Deficit nears $1 million

Budget cuts may not be enough to stem schools' flow of red ink

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County's school system could be almost $1 million in the red at the end of the 1995-96 school year but board members don't expect to trim expenses by that amount.

At a budget workshop Tuesday, interim superintendent Ed Allen told board members that revised budget estimates show that the projected budget deficit will be approximately $985,000.

Previously, the deficit had been projected to be approximately $800,000. "I'd hoped I have good news and could be more optimistic, but I don't," Allen told the board.

One bit of good news is that the district may not show a deficit for the end of the 1993-94 school year, Allen said. "I talked with the auditor and when he's finished we should show a positive book balance at the end of the last fiscal year. I may be wrong about that."

Allen told board members that he didn't feel the deficit could be avoided this year and that hopefully the state school board would allow the district to eliminate the deficit over a two-year period.

Board members reviewed proposed budget cuts, which involved the instructional, maintenance, transportation and operations departments.

Board member Brent Clark asked Allen if employees could give back part of their raises which the board authorized earlier this year.

Allen said such an offer was "not impossible."

Board member Phyllis Honshell said that it was highly "improbable" that employees would be willing to do that.

"If we were in a school system that had a great deal of trust between the board and staff... we could go back to staff and ask them to help us," Honshell said. "We are not in that situation. Many people suspect foul play here and whether it is or isn't, it's the perception of staff."

"That's what got us in trouble," Clark said.

"They didn't get us in trouble," Honshell told Clark. "We got ourselves in trouble. Perhaps we got some bad information."

Allen said after Tuesday's meeting that the budget deficit was somewhat of a surprise because some areas had been overbudgeted and that those areas had received less funding than anticipated.

"We were about to do that this time," Allen said.

Jury says board was negligent in '89 case

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Six former Elkhorn City High School football players were awarded civil damages Wednesday in Floyd Circuit Court, more than six years after being burned by lime that was placed on the Wheelwright High School football field in August 1989.

A jury deliberated for about an hour before awarding the six a total of $30,092.90, which will be divided between them.

William C. Hunt, Mark Aragon, Michael Aragon, Shannon Dwayne Thompson, Shawn Patrick Rowe and Kevin R. Bevins sued the Floyd County Board of Education, then Wheelwright principal Lonnie Slone and football coach Roger Johnson in June 1990. They claimed they were burned during the game by hydrated lime that was used to mark the field.

During closing arguments of the one-day trial Wednesday, John Doug Hays, a Pikeville attorney who represented the football players, told jurors that the players were entitled to be compensated for their injuries and the pain and suffering caused by their burns.

Hays said it was odd that the Wheelwright players were wearing long underwear during the August football game.

"Why were Wheelwright players wearing long underwear that was taped at the wrist?" Hays asked. "They also had their socks taped and some were wearing gloves."

Charges from Allen standoff waived to Floyd grand jury

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A case against a Martin County man accused of breaking into the home of an Allen woman October 15, was referred to a Floyd County Grand Jury Wednesday after a preliminary hearing in Floyd District Court.

Timothy Lee Slone, 35, is charged with two counts of first degree wanton endangerment, burglary and fourth degree assault for the incident, which led to a two-hour standoff with police.

At Wednesday's hearing, deputy sheriff Steve Little testified that Phyllis Hall flagged him down on October 15 and said that a man had broken into her home, hit her and threatened to kill her. Hall also told the officer that the man was armed with a shotgun and a pistol.

Little testified that he and Allen police chief Virgil Conn went to Hall's residence and that Slone pointed the shotgun at them while they were standing in the doorway.

"At that time, we backed off and called for assistance," Little said. "We stayed at the residence for over two hours and our sheriff made the decision to go in and talk to him. (The pistol and shotgun) were loaded. He held the gun at me at least a good 40-45 seconds."

Little said that Kentucky State Police trooper Ron Peppi took Mrs. Hall's statement that Slone had struck her and threatened to kill her.

Slone had told officers that his name was Randall Day, Little said.

Deputy Steve Toy testified that when he was at the jail and told Slone that he was going to fingerprint him, Slone revealed his real name. Toy said Slone first said his

RND seeks time to rework debt in bankruptcy

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

RND Design Inc., a lighting manufacturer in Floyd County, has filed a Chapter 11 bankruptcy petition in order to reorganize its debts.

RND president Ralph Bowen said Thursday that a drop in seasonal sales and difficulty in collecting from creditors forced him to seek protection in the bankruptcy court.

"It was a domino effect," Bowen said. "A couple of major accounts did the same thing and forced us to file for Chapter 11. We didn't have a choice. It doesn't mean we're going to close."

Landing the company in Floyd County was the initial effort for the Floyd County Development Authority, Burl Wells Spurlock, development authority chairman said Thursday.

Spurlock said that RND's problems stemmed from difficulty collecting from creditors, not the company's product or sales. Spurlock added that the company was "undercapitalized" in the beginning and that Floyd County will not "lose anything" by RND's bankruptcy because the property where the company is located stands good for any local debt.

Bowen said that one of the company's major clients, Caldor, filed a bankruptcy petition which was one factor that led to his decision to do the same on October 12.

Caldor's headquarters are based in New England and it is an outlet similar to Target department stores, Bowen said.

RND manufactures and sells outdoor lighting.

Bowen said that he has laid off 20 of his 28 employees, but he expects to begin production again in December. He added that business usually drops off in the fall of the year because of the nature of his business.

"Every year we've experienced growth and I'm sure 1996 will be better than 1995," Bowen said.

Bowen's attorney, Bruce Levy of Pikeville, said Thursday that the company is restructuring to stay in business. He said a cash flow problem for RND developed when some of the company's clients also filed for bankruptcy.

In a notice of the filing, Floyd County is listed as one of the creditor's RND owes money or property.

Cutoff Monday for write-in hopefuls

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Candidates wanting to register as a write-in for the November election have until Monday to file with the county clerk.

October 30 is the deadline to file for an office as a write-in candidate. Floyd County offices that will be on November's ballot are judge-executive, District Three Magistrate, and seats on the Wheelwright City Commission, Allen City Commission and Martin City Council. Also, the office of mayor of Martin will be on the ballot.

Prospective candidates can apply at Floyd County Clerk Carla Boyd's office.

Johnson promoted by parole agency

Local probation and parole officer Paula Gayle Johnson has been promoted to the position of supervisor.

Johnson, who began working in the Division of Probation and Parole in September 1978, will assume her new duties on November 1. She will supervise 16 probation and parole officers in an 11-county area.

Johnson began her career in Johnson County and was transferred to Floyd County in December 1985.

Johnson resides at Weeksbury.

Floyd phone companies will receive rate flexibility under proposed bill

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A bill that could give small telephone company owners like Harold Telephone Company and Thacker-Grisby more money is being considered by a legislative subcommittee.

The bill, which would allow small telephone companies to raise rates without a Public Service Commission hearing, is making its way through the Interim Subcommittee on Energy and may be headed toward the General Assembly.

One hearing was held last week and another will be scheduled for sometime in November on the proposed measure.

"This legislation does offer an escape for small telephone companies — an escape from a discredited, archaic form of regulation perpetuated by a bureaucracy desperate to justify its own existence," said Rep. Mark Brown, D-Brandenburg, the legislation's sponsor. "Kentucky's current regulator regime only serves to drive up costs unnecessarily and place a stranglehold on the resources of small phone companies."

According to Paul Gearheart, owner of the Harold Telephone Company, one of 17 companies in the state affected by the bill, the legislation, if enacted, would allow telephone companies with fewer than 50,000 access lines to raise rates once every 24 months by an amount equal to the consumer price index of the previous 24 months.

"It would never raise more than 20 percent even if inflation really jumped," Gearheart said.

For the Harold Company, the increase would raise the basic rate to about $10.60 from $10.

"By 1997 we'd be able to increase the rate by 60 cents," he said. "That's about three percent per year." He emphasized that the companies could decide not to take the increase.

He said the increases are needed because the cost of doing business continues to increase.

"If I go buy a truck today, it's going to cost me three to five percent more," he said.

Gearheart said the Harold Company had not asked for a rate increase since 1981.

"To often, in today's bureaucratic regime, these small companies

District Judge James R. Allen representing the 31st Judicial District, which includes Floyd County, attended the 1995 District Judges' College held at Lake Barkley State Park, October 8-11.

Small group discussions and workshops addressed topics including probation problems, judicial stress, juvenile guardianship, mental health, Foster Care Review Boards, Juvenile Services, proposed changes to the Judicial Code of Conduct, nonsupport issues, effective docket management, record expungement, mentally ill criminal defendants, LINK and its importance, and proposed domestic violence legislation.

The judicial college, which provides 14 hours of continuing education credit, was planned by the District Judges' Education Committee and conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts' Education Services Division.

are finding it difficult, if not impossible, to survive. They have succumbed to regulatory excesses. The only losers when this occurs are Kentucky's consumers," Brown said during hearing testimony Friday in Frankfort.

After the two-hour meeting, the Interim Subcommittee on Energy voted 10-5 to favorably pass the legislation on for consideration during the General Assembly regular session, which will begin in January.

But the vote was one short of what is needed to move the bill to the full body. Interim committee members then voted unanimously to request an additional hearing on the bill. The permission is needed because Friday's hearing was ostensibly the last chance for interim committees consider legislation for the regular session.

The primary objectives of the bill are:

- To allow the state's 17 small telephone companies to adjust basic business and residential rates every two years for inflation without the excessive expense of rate hearings before the Public Service Commission.

"It can be quite expensive to go through a PSC case," Gearheart said. "It will save quite a bit of money in that respect."

- To enable small telephone companies to set rates for competitive or non-monopoly services as dictated by the marketplace. Those services include such items as voice mail and internet service. Gearheart began offering local access to the internet September 1 and now has about 200 customers who pay anywhere from $5.95 to $29.95 a month for the service.

- To permit small telephone companies to undertake necessary construction without Public Service Commission approval. For several years, the larger phone companies have been able to build new headquarters without PSC approval.

Other companies affected include: Alltel, Ballard, Brandenburg, Duo County, Foothills Rural Telephone Cooperative in Staffordsville, Highland, Leslie County, Lewisport, Logan, Mountain Rural, North Central, Peoples, Salem, South Central, Thacker-Grigsby and West Kentucky Rural. Collectively, the 17 companies employ about 650 people and serve about 150,000 customers.

Harold has 6,000 customers, most in the eastern and southern portion of Floyd County with about 700 to 800 in Pike County.

Thacker-Grigsby serves a small portion of Floyd County customers near the Knott County line.

All members enjoyed a floral bouquet guessing game.

area where the board could make some of its biggest cuts, but it's also an area that cannot be reduced at this time, Allen said.

Because school employees have signed contracts with the school system, Allen said that he isn't sure any positions could be eliminated at this time. The superintendent also said that he didn't feel that any employees could be laid off because of those contracts.

"Next year, the district will have to evaluate what its needs are in terms of the number of staff," Allen said. "Retirements and resignations would take care of a lot of it."

For now, school officials will have to keep an eye on spending on a day-to-day basis, Allen said, until a budget is approved by the board.

Honshell explained during the work session that programs or departments are not being cut at this time and that board members are only looking at deficit reducing proposals. She said that the budget reduction proposals being studied by the board are similar to a "wish list."

Honshell did stress that she didn't think the budget for instructional programs should be tampered with and that she felt those programs should be evaluated to determine if they are effective.

Board chairman Ray Brackett noted that the state school board has directed Russell County schools to come up with a budget reduction plan, also.

"I thought you might appreciate that the former superintendent of Floyd County is there to reduce the deficit in Russell County," Brackett said.

Former superintendent Steve Towler, who is getting most of the blame from board members for Floyd County's money woes, left the Floyd County system in August to take the position as superintendent of Russell County.

All board members were present at Tuesday's session.

name was Randall Hall, but then admitted it was Timothy Slone.

Public defender Kirsti Gray asked the officer if the screen door to Hall's home had been damaged during the alleged break-in. Toy said that it was not. Gray also asked if Hall knew Slone.

"She just knew that he lived across the street," Toy said.

Gray also asked if Hall had any visible injuries and Toy responded that she had some redness about her face.

During the October 15 incident, Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and deputies ended the standoff by going into the Hall home and taking Slone into custody. Slone was in the basement with the weapons and agreed to surrender to the Allen police chief, Thompson said after the incident.

Floyd District Judge James Allen dismissed one count of first degree wanton endangerment and referred the case to the grand jury.

Meyer could not be reached Thursday to comment on what effect the filing may have on the county.

About the same time last year, Thunder Ridge racetrack owners also filed a Chapter 11 bankruptcy petition to reorganize its debts. Construction of the racetrack was also backed by county officials in an effort to boost economic development.

RND began operations in October 1993. County officials said at that time the company could eventually employ up to 300 people.

told jurors that the principal and coach had been negligent when they placed the hydrated lime on the field. Byran tried to play down the extent of their injuries and asked jurors to give the players $200 to $300 for their injuries.

Hays said Byran's statements that the young men's scars wouldn't prevent them from going to the beach seemed somewhat sexist. He added that it was "something" for Byran to admit the principal and coach were negligent.

Byran called no witnesses in the case.

The jury awards were:

Give 'em the business

by Scott Perry

The economic news circulating around Eastern Kentucky has been anything but encouraging lately.

More layoffs in the coalfields, permanent job cuts at American Standard, and bankruptcy facing both Thunder Ridge and, now, RND Inc. aren't the sorts of stories that make you feel good about our future.

In fact, they make you wonder if there is any future for us at all.

It doesn't help matters, either, to see that our school board has overspent its budget by nearly a million bucks and that job cuts or tax hikes are the likely results.

Boy, sure would be nice to hear something good for a change.

Well, don't hold your breath.

Changing things for the better here will require some major attitude adjustments among those who are supposed to be our leaders, particularly those who unashamedly contend that they should "take care" of themselves, first.

Taking care of number one is why our outlook for the future smells like number two.

At some point, preferably soon, we're going to have to recognize that this me-first approach to life leaves an awful lot of people out in the cold.

Unfortunately, no sustained effort at economic development can succeed without these so-called leaders.

They hold the key to the cash drawer.

But we hold the key to their futures, as well.

Once they are made to understand that 90 percent of all new jobs in this country are created by small businesses and those small businesses, combined, can pack a pretty potent political punch, they may come around.

And there are no times like bad times to bring folks together.

If you're a business person, it's time you got involved.

Every time a company goes down the tubes, you lose customers. Every person who joins the unemployment line costs you money.

That may be a hard-hearted, pecuniary view of the situation, but hard times call for hard decisions.

Like Calvin Coolidge said, "The business of America is business."

We'll have to give them the business to bring it to us.

OLM school looking for former students

Editor:
Please help Our Lady of the Mountains School locate the many former students who have moved and/or changed their names since graduation. We want to invite them and their parents to our 50th anniversary celebration scheduled for Saturday, November 25.

Former students and their parents can contact the school by writing 405 Third Street, Paintsville, KY 41240 or calling 1-606-789-3661 anytime (information can be left on the answering machine if secretary doesn't answer). We need their student and married names, the year of graduation or attendance, and their current address as soon as possible in order to include them on our invitation list.

We are also seeking memorabilia—photos, news clippings, trophies, old uniforms, etc. for display. All items will be returned after the celebration.

