same orange color as deer hunters' vests.

SCIENCE FAIR

— Twins Timothy Keys and Celeste Keys were born in New Orleans recently — Timothy on Oct. 15 and Celeste on Jan. 18. Doctors believe this gap between twins is unprecedented. A week before Celeste was born, a girl named Elisabetta was born in Rome, Italy, about two years after her mother had died. (The mother's preserved embryo was implanted in the womb of Elisabetta's father's sister.)

— In a January issue of the journal Nature, London researchers explained that it is sexual activity that causes female fruit flies to die young. Sperm of super-virile fruit flies contains an additive that causes the female to become disinterested in sex for a while, in order to give that sperm a head start at fertilization before the female mates again. The researchers found that additive is also associated with early mortality.

— The New York Times reported in January that some dermatologists, who are dissatisfied with injecting collagen to ease forehead wrinkles, have turned to a solution of the toxin that causes the botulism food poisoning. The treatment, which has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration, paralyzes the muscles that pull down the eyebrows, easing the wrinkles. And in tests at a Palm Springs, Calif., cancer center, doctors reported in December that a derivative of mistletoe has been their most effective treatment in cases of advanced lung cancer.

— A report in a January issue of The New England Journal of Medicine revealed that the cause of a woman's chronic heel pain was an accumulation of dog hairs embedded in the skin over the Achilles tendon, produced by years of her rubbing her Scottish terrier with her bare heel.

— A medical journal reported in September that a 28-year-old man had been saved from certain death in his fall from a seven-story building recently in Toronto — because he landed on a signpost and was impaled. The steel post pierced his back and protruded about six inches out of his chest near the armpit. The man received "minimal injuries," according to doctors, and suffered no permanent impairments.

LATEST RIGHTS

— In Denver in October, U.S. District Judge Edward Nottingham ruled that imprisoned kidnapper Robert James Howard should be allowed to practice certain rituals associated with his religion of Satanism, and that the prison should perhaps furnish Howard with a robe and incense. One of the rituals was a "destruction ritual," during which, according to Howard, he would visualize the death of an enemy and then convince himself, he would hope, not to carry out the killing.

— In September, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that a Montreal man was entitled to a new trial on the sexual assault charge brought against him for attacking a 65-year-old woman in a wheelchair. The court said the man was entitled to show that he should be acquitted because he was so intoxicated that he did not understand what he was doing. A few weeks later, in Alberta, Canada, a man was acquitted of assaulting his

This is a high tech world we live in, no doubt about it, but it sure would be a big help to us technologically-impaired inhabitants if we could just use some low-tech language to get around in it.

Maybe some folks are just trying to impress us with their grasp of technospeak, or maybe we're just too old a dog to learn new tricks, but it looks like modern communication and just plain talk are headed in opposite directions.

Most of us would be quick to blame the rise of multifarious confabulation on the rapid proliferation of computer technology, but variegated verbosity has been with us much longer than that.

The more suspicious among us might even go as far to say that technospeak was invented by the Pentagon to keep the spies and the General Accounting Office from discovering that a manually operated brad implacer is really just an ordinary old hammer.

Of course you don't shell out six hundred bucks for just an ordinary old hammer.

The legal profession has always used undecipherable lingo to express itself, too, more out of self-preservation than anything else.

After all, if the average guy on the street could make out the gist of contracts, insurance policies and statutes, there wouldn't be much need to pay a lawyer to do it for him.

Nowadays, technospeak has infiltrated the realm of education, where readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic are now visual interpretation, data-based transcription, and numerative analysis.

Learning is now outcome-based education, and understanding is experientiality.

Language just isn't user-friendly anymore.

That could be because talking has become more important than communicating and because we're too busy to pay any attention to one another anyway.

One of our favorite quotes comes from the French revolutionist Voltaire, who said, "I disapprove of what you say, but I'll defend to the death your right to say it."

If he were alive today, he might request an interpretation before offering any risk-based extenuation.

