Former trooper is indicted by feds on weapon charge

A Floyd County man was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in Ashland for allegedly having in his possession a machine gun last year.

Ronnie Dillion, 46, of Banner, a former Kentucky State Police trooper, is accused of having the weapon in Pike County in August 1996. He is charged with having an unregistered machine gun and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Police discovered that the Colt AR-15 .223 caliber rifle was fully automatic when it was test fired.

Dillion, along with Inez physician Dr. Gregory Wells, is under federal indictment for allegedly obtaining prescription drugs illegally.

In June, Wells was charged with providing Dillion with prescription medication in the names of Dillion's family members. Dillion is charged with conspiring to illegally obtain prescription medications.

Since 1989, Wells has been placed on probation three times by the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure and the board revoked his license in 1996. The doctor's license was revoked after the board found that approximately 300 of Wells' patients allegedly received prescription drugs that were not logged.

Conditions set out by the medical board included that the doctor keep a log of all the medications he prescribed.

A February 2 trial date has been set for the two on the drug charges.

On the latest charges, Dillion faces up to 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine, according to U.S. Attorney Tom Self.

Note: An indictment is not an indication of guilt, but a determination by a grand jury that a case merits further judicial review.

Mine runoff from city project raises concerns

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An environmental oversight committee, formed to coordinate efforts to build a recreational complex in Prestonsburg, is working with state and federal officials to ensure the water quality of Dewey Lake.

Mining on the mountain top site, where a championship golf course and entertainment center is to be built, is near Jenny Wiley State Park and the lake.

Officials want to be sure that the mining activity does not cause the lake's water quality to deteriorate.

Representatives from the state and federal agencies of the Office of Surface Mining, the Army Corps of Engineers, Division of Forestry, Division of Water, Lodestar Energy, state and federal Conservation Districts and Prestonsburg city representatives met Wednesday morning to discuss the issue.

The Corps of Engineers deeded the city the site earlier this year and restrictions in the deed call for the city to make sure ponds are designed "to adequately retain and treat produced waters and sediment" generated by the mining operation of Lodestar.

The deed also requires the city "to adequately retain produced sediment of all particle-size and ranges" from the mining site surrounding the lake.

Corps officials, along with state and federal mining agencies, discussed the impact on the water quality of the lake as a result of the mining.

Lodestar Energy representatives Mike Francisco and Tom Maddox said the mining company is willing to cooperate in any way to prevent the operation from tainting the lake.

"We will be very up front and cooperative," Francisco told the committee. "We have the same goal in mind: to do whatever we can do and realistically do to protect the water quality of Dewey Lake. We had that understanding when we went into this project."

Mike White, who will oversee the project for the Corps of Engineers, said there were concerns about adding to sediment in the water, which causes the water to become cloudy or muddy.

Lodestar has been cited twice by federal mining officials on the mountain top project, who found a silt pond that was full and that a contractor hired to clean out the pond had emptied the water inappropriately.

Francisco and Maddox said the pond filled up during one particular hard rain storm and that mining officials were unaware of it until a citation was issued. They said steps have been taken to prevent future problems.

Cold check writers get Bartley hot

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Floyd County businesses and residents have had a "problem" with bad checks in the past, and Floyd County Attorney Keith Bartley says it has gotten worse.

"(Floyd County) has a problem with bad checks," Floyd County Attorney Keith Bartley said Thursday. "And, it is definitely a growing problem."

The county attorney said his office has received as many as 100 complaints a month about bad checks, and added that he suspects there are many other cases that his office doesn't handle.

Bartley said that a majority of the complaints handled by the county attorney's office are from local businesses, some of which are getting "eat up" with bad checks.

"I'm afraid that some people aren't aware the court system can help them collect their money," he said. "I'm sure some individual people probably think they can't collect their money."

The economy, changes in workers compensation laws, and a "general uprising in crime" are factors which may contribute to the growing problem, Bartley said.

"Add all that together, and it has caused a dramatic increase in bad checks," he said.

Bartley said he has started taking a "more serious approach" to handling bad check cases.

"In the past, bad checks were not looked at as a serious crime," he said. "To me, it's just the same as someone stealing money when they use a bad check to buy things."

The county attorney's office has begun taking independent actions in dealing with the cases by issuing a letter to the person who wrote the bad check, and following up on the matter after a ten-day period.

Bartley said previous county attorneys did not take the initiative to follow up on the cases unless the plaintiff would return and file charges.

"Every letter we send to people who wrote a bad check is logged onto the computer, and we don't wait for the plaintiff to contact us again," he said. "After the ten-day period, we contact them to see if they have been reimbursed and, if they haven't and want to prosecute, we have the papers ready for them to sign."

Keith Bartley

Bartley said the letter is an attempt to avoid criminal actions, and it cuts down on paper work for his office, judges and court clerks, and the use of taxpayers' money.

The public's lack of knowledge about the services which can help get the money and fees for a bad check has also caused the increase of bad checks.

"A lot of people don't understand that criminal (prosecutions) can be taken to collect the money," the county attorney said.

If a bad check is written for less than $300, the penalty could be as

Davis wants to lift hiring freeze

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Tuesday's Floyd County Board of Education meeting could be a difficult one for the four remaining board members and its superintendent, with an agenda request to lift a hiring freeze.

Superintendent Gene Davis apparently wants the freeze lifted to hire a Family Resource/Youth Service Center coordinator for Harold and Prater elementaries.

At the past several meetings of the board, members have come to a 2-2 deadlock on many issues, including lifting the hiring freeze.

At a special meeting September 27, chairman Jody Mullins said he would be in favor of lifting the freeze for hirings within the Special Education Department. Mullins' motion at that meeting was defeated on a 2-1 vote, with Ursal Ray Wilcox voting against it. Davis had wanted the freeze lifted for all areas of employment. Only three board members, Wilcox, Mullins and Eddie Patton attended that meeting.

With board member Ray Brackett's resignation last month, the board appears to be at a 2-2 standstill, with Wilcox and board member B.J. Newsome appearing to be aligned with Davis, and Mullins and Patton in opposition.

Also on Tuesday's agenda, there is a request to ask that Bill Rideout, a financial expert with the Department of Education, be assigned to the district for financial assistance.

The district ended the school year with a projected $321,000 deficit, the third deficit balance in as many years.

State Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody announced October 6 that intends to seek the removal of Patton, Newsome, Wilcox, Mullins and Davis, due in part to the year-end deficit.

An extensive management audit of the district last month pointed to numerous problems throughout the school system, including a lack of leadership from the board and Davis.

Official charges have not yet been filed against school officials, but the board and Davis have indicated they intend to fight any attempt to remove them from office.

There is no indication when the charges will be served on the board, but Cody said earlier this month they would be drafted within 10 days.

Also, Cody said a hearing would be set to hear testimony regarding a three-year state takeover of the Floyd school system. That hearing date has not yet been finalized.

Other items on Tuesday's agenda include requests for:

- appointing a committee to set district boundary lines for student attendance for all schools;
- adopting the same certified and classified salary schedule as last year for the 1997-98 school year;
- restoring 20 work days for four secretaries in the central office;
- approving the district's general and working budgets for 1997-98;
- requesting bids for dental insurance for certified and classified personnel to receive on a voluntary basis; and
- approving a change order for renovations at Prestonsburg High School.

The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. and will be held at Adams Middle School.

Allen mayor will take water transfer issue door-to-door

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Although public hearings for the transfer of the Allen Water District proved to be ineffective, the mayor is confident the required number of signatures can be obtained by going door-to-door.

Mayor Sharon Woods said Thursday that she would be "hitting the streets" this weekend and she expected to get to every Allen residence by Sunday evening.

"I feel comfortable with going door-to-door," Woods said about the city acquiring the 337 customer signatures needed to avoid an election on the transfer of the water company to the Prestonsburg Utilities Commission.

Woods drafted a letter of intent last month for the transfer, and the Prestonsburg City Council and the utilities commission have agreed to the terms of the transfer.

The two water companies cannot proceed with the transfer, though, unless two-thirds of the Allen Water District customers approve the matter.

The city of Allen conducted three public hearings Monday and Tuesday in an attempt to obtain the required number of signatures. But, attendance at the forums was discouraging.

About 337 customers must okay the transfer, but less than 40 have attended the public hearings.

The mayor said it was no surprise that there wasn't a big turnout at any of the public hearings because many of the Allen customers are elderly or they work and don't feel like attending meetings.

During one of the forums Monday, Brett Davis said that if the Allen water company did not get the required number of signatures to authorize the changeover, an election would have to be held and that probably wouldn't happen before late next year.

The transfer of the water company may be the city's last chance to ensure that the funding for a sewer project is not pulled and that residences in Dwale, Allen and New Allen receive wastewater collection services.

Earlier this year, the Department for Local Government warned the city that the funding could be revoked if the bids for the project were "economically impractical."

City officials have indicated that the bids were significantly over the budget for the project.

If the funding for the sewer project is pulled, the city may have to face a 1986 Environmental Protection Agency lawsuit and residents could be fined for their wastewater straight pipes, which are polluting the river.

The terms of the transfer agreement include standard out-of-city rates for Allen water customers; an upgrade of the water system over the next three to five years; and a waiver on Prestonsburg's non-resistance annexation ordinance.

If the ownership of the Allen water system is transferred to Prestonsburg Utilities, Allen customers would receive a lower rate for water.

Allen customers currently pay approximately $9.50 for the first 2,000 gallons, and Prestonsburg's out-of-city rates are $6.97 for the same amount of water.

much as a year in jail and a $500 fine for the class-A misdemeanor.

A bad check of more than $300 is a felony, and the jail time could be as much as five years and a $10,000 fine.

Assistant county attorney Lance Daniels said he has prosecuted three cases in Floyd County in which the person who wrote a bad check received "a significant jail term."

Daniels also said that some business owners have told him that they have begun getting payments on bad checks since the county attorney's office began prosecuting the cases.

The county attorney's office has placed billboards throughout the county and anticipates supplying businesses with flyers to educate the public about the consequences of writing bad checks.

"We try to resolve the cases before they get into the court system, and that saves everybody time and money," Bartley said. "But I want those who refuse to pay to know that they will be prosecuted."

Runoff

Francisco said the contractor no longer works for the mining company and that "it was a stupid thing" for the contractor to dispose of the water improperly.

The property where the pond filled up was not part of the Corps property deeded to the city, Francisco said, but he added that sediment controls needed to be the same for all the areas mined.

The pond in question does drain into the stream at the head of Stratton Branch which flows into Dewey Lake, officials said.

White said all agencies would have "to be careful" regarding the quality of the lake water and it is an issue that "can't be ignored."

He added that Dewey Lake's water is different from waters at Paintsville and Yatesville lakes because of the amount of sediment.

State surface mining and Division of Water representatives will send information to the Corps for review to determine if the lake's water quality is being affected by the mining operation.

Committee chairman Paul Phillip Hughes said he wanted the group to meet on a monthly basis to discuss any problems that may arise during the mining and the construction of the multi-million dollar project.

Hughes said that city officials have hauled a small amount of horse manure to the site, where it is being stored until work begins on the complex. Hughes indicated the material would be used as fertilizer for top soil. He wanted to know if that would create any problems with the various state and federal agencies involved.

Larry Sowder, with the state Division of Water, said representatives from the state's divisions of Waste Management and Air Quality would need to look at the situation.

The next meeting of the committee will be November 19, at 10 a.m. at the Mountain Arts Center.

Task force on health education reviews community needs

During a year of survey and assessments, local people have named "help educate and promote good health care" as a major concern.

A task force of local residents and health care providers has been formed to address this issue.

On September 23, this task force met and identified some of the already existing programs that center primarily on health education within the community.

Russell Cole of McDowell ARH Hospital related that the Home Health nurses already do health education on their home visits. Information the nurses give out is related to the diagnosed illness of the patients they are in the home to care for.

Neva Francis spoke about the new three-year grant of $75,000 that Our Lady of the Way Hospital has received to do special health programs in local schools.

The classes will center on preventative health care, self confidence, self-esteem, good nutrition, exercise and other related themes.

Jane Bond gave information on services offered by the Floyd County Health Department; especially the Postponing Sexual Involvement (PSI) program that is being presented in the school system by Kim Hughes.

Ideas on getting more information out to the community were:

- PTA meetings
- Senior Centers
- Doctors to refer patients to health education programs
- Brochures

- Support groups
- Audio tapes
- Information boxes at hospitals/doctor offices/clinics
- Literature racks

If you need information on a health related issue that affects you or a family member, contact Glenda Lawson, education coordinator, McDowell ARH at 377-3400;

Jane Bond, health educator, Floyd County Health Department, 886-2788;

Neva Francis or Kim Blocker, Community Health Education Department,

Our Lady of the Way Hospital, 285-5181; or the Family Resource/Youth Service Center located nearest to you.

Your opinion is important to us! If you would like to offer ideas, suggestions or be a part of this task force, contact any of the above persons or Katie Newsome, Community Outreach coordinator at 358-9763.

Task forces on health related issues, concerns and changes is sponsored by McDowell ARH. Your health care, your choice!

Fiscal Court meets today

The Floyd County Fiscal Court will conduct its regular meeting at 10 a.m. today (Friday) in the circuit courtroom at the Floyd County court house.

Items on the agenda include discussions of a negligible increase in library and health tax rates for personal property, and the solid waste commission's five-year plan for 1998 through 2002.

Goose Creek Symphony to perform at Paramount Theater October 18

Goose Creek Symphony

The Goose Creek Symphony will be back by popular demand for a very special in-concert presentation of their version of what has been called everything from "a symphonic hoe-down," to "folk rock on steroids."

