Disturbance aboard bus may have contributed to mishap

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A Floyd County bus driver had been having problems with students on the vehicle for several days before an accident earlier this month that sent nearly 50 students to the hospital.
A preliminary investigation conducted by the Kentucky State Police shows that a student disturbance led to the accident and that the driver, Elinda Green, was apparently trying to control the students when the crash occurred.
While no charges are anticipated against Green, Trooper Mike Goble, public affairs officers for the Kentucky State Police, said the investigation is continuing under the direction of Trooper Vic Brown.
David Layne, transportation director for the school system, would not say Tuesday whether there would be disciplinary actions against Green by the school system because he had not seen the entire accident report.

In an interview last Friday, Green said the problems started about a week before the October 16 wreck in which the bus she was driving veered to the right and plowed into a parked coal truck at the top of Garrett Hill on Route 80 near the Floyd-Knott County line.
"A parent called in and said their grade school student smelled like smoke and that I was letting students smoke on the bus," Green said. "David Layne told me to put the grade school students in the back of the bus and the high school students in the front so I could make sure they weren't smoking."
But, she said, the grade school students were more of a problem in the back of the bus than they were in the front.

"Two days before the accident, I went home with a sore throat from yelling at them to be quiet," Green said. That's when she said she made the decision to move the high school students to the back of the bus and the grade schoolers to the front.
On the day of the accident, she said she made her first run with the younger students in the back and the older ones in the front, but she said the grade school students made so much noise that she told the high school students to sit in the back when she picked up her second run at Allen Central High School.
Green said when she arrived at Duff Elementary, the younger students began complaining that they had to sit in the front of the bus.

Drivers say discipline problems are a concern

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Despite complaints by bus drivers that the current form of discipline is not working on Floyd County School buses, there are no plans to change the policies.
David Layne, transportation director for the school system, said there are rules in place and drivers just need to enforce them.
"If everything is like it should be, the driver just has to write the student up and the principal will handle it," Layne said. "I've found the principals to be fair to work with on these matters."

The problems with student discipline on buses have been magnified since a bus accident October 16 sent nearly 50 students to the hospital with a multitude of injuries. Three of those students are still hospitalized.
Elinda Green, driver, of the bus, said students had been acting up for about a week before the accident occurred. Officers have said the cause of the accident was a

Work by school employee is probed

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A Floyd County board of education member is apparently under investigation after a school maintenance worker did some work at the board member's home.
Ray Brackett said he was aware of an investigation into the work and that it stemmed from an "allegation" that a school maintenance worker was doing work for Brackett at Brackett's home on the school's time. He said, however, that isn't true.
"He was on his own time and had his own vehicle," Brackett said Monday. He said the worker completed his job and then went on to Paintsville to do another job.
"He was on compensatory time," Brackett said. "There were no Floyd County schools vehicles on my property. I wouldn't do it any other way."
He said he paid the man with a check and had the canceled check in his possession.
Brackett said he thought the investigation had been completed by former superintendent Dr. John Balentine.
"Dr. Balentine came to my house and saw the man here. He (Balentine) died before he got a chance to issue a report. He found nothing," Brackett said.
The board member said board attorney Phil Damron "assured me he would follow up with a letter to Sandy Gubser."

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department conducted a raid Friday night after a month-long investigation provided sufficient proof for the arrests of drug traffickers. The raid resulted in the arrests of six dealers and users, and the confiscation of cocaine; marijuana; five firearms, including an assault pistol; and various other drug paraphernalia, which was labeled this week by detective James Rederick. Drugs, weapons, cash seized in raid; six people arrested

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

A few area residents saw ghosts last week, but they weren't youngsters donning white sheets in search of tricks or treats.
Six Floyd County residents were arrested Friday night after a month-long investigation and raid, Operation: Halloween Ghost, led to the confiscation of more than a half pound of marijuana; cocaine; several firearms, including an assault pistol; and various other drug paraphernalia.
The raid was conducted by Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and Detective James Rederick, and assisted by deputy Tommy Shelton.

Rederick estimated the street value of the drugs exceeded $6,000. Also obtained during the raid late Friday night were five guns, homemade cocaine pipes, several prescription drugs, and an undisclosed amount of cash, Rederick said.
The month-long investigation targeted the Wheelwright, Weeks-bury and Tram areas of Floyd County.
Rederick said the sheriff's office has known of the drug activity in those areas for some time, but needed cooperation from area residents to obtain information necessary to execute search warrants.
Curtis Gardner, 37, of Tram, was arrested Friday by Rederick and charged with trafficking less than 8 ounces of marijuana, a misdemeanor.

According to court records, Rederick alleged that Gardner sold a $25 bag of marijuana to a confidential informant on October 22.
Gardner pleaded not guilty to the charge Monday in Floyd District Court. He was placed under a $5,000 cash bond, and is still lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center.
Robert Meade, 28, of Weeks-bury, was arrested and charged with trafficking cocaine, for allegedly

Well bacteria not yet tied to waste in mine

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Only three of 30 homes in the Bill Hall Branch of Floyd County have water supplies that are not contaminated with bacteria.
It could be a couple of weeks, however, before Environmental Protection Agency officials determine if the bacteria comes from sewage and other contaminants reportedly dumped into an abandoned mine by Sam Hall.
"We were up there Wednesday, Thursday and Friday giving people the results of our tests," Fred Stroud, on-scene coordinator, said Monday. "While we didn't find any chemicals in those water supplies, we did determine that only three of the 30 water supplies tested were not contaminated with bacteria."
Stroud said EPA officials advised homeowners whose wells tested positive for bacteria to not use the water without additional treatment.
"That could be boiling or chlorination," Stroud said. "But we really advised them to use bottled water."
The EPA has supplied bottled water to area residents for their use.
"We don't know if Sam's dumping is the source of this bacteria or whether they've done it themselves by having their septic system too close to their water supply," Stroud said.
But the EPA will find out in the next few weeks. A dye trace should be complete in about two weeks to determine if water that flows through the mine flows into the area water supplies.
"This is not a good sign, however," Stroud said.
In early September, the EPA removed more than 6,000 gallons of liquid waste from the abandoned mine, which is located on property owned by Hall. Hall has insisted that he has not dumped waste into the mine. He has admitted to dumping sewage from his septic tank cleaning service near the abandoned deep mine, but he said he had permission to do so.

The EPA official said Hall did not have a permit to put anything into the mine, but that he did have a permit that allowed for the dumping of waste into a temporary holding area until it could be moved.
Stroud confirmed at the time that nine chemicals were found in the mine, including a chemical sol-

Arson thought to be cause of church blaze

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

When the congregation of the Parkway Baptist Church met Wednesday night, they didn't know it would be their last chance to join hands and pray together in that building.
A little more than 48 hours later, the church, which is located in Magoffin County about a mile west of the Floyd County line on Route 114, was completely destroyed in a fire.
"I got the call at 3:09 a.m.," Ed Taylor, minister of the 25 to 30-member congregation, said. "We are devastated about the whole thing." Taylor is also sports editor for The Floyd County Times.
Kentucky State Police arson investigators Barry McKenzie and Jim Burnett, and Federal Bureau of Investigation agent Scott Barker had not determined if the blaze was arson, but Trooper Mike Goble, public affairs officer for Post 9, said Monday that investigators, after sifting through the debris Saturday, said there is a strong suspicion of arson.
Taylor said it had to have been set.
"There was just no way it could have started where it started," he said. "It had to have been set."
The fire apparently began in a back Sunday School room and Taylor said investigators said they thought someone had broken a window in the room and started the blaze.

We've Moved

The Floyd County Times has moved into its new office building on South Central Avenue (next door to the old office building).
The old building will be razed soon to make room for phase two of the reconstruction project, which will include a new pressroom and circulation department. That phase is expected to be completed by January.

Settlement of trash-dumping debt reached by two counties

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

After nearly three years of controversy and threatened litigation, the Floyd County Solid Waste board and the Pike County Fiscal Court have agreed upon a repayment schedule for more than $200,000 owed to the Pike County Solid Waste Commission.
The Floyd County Solid Waste Commission will pay $107,000 from the March 1994 Solid Waste Board account, and make $1,783.33 monthly payments for five years to resolve the debt.

Solid Waste executive director Mike Vance told the board about the agreement Monday during its regular meeting.
He said the old account has a balance of about $400,000 and the $107,000 payment will come from that account. The monthly payment will be paid from the current budget. The solid waste board is more than $75,000 in the red this fiscal year.
County Attorney Keith Bartley said Wednesday that by reaching an agreed order, the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission probably saved approximately $160,000.

"Typically with a judgment, interest is attached," Bartley said. "But, Pike County agreed to forego any interest."
In January 1994, Floyd County officials voluntarily stopped taking trash to the Pike County landfill until an agreement was reached on how much money Floyd County

Close those revolving doors

by Scott Perry

Floyd County schools attorney Phil Damron was probably joking when he said the system's superintendent search committee had just about become a standing committee, but there's some truth to what he says.

Over the last six and a half years, no fewer than six superintendents have attempted to direct the school district, and a seventh will likely be added to the list before the fiscal year is out come June 30.

So it's really no joke that the search committee, or committees, have been quite active.

During the past six years, the Floyd County School System has been under quite a bit of scrutiny.

It's been, as folk singer Arlo Guthrie suggested in his Alice's Restaurant album, "inspected, injected, detected and infected" in about as many ways as you could imagine.

We've seen board members face ouster proceedings, a superintendent removed, state intervention, and a flood of red ink that pushed the district to the brink of financial ruin.

It's about time, we propose, to change the film.

The best way to accomplish that is by bringing some consistency into the leadership picture.

Our next superintendent needs to be a person with vision, a leader who can focus on the system's educational needs.

Past superintendents did not necessarily have the opportunity to put education first because they were here primarily to put out fires.

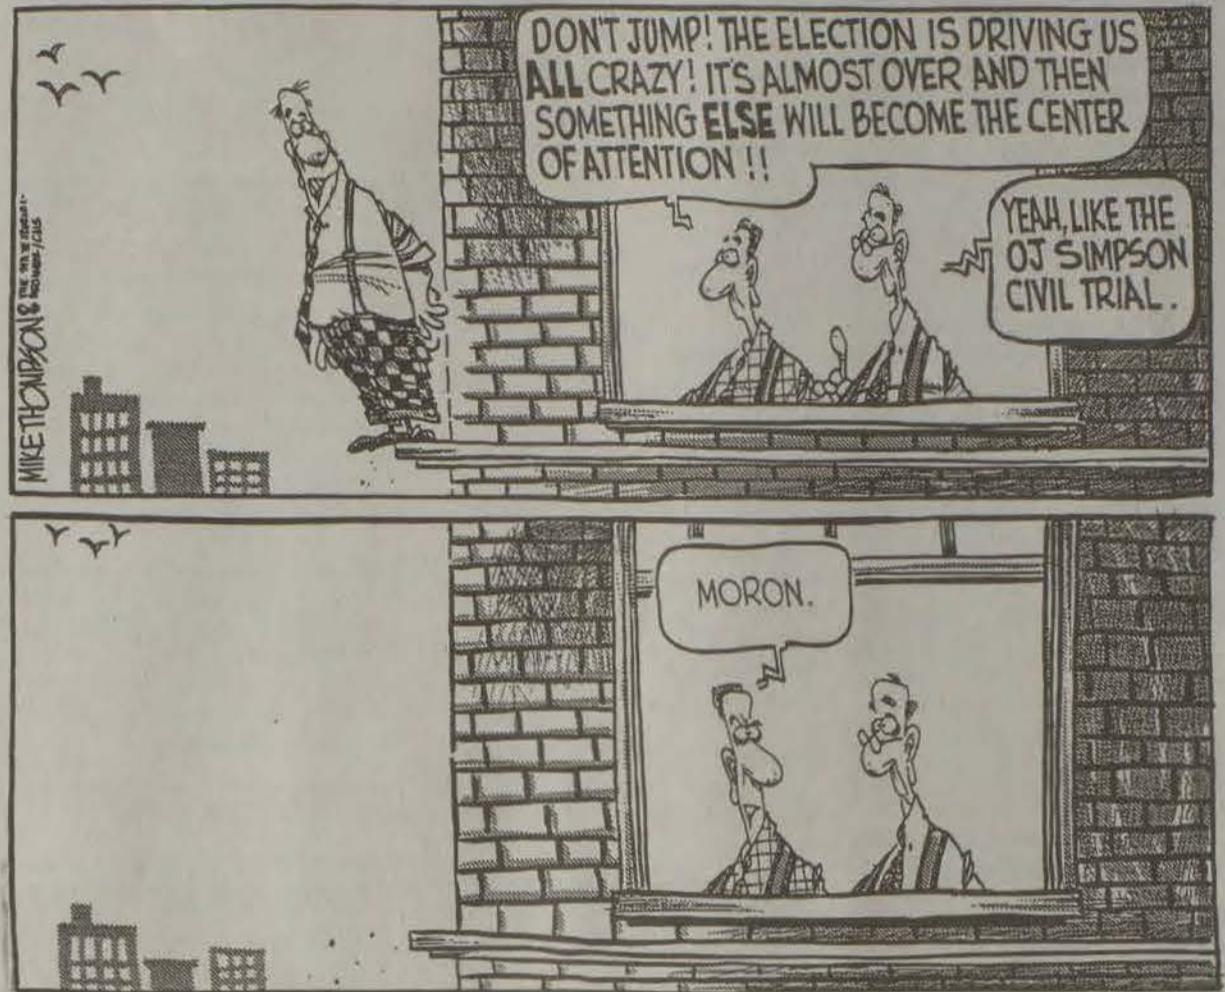

Dr. John Balentine, may he rest in peace, came to Floyd County to resolve the district's financial crisis. The mechanism to serve that end is in place and must be followed.

But as we approach the 21st century, we need to find a leader who can concentrate on improving the quality of education that is delivered to our children.

This next search committee needs to find a man or woman who has demonstrated consistent leadership in educational progress.

That's job one for our schools, and job one for our next superintendent.

Let's close those revolving doors for a while, and get down to business.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Moving day has come... After four years of planning; five months of construction; and a couple of weeks of lifting and toting, we're in our new building.

We're not going to celebrate yet, though. That's reserved for the day the bulldozer runs through our old office, where the bugs and dust bunnies roam, and the mice and attic creatures play.

Won't miss them one bit. Hope to host an open house as soon as we get the kinks worked out...of our production and our lower back. Stay tuned.

Speaking of moving problems, the phone company has to be king of the kinks. Called them Monday to have service in our old building disconnected, adding a plea that they make certain that service to our new facility not be disrupted.

Yeah, you guessed it. They axed our fax lines and who knows what else...for the third time.

Twice before in the last few weeks the phone company just disconnected us without prior warning.

Each time we held our tongues, understanding the potential for technical difficulties.

Third time was the charm, though, Monday. It's a darn good thing Ma Bell has had no competition all these years.

Everybody makes mistakes, but repeating the same one three times in a row is ridiculous.

Most of us try to learn from our mistakes, but they've apparently been asleep at the switches.

All of them, that is, but the one they keep throwing to cut off our phones.

There's less than a week now 'til election '96...time for our semi-annual lecture on voting.

It's a duty, you know. Lots of Americans shirk theirs for one reason or another, with the general consensus on excuses being dissatisfaction with the choices.

To borrow a line from the 1960s, that's a real "cop out." Our position is if you don't vote, you forfeit your griping rights.

Who among you wants to give up that cherished possession?

Go vote November 5.

As far as endorsements go, we have just one.

Vote your own mind. Elections offer a unique opportunity for Americans to be leaders instead of followers.

For the time it takes to cast your ballot, you can be the shepherd or one of the sheep.

We encourage you to stand on your own hind legs.

No one will know you did if you don't want them to, and it doesn't hurt one bit.

Try a little independence, you may like it.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch... Henry, the rabbit, is the latest addition to our family.

We're making some assumptions there, not being experts in rabbit anatomy. Maybe it's Henrietta.

Whatever it is, we spent a good part of Saturday constructing a rabbitarium, much to the astonishment of our eldest child, who wondered not so much at our carpentry skills, but at the fact that we built the residence without the usual and customary trip to the emergency room.

First time for everything, we suppose.

Perhaps we've broken that have-hammer-will-get-stitches jinx...knock on wood.

"They wanted to know why they couldn't sit in the back," she said. "I wrote two of the students up before I ever left the parking lot at Duff Elementary."

Other bus drivers said Green called the bus garage for help just before the accident.

"Eighty-five bus drivers heard her call David Layne for help," Teresa Scott, another bus driver, said.

Green said rumors that she was writing down names of students; that she was turned around in her seat; that she was reading; or that she and her husband were having problems and that she was upset were not correct.

"None of that is true," she said. "I went up the hill and saw the truck parked really close to the road. I looked out my left mirror to move over into the left lane, but there was traffic coming, so I slowed down."

When she slowed down, she said the bus drifted across the white lane and struck the truck.

"It was like the bus was pulled to the truck like a vacuum," Green said. "It was pulled to the right. I believe the truck was moving. There were no flashers, no triangles, anything."

Witnesses at the scene said the day of the wreck that Green's bus was "weaving" a little before she struck the coal truck, driven by James Stroub, 30, of Dingus, West Virginia.

Stroub had pulled to the side of the road to wait on his buddies to catch up with him. The three were hauling sand to Mountain Enterprises in Hazard for Lee Sartin Trucking out of Kermit, West Virginia, and Stroub said he had never been there before.

"I started to get out of the truck when I looked in the mirror and saw her over the white line," he said at the time. "I grabbed the steering wheel and braced myself for the impact."

Green said she told the older students to help the younger kids get off the bus, but that she stayed on the vehicle with two students who couldn't get off.

"I just couldn't leave them," she said, her voice quivering and tears in her eyes.

She said the school system's regulation that students be written up five times before they are taken off a bus isn't effective.

"Sometimes they are really bad," she said. "Sometimes you don't have five times. And how can we enforce the rules if we're driving the bus?"

There are no plans, according to Layne, to change the way students are disciplined on the buses.

"We've already got plenty of rules," he said. "All the bus driver has to do is write them up and things will be taken care of."

Gubser, director of the division of management assistance with the state Department of Education, said she could not comment on the investigation, but did say there had been some concerns raised about Brackett's activities.

"We are in the process of looking at those," she said Tuesday. "But while we are in the process of reviewing we can't comment on the review."

According to Damron, the situation arose after the Department of Education received a call about the worker at Brackett's home.

The state department called Balentine and asked him to investigate. Damron said Balentine and Eugene Blackburn, another administrator with the school system, drove to Brackett's home in Allen and witnessed the worker at Brackett's home.

He said he thought Balentine had handled the situation.

"I thought the report went out before his death. It did not," Damron said. "We are sending it on to Frankfort. It should go out today (Tuesday)."

Damron said a letter outlining the complaint and asking for a response in writing from Gubser to Balentine came "some time" after the phone calls between the two were to have resolved the issue. "It was all done on the same day it was called in," he said. "We decided that day there was nothing to it."

He said he didn't think the state could close the investigation until it received the superintendent's report and that was the holdup. "It was handwritten when we found it," Damron said.

Damron said he didn't see "any violation of law or ethics" on Brackett's part in the matter. He also said he was concerned that the investigation had "leaked" before it was closed.

"They usually keep it confidential while it is still underway," he said. "That hasn't been the case with this one."

Remember Hall This Fall

Far too often in political campaigns, candidates will promise the sun, the moon, the stars and the job of your choice. Just as often, after a candidate wins, voters are lucky to get even a glimpse of the sun, the moon and the stars. And, as for the jobs, they are as scarce as the candidate until the next election. So, I'm not going to make any promises, for we all know promises are made to be broken.

But... my parents taught me that my word is my bond, and that I'm only as good as my word.

Therefore, I give you my word that I will fight to:

1. Hire Floyd Countians for all openings, including that of superintendent.
2. Keep Melvin Grade School open.
3. Build a new football field for South Floyd and have it ready for use within 3 years.
4. Have Osborne, McDowell and Melvin Grade Schools renovated.
5. Keep the hiring and promotional process within the system, free of outside and inside influences.
6. Keep Osborne, Melvin and McDowell 7th and 8th grades at their respective schools, instead of transferring them to South Floyd.
7. Represent all the children in District 4, without regard as to what school they attend, even if that school is located in another district.
8. Have a balanced budget that does not adversely affect the children and the quality of the education they receive.

OUR CHILDREN AND THEIR FUTURE ARE WORTH FIGHTING FOR—AND I WILL FIGHT—YOU HAVE MY WORD ON IT.

JACKIE EDFORD OWENS

MAGISTRATE — DISTRICT 2
TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY

The people who are pushing the commissioner form of government would like for you to think that my wife voted to raise school taxes while she was on the school board. The taxes were raised 79% in 1986. My wife wasn't on the school board until 1993! Here is a newspaper article out of the Floyd County Times on September 4, 1996 stating what happened 10 years ago:

The Floyd County Times

Ten Years Ago—(September 10, 1986)

"Prestonsburg City Council voted Monday to borrow money a second time to meet city payroll...The Board of Education decided to raise taxes last Wednesday by nearly 79 percent...state attorney general investigator John McCauley probed eight areas which had been suggested as potential blots on the record of a former superintendent."

On NEXT TUESDAY, November 5th, go out and VOTE AGAINST THE COMMISSIONERS! People, it's a hard job to take care of 50,000 people with only 20 some road workers. I think the Fiscal Court has done a good job of fighting the snows that were better than 2 feet deep, dealing with flood cleanups, repairing bridges, maintaining the graveled roads, and putting down millions of dollars of blacktop over the last several years. In the future, I believe that city water and blacktop roads are going to be the main issues.

People, the county taxes that the Magistrates set are lower now than they were in 1986 when I took office. Taxes on real property are down 2.9%. Taxes on tangible property are down 3.4%. We do not set school taxes—the school board does.

People, I've always stood up and fought for you and what I thought was right for Floyd County. I'm asking you to stand up and fight with me and VOTE AGAINST THE COMMISSIONER FORM OF GOVERNMENT. Don't take this issue for granted. Take the time and go out and vote—YOUR VOTE DOES COUNT! We beat this in 1985 and with your help we can do it again.

You're always going to have sure losers who have run for public office several times and lost, or people who don't want you to open county roads that have been county roads for 40 years. These are the people who are out here pushing for these commissioners. These radio station call-in shows say they are not "biased" and don't want to get "personal," but if you don't agree with them, seems to me like you don't make it on the air. It's funny to me how there are 50,000 people in Floyd County, but the same 3 or 4 people who like to "bad mouth" me and my family or the other magistrates can manage to get through on the phone lines every week—DO YOU THINK THAT'S NOT A SET-UP DEAL?