BAD BOYS

Call it a "guy thing," this buddy-buddy cop movie phenomenon. We've had such hits as "Beverly Hills Cop," "Lethal Weapon," "48 HRS.," etc. This latest film is a variation on the same theme and (surprise, surprise) it's brought to us by Don Simpson and Jerry Bruckheimer, the wunderkinder behind "Beverly Hills Cop," "Days of Thunder" and "Top Gun."

Will Smith and Martin Lawrence star as two partners on the Miami police force named Lowry and Burnett. Burnett is strictly a square — a devoted husband and father. Lowry is footloose and fancy free and would like it to stay that way. Yet, the two are fast friends and enjoy a good rapport with one another.

As we meet them, they're working on a hundred-million dollar heist of heroin stolen from police lockups. The two made the original bust, so they're put back on the case to find the guilty party. Considered an inside job, everyone's scrambling around watching their backs.

Added to the mix is lovely Tea Leoni, who says she can finger the leader of the thieves. She calls the station to talk to Lowry, whom she knows through a "friend of a friend," and Burnett picks up the phone. Impersonating his friend, he gets sucked into ultimately sticking with this ruse while Lowry has to pretend to be Burnett and play the devoted family man, even going so far as to live in Burnett's house.

Both Smith and Lawrence give creditable, genuinely funny performances. However, it is Smith who shines as the swinging bachelor caught in a domestic spider web. He provides most of the guffaws here. Not to be totally outdone, Lawrence manages to convey his mixed feelings about having to escort a beautiful woman around because of his police work, yet still remain true to his private life.

This film's a comedic winner. Don't miss it.

The Weekend

5th Kentucky prepares for battle

Few battles in the Civil War can compare to that of Middle Creek, fought on January 10, 1862.

The Battle of Middle Creek in Floyd County was Eastern Kentucky's largest battle during the Civil War and began the Union's effort to drive the Confederates from Kentucky in early 1862.

It was a poignant example of brother against brother in Kentucky. Eastern Kentucky's 5th Kentucky Infantry, CS, fought the 14th Kentucky Infantry, US, on a steep hillside above Middle Creek.

On June 2, 3, and 4, the 5th Kentucky will again traverse the fields of Middle Creek in an effort to educate the public about the importance of the Civil War battle that took place in Floyd County.

Re-enactment activities begin Friday evening, June 2, when registration and authentic camps open.

On Saturday, authentic camps open to the public around 9 a.m. after the re-enactors have participated in roll call and been given their orders of the day.

Drills and battlefield tactics demonstrations are scheduled through the day. Speeches by Col. James A. Garfield, US, and Gen. Humphrey Marshall, CS, are tentatively scheduled for downtown Prestonsburg Saturday.

Action moves to the river for a skirmish at Wireman-Shoals, near Auxier. Details have not been finalized for the battle, but re-enactors hope to take their fight to a boat on the river.

Also on Saturday's agenda is a living history on the lawn of the May House. Later, on the battlefield at Middle Creek, a pig roast will be served for dinner around 6 p.m. The pig roast costs $5, and tickets can be purchased from members of the 5th Kentucky, the Middle Creek Battlefield Preservation Society, or at the Prestonsburg Tourism office. For more information, call 886-1341.

After dinner, an evening of entertainment is planned with a Civil War drama in which a Union and a Confederate soldier each tells a story that helps spectators to envision the Civil War era.

Also, Saturday night, the Order of the Confederate Rose (OCR), based in Johnson County, has tentatively scheduled a ball on the grounds for those in Civil War costume. The OCR is currently seeking the services of band that can perform music from the Civil War days. For more information about the ball or the OCR, call Patricia Johnson at (606) 789-1151.

Church services begin Sunday's day of events. Services will be held around 9 or 9:30 a.m. on the field. The battle concludes the re-enactment Sunday at 2 p.m.

The Battle of Middle Creek is hosted by the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission, the 5th Kentucky, and the Middle Creek Battlefield Preservation Society.