Regardless of what's it's called, it's a creation that espouses a feeling of goodwill, with lyrics about family values and the appreciation of simple pleasures.

Founded by Floyd County native Charlie Gearheart in the late 60's, the band started out and developed

Jerry Lafferty elected to EKEA board of directors

Jerry Bryan Lafferty, Floyd County Education Association president, was elected at the Eastern Kentucky Education Association's annual delegate assembly, which was held in Ashland, on October 2-3, to represent EKEA on the board of directors of the Kentucky Education Association. Lafferty has served as president of the Floyd County Education Association for two terms and is not only a delegate to KEA but has served on the national level as state delegate to the National Education Association's Representative Assembly held last summer in Atlanta, Georgia. A teacher at Prestonsburg High School, he has earned many awards and honors, including being selected a Distinguished Educator in 1994. He and his wife, Anita, have one daughter, Martha, a recent Vanderbilt University Law School graduate, and is the son of Mrs. Jerry Lafferty Jr. of Prestonsburg, and the late Floyd County Judge-Executive, Jerry Lafferty Jr.

a following in the early 70's and had one hit, a version of Janis Joplin's "Mercedes Benz."

Raised on Goose Creek, when Charlie said he "would rather go fishing," fans had to take him at his word, because that's just what he did. He took time-out for his family and to actually live and experience the life the band sang about.

Sixteen years later, the band officially reunited, and have even — in the footsteps of the Grateful Dead's "Deadheads,"— made a major comeback, and one can find "Gooseheads" almost everywhere in the country.

"A Goose Creek song is a musical journey," Gearheart explains, "traversing passages and movements as an orchestra would, thus the term 'symphony.'"

The band apparently chooses to challenge almost every type of music, as the band's founder is well-schooled in everything from jazz, rock, and even military marching band music. One can see musical instruments as diverse as fiddles, guitarists, saxophonists, a bassist, and a drummer. They give new meaning to the term "improvisation."

They have been compared as a cross between the Charlie Daniel's Band and Widespread Panic, with some Blood, Sweat & Tears mixed in.

Goose Creek has chosen Ashland's Paramount Arts Center for their upcoming concert on Saturday, October 18. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. with the doors opening at 7 p.m. General admission tickets are $14, $15, and $17 in advance and $18, $19, and $21 at the door. Tickets are available at the Paramount Arts Center box office, (606) 324-3175.

Kentucky improves efforts toward serving domestic violence victims

by Karen Spivey
Christian Appalachian Project

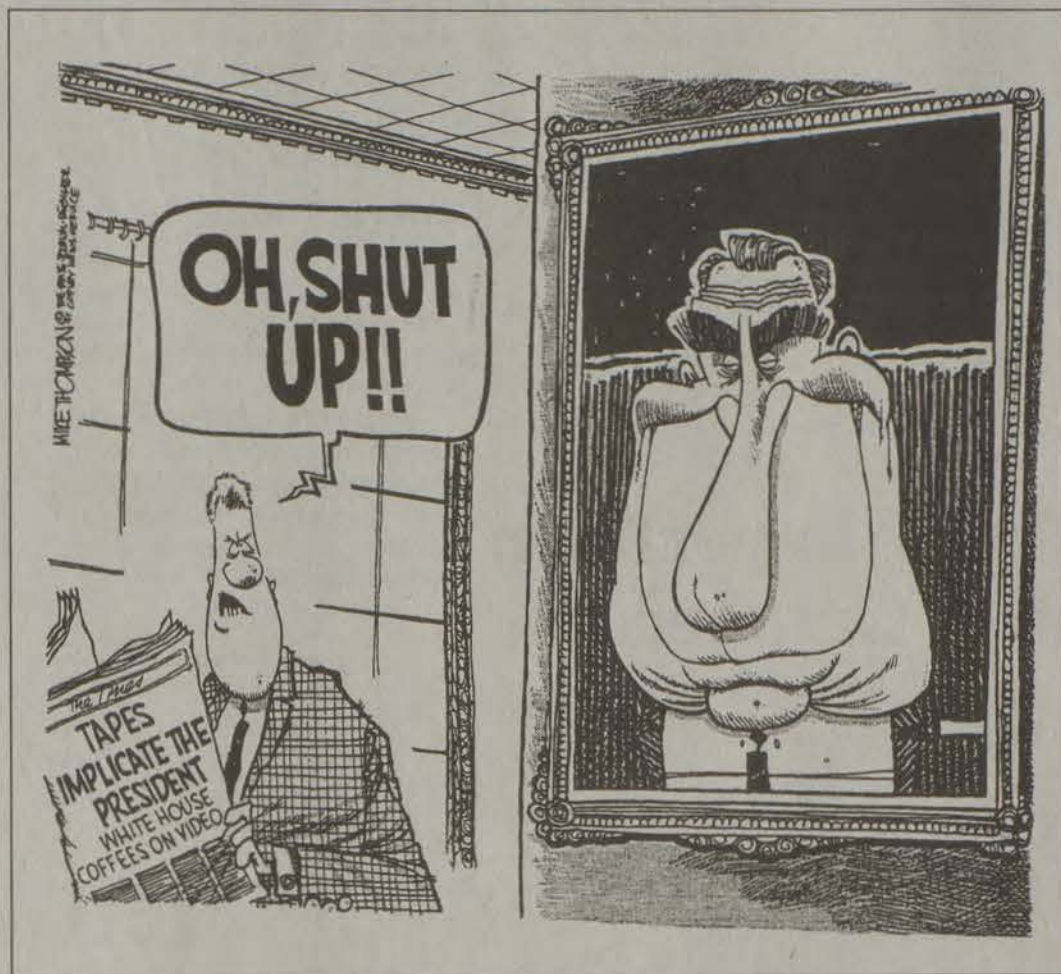

The month of October is recognized throughout our nation and the Commonwealth as Domestic Violence Awareness month. Victim's advocates strive to focus public awareness on the epidemic of domestic violence and encouraging all Americans to become part of the solution.

The Kentucky Domestic Violence Association (KDVA) has established a certification program to assure that quality services are available to all victims of violence throughout the state. Each spouse abuse shelter is in the process of undergoing training and supervised work experience that will enable non-judgmental, empowering intervention for victims of domestic violence and their children. Certification encompasses reading requirements, educational videos and thirty hours of classroom training. Kentucky is setting a precedent as one of the first states in our country to establish such standards for personnel in the domestic violence field. Close to 250 individuals will receive certification in Kentucky by the end of 1997.

Domestic violence has reached near epidemic proportions. In the U.S., four million women are physically abused each year by the men who promised to love them. In Eastern Kentucky, over four hundred women and children had to seek shelter, due to domestic abuse over the past year. The Big Sandy Family Abuse Center, a spouse abuse shelter of the Christian Appalachian Project, serves victims in the counties of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike. The shelter offers safe harbor from the abuser, while providing counseling, legal advocacy and assistance in obtaining educational, employment and housing opportunities.

No woman should fear violence in her own home. No child should dread coming home. But help is available. During the month of October, domestic violence prevention advocates will be raising public awareness of domestic violence, providing people with ideas for action, and letting women who are abused know that they are not alone and that help is available.

Domestic violence affects all of us—every community, every workplace, every family. And we all have a responsibility to end domestic violence. Action can be as simple as contributing money or clothing to a local women's shelter. Some people might prefer to volunteer their time to a local program or shelter. Affixing a bumper sticker to a car requires only seconds, but sends a clear message that there is no excuse for domestic violence. Individuals who are looking for ways to help, or would like to participate in Domestic Violence Awareness Month activities, can call (606) 886-6025, or the crisis line at 1-800-649-6605.

Kudos to health department

Editor:

This letter is to compliment the work being done at the Floyd County Health Department. On Friday, October 10th, the Health Department held its annual Women's Day, and believe me it was a huge success!!!!

I have been using the services at this office since 1979, and the total quality of care has reached an all time high! Not only did I receive a pap smear and a breast exam, the nurses also checked my cholesterol and hemoglobin, and updated my TB skin test. The change was only $10.

This wasn't even the best part. The employees of the Health Department served drinks and treats and gave away prizes. I myself received a lovely pink tee-shirt with the Health Department Logo, and my mother won a bottle of Avon perfume. I can't say enough good things about the Floyd County Health Department!

I would like to thank Deloris Carpenter for being the hostess of the day's events. She was even dressed like a young Jenny Wiley. Thank you to the staff of the Floyd County Health Department including the appointment clerks, the nurses, the WIC office, the staff from the Betsy Layne Branch, and all the other employees. The Annual Ladies Day showed how our health department cares for Floyd County citizens.

It's time to straighten up!

Editor:

I went shopping today, and it really doesn't matter where. It's all the same. When I attended school and went to driver's ed. training we were tested on recognizing signs and what they meant. Obviously some of our folks need to be retrained as to obedience of the law.

Every time I go shopping there are at least a half dozen cars parked in the "fire lane." When I finished up I took my cart out to the legal parking area. Alongside me was a very elderly man in his 80's who struggled with his cart out to his car which too, was legally parked. If anyone deserved or needed to be parked in the fire lane, it was him, not the group I saw. The first couple was in their mid to late 20's, young and healthy. They bought a cart full of convenience foods, luxury items and things I can't afford on food stamps. The next couple was in their early 30's, again young and healthy looking, again buying all kinds of things I wished I could eat on food stamps. The other "parker" was a young gal probably 25 years old, tops. All these folks and others were parked in the fire lane.

Parking in the fire lane is not only illegal but it makes it hard for the rest of us to get in and out of the parking lot or out of the store with our buggies. It creates traffic tie ups as part of the road is blocked. The way I look at it, is if you don't work at anything all month long, you ought to have enough energy to walk 30 feet from the parking lot into the store! I know it's not a big deal, but it does rankle one, and these folks are probably the same one who speed thru school zones and fail to have their kids in seatbelts/child restraints. It's time we started towing illegally parked vehicles. Once people start paying a tow bill and a fine, they'll stop inconveniencing the rest of us.

Thanks for festival

Editor:

The Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival was a success! I want to say "thank you" to all the festival committee members, also thank-you to Donna Wells, chairperson. Your hard work and commitment to the festival was outstanding. As I stood on the street watching the parade like so many from Floyd and surrounding counties, I heard many remarks how great this was for our area. So thank you, Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival Committee, for a job well done.

Questions about Town Branch bridge

Editor:

The Town Branch Bridge Committee has recently been doing some research on the bridge and discovered some very disturbing facts.

The bridge was owned by the county and turned over to the State Department of Transportation approximately ten years ago. The State Transportation Department says the bridge has had a 0 (zero) rating on a scale from 0 to 100. Zero is the lowest possible rating. The rating has been in effect ten years. Our question is, why would the State Transportation

Congress and the General Assembly are not alike

Politics is a subject I never loved and now hate."—Thomas Jefferson to John Adams, 1796.

The annual stage event...err, I mean, debate...over campaign finance reform and the McCain-Feingold bill is settling down until next year. Mitch McConnell and the Republicans won, again, but like a good wrestling match the outcome was never truly in doubt. To quote David Broder in last week's Washington Post..."when all 45 Democratic senators united behind the McCain-Feingold bill...their ranks included many whose private judgment about the bill is no more favorable than Lott's. They made the gesture in the confident belief that Lott and the Republicans would never allow the bill to become law."

On to the next show, a horror show, where the activities of the Democrats National Committee (DNC) are being uncovered slowly, layer by layer, by congressional committees and Justice Department inquiries, all the while the American people who have not yet covered their eyes and ears in disgust, watch in amazement. The cries for more money in politics by the triumphant McConnell, and the frightening thought of Chinese involvement in our national elections help form the black cloud of disenchantment that pours steadily down on those who still believe in government of, by, and for the people.

"Come forward, then, and give us the aid of your talents and the weight of your character towards the new establishment of republicanism," said Thomas Jefferson seeking leadership for the newly formed America.

Talent and character. That, and a million dollars, just might get a candidate elected to Congress (the House, not the Senate) in 1998. Actually, all the candidate needs is the million dollars.

But for the candidate with only the talent and character, and a desire to make change, there is a realistic alternative. Representatives in the Kentucky legislature are elected bi-annually, and the filing deadline for next year's primary election is only three months away.

In 1998, Hal Rogers' congressional seat will remain secure in his hands, and the open US Senate race will surely go to the highest bidder, but the Kentucky State House seats are far from beyond the monetary grasp of the teacher, miner, factory worker, and so on. The average cost of winning a contested house race is East Kentucky is well under $25,000, while the average vote total for such a winner is less than 6,000 votes. That is about $4 a voter, the cost of a McDonalds extra value meal, as Mitch McConnell would say. But, obviously, state political candidates don't dip into their own paychecks to buy every voter a value meal.

Where does the money to run for a state house seat come from? Fifty percent or $20,000, whichever is greater, can come from Political Action Committees (PAC) and individuals can give up to $1,000 per contribution. With some time, effort, and personal salesmanship spent at the numerous fund-raisers, the money can, and does, add up fast. Industries and trade organizations (which form PACs) are eager to give to candidates who show sympathy for their causes, and the spirit of partisanship is still strong enough among individuals to compel patriotic, yet modest, donations to their party's candidates.

But the money problem in Congress, soft money, has not affected Kentucky's state house races. While it seems that the political world in Washington will be forever evolving around the dollar, and the career politicians/fund-raisers keep the citizen-Congress a mere chapter in a history book, the opportunity to govern in the Kentucky General Assembly remains open to the hopeful candidate with nothing but good ideas and a friendly smile...for now.