Thanks for your help!

Citizen wants truth in county politics

Editor:
As a concerned citizen of Floyd County and with elections coming up in a few days, I would like some answers from attorneys, elected officials, or anyone in the know.

I think judge-executive Bob Meyer has done a commendable job, acting with integrity, perseverance, tolerance, accountability, and fortitude.

1. Will Mr. Frajure and Mr. Hale be able to act in the same ways mentioned above? It will take all of the above attributes to "buck the system" of the courthouse.

2. Who is responsible for the collections of the 220 delinquent tax payers?

3. Where is the $25,000 missing from the sheriff's office?

4. Is Jim Hammond still county attorney?

5. Could we have an accounting of all monies that has been in the county treasury, in the last year?

6. How come there are no convictions or prosecutions for growing marijuana or marketing it? It seems all surrounding counties have been very busy. Can it be we are in an oasis, no marijuana growth?

I, along with all Floyd Countians, would like answers to these matters in the same media, from anyone knowledgeable enough to answer. Nothing compatible or vindictive, just the plain truth.

Take issue with merit system bullies

Editor:

I am concerned about the merit system in Kentucky State Government. There's no doubt there are good people who do a good job on a daily basis under the merit system, but on the other hand there are a few merit system bullies and deadbeats. There are those in the Department of Natural Resources who brag about getting their way in enforcement by taking their cases to the Franklin County Court. Does this make the Franklin County Court a Puppet Judicial System for these merit system bullies?

When the Department for Natural Resources face funding cuts, they create (on state time) outrageous regulations they know the average person, business or community will have extreme difficulty in compliance with their "time frame." They lobby a handful of legislators and pass Kentucky Administrative Regulations without public notification. Many times no one appears to protest the proposed regulation because the general public is not notified. Think about it, how many times have you been aware of a hearing for a Kentucky Administrative Regulation meeting. They do this all in the name of trying to improve the Commonwealth when in reality they do it to justify merit positions for their cronies.

They impose outrageous "pending fines" and pressure business owners and small town officials to sign agreed orders of compliance so the merit system bullies can once again perpetuate more fines. This seems to give them a sadistic euphoric "high" and job justification. I think it's sick.

The aspect of outrageous and unreasonable government regulation is definitely an issue on the national political agenda. With the Kentucky State Government Machine composed of Merit System Bullies and the Franklin County Puppet Judicial System, it should be an issue in this year's governor's race.

Mayor Jim Short
Olive Hill

Bonanza students hold reunion

Bonanza elementary and high school students

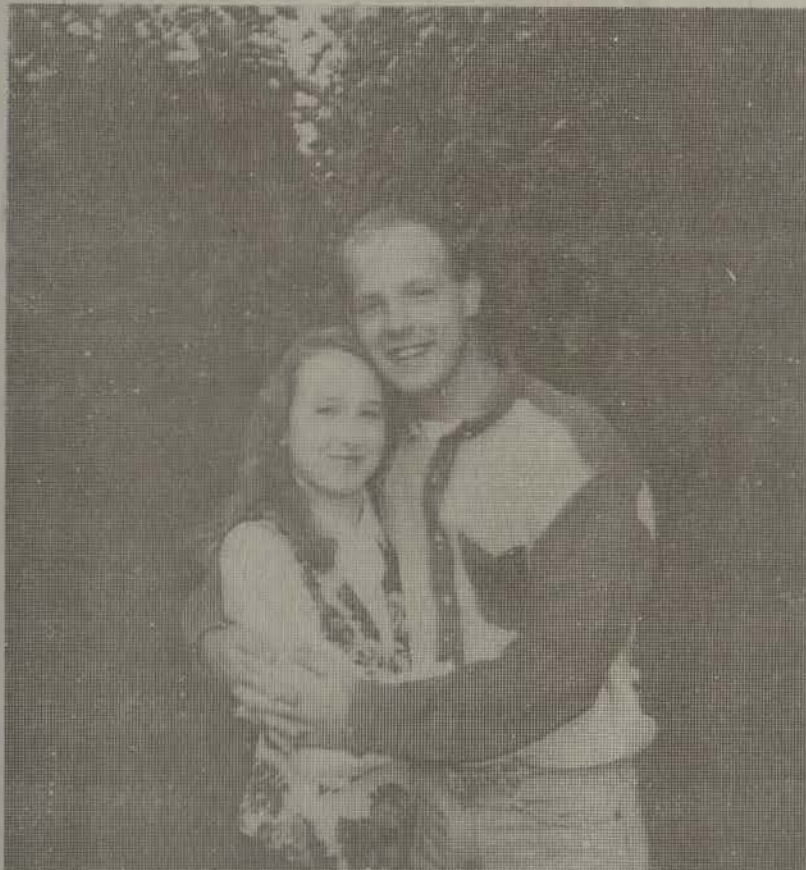

Saturday, October 7, was a day of nostalgia for the former students of both Bonanza High School and Bonanza Elementary School as they gathered for their first reunion. Some new acquaintances were made and many renewed as those who had attended classes there met each other for the first time in many years.

It certainly was an enjoyable day as people greeted each other and sometimes seemed to be total strangers until their identities were made known. There followed a time of reminiscing. Plans are to make this an annual affair.

Former students and guests who attended were: Woodrow Adams, Betty Jo Hall Brown, Kaye Hall Cottage, Andrew and Cynthia Music Frasure, Ernest and Susan Harmon Hackworth, William and Florence Hackworth, Lloyd Hall, John Thomas Hill, Boyd Holbrook, Woodrow Holbrook, Nancy Jeanette Hill Howard, Garnet Spradlin Jones, Ruth Wright Kindle, Ruby Neeley Laferty, Sarah Music Laven, Elsie Hackworth Leake, Austin and Mary Katherine Prater McKenzie, Billy Worth Music, Dorcas Montgomery Music, Helen Ann Hill Neeley, Scott and Margaret Prater, Ethel May Ratliff, Josephine Whitaker Richardson, Claude and Eleanor Robinson, Curtis Robinson, David and Barbara Jane Hill Slone, Anna Neeley Snipes, Lloyd and Josephine Hackworth Spradlin, Julia Baldrige Stephens, Marie Holbrook Vance, Rasha Wright Hackworth and Oran Wright.

Red Ribbon Week spotlights fight against substance abuse

In the sea of colored ribbons that symbolize various causes, red celebrates a lifestyle of freedom—from alcohol and drugs.

Kentucky students will observe Red Ribbon Week October 23-31. The annual observance is cosponsored by the Cabinet for Human Resources Division of Substance Abuse, CHAMPIONS program, and the Kentucky Family Partnership Inc. (KFP). This year's theme is "Be Healthy and Drug Free."

"The message that children and youth can go farther in life without alcohol and drugs has to be continuously delivered because young people constantly get a message to indulge from those who profit from alcohol and drug sales," said Mike Townsend, director of the state's substance abuse division in the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

The Red Ribbon Week movement began after the 1985 slaying of federal drug agent Enrique Camarena by drug traffickers in Mexico. Wearing or displaying a red ribbon during Red Ribbon Week symbolizes opposition to the illegal use of drugs and the use of alcohol by under age youth.

"Red Ribbon Week is a great opportunity for students and parents to recognize the positive aspects of living alcohol and drug-free," Townsend said. "But we want everyone to get involved in the celebration by wearing or displaying a red ribbon because everyone benefits when we help people make the right decisions about drug and alcohol use."

Communities are being encouraged to plan events and activities through school districts, churches and local drug and alcohol prevention agencies.

"Substance abuse not only keeps people from reaching their full potential, it is also dangerous and unhealthy, and eventually can cost people their families, friends, jobs, self-esteem and futures," Townsend said.

"It's much easier to convince people at a young age not to start using drugs or alcohol than to trust people for chemical dependency later. The deeper people get into substance abuse, the harder it is to stop. It's like a trap that tightens the longer you're in it," Townsend said.

"For people who are abusing substances, we want to send the message that although it's difficult to turn your life around, it's not impossible. There are people ready to help you change."

Special days have been set aside for different groups to focus on substance abuse prevention. Those days are:

- October 23—Pledge & Sign-up Poster Day: sign pledge to stay drug free.

- October 24—Red Ribbon Decoration Day: decorate your home and office with red ribbons.

- October 25—Reach Out Day: encourage the ones you know who have substance abuse problems to seek professional help.

- October 26—Rally Day: have a community rally, assembly or march to encourage people to live drug- and alcohol-free.

- October 27—Recognition Day: groups are encouraged to recognize members who have pledged to be drug free.

- October 28-29—Sports and Religion Weekend: sports teams are encouraged to wear red ribbons and red arm bands in support of the observation. Churches are encouraged to talk about the effects of drugs and alcohol during services and activities.

Elderly urged to get flu shots

Older Floyd Countians are urged to take precautions against the pneumonia and flu epidemics that come with the approach of winter. The cost of both pneumonia vaccinations and flu shots may be covered by Medicare Part B (Medical Insurance) for those age 65 or older, according to Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area.

Statistics show older people are twice as likely as younger persons to get pneumonia or flu. The Public Health Service recommends an annual flu shot for people over 65, even if they are generally healthy. Typically, shots are given in the fall or winter. The best time to get a flu shot is mid-October to mid-November. Medicare beneficiaries do not need a doctor's prescription or supervision to have this vaccination covered by Medicare Part B. And, beneficiaries do not pay a deductible or coinsurance amount.

Medicare Part B pays the reasonable approved amount for either shot. If the cost exceeds the approved amount, the beneficiary is responsible for the difference.

Generally, the cost will be paid if the vaccine is provided at a doctor's office or by a hospital, skilled nursing facility, home health agency, rural health clinic, federally qualified health center, outpatient physical therapy provider, a comprehensive outpatient rehabilitation facility, or health maintenance organization (HMO), Kelly said. Medicare Part B pays for pneumonia and hepatitis B vaccinations and flu shots when the beneficiary is in the hospital, even though the hospital stay is covered under Part A (Hospital insurance).

For more information, call 1-800-772-1213.

FSA committee deadline nears

Time is running out for farmers to nominate candidates for the Farm Service Agency Area Committee election. If the required number of eligible candidates are not received at the Johnson-Floyd-Martin-Pike County Office by October 30, the present FSA Committee will have to add the names of enough nominees to complete the slate.

Anyone wishing to nominate a farmer for the area FSA Committee election may contact the FSA office by calling (606) 789-3766. For a petition to be valid, it must contain the signatures of three eligible voters and the person nominated must sign that they are willing to serve if elected.

Kathi Sparks, county executive director, says that voters should keep in mind that the FSA Committee members provide an important service to the farm community by administering farm programs.

Kentucky donor mother to appear in national media campaign about organ and tissue shortage

Janet Mart, of Frankfort, never expected to appear in magazines and newspapers throughout the country.

Neither did she expect to face the decision she faced in 1993, when her son Marc Schuster died and she was asked if he wanted to be an organ and tissue donor.

But Ms. Mart, who consented to donation, has been selected as one of six donor families to appear in a national media campaign about the shortage of organs and tissues for transplantation.

Every day, more than eight people die waiting for a transplant because of a shortage of donors.

They are among the over 41,000, including over 200 in Kentucky, on the waiting list for transplantation. Tens of thousands of others are in need of donated corneas, bone and other tissues.

Simply stated, the demand for organs and tissues is greater than the number of donations.

This shortage, however, is not the result of a lack of potential donors or an unwillingness to donate, but is due in part to people simply not notifying family members of their decision to become a donor.

In cooperation with the state-wide and national Coalition on Donation, the national Advertising Council will release this month the second phase of a national public education campaign to increase understanding of the need for donors. The campaign's goal is to educate the public about the need for organ and tissue donation and the necessity of communicating with one's family one's decision to donate.

"Sharing the decision be an organ and tissue donor with family members is as important as making the choice to donate. Each year, thousands of potential donations are never made because family members are unsure of their loved one's wishes. Making family members aware of the decision to donate will help them carry it out without hesitation when the time arises," said Paul O'Flynn, executive director of Kentucky Organ Donor Affiliates (KODA) and a member of the statewide Coalition on Donation.

"The shortage of organs and tissues is truly a medical crisis with a cure," said O'Flynn. "We just need to get more people talking about it with their families."

PSAs will be distributed in October to over 20,000 media outlets nationwide, several hundred of them in KODA's service area. The PSAs carry the tagline "Organ and Tissue Donation: Share your life. Share your decision." It also offers a national toll-free number for callers to receive information.

Individuals also may call KODA at 1-800-525-3456 to receive information about donation or to contact the KODA Speakers Bureau.

For sale: ball club, cost $110 million

Do you have an extra $110 million laying around doing nothing?

If so, you could buy yourself a major league ballclub. Everyone dreams of owning a professional baseball club don't they?

Well, with the $110 million, you would probably get just as many headaches, with the way baseball is heading today. The St. Louis Cardinals are up for sale as the beer franchise and the Cardinals say good-bye. Welcome aboard Tony Larussa!

You say there are no Cardinal fans around here? You had better check "The Legend," Denzil "Hoss" Halbert out. He is an avid Cardinal fan and the only time he will visit Riverfront Stadium is when the Cardinals are in town.

Gary Frazier used to be a big Cardinal fan. But I don't know what happened to him. He seems to be pulling for the Reds these days.

With the $110 million you probably would get a seat reserved in your name. You might get a spot in a private parking lot outside close by. The players will either love you or hate you. Call you a tightwad, a cheap-skate, a miser, or some other choice names.

You could get a horse (no dogs please, Marge has the choice there) and rub some of the mane on the players' gloves and bats. Whoops! It would have to die first. But anyway, you could be the boss — that is if the players will allow it. You can be buddies with such outstanding examples as George Steinbrenner, Daryl Strawberry, Dwight Gooden, Marge, and others. Think of it.

There is more in baseball....I understand (through another source) that Eric "The ex-Red" is thinking of making a comeback. We're speaking of Bridget Clay's favorite all-time Red, Eric Davis. Eric was released by Detroit and is in Florida working extra hard to make it back into baseball. Maybe he and Marge could flip a coin again to see if he plays for the Reds....Question: Will Ray Knight make a good manager at Cincinnati next season? Marge (there's that name again) didn't know that The Main Spark (Sparky Anderson) was leaving Detroit. I wonder if it would have made any difference if she did, being she has put the responsibility of hiring a manager in the hands of Jim Bowden? Seems that Bowden thought that it was time for Knight to become the head man on the field and promised the job to Ray for next season. He acted as an assistant manager (that's a new one) learning the ropes of managing under Davy Johnson this year.

TV PREVIEW...
WPRG-TV, Channel 5, is working on a video preview of the upcoming basketball season. The camera and crew are busy filming segments with each coach around the county and when the program is put together it will be aired over the local channel. No date has been set for the airing of the preview.

P.D. Gearheart, Dr. Don Bevins and folks are hoping to put all the 15th Region teams on the tube to give fans an idea of what to expect this season.

Most county teams are still waiting for football to end so most of the players will be able to join others in practice.

We anxiously await the start of the roundball season.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to Sunday School and church Sunday.

Playoffs settled :

South Floyd looking for momentum

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

South Floyd football. Three years old and on the way to a berth in the upcoming playoffs that get started next week.

