Towler leaves with controversial arrival in mind

Dr. Stephen Towler

by Scott Perry
Times Editor and
Susan Allen
Staff Writer

When Dr. Stephen Towler wraps up his stint as superintendent of the Floyd County School System next month, his most lasting impression will likely be his first impression from more than three years ago.

Towler, who was hired Wednesday evening to a three-year contract by the Russell County Board of Education, will be leaving Floyd County under much the same circumstances that surrounded his arrival in 1992. He wasn't the Floyd County board's first choice for the job.

"I feel good about some things we did here," Towler said Wednesday, "but I was never satisfied with the way I got here. It's been a tough three years, and I don't mind saying that," he added. "I enjoyed a lot of it, and I haven't enjoyed a lot."

A career educator with 28 years of service in eight different Kentucky school districts, Towler said he was never able to completely overcome the hail of criticism that followed his arrival in Floyd County.

That criticism erupted when Towler was hired by a board that had not selected him for the job and after former Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen all but forced him into the post vacated by the removal of embattled superintendent Ronald Hager.

Following the selection process prescribed by law, the Floyd Board had chosen Nebraska educator Bill Zitterkopf to succeed Hager but that choice was vetoed by Boysen, who recommended that the board consider Towler, instead. The board took that recommendation more as a mandate from Boysen, and hired Towler, who stepped into a system already split apart by political upheaval and state investigation.

"Change is never easy," Towler said Wednesday, "and the circumstances under which I arrived here made it all the more difficult."

His departure next month involves some similarities that Towler admitted were keys to his decision to leave. In short, he doesn't feel wanted.

"We have a whole new board from the one that was here when I arrived," he said, "and I sensed that they wanted to hire their own superintendent. It was just time for me to move somewhere else."

Despite his difficult tenure, Towler said he believes he has made some progress in a system he said "has had more state involvement than any other system in the state."

"I believe our effort to tone down the adverse publicity and turn around the image of this system has been somewhat successful," he said.

"That's one thing I feel good about."

He confessed, though, that much work was left undone.

"A lot of attitudes need to change here, there's still too much internal squabbling," Towler said. "Professionalism has a way to go and levels of trust need to increase."

"I tried to make things work here that have worked in other systems for years, but we're still in a bit of a transition," he said. "I am guardedly optimistic for the future. Floyd County schools have a lot of good things going for them."

Towler said he hoped "Floyd County feels my time here has been instrumental in making needed changes. Hopefully we've made a dent."

Towler's resignation is effective on August 31, but he said he will leave earlier if the board quickly chooses an interim replacement.

Board chairman Ray Brackett could not be reached Thursday to comment on Towler's resignation. As of presstime Thursday, the board had not called a special meeting to address the issue.

Cops nab burglar who hid in ceiling

An East Point man was arrested Wednesday morning while doing some comparison shopping.

Gary Warick, 28, was finally apprehended behind Wal-Mart at Highlands Plaza after a five-hour standoff with law enforcement agencies at Big Lots.

Warick allegedly entered Big Lots at 2:03 a.m. Wednesday through the air conditioning unit on the roof.

After the security alarm sounded, the Prestonsburg Police Department and the Floyd County Sheriff's Office secured and searched the building, but were unable to locate Warick.

Prestonsburg Fire Department provided a ladder and lights for the officers while they were on the roof.

Prestonsburg police sergeant Gerald Clark said Warick was hidden somewhere in the store's storage room.

"The room was full of boxes," Clark said. "He was well hid."

Prestonsburg police officer Ralph Frasure said that by 7 a.m., the decision was made to back off.

All other officers left the scene and Prestonsburg police captain Greg Hall, Floyd County auxiliary deputy sheriff Gary Dotson and Frasure remained behind to see if Warick would leave the building.

Frasure, Hall and Dotson parked in McDonald's parking lot and waited.

Prestonsburg Social Security District office named one of best in the nation

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Four times in the last few years the Prestonsburg Social Security District office has been selected as one of the best in Kentucky for its exceptional service and accuracy.

This year, the Prestonsburg office was named not only the best in the state, but the outstanding office in the Southeastern United States.

The Prestonsburg office won the Best District Office award over about 230 offices in the Atlanta region, which is comprised of offices in Kentucky, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. It is the first time an Eastern Kentucky office has received the coveted award.

In recognition of the achievement, Social Security Administration officials and prominent Eastern Kentucky leaders lauded the staff and district manager Jim Kelly in a ceremony held Wednesday, July 26, at the National Guard Armory.

Kelly, who served as the master of ceremonies, set the tone for the event by praising his 21-member staff.

"We are here to observe a great event for myself and my staff," the Van Lear native said. "And it is a great day for Eastern Kentucky. We have set an exemplary standard. If nothing else, we have demonstrated that good things can come from Eastern Kentucky...The performance we have achieved has been done, on the most part, by full-stock Eastern Kentucky folk."

Each year, the Prestonsburg Social Security District office, which includes a Pikeville branch office, averages over 45,500 customers, responds to over 65,000 telephone calls and 25,000 written requests for information or services from residents in the Big Sandy Valley.

Each month, Social Security sends out 48,000 monthly benefit checks to residents in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, and Pike counties, totaling over $23 million dollars a month, and Differing stories puts council in legal dilemma

by Susan Allen

Differing accounts of what took place last year when the City of Martin's water tank was vandalized is causing problems with the prosecution of the case.

At Wednesday's Martin City Council meeting, Mayor Alan Whicker explained that a decision had to be made to either proceed with the case or drop it. He added that conflicting stories about the incident has bogged down the case.

"There's two tales being told," Whicker said.

Whicker indicated that the police chief James Burke and former Mayor Raymond Griffith had different versions of what took place last November when vandals allegedly urinated in the water tank and shut down the city's water supply for a week.

Councilwoman Hazel Robinson said, "(Burke) told one tale and Raymond told another one."

Burke was unable to get an indictment against two men charged in the case, John Edward Reed, 18, of Martin and Kevin Whitaker, 18, of Hueysville. The two were charged with first degree criminal mischief and first degree criminal trespassing. The criminal mischief charge was later amended to tampering with a water supply, a felony charge.

Whicker said that a Floyd Grand Jury had asked for more evidence in the case, but that Burke said there was not any more information to be provided to the grand jury.

"Enough is enough," Whicker said. "It's terrible if it did happen, but nobody knows. One of the boys charged has not been able to come into the city and it's been a long time. We have to do something about it. It's all up in the air."

Newly-appointed councilman Steve Farthing asked if it had been determined if anyone had trespassed on the property. Farthing was appointed to the council at a July 19 special meeting when councilman Denzil "Hoss" Halbert resigned.

Whicker said that it was definite

Mega-festival to be studied by new board

The future of festivals in Prestonsburg, including the Jenny Wiley Festival, could rest in the hands of a special festival committee that will be appointed by the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission.

At a special meeting Wednesday night at Prestonsburg City Hall to seek input on organizing one large festival in town, the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission approved a recommendation by Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin to establish a Festival Committee.

Drug task force captures few; responds to domestic dispute

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Mountain Area Drug Task Force members got more than they bargained for Tuesday during a roundup of suspected drug dealers when officers were called to a domestic dispute at Stumbo Hollow at Drift.

Floyd sheriff's deputies didn't have much luck finding those persons at home whom they had arrest warrants for, but they did come up with a small quantity of what appeared to be cocaine, some unidentified pills and drug paraphernalia.

After the task force had called a halt to the evening's activities, the dispatcher at the sheriff's department received a call that a domestic dispute was in progress at Drift.

The woman caller said that her husband, Wade Martin, 27, of Drift, had a shotgun and was shooting at their home while she and her children were inside. The woman had fled to a neighbor's house with one of her children and called police.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and deputies Charlie Thompson and Ricky Thornberry rushed to the scene. Sheriff Thompson and deputy Thompson arrived first at the scene and the woman reported that she did not know where her husband had gone and he was armed with a shotgun.

Deputy Thornberry arrived

Judge declares mistrial

by Susan Allen

A mistrial was declared Wednesday in a theft case in Floyd Circuit Court after an inappropriate comment was made by the prosecutor during opening arguments.

Assistant commonwealth attorney Dan Rowland wrongly told jurors about a guilty plea by a co-defendant in a case against Luther Johnson of Prestonsburg.

Johnson, 58, of Rose Drive, is charged with theft by unlawful taking for allegedly swiping a $2,600 deposit from a teller counter at a First Commonwealth bank branch last May.

When Rowland told jurors that

Mega-festival

In a letter addressed to Gene Luka, commission chairman, Fannin asked the commission to "launch a community-wide effort, to organize an annual festival that is representative of all our resources" by establishing the committee.

Fannin advised the commission not to limit the scope of its effort to just a "Prestonsburg thing" and asked that the commission work with other festivals and community homecoming events in the county.

The Festival Committee's goal will be to develop one large festival that will equal festivals such as Apple Day in Paintsville and Hillbilly Days in Pikeville.

After the tourism commissioners approved a motion to form the festival committee, Beverly Hackworth, a member of the Jenny Wiley Festival

Board, asked commissioners if the name or date of the Jenny Wiley Festival would be changed.

"When the festival committee meets, that will be one of their objectives," Chairman Luka said, and explained that those decisions will rest with the new festival committee.

Commissioner Jim Sparks told Hackworth and other members of the Jenny Wiley Festival Board attending the meeting that the commissioners were not interested in changing the name of the Jenny Wiley Festival or its date.

Commissioner Blake Burchett also stressed that the Jenny Wiley Festival Board will become part of the voting membership of the new festival committee.

"You will be part of this committee. Tourism is not running this festival. It's setting up an arm of tourism...You'll be part of making decisions, not us," Burchett said.

Earlier in the meeting, Prestonsburg tourism director Fred James had stressed the importance of keeping the Jenny Wiley name for the festival and discussed its marketing potential because the name is associated with Jenny Wiley State Park and Jenny Wiley Theatre.

"The name and the date are not the issues," James said. "The community has not been fully active...not participating in the event."

Helen Branham, who has been part of the Jenny Wiley Festival for the past ten years, welcomed the tourism commission's decision, saying she wished it had happened years ago.

"I see no problem with this...I haven't had a (Jenny Wiley) pageant for the last two years...I've had parents get right in my face and call me a SOB...I've had to sneak judges out the back door," Branham said in exasperation about difficulties she's encountered in the past.

Earlier in the meeting, Branham also complained that she and other members of the Jenny Wiley Festival Board had encountered lack of community support when organizing the festival.

Branham said that she had sent out 200 letters asking for donations and for help with the festival. She received $50.

"You're saying 'we need more help'; the mayor said let's do something about it," Luka said. "It has been a monumental task for you. One person pulling a car can't do it, but you get 100 people and you can move it."

The commissioners appointed James to contact people on a list of organizations and businesses that Mayor Fannin had recommended in his letter. The committee will officially be recognized at the September meeting of the tourism commission.

In the meantime, the Jenny Wiley Festival Board will continue its work on this year's event in October, commissioners agreed.

Branham invited individuals who want to assist in the festival to attend meetings held on the third Thursday of each month at 4:30 p.m. in the Floyd County Library.

She reported that the festival board is currently working on several new activities for this year's festival, including a Golden Oldies competition that would offer prizes for winners in events such as Hula Hoop matches. Also new will be a parade of breeds for pet owners.

Festival founder, Maxine Bierman, was out of town and did not attend the meeting.

that someone had trespassed on the property.

Robinson said that she had talked with one of the grand jurors and was told that the city "didn't have anything" in the way of evidence.

Council authorized the mayor to talk with city attorney Tim Parker about the issue and decide how to deal with the case.

