by Patti M. Clark Staff Writer

One week after the death of its former superintendent, the Floyd County Board of Education, at a special meeting Wednesday, hired a Letcher County native to head up the school system. He can serve in the position for up to nine months.

Louie Martin, 66, was hired by unanimous vote to take over as interim superintendent in the system. He is the third interim superintendent in as many years.

Ron Hager resigned amid ouster proceedings in 1993 and was replaced by interim Eldon Smith, who served until August of 1993. Dr. Steve Towler was hired at that time and stayed until the fall of 1995 when he took a similar position in Russell County. Towler has experienced financial problems in Russell County similar to the ones discovered in Floyd County by his replacement, Ed L. Allen. Allen discovered the Floyd system's nearly $2 million deficit after he arrived last fall. He served until Dr. John Balentine took office in January.

Martin's appointment comes on the heels of the death of Balentine, who died October 16 of an apparent heart attack.

The board interviewed three candidates Wednesday during more than two hours in executive session before deciding on Martin, who was former superintendent of the Corbin City Schools. He was also a troubleshooter for the Jackson County Schools when that system was under state management a few years ago.

Also considered for the position was Floyd High School, and Robert Mahan, former superintendent of Seymour Community Schools in Seymour, Indiana.

Phil Paige has been serving as acting superintendent since October 18, when he was appointed by the board to lead the system until an interim was named.

School board chairman Eddie Patton said Martin's experience in financial difficulties led the board to select him.

"He has experience in a Kentucky school district and he has had experience troubleshooting financial problems," Patton said Wednesday night. Patton described Martin as a "man of integrity," who went to school "in the mountains."

"He seems to have a good hold on bud-Terry Stewart, a former principal of South gets and has indicated he will continue the debt reduction plan that Dr. Balentine has started," Patton said. "He has said he will continue to implement the plan, to stick with it, and to have us in the black by June

Hall found guilty

In murder-for-hire plot against his cousin

> by Patti M. Clark Staff Writer

A federal jury deliberated for just four and a half hours Thursday before finding a McDowell man guilty of four counts of murder for hire.

Sam Hall, 53, is facing a maximum penalty of 40 years in prison and a $1 million fine, according to United States Attorney Tom Self. He was remanded to custody pending sentencing, which is set for January 7.

Hall was convicted of offering $50,000 to have his cousin killed to collect on a $150,000 insurance

The jury received the case about 11:45 a.m., a federal court clerk, said Thursday afternoon.

Self said the critical point in the testimony was when prosecutors played tape recorded conversations of call confirming the plot against his cousin, Albert Hall, so that Sam Hall could collect on the insurance policy.

Prosecutors played audio tapes of the alleged plot to the jury Wednesday.

Hall's defense attorney, Steve Owens, said Tuesday during his opening statements that the two had taken out life insurance policies on each other.

They began kidding around about the issue and Albert Hall took it as a "perceived threat." Owens said the two had a grudge against each other even though they operated a business together.

Hall was arrested February 15 by FBI agents on the charges.

This spring, Hall pleaded guilty for trying to extort money from Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt

Hall is also under investigation by federal environmental officials for allegedly dumping thousands of gallons of sewage in an abandoned mine on Bill Hall Branch.

Eight Floyd Co. schools to get KIRIS rewards

by Patti M. Clark Staff Writer

Floyd County schools fared well in the recent round of KIRIS tests, but Phil Paige, director of instruction, isn't going to rest on his laurels.

"The high school performance is not where it should be," he said. "That bothers me."

Eleven of the 19 schools in Floyd County either met or exceeded their goals for the two-year testing cycle. Eight of those will share in an estimated $27 million in rewards, according to Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody.

Cody announced the test results

Wednesday morning. Earning rewards are teachers and administrators at Clark Elementary, Harold Elementary, Mc-Dowell Elementary, Melvin Elementary, Osborne Elementary, Prater Elementary, Stumbo Elementary, and Betsy Layne High School. These schools exceeded their goals by at least one point. Clark exceeded its goal by 7.8 points and Stumbo was close behind, getting 7.2 points above its goal. Harold and Betsy Layne have achieved reward status in both testing cycles.

"I applaud the effort the teachers and administrators at those schools are making," Paige said. Success schools achieved their goals, but achieved them by less than one point. Those schools include Auxier Elementary, and Betsy Layne Elementary.

Two other schools - Duff Elementary and Allen Central High School - met their scores in the second year of testing, but when their scores were averaged with the first-year results, they did not reach their goals.

The remaining schools fell into the improving category.

Paige said he is starting to see some schools pull away from others in the test results.

Former Martin coach Halbert dies

Big Sandy Health Care (BSHC) employees sent a message to the board of directors Wednesday when more than 97 percent of them voted to be represented by a union.

The vote was 33-1, in favor of union representation by the Service Employees International Union (SEIU).

The clinic's founder Eula Hall said the union movement was a symptom of personality conflicts between the executive director, Rodney Goff, and the clinic's staff.

She alleges Goff cares only about making a profit and not about the patients the clinic serves.

Thanks for support of drug proposal

Editor:

I would like to thank all those involved in the proposal of the Housing Authority of Martin Drug Elimination Grant.

A special thanks goes to the Floyd County community, the City of Martin, the residents of Pageant Hill and Grigsby Heights and most importantly to the youth of the developments, our youth advisor Kevin Sword for the proposal of youth ideas.

Mr. Sword, you are to be highly commended for bringing the youth together and making things happen for them. The youth will lose a great leader. We thank you for your time and patience with us. Once again, thank you for your time and efforts. Keep up the good work and never expect anything but the very best. You deserve it.

Thank you, housing authority staff and board of commissions for everything. We still see a change in our community.

Time to stand up for our children

Editor:

On September 26, my two daughters were coming home from school on their bus. They were getting off of the bus in front of our house when a man came up the road speeding. When he tried to stop, he skidded, leaving 120 feet of marks on the road. He could not stop and went around the bus, barely missing our daughters by mere inches! Still, he did not stop. On up the road he went.

I called the state police twice. They said there was nothing they could do. The dispatcher said I was being smart. I wonder how she would have felt if it had been her children? I also called the sheriff's department and no one came. I was hoping that someone would come and at least check the skid marks.

If we do not stand up for our kids, who will? It's not right to let people get by doing this to our children. They should be protected to school and from school.

I have seen people speeding by our school in the morning and afternoon in McDowell. If we will not protect our kids, who will? Are we going to stand by and let them do what they want to? It is time to do something for our children!

The Political Party

A very important legislative campaign issue

While serving on a six-month deployment to the Persian Gulf, I took the time to see the sights and traveled whenever my ship (the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz) would pull into port. The Middle East is a very unusual land. But, it is also a very rich land.

Nimitz had pulled into Dubai, U.A.E. and a small group of us had decided to hire a taxi to drive us down to the nation's capitol, Abu Dhabi. We had been told it was a very European type of city and, after months of living in the very uncorrupted and unexciting Arab culture, a little European-order. It was a two-hour drive through the middle of the desert with nothing but camels for scenery. In fact, the drive was so unevenful it would hardly be worth mentioning, were it not for something strange which arose from behind a sand dune half way through

In the middle of absolutely nowhere and surrounded by a sea of sand, it looked so out of place I would have thought it a mirage had it not also been seen by my fellow travelers. It was one of the most extravagant palaces I had ever laid my eyes upon. We asked the driver, "What in the world is that?!" With great effort, he managed to piece together the limited number of English words he had memorized and give us our answer. I'll not repeat him word for word, because I am still not exactly sure of

What we did manage to pluck from the driver's sentences was that the palace belonged to the Prince. His majesty would stop there to freshen up when traveling to and from Abu Dhabi. It was his own seventy-five room private rest stop!