Department accept a bridge with a zero rating and permit it to be used by unsuspecting local residents for the past ten years? They never once worked on the bridge. They did put up a 3-ton weight limit about a year ago.

The bridge was also used as a short-cut to U.S. 23 from downtown Prestonsburg. This put an enormous amount of extra traffic on the bridge.

The school bus used the bridge for several years while a zero rating was on the bridge. We would like to know why no one was told about the zero rating until two days before it closed.

It looks as if someone is going to get some egg on his face on this one.

I don't believe this one can be blamed on the local political leaders since they were not informed of the rating until the bridge closed.

I believe they did not know, because I have observed many of our local officials, as well as their families, using the bridge. No one would want to cross a bridge with a zero rating.

We can understand why the county would have wanted to give the bridge to the state ten years ago, however, why would the state take over the bridge and never work on it? Someone had to know the bridge was a heavily traveled bridge with a zero rating. Someone was negligent, big time.

We wonder how many more zero-rated bridges we are crossing without knowing.

We would like to think that it was a mix up in paperwork. Maybe the bridge was overlooked by mistake. We would hope that no one in our State Transportation Department would have withheld this information purposely.

Fortunately no one was hurt, and the above is water under the bridge. Hopefully the transportation department would have a conscience and repair or replace the bridge in the very near future.

We would like to see some kind of progress, or at least some type of commitment now.

Apology for omission

Editor:

Last week (Wednesday, October 8), the Floyd County Times ran a story that I did on the McDowell High School reunion.

I thought I had done a fairly thorough coverage of the event. Some readers, however, pointed out to me that I had left one important segment of the activities completely out of the article: the old-time dinner. They were completely right.

I could have taken a defensive attitude about the matter.

However, I plan to do the same thing that I would have advised my students to do: always keep your audience in mind, and when you fail them, rethink your work.

If I had used the program prepared for the occasion, (which I certainly would have suggested to my students), I would not have missed this important part of the weekend activities.

The only thing I can do about this year's event is apologize for this admission, and tell the readers how much the teachers, alumni, and friends enjoyed the old time dinner. I'm sure the people who were in charge of this tough job wanted this part of the festivities to be part of the written record, and I'm sure they wanted their efforts recognized and appreciated.

I know I would want the same for myself. As for my writing, I will have to "practice my own preaching" a little better and, hopefully, get it right the next time.

Elderly urged to get flu shots

Because statistics show that older people are twice as likely as younger people to get pneumonia or flu, the Public Health Service recommends an annual flu shot for people over the age of 65, even if they are generally healthy. The cost of both pneumonia vaccinations and flu shots is covered by Medicare Part B (medical insurance).

Typically, shots are given in the fall or winter. The best time to get a flu shot is mid-October to mid-November. Medicare beneficiaries do not need a doctor's prescription or supervision to have this vaccination covered by Medicare Part B. And, beneficiaries do not pay deductible or coinsurance amounts.

Generally, the cost will be paid if the vaccine is provided at a doctor's office or by a hospital, skilled nursing facility, home health agency, rural health clinic, federally-qualified health center, outpatient physical therapy provider, a comprehensive outpatient rehabilitation facility, or health maintenance organization (HMO).

Medicare Part B also pays for pneumonia and hepatitis B vaccinations and flu shots when the beneficiary is in the hospital, even though the hospital stay is covered under Part A (hospital insurance).

Do not delay — contact your Health Care Provider and get your flu shot. You will "winter well" if you do.

Prestonsburg High School Senior Robbie Elliott won first place for being the closest to the target in the 'flour drop' competition at a recent 'Fly-In' at Combs Airport. The plane from which the flour was dropped was flown by Robbie's Dad, Robert Elliott, a 747 pilot for Evergreen International Airlines. Other winners from PHS included Leslie Stout, 2nd place, and Austin Lumpkins, fourth place.

Farm Bureau offers info on water conservation

Kentucky students in elementary, middle and high school have the opportunity to learn more about the importance of water conservation thanks to an educational partnership between the Kentucky Farm Bureau Companies, The Courier-Journal, and the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts.

Kentucky Water...Clear into the 21st Century, a 16-page student text presently being distributed to students in all Kentucky counties, is sponsored by Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance Companies. This educational tool, produced by The Courier-Journal in cooperation with many state agencies, explains the many uses of water, and suggests practical ways for each of us to conserve this valuable natural resource. The tabloid is packed with interesting activities designed for family, class and individual participation.

A teacher's guide is included along with contest rules for the Conservation Essay and Jim Claypool Conservation Poster contests sponsored annually by The Courier-Journal and the Kentucky

Association of Conservation Districts. These contests are worth thousands of dollars in prizes to winning students throughout Kentucky. Awards are given at the school, county, area and state levels of competition.

Free copies of Kentucky Water: Clear Into the 21st Century can be picked up at any Kentucky Farm Bureau office or county Conservation District (for large quantities, call ahead to assure availability). Copies may also be obtained by calling The Courier-Journal, toll free at 1-800-765-4011, ext. 4551.

Correction

In Wednesday's edition of The Times, an article indicated that John Allen admitted that he; his brother, James P. Allen; and Robert Clark were involved in the burglary of Bill Joe Johnson's repair shop in Burton.

The article should have indicated that James Allen admitted that he and his brother, John Allen, were involved in the burglary.

Clark, 18, is not accused of that crime.

In Memory of EDMOND COLLINS

Oct. 17, 1957 - Jan. 21, 1997

It was the twenty-first of January when we got the call, That our little brother, Edmond, had taken a fall.

None of us knew how tragic it would be, Our family and friends rushed there to see.

He rode up the mountain with no fear in his soul, Not realizing it was his time to go.

We know he's with Mom, Dad, and Jeremy, rejoicing this time, For there's no more mountains for Edmond to climb.

He enjoyed his life to the fullest, this we know, But it was so hard for us to see him go.

Rest in peace, Little Brother, for we know it's not the end, You will always be loved and remembered by your family and friends.

We love and miss you, Ed. I love you, Little Brother, from your Big Sis, Lib

My Precious Rose

God picked a beautiful rose today, Fresh from his garden of life to stay. One of His perfect, to fill His bouquet, God chose her, this special day.

To live with God, I go this day, Taking me home with Him to stay, I have always trusted and done God's will, His love, embedded in me distilled.

No tears for me after I'm gone, I have gone to sit by God on the throne. No more sorrow, no tear dimmed eyes, God, for me has wiped them all dry.

My loved ones, I hope you will understand, I have gone to live in a better land. Live for God, come to meet me, At heaven's door, I'll stand and greet you.

Rose Oney Ferguson
One year ago today, October 17, 1996, you were picked for God's bouquet.

Mom, we miss you so much, your memories will always forever stay. I loved you so much.

OLM offers this year's fruit at last year's prices

Nothing's new but the fruit in Our Lady of the Mountains School's 1997 citrus fruit sale.

"We're offering the same order options at the same prices as last year," said Susan Chafin, citrus chairperson. "Our supplier, Sunsweet Fruit Incorporated, is celebrating its anniversary by not increasing prices this year. We're happy to be able to keep the same prices and expect our customers will be delighted, too."

The school is offering the same popular products. Ruby Red Grapefruit, Hamlin Oranges, Tangelo Oranges and Navel Oranges are available in 2/5 and 4/5 bushel boxes. A half-and-half mixture of Ruby Red Grapefruit and Navel Oranges is available in a 2/5 bushel box.

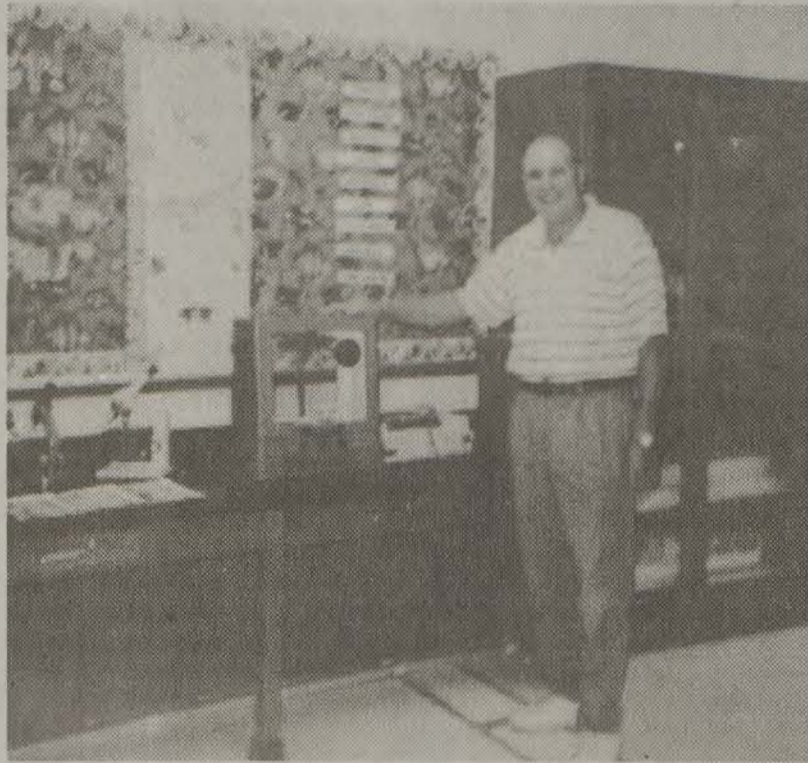

The Trio Pak, a gift-packaged assortment made up of six grapefruit, seven Washington State Red Delicious apples and eight Navel oranges, will also be available again. The Trio Pak made its debut last year and was quite popular for gifts. The school sold 180 Trio Paks; only boxes of Navel oranges were more popular.

All the citrus fruit is grown along the Indian River on the Florida east coast. It is naturally tree ripened and will be picked around November 30 for delivery at the school December 4. OLM parents will hand-sort all the fruit and replace any spoilage with premium fruit before the boxes are picked up or delivered.

While Tangelo oranges vary in their seed count, all the other oranges and grapefruit are "seedless" by USDA standards, meaning each piece has six or less seeds. Fruits size varies by box, but all boxes weigh approximately the same.

Last year the school sold more than $20,000 worth of a fruit and netted a profit of $7,138 for the school's educational programs and scholarships. All the fruit was picked up or delivered within a week of its arrival in Paintsville.

Donation

Bill Harvey Howard donated a Torsion Analytical Balance to the Prestonsburg High School. He is the father of Debbie Dixon, technology assistant with the Floyd County School System and grandfather of John Dixon, a sophomore at Prestonsburg High School.

Many businesses and persons who ordered late were not able to get their orders filled from hoped-for surplus.

To guarantee adequate delivery of fruit, businesses and individuals should order by Monday, November 17, through any OLM student's parent, or by contacting Our Lady of the Mountains School at (606) 789-3661.

Prestonsburg Blood Center Citizens Advisory Committee holds meeting

The Prestonsburg Blood Center Citizens Advisory Committee met recently.

The meeting began with a presentation of the Blood Center's strategic plan by Susan Berry-Buckley. Susan explained the need for CKBC to become self-sufficient.

A general idea session followed the presentation. Some of the ideas that were generated included:

- Saturday operations are more desirable than later evening hours
- Promotions are extremely important regardless of what the hours are or where the center is located
- Radio is an important method for promoting in Floyd County (Remote broadcasts seem to be particularly effective)

- We need to educate to dispel myths and fears about giving blood
- Partnering with businesses to get an extra hour off for an employee who gives might be effective
- Send letters to businesses and follow up with a phone call
- Make it simple, get referrals from current donors, get donors to bring friends and recognize them for their efforts
- Get people to plan their donations (appointments), then place reminder phone calls
- Utilize senior citizen groups to call donors
- Get people from the community who give to make radio announcements, do newspaper articles etc.

• Set up in a public location and get pledges or make appointments to donate

• Give cards to family members of patients who use blood, explaining where the blood came from and how they can help

The group elected Jim Combs as the chairperson.

The group plans to develop a referral/appointment system for the next meeting. Meetings will be scheduled once a quarter, on Thursdays, at noon.

EXTENSION NEWS

Cranberry Season is about to begin

Cranberries are shiny scarlet berries that grow in huge, sandy bogs on low trailing vines. They are also known as bounce berries because the ripe ones bounce and cranberries, after the shape of the shrub's pale pink blossoms, which resemble the heads of the cranes that often wade through the cranberry hogs.

Cranberries grow wild in Northern Europe and Northern North America, mainly Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Washington and Oregon. They are harvested between Labor Day and Halloween, and the peak market period for cranberries is from October through December. They are usually sold in 12-ounce plastic bags.

Cranberries can be refrigerated tightly wrapped for at least 2 months or frozen up to a year. Discard any discolored or shriveled cranberries. Besides the traditional cranberry sauce, this fruit makes delicious chutneys, pies, cobblers and other desserts. Because of their extreme tartness, cranberries are best combined with other fruits, such as apples or diced apricots. Fresh cranberries are high in vitamin C.

To prepare cranberries for cooking, sort out soft berries and stems, then rinse in cold water. Chop cranberries. 12 ounces of cranberries is equal to 3 cups. Stir 1/2 cup chopped cranberries sprinkled with 2 tablespoons granulated sugar for every 6 muffins, into muffin batter. Cook together equal amounts of fresh cranberries and apples, sweetening to taste, to make cranberry applesauce. Fill the center of an apple with cranberries, sugar and cinnamon before baking.

Everything is hard

A recent trip to my sister's in Indianapolis reinforced my belief that anything our family attempts to do is hard.

Initially, we were simply going to pick up my other sister, Jenny, at her office in Hamilton, Ohio, before venturing on west.