Also Wednesday, council and the mayor decided to proceed with trying to obtain a grant to revitalize the downtown area of the city.

Farthing, who is a business owner in Martin, asked fellow board members and the mayor what were their plans and views for the downtown portion of the town.

Whicker said that he was committed to rebuilding and refurbishing main street and wanted Farthing to set up a meeting with local business owners to discuss ideas. The mayor added that he had talked to Bob Lewandowski, with the Big Sandy Area Development District, about a Main Street Program grant for the city.

Councilwoman Sherry Ratliff requested to sit in on the discussions and the mayor invited any council member to attend.

In other business Wednesday:

- Council held first reading of an ordinance to change the regular monthly meeting date from the fourth Wednesday of each month to the fourth Tuesday. The mayor said changing the date would allow more citizens to attend the meetings because most local churches hold services on Wednesday evenings.

- Councilwoman Ratliff again invited citizens to attend council meetings to offer suggestions and exchange ideas on city government.

- Council voted to hire Flo Bartrum to perform the city's annual audit.

- Councilman Rodney Hutchinson was absent from Wednesday's meeting.

shortly after Thompson, along with state police troopers John Hunt and Les Stapleton. Deputies Steve Toy and Matt Johnson also responded to the call.

After determining that Martin was not near the home where his wife was at, officers fanned out and searched the surrounding hillside for Martin.

Officers found where the shotgun had been dropped and determined that Martin had fled through a cornfield. Officers searched the area for about two hours, some of which was during a downpour of rain, before calling it off.

Martin's wife and children were taken to a local spouse abuse center.

On Wednesday, Martin called the sheriff's office and told them he would surrender at his home. Sheriff Thompson and deputy Charlie Thompson arrested Martin without incident.

Martin is charged with first degree wanton endangerment.

Prior to the incident at Drift, Floyd chief deputy Linzie Hunt and deputy Ricky Newsome arrested Paula Castellanous, 26, and Rick Castellanous, 25, both of Tram, as part of the drug task force roundup. The two are charged with trafficking in marijuana.

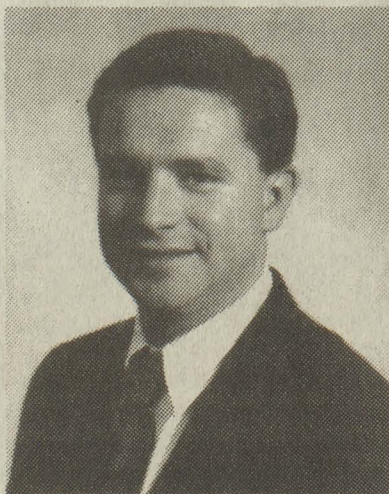

Also, Hunt, Newsome and deputy Homer Neeley arrested Margo Shepherd Conn, 56, of Abbott on two counts of trafficking in marijuana.

Preliminary hearing have been set for August 2 at 2:30 p.m. in Floyd District Court on those cases.

At the home of Gary Hicks, 31, of Estill, deputies confiscated what appeared to be cocaine, pills and drug paraphernalia. Hicks was not at home, but he was later lodged in the Knott County Jail, deputy Steve Toy said Thursday. Floyd officials asked Knott officials to hold Hicks for charges in Floyd County.

Knott deputy sheriff Phil Slone also participated in Tuesday's roundup.

About this time, Warick apparently came out of the storage room and headed toward the door. A Big Lots employee attempted to detain Warick, but Warick pulled a knife.

The Big Lots employee let Warick go and Warick crossed the parking lot and attempted to go up the hill behind Wal-Mart.

At 7:30 a.m. Warick was arrested by Frasure and Prestonsburg auxiliary police officer David Cooley, who was off duty at the time.

Dotson and his canine, Doc, arrived at the scene shortly after Frasure and Cooley. Doc also assisted with the search of Big Lots.

"We are very impressed by Doc's performance," Frasure said. "He is a really good dog."

Warick is charged with first degree burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Frasure, Cooley, Hall, Dotson, Clark, Prestonsburg police officer Mack Stewart, and Floyd County deputies Matt Johnson and Tommy Gearheart assisted in searching and securing Big Lots.

co-defendant Kenneth Ray Webb had pleaded guilty in the case, Johnson's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, immediately called for a mistrial.

In chambers, Rowland told Circuit Judge John David Caudill that he was sorry if he "commented wrongly" and that his comment was made "through ignorance."

"I didn't intend to prejudice anyone," Rowland said. "I was speaking off the cuff. It was not done intentionally."

Judge Caudill ruled that Rowland's statements were grounds to declare a mistrial.

$246 million a year. Twenty-eight percent of the residents of the service area received a monthly benefit administered by Social Security.

Those figures were not lost on Kelly's boss, Robin McCorkle, area director in Kentucky who nominated the Prestonsburg office for the top award.

McCorkle said that the Prestonsburg staff met the major objectives of the Social Security Administration, which are "to pay the right person the right amount, accurately and on time," she said.

The Prestonsburg office scored high on a less tangible element and that was demonstrating a caring attitude toward customers. "Involvement in the community makes all the difference," she said.

The numbers also caught the attention of Atlanta Regional Commissioner for Management and Operations Fabricio Barrera, Jr. who presented the Best District Office Award to Kelly during the ceremony.

"I came down here a year ago and saw all the great things the Prestonsburg office is doing," the commissioner said. "I feel very comfortable that we made the right decision. The report card we got from the district customers told us they did an outstanding job.

"Atlanta is the best region in the entire country," Barrera continued. "In the region, most offices are very competitive."

Several factors were taken into account to determine the recipient of the award. One is staff level. "The Prestonsburg office was doing an outstanding job without as many people as they should have had," Barrera said. "We also measure productivity. Are the taxpayers getting their money's worth from the Prestonsburg office? Scoring one hundred percent in terms of productivity is getting your money's worth. Prestonsburg scored 113 percent in productivity, which is very, very good—outstanding."

Barrera said that what really "stands out" about the Prestonsburg office is its cooperation with welfare offices and other agencies; its involvement with Mud Creek Clinic and the National Guard M.A.S.H. clinic held there; and the training of a Veterans counselor who serves as a liaison between the Prestonsburg office and the Veterans Referral Clinic in Paintsville.

"Other offices do the same thing, but the Prestonsburg office just stands out," the commissioner said. "The office is an example of an organization providing world class service... Since I have been in Atlanta for five or six years, I haven't heard one complaint about this office."

Other speakers who congratulated the staff for its achievement were Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin; Robert Stapp, Ashland district manager; Clarence Traum, administrator of Highlands Regional Medical Center; Ron Daley, editor of the Troublesome Creek Times and a member of the Eastern Kentucky Leadership Conference; and Eula Hall, director of Mud Creek Clinic.

During the ceremony, Kelly received from Stapp a plaque which acknowledged the Prestonsburg office as the best in Eastern Kentucky; and a plaque from McCorkle, recognizing his involvement in community organizations.

Friends of May House scramble to match second ISTE A grant

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Although the Friends of the Samuel May House seem to be laying a stronger foundation for support of their project to renovate the historic May House in Prestonsburg, their major funding source came close to crumbling last week.

A recent fund-raising drive to restore the house which is thought to be the oldest brick house in the Big Sandy Valley, netted the group around $3,885 and an increase in membership. Thursday, though, the group learned they had to come up with at least $50,000 worth of in-kind work or cash donations before Monday, July 24, in order to apply for an ISTE A grant, worth at least $200,000, that supports their basic funding structure.

At a meeting of the Friends of May House Thursday, July 20, May House member Mable Lineberger, who is spearheading the ISTE A grant project, asked for help in soliciting donations that could be applied to match the grant. The transportation cabinet funds improvement projects, such as the May House renovation, through the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act.

Members of the Friends of the May House tossed out ideas about how to solicit the in-kind donations that could be used to match the grant in the short amount of time they had. Suggestions included furniture donations, attorney's fees, and the monetary value of time donated by volunteers.

May House member Hailu Bogale, an instructor at Prestonsburg Community College, volunteered about $2,000 worth of mechanical engineering work to the project and the group applauded his donation.

In an interview Tuesday evening, Lineberger reported that she had surpassed the original $50,000 goal and had received commitments of about $77,000. The additional matching funds could mean the group can now apply for $300,000, Lineberger said.

The largest contributor in the fund-raising effort was the Prestonsburg Job Corps, which will donate about $25,000 worth of work by its students to build a gift shop and restroom building near the May House, Lineberger said.

Other donors included Burl Spurlock, who contributed $5,000; May House president Bob Perry, who is doing historical research for the May House; and the city of Prestonsburg, which recently constructed a two-lane access road to the property.

Lineberger said she was also able to apply $6,000 the group had raised to match a Kentucky Heritage Council grant and the $10,000 funds the May House will receive from the Kentucky Heritage Council.

Although the Friends of the May House had to decline acceptance of last year's Kentucky Heritage grant because it could not begin renovations on the house in time to meet the grant deadlines, the group has been approved to receive the grant this year, Perry reported at last Thursday's meeting.

Last year, the group was also awarded a $200,000 ISTE A grant but has yet to receive the funds so work can commence on Phase I of the renovation. Phase I includes stabilization of the house through masonry work. Architect Joe Argabrite is in the process of redesigning Phase I of the project after bids received were higher than expected. Re-bidding of Phase I should be announced soon, Perry reported.

Funds for the second ISTE A grant will help fund phase II of the May House Renovation project, which includes work on the inside of the house.

In other business during the meeting, the group:

- voted to pay the architect's bill which was expected to be $2,000 but was $4,000 because of structural engineering costs;
- agreed to take funds out of a CD deposit to pay the architectural fees;
- hired an appraiser to reassess the house because a new two-lane road is expected to increase the property value; and
- reported that clean-up week was a success.

Ban those gifts

Can Congress really clean up its act? Can members wean themselves from the fancy meals, the golfing weekends, the football and theater tickets and all the other freebies that lobbyists are so eager to supply?

Probably not, to judge by Tuesday's maneuvering in the Senate on two issues: lobbying reform and a ban on gifts.

Reform was a winner. The Senate voted 98 to 0 to tighten rules that require lobbyists to register with Congress and to disclose how much they spend trying to influence legislation. The reform package exempts lobbying by grassroots groups. The new rules apply only to the pros.

But these rules do not include a ban on gifts by lobbyists to lawmakers. That issue will come before the Senate later, if at all. And the danger is that many of the 98 senators who voted for lobbying disclosure will figure they've done enough for the cause of reform.

But they haven't.

A gift ban is needed because gifts from lobbyists make it hard for lawmakers to be fair and impartial. It may not be a question of "buying votes," as was the case in Kentucky's BOPTROT scandal. But a member of Congress who has spent an all-expense-paid winter weekend in Florida with the chief lobbyist for the Widget Manufacturers Association is going to find it very tough to vote against the association's position on widget safety legislation.

Sen. Mitch McConnell's proposed alternative to a gift ban wouldn't come close to eliminating this difficulty. He would allow lawmakers to accept gifts valued up to $100. But there would be no limit on the number of such gifts.

Members of Congress have good pay and perks. They don't need freebies from lobbyists.

Enola Gay named for commander's mom

Editor:
I always read Mr. Clyde Pack's delightful column, "Poison Oak," as I have shared many of the same type of boyhood experiences. I would like, however, to correct a minor error in his column "Refreshing bits of Bovine Trivia" FCT 7/26/95.