The Raiders, settled in third place in Class A, Region IV, District 2, will face Williamsburg in the first round on November 3.

But Coach Donnie Daniels said he is concerned over the lack of spirited play his team has shown of late.

"You would think, going to the playoffs, they would be playing harder," he said.

Instead the Raiders have only scored eight points in their last three games. Rushing the football hasn't been a premium either as sophomore standout Ketran Mays has been targeted by the opposition.

Elkhorn City will bring a good 4-5 overall mark into the game, but

We have to take care of the football. We can't afford to turn it over. That has been a problem for us all year.

— Coach Derek Potter
Elkhorn City Cougars

coach Derek Potter's Cougars have a disappointing 1-4 district mark. Elkhorn fell hard to Hazard last Friday, 41-0. South Floyd dropped a 14-8 game to McCreary Central.

COACH POTTER'S SCOUTING REPORT....

It was thought midways of the season that tonight's game between South Floyd and Elkhorn would decide the third and fourth place teams in the final district standings. But the Cougars have played their best football outside the district. Potter said the Raiders could pose some problems for his team.

"They are a tough football team," he said. "They are going to be in the playoffs. They throw the football well and they will run up the middle at you and also go outside."

Potter related that shutting down the South Floyd offense may be hard to do. Stopping Nick Compton is goal number one.

"They are a big team. Our primary goal is to slow their quarterback down. He's got some good receivers out there. (Terrence) Mullins is a good football player. Number 2 (Aaron Hall) is tough both ways (offensively and defensively). (Ketran) Mays has very good speed. (Heath) Hall has a lot of speed as well so it isn't going to be easy."

The Elkhorn City coach said not only has the Raider offense been impressive, but their defense is as well.

"They play hard on defense," he said. "They like to run a lot of five and six at you. They are a good defensive team. It will be tough for us."

Isaac Swiney (6' 0", 155) will quarterback the Cougars and he will have two good targets in Tommy Becher (junior, 6' 0", 150) and Shawn May (junior, 6' 1", 200).

"Both have worked hard this year," Potter said.

Kenny O'Quinn (5' 10", 220) will run at fullback position and sophomore Chad Cure (5' 10", 175) will be at tailback.

"We have got our work cut out for us," Potter said.

The former University of Kentucky player said he has been disappointed with the results of district games, but his kids have played hard all season.

"I am disappointed. It has been a disappointing year in respect to how we finished in the district," he said. "But our kids have played real hard this season and have given forth a big effort."

Defensive guard Tim Rose is the only player injured for the Cougars, but is expected to make the game anyway. He has a sprained wrist.

KEYS TO A COUGAR WIN....

"We have to take care of the football," the Cougar head coach said. "We can't afford to turn it over. That has been a problem for us all year."

Hardee repeats in Paintsville meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Paintsville High School cross-country teams won both the boys' and girls' division in the final regular season meet this past Monday at the Paintsville Lake.

Ashley Roe easily outdistanced the rest of the field in taking first place overall in the meet with a time of 18:56. Ryan Hardee, Prestonsburg, repeated last week's win and took the top spot with his time of 19:24.

The Paintsville team scored 31 points in winning the girls' events and had 36 to capture the boys' race. Allen Central finished second for the girls, South Floyd took third and Pikeville finished fourth.

Pikeville was the second place finisher in the boys' division with South Floyd placing third and Allen Central fourth.

Chuke Williams returns to PHS with 8-1 Bulldogs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Lawrence County Bulldogs will visit the Prestonsburg Blackcats tonight in the conclusion of the regular high school football season, but it will mark the return of Bulldog head coach Chuke Williams to the institution where he coached the Blackcats from 1984-87.

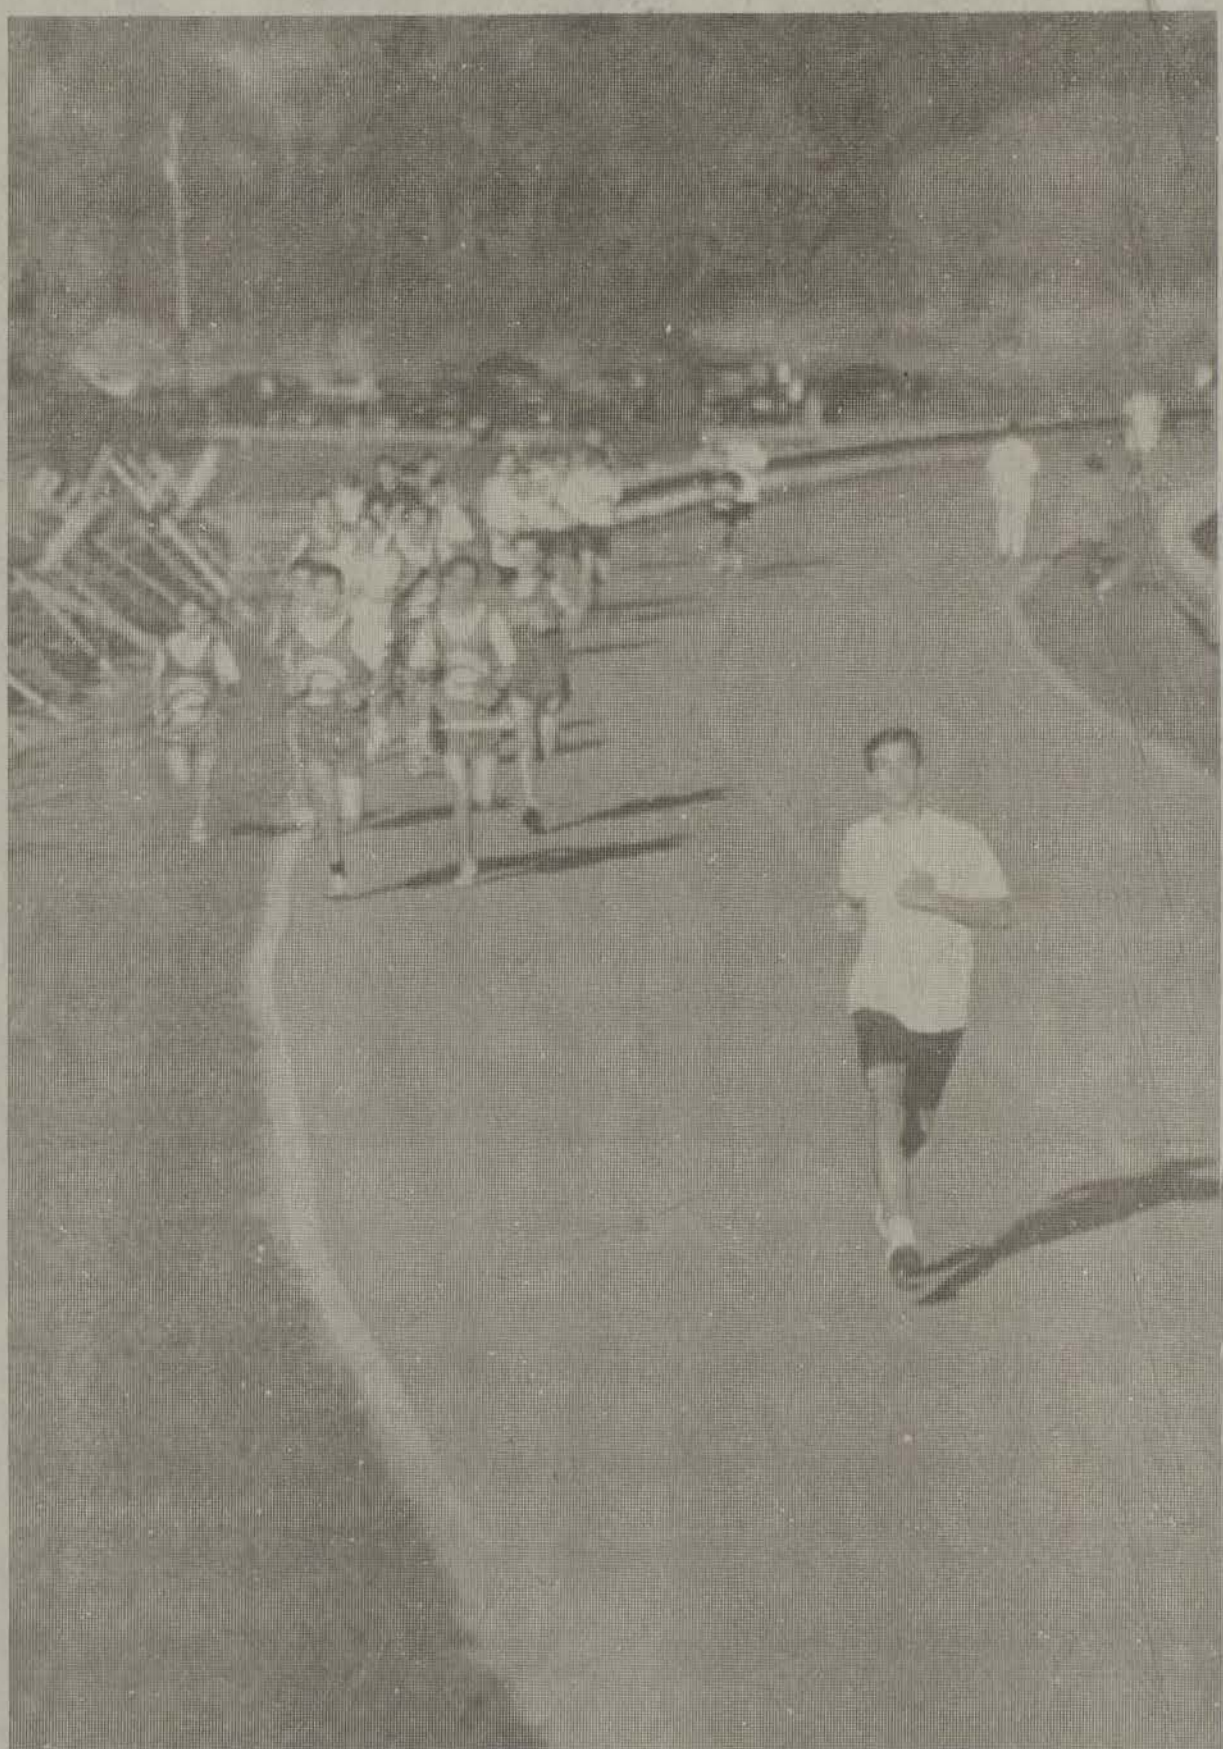

While at Prestonsburg, Williams posted a 28-16 overall record with his best year being the '85 season when his team finished 12-2 and was part of the final four in the Class 2A playoffs.

Williams' first year at Prestonsburg was a very good season. He took the Blackcats to the playoffs with a 9-1 record. In 1984, his team fell 19-10 in the first game of the playoffs to the Hazard Bulldogs.

The team lost in the regular season to Middlesboro 19-13, a loss that snapped a four-game winning streak for Prestonsburg. The Blackcats were putting some big numbers on the scoreboard and winning with ease. They walked past Estill County 41-6. Came back and handled Paintsville 25-6 and posted two consecutive shutouts over Betsy Layne (40-0) and Prestonsburg's Ryan Hardee put some distance between and other runners at the start of the cross-country meet at the Paintsville Lake last Monday evening. Hardee was the overall winner in the men's division with a time of 19:24. Hardee has been the most consistent runner winning the meet the last two times out. # Rebels looking for upset against Yellowjackets

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Glenn Reeves would love nothing better than to see his Allen Central Rebels leave Whitesburg tonight with a stunning upset of the second place Yellowjackets.

While the thought may be a pleasing one, the Yellowjackets are a solid football team. But anything can happen, especially when you have already played nine games.

Allen Central took a whipping against first-place Breathitt County last week (61-13), but did put two touchdowns on the scoreboard — something no other county team has been able to do against the team. But it will be

Whitesburg expected to sting hard

Whitesburg tonight and the Rebels will be looking to secure a big win they can take into next week's playoffs.

Questionable may be the play of quarterback Adam Coleman who has had vision problems most of the season. Coleman was removed from the signal-calling slot midways of the Breathitt County game because he had laser surgery two days prior.

Junior Shane Blackburn stepped in and did a solid job running the Rebel team. Look for Coleman to return tonight in the final regular season game.

While Allen Central found little running room against the Bobcats last week, they went solely to the passing game the final three quarters of the game. That accounted for the low yardage rushing as fullback Beau Tackett has one of his lowest rushing games of the season.

Against the Whitesburg defense, the Rebels will have to have a blend of run and gun.

Junior Thomas Jenkins found himself open often against Breathitt County, but the Whitesburg secondary will be another story. The key to an Allen Central win will be to stop or at least slow down the passing of quarterback Charlie Wright (289 yards versus Betsy Layne last Friday).

What makes the Yellowjackets so likely to sting hard is the running of fullbacks Andy Morrel and Billy Stamper. The linebackers for the Rebs will find them in their face and coming through. Both are power runners and like to go up the middle. Travis Maggard is the speedster and gets into the flats in a hurry.