Sound simple? Read on. Upon our arrival in Hamilton, I called Jenny from a pay phone in a Kroger parking lot and asked for more explicit directions.

"Just turn right out of the lot and continue going straight."

"Do I turn right from the front of the lot, or from the side where I came in?" I asked.

"Where's the phone?"

"In my hand," I replied.

"No, I mean which way is the booth facing?"

"I don't have a compass, but I think it's north."

"Sara," Jenny said impatiently. "Pull out of the side lot and keep going straight until you get to Second Avenue."

By the time I found Second Avenue (which, by the way, wasn't next to First Avenue) it was getting dark.

"Follow me to Arby's. I'm going to leave my car for Josh. He's working there as a parrot."

Twenty-five minutes later, we followed Jenny into Arby's and saw a parrot uniform hanging in the kitchen.

"Where's the boy who's supposed to be wearing that get up?" Jenny asked.

"Has anyone seen the bird?" a cook yelled.

"The bird didn't show," someone from the back yelled.

"I knew it!" Jenny fumed. "If he wasn't coming, he should have called. Now I have to leave my car downtown and there's going to be an Aryan Rally there tomorrow."

"He might have had an accident," I said, as Jenny began feeding quarters into a pay phone.

After Jenny finally reached her son and berated him for being irresponsible, we got back in our cars and followed Jenny back to work.

Two hours later, Mother said, "I've only got a few drops of melted ice left in my Coke cup."

Loosely translated, her message meant, "I haven't been to the bathroom since we left home this morning. Pull over somewhere, or you're out of the will."

When I pulled into a McDonald's, Mother jumped out and Jenny, our friend Brittany, and I went in for a soft drink.

"Are you hungry?" Jenny asked.

"Let's wait until we get to Amanda's. She's probably fixed us a big meal."

Jenny eyed me curiously and shrugged her shoulders before saying, "You can go to bed hungry. I'm having an apple pie."

After missing the exit twice and the entrance to Amanda's subdivision once, we finally arrived.

"What took you so long?" Amanda asked.

"Mom had to stop to go to the restroom," I said.

"Wait a minute," Mom protested.

"Sara couldn't follow Jenny's simple directions."

"I thought we were late because we couldn't find the parrot," Brittany said.

"What parrot?" Mandy asked.

"It's a long story," Jenny sighed. "But the biggest obstacle was trying to get Sara out of Kroger's parking lot."

It will be easier next time. Yeah, sure.

"I'd like to donate your tip to the Send the Cook to Chef School fund."

The Journeymen

Journeymen to hold worship service at First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg

A southern gospel group will conduct more than just a concert at First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg Sunday, the church's pastor says "it will be a worship service."

The Journeymen Quartet anticipate producing extraordinary results by coupling the power of music with the good news of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

"I basically grew up with the group," Dr. Tommy Valentine, the pastor at First Baptist Church, said. "There's something special about this group...What they do is not just a concert, it will be a worship service."

The quartet — Dean Antle, Stacey Murphy, Michael Mardis, and David Grant

— have been ministering with a traditional southern gospel style of music for more than 13 years.

"From this experience comes a keen sensitivity to the needs of the moment in most any setting," a press release from The Journeymen says.

The Journeymen have recorded eight projects over the past eight years, and the group's latest recording, Sowing Seeds, was with Grammy-winning producer Otis Forrest of Hendersonville, Tennessee.

The Journeymen were recently featured in an Artist Focus segment of the Singing News Magazine. In a September 1996 article of the magazine, the editor issued a strong recommendation of the group to any church, concert promoter, or Southern Gospel fan.

"The sincerity, desire to serve God, and the talent of each member provides a foundation which will make the music of The Journeymen reach out to uplift and encourage the Christian," the press release says. "Throughout a concert with The Journeymen, the listener will realize the strong sense of Christian joy..."

The Journeymen Quartet will conduct the "worship service" at 7 p.m. Sunday, October 19, at the First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg.

News of the Weird

—In July, a group of lawyers and state legislators petitioned the Illinois Supreme Court to halt all executions immediately and appoint a commission to study why, in the 20 years since the state reinstated the death penalty, more death row convicts have subsequently been found innocent and freed (nine) than have been executed (eight).

—Among the many varieties of Tamagotchi toys (egglike, electronic "virtual pets" that must be fed and cared for lest they die) is "My Baby Dinosaur" manufactured by a company in China. An Associated Press story in August reported a complaint of Ms. Dale Brooks when she bought one at the Meridan (Conn.) Square Mall. The user's manual apparently was written by someone for whom English is not the primary language. In several places, instructions on how to deal with the dinosaur's virtual defecation freely and matter-of-factly use the s-word.

—In June, the Court of Appeal in London, England, turned down Thomas Moringiello's challenge to his fraud conviction and 18-month prison sentence. Although Moringiello was able to prove that Judge Richard Hamilton had slept through portions of the testimony at trial the year before, the higher court said Moringiello was not harmed because Hamilton still was able to give a summary of the case for the jury's deliberation.

SCHEMES

—In August, a judge in Des Moines, Iowa, turned down two inmates' petitions for Jewish ceremonies, citing the facts that the men were not Jews when they came to prison and don't know much about Jewish traditions, and the suspicion that the men were only interested in Jewish ceremonial fruits and shawls, which are helpful to inmates in, respectively, making wine and strangling people.

—Bad Pick-up Routines: Arlington, Va., produce clerk Salvador Rodriguez, 38, was charged with trying to fondle a female customer at a Giant Food store in August. According to the woman, Rodriguez approached her at the spinach bin and told her he knew where she could get some even fresher spinach, and she followed him to a back room. And in July, Jeffrey Maurice Young, 19, was arrested in Gastonia, N.C., and charged with assault. Police said Young had hidden under a table at the Bloomin' Onion Steakhouse and had begun to touch the legs of two women who had sat down to eat (and who at first thought there was a loose thread on the tablecloth). When discovered, he fled the restaurant but was captured nearby.

—Though the Fiesta de San Isidro in Madrid, Spain, in June is reputed to be the world's major bullfighting event, organizers this year had economized by buying cheaper, docile bulls. An ordinary card would feature six bulls with three alternatives. One night, the main bulls were booed and the three substitutes quickly used up, so one of the rejected bulls was painted with white splotches and returned to the ring masquerading as a fresh one. However, the crowd got wise, and rioted, when the toreador's red pants turned whiter and whiter with each pass.

—Arab-born Israeli mechanic Azzam Azzam, who has been in jail in Egypt since November, charged with industrial espionage, was again turned down for release in August, despite flimsy evidence against him, and faces life in prison. Azzam, working in Egypt on an Israeli joint venture, was accused of writing Egyptian factory secrets in invisible ink on Calvin Klein women's underwear and passing them along to a cohort, who allegedly sent them on to Israel. Egyptian authorities say the cohort has confessed, even though no one knows what Azzam could possibly have learned that could be of use to Israeli intelligence.

UH-OH!

—Afater Calle, 30, a San Francisco Zoo elephant, had many times rejected her tuberculosis medicine, the curator and a local pharmacist finally devised a drug-delivery system in August: Calle was fitted with special 10-inch-long, two-pound, cocoa-butter suppositories containing the medicines, which she'll have to take daily for 10 months. A team of four is required to administer each one, and, said associate curator Michelle Rudovsky, "It's not a pretty sight."

—Surprises: In July, Charmaine Josiah, 24, awakened in the middle of the night in Pompano Beach, Florida, to an unfamiliar touch in her bed. When she turned on the light, there on her pillow was Theodore, a 5-foot-long boa constrictor that had escaped from a neighbor's house weeks earlier. And in August in Copenhagen, Denmark, Thor Skule lifted his toilet seat first thing one morning and saw the head of a 3-foot-long python peeking up through the bowl; it had been hiding in the plumbing since the previous occupant of Skule's apartment moved out in April.

—In April, San Diego plastic surgeon Joseph Graves was found negligent by a jury in breast-implant surgery on a 30-year-old former beauty queen. According to the woman, Graves was assisted in surgery by a friend of his, a waiter, who may actually have been the one who inserted the implants. More than 20 lawsuits against Graves are still pending.

—The Syracuse (N.Y.) Post-Standard reported in July that a driver fired two years earlier by Greyhound for drunk-driving was now employed in Liverpool, N.Y., as a driving instructor at the National Tractor Trailer School. The driver had challenged her firing, claiming she had never driven a bus drunk, despite the company's contention that one time on the job she was so drunk that she urinated in her pants twice.

EH-UH, GROSS!

—In July, the Centers for Disease Control reported the first instance of HIV transmitted not through sex or drugs but through deep kissing. However, doctors insisted the transmitting agent was not saliva but blood. Doctors said that the man had gum disease, canker sores and "hairlike growths on his tongue," and the woman had bleeding gums, but that the couple nonetheless were very affectionate.

—In August, it took a recovery team two days finally to pull out the body of a 23-year-old tourist who slipped and fell over a scenic waterfall at Waterton National Park in Alberta, Canada. During the two-days, visitors expecting to take in a remarkably beautiful site were forced to gaze also at the dead body lodged in the rocks at the bottom of the waterfall.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A friend may keep you waiting for a scheduled appointment early in the week. Some people you'll be dealing with are evasive and hard to pin down. A home appliance may need replacing when it breaks down this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's not a good week for gambling or other risk-taking. You could meet with unexpected expenses in your pursuit of pleasure this weekend.

Instead, accent home life. LEO (July 23 to August 22) A person who keeps changing his or her mind is hard to deal with in business this week. A work concern from the past may still be unresolved. Be patient.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You and a relative may not agree about a domestic matter this week. Be leery of overpriced items while out shopping. Ask for help if you need it regarding a work project.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It's not a good week for financial risk-taking. Also, be careful not to misplace a credit card. A partner could be reluctant to follow your lead on a concern.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You could find a close partner unpredictable and hard to fathom this week. Surprise events cause a change in your work schedule. An adviser is unduly negative.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You may have to say no to someone's request for financial assistance. A pressing work matter could take precedence over socializing over the weekend and plans are subject to change.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your concentration tends to wander this week. Change involve travel plans made a while ago. You're likely to opt for time by yourself over socializing this weekend.

On October 26, CBS will air "Miracle in the Woods," starring multi Emmy nominee, Meredith Baxter and Della Reese ("Touched by an Angel").

Baxter plays one of two sisters who inherit land from their mother, and find Reese's character living with her beloved cats in a rundown shack on the property.

"The question then becomes what do we do with this woman," Meredith said. "If we sell the land, she becomes homeless. Yet, what do we really owe her?"

Indeed, as Baxter says, "It's a question we often ask, isn't it? What do we owe this person that we should extend ourselves to him or her? What do we owe our parents if we truly believe we didn't ask them to have us? What do we owe anyone if we believe that our first priority is to ourselves."

In time, the sisters learn the history of this fascinating woman, and how their mother reached out to her after she was released from an institution where she'd been committed by an abusive husband.

"The two sisters are drawn together by this wonderful Miss Cooper (Reese)," says Baxter, "and they realize that with her, they've experienced a miracle."

DIAL TONES: On Wednesday, October 22nd, TCM will air "Salt of the Earth," a film that was banned during the Hollywood Blacklist era 50 years ago because it was assumed that the movie, which tells the story of a labor movement among Mexican Americans in the 1950s, was inspired by Communists.

Staunch anti-Communists, such as John Huston, tried to overturn the ban. Huston, especially, was upset when he learned his long-time friend, Will Geer, (later Grandpa Walton on "The Waltons") was also blacklisted.

It'll be Hogan Heaven for Hulkster fans when TNT airs "Assault on Devil's Island" October 25. The flick also stars Carl Weathers ("Rocky") and Shannon Tweed ("Stormy Nights").

James Caan ("The Godfather" and "Brian's Song") will play Raymond Chandler's classic detective, Phillip Marlowe, in an upcoming HBO drama, "Poodle Springs." (Other Marlowes include Robert Montgomery, Robert Mitchum, Elliott Gould, Dick Powell, and Humphrey Bogart.)

Also coming from HBO is "S*N*A*F*U" starring Kelsey Grammer ("Frasier") and Cary Elwes ("Liar, Liar"). Danny DeVito is one of the executive producers.

EMERGENCY FLOWER-POT — I needed a quickie flower-pot for a small ivy plant I was transplanting. I didn't have time to shop for one, but I did have a 2-liter-size bottle. I cut the support part of the bottom of the bottle off and removed the bottle itself.

SCREW-TOP JAR LIDS — I've found a good way to remove the lids from screw-top jars. I save the wide rubber bands that come on broccoli and stretch them around the lid. Then you can just screw them off! Candice L., Silver Springs, Md.

EASY DATE — I don't take pictures that often and my film stays in the camera for quite a while. As a result, I forget the date when the first pictures were taken, the type of film and how long it has been in the camera.

To avoid this, I take a small piece of freezer tape and place it on the camera. When I put a new roll of film in, I write date, film type and number of exposures.

This prevents a lot of mind searching! Jill D., Waterford, Va.

PLASTIC BAGS — My husband gave me this tip for recycling the plastic bags that newspapers are delivered in.

I save them to insert shoes into when packing and he informs me they are great for applying stain and the like to wood. Just slip your hand in and the protection is "far reaching." Jayne D., Danville, Pa.

Q. I read that Maureen McCormick is coming to television in a new series. I loved her when she played Marcia on "The Brady Bunch." What is her new series? Also, did she ever make public comments about things rumored to have gone on between people on the show? Kelly G.

A. McCormick, who recently starred as Barbara Mandrell in the CBS movie, "Get to the Heart: The Barbara Mandrell Story," stars in the ABC series, "Teen Angel." She plays the divorced mom of two children, who works as a dental hygienist. (The title refers to the guardian angel of one of her sons, who in life had been her son's best friend.)

