Records, records, who has the records?

Some documents missing, others don't exist on nearly a half-million dollars of work at county landfill

by Scott Perry
Times Editor and
Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An insinuation by the former director of Floyd County's solid waste program that certain records sought by state investigators must have been lost after those records were seized has drawn a pointed reaction from the man who seized them.

In a published report Tuesday concerning a state probe into the county's solid waste program and an apparent no-bid contract for construction work at the Garth landfill, current solid waste program director Mike Vance expressed frustration in his search for invoices relating to that construction project.

Bizzack Inc. was paid a reported $470,000 for that work, but there apparently are no records indicating the company got the contract through the process of competitive bidding, which is required by law. There also are no invoices in solid waste agency files relating to payments made by the agency to Bizzack or any documentation of how Bizzack was employed, what the company was hired to do or how much work was completed.

Former solid waste agency executive director Robert McAninch told the Courier Journal this week that the late Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo awarded the contract to Bizzack but the solid waste commission approved it. He said Tuesday, though, that no actual written contract existed.

McAninch suggested in the Courier Journal article that the invoices sought by state investigators and current solid waste director Mike Vance must have been lost when the solid waste agency's records were seized in early 1994.

But the person responsible for seizing the records, Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson, said Tuesday that McAninch's insinuation was misdirected.

"If (the invoices) were there when the records were seized, they would still be there," Thompson said. "Upon seizure, those records must not have been in there."

McAninch said Tuesday he was not suggesting that anyone, particularly Sheriff Thompson, had tampered with records after they were seized but he maintained that they were "complete" when they were confiscated. He also said he had copies of some of the missing invoices in his personal files and that he had notified state investigators of that fact. "I do not believe any records were destroyed intentionally," he said, adding that some may

Special jury ready to report

A special grand jury investigating allegations of government corruption in Floyd County is expected to issue a report next week.

Larry Fentress, a special prosecutor with the state attorney general's office, said Monday that the grand jury "is nearing the end of the term" and that a report is expected before November 30. Fentress did not say what day the grand jury is expected to make its report.

The special grand jury's term is set to end November 30.

The grand jury was seated in May after a Floyd County Grand Jury asked the attorney general to investigate allegations of government corruption; missing 911 funds; vote fraud related to the 1993 May primary; mismanagement in the solid waste program; and monies reported missing from the sheriff's office.

The special panel was originally impaneled for a 90-day term, but Fentress asked Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill in August for an additional 90 days in the term.

Cops nab robber in jewelry store heist

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

A Martin County man was arrested Tuesday afternoon after allegedly stealing three rings from a local jewelry store, a Prestonsburg police official said.

James S. Maynard, 25, of DeBord in Martin County, apparently stole three rings, valued at $8,190, Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. from Hopson's Jewelry, Prestonsburg police sergeant Mike Ormerod said.

According to a store clerk, Maynard asked to see a 1/2 carat round solitaire and a one carat solitaire, he then asked to see a different cut in a 1/2 carat, Ormerod said.

The clerk said Maynard took all three rings while she was holding the third cut and walked out of the store, Ormerod said.

Maynard ran south on Arnold Avenue and at some point cut over to First Avenue, Ormerod added.

"I was at the top of the riverbank by the Grant's residence," Ormerod said. "I saw him down near the edge of the river. When I called for him to stop he went over the riverbank into the water."

"At that time, myself and patrolman Mike Conn went to the edge of the water to look for him, but he was partially concealed," Ormerod said.

Police did not enter the water and Maynard apparently came out of the river on his own.

When asked by one of the officers how the water felt, Maynard answered, "cold, man." He offered no resistance.

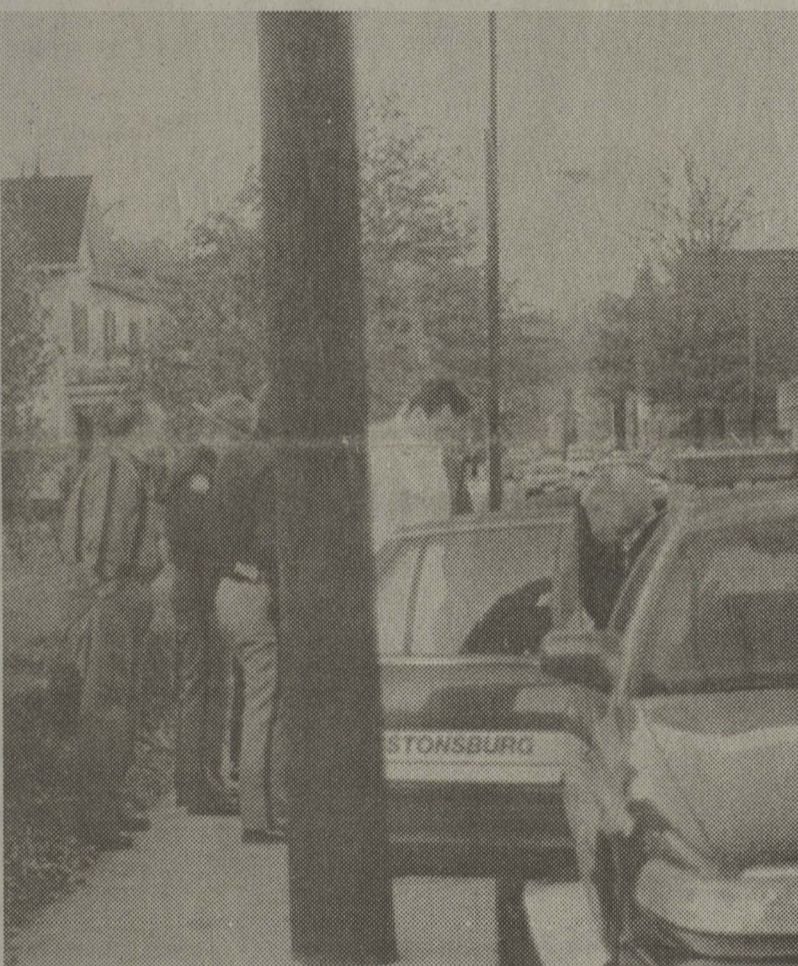

Neighborhood residents assisted police in their search, advising officers of the direction the suspect fled.

Maynard was arrested and charged with theft by unlawful taking, over $300.

The suspect apparently had no weapon.

Prestonsburg assistant police chief Roy Roberts, Floyd County Sheriff's deputies and Kentucky State Police responded to the scene.

Maynard is scheduled to be arraigned today, Wednesday.

Search committee trims field in half

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The number of applicants for Floyd County's new school superintendent has been cut in half after the district's screening committee met Monday night.

Committee members met in closed session for approximately an hour before announcing that the number of applicants had been cut to 11 from 21.

Kentucky School Board Association consultant Ed Ball, who the board hired to assist the committee in the selection process, said Monday that committee members will complete background checks on specific applicants. A report will be given at the committee's next meeting scheduled for November 30.

Ball said that the committee will narrow the list to five candidates at the November 30 meeting.

Committee members include: Phyllis Honshell, the school board representative; Gary Hopkins and Connie Gearheart, teacher representatives; Gene Maldonado, parent representative; and Paul Tackett, the administrative representative.

Gunshot kills city man, circumstances probed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Police are investigating the Saturday night shooting death of a Floyd County man at Bull Creek.

Willie Robert Hatfield Jr., 41, of Prestonsburg, was pronounced dead on arrival at Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin Saturday evening. Hatfield was shot one time in the neck at the home of Curtis Newsome at the Right Fork of Bull Creek.

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson ordered an autopsy and Hatfield's body was sent to Frankfort.

Nelson said Tuesday that the death is still under investigation and the case remains open. Kentucky State Police detective Joel Newsome and Floyd County Sheriff's detective Steve Toy are investigating.

Hatfield's body was found on the couch in Newsome's home and witnesses told officials that Hatfield shot himself because he was depressed over family matters.

P & B Ambulance medical personnel administered aide to Hatfield and transported him to Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Nelson said that it could take "three or four days" to determine the circumstances surrounding Hatfield's death.

Ambulance company can operate while city tax dispute is debated

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

An ongoing feud between the city of Prestonsburg and a local ambulance service got put on hold Saturday morning when Circuit Judge John D. Caudill granted a temporary injunction against the city.

The injunction required the city to provide a business license to P&B Ambulance Service, despite the fact that P&B has not paid city occupational taxes.

P&B Ambulance Service filed for the temporary injunction when they were informed by the state Department for Health Services that their state license would be revoked on November 30 if proof of a city license was not sent to that office.

Phillip Damron, attorney for P&B, said Saturday the ambulance service had tried on several occasions to obtain a city license, beginning in February, but the city refused to issue a license until the occupational tax is paid.

"We are entitled to purchase a business license while we are in this dispute with the city," Damron said. "Once a license is lost it is hard to get back."

In a rebuttal Saturday, city attorney Paul P. Burchett said P&B would like to be allowed to pay $160 for a city license, but for five years the company has made no attempt to pay the occupation tax or the payroll tax, which is required by a city ordinance.

"This is not a dispute over an audit or an amount," Burchett said. "P&B never paid anything, never attempted to pay anything."

By the quarterly employee reports provided by the ambulance service to the city, P&B paid $1.9 million in wages over the last five years, which would generate approximately $30,000 in payroll and occupational taxes, Burchett said.

"It would be sweet to get by with $160, when they really owe $30,000, plus interest and penalties," Burchett said.

Damron said the city ordinance does not adequately provide a way to determine what P&B owes and that for 23 years P&B was never required to buy a city license.

"Only since the city wanted to go into the ambulance service have they made these demands," Damron said.

The city and P&B have had conflicts in the past over the city's attempt to obtain a certificate of

Man cited for accosting Betsy Layne principal

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man was arrested Friday after an altercation Thursday with the principal of Betsy Layne Elementary.

Mack Lewis II, 35, of Betsy Layne, pleaded not guilty Monday in Floyd District Court to charges of harassment and terroristic threatening. Lewis is accused of spitting into principal Karen Allen's face and threatening to "stomp" a female teacher during an incident at the school.

Floyd District Judge James Allen ordered Lewis to undergo testing to determine if he has any communicable diseases, including HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

"This is a very serious matter," Judge Allen told Lewis. "You are to have no contact with the victim and you are not to go around that school anytime for any reason. If you violate that order, I'll consider putting you in jail for 60 days."

Hueysville store gets license suspended over Sunday sales

The alcoholic beverage license of a Hueysville retailer was suspended for ten days this month after he pleaded guilty to selling alcoholic beverages on Sunday.

On November 10, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board suspended the retail beer license of Colin Cornett at The Hitching Post in Hueysville after Cornett sent a letter to the board and entered a plea of guilty.

Cornett and the Hitching Post were cited by the alcoholic beverage board with violating state law when an employee at the retail beer establishment sold alcoholic beverages to patrons on Sunday, July 30, around 2:25 that morning.

The board scheduled a hearing for November 8, but Cornett entered a guilty plea on November 2.

In lieu of the suspension, Cornett has the option of paying a fine of $25 per day for ten days or a total of $250.

McDowell man is accused of stalking

A 41-year-old McDowell man was placed under a $20,000 cash bond Monday after being charged Friday with first degree stalking.

Anthony Salisbury is accused of stalking Emmaretta Noble on Thursday after a protective order was issued against him.

A not guilty plea was entered for Salisbury during his arraignment in Floyd District Court and a public defender was appointed to

Turkey Days Off

Most county and city offices will be closed Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving holiday, but trash collection will continue throughout the county.

Rumpke and the Prestonsburg Sanitation Department will continue trash collection on their regular scheduled routes during the holiday.

Government offices in the courthouse, the courthouse annex, and the Prestonsburg City Hall will be closed November 23 and 24 for the holiday, and the Floyd County Health Department will also close both days.

The Floyd County Times office will close Thursday and Friday, but the weekend edition of the Times will be in the newsracks Friday.

Social Security employees go back to work

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Federal workers went back to work Monday morning, ending the country's longest shutdown of the federal government. But it may not stay open long.

"I have spoken to most of the employees and they are anxious to return to work," Jim Kelly, district director of Social Security said Friday. "At this time, we don't know if the recall is permanent or if another furlough may come about in the future. But for now we are back at our post."

Kelly sent about 30 employees home last Tuesday afternoon when the furlough started.

Those employed by the federal government returned to their jobs Monday and can stay at least until December 15. Workers will get paid for last week's furlough, something some agency directors had questioned.

"The general view is that it (back pay) is not going to happen," Kelly said last Tuesday.

But workers will get paid and will receive checks in the future, at least until the middle of next month, the next deadline the Congress and the president have to agree on a spending plan.

The furlough ended Sunday when Clinton and Congress agreed on a stopgap spending bill that both sides said was a victory. The bill allows Congress to balance the budget in seven years — something Clinton was opposed to — but also protects Medicare, Medicaid, education, agriculture, and defense programs — programs Republicans wanted to cut or dissolve. The plan also calls for ways to stimulate economic growth, a stipulation set by Clinton, and funds government operations at 75 percent of the fiscal 1995 levels.

If Congress and the president don't agree on a budget by December 15, the government could shut down again.

Clinton vetoed two stopgap spending bills before the furlough started.

Even before the measure was approved this weekend, Clinton signed bills to allow Social Security, Medicare, and Veterans benefits employees to go back to work.

The Social Security office, the largest employer of federal personnel in Floyd County, had been staffed with only management personnel since November 14.

"The days have been busy and long," Kelly said. "But we still have everything on schedule."

He said everyone who is supposed to get a social security or supplemental security check will get them on time, and that there was no chance of anyone losing benefits during the furlough.

"We recorded their filing requests protecting their filing dates," Kelly said.

He said low priority items, such as getting a benefit verification to someone to get a state hunting and fishing license were "put on the back burner as we had more urgent things to process."

More than 41,000 people receive about $23 million each month in the Big Sandy Social Security district.