Well, to shorten my story I will say Abu Dhabi was amazing. In the middle of the desert: grass was growing, champagne was chilled (and so was the beer), and the police were patrolling in brand new Mercedes automobiles. It was all bought and paid for with oil-coal's cleaner

The trip back is a much better story, involving Arab soldiers, guns and some very nervous American sailors; however, it has nothing to do with the very important issue I would like to discuss in this article. That issue is coal severance taxes.

Each region of this great state has something extremely unique to, and equally representative of, its culture. Western Kentucky was favored with William Natcher (among other things), Central Kentucky is blessed with beautiful and fast horses, and in Eastern Kentucky we've got coal, and lots of it. I have never heard, nor will live to hear, an Eastern Kentuckian place a legitimate claim upon Representative Natcher of the Thoroughbred Horse industry. Why does the state lay claim to our coal? The coal, and the taxes would which come with it, is ours. And we need them both very badly.

In the early 70s, Pike County Judge Wayne Rutherford recognized a major injustice being done to the up with an idea to set things right. He, along with many others, knew the majority of our land had been unscrupulously purchased by European, and national companies. These companies hire Eastern Kentuckians to pull the coal out of the ground and transport it to different markets so they can sell it and get rich. Judge Rutherford asked Frankfort if Pike, and the other coal counties, could be allowed to tax this coal. This only seemed fair, yet, his request was Senator Wendell Ford was governor at the time and he spent a couple of years thinking about the idea and the tremendous amount of revenue which would be raised. So, in 1974, he moved the legislature to impose a tax on the severed coal. However, instead of the individual coal counties, the state would tax the coal and the money would belong to the state. If any of the coal severance revenue was left over from the state's budget, they would very graciously return that money to the counties that produced the coal.

In '74, oil and gas prices were skyrocketing and everyone was making money off coal. And when the economy is good, economic injustice can be American revival was felt to be in the hotel pools were glistening, the Eastern Kentucky region and he came overlooked. In eastern Kentucky, like the Arabs; our grass was green, our pools were glistening and Mercedes automobiles were everywhere. But what goes up, must come down. In the late-80s, as we all know, coal went way down. In the aftermath of the decline, the coal severance tax finally became a very controversial issue.

In 1990, only about 10 percent of the severance tax money was coming back to coal producing and coal impacted counties. In '91 a special session saw Central Kentucky, Northern Kentucky, and Jefferson County state legislators meeting behind closed doors discussing their plan to oppose a badly needed and entirely justified increase in coal severance revenue returned to our devastated region. Our legislators fought hard in opposition, even threatening to boycott Central Kentucky businesses; however they were outnumbered, and they fought a losing battle.

While campaigning for Governor in 1991, Brereton Jones promised Eastern Kentucky to increase the amount of returning coal severance tax revenue up to 50 percent. The 1992 General Assembly refused to go that high, but there was a substantial increase. Last year, Governor Patton and Larry Forgy promised to return 50 percent if elected. Paul Patton said he would do it in his first year as governor while Forgy said he would do it over a period of years. Patton, of course, won the election and in January decided to postpone his campaign promise, realizing that, once again, the General Assembly would oppose such a substantial increase. We, as Eastern Kentuckians, have to start asking why! Call your legislators and your legislative candidates. That money is yours, that money is ours. Since our coal counties absorb 100 percent of the damage from coal, we should receive 100 percent of the severance tax revenue coming out of

Should we share equally the severance money with the other regions of the state? Look on a map. Has the state shared the state road fund money equally? Look at our schools. Do we have equal educational systems? Look at our economy. Are we equal to the rest of the state? That money is ours. If we had it, we might not have palaces for rest stops, but our high school students might not have to desert ther homeland to find a job or continue their education, and we could abandon all dependence upon welfare and start building a healthy economy.

Board expected to appeal special education ruling

by Patti M. Clark Staff Writer

The Floyd County Board of Education is expected to appeal a ruling that it reopen a special education unit at Betsy Layne High School.

Board officials confirmed Thursday that it would appeal the rulings on four students who attended classes at the Betsy Layne school.

"We are appealing," board attorney Phil Damron said.

Until that appeal is decided, Damron said students could attend classes at other high schools in the county. They have been kept at home this entire school year.

"We believe it is illegal for them to be kept home," Damron said. "We believe the movement of that unit was legal and that will stand until the appeal is decided."

Parents of the special education students have been fighting against the closure of the unit since they first received notice last summer that the unit would be closed.

They have argued that abruptly dents be put back into their class-tional harm to their children and that routine is important to them.

'We have doctors' statements saying this movement would be harmful to my child," Barbara Sword, the mother of one student said. "It tears my child to pieces when we come to Prestonsburg.'

Her 16-year-old son was to have been moved to the special education unit at Prestonsburg High School. Another parent, Charlotte King, said her daughter was to have been moved to South Floyd High

The two students have taken classes together for ten years and Sword said that separating them would be detrimental to their devel-

The parents have filed suit against the Floyd County Board of Education, asking for an injunction against the closing of the unit. Circuit Judge Danny P. Caudill did not rule on the request after a hearing earlier this year

Earlier this month, hearing officer Qaisar Sultana ruled that stu-

changing schools could cause emo- room through the invocation of the tendent Dr. John Balentine's deci- reduction plan approved by the "Stay Put provision" of the federal Individuals With Disabilities Education Act. "The Stay Put provision is invoked," the order for Sword's son states. "Within 30 days of the receipt of this decision, (the local school board) is to make all the necessary arrangements to enable the student to return to educational placement identified in his 1996-97 (individual education plan) developed on May 17 and June 14, 1996 and receive a free appropriate education according to his IEP."

Similar orders were issued by Sultana for each of the other stu-

Sultana also recommended that a thorough review of the school system's special-needs programs, including provisions for transportation for handicapped children. That review was also to determine if about 30 students moved to different schools in the last year are "receiving a free appropriate public education in accordance with both federal and state regulations."

Sultana's assessment of the situation indicates that former superinsion to close the unit was based solely on financial reasons and didn't take into consideration the needs of the children.

Several due-process hearings were held earlier to give the parents as well as the school system a chance to defend their stances on the closing of the unit.

According to documents included with Sultana's ruling, the child should be in a unit that is as close as possible to the child's home and should be educated in the school which he or she would attend if the child was not handicapped.

Placement of that child is to be based on the student's IEP. Charlotte Kings' daughter's IEP indicates she was to be in the FMD Special Class at Betsy Layne High School. "Any assignment contrary to the student's IEP violates this regulation," the ruling states.

"Regardless of what the assignment mentioned in the superintendent's letter of July 1 was, it was not based on the student's IEP," Sultana's recommendation states. "Instead it was based on the deficit divorced mother of two, was going from one unsatisfying, low-wage job to another. She worked as a farmer, babysitter, waitress and secretary before being trained as a truck driver and welder through Kentucky Tech.