McCormick, who also stars in a new feature film, "Dogtown," which will be released either later this year or early next year, has never made public comments about those rumored relationships.

Q. Please, Evelyn, answer my letter because I'm really confused and no one seems to be able to tell me what I want to know. I heard something on my car radio that with the popularity of Kevin Sorbo's television series about Hercules, the old movie Hercules, Steve Reeves, will bring him back to the screen. That doesn't make sense. Please tell me what this is all about. Tara B.

A. What it's all about is a big video spoof. Apparently, some bright producers have reworked some of the old Steve Reeves movie footage by redubbing the dialogue and re-editing the scenes. They created something that would have us believe that Hercules is living in some future time when Los Angeles has gone through an apocalyptic period.

I understand this film will go right to video, so you might want to check your video store if you're curious to see what it's all about.

Q. I was told that Candice Bergen hated that her father, Edgar, was a ventriloquist. Is this true? If so, why? Also, is she definitely ending her series after this season ends? Frances L.

A. First, let me point out that you have the same first name — Frances — as Candice's mother.

Second, No. Candice didn't hate what her father did for a living. (After all, it made the Bergens one of the richest families in Hollywood.)

What she hated was being told by people when she was a child that she was Charlie McCarthy's sister. Apparently, it bothered her that people must have known Charlie was a dummy, so, she felt, they must have also thought of her as a dummy.

COUNTRY CHATTER

"Based on my gospel roots, it was truly a spiritual fulfillment to be a part of this project ... singing a song that happened to be the altar call which was sung when I gave my soul to Jesus Christ in the summer of 1979," proudly states Billy Ray Cyrus, about his wonderful soulful rendition of "Just As I Am" for the new C.D., "Amazing Grace 2."

Matraca Berg is getting a lot of attention down in Dixie — and why not! She was born and raised in Nashville and has always been heralded as a top songwriter. Now she has released her new album, "Sunday Morning to Saturday," (Rising Sun Records) and her new hot single, "That Train Don't Run." It comes as no surprise the praise she has received.

Growing up, Matraca stated, "Nashville was a lot smaller then. Music Row was only two streets, and the songwriters, it seemed, were much more intense. They wrote less formulaic songs and more from the heart. You could write books from those songs."

"And I was right in the middle of the music. I'd go with my mom or aunt when they'd be singing on a session and literally fall asleep in front of the recording console when I was still in diapers."

Matraca has come a long way since diapers and now the entire country is paying attention and listening to her wonderful music.

Congratulations to Chet Atkins as he recently took to the skies. Yes, at the Sky Coaster at Opryland Theme Park for $25 a jump — all the proceeds went to the Boys & Girls Club of America. What a nice gentleman.

Finally, yes, Candice is closing down her show after more than 10 years on the tube. She says she wants to spend more time with her daughter, Chloe. Friends say she still mourns for her late husband, the director, Louis Malle, and needs time to come to terms with his death.

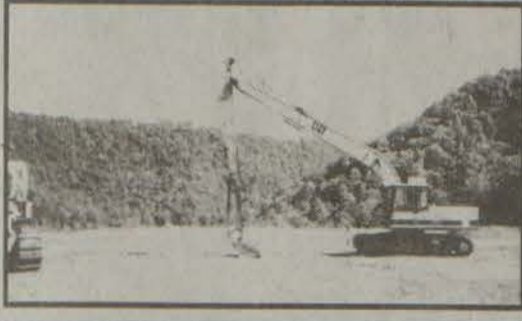

The fact that she'll have Murphy Brown learn that she has breast cancer this year strikes some people as Bergen's way of trying to deal with Malle's ultimately fatal battle with cancer.

Q. I watched Chelsea Clinton going off to college this year, and I got to thinking, how will she and any date she has ever get romantic with all those secret service agents around her? Lilly T.

A. Lucy and Lynda Bird Johnson, and Susan Ford, were asked that and each declined to answer. We can only infer that once the agents have checked out her date, and where she plans to spend time with him, they will withdraw to a discreet distance.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP: Terry Labonte, the defending Winston Cup champion, emerged from a season-long slump to win the DieHard 500 at Talladega Superspeedway. Labonte made his move on the 187th of 188 laps, charging past both John Andretti and Kenny Schrader to take the lead. It was Labonte's second Talladega victory and 19th of his career. The victory enabled him to slip past Dale Earnhardt into fifth place in the point standings.

AUTOMOBILE RACING CLUB OF AMERICA: Tim Steele won Talladega's Winn-Dixie 500K, outdueling Mark Thompson in a crash-filled contest. Steele's victory was the 29th of his ARCA career, wrapping up the championship for a second straight year.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES: After not qualifying for four of his first six Truck Series events, Randy Tolsma put on a late run and won his first race at the Dodge California Truckstop 300 at Mesa Marin Raceway.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Sterling Marlin vs. Jeff Gordon

Gordon said his left-rear tire went flat on lap 140, when he inadvertently touched off the season's biggest crash in the DieHard 500 at Talladega. The car that suffered the most damage was Sterling Marlin's Chevrolet, and Marlin expressed his doubts about Gordon's alibi. The two reportedly clashed verbally while riding together to the infield hospital.

Gazette Motorsports Writer Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Supposedly you could see Gordon's shredded left-rear tire when his car was brought back to the garage area on a flat-bed truck. Sterling has had a long, disappointing year, and it's easy to understand his frustration, but several other witnesses corroborated Gordon's explanation."

FROM THE ARCHIVES:

The rich history of NASCAR
The history of Daytona International Speedway is filled with tales of glory surrounding the Petty family. Lee Petty won the first Daytona 500 in 1959, and his son Richard is the only seven-time winner of NASCAR's most famous race. But the 1961 Speedweeks was one of tragedy for the family. In the twin 100-mile qualifying races that year, both Lee and Richard Petty were involved in harrowing crashes in which their cars sailed over the guard rail and out of the speedway. Lee's crash, with old rival Johnny Beauchamp, left him hospitalized for four months and eventually ended his career. The two crashes were in separate races and at opposite ends of the speedway.

Elliott Sadler followed his older brother Hermie into the Busch Grand National series. While Hermie was winning rookie-of-the-year honors and developing into one of the series' bright young stars, Elliott was refining his abilities on the Virginia short tracks of South Boston and Southside (Richmond).

In 1995, Elliott Sadler won the track championship at South Boston, capturing six straight victories and 11 over all. He was second to veteran Phil Warren in the Winston Racing Series' Mid-Atlantic Region standings.

After making his BGN debut at South Boston in 1995, Elliott arrived full-time on the series this year, winning races at Nazareth, Pa., Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Madison, Ill.

Because he had made 15 prior starts, Sadler is not eligible for this year's rookie-of-the-year award, which has already been clinched by Steve Park. Before his three 1997 victories, Sadler's career best as a fifth at Homestead, Fla., on Nov. 5, 1996.

NASCAR This Week

TALLADEGA, Ala. — The Winston Million Bonus program is gone, at least for a year. R.J. Reynolds has announced a far more ambitious program to celebrate NASCAR's 50th season.

Dubbed the "Winston No Bull Five" program, the potential now exists for a driver to win as much as $5 million in $1 million increments. A $1 million bonus will be offered for the winner of each of five events — Daytona 500, Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte, Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis, Mountain Dew Southern 500 at Darlington and Winston 500 at Talladega — provided he has finished in the top five at the previous event.

Beginning next season, the Winston 500 will be the second race, not the first, at Talladega, thus making the race the final leg in the program.

The top five finishers of Sunday's DieHard 500 — Terry Labonte, Bobby Labonte, John Andretti, Kenny Schrader and Ernie Ivan — will be eligible for a $1 million bonus by winning next Feb. 15's Daytona 500. The top five at Daytona will be the eligible drivers for the bonus at Charlotte on May 24, followed by the Brickyard 400 on Aug. 1, the Southern 500 on Sept. 6 and the Winston 500 on Oct. 11.

ALMOST HOME COOKING

It may not be similar to home, but the shopping malls of Southern California are not to be believed. One of them is located just a couple of miles west of California Speedway. Want to test-drive a pair of sneakers? No problem. There is a basketball court in the shoe store. See a movie? Sure. There are more than 50 screens to choose from. And food? The options are endless. In the Golden State, the malls are an entire culture unto themselves.

ence of competing earlier this year at the new track as an advantage.

THREE WHO COULD SURPRISE: Buckshot Jones has been fast of late. Don't count out Mike McLaughlin or Dick Trickle.

KEY TO THE RACE: The new track is designed for close racing. Its moderate banking and wide surface should give the BGN drivers a chance to put on quite a show.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES: Oct. 18, California Speedway, Fontana, Calif.

NOTABLE: Two weeks ago, the race at Sears Point ended the SuperTrucks' road-race season, and last week Mesa Marin marked the final short-track appearance. ... California, Las Vegas and Homestead (Fla.) are the remaining events, all on superspeedways, which are defined as tracks of a mile or longer.

been to victory lane a lot of times at a lot of tracks when Hermie drove it, so naturally, I was expected to do well, too."

WHAT DID YOU LEARN ON

THE SHORT TRACKS THAT HELPED YOU WHEN YOU MOVED UP TO BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL? "At South Boston, we ran 200-lap features every week. It taught me to run on old tires and how to stay focused when I got hot, sweaty and fatigued in the summer. It taught me how to be more in control of myself."

DO YOU MISS THE SHORT TRACKS? "Well, I certainly have great memories of South Boston. I can remember when I was 14, going out before my brother would race, getting four bologna burgers and a Mountain Dew. Then I would go down to turn four, sit Indian-style, eat and watch the cars run."

YOUR TURN

READERS ASK THE QUESTIONS

Dear NASCAR This Week, I am a dedicated fan of NASCAR, especially the history. Could you explain the circumstances surrounding the victory by Larry Frank in the Southern 500 at Darlington in 1962?

Gene Pinson
Laurens, S.C.

Dear NASCAR Race Fan, One of the unique aspects of the Southern 500 is that the race has seldom been won by drivers who are not among the sport's elite, but to every rule there is an exception, and Larry Frank's Labor Day victory in 1962 is one of stock car racing's greatest upsets. The most notable aspect to this race was that Frank did not take the checkered flag. Most of the crowd left Darlington Raceway that day thinking Junior Johnson had won the race. A scoring mistake was discovered, however, and Johnson's victory was overturned. Frank, by the way, still operates a garage in Conestee, S.C., near Greenville.

Dear NASCAR This Week, Someone was telling me that another driver took NASCAR by storm the same way Jeff Gordon has. This person said that it was during the 1960s. Do you know who this person could have been referring to?

Bruce Fowler
Cincinnati, Ohio

Dear NASCAR Race Fan, Almost certainly the person was referring to Fred Lorenzen, known during the 1960s as NASCAR's Golden Boy. Like Gordon, Lorenzen came to NASCAR from the Midwest. Lorenzen was from Elmhurst, Ill., Gordon from Pittsboro, Ind. Lorenzen was not quite as young when he won most of his races, but when he captured the last of his 26 victories, he was only slightly older than 30. During his heyday, Lorenzen drove the famed Holman-Moody Ford, and was the first of many drivers to find success in No. 28.

Dear NASCAR This Week, How can I get a copy of a rule book for the Winston Cup Series?

David Lyle
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear NASCAR Race Fan, Only dues-paying NASCAR members receive copies of the rule books for the various touring series. For more information, contact NASCAR, P.O. Box 2875, Daytona Beach, Fla. 32120-2875.

If you've got a question or a comment, write: NASCAR This Week Your Turn, c/o The Gaston Gazette, 2500 E. Franklin Blvd., Gastonia, N.C. 28054

CREW OF THE WEEK

Since Gary DeHart was granted a leave of absence, Randy Dorton has been leading the team of Winston Cup champion Terry Labonte on an interim basis. It's pretty obvious that Dorton and the rest of the Kellogg's Corn Flakes crew have resisted the inclination to ride out the remainder of the season and just go through the motions. Labonte captured the DieHard 500 at Talladega Super-

RACING ON THE WEB

WWW.NASCAR.COM

Overview: This site has been expanded so much recently that it is worth another look. To fully appreciate it, one needs to access the features available during the races: scoring updates, audio, etc. One of the Web's busier sites is getting bigger all the time.

Weak points: The good news is, the site receives more than 15 million hits a week. The bad news is, that can make it pretty crowded and difficult to access during peak hours.

TRIVIA

- Who heads up RJR's Sports Marketing Enterprises?
- Who won the first Winston Cup race ever held at Talladega?
- What famous driver was known as "Pops"?

3. Curtis Turner.

2. Richard Brickhouse.

1. T. Wayne Robertson.

ANSWERS

THE GARAGE million bonus program

this season, Gordon would have won $2 million. In 1996 Dale Jarrett would have won $1 million. Mark Martin and Dale Earnhardt would each have won $1 million in 1995, and Bill Elliott and Earnhardt would each have claimed $1 million in 1994.

RJR's T. Wayne Robertson said this would be a one-time program and denied that was a "goodbye gift" from Winston to the sport.

Concerned about the tobacco company's future in racing, Robertson would say only that "it depends on the settlement situation" between tobacco and the government.

KEEP THE BIG MACS COMING: Bill Elliott and

McDonald's have agreed to what was described in a press release as a multi-year contract for sponsorship of Elliott's No. 94 Ford. McDonald's has been Elliott's primary sponsor since 1995.

NUMBER CHANGE: Ricky Craven will change his number from 25 to 50 next year as his sponsor, Budweiser, joins the rush to get in on the NASCAR 50th-anniversary celebration.