Camp Wildcat

Heavy artillery

The boom of the 5th Kentucky's 3/4 scale cannon combined with the sound of the Salt River Artillery's full scale cannon to briefly halt the advance of the Union infantry during a re-enactment Saturday, April 29, of the Battle of Camp Wildcat near London. The actual Civil War battle was fought in October 21, 1861. The victory belonged to the union forces and the battle was one of the first union victories in Kentucky.

The 5th Kentucky will co-host the re-enactment of the Battle of Middle Creek on June 2, 3, and 4. For more information about the Middle Creek re-enactment, call (606) 886-1341. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Save up your money and pile up your rocks

When things are tough and my day-to-day existence seems like a grind, I think about my dad and what he would have done when the going got rough. In no time at all, my memories sustain me and I remember why I should never lose sight of the good things that happen in the midst of chaos.

My dad was an amusing man with a fabulous sense of humor and a magnanimous personality that endeared him to others. He was one of those people who never met a stranger and if he did, they became his friend almost immediately.

While dad possessed many talents, my favorite was his ability to make up songs on the spur of the moment about anybody with whom he came in contact, or anything that crossed his mind. The lyrics and music were original, and often, friends of our family were the recipients of these impromptu ballads.

My friend Kathy often heard:

"Kathy, Oh, Kathy, with hair that looks like taffy. She laughs all day; she laughs all night. I think she might be daffy."

The lyrics changed from person to person, but the music score never varied. Everyone was subjected to the same tune. One of my sister's friends was the object of the following:

"Lydie Nell, Lydie Nell, she kissed a boy behind the well. I hope that boy does never tell or Lydie Nell might ring his bell."

The family songs were the best. We would sing his songs in unison. For example: Dad: "Scatter rack" Melinda: "Tom Cat" Sara: "Ticky rye-e-e" Jenny: "Boo!" Dad: "I'm gonna" Melinda: "Shake the" Sara: "Pudding out of" Jenny: "You."

Another favorite was:

"Save up your money and pile up your rocks and you'll always have tobaccie in your old tobaccie box."

And:

"Ringtail possum in the country store, phoot on the table and he phoot on the floor, phoot in the coffee and he phoot in the tea. If I hadn't been a hustler he'd phoot on me."

We never did know if he made that one up or not, but we never heard anyone else warble it. The same goes for these:

"I've got a girl who's six feet tall, sleeps in the kitchen with her feet in the hall." And,

"Last time I seed her, and I ain't seed her since, she was floating down the river on a barbed wire fence."

Dad wasn't the only one in the family who loved music; Mother liked it, too. Though she rarely sang one of her dad's originals, we'd humor her by listening to her sing her favorites. We now know all the popular tunes from the 40's. One lady, who used to help around the house, made the comment that

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Jack told Gloria Adam won't press charges. Erica fell and was rushed to the hospital. An angry Dimitri blasted Tad over her accident. Cecily mistakenly thought Jack was her cyber-date, "Beyond Clueless," and made an appointment with him. Hayley asked Brooke to be in her bridal party. Palmer and Seabone argued over Opal. Janet found a place in the church to plant the bomb. Wait To See: Hayley decides to confront Arlene.

ANOTHER WORLD: After facing Justine, Spencer suffered a stroke. Later, unable to speak, he tried to communicate to Grant that Justine was in his hospital room and tried to kill him. Michael told John he wants to move to the farm. After Rachel warned Evan to stay away from Amanda, Amanda wondered why he was late for lunch. Lorna told Morgan she broke up with Grant. Christopher was increasingly concerned about Justine's mental state. Wait To See: Joe must deal with his lie about Jake.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: David Carreras said he'd help Shannon publish Devere's book. Julie told Lisa about finding Hans' ransom money. Lucinda confirmed she and Sam are sisters. Margo told Hal John is a victim of a witch hunt. Dawn begged Tom to find Jeremy's father and grandfather. Margo feared a new development would further entrap John. Wait To See: Connie's discovery creates a new mystery.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: An angry Stephanie accused Brooke of bad faith when she balked at signing over the Forrester stock. Taylor told Ridge she's not Princess Laila of Morocco. Later, Stephanie confronted Taylor about being a fraud, and demanded she take off her wig. A jealous Mike interrupted Sheila's romantic moment with James. Anthony daydreamed about making love to Macy. Eric suspected Anthony framed Thorne and asked Sally to help him uncover the truth. Wait To See: Taylor makes a decision that will change her life.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Despite the fury of the Devil's storm, Marlena rushed into a church for sanctuary. Meanwhile, Father Francis was divinely healed and set out to rescue Marlena. Aware that Billie suspected her in Kate's "death," Vivian vowed to derail her, permanently. Kristen and John argued over what was really wrong with Marlena. Jack was stunned when the chance to prove Peter was in league with Stefano backfired in front of Jennifer. Austin and Carrie announced their engagement. Gina's first police beat took her close to where the puzzle box resurfaced. Wait To See: Vivian's plan could help Lucas, but at what price?