I think this goes back to when I and the owner of the radio station had a few words in the paper and I told him he needed a 6-foot suck bottle. I think he's still mad or the bottle wasn't big enough. One of the radio announcers came here to Floyd County about 8 years ago and naturally, he knows everything that Floyd County needs. Here's an outsider who climbs up on his "soapbox" and tries to tell Floyd County people what they need. These people don't belong to the same party that I do, and I WON and THEY LOST—I don't expect them to say much good about me. THEY NEVER WANT TO FACE THE ISSUES. They always try to "exaggerate" the salaries and the cost of anything in order to make their stories sound good. I even put my W-2's in the Floyd County Times that showed exactly what I made as Magistrate and they are still not satisfied.

P.S.—People, I'VE shot straight with you—my voting record is on record at the courthouse in the minutes at the clerk's office if anyone would like to check on it. The people behind the commissioners have done everything but shoot straight with you. I asked them several times in the paper—and you know this is true—"WHO" is their "President," "Secretary," "Treasurer," and their "personal appraiser?" "WHY" couldn't they answer these simple questions? "WHAT" ARE THEY HIDING? "WHO" is really behind them? How come they try to tell the people of this county that Johnson County—that is run by commissioners—never went broke this year and that Johnson County didn't have to lay off all their road crew this year and are not looking at raising taxes—when, in fact, Johnson County did go broke, did lay off all their road workers, and are looking at raising taxes? This story came out in the Lexington Herald, the Floyd County Times, the Paintsville paper, was on the radio stations and on the television stations—yet they think they can lie to us and we will eat it up.

Some people at the top of this commissioner deal are part of the same group of people who demanded that the Floyd County Road Department quit maintaining roads to public cemeteries. This caused the Fiscal Court to have to take in the cemetery roads into the county road system before they can be worked on. A bunch of "do gooders" like this, we could do without!

REMEMBER—"IF" the commissioners go in there will be 3 districts instead of 4 and there will be approximately 12,000 people somewhere in this county that will be in a different district. This means that 4,000 people will be added to each district. The commissioners would have to represent 16,000 people instead of 12,000 people like the magistrates do now. "IF" it goes to commissioners, it will be the year of 2003 before it can be changed back to magistrates.

On November 5th, go out and VOTE AGAINST THE COMMISSIONERS by pushing the button that says AGAINST on the LOWER RIGHT HAND CORNER of the ballot. It will be under the word "QUESTION."

REMEMBER—YOUR VOTE DOES COUNT!

selling one-half gram of cocaine to a confidential informant on October 8. He is also charged with two counts of trafficking cocaine for an alleged sale on October 2.

During Meade's arraignment Monday, a not-guilty plea was entered by District Judge James R. Allen. He was placed under a $10,000 cash bond, and later released when bond was posted.

Kenny Johnson, 44, also of Weeksbury, was charged with trafficking cocaine after a confidential informant allegedly purchased a half-gram of cocaine at his residence. He was arrested by Shelton.

Johnson was placed under a $10,000 cash bond, and later released from the jail when the bond was posted.

Glenda Ray, 39, of Wheelwright was arrested by deputy Steve Little and charged with possession of a schedule II narcotic drug.

Rederick said Ray was in Johnson's residence when the sheriff went in to the house.

"They were in the process of making a cocaine transaction," Rederick alleged.

Ray was placed under a $5,000 or ten percent bond Monday during her arraignment. She was released later after posting the partially-secured bond.

Robert Hood, 25, of Wheelwright, was arrested after a confidential informant allegedly purchased two pieces of rock cocaine from him on October 3. Hood was arrested by deputy William Howell.

Judge Allen entered a not-guilty plea to Hood's charges and also placed him under a $10,000 cash bond.

Hood was on probation at the time of his arrest for a previous trafficking cocaine charge, Rederick said.

He said Hood could face 20 years for the charges filed against him because he had a gun in his possession at the time of his arrest.

and an additional ten years for being a persistent felon offender if found guilty of the charges.

Hood is still lodged in the Floyd County Detention Center.

Rederick said more than five people were involved in the undercover purchases, and that additional arrests are pending. He added that additional charges would be filed against the defendants because of the drugs, guns, and drug paraphernalia obtained during the search warrants.

Preliminary hearings are scheduled at 2:30 p.m. on November 6 in Floyd District Court to hear testimony on the felony charges for each of the defendants.

"This is only part of an ongoing investigation," Thompson said. "When you see drugs like crack and cocaine — it's a cancer that needs to be stopped," Rederick said Tuesday. "The law enforcement in Floyd County will continue to fight the problem until it is stopped."

Thompson said the sheriff department is currently pursuing additional leads concerning drug activity in Floyd County.

Damage was extensive to Parkway Baptist Church after an early Saturday morning blaze. Only the church bell survived the fire that was probably caused by an arsonist.

and Magoffin counties responded to the scene and had the fire knocked down at one point. "They ran out of water," Taylor said. "It caught back and they couldn't control it after that."

When firefighters arrived, the back part of the church and the roof were engulfed in flames. Within 30 minutes after the blaze began, the roof was destroyed, one firefighter said.

There was no evidence that the fire was racially motivated. This is the eighth church to be damaged by fires in Kentucky since a rash of burnings began in the South earlier this year.

Taylor said the congregation was planning its eighth annual homecoming, scheduled for this past Sunday, to celebrate its move into the 2,400-square-foot facility in 1988 after a mobile home they were using also burned to the ground.

"There have been only two church fires in Magoffin County in the last decade and both have affected this congregation," Taylor said. "They determined that fire (in 1987) was caused by faulty wiring."

The group met Saturday night at an office owned by a deacon to decide what to do the next day. They decided to hold the homecoming service at that temporary site.

"Those were the best services we've had in a long time," Taylor said. "We had good fellowship and good spirit."

He said the congregation members are "hurt," but that they're not going to quit. "You wouldn't believe the phone calls we've received," Taylor said.

There have been offers of assistance and use of vacant buildings and a church in Evansville, Indiana has offered extra supplies they have on hand.

"There's nothing like the Christian community," Taylor said.

vent used as a degreaser at service stations. He estimated from conversations with Hall that the mine could have received as much as a million gallons of waste from Hall's septic tank service collections during the last ten to 12 years.

Stroud began testing water in the Bill Hall Branch of McDowell in early October to determine if there was contamination from the mine.

The dye test is the next step toward determining the extent, if any, of contamination. If that test shows the chemicals and waste have spread, Stroud said the EPA will pay to put in water lines in the area if the state and local governments can show they cannot afford to do so.

Floyd County Judge Executive Ben Hale is attempting to get a grant to help get water to those residents.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson has been investigating Hall for about three years on the dumping issue after he said he received a tip from an anonymous source. He said he had never been able to catch him dumping into the mine, however.

In unrelated issues, Hall was convicted October 24 of four counts of murder for hire for contracting to have cousin killed to collect on a $150,000 insurance policy.

Hall also pleaded guilty earlier this year to attempted extortion charges in connection with a drug investigation being conducted by Thompson.

He could face up to 40 years in prison and a $1 million fine on the murder-for-hire conviction. He was remanded to custody pending a January 7 sentencing.

Super search to begin

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Parent-Teacher Organization.

The search committee will begin work the night of that meeting, Damron said. It will probably get help from the Kentucky School Board Association's consultant that was used during the search for Balentine.

"We're expecting a pretty good pool of applicants," Damron said. "We're going to be working just about as fast as you can on something like this."

The last search was completed in four months and Damron said "that's as fast as you can go on one of these searches."

But the board has had lots of practice.

"We're getting good at this process," he said. "The superintendent search committee has almost become a standing committee around here."

Floyd County's newest superintendent has taken up residence at the Floyd County Board of Education and is moving ahead with a deficit reduction plan put into place by former superintendent Dr. John Balentine.

"He seems to be getting along fine," Phil Damron, the school board's attorney, said Tuesday. Louie Martin, a former Corbin superintendent, was hired by the board October 23 and met with other school administrators Thursday and Friday. He officially assumed the duties of superintendent on Monday.

His contract calls for him to serve the system until a new superintendent is named or 100 days, whichever comes first.

"He's retired and can only work 100 days," Damron said.

Martin is being paid $300 a day plus a $75 per day living expense, the state average, according to Damron.

"That's a state standard," he said. "If a superintendent is appointed by the state, that's what they get."

Martin will begin the preliminary work at the November 12 meeting of the Floyd County Board to get a search started for a new permanent superintendent.

"That's when he will give the board the direction the search should take," Damron said.

The board will appoint one member to serve on the superintendent search committee. Board members Ray Brackett and Ursal Ray Wilcox are eligible to serve, as is Eddie Patton, if he wins next Tuesday's election.

Board members Phyllis Honshell and Dr. Brent Clark cannot serve on the committee because they have announced their retirement as board members and will be replaced in January. Honshell served on the committee that recommended Balentine for the position.

The committee will also include an administrator, to be picked by the Floyd County Administrator's Association and the Floyd County Principal's Association; two teachers, with election to be held by the Floyd County Education Association with all teachers eligible to run; and one parent to be elected by the

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has affirmed a decision by Circuit Judge John David Caudill that the Floyd Fiscal Court could dismiss a road crew worker from his job "at will."

The opinion was rendered October 25 and states that Arnold Daniels was "an at-will employee subject to dismissal with or without cause."

Daniels was employed as a road crew worker by the Floyd Fiscal Court, but was laid off due to "lack of work" on January 3, 1994. Daniels also submitted a letter of resignation at the same time.

A few days after he was laid off, Daniels learned that Hattie Owens, the wife of Magistrate Jackie Owens, was hired for the newly created position of administrative crew leader. That position included the same duties and salary Daniels had before he was laid off.

Daniels sued the court, saying he was wrongfully discharged, alleging he was dismissed in order to make way for a magistrate's wife. The former road worker later amended the complaint to add a count for violation of his civil rights. He also asserted he was entitled to a hearing if he was fired for cause.

While the wrongful discharge claim proceeded to a jury trial, the trial court denied the motion for the civil rights complaint, based on a one-year statute of limitations. Daniels amended his suit in February 1995, more than a year after he was dismissed from the job.

At the close of Daniels' proof in the case, Caudill directed a verdict in favor of the fiscal court and found that Daniels was an at-will employee who could be terminated with or without cause.

The appeals court suggests that the dismissal was not "ordinary," stating in the opinion affirming the dismissal that while the fiscal court argued that Daniels was discharged due to poor work performance and problems with alcohol, Magistrate Owens testified that Daniels' position was simply eliminated and he was not hired for another position. Owens also testified that all employment ended at the end of each magistrate's term of office and employees had to reapply for positions at the beginning of the new term.

The court also said the "subsequent hiring of Magistrate Owen's wife for the new position without any other applications taken, also appears unusual."

Hattie Owens vacated her position on the Floyd County School Board when she accepted the position with the county in January 1994. She immediately resigned from the school board to retain the county job.

The opinion states that there was no regulation prohibiting the hiring of spouses or relatives of county officials when Owens was hired, and that while the fiscal court's actions "might be considered inappropriate," they do not violate "a well-defined public policy."

"While Daniels' charges of nepotism and violations of his due process rights are intriguing, they only serve to obscure the primary issue," the opinion states. "Daniels was an at-will employee. Ordinarily, an employer may discharge an at-will employee for good cause, for no cause, and for a cause that some might view as morally indefensible."

Daniels also signed an application which included the following provision: "...Any employment relationship with this organization is of an 'at will' nature, which means that the employee may resign at any time and the employer may discharge employee at any time with or without cause."

Daniels' signature appeared at the bottom of the application, according to the opinion.

Tax bills will be in mailboxes soon

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

For the first time in several years, Floyd County residents can expect their property tax bills to be on time.

"The 1996 property tax bills are ready to go out," Donna Thompson, office manager for Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson, said Tuesday. "The tax bills will be mailed on the 31st. Tax collections will begin November 1."

A five-year reassessment of all property in Floyd County has pushed back the mailing of tax bills in the past to the point where the sheriff's office has had to close its doors, except for essential employees, because of a lack of funds.

The sheriff has also had to take out loans to cover costs until tax payments came into the office.

That shouldn't be a problem this year.

The sheriff's office will begin collecting payments on tax bills Friday morning.

"They can get a discount if they pay by November 30," Donna Thompson said.

Property owners will receive a two-percent discount if their payment is received by the end of the month. They should pay the face value of the bill between December 1 and December 31. A two-percent penalty will be added on January 1 and a ten-percent penalty is added on February 1.

Thompson said she is recommending that property owners mail their payments because of parking problems around the courthouse.

"If they want to get a receipt, they should send their bill, along with a self-addressed stamped envelope and we will mail back their receipt," she said.

The sheriff's office will also be open from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays to give residents more opportunities to make payments. A telephone line has been dedicated to tax questions and problems. Thompson said tax-related calls should be made to the 886-8965 number.

It's been a year since you left this life. It doesn't seem like a year, and so many things have happened that you should have been a part of; the biggest event would be the birth of your first grandson, Joshua. You would be so proud of him.

We all miss you so much. We know that things weren't perfect and you suffered a lot during your last few years. But, had it been possible, we know that you would have changed a lot of things. We all know how you felt in your heart about us and hope that when you left this world, you left knowing that we all love you very much.

There are still a lot of feelings and emotions to deal with, but someday, with the Lord's help, all of these will be settled. We will always miss you and wish you were still with us.

We love You, Dad.
Love, your children,
Tina, Tammy, and J.W.

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away."

Emergency crews rescue injured hunter Monday

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

For more than two hours Monday, the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad assisted First Response Ambulance Service in locating and transporting an injured hunter from the top of a hill near Morgan Fork.

Clinton Williams, 50, of Little Mud Creek, was deer hunting when his tree stand broke and he injured his hip and leg, Derrick Calhoun, second lieutenant of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, said Tuesday.

The rescue squad received the call at 9:15 a.m. from the sheriff's department, Calhoun said.

Calhoun said the rescue squad used a four-wheel drive truck to get about halfway up the hill, and then the volunteers walked the rest of the distance.

Williams was on the hill for about two hours before someone realized he was missing, Calhoun said. "When they looked for him, they could hear him calling for help," he said.

Once paramedics stabilized Williams, he was taken to the truck and transported off the hill to the ambulance, Calhoun said. Williams was then taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

A patient information official at the hospital said Tuesday that Williams was not admitted at the facility.

Shepherd pleads guilty to assaulting three Kentucky State Police troopers

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

An Ohio man, who allegedly assaulted three state troopers in April 1995, has pleaded guilty to reduced charges in connection with that incident during which Troopers Bobby Day, Stewart Howard, and Ronald Peppi Jr. suffered minor injuries.

Martin Shepherd, 50, of Roundhead, Ohio, entered the pleas to three counts of fourth-degree assault Monday, the day he was to stand trial on the charges.

Shepherd was originally charged with three counts of third-degree assault.

He faces a 12-month sentence probed for two years. Shepherd is currently serving a sentence for a driving-under-the-influence charge.

John Mann, assistant Commonwealth Attorney, said he and Cassie Allen, Shepherd's attorney, had been discussing a plea agreement for "some time," and that Shepherd would be returning to Ohio when he finishes serving his DUI time.

"That should help him stay out of trouble here," he said.

According to Shepherd's arrest warrant, officers were dispatched to the David area about 10 a.m. April 16, 1995. The caller said an intoxicated driver was driving a black Pontiac erratically and was making threats in the Open Fork area of Floyd County.

The vehicle was reportedly traveling on Route 850 toward Route 404 when one of the three officers met the vehicle and turned around to pursue it.

That officer lost sight of the car, but another saw it on Open Fork. He followed it for a time and then noticed that it had backed onto an unoccupied piece of property and the driver had turned his lights off.

The officers attempted to administer a field sobriety test because Shepherd "appeared to be extremely intoxicated," according to the warrant. Shepherd would not cooperate with the officers.

He was placed under arrest and was put into one of the vehicles while they waited for information on the car's registration.

When that information came back, it indicated that Shepherd was driving on a suspended drivers license and had no insurance.

That's when Shepherd "went crazy" according to the warrant. He began kicking at the windows. Officers asked him to stop or they would have to handcuff him. He agreed to stop, but didn't and he started hitting them.

The warrant states it took three officers to get the handcuffs on Shepherd and get him back in the car. He was taken to the hospital after the incident, where he reportedly also caused a scene.

Rural housing funds increase

Guaranteed Rural Housing (GRH) Funds will increase during 1997. The increase will make financing available for many low and moderate income families in Floyd County.

Allocations for the Guaranteed Rural Housing Loan program will increase from $41,412,000 to $61,488,000. The Guaranteed Rural Housing (GRH) Program targets families who do not have a down payment and makes financing available for purchasing a home at a fixed rate of interest with a repayment period of 30 years. The increase in allocations will make financing available for approximately 1,025 families.

Further information on the above program may be obtained from the local Rural Housing Service Office located at Prestonsburg. The telephone number is 606/886-9545.

Vanhoose nominated for state social work award

A Wheelwright native was nominated for a state award, the Department for Social Services' Paul T. Grannis Award, for demonstrating extraordinary service to troubled families in this area.

Amy Allen Vanhoose was nominated for the award by the FIVCO/Big Sandy District Social Service area.

Her nomination cited an "extraordinary record" of adult and children protective service investigations completed and the close bond she forms with her clients.

Vanhoose completed 327 investigations during the 1996 fiscal year. Vanhoose resides in Johnson County where her husband teaches school. She continues to remain active in Wheelwright. She leads youth programs at the Wheelwright Methodist Church.

Vanhoose is one of 14 nominees for the Grannis Award. She will be honored at a luncheon and awards ceremony at the Capital Plaza Holiday Inn in Frankfort, beginning at 11:30 a.m. on November 4. The winner of the award will be announced during the ceremony.

The Grannis award, given annually since 1988, was created in memory of a 35-year-old Fleming County social worker killed in 1987 while investigating a child abuse case.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER

When I began serving as your board member in January 1993, School construction was at a standstill. During my tenure the following construction projects were completed:

- Completion of South Floyd High School
- Construction of the Gymnasium Addition to South Floyd High School
- Construction of Betsy Layne Elementary School
- Construction of Martin-Maytown Elementary School
- Updated the Heating and Air Conditioning System for Allen Central High School
- Construction of the Running Track for Allen Central High School

All projects started during my term as board member were completed on time and under budget.

I am proud to have been a part of these construction projects, and look forward to working for the future needs of Floyd County. When re-elected as your board member, I will continue to work for new athletic fields in Floyd County as well as a new wing for the Martin-Maytown Elementary School.

A Look At Sports

Saying goodbye to "Coach"

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISH...

The early morning rain fell on our county this past Saturday as most of the Martin residents and many others from around this county and beyond gathered at the tiny Martin gym to say goodbye to one of the most successful coaches of all time.

Denzil "Hoss" Halbert was buried that afternoon as hundreds gathered to say their final goodbyes.

"If the old gym had still been standing, "Hoss" wanted to be carried through its door, around the floor, upstairs and back out," said Edgel "Bide" Click Friday night.

It was only appropriate that his services were held in the grade school gym that was named for him. A huge plaque, with his image impressed on it and with his record and other accomplishments listed, hangs in the foyer of the gym. The image sports the typical bow tie he always wore. It was all Hoss.

Memories were still in the trophy cases as the 1949 58th District tournament trophy was retrieved from the case by my brother Bob, who played on the team that year, in order for me to take his picture with the trophy. Hoss often spoke of Bob in a kind voice saying, "he was one of favorite players who played for me."

Joe Back and WQHY paid a tribute to the great coach at halftime of the Prestonsburg/Morgan County game Friday night. Many sports fans were tuned in to the show, and I heard from those who listened about how much they appreciated the overture. Gorman Collins Jr., Joe and Jim Ed Allen are to be thanked for the gesture.

All the way as far as Elkhorn City, Jerry Justice said, "I was listening and heard the intermission salute."

We will never, never know just how many people Hoss influenced. I appreciate all those who said they enjoyed the article the Floyd County Times printed on the former coach. We're just glad we could do it. We loved Hoss as a friend, former coach and former teacher.

Grade school athletic committee

Practice dates, eligibility sheets subject of committee

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County Elementary Athletic Committee met at the Central Office this past Monday in its first official act of trying to find a solution to the on-going problems encountered in grade school athletics.

"This is the last official act that Dr. (John) Balentine issued before he passed away on that Wednesday," said Chairperson Peter Grigsby Jr., whom Dr. Balentine appointed to oversee the county's grade school athletic programs. "He faxed this to me that day."

The grade school basketball season and its definite starting date were the biggest concerns for those present at the meeting Monday afternoon.

The committee presently consists of four grade school principals, as well as four basketball coaches from each section of the county. Football coaches could be added later as representatives of that sport.

Attending the first meeting was Martin coach Doug Derosssett, McDowell coach Brent Rose, Adams Middle School coach Neil Turner and Prater coach Zenith Hall. Liz Conley, principal at Duff Elementary, was also present, along with Grigsby.

Grigsby expressed his desire to see the committee become an on-going group that would oversee athletics in the county on the grade school level.

"We need the principals to be at our meetings because we need a balance along with the coaches," said Grigsby in addressing those present. "We need to get our grade school athletics back together."

Grigsby was referring the co-existence of football and the basketball programs.

Hall said he didn't mind to serve on the committee as long as decisions made were not overruled by another committee.

"If that is going to happen, then I just need to stay at school and do what I am supposed to do," he said.

Hall's reference was to the decision to run a split basketball season in grade school, with the girls' program beginning in September and ending in November before the boys' season starts. A later committee overruled the yes votes for such a format, setting off a loud objection. The reason for the objection was, why have committee decisions if they are going to be overturned by the board?

The committee did define the start of the grade school basketball practice season by moving the starting date from the first of November back to October 15, when the high schools are permitted to begin practice. Prater and Harold elementaries boys' teams were allowed to begin their practice on October 1 because of the lack of facilities for both schools.

Lafferty's three TDs lead Blackcats past Morgan Co.

Ortega scores three TDs in 60-16 rout of Cougars

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was a warm night for football this past Friday evening at the Prestonsburg stadium where the Blackcats celebrated a combined homecoming and senior night.

The duo of Matt Lafferty and John Ortega was a bit too much for the Morgan County Cougars, who are still looking for their first win of the season as they stumbled big time 60-16 on the road.

The win over the Cougars locked up second place for the Prestonsburg players, who had home field advantage, in the first round of the state playoffs set to kick off November 8.

Both Lafferty and Ortega scored three touchdowns in the victory that improved coach John Derosssett's ballclub to 7-1 on the season and 5-1 in district play.

Ortega had 156 yards rushing for Prestonsburg and had a 48-yard punt return for a total of 214 all-purpose yardage. Gavin Hale had an interception for Prestonsburg that he returned 19 yards for a touchdown.