Her life changed when she attended a survival skills workshop, a segment of the Single Parent/ Homemaker program at Prestonsburg Community College, which exposes women to nontraditional careers. Kentucky Tech instructors in areas such as electronics, plumbing and carpentry explain and demonstrate various skills and occupations.

"We are the step that prepares (program participants) to choose the proper career path," said Jean Rosenberg, director of the Single Parent/Homemaker programs in Prestonsburg. "We help them realize that there are choices and we help match them with the right one.'

'Partners in Family Medicine for Rural Kentucky' grant program for medical students established family physicians in rural areas of the Commonwealth, the Kentucky Academy of Family Physicians (KAFP) Foundation, Inc. and the Anthem Foundation, Inc. have created a new grant program designed to benefit medical students who agree to practice Family Medicine in a rural Kentucky community. The announcement was made during a reception for Kentucky medical students at the Governor's mansion celebrating "National Primary Care Day" on October 21.

"There is a serious shortfall of family physicians in the rural areas of our state," said James P. Murphy, Anthem Foundation, Inc. board chanrman and Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield chief executive officer and president. "We believe the creation of this program is a step

In response to the shortage of also hope this will attract additional attention from other groups, to the lack of medical care in these areas and will bring a more comprehensive solution to this problem. As an advocate of health promotion, the foundation's attention is focused on improving wellness throughout our communities in Kentucky," added Murphy. "Family physicians are a very large part of that equation and we hope this program strengthens their impact in our rural areas."

"The Partners in Family Medicine for Rural Kentucky" grant program is designed to help reimburse the educational debt incurred by medical students and assist them during their required three-year residency program in Family Medicine," explained Nancy Swikert, M.D., chair of the KAFP Foundation. Under the program, be selected annually for a $20,000 a year award for a four-year period. Dr. Swikert continued, "This program is designed to attract our state's outstanding medical students who are seeking to become leaders in family medicine."

Candidates will be chosen from among medical students attending either the University of Kentucky College of Medicine or the University of Louisville School of Medicine. Applications for the program will be available through the KAFP Foundation, Inc. and at both medical schools. The grant program is made possible through a $160,000 grant from Anthem Foundation, Inc. A panel of judges comprised of representatives from the Anthem Foundation and the KAFP Foundation will review candidates for the program. The first recipients will be awarded their grants in March 1997.

Stumbo Elementary places first in state wide competition

For the second week in a row, John M. Stumbo Elementary students placed first in state wide competition. Three teams from John M. Stumbo Elementary placed first, second and third in competition against other elementary, middle, high school and college teams across the state in the simulated stock market game sponsored by Economics America.

Gary Spears, middle school math teacher at Stumbo, uses the simulated game to teach mathematics and economics skills to his middle grade math students. The students enjoy watching their stocks grow in value as they use mathematics to calculate gains and losses over periods of time.

by Freddy Groves

Many of the world's problems today can be traced to the First World War which not only pitted royal cousins against each other (the Russian Czar, the German Kaiser, and the English King were all grandsons of Queen Victoria), but also led to the toppling of governments and social revolutions and set the stage for the outbreak of World War II and all that followed from there.

A fascinating new documentary series, "The Great War and the Shaping of the 20th Century," explores not only the military, but also the cultural and social issues of the time and explains why we still hear their echoes today. The series starts on November 10 on PBS, and continues on November 11, 12, and 13.

They say those who don't learn from history are doomed to relive it. Maybe we can all learn something from "The Great War."

Special thanks for the Nursing Riverview Home staff and residents, the Para-medics and Dr. Benzendine of the Highlands Memorial Hospital for their hand and effort in trying to save our mom.

Special thanks to the Nelson and Frazier Funeral Home for their services for a fine job.

So many thanks for Pastor Van West of the Katy Friend Freewill Baptist Church of Prestonsburg, Ky. for his kindness and consoling words. The special singing was just beautiful and the use of the church for our precious mom was appreciated.

We want to thank each and every one for the food that was brought in for the family and friends.

Also for the beautiful flowers and words of kindness and consoling words of Pastor Buster Hayton of the Free Pentecostal Church of East Point, and Pastor Ted Shannon and his singers from the church at Drift.

Everything went just how mom would have wanted it.

We hope no one went unnoticed in our sorrowful time.

But God saw everyone. You are in our thoughts and prayers. We will treasure every person. Every word and song will always be in our May God's blessing be upon each and every one So many thanks for Mom's granddaughters, Deane Hackworth and Charlotte Hall in taking care of the food and

Rose Oney Ferguson

Rose Oney Ferguson, went to be with the Lord and her loved ones, on October 17, 1996, at 8:00 p.m. She passed away at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg, Kentucky. She was a resident of the Riverview Manor Nursing Home for the past three years, with a lengthy illness.

Rose was born on March 5, 1918, at Beech Creek, West Virginia. Born to Mont (Buddy) Chafins and Ida Hatfield Maynard. who preceded her in death. Born into this union of five brothers and three sisters: She was preceded in death by three of her brothers, Cecil Chafins, French Chafins, and Leonard Chafins, and by one sister, Georgia Ball Goforth; one stepdaughter, Eulah Belcher, one step-son, Robert Oney; one grandson: Michael Oney. She is survived by two half brothers and two half sisters, Earnest Cisco and Thomas Maynard Jr. of Jamestown, Ohio, Betty Kraft of Cleveland, Ohio, and Vercie Bennett of Gauley Bridge. West Virginia.

Rose and Rev. James B. Oney, were mar-ried in the year of 1937. They lived at Wayland, Kentucky for many years. Into this union were born 11 children, three of which preceded them in death, O. C. Oney, Georgia Oney and Anna Collins. She is survived by eight of the children: Imagene Oney Vance and son-in-law, Jackie, of Springboro, Ohio; Curt Oney and daughter-in-law, Beverly of Xenia, Ohio; Bennia Oney of Moraine, Ohio; Zetta Collins, and son-in-law, William, of East Point, Kentuck; David Oney and daughter-in-law, Beulah of Moraine, Ohlo, Herbert Oney and daughter-in-law, Sherline of Dayton, Ohio; Darlene Collins and son-in-law, Johnny, of Weeksbury, Kentucky; Danny Oney and daughter-in-law, Gloria; of Moraine, Ohio; two step-daughters, Vivian Oney Gibson and Erma Oney Chafins both of Wayland, Kentucky, Rose later married Johnny Ferguson of Prestonsburg. Unto this union was born one son, Timothy Ferguson and daughter-in-law, Beverly of Inez. There are 25 grandchildren, 32 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren, and a host of many nieces and nephews, and friends, who will mourn

Many special thanks for the ones at the Riverview Nursing Home, the nurses, staff, and friends who took special care. Morn knew and could talk to everyone right up until the end, praying and talking about her Lord and Savior. She loved everyone. She had served the Lord for 53 years. She was a devoted wife, mom, grandmother to all of her children whom she loved so much. A devoted born-again Christian which she loved to serve the Lord. That was her life, her chil dren and her church. Her prayers will be sadly missed but no more pain and suffering. She will be sadly missed by many who loved her. It's so hard to separate in this life. But we can see her again if we will serve the Lord. We loved her so much. She was a special mom and grandmother. A member of the Free Pentecostal Church, East Point, Kentucky.