Employees at other federal agencies also returned to work Monday, including eight employees at the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining office in Prestonsburg. The doors opened at the Mine Safety and Health Administration and the Veterans Affairs as well.

While Social Security benefits were guaranteed, there was a question if veteran's benefits would continue.

"While Social Security and Medicare benefits were not threatened because of their trust funds, veterans' benefits were at risk due to the government shutdown," Congressman Hal Rogers said.

Rogers kept his offices in Somerset, Pikeville, Hazard and Washington open during the shutdown.

Several agencies, such as the Rural Economic and Community Development agency and the Corps of Engineers weren't affected by the shutdown because budgets had already been approved by Congress and the president.

represent him.

When District Judge James Allen asked the amount of Salisbury's bond, the accused made a timid attempt to get it lowered.

"That's a little bit stiff, I thought, your honor," Salisbury said.

Judge Allen was not swayed. "This is a stiff charge and I'll leave the bond as is," the judge responded.

The judge ordered that Salisbury have no contact with Noble.

A preliminary hearing is set for November 29 at 2:30 p.m. in Floyd District Court.

Records

have been lost during the shuffle of records from one agency to another.

Thompson confiscated the agency's records in February, 1994 after a complaint was filed by Floyd County Magistrate Tommy Neil Adams, who had expressed concern that he had seen no records or financial reports from the solid waste program or the Garth landfill concerning the operation of the program during the prior 18 months.

The solid waste program had become the center of controversy in late 1993, when the county's solid waste commission voted to raise rates for garbage collection service.

Thompson said Tuesday the purpose behind seizure of the agency's records was to "protect the integrity of the records that were still there." He said there had been no audit of the program for 18 months and no reports had been made to the fiscal court on the program's financial status.

Operation of the solid waste program is one area of interest to a special grand jury, impaneled at the request of the state attorney general's office after a local grand jury asked the state to investigate alleged corruption in Floyd County.

That special grand jury has been meeting off and on over the past six months and is expected to issue a report soon. Special prosecutor Larry Fentress has declined to provide details of the state investigation or testimony presented to the grand jury.

need for an ambulance service.

The ambulance service was successful once in thwarting the city's attempt to initiate its own emergency ambulance program. The city and P&B will meet again on December 6 in Frankfort for a hearing over the city's second attempt to obtain a certificate of need.

The city is currently operating under Respond Ambulance Service's license.

The temporary injunction was granted with P&B required to obtain a $75,000 corporate surety bond before the city issues the license. The bond will be reviewed every three months by Caudill.

Turner forms new law firm

Arnold Turner Jr. announced this week the formation of a new law firm to meet what he sees as a growing need for disabled workers and others injured by accident.

Turner said, "Three phrases say it all, individual attention, competence, and absolute integrity. As I looked at how many cases are practiced today, I'm convinced many disabled workers and persons injured in auto accidents need a lawyer that gives them the time and attention their particular case needs, and often this is not happening. Every client needs an experienced lawyer to individually work their case. Finally, every case should be handled with integrity and honesty, with the clients receiving straight answers to every question and concern." Turner added, "Myself and one new partner, Drewie Muncy, each have over 23 years of experience in these kinds of cases. My other partner, Eric Hall, served four years as a judge of workers' compensation cases in Kentucky. Both are my good friends and together we have a unique combination of experience, integrity and commitment to get the job done."

Turner added, "Younger members of the firm are crucial for vitality, and they include my son, Brent Turner, Drewie's daughter, Lynette Muncy, and partner, Craig Davis. Obviously, the senior partners will work closely with the younger and the clients will be better served. Each of us has set a common goal, to demonstrate that the practice of law can be an honorable profession, rather than just a business."

The law firm has offices in Prestonsburg and Inez.

Thanks, a lot

by Scott Perry

Boy, things sure have been depressing lately...

The bottom has fallen out of the coal industry's job bucket.

The federal government has run out of money, but not out of steam.

We've got a presidential election on the horizon but nobody worth voting for in the hunt.

Cartoonist Bill Watterson is pulling the plug on our comic-page favorite Calvin and Hobbes.

And, it's been 32 years, today, since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and we still don't know for sure who did it.

Man, don't know how we make it from one day to the next.

But, darn it, it's Thanksgiving and we've got to cheer up.

Got to be something to be thankful for.

Well, we do have a new governor, from Eastern Kentucky.

That's something.

This cold snap is killing off all those nasty old fleas that have been torturing our dog.

That's something.

We don't live anywhere near places called Bosnia, Chechnya, Libya, Syria, Saudi Arabia or New York City.

That's something.

We don't personally know anyone weird enough to qualify as a guest on one of those wacky daytime TV talk shows.

That may be a lie, but it's something.

We don't have an appendix that might rupture some day.

That's something.

The Cats are about to tip off the 1995-96 college basketball season.

That's something, too.

Guess if you try hard enough, anyone can find something to be thankful for at this time of thanksgiving.

Try it yourself.

You'll feel a lot better.

Of course if all efforts fail, there's one good standby that anyone can use at this particular time of the year.

Just be thankful that you're not a turkey.

Know-Nothing attitude is attacked by Perry

Editor:

In a recent letter to the Times, Mr. Lloyd Goble has attacked the May House Project, calling it dumb, stupid, foolish and asinine. "To me the project to restore the May House ranks as the most asinine in more than half a century of careful observation."

As president of the Friends of the Samuel May House, I welcome this opportunity to respond to Mr. Goble's charges.

In the May Cemetery, located on the ridge above the May House, can be found the grave of John Preston Martin (1811-1862), a member of the U.S. House of Representatives from 1845 to 1847. According to the Kentucky Encyclopedia, Martin was "popular in the Kentucky Mountains as an outspoken opponent of Know-Nothingism."

Martin County, established in 1870, was named in his honor. Although the encyclopedia devotes thirty lines to him, the section of the cemetery where his grave is located is so overgrown with weeds and briars that it is well-nigh impossible to visit his grave and pay him homage.

Lloyd Goble is an able advocate of the Know-Nothing philosophy. Like the Know-Nothings of the 1850s, he takes a dim view of foreigners, outsiders and Johnny-Come-Latelys like myself, especially when we are foolish enough to tell Floyd County how to run its affairs. He says, for example, that he respects the local people involved in the project, but honestly feels that they have been "misled or misdirected." In other words, the project was dreamed up by an outsider, and now, like the Pied Piper of the fable, he is leading a gullible and unsuspecting group of local citizens down the road to ruin.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The dream that the house might one day be restored is an old one, and predates my arrival in Prestonsburg by more than forty years. Local citizens were discussing the idea back in 1952, the year that Josephine Fields published her excellent essay on the house in the Floyd County Times. Gerald Griffin published an article about the house in the Louisville Courier in 1958. It was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1979, and during the 1980s, a group of local citizens led by Chalmer Frazier tried to raise money to restore the house.

When I arrived on the scene in 1989, people were still talking about the project. When E. B. May, Monica Henderson and I founded the Friends of the Samuel May House in 1992, we were simply breathing new life into a project that had never died.

Mr. Goble's Know-Nothing philosophy is also evident in his remarks about the history of the house. According to him, "The man who built the house joined an armed insurrection against these United States." Sorry, Lloyd, but you've got it wrong. It wasn't Colonel Jack May who built the house, but his father, Samuel May. Samuel died in 1851, ten years before the start of your "armed insurrection." This isn't the only error that Mr. Goble commits. He also tells us that the house was built by slave labor, notwithstanding the fact that we have absolutely no documentary evidence that this was the case.

Mr. Goble also reveals his Know-Nothingism in his remarks about the funding of the project. "What is there about this house or its builder that warrants a $500,000 restoration fee? That much money would run a water line to the head of our longest hollow; thus, we could make better use of the money." As this statement shows, Goble mistakenly believes that the money which has been devoted to the house could be diverted to other purposes.

On the contrary, the grant money which we have been awarded by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has been earmarked for the enhancement of Federal Highways. If we don't use our grant to restore the May House and thereby enhance the Federal Highway running through Floyd County, it will revert to the Federal Highway Trust Fund and be used to enhance other highways in other regions.

Mr. Goble has nothing but contempt for the proposition that the May House might someday become a major tourist attraction. He asks: "When was the last time you drove to, say, Georgia, to see the restored house of some obscure Civil War brevet officer?"

This statement betrays Mr. Goble's ignorance of current tourist trends. In January of this year, the Travelometer, the official publication of the American Travel Industry, published a survey showing that 49 percent of all Americans traveling in the fall of 1995 planned to visit a historic site. Another recent study showed that the single greatest motivator for travel in the 1990s is "understanding culture." Fifty percent of travelers interviewed said that "cultural, historical, or archaeological treasures" are important factors in planning a trip. Moreover, of all historic sites, Civil War sites are the most popular.

Goble's most serious charge is that the May House Museum is an extravagance, and that Floyd County is too poor to afford it. "So the vaunted May House project seems a bit ostentatious for us; rather like we are wasting our scarce money on a ballerina dress when we desperately need a winter coat." On the other hand, man does not live by bread alone.

Like Mr. Goble, I'm not a big fan of the ballet, but it does seem to me that every community, no matter how poor, deserves to have its own local history museum. I was raised in Adams County, Nebraska—not a rich county, by any means—and I well remember the joy I felt every time my parents took me to the House of Yesterday. A large, handsome, two-story brick building located in the town's most beautiful park, the House of Yesterday was a fabulous place filled with natural history exhibits, Civil War memorabilia, genuine Indian teepees, and priceless heirlooms donated by the town's leading families. No doubt it was those visits which awakened my love of history, and local history in particular.

Mr. Goble says that he wishes that the people involved in the project would drop what they're doing and get involved in the effort to improve local schools. If he would take off his Know-Nothing blinders, he might be able to see that the May House Project is first and foremost an educational project. What we are in the process of creating, among other things, is a superb classroom for the teaching of local history. When the May House becomes a living history museum, school children from all over the region will be able to visit it and learn about their heritage.

More could be said about Mr. Goble's know-nothing attitude, but this should be sufficient for the time being. By the way, I would like to invite Mr. Goble to attend the next meeting of the Friends of the Samuel May House. Watch the Community Calendar for the time and place.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

A lot of emphasis has been applied during the past few weeks on the results of a variety of polls taken to assess the public's opinion of KERA, an acronym for the Kentucky Education Reform Act.

Most of the polls have been fairly close in the questions put to the public, asking folks if they like it, hate it and how much.

The results have been so varied, with one poll suggesting more people like KERA than dislike it and another contending more people dislike it than like it, that none should be given too much weight.

Besides, if you took a poll today, six years after KERA was initiated, and asked people to list five key elements of the reform act, we doubt a majority could achieve a perfect score...including many in the legislature that enacted the law.

The reform act is too complex, too comprehensive to assess by simple polls and we're wasting our time taking them and trying to measure their worth.

We're better served by assessing KERA's individual elements and their impacts on students.

Public opinion has a tendency to change with the wind.

What we really need to know about KERA is which parts do and which parts don't change things for the better.

One final point in the great KERA debate.

Thomas Edison didn't invent the light bulb on the first try.

Thanks to his persistence toward a specific goal, we stepped out of the darkness and into the light.

If we follow his example with education reform and focus our energies on a common goal, our kids will be brighter and so will their futures.

As a person who was (a.) once a teenager and (b.) now the parent of one, we get a bit choked up at this goofy effort to stop kids from smoking.

Hey, they're going about this thing all wrong.

If these folks actually think they're going to curtail teen smoking by eliminating advertising and limiting the accessibility to cigarettes, we've got two words for them.

Fat chance.

We're not saying we should ignore the problem, but the more often we tell them not to smoke, the more likely they are to try it.

Why? Because that's what kids do. That's what kids have always done.

Now that the federal government is getting in on the don't-you-do-it act, you can bet the problem will get worse before it gets better.

Why? Because the only thing worse than a parent telling a kid what is right and what is wrong is the federal government telling them what is right and what is wrong.

Just ask anyone who was a kid in the 1960s.

Thanks to the miracles of modern technology, the Beatles have released a brand new song, the group's first release since they broke up in 1970.

The miracle transcends technology, too, because the tune includes the voice of John Lennon, who was murdered in 1980.

And they say there is a health care crisis in this country.

RECC gets $2.6 million loan

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Officials of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation learned Monday it has received a $2.6 million loan to keep up with growth in the system.

The cooperative, headquartered in Paintsville, serves members in Breathitt, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Magoffin, Martin Morgan, and Lawrence counties.

"The expansion will be throughout our service territory and will include Floyd County," Dan Hitchcock, a spokesman from the member services department of Big Sandy RECC, said.

The loan, issued by the Rural Utilities Service (RUS), formerly the Rural Electric Association, will be used to construct 36 miles of new distribution lines in the Big Sandy RECC system and to service an additional 1,020 consumers.

Hitchcock said the expansion is in preparation of anticipated growth.

"We're expecting economic development to take off," he said. "The new U.S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg has opened up a lot and the four-laning of the Mountain Parkway should add to that."

He said the construction of I-66 through the southern and eastern portion of Kentucky will mean even more customers for the co-op.

"We serve the areas of Garrett and Knott County," Hitchcock said. "This is the way cooperatives do expansion."

A spokesman from RUS in Washington agreed.

"The idea is once a borrower, always a borrower," Jim McKenna, senior public affairs specialist for RUS, said. "RUS was established to finance rural electrification."

There are about 860 distribution cooperatives that receive funds from RUS and 58 generation and transmission cooperatives, according to McKenna.

He said Big Sandy had received about $12.5 million in loans from RUS with about $11.6 million of that being paid out by the end of last year. Those totals do not include the new loan or any disbursements made this year. "We're probably talking about four or five loans over an extended period of time," McKenna said.

Some of the substation areas in the Big Sandy cooperative service area where work is being done or has recently been completed, according to McKenna's records, include Salt Like, Middle Creek, Thelma, Volga, and Martin County.