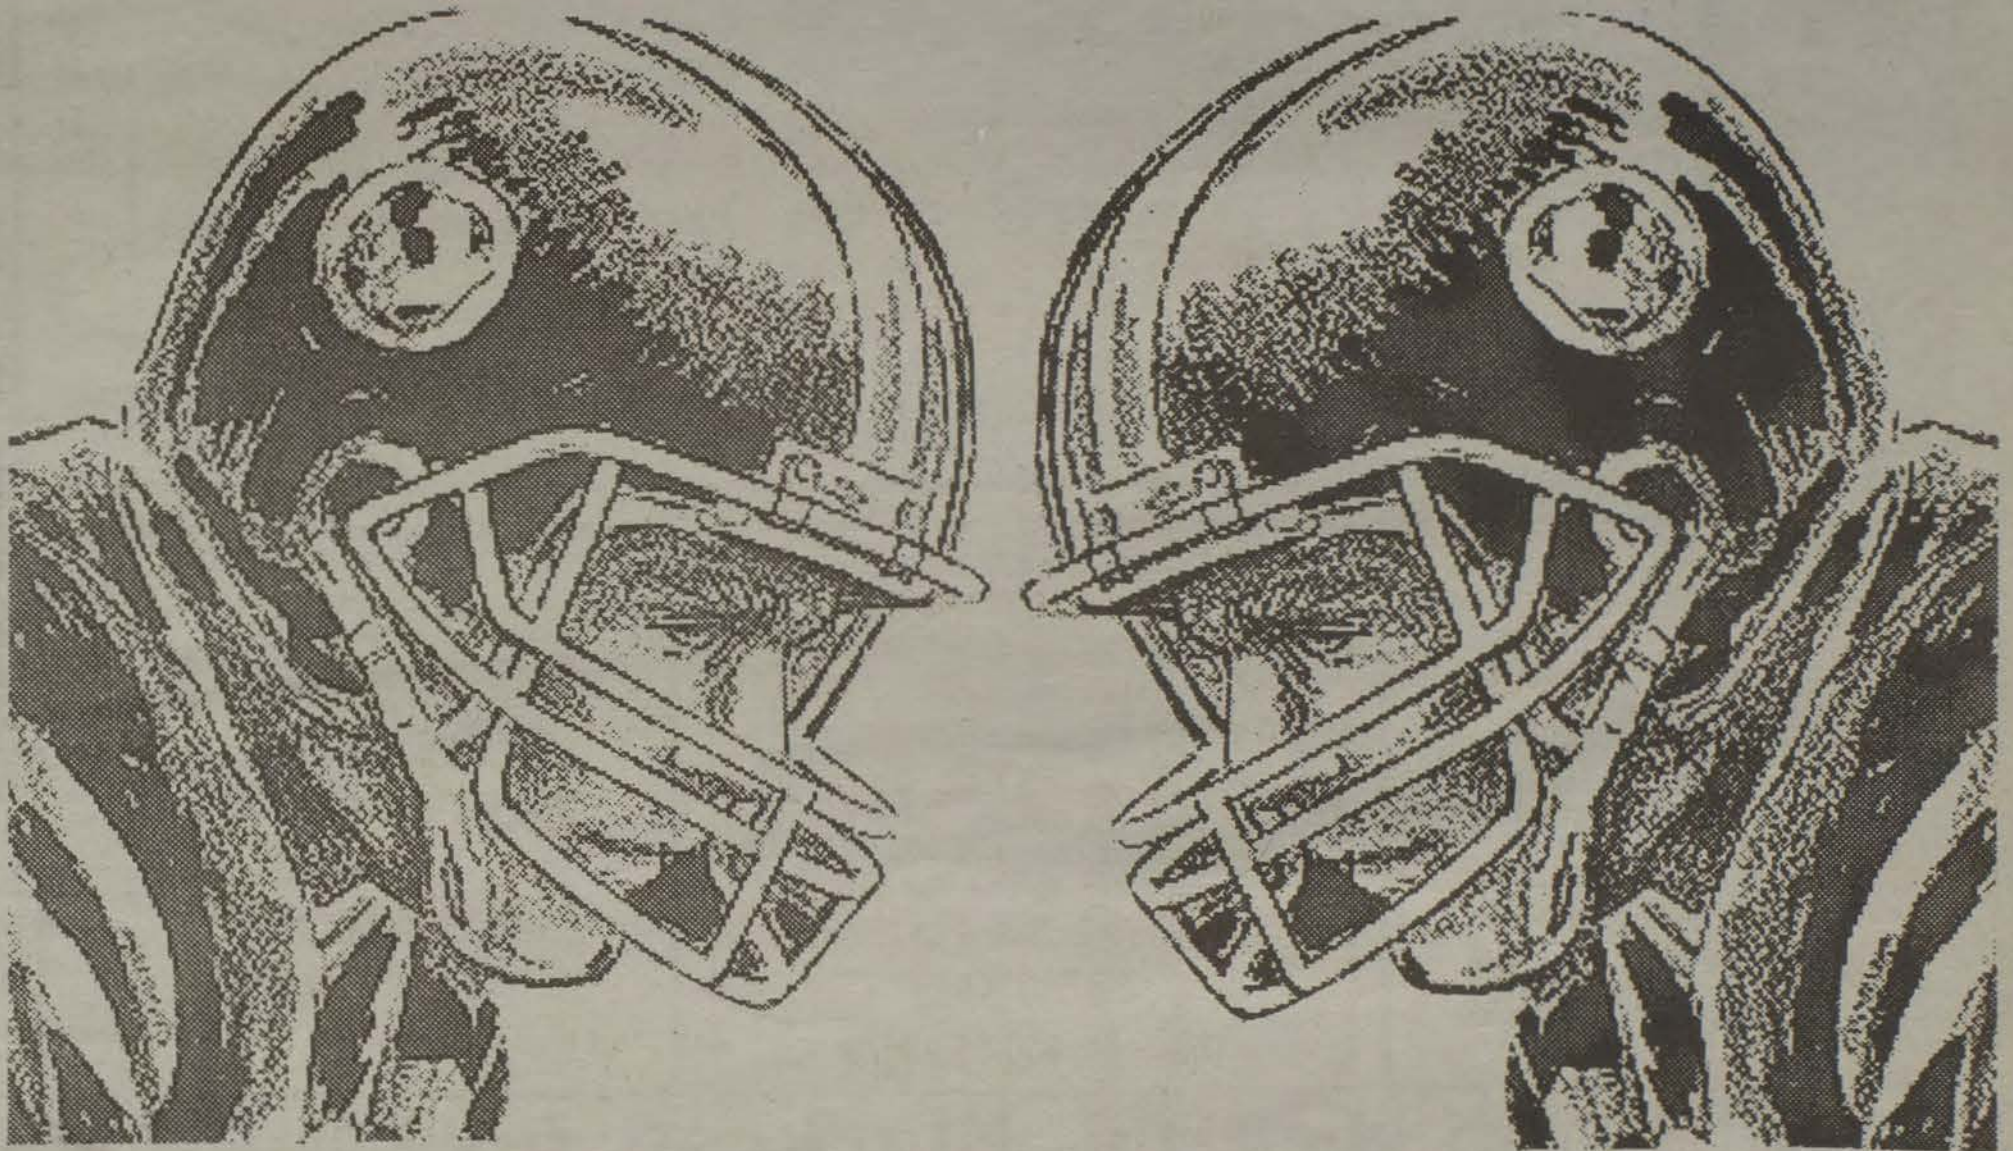

Turnovers, taking care of the football, will be another key for Allen Central as they face Whitesburg on the road.

While they are not facing a team the likes of Breathitt County, they will be facing a very experienced defensive and offensive line.

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Playoff berth secured, Blackcats host Bulldogs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The high school regular season will come to a close tonight. Those who will receive an playoff berth will work hard toward winning a state championship in their respective classes.

For some teams, berths in the playoffs have been decided. If not, they will be after tonight's play.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats are one of those teams for whom a berth has already been determined. They will be in their sixth consecutive playoff and Coach Bill Letton's ballclub hopes to find time to correct some things.

Tonight, the Blackcats will finish off the regular season by hosting 3A power Lawrence County at the Prestonsburg stadium. Coach Chuke Williams' Bulldogs have lost only once this season and are one of the top 3A teams in the region.

Prestonsburg, a young ballclub that is rebuilding, has a lot of very young talent, talent that has grown up some this season. They are no longer the fresh-faced kids who started the season. They now know the battles are won in the trenches.

Prestonsburg has always been a good defensive ballclub under Letton and this year's squad is no different. In order to even the season record to 5-5, the Blackcats' defensive line must put together one of their better efforts this season.

Prestonsburg is 4-5 on the year, but stands at 4-2 in district play with all district games in the columns. Lawrence County brings a good test for Prestonsburg to the stadium, a week before the playoffs begin.

While seniors John Lyons, Ernest Campbell, Waylon Bevins, Keith Marsillett, Jonathan Estep,

Rusty Young

Josh Setser and Phillip Castle have led the Blackcats' defense, some juniors and sophomores have stepped in as well.

You have to like Prestonsburg's future when you look at the array of talent that will be around for the next four seasons.

"Prestonsburg does have some good young talent," Williams said.

His Bulldogs are 8-1 on the season and are looking to build off this game for the playoffs.

Letton's Blackcats must make sure that they control the football and keep the Lawrence County defense on the field. Williams' philosophy is to grind it out on the ground, so you will not find the Bulldogs passing too much.

Jon Morris appears to be healthy once again for the Blackcats and he rushed for more than a 100 yards last week against Morgan County. The type of defense the Bulldogs play should allow Morris the room to get some yardage.

Prestonsburg is a much-improved football team than demonstrated at the season's start. Even the Lawrence County coach has taken notice of that.

"They are a much improved club since the season began," he said. "They are much better than what I saw of them earlier."

The game is set to kickoff at 8 p.m. with senior night activities scheduled.

Lawrence County will try and control football

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Lawrence County Bulldogs (8-1) will face the Prestonsburg Blackcats tonight at the Prestonsburg Stadium and the game will mark the return of former Prestonsburg head coach Charles "Chuke" Williams to the place where he led the Blackcats to state prominence in 1985.

His Prestonsburg team finished 12-2 on the year reaching the final four at the time.

"That was a nice team that year," he said as he was preparing his Bulldogs for tonight's contest. Williams coached four seasons at Prestonsburg before moving on to Magoffin County. Prestonsburg finished 1-8 under Williams in '86 and was 6-4 his final year at the school.

Lawrence County was an opponent of the Blackcats in the '93 year, but suffered a rather embarrassing moment when they were shut out by Prestonsburg 52-0 in the playoffs.

"We got beat by a good state team," Williams said. "Hopefully we will play better this time."

Williams' coaching philosophy is to run the clock — keep the clock moving and have control of the football most of the game.

"We don't throw the ball that much," he said. "When you throw the ball, you're stopping the clock. We want to get as many snaps as we can per game. We want to control the ballgame on the ground."

Lawrence County quarterback, sophomore Jason Michael, has attempted only 40 passes this season and thrown for eight touchdowns.

"He started for us last year as a freshman," Williams said. "He got ten games in last year and he has done a fine job for this year."

COACH WILLIAMS' SCOUTING REPORT...

"Prestonsburg has very good speed in the (John) Ortega kid. (Keith) Marsillett is a good receiver and their quarterback (Mike Castle) has improved his throwing. (Jon) Morris is a hard runner. They seem to have nice size," he said.

The Bulldogs will be without their defensive lineman Charles Vincent who is out with an injury for the season.

"He was a good sophomore," said Williams. "We're scrambling around to find someone to take his place. We'll try two or three there to see who will help us."

With a playoff berth all ready and one game remaining, Williams is hoping to move some players around to play positions they haven't been playing.

"I'll make a change or two," he said. "We'll play some players at positions they haven't played at before."

Williams' coaching strategy has always been to get more snaps than the other team.

"That's the way we approach each game," he said. "We've always done that since I've been here."

KEYS FOR A BULLDOG WIN...

"We have to take care of the football. We have lived with our rushing," he said.

Fred Dean (5' 11", 190) is the Bulldog fullback. "He's a good one," Coach Williams said. "Runs the ball real well."

Billy New (5' 10", 170) will be at a halfback slot. Williams said he is very comfortable with his backfield.

"We feel we have a very capable backfield," he said. "I think we have the best sophomore quarterback in the state."

Jason Michael (5' 11", 170) will quarterback the Bulldogs. "He can throw the football. But that is not our game. We want to come out and establish the running game. Get some snaps off."

"We want to keep our offense on the field as long as we can. That way our defense is resting. We also can't afford to fumble the ball away."

FORGET THE TREES WHEN FISHING FLOODED TIMBER

When you're fishing a flooded forest, just forget the trees are even there.

That's the advice of Denny Brauer, a Missouri-based bass tournament pro who often fishes in lakes filled with flooded timber.

"The most important aspect of fishing timber-filled water is to pretend the trees are not there," explains the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler. "Instead, look for channels, humps and other structure the bass would be using if the trees weren't present."

"Then, just use the timber as an advantage to help attract bass to such spots."

Brauer says anglers can also learn to "read" timber to help them

Williams

Johnson Central (52-0).

After the loss to Middlesboro, the Blackcats picked back up and tossed two more shutouts to Belfry (20-0) and Lawrence County (31-0).

Prestonsburg concluded the '85 season winning the final three games over Harrison County, Pikeville and Morgan County.

Under Williams, Prestonsburg took a 9-1 record into the '85 playoffs and the Blackcats reeled off eight consecutive wins before falling to Harrison County 17-14. Williams' ballclub posted opening wins over Hazard and Corbin before falling to Newport Catholic 20-7.

Williams was 1-8 with Prestonsburg in '86 and brought the club back to finish 6-4 in '87, his final season at PHS.

pinpoint fish.

"Certain types of trees may indicate different types of bottom," he explains. "For example, cedar trees tend to grow on higher ground like ridges, while oaks and other hardwoods frequently grow in the lowlands. If you're looking out over a flooded forest and can identify the types of trees present, you may very easily be able to find bottom or depth changes that will lead you to bass."

Another key to fishing flooded timber, notes the Evinrude pro, is working the edges of the tree line. Often, such a line of trees represents the first available cover along a flat or deeper channel that bass will use when feeding.

"You can treat a tree line just like a shoreline or a grass line," explains Brauer. "Look for points where several trees extend further out than the rest, or try to find openings along the tree line that may represent a channel or cut."

"These are exactly the same things that attract bass in other places, and they should always be checked."

Brauer says it is also important to note the type of tree where any bass are caught. Sometimes that may be the only species the fish are using.

"It really is surprising how bass can somehow tell the difference between the types of trees, but I have seen many times where they were only on cedar trees or only on willows, despite the fact many other types were nearby."

"Sometimes the cover choice may actually depend on water clarity," he continues. "I know in clear water bass often use willows or cypress trees because the root system provides more security for them, but in more dingy water, they don't seem to be quite as particular."

JIGGING SPOONS CATCH A LOT OF WINTER BASS

If it's winter, it's time to fish jigging spoons.

That's the advice of former professional fishing guide David Wharton, who has used these simple-looking lures for more than two decades, both as a guide and as a tournament bass pro.

"A spoon looks and acts like a crippled shad," explains the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler, "and if you work the lure properly, it has a lot of action."

"I think a jigging spoon is the best lure to catch numbers of bass on in a hurry, but it will really catch practically anything that swims in a lake. There have been times on Sam Rayburn Lake where I live when I have caught largemouth bass, catfish, crappie, striped bass and hybrid stripers all on the same day with a jigging spoon."

Wharton's favorite places to fish jigging spoons in the winter are in brush and heavy cover along the edge or in the bottom of creek channels and drop-offs. He doesn't hesitate to drop a spoon right into brush if he thinks bass may be present.

"You have to develop a feel for the lure so you know when you do hit limbs," he explains, "because when you do encounter brush you can't jerk or 'pop' the lure back up the way you do in open water. If you do, it will usually get caught under a limb."

"Instead, when you do feel a limb, you simply jiggle or shake your rod as you bring the lure up. It isn't nearly as likely to get caught, and the added action may even attract a bass."

The Johnson pro believes one of the most common mistakes he sees anglers make when fishing a jigging spoon is to work the lure on a tight line. It's far better to let the lure fall on a semi-slack line, he says, so the spoon will flutter the way it's designed to do.

"Spoons have a lot more action than most anglers realize," Wharton says. "If you let them fall on a slack line they'll wobble and sway from side to side just like a shad falling to the bottom, but if you keep a tight line, the lure falls straight down, and that isn't natural at all."

When he's working a spoon, Wharton tries several different jigging techniques until he determines what bass want. Very often, a more subtle jigging motion in which the lure only hops upward a foot or so is more effective than when the lure jumps up wildly for several feet.

"Strikes usually come when the lure is falling," Wharton says, "so it's important to watch your line for any sign of a hit because you may not feel anything."

"It's also important to make certain your lure is at the proper depth. If the fish are suspended, you can put a mark on your line so you can drop the spoon to the same depth each time."

Pikeville College presents Sally grant exhibit

"Each leaf falls, taking with it the memory of the green hopes past and future. It's no accident, I suppose, that I dream of all four great-grandmothers. Please, daughter, accept this stone and carry it as far as you can go. Tell your child I was never certain."

These words were spoken by acclaimed Texas artist Sally Grant as she described how her memories were the inspiration for the many creations which will be on display until the end of October at Pikeville College in the Marguerite Weber Art Gallery.

Grant's unique dimensional displays entitled "Sculpture Construction and Assemblage" are comprised of an eclectic array of materials including stones, leaves, beads, and old photographs presented in a shadow-box arrangement.