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Mike was shot as Luke and Sonny rushed to Lucy's rescue. Sonny exacted revenge by gunning down Scully. Alan was upset when Monica offered to help Page settle in with the Quartermaines. Harry warned Luke and Sonny that Scully's death will lead to retaliation. Kevin set up an appointment with Stone to discuss his blood test results. Wait To See: The "revenge" begins, and Sonny is the prime target.

GUIDING LIGHT: Reva interrupted Josh and Annie's romantic time. Later, recalling Reva saying he knows where to find her, Josh left for Cross Creek. Brent was fired after a fight with Alan-Michael. He later entered into an unholy alliance. Lucy was alone in the boarding house when a man quietly entered. Ross was alarmed when Fletcher said he would find the real thief. Wait To See: Lucy faces a new threat from Brent.

LOVING: Casey began his undercover work in the drug ring. Jacob tried to persuade Angie he really loved her. Charles talked to a former FBI colleague, Carolyn, who then reported a "problem" to a mysterious source. Later, Charles tried to tell Angie Jacob's love is part of a plot against him (Charles). Steffi was crushed by Cooper's message. Wait

To See: Charles faces a shocking realization.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Tori stopped David from telling Tina the truth. Asa caught Alex meeting with R.J. Luna went into labor and Max helped her deliver a set of twins, a girl and a boy. Dylan told Marty something about his past. Later, the two became passionate. Carlotta warned Cristian about making the right choices in life. Tori faced Kevin after sabotaging The Banner's press room. Wait To See: Tori gives Dorian more cause for concern.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Mari Jo tried to persuade Brad she's not the bitchy woman he thinks she is, and asked if they could become friends. Jeri, meanwhile, admitted to Cole that she really wasn't engaged, and had lied to make it easier for Victoria to accept their working together. Amy went through Sharon's Central High yearbook. Matt, in the meantime, worked to find things in Sharon's past he could use against her. Amy was later upset when an angry Matt demanded she try to remember in which city Central High was located. As John persisted in referring to a devastated Mamie as the housekeeper, Jack realized Jill may have been manipulating his thoughts and vowed to stop her. Victor was upset when Hope said she would raise their newborn son on the farm, and not return to Genoa City with him. Wait To See: Sharon gets a shocking call.

HOME TIPS

SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE—If you work a lot of puzzles and trade with friends and neighbors back and forth, you can save money by sharing. Also, when you get through with a puzzle, put your initials on the box so you won't get the same one again at another time. G.R., Springfield, Ill.

BRRR!—I just love your Home Tips! Here's mine: I use ice cube trays to keep my earrings in order. If you have a lot of earrings, the trays can be stacked one upon another.

Also, an accordion-type coat or mug rack is great for necklaces. I usually hang this behind a door, not on the door. This way, it's out of sight. Pearl K., Coventry, R.I.

NUKE IT!—My home tip for your readers is an easy way to clean a messy microwave. When food splatters and is not cleaned off immediately, it can be a real chore to clean. Place a small bowl of water in the microwave and heat until hot. Let stand for a few minutes and the steam will then soften baked-on foods. Wipe clean! Cindy B., Mechanicsburg, Ohio

TWO TIPS—I read your article in the Floyd County Times here in Hueysville, Ky., and I thought I would send some of my "Home Tips."