He said about $1.3 million of the work has already been done and RUS will reimburse Big Sandy RECC from the new loan. The loan is payable over 35 years at a variable interest rate not to exceed seven percent.

Hitchcock said the main goal of the new distribution lines is to provide "reliable electricity anytime of the day customers want it so they are not experiencing substantial power outages." He said the cooperative is adding between 75 and 100 new customers each month.

"We have a good growth in homes, especially mobile homes and we're expecting future growth to be a good mix of residential, commercial and industrial developments," Hitchcock said.

Wayland goes to the dogs to control noise

by Aissa Goodwill
Staff Writer

An ordinance that prohibits noise and disturbing the peace, including barking dogs, was amended and adopted during Wayland City Council Monday evening.

The ordinance states barking dogs, explosions and loud music in cars and on personal property would be prohibited with a $50 to $500 fine possible for each violation.

Before council members would approve the second reading, the ordinance was amended to read that the consistent nuisance of a barking dog was prohibited.

The change was brought about after council members received several complaints about the ordinance.

"Dogs and taxes, that's all we talk about," council member Tommy Robinson said. "I'm tired of it."

Mayor Gene Mullins said the council has got to do something. "Hell, I'm tired of it too," Mullins said. "But the dogs are getting in the garbage and keeping the neighbors up."

Robinson said cats are the problem too. "We need to do something for these people, but you can't shoot somebody's dog," he added.

Something needs to be done about the noise and aggravation, Mullins said. "We live too close together and we've got to respect each other's rights," he said.

Council members also discussed enforcing a dog license ordinance, which would not begin until the new year.

In other business, council members began planning for the annual Christmas event, which is tentatively scheduled for Christmas Eve.

Mullins and all council members were present.

Altercation —

Lewis was placed under a $20,000 or 10 percent cash bond and a public defender was appointed to represent him. A pre-trial conference is set for January 9.

Allen said Monday that the altercation took place in the school gym and it apparently stemmed from a minor discipline problem with one of Lewis' children.

Lewis had called the school last year, Allen said, and made similar threats against another female teacher.

"This kind of behavior is not typical of Betsy Layne parents," Allen said. "(Most) of the parents are wonderful, caring people. I'll use this incident to help educate the children that this type of behavior is not normal or acceptable in society."

Lewis, who has two children enrolled at the school, was apparently at the gym because his other child had basketball practice, Allen said.

"When I went in there to see what he needed, this all started," Allen said. "He was using vulgar language and threatened to stomp one of my female teachers. When I told him to leave, he walked up, spit in my face and left."

Allen said that Lewis was threatening teacher Sherry Whitt.

Kentucky State Police trooper Steve Slone arrested Lewis Friday after Allen swore out complaints against him.

Prater Elementary students visited by UK's science and health outreach

Students at Prater Elementary School were visited by the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center's Outreach Center for Science and Health Career Opportunities traveling classroom at 10 a.m. Monday, November 20. Don Frazier, Ph.D., UK professor of physiology and biomedical engineering and director of the Outreach Center uses the van as a creative learning station to take science presentations to schools throughout the state.

The Outreach Center for Science and Health Career Opportunities at UK provides a central site of coordination for over 20 of the Medical Center's community education services. The van is part of the Outreach Center's mission to increase science literacy throughout the state. "UK's science outreach programs focus on increasing the pool of students going into science and math related careers. But more importantly, the program's aim is to create a knowledgeable public who can make informed decision about science related problems. This van allows us to reach more students," says Frazier. The mobile classroom allows the UK Medical Center faculty to take creative and interesting science presentations to schools throughout the state. In the first year, over 100 school groups participated in the Outreach Center programs.

The purchase of the $28,000 van is part of a four-year, half million dollar grant from the National Institutes of Health's General Medical Sciences Council for the Outreach Center's Bridges Program, a program designed to attract minority students to university biomedical science programs and nurture their progress.

Patton's inauguration planned

Governor-elect Paul Patton and Lt. Governor-elect Steve Henry recently announced the formation of the Inaugural Committee for Patton-Henry and chose as Honorary Chair of the 1995 Inauguration, Lois Combs Weinberg, daughter of former Governor Bert T. Combs. Named as executive director of the inauguration was Donna Moloney of the Cabinet for Economic Development.

120 counties were mailed last Friday. Due to the large response anticipated, each county will be limited to two units—which can be a band, float or other marching group. For more information on the parade, call Barbara Atwood at 502/564-4930.

The 1995 Inaugural Committee held its first planning session recently for the Tuesday, December 12, inaugural activities in Frankfort. On hand to greet the inaugural committee's 50 key coordinators was the next First Lady of Kentucky, Judi Patton.

Due to limited parking, free bus shuttles will run from the Cabinet for Human Resources Parking lot and Juniper Hills lot to Downtown Frankfort and the Capitol all day from 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. on December 12. Free bus shuttles will also depart from the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center/Capital Plaza area to the Capitol from 7 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. for all three of the inaugural balls.

The meeting was conducted by Moloney and Inaugural Coordinator Bob Stewart of the Tourism Cabinet. Moloney and Stewart briefed the group on the preliminary inaugural schedule and logistics for the 55th inauguration of a Kentucky Governor.

Activities, all free and open to the public, include:

An Inaugural Parade in Downtown Frankfort and Capital Avenue at 10 a.m.; swearing-in ceremony on the Capitol Steps at 2; reception at 4 p.m. in the Old Capitol and hosted by Frankfort and Franklin County; grand march and ball in the Capitol Rotunda at 8; an inaugural ball in the tent adjacent to the Capitol and an inaugural ball at the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center, both begin at 9 p.m. (The balls are Black Tie Optional)

The parade coordinator, Dick Bell of Frankfort, said letters of invitation for each of Kentucky's

Representative Stumbo talks with PCC students

Representative Gregory D. Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, got a first-hand look at trends in higher education when he toured the PCC campus during a recent visit.

Stumbo, majority floor leader in the state House of Representatives, visited PCC last month for a meeting with Dr. Deborah L. Floyd, PCC president. Dr. Floyd updated Stumbo on recent developments at the college and the college's current needs in relation to its Master Plan.

Following their meeting, Dr. Floyd took Stumbo on a tour of the campus that included stops at the Mobile Dental Hygiene Program, the Wellness Center, the Student Health Clinic, the new Distance Learning Classroom and the Telemedicine Center. During the tour, Stumbo asked a number of questions about each program and its facilities.

Stumbo spoke briefly with students in a dental hygiene class he visited. As a leader of the General Assembly, he told the students, he must stay abreast of current issues in higher education so that he can deal knowledgeably with bills on the subject that he must guide through the legislature in Frankfort. He said touring college campuses and speaking with educators and students is a good way to maintain his awareness of the issues that affect higher education in the state and the needs of the state's colleges and universities.

During his visits to the Distance Learning Classroom and Telemedicine Center, Stumbo saw interactive video equipment which allows faculty, students and others on the PCC campus to interact with faculty, students and others at any of various similar facilities throughout Kentucky, across the United States and around the world.

"We're certainly thankful for all of the advanced telecommunications and distance learning equipment we have acquired. It's the wave of the future in higher education," Dr. Floyd said.

Technology campaign

Dan Perry (left), assistant manager of CableVision, with Kim Reynolds, Adams Middle School media specialist; Aleene Brown, Prestonsburg High School media specialist; and Harold Burchell, director of technology for Floyd County Schools, worked together to bring technology to area schools. (photo by Alisa Goodwill)

CableVision raises money for technology

Demonstrating its continued commitment to enhancing the education of area students through the use of technology, CableVision recently announced the results of its You + Cable = Money for our Schools campaign which raised more than $1,800 with the community to bring technology to schools.

Throughout September, under its You + Cable = Money for our Schools campaign, for each new installation and service upgrade it performed, CableVision donated one-half of the customer's first month service fee to its educational technology fund. Money from the fund will be used to update technology equipment in the schools.

According to CableVision General Manager Dan Perry, "With hundreds of commercial-free educational programming each month, access to on-line and interactive services and much more, cable may well be the most important educational resource available to teachers today. We have established this program to help area students benefit from this wealth of information—be it cable programming, on-line services, interactive field trips or even distance learning. Best of all, these applications are available today—not sometime in the future."

"At CableVision, we have long believed that there is a natural connection between cable and education," said Mr. Perry. "With this new educational technology program, we are taking that partnership one step further—toward the future."

The cable system serves 3,200 customers throughout Prestonsburg and surrounding area.

Include nursing home visits in holiday plans

While making plans to visit family and friends during the holidays, don't forget to stop by the nursing home. Also remember to pay a visit to older relatives living alone.

"It's important to provide holiday cheer for older Kentuckians, too," said Gary Hammonds of the state's Department for Social Services (DSS). "It's even more important to watch out for their welfare."

When you visit, Hammonds recommends you take more than good wishes and a gift. Take a good look around. Look for any signs of conditions that may be unsafe, unhealthy, or simply uncomfortable for residents.

As long-term care ombudsman for DSS's division of aging services, Hammonds is an advocate for nursing home residents. His office works to resolve residents' complaints, answer their questions, provide information to their relatives, and help nursing home staff members understand residents' rights.

"Though most nursing homes, and their residents, are clean and well cared for, there are exceptions," Hammonds said, "and this office wants to be aware of any exception, whether it's a temporary or on-going problem."

Each of the state's 15 Area Development Districts has a district ombudsman responsible for being aware of local nursing home conditions, and the Cabinet for Human Resources' division of licensing and regulations inspects each nursing home at least once a year.

"But with 275 nursing homes in the state, we also depend on caring friends and relatives to help us assure the 30,000 residents have the safe, comfortable environment they deserve," Hammonds said.

When visiting a nursing home or any other residence of an older person, Hammonds advises paying particular attention to the following:

* General cleanliness of the facility, furnishings and bed linens.

* Room temperature—the elderly may require a warmer than average temperature to be comfortable.

* If your friend or relative is confined to bed, water and an emergency light or call bell should be within easy reach.

* If your bedridden friend or relative is unable to turn over, make sure someone is turning him or her every couple of hours to prevent bed sores.

* Ask about doctor visits. Nursing home residents who don't have their own doctor (who may visit at any time), must be seen by the nursing home's physician at least once every 60 days.

* Note if the nursing home staff is friendly and caring and treats residents with respect.

* Ask questions of the staff.

If you find something that concerns you and staff does not correct the problem or explain it to your satisfaction, contact CHR's long-term care ombudsman at 1-800-372-2991.

Your elderly friend or relative living alone may also find assistance or referral at the local DSS office or senior citizens center.

Coach Webb says :

Lady Raiders need extra work

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

South Floyd's new head girls' basketball coach Henry Webb will be the first to tell you that while the Lady Raiders have shown some improvement, they are still in need of some extra work on the basketball court.

South Floyd fell hard to Morgan County this past Saturday in the Johnson Central Panorama 51-35. While the margin of 16 points looms large, the final score is misleading.

Actually, the Lady Raiders looked good in some aspects of their game. But Coach Webb said the Lady Raiders had a ways to go yet.

"We are playing hard right now," the South Floyd coach said. "This is our second scrimmage. It's early in the season yet and we still have a long ways to go. But these girls are working real hard to be a good team. They need correcting in a lot of things and we have a week and a half before our first game to make those corrections."

Morgan County jumped out to a 11-0 lead and the Lady Raiders did not get on the board until the 8:24 mark of the second half when Tiffany Compton tossed in two free throws. Compton finished the game as the Lady Raiders' leading scorer with eight points. Misty Berger added six.

Coach Webb said he feels his team is trying to think too much on the basketball court and would like them to become a reaction team.

"We need to work on reacting to what the defense gives us instead of thinking about everything too much," he said.

Poor board work is a concern for the first-year coach and he said he promises that his team will work hard to correct some things.

"We need to work hard on boxing out. Rebounding the basketball," he said. Blocking out is a very big thing in basketball. It's not stressed enough in grade school. We really need to work on it. We just haven't been doing a very good job of it."

Seeing the court well seemed to be difficult for the Lady Raiders as their passes were not sharp and at times were hesitant. But Coach Webb said he feels his team did handle the ball well.

"We handled it pretty good," he said. "But we want to move the ball a little bit more instead of dribbling it."

South Floyd made a run at Morgan County in the second half and cut the lead to 13 points with 2:17 left to play. But the Lady Cougars never folded and held on for the win.

South Floyd will open its season in tournament play when they face Pikeville in the opening round of the Pikeville Invitational Tournament on Monday, November 27. Coach Webb said he hopes playing a lot of players in the panorama will help build his bench.

"I played 17 players here," he said.

"It was a great experience for us. I wanted to get everybody some playing time. Some experience. We have a long ways to go and we realize that."

While Coach Webb was not ready to sound negative, he said he still feels this team will shape into a good ballclub.

"As the year goes along we're going to improve and have a good team," he said. "We got down 25 points and came back to cut the lead to 11 or 13 points. We had some young kids come and played really well for us. While we lost, we did have some bright spots on the floor. I'm really excited about the rest of the season."

The team played hard and never quit.

"I told them after the game in the locker room, from top to bottom they never did quit. We didn't do some things right, but we never quit," Webb said.

Betsy Layne wins Shag Campbell Tourney

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Dwight Newsome's Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats had to be basketball weary after playing seven games in eight nights. But the Bobcats performed well on the road as they captured the Shag Campbell Invitational this past Thursday night, defeating a good Allen Eagle team 62-37 in the final game.

It was the second consecutive tournament Betsy Layne won. They were named champs in the Right Beaver Classic earlier this month.

Justin Bartley led the Bobcats in scoring with 13 points in limited playing time. Shannon Williams tossed in 12 and Scott Collins added ten points.

Seth Crisp was the only double-figure scorer for Allen with 21 points. Mark Burchett added nine points and Robbie Holbrook tossed in five. Crisp lived at the free throw line, hitting 14 of 21 attempts as Betsy Layne lived up to its reputation as an aggressive ballclub.