A native of Beeville, Texas, and now residing in San Antonio, Grant has exhibited her work in both solo and group shows throughout the United States. She has also traveled to Egypt and Israel through the (United States Information Agency (USIA) to give lectures and exhibit work.

Sewage project stopped by pickets

by Rick Bentley
Appalachian News-Express

The good news is if you live on Chloe, you get closer to tying into the city's sewage plant with each passing day.

But if you live on Harolds Branch, it's a different story.

Pickets from the United Steelworkers have closed down the construction project taking place on Harolds Branch, as well as the project on the North Interceptor.

The work on Chloe is proceeding as expected.

M&D General Contracting, a Barbourville firm, was the low bidder on the three projects. Work began on them, with the Chloe project being sublet to Hess Construction, a local company.

M&D stopped working when the Steelworkers picketed the work site and has been unable to go back to work.

The contractor is a member of the Teamsters union, and the hierarchy of the unions is to meet this morning in an attempt to settle the disagreement.

Hess Construction, however, is allowed to proceed because it is a member of the Steelworkers.

Mayor Steven D. Combs said while the projects are being slowed, the work would be done.

"We're going to do the sewer projects one way or the other," he said. "If this contractor is unable to get back to work, or it appears he is unable to complete the project then we have to consider our options."

Jack Sykes of Summit Engineering told the city commission at Monday's meeting that while 22 percent of the contracted time had elapsed, only four percent of the work had been completed.

Combs said he remained hopeful M&D could finish the work.

"We want this contractor to do the project," he said. "We want to stay the course. This contractor was the low bidder. He won the project fair and square. He is to get to do the project."

"But we're going to get this project done. We're going to do what it takes to get it done. The project on Chloe is proceeding as planned. And we want to get this contractor back on schedule."

Ed Gaunt, the superintendent of M&D, said he hoped the commission would be understanding. "We're hoping the city will work with us," he said. "This is kind of like an act of God."

Gaunt said even if the unions agreed for the project to proceed, he doubted the project could be completed on time.

"We've had two and a half weeks of great weather," he said. "I don't think we have the time frame to complete the work due to this."

Sykes said he couldn't be sure, but felt unless the contractor gave up the project, the commission would have to wait until the time stated in the contract had expired to change companies.

"My opinion would be until it's in default, the city would have to wait," he said.

However, even if contractors must change on the Harolds Branch and North Interceptor projects, work would proceed on Chloe.

That's the beauty of the way we did the contracts," Combs said. "The project on Chloe is a separate contract. The operator doing the work is a separate subcontracting bid."

Combs said he felt the contractor would be willing to work with the

Mans pleads guilty to rape

by Christopher Hunt
Appalachian News-Express

Estill H. Hatfield, 55, pleaded guilty Tuesday to 16 counts of rape and sodomy.

The crimes were committed against Hatfield's niece between January 1988 and June 1992, said Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Ron Burchett.

The victim had been staying with Hatfield and his wife during weekend visits and summer vacation from the Kentucky School for the Deaf in Danville.

The victim, who is also mute, was placed under the guardianship of her grandmother by her mother at an early age. Her father is deceased.

The trial, which started on Monday, ended when Circuit Judge Charles E. Lowe Jr. allowed the jury to hear an audio recording of an interview of Hatfield by Kentucky State Police Detective Jim Booth.

"I think when he (Hatfield) saw she (the victim) had testified and held together and got through some pretty tough cross examination, he decided to plead guilty and take his chances with the judge," Burchett said.

During that interview, Hatfield admitted to committing some acts against the victim, but denied others.

The investigation was also conducted by Deborah Harris of the Department for Social Services.

The victim, who is 18, reported the crimes just after her 18th birthday.

Burchett said the time that had passed since the crimes, combined with the fact the victim is a deaf-mute and communicates through sign language, made preparing the case difficult.

"I was real proud of her for getting through her testimony. It's almost harder for a girl her age to testify than a girl who is younger because the younger ones usually aren't embarrassed," Burchett said.

Rita Zernheld, an employee with the Kentucky School for the Deaf, served as interpreter for Burchett and the court.

"I am real indebted to Rita and the Kentucky School for the Deaf for helping us prepare the case," Burchett said.

Hatfield was represented by Pikeville attorney Steve Owens.

A sentencing hearing will be scheduled within four to six weeks.

Hatfield will not be eligible for probation on any of the counts because of the age of the victim at the time the crimes were committed and his relationship, as uncle, with the victim.

Hatfield pleaded guilty to four counts of second-degree rape, seven counts of third-degree rape, one count of second-degree sodomy and four counts of third-degree sodomy.

Theft cases on hold, prosecutor resigns

by Tony Fyffe
Paintsville Herald

The resignation Friday, October 20, of Breathitt County Commonwealth Attorney Michael Stidham has left two local theft cases on hold.

Stidham, whose resignation became effective two days after theft charges against former Johnson County Schools Superintendent Frank Hamilton were dismissed, was special prosecutor in pending cases against ex-Johnson Central High School Principal Steve Butcher and the owners of a Pikeville sporting goods store.

In a motion filed Friday in Johnson Circuit Court, Stidham said his resignation effectively delays their trial, which was set to begin November 6.

Stidham said he has not been "contacted by the office of the attorney general concerning who will be assigned to continue the prosecution of this case as of today's date and is submitted that whoever is appointed will need adequate time to prepare for the trial."

"Therefore," Stidham wrote, "the undersigned respectfully requests that the court take judicial notice that the commonwealth will be unrepresented of record in this matter...as of 4 p.m. October 20, 1995."

Meanwhile, the attorney for David and Sherry Collier, owners of TD Sporting Goods, has asked the judge in the case, James A. Knight, to step down, citing a possible conflict.

Phil A. Stalnaker of Pikeville said in a motion filed October 16 that the Colliers have "received information" that a family member of Knight's has been employed by the county school system.

Stalnaker said the board created the position of director for the Johnson County Middle School and that the "person hired for said position falls within the third degree of relationship" set forth by Kentucky Supreme Court rules.

"This motion is made to alert the presiding judge as to a situation that may require disqualification pursuant to Cannon Three of said SCR 4.300," Stalnaker's motion says.

The relative is not identified in the motion, but Johnson County Schools Superintendent Orville Hamilton said Monday that she is Leigh Ann McDonald, Knight's daughter. She was hired by Steve Trimble, principal of the middle school, Hamilton said.

Knight had not ruled on he motion as of Tuesday.

Hamilton case

Last Wednesday, Knight dismissed for a second time a 22-count theft indictment against former Johnson County Schools Superintendent Frank Hamilton.

The move came after Stidham, who had earlier fought dismissal of the charges, filed a motion asking that the indictment be dropped.

"The commonwealth, after having an opportunity to review the relevant portion of the grand jury transcripts...must, in all candor, confess error in failing to advise the defendant of his Miranda rights," Stidham said in his motion.

"Upon the face of the transcript, it appears that the questioning by the undersigned went beyond the boundary of inquiry to the point that such warnings would have been given to the defendant, who was under oath."

Knight had initially dismissed the charges against Frank Hamilton in May 1994, but the Court of Appeals reinstated them two months ago.

Frank Hamilton is now appointments director for Governor Brereton Jones.

Stidham said his resignation as commonwealth attorney for Breathitt, Wolfe and Powell counties had nothing to do with the Hamilton case.

He said he quit to devote more time to his family and private law firm.

More jurors may be called for trial of Lawrence County pastor

by Jerry Pennington
Big Sandy News

After a day and a half of jury selection for the trial of Lawrence County pastor Gallie Isaac Sr., more jurors may need to be called in to seat a large enough panel.

On Monday, 13 jurors were questioned by attorneys and Lawrence Circuit Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier, but only five were kept while eight were excused.

Tuesday morning, five more jurors were kept out of seven questioned.

Attorneys hope to seat a panel of at least 32 jurors to choose from before each side gets to strike nine, leaving a jury of 12 people with two alternates.

None of the jurors questioned knew Isaac personally, but several had heard of him or had heard about the case through the news media or word of mouth.

Prosecutor Luke Morgan, an assistant attorney general, said more jurors may be called in Tuesday afternoon to try and get a 32-person panel.

Excused jurors were let go for a variety of reasons, including knowing too much about the case or having relatives who knew Isaac.

One of the excused jurors, Carl Phillips, is the junior ROTC teacher at Lawrence County High School and said he knows one of the witnesses for the prosecution.

"I've read about the case and heard a lot of people talk about the case," Phillips said. "I've heard a lot of opinions."

Phillips said he had formed an opinion from what he had heard about the case and said he would have a difficult time setting this aside.

Isaac, 78, is on trial for charges of sexually abusing young boys who attended Isaac Park Free Baptist Church where he is pastor. He faces 17 counts of sodomy and sexual abuse charges that go back as far as 1984 and as recent as 1994. All four of the boys are expected to testify.

Opening statements should begin later this week. Frazier told jurors Monday that he was not sure how long the trial would last.

Butler indicted in former girlfriend's shooting death

Marion Eugene Butler, 35, of Witten, was indicted Friday, October 20, for capital murder in the October 15 shooting death of his ex-girlfriend, Renee Ann Fields.

Butler was also indicted on attempted murder, wanton endangerment and burglary charges.

The indictment claims Butler committed capital murder, a death penalty offense, by "intentionally shooting Renee Ann Fields with a .25-caliber Raven semi-automatic gun" at a Witten apartment building.

Johnson District Court records show that Fields obtained a domestic violence emergency protective order against Butler in March 1994, saying she was "fearful" of Butler "due to past history of abuse."

Most conditions of the EPO were dropped 12 days later on Field's request, including a provision that Butler stay away from her. — Paintsville Herald

However, he also said the man was charging him with a baseball bat. Ross said he did not realize the man had been shot at first, he had just meant to scare the man.

The case will be presented to the Johnson County Grand Jury. — Paintsville Herald

Ky. Woodworkers Network to hold open house

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

From their hands flow words and emotions and feelings.

Their paper is wood and their publications are baskets and dulcimers

Shelia Howell and Elmo Allen are woodworkers.

They take a blank piece of wood and wrought it into something beautiful and useful and loved.

Sensing the importance of their creations, Brenda Cockerham, extension agent for Johnson County, took it upon herself to create an outlet for their work, to provide them — and other woodworkers in the area — with a validation that their craft is important.

After more than four years of planning and nurturing, the Kentucky Woodworkers' Network was born.

"We've been working on this for years, but it's really come together in the last six months," Cockerham said. "We started pulling together local woodworkers and pinpointing who they are."

Who they are is people like Howell and Allen.

Howell is a basket-maker. She weaves baskets of various sizes and patterns from wood reed and sells them to friends and family members and others who have heard about her work.

She was looking for a place to sell more of the baskets she makes each day.

Allen is a crafter of mountain dulcimers and Shaker boxes. He makes the crafts in his spare time, after coming home from work in the circuit judge's office. He says he has made about 50 of the dulcimers.

Both are from Prestonsburg and both have joined the network because they have one thing in common — the love for working with wood.

"I got started about five years ago when I took a basket-making class from a friend in Point Pleasant, West Virginia," Howell said. "I've just kept going."

She said she was looking for a way to increase her sales when she heard about the network.

"I've been involved since day one," she said. "It hasn't increased sales yet, but we're having a Christmas bazaar the day after Thanksgiving and that should really help."

Day one was the Fourth of July when the network held a show at the Stafford House in Paintsville.

But before the show, Cockerham worked for many months to identify the woodworkers in the area.

"At our first meeting, the attendance was about 40," she said. "It has fluctuated dramatically. There are 40 in Johnson alone and if we really worked each county, we would probably find hundreds of woodworkers."

Initially, Cockerham said she limited participation in the network to ten from each county, "until we got our feet wet." Now as many who want to can participate.

The network is based on the idea that different people have different skills and orders from various companies can be filled by utilizing skills from a number of people.

"We research each person," Cockerham explained. "Some people are artisans and just want an outlet for their work. Others want to make money working with wood and those are the people we are looking for."

The group filled an order for 21,000 pieces in the past few months.

"We're concentrating on simple projects, but we're trying to build leverage for more complicated orders. We have 250 frames due by tomorrow," Cockerham said.

And the quality is equivalent to that of bigger companies — sometimes it is better.

"The CEO of one company, Pat Gearheart, said she's excited to be able to buy locally-made wood products from Kentuckians," Cockerham said. "She said the quality is great and that we exceed that of foreign products and that we always beat our deadlines."

She tries to match skills of woodworkers with the projects she has in place.

"That's how we can compete with all kinds of orders alongside larger companies," she said. "The flexibility is very important."

And being flexible means serving both the local and national woodworking markets.

The national market is much more demanding and local markets can be slow and unpredictable, Cockerham said.

In order to compete nationally, woodworkers with only one or two employees per company must work with other companies. The organization provides opportunities for both national and local markets.

The network is market driven, as opposed to driving the market. "We listen to what the market wants and create those items rather than creating things people might not want," she said.

People really want Allen's dulcimers. He said it takes about a week to make each one and works on five at a time. He also builds Shaker boxes for the network.

"I do build other things," he said. "I've been doing this for about four years."

But working with wood has been something Allen has done for years.

"I've always had a good sharp pocket knife and whittled," he said. "I just got started making those."

Howell said the network is important to area crafters.

"There's a lot of people in the area who make beautiful handmade crafts who just can't seem to sell them unless we get something like this started," she said.

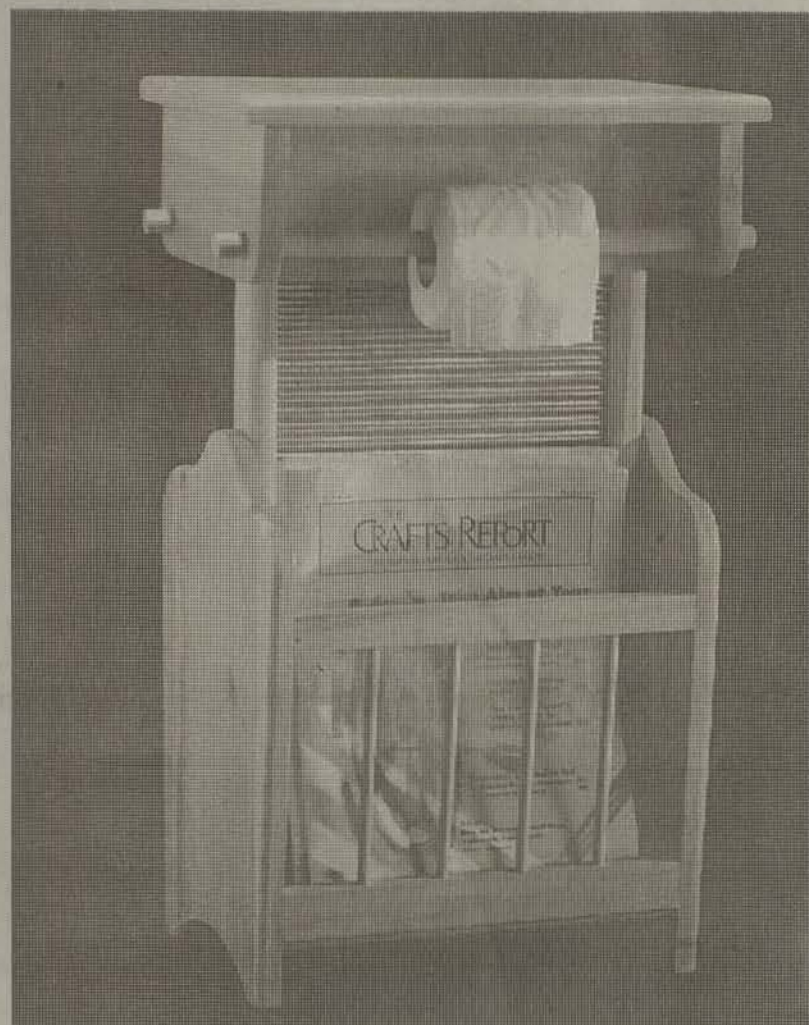

Allen said he thinks the network is a positive thing even though he didn't need a place to sell his work.