1. If you don't have a cabbage cutter, take a cream can, cut the top off and burn it a little over the stove. Use that as a cutter. It works wonders. (Be careful not to burn yourself.)

2. When you use your toilet paper, save the paper roll. After washing your hair, use the rolls for curlers. Doing so makes your hair bouncy and the soft rolls won't break your hair at the ends. Pearl H., Hueysville, Ky.

CLEAN IT OUT—I found the best way to clean the inside of a pumpkin is to use the flat, round seal from canning jars. It's perfect for scraping out every last bit. Julie K., Las Vegas, Nev.

SHAMPOO—My daughters are always trying different types of shampoo for their hair.

When they change from one to the next, instead of throwing away the leftover old ones, I use them to hand-wash panty hose and delicate clothes. Irma N., Metairie, La.

wife, based explicitly on the Supreme Court's ruling.

-- In December, New York state Rep. Michael Nozzolio told reporters that the state spends $700,000 a year on estrogen for its 87 male prison inmates who want to become female. State law establishes a right to such hormone treatment if the person was receiving the treatments before he was imprisoned, and some legislators fear that indigent transsexuals may be committing crimes in order to receive free treatment.

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

In March, a man with a gun burst into a Columbia, Tenn., building that formerly housed the First Citizens Bank and rushed up to what were formerly the tellers' counters. However, the bank had relocated six months earlier, and the building now houses an insurance company, two of whose employees were on duty.

Asked the man, "Is this not a bank anymore?" He managed to escape after robbing the two women. And in New Jersey, James J. Downes, 29, was arrested for attempted robbery of the Sussex County State Bank in Vernon Township after he drew attention to himself by banging on the bank's doors, while wearing a mask, a few minutes after the bank had closed for the day on April 1.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your goals in business are somewhat altruistic this week. Happy financial news comes in the form of a bonus, dividend or loan later in the week. Lovers share private times together over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be tactful in dealings with higher-ups. It's a great time for matters of the heart and new romances. Some will become engaged and others will meet with exciting new romantic introductions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your intuition works very well for you this week, so don't be tempted to second-guess yourself later on. New opportunities and enhanced prestige are likely at work. However, a cantankerous co-worker needs to be mollified.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're sensitive to the needs of others, especially partners. This should be a highly romantic time. However, avoid the temptation to take advantage of another's good nature. You could be making plans for a future pleasure trip.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good week to apply for a loan or refinance a mortgage. You could be making a major purchase for the home, but you need to make sure you're getting the best deal. The weekend favors family entertaining.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your optimism attracts benefits. However, be careful not to trip over small details at work. Your concentration is being thrown off by someone else's moodiness. Dating will be a delight, and you could find yourself very much in love.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You'll be happy to do a favor for a family member this week who is relying on your help. Others will find you especially considerate. Recognition comes at work and financial prospects happily improve.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Artistic sensibilities are heightened and creative types are inspired. It's a blissful time for romance. The latter part of the week favors fun and leisure. However, make sure all tasks are out of the way first.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You'll be impressing a close tie with your thoughtfulness now in the form of a kind word or a nice gift. Your sincerity in doing this shines forth and is an inspiration. The weekend favors domesticity.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your company is much sought after this week, and you'll be receiving benefits through friendship. You receive a plethora of invitations now. Sift through them and accept the ones which are sure to bring you business benefits.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You could be involved now with a humanitarian or community concern. The week's business opportunities are financially promising. However, be sure you know the details of a certain proposal before agreeing to it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A friendship has romantic overtones. Good news comes from an agent or adviser. You'll be making travel plans, but don't firm these up yet. Your personal charm is at a peak, making you an attractive companion.

ours was the only household she was ever in that the people sang when they got up, sang when they went to the bathroom, and sang when they fixed breakfast. And we did. We'd just follow dad's lead and break out in one of his "loony tunes."