The Bobcats took Allen out of their game plan with continuing pressure defense which took a toll on the Eagles midway of the third period.

Allen looked impressive the first half against the running Bobcats. Turnovers plagued the

Loss leaves Rebels searching for answers

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Panorama games just before the opening of the regular season are good for coaches to get a look at their teams under different surroundings other than the familiar practice floor of the local gym.

This past week the Allen Central Lady Rebels, one of the top-ranked teams in the 15th Region, played at Johnson Central in the Lady Eagles Panorama Saturday and came away with some questions that need answers after falling to Greenup County 56-42.

- Can the Lady Rebels handle the full-court pressure they are surely to see this campaign?

- Can Allen Central find the floor leadership that is needed for the upcoming season?

- How will they fill the void left by the loss of two players, Natalie Cooley and Crystal Martin?

This ballclub has got the talent and will be a good club once those questions have been addressed and the answers found. The loss of Cooley, to an injury, will be short-lived as the eighth grader is expected to return in the next two weeks. Martin just decided she didn't want to play basketball any more and left the team.

Coach Bonita Compton had to dip down into the grade school ranks and bring up some of the younger players to fill a practice team.

"It's hard to work on some things when you only have six players to come to practice," the veteran Allen Central coach said. "They can come out and give any excuse in the world for not coming to practice."

Allen Central could not handle the early pressure of Greenup County in the panorama game and fell behind 18-3 with 7:55 left to play in the first half. Shauna Moore had given Allen Central a 1-0 lead, but six turnovers helped the Lady Musketeers as they scored 14 unanswered points for a 14-1 lead.

"Their press hurt us," Coach Compton said. "It really hurt us. We missed two easy layups right off the bat."

After overcoming some early jitters, the Lady Rebels got their offense going and cut the lead to eight, 23-15, with 3:33 to play in the first half.

But the youth of the Lady Rebels showed up as mistakes and allowed Greenup County to take a 28-17 lead with 2:32 to play in the first half. Two free throws by Misty Scott cut the lead to five, 31-26 at the half.

"It's too bad that we don't have the grade schoolers in practice all the time," Compton said. "This is a prime example of these grade schoolers being denied the chance to help out on the high school team."

"Johnson Central started an eighth grader today at point guard. Their grade school season is almost over. She will be able to go in and play a full high school season."

The Allen Central coach said she feels the powers that be in Floyd County have erred in not playing a separate girls' season in grade school.

"I have three grade schoolers who can contribute to high school basketball," she said. "It's a disgrace. I think they did wrong when they didn't look at the other schools in our region and see what was going on. They're not looking at what is best for these kids. Pike, Martin and Johnson counties all played a separate schedule."

Compton's reference was to the grade school girls' season running in conjunction with the boys' schedule. It was voted on last year to play a separate girls' schedule and conclude the girls' season early before the boys' started at the grade school level.

However, a protest from teachers and principals forced the board of education to overrule on the matter.

Allen Central did not shoot well from the charity stripe and the Allen Central coach took note of it.

"Our free throw shooting was terrible," she said. "We're young yet. It was a matter of lack of concentration at the line."

Shauna Moore played well for Allen Central and Coach Compton said she feels she will make a mark this season.

"She could be one of the best offensive players in the region if we

Lady Blackcats have 'room for improvement'

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats got a taste of competition outside their own ranks for the first time this season when they took part in the Johnson Central Lady Eagles Panorama this past Saturday night.

The Lady Blackcats did a lot of things well, but according to their coach, Harold Tackett, improvement is needed in some areas.

"We're going to get better as the season goes on," he said. "We need to work on our defensive rebounding. I think it is a mental thing with the kids. They think about it, but they don't yet understand it. When the ball goes up they need to block out on the boards. But we'll be all right. We'll get better."

The Lady Blackcats faced a strong East Carter team in the day-long panorama and came away with a 55-53 win over a team that beat them soundly last season. Tackett used his bench to get players into the game and playing time under game situations.

"We have a very deep bench," the Prestonsburg coach said. "We are capable of scoring from anywhere on the floor. We do have room for improvement. But we need to go back to the gym and work on our defense more and blocking out. I had a chance to play ten players and see what they could do under game situations. Overall, I was pleased with what I saw."

Prestonsburg held a six-point lead with 1:06 left in the game, but showed a lack of patience on offense as they took some ill-advised shots in the final minutes. The lack of patience nearly allowed East Carter to get back in the game.

Free throw shooting for Prestonsburg went south as they missed three straight front ends of bonus shots in the last 48 seconds. But Tackett said he saw an improvement in the shots from the charity stripe.

"Last year we hit 38 percent from the foul line as a team," he explained. "Tonight we hit 50 percent. That's an improvement."

Tackett said his pressure defense was good, "at times."

"It was our shot selection that was good at other times," he said. "At other times, we forced our shots. I thought we rotated out well with the nine and ten players we used. April (Newsome) never really got into the offense."

The game was close throughout with the two teams playing to a 34-34 tie after the first 12 minutes. Two free throws by freshman Crystal Slone gave Prestonsburg a 34-32 lead with 39 seconds left in the first half. Andrea Kelly scored on a layup to tie the game before halftime.

Down 38-36 early in the second half, Shelly Greathouse hit a three-pointer at the 12:08 mark to give Prestonsburg a 39-38 advantage. The Lady Blackcats got a rebound basket from LaDonna Slone, a three-pointer from Layne and a short jumper by Kimi Nunnery to sent Prestonsburg out to a 48-38 lead with 7:29 to play.

Prestonsburg led by 11 points, 50-39, before East Carter mounted a comeback of its own. With 1:47 left to play, Freedom Sexton hit a three-point basket to cut the Prestonsburg lead to six, 55-49, with 1:47 to play. After Jessi Burke and Greathouse missed the front end of bonus shots, Andrea Buck scored on a layup with 31 seconds to play, for a 55-51 game. Layne stood at the charity stripe with 25 seconds to play and she missed the front end of a bonus shot. Danielle Degrief missed the chance to make it a two-point game when she misfired from the free throw line. But on the missed shot, Lauren Scott grabbed the rebound (no blocking out) and hit a six-foot jumper for a 55-53 game at the six second mark.

Layne led all scorers with 23 points, hitting two treys in the game. Greathouse finished with 11 points for the Lady Blackcats including one three-point basket. Crystal Slone, a freshman, scored six points and was a perfect four-of-four from the free throw line. Jessi Burke, who played a strong defensive game, finished with five and Kimi Nunnery added four. April Newsome, who hit the first three-pointer of the game, finished with three, as did Brandi Lawson.

"I am very pleased with the way Jessi played tonight," Tackett said. "She went in there and was intimidated by the bigger girls."

"I thought Crystal Slone played a very good game for us. She is so easy to coach. She wants to play basketball. Amber (Leslie) made some silly mistakes, but she will get better. We had four freshmen out there at one time and they played well."

"Crystal (Layne) came ready to play. She is focused and ready. We have good chemistry on this team and the kids are excited and ready to play. We won't worry about the fouls because we have a long bench and we'll gamble some on defense."

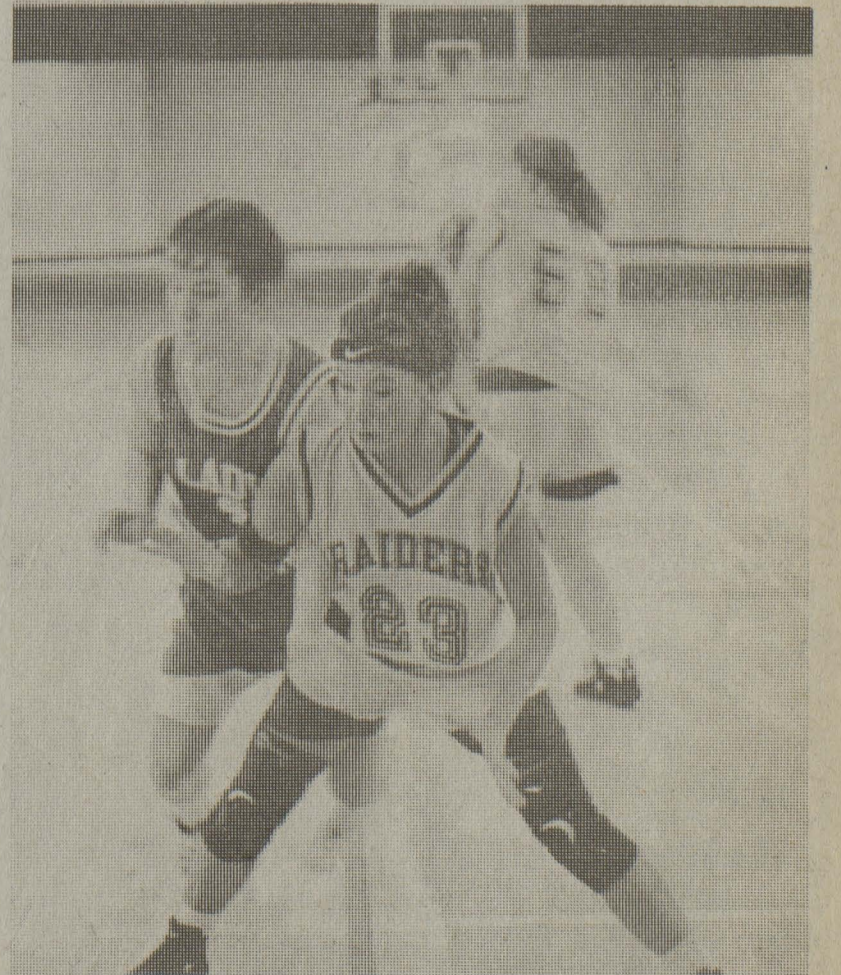

Tackett said his philosophy in coaching is not to tell the girls to slow the ball down, as in the closing

Martin captures B-team tournament

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach John Martin's Martin B-team did it the hard way, but won the Maytown B-team Invitational basketball tournament last weekend by defeating Betsy Layne in the finals of the double elimination tournament.

Henry Napier scored 17 points to lead Martin to a 44-29 win over the junior Bobcats and to become the tournament's champion. The Bobcats, coming out of the losers' bracket, defeated Martin earlier, 35-28, to force the extra game.

Chase Gibson scored 11 points to lead Betsy Layne. Brad Daugherty added six points for the Bobcats.

The two teams played to a 10-10 tie after the first quarter as Daugherty scored five points, including a three-point basket, in the period. Gibson had the other five points for Betsy Layne.

Mullins hit a three pointer and Napier scored five points for Martin. Martin took an 18-14 lead to the locker room at halftime, but busted the game open in the third period when the team held Betsy Layne to two field goals and outscored them 15-5 to assume a 33-19 lead after three quarters. Napier scored eight points in the third period for Martin.

Patrick Martin added six points for the Purple Flash and Mullins finished with seven. Dwight McKinny tossed in seven and Chad Samons scored three. Keith Crum finished with four.

David Johnson scored four for the Bobcats with Matt Hamilton netting three points. Brad Bevins and Eddie Tibbs totaled two with Barrett Blankenship having one point.

Gibson scored 17 points to lead the Bobcats past Martin 35-28 coming out of the losers' bracket. The winner out of the top bracket must lose twice, so a third showdown between the two schools developed.

Betsy Layne overcame a slow first-quarter start and blitzed the Purple Flash in the second and third quarters to take a 22-18 lead after three quarters. Martin could only hit seven of 20 free throw attempts as the team struggled.

Patrick Martin's nine points led Martin, with Mullins and Napier scoring five each. Keith Crum tossed in four and Samons scored three. McKinny had two points.

David Johnson hit double figures for Betsy Layne with ten points. Daugherty added six in the win.

Martin won the first showdown between the two teams in the first round. Larry Mullins hit 12 of 15 free throws as Martin won by eight, 43-35. Mullins led all scorers with 16 points. Crum added eight and McKinny scored six.

Chase Gibson had 15 points to lead Betsy Layne. Tibbs had a three-point basket in scoring nine points.

Betsy Layne was 6-5 after the initial quarter, but trailed 17-15 at the half. Martin hit eight of ten free throws in the second quarter to stay in the game and hold the two-point lead. Betsy Layne only went to the charity stripe five times in the game and hit four.

Brad Bevins scored four points for Betsy Layne. Daugherty, Hamilton and Jeremy Clark had two each. Barrett Blankenship scored one.

OTHER GAMES....

Betsy Layne had an easy time with Maytown as the team rolled to a 52-14 win over the junior Wildcats in the opening round. Chase Gibson scored 14 points for the Bobcats with Daugherty adding seven points and Tibbs scoring six. Matt Hamilton and Jeremy Clark scored five each.

Timmy Davis' four points topped Maytown. Jeremy Hayes had three points while David Watkins, Michael Murphy and Chris Childers scored two each. Gary Adkins scored one point.

The Bobcats were a 44-30 winner over Beaver in round two. Gibson scored ten points and Daniel Krausz added nine, while Eddie Tibbs netted eight.

Brenon Lewis led Beaver with 14 points. Jim Barrett scored six and Eric Amburgey totaled four points.

Beaver, dropping to the losers' bracket, edged the Allen Eagles 33-32 in a come-from-behind effort. Beaver outscored Allen 12-6 in the final period to overcome a 26-21 Eagle lead after three quarters. Randy Akers led Allen with 12 points. Brandon Branham added eight and Jacob Fitzpatrick had five points.

Brenon Lewis led Beaver with 12 points and Michael Thornsby scored nine.

In an opening tournament game, Martin handled Maytown 41-30 behind three double-figure scorers. Keith Crum led the way with 13 points, Chad Samons scored 12 and Larry Mullins tossed in 11.

Jeremy Hayes led Maytown with 12 points while Chris Owens added seven. William Goodman scored six for the Wildcats.

Martin held a slim 14-12 lead after the first quarter, but outscored the Wildcats in the final three quarters to win by 11.