"There are a lot of woodworkers in this part of the country and they make some fine things," he said. "They need a place to showcase their work."

That place is the network's new office which will open Friday (today). Located at the entrance to the Paintsville Lake in Johnson County, the office is staffed by Jerri Wells and Esta Johnson. The open house will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"If it's from wood, we'll make it," Jerri Wells, project coordinator, said. Wells and Johnson are available to accept orders, provide sales from the floor and coordinate catalogue and show sales.

Both Allen and Howell have products on display at the office.

This magazine rack is just one of the products made by members of the Kentucky Woodworkers' Network

Paintsville Lake annual open house held September 30

On Saturday, September 30, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Paintsville Lake hosted their Third Annual Open House at Paintsville Dam. Visitors were treated to refreshments, tours of the dam, and live unusual animal programs. Dan Wilson, fisheries biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, was also on hand and presented a program on walleye fishing at Paintsville Lake.

In preparing for future annual open houses, the Corps welcomes any public comments or suggestions on the types of programs they would find enjoyable. Anyone desiring to provide input can do so by writing to: Resource Manager, Paintsville Lake, 807 KY RT 2275, Staffordsville, KY 41256-9035, or by calling the Resource Manager at Paintsville Lake at 606-297-6312, Monday thru Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

sure he'll want to work it out with us so he comes out the best he can."

Gaunt said he hoped his company would be ready to restart the project after this morning's meeting between the unions.

"We think the city will be willing to work with us," he said.

Combs said while he hoped the work was completed on time, there were provisions for penalties in the contract signed by M&D.

"What we've instructed the city engineer to do is create a timeline to look at when he was supposed to mobilize, when he was supposed to break ground, when he started and how many days the pickets have held it up," he said.

"We want to look and say, 'This is how many days you've lost, and this how many days you lost on your own,' so we can address that."

Combs said the commission would be willing to listen to the contractor, but the bottom line was he and the commission want the projects finished.

"Right now, my message to him is we want the project completed on time," he said. "There's a lot of unforeseen circumstances, and we don't know how the weather's going to be. If we have a mild winter like last winter, I don't think the weather will be a problem."

"We've already granted him some extra time when he bid, and he knows that. Obviously, circumstances beyond his control are causing it to go longer."

"I'm sure the commission will listen to any argument he has to make, but right now, he's got a deadline and we expect it to be honored."

Miner dies in accident

A Johnson County man became Kentucky's eleventh miner to lose his life Friday while working at a Wolf Creek Collieries mine.

Timothy Bryon Penix, 38, of Boons Camp, was fatally injured Friday while working on an electrical distribution box at a belt conveyor drive in the Mossey Branch Main Headings.

Apparently working alone at the time, Penix was performing work on a power center containing 12,470 volts.

The preliminary autopsy report is back and it confirmed Penix died due to electrocution, Martin County Coroner Rex Endicott said.

Penix was pronounced dead at 4 p.m. Friday by Martin County Deputy Coroner Dallas Sweeney. Joe Walters, a fellow employee, discovered the body at 2:10 p.m. when the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) was notified.

"I think he had been there a while when Walters found him," Sweeney said.

Since laying off nearly all its employees just over two weeks ago, Wolf Creek Collieries has been working with a skeleton crew. According to the MSHA report, the company presently has 15 workers, 12 of them make their living underground.

Wolf Creek's Human Resources Manager, Larry Ellis, said MSHA is still looking into the matter.

"The investigation has not been completed. I can't speak for MSHA, but I am certain they will be diligent in their efforts," Ellis said.

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

According to an August story in the Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) Sun-Sentinel, Kevin Moore, 45, has been hounded for at least eight months by legal actions instituted by Anne Victoria Moore, who claims — incorrectly, according to police — that he is the Kevin Moore who was once married to her. She perseveres even though various government agencies have informed her that the man she is harassing is 11 years older than, six inches shorter than, and facially dissimilar to, her ex-husband. First, she placed a claim on the wrong Moore's house, then one on his bank account, and, in the latest action, she filed charges against him for failure to pay child support.

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL SPIRIT

— A July dispatch by the German news service Deutsche Presse Agentur reported on Beijing's trendy "oxygen bars," where young professionals can unwind at the end of a hard day in an increasingly polluted city by inhaling fresh air at about $6 an hour. Special herbs and spices, some of which have medicinal qualities, can be mixed in at a higher price.

— Evelyn Daniels, 27, was rearrested in June in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where she had been under house arrest on several drug charges. According to police, her latest crime occurred when she was short on cash: She sold the monitoring device the court had installed to keep tabs on her while she was under restriction — for $5, to a pawnshop.

— According to a September Los Angeles Times article, the Park Bench Cafe in Huntington Beach, Calif., recently became perhaps the first restaurant in America to offer its diners a menu for their dogs. Items for the couple dozen dogs that might accompany their owners to dine on a good day range from a plate of five dog biscuits (50 cents) to a ground turkey patty (called a Wrangler Roundup, priced at $2.25). Dogs are leashed, sit on the floor, and eat from disposable plates.

— A September Wall Street Journal story about emerging roadside attractions in China featured Mr. Qian's Flying Dragon World Fun City, a reptile show-place whose finale is a woman lying buried up to her neck in writhing snakes, "everything aslither except her frozen smile." After the show, a female worker told the reporter (as she sipped a glass of snake-juice wine), "You have Disney, but we have snakes."

Popperri

by Scott Perry

Is this a great country, or what?

Where else but America can you spend a cool autumn evening watching two tribes of native Americans warring over a horsehide sphere and then kick back while two supposedly grown men stand in front of the cameras calling each other names?

Yep, the World Series is back and it is only appropriate that the contest is between the Indians and the Braves, although there are no true native Americans on either roster.

It might be a little more fitting if the Series pitted the Cowboys against the Indians, but Dallas is a football town despite the fact that Deion Sanders can hit with a bat as well as he can with his head.

Maybe next year we can do what they do in those beer commercials and set up a game of full contact baseball, with Troy Aikman and Greg Maddux in a pitchers' duel while Emmitt Smith and Albert Belle go head on in the base paths.

At the breaks, we can slip in some commercial appeal with the various candidates for state offices in Kentucky arguing over whether their campaigns "taste great" or are "less filling."

The closer we get to election day, the more interesting this statewide campaign gets, as the candidates shift their attention away from the issues and get down to some real, cutting edge electioneering, which more closely resembles a good mud wrestling match than a boring old adult-like debate of practical concerns.

Yuck. You want your thoughts provoked, go watch PBS or something.

We'd rather see our prospective leaders insulting one another's intelligence, calling names and slinging the occasional spitball.

Come to think of it, baseball may be just a sideshow to politics, the real American pastime.

Nice guys finish last.
Throw at his head!

Celebrant Singers coming to P'burg

The Celebrant Singers

Jon Stemkoski's (STEM-KAH-SKI'S) Celebrant Singers and Orchestra, an internationally-known Christian singing group, will present a community-wide service of contemporary music on Friday, November 3 at 7:00 pm at The First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg. The concert is sponsored by the Floyd County Ministerial Association.

Concert attendees will be treated to contemporary Christian music, praise and worship, and personal witness and ministry. Featuring ten singers and a ten-piece orchestra, Celebrant Singers will inspire and bless as they share the Gospel of Jesus Christ through a musical celebration. Across the globe... from the U.S. to Canada... from all parts of Europe... to the far reaches of India and the Orient... Celebrants have taken the Gospel message... and now they're coming to Prestonsburg before they continue their international tour in South America.

Celebrant Singers is not just another music group. "Our objective is to share the love of Christ," said Celebrant Singers founder Jon Stemkoski. "It's a powerful ministry! It will touch your heart. Bring your family and friends. You won't want to miss this unforgettable evening with the Celebrant Singers! It's an experience you won't soon forget!"

Celebrant Singers is ecumenical in nature. There are seven teams of committed, dedicated, and talented young adults, representing 38 states, six Canadian provinces and seven foreign nations.

During 1995, the Celebrant singers have presented over 1,400 concerts in some 17 nations, six Canadian provinces and all 50 states. Celebrant Singers have sung to more than 4 million people in live concerts and countless others via broadcast media. Nations of ministry include India, Iran, Egypt, East and West Africa, Latin America, Europe (including the former Eastern Bloc), Cuba, Haiti, The People's Republic of China, and most recently Vietnam, where they presented their first-ever outreach to Saigon (Ho Chi Minh City). Additionally, Celebrants were the first to hold public religious meetings in communist-run Cuba in over 30 years. They were also one of the first Christian groups of its kind to conduct outreaches into the previously-closed nations of Bulgaria and Albania.

The Celebrant Singers is an outreach of Stone Ministries Inc., a nonprofit Christian corporation ministering to the needs of people through music and the arts. They have released nine recordings to date, including their first all-Spanish recording.

The Floyd County Ministerial Association is an ecumenical association of area churches and Christian ministries, committed to spreading the word of God through ecumenical cooperation, prayer, and community outreach. The association sponsors an annual Thanksgiving service, a popular noon-time service every day during Holy Week, baccalaureate services for area high school seniors, and assistance for the poor, especially for those needing an emergency night's lodging. The association meets once a month at a different location each time. More information can be obtained by contacting the association president Rev. Ray Snider at Community United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg 886-8087.

A rude awakening

Elevator music does not disturb me. Neither does being placed on hold while instrumental music is piped to me via telephone lines.

However, a pet peeve of mine is the newly automated computerized voice that gives me options on which button to push whenever I make a call. It drives me nuts.

In a rush to contact a person who worked in a federal office, I called the correct long-distance directory number and reached a computerized voice.

"Good afternoon. Thank you for calling. If you are calling from a touch-tone phone press one now. If you are calling from a rotary phone you are out of luck. If you are inquiring about monthly invoices please press two after the message. If you need customer service press three after the message. If you are inquiring about a serial number press four. If you are trying to locate a person but do not know their extension number please press the first letter of their last name after the message. If you know their extension number please enter it now. If you are over twenty-five press four after the message. If you are over thirty-five press five after the message. If you are a citizen of this state press six after the message. If you know the extension number you may enter it after the message..."

In desperation, and an effort to save time, I pressed the first letter of the last name of the person I was trying to find.

"Thank you for pressing the letters G, H and I. If you are trying to locate a person whose last name initial begins with G, press one now. If you are trying to locate a person whose last name initial begins with H, press two now. If you are trying to locate a person whose last name initial begins with one, press three now. If you are trying to locate a person who does not have a last name..."

I quickly pressed one and waited.
"We're sorry. We cannot locate a person with that initial. If you would like to press another number do so at this time, or you may stay on the line and an operator will assist you as soon as possible."

"This was the first sensible bit of information I had gotten since I dialed the number.

"Finally, I would be talking to a real person, or at least with someone who would be answering direct questions.

"Thank you for holding. All our operators are presently busy. Please stay on the line for the next available operator."

At this point, the elevator music came into play. And, quite frankly, it was refreshing. Barry Manilow and Johnny Mathis's mellow voices crooning in through the receiver were soothing diversions to the chaos of the telephone demons.

"Operator. May I help you?"

The human voice startled me so that I didn't answer quickly enough before the line went dead.

"Wait!" I cried. "Don't hang up!" But it was too late I had to start the entire process all over again.

"...If you are calling from a touch-tone phone... If you have ever been arrested and convicted of a felony... If you are under five feet tall..."

If this is progress, let's hope that 911 doesn't implement it anytime soon.

ALL MY CHILDREN: Tom brought Jamal to the hearing where Alec tried to reach out to his son, but was rebuffed. Dr. Kinder told Gloria Erica was developing a dependency on pain killers. Anita suggested Kelsey give her baby to Edmund and Maria. Derek learned of Taylor's "miscarriage." Taylor was later dismissed from the police department because of unexplained absences. Louis Greco was released from prison. Noah proposed to Julia. Scott told Laura he's embarrassed by Stuart. Wait To See: Liza has "plans" that could upset Dixie.

ANOTHER WORLD: Although she first froze in terror when Gregory began to choke, Courtney saved his life. Vicky unwittingly saved Grant from Carl's murderous clutches. Gabe learned Grant's tires don't match the tracks at the crime scene. Paulina accepted Joe's proposal. Vicky had a terrible dream about Justine. She later asked Gabe for a copy of Justine's autopsy report. Rachel and Carl left for Los Angeles. Vicky was grateful to Nick for staying with Stephen. Wait To See: Vicky makes a disturbing discovery.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Scott hoped to get Rosanna to let him manage her money. Lily unwittingly freed Orlena and Smythe after Damian locked them in the nursery. Feeling Barbara betrayed her, Dani told Nikki about Barbara and Evans' affair. Lucinda and Mark came to Fairwinds where Orlena forced Lily and Damian to insist everything was fine. Orlena later locked Lily and Damian in the basement where they plotted a way to get Luke back. After a tiff with Mike, Mark said he's leaving town. Meanwhile, Carly announced she's leaving town after Rosanna and Mike wed. Wait To See: Lily makes a difficult choice.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Sly told Sam Jessica represented dollar bills for him. Eric tried to persuade Taylor to come to his party by bringing her a spectacular gown from his collection. Jasmine altered the stolen Forrester designs. Sly tried to make love to Jessica, who ran off. Eric welcomed Lauren to Los Angeles. Sally had Saul create a gorgeous gown for her to wear when she crashed Ridge's party. Eric got word the company limo had arrived and he announced he was about to introduce both the star attraction of his collection, and the star attraction of his life. Wait To See: Eric wakes up to a surprise.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Worried that Father Francis might betray his plan to kill himself and frame John for murder, Tony injected the priest with poison. Hope panicked while doing a strip tease at the Blue Moon. An angry Jude St. Clair agreed to let her go because he had a new dancer who turned out to be Sarah. Later, Hope confided to Jack she's on an undercover assignment. Sami hoped to move in with Austin during the remainder of her pregnancy, but arrived to find him with Carrie. Stunned when Victor asked Caroline to care for baby Phillip, Vivian reminded Ivan she could deal with Caroline as she did with Kate. Wait To See: Tony's plan seems unstoppable.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: During therapy with Kevin, Tony asked Bobbie pointed questions about Alan. Lucky accused Luke of giving up on his family. Later, Lucky agreed to help Emily find a relative, and the two set out on their adventure. Lucy walked out on Kevin after the "exorcism" he and Mac devised backfired. Stone tried to build a bridge between Sonny and Brenda. Wait To See: Luke and Laura face a new crisis.