It is true that "music tames the savage heart," but my dad's music heals the "blues."

PUBLIC NOTICE

In accordance with the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act, written policies and procedures have been developed which describe the Floyd County School District's (FCSD) requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information. Stated in this notice is a summary of your rights under the Act. These rights are passed on to the student at age eighteen. For the purpose of this notice, the student 18 years or older will be referred to as "eligible" students. Parents, guardians, and eligible students may review and inspect all education records relating to that student by making a request to the Principal of the school where that student attends.

The FCSD will presume that the parent has the authority to review and inspect records relating to their children unless the district has been advised in writing that the parent does not have legal authority under applicable state law governing such matters as guardianship, separation, and divorce.

Personally identifiable information is not released to another party unless there is written authorization from the parent or eligible student, or there is a "Legitimate Educational Interest" as defined in the policies and procedures for confidentiality. A current list of employees' names and positions who have access to personally identifiable information is on file in each school. The FCSD has described in its policies and procedures the conditions under which personally identifiable information is released to another person without written parental consent.

"Directory Information" is information contained in an educational record which would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. This information may be released to news media, athletic organizations, scholarship or college entrance committees, or official organizations whose need for data is connected with student help activities. "Directory Information" includes, but is not limited to the student's name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended. The parent, guardian, or eligible student currently enrolled, may request all or part of the directory information be withheld. The request must be in writing to the Principal of your child's school, within 30 calendar days after this notification has been distributed. The written request must specifically state what information may not be classified as directory information.

In accordance with federal regulation concerning the release of educational records, it is the policy of this school district to forward education records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll. Parents may obtain upon request a copy of the records transferred.

The Floyd County Schools keeps child and youth records in a secure computer system and in locked files in each school and central office.

Any parent or guardian of a student, or any eligible student, may challenge the content or accuracy of any material or entries in the student's educational records on the grounds that it is inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of the student. Requests to amend the records are submitted to the principal of your child's school.

For students who have been determined eligible for programs for children and youth with disabilities, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parent when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs and services. The FCSD will destroy the educational records of a child or youth without a parent's request after the records have been maintained for a minimum period of seven years and are no longer needed to provide educational programs and services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may be later needed for Social Security purposes. The FCSD retains for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance record, classes attended, grades completed, and year completed.

Children and youth determined eligible for special education include those children and youth with disabilities who have hearing impairments, vision impairments, emotional and behavior disorders, both deafness and blindness, health impairments, specific learning disabilities, mental disabilities, multiple disabilities, speech and language impairments, physical disabilities, autism, or traumatic brain injuries, and who because of these impairments need specially designed instruction and related services.

The Floyd County Schools has an ongoing Child Find system, which is designed to find any child or youth, age birth up to 22 years, who may have a disability and need special education. This includes children and youth who are not in school or those who are in school but are not receiving the special education they need to have an appropriate public education.

The Floyd County Schools will make sure any child or youth who has a disability, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided an appropriate public education at no cost to the parents of the child or youth.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Floyd County Schools find any infant, toddler, child, or youth who may have a disability and need special education and related services. The district needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child or youth; the name, address, and phone of the parent or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if special education is needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways Floyd County Schools collect the information needed. The information the school district collects will be used to contact the parents of the child or youth and find out if the child or youth needs to be evaluated or referred for special education services.

If you know of a child or youth who lives in Floyd County, who may have a disability, and is not receiving needed services bring, telephone, or send the information to:

Brenda Fish
Director of Special Education
Floyd County Schools
34 A Richmond Plaza
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

As part of these efforts, Floyd County Schools will use screening information, student records, and basic assessment information it collects on all children and youth in the district to help locate those children and youth who have a disability and need special education.

Any information the district collects through Child Find is maintained confidentially.

Parents, guardians, or eligible students have the right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education related to perceived failures by the district to comply with confidentiality requirements. The address is: Family Policy and Regulations Office, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, D.C., 20202.

Written policies and procedures have been developed which describe the district's requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information and Child Find activities.