Beaver faced the Mountain Christian Academy in the opening round and came away with a 42-19 win over the Falcons. Thornsby led the way with 12 points and Jared Huff tossed in 11.

MCA was led by Matt Going's 11 points. Andrew Burchett scored four and Dustin Stumbo added two. Drew Petry and Kyle Scalf had one point each.

The Falcons trailed 9-6 after the first quarter, but could only score two points in the second stanza and trailed 25-8 at the half.

Brandon Branham had ten points and Josh Justice scored seven as Allen defeated John M. Stumbo 24-19. Randy Akers finished with four points, Jacob Fitzpatrick netted two and Mike Stephens scored one.

Matt Branham led Stumbo with nine points and Brent Hamilton added four.

Coach Rick Hancock's Maytown Wildcats had little trouble with MCA in winning 43-24. David Watkins scored 15 points for Maytown, while teammate Jeremy Hayes added eight. Michael Murphy and William Goodman scored six each.

Matt Going led MCA with 11 points. Drew Petry totaled six and Bart Barnette scored four.

Maytown held off a late charge by Beaver in the fourth quarter and hung on for a 35-33 win with Timmy David scoring 14 points. Actually, it was a come-from-behind win for the Wildcats who trailed 16-10 at the half. Davis led the second half comeback in the third period when Maytown took the lead after three quarters, 23-21.

Brenon Lewis topped Beaver in scoring with 13 points and Michael Thornsby added 11.

DEER HUNTING ON CYPRUS AMAX WMA

Next year, persons who want to hunt deer with a firearm on the Cyprus Amax Wildlife Management Area (WMA), located in Breathitt, Knott and Perry counties, will have to apply in advance and be drawn for a quota hunt, according to officials with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR).

Except for those drawn to participate in the 1996-97 quota hunt, no other deer hunting with firearms will be permitted next season on this WMA. This year, muzzleloader deer hunting was allowed during the October and December portions of the season.

To enter the Cyprus Amax WMA, persons must purchase a user permit each year. KDFWR officials caution persons who hunt deer with a muzzleloader during the 1995-96 season not to renew their permit for the '96-'97 season, if muzzle loading deer hunting was the only reason they bought a permit. On WMAs, where quota hunts are in effect, modern gun and muzzle loading deer seasons are closed.

Hunters who elect to enter the quota hunt drawing for Cyprus Amax WMA next season should wait until they are notified that they have been drawn before buying an area user permit. Permit holders not drawn for the quota hunt will not be able to hunt deer with a firearm during the 1996-97 season. Quota hunt applications are available from the KDFWR in August each year.

Betsy Layne

Eagles in the first period, but they only trailed 13-12 at the first stop. Burchett hit a three-pointer with 1:34 left in the first quarter and gave Allen a 12-11 lead. The Eagles led 6-4 and 9-6 as their only other leads. Aaron Swiger hit a long jumper just short of the three-point circle to give the Bobcats the one-point first-quarter lead. On the last seven possessions of the first quarter Allen turned the ball over six times against the press of Betsy Layne.

Betsy Layne took a 15-13 lead on a rebound basket by Collins, but the Eagles got a free throw from Crisp and a layup by Burchett to tie the game at 15-15.

Turnovers continued to be a problem to the Eagles as Betsy Layne scored the next nine points to lead 24-15 with 2:11 left in the second quarter. Allen had a chance to cut into the lead before the half ended, but missed on four straight free throws, two of which were bonus shots. The Bobcats led 26-17 at the half.

Crisp came out hot for Allen to start the third quarter, completing an old-fashioned three-point play and hitting two other free throws to bring his team back to within four, 26-22, of the Bobcats. But a three-point basket by Williams started a 17-4 spurt that saw the Eagles trail 43-26 after three quarters.

The only scoring the Eagles were getting was from Crisp in the third period as he scored all nine points for Allen.

A rebound basket by Collins at the 5:01 mark in the fourth period gave the Bobcats a 46-26 lead. Crisp scored 11 of the Eagles' final 13 points in the fourth quarter as the Bobcats waltzed to a 25-point win.

Aaron Swiger and Josh Howell finished with six points each for Betsy Layne. Chase Gibson netted seven points and Josh Kidd finished with four. Brad Daugherty and Eddie Tibbs had two apiece.

Betsy Layne improved to 7-0 on the season. Allen fell to 2-4.

Balanced attack sends Osborne past Martin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Osborne Eagles snapped a modest two-game losing streak and posted a 78-49 win over the Martin Purple Flash this past Monday night at the Wheelwright gym.

The Eagles placed four players in double figures to lead a balanced attack in winning for the first time this season.

Dale Elliott led all scorers with 19 points including one three-point basket. Jarrod Johnson added 18 while point guard B.J. Bryant scored 17 points. James Walker was the other scorer in double digits with 12 points.

Martin was led by Jeremy Sexton's 16 points. Larry Mullins had one three-point basket on his way to a 12-point night. Patrick Martin tossed in two three-pointers for six points.

The Eagles soared out to a 17-12 first-quarter lead over Doug Derossert's Purple Flash and led 40-20 at the half.

"We finally got a game together," Osborne Coach Roger Johnson said. He said he feels his team is a county contender this season. "I'm pleased with the way we played, especially after the first two games."

Jarrod Johnson led the Eagles in rebounds with 15 to go with his 18 points. Elliott pulled down six and Keith Reynolds finished with seven.

It was the big men underneath that led the assist parade for Osborne. Johnson had four assists. Elliott and Bryant had three each. Johnson came up with six steals on defense with Elliott and Bryant having five steals each.

Reynolds scored six points in the game for the Eagles. Sam Little, Randel Matthews, and Jared Allen scored two apiece.

Chris Damron tossed in six for Martin. Dwight McKinney added four, Yates three and Chad Samons two.

LADY FLASHES OVER OSBORNE....

In the girls' game, Martin posted a 33-25 win over the Lady Eagles who had to play without leading scorer Margret Morgan who had the flu.

Shanna Howell led Martin in scoring with ten points. Rebecca Smith added nine, while Jennifer Risner and Lesli Johnson scored six each. Ashley Stephens had two points.

Stacie Stanley led Osborne with her ten points and Lindsey Hall finished with five. Tarreb Justice had four points while Brandi Damron and Amy Morgan scored two each.

Martin held the Lady Eagles scoreless in the first period leading 11-0 at the first stop. Osborne trailed by only two at the half however, 15-13, outscoring Martin 13-4 in the second stanza.

LADY EAGLES EDGE MELVIN....

In an earlier game, Osborne edged a good Melvin team 34-30 behind Morgan's 12 points. Justice scored 11 points for the Lady Eagles in the win. Lindsey Hall added seven and Stacia Stanley netted four points.

Angie Tackett, a seventh grader, scored 11 points to lead Melvin. Monica McKinney tossed in six Melvin points as did Ashley Thornsby. Tiffany Williams scored five points and Jessica Spears had two points.

Osborne got a three-pointer and a field goal from Justice as the team led 12-8 after the first quarter. Stanley had four points in the first quarter.

Melvin rallied in the second quarter behind Tackett, who scored seven points in the quarter, to tie the game at 20-20 just before half time.

Neither team was offensive minded in the third quarter with Osborne outscoring Melvin 3-2. Morgan, who was held to five points over the first three quarter, scored seven in the final stanza to preserve the Osborne win.

Music's 21 points leads Allen past Martin, 43-32

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Ramanda Music tossed in a game-high 21 points and Amilia Conley added eight to lead the Allen Lady Eagles to a 43-32 win over the Martin Lady Flashes in the championship game of the Shag Campbell Invitational at Allen Thursday night.

Shanna Howell led Martin with 14 points and Jessica Sexton finished with seven for the Lady Flashes.

Martin struggled at the free throw line as the team has done all season. The Lady Flashes attempted 35 tries from the charity stripe and hit only 12.

First-quarter turnovers plagued the Martin team as players were guilty of seven first-period mistakes. Martin didn't get on the scoreboard until 13 seconds remained in the initial quarter. Sexton hit the back side of a two-shot foul to make it an 11-1 first quarter game.

Music dominated under the boards for Allen in the first quarter, scoring six points, all six on rebound baskets as the Lady Flashes failed to block out.

Martin picked up its offense in the second quarter, scoring the first seven points of the period to make it an 11-8 game at the 3:58 mark. Chrissy Nelson and Music hit two free throws each and Music's rebound basket gave the Lady Eagles a 17-9 lead.

Allen took an 11-point lead on a layup by Brooke Coleman. Turnovers toward the end of the period allowed the Lady Eagles to take a 29-16 lead to the locker room at the half. Martin committed 12 first-half turnovers and hit only six of 21 free throw attempts in the first two periods.

With 3:38 to play in the third quarter, Allen took its biggest lead at 33-19 on a basket by Music and a short jumper from Amilia Conley. Martin stayed close with five unanswered points to pull to within nine, 33-24. Music's rebound basket gave Allen a 35-24 lead after three quarters.

The Lady Flashes missed the opportunity to get closer to the Lady Eagles when they missed five consecutive free throws, two being the front end of bonus shots.

Coleman finished with six points for the Lady Eagles. Harris, Nelson, Leslie Setser and Tabitha Shepherd had two points each.

Shannon Sizemore tossed in four points for Martin. Leslie Johnson, Rebecca Smith and Ashley Stephens added two apiece. Megan Hyden scored one point.

can get the ball to her," she said. "She will get herself open. She will go somewhere and get herself open.

"I thought Jennifer (Hopkins) played excellent basketball. She was doing the bunny hop over in the corner, but that was because she was nervous (Hopkins is a freshman). Jessica Martin and Shanna Howell (both eighth graders). This was the first high school game they have played in their life. They were scared to death."

With the season a week from beginning, Compton said her team needs to get back in the gym and work on its defense, blocking out and "working together as a team."

"We have to have more playing time out of Moore (four fouls in ten minutes) and Amanda Samons cannot foul out of a game with five minutes to play.

"Misty Scott is having to play a whole different role this year and she doesn't like it," the Allen Central mentor said.

Scott was the two guard last year and has been moved to the point.

Allen Central fell behind 56-42 late in the second half, but rallied to make the final score a little more respectable. The Lady Rebels outscored Greenup County 10-0 in the final three minutes losing by 14, 56-42.

Allen Central opens at home on November 30 as they host the Elkhorn City Lady Cougars.

THE VOTES ARE IN....

After a month of counting your votes, it's time to unveil the readers' choice for The NASCAR Connection's Winston Cup Driver of the Year. Before we get into the meat and potatoes of this week's column, let me pause to thank each and every one of you who took the time to cast your votes.

I must say, I certainly received some very interesting letters. Votes poured in from the young and old as well as plenty of females. I'll tell you, it may be a male-dominated sport, but when it comes to picking the Driver of the Year, you gals have your stuff together.

I have to mention one letter in particular. I just wish I had the space to print it. The letter came in from Charley Anderson of McRoberts, Kentucky. I'm telling you folks, UNOCAL must flow through this guy's veins. There's absolutely no doubt that this gentleman loves his sport. He used the reliable process of elimination to arrive at his choice. It took him six pages and comments on no less than 37 drivers, finally to state that Mark Martin was his choice. Hey Charley, wanna be a guest columnist? You could do it, man!

Anyway, on with the column. Just who was voted top dawg by all you readers out there. It wasn't Rusty Wallace, Dale Earnhardt, or Mark Martin. Yep, you've guessed it by now, Jeff Gordon. The young and talented driver of Rick Hendrick's DuPont Chevrolet received three-fourths of the 100-plus ballots that were cast. Earnhardt came in second, but was quite a considerable distance behind the newly crowned champion.

As promised, a name was pulled ran Jimmy from all who voted and that person will receive an Action Packed race card autographed by Ernie Irvan. Congratulations to Terri Blair of Campbellsville, Kentucky. Although you voted for Gordon, I'm sure you can find it in your heart to accept the Irvan card and autograph.

Now let's get down to business. This week marks one of my favorite days of the year, Thanksgiving. Granted, by week's end I'll be so tired of turkey that even the mere mention of the word will make my stomach rumble. But nevertheless, it's a favorite.

Yes, I like the food, the football and the family fellowship, but I also take time to appreciate the holiday for what it is. A time to be thankful — thankful for everything. And that includes NASCAR Winston Cup racing. Now I know, you're saying "Come on Ben, it's just a sport. Why all the fuss?"

Can you count up all the endless hours of joy that being a race fan has brought you? Don't you feel as though NASCAR drivers, team members, and fans are just like one huge family? Did you hurt deep inside when Alan Kulwicki and Davey Allison lost their lives? Exactly! That's my point!

Somewhere along the line, we all got hooked on racing. Our favorites may not always finish the race, but week in and week out, we find ourselves traveling to a race, or nestled in the recliner pulling for our driver to make the pass.

I don't know about you, but I'm pretty thankful that NASCAR Winston Cup racing exists. So I want to close with a thank you to the late William "Big Bill" France for the vision that brought us the sport. Thanks to all the drivers and their teams for providing us with all the thrills that keep us coming back for more. And most of all, thanks to the good Lord above for making all things possible — even racing! Enjoy the turkey.

NEWTON SHOWS QUALITIES THAT COUNT IN ANNOUNCING BILL CURRY'S RETURN AT UK

"Basically, I had two choices," C.M. Newton said Monday, announcing that Bill Curry will be back as head football coach at Kentucky. "The first was to start over, hire a new staff. At best that would be a five-year project. I felt making that kind of change would be disruptive. I'm convinced we have a staff in place to improve our football program."

Therefore, UK's director of athletics chose his second and less popular option.

Newton made a wise and admirable decision, I think. His was a demonstration of faith that UK has the right coaches to turn Kentucky's program around. It says something important about qualities that count — loyalty, patience and courage too. UK's director of athletics could have chosen the easy route and fired Curry. Nobody would have blamed him, including Curry.