GUIDING LIGHT: Brent (as Marian) reacted with anger at Lucy's attitude with Alan-Michael. Abigail insisted on having Rick treat her, which prompted Reva to tell Alan she may have to return to Springfield after all. Josh arrived just as Annie was about to respond to Rick's suggestion that they be more than friends. Alan-Michael blew up at Alexandra when she confided her plan to get Alan's shares from Amanda. While Marah was calling Annie "Mommy," Reva remembered her children, Shayne and Marah. Roger was angry at Dinah for calling off his search for his son, Hart. Wait To See: Annie and Josh face another surprise.

LOVING: (On November 13, the series will be called THE CITY. Summaries will resume when the serial murder story line winds down.)

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Viki heard a new alter's voice - Victor Lord. Tina saw Blair and David kissing, unaware that it was part of Blair's ploy to get the diary for Dorian. Susannah, Joey, and Kelly saved Viki from suicide. Marty and Patrick learned their abductors were Secret Service officers who wanted to use them as bait to smoke out the "Men of 21." Unwilling to sleep with David, Blair got Dorian to switch places with her. Later, both Tina and Todd watched David and Blair together. Nora warned Andy to stay away from Antonio. Manzo ordered Javier to keep Linda from telling what she knows about the gun. Wait To See: Clint reacts to Viki's revelation.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Sharon worried that Nick had changed his mind about marrying her. Victor was upset when Matt offered to exchange "the truth" for money. Paul told Victor he's sure Matt was shot by his own gun. Danny was relieved when Phyllis said the restraining order was a mistake. Ashley, unaware that Rick was back posing as Blade, told Blade she felt she had two different men in her bed. Amy sketched Matt's picture. Her counselors wondered if this were her rapist. Olivia told Dru of her plans to conceive another baby by Christmas. Keesha, meanwhile, canceled plans with Nathan in order to see Malcolm again. Wait To See: Hope has an ultimatum for Victor.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You haven't really been tending to much on the home front, so make an effort to correct this early in the week. Although you feel swamped, tackling one task at a time has you all caught up by week's end.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Although you've been looking forward to a special time with a loved one, plans will have to be unexpectedly canceled and put off for another time. The weekend is favored for getting off by yourself in quiet solitude.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A friend disappoints you early in the week by renegeing on a previous commitment. A co-worker is likely to disagree with you about a work project, but you can overcome this with cool logic. Tend to finances this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Make an effort to rein in your scattered energies, particularly where work is concerned. Going off in a million different directions leads to little or no productivity. Creatively, you're on a roll this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You feel caught up in a veritable labyrinth of details on the job early in the week. However, don't let this get you down. By week's end, you are able to successfully extricate yourself from this mess.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This isn't a good time to indulge in socializing. Instead, pay more attention to family members and domestic concerns. Later in the week, a new opportunity arises on the job. You score a major coup in business.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You're just not connecting with your significant other early in the week. Relax and let this person come to you. Something which has concerned you on the work front reaches a happy conclusion before you end the week.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You'll feel as though you want to scream with frustration early in the week when you're constantly interrupted by pesky phone calls. However, one of those calls leads to an exciting new opportunity. Take full advantage of it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're faced with a touchy decision as the week begins. Feel free to seek help from a trusted friend or family member. Later in the week, a family matter requires your attention, particularly if it concerns a child.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could allow yourself to be thrown off track when you experience a delay on the work front. This shouldn't cause you to slacken up. Instead, apply yourself even more energetically than usual.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) The accent this week is on creativity and romance. However, make sure your feet are firmly planted on the ground since much needs to be tended to on the work front. Extra expenditures could arise when socializing.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You need to weed through the conflicting information you're receiving before you can finally gain a clear perspective at work. Some could be faced with a minor medical emergency later in the week. Catch up on your rest this weekend.

TUNING IN

As this is being written, O.J. Simpson may have run into some roadblocks on his way to capitalizing on his status as a media star. Apparently, various pay-per-view agreements that were in formation have been held back—some even cancelled—because of a growing backlash against Simpson from various groups. A recent march in defense of battered women was made up of both men and women and included members of the African-American community who have refused to turn O.J. into a cultural demigod. O.J. was expected to draw much of his viewership from this community.

O.J., who made more money last year from deals set up by his many lawyers than he made for several prior years, still expects to take in at least $10 million dollars from television appearances and with appearances before largely African-American groups. Curiously, about 20 years ago, O.J. appeared on "Saturday Night Live" as a character who decides he no longer wants to be black. Many people close to Simpson said that was closer to truth than comedy.

FOR HALLOWEEN: Watch "Here Come the Munsters" with Robert Morse and Veronica Hamel as Herman and Lily, airing on FOX October 31. Most of the FOX shows will have "haunting" "tails" to wag from October 25 to 31.

HOME TIPS

HANDY SALAD BAR—I always buy fresh veggies from the salad bar at my local grocery store because they are clean, chopped and ready to eat. You can put as much of a vegetable as you want into individual containers, so if you live by yourself, you won't be stuck with a whole bag of stuff going bad.

I also save the plastic containers sometimes because if I open a can of beans and can't eat them all, presto, I have a storage container ready and waiting! Lisa O., Roanoke, Va.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING—With Christmas just around the corner, I'd like to share with your readers a helpful tip for finding that certain store in the mall. Every year in the fall, I stop at the mall information booths in each mall that I frequent and pick up a directory of the locations of the stores.

There have been many times when I just wanted to run in and grab an item, only to find that I had parked at the wrong end of the mall or, worse yet, to find out that the store I wanted was in a different mall entirely!

I hope this tip saves time and headaches in the busy season ahead. Viola H., Mass.

Weird (Continued from B 5)

— In July, Margie Ostrower of Scarsdale, N.Y., formed Time of the Month Inc., and introduced her own blend of chocolate and "salty-crunchy things" that she plans to market to women as a menstrual snack, PMS Crunch.

— In May, the New York Times Magazine featured a line of fashions created, modeled and sold by inmates of the Oregon prison system. The jeans, shirts and jackets of the Prison Blues label are carried in about 400 stores in the United States, and almost all income goes to the prisoner workers (with deductions for taxes, room, board and victim compensation).

WELL-PUT

Basement Murders

by Ashley DeRossett

Ashley Lynn DeRossett won the Young Author's County Competition in her age level in the illustrated division. She is a fourth grade student in Donna Collins' room at Adams Middle School and is the daughter of Helen DeRossett McAninch and Robert McAninch of Prestonsburg.

November 13, 1969. A small town in Kentucky.

"Happy Birthday to you! Happy Birthday to you! Happy Birthday to you! Happy Birthday to you!"

All the guests smiled at Little Eddie (as he was called by everyone) as he blew out the six little blue candles on his white birthday cake.

"When is Mommy and Daddy coming in off the plane? Huh, Aunt Nancy?" Little Eddie asked as he pulled on Aunt Nancy's long, red dress.

"Little Eddie, Aunt Nancy said irritated. "Can't you ever shut up? All you do is talk, talk, talk. They'll be here soon. Now, go back to the table and finish your birthday cake." She pointed with her long, knife-like finger. It shook because she was always nervous. After Aunt Nancy's husband died, she always worried that she was going to be next.

Little Eddie's parents never showed up at his birthday party. For several days, no one knew where their plane was. It was lost. A search was launched. Finally, after agonizing days, the wreckage of the plane was found in the ocean. It had crashed on its return flight from Paris, France, Little Eddie's heart was broken.

Aunt Nancy was cruel in the way she told him. "They are dead. The plane crashed, and it's all your fault."

Little Eddie was sent to live with mean Aunt Nancy with the knife-fingers. She worked in a library. She was mean not only to Little Eddie, but also to just about every one else. Aunt Nancy's last name was Cluster. Everyone had to call her Mrs. Cluster. Even Little Eddie was soon made to call her Mrs. Cluster.

Little Eddie's life was terrible. He had to run home after school to clean the house before Aunt Nancy got home. If he wasn't finished by the time she arrived, she would beat him. Little Eddie never had time for friends or for play.

As soon as he was old enough to push a broom, Aunt Nancy made him start work at the library as a janitor. For thirty years, Little Eddie Willis worked as a janitor for his cruel Aunt Nancy Cluster. One afternoon at the library she shouted at Eddie.

"Mr. Willis! Why aren't you working?" "Uh, I'm sorry. I'm..." Mr. Willis began. "Listen to me Mister Willis!" Aunt

Nancy yelled. "You are only a lowly janitor—a lazy, lowly janitor. If you don't pick up the pace and get some work done you will be an unemployed, lowly, lazy janitor!"

Mr. Willis stood with his head down, gazing at the freshly waxed floor. Mr. Willis mumbled something just as Aunt Nancy turned to leave. "One of these days! I'll tell her off and then I'll..."

"What was that, Mr. Willis?" Aunt Nancy Croaked.

"Uh, nothing, Ma'am," Eddie answered. "That's what I thought," she replied. Aunt Nancy stomped away. In a moment she was gone.

The next morning Eddie Willis' alarm clock did not go off and he was late for work. He tried to sneak in, but Nancy Cluster caught him.

"Mr. Willis! Report to my office!" he heard her croaking voice on the intercom. Eddie pushed open the office door and slinked over to her desk where he set in a straight-backed chair facing his aunt. Every time "Little Eddie" got into trouble he was made to sit in a chair facing her while she shouted and insulted him. Aunt Nancy always reminded him of how she was forced to take care of him. She told him how she wished he were on the plane that crashed in the ocean instead of her sister (Eddie's mother). Now that he was "Mr. Willis" he still felt like the scared little boy sitting in a hard, wooden chair in the long, dark dining room in Aunt Nancy's house. Eddie had moved out of Aunt Nancy's house years ago. He now lived in his parent's home. He had few memories of the house. It was so empty. There was plenty of furniture, but the house was void of love and a sense of family. These are the things that make a plain old house a home. Eddie's house was just a house—run down and dirty old house.

Mrs. Cluster was standing with her back to Eddie, looking out of the window. She often did this when she was very angry. She turned slowly around, and for a moment, Eddie thought he saw sharp teeth, like a pirana, showing behind her lips.

"Mr. Willis," she began in a low voice. "I want a reason why you have been late five times this month."

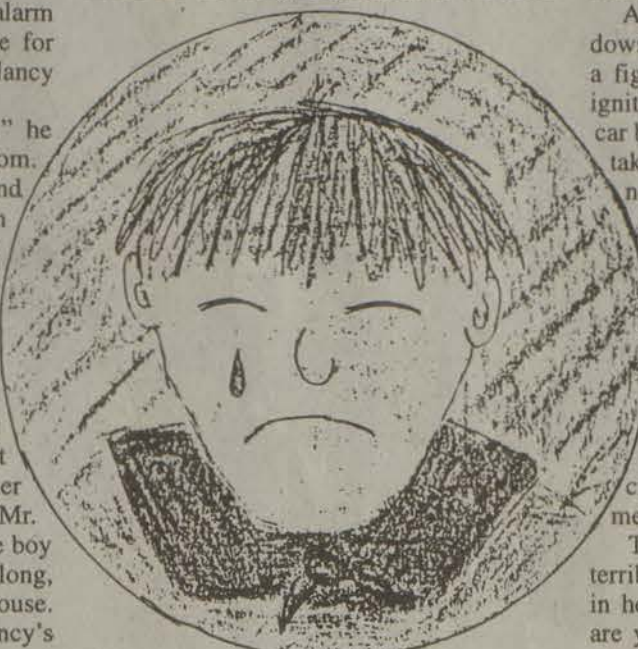

Eddie didn't say anything. He just dropped his eyes to the floor.

"Well, aren't you going to say anything? Are you going to sit there and stare at the floor? I want an answer NOW!"

Eddie clenched his teeth and tightened his fists. He could not take her anymore. Eddie stood and walked to the door. As he opened the door, Aunt Nancy shouted louder than he ever remembered she could. "WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU ARE GOING!" And then in a soft, almost sweet, voice she said, "I'm not finished with you yet."

Eddie turned around and gave her such a look that she could sense anger, hate, sadness, and pain all at once. His look caused shivers in Aunt Nancy's spine. She glared back at him in fear and in hatred. No one, especially Little Eddie Willis, had ever looked at her with anything but respect and a healthy dose of fear. Suddenly, Eddie turned and walked out. He slammed the door so hard that he broke the glass pane and Aunt Nancy's trance. She did not see Eddie the next day, or the next, or the next.

For several days Aunt Nancy was too preoccupied with the evening news to worry about where her nephew had disappeared to. There were numerous missing persons reported—too many for a small, Kentucky village. People were getting scared. Today, one week after Eddie stormed out, no one came to the library—not even the employees. Aunt Nancy called each employee, ready to give them a verbal whipping. Strangely, not a single employee was home. She made herself a note to call the employment agency to schedule interviews for new workers. Aunt Nancy wrote dismissals for each of her four employees, and one for Eddie. She decided that she would deliver Eddie's "pink slip" personally.

Aunt Nancy drove to the end of town and then down a dusty, dirty road. Eddie lived alone at the end of the road in the big, old house where her sister and brother-in-law had once lived. Eddie had moved into his parent's home after he graduated from high school. He wanted to go to college, but Aunt Nancy said she would not pay. She said that she had fed him and put clothes on him, but that was all he would get from her. Once Eddie asked her if his parents had any insurance money from the plane crash. She said they did not, but still, Eddie wondered. He knew that Aunt Nancy was as capable of lying as she was capable of being cruel.

"How can he live in this filthy dump?" Aunt Nancy asked herself as she pulled into the overgrown drive. The grass had not been mowed in weeks and weeds had taken over the flower gardens. Where there was paint on the house it had turned a dull, colorless gray. In most places there was no paint and the siding was exposed like bones bleaching in the desert.

Aunt Nancy looked up at the dirty windows above the porch and thought she saw a figure in the gloom. She turned off the ignition of the car. She left the keys in the car because she did not expect that it would take long to fire her good-for-nothing nephew. Aunt Nancy did not knock, but simply opened the door and walked into Eddie's home.

A gray dust covered every inch of space in the house. As she walked, the dust mushroomed up from the floor like storm clouds. "Mr. Willis!" she shouted. He did not answer, but she heard a noise behind the basement door. She started gingerly down the creaking stairs toward the dark basement.

The first thing that she noticed was the terrible smell. "Smells like something died in here," she thought. "Mr. Willis! Where are you!" she shouted. Still, there was no answer.

When Aunt Nancy was about halfway down the stairs she had to cover her mouth and nose with her hands. The smell was terrible and overwhelming. "My God, Eddie! What have you been doing down here?" she called into the darkness. Something brushed her hair and she waved her hand to knock it away. At first she thought that a cobweb had dropped into her hair, but it was the pull-string for a lightbulb. Aunt Nancy groped for the string and finally grabbed it. Aunt Nancy groped for the string and finally grabbed it. She pulled the light on. She was greeted with a gruesome sight.

Aunt Nancy's scream sent small, furry creatures, rats, or mice, or spiders, scurrying for the safety of a dark corner. There was blood, BLOOD, everywhere—the stairs, the floor, the walls. She looked down at her brown leather shoes. Aunt Nancy was standing in a puddle of blood. When she looked back up she noticed what she thought was a pile of dirty laundry and junk. She stepped closer and discovered the junk-pile was really a body-pile! Aunt Nancy recognized the faces of her employees in the jumble of corpses. There were also faces that she did not recognize. They could have been the faces of the other missing people in town.