Sadly missed by family and friends, There was a special place in mom's heart for Little Tim, a grandchild she nurtured until she became ill. A special sister-in-law Media Chafin, of Beech Creek, W. Va.

"And we want miners as well as their spouses, their children, and other relatives to know that these hazards can be prevented when proper precautions are taken."

"LEADERSHIP YOU CAN BE PROUD OF"

Benny Ray Bailey has led the fight in the Kentucky Legislature to reduce your tax burden.

To cut the income tax on low income persons.

To cut the inheritance tax to protect your family's assets.

To cut the automobile tax assessments and make them fair.

To raise the standard deduction from $650 to $1700.

To elminate state tax on all pensions for our elderly.

In the 1996 Session, Benny Ray sponsored legislation to eliminate the property tax on your home, but Senator Preston voted against it and it failed.

While lower your taxes, Benny Ray has fought to see that our East Kentucky people receive their fair share of state spending for education, roads, public facilities and vital services. Benny Ray sponsored the legislation to return 50% of our coal serverance tax to create JOBS right here in the Mountains and fought for equal funding for our schools.

KET concludes its Election '96 series with "The Vote," airing live at 7 Tuesday, November 5.

Applications being accepted for the 1997 Governor's School for the Arts

By the second week of October, applications for the 1997 Governor's School for the Arts will have been mailed to every Kentucky high school. Students must have them signed sealed and delivered to meet the November 30 deadline. Any student who is a sophomore or junior during the 1996-97 school year, who resides in Kentucky and also currently attends a Kentucky high school may apply.

The Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts (GSA) is a residential training program where talented, high school students who are dancers, actors, instrumental or vocal musicians, creative writers and visual artists join together for three weeks in the summer to explore the discipline and freedom of the creative processes. GSA participants are selectively by audition each spring on the basis of their creativity, talent and potential in their chosen art form. There is no minimum GPA necessary to qualify, however students must be in good standing with their schools. Students may see their high school's GSA liaison or guidance office for an application, or call the GSA office at (502) 562-0192.

Court evidence hinges on people, papers

by Ralph B. Davis The Paintsville Herald

Unlike the O. J. Simpson case, don't expect to see evidence gained through secret recordings or subjected to scientific analysis when federal corruption charges against Johnson County Judge-Executive Hobert Meade and his brother-inlaw, former road and bridge supervisor Woodrow Thomas Staniford, are finally heard in court in February.

Papers filed in U.S. District Court in Pikeville say the govern-and witness interviews gathered during an eight-month Federal Bureau of Investigation probe into Johnson County government.

According to the prosecution's response to a defense request for discoverable information, Assistant U.S. Attorney Pat Molly says he does not plan to introduce into evidence any recorded statements of either Meade or Staniford and has no evidence gained through search warrants, arrest warrants, lineups or intercepted communications.

Molloy also claims that the FBI ment's case against the two men investigation uncovered no evi-will hinge entirely on documents dence which could clear either at trial." Meade or Staniford.

None of the evidence gathered by the government was submitted for scientific or other examination.

The court papers indicate that only one attempt was made to record Meade.

"[T]he FBI did attempt to record a phone call with Defendant Meade, but [he] did not come to the phone," Molloy writes in his response. "Even though no conversation occurred, the United States is providing a copy of the tape for what it is worth. The United States does not intend to offer the tape as evidence Molloy submitted a similar motion October 1 for discovery from the defendants. No response to that request has been filed.

Meade is being represented by Paintsville attorney C. K. Belhasen and by Roger W. Hall with the Ashland firm of Hall, Howell and Sergent.

Staniford's attorney Paintsville attorney Paul Deaton.

Meade and Staniford are charged with conspiring to accept kickbacks from local contractors working on road repair projects funded by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. Meade is also accused of taking part in a scheme to defraud the fiscal court out of thousands of dollars by selling two dump trucks to the county at inflated prices.

Two others who were indicted along with Meade and Staniford reached plea bargain agreements with the government back in September.

Former road supervisor Ernie Vanhoose entered a plea for his part in a kickback scheme.

Flat Gap auto dealer Johnny Pennington pled guilty to a charge he participated in the dump truck conspiracy.

Staniford seeking separate trial

The Paintsville Herald

When County Judge-Executive Hobert Meade stands trial next February on federal corruption charges, his brother-in-law, Woodrow Thomas Staniford, is hoping not to be there.

Staniford's attorney, Paul Deaton, has filed a motion to have his case severed from Meade's in U.S. District Court in Pikeville.

Both Meade and Staniford face charges related to an alleged kickback scheme involving road repair projects funded by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. But Meade is also charged in a separate, alleged scheme involving the sale of dump trucks to the fiscal court at inflated prices.

Both men have pled not guilty to all charges against them.

Because of additional charges against Meade, Staniford should be tried separately, Deaton writes. According to the motion, a jury would be prejudiced against Staniford by listening to the additional charges against Meade.

"The cumulative impact of the ment's evidence will be prejudicial to Mr. Staniford," Deaton writes. "By the time he is called to defend himself against charges that are down the list, the jury will have heard a great deal about crimes for which Mr. Staniford is not charged, including evidence about the illegal exchange of money. While defendants Meade, (former road the foreman Ernie) Vanhoose and (Flat Gap auto dealer Johnny) Pennington may very well have solid defenses to these charges, joining them is none the less prejudicial to Mr. Staniford."

Vanhoose and Pennington were also charged in the indictment that named Meade and Staniford and have each pled guilty to one charge of the indictment.

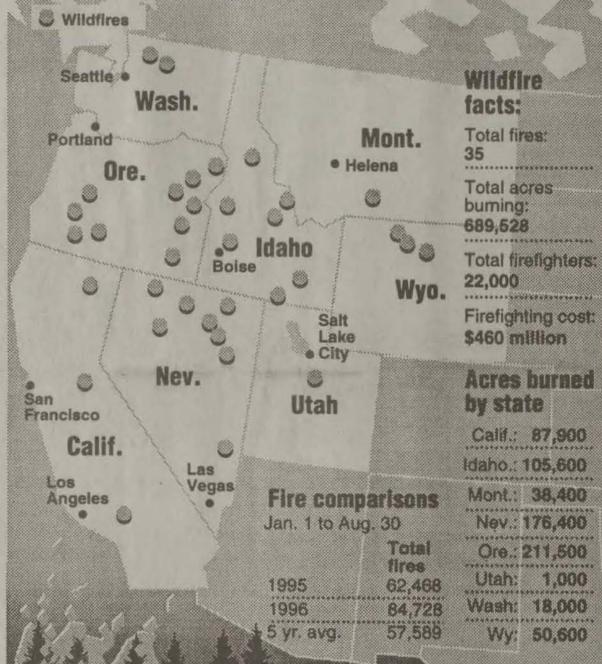

Vanhoose pled guilty to a charge involving the FEMA kickbacks, while Pennington pled guilty to a conspiracy charge involving the dump trucks.

U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood has not made a ruling on Staniford's request.

Currently, both Meade and Staniford are scheduled to go to

Wal-Mart Supercenter to receive assistance from city commission

by Kim Stacy Appalachian News-Express

The Pikeville City Commission voted Monday, October 21, to provide up to $458,000 in economic assistance to a new Wal-Mart Supercenter that will be built in

The new Wal-Mart, which is expected to employ about 400 people, will be constructed at Buckleys Creek, next to Lowe's and Goody's.