Prestonsburg scored on its first eight possessions of the game rolling to a 14-0 first quarter lead. Morgan County had first possession and moved the football easily against the Prestonsburg front line picking up two first downs with the ball resting on the Prestonsburg 49. On a second and eight, the Cougars fumbled the football with Hale recovering the ball and racing into the end zone for what appeared to be a score. But a clipping call nullified the score giving the ball to Prestonsburg at the Cougars' 44-yard line.

It took eight plays for Prestonsburg to score with Lafferty crossing the goal line from one yard out. Mark Branham added the PAT for the 7-0 lead.

Morgan appeared to be intimidated by the Prestonsburg front line with a minus seven yards on its next possession. The Blackcats wasted little time in making it a 14-0 game with Brian Jones scoring on a three-yard run and Branham adding the extra point.

Betsy Layne puts scare in Whitesburg before falling

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Randall Hager's Betsy Layne Bobcats are a week away from completing the current football season, but the new head coach is upbeat about the way his team has played lately and the high spirits they have shown.

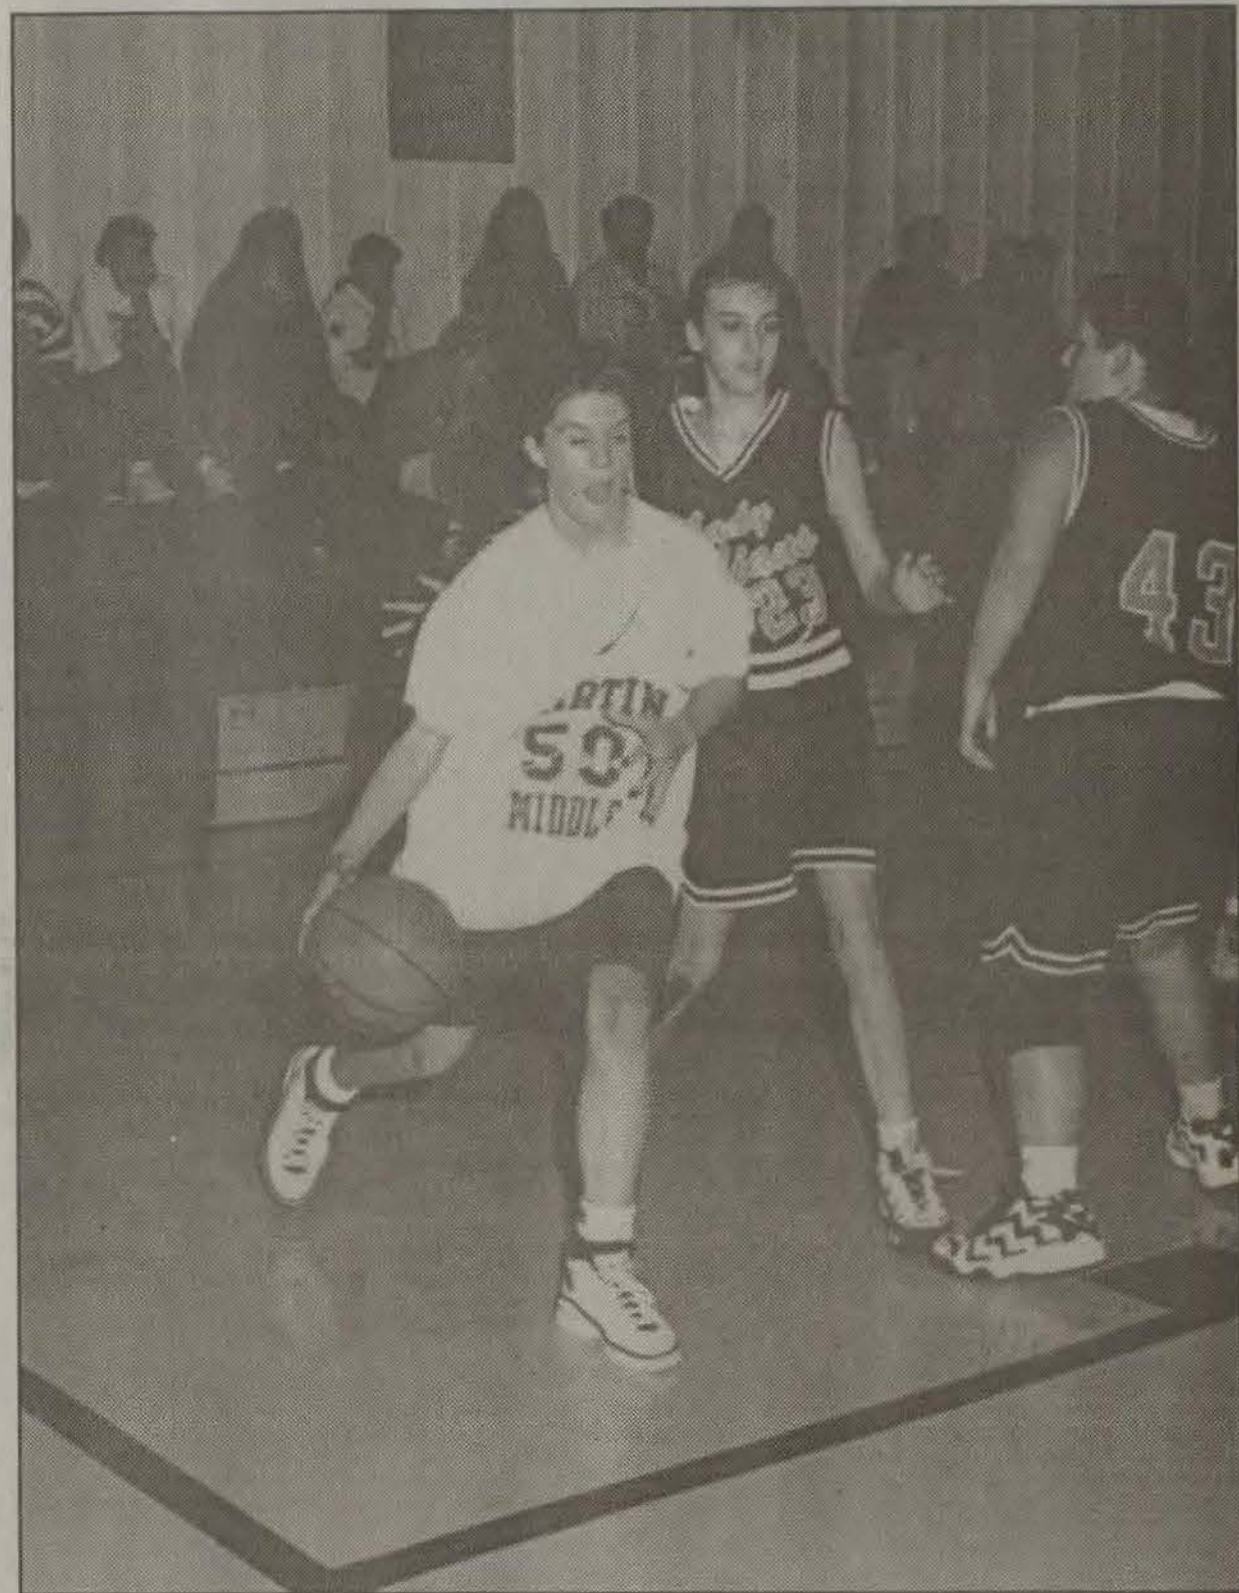

This past Friday night, the Bobcats journeyed to Whitesburg to face a rebuilding, but powerful, Whitesburg team that got more than they had expected from the 3-6 Bobcats. Whitesburg prevailed 34-20, in a game closer than the final score would indicate. Coach Hager said they could have pulled out the victory.

"We had our chances to win the game," he said. "They opened the game by scoring two touchdowns early and that hurt us at the start. After the first quarter, we played them pretty even."

Twice in the game the Bobcats had the football at the Whitesburg 2-yard line and fumbled the ball away both times.

"Then after we took the ball

South Floyd has easy time in win over Louisville Beth Haven

Raiders stop off at UK to inspire Kentucky past Georgia

by Ed Taylor

The South Floyd Raiders won this past weekend. So did the Kentucky Wildcats.

South Floyd pulled off a 41-31 win over Louisville Beth Haven and Kentucky nipped Georgia 24-17. South Floyd was expected to win. Kentucky was not.

"We feel like we brought them a little good luck when we took in the game Saturday night," said South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels.

The Raiders played in Louisville Saturday afternoon and then took in the UK/Georgia game before returning home late Saturday night.

The victory Saturday afternoon guaranteed the Raiders in a split of the season as they improved to 5-4 on the year. South Floyd can have their first-ever winning season with a win over Elkhorn City this Friday night at Elkhorn.

Beth Haven is in their first year of football since dropping the sport several years ago. Coach Daniels said the game afforded him the opportunity to play much of his whole squad.

"There was no sense going in there and trying to run the score up and destroying a team," he said. "Besides, it allowed me to play some of my junior varsity team."

Daniels inserted his JV team midway in the third period and they played the entire fourth period. Because of the performance of the JVs, tailback Ketrin Mays carried

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

With many, many question marks facing the Allen Central football program, the Rebels found very little to cheer about as they suffered through a 69-0 trouncing at the hands of the Breathitt County Bobcats last Friday night. It was the seventh consecutive loss for Allen Central, who opened the season with wins in their first two games.

The Bobcats scored five times in the first quarter alone to race to a 34-0 lead. They added two touchdowns in the second and led 48-0 heading to the locker area at the half.

Jonathan Chapman scored three touchdowns in the game with Tim Barnett scoring twice. The Bobcats did not insert their reserves until the final quarter. Breathitt scored once in the third on a 1-yard run by Chapman. Byron Smith and B.J. Fugate scored in the fourth quarter for the Bobcats.

Allen Central (2-7) will have to close their season on the road at Whitesburg this Friday night.

motion, seconded by Hall, and it was passed unanimously by the committee.

On the subject of the spit-season involving girls' basketball, Grigsby asked the subject be tabled until a later time, allowing the committee more time to consider it.

"But I will tell this committee now that there is no way Auxier Elementary can afford a split-season. Most of the county principals feel the same way," he said.

The committee accepted the recommendation to consider it at a later time.

Grigsby wanted the committee to define the basketball season because of the squeeze the football season has put on the roundball year.

"I just don't feel it is fair and I don't feel that five days of practice is enough time for our kids to get ready for the basketball season," he said. "I don't think 10 days is enough."

Turner then recommended to the committee that October 15 be set for the start of practice for the grade school teams, the same as for high school. Rose then seconded the motion.

Grigsby presented the committee with the idea that each school present the opposing school with eligibility sheets signed by both coach and principal declaring that the listed players meet requirements both age-wise and academically. The committee unanimously passed the motion made by Mrs.

Conley and seconded by Rose.

There was some discussion of shortening the grade school football season by two weeks so the basketball season would not be so pressed. According to regulations, approved by the board in '94, the football season would consist of between eight and 10 games.

With the approval of the October 15 practicing date, no football player will be permitted to practice basketball until after the football season ends.

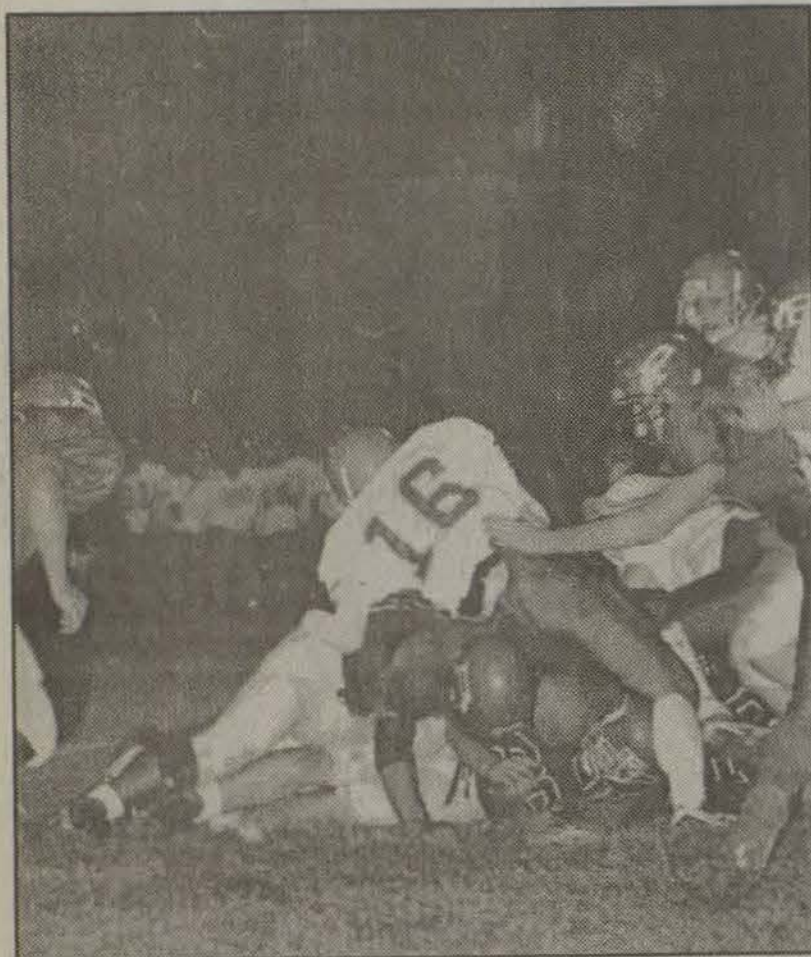

Grigsby wanted each school to police itself on the academic side in declaring players eligible to play. "We do it every week at Auxier," he said. "If the players are not making the grades, they don't play."

Coach Derrossett was concerned over some teams starting the season before the Right Beaver Classic, which was supposed to kick off the grade school season.

"We look and we see teams that are supposed to be playing in the tournament scheduling regular season games," he said. "Then we have to go and change everything."

Derrossett is faced with that dilemma again this year.

Other issues were left to be decided until the next meeting, which was set for Tuesday, November 19.

of neglect. The Martin trophy case is open and anyone could just pick up a trophy and walk away with it. Some of the trophies are in need of repair and better care is needed.

I realize that the kids at Martin Middle School know nothing of the history and accomplishments that all those awards represent. The current school officials, and rightly so, have no real concern for the preservation of the awards. But I am afraid, fellow Purple Flashes, that those trophies are going to soon be missing or destroyed if someone doesn't take charge.

Go to Wayland and you will find trophies missing that represented a great institution and all that those former players accomplished in the athletic arena. Go to Maytown — where are the awards of that great school? The same with Garrett. They are gone or destroyed.

If no one else will oversee those trophies at Martin, turn them over to me, and I will find a place for them to make sure they are not destroyed. We need to preserve our history. We (and I am speaking as a former Martin High School student) need to get a Hall of Fame in the works and preserve our tradition. I am concerned.

FRIENDS...

One never knows how many friends one has until a tragedy strikes. I want to close my column this Wednesday not on a sports note, but on humanity. Saturday morning at 3 a.m. I received a phone call from my brother-in-law Charles Justice informing me that our church was burning.

The church sat on the Mountain Parkway and, when I arrived, the building was engulfed in flames and eventually destroyed.

But that is not the note I wish to close on. It is the love and concern good people from all over have expressed to us, and it has been such an encouragement. I am speaking of folks from South Carolina, Florida, Indiana and around the state of Kentucky. We all appreciate all the encouragement and prayers. We certainly do. It means so much to all of us.

Blackcats

The score was set up on a 32-yard pass completion to Gavin Hale from quarterback Mike Castle.

A 43-yard touchdown run by Ortega in the second period made it 20-0, and then Hale picked off a Chris Daniels' pass and returned to the end zone for a 26-0 game.

With 7:07 remaining in the first half, Lafferty galloped 46 yards for the score, and Branham's PAT made it a 33-0 score. Morgan County could not find any running room against the tough front line of the Blackcats.

The Cougars were forced to punt with less than five minutes to play in the first half. Ortega took the football on the dead run and went untouched into the end zone for a 48-yard touchdown return that gave the Blackcats a 39-0 lead.

A horrible Cougar punt gave Prestonsburg excellent field position at the Cougar 30-yard line with just over two minutes to play in the half. Ortega picked up 24 yards to the Cougar six where Jones ran the football in from six yards out for the 46-0 halftime lead.

The lead went to 60-0 at the end of three quarters. Coach Derossett sent his reserve forces into the game in the third period and Morgan County found the JVs a little easier than the varsity. They scored twice in the fourth period for the final 60-16 score.

Brian Jones scored two Prestonsburg touchdowns and rushed for 74 yards on eight carries. Freshman Jeramy Caudill continued to sparkle as he rushed for 78 yards. Freshman Seth Crisp had two carries for 15 yards.

Prestonsburg was hit hard in penalties with 80 yards on eight flags. Uncharacteristically, Prestonsburg fumbled the ball away three times. Morgan County lost the football once on a fumble and was intercepted twice.

Prestonsburg's defense held the Cougars to only 63 yards on eight flags. Daniels completed eight of 13 passes for 90 yards, giving the Cougars 153 yards total offense.

Prestonsburg had 434 yards total offense rushing for 403 of those.

Prestonsburg (7-1) will close out its regular season in a nondistrict game with powerhouse Lawrence County this Friday night.

"It gets mighty rough from here on," said Prestonsburg assistant Bobby Spencer. "Lawrence County is going to be tough and then there's the playoffs."

down field and scored on a good drive, they returned a kickoff for a touchdown," said the Betsy Layne mentor. "Breakdowns like that hurt us."

Senior tailback Craig Hamilton, who moved from quarterback to the backfield this year, rushed for 150 yards and scored two touchdowns for the Betsy Layne offense. He also scored a conversion play. Hamilton has rushed now for 1,105 yards this season.

But Hamilton starred on the defensive side of the football as well, with 11 tackles to lead the Bobcats.

Whitesburg had taken a 14-0 lead on two quick touchdowns, but Betsy Layne made it a 14-6 game when Hamilton scored on a 26-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. Whitesburg crossed the goal line just before halftime to lead 20-6 at the break.

"We moved the football well against their defense," said Coach Hager. "In the second half, we just traded touchdowns. We played well enough to win the game."

Betsy Layne trailed 27-14 in the third period after scoring their second touchdown on a 2-yard run by Hamilton and the two-point conversion. The Bobcats went for the on-side kick and thought they had come up with the football.

"We thought we had recovered the ball," said the Betsy Layne coach. "One official missed the call and gave the ball back to Whitesburg."

The Yellowjackets final touchdown came on a pass-play action, but the pass should have never gotten off.

"We had him in our grasp and he breaks tackle, rolls out and throws a touchdown pass," said Hager. "Overall, we played well. I'm proud of our kids and the way they played. I feel we have been playing very well of late."

Tim Koger finished with 71 yards rushing while Eric Cecil had 31 yards on seven carries. Cecil scored the final touchdown for Betsy Layne in the fourth quarter on a 13-yard run for the final 34-20 score.

Chad Case had two carries for 16 yards. Quarterback Tyler Puckett carried the football twice for 11 yards. Betsy Layne finished with 279 offensive yards.

Nathan Hayes had seven solo hits for the Bobcats on defense. Cecil and Brad Kimbler each had an interception.

Betsy Layne (3-6) will close out their regular season on the road at Breathitt County this Friday night.

The course of true love never did run smooth.

the football only eight times for 33 yards. Jonathan Paige led the ground attack for South Floyd with 39 yards on six carries.

Compton completed seven of 14 passes for 159 yards passing. He threw for three touchdowns. On the receiving end of two touchdown receptions was Scotty Johnson. Heath Hall had a 30-yard touchdown reception and Justin Holbrook had also had a catch of 30 yards for a TD.

Defensively, senior Travis Johnson led the defensive line for the Raiders with six tackles. Coach Daniels said he wanted to turn both Johnson and Compton loose in calling their own plays in the second half.

"Nick needed to do it for next year and Travis is a four-year senior and been with me, so I let him call the defensive plays. He did a good job. They both did a good job," said Daniels.

South Floyd scored in the first quarter on a 2-yard run by Chris Isaac. Charlie Williams, who kicked five PAT's in the game, added the extra point for a 7-0 Raider lead. Beth Haven tied the game at 7-7 when Chris Yates hauled in a 59-yard reception from quarterback Bobby Thompson. Scott Collier added the extra point.

After that, it was all South Floyd as they built a 21-7 first quarter lead. Holbrook caught his touchdown pass from Compton and later Scotty Johnson pulled in his 30-yard catch with Williams adding the extra points.

In a "flea flicker" play, Scotty Johnson completed a pass to Heath Hall for a 25-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter. Later, tailback Ketrin Mays would score from 1-yard out to stake the Raiders to a 35-7 lead.

Beth Haven made it 35-15 on a 10-yard touchdown run by Thompson with Collier running the two-point conversion.

South Floyd scored their final touchdown in the third period on a 36-yard completion from Compton to Scotty Johnson. Daniels then inserted his junior varsity. Beth Haven was allowed to score twice in the final period against the younger Raiders to make the score a little more respectable. Collier scored on an 18-yard pass from Thompson and then he hit Yates with a completion of 19 yards.

Chris Isaac ran the football four times for the Raiders for 19 yards and a touchdown. Heath Hall finished with 21 yards rushing and Nick Moore had 15 yards on six tries. Coach Daniels even let defensive tackle Andre Faine carry the football once for a 3-yard gainer. In all, 14 players carried the ball for South Floyd.

Heath Hall had an interception he returned for 20 yards. Jonathan Paige had seven tackles for the Raiders and Isaac had three.

After the win at Louisville, the Raiders visited Commonwealth Stadium for the Kentucky game.

"The kids really enjoyed it," said the South Floyd coach. "Especially our younger players. They had never been to an SEC game. They all had a big time."

South Floyd (5-4) is out of the playoff picture and will close out the season at Elkhorn City Friday night.

C.M. Newton's football coach short list is long, respectable and growing

From Auburn assistant Tommy Bowden to Tennessee assistant head coach David Cutcliffe, the list of candidates interested in replacing Bill Curry at Kentucky makes C.M. Newton's short list look long and respectable.

Others are: Ohio State top aide Joe Hollis, Notre Dame offensive coordinator Dave Roberts, NFL assistants (and Kentucky natives) Larry Kirksey (49ers) and Sherman Lewis (Vikings), and ESPN's Mike Gottfried.

And these are only the names leaked to the media so far. There will be more. While no heavy-weight head coaches are clamoring for the job, it is evident what can be accomplished at Kentucky, and to see the commitment made to football i.e. facilities available and drawing board plans to expand Commonwealth Stadium. As well as enthusiastic fan support.