The B-29 bomber that dropped the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima was named after Col. (later Gen.) Paul Tibbets' mother, Enola Gay, and not a cow. Col. Tibbets was the pilot of the plane as well as commander of the composite wing formed to drop the bomb.
About the first of August, 1945, Col. Tibbets commandeered a squadron B-29 assigned to one Captain Lewis as aircraft commander. Captain Lewis was more or less demoted to co-pilot, with Col. Tibbets as aircraft commander. Col. Tibbets had his mother's name painted on the place about August 3, 1945.

Pikeville man arrested by FBI

FBI agents arrested Harold Randall Starnes, 46, of Pikeville, on Wednesday, July 19, charging him with possession of cocaine with the intent to distribute, according to an FBI news release.

A complaint was filed July 19 before U.S. Magistrate Judge James B. Todd alleging that on April 15 Starnes sold cocaine from his residence on Beech Street in Pikeville.

Starnes was lodged in the Clark County Jail and was scheduled to appear before Todd Friday, July 21.

U.S. Attorney Joseph Famularo said a criminal charge of a person in a complaint is an accusation only and that person is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

Accident claims Sidney man

A single-car accident Monday, July 17, claimed the life of John R. Williamson, 25, of Sidney.

Police said Williamson was traveling north on Meathouse Fork Road at Kimper when he apparently lost control of his vehicle and ran off the road.

He was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital and transferred to Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. He was pronounced dead early Tuesday, July 18.

Residents evacuated

Rescue workers ordered homes evacuated at Phelps Thursday, July 20, after an alleged blast at a strip mine loosened rock in the area, damaging two homes.

No injuries were reported; however, traffic on Ky. 319 was closed to all but a few residents, and will remain closed indefinitely, according to Donald Pancake, chief of Phelps Volunteer Fire Department.

The blast was reported to the Pike County Sheriff's Department shortly before 1 p.m. on Thursday, July 20.

Pancake said Ridge Top Mining, the company reportedly mining in the area, was still at work late Thursday night "moving some dangerous rock on top of the mountain."

Following the blast, Pancake said the loosened rock traveled downhill, hitting a modular home and truck. The rock continued down the hill and "went completely through a trailer."

The mobile home was unoccupied at the time, according to Pancake; however, a group of children were out in the yard near one of the homes when the incident occurred.

Jailer Watkins resigns

Magoffin County Jailer John Clay Watkins has resigned from the position.

Watkins reportedly submitted a letter announcing his resignation to Magoffin County Judge-Executive Dr. Charles Hardin Friday, July 14. His reasons for resigning were not learned.

Innocent plea entered by Johnson

A Johnson County man has pleaded not guilty to murder in connection with a fatal DUI-related automobile accident in June.

Larry Johnson, 41, of Oil Springs entered the plea Friday, July 21, in Johnson Circuit Court. Judge James A. Knight scheduled an August 18 pretrial conference in the case.

Johnson, who remains in jail in lieu of a $100,000 cash bond, was represented during arraignment by Public Defender Mary Lou Chan-der.

Johnson was indicted for murder in the June 5 death of Debbie Webb, 35 of Boons Camp.

Police claim Johnson was drunk when his van crashed head-on into Webb's car on Route 40, east of Paintsville.

Woman charged with helping inmate escape

A Louisa woman was arrested last week and charged with helping a jail inmate to escape, authorities said.

Angelia "Marjie" Mullins, 19, was arrested Monday, July 17, at the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Paintsville by Trooper B.P. Hall.

Hall said Mullins, on June 14, assisted Joey Davis to escape from custody by picking him up while he was on work detail.

(Information provided by the Paintsville Herald)

Thelma woman accused of assault

A Thelma woman was issued a summons last week to appear in court on charges she assaulted a juvenile female at Brookside Apartments, circuit court records show.

Starlie Driskell, 20, who lives at Brookside, on July 17 allegedly grabbed a 16-year-old girl and rammed her head into a concrete wall. Driskell then threw the teen down a flight of stairs, said the girl's mother, Milder Mann, in a complaint filed July 18.

As a result, Mann's daughter received injuries to her leg and head, the complaint said.

County Sheriff's Deputy James McCarty served Driskell with the summons. She is scheduled to appear in court Monday.

Pilot transportation program for youth may lead to city transportation system

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

A pilot program that will bus Prestonsburg youth to Archer Park, may be the start of a full transit system for the city of Prestonsburg.

Beginning Monday, July 31, the Sandy Valley Transportation will pick up youths from various locations in the city and take them to Archer Park.

The idea for the pilot program came about when Prestonsburg councilman Billy Ray Collins requested that council work on a way to get the youth to the park safely, said Prestonsburg councilman Dick Clark.

The suggestion was then referred to the community projects committee, he added.

Clark, who is also chairman of the committee, said the city of Prestonsburg is working with Sandy Valley Transportation director Greg Hamlin, who agreed to help develop a transit system.

Hamlin said the pilot program will coordinate with existing routes at the housing projects.

The schedule for the pilot program is:

Monday and Thursday - Goble Roberts area and the bus turn around at Prestonsburg Elementary school.

Tuesday and Friday - Cliffside, Indian Hills, Green Acres and the bus turn around at Prestonsburg Elementary school.

Wednesday - all locations.

The bus will pick up the youths between 12 - 12:30 p.m. and transport them to Archer Park. The bus will then be at Archer Park at 4 p.m. to return them home.

There will not be a fee for this trip. The pilot program will be in operation until the Archer Park pool closes for the summer.

"Hopefully this will be the start of a full-fledged transit system for the city," Clark said.

Clark said a full transit system would be developed later this year.

The proposed system would hopefully be in place by next summer and be available to all residents of Prestonsburg.

For more information on the bus schedule call Prestonsburg City Hall at 886-2335.

Education Standards Board conducts work session at Jenny Wiley State Park

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

A little known group that makes decisions about the future of education in Kentucky met Monday and Tuesday at the Jenny Wiley State Park for their monthly meeting.

The group, Education Reform Standards board, was created in 1990 with the passing of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). The purpose of the group is to make decisions that will improve the teaching profession.

This month's board meeting was a work session, said Betty Lindsey, acting associate commissioner for the Kentucky Department of Education.

Lindsey said the board discussed issues, responses and recommendations on where the board needs to go to for the future and how to get to where the legislation mandated the board to go.

The board is made up of 15 members, eight of which are teachers. The board meets a minimum of ten times a year, usually at Frankfort.

The board's authority includes accreditation of all educational schools; issuance and revocation of teaching licenses in Kentucky; develop alternative certification; ensure a minority recruitment and retention plan is in place throughout Kentucky; and develop performance based licensing and accreditation.

"The legislature has given us statutory authority over governance of the teaching profession," Daniel Greene, chairman of the board, said.

Greene said the board, in 1993, developed a new standard for teachers with a clear performance criteria. The board's goal is to move schools to a performance based system, Greene said.

A part of how the board is doing that is with the help of 14 task groups who assess if the standards are valid and legally defensible.

"This is an exciting time," Greene said. "We (Kentucky) are leading the nation in this concept and other states are looking at us."

Greene said the board has given teachers flexibility with teaching and at the same time streamlining certification. At one time, Kentucky had about 150 different certifications. The board has reduced that number between 40 - 45.

"The standards board wants to make certification more flexible for ongoing reconstruction of schools," Greene said. "The board wants the implementation of site-based council decisions to be user-friendly."

If KERA is to succeed, we must transform teacher education, he added.

Carole Youngblood, a teacher at Woodford County and a member of the board, said the group does help incoming teachers.

"Our internships can be loosely compared to a medical internship," Youngblood said.

Youngblood said the beginning teacher works with three other individuals who serve as mentors.

The mentors are a college instructor, another teacher at the school and an administrator at the school.

The mentors observe the beginning teacher's techniques and assist with any problems or questions the teacher may have, Youngblood said. She said that based on the recommendations of the mentors certification is either awarded or not awarded.

"It is very rare that a teacher is not certified," Youngblood said.

There is also alternative certification for individuals who for whatever reason want to go back to school to become teachers, she added.

For more information on alternative certification or on the Education Reform Standard call the Office of Teacher Education and Certification at (502) 564-4606.

Prestonsburg city council to hold special meet

The possibility of having more graduate and four-year programs in our own backyard came closer to reality Friday when a Morehead State University official closed a sales transaction with the city of Prestonsburg.

Keith Kappes, Executive-Vice President of the MSU Foundation Corporation, purchased two acres of land adjacent to the Mountain Arts Center for $250,000 for the purpose of building a new extended campus.

"The new extended campus will be a great benefit to the surrounding area and significantly impact the region," Kappes, who is also MSU Vice President, said.

The new building will provide better and expanded programs in all areas.

Morehead State's Big Sandy Center, currently located at the old Hecks store at Highland Plaza, already provides three undergraduate programs for junior and senior level courses in elementary education, nursing and a bachelors in business administration.

The center also provides graduate programs for education and guidance counseling. The courses offered for education fill teacher requirements for rank one.

Marc Glasser, dean of graduate and extended campuses, said the graduate programs offered help teachers move up in the profession.

Rank one allows the teacher to receive the highest pay possible within the field.

"We feel we are creating opportunities for students," Glasser said. "We feel we help students get a career foothold at the Morehead center."

Glasser said Morehead takes great pride in the success of Prestonsburg Community College and sees the Morehead extended campus as an extension of PCC.

In fact, a number of PCC faculty teach courses for the Morehead center.

Beyond the courses already taught at the Big Sandy Center, new programs have not been decided on yet. Glasser said new classes will be added as the need for them arises.

The university will have 30,000 square feet to build classrooms, offices and other facilities. The city of Prestonsburg has entered an agreement with Morehead on the construction of the new facility.

Kappes said construction will not begin until funding is approved by the General Assembly in 1996.

Brashers announce birth of daughter

James Brasher and Tammy Honeycutt Brasher announce the birth of their daughter, Jamie Casandra "Cassie," born on May 26, and weighing 9 pound, 9 ounces. She is the maternal granddaughter of Malcolm and Naywatha Honeycutt of Paintsville, and the paternal granddaughter of James C. and Lillie Mae Brasher of Linden, Tennessee and Helen Gore of Covington, Tennessee.

Country music star Johnny Paycheck performs at Paintsville's Sipp Theatre

The concert series at the Historic Sipp Theatre in downtown Paintsville, continues Saturday, August 5, at 8:30 p.m., with country music star Johnny Paycheck.

Paycheck, whose biggest hit was "Take This Job & Shove It," began his music career in the mid-50's, when he took a job with the legendary George Jones. He stayed with George for six years, playing bass and later steel guitar. Many of his fans don't realize that Johnny is a very accomplished musician.

Johnny was always known as a great, great singer, singing tenor to Jones' lead vocals. The playful Possum, George Jones, soon began altering his phrasing in an amusing attempt to confuse Johnny in his vocal back-ups, but the ploy was unsuccessful every try.

Johnny then worked with such country music greats as Faron Young, Ray Price and Porter Wagoner, and began receiving recognition as a very good songwriter.

His early credits include his composition of one of Tammy Wynette's first great hits, "Apartment #9," and a great hit for Ray Price, "Touch My Heart." Johnny was nominated for two Grammy Awards for "Don't Take Her She's All I've Got" & "Take This Job & Shove It," and was recognized with a Lifetime Achievement Award from (BMI), Broadcast Music Inc.

In 1965, Johnny started a string of hit records, beginning with "A-11". Then came hit after hit, to name a few, "11 Months and 29 Days," "Song & Dance Man," "Someone To Give My Love To," "Slide Off Your Satin Sheets," and the great "Old Violin." Then it all broke loose for Johnny Paycheck, when he released the song that has now become a standard, to the heart of the working man, "Take This Job & Shove It." This is the song that took Johnny Paycheck on a success ride that many artists never get in their entire career.