The proposed project received the green light after the city commission agreed to adopt three resolutions. Officials said the new store could be open by next fall.

"We're very much in favor of this project," said Rusty Davis, attorney for the city of Pikeville. "Any money we put into this project to help get it off the ground we will get back the first year in

The three resolutions adopted by the commission included the following measures as a means of economic assistance for development:

* The construction of a roadway to property which would extend part of Cassady Boulevard to the store at a cost of $235,000;

· Assist in doing some work in the floodplain on the property.

As a means of funding this last measure, the city voted to allow funds currently held in escrow to be used for that purpose. Those funds total $173,000. Any funding needed in excess of that amount will be paid by Wal-Mart.

According to the project engineer who was at Monday's meeting. Wal-Mart advertised for bids on the project this week.

The new store will be about 200,000 square feet, almost three times as large as the current one on Crossroads Plaza.

Davis said gross sales for the store during the first year are expected to be about $58 million with a payroll of about $5 million.

The city will benefit from the store through the collection of taxes. Davis said the city has estimated it will receive $100,000 a year in occupational tax from a two percent payroll tax; $95,000 a year in real estate tax; and $75,000 in personal property tax.

New TV station planned

Is a television station in Paintsville's future? It is if the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) approves the application for construction of a new commercial station to operate on UHF Channel 69.

According to a copy of the application filed by United Television Inc., (UTV) of Beverly Hill, California, the estimated construction cost and the first three months of operation are put at $8.5 million. In order to expedite its plan, UTV is seeking a wavier of the 1987 FCC freeze order. That freeze put a halt on television allotments and authorizations in a specified zone around 30 designated markets in order to provide flexibility to allocate channels for new advanced or digital television services.

In justification of the freeze lifting, UTV said that less than two years ago, a sister corporation launched a United Paramount Network (UPN) bringing new competition to the field of national network TV and valuable support for numerous independent stations throughout the U.S

Another UTV sister station owns WWOR-TV in Secaucas, New Jersey. That channel is seen locally on P&W TV Cable, Big Sandy TV Cable and Tele-Media. -The Paintsville Herald

Wrecks kills Van Lear man

James D. Butcher, 36, of Van Lear, was driving a 1991 Ford Explorer along Tackett Branch in Collista when police say he lost control of his vehicle, left the road and overturned down an embankment.

Callers who reported the accident to the 911 center said it appeared that Butcher was hanging out of the truck's window with the vehicle resting on top of him. The truck also caught fire. Butcher was pronounced dead at the

Pileup on Parkway blamed on gas war

Salyersville's "gas war" apparently was the indirect cause of a four car pileup on the Mountain Parkway Saturday night, October 12.

Motorists passing through Magoffin County that Saturday met with unexpected traffic jams caused by the astronomical drop in gas prices at stations flanking Rt.

During daylight hours, no serious problems were reported. However, darkness made the stalled traffic even more of a hazard.

The four vehicles involved in the accident were all driven by residents from other cour

The first of four, a two-tone truck was west bound on the parkway. Just after passing Puckett's Truck Stop, the unidentified driver of the truck came upon the line of traffic stopped in his lane. Unable to be brought to a stop, the pickup smashed into a Ford Bronco driven by Billy Runyon. Runyon's wife was a passenger in the vehicle, which was pushed into a black Lincoln directly in front of them. In the final reaction of the domino-effect response, the Lincoln rear-ended a van. The van careened to the right, into the yard of a mobile home. The other vehicles involved were scattered across the west-bound land and the middle turn lane.

Four of the people involved in the accident were transported to the Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center in Paintsville for examination and possible treatment. Their condition is not known. - The Salyersville Independent

Salyersville City Council feels left out of cut-thru project

The Salyersville City Council recently voiced displeasure about the turn of events that removed Salyersville as the lead sponsor of the Magoffin County Salyersville Cut-Thru Project.

According to Frazier, the City of Salyersville and the Salyersville City Council were originally listed as lead sponsors of the project. Then, both Salversville and Magoffin County were later named as co-sponsors.

"The Corps would not approve co-sponsors. They wanted only one contact for the project. The county was more financially capable of taking care of the project," said Roger Recktenwald, executive director of the Big Sandy Area Development District.

Recktenwald said the city is urged to send a representative to participate in a "partner's meeting" to be held in November. This meeting will include representatives of the Corps of Engineers, contractors, Big Sandy ADD, who will meet with Magoffin County Judge-Executive Charles Hardin and a designee.

Frazier and council member Charles Basham informed Recktenwald that they were very pleased that the project was going as well as it is and that their only problem is "how to handle the situation."

Plans for a ground breaking ceremony have not yet been completed. — The Salyersville Independent

Inez mayor drops tax move for now

During last Thursday's, October 17, special Inez city Commission meeting, more than 50 residents shouted comments on the issue of a proposed 16.5 cents on $100 of property on businesses and residents within the city limits of Inez.

But Mayor Winnie Muncy, along with two other council members, ignored the tax question, which was not on the agenda, and consequently the issue could not

City residents and business owners are in an uproar over the proposed property tax that is being required by state officials to make the city eligible for state funding.

"I wouldn't mind this if it were a small tax, but this rate is still a little high," said Sara Callaham, whose family owns the Richmond-Callaham Funeral Home in Inez.

At the end of the meeting, city clerk Sheila Hardin announced that State Director of Local Finance for the Division of County and Municipal Accounting Thompson L. Armstrong will be on hand Monday, October 28, at 1 p.m. to answer any questions regarding the tax issue. - The Martin County Sun

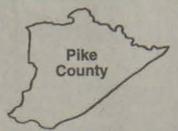

Dead man's house burglarized; guns and cash stolen

William Alfonso Mollett's body was lying in state at Trinity Church Sunday night, October 20, when thieves broke into his house by kicking open the back door and took his possessions, including more than $3,500 in guns and $150 from his billfold, Martin County Sheriff Darriel Young said.

The Sheriff dispatched Deputy B. K. Preece, along with KSP Trooper Vic Brown at about 2 a.m. Monday morning after a call came in from a relative of Mollett.

Deputy Preece was able to lift fingerprints from the scene that have been sent to the state lab for identification. There are suspects in the case, police said.

Millers Creek man guilty of receiving stolen property

Richard Maynard, 38, of Millers Creek Road, was found guilty recently of receiving stolen property.

The charge involved a bulldozer wench, valued at approximately $3,500. The wench had been stolen from the Millers Creek operation of Chaffin's Lumber, owned by John Chaffin.

Maynard, who was represented by Terry Mulliken of Larry Webster's Law Office, contended he did not know the wench was stolen property when he sold it to a used parts dealer in Union, West Virginia.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Ron Burchett prosecuted the case, noting that Maynard has several other pending indictments. A Pike Circuit Court Jury recommended a two and one-half year sentence for Maynard. — Appalachian News-Express

Ransom man shot in hospital parking lot

A 20-year-old Hatfield man was arrested Tuesday afternoon, October 15, after he allegedly shot another man in a hospital parking lot, police said.

According to the Kentucky State Police, Michael Dingess and 21-year-old Scott Hager, of Ransom, met in the parking lot of Appalachian Regional Hospital to fight after earlier arguing on the telephone.