If Curry is willing to endure the storm of sometimes cruel criticism, and he has shown he is, then he deserves the respect and loyalty of Kentucky fans for another year. After all, UK had three years of obligation on its end of a contract too.

Newton's decision had an intriguing element in it that bodes well for football's future at UK. He said he consulted with current Wildcat leaders, opposing coaches, and "key recruits."

The last of these would indicate there is substance to scuttlebutt I've been hearing for several weeks, Tim Couch, the jewel in the crown, will sign with Kentucky. If that happens, coupled with an unusually high number of players returning next season, including impressive Billy Jack Haskins, then UK's football turn-around could arrive sooner than some expect.

Next step? Convincing Mo Williams another year at Kentucky could be the happiest of his life. "WE'RE NOT NUMBER ONE,"

PITINO SAYS

"A weakness. Can anyone tell me if Kentucky has one?" Sharm Scheuerman asked reporters after Rick Pitino's Wildcats toyed with AIA Friday in a final prep for Maryland this week.

Silence. "Let me put it this way, if there's a better team in the country I haven't seen it," said Scheuerman who has seen (so far) Michigan, Duke, LSU and Indiana.

UK, a weakness? "Our defensive rebounding is poor," Pitino said. "We've got to get a lot better than this before we play Maryland."

Uh-huh. Against an AIA team that resembled Tennessee-Martin a year ago, the Wildcats merely had a rollicking good time — 25 assists, 17 steals, 20 offensive rebounds, all five starters scored in double figures and 11 of 12 who played scored.

Derek Anderson was marvelous and all over the court. "We made him miss didn't we," chuckled AIA's coach, noting Anderson made nine of ten shots, including four-of-four threes.

"Derek Anderson, what can I say about him," Pitino said. "Derek's a great chess player. He knows what's happening all over the court. We let him cheat on defense more than anyone on the team."

Ron Mercer was steady and Jeff Sheppard demonstrated he will not be denied playing time. And Tony Delk, like a good captain, limited himself to ten shots, and still scored 19 points.

Mercer, Pitino says, "reminds me of (Jamal) Mashburn in two ways. He's very humble and he lets the game come to him. What makes him great is he wants to get to first base, then second, then third, before trying to hit home runs."

When AIA was headed for the bus, Pitino, who says he will not poor-mouth a team of his, indulged in a bit of spin-doctor. "We could play excellent basketball and start the season two and two. We don't deserve to be ranked number one, two, three or four. We're one of the six or seven teams that could be ranked number one."

Da Coach is right.

U OF L GETS WRIST SLAP
The University of Louisville basketball program got a slap on the wrist last week when the NCAA imposed a three-game suspension on center Samaki Walker and issued reprimands for coaches Denny Crum, Larry Gay and Jerry Jones.

Fall guy? Lead recruiter Gay, who is suspended from recruiting until next June, and has his salary frozen for one year. If the NCAA's findings against Gay are accurate, with violations from 1991 until this year, U of L's punishment is an ethnic-sensitive invitation to Gay to find work elsewhere.

Most bothersome in U of L's sordid mess, (any involvement with a felon, Jimmy Thompson, and repeated violations of NCAA rules, secondary or not) is sordid — is the NCAA ignored its own dictate 'institutional control' (responsibility) when it found the head coach and director of athletics, Bill Olsen, not responsible for wrongdoing.

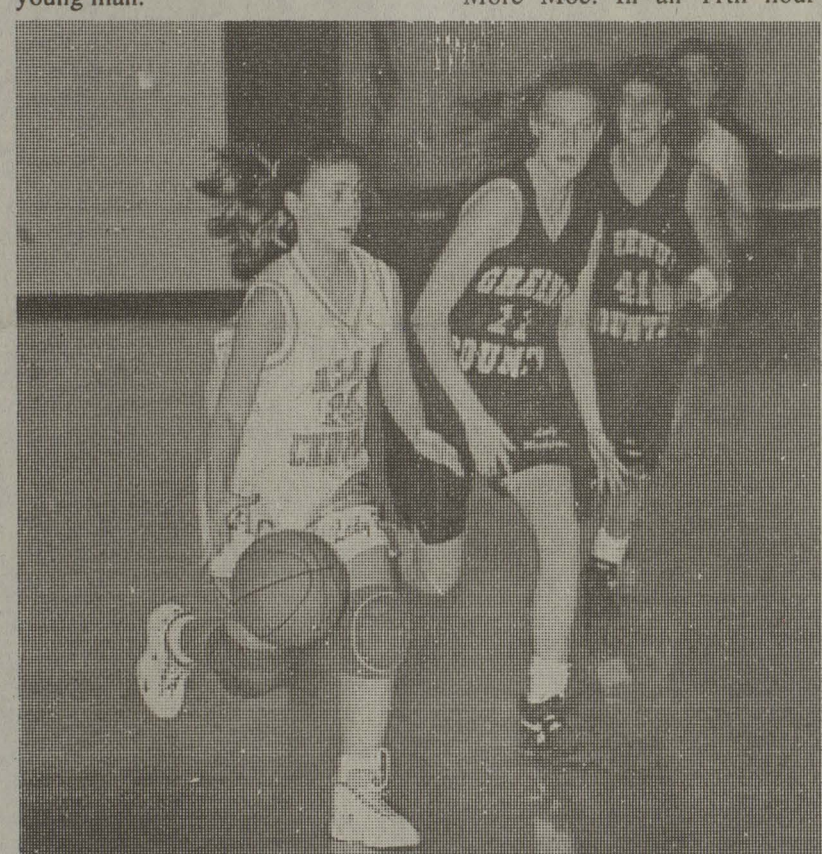

College Hall of Fame Coach Crum, and to a lesser degree Olsen, are above sanctions because of their positions as money-producers for U of L.

Personally, it is disappointing to find that long-time assistant coach Jerry Jones was involved. A man who knew loaning money to a student/athlete is a clear rules' violation. When Jones gave, uh, loaned, Walker money it cast a cloud of doubt leaving fans and officials wondering how many other U of L players have received such preferred treatment from him.

Legacy. One more sad chapter forged into the story of college amateur athletics. And, anything-for-an-edge rival recruiters will include in their sales pitch a reminder of U of L's secondary violations.

COUCH...GUSH GOES ON

Sports Illustrated made its contribution to Janice Couch's scrapbook last week when the magazine featured her son, Tim. A story by Steve Rushin amounted to a warm-if-economic glimpse into Hyden and a genuflect, adding high praise to a high heap for Tim Couch the young man.

Now a Lady Reb

Allen Central's girls' basketball program got a shot in the arm when Janice Thornsbury (25) returned to Floyd County after playing basketball at Johnson County Middle School last year. Thornsbury, a freshman, will be an impact player for Coach Bonita Compton. (photo by Ed Taylor)

However, Rushin went too far gushing over the 18-year-old when he quoted ESPN's clown Siamese twin to Dick Vitale, Mel Kiper Jr., who says Couch is the best pro quarterback prospect in the nation.

Fortunately, Couch is too level-headed to be swayed by such tripe. Kiper needs to get a life and find a hobby.

Meanwhile, Couch, when he gets around to basketball, will begin the season 55th on Sports in Kentucky's all-time high school scoring list. Among those just ahead of him, Butch Beard is 52nd and John Pelphey 44th, Richie Farmer is 21st and Julius Berry is 20th.

I mention Berry, who starred at Lexington Dunbar in the 60s, are above sanctions because of their positions as money-producers for U of L.

If Couch — who led the state in scoring a season ago (36 ppg) — averages 25.4 points over 25 games this season, he will become only the 21st player in Kentucky history to reach 3,000. If he matches last year's average over 25 games it would add 900 points to his total, making 3,264 and vaulting Couch to number seven among Kentucky's all-time scorers, one point behind 1994 Mr. Basketball Charles Thomas who played at Harlan a year ago.

'MO' MOE WILLIAMS

Worth repeating department — To Kentucky's Moe Williams who is considering turning pro after the season, along with every youngster with similar gifts and future opportunities, the following remarks are dedicated. Running back Tyrone Wheatley stayed for his senior season at Michigan, was drafted and now plays for the New York Giants. "I enjoyed my final year in college and graduated. I would not trade places with anybody."

More Moe. In an 11th hour attempt — make that 11:59 — UK's publicity people rushed a Moe-Mentous brochure into the hands of Heisman Trophy voters at the weekend.

Too late of course, but it could be a signal that UK believes Williams won't be around next season.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

Carl Travis, Elsmere, Ky.: "What is it about Bernadette Locke-Mattox you don't like? Is it because she's a woman or maybe because she's black. You complained when C.M. Newton appointed her head coach. Now you complain because she didn't get the state's finest, to play at UK. The coaches before her didn't get them either. Why don't you, and anybody else like you, give her a chance to prove herself."

COMMENT: Thank you for writing.

Steve Bryant, Henderson: "Do the (UK) Wildcats lack talented players or are they a victim of poor coaching and preparation?"

COMMENT: No to the first part, and we-1-1-1 to the second part.

View from here — UK's outstanding players can be counted on one hand; probably another 30-40 are SEC talent level-types; the rest must rise to overachiever status if Kentucky is going to compete in the Southeastern Conference.

Coaches? One man's grade for the principle ones — Curry, a C; defensive coordinator Mike Archer, an A; offensive coordinator Elliot Uzela, a D (would be F except so many receivers were injured).

STATE STAT LEADERS

According to KHSAA figures, Whitesburg senior running back Bill Stamper finished his high school season with distinction, a double. The 5-11, 185-pound running back is the state's scoring champion, 194 points. And his 29 touchdowns are one more than Cory Crume of Marion County. Wes Vincent of Edmonson County was third with 23.

Stamper's 29 touchdowns and ten 2-point conversions, averaged out to better than 19 points a game for the Yellowjackets.

Tim Couch reset all the state's pass yardage and touchdown passes records, but Kentucky top rushers were: 1. Jason Calvert, Bullitt East, — 1,922 yards on 303 carries, 12 touchdowns. 2. Cory Crume, Marion County — 1,789 yards on 209 carries, 28 touchdowns; 3. Wes Vincent, Edmonson County — 1,771 yards on 286 carries, 23 touchdowns; 4. Patrick Harris, Kentucky School for the Deaf — 1,635 on 163 carries, 22 touchdowns.

And so it goes, Happy Thanksgiving.

KEITH HERNANDEZ was the best-fielding first baseman of the past 20 years — perhaps ever — a star for the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets in the '70s and '80s... By charging over to the third-base line, Hernandez often turned bunts into force-outs... He won 11 consecutive Gold Gloves and set records for seasons leading in double plays and lifetime assists by first basemen... He hit .300 six times, leading the National League with .344 in 1979, a year when he shared the MVP Award... He is shown on his 1987 Topps card, #350... # Osborne Eagles fall at JCMS, 64-50

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Osborne Eagles dropped their second straight game of the yet-young grade school basketball season and fell to 0-2 with a 64-50 loss to Johnson County Middle School last week on the road.

The Eagles could not overcome the 30-point barrage of Chris Hackney and some poor free throw shooting during the contest.

Osborne hit only ten of 21 free-throw attempts while Johnson County connected on three of eight.

Hackney scored 12 of his 30 points in the drastic second quarter when Johnson County outscored Osborne 19-9 to take a 35-22 half-time lead.

The Eagles stayed close at the first stop trailing by three, 16-13. But Osborne could only score two field goals in the second quarter and stayed in the game by hitting five of eight charity tosses.

Keith Reynolds scored five points in the first quarter for Osborne while Dale Elliott scored four, including a three-point basket.

Hackney broke loose under the basket in the second period scoring his 12 points.

Osborne played the host team even in the second half, but just couldn't overcome the second period scoring drought.

Jarrod Johnson was held to only 17 points, which led Osborne in scoring. Elliott added 16 points and Reynolds totaled 11. B.J. Bryant netted four with James Walker scoring two.

Johnson pulled down nine rebounds for the Eagles while Elliott had six rebounds. Elliott also had three assists.

Shannon scores 34 in 70-67 loss to Betsy Layne Bobcats

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats had to fight to hold a very strong McDowell Daredevils basketball team in a top county game last Wednesday night at Betsy Layne. The Bobcats held off a late McDowell surge and posted a 70-67 win over Brent Rose's team.

It was the second time in as many days that the two met on the hardwood. They faced off in the championship game of the Right Beaver Classic with Betsy Layne pulling out the win.

Ryan Shannon, one of the county's prolific scorers, finished with a game-high 34 points in the losing cause for McDowell who fell to 4-2 on the season. Betsy Layne improved to 5-0.

It was Shannon who stood at the free throw line with 7.9 seconds on the clock and a chance to bring the Daredevils closer. He had just scored on a short jumper and was fouled on the play. He missed the free throw and Betsy Layne controlled the ball.

The balance attack of the Bobcats, as it has been all season, was more than what Shannon's scoring could overcome. Scott Collins led the Bobcats with 19 points, scoring nine in the all-important fourth quarter. Josh Howell finished with 14 points and Justin Barley added 15. The Bobcats got some help off the bench as the subs chipped in with 13 points led by Josh Kidd's six points. Chase Gibson had five off the pines and Bradley Brooks scored two. Shannon Williams scored five points before he fouled out of his third straight game. Aaron Swiger scored four.

Nick Moore had nine points for McDowell. Byron Hall, Jimmy Stumbo and Kyle Tackett scored six each for the Daredevils. Steve Ward added four points and John Meade had two.