Paycheck has six gold albums, 33 hit singles and three platinum albums. "Take This Job & Shove It," was certified platinum again in 1994, making this album triple platinum and making country music history. He has had a major role in a movie, and in 1991, received the Entertainer of the Year Award from the major Independent Record Labels.

Anita Belhasen, music coordinator at the Sipp, said that the theatre is honored to have a celebrity of such magnitude as Paycheck, performing at the Sipp. "We are very grateful to the fans and supporters of the Sipp Theatre for the excellent response to our concert series, and we are working to book more concerts throughout 1995 and 1996," said Belhasen.

Additional concerts already scheduled for the fall season at the Sipp, include Charlie Sizemore and his band, along with Jerry Williamson and Redwing on Saturday, September 9th, The Osborne Brothers, Friday, October 6th, Ralph Stanley and the Goins Brothers, Saturday, October 21st.

Tickets for the Johnny Paycheck concert are on sale now, ticket prices are $12 at the door and $10 in advance.

Advance tickets are available at the theatre, Wilma's Restaurant, Court Street, Paintsville, WSIP Radio Station, Main Street, Paintsville, and WRLV Radio Station, Salyersville. Proceeds from the Johnny Paycheck concert benefit the Paintsville Main Street Association and the Sipp Theatre.

The Sipp Theatre is operated by the Sipp Theatre Foundation, a non-profit organization, established for the purpose of restoring the theatre and providing quality entertainment to the citizens of Eastern Kentucky. All proceeds from the concerts and the movies that are shown there go to the cost of restoring the theatre and providing a place for quality entertainment in eastern Kentucky.

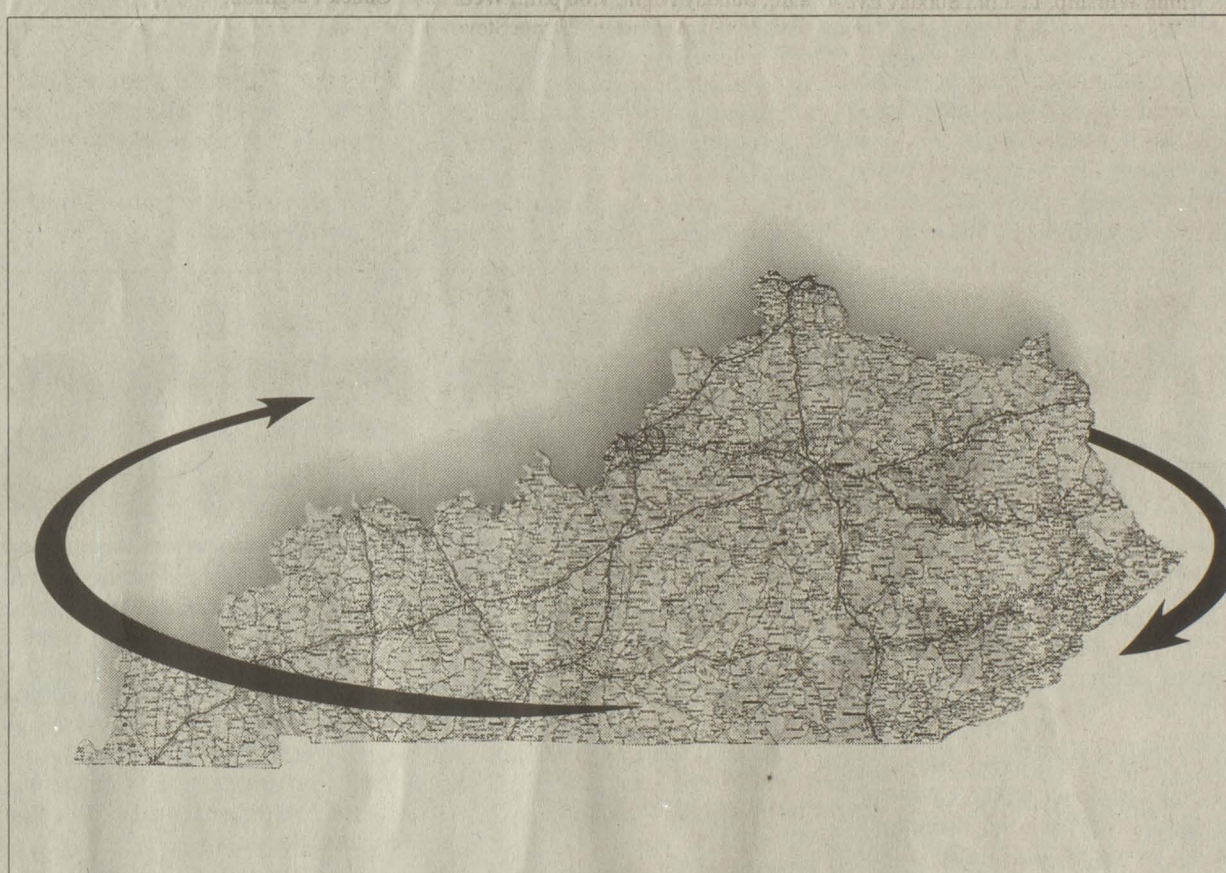

Find out how to locate those missing vital records

A new revised version of "Where To Write For Vital Records" is now available. This important U.S. Government Publication explains how and where to write for birth, death, marriage and divorce certificates.

Official certificates for birth, death, marriage and divorce events are on file in various state, city, county and other local government offices. This publication lists the appropriate agencies to contact in each state within the United States, including the address and telephone number and the cost of a copy. Other useful information on what to include in your request when writing for records are described. Information and instructions on how to obtain foreign records and certificates of citizenship are also covered.

"Where To Write For Vital Records" is a must for individuals who need to track down and obtain copies of important vital records.

In Memory

In memory of my dad, Leonard Hall, who passed away on July 31, 1983.

This is for you, Mom, with all my love.

Ann

"SHOULD YOU GO FIRST AND I REMAIN"

Should you go first and I remain, to walk the road alone, I'll live in memories garden, dear, with happy days we've known.

In the spring I'll wait for roses red, when faded lilacs bloom, In early fall when brown leaves fall, I'll catch a glimpse of you.

Should you go first and I remain, one thing I'll have to do, Walk slowly down that lonely road, for soon I'll follow you.

I want to know each step you take, so I may take the same, For someday down that lonely road you'll hear me call your name.

Young men think old men are fools but old men know young men are fools.

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

During May and June, the following animals were spotted out and about in public: four pigs, roaming through the New York City boroughs of Queens and Staten Island; a five-month old kangaroo (a circus escapee) running loose in Minneapolis; a deer, which sauntered through the terminal at the Kansas City airport; a monkey meandering through a Hollidaysburg, Pa., neighborhood; two elephants that walked out of their cage in the Toledo (Ohio) Zoo and took a stroll around the grounds; and a goose that snatched a golfer's 8-iron at Pebble Creek Golf Course in Cincinnati and fled.

COURTROOM ANTICS

-- In May in Kansas City, Mo., Leon Taylor was sentenced for murdering a man during a 1994 robbery. Judge William F. Maurer gave Taylor the death penalty, plus life in prison, plus an additional 315 years.

-- In April, a judge in Montreal, Quebec, acquitted Henri Daviault of charges that, while drunk in 1989, he raped a 65-year-old wheelchair-bound woman. Daviault had been convicted, but a new trial was ordered in 1993 when the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that drunkenness could be used as a defense to the rape charge. (Parliament is expected soon to take up legislation that would limit the high court's decision.)

-- In a February court hearing in Norristown, Pa., attorney Charles Peruto Jr. was in the process of arguing that his client, accused of selling drugs, was entitled to a low bail because he was not likely to flee before his trial. At that moment, however, the client, Howard "Wing Ding" Jones, bolted from the courtroom and led deputies on a one-hour chase before he was recaptured.

-- In Dublin, Va., in April, Judge Colin Gibb declared that Marshall Lineberry was entitled to unemployment benefits even though he had been suspended from his job for fighting. The Volvo plant that employed Lineberry had a tradition in which a man dressed as a rooster would playfully hassle any employee reporting to work late for a shift. When the rooster approached Lineberry and cockadoodled'ed, Lineberry leaped at the "rooster" and began choking him, the act for which he was suspended. Judge Gibb found that employees so hated the tradition that someone else would soon have attacked the rooster if Lineberry hadn't.

-- In February, the Texas Commission on Judicial Conduct reprimanded a Houston judge, J.R. Musslewhite, for various indiscretions including drinking on duty and fondling female lawyers. The commission found that in early 1993, Musslewhite consumed liquor in his office that had been admitted into evidence in a DUI case, telling the prosecutor, "I'm glad you lost so I don't have to preserve the evidence."

-- The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled in March that a kitten is not a "domesticated animal" under state law. One man had shot a dog that was menacing two kittens and said he was entitled to do that by a state law that permits shooting animals that attack "domesticated animals," but the court ruled against him.

SCHEMES

-- In January, police in Lower Makefield Township, Pa. filed several charges against self-employed plumber

Michael Lasch for using the phone company "call forwarding" service to have calls to his competitors automatically rung through to him. One rival plumber said he probably lost "thousands" of dollars in business to Lasch in the month-long practice.

-- According to a news report in the March issue of Spin magazine, artist H.R. Giger, who is suing the band Danzig for unauthorized use of Giger's artwork on their T-shirts, needed to serve the complaint papers to band leader Glenn Danzig in person. Giger hired a process-server, who body-surfed through the "mosh pit" in front of the band during a New York City concert to get the job done.

-- In February, a spokesman for the taxi drivers in Prague, Czech Republic, admitted that some of the drivers had installed electrical wires in the back seat, activated by a button in the dashboard, to permit drivers to administer shocks to passengers who refused to pay the cab drivers' notoriously high fares.

I DON'T THINK SO

In June, George Washington University, which was vying to sign up New York City high school basketball star Richie Phillips for its team, even though Phillips had pleaded guilty to sexual assault of a classmate, announced that it would award a four-year, $100,000 scholarship to the girl Phillips assaulted, even though she had not applied for it and is only a high school sophomore. However, GWU official Bob Chernak told reporters that the scholarship "is in no way related to" the Phillips situation.

Popperri

by Scott Perry

If bad news travels fast, it's only fitting that good news should wallow around a while before arriving at its predetermined destination.

If you don't believe that, just ask Rita Campbell, a secretary at the Prestonsburg law offices of Francis, Kazee and Francis.

Ms. Campbell got a thank-you note Tuesday, July 25 from a friend she had sent a gift commemorating the birth of her friend's daughter.

Nothing strange about that, after all it's only proper etiquette to acknowledge gifts of this nature.

Only problem is that the child is three years old.

That made Ms. Campbell curious enough to take a look at the postmark on the envelope containing the thank-you note and, sure enough, the mystery was solved.

The envelope was postmarked at the Prestonsburg Post Office on August 31, 1992.

What's more interesting is that the thank-you note took nearly three years to make it from the post office to Ms. Campbell's office...about half a block away.

Let's see, that's about 100 feet a year.

Okay, we don't want to be too tough on the post office. They've got lots of things to worry about, and it's possible the note just got lost or fell behind a counter or something.

And, they did live up to their responsibility by delivering the message, even if they were a bit more tardy than usual and the postage was three cents shy of the amount required for delivery today.

Ms. Campbell didn't say if she was charged the extra three cents of postage due.

Anyway, this story and others we've heard like it may prompt the U.S. Postal Service to revise its historic motto.

You know, the one that says something like neither rain nor snow nor dark of night will keep mailpersons from making their duly appointed rounds.

A more modern and appropriate slogan might say something like "better late than never."