Crucial, as always, will be the new coach's honeymoon period and fruit from his initial efforts to persuade at least a handful of the country's best prospects to "just come and take a look at our place."

In state? As always, UK must harvest a core group of Kentucky's best, perhaps starting with lineman Braxton Anderson at Franklin-Simpson and, including running back Tony Driver of Male or Derek Homer of Fort Knox.

Meanwhile, attention focuses on the coach candidates.

Based on what we know of their credentials, beginning with their ages—all are in their early 40s, 'entry poll' results (mine) makes the order of preference: Cutcliffe, Bowden, Lewis and Hollis.

• Cutcliffe has 15 years experience in the SEC and is an established recruiter. When or if he is interviewed however, Newton will want to know how involved Cutcliffe was with recruiting some of the undesirables dotting Tennessee's roster the last decade.

• Bowden has been around the Southeastern Conference for a decade, knows the recruiting hotbeds, and spent one season at UK so he knows how the winds blow here. He espouses an offensive philosophy that will appeal to Kentuckians the way the 3-pointer has done in that other sport.

• Lewis seems a reluctant candidate at best. But, from all accounts, the Louisville native and Michigan State All-American would be excellent as the SEC's first African-American head coach. Like the others Lewis is acquainted with winning football. The major question: Can he recruit high caliber student-athletes to Kentucky?

• Hollis is the brains behind the No. 2 ranked Buckeyes' offense and is much involved in Ohio State's recruiting. But coaxing high schoolers to Columbus and getting them to Lexington is a different cup of tea altogether.

Gottfried would like to have the job but the stain of NCAA rules violations while coaching at Pittsburgh will not make good reading for Newton.

Kirksey looks to be a long shot as does Dave Roberts.

BILL CURRY & LEGACY

Lest we forget ... Bill Curry told a friend last week, "This is the most humiliating and painful experience I've ever gone through. But I just didn't get the job done, that's all."

As Curry left last week, walking across the autumn painted University of Kentucky campus and away from his office at Commonwealth Stadium, some of us were left to stare forlornly. And the reasonable among us felt sadness.

Much as we hope for our children and ourselves, we yearned for Curry to succeed at Kentucky if only because 'winning the right way' ought to triumph over the other way in competitive athletics. Instead, we are left to mouth the words once more 'life isn't always fair.' And to endure the piety of some in the media.

A Louisville sportswriter pulled on his coat of many colors a day after Curry's firing and wrote, 'Let not history vilify him...?' This from a fellow who, for the last three seasons, led the vilification committee.

Another columnist used the occasion to slap Curry's other cheek, using second-hand information (that was not correct) to say the coach is dishonest.

"If it's true that Curry promised (Tim) Couch that he would open up the offense for him," Billy Reed wrote, "then that shoots holes in the belief that Curry, no matter how incompetent his coaching, was less than honest."

"If it is true..." is not good enough. But Reed got what he wanted, a cheer for his bravado.

In fact, Couch was promised an opportunity to earn playing time immediately. To promise him an instant change in the offense would have pre-empted what Elliot Uzelac was hired to do, as well as cast starting quarterback Billy Jack Haskins aside immediately. Curry would not have done these things as evidenced by his adamant stand that Haskins would be the starting quarterback.

Never mind. Curry's players, those mature enough and committed enough to follow the right paths in life, will have made successful careers and become richly acquainted with principle and right-thinking. Waaaaay beyond football.

This will be Bill Curry's legacy.

Meanwhile, let us be sober and clear and fair-minded about why Curry was fired. It had nothing to do with graduation rates or NCAA rules compliance. Both were exemplary. No, UK football did not make progress toward competitiveness in the SEC. And it is important to note that happened at least in part...

Because Moe Williams went to the NFL.

Elliot Uzelac and his offensive philosophy was a myth.

Curry hired assistant coaches with his heart instead of his head.

Daymon Carter couldn't cut it.

Damon Betz had a bad kidney.

Because there were not more Marty Moore(s). Not enough Antonio O'Ferrals, 6-foot-6, 290 pounds.

Because Trent DiGiuro's murder stupefied and numbed many UK players.

Emerson Wells, Marvin Major, Russell Cross, Brandon Jackson, and a host of others did not/could not behave or obey team rules, forcing their dismissal.

Curry was fired because UK could not defend Florida's passing game for three more seconds in 1993.

And because Marty Moore fumbled in the Peach Bowl.

And he was fired because he would not break or even bend NCAA rules.

Today, the most vocally jubilant among UK fans are those who expect a change in Kentucky football. However, because so much of college athletics today is rotten, I worry that too many of these fans expect a lowering of the bar. Hire a coach who can compete in the SEC which—let's get it out in the open—is cryptic language for—do whatever it takes to win, including cheat. Something the SEC is known for in the '90s.

TIM COUCH

Too much is being made of Tim Couch's stay or leave decision at Kentucky. The 6-5, 230-pound freshman has been the focal point of a shameless media crunch already this season.

If Couch stays in school at Kentucky, so be it. He will remain the center piece around which a new coach can recruit and build. If Couch decides to transfer, then best of luck to him. The new coach's construction plan will be that much more a challenge. Either way, life goes on and building UK football to a competitive level will be a mammoth undertaking.

COOPER CAVE-IN

Ron Cooper's cave-in Saturday contradicts everything the University of Louisville football coach has preached about proper behavior by student-athletes rating ahead of playing football. Cooper suspended Tyrus McCloud and Rick Clark for the first half of the Cards' game against Cincinnati because of a curfew violation. But when the Cards fell behind 10-0 in the first quarter, Cooper reversed himself and inserted both players.

The action by UofL's football coach sends a familiar message that has been the undoing of coaches for decades - Disciplinary treatment for student-athletes is more equal for some than others.

Mrs. Herbert Adams, Trenton, Ky: I certainly agree Jeff Sheppard should not be red-shirted this year. Local foursome captures first chamber of commerce golf outing

The foursome of Jim Rose, Cain Hale, Randy Kidd and Duran Newsome were the winners of the first Floyd County Chamber of Commerce Fall Classic Golf Tournament held at the Jenny Wiley Golf Course on Saturday, October 12.

The temperatures hovered in the 70s as forty golfers teed off in what was termed a "very successful tournament." Following the tournament, a cookout and an awards presentation was held.

The winning foursome of Rose, Hale, Kidd and Newsome received first-place trophies for their winning effort. They also received gift certificates to the Jenny Wiley Pro Shop. Wesley Case, Barry Risner, Mike Derrossett and Doug Derosssett received second-place trophies, as well as Jenny Wiley sweatshirts.

The third-place foursome consisted of Clyde Woods, Larry Woods, Dick Clark and Danny Hamilton. Each received third-place trophies and silver dollars.

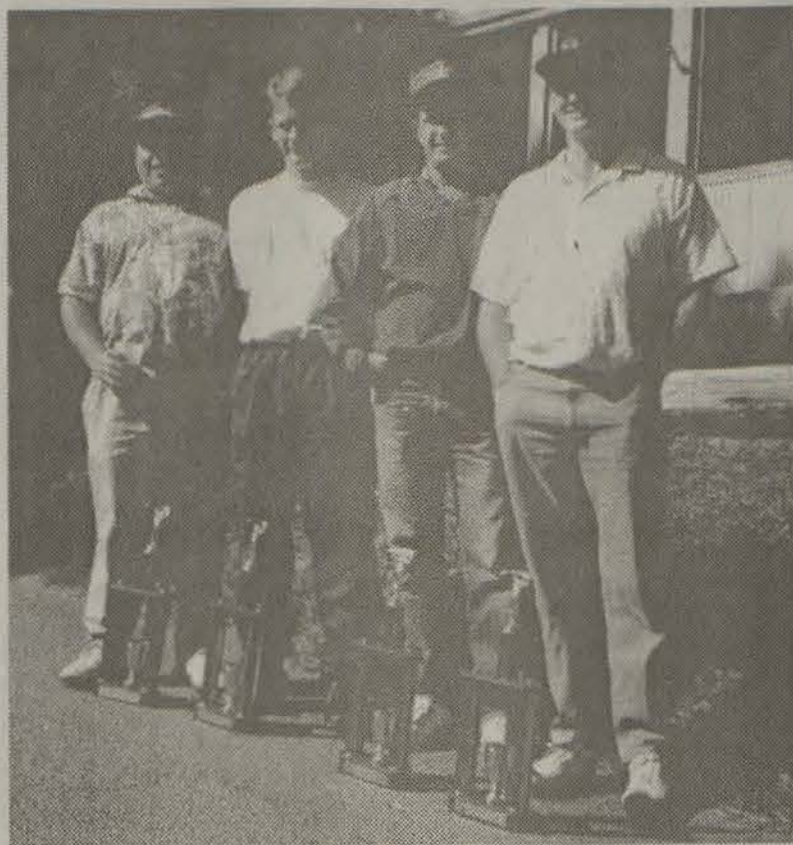

"The chamber of commerce would like to thank all the sponsors for their contributions to the success of the tournament," said Chamber Executive Director Carla S. Coburn. "They contributed approximately $2,000 in prizes for the Fall Classic Tournament.

Each hole earned players a prize and each had a sponsor.

"Thanks to the efforts of our sponsors, we plan to have the Fall Classic Golf Tournament again and, hopefully, for many years to come," said Coburn.

The chamber of commerce is a not-for-profit organization that strives for unity and prosperity of the business community of Floyd County.

Anyone interested in being involved in next year's tournament is urged to contact Carla S. Coburn at (606) 886-1341.

First place

Jim Rose, Cain Hale, Duran Newsome and Randy Kidd were the winning foursome in the Chamber of Commerce's first annual golf tournament during the Jenny Wiley Festival.

PRO FISHIN' TIPS

Have you ever wondered why baitfish bunch up so tightly? It is simply for survival, a defensive mechanism. By gathering closely together, they create a large image that looks like a big fish. Even the movement of a school creates the impulse sounds of a large fish.

But perhaps the secret of detection is the odor that all baitfish emit into the water that is detected by the keen sense of smell that bass possess.

Many times, you will be able to spot submerged schools of baitfish by the oil slick that appears on the surface from the natural discharge of the forage. Always fish that area.

Hamilton wins for Richard Petty

Bobby Hamilton took the lead with 30 laps remaining in the Dura-Lube 500, and went on to register his first victory in 167 Winston Cup starts.

For Petty Enterprises, it was the first win since 1983.

"This is no fluke," Petty said. "These guys have done everything right except win the last two years. Now, they know what it feels like to win. We'll be back and win more races."

Points leader Terry Labonte, who fractured his left hand, had electrodes placed on the front and back of his hand to control the pain.

"We could have done better," he said. "The old worn out tires were better than the last two we put on. I guess we should have left the old ones on. But it was a good run — I'm happy."

TOP TWENTY FINISHERS

- 1) Bobby Hamilton
- 2) Mark Martin
- 3) Terry Labonte
- 4) Ted Musgrave
- 5) Jeff Gordon

- 6) Geoff Bodine
- 7) Ernie Irvan
- 8) Dale Jarrett
- 9) Bobby Labonte
- 10) Darrell Waltrip
- 11) Todd Bodine
- 12) Dale Earnhardt
- 13) Mike Skinner
- 14) Ricky Rudd
- 15) Wally Dallenbach
- 16) Michael Waltrip
- 17) Morgan Shepherd
- 18) Jimmy Spencer
- 19) John Andretti
- 20) Dick Trickle

With only one race remaining, Terry Labonte, the 1984 Winston Cup champion has a 47-point lead over teammate Jeff Gordon, and 99-points over third-place, Dale Jarrett. Labonte, 4,497; Gordon, 4,450; Jarret, 4,398; Dale Earnhardt, 4,162; Mark Martin, 4,127.

SPRAGUE WINS GM GOODWRENCH/DELCO 300 AT PHOENIX

Jack Sprague passed Johnny Benson in the latter stages of the 300K NASCAR Craftsman Truck

Series race, Saturday, October 26, for his third win of the season.

They called him Mile-Track-Jack, because he has now won three of the season's four races held on one-mile tracks.

TOP TEN FINISHERS

- 1) Jack Sprague
- 2) Johnny Benson
- 3) Joe Ruttman
- 4) Mike Skinner
- 5) Ted Musgrave
- 6) Tobey Butler
- 7) Ron Hornaday
- 8) Joe Nemechek
- 9) Doug George
- 10) Harry Gant

- 1) Hornaday, 3,697
- 2) Mike Skinner, 3,625
- 3) Sprague, 3,598

If Hornaday finishes 16th or better in the last race of the season at Las Vegas, he will win the Craftsman Truck Series Championship.

TONY GLOVER MOVES TO TEAM SABCO AND ROBBY GORDON

After 14 years at Morgan-McClure Motorsports, helping drivers like Sterling Marlin and Ernie Irvan win on the Winston Cup circuit, Tony Glover has a new home.

"Sometimes you just gotta do what you gotta do," Tony said. "There wasn't anything wrong, but I just felt stagnant. I needed a new challenge."

Since his entry into big-time Winston Cup racing, Glover has been crew chief for 10 different drivers who have taken the checkered flag.

Glover's move to Felix Sabates' camp, where he will be the crew chief on the no. 40, driven by Robby Gordon, was completed prior to the Dura-Lube 500 in Phoenix. His contract duration is for three years.

20 teams to battle in AMS grade school basketball panorama

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The grade school basketball season kicks off the first week of November, but 20 teams will warm up this coming Saturday, November 2, at the Adams Middle School for the AMS basketball panorama.

Each game will consist of two 10-minute halves with KHSAA rules applying. Each team will be limited to two timeouts per game.

The McDowell Daredevils will face host school Adams in the first game, which will tip off at 10 a.m. Both teams figure to be in the chase for a county championship this season.

At 10:50 a.m., John M. Stumbo's Lady Mustangs will face the Allen Lady Eagles in one of four girls' games. Auxier's boys will square off against the John M. Stumbo Mustangs at 11:40 a.m.

At 12:30 p.m., Betsy Layne, last year's defending county champions, will meet Melvin, a team that could carry the favorite's role this season. This game should be a good one.

The Adams Middle School girls will meet Melvin at 1:20 p.m. in the second girls' game. Even the sixth grade boys will play in this one as Adams will play Inez at 2:10 p.m. Martin's Lady Flashes will go against Osborne at 3 p.m.

The final three games of the day will find the Osborne Eagles taking on Adams Middle School in what could be one of the better games. The game tips off at 3:50 p.m. Auxier's girls will meet McDowell in a 4:40 p.m. start and, the final game of the day will pit Martin against the Allen Eagles at 5:20 p.m.

This is the first year of the Adams Middle School panorama and plenty of good basketball is on tap for the basketball nut. Fans are invited to come out and enjoy the day.

We'd Like To Clear The Air

People that snore often find themselves the target of many bad jokes. Many endure elbow thrusts and repeated wake-ups all throughout the night, almost as if they're snoring on purpose.

The truth is, people who snore loudly, every night, in any position, could be suffering from a serious, but treatable, sleeping disorder known as Obstructive Sleep Apnea.

If peaceful nights are being interrupted by loud, continuous snoring, the professionals at Pikeville Methodist Hospital's Breathing Disorders Sleep Laboratory can help you get a good night's sleep. Call 437-3989 for an appointment.

South, Castle win first-ever rescue squad fishing tournament at Dewey

The Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad held its First Annual Fishing Tournament at Dewey Lake on Saturday, October

19. Participants turned out for the event, despite the fact it was the opening of hunting season, according to Captain Harry Adams of the rescue squad.

"It was an overwhelming success," he said. "I wish we could have had a higher turnout, but with hunting season going on, we still did very well."

East Kentucky Auto Parts of Prestonsburg and Angler's Bait and Tackle of Prestonsburg were the tournament sponsors. Both expressed their satisfaction about the tournament.

Jason South and Robert Castle took home the $300 first-place prize as the tournament champions. They won the contest with one large mouth bass tipping the scales at five pounds, 10 ounces. Second place went to Brian and Dennis Osborne of Ivel. The duo won the $200 second-place prize. South also won $40 for the biggest fish prize.

All entry fees were donated by the sponsors and the money is to be used by the rescue squad to maintain its state-of-the-art rescue equipment.

Biggest catch

Jason South was half of the tournament winner in the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad's fishing tournament. South also was the winner of the big fish contest.

BIG WEEKEND FOR THE PETTYS

One of the longest dry-spells in NASCAR history came to an end in last Sunday's Dura-Lube 500 at Phoenix. Finally, Richard Petty's STP Pontiac broke through the gates of victory lane after a 13-year absence.

Fans in attendance at Phoenix, as well as those glued to their TV sets all across the nation, watched eagerly as Bobby Hamilton mounted a charge in the race's final laps to snare the lead and hold off Mark Martin and Terry Labonte for his first career NASCAR Winston Cup victory.

Many Winston Cup fans cut their teeth by watching Richard Petty win race after race. In fact, many individuals became fans solely because of the humble Carolinian in the feathered hat and shades, with a smile recognized world-wide.

Petty's un-reachable mark of 200 wins made him a staple in the sport of NASCAR racing. It is easily understood that NASCAR would not be what it is today without "The King."

Following Petty's final win in the 1984 Firecracker 400 at Daytona, victory lane became but a distant memory for the most legendary of all Winston Cup competitors. His competitive edge dwindled through the late 80s and in 1992, King Richard Petty traded his driving suit in for a stopwatch as he retired from driving.

Would Petty be able to guide his #43 Pontiac back to the winner's circle functioning as an owner? That question has loomed large for the last four seasons. And four drivers later, the question has been answered.

At the onset of the '95 season, Petty signed former NASCAR Rookie of the Year, Bobby Hamilton as the pilot of the most famous car in racing. With 10 top-10 finishes (five in the last 11 races), hope had been restored in the shops of Petty Enterprises.

Hamilton has been on the verge of victory several times since taking over the reigns of the Petty machine. And on Sunday, a lofty goal was reached. They say the first win is always the hardest to get. I'm quite sure that we'll see the #43 in victory lane again. Congrats to Petty, Hamilton, and the entire Petty Enterprise organization on a victory well-deserved.

For Richard Petty it was a stellar weekend. Along with the victory, it was announced that Richard's son, Kyle will be returning home to drive a second car out of the Petty Enterprise shop. Officially known as PE2, the joint venture will feature a Pontiac owned and driven by Kyle Petty, and sponsored by Hot Wheels, a brand of toy vehicles that we are all familiar with.

Kyle began his racing career with Petty Enterprises in 1979. He left the family racing stables for a spot in the Wood Brothers Ford in 1985, winning two races. In 1989, he formed his relationship with Felix Sabates, and has been there since, winning six races and eight poles.

Kyle made it clear that one day he would return home and the racing world has always wondered when that would happen. The wondering is over as Richard Petty will welcome Kyle home in 1997.

The Petty name has been synonymous with NASCAR since 1949 by Lee Petty, Richard Petty carried on the tradition. Kyle is the third-generation driver, but there may be more Pettys coming up through the ranks.

Kyle has two sons, Adam and Austin, both in their teens and quite serious about pursuing careers in racing. So maybe we'll see a fourth generation of Pettys in NASCAR before too long.

The NASCAR Winston Cup Series takes a weekend off before returning to action on November 10 in the season-ending NAPA 500 in Atlanta where the championship will be decided among three drivers — Terry Labonte, Jeff Gordon and Dale Jarrett.

A WHOLE DIFFERENT ANIMAL.™

The most expensive movie in film history is Terminator 2: Judgement Day, starring Arnold Schwarzenegger. The 1991 blockbuster reportedly cost $95 million to make.

Coach Mills to head up Alice Lloyd Eagles as '96-'97 season opens Making changes in coaching duties is nothing new for Alice Lloyd's new men's head basketball coach John Mills. Mills will be making change number three this year as he heads up the Eagle program. He replaces Jim Stepp as head coach.

Mills was the college's men's head baseball coach before he took over the women's basketball program three seasons ago. Now, he takes over a men's program that has been ranked nationally for the past six years.

But this will be a different looking team compared to what most Alice Lloyd fans are accustomed to seeing. Of the 16 players on the Eagles' roster, only four will be returning from last season.

John Slone, 6-4, senior, will be the leading returning scorer for the Eagles. Slone averaged just over 16 points per game last year and pulled in an average of seven rebounds per contest. Also returning will be Brad Arrington (6-9) who is expected to fill the "big man" slot under the basket. Arrington averaged 5.5 points per game and had 3.4 rebound average.

Sophomores Matt Baker, 6-5, (Allen Central), and Jeremy Johnson, 6-4, (Shelby Valley), are also returning for the Eagles.

Coach Mills is also excited about five freshmen who join the Eagles this season. One is Magoffin County's Jason Robinette (5-10).

Tom Holbrook (6-5, senior), who missed last year due to an injury, will return for his senior season.

Alice Lloyd will not be the big team of past seasons, but the Eagles' quickness and excellent speed, teamed with good outside shooting, should keep the Eagles in national prominence.

The Eagles start their '96-'97 campaign November 9, at home against Warren Wilson. Sue Bennett will be in town November 12 and the Eagles will play in the Pikeville Invitational November 15.

the second game of the season. She missed the rest of the '95-'96 year.

Moore will return this year for her senior year and is expected to show senior leadership, along with seniors Nicole Colegrove, Kim Mosley and junior Amy Dixon.

Coach Campbell thinks this year's recruiting class is one of the best in the school's history. Freshmen that could make an impact this season are: Patricia Kron, Cindy Kron, both of Harlan; Karrah Sampson of Jenkins;

Stephanie Bowling of Ashland, and Maranda Wampler of Kingsport, Tennessee.

The Lady Eagles open the season November 5 on the road against Sue Bennett. They will face Transylvania on November 8 and will be at Pikeville College for the Pikeville Invitational beginning November 15. The Lady Eagles will be on their home court against Kentucky Christian, November 21, the first of three consecutive home dates.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis™" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple back-ache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis™ relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis™ is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Former Blackcat to play in Centre homecoming game

Centre College's Homecoming matchup with Trinity University on Saturday will mark the final Farris

Stadium appearance for 11 seniors, including a former Prestonsburg Blackcat and, a pair of three-year lettermen, Joe Meyer and Matt Chambers. Seniors playing in their final home game are quarterback Adam Crawford of Fort Thomas, receiver Mark Hammond and twin brother Mike of London, fullbacks Donald Shively of Columbia, Brad Bryant of Louisville, lineman Bill Bottoms of Prestonsburg, linebacker Billy Fowler of Lexington, defensive back Leonard Napolitano of Valley Stream, New York, defensive lineman Aaron Collins of Louisville, Chambers, a defensive lineman from Cincinnati, and Meyer, a linebacker from Danville.