When the two met in the parking lot, Dingess pulled a .44-calibur special handgun and shot Hager in the neck. Hager was admitted to the South Williamson Hospital for treatment.

Dingess fled the scene but was later arrested at Hardy by Kentucky State Police Captain Roy Sturgill and Troopers Andrew Cain and Kevin Newsome.

Dingess was lodged in the Pike County Detention Center. He was charged with wanton endangerment and attempted murder, police said. The case is being investigated by Detective Terry Thompson. - Appalachian News-Express

News of the Weird by Chuck Shepherd

- On September 19, a branch of the large, financially troubled Czech Republic bank Agrobanka was robbed of about $8,000. The next day, Agrobanka head Jiri Klumpar praised the robbery as a sign of public confidence, signifying that people now believe the bank actually has money in it.

In September, former Navy Ensign Dana R. Collins, 35, was convicted of the murder of a colleague after police found a to-do Jist that included the items "Take him out," "Cut him up/take head/fingers and toes," "Put him in 2 bags," and "Drive body to Pennsylvania. Keep head and fingers and toes-scatter on way back." And after Gary Lynn Davis, 43, was arrested in July and charged with sexual assaults on several children around Adrian, Pa., police found in his home a neatly printed, three-page list of 125 "Boys and Girls I've Been With" that included abbreviations for the acts committed with each.

THE LITIGIOUS SOCIETY

-In July, artist Victoria Baldwin prevailed in her lawsuit against the Sydney, Australia, salon Synergy

$234 to compensate her for the hats she had to buy to disguise the cut, which she described as so bad that she looked like Hillary Clinton.

- Scott Byron Morrison, 47, in jail awaiting trial for the 1995 murder of his ex-wife, filed a $500,000 lawsuit against Calgary (Alberta) General Hospital in August. Morrison claims that if the hospital had properly treated him for a mental illness, he would not have been released and would not, four days later, have killed the woman with a shotgun blast.

Earlier this year, unsuccessful Puyallup, Wash., school-board candidate Dale Washam filed a lawsuit against House Speaker Newt Gingrich, the Washington state Republican party and others because, he said, the Republicans stole the 1994 "Contract With America" idea from him. Washam said he originated the concept of holding political candidates to their promises when he ran in 1991, 1992 and 1993.

Customer Jerry Merich filed a lawsuit against the Starbucks Corp. in July over a 1995 injury in which a Starbucks employee in the company's Littleton, Colo., shop greeted him with a "high five" slap of the hand and caused a shoulder injury which left Merich unable to work for six months.

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL SPIRIT

- In August, Chris Bowdish's Chevron gas station in Lake Oswego, Ore., offered free mammograms administered by local hospital personnel. Said Bowdish, over a bad haircut she got last year. She won $750 plus "You can tune up your body while you're having your car tuned up.

- A Minneapolis firm is marketing an electronic device that allows people to see whether they have the proper temperament to become parents in that it "cries" at random intervals (more often on the "cranky" setting than on the "easy" setting) and stops only when the "parent" reacts properly. To stop the crying, a probe must be held in place for up to 35 minutes to simulate the time required to bathe and comfort the crying infant. Shaking or tilting the device causes it to register an

- In July, Philadelphia inventor Bill Killian introduced the Lawn Buddy message machine, in which a 5inch-tall mechanical animal arises from a flower pot placed by the front door, announces that the resident is away, and invites the visitor to say a message. Killian says it will be on the market in early 1997 for about

- Earlier this year and backed by $100,000 in federal, state and private grants, Kodiak, Alaska, photographer Marion Stirrup developed PlanTea, a nutrient-rich mix of kelp, fish bone meal, dried beet root powder and other ingredients, which she touts as a superior plant food. Stirrup says the list of ingredients came to her telepathically from her 16-inch palm plant, georgiane (which prefers its name spelled with a lower-case G. Stirrup said).

The Brass Company will be in concert this Saturday, October 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Mayo Memorial United Methodist Church, Third Street, Paintsville.

The performance will feature a wide variety of musical styles-including classical jazz and dixieland selections.

The group has been conducting musical education programs in both the Johnson County and Paintsville Independent school systems as part of the Chamber Music America Rural Residencies Program.

Members of the Brass Company will reside in Paintsville until May 1997; however, this will be their only public concert in Johnson County.

This performance is part of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series. Season tickets, or tickets for this performance can be purchased by calling 886-2623 or 789-5625.

Tickets for this performance are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors, and $4 for students.

The Eyes Have It

A group of researchers has determined that persons with the eye disorder, commonly referred to as nearsightedness are ranking extremely high on intelligence tests. I decided that this latest scientific discovery in vision research might possibly be the greatest asset to optometry since the invention of the bifocals, when a friend telephoned me to inform me of her child's latest illness.

'Guess what," my friend said, excitedly. "Little Timmy has been diagnosed as being

"I'm so sorry, Lorraine. Whatever are you going to do?"

"I've already done it. I had him fitted for eye glasses.

"Did they perform an examination?" I asked. 'Yes, and he couldn't read the eye chart even though it was only ten feet away from him."

"But he's only three months old," I said. "You're just jealous because your son has 20/20 vision," she said, dolefully.

"I'm thankful he has good vision," I said. "I'm just sorry Timmy has to wear eye glasses at such a young age.'

"I couldn't be more tickled," she said. "He's automatically eligible for enrollment to

"You don't wear glasses," I said.

"I do now," she said. "I bought a pair with clear lenses so people could see how smart I

"I see. Anyone who wears glasses is intelligent. What if you're farsighted and wear glass-

"Farsightedness and perfect vision are still gray areas of discussion, but doesn't it stand to reason that farsightedness would be the opposite of nearsightedness?"

"Don't ask me," I said eerily. "You're the

"Say, you're farsighted aren't you?" she asked. "Well, sort of," I whispered into the receiver.

"You don't have to be so secretive with me, I'm your best friend. Did you ever figure out how to use your VCR?"

'Truthfully, Lorraine, I'm blind in one eye." Blind in one eye, farsighted in the other. How did you ever pass your driver's test?" "I took the orals," I said sarcastically.

My head was starting to spin as my mind conjured up pictures of optometrists' waiting rooms jam-packed with mental midgets making appointments for eye glass fittings. Men, women, and children hoping against hope that their eye sight was sufficiently to qualify them as myopic.

"My husband and I believe that Timmy's eyeglasses are several hundred dollars cheaper than a set of encyclopedias."

"That doesn't make sense, Lorraine."

"Haven't you been listening? With an IQ as high as Timmy's, he won't need encyclopedias. And anyway . . . " Lorraine continued to drone while I thought of how different life on this planet was going to become. Dinner parties would never be the same. It's hard to conceive of someone walking up to you and saying, "Hello, my name is Ronald and I'm myopic," or, "I was watching you from across the room, and I couldn't help but notice the way you had to look real close at the guest register. You wouldn't be myopic would you?"

Extreme Measures

So you want to be a huge celebrity with insured success? Seems to me, the best way to go about it is to get caught with a prostitute, especially if you're married or in a committed relationship. Two recent examples that come to mind, of course, are Dick Morris, disgraced political guru, and Hugh Grant, who stars in this flick.