Aunt Nancy stood, frozen in horror, staring at the faces which seemed to be moving toward her. She heard a pitiful moan. An armless body turned its head toward her as if asking for help. The eyes were more frightened than any human being could be frightened and still be alive.

Aunt Nancy turned on her heel and half-ran, half-stumbled back up the basement stairs. At the top of the stairs she fell head-long toward the door covering the front of her dress with the blood of Eddie's victims. She let out a little cry as she tried to stand up.

"So, Mrs. Cluster. I see you have met my guests," Eddie stood over her. His face was crossed with an evil grin.

Aunt Nancy cringed away from him. She did not have the breath to scream. She tried to stand, to run, but she did not have the strength to get to her feet. Sometimes fear is like that. Either you have incredible strength, or you are helplessly weak. Unfortunately for Aunt Nancy, she was stricken with the weak kind of fear.

Eddie stood over her with a bloody axe. He raised it above his head making ready to bring it crashing down on Aunt Nancy. Somehow, she found the strength to push herself backward away from the deadly blow. But, in pushing back away from the axe, she began to tumble down the stairs. When she stopped, she was looking up into the face of a dead man she had never seen before. The dark outline of Eddie loomed over her. She began to scream, but there was only the dead to hear her.

The Next Day "Good morning, Mr. Willis," the small, white-haired library patron said as she entered the door.

"Good morning, Mrs. Brownstone," Eddie replied with a smile.

"I like coming to the library now that your grouchy aunty doesn't work here anymore," Mrs. Brownstone said with a girlish giggle.

"She is enjoying her retirement," Eddie said. "She just up and fired every one of her employees and left. I guess they left town too. There aren't many jobs around here, you know."

"You can say that again, Mr. Willis," Mrs. Brownstone agreed.

Eddie went back to shoving books on the shelf. He was in the fiction section. He liked books. Eddie liked books about murder mysteries best of all.

"Maybe someday," he thought. "I'll write a murder mystery of my own!" He smiled wickedly as he pushed the last book in place.

Halloween trick-or-treating can be fun and safe with some safety tips

Trick or treat; all safety rules I can repeat; please check my bag before I eat! That's not exactly the way the children's Halloween rhyme goes, but it wouldn't be a bad idea if it did.

While children are thinking about delicious treats, fun and games, Patty Sewell, coordinator of the Kentucky SAFE KIDS Coalition in the Department for Health Services, said that potentially, Halloween night can be one of the most dangerous nights of the year for young children.

"The number one safety rule for children who will be trick-or-treating is adult supervision. Young children should always be accompanied by an adult. Older children often want to go without adults. If that's the case, they should go in small groups for protection," said Sewell.

"In addition, adults should outfit children with safety conscious clothing, as well as review important safety tips with them to prevent possible injuries," she said.

Injuries sustained during Halloween are often caused by falls, burns, accidents involving motor vehicles, and treats collected during trick-or-treating.

To make Halloween full of treats and not tricks for children, the Kentucky SAFE KIDS Coalition recommends the following safety tips. These general rules can prevent a frightful experience.

- * Tell children not to eat treats before they are checked at home for tampering. Check each piece for puncture holes in wrappers or candy that has been unwrapped and repackaged. Adults should try to notice treats given at each home in case there is a question later. Suspect items should be reported to the police. Discard homemade treats. Fruit should be inspected closely for punctures and cut open before a child eats it. Some communities provide free x-rays of trick-or-treat items.
- * Teach your child his or her phone number.
- * Instruct older children to travel only in familiar areas and along an established route.
- * Set a time for older children to return home.
- * Instruct children never to enter a home or an apartment building unless accompanied by their supervising adult.

- * Restrict their trick-or-treating visits to homes with porch or outside lights illuminated.

- * Adults should remove breakable items or obstacles such as tools, ladders and children's toys from their lawns, steps and porches.

To prevent falls:

- * Apply face paint or cosmetics directly to the face. A loose-fitting mask can obstruct a child's vision. If a mask is worn, make sure it fits securely and the eye holes are large enough for good vision.
- * Give trick-or-treaters flashlights.
- * Make costumes short enough to avoid tripping.
- * Secure hats so they will not slip over a child's eyes.
- * Dress children in shoes that fit. Adult shoes used for costumes are not safe for trick-or-treating.
- * Allow children to carry only flexible knives, swords or other props. Anything they carry could injure them if they fall.
- * Teach children to stay on sidewalks instead of cutting across yards. Lawn ornaments and clotheslines are hidden hazards in the dark.

Pedestrian injuries can occur while trick-or-treating as children are scurrying to visit as many houses as possible and may forget basic rules. Darting out into the street accounts for 50 to 70 percent of all pedestrian injuries among children ages 5 to 9, Sewell said.

To avoid injuries involving motor vehicles, follow these suggestions:

- * Decorate costumes, bags and sacks with reflective tape.
- * Use Halloween costumes that are light or bright enough to make them more visible at night.
- * Tell children to walk, not run, while trick-or-treating.
- * Remind children to stop at corners, look left and right before crossing the street, and never dart from between parked cars.

Motorists should be particularly alert on trick-or-treat night and follow these safety tips:

- * Slow down in residential neighborhoods.
- * Watch for children walking in the street or on medians and curbs.

- * Obey all traffic signs and signals.
- * Enter and exit driveways and alleyways carefully.
- * Teach children to enter and exit the car on the curb side, away from traffic.

When choosing a costume remember these helpful tips to prevent burns:

- * Look for flame resistant labels on costumes, masks, beards and wigs.
- * Use fire resistant material when making homemade costumes.
- * Avoid costumes made out of flimsy material and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts because they are more likely to come in contact with an exposed flame.

Sewell said some parents may want to consider some safe alternatives to door-to-door trick-or-treating. Parents can throw a Halloween party, take children only to homes where they know the residents or go to malls where the stores have trick-or-treating.

Halloween's spooky beginnings

Lions and tigers and bears, oh my. Lions and tigers and bears, oh my... Is it the Wizard of Oz revisited? Heck no. You're not in Kansas, Dorothy. It's October 31 and children of all ages are hitting the streets, showing their wares and looking for a little candy.

Is this extortion? Do we really want to submit to the terror of the Night of Devils? And what kind of trick can a six-year-old really do to you? Is there reason to be afraid?

Halloween is a holiday that has fans ranging from two-year-olds whose entire life revolves around candy to elderly people who still love to dress up as their favorite party favor. But, although it may seem that plastic costume masks, trick-or-treating and masquerade parties are the foundations of Halloween, this tradition has its roots planted deep in our history. Originally a religious occasion centuries before the birth of Christ, it started as a Celtic festival of the dead in Ireland, where Druid priests burned fires on the hillsides while Celtic tribesmen prayed for the sun not to disappear during the winter. These activities marked the start of the winter and signified new year's day to the Celtic people. In honor of the Celtic Lord of the Dead, Samhain, people celebrated and held feasts. The Celtic people believed that the dead rose from their graves and that ancestral ghosts and demons were set free to harm crops and trouble homes on the eve of Samhain.

Death was the central theme in a variety of ceremonies that are the forerunners to Halloween. In Wales, family members marked white stones and threw them into the hot ashes of a bonfire before going to sleep. If a stone turned up missing the next morning, it meant that someone was going to die in the next year. Some Celts put cats in wicker baskets and burned them alive in sacrificial fires, while in old Brittany, families put out food for the dead souls to eat when they rose from their graves.

The connection between witches and Halloween started at these festivals, since witchcraft was believed in and practiced. In some countries, powerful spells needed some unusual substances to be potent. Spell ingredients included: the entrails of cocks sacrificed to demons; worms; herbs; dead men's nails; and the hair, brains and teeth of boys who were buried unbaptized. All these were sometimes mixed together in a vessel made of the skull of a decapitated thief.

Because of their association with witches, black cats were also typecast as sinister. They were believed to be witches familiars and constant companions. Due to that relationship, belief in the magic of the "black-cat bone" was widespread.

Pagan festivals honoring the Lord of the Dead continued until Christianity spread across the Roman empire. This marked the transformation of Halloween into a Christian rite. Church leaders recognized the importance of the event to the "common people" and incorporated it into the church. The Festival of Samhain was changed to the Feasts of All Saints and Souls and the church encouraged prayers to remember the dead instead of sacrifices. During these medieval times, All Saints Day was known as All Hallows, thus making the night before All Hallows Eve, which led to present day Halloween.

Another practice introduced by Christianity was baking "soul cakes" (little pastries), and offering them for blessings. The soul cakes were used instead of food and wine to appease the spirits. Town poor prayed for people's departed family members in exchange for soul cakes. This was the church's method of ensuring the poor had food to eat during the festival.

Trick-or-treating grew from the soul cake custom, as it evolved to young men and boys going from home to home singing "souling songs" and asking for money, food and ale instead of cakes.

This practice, combined with the church encouraging villagers to masquerade as Christian saints, set the stage for today's Halloween traditions.

Things certainly have changed in the centuries since Halloween originated. But although Dorothy may be ringing your doorbell this Halloween, remember that in days gone by, it wasn't lions, tigers and bears, it was witches, Druid priests and Celtic tribesmen walking the street in the dead of the night, looking for souls.

Seeing a Ghost

by Chrissy Hall

Chrissy Hall won the Illustrated Category in her division in the county-wide Young Author's Competition, sponsored by the Floyd County Board of Education. She is at Adams Middle School and is the daughter of Jackie Hurt and Clarence Hale.

all went into the house and told ghost stories and drank hot chocolate. We were sitting telling our ghost stories, one right after another, then all at once to our surprise we saw something fly across the room. Crissy said, "Brandon is that some more of your friends trying to scare us?"

Brandon said, "No it's not my friends." So we continued to tell stories and didn't see or hear anything for about an hour.

Sometime later everything started to happen. The lights went on and off, doors opened and closed, and pans were rattling. We all were scared that we started screaming and hugging each other as Brandon yelled for mom. Crissy said "Brandon, you forgot that mom went to the store. She isn't here." Brandon and one of his friends tried to get out the door to go to a neighbors house for some help but to our amazement the door was stuck and we couldn't get it opened. We all ran through the house trying to open every door and window but we couldn't get out. "Oh, no, what are we going to do? I wish mom was here, she would know what to do," Crissy screamed.

Then Brandon said "Something is at the door." We all hid behind the couch as the door flew open; it was mom.

We all went to her crying and telling her what happened. She said it had to be a prank but we explained how it started out that way but changed into something real. Mom said "Let's look around and see what is going on here." She opened the cabinet door and dishes fell out on her. She said "When I find out who did this they will be in deep trouble." Next mom went into the bedroom, looked under the bed and found strings that were working the doors. As she started to the closet we heard some giggling and whispering. Mom opened the door and there it was. My sister and her husband tickled over their pranks that they couldn't talk for giggling. They thought it was funny but mom told them they shouldn't have done this to us. She told them they wouldn't think it was so funny if it happened to them. Mom made them clean up all the mess. Mom said "Come on kids, let's go in the living room. Listen children we will play a trick on them in a few minutes." After thinking of a good plan,

Mom got some fake blood, she put it on the wall and let it drip on the bar. Shortly after that my sister came in to the kitchen, saw the blood and said, "I know what you're doing, you're trying to scare me and you're not doing it." About that time someone went past the window and they were headless. He had blood all over him which made my sister start to scream. She was so scared she couldn't move.

She never did find out who it was but it did scare her. Maybe it wasn't a ghost then again maybe it was.

Mom said, "I'll never tell."

Hauntingly Simple Disguises

(NAPS)—For little tricksters who love to play pretend, Halloween is the best day of the year. To help get a jump on holiday dress-up and ensure all have a ghostly good time, the craft designers at Velcro USA, makers of Velcro® brand fasteners, have come up with these fabulous tips.

- Make sure costumes are made of flame-resistant or fire-retardant material. Keep them short and fall-proof. Decorate them with light reflectors so kids are more visible as it gets dark. Just attach Velcro® brand Sticky-Back® coins to light reflective materials and to costumes. Press coins together to attach.

- Colorful, paint-on faces eliminate the need for masks, which can obstruct breathing and vision. Apply nontoxic, water-based make-up paints with cotton swabs or a soft paintbrush and use your imagination. To create a perky kitty, use simple brush strokes to define feline features. For a crowning touch, affix Velcro® Sticky-Back® coins to black felt ears and attach to a black headband. For a clown face, paint on triangles, circles and semi-circles in bright colors; add a soft cap and attach colored pom poms with Velcro® coins.

- Make dressing up frightfully easy. Use Velcro® brand hook and loop fasteners for costume closures down front openings, at necklines and waistlines.

The Adventures of Richard

by Justin Lawson

One day Richard's dad was working on a tree house. They ran out of nails. Richard's dad told him to go to the store. He did not want to go, but he went anyway.

When he got half way to the store, a storm came and he ran into a scary, creepy library. The door creaked open and an old woman came out of the door.

The woman said, "Which book do you want?" "I don't want a book," said Richard. "Then what do you want?" Richard said, "I ran in here to get out of the rain."

"I will tell you what, if you take this library card I will let you pick any book in the library. Really I will!" Richard took the card and walked through the dark, quiet aisles.

He found the book, Junior Swamp Monster. When he opened it up a swamp monster jumped out and grabbed him. It pulled him into the book.

"What happened to me?" said Richard. He looked at himself and said, "I'm a cartoon! But, how did I become a cartoon?" A swamp monster hopped out of a bush and chased Richard until he fell and bumped his head.

Wake up, we're closing," said Miss Stone, the librarian. Richard hopped up on his feet and ran to the hardware store to get some nails. When he got back home he gave the nails to his dad.

"Where have you been all this time?" asked Richard's dad. "It's a long story," said Richard.

Justin Lawson won the county-wide Young Authors' competition in the category of Computer Graphics. The event is sponsored by the Floyd County Board of Education. He is the son of Randy Lawson and Sandra Lawson. He is a student at Betsy Layne Elementary School.

The Bloody Dagger

by Daniel Knight

One day I was walking home from school when I decided to take a short cut past a haunted house.

When I was walking by the house the gates were open so I decided to go in. I looked around for awhile. I finally went to the door, it was unlocked so I went in. When I went in I heard a eerie sound so I ran out of the house to my house.

The next day I came back to the house. I went in again. When I went in I saw a stairwell so I went up it. When I got to the top of the stairwell I saw a tall white corpse walking toward me.

I fainted then I fell down the stairwell. When I woke-up, I ran out of the house but the gates were shut tight. I noticed that I was in a cemetery it wasn't a cemetery before but was a yard. I rammed the gate, it didn't open.

The white corpse put his hand on my shoulder then he turned me around and stabbed me in the heart.

The next day was Halloween. My closed eyes slowly opened. I pulled the jagged edged dagger out of my chest. I noticed I was a walking corpse.

The Big Black Cat

by Sheena Renae Slone

On Halloween night it was all one fright. All at once it began. I saw one big bright light. It was a big fright. It scared me at first. But when I got in the light I saw it wasn't, a big fright. Because it was only a big black cat and I will take it home. Tonight if I can catch it.