Apollo 13

Forget any science-fiction space adventure you've ever seen, including my beloved "Star Trek" series. What sets this film apart is that it actually happened. It is a stunner!

The story is of the April, 1970, Apollo moon mission. The mission is aborted due to a huge oxygen explosion and its three astronauts, Jim Lovell (Tom Hanks), Fred Haise (Bill Paxton) and Jack Swagert (Kevin Bacon) are reduced to using only 12 percent of their normal power. The filters in the space capsule which are designed to extract poison from the air are dead. Even if they can solve these problems, they still have to use capsule heat shields when they land back on Earth which might be cracked and parachutes which might not open. Could it get any worse? As a matter of fact, yes. A typhoon is headed for the ocean drop zone.

Ron Howard directs this suspense-filled flick and he's done an Oscar-worthy job. Instead of using existing NASA footage of the actual event, he resorted to special effects, including digital computer work. The results are jarringly real and, depending on the sound system in your theater, will rock you out of your seats at times, such as during blast-off.

The three leads are a wonderful ensemble. However, those left on the ground—Ed Harris as flight director Gene Kranz, Gary Sinise as Ken Mattingly, the astronaut grounded 48 hours prior to the flight, and Kathleen Quinlan as Marilyn Lovell, faithful wife of Jim—only serve to add to the ensemble.

Seeing this flick should be required of all Americans. When you leave the theater, you are imbued with brimming pride and patriotism for all our space program has accomplished because of the hardiness and aspirations of our brave men and women at NASA.

The Weekend

Children's Theatre presents Alice in Wonderland

In Jenny Wiley Theatre's role of enriching Eastern Kentucky through the theatre arts, involvement with area youth lies at the heart of the mission. To this end the young theatre stars of the Big Sandy region will be shining at their fullest August 11-12, as the Jenny Wiley Children's Theatre presents two 1:30 p.m. performances of Alice in Wonderland, August 11 and 12.

These performances will highlight the skills and the advancement in theatre knowledge that participating area youth, ages 7-12, have developed throughout their day classes in theatre that have been conducted over the past three weeks.

Classes and rehearsals for the upcoming shows have been conducted by Jenny Wiley Theatre Education Director Kurt Gerard Heinlein, who returns to Jenny Wiley this summer after recently receiving his Masters of Fine Arts degree. Heinlein will be bringing to area youth a wealth of theatre knowledge and numerous previous teaching experiences at the Chesapeake Arts Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and Hollywood Elementary.

Being able to bring the world of theatre performance to area youth is essential in the role that Jenny Wiley wishes to play in the community, according to associate artistic director Bob Bogdanoff.

Alice in Wonderland

"The children in our Children's Theatre are the future of this area, and they are either future performers or future audience members at Jenny Wiley," Bogdanoff said. "This theatre's mission is to bring culture into the area and these children are our natural resources for accomplishing that feat."

Among the young theatre enthusiasts who are involved with the performances are Floyd County residents Olivia Fitzpatrick, Amber McKinney, Whitney Riley, Bart Barnette, Lewis Barnette, Ashley Hall, Sarah Click, Erin Kiser, Katherine Adams, Molly Burchett, Amanda Arnett, Eddy Banks, Nora Traum, Crystal King, Erin Rogers and Mary Ellen Harpole.

Join Jenny Wiley Theatre in recognizing the talents and advancements of these young area actors; tickets are still available from Jenny Wiley Theatre. Each ticket requires a $3 donation and can be reserved by calling the theatre at (606) 886-9274.

Remembering Jeff

It has been nearly a month since my friends lost their son to a tragedy; a tragedy so senseless that it has altered the way we view life in our communities. We can no longer consider ourselves isolated innocents who feared only unknown interference from outsiders. The horrors of the outside world have penetrated our borders and ruptured our tranquillity. We've seen the enemy, and it is us.

My friends' son was very much a mixture of both parents. His mother's sunny disposition combined with his father's ability to talk with anybody gave him an engaging personality who garnered many friendships. (This can be best explained by the outpouring of love that was displayed when Jeff's 1992 high school graduating class staged a Candlelight Service in his honor.)

Outgoing and gregarious, Jeff was one of "those people" you liked automatically. One of my favorite memories is of Jeff wearing a black cowboy hat, boots, and jeans, in a juvenile attempt to emulate Garth Brooks. Although the outfit was authentic "Brooks," his expression when he wore it was what I remember most fondly. One day when he passed me, he tipped his oversized cowboy hat instead of speaking. He did this as if to say, "Howdy, Ma'am." It was so comical, and so like Jeff. His dad would have reacted the same.

Smile Awhile

Sara Hopson

Jeff's dad and I went to high school together. We were rebellious friends, who together staged the first, and as far as I know, last "student strike" in the school's history. We decided if teachers could strike, students could, too. We circulated a petition and school was dismissed the following day. I can't remember if it was Fred's idea or mine, but we were the gang leaders behind it. Fred's strong sense of right and wrong is still evident to this day.

Another pleasant memory I have of Jeff is when he was working at a fast-food restaurant. When I approached the counter, he bounded from the back and came out to personally take my order. Adults remember kids who take the time to talk with them, and Jeff happened to be one of those. When I got home with my food, and discovered that it was not what I had ordered, I called Jeff. Not only did he personally bring the corrected order to the house, he wouldn't let me pay the extra amount. It was probably deducted from his pay; a trait he probably inherited from his kind-hearted mother.

Jeff's mom and I became friends when I first began writing for The Paintsville Herald. I don't know what instigated our friendship, but I have reason to believe that her tolerance of my ignorance of deadlines is what prompted the alliance. Nothing relaxes me as much as taking a few minutes to stop by the newspaper and talk with Pam. It's as refreshing as a good night's sleep; a sanctuary in the midst of daily turmoil. Always upbeat and positive, with a droll sense of humor, Pam gives me a lift coffee often fails to do.

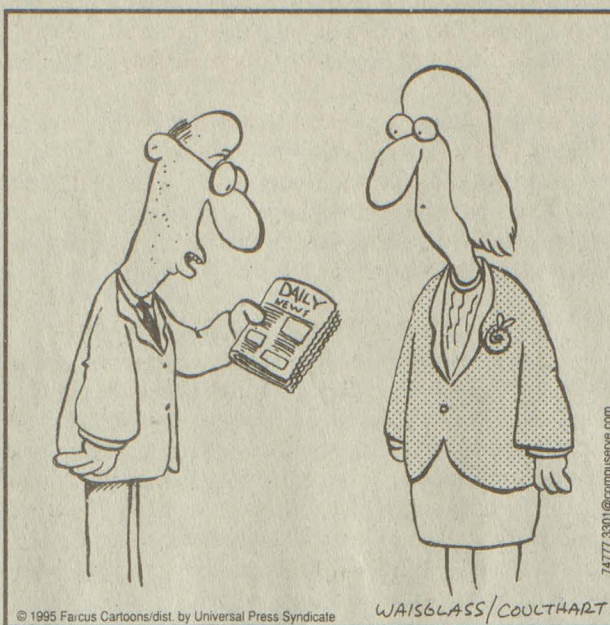

Whenever Pam and I were together our discussions always ended with us talking around our sons. Each time she mentioned Jeff's name, her eyes would light up and a smile—much akin to a smirk—would cross her lips. These gestures were usually followed by a nodding of her head as if to say, "he's a dandy," which of course, he was, and in our hearts will always be.

Now when I look into my friends' eyes, I see a sadness that allows me only a glimpse of their pain and sorrow. Total helplessness engulfs me, and I fight to overcome it because it scares me that I can do nothing to ease their hurt. I cannot imagine the pain they are experiencing, but I do know that because of their grief none of us can ever live our lives as innocently as we once did.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: While Adam dared Brooke to let go of the past, Dixie warned her not to fall for him. Laura found a picture of Pierce with a man (Trevor). Arlene was overwhelmed by a seductive Alec. Bobby got the word from Daisy: He's to go to summer school. Later, Daisy set up a trap for Seabone. Mateo and Jason got into a car accident. Tad was upset that Orsini wine was involved. Noah learned Taylor bought a home pregnancy test. Wait To See: Is Arlene becoming a "nuisance" for Alec?

ANOTHER WORLD: Carl deduced Rachel must be in the sanitarium Justine was in for treatment. John was upset when Sharlene said she was going to Chadwell for an extended visit. Justine learned Rachel might have gotten to the computer. Nick was stunned by what he saw in Michael's room. John later overheard Nick accuse Michael of being a drug addict. Paulina told Eddie of her growing feelings for Joe. Meanwhile, Jake began a search for his past, starting with Chicago. Wait To See: Michael's secret comes out.

ASTHE WORLD TURNS: Sam saw Kirk fall overboard on their honeymoon cruise. A distraught Sam later saw Scott in Malta. Meanwhile, Kirk was rescued by a Maltese woman. Lily was rescued from a dangerous situation by an American named Mark. Following Rick's actions in court, Margo was upset with Tom's decision to bar Lisa from the family. Tension mounted as Susan, Kim, and Tom prepared to testify at John's trial. Wait To See: Lily gets upsetting news.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Jessica stormed away from Dylan's apartment after he admitted he was entertaining another woman (Maggie). Later, unaware that Jessica and Dylan were involved, Maggie advised her daughter to resolve her differences with her boyfriend. Brooke and Omar were stunned when the judge ruled Taylor's marriage to Ridge was still valid. After a tiff with Sally about the internship, Jasmine got into an elevator which fell to the bottom of the shaft. In the hospital, George, a lawyer, told Sally he intended to advise Jasmine to sue Spectra. Wait To See: Omar makes a fateful decision.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Gina confronted Billie about Bobby Lee's letter. Tony's dark side seethed when he suspected Kristen is involved with John. Although he has no memory of her, Stefano found himself drawn to Marlena. A contrite Billie offered to help Gina find the puzzle box that would reveal if she really were Hope after all. Sami turned up at Austin and Carrie's wedding to "reveal" Austin fathered her unborn baby. Celeste destroyed Lexie's box of family letters. Billie gave Gina the puzzle box. Wait To See: Carrie and Austin face a new crisis over Sami; Marlena faces her feelings about Stefano; Gina faces the truth about herself.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Lucy's decision to forgive Damian could cause her to lose Kevin. Brenda told Miguel that Sonny was going to Puerto Rico with Lily. Meanwhile, Lily's dying father drew Sonny into his business. Tom began his plan to win back Simone. Luke and Laura ended months of fighting with a night of lovemaking. Wait To See: Sonny's new situation calls for other changes.

GUIDING LIGHT: Buzz was strangely affected by meeting a woman (Reva) in a small community. Alan was upset over Alexandra's report on Tangie, while Tangie was upset about testifying against Alan. Annie told Ed she was concerned he or Rick might reveal secrets of her past. Lucy realized she would have to take an HIV test to learn if Brent infected her with the virus. Matt told Vanessa he wanted a prenuptial agreement. Dinah spurned Ross' plea that she give up Roger. Wait To See: Alan takes a gamble on his future.

LOVING: Alex and Charles were forced to ask Buck about Stacey's murder, causing a rift with their wives, Ava and Angie. Gwyn and Jeremy gave into their passionate feelings for each other. Curtis' insidious plan began with buying a bottle of Clay's favorite brandy. Deborah was upset to learn of Steffi's pregnancy. Alex found new clues about Curtis. Wait To See: A new clue can lead to a new puzzle.