The Colonels will take a 4-3 record into Saturday's contest, 0-2 in Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference play. Trinity, 6-0, has not played a conference game this year and has not lost in nine contests since Centre spoiled the Tigers' Homecoming 17-7 last year. Saturday's Homecoming game will feature a half-time ceremony commemorating the 75th anniversary of Centre's "Upset of the Century" win over Harvard University in 1921.

Prior to the 2:30 p.m. kickoff, Crawford will be presented an award in recognition of his selection as Burger King's "Scholar Athlete of the Week." Centre will receive $10,000 in Crawford's name for its general scholarship fund.

Crawford, who has been accepted into the University of Kentucky's Medical School, is the SCAC's leading passer, averaging over 170 yards a game. He tied a school record with three touchdown passes last week against Maryville.

Chambers scored a touchdown on a pass interception in Centre's first game of the year and is the team's second-leading tackler with 51. Meyer, who played at Danville High School, also has 51 tackles from his linebacker position. Bryant, Shively, Fowler and Mark and Mike Hammond had each won two letters coming into their final seasons, while Bottoms earned one.

HUNTING FROM THE TREES

John walked down the path with his rifle carefully cradled in his left arm. "I know it's around here somewhere," he mumbled to himself. He was looking for a tree stand he'd used last season. The stand was a sturdy looking wood construction that had served him well. He walked on looking upward into the trees. A little farther his foot hung on something and he tripped. He fell across the old tree stand that lay where it had fallen to the ground. Lucky for John, the tree stand gave way before he got to it. But some other hunters have not been so lucky.

With deer archery season underway and muzzleloader and modern gun seasons not far behind, hunters are getting out their tree stands. But there are a number of safety issues that should be addressed before putting those stands to use.

Tree stands give hunters an obvious advantage — visibility without being seen. Still, serious injuries can and do occur around them. These injuries are a result of poor equipment, improper use, carelessness or a combination of these.

A tree stand should be inspected before each use. Look for bent bolts or metal parts. Make sure chains, straps and ropes are in good condition, and replace them if they are not. Always use a safety strap at waist level leaving enough slack to allow safe movement. Often, private landowners do not allow permanent tree stands, and existing stands should be used only with permission. Permanent tree stands are not allowed on public lands. Instead, use portable stands and tree climbers that do not injure trees. Using nails, spikes, wire, screws or other attaching devices that injure trees is strictly prohibited on public lands.

Tree-friendly stands must be marked with the owner's name and address and placed in trees no earlier than two weeks before the opening of the season. Stands must be removed within one week after the season closes.

When selecting a spot for your stand, find the "edges" where the structure of the land changes. This may be the edge of a woods or along a fence row or creek. Look for signs of deer, like trails or rubbings, and choose your spot just off them. Also, remember, in the morning, deer are going from feeding areas to bedding areas. In the evening, they move from bedding areas to feeding areas.

Once you've chosen your spot and it's time to set up your stand, be cautious when climbing up and down from the stand. Haul bows, arrows and guns to and from the stand with a pull rope. If you have a prefabricated stand, read factory directions and practice setting up the stand before going out into the field.

MODERN GUN DEER SEASON

Fall hunting seasons are closing in fast and the next one to open is modern gun deer season. The season opens on November 9 in all counties except Leslie County. In zones one through six, the season closes after November 18. In zone seven, the season closes after November 13. Zones are indicated on the back panel of the 1996-97 Kentucky Deer and Small Game Guide.

In order to be a legal deer hunter, persons must carry a current hunting license as well as a deer permit. If you are exempt from having a license because of disability or age, you still must possess a deer permit. Those allowed to hunt without a license or permit are: (a) Kentucky residents, their spouses and dependent children hunting on their own farmlands, and (b) tenants, their spouses and dependent children hunting on farmlands where they reside and work.

Other requirements, such as hunter orange and hunter education as well as special public wildlife area restrictions are outlined in the Deer and Small Game Guide.

Bassin' with the pros

LOOK FOR BASS ON FLATS OR IN CREEKS NOW

The popular saying among bass fishermen that if you find baitfish you'll also find bass is only partly true this time of year, according to veteran professional angler Denny Brauer.

"The reason is because October and November are months when baitfish are actively moving from the main lake into the tributary creeks, and a fisherman is likely to find these schools of shad practically anywhere," explains Brauer, a former guide and a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff.

"Bass will follow shad and other baitfish into the creeks, but they won't be underneath every school of baitfish. This time of year, when you find bass you'll also find baitfish, but when you find baitfish you won't always find bass."

When Brauer is looking for bass in the autumn months, he searches primarily on main lake flats that may lead into tributary creeks, and he likes to see actual bass feeding activity. He concentrates in water less than five feet deep.

"Early in the morning I look on the main lake, but as the day progresses I gradually move further into main lake pockets and coves or into the creeks themselves," he notes. "Yet it is difficult to catch bass when shad are so plentiful, so

Anglers advance to Red Man All-American Bass Championship

Eight fishermen have qualified to compete in the Red Man All-American Bass Championship June 2-7, 1997, in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, by successfully advancing through a 120-man field to top weekend anglers in Operation Bass' Regional Championship qualifier held on Lake Truman at Bucksaw Point Resort. The eight will be competing against 42 other anglers for a first place cash prize of $100,000.

Steve Floyd of Sabrina, Ohio, took first place with a two-day catch totaling 28 pounds, 7 ounces. Floyd received the first place prize of a Chevy pick-up and a fully-rigged Ranger bass boat powered by an Evinrude outboard valued at $40,000. Floyd fished creek flats in Osage River using spinnerbaits with 20-pound-test Stren SuperTough fishing line.

Second place went to Jim Carnell of Muskogee, Oklahoma, for a two-day catch totaling 25 pounds, six ounces. Battled receives $2,000 for second place. He fished laydowns off flats using one-half ounce jigs and one-half ounce spinnerbaits. Ernie O'Neal of Vine Grove, Kentucky placed third with 23 pounds, nine ounces. O'Neal fished a rock wall across from Bucksaw Marina using spinnerbaits. Third place paid $500. There was a tie for fourth place between Argyll Hill of Claremore, Oklahoma, and Donald Satterfield of Windor, Illinois. Both anglers collected $125 for two-day catches totaling 21 pounds, two ounces. Hill fished shallow laydowns in the Osage Arm area using one-half ounce spinnerbaits. Satterfield fished shallow laydowns in Jackson Creek using spinnerbaits, buzzbaits and jigs with Stren fishing line.

Rounding out the top positions were (6) Jerry Walker of Zeigler, Illinois, 21 pounds, one ounce; (7) Chris Meyers of Madison, Indiana, 19 pounds, 13 ounces; and (8) Corey Bobbitt of Overton, Texas, 19 pounds and one ounce.

Ernie Travillion of New Albany, Indiana, took the first day big bass prize of $505 for a six pound, six-ounce catch.

I actually try to get in front of the main baitfish concentrations. There aren't as many baitfish and the bass just seem to bite better."

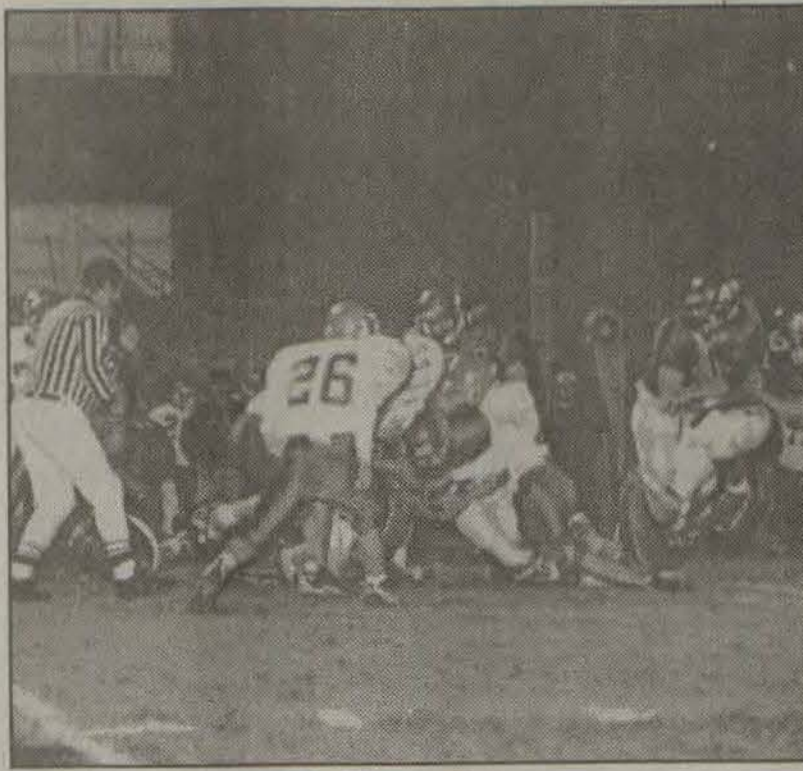

Boat docks and piers rank as Brauer's favorite fishing targets during the fall, primarily because they often offer the only cover available on main lake flats.

"When bait is on the surface, it generally means bass will be suspended, so I prefer to use either a spinnerbait or a topwater lure like a buzz bait," explains the Evinrude pro. "This is one time when flipping jigs is not necessarily a good technique to use. Spinnerbaits can easily be fished at mid-depth ranges, and buzz baits will bring bass to the surface."

Brauer likes to recall a tournament on Georgia's Lake Lanier several years ago in which the shad were up on main lake flats prior to their migration into the creeks. He caught a nine pound bass by fishing a spinnerbait below one of the baitfish schools.

"The entire fall migration of baitfish and bass into tributary creeks, is keyed to water temperature," says Brauer. "Once it begins to cool, the fish start moving. This can actually be as early as August in some areas, and as late as November in others."

"You'll always see the baitfish first, but your key to finding bass around them is to see the bass chasing and feeding on the shad. This means the bass are not only present but they're active and you can catch them."

At Mud Creek, children and parents go to school

The little world of childhood with its familiar surroundings is a model of the greater world. The more intensively the family has stamped its character upon the child, the more it will tend to feel and see its earlier miniature world again in the bigger world of adult life.

—Psychologist Carl Jung
 Realizing that what they do will shape their children's world, some families in the Mud Creek section of Floyd County are trying to ensure that education is an important part of their family lives.

The new family learning program at John M. Stumbo Elementary School is a vital part of their attempt.

"I have a son in the fourth grade and he wanted help with his homework," said Sandy Hall of Branham's Creek. "I looked at the work and decided I'd better brush up on my own skills if I want to stay ahead of him and be able to help him."

The school's family learning program turned out to be just what she needed.

In the project, parents first set goals to better their own education, acknowledging that they are the basic models for their children's own experiences in school. For some parents, a goal is to update their skills in math, reading and language. Others are studying for the GED.

These parents meet twice a week for adult education classes sponsored by the David School Adult Education Program at the Mud Creek Family Resource Center.

"I've been wanting to get my GED for years, and this is really the first chance I've had to study," said Marilyn Hall, also of Branham's Creek. "I'm going to do it!"

Two times a month, parents set aside the book studies for Parent Time where they can share their experiences, give each other a boost, and learn about ways to help their children.

After Parent Time, the parents bring their children from the Head Start classroom to the resource center for PACT Time (Parent And Child Together). Here, the families spend quality time together in learning and play activities.

"The children are so excited about PACT Time," said Head Start teacher Anna Hamilton of Teaberry. "They love to go to Mommy's school and come back to the classroom excited about what they have done."

Darren Newsome, director of the family resource center, is sold on the program. "I know the kids will do better in school if the parents are involved with them."

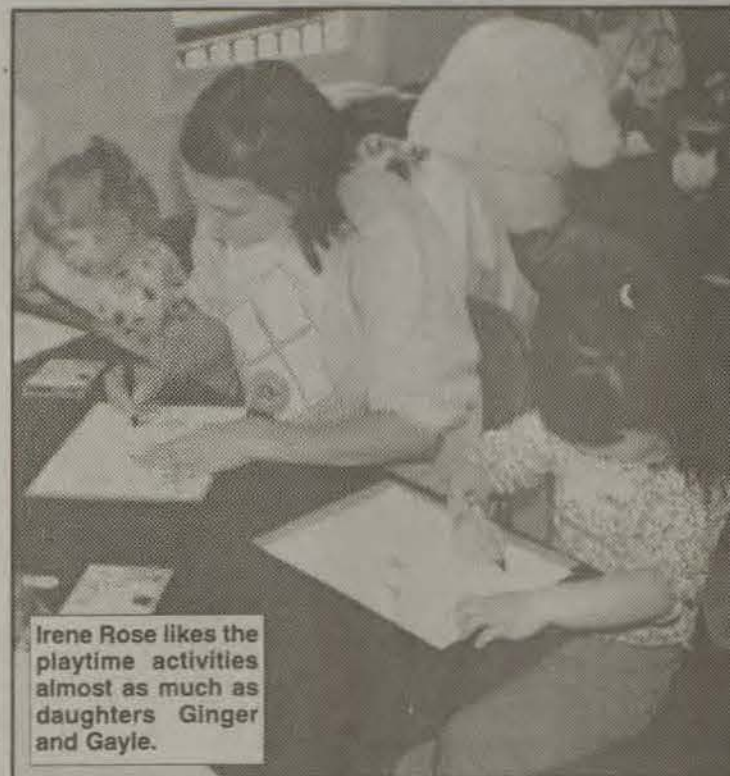

Judy Tackett of Beaver, the busy mother of twins, finds the program especially important. "This program is helping me figure out how to give each one of the twins the special attention they need. That isn't always easy."

Other parents involved in the program are Barbara Bradley of Teaberry and Michelle Bryant, Irene Rose and Debbie Tackett, all of Grethel.

An important angle to the program is that it is a cooperative effort of several organizations. Besides the adult education program and the family resource center, the program represents the cooperation of Floyd County Adult Literacy Council, Floyd

Irene Rose likes the playtime activities almost as much as daughters Ginger and Gayle.

John L.'s Gone, But We Do Have Madonna

I read a story in the paper last week about the new computer scanners used to record prices of items sold in many grocery, department and drug stores. It seems that someone somewhere has done a study and found that about five percent of the time or Scotty Griffith, or even store manager E. B. Miller, and not only did he record the price, he'd pull it off the shelf for us. All we had to do was tell him what we wanted or give him the list Mom had written and he'd do the rest.

Poison Oak

these scanners don't record the correct price. The article explained that the errors were not intentional and resulted from inattentiveness or carelessness rather than some attempt to perpetrate fraud on unsuspecting customers. It also pointed out that errors were in favor of customers more often than not.

Still, I'm often surprised when my total comes to more than I think it should. Then again, my problem could be as Wilma says: "If you'd do the shopping a little more often, maybe you'd realize that things cost more now than they did 50 years ago when you bought them at the company store in Muddy Branch."

Now, were those good days, or what?

Back then, not only did we not use scanners, we didn't even use money. What we'd do was go by the script window and let Claude VanHoose issue us a script card. (Script cards came a few years after the actual script that many coal companies would issue to their employees. I'm not old enough to really remember actual script.)

Anyway, we'd simply present this script card to the clerk waiting on us. In my case, it would have been Alton Kennard or Clyde McKenzie company store would then be held from his check at the end of each half. It was just like Tennessee Ernie sang in "Sixteen Ton;" we owed our soul to the company store.

Depending on the time of day and how many other customers were in the store, sometimes it'd take 15 or 20 minutes to get a loaf of bread, a box of kitchen matches and a can of lye. But, while you waited, you'd be educated. From the half dozen other customers you'd learn stuff like the progress with the new contract that John L. Lewis was negotiating, or when was the best time to hang out your white laundry so as not to have it covered with coal dust.

It's all supposed to be faster now. The problem is that even with the speedy scanners, and regardless of which store I choose to frequent, between the lady with the 100 coupons and the fact that nine of the ten check-out lanes are closed for whatever reason, I still have a 15 or 20 minute wait. No one's standing around talking about John L. Lewis and pillow cases, but at least I can read the tabloid headlines about Madonna's baby and John John's wedding.

So much for scanners. So much for progress.

Honored on birthday

Crecie Joseph was honored on her 87th birthday with a family dinner at her home on Hyden Lane, Prestonsburg. Mrs. Joseph is the widow of Corbin Joseph, long-time Floyd County Constable. She credits her long life to being a Christian and trusting the Lord. Hosts for this occasion were her children and grandchildren.

Officiates at funeral

Reverend Tommy Valentine was in Bardstown, last week to officiate the funeral of Ethel Kays. She was a member of his church when he was pastor there.

Hall-Moore wedding

Shonna Hall and David Moore were united in marriage, Saturday afternoon, October 26, at the Lackey Freewill Baptist Church.

Shonna is the daughter of Michelle Hall of Topmost and Kenny Elkins of Melvin, and the granddaughter of Mary Evelyn Hall of Wayland and the late Dewey Hall Jr.

David is the son of Ray and Betty Moore of Wayland, and the grandson of Ethel and Erma Lee of Prestonsburg.

Historical Society meets

The Floyd County Historical and Genealogical Society met Monday night, October 21, for its regular monthly meeting at the Floyd County Library.

President Jim Daniels presided. The secretary's report was given by Brenda McKenzie. The treasurer's report was given by Betsy Lambert. All other committee reports were given by the chairmen. The guest speaker, Reverend Sam Knox, pastor of the Community Methodist Church, spoke on the genealogical history of men and women in the Bible.

Daniels announced that the book "The Founding of Harman's Station and the Captivity of Jenny Wiley" is back in print and is for sale at the gift shop at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park and local book stores.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting to Russell Whitlock, Janet Rowe, Ellis Buchanan, Terry Buchanan, John

K. Pitts, Bobby Wells, Eugene Cline, Marshall Davidson, Lowell Parker, Fred James, Joy James, Robert Perry, Frances Pitts, Jean Burke, Mable Allen, Bertha Daniels, Rich Osborne, Glen Osborne, David Hereford, Betsy Lambert, Reverend Sam Knox, Brenda McKenzie and Jim Daniels.

Visit family here

A. G. and Dee Buckingham of Mt. Washington, were here last weekend visiting their daughter and family, Reverend Tommy and Jennifer Valentine and son, David, at their home on First Avenue, Prestonsburg.

Pioneer Festival committee meets

Members of the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival met Monday night, October 21, at the Prestonsburg City Hall to make final reports on the recent festival.

Donna Wells, chairwoman presided at the meeting. The treasurer's report was given by Sue Webb. All committee chairmen gave reports.

Plans are underway for the gospel sing, country and bluegrass sing and the Kentucky Highland Folk Festival for the 1997 festival.

Enjoying the occasion were Ginger Hall, Madeline Schoolcraft, Donna Williams, Amber Leslie, Sarah Vickers, January Cooley, Kyle Fitzpatrick, Allison Elliott, Terina Younce, Kelly, Steve and Taber Allen, Vera Ford; her grandparents, Winston and Carolyn Ford, and Winn Ford; her parents, Jerry and Leslie Fannin; and her brother, Mikeal Fannin.

AARP dinner meeting

The monthly dinner meeting of Jenny Wiley American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) No. 3528, was held on Friday October 18, in the medical facility of Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Sylvia Allen, president, presided over the meeting.

The devotional was held and all present joined in the pledge to the American Flag.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given.

The matter of conducting a 55 Alive Driving Course was discussed and it was proposed that a class be conducted, Thursday and Friday, November 14-15, and this will be held at the Extension Service office on South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., each day. To register, call Sarah Laven, at 886-0939 or Margaret Ackerman, at 886-2551.

Those members having birthdays in October were recognized.

The president, Mrs. Allen, reported that she had written to our legislators regarding the passage of the Older Americans' Act, and she encouraged the membership to contact their representatives and advise them not to tamper with the distribution of funds for older Americans. Mr. McConnell and Mr. Rogers responded to her correspondence.

It was decided not to install officers of the chapter at this time but to install them at the meeting to be held on Friday, November 15.

Ted Stumbo dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Launa Luttrell Deal celebrates 85th birthday

On Sunday, October 20, the daughters of Launa Luttrell Deal hosted an open house held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shockley in Benton, Illinois, in honor of Mrs. Deal's 85th birthday.

Many friends and family joined in the celebration, including many former residents of Wheelwright. Her daughters and their husbands were Marlene and Harry Bartuka from Hardy, Virginia; Mary Lee and Richard Shockley from Benton, Illinois; Patricia Collins from Florence, Kentucky; Nancy and Rodney Hunter from LaGrange, Indiana; and Gwynne Katzenbach of Lafayette Hill, Pennsylvania. Some of Mrs. Deal's grandchildren and great-grandchildren were also in attendance.

Mrs. Deal, formerly of Wheelwright, has been a member of the Order of the Eastern Star for more than 50 years and has twice served as past worthy matron of the Wheelwright Chapter. She was active in many community affairs, in addition to helping organize and participate in fund-raising activities to provide uniforms and travel expenses for the Wheelwright band, and uniforms for the Wheelwright football team.

Mrs. Deal may be contacted in care of her daughter, Mrs. Richard Shockley, 406 North Main Street, Benton, Illinois 62812.

John David PRESTON

Dear Voter,

SENATOR JOHN DAVID PRESTON is the son of the late J. Frank Preston, who worked for Columbia Gas Company, and Olga Auxier Preston, who ran a grocery store for years in Allen, and later was Betsy Layne School Librarian. He has been married for 19 years to Mary Stephenson, and they have a six-year-old daughter, Ellen.

JOHN DAVID PRESTON graduated from Allen Elementary, Prestonsburg High School, Harvard University, and U.K. School of Law. He is an attorney, Sunday School teacher, part-time farmer, NRA member, and a Mason.

SENATOR JOHN DAVID PRESTON was elected to the Kentucky Senate from the counties of Johnson, Lawrence, Boyd, and Elliott. After redistricting of Kentucky counties in 1996, his district now covers Breathitt, his native Floyd County, Johnson, and Knott.

Senator John David Preston's plan for a better future for Eastern Kentucky:

John David will fight to keep the jobs we have, for new better-paying jobs, and to keep jobs from leaving for foreign countries.

John David will fight to change Kentucky's unfair tax structure which hurts families and businesses. He will fight to eliminate the unfair vehicle tax, and will fight to return more coal severance tax to Eastern Kentucky.

John David will fight to make sure our children and unemployed workers receive the education they need.

John David will fight for health care. His 85-year-old mother has had six major surgeries in the past few years so he knows families need affordable health care.

We urge you to support SENATOR JOHN DAVID PRESTON running for the STATE SENATE in FLOYD, JOHNSON, KNOTT, AND BREATHITT COUNTIES. HE NEEDS YOUR VOTE!

PTSD

PTSD is my very name
When I get a hold on you
Things will never be the same

I eat at your heart, your soul
And then I get into your mind
I do things to you that you Will never understand

I lead you to alcohol and drugs
And marriages go lower for Am the ruler of your mind
And your soul.