In his first dramatic role since he hit the scene, Grant portrays Guy Luthan, a compassionate, young physician practicing medicine in Manhattan. Unwittingly, he stumbles upon a very distressing medical mystery. An older doctor who served as Guy's mentor turns out to be conducting unethical experiments on unknowing human subjects.

For his part, Dr. Myrick (Gene Hackman) enjoys national celebrity as a recognized authority on spinal cord injuries. However, he is literally consumed with trying to find a cure and will stop at nothing to do so. Human beings become disposable props in this quest.

While this film could easily descend into the land of cliches, it manages to be quite a serviceable thriller, thanks largely to Hackman and Grant. Unfortunately, there are quite a few weak moments, trying to engage in ethical medical debate while entertaining at the same time.

As the flick unreels, it seems to take forever to get to the real conflict which is the basis of the movie. It literally drags, causing some fidgeting and boredom among moviegoers. However, once it gets going, it delivers the goods.

All in all, it's a good-enough film that could have been a lot better. My take? Two stars.

"When she and her husband-played by Beau Bridgesmove into their new home, she begins to experience certain terrifying events and believes the spirit of her stillborn child is in the house. But when a psychic played by Shirley Knight tells her the ghostly presence in her home is much more malevolent, Patti must find a way to break the hold of the evil force and save her family. I attended the ceremonies which were held in the Disney-MGM Studios complex in Orlando, Fla., on October 5. During a press conference before the induction ceremonies, the winners made some interesting observations about television's future. Ed Asner said, "I'm concerned that in our rush to 'reform' television to, as they say, protect children, that we don't wind up producing one bland production after another and cause the already low number of network viewers to turn to cable to get the programs they want to see."

Floyd County lost a real Hall of Famer

Tuesday evening received a call at home that Denzil "Hoss" Halbert had passed away, and it was hard for me to accept. But I should, like an apparent heart attack. For those who didn't really know the man, he was genuine. He was inducted into the KHSAA Hall of Fame last year, and it was a big moment in his life. I am glad that he achieved that before his life ended, because he is truly a "Hall of Famer."

I remember the day he received his letter notifying him he was to be inducted into the KHSAA Hall of Fame. About 10 p.m. that night he called me at home and said, "Ed, we made it this time!" He was elated.

I have very fond memories of him during the years I attended Martin High School back in the '50s. He was my health teacher, PE teacher and a friend.

Hoss had a nickname for everyone. It was just a pleasure to sit around and with him at basketball games and discuss the game as it is today.

"Coaches today don't know how to coach," he told me more than once. "They just want to look pretty."

I don't know any one teacher who gained the respect that Hoss did in the 38 years he taught. His 25 seasons as a basketball coach was spent at Martin. I can still remember the PE classes under him.

I recalled times when I was discouraged with my performance there, and he would be there at the right time to encourage me.

He made 49 trips to the KHSAA Sweet Sixteen. He always looked forward to it.

"I'd rather see the tournament played at Freedom Hall," he said, "than Rupp Arena." Maybe that was because that is where his 1965 Martin team played its state tournament only game.

His best team, he said, was his '65 team. The best player to play for him? He made no secret about it, Larry Hall.

Growing up around Martin, Hoss had a sport shop just across the street from his home. It was a joy to go there as a kid, and sit around the shop and watch some ballgames with the "Martin coach."

I can just see him there with his T-shirt on, a flyswatter in hand and daring the insect to light in his

Week nine in football

Hamilton leads scoring race; Mays rushing

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Can you hear the bouncing of the roundball? With basketball near, there are still two weeks of the regular football season left as three of the county schools will not receive a playoff berth this year.

While the season has been one of question marks, Prestonsburg will return to the state show under firstyear coach John Derossett. The Blackcats are 6-1 on the season.

Betsy Layne's Craig Hamilton leads the county scoring race with 62 points. He has scored nine touchdowns and four conversions thus far. Rushing, South Floyd's Ketrin Mays holds a slim lead over Hamilton.

Mays should go over the 1,000 yard mark easily with two games to play. He has 935 on the year. Hamilton had 901 and could very well reach the coveted milestone.

Nick Compton had completed 61 passes for 706 through eight games, below what he had last year.

Look for the Raiders to air the ball out against Louisville Beth Haven this Saturday. Mike Castle, Prestonsburg, has 13 completions for 349 yards. Shane Blackburn, Allen Central has 320 yards on 18 completions. Betsy Layne's Tyler Puckett had 134 yards on 11 completions.

Mark Smallwood of South Floyd has been quiet of late, but still leads all receivers with 206 yards on 15 catches. Gavin Hale of Prestons-burg is second with 145 on seven recep-

RUMORS...

Rumor is the Blackcats will join Belfry, Clay County, Sheldon Clark and others next season.

Even though next year's alignment is set with Prestonsburg staying in Class 2A, the Blackcats could request to be moved up to 3A. Leslie County, 3A this year, will be added to the Class 2A, District 2, next season.

If such a move comes about, such rivalries with Belfry and Sheldon Clark will be renewed as new ones against Johnson Central and Shelby Word around the county has Allen Central coach Glenn Reeves moving on to Prestonsburg as an assistant next year. Coach Reeves said he had been approached about the matter and is considering the move, but nothing definite has been decided.

"I have to think about it," he said. Will Prestonsburg High School Of course, where Coach Reeves is,

SOUTH FLOYD WILL HAVE TO RELOAD

Coach Donnie Daniels says he will have to look to some younger players next year after the Raiders lose 15 seniors this year. But if you have seen the Raiders' grade school team, you would not feel sorry for the South Floyd coach. He has some excellent athletes on the way in, and they have good size and great speed in Matthew Tackett, B.J. Bryant and P.J. Cox.

They will be a couple seasons away, but look for better seasons for the Raiders. I mean it. They are going to be strong.

ANOTHER TO WATCH ...

Adams Middle School may not be the strong team they have been in the past but, when this sixth grade bunch gets in the high school ranks, Coach Derossett will have some talented players. The Blackcats of Adams will be back.

COACH RICE (CRISPIES)...

Betsy Layne Elementary (Sandy Valley Bobcats) coach Tim Rice is an unusual coach. He has had his team running the pole-cat, and other trick plays, something you don't see in grade school. He has two great backs in Nathan Tackett and Ricky Rebels to play for pride tonight at Breathitt Co.

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Breathitt County Bobcats have won 23 consecutive games dating back to last year's run for a state championship, and are currently the state's 2A champion. They will host the Allen Central Rebels, a team that is just looking to show a little school pride tonight and wanting to snap a six-game losing streak.

with injuries to key skill people this season, and some defections, as well as suspensions, have hurt as "The players we have lost are seniors," the Rebel coach said.

Untested and inexperienced players have had to try and fill the void on the gridiron.

Gordon Reeves, who was the Rebels' MVP in the Red, White and Blue Bowl last Monday night, has been the feature back with the loss of Beau Tackett at mid season. Reeves, a hard running back, rushed for 138 yards against South Floyd and scored his team's two touch-

But it will take more than Reeves to pull this one off tonight at Breathitt County. It will take a complete team effort. Returning for the Rebels will be Mike Goble, who missed last Monday's spectacle because of a one-game suspension. Goble gives the Rebels some needed help on defense as well as in the backfield.

Coach Reeves started looking to next season in the second half of the South Floyd game when he inserted untried Jesse Hall at quarterback.