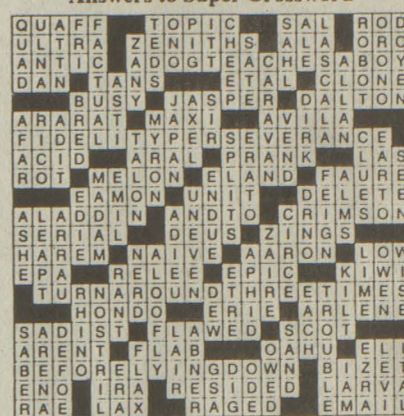

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Luna was upset that Max told Todd Blair wasn't pregnant when they got married. Kelly was upset with Joey for telling David about Tina's date. Cassie told Andrew she was taking a job with Clint at The Banner. Viki told Clint, Kevin, Joey, and Jessica, she was reluctant to go home to face her childhood trauma. Dorian attempted to get Blair's medical records before Todd does. Meanwhile, Cord gave Blair advice about her husband. Wait To See: David realizes he may lose Tina forever.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Hope agreed to stay with Victor after hearing Nicholas complain about Nikki's interference in his life. Nikki couldn't persuade Amy to make a play for Nick, nor could she get Nick to date Susan. Meanwhile, Matt, who blamed Nick for all the problems he's had, got out the bullets to his gun to prepare for his revenge against "Rich Boy" Newman. Hoping to lure Brad from Nikki, Victoria warned him that Victor would be upset if he was dating his ex-wife. John seemed confident that he would win custody of little Billy. After telling Paul he ended his affair, Nathan "suggested" Paul not mention the subject to Olivia. Phyllis lied to Danny that Brian was her friend, Cindy's, brother. Wait To See: Chris becomes increasingly troubled over her feelings for both Danny and Paul.

SOAP SCRAPS

The return of Bobby Warner (Brian Gaskill) to "All My Children" promises to make this a most memorable summer for everyone in Pine Valley.

For anyone who doesn't know this Bobby from any number of Bobbys who populate the soap world, he's the son of Dr. Cliff Warner and the late Sybil Thorne. Cliff (then played by Peter Bergman) and his wife, Nina Cortlandt (Taylor Miller), formally adopted Bobby after Sybil's death.

Along with Bobby, who was a toddler when he was first introduced on the soap in 1981, and is now a disarmingly charming adolescent, other "boys to men" who will make the summer simmer include the characters of Tim Hunter and Scott Parker Chandler, both of whom were little boys only an eye blink or two ago and are now teenagers with hormones flowing at optimum levels.

Tim is the son of the late Alex and Natalie Hunter; the half-brother of Jeremy Hunter (Jean LeClerc) and the nephew of Janet Green.

Scott is the son of the late Cindy Parker (Ellen Wheeler) who died of AIDS contracted from her IV-user husband. Cindy was married to Stuart Chandler (David Canary), Scott's art teacher. He adopted the boy and is raising him as his own son.

SOAP SCRAPS: Reva (Kim Zimmer) is back to stay; ditto Rick Bauer (Michael O'Leary); and Hart, Roger's illegitimate son, last played by Leonard Staab before his hang-gliding accident, is on the road back to Springfield. If you get the feeling they're bringing back the whole old gang at "Guiding Light," you're probably right. And fans and the soap press alike are speculating that Rick Bauer's good friend, Phillip Spaulding, Alan's adoptive son (formerly played by Grant Aleksander who now plays Alec on "All My Children"), might also come back to town.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This week's financial developments are positive, but guard against fuzzy thinking regarding career interests. Later in the week, it's not a good time for combining business and pleasure. A quiet weekend at home is best.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Get more than one estimate on home repairs, especially those of a major nature. Strain could exist with an in-law, but do your best to patch this up. Partnership interests are happily highlighted. This weekend, enjoy visiting with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Enthusiasm about a career project could have you working overtime this week. However, impatience could trip you up if you let it. Be sure to get enough rest, despite the heavy workload.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Fun comes through recreational interests early in the week. You and that special someone will enjoy a visit to a favorite haunt. Advertising you read now could be misleading. Remember, there's a sucker born every minute.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Business information you receive early in the week could be inaccurate. Rely on your own intuition and knowledge. You'll be sharing fun activities with family. Distractions later in the week could prevent you from completing a task.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You'll be helping out a partner with a project this week. The beginning of the week brings favorable news, but don't force issues in business. Singles need clear thinking in romance, especially over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You'll be making progress with a work-related project, despite a certain co-worker's attempts at sabotage. Financial prospects improve as bigwigs give you their seal of approval. A friend could let you down.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Though things go pretty much your way, you will still have to be wary of deceptive business trends. It's not a good time for investing or other financial risks. This weekend, you'll enjoy an outing to a favorite restaurant or entertainment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A sense of inner peace prevails early in the week. You'll be happily preoccupied with home-based activities, especially since family members pitch in cooperatively. Later, guard against financial duplicity.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) There is a happy accent on socializing this week. Luck comes through a special friendship. However, be careful not to misplace important papers or credit cards. Tend to an overdue bill. This weekend, guard against absent-mindedness.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It's continued progress for you in business this week. A combination of discipline and luck brings you gains. Partners, though, are not on the same wavelength now and could pose some minor problems.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A friend's ideas could be off-base regarding a career concern. Look beyond the surface to discover this person's motives. In the interim, follow your own instincts. Travel proves uplifting this weekend.

HOME TIPS

COVER IT UP—A drinking straw cut a little longer than your nail file's point will protect it and keep it from sticking you when you reach in your purse or cosmetic bag.

I also slip straws on the points of my small scissors and tweezers that I carry in my luggage or cosmetic bag. You may have to try different-sized straws so they will fit snugly. This seems so simple, but it works so well. Jill B., Athens, Ga.

DRIPPY PROPOSITION—If you don't have a garbage disposal, just keep a colander in the sink and rinse the dishes into it. When the food has "drip-dried," throw it into the garbage.

There will be much less wet, nasty garbage and it's easier than going back and forth with each dish from the garbage can to the sink. Eunice S., Arlington, Tenn.

Reds' trade: Portugal not what Reds needed

I have learned over the past season to never again question a move that Cincinnati Reds' GM Jim Bowden makes.

I was upset when he fired Tony Perez, but I was wrong. Davey Johnson has done a great job as the Reds' skipper.

I, along with everyone else, agree that the Reds cannot—cannot—win a National League pennant with the pitching staff they now have.

That includes the recent trade with the San Francisco Giants that brought Mark Portugal to the Reds, along with a couple of other players they certainly did not need.

What kind of pitcher does a last place ballclub have to offer a team that is currently in first place by five games? Not much or they wouldn't be in last place.

Portugal lost his last five starts with the Giants, and now his last six, counting the shelling he got last Tuesday night against the San Diego Padres.

The Reds need a pitcher than can come in and throw strikes with consistency. Portugal is just another player they will have to look to deal to another club down the road.

Then the Reds sign Frank Viola, who would qualify to be a solid starter—in an old timers' game.

He tells Jim that he can still "bring it" and he needs another shot at it. Good 'ol Jim gave him that chance by signing him to a minor league contract.

Have you noticed that a young man by the name of Rick Reed hurled for the Reds last Sunday against the Cubs and took a no-hitter into the seventh inning?

I'm thinking about starting a Rick Reed Fan Club.

Have you also noticed that not much has been said about Reed and his accomplishments since then, only that he will start in a game on the West Coast?

Why? Could it be that he was a replacement player and is getting a cold shoulder even from Marty and Joe?

Jose Rijo, Portugal, Tim Lincecum, and half dozen other so-called pitchers will not get it done for the Reds when it comes playoff time.

While they have been playing great baseball, the Reds will have to have at least one more (maybe two) solid starting pitchers.

The bad news is that Rijo may rejoin the Reds yet this season. Jose is through. The Reds might as well give up on him and include him with Hal Morris for a package deal.

Let's go after David Cone!

I am glad that it was Deion Sanders who got to go to the West Coast. If you are looking for a little humility in

Debra Collier

Collier part of BGSF EMT medical team

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When Debra Collier of Prestonsburg decided to give up women's softball, which meant no more competing in the Bluegrass State Games, she was wondering how she could still stay close to the Games she had grown to enjoy.

What Collier did was take her training as an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) and volunteer to work the Bluegrass State Games held in Lexington.

"Last year I volunteered to help out and this year they asked me if I would come back," she said, as she prepared for her second stint at the Games.

Collier will be working with a hundred other volunteers at the 11th Annual Bluegrass State Games and she said that it is rewarding to be able to help out.

"I enjoyed the Games so much when I played softball," she said. "After I retired from softball I still wanted to be part of the Games.

"My doctor, Dr. Ireland, said why don't you try this, being a medical volunteer at the Games, and I did," explained Collier.

Collier's job will be to watch for and supply medical needs at the different Game sites around Lexington.

"Last year I worked at the racketball event at the YMCA and then I worked the women's softball games," said Collier. "Last year we only had some scrapped knees and torn muscles. I just handled the bandages and was just there if needed."

While the work is volunteer work, Collier is housed and fed by the Bluegrass State Games' officials.

"They are wonderful people who take care of the Games," said Collier.

"I really enjoy going down there and being part of the medical corps.

"We were hoping to form a three-person team and go this year, but we couldn't because of our commitment to Thunder Ridge," she said.

Fran Keel was also hoping to go to the Games as part of the medical volunteer team, but because of her Thunder Ridge commitment, must stay home.

"She wanted to go, but we do have our commitment there and we feel that it important," said Collier. "We

Danny Keathley is an inspiration

by Ed Taylor

Keathley coaches Little League baseball and has for the past three seasons. "I hope to be back next year coaching again," he said.

During games, Keathley will ma-

Think about the hot days of summer. You're under a hot sun's sweltering rays and would just give anything for a good cool breeze.

Suddenly, a little wind picks up and you feel a cool, refreshing breeze across your face and you think, "That feels good."

A cool breeze across a sweating face is what a cool drink of water is to a parched throat.

In this age of "parched sports," which is almost void of any positive influence these days, many professional and college athletes are greedy and very self-centered. The "do it my way or I'll go home" attitude that is being displayed by athletes who are role models is a very poor one. That attitude is projected more and more by the media, and the shameful part is, it is being copied by our young people today.

Then, just like a cool breeze across hot face, comes someone whose attitude is a refreshing, who renews our faith in the belief that there are still good role models.

No, he is not a great athlete, just a great individual. He is not spoiled or self-centered, but he is an inspiration.

Danny Keathley of Prater is that person. He is that cool drink of water for a parched throat. He is that cool breeze across a sweating face. By his upbeat, unselfish attitude, he reminds us that we can be either a negative influence or we can take our lives and make them count for good and be helpful to those around us.