I put you in isolation

And make you feel ashamed
I lay anger, shame, and depression
At your door, for PTSD is my name

You think you have the best of me, but its my turn to Explain, you shall never get
The best of me, for courage is my name.

School

County Head Start and the public school system's Title I Program.

Vivian Whitehead teaches the adult education classes and is a primary catalyst behind the Mud Creek program. Last year she helped to start the Mountaintop Preschool Family Learning Center at David and this year is also involved with the new 11th Hour Family Program for parents of high school students at The David School, both of which are recognized by the National Center for Family Literacy.

"I am impressed by the wonderful collaboration that is making the new project possible at Mud Creek," Whitehead said. "The commitment of the parents, the excitement of the children make me realize again how essential it is to have parents involved in the education of their children."

"Family literacy truly brings parents and children together for success," she said. John Stumbo Head Start teacher Billie Isaacs heartily agrees. "This program gives us an opportunity to help parents better themselves and their kids. I believe it is giving my students a real head start in life."

Friday, November 1, is National Family Literacy Day. In observance, Whitehead urges parents to get involved with their children's education, to vow to improve their own skills, and to work closely with their children on educational goals.

Barbara Bradley and her daughter Barbara both love the storytelling session.

Family Literacy Day in Kentucky November 1

Most educators agree that children do better in school when they also learn at home. For Family Literacy Day, the Kentucky Department for Adult Education and Literacy offers parents tips to help children learn every day.

Get to know your child's teachers. Visit the school when your child is doing well—don't wait until there's a problem to meet teachers.

—Be involved in your child's school. Volunteer as your time allows.

—Read to your child—even babies—every day. Let your child see you reading your own books. Make reading a part of the family's everyday activities.

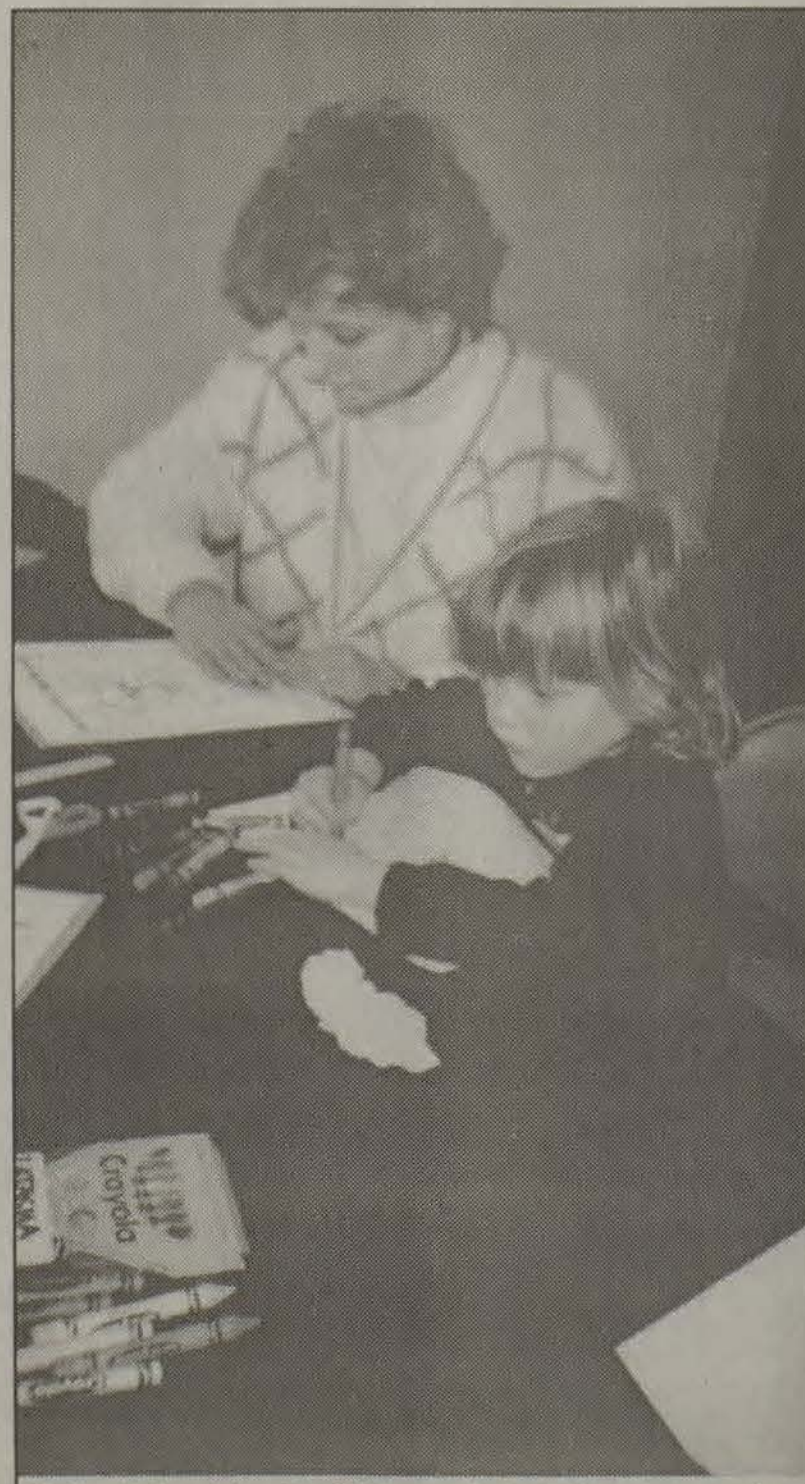

—Let children of all ages handle books so that they can become comfortable with books. Books made for infants and toddlers are available and can be found at book, discount and outlet stores.

—Take your child to the local library and ask about special children's reading hours. When children are old enough, let them have their own library card and allow them to check out books.

Take books along when you know you'll have a lot of waiting time—at the doctor's office, on trips or in long lines.

—Involve your child in writing activities. For example, let them watch as you write the check at the grocery store; let them "write" notes in birthday cards or in a letter.

—Family literacy also means a good education for parents. If you need help with reading or need your GED, set an example for your child by calling the adult learning center in your community. Adult learning centers provide assistance with reading and with earning your GED. For more information, call 1-800-228-3382 or the adult learning center in your area.

Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

Senior citizens, today in our ongoing booklet review of "Your Guide to Understanding — An Important Message From Medicare" we will discuss two more topics. Big changes are coming. They have already rolled into some areas of the state.

On Friday last week, I received a call from a senior citizen in Ashland. She said, "I am a retired school teacher and I have been reading your articles in Sunshine Lines for a long time. We moved from Floyd County and now live in Ashland. My husband is hospitalized and you can't believe how stressful this Medicare business has been. I'm constantly handed forms to sign with print so small I can't read them, with my eyesight as it is, and I don't understand what it is they are expecting me to sign." ...I feel that will be the reaction of most senior citizens when they, or a loved one, is hospitalized.

It is important that every Medicare recipient be keenly aware of these changes.

Today, as promised in last week's article, we will discuss: What you can do if you or your representative does not agree with a 'Notice of Noncoverage' if you were to receive one or more of them. And, we will discuss what you, or your representative, can do if it is felt that you are being asked to leave the hospital too soon.

If you are handed, or receive a Pre-admission Notice of Noncoverage, an Admission Notice of Noncoverage, or a Continued Stay Notice of Noncoverage and you do not agree with the issuance of the notice "...please contact Health Care Excel no later than noon of the next working day after you receive the notice. Your PRO (remember from an earlier article that a PRO is a Peer Review Organization) will process the review immediately. If the PRO agrees with you rather than the hospital, Medicare will continue to pay for costs as long as you require an acute-care hospital setting.

"If the PRO agrees with the hospital, you will have to start paying for your hospital care at noon on the day following the PRO review."

"If you or your representative do not ask for an immediate review, you will still have up to 30 days after receiving the notice to request a regular interview.

"The PRO will retrospectively review your case even if you didn't ask for an immediate review, but you were admitted to the hospital or remained in the hospital after receiving a Notice of Noncoverage and incurring liability. You will receive a letter from the PRO on these review results."

Now, what if you feel you are being asked to leave the hospital too soon?

"If you think that you are being asked to leave before you feel you are ready, ask a hospital representative immediately for a notice of explanation: a Notice of Noncoverage. You must have this Notice of Noncoverage if you wish to exercise your right to request an immediate review by the PRO. This must be done by noon of the next working day.

"When notified of the PRO's determination, you will be informed of how to request a reconsideration."

Next week, as our booklet report continues, we will discuss the importance of requesting a reconsideration. Please feel free to contact Health Care Excel at 1-800-288-1499. I also suggest that you request that they send you the booklet, "Your Guide to Understanding — An Important Message From Medicare." With a copy of this booklet in hand, you can read for yourself, in a bit more detail, about the changes you can expect if you, or a loved one, is a Medicare recipient who is in the hospital or who is about to be hospitalized.

Sunshine Lines is brought to you as an outreach effort of the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. This program is sponsored by Appalred.

MSU business development center's fall training schedule

Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center has announced its fall training calendar.

The programs, which are free and open to the public, include:

Monday, November 4, "How to Write a Business Plan," which will cover the importance of a well written, concise business plan for those who desire to open a business.

Tuesday, November 5, the importance of keeping accurate financial records will be discussed at "Small Business Record Keeping." Various accounting systems, financial statement analysis and debt management will be among the items covered.

Wednesday, November 6, "How to Find Money for a Small Business," will include how to obtain a loan and the variety of loan programs available.

Friday, December 6, is a pre-business orientation program.

The instruction for all sessions will be Keith Moore, general management consultant for SBDC. Each session will begin MSU's Combs Building, Room 210, at 1 p.m., with the exception of the November 6, program, which begins at 5 p.m.

Pre-registration for all training programs is necessary. Additional information and registration are available by calling (606) 783-2895.

Partially funded by the U.S. Small Business Administration, the SBDC training programs are available to all individuals without regard to race, creed or national origin. Special arrangements will be made for the disabled when requested in advance.

Sponsors for the training sessions include: MSU's College of Business, Center for Community and Economic Development and Office of Community Development and Continuing Education.

"LEADERSHIP YOU CAN BE PROUD OF"

Benny Ray Bailey has led the fight in the Kentucky Legislature to reduce your tax burden.

To cut the income tax on low income persons.

To cut the inheritance tax to protect your family's assets.

To cut the automobile tax assessments and make them fair.

To raise the standard deduction from $650 to $1700.

To eliminate state tax on all pensions for our elderly.

In the 1996 Session, Benny Ray sponsored legislation to eliminate the property tax on your home, but Senator Preston voted against it and it failed.

While lower your taxes, Benny Ray has fought to see that our East Kentucky people receive their fair share of state spending for education, roads, public facilities and vital services. Benny Ray sponsored the legislation to return 50% of our coal severance tax to create JOBS right here in the Mountains and fought for equal funding for our schools.

Early bad habits can lead to decay

During the daytime, when your baby cries or becomes fussy, do you give him or her a bottle of milk or juice or other sweetened drinks? Does your baby sleep with a bottle?

This habit can lead to serious early tooth decay, called baby bottle tooth decay, and even those children who are breastfed are not exempt. A child who breastfeeds can get baby bottle decay as easily as those who use a bottle.

Baby bottle decay is a condition caused by frequent and prolonged exposure to liquids containing sugar, including milk, formula, juice and breastmilk. This condition can greatly affect your child's appearance and health.

It affects the appearance because the teeth most likely damaged are the upper front teeth. These are the teeth we see when children smile but it can also damage other teeth as well. A child's health can be affected because the sugars in the products baby's drink attack the protective enamel on teeth literally 'eating' it away and leaving the teeth unprotected and prone to dental caries (cavities). If cavities are not restored they can lead to infections and cause a great deal of pain.

Care of these primary (baby) teeth is important in preventing tooth decay, and it protects your child's smile but many think that baby teeth are not important because they eventually come out to make room for permanent teeth. However, primary teeth serve other purposes. Healthy primary teeth help children chew their food, learn to speak clearly and to have a positive self image. They are also there to hold a space for permanent teeth and primary teeth roots help to guide the permanent teeth in. If a primary tooth has to be extracted (pulled) too early the teeth beside it may move into the empty space. If this occurs the permanent tooth does not have enough space to come in properly and may cause the teeth to come in crowded or crooked.

Many parents don't realize that as soon as their child gets teeth they need to be cared for properly or they could be prone to decay. Many times when a parent notices a problem it could be too late to restore the teeth. By learning how to prevent this from happening one can protect their child's teeth. Here are some easy steps to follow to help insure healthy teeth and a great smile.

- After feeding your infant or toddler, wipe his or her teeth and gums with a wet washcloth to prevent plaque from accumulating.

- DO NOT allow your child to fall asleep with a bottle containing milk or juice or while breastfeeding. If your child sleeps with a bottle make sure it is filled with water.

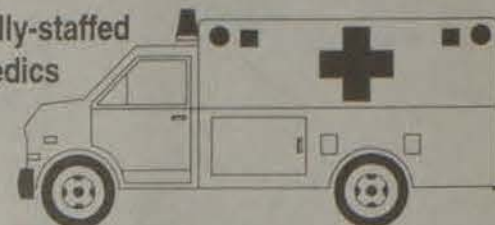

- Your child needs fluoride, if you do not have community water see a dentist about fluoride supplements.

- Begin visiting a dentist when the first teeth erupt or by twelve months. Continue to visit the dentist regularly every six months.

County Kettle

BASIC MEATLOAF OR MEATBALLS

2 T. dry bread or cracker crumbs
 1 T. water
 1/2 lb. ground beef or veal
 1 egg
 1/4 tsp. minced onion
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1 T. oil or margarine
 2 slices onion

Combine crumbs and water in small mixing bowl. Add meat, minced onion, egg and seasonings. Mix until well blended. Form into patties one inch, meatballs or a loaf. Brown in oil or margarine in skillet, turn to brown the sides. Add sliced onion, lower heat, cover and simmer for at least 15 minutes, 30 minutes for meatloaf. You can also bake at 350°. For meatballs, bake 30 minutes, turning after 15 minutes. For meatloaf, bake one hour. Can be frozen raw or cooked. Makes four servings.

CHICKEN SUPREME

1 can (10 ozs.) cream of mushroom soup
 1/2 cup orange juice
 1/2 cup water
 1 cup rice, uncooked
 6 pieces chicken
 1/4 envelope onion soup mix

Combine first four ingredients and pour into greased two-quart casserole. Lay chicken on top. Sprinkle with dry onion soup mix. Cover casserole, airtight, with heavy aluminum foil. Bake two hours without opening the foil, at 350°. Can be frozen after baking. Serves six.

CHICKEN SKILLET SUPPER

2-3 lbs. frying chicken, cut up
 1/2 can (10 oz.) vegetarian-vegetable soup
 1 can water
 2 sprigs of parsley
 1 basil leaf (optional)

Place chicken, skin side down, in cold skillet. Brown over medium heat, turning to brown inside.

Health Matters

SWEET DREAMS

Many people have trouble falling asleep at night. They toss and turn until they fall asleep after wasting hours of valuable sleeping time. The following suggestions may help you sleep better:

- 1) Stick to a schedule. Go to bed and get up at about the same time each day, even weekends. If you take naps, take them at the same time each day.
- 2) Exercise regularly, but do not exercise right before bedtime.
- 3) Avoid caffeine after 4 p.m.
- 4) Avoid alcohol after dinner, since liquor-induced sleep is not as restful as regular sleep.
- 5) Avoid sleeping pills, since they are, at best, a temporary solution.
- 6) Keep your bedroom temperature constant. Noticeable variations interfere with the ability to sleep restfully.
- 7) Eat dinner at approximately the same time each night, and if you eat something before bedtime, keep it low in fat and calories. If your body has to digest a big meal, it will keep you awake.

Follow the suggestions above and you will have a more peaceful sleep. Most Americans do not receive adequate amounts of sleep. When you get up in the morning, you should be fully awake in 15 minutes. Try these suggestions and allow adequate sleeping time in your schedule. Your body will thank you for it.

Tip of the Week: Researchers from the Institute for Aerobic Research in Dallas have shown that former college athletes enjoy no long term health benefits over nonathletes. Rather, physical activity only has positive health benefits for as long as we do it. Thus, we do not have to be a super jock to have good health, we just need to move every day.

Christopher G. Fleming is an Instructor of Kinesiology and Health Promotion and the Project Health Coordinator at Prestonsburg Community College. He has a bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education, a master's degree in Education, and a Master's plus Thirty with emphasis in Exercise Science. Fleming is also a certified American College of Sports Medicine Health Fitness Instructor.

Remove from heat (chicken skin can easily be removed at this point if you wish). Pour off all fat remaining in skillet. Replace chicken, pour soup and water over chicken and add seasonings. Simmer one hour in covered skillet, turning pieces once to keep them moist. May be frozen after cooking. Serves four.

Creamy chicken: Substitute 1/2 can of cream of chicken for vegetarian-vegetable soup, add 1 package (10 oz.) frozen peas and carrots.

CREAMY POTATO SALAD

 1/3 cup mayonnaise
 1/4 tsp. finely minced or scraped onion
 1 sprig of parsley, finely chopped
 1/4 cup chopped celery or green pepper (optional)
 2 potatoes, boiled and diced
 2 hard-boiled eggs, diced
 Salt to taste

Blend yogurt, mayonnaise, onion, parsley, celery and pepper. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and refrigerate for several hours. Serves four.

PEANUT BUTTER BARS

1/4 cup margarine

1/4 cup peanut butter
 1 1/3 cup brown sugar, packed
 2 eggs
 1 1/2 cups flour
 1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
 1/2 cup chocolate chips
 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts (optional)

Cream margarine and peanut butter. Add brown sugar and mix well. Add both eggs and mix until well blended. Stir in dry ingredients until blended, then chips and nuts. Spread batter in greased and floured 9 inch square pan. Bake at 350° for 30-35 minutes. Cool in pan. Cut when cooled into 36 bars.

INDIVIDUAL CHEESE PIES

 1 T. applesauce (pureed), peaches or drained crushed pineapple
 2 tsp. sugar
 Sprinkle of cinnamon
 One 3-inch sugar cookie (store-bought)

Blend cheese, fruit, sugar and cinnamon. Spoon over a sugar cookie, turned upside down so the sugar is on the bottom next to the cookie sheet or foil. Bake at 350° for 15 minutes. (The cookie softens as it absorbs the liquid from the fruit-cheese mixture. For a softer treat, lower the oven to 325°). Serves one.

BANANA-NUT-BREAD

2 eggs
 3 medium well-ripened bananas, cut into chunks

1/4 cup of milk
 1/4 cup oil
 1 tsp. vanilla extract
 2 cups all purpose flour
 3/4 cup sugar
 1 Tbl. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. baking soda
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
 1/2-1 cup chopped walnuts, pecans or wheat germ

Blend eggs, bananas, milk, oil and vanilla at medium speed until smooth, about 15 seconds. Measure rest of ingredients into a bowl and stir to mix. Make a well in the center of the dry ingredients and pour in banana mixture. Mix just enough to moisten. Add nuts. Spread batter into well greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan or three small 5x3x2-inch pans. Bake the bread at 350°, about one hour for the large loaf and 35-45 minutes for the smaller ones. Makes one large loaf or three small loaves (16 slices).

ADAIR'S APPLE RAISIN CAKE

1 3/4 cup coarsely chopped apples, or drained canned pie apples, chopped
 3/4 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/2 cup oil
 1 egg, beaten
 1/2 tsp. baking soda
 1 tsp. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1 1/2 cups flour
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 1/2 tsp. nutmeg

1/2 cup raisins, plumed in warm water
 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Measure apples and brown sugar into bowl. Add oil and eggs. Add dry ingredients and mix well. This dough will be stiff. Add raisins and nuts. Stir to blend. Spread in eight-inch square pan.

APPLE SAUCE

1 dozen apples
 1 1/2 cup apple cider
 Granulated sugar to taste
 1 tsp. lemon juice
 1 T. butter
 Pinch of salt

Wash, core and cut up apples. Put them in a saucepan with the cider and cook until tender enough to rub through a sieve. Mixture should be thick. Stir in the remaining ingredients. Pour into a bowl. Garnish with a light drizzling of cinnamon. Serve hot or cold.

SEEKING COMPANION

I am a 32-yr.-old white male, 6', brown hair and eyes, seeking a single live-in companion, without children, between the ages of 20 to 35. I am seeking someone who would enjoy dinner out, movies, travel, swimming, walking, ball games and other enjoyable activities. Needs of companion will be met, including food, a nice home, clothing, cosmetics, travel expense, transportation, recreational costs, health and dental insurance, pocket money, etc. I am looking for someone wanting a long-term relationship.

I had a car accident 12 years ago and do not drive. You must have a good driving record for insurance purposes. Although I do not drive, I can do most other activities.

Must be a nonsmoker, nondrinker, in good physical health for insurance coverage. Drug screening and physical will be necessary at no cost to you.

Education is NOT a factor. I do NOT need a housekeeper or caretaker. No special skills necessary. This isn't a job.

This is an opportunity for you to improve your lifestyle, have all your needs met and enjoy pleasant activities. You will be treated with courtesy and be a part of my family. I do not have children.

Serious inquiries only. Send history of yourself, photo and any references to Box 894, Duncan, Oklahoma 73533. If you respond, I will provide you with references.

The permit area is approximately 3.0 miles south of KY State Route 3's junction with Daniel's Branch Road and located west of Daniel's Branch. The latitude is 37° 43' 40". The longitude is 82° 39' 25".

The bond now in effect for the permit is a Surety Bond for the amount of $43,300. Approximately 25% of the original bond amount of $43,300 is included in the application for release.

Reclamation work performed includes: Backfilling, grading, seeding and mulching completed in August 1994.

Written comments, objections, and requests for a public hearing or informal conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Field Services, #2 Hudson Hollow, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 by 12/20/96.

A public hearing on the application has been scheduled for 12/23/96 at 9:00 a.m. at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. The hearing will be canceled if no request for a public hearing or informal conference is received by 12/20/96.

Enriching After-School Learning

(NAPS)—Helping your children with their homework shows them you care about their education and may help them perform better in school.

To be able to help, you need to find out what your children are studying. Speak to your child's teacher and ask for an outline of this year's curriculum. Then ask if he/she has suggestions about how you can work with your child at home.

Parents can expand a child's learning experience with fun activities that don't seem like work. Think of things related to the curriculum that you can do.

If the class is studying American History, find local historic spots to visit. If they are learning about plants, take your children on a nature walk. To see what they've learned, ask them to teach you about plants.

Reading with your child is always helpful. Select stories or subjects that back-up their classroom studies.