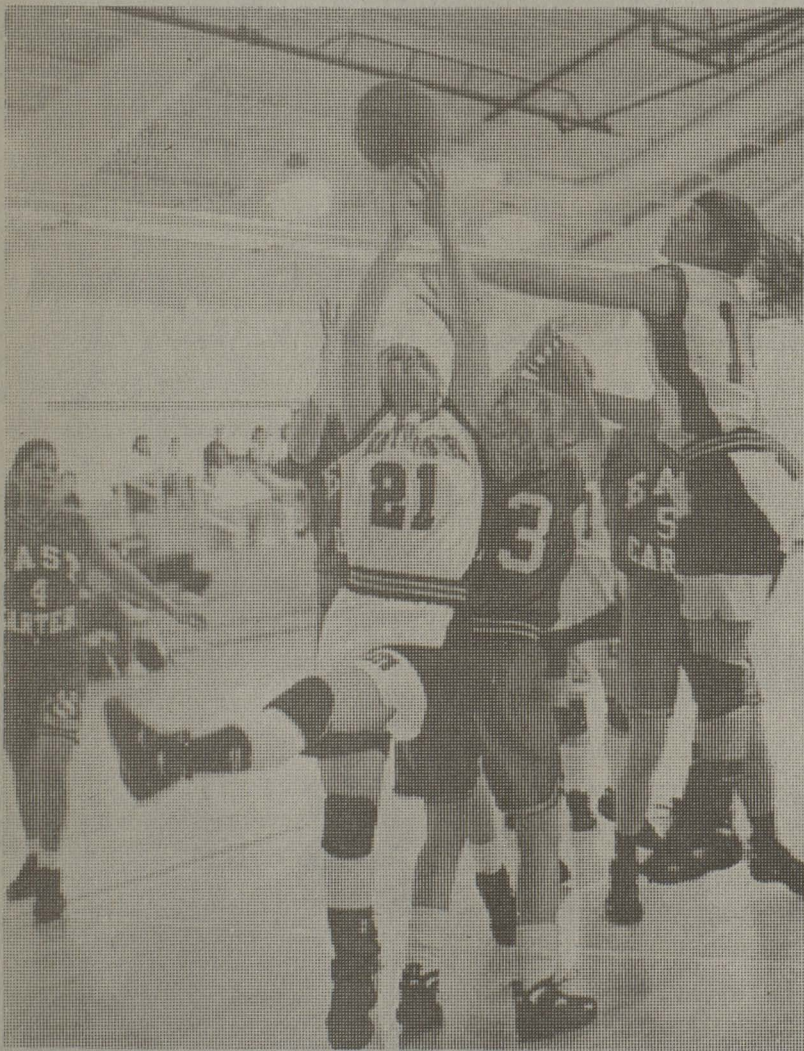

McDowell led by two points at the half 35-33. The two teams were tied at 51-51 leading into the fourth quarter. McDowell outscored the Bobcats 21-10 in the second period to overcome a 23-14 Betsy Layne first-quarter lead.

"We were tired in the second quarter," Coach Dwight Newsome said. "We were basketball weary after playing in the Right Beaver Classic. We will play Monday night (November 20) and then we will have some time off before we play again (versus Prater, November 27)."

As the preacher said, 'you reap what you sow'

I can remember as a kid sitting under some mighty hard preaching at the Thealka Freewill Baptist Church. Especially those times when mom would sit between little brother Joe and me; when distractions had been cut to a minimum; when there was little else to do but notice the preacher, I often got the message.

I may have been a mere kid but I knew exactly what the preacher meant when he said, "You reap what you sow."

I knew he meant that if you planted corn, you'd get corn. If you planted beans, you'd get beans. I was never too sure what all that had to do with church, though, other than the fact that practically everyone there had a garden of some kind and he didn't want anybody to get mixed up and try to pick white half runners off a corn stalk.

Anyway, what reminded me of the 'reap what you sow' message was something I read in the paper last week about some scientists out in Los Angeles planting a little lotus seed from China and how surprised they were when, in about four days, a little green lotus shoot appeared.

That part should have been no surprise to anybody, but the fact that the seed was 1,288 years old and was still able to produce, apparently surprised them a bit.

I was a bit puzzled about something else: The article didn't say the seed was more than 1,200 years old, or nearly 1,300 years old. It said the seed was exactly 1,288 years old. That amazes me more than the fact that it still produced. Just how did they know exactly how old it was? I mean, did it come in a Ming vase labeled "Lotus seed, 706 AD?"

Anyway, one of the professors involved in the planting of the seed said, "This sleeping beauty, which was already there when Marco Polo came to China in the 13th century, must have a powerful genetic system."

Well of course it does. Anybody that's ever been to church a day in their life knows that. And it's not because some scientists at UCLA, or some other institute of higher learning, figured out some magic formula, either.

That's exactly what the preacher was trying to tell us at the Thealka Freewill Baptist Church nearly 50 years ago. It doesn't matter if it's a potato or a peanut; a pawpaw or a pear, you reap what you sow.

AND SPEAKING of preachers, one of my favorite preacher stories involves the minister who was calling on an elderly lady who had recently been under the weather.

When he arrived, the lady was propped up in bed, staring out the window. As he began to comfort her, he dipped his hand into a large bowl of peanuts sitting on a bedside table and began to nibble. The more he talked, the more he nibbled.

After about a 20-minute visit, he was getting ready to leave and apologized to the lady for eating all her peanuts.

"That's okay, preacher," she said. "I've already sucked the chocolate off them anyway."

Buy Kentucky-made items for Christmas

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Are you making a list and checking it twice? Christmas is just a little more than 30 days away and it's time to fill all those holiday stockings.

If you don't want to spend the holiday season walking through the malls, try some unusual gifts this year.

The quality of Kentucky handcrafts — traditional, contemporary, and folk art — is recognized around the world.

More than 4,000 artisans produce Kentucky crafts, which are as diverse as the imaginations of the people who make them.

One place to find these unique gifts, and have them made by local people is from the Kentucky Wood-workers Network, headquartered in Staffordsville.

The group will hold a holiday show beginning the day after Thanksgiving. The show will be held for two weeks at the Stafford House in Paintsville.

"It will be an open house, but we will have things to sell," Brenda Cockerham, Johnson County extension agent and organizer of the group, said. "We'll probably have musicians and it will be a kind of cultural treat."

The group, which is comprised mainly of woodworkers from Floyd and Johnson counties, is growing stronger every day.

"Our sales are mostly coming from one company (Third Street Stuff in Lexington which serves a nationwide market), but we are getting a lot of orders for little things as well," Cockerham said.

But don't stop there. The variety of gift ideas from around the state is almost limitless.

The marketing of Kentucky crafts has come a long way since 1896 when a few people displayed their wares at the first Home Spun Fair at Berea College.

And don't forget the internet. Kentucky crafts can be found worldwide, via satellite on major shopping channels, and on the internet.

Governor and Mrs. Jones look at some of the many Kentucky-made gift possibilities for the holidays.

Books written by Kentuckians about Kentucky subjects attracted the attention of Governor Jones as he toured stores in Frankfort recently.

Governor and Mrs. Jones admired a wood truck on sale in a downtown Frankfort shop which specializes in Kentucky-made products.

FROM THE MOUNTAINS by Jadon Gibson

Jadon looks at Pioneer life of 1700s

Jacob Castle was one of the early settlers along the wagon road to the western wilderness. He had the westernmost settlement prior to 1750.

In 1746, he traded a musket and butcher knife to the Indians for a small tract of land on the Clinch River which later became part of Saltville, Virginia.

Castle was a longhunter and lived for months in the woods. He traded his deerskins and animal pelts for his needs.

Castle left home each fall and disappeared for months dressed in a deerskin hunting shirt, beaver cap, buckskin moccasins and leggings. The tail of the beaver cap hung to the nape of his neck.

He carried the necessities he needed—hatchet, knife, shot pouch and provisions such as meal, salt, jerked beef and pemmican (dried food) in a sling over his shoulder.

Castle carried a long-barreled rifle commonly made by German gunsmiths in Eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland and along the western trail. Originally it was called the Pennsylvania Rifle but later became more famous as the Kentucky Hunter's Rifle and Kentucky Long Rifle.

The wagon road later became part of the Wilderness Road. Travelers went for miles and days without seeing but little evidence of civilization. Occasionally they would pass a log hut along the rugged land of cliffs and forest in southwest, Virginia.

In 1769, other pioneers cleared patches of land at Castle's Woods and moved in as squatters. Threats from Indians compelled the early settlers to live close together.

The Loyal Land Company owned a large amount of land at the time. Immigrants would build a cabin and set up housekeeping without the formality of buying or renting. If the land was poor or the area proved unsafe they would move on. Otherwise they would stay until confronted by the owner and forced to buy.

To provide more security, the settlers built a protective wooden palisade in 1770 and named it Snoddy's Fort. It was named after William Snoddy who was in command of the fort. A two-story blockhouse with gunports was constructed. Eighty families resided within.

As more settlers arrived, an additional palisade, named Moore's Fort was built a mile from Snoddy's Fort. William Russell was one of the new men that helped build it. Residents of the area were English, Scotch-Irish and German.

In late 1773, William Russell engaged Daniel Boone to lead a group of Castle's Woods settlers to Kentucky. They traveled in three groups. The women, children and baggage comprised one group. The older sons, slaves and cattle made up another and the men made up the third group.

They were attacked by Indians in Powell Valley and Boone's son, James, and Russell's son, Henry, were shot through the hips and stabbed repeatedly. Several of the boys were killed instantly, but the Indians tortured James Boone. He died in agony begging to be killed.

Later in the day when the carnage was found they buried the dead and returned to Castle's Woods. Russell had the two Shawnee chiefs who were responsible for the killings hunted and slain.

When about 20 Indians attacked Castle's Woods in 1783, while the men were away at war, the women fought them off with only Ann Bush Neece being tomahawked and killed.

In 1785, Indians attacked the family of Archibald Scott near Castle's Woods and killed five family members and abducted Fannie Dickenson Scott. She later escaped and found her way back after a month in the wilderness.

Before the advent of the Baptist and Methodist evangelists, the pioneers often danced, played cards and drank homemade beer and whiskey.

Early legal proceedings involved the offenses of profanity, drinking on the Sabbath, opening someone's letter and selling bad corn liquor. Evidently it was not an offense to sell good corn liquor.

Staples of the frontier diet were hog and hominy which were served with cornbread. Milk and mush were eaten at supper along with sweetened water, molasses, gravy or bear's oil. Pork and chicken were preferred to venison or beef with chicken often being served when a family had company.

The men wore deerskin shirts, fringed with colored cloth, leggings and moccasins. Frontier women wore homemade cotton or wool dresses and sunbonnets. Not until the 1800's did the men begin adopting the fashion of European trousers.

The United States adopted the decimal currency in 1792 and the court established the prices which taverns could charge: a warm dinner, 25 cents;

Revolutionary Soldier Benjamin Hamilton remembered with a dedication at Moon

The Big Sandy Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, Harman Station, Daughters of the American Revolution, Paintsville, and John Graham Chapter, Prestonsburg, along with the Hamilton family of Eastern Kentucky, assisted by cousins from a number of states, dedicated a monument to Revolutionary soldier, Benjamin S. Hamilton, Sunday afternoon, October 22, at Moon in Morgan County.

Orville Hamilton, superintendent of the Johnson County School System summarized the history of Benjamin, who was born 1761 in Bedford County, Virginia. He died 12 July 1849 at the home of his son, David Hamilton, at Moon. During the Revolutionary war, he served with the Virginia Troops as a spy and ranger and reenlisted a number of times. He served in the Col. Crockett's Regiment; Col. Trigg's Regiment; Capt. Thomas Vincent's Co. in the Battle of King's Mountain; Capt. William Burk's Co., and Col. Christian's Regiment.

He also served one month at Bowman Station under Col. Hutchinson. He was allowed a pension.

According to reports filed, Thomas Hamilton, age 76, also a soldier of the revolution, stated that Benjamin served with him and that they were brothers.

After the war, Benjamin moved to Sullivan County, Tennessee. By 1810, he was listed in the Floyd County Census, and by 1812, he had built a one-room log cabin near Moon, Floyd County. He set off in 1822 for Morgan County. He married Moonglow, a Cherokee Indian, probably in Virginia or North Carolina, who adopted the name of Susannah (Hurst?). She was born in the 1770s and died in 1846 in Morgan County. Their children were John Hamilton, Elizabeth Hamilton, Sarah Hamilton, Polly Hamilton, Nancy Hamilton, David K. Hamilton, Benjamin Hamilton, Martha Hamilton, Amelia Ann Hamilton, and Esther Hamilton.

Benjamin and Susannah (Moonglow) are buried in the Hamilton Cemetery, located on Route 172 in Morgan County. Both graves are marked with hand-carved stones; his with the initials B. H. 1761-1849; her stone is shaped like an Indian flint with a moon insignia carved on the surface. Lineal grandsons, David and John Hamilton, recently restored the couple's 1812 log cabin. The graves had been lost for many years until located in 1993 by lineal grandchildren, Finetta Mullins, Margaret Jones, EDRA Hamilton Hill and Ike Ferguson. Legal work to obtain the monument from the USA government was done by Ray Brackett, assisted by Frances Brackett and Finetta Hamilton Mullins, both lineal granddaughters.

Then John, David, Ford, James, and Alderson Hamilton, Mary Margaret Jones, Roger, Avery, and Martha Ison cleared the cemetery. Installation of the stone was done by the Big Sandy Chapter KYSSAR.

During the dedication, past Kentucky State SAR president and Big Sandy Chapter member Ray Brackett of Allen presided. The invocation was given by Mary Margaret Jones of Arizona; prayer was led by James Hamilton of Keaton; the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the USA by John Hamilton of Red Bush; the American Creed by Morgan County DAR Regent Edith Gunnells of West Liberty; the national anthem was sung by Vicki Pack, Harman Station Chaplain, Paintsville.

KSDAR Sixth District Director Barbara C. Pugh, Paintsville, dedicated the monument with Finetta Hamilton Mullins, Harman's Station and lineal granddaughter of Paintsville, accepting the monument. Eldest lineal grandchildren present, Glenda Mullins and Ellis Hamilton, assisted by Benjamin Hamilton IV, age 18 months, unveiled the monument. Angela Francis Brackett, Ulysses, and Summer Hill, Louisa, lineal granddaughters, placed USA flags at the graves of both Benjamin and Susannah. David Hamilton and State Senator John David Preston, Paintsville, lineal grandsons, placed a wreath. The John Graham Chapter past regent, Frances Preston Brackett of Allen, spoke briefly and gave the benediction.