SQUIER HONORED: Talladega Superspeedway honored long-time CBS-TV broadcaster Ken Squier by presenting him with a replica of the trophy presented to race winners here. CBS has televised the DieHard 500 for the past 10 years.

END TIME CHRONICLES

"ARE WE LIVING IN THE LAST DAYS?"

PART TWO

In the previous article, "event prophecy" was discussed with its associated relevance to the end times. In this discussion, "circumstantial prophecy" will be examined.

Circumstantial prophecy is analogous to circumstantial evidence in a court of law. It involves the use of two or more "pieces" of evidence which provide little proof alone, but when added together, sum up to a solid conclusion.

The most commonly used scripture of circumstantial prophecy is probably Matthew 24:7-8. In this context, Jesus describes certain world conditions just prior to the "end of the age."

These include multi-national wars (possibly the "World Wars" of this century), widespread famine, and earthquakes in many places (probably insinuating a world-wide increase in earthquakes).

Most of us are aware of the wars and famines of recent history, but it is also known scientific fact that the number of earthquakes have increased "exponentially" throughout the world during this century. Many Christians accept this circumstantial prophecy as a sufficient basis for the belief that we are presently in the "beginnings of birth pains" (verse 8).

A more conclusive example of circumstantial prophecy is provided for us in Daniel 12:4. This passage reads, "...and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."

There are actually three pieces of this prophetic scripture; (1) book [of Daniel] would not be understood [sealed from understanding] until the end times; (2) mobility would increase; and (3) knowledge would increase.

Concerning the first point of Daniel's prophecy, anyone who has even briefly researched the history of prophetic Biblical interpretation knows that our current understanding of this subject literally "exploded" about the middle of this century. Remember back to the Biblical teachings of your grandparents.

Did they ever mention a pre-tribulation rapture, the restoration of national Israel, the re-building of the Jerusalem temple, the future rule of the Antichrist, the seven-year tribulation period, or the millennial reign of Christ?

While these are common subjects relating to the teachings of Daniel and Revelation today, they were almost totally shrouded in mystery only 50 years ago.

Concerning the second point, consider the mode of transportation used by Adam. It can be assumed that he either walked or rode an animal. About two millennia later, Noah essentially did the same, with the exception that he floated on an ark for six months.

About two millennia later, Jesus walked, rode an animal, or used a boat. For the most part, our great, great-grandparents walked, rode an animal, or used a boat.

In contrast, I had a friend some years back that had received his "sixth" certificate for the Million Mile Club from United Airlines (he had traveled over 6 million miles; roughly 240 times around the earth!). Need I say any more about the increase in mobility within this century?

Concerning the third point, a great increase in knowledge, it becomes hard to even comprehend the radical change which has occurred in the world within our current century. I often reflect back to a discussion I had with my great grandfather when I was only sixteen. He told me about moving to this part of the country when he was young, using a team of horses and a flat-bed wagon to haul his possessions. While he considered his life rather uneventful, he experienced the birth of consumer electricity, commercial radio, television, automobiles, airplanes, helicopters, even commercial jet airliners. When he was young, he watched in dumb-founded amazement at his first vision of the "horseless carriage." When he was old, he stared incomprehensibly at a television screen showing the first "live" broadcast from the moon. All this happened in one "uneventful" lifetime. The last time I remember seeing my great grandfather, he reminded me, "I still remember killing that bear!" Killing bears and landing on the moon; a real contrast, isn't it!

Peter and Paul Lalonde, the hosts of the popular television program, "This Week in Bible Prophecy," have recently written a very good book entitled, "2000 A.D.—Are You Ready." In their discussion of the exponential growth of human knowledge (chapter 2, pg. 23), they detail the estimates made by world scholars, the results of which are mentally staggering! According to their sources, the first doubling of the total amount of human knowledge took 4000 years to occur (from man's creation to the birth of Christ). The next doubling took 1750 years (between 1 A.D. and 1750 A.D.). The next doubling took only 150 years (from 1750 to 1900).

Human knowledge doubled again from 1900 to 1950, and again from 1950 to 1960. Finally, at present, the prominent belief is that the rate of doubling takes only about 2 years!

In 1949, John Von Neumann stated, "It would appear that we have reached the limits of what it is possible to achieve with computer technology, although one should be careful with such statements, as they tend to sound pretty silly in 5 years." Consider this statement, made about 48 years ago with the fact that microprocessors have improved more than 25,000 times within the last two decades. The transistor was invented by Bell Telephone Laboratories in 1948, heralding the birth of the electronic age (interestingly, this is the same year Israel became a nation). By 1958, we had figured out how to place 10 transistors on a single silicon wafer only 1/10" square. Today, we are placing over 16,000,000 transistors on that same square.

I believe any reasonable person has to admit that the three elements of Daniel's circumstantial prophecy (Daniel 12:4) has been fulfilled in our current generation. This is not vague conjecture, but an absolute fact; a set of circumstances which has never happened in the past!

In faith, our parents and grandparents looked forward to the coming of the Lord, having only opinions or "feelings" to back up their convictions. Today, we have solid foundational facts to apply to Biblical prophecy which indicate that we are living in the last generation. However, few are impressed. I fear that if the rapture occurred tomorrow, many would simply comment, "So what? I saw that 40 years ago on Star Trek!"

"Chronological prophecy" will be discussed next week in the final article to this series.

We appreciate your viewpoints! Send questions or comments to: SEAL FEEDBACK, P.O. Box 268, Weeksbury, KY 41667.

Theft ring suspect arrested for shoplifting

by Mark Grayson
Martin County Sun

A suspect in a series of burglaries and a crime ring busted in Lawrence County last week involving auto thefts in the Martin County area, was arrested last Wednesday after a shoplifting incident at Wal-Mart in Paintsville.

Kenny James, 20, of Coldwater, used the alias of his brother-in-law, Donovan Mullins, when he was arrested by the Paintsville City Police last Tuesday night after a short foot pursuit. Officers at the Big Sandy Detention Center recognized him from previous arrests and notified state police.

At the time of his arrest on the shoplifting charges there were five outstanding warrants from Martin County charging him with first degree burglary involving the residence of Steve Bowens of Blacklog. There was also a third degree burglary warrant charging James in connection with the break-in at Premier Video of Blacklog and a receiving stolen property warrant for using the 1984 Pontiac stolen from Johnson County.

In the two burglaries in Martin County, James was charged with theft by unlawful taking of a 1986 Camaro from S&S Motors of Blacklog, theft by unlawful taking of a 1986 Camaro belonging to Kenneth Middleton of Carter County who had been in the area working on a power line project. Middleton was staying at the Super 8 Motel at Blacklog where the vehicle was stolen.

James appeared Friday in an arraignment in Martin District Court in front of District Judge Daniel Sparks where he pleaded not guilty to the felony charges and was scheduled for a preliminary hearing to determine probable cause on the five felony charges on November 3.

Also on Friday, Kenny James was sentenced on charges of being involved in an accident and not having any insurance. He was also charged with harassing communications involving Martin County SUN publisher Mark Grayson and terroristic threatening against Kenneth Hardin of Coldwater.

James pleaded guilty on all three charges in exchange for a 23-day jail sentence arranged by Martin County Attorney Drewie Muncy's office.

Evidence has been uncovered by the Martin County Sheriff's office that may link James to a Louisa "chop shop" where state police arrested three persons last week for receiving stolen property and drug possession.

A burned out truck that was found at Crum Branch believed to belong to David Fitch — whose truck was stolen from his Coldwater home on September 22. The transmission from the truck was found at the alleged chop shop ten days ago.

Another vehicle, a 1986 Camaro belonging to Kenneth Middleton, was found at the same location at Crum Branch and parts from that vehicle were also found at the chop shop. James has been charged with the theft of the Camaro thus linking him to the chop shop operation, a Sheriff's department spokesperson said.

Pikeville holds planned disaster

Community emergency services responded to a planned disaster drill where 13 people were injured and four were arrested after fire broke out in a dormitory at Pikeville College.

Pikeville Methodist Hospital, Pikeville College, Pikeville Police Department, Pikeville Fire Department, Pike County Rescue Squad, AccuMed Ambulance and Pikeville Methodist Hospital Pediatric and Adult Transport Service all participated in the drill.

"It really went well," Pikeville Methodist Hospital Risk Manager Mary Bee Combs said. "Response time was great, traffic control at Pikeville College and at Pikeville Methodist Hospital was very well organized. Everyone worked together exceptionally well and the entire drill was very smooth."

"We decided to focus in on a fire for the community disaster drill because it is National Fire Prevention Week," Combs added. "I hope this will help draw attention to fire safety issues."

Pikeville Fire Department Fire Inspector John Cole said that there are many things that families, schools and business owners can do to be prepared in case of fires.

"Check your smoke detectors monthly to insure they are working properly," Cole said. "Practice knowing two ways out of your home or business and have a safe meeting place outside. If you have a two-story home or business, make sure you practice a safe way to get out of the second floor. Teach your kids to dial 911 in emergencies and teach them their parents full names and their address.

"Also ensure that your children know that if they are trapped in their bedroom due to a fire, they need to throw a sheet or blanket half way out of their bedroom window and wait for fire officials to arrive," Cole added. "After the sheet or blanket is secured half way out the window, you should stay in the room and stuff something under the door to keep smoke out of the room."

Cole also recommends that families whose homes have gas heat install carbon monoxide detectors in the home.

"I am very glad that Pikeville Methodist Hospital is able to not only participate, but coordinate these community disaster drills," Pikeville Methodist Hospital Administrator Martha O'Regan Chill said. "The drills are a great way to assess this community's emergency response to true disasters."

Preston sues county

by Ralph B. Davis
The Paintsville Herald

Six weeks after Johnson County began collecting its new, one-percent occupational tax, a class-action lawsuit has been filed, challenging the legality of the tax.

Paintsville attorney John D. Preston, former Paintsville mayor, has filed the suit in Johnson Circuit Court on behalf of all people paying occupational tax to both the county and the city of Paintsville, claiming a state Supreme Court ruling which allows the county's collection of tax without a credit against the city tax is unconstitutional.

State law allows counties with populations of more than 30,000 to impose an occupational tax of one percent or less, but makes no such provision for counties like

Johnson with less than 30,000 people. However, a 1988 ruling allowed counties with fewer than 30,000 people to also use the occupational tax to collect revenue.

Preston's complaint hinges on the fact that while state law allows those paying the occupational tax in counties of 30,000 or more to credit any city occupational tax against their county tax, no such provision exists in counties with fewer than 30,000 people. That, Preston argues, violates that state and federal constitutional right to equal protection under the law, as well as prohibitions against special legislation and absolute or arbitrary power.

In his suit, Preston asks that the court order the county to stop collecting the tax and for the county to refund any taxes paid by businesses or employers working in the city of Paintsville.

SVFD responds to five calls during past week

The Salyersville Volunteer Fire Department responded to three automobile related accidents and two fire alarms during the last week.

A false alarm started out the month's activity. Only minutes after midnight, October 1, the department received a call from Johnson County Emergency 911.

An anonymous call from a car phone reported a transformer fire close to the Johnson-Magoffin county line. No such fire was ever found.

An abandoned house in the Half Mountain Area of the county was completely involved when firemen arrived on the scene. The dwelling was owned by Lawrence Dawson.

The fire was reported at 11:54 a.m. last Friday morn-

Week of events topped off by groundbreaking for new station

A project that has been in the works for at least eight years finally hit home last Saturday as city and school officials broke ground at the site that will house a second fire station for Louisa.

On a piece of property near the school bus garage, a handful of officials gathered to celebrate the new building.

"I'm really glad," Louisa Fire Chief Eddie Preston said. "This was a battle years ago, and now we're finally doing it."—The Big Sandy News

Local homeowner detains intruder until officers arrive

A West Liberty man was arrested last week after being detained by a Wells Hill homeowner who, police said, caught him trying to break into his home.

Arrested and charged with attempted burglary was Kris E. Harvey, 27, of Broadway Street.

The incident occurred about 10:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 1.

Responding to a 911 report of an intruder at the home of Gayle and Libby Hammonds, the West Liberty Police Department officials said when they arrived, they found Harvey being detained at gun point by Mr. Hammond.

Mrs. Hammonds made the 911 call after hearing a "crash" on their backyard deck, while Mr. Hammond ran out the front and around the house with a handgun.

The "crash" sound was made while Harvey bumped into a bird feeder trying to force open the Hammonds' back door.

Letcher County woman beaten to death; suspect charged with murder

The Linefork area of Letcher County was the scene last Friday of the homicide of Cotha Fields, 45, who died as a result of blows sustained to her head, according to the county coroner's office.

Shortly after her body was discovered, Frank R. Fields, 42, of Partridge, was arrested and charged with murder. He is being detained in the Letcher County jail.—Troublesome Creek Times

Patton, Rogers in Knott County

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, Gov. Paul Patton, and Kentucky Secretary of Natural Resources Jim Bickford will arrive in Knott County by helicopter Monday to kick off the PRIDE region-wide cleanup initiative.

Ecology Officer Ken Fugate reports that several dignitaries, including Army Corps of Engineers representatives, will also be passengers in the helicopters, due to arrive in the Knott County Central football field at 1:20 p.m., on October 20.

ing. Later that evening, 10:05 p.m., the SVFD and the Magoffin County rescue Squad were called to the scene of a one-vehicle accident in the mouth of Mash Fork.

The automobile, driven by Jeremy Jenkins, age 17, had failed to negotiate a curve and ejected Jenkins.—The Salyersville Independent

Injuries sustained in ATV wreck fatal to Adam Salyer

A Magoffin County man died last Tuesday at the University of Kentucky Medical Center from injuries sustained in an ATV accident.