Since parents often need to help children with school projects, keep materials around the house that children can use to construct projects. Cardboard, boxes, fabric scraps, construction paper and paint come in handy when the assignment is to build a diorama about a story or event.

Whether playing after school or working on a school project, construction toys provide a wide range of fun learning activities that enhance math, science and other study areas. Kids enjoy building structures and things that move. While building they learn about strength, structure, geometry and motion.

Students studying dinosaurs can use K'NEXosaurus to expand their learning. Children studying insects can use the K'NEX Dragonfly or Beetle to learn about insect structure. While building they use problem solving and sorting skills, and learn to follow directions.

Parents' support and interest in their children's learning helps them feel good about themselves and their accomplishments. Your enthusiasm and creative after-school project ideas can help them avoid the "homework blahs."

For more ideas for your children, call 1-800-KID-KNEX and ask for K'NEXions Newsletter.

NeuroNET established at Pikeville Methodist

A state-of-the-art communications system linking Pikeville Methodist Hospital with Saint Joseph Hospital's Brain and Spine Institute's neurosurgeons has been established.

NeuroNET is a network providing direct, 24-hour a day consultation with neurosurgeons at Saint Joseph Hospital in Lexington. The system uses computer-based digital technology to transmit CT and MRI images within seconds from Pikeville Methodist Hospital to Saint Joseph's emergency department.

Through the use of NeuroNET, emergency department physicians will be able to simultaneously review and discuss a patient's radiological work-up with a neurosurgeon. There is no fee or charge to either the referring hospital or the patient and the consultation is done at the referring physicians' request.

Pikeville Methodist Hospital Administrator Martha O'Regan Chill said, "This new service will greatly enhance the emergency room's ability to deliver quality patient care to those patients with the brain and/or spine injuries or diseases. This new technology will also help avoid some transfers and facilitate immediate treatment for those patients who require neurological care."

Real Advice

Reverse Annuity Mortgages (RAM) may be answer to cash flow woes

Q. I'm a retired home owner who is "house-rich" but "cash poor." What can I do to increase my cash flow?

A. For many seniors living on a fixed income, the answer is a reverse annuity mortgage (RAM).

The RAM allows the senior home owner to sustain or enhance the quality of their lifestyle by converting some of their home equity into spendable cash while they retain ownership of their home.

Q. How does a RAM work?

A. Unlike a traditional mortgage where the lender provides a lump sum and it's paid back periodically, a reverse mortgage loan pays a periodic sum to the owner based upon the value of the home.

When the home is sold (often upon the death of the home owner), the loan is paid back with interest from the sale of the house.

Q. What are the advantages of reverse mortgages?

A. The money can be used in any way and payments to the home owner don't affect social security or medicare benefits.

In addition, RAMs are often available to people who could not qualify for a loan based on income or credit history.

Q. What are the sources of RAMs?

A. Reverse mortgages are available through several sources from the public and private sector, including the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae).

Because each program may offer different opportunities, be sure you explore all your options.

Q. Are there other options?

A. Yes. Reverse mortgages are not for everyone.

It may make more sense for you to trade down to a smaller home and invest the difference.

Being over 55, you qualify for a $125,000 one-time tax exemption on the sale of your home.

Q. Who do I contact for more information on RAMs?

A. First contact an area lender or real estate professional to get all the facts.

Other resources regarding reverse mortgages are available from the National Center for Home Equity Conversion, 1210 E. College, #300, Marshall, MN 56258.

Betsy Layne seniors walk to fitness; Martin senior citizens give award

Hamilton
Center director

My, how time flies, especially when there's always something going on, and there is at Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center.

Our seniors are just naturally fun-loving and exciting people. Each one has an exceptional personality and are all different in their own way. Writing about my seniors gives me great pride because they are so dear to my heart — and very, very special.

Recently, we joined the pacesetter program, which is walking for your health. Walking is the best exercise for your heart and to combat arthritis problems, and did you know walking releases a chemical from the brain that gets rid of stress? I'm sure all of us have some of that in this day and age.

Each month, Prime Times & Events will highlight news at senior citizen centers around the county. To report news, call Janice at 886-8506, or mail to Prime Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653

Gracie Wilburn is a prime example of the stamina and the sunshine personality our seniors possess. Gracie has had major life-threatening surgery and a prolonged illness, but she doesn't let that stop her from enjoying every moment she can. Her attitude is bubbling with smiles and laughter all the time. She is truly an inspiration to our center.

Recently, Gracie was at the office of her physician, Dr. Baretta Casey, in Pikeville. She was excitedly talking about the center and our walking. Dr. Casey knew about Gracie's medical condition and said, "I'll sponsor you for a month and give you $2 per mile for walking."

Gracie had to stop at her bank and was so excited, she talked about the Pacesetters Program, her visit to Dr. Casey's office and her offer to sponsor her walk. Harold D. Childers and his employees at the Trans Financial Branch Bank near K-Mart at Pikeville gave her a pledge of $5 per mile.

Gracie kept a record of her time and her mileage and, at the end of September, she had walked 40 miles. She was presented a check for $80 from Dr. Casey and also a check for $200 from Trans Financial Bank.

These funds went to the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center and we thank Dr. Casey, Harold Childers and Trans Financial Bank. And, we especially thank Gracie for leading the way.

Setting the pace

Good health

Dr. Baretta Casey presented a check for $80 to her patient Gracie Wilburn, who walked 40 miles in the Pacesetters Program.

Martin Senior Citizens give award to Shelton

In September, the Martin Area Senior Citizens gave an award to Loraine Shelton for work done on the grounds at the Town Center Plaza in Martin.

Martin Senior Citizens board president Dot Tiner announced the reward during a meeting of the board of directors September 19 at 4 p.m. at the senior citizens center.

During the meeting, center director Edna

Blackburn gave a report of the seniors' activities. Blackburn said the seniors had two trips planned; one to the Wheelwright Senior Games on September 20 and one to the Sorghum Festival in West Liberty.

She also reported that the center needed new chairs.

The treasurer's report made during the meeting indicated the center had $800 in the bank. Roberta Frasure, who is in charge of crafts sales at the center, reported craft sales had raised $210 for the center. A soup bean dinner contributed $176.12 to the center's coffers.

Senior citizens also planned to hold a spaghetti dinner on October 4 to raise funds for center needs.

Martin Mayor Alan Whicker, a member of the center board, made donations to the center. He and Rick Caudill donated a 42-cup coffee pot to the center, and Whicker also donated a spot for the center for sales during the Red, White, and Blue Days celebration held October 19.

Attending the meeting, in addition to

Tackett, Ruth Daniels, Eulene Ratliff, and Steve Farthing.

The board planned to meet again on October 24.

AARP launches national effort to counter telemarketing fraud against senior citizens

Based on recent research indicating that Americans annually lose $40 billion a year through telephone scams, the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) has launched a nationwide project to educate the public on how to recognize and avoid telemarketing fraud. The multi-project will include cooperative efforts with federal, state and local law enforcement agencies to arrest and convict fraud criminals, informational materials and videos; public service announcements for television, radio and newspapers; and presentations by AARP spokespersons throughsions with 745 subjects nationwide—revealed that fewer than five percent of those surveyed believe that fraudulent telemarketers are criminals.

“The results of our research shed some surprising insight into why telemarketing fraud has become a pervasive and serious crime, and a threat to the financial security of older consumers,” said Betty Severeyn, Regional Volunteer Director for AARP’s Southeast Region. “It’s very clear that you just can’t tell people to ‘hang up’ or that a deal that sounds too good to be true probably is. The message must be clear that telemarketing fraud is a crime and that fraudulent telemarketers are criminals.”

In an effort to create a nationwide awareness about the dangers of telemarketing fraud, AARP has produced a full battery of public education materials for older consumers and the community-at-large. These materials include fraud fact sheets, buttons and “fraud alert” stickers for telephones and refrigerators. The primary message on all of these materials states that “Fraudulent Telemarketers are Criminals: Don’t Fall for a Telephone Line!”

Fall is the time for planting

What do enjoying football games, sipping cider and great gardening all have in common? Fall is the best time for all three! The American Association of Nurserymen (AAN) shares the advantages of fall planting.

Stress reduction for plants. Fall installation gives plants a chance to establish a strong root system. Plants entering dormancy are not under pressure to produce top growth and blooms. Most perennials flower in the spring. However, if planted then, they may not have enough time to bloom.

Water requirements diminish. In many parts of the country fall and winter are wet months, reducing the need for water. This doesn't mean you can forgo watering altogether. Always check soil moisture if you've had fall or winter droughts. Fall is more forgiving than summer, when plants can die quickly if you forget to water.

Mulch sources abound. Leaves and grass clippings are plentiful in fall. In the past, these might have been thrown on a bonfire, but now we put them to good use as mulch. Mulch aids moisture retention and reduces weeds.

Cold temperatures make plants hardier. Bulbs develop root systems over the winter. Pest populations decline this time of year, giving young transplants a fighting chance. Remember how refreshing a good night's sleep is? Fall planting is like giving your plants a rest.

Lawn care. Early fall is an optimum time to sow grass seed. Depending on the type of grass you have, fertilization may be beneficial now. Consult the lawn care specialists at your garden center for information on what grasses grow best in your area.

Autumn beauty. If you only shop at garden centers in spring, you'll miss several plants that are at their best in fall. Many nurseries stagger their planting so they have plants blooming in fall. Pansies, asters and mums are popular choices, but don't overlook ornamental grasses or berrying plants, either. Trees and shrubs can add drama to the landscape all winter long if you plant them in fall. Landscape professionals can give you recommendations.

Nursery specials. Fall is a good time to find great deals on trees, shrubs and other plants.

Psychologically, spring will always be a popular time to plant. In the past, fewer plants were available in fall.

That scenario is changing as consumers become aware of the benefits of fall planting. You can hasten the shift by letting your nursery professional know you need certain plants at certain times. Place your order ahead and the crisp days of fall will be a planting pleasure.

Automatic enrollment in direct deposit available

As of September 20, Social Security beneficiaries who want to switch to direct deposit may use a new "automatic enrollment" process. You just need to tell your bank that you want direct deposit, according to Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy Area.

"Automatic enrollment makes it possible for banks to send direct deposit enrollment information to Social Security electronically. This eliminates the need for people to call Social Security", Kelly said.

Kelly said that the law now requires that

IN YOUR About Social Security PRIME

by Jim Kelly

Social Security Administrator

applicants for Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) have their monthly benefit payment deposited directly into their bank account.

"People who apply for Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) have the convenience of direct deposit," Kelly stated. "That policy also applies to people who receive any federal benefit payment, federal wage, salary or retirement payment, or vendor and expense reimbursement payment."

"So when you come to apply for benefits, be sure to have your bank information with you—documents that show your bank and your account, such as a personal check, savings passbook, or an account statement," Kelly said.

Kelly said direct deposit works better for both the beneficiary and the government. Beneficiaries have less risk of the loss of theft of their checks through the mail, a better record of payments, and greater convenience in receiving their monthly benefits.

Direct deposit saves the government the cost of processing checks and investigating lost or stolen checks.

Kelly said people already on the Social Security and SSI rolls who get checks should contact a bank of their choice and arrange for direct deposit of their checks.

We have found that the banks in our Big Sandy Area provide excellent service in assisting people with direct deposit, Kelly said.

There are many good reasons to have direct deposit of your Social Security check, Kelly said. Social Security payments going directly to your bank cannot be lost or stolen like the Social Security check lying on the table at your home, on your car seat or in your pocket book. Another good reason is that your payment is always on time.

When you get your next check go to the bank, arrange for direct deposit and your Social Security check is secure, Kelly said.

Find unclaimed money

There is 40 billion dollars of unclaimed money in the United States. The chances are one in 10 that some of it may belong to you or your family. Glaucoma can be managed if caught early

Q: I am 52 years old. Last year my vision was changing quite rapidly, so I had a full eye exam. It found that the intraocular pressure in both eyes was abnormally high, so I am being treated with medication for chronic open-angle glaucoma. I am also part of a study examining my eyes with a SWAP test. Are there any reports on this SWAP test to show that it will pick problems up earlier? If I feel fine, is the eye pressure really that important?—S.J., Sacramento, Calif.

A: Increased intraocular pressure by itself indicates that there may be a problem. If additional tests show that optic-nerve damage has begun, then continued abnormal pressure will most likely increase the damage. Medications, such as eye drops, are the first line of treatment to reduce the pressure in the eye, and if the pressure is reduced, studies show that the disease's progression can be slowed or halted. About 20 studies have reported on the SWAP exam, and early indications are that these exams are useful in identifying nerve damage early. Although SWAP-type tests are still in the investigational stages, experts hope that they will eventually be used to screen for glaucoma and assess when more aggressive treatment is necessary.

Glaucoma is a condition in which fluid drains from the eye at an abnormal angle, showing the drainage and causing pressure to mount dangerously. This pressure can compress and block small blood vessels in the eye, cheating the optic nerve of its blood supply, and can also compress the fibers of the optic nerve. As the nerve is damaged, vision is lost.

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in the United States, accounting for 15 percent of all blindness. (Cataracts are the leading cause of blindness.)

Almost 2 percent of people older than 40 have glaucoma, and the incidence rises to about 10 percent in those older than 70. About 3 million Americans have glaucoma and about 80,000 are legally blind. Another 3 million to 6 million people, including at least 4 percent of those over 40, have increased intraocular pressure that puts them at risk for developing glaucoma, although only 1 to 2 percent of them actually will.

Glaucoma is more prevalent among blacks than whites, affecting more than 11 percent of those over 80. Besides blacks and the aged, those at particular risk for the disorder include people with a family history of glaucoma, those with high pressure in the eyes, hypertension, diabetes and/or near-sightedness.

Glaucoma should be suspected in anyone who needs frequent changes in corrective lenses, has recurring headaches with pain above the eyes, visual disturbances such as spots or halos around lights, or has unusual difficulty adjusting to darkness.

Most people with glaucoma have the common form, called open-angle glaucoma or simple glaucoma. They usually experience no symptoms. A second form of glaucoma, called acute closed-angle glaucoma, is rare. It is caused by trauma, medication or disease. The eye becomes red and painful; nausea, vomiting and blurred vision may also occur. When these symptoms are present, a doctor should be seen promptly.

Open-angle glaucoma usually begins to develop after age 40, as the normal flow of fluid from the front compartment of the eye gradually becomes blocked. Studies show that 30 percent to 50 percent of optic-nerve fibers can be lost before the affected individual notices any changes in their vision. Both eyes are usually affected.

Although glaucoma cannot be cured, it can be controlled, so that damage does not progress. It is treated by lowering the pressure in the eye to prevent further nerve damage and vision loss. Pressure-reducing medication can be delivered in eye drops or orally. Medication usually is sufficient, but if not, surgery may be needed to improve fluid drainage. Once glaucoma is diagnosed and treatment started, intraocular pressure should be measured at least every six months.

To limit glaucoma damage, it must be discovered before the nerve is badly damaged.

There is consensus among experts that everyone over age 40 should be routinely tested for high intraocular pressure. Yet it's also generally agreed that there aren't any tests precise enough to adequately determine the extent of any nerve damage.

Most optometrists, ophthalmologists or even general practitioners usually conduct one or more of these tests.

—Tonometry: Measures intraocular pressure by touching an instrument to the front of the eyeball. It should be a part of every routine eye exam (and even every physical exam) in adults. The normal range of intraocular pressure is 10 to 21 mmHG. Left untreated, a person with an early vision defect and intraocular pressure over 30 mmHG will begin losing vision in about three to five years. A person with intraocular pressure of 23 to 24 mmHg and a similar defect may take 15 years or more to begin losing vision.

—Optic disc assessment: Examines the optic nerve for damage.

—Visual field analysis: Examines the drainage angle.

SWAP, which stands for short wavelength automated perimetry, is the most promising of the new methods that have been developed for the detection of early glaucoma damage, according to Dr. Chris Johnson, a researcher at the Optics and Visual Assessment Laboratory at the University of California at Davis. SWAP is better than existing tests at finding damage at an early stage.

Johnson discussed SWAP in an honors lecture later published in the July 1995 issue of Optometry and Vision Science.

Glaucoma

The front of the eye is filled with a fluid called aqueous humor. It is produced inside the eye by the ciliary body and flows outward at a steady rate. Normally the fluid passes through the iris and into a channel at the angle between the iris and the cornea. It drains from this channel into the bloodstream. If this channel is blocked — suddenly, gradually or at birth — the pressure builds. Too much pressure can damage the nerves and blood vessels that feed the part of the eye that gives vision.

Acute glaucoma causes pain in and around the eye. Vision is disturbed and sometimes a halo can be seen around bright lights. The eye can redden and nausea and vomiting can occur.

Glaucoma is common among the elderly, but can affect younger people as well. It can be treated successfully, if detected early. Ask your doctor if you should be tested, even if you aren't currently experiencing any symptoms.

Who's counting: Since 1992, 93 medical articles have been published on the subject of glaucoma.

As the morning sun cast its shadow on a mural he painted, William Jackson May applied the finishing touches, his signature. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Managing Editor

William Jackson May is reticent. He doesn't like to talk about himself. When you ask him his age, he says simply and quietly, "I'm 39." Then he chuckles and adds: "If you live long enough, you'll get old after awhile. I don't feel old. I feel young."

May is a sign painter who, at the age of 67, showed his artistic abilities in a public display — a 1,000 square-foot mural painted on the side of a building at the intersection of Court Street and South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg.

The mural depicts the arched West Prestonsburg bridge that spans the Big Sandy. A green woodland surrounds the bridge and the river flows smoothly underneath it.

The work was the brainchild of Prestonsburg Tourism Director Fred James. When James called May and asked if he would tackle the project, May didn't hesitate. He told James he would "make a drawing and we'll go from there."

May did a paper sketch of the project, which included a riverboat paddling its way down the Big Sandy. James approved the design and the sign painter began working on the mural around the first of September.

He used exterior oil-based paint and put a coat of white paint on the wall for a base. He then sketched in a drawing and began painting from "back to front," creating a background and working his way to the foreground of the painting.

May said he would have preferred to use artist oil colors, which would have enabled him to blend the colors together better, on the mural, but "it was too much for that. It took gallons of (paint) — about seven gallons," he estimated.

After he applied a coat of paint, he had to wait a couple of days for the paint to dry before he could work on the next layer.

He was hindered in his work by rain. "I had to change to water paint," he joked. "It kind of slowed me down."

City construction around the mural to create a small park also hampered his efforts and he had to "block off certain sections" at a time, instead of painting from back to front as he likes to do.

When the sun shone on the mural, he had to halt his work because "the sun gives a glare to the painting and you can't see what you're doing," he said.

The sun also left its impact on his skin. "It kind of burnt me some," he said, smiling.

With the delays and the heat, it took him at least 20 days to finish, but he didn't become discouraged. Passersby often yelled out a word of encouragement as they walked up and down the street.

"They told me it was good. It kept my spirits up," he said.

As he worked on the project, May studied the nature around him to copy its colors.

"I learned color by going out and looking around. I studied my surroundings. I can't come near to making it look like that," he said. "I studied the bridge from day to day. I drove up and down Court Street to see what I'd painted and where my next color went. (The project) is so big it's hard to tell what you're doing when you're up close."

As he viewed his painting, he also decided to leave out the steamboat and just have the Big Sandy flow peacefully underneath the arched bridge, as it does on most summer days in the city.

William May made his first sign for public perusal when he was in elementary school at Bonanza. It was an election sign and May used chalk to proclaim the name of a candidate.

"It was just something I wanted to do," he said, scratching the top of his head as he reflected on his youth. "That was my start."

May has been painting signs for the past 43 years. He was first paid for painting signs when he was in Prestonsburg High School and did truck lettering for his friends.

Then, in 1953, he started painting signs in earnest when he worked for his "cousin and teacher," the late Russell May, who owned Russell May Sign Company.

William May acquired the intricate lettering skills he needed as a sign painter and then went into business for himself.

"I've been at it ever since, and I'm still trying," May said, chuckling. "You have less an artist'

ckson May's lasting imprint sburg history

free time when you're self-employed, but it's kept beans on the table so far."

He's been lucky in his work and hasn't had any accidents, though he did have one fall — about 20 feet off a ladder.

"The ladder slipped. I had to jump. It jarred me some, but I walked away from it. I have to go up 35 feet sometimes. I've had to stretch the ladder as far as it goes, and then stretch my arm as far as it goes," he said.

His work hasn't been without a few laughs every now and then.

When May painted a sign on a glass door at the former Floyd Federal, he stopped customers from causing his brush to smear his work by grabbing the door handle before customers on the other side of the door could pull it open and directing them through the other glass door.

One "pretty big fellow," though, showed May just who was stronger. May grabbed hold of the door handle, but the man grabbed the door handle on the other side and yanked on it.

"He just pulled me out on the street," the sign painter said, laughing. "It got a laugh from the clerks inside."

May's work can be seen on buildings throughout the area. Some, such as the gold lettering on the Hall and Clark Insurance building in Prestonsburg, have been around for a while. May painted part of the sign in gold leaf for Paula Music Insurance when he first started painting.

"That gold was done 40 years ago," he recalled, "but it's been retouched a couple of times."