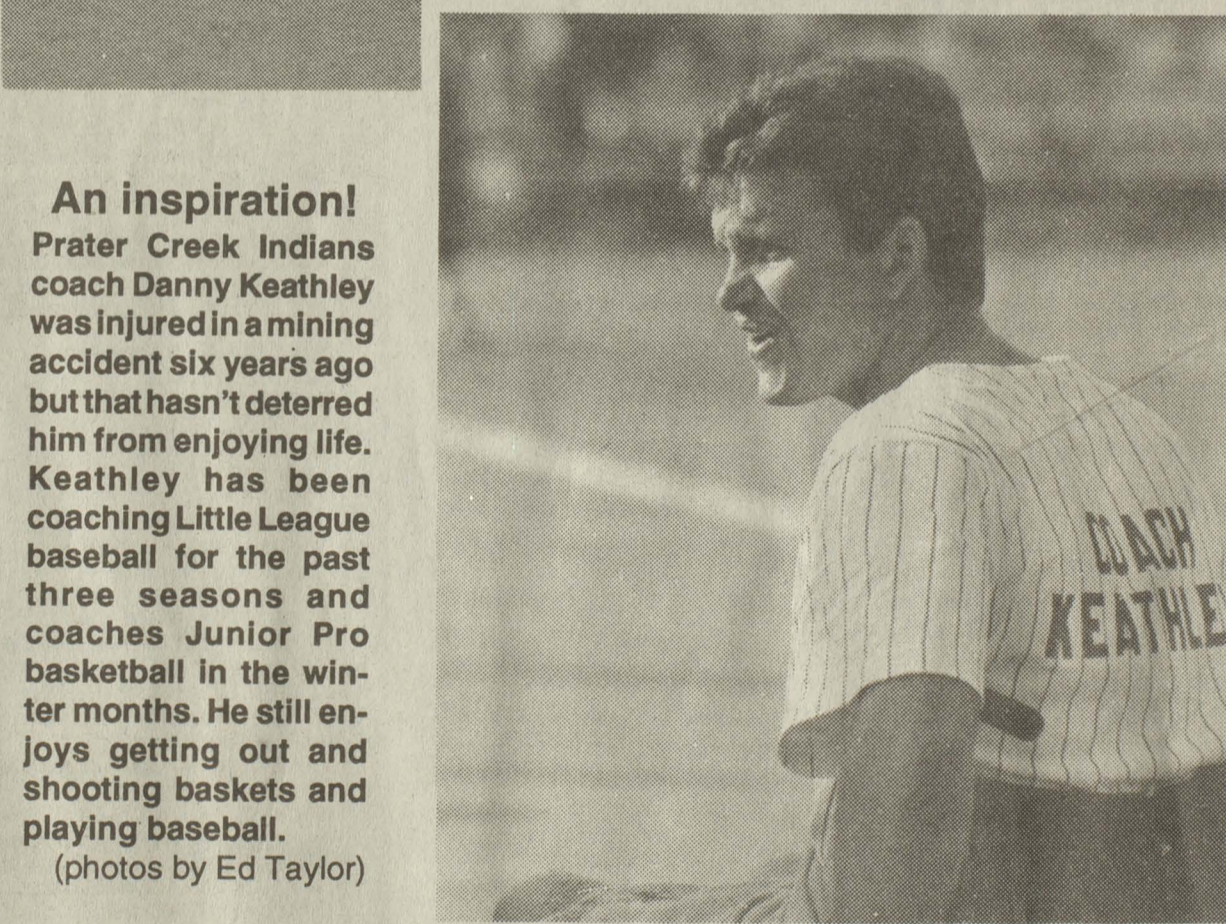

Keathley is handicapped, but don't feel sorry for him. He accomplishes more than most people in the sports realm.

One day six years ago, when Keathley was working in an underground coal mine, a rock slide crushed his back, leaving him paralyzed and in a wheelchair for life.

Self-pity? You will not find any in Keathley. He is determined to go on with life and make life enjoyable for his family as well as for himself.

He and his wife, Donna, have two sons, Chris, 13 and Craig 11.

For the past three years, Keathley has been very much involved in the lives of his family and the local sports scene.

An inspiration!
Prater Creek Indians coach Danny Keathley was injured in a mining accident six years ago but that hasn't deterred him from enjoying life. Keathley has been coaching Little League baseball for the past three seasons and coaches Junior Pro basketball in the winter months. He still enjoys getting out and shooting baskets and playing baseball.

never his wheelchair to the coach's box on the first base side and instruct his runners that come up the path. And that is not all.

"Danny is amazing," said Mike Potter of Harold. "He will, from his wheelchair, go out and pitch batting practice. And he is pretty accurate, too."

"He is a great person and loves the kids," said Eddie Rose, coach of the Harold Dodgers "B" team.

"He is remarkable," echoed Jack Gibson, a Little League coach in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League.

Potter said that Keathley is not one who looks for pity from others.

"He wants to carry his own weight," said Potter. "He's not looking for pity from anyone. He and his wife Donna don't let hardships bother them."

Does he get frustrated at times? "No, not often," said Keathley. And with a voice that was positive, cheerful and full of excitement, he added, "We're getting ready to go to Frankfort for a Little League tournament."

Keathley has been very much involved in, not only baseball, but Junior Pro basketball as well. He coaches in the Betsy Layne Youth Basketball League and enjoys that as much as baseball.

"Danny and I coached in the training league together until his son moved," said Potter. "Danny will follow his kids wherever they go."

His younger son Craig plays baseball and basketball but, "he didn't like football so he dropped out of that," said Keathley.

Hobbies that Keathley enjoys is sports-related: basketball and baseball.

Fishing? Hunting? "No," he said rather in low tone. "I still like playing basketball and baseball."

Still playing? "Yes, I play from my wheelchair," he explained.

Keathley said that he looks forward to each season and the chance to share with young players and help them learn the game. The reward he derives from coaching is personal satisfaction.

"They have all that talent," he

Cumberland scores unearned run to defeat Big Sandy

Throwing error costly in 4-3 setback

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

A throwing error in the bottom of the seventh inning allowed Cumberland to score the winning run and post a 4-3 win over the Big Sandy Babe Ruth All-Stars Monday evening in state tournament play at Okolona Park in Louisville.

Brandon Castle was on the mound for the Big Sandy team in the seventh inning after relieving starter Matt Crawford in the first frame.

Castle retired the first batter in the seventh on a roller to shortstop. Shadoan singled with one out and advanced to second on an error. Swell grounded to third baseman Doug Keathley, who made the throw to first for the second out.

Shadoan broke for third base. "We got the out at first, but someone yelled to throw the ball to third. Jamo Jarrell, the first baseman, made the throw but there wasn't anyone at third base," explained Big Sandy coach Tom Holbrook. "Then the winning run came home."

Big Sandy fought back to tie the game in the top of the seventh inning after falling behind 2-0 in the first.

Castle roped a double to left center and scored on a single by Casto to tie it at 3. Jarrell walked, but both runners were left stranded when Greg Hunter grounded to second and Mike Roberts struck out to end the threat.

Cumberland scored two runs in the first on one hit and a couple of Big Sandy errors. The local All-Stars got on the scoreboard in the fourth with a run when Castle led off by being hit with a pitch. Donnie Combs singled him to third and he scored on a fielder's choice play.

They tied the game at 2 with a run in the fourth. Ryan Ortega singled and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly.

Cumberland reclaimed the lead with a run in the fifth after the first two batters had been retired. Chiswell singled and scored on Ponder's RBI single.

Big Sandy collected only four hits in the game.

Crawford started, but couldn't find the strike zone in the first inning.

"I went out and talked with him and he said he just couldn't get the ball over," said Holbrook. "So I decided to bring Brandon in. He pitched well for us. Just that last play in the seventh beat us."

Big Sandy fell to Rockford Lane in the opening game of the state tour-namment 12-10. Rockford scored twice in the bottom of the sixth inning to snap a 10-10 tie and retired Big Sandy in order in the top of the seventh for the win.

It was a 7-3 game in favor of the local team after the scored five times in the top of the third inning. Ryan Ortega had an RBI double, and two runs scored on Brian Casto's single. Mike Roberts had an RBI single as well in the inning.

Rockford plated three runs in the fourth and four in the fifth to assume 10-8 lead after five inning of play. Josh Barone had doubled and scored in the fourth for Big Sandy. They tied the game at 10 with two runs in the top of the fifth.

Mike Roberts led off the inning with a double and scored on Donnie Combs' base hit. Combs later scored on a base hit by Doug Keathley.

Casto started on the mound for Big Sandy, but was relieved by Castle in the second inning when Rockford scored three times and left the bases loaded.

Falling to the losers' bracket of the tournament, Big Sandy faced Lexington Henry Clay in the second game of the event. Big Sandy came away with a 3-2 win by scoring the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Josh Barone had the game winning RBI when he doubled home Ortega, who had walked to start the inning.

Crawford picked up the win for Big Sandy in going the distance. He had Henry Clay shutout until the sixth inning when they scored twice to tie the game at 2.

A Look At Sports

Deion, forget it. Says Deion, "I'm not as GREAT a baseball player as I am as a football player. I'm not going to lie about that. But, I'm a good baseball player."

I'll be the last to say that he isn't a great football player. He is a tremendous football player. But he is not even a good baseball player—not even a good one!

OTHER NEWS IN SPORTS...

• Rodrick Rhodes got his release from UK and will head elsewhere, so the story goes. But where can he go? Fresno State and Syracuse, two schools he was interested in and that were interested in him, have already limited themselves on scholarships. Says here, he will return to UK as a walk-on.

• Ki-jana Carter, $19-million dollar Cincinnati Bengal, has yet to prove himself and will be sidelined during the intrasquad game this Saturday after injuring himself in a team practice.

Football contracts, like basketball and baseball, are getting ridiculous. Before a kid catches the first pass, gets his first base hit, or scores in double figures for the first time, he is already a multi-millionaire. There has to be a stopping point somewhere, maybe when all the teams are broke and out of business.

WHAT'S WRONG DEPARTMENT...

More and more you are reading or hearing about college players who are in trouble with the law.

• Alabama tight end Dennis Riddle: arrested for breaking into a car.

• Alabama tight end Partick Hape, along with receiver Rondi Gibson: arrested on drunken driving charges.

• Alabama defensive tackle Matt Parker: arrested for interfering with an arresting officer.

• Four Idaho State football players arrested on statutory rape charges.

Kids today receive a free ride in getting a good education because they can play football, basketball or baseball, and what do they do? Waste the chance to do something with their lives.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISH...

Today, Friday, July 28, is the birthday of Prestonsburg Blackcat John Ortega. I want to take these means and wish my good buddy a very, very happy birthday. He turns the ripe old age of 15 this very day.

Happy birthday, John. CAR SHOW...

The Trans Financial Red, White and Blue Car Show is not October 14, but Saturday, October 21. My mistake. Sorry!

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

hope to be able to make arrangements next year to go where we work as a team."

Collier has been an EMT for the past two and a half years, working with the Floyd County Rescue Squad.

"I enjoy working with the rescue squad," she said.

Collier said that she was to be at the Nutter Center at the University of Kentucky tonight (Friday) for orientation and assignments.

JoAnn Hauser (former UK men's basketball trainer), who is much in the headlines today, heads up the medical team at the Bluegrass State Games.

"She oversees everything and gives us our assignments," said Collier. "We'll meet there Friday. I plan on being at the opening ceremonies. That's great to see."

RW&B Car Show set for October 21

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Car show director Tina Mills and staff are gearing up for the Trans Financial Red, White and Blue Car Show that will be held at the bank's parking lot in Martin on Saturday, October 21.

Commemorative T-shirts are now available at the bank for $10 in sizes up to extra large. Extra, extra large are $12. The new shirts have the five past winners pictured on them. Also available is a shirt with last year's winning car pictured. Sweat shirts will be available later in the season as the show date nears.

There hasn't been any confirmation on whether the Kentucky Junior Opry will perform. Mills said that they have asked for the pros, but manager Greg Crum has been out of town; and there was no way to confirm the group.

"We want to have them," she said, "but we haven't as of yet confirmed they will be there. Hopefully, they will."

LAST YEAR'S BEST OF SHOW WINNER in the Trans Financial RW&B Car Show belonged to Harrodsburg's Carrol Rowsey. Rowsey's '57 Chevy was just one of over 130 cars that was on display last year at the bank's Martin parking lot. This year's show will be held on October 21 and promises to be one of the best in the area. Several prizes will be given away throughout the day.

NASCAR Connection

by Ben Trout

Answering the mail

From time to time, I receive letters from many loyal race fans out there who read "The NASCAR Connection."