Adam Salyer, 23, was transferred to the Lexington hospital from the Jackson hospital, where he reportedly had been taken first for treatment following the accident, which occurred Sunday evening in Breathitt County.

According to unofficial reports, Salyer was a passenger on the four-wheeler when it apparently ran into a pile of rocks that appeared to have been placed to serve as a blockade for a former strip-mine road. He reportedly suffered severe brain trauma.

Thomas Conley, 31, who reportedly was driving the ATV, was also transferred to the hospital in Jackson, where he was said to have been treated for cuts, as well as injuries to his leg, back and arm, before being released.

The victim was the son of Kenneth Salyer and Faye Salyer.

The body was taken to Salyersville Funeral Home. Arrangements were incomplete at press time.—The Salyersville Independent through September of 1994, while his wife was acting as a baby-sitter for a 12-year-old girl, he engaged in unlawful sexual acts against the young girl.

The jury deliberated for three hours and ten minutes before deciding Workman was guilty. They returned to the jury room and deliberated 30 minutes on Workman's sentence. The jury recommended a maximum sentence of ten years on each count.—The Martin County Sun

Arrest made in Kermit theft case

An arrest has been made following the report two weeks ago of a stolen vehicle being retrieved by both Martin County and Kermit police.

Dottie Allen was arrested after she allegedly pawned the vehicle to a wrecker service at Wolf Creek. The vehicle was stolen from Ernest Lee of Kermit on September 20, and was later recovered at Doug Hall's Wrecker Service on Wolf Creek.

Allen was arrested on October 6.—The Martin County Sun

Plant upgrades may result in rate hikes

Estimates on revamping the city's water and sewage treatment plants increased around $800,000 after inspectors found that new storage tanks were needed and additional problems would need to be fixed.

The end result in the upgrade could be higher water and sewer rates, Louisa Mayor James L. VanHoose said.

Originally the project was estimated at $2.1 million, and the council had appointed PDR Engineers of Lexington to try and find grant money for the upgrade.—The Big Sandy News

Harvey was also charged with intoxication and was lodged in the Rowan County Jail.—Licking Valley Courier

Governor attends picnic to help honor road department employees

Gov. Paul Patton was guest of honor at the Morgan County Road Department's annual Reed/Murphy Picnic, held at noon Saturday.

Patton, who was scheduled to be in Paintsville later in the day for the Apple Festival, made other stops in area counties.

Patton was greeted warmly at the picnic by a crowd of about 150 county road department employees.

Patton told the assemblage his intention is to start four-laning the Mountain Parkway spur from Campton to Salyersville.

Patton was then presented with a quart of fresh Morgan County sorghum.—Licking Valley Courier

The group will then visit the garbage holding site on the board of education property near the school bus garage.—The Troublesome Creek Times

School board plans facility, water line

Construction of a new central office facility and establishing a water line to that site were two important topics at the Knott Board of Education's October meeting. Tax dollars were spent on a wide range of other requests this month as well.

The board agreed in a unanimous vote to give $55,000 toward running a water line on Rt. 160/Hwy. 80 connector. Attorney Ron Combs told the board that the State Department of Education had given the project their okay. The approval is subject to the city obtaining all other funding, and to a suitable contract being developed between the city and the board of education. The water line will provide service to the board's school bus garage and the new board of education offices planned for the site, as well as open the possibility for other development along the connector.—The Troublesome Creek Times

State workers have one week to choose insurance carrier

State employees enrolled in Kentucky's health-care program — including some 2,000 Pike Countyans — have until Friday to decide which one of the four programs they wish to subscribe to.

However, in a meeting last week some county employees said they were upset because only one of the carriers, Blue Cross and Blue Shield, no longer has a contract with Pikeville Methodist Hospital, and rates with other available insurance carriers are significantly higher this year.

The only two carriers that have a contract with PMH are Kentucky Kare and Bluegrass Family Health, and some employees say their premiums are almost double what they paid last year.—Appalachian News Express

Builder says shooting range is for shotguns only

The building of an indoor shooting range, which borders a trailer park and faces U.S. 119, has some Zebulon residents concerned about the safety of the range.

Ricky Thacker, who owns a lawnmower business directly across the road from the range, said he is concerned about the range because "it's pointed directly at

Trimble returns to council

The face of the Paintsville City Council has changed with the resignation of one council member and the appointment of another.

Paul David Brown, who recently moved out of city limits, resigned his position on the council.

In his place, Mayor Robin Cooper appointed former councilman David Trimble. The appointment was ratified by council unanimously.

Trimble was first elected in the council in 1991 and again in 1993. Last year, he was narrowly cut out of the top six vote-getters in council elections.—The Paintsville Herald

Dip in enrollment worries city schools

As many area businesses and industries speculate that the soon-to-be federal prison will bring dollar signs and new residents to the Big Sandy, the Paintsville City School Board is hoping that the prison will boost the school's declining population.

"We're still losing students in the school system," said Superintendent Paul Williams.

Comparatively, Paintsville independent ranks 14 on a me." "It doesn't look too safe to me," Thacker said of the structure's block facade. "If they say it's safe, that's all right with me, but I hope I don't get shot."

Jim Lawson, who is overseeing the building of the range for American Legion Post 83 at Zebulon, said the range will be used for shotguns and archery only and will be checked for safety before it opens.

"This is mainly being built to teach gun safety for hunters," Lawson said. "So it will be shotgun only and a couple of nights a week we'll allow for archery."—Appalachian News Express

Mouthcard man jailed for DUI after nearly hitting trooper

A drunk driving Mouthcard man was jailed Friday after he nearly hit a state trooper who was arresting another drunk driver, authorities said.

Ronald Ratliff, 31, was arrested by Pikeville Police Officer Kevin Belcher for DUI, no operator's license, second degree wanton endangerment (police officer) and failure to wear a seat belt.

According to the citation, Belcher was assisting another KSP trooper, James O'Bannon, who was arresting a drunk driver on U.S. 23 when Ratliff drove by, almost on the shoulder of the road, and missed O'Bannon by inches.—Appalachian News-Express list of 17 independent schools regionally. "We're down near close to the bottom compared to other independent schools," said Williams.

The superintendent said that a loss in student enrollment means a loss of money for the school system and inevitably, "it will be nearly impossible to maintain the present staff," said Williams.

City schools are not alone in their drop in enrollment in the last two years, however. The county school system has witnessed a decrease of about 180 students.

Whether the prison sparks a population boom to the area "remains to be seen," said Williams.—The Paintsville Herald

Meade, Pennington report to prison

Robert Meade, former Johnson County Judge-Executive, and Johnny Pennington began their jail terms in the Federal Correctional Institution at Ashland Wednesday.

Meade was sentenced to two years and Pennington, one year and a day on charges of government corruption. Meade pleaded guilty to extorting $15,705 from two road contractors. Pennington plead guilty to helping sell dump trucks at inflated prices to the county.

A Look At Sports

Baseball approves realignment; recruiting news

Well, they went and did it, and I don't know why I am so disappointed with Major League Baseball — as I have been for the past three seasons.

The boys, who still need a commissioner, voted to realign the leagues next season and major league baseball as we know it is no more.

I could care less if they play another season or not. I mean, this comes from a person who once made many trips to Cincinnati to take in a Reds game.

Maybe it is just me!

OTHER MORE IMPORTANT ITEMS:

- The newly built go-kart track is going big time. The crowds have been so big that the City of Allen donated a strip of land for more parking at the site located in Dwale. So extra parking is available at the new track.

Thirty-six karts showed for racing this past Saturday in seven classes. More and more are building their own karts and taking them to the track.

The races go each Saturday and begin at 2 p.m.

- UK basketball Wildcats landed a big man in Souleymane Camara (there is a name for you) and boy, what credentials he brings to Lexington. He averaged (ready for this) 10 points per game, eight rebounds and three blocked shots. Wow! Yet he is considered one of the top 30 recruits in America.

UK fans will be able to catch the 6-11, 205 pound forward when Oak Hill Academy comes to Hazard February 10.

Camara committed to UK on October 6, just shortly after he paid a visit to Virginia. He becomes the first recruit for new coach Tubby Smith. Maybe this should have been the one that got away.

Camara makes three who have committed to UK, joining J.P. Blevins and Jaron Brown.

- Much sought after Tayshaun Prince (where do they get these names?) has narrowed his choice

Combs' "never-quit" attitude paying off for MSU

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

It is refreshing in this day and time to hear some very positive comments about one of our former athletes that has come out of Floyd County and moved on to the next level of play.

Former Betsy Layne standout Bubba Combs is one of those student/athletes that has made a mark in his three-year tenure at Morehead State University. He is captain of the Morehead State team.

No, Combs did not play for one of the great football tradition schools while in high school. He did not play for a large school, but he used his talent while playing for the Betsy Layne Bobcats and coach John Derossett, now head coach at Prestonsburg High School.

Recently, Combs was named the game's Most Valuable Defensive Player when the Eagles stunned Valapraiso (Ind.) three weeks ago. Combs had 12 "pancake" tackles that led to winning the award.

"It was only a few years (four) ago that Bubba was pancaking every high school opponent while at Betsy Layne," said Coach Derossett, in remembering Combs playing days for the Bobcats.

Morehead is currently 3-2 on the season with victories over Austin Peay, Wofford, and Valapraiso. They suffered setbacks to 1AA ranked teams, Dayton and Central Florida.

The Eagles are ranked in the top-five in all the offensive stats with over 500 yards per game on offense. They are averaging 40 points per outing.

Combs, 6-4, 285, was graded with a 85 percent in the Valapraiso game.

"Bubba came to Morehead State when it didn't look so good," said Eagle coach Matt Ballard. "Now he is reaping the rewards for his hard work and commitment."

Recently Coach Derossett attended the Wofford game as the Eagles upset the Bulldogs in the final seconds on a drive that covered 80 yards with only 1:26 left to play.

"The (Green Bay) Packers and (Baltimore) Ravens had pro scouts at the game looking at the Wofford center, who is an All-American," said Derossett. "By the end of the game, they were probably looking at Bubba. He played a flawless game and dominated an All-Conference nose guard all day long."

Coach Derossett said that Combs was an example of what commitment and a "never-quit" attitude will get you.

"I think if he keeps it up, he will have a shot at the NFL or CFL but more importantly, he is getting a degree," said Coach Derossett.

Bobcats look for their first district win

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Coach Ted George and his Betsy Layne Bobcats take to the road this Friday, traveling to Shelby Valley, and it will be a first for one of the two teams. Shelby Valley (0-7) is still looking for their first win of the season, while Betsy Layne (2-5) is wanting that first district victory. A Wildcat win gives them victory number one while a Betsy Layne win gives the Bobcats a first win in the district.

The Wildcats fell 24-8 to Whitesburg last Friday while Betsy Layne was dropping a 48-8 game to Leslie County.

Shelby Valley will be led by sophomore Dusty Hall who has rushed for 404 yards on 85 carries this season. He has scored four touchdowns. Also in the backfield for Shelby Valley is fullback Sterlin Isaac (6-2, 195). Isaac has amassed 359 yards on 71 carries and scored six touchdowns.

Rusty Newsome (5-10, 180) is a sophomore and quarterback the Wildcats. He has completed 26 of 63 passes for 325 yards and thrown for one touchdown. He has been intercepted seven times.

Shelby Valley is currently riding a 12-game losing streak that dates back to last season, when they defeated Magoffin County 27-26 in a homecoming game.

Against Whitesburg last week, the Wildcats totaled 65 yards on offense. Fifty-six of those came on the ground.

Betsy Layne has dropped four straight and last won at Morgan County on September 12.

Billy Mitchell leads the ground attack for the Bobcats rushing for 787 yards on the season. Tyler Puckett will quarterback the Cats.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. with the game delayed on WPRG, Channel 5.

Playoff bound?

The South Floyd Raiders are hoping for a playoff spot in the state playoffs but first must win the remaining two district games to make it. Tonight the Raiders visit Allen Central in district play for the Red, White, and Blue Bowl game. (photo by Ed Taylor)

South Floyd and Prestonsburg appear to be headed to playoffs

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Anything can happen, but it probably won't as the Breathitt County Bobcats are on cue to win their third consecutive district championship as teams begin to jockey for a spot in the state playoffs in November.

Breathitt County is a spotless 7-0 on the season and 4-0 against district foes. The Bobcats would just about have to collapse to lose it now.

Coach Mike Holcomb's ballclub have two district games remaining against Whitesburg and Betsy Layne. Now anything can happen, but don't look for it. The Bobcats will go 6-0 in district play.

Prestonsburg should finish strong but must get past Leslie County tonight. A win for the Blackcats would put them in second place with only a district game remaining against Shelby Valley, who is winless all season. Yes, anything can happen, but don't look for it here either. Prestonsburg will finish 5-1 in the district and host a first round playoff game.

Breathitt County, Prestonsburg, Leslie County and Cawood appear to be the four teams that will come out of District

2 headed into November. I sure hope the weather is warm.

Coach Donnie Daniels' South Floyd Raiders will have a tougher time getting into November's scheduled playoffs. The Raiders are 3-2 in the district while holding a 4-3 overall record.

Learning from experience is the key here. After the Fleming-Neon game, where they blew a 18-point lead, the Raiders need to play like there is no tomorrow against Allen Central, tonight, and Elkhorn City in closing out the season.

(See Playoff, page four)

Prestonsburg will host third place Leslie County Eagles

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The high school football season enters week eight, and some big games are on tap for tonight and one of those will happen at the Prestonsburg Stadium, where coach John Derossett's Blackcats (3-1) will host always tough Leslie County (2-1) in what could be the biggest district match up in the county.