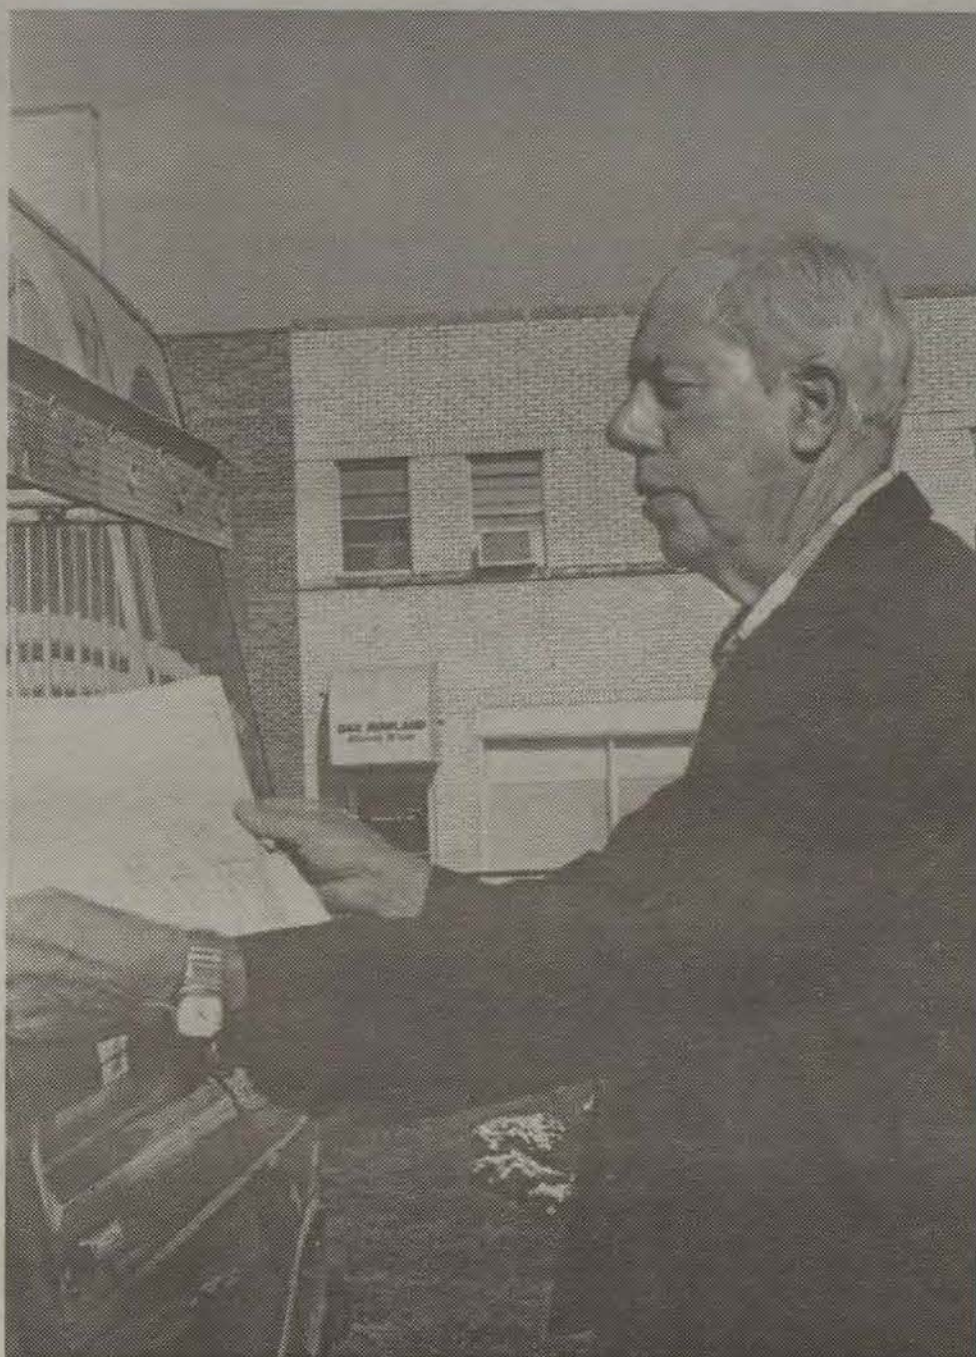

Gold leaf letters are done in 23 Karat gold material and are used in lettering window signs. A good example of May's gold letterings on the Bank Josephine's main office in Prestonsburg.

May has dabbled in colors in landscape paintings for years, but he is humble about it. He will admit, though, he has a landscape of a Florida sunset he painted that is "pretty good."

His talent also extends to music. He "picks a little guitar," and plays country and western songs and "some bluegrass." He has three or four guitars, including a Gibson, an electric guitar, and a steel guitar, which he "doesn't play that much."

Occasionally, May will get together with his good friend and fellow musician, Richard Elkins of Lancer, and the two will heat up the strings with their fast-paced music.

When May was in his twenties, he played with a band, the Kentucky Mountain Boys. Band members were Arthur Craft, Arland Calhoun, and Harry Perry. The group performed on the radio and at square dances and William Jackson May looked at the pencil sketch he made after he was commissioned to paint a mural of the West Prestonsburg bridge on a wall of a building in downtown Prestonsburg. street dances around the area during the 40s and 50s.

May's love of music is shared by his daughter, Michella Jo May, who doesn't "play anything, yet." He and wife, Bonnie; their daughter Michella Jo; and their two and a half-year-old granddaughter, Amanda Michelle, live in Prestonsburg.

May's love for his family was evident as he talked about his family. When he mentioned his granddaughter's antics, he said: "She's a character."

His love for the work, the mural he just completed, was also evident as his gaze kept returning to the large painting during the interview.

What does he think about the legacy he's created?

"It's looks good to me, but it still could use some improvements," he said. "I'm not an artist."

Add class to birthdays, holidays

Add a Fresh Idea to the Traditional Birthday Celebration

What to do

- 6 cups of flower
- 3 1/2 cups of water
- 8 2/3 cups of sheet moss
- 5 tablespoons of snow spray
- 1 1/2 yards of colored ribbon

Another fresh idea — the Birthday Flower Cake, of course!

Birthday-party planners everywhere should be ready for something unusual, because 1-800-FLOWERS has stocked its shelves with a superbly scented and health-conscious creation guaranteed to surprise even the most imaginative gift-giver.

A feast for the eyes — aptly named the Birthday Flower Cake — this nonedible cake, a first for this florist, brings both the splendor of fresh flowers and floral design to the world's most popular annual celebration! And, with its one-week freshness guarantee, birthdays now can last well beyond the celebration day.

INGREDIENTS THAT DEFY BIRTHDAY-CAKE LOGIC!

Never before has such a unique mix of ingredients been used to create this appealing alternative to the traditional birthday symbol. Here are the key ingredients:

- 1 1/2 dozen minicarnations
- 1 dozen white poms
- 1 single rose
- 8 2/3 cups of sheet moss
 - 1 block of green floral foam
 - 1 1/2 yards of colored ribbon
 - 4 teaspoons of greening pins
 - 1/2 foot of wire
 - 1/2 cup of birthday candles
- 5 tablespoons of snow spray
 - 1 white plastic dish
 - 1 white birthday box with ribbon
 - 1 1/3 yards of tuck and ruffle

AMERICA'S MOST FAMOUS OCTOBER BIRTHDAYS

With the flower cake debuting in October, one wonders if celebrities will be lining up to send each other this original gift?

- Hillary Rodham Clinton turned 50 on Oct. 26.
- Jesse Jackson turned 55 on Oct. 8.
- Julie Andrews turned 61 on Oct. 1.
- John Cougar Mellencamp turned 45 on Oct. 7.
- Johnny Carson turned 71 on Oct. 23.
- Jane Pauley turned 46 on Oct. 31.

CLOSE YOUR EYES AND MAKE A WISH!

Mirroring a centerpiece arrangement, the Birthday Flower Cake captures the spirit and joy of birthday celebrations. In keeping with the true symbol of the day, this cake brings a fresh, new look and scent to one of life's most time-honored rituals — blowing out birthday candles — so, make a wish!

Customers can purchase the Birthday Flower Cake for $39.99 (product code 1990) by calling 1-800-FLOWERS directly 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Add a Handmade Touch to the Holiday Season

Christmas is the perfect time for creating one-of-a-kind, homemade crafts for the home and to give as gifts to loved ones. Looking at any home that has been decorated for the holiday season, one is sure to see a homemade decoration of some sort, whether it be a tree ornament, Christmas stocking, wreath or set of coasters.

According to Leslie Linsley, author of "Leslie Linsley's Country Christmas Crafts" (St. Martin's), many people "love to make things for the holidays. It's an excuse to decorate homes, make tree ornaments and stockings, and give gifts that are an expression of ourselves."

"Leslie Linsley's Country Christmas Crafts" offers more than 50 quick, easy crafts designed for the Christmas season. Each project comes with fun, easy instructions, including fabric requirements, step-by-step directions and color photographs of the completed project.

The perfect and most practical gift for those who wear glasses is an eyeglass case. The following is Linsley's instructions for making a handmade eyeglass case. This project is fun and easy to make, and the recipient surely will be thrilled with this beautifully finished, homemade Christmas gift.

Eyeglass Case

A tiny, overall, delicate rosebud print is perfect for an eyeglass case. The lines are done with embroidery stitches in order to quilt the fabric and add a delightful decorative touch.

Materials

- 7 inches by 14 1/2 inches delicate print fabric
- 7 inches by 14 1/2 inches solid fabric (bright red suggested)
- 7 inches decorative braid (green)
- 6 1/2 inches by 14 inches thin quilt batting
- 1 skein embroidery floss (red)
- Embroidery needle

Directions

1. Cut printed outside fabric and solid lining in half so you have 4 pieces of fabric, 3 1/2 inches by 7 1/4 inches each.

its consumer education effort by joining forces with the National Fraud Information Center (NFIC). Association members and the general public are being encouraged to call the NFIC hot line (at 1-800-876-7060) to report suspicious calls and obtain advice on how to handle fraudulent telemarketers who call again.

"Our National Fraud Information Center receives an average of 350 fraud reports a day," said Linda F. Golodner, president of the National Consumers League which operates NFIC. "Sixty percent of these calls are from seniors. Many of them didn't know that the calls which they receive could be a crime. This new education and message can help turn victims into crime fighters."

In addition to its partnership with the National Consumers' League, AARP also is working with law enforcement agencies and community organizations to foster aggressive policing and consumer education in the assault on telemarketing fraud. Late last year, for example, AARP volunteers participated in an FBI sting aimed at identifying fraudulent telemarketers. Called "Operation Senior Sentinel," the sting led to the arrests of more than 500 criminal telemarketers in 15 states.

"Operation Senior Sentinel gave AARP members a perfect opportunity to fight back," stated regional volunteer leader Severyn. "Now we're

2. Cut batting in half so you have 2 pieces 6 1/4 inches by 7 inches.
3. Pin both outside fabric pieces to the batting pieces.
4. Draw a grid across the fabric, between the floral pattern, using a light pencil.
5. Using 3 strands of the embroidery floss, take small running stitches along all marked lines through the fabric and batting on both pieces of fabric.
6. With right sides facing, stitch front and back quilted fabric together along side and bottom edges, leaving the top edge open. Turn.

Lining:

1. With right sides facing and raw edges aligned, stitch the 2 lining pieces together with 3/8-inch seam allowance along the side and bottom edges. Leave the top edge open. (The lining should be slightly smaller in order to fit comfortably inside the case.)
2. Trim seams and clip corners, but do not turn right-side out.
3. Slip lining inside the quilted case and smooth into position.
4. Make sure that the side seams line up and tack the lining in position at the bottom corners.

To finish:

1. Turn the top raw edges of the outside case and the lining 1/4 inch to the inside (between outside and lining) and press.
2. Pin the decorative braid or ribbon around the top edge.
3. Slipstitch braid and top edge of fabric and lining all around. Slipstitch bottom edge of braid to top fabric only.

working to get the message out to more people so they can join the fight against telemarketing fraud."

At the regional level, AARP will work with law enforcement and consumer affairs agencies to develop statewide fraud alert networks. These will be designed to get information about current fraud schemes out to seniors and others as quickly as possible.

Also, according to Steve Mehlman, AARP

Consumer Representative for the Southeast Region, Association volunteers will be trained to make presentations to AARP chapters and other community groups showing people how to avoid being victimized. Other volunteers will work on innovative victims' assistance and court watch projects for the AARP, as well as participate in undercover activities for federal, state and local law enforcement agencies.

A Timely Reminder

October

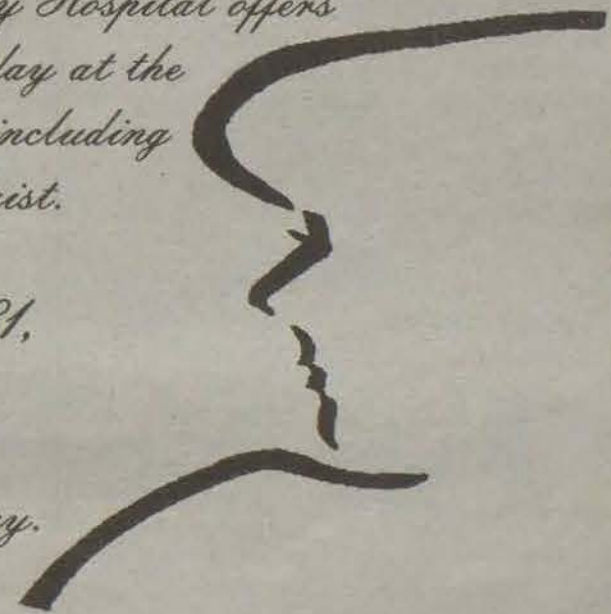

is

National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

If someone told you that simply having your picture taken could save your life, would you do it? Of course. A mammogram, which can detect breast cancer in its earliest, most treatable stages is just that—a picture—an x-ray of the breast that can save your life.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital offers mammograms every day at the low price of $64.80 including reading by a radiologist.

Bread machines are a new kitchen basic

Several small kitchen appliances are considered essential. These include a toaster, coffee maker and mixer. Other appliances that some place in this group are the blender and waffle maker. Bread machines are rapidly becoming another kitchen basic appliance.

Bread makers have been the hottest new appliance on the market for the past five years. After the initial introduction by one or two manufacturers, most of the major small appliance manufacturers introduced their own bread machines model. The introduction phase of this appliance is over and the manufacturing market is selling down.

The first bread machines came in one loaf size and were limited in what could be made in them. In contrast, the bread machines today show restyling and features based on consumer comments and requests. One bread machines now even bakes a loaf very similar in shape to the shape we are used to purchasing in the grocery store.

If a bread machine is on your shopping list, think about your own bread preferences and needs before you go. It will help you decide which bread machine is right for you.

The machines currently on the market make different loaf sizes up to a two-pound loaf. Since homemade bread does not have preservatives, it spoils faster than commercially baked bread. Select a size that will fit your needs.

A loaf made in the bread machine will keep for one to two days without refrigeration or freezing.

Bread dough recipes vary in the amount of sugar and type of flour they use. Sweet bread dough can be made in a limited number of bread machines. If you plan on using your bread machine for yeast-based coffeecakes and sweet breads, be sure your choice is designed to handle the higher sugar content dough.

Many families today enjoy breads made from flour other than white flour. Be sure your choice of a bread machine will accommodate the other types of flours. Most of the machines today will take whole wheat and rye flour.

Buying a bread machine can lead to the temptation or need to purchase other related supplies. There is a whole new market for bread storage containers, bread slicers, and special bread mixes, bread machine yeast and bread flour. In addition, there are special cookbooks dedicated to bread machines.

Is it time for a fresh start?

When to replace a tree or shrub

In many parts of the country, the winter months are viewed as a time of forced respite from gardening. However, winter can prove productive if you reevaluate your approach to planning. The American Association of Nurseryman (AAN) encourages you to think of winter as a perfect time to plan. The AAN Yard and Garden Remodeling Kit can give you a head start on spring. Ask for it at your garden center or request it from a landscaping professional.

Evaluate your yard's structure

You may miss the green leaves of summer, but this time of year reveals the structure of your yard better than any other season. Views and topography are not obscured by growth, making it easier to sketch a landscape plan. The Yard and Garden Remodeling Kit contains a grid and instructions to help you accomplish this goal. Taking a few photographs of areas you want to improve is another planning aid.

When planning the design of your garden, don't overlook the structural elements of your property: the architecture of your house, driveways, paths, or sidewalks and, of course, the areas of light and shade. It's best to prune trees, especially deciduous ones, in cooler months because you can see the form of the tree then.

Make a wish list

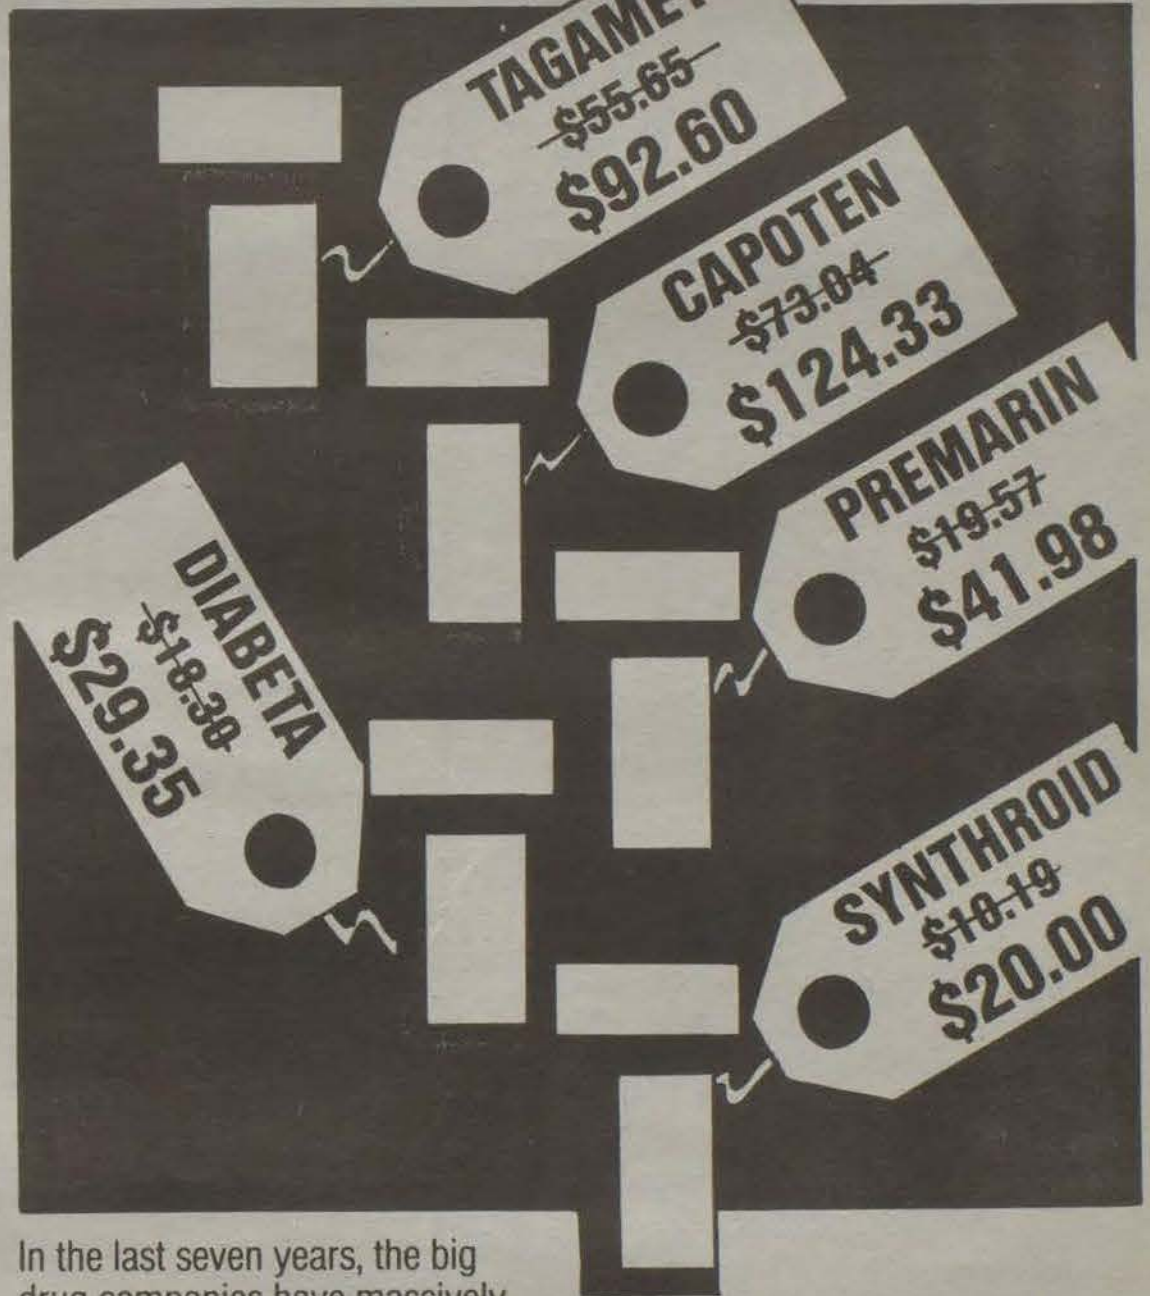

Decide what you need and want in your landscape. Perhaps your goals are privacy, low maintenance, or a child's play space. Much of the work can be done on paper before you (or a landscape professional) ever set shovel to soil. Balance your desires with the reality of budget—how much can you afford to invest? By completing these tasks ahead of time, you'll be better prepared when you call on a garden center or landscape designer.

Remember that spring and summer are the busiest seasons for landscape professionals, so winter is a great time to contact them. When spring finally does arrive, you'll be ready to set your plans in action. A little advance planning in winter adds up to a landscape that's enjoyable year-round.

SENIOR WATCH

DRUG COMPANIES PUT THE SQUEEZE ON OLDER AMERICANS

In the last seven years, the big drug companies have massively boosted prices of drugs older Americans depend on. Smith Kline raised the price of Tagamet from $55.65 to $92.60 for 60 400mg pills. Bristol-Meyers raised 100 50mg Capotens from $73.04 to $124.33. Wyeth-Ayerst more than doubled the price of 100 .625mg Premarins from $19.57 to $41.98. Hoechst raised Diabeta from $18.30 to $29.35 for 60 5mg tablets. And Boots Pharmaceutical nearly doubled Synthroid from $10.19 to $20 for 100 .05 mg pills. (Prices vary from drugstore to drugstore.) None of these drug companies changed these pills or improved them. They just charge more for the exact same pill. Older Americans are hit hard by these enormous price increases—especially because Medicare doesn't cover prescription drugs, and about half of all older Americans have no insurance to cover drugs.

Waiver program aids home-bound patients

The Home Community Based Waiver Program began in 1983 as a pilot project in the Bluegrass Area Development District, better known to us as Big Sandy ADD. Other ADDs were phased in the program beginning January 1, 1987. McDowell Home Health Agency started its program in 1993.

This program is a Title XIX that is jointly funded by federal and state money. The program provided payment for several medical services: respite, personal care, homemaking, and case management services.

Kentucky recipients who lack sufficient income or resources to meet costs of such care can qualify.

The HCBW program has services for all ages. Some people need full-time care that nursing Waiver enables limited clients to live and function independently in the home setting.

Our Lady of the Way maintains low mammogram fee

This year in the United States a new breast cancer will be diagnosed every three minutes and more than 44,000 women will die from breast cancer.

Regular mammograms are the best defense you can have against breast cancer. A mammogram can detect breast cancer in its earliest stages, before a lump can be felt. Finding breast cancer early gives women the greatest chance of survival and the best treatment options.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Our Lady of the Way Hospital continues their tradition of caring beyond October and provides mammograms at the low cost of $64.80 every day. This cost also reflects reading of the mammogram by a radiologist.

To schedule your mammogram, call 285-5181, Extension 354. Mammograms are done Monday through Friday with flexible appointments. Our Lady of the Way Hospital is accredited by the American College of Radiology and is certified by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).