Some praise my words. Some blast my commentary. And some, just have a question or two they would like answered, as is the case with Kay Reed of Campbellsville.

Kay wrote in last week with a couple of questions worthy of attention.

First, Kay is relatively new to the world of racing, and she would like to know just how Winston Cup points are awarded.

First of all, the current point system used, was designed in 1974 by Bob Latford. The system rewards drivers and car owners based on their performance in the race towards the Winston Cup championship.

Every driver that starts a race is awarded points. The breakdown goes like this:

The value determined for first place is 175 points. Then, a difference of 5 points per position exists for every drop between positions in the top-five.

Drivers placing sixth through 10th have a four point drop per position, while drivers finishing 11th on back, have a three point drop between positions.

Also, drivers who put forth the extra effort to lead at least one lap, are awarded a 5 point bonus. And the driver who leads the most laps during a race is rewarded with a 5 point bonus.

So it is possible that a race winner could earn as many as 185 Winston Cup points, providing he led the most laps and earned the 10 possible bonus points.

Kay also wants to know, "Of the purse that is given for winning the race, how much is given to the driver?"

Well, there is no universal agreement that every team follows. Some drivers receive a straight fee plus a percentage of the winnings, and others just receive a percentage.

If you check stats, you'll see that Jeff Gordon is the leading money winner so far in '95. As of last week, his earnings totaled $1,577,100. Now that's a load of cash. But remember, all of that money isn't just his. He is given credit for the cash, simply because it is his car and his team that have finished well enough to earn the money.

Here are some more notes on money. In the Slick 50 300 which took place at New Hampshire two weeks ago, Dale Earnhardt finished 22nd and he earned $43,350. Terry Labonte finished 4th, yet he only earned $37,925. How does this happen?

Well, some drivers are part of a contingency and incentive programs. An example would be the "Winners Circle" program which provides bonuses to teams that had victories and good performances the previous season.

The incentive bonuses, which are too numerous to name, are provided by manufacturers to participants in their programs. For example, drivers that display the Gatorade decal on their cars, are eligible to win the "Gatorade Front-Runner" award which is $10,000 if they are leading the race at half-way.

And how about all the money that the teams are fined during the season? We've seen quite a few of those this year. Where does it go?

It goes directly into the Winston Cup point fund and it is then distributed on a predetermined formula after the season at the annual Winston Cup awards banquet in New York.

Thanks for the questions Kay, and remember, I welcome all your letters and I'll be glad to share them in "The NASCAR Connection."

Questions or comments may be addressed to: The NASCAR Connection, P.O. Box 504, Belfry, KY 41514.

2,000 older Kentuckians expected for annual Pacesetter Program

Approximately 2,000 senior Kentuckians are expected in Frankfort July 28 for the 1995 Governor's Pacesetter Health Festival. The most outstanding participants in Pacesetters, a senior's program promoting walking for physical fitness, are expected to attend.

Pacesetter seniors who walked at least 100 miles or logged 2,000 minutes during the year ending May 31 were invited to the festival. The physically challenged who logged 30 miles or 600 minutes were also invited.

"Many of these hearty seniors will go on to the Bluegrass State Games in Lexington," said Gwen Cobb of the Department for Social Services' division of aging, a sponsor of the Pacesetters program through Area Agencies on Aging and senior citizens centers.

The festival will open the Bluegrass State Games with a torch-lighting ceremony at 11:55 a.m. at the Old Capitol, following a Pacesetter awards ceremony at 11 a.m.

Centenarian J.S. Fulkerson of Philpot, who walked 64 miles last year, will be honored with the Oldest Pacesetter Award. He celebrated his 100th birthday June 23.

An award for the Most Miles Walked will be presented to James Augusto of Robards in Henderson County. He walked 6,360 miles in a year.

Big Sandy scored single runs in the second and fourth innings against Henry Clay starter Phil Brewer. Keathley had a one out single and scored in the second inning for a 1-0 lead. He scored on Hunter's RBI double.

Crawford had a one out single in the fourth and he came around to score the second run on a base hit by Jason Burke.

Crawford gave up a one out single to J.R. Chisholm in the sixth and, with two out, Larry Arington doubled home the tying run.

In the only one-sided game Big Sandy played in the tournament, they defeated Montgomery County 11-4 to advance in the lower bracket. Big Sandy scored five times in the top of the seventh inning to take a 11-2 lead and squelched a Montgomery County rally in the bottom of the inning to win by seven runs.

Brian Casto picked up the win for Big Sandy in a route going performance.

Ryan Ortega picked up two hits in the win, including a second inning double that scored two runs. Burke had two hits in the game. Castle had two singles and a double in a three-hit evening.

It was also a three-hit night for Combs with a second inning double. Hunter had two hits in the win.

The All-Star tournament marked the fourth consecutive year that Coach Holbrook has taken a team to a state tournament.

"That's what we were shooting for during the season," he said. "Hopefully, we will be making our fifth trip next year."

KET highlights 11th Annual Bluegrass State Games July 31

This year the 11th annual Bluegrass State Games will take place July 28-30 in Lexington and surrounding counties. Thousands of Kentucky's amateur athletes will compete to win gold, silver, and bronze medals in 25 different sports. KET will again be on hand to document the weekend's events for Kentuckians across the state. A one-hour highlights program, Bluegrass State Games—1995, will air Monday, July 31 at 8 p.m.

"KET is delighted to be working once again with the Bluegrass State Games and its staff," says Virginia Fox, executive director of KET. "The shows we produced last year were successful in presenting to the state exactly what the Bluegrass State Games are all about."

"The Bluegrass State Games allow Kentuckians of all ages and abilities to participate in the thrilling experience of athletic competition," says Governor Jones. "I am pleased that the Commonwealth of Kentucky is able to contribute to the continuing success of the Games."

The Bluegrass State Games rank high in participation among the 47 state games held in the United States. Over 19,000 athletes representing 119 Kentucky counties participated in the 1994 Games, and 4,256 medals were presented.

This year the Games will take place at more than 45 sites in seven counties. More than 750 volunteers will provide staff support during the opening ceremonies and competitions throughout the weekend.

"Lexington is proud to be the host city for the Bluegrass State Games," Lexington Mayor Pam Miller comments. "This is a fun event the whole family can enjoy."

"We like to keep things exciting each year with the Bluegrass State Games," says Sam Dunn, BGSF executive director. "So this year we are pleased to add the increasingly popular sport of power tumbling as one of our 25 different sporting events."

Sports included in this year's Games are archery, basketball, bowling, canoeing/kayaking, chess, croquet, cycling, diving, equestrian, fencing, golf, gymnastics, horseshoes, karate, power tumbling, racquetball, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, table tennis, tennis, track and field, volleyball and wrestling.

The Bluegrass State Games are made possible through the contributions of their Founding Partner, The Valvoline Company, and the Supporting Partners, the Commonwealth of Kentucky and Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government. Additional funds are provided by the Lexington Convention and Visitors Bureau and the Lexington Hotel/Motel Association. Bluegrass State Games—1995, is produced by KET.

Three-day Sandy Valley football camp set Aug 2-4

August signals the beginning of fall and also the beginning of football season.

However, the camp season is underway with the Sandy Valley Football Camp scheduled for August 2-4 at the Betsy Layne High School football field.

The camp will run from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. The camp fee is $10 per camper and a physical exam will be required.

The camp will be for those who attend John M. Stumbo, Prater, Betsy Layne and Harold grade schools in grades 3-8.

"We have kids who come into the league that couldn't even catch the ball. But they end up making good players," he said.

In the three years Keathley has been coaching in the HAP league, his team has won the "B" team championship each year. His "A" team has been league champions two of those three years.

"It is very gratifying," he said. "One should never give up on one's self."

Danny Keathley knows how to carry his own weight. He doesn't want any pity, but rather he wants to be that cool breeze that is refreshing in parched seasons.

Permit Number 836-0216
In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 16:120, Section 3, Costain Coal Inc., Box 170, Tollage Creek Road, Pikeville, Ky. 41501, Telephone (606) 432-0307, proposes the following blasting schedule:

The blasting site consists of approximately 276.51 acres located 2 miles from level of Floyd County, Ky. This area is located 2 miles Northeast of U.S. 23's intersection with Ivy Creek County Road at latitude 37 deg. 36 min. 18 sec. and longitude 82 deg. 37 min. 35 sec. Detonations of explosives are proposed to occur from sunrise to sunset.

Entry to the blasting area will be regulated by signs and barriers. An authorized representative will prohibit access to the blasting area by unauthorized persons at least 10 minutes prior to detonation. At least 10 minutes prior to each detonation, a preliminary warning consisting of a one minute series of long blasts of a siren or air horn will be sounded and the area will be cleared and secured. After securing the area, and approximately 1 minute prior to detonation, a series of long blasts by the siren or air horn will be sounded, followed immediately by the detonation. No unauthorized person will be allowed in the blast area until it is thoroughly checked. If safe, an all clear signal of three short blasts of the siren or air horn will be sounded. Events which could lead to blasting at times other than scheduled include but are not limited to rain, lightning, or other atmospheric conditions which involve personnel, operational, or public safety. If conditions occur that require blasting at times other than the normally scheduled blasting hours, the audible signs described above will be used to warn the public of the blasting activity.

PUBLIC NOTICE

M.F.R. Inc., doing business at Rt. 80, 303 Rock Fork Rd., Garrett, Ky. 41630, by Mark Franklin Rice, Jr., Box 301, West Maple Street, Salyersville, Ky. 41465, hereby declares his intention to apply for a license as a retail package liquor and beer dealer under the state law.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application #836-0157, Amendment #3

In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Bailey Mining Co., Inc., H.C. 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41636, has applied for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation located 1.5 miles south of Weeksburg in Floyd and Pike Counties. The amendment will add 6.2 acres and delete 9.1 acres of surface disturbance and delete 4.5 augering underground acres making a total of 38.8 acres within the amended permit boundary.

The proposed amendment area is approximately 1.3 miles south from Kentucky Route 466's junction with Caleb Fork County Road and located 0.4 miles south of Johns Fk. junction with Elisha Fork. The latitude is 37 degrees, 18 minutes, 30 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees, 41 minutes, 15 seconds.

The proposed amendment is located on the Wheelwright U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed by the amendment is owned by the Collins & Mayo Collieries Company. The amendment will underlie land owned by the Collins & Mayo Collieries Company. The operation will utilize the contour and augering mining methods of surface mining. The operation proposes a postmining land use change from forest land to fish and wildlife habitat.

The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1455. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Sewing ...It's Sew Soothing

A Relaxing Antidote To Stress

(NAPS)—Perspiring? Heart pounding? Short of breath? No, you didn't just run a marathon—you're experiencing the physical reactions to stress. Sewing may be the antidote to stress according to a recent clinical study commissioned by the American Home Sewing & Craft Association (AHSCA). Since September is National Sewing Month, now may be the time to consider taking up sewing as a step towards a healthier life.

The AHSCA study reveals that women who sew—both skilled as well as novice sewers—experience a significant drop in heart rate, blood pressure and perspiration rate compared to women who participate in other leisure time activities.

Heart rate, blood pressure and perspiration rate are three key factors in the measurement of stress, which ranks as working women's number one problem and is a contributing factor in various health problems. Finding an enjoyable way to relax is vital to good health.

"The importance of a hobby or creative pursuit cannot be over-emphasized. If we don't allow our bodies to rest from the pressures of everyday life, we are placing ourselves at risk for heart disease or other illnesses. Creative activities and hobbies—like sewing—can help a person focus on something productive and get away from their worries for a while," said Dr. Robert Reiner, a New York psychologist and biofeedback expert.