Raiders could complete successful season with win over Beth Haven

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels would like nothing more than to finish the football season on the winning side of the ledger. His Raiders will have that chance over the next two weeks. This Saturday afternoon, he will load his team on a bus and head for the Louisville area where they will face Beth Haven on the gridiron.

The Raiders are 4-4 on the season and are eliminated from any chance of a district playoff with a 1-4 district trouncing of county-rival Allen Central this past Monday night in the Red, White and Blue Bowl played at Brackett Field.

Junior quarterback Nick Compton was sharp last Monday night with 119 yards passing. He has 706 yards on the season and is one of the area's top quarterbacks.

Compton got excellent protection from his offensive line last Monday in ripping the Rebels' secondary. Beth Haven could have a problem in containing the Raiders' passing game. Beth Haven is just returning to the sport of football.

"They used to play," said Coach Daniels. "But this is their first year back. They've played a couple games of eight-man football."

Beth Haven is 0-6 on the season,

"They do have a good quarterback. They don't throw the ball all that much, but he can throw it," he said. "They are a school of 79 students and have about 20 on the team.

"They like to run a wing 'T' offense, much like we do. They run a 50' front on defense.'

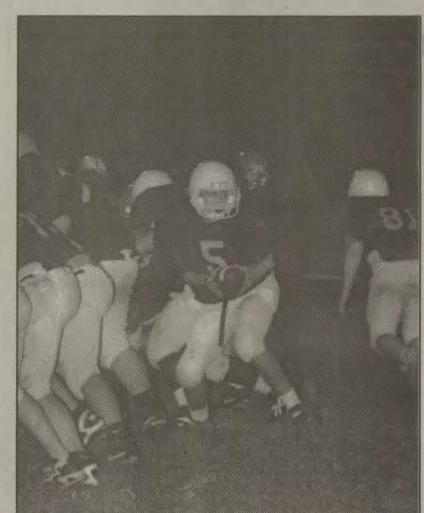

Beth Haven played a modified schedule this year, including the new eight-man football.

Ketrin Mays also will pose a threat to Beth Haven's defense with his quickness. He has rushed for 935 vards this season and has nine touchdowns. Jonathan Paige and Chris Isaac have had stellar seasons as well.

"I couldn't believe how we played against Allen Central Monday night," said the South Floyd coach. "We had a big night. But I would never have believed we would beat a Glenn Reeves' team like that."

Daniels said his team will load the bus early Saturday morning for Louisville with a stop for a breakfast before heading to the stadium. After the game - "We plan on stopping and feeding them steak," he said "They deserve it. We have 12 fouryear seniors and they deserve it."

South Floyd closes the season against Elkhorn City November 2.

Tied for fourth in district, Bobcats need sweet win over Whitesburg

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

For first-year coach Randall Hager, it has been a fun year, yet a hard season. The Bobcats of Betsy Layne were tagged with a 0-10 record before the season began because of the losses of personnel they suffered just before the season began.

The loss of Jarrod Newsome, Billy Mitchell and Kris Lawson was enough to make any coach wonder what the season held. But for Coach Hager, it is a credit to him how he has brought the program along this season.

The Bobcats are currently tied for fourth place with Whitesburg in District 2 standings. The top four teams will receive a berth in next month's state playoffs, and Coach Hager would love that. But a win at Whitesburg is imperative and would make it a sweet season

for Betsy Layne

Betsy Layne is 3-5 on the year and 2-2 in district play. But their two remaining games are district games and with two of the big boys of last year, Whitesburg and Breathitt County.

This is not the same Whitesburg team that lost only twice last season. After graduating 20 seniors from last year's team, the Yellowjackets have struggled this season, falling to 3-5 and 2-2 in the district.

A Betsy Layne win would guarantee them at least a 3-3 district season at the worst, but if Powell County were to upend Morgan County in the season finale, Powell County would get the nod over Betsy Layne by virtue of defeating the Bobcats earlier.

Betsy Layne has one of the best tailbacks in the game today with Craig Hamilton. Hamilton leads the county in scoring with 62 points (9 touchdowns and four conversions). He is second in rushing with 901 yards.

Eric Cecil, Chad Case and Tim Koger are capable ball carriers, as well. Young Tyler Puckett is starting to mature at the quarterback slot. But, against Whitesburg, the defense will have to dig in the trenches and stop the running game of Caleb Brock and passing of Shane Barker. The Bobcats' secondary will get a workout with Barker under center. He likes the targets of Heath Cook and Thomas Gibson. Betsy Layne does not like to throw the ball much, but may have to air more often than they want to. Look for Matt Rose, as well as Hamilton, to be invaluable in the flats.

Betsy Layne will close out the season on the road at Breathitt County November 2.

Derossett's Blackcats to entertain Morgan County tonight

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Already assured of a berth in this year's state playoffs, Coach John Derossett's Prestonsburg Blackcats will finish off their District 2 schedule tonight when they host Morgan County (0-7) on hemecoming night at the Prestonsburg stadium. It will be only the third home game for the Blackcats this season.

A win over Morgan County will wrap up a second place finish in District 2 and give Prestonsburg a home field advantage in the opening round of the playoffs.

gotten in the win column, but the Cougars are a very young football team and will face one of the state's top defensive teams. Last the junior varsity in the second week Prestonsburg (6-1) gave up a scant 8-yards total offense to Powell County in a 69-0 rout downs and 64 yards rushing in a Friday night. The Cats have pitched four shutouts this season, scored on by Leslie County, Allen Central and Breathitt County.

Coach Derossett will return to the helm of the team after serving a one-game suspension, along with guard Rusty Young.

Without senior tailback Jon

Seth Crisp, a freshman, along with Hank Mullins, made a big impression as well. Adam Hall looked confident at quarterback.

Coach Derossett will not look beyond Morgan County and take the Cougars lightly. If the Cats have a first half, 49 points, like they did against Powell County, then look for the reserves to go most of the second half.

Mike Castle (349 yards on 13 all season in directing the Prestonsburg offensive attack. While Prestonsburg has the strong backfield, Castle still gives them an arsenal that can go over the top of the defense.

John Ortega (three TD's versus Powell), Grant Castle, Caudill,

But you can rest assured that Brian Jones and Jason Blackburn as to whom the Blackcats will face will be more than Morgan County cares to handle. Ortega has rushed for 402 yards this season.

The defense has been the story for Prestonsburg this season. While the offense hasn't quite caught up, Prestonsburg is allowing only 7.7 points per contest. The opposition has only rushed for an average of 83 yards and passed for 64 yards against the Prestonsburg defense. Most passing yards came against Breathitt

We don't have giants like Hoss today. People who want to be more than just a basketball, baseball, golf or track and field coach, are a rarity. He was a man of influence and he influenced me in more

A regret? I never told him didn't then, but today I am more than once, how much I appreciated his concern for me as one of his students. I If it wasn't done right, you wish I had that chance one more time.

Memories. I will always have them with me. Oh, not Most recently, the last time like those who performed for him on the hardwood, diamond, or golf course. But memories of a man who loved what he did, loved life and enjoyed his students and players. Hoss, we will all miss you!

Until Wednesday, good him, along with his son sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to it used to be. He even gave Sunday School and church me a Pepsi from the old this Sunday.