Dunking the principal

April Hill makes the throw of a lifetime as she hits the target that dunks her principal during an activity day in October for students at Osborne Elementary.

Art work

Student Gabriel Stewart shows off a piece of art work to his mother, Cindy, and art teacher, Gerlene Layne, during open house at Osborne Elementary.

Adams attends annual Kentucky Library Association conference

Juanita Adams, of the Floyd County Public Library Board of Trustees, attended the annual Kentucky Library Association (KLA) Conference held in Paducah in October.

This year's conference, with the theme "Creative Patterns for the Future," featured two days devoted to members of Kentucky's library boards of trustees. October 27 was "Public Library Trustee Day" at KLA, and October 28 featured the annual Public Library Trustee Institute.

James A. Nelson, state librarian and commissioner of the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives (KDLA), welcomed the trustees, saying, "The root word of 'trustee' is trust; and the great strength of public libraries is that they have been put in the trust of highly principled and committed citizen-boards. From our perspective, it's really quite simple—if you have a good board, you have a good library. KDLA is committed to investing in the public trust by an ongoing training effort, done cooperatively with the Kentucky Library Trustee Association, to strengthen local boards across the Commonwealth."

The "Trustee Day" was devoted to business meetings and mini-sions of interest to library trustees from all over the state. Attendees focused on "Libraries: A Future With A Past" through the following sessions: enhancing organizational effectiveness in planning and conducting meetings; building a local electronic information base and Internet access; electronic networking on a shoestring; and revised open meetings and records laws. Following a banquet speech by Professor Jim Wayne Miller, novelist, poet and faculty member at Western Kentucky University, the trustees and their guests were treated to a dessert reception and tour of the Paducah Public Library.

After the welcome and remarks by James Nelson, the next day's Public Library Trustee Institute was devoted to two sessions of a day-long presentation by Dan Cain of the Cain Consulting Group. Back by popular demand from last year's institute, Mr. Cain focused on "Measuring the Effectiveness of the Library Board," and "Measuring the Effectiveness of the Library Director." As editor of Board and Administrator newsletter, Mr. Cain has been in contact with non-profit executives and board members nationwide, honing the board skills that are necessary for a successful board/executive relationship.

Sharing

On October 25, Dr. W. D. Osborne Elementary gave both staff members and parents an opportunity to share dinner, tour the classrooms, and discuss the children. Work samples were available as well as several displays of projects and classroom work. Approximately 200 people were in attendance. The event was co-sponsored by the South Floyd Family Resource Center. Principal Paul D. Tackett talked with Mr. and Mrs. Derby Osborne and family during Open House held.

McDowell Daredevil academic teammates remain undefeated

The McDowell Daredevil Academic Team is having a great year! So far, the team remains undefeated in quick recall and is in second place in written assessment.

Mr. Ord, the McDowell Academic Coach credits the team's success to hard work by the students and the support of the principal, Mr. Osborne, the backing of our parents and the help of the teachers.

The students at McDowell Elementary were treated to a pep rally, a competition in which the team of 13 took on the teachers.

The academic team won with a score of 20-10. Some of the teachers have also volunteered to help tutor the academic team students.

Individual students that have placed in written assessment so far this year include:

Ghosts and goblins

Halloween at McDowell Elementary seemed an exciting time! Cooks and staff members dressed up in colorful costumes for the occasion. Many instructional units on fall and the seasons were developed for students. Students and staff both enjoyed the holiday to its fullest.

PCC library receives book donation from labor-management committee

The Prestonsburg Community College Library recently received a donation of books and other educational materials from the Big Sandy Area Labor-Management Committee.

The donation, which includes a variety of books on the subject of labor-management relations, as well as computer software and other materials, was the first of its kind but it won't be the last, according to Rebecca DeRossett, executive director of the Labor-Management Committee. She said the committee will make similar donations as appropriate materials become available.

DeRossett said she was pleased to be able to make this donation to PCC, where the materials can be used for academic research and to increase public understanding in general of U.S. labor-management relations.

Sandra Robertson, PCC library director, said the donations would be made available to library users as soon as they were processed. "We're really pleased with this donation and believe it will really benefit our students and the community."

Joining Robertson in accepting the donation on behalf of PCC was Robert Campbell, Director of Continuing Education/Community Services. In addition to DeRossett, the Labor-Management Committee was represented by Regina Holbrook, an employee of American Standard and a member of the United Steelworkers union, and Mick Crum, labor co-chair of the committee, and president of USW Local Union 7926 at American Standard.

Taking the plunge

"One Down and Two To Go!" Principal Paul D. Tackett and Bryan Tackett looked on as Roger Johnson went under. October 6 was activity day for students at Dr. W. D. Osborne Elementary. There was a reversal of roles as students were given the opportunity to hold the fate of administrators in their hands. As one of the activities, Paul Tackett, Principal, Roger Johnson, and Bryan Tackett were sitting ducks as students were given the opportunity to throw a ball and dunk the person.

Community support

McDowell Elementary School and Poor Boy's Video have announced a School-Business Partnership for the 1995-96 school year. The partnership will promote academics and attendance. The school-business partnership includes the following incentives: five free rentals for perfect attendance after each grading period; five free rentals for a 4.0 average after each grading period; and two free rentals for a 3.0 average or better after each grading period. Pictured are Poor Boy's Video owner Lennie Hall and McDowell Elementary School Principal Howard K. Osborne. School-Business Partnerships promote community involvement with the educational process.

Doing my time

by Bruce Luttrell
I would like to tell you about doing time and the good and bad of it. I was a hardhead. Like most boys, when I was young, I had to find out for myself. I got into a lot of trouble when I was young, and as I got older, I got into more trouble. I went to jail when I was 18 years old for six months, and after that, it seems I was in jail more than I was at home. I got on drugs pretty bad and finally they got me for coke and gave me five years. I think I got lucky they got me because I was getting pretty bad on the drugs. I don't think I would be here today if they wouldn't have gotten me. I have learned a lot this time. I found the Lord, and He is helping me get through these hard times. I feel better now than I have ever felt. I am going to school now, and I am learning about the Bible. I got lucky and found peace here in prison. I have more now than I ever had. I have peace in my heart and my mind.

Bruce Luttrell is a resident of Floyd County. He shares several personal goals: "I would like to get my GED so when I get out of Otter Creek Correctional Center, I can get a better job and do more for my kids, wife, and self. I would also like to learn more about the Bible so I can help my kids learn more about the Bible."

Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

Centuries ago, our forefathers blamed the illness that claimed the lives of so many of their kinfolk on the stars and planets. It was believed that the mysterious lights floating around, overhead at night, emitted something bad that invaded their relatives, made them sick and caused them to die. In the 1500's the Italians named this dreaded disease influenza. Today we call it the flu.

In the 1930s and the 1940s, scientists discovered that the flu is caused by ever-changing types of viruses. These viruses enter our bodies, though our respiratory systems, in the form of microscopic parasites. They grow and multiply rapidly. When they become so overwhelming that our immune systems can no longer effectively fight them, we have the flu.

Oftentimes we wait too long before seeing our doctor. At first we have a tendency to think we have only a cold. Then, realizing that we are not getting better, we rationalize further, telling ourselves that we have a "bad" cold. "This is the worst of it," we tell ourselves, optimistic that we will be getting better soon. Because cold and flu symptoms are so much alike, especially in the early stages, we gamble with our health until we develop a severe respiratory infection.

This infection, if not slowed and killed by antibiotics, will develop into pneumonia. Pneumonia is caused by bacteria that collects and multiplies in our lungs causing them to become inflamed. Although the flu is rarely a fatal disease, pneumonia is one of the five leading causes of death among senior citizens 65 and older.

This is why it is so important that we not gamble too long with our health. After a few days, if our cold is progressing, we should see our doctor. If treated in it's early stages prescribed medications will usually kill the infection.

Early treatment is important. But prevention is even better. This is why it is so important that older Americans get their flu shots. If you are required to pay for them, the cost is reasonable. A flu shot is much cheaper than just one of many prescriptions you might need if you have to combat it.

Flu shots can be gotten at your doctor's office, at your local county health department, or at a not-for-profit medical clinic. Charges vary.

Medicare Part A and Part B and the state Medicaid card will pay for the shot. You may be required to pay for the office visit out of your own pocket. Check with your doctor, health department or clinic before making an appointment. But do make an appointment. The flu is expected to hit hard in the mountains in December.

This article is brought to you through outreach efforts of the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. In the Big Sandy region it is sponsored by APPALRED.

McDonald's managers complete training

Managers in McDonald's of Eastern Kentucky, owned and operated by Bob and Tom Hutchinson, recently completed training in a Basic Operations Course conducted at the regional office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The Basic Operations Course (BOC) consists of one week of classroom training by the Regional Training Department.

The purpose of BOC is to reinforce the knowledge and skills learned in the Management Development Program Volume I as well as to introduce additional operations and management skills which will enable the manager trainee to run his or her shift at an excellent level of quality, service and cleanliness.

Managers completing the BOC training included: Darla Salyers of the McDonald's of Louisa, Rhonda Fuggett and Robbie Blanton of the McDonald's of Paintsville, Charles Epling of the Downtown Pikeville McDonald's, Sheila Hughes of the McDonald's of Prestonsburg, Lenore Bowen of the McDonald's of Salyersville, and Kim Gullett and Denzil Keeton of the McDonald's of West Liberty.

Gullett, Keeton and Salyers subsequently completed additional training in a Basic Management Course (BMC) in Pittsburgh in which assistant manager-level employees participate in introductory classes on leadership, managing special situations, time planning and crew recognition.

McDonald's Management Development Program is built on shoulder-to-shoulder, hands-on learning that is conducted in the restaurant under the administration of the store manager.

All manager trainees start with McDonald's four-volume Management Development Program which structures the training philosophy from trainee to store manager.

Each volume of the Management Development Program is reinforced through classroom training held in regional offices.

Upon completion of three Management Development Program volumes, managers attend a two-week advanced operations course at Hamburger University.

On-going business/management skills training is conducted for store managers to continuously upgrade performances and enhance professionalism.

Coal mine wins reclamation award

Reclamation winner

The Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement and the Kentucky Coal Association presented a Joint Reclamation Award October 13 to Coal-Mac. Pictured above, from left, are Steve Case and Bob Daniels, with Coal-Mac, and DSMRE Commissioner Carl Campbell. The prestigious Honorable Mention 1995 Kenes C. Bowling National Mine Reclamation Award was also presented.

At the Kentucky Coal Association's annual meeting, regional awards were presented for the mine with the best reclamation.

The Kentucky Department for Surface Mining Reclamation & Enforcement and the Kentucky Coal Association presented jointly-sponsored reclamation awards, recognizing the best reclamation in each of the Department's five regional offices.

Commissioner Carl Campbell made the presentations.

The winner in the Prestonsburg Regional Office was Coal-Mac Inc., permit No. 836-0201.

This operation is located near Allen.

The permit was issued on July 7, 1988 for mountaintop removal and contour/auger mining.

Coal-Mac began mining operations during August, 1988.

Initial operations included establishing silt control and initial phases of hollowfill construction. During mining, nine silt control structures and four hollowfills were constructed.

Coal removal was completed in August, 1990.

Reclamation continued with all the initial seeding completed by September 1990. Trees were planted in February, 1991.

The permitted and established post mine land use is fish and wildlife.

Phase I bond releases were approved in December, 1991. Phase II releases were approved in December, 1992.

A visit to the reclaimed area today reveals the reclamation success.

Pointers For Parents

Your Child: Sick Of Being Sick?

"Why does my child keep getting sick?" "Why aren't antibiotics working?" "Why can't my doctor help?" These questions were asked by parents throughout the U.S. when they called the Jeffrey Modell Foundation's free hotline (1-800-JEFF-844). For many, the answers saved their children's lives.

Those children are among the 500,000 diagnosed with Primary Immune Deficiency, a genetic disorder, which makes the body susceptible to repeated infections and, in many instances decreases the body's ability to respond to antibiotics.

"Early diagnosis and treatment is essential to prevent recurring illnesses from doing permanent damage to internal organs and, in extreme cases, even causing death," says Dr. Charlotte Cunningham-Rundles, immunologist and professor of medicine and pediatrics at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York City.

Parents who suspect their children may have the disorder, should look for the following warning signs:

1. More than eight new ear infections.
2. Two or more serious sinus infections.
3. Two or more months on antibiotics with little effect.
4. Two or more bouts of pneumonia.

Failure of an infant to gain weight or grow normally.
Thrush in mouth or elsewhere on the skin.
Deep skin or organ abscesses.
Need for intravenous antibiotic to clear infections.
Two or more deep-seated infections, such as meningitis, osteomyelitis or sepsis.

A family history of the disorder.

The Jeffrey Modell Foundation is named for a 15-year-old boy who died of the disease in 1986. It is active nationwide in research, patient support services, physician education and national awareness. A 24-hour toll-free confidential hot-line offers free information and referrals. The number to call is 1-800-JEFF-844.

ASK JEFF JAY

Husband's Alcoholism Causes Family Pain

ASK JEFF JAY: I hear a lot about the problem of alcohol and drug abuse but very little about what a family can do when someone they love has a problem. Instead, I hear, "The alcoholic has to hit bottom" or "The drug abuser has to want help before they can get it." I want to know what the family is supposed to do in the meantime.

My husband has a problem with alcohol. When he drinks his personality changes. He gets argumentative and mean. It always leads to a fight and it's really affecting our three kids.

When we socialize, I never know if he'll drink too much and embarrass me. When I bring up my concerns about his drinking, he always turns it around and makes me feel like I'm the one with the problem.

We all live with fear and worry because of his