Leslie County is 4-3 overall while Prestonsburg sports a fine 5-2 record through the first seven games. The Eagles are coming off a 48-8 pounding of Betsy Layne from last week. Prestonsburg won big at Morgan County, 48-3.

Leslie County likes to throw the football and that is evident with sophomore quarterback Floyd Whitaker (6-2, 180) ranked among the state's best in passing stats.

Whitaker has attempted 160 passes completing 76, good for fourth in the state. He is averaging 201 yards per game, and has passed for 10 touchdowns. However, he has been intercepted 10 times and against Prestonsburg secondary, that could prove to be a problem.

All quarterbacks have their favorite targets, and Whitaker is no exception. His would be found in wide receiver Vernon Morgan (5-10, 165), who ranks third in the state in receptions. Morgan has played only five games, but has caught 30 passes for 600 yards. He has scored seven of the ten touchdowns that Whitaker has passed him. He is averaging 20 yards per catch and 120 yards per game.

But the Eagles have also a strong running game, even though they are a passing team. Senior fullback Jeff Johnson (6-1, 225) will be behind Whitaker. Junior Jeremy Napier will be at one half back slot.

The Eagles will line up in a 5-3 defense led by senior Joel Brashear (6-6, 255). Johnson will play at a linebacker on the defensive side of the football while Whitaker will be a cornerback.

Prestonsburg's only losses have come to two powerhouses in Hazard and Breathitt County. The Blackcats have their own representative in the state stats. John Ortega is among the top ten in scoring with 17 TD's through seven games. He has scored 126 points and is averaging just under 18 points per game.

The Prestonsburg defense has come of age since the season began, but it was something that Coach Derossett predicted would happen. The line is led by a combination of solid players. Mark Branham, Adam Bailey, Bill Willis, Brian Thompson, and B.J. Caudill leads the defensive side on the line. Nathan Leslie has been one of the pleasant surprises for Prestonsburg this season at a defensive end slot. Ortega, Hank Mullins and Grant Castle play in the secondary.

Castle has been running the football more lately with Ryan Ortega still nursing a sore ankle. But the fleet-footed Ortega looked to be back to 100 percent against Morgan County, scoring three touchdowns.

Castle is quick and gives quarterback Adam Hall still another target in the flats.

Pikeville College holds Midnight Madness tonight

One of the most heralded freshmen classes in recent memory will be unveiled Friday night at Pikeville College Gymnasium, as the school holds its annual Midnight Madness.

Coach Roy Cutright's newcomers include Josh McKenzie, a first-team all-state selection who helped Paintsville to three straight Sweet 16 appearances, including two semifinal berths and the 1996 state championship, and Doug Powers, who had 1,850 points and 1,100 rebounds, in a brilliant career at Pikeville High School.

"We have a lot of new players this season to mix in with the several who are returning," Cutright said. "We're very excited about the mix we have right now."

Along with the freshmen, Cutright has a couple of more experienced newcomers in Heston Beverly and Neil Hood.

Beverly, a senior, has transferred from Morehead State, where he played for the Eagles the last two seasons. As a senior in high school, he led Dilce Combs to the All "A" Classic state title. Hood, a 6-9 senior from Londonderry, N.H., has played at both Odessa (Tex.) Junior College and Duquesne University.

The new-look Lady Bears will also be revealed Friday night, as Bill Watson makes his debut at the helm. Watson's team includes a list of talented returnees, including senior Misty Haynes and juniors Rosemary Gilliam and Claudette Gillispie, as well as newcomers such as Jamie Heflin, Jaime Steele and Michal Cheney.

"There was a good foundation already in place here, with four starters returning," said Watson. "The new players will fit in really well with what we're trying to do."

The festivities will begin at 9 p.m. with a cookout, which will be held in the tennis courts of the college, located beside the gym. At 10 p.m., activities will move inside, where the junior varsity team will be introduced. They will be followed onto the court by the Lady Bears. The men's varsity will follow to conclude the evening.

Blackcats

Neil Hamilton has been impressive the last three weeks. He made a super catch against Morgan County last week and he, along with Brooks Stumbo, give the Blackcats a solid threat deep.

He may not look like a running back, but Willis has filled the full-back position rather nicely and has picked up some valuable yards for Prestonsburg. Willis, filling in for the injured Jeremy Caudill, alternates with senior Dennis Lafferty at fullback. He scored a touchdown and rushed for 50-plus yards last Friday.

A Prestonsburg victory, and the Cats are sitting well for a second place finish. A loss, and the Eagles become more than just a third place team.

The game will be aired live over radio station WQHY-FM and can be seen Saturday morning at 9 a.m. over CableVision on a delay basis.

USFWS gets new director

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) has a new director. The United States Senate confirmed Jamie Rappaport Clark as director on July 31 of this year.

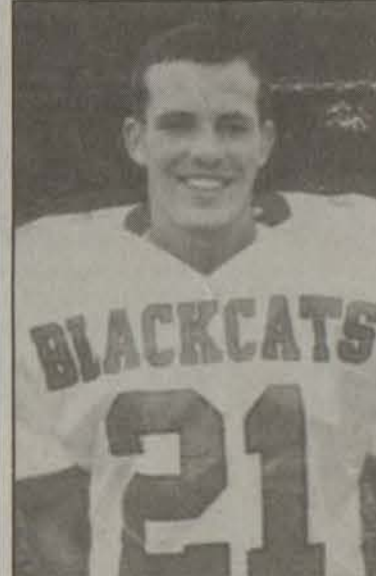

Clark is a career civil servant and has been an employee of the USFWS for eight years. Clark has served as the service's Assistant Director for Ecological Services since 1994. During this time, she has been responsible for implementation of the Endangered Species Act nationwide, and has overseen habitat restoration programs, wetlands protection, contaminants damage restoration programs and other service initiatives involving environmental protection.

As director, Clark pledged to increase the Service's role in cooperative approaches to fish and wildlife conservation. "The Service needs to communicate the fundamental message that the fate of wildlife and humans alike is linked to the well-being of the environment around us," Clark says.

The USFWS is the principle federal agency responsible for conserving, protecting and enhancing fish and wildlife and their habitats. The Service oversees the federal excise taxes on angling and hunting equipment to state fish and wildlife agencies for fish and wildlife restoration programs.

down to UCLA and Kentucky. Several recruiting services predict he will sign with UCLA in November. Word is that Tayshaun will be in Lexington for Midnight Madness Saturday.

• Other UK visits could come from Quentin Richardson and Ruben Douglas. Both stand 6-5. Also scheduled to visit UK is 6-5 Joey Range.

• Rick Pitino returned to Rupp Arena Wednesday night but his Celtics look as pathetic as last year. I wonder if this franchise will turn around before his long, long contract runs its course. This is not like rebuilding a college team.

• Ed's top five regional basketball teams: Men: Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Shelby Valley, Belfry and Magoffin County.

Women: Belfry, Pike Central, Sheldon Clark, Shelby Valley, Allen Central.

• Could it be split-sessions again this year when the boy's 15th Region basketball tournament is held at Elkhorn City this year. I see no way around it.

Why not hold the classic at a school that will hold the crowds? I think Shelby Valley is a great place for a regional tournament. Prestonsburg is a fine location, but lacks parking. Allen Central can hold large crowds, but there again, parking is a problem.

• Another question! Why don't we rotate the Class A Regional like we do the big one?

• For you boaters: The boat dock at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park is currently closed for renovation. There will be no utilities available during this time.

Also closed is the launching ramp, effective November 1.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Playoffs

That could very well determine the fate of either ballclub's playoff hopes. Elkhorn must still play Hazard, the frontrunner. They also have district game against Phelps.

Don't look now, but the Pikeville Panthers are making a move and they look like a team that is ready to play. The Panthers have to face Fleming-Neon and Allen Central in their final two district encounters.

Pikeville should finish 4-2 in the district, putting added pressure on both South Floyd and Elkhorn City in the final regular season game. If the Raiders win at Allen Central tonight, and lose to Elkhorn City, then they would finish 4-3 in district play. If the Cougars fall to Hazard and then to South Floyd, they would finish 4-3 in the district, assuming they can beat Phelps.

In reality, there are five teams that will battle down the wire for a playoff berth and only four can go. Look for Hazard to be the top district team, Pikeville will finish second, while third will go to either Elkhorn City or South Floyd. That will make the four playoff teams for District 2. Phelps has to face Hazard in their final game of the season. Things could happen, but don't look for it.

In the case of a tie, South Floyd has a victory over Phelps and Pikeville, while losing to Fleming-Neon.

South Floyd Raiders not taking Allen Central lightly

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Their records are far from the same, but when the whistle blows for the start of the South Floyd at Allen Central game tonight, you can bet both teams will go hard at each other until the final horn.

South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels says his ballclub is banged up, putting them with Allen Central, who has some walking wounded as well.

"Right now, Nick (Compton) is doubtful for the game," he said. "Joe (Caudill) is definitely out for the game but hopefully he will be back for the Elkhorn City game."

Allen Central is 0-7 on the year while the Raiders are hoping to stay in the thick of the playoff picture. Coach Daniels said you have to play the game until the final tick.

"This is a county game. We should be ready to play just for the pure fact it is a county game," he said. "It's the Red, White and Blue Bowl. We played in the Big Sandy Bowl at the first of the year and came up short there. So, this gives the kids another chance to play in another bowl. I'm looking forward to it."

You can bet that Coach Daniels is not taking anyone lightly at this stage of the season.

"You can't take no one lightly right now," he said. "That's when the miracles happen. I've watched 'Hoosiers' too many times. Anything can happen. We need to go out and play hard no matter what the score is."

COACH DANIELS' SCOUTING REPORT

Allen Central's kids play hard. They try their best. That is one of the things I like about this team," said the South Floyd coach. "At least they go hard and play as hard as they can. They know what they can do and what they can't do."

"You can't take no one lightly right now," he said. "That's when the miracles happen. I've watched 'Hoosiers' too many times. Anything can happen. We need to go out and play hard no matter what the score is."

How do you get your team ready to play against a team that hasn't won a game yet?

"You get beat by Hazard 60-8," said the South Floyd mentor. "You come back next week and get to work. We're not the healthiest team in the world right now. We can't take anything for granted right now. You have to play the game regardless of what the other team's record is, what time of year it is. It still has to be played. Forty-eight minutes of it. I preached it all year to them, no matter who they play they have to play until the last zero is on the clock."

Coach Daniels and his team is reminded of the 18-point lead that they lost to Fleming-Neon in a big district game. The Raiders allowed the Pirates to come back and take the victory home.

"We've preached turnover ratio this year," he said. "If we can get turnover ratio down we seem to play good football. Against Hazard last week, we had a terrible turnover ratio. It eat us up. We had nine turnovers and lost six of them. We have to control the football. We have to make sure when we have scoring opportunities, we score."

Defensive specialist, Joe Caudill, is out for the next two games, but could see some playing time against Louisville Beth Haven next weekend. But the South Floyd coach said the healing process for

WANTED: Quarterback, Apply at Allen Central

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

The high school football season is winding down with three weeks remaining on the regular season schedule, but that doesn't mean the Allen Central Rebels are just going through the motions in the final three weeks.

First-year coach Wes Halbert is still pushing his team, although the numbers are still down, to use the final three weeks to keep learning.

"In these last three weeks we are going to continue to go out and work on our offense and work on our defense," he said. "It is a building year for us and I know everyone says that. We just want to learn the offense the defense."

Coach Halbert's Allen Central Rebels will host the South Floyd Raiders tonight in the annual Red, White and Blue Bowl, as well as celebrate homecoming. Coming to the Don Daniels Athletic Complex will be the state's second leading scorer in Ketrin Mays. Mays has been averaging just over three touchdowns per game.

But what may be needed for this game is a M.A.S.H. unit close by with all the injuries both teams are experiencing. Raider quarterback Nick Compton is doubtful for the game after suffering an ankle injury against Hazard last week. That means freshman quarterback Charlie Williams will be under center if Compton is not able to go.

"We have some injuries and we do have some that are sick right now," said Coach Halbert. "We're just looking forward to playing."

Missing for the Rebels could be Jim Branham, David Twiss and definitely freshman quarterback Brandon Sizemore.

"I don't think Jim will be back by then," said the Allen Central coach. "David, we don't know about. We're just not real sure who we will have and who we won't have. We will have to wait until Friday night to find out."

COACH HALBERT'S SCOUTING REPORT

"Ketrin Mays. Those are the first words that is going to come to anyone's mouth when you mention South Floyd," he said. "He is someone who is extremely fast and someone you have to stop. He can catch the football and run the football. He is someone you have to key on and have to stop."

With Compton doubtful, the Allen Central coach said they still have a capable back up, something his team needs desperately.

"I have heard their starting quarterback is out but from what I have seen, their second string quarterback is just as good as Compton," said Halbert. "We really have to put pressure on him. If they throw the football, we will need to have somebody in his face at all times. Our secondary has to really pick up for us."

While South Floyd's defense has been suspect, giving up a lot of points this season, Coach Halbert hopes to exploit that.

"That is what we are going have to do," he said. "Run the football since we do not have a quarterback who really has a great arm. We have some good size on the line and some boys who know what they are doing. Friday will show whether they can come to the top or not."

Allen Central has been searching for someone to step behind center and quarterback the ballclub, with regular quarterback Jesse Hall hurt and Sizemore out for the season due to surgery Monday. Jonathan Ellis is the likely choice, and he is a freshman.

KEY TO A WIN

"First we have to stop their offense. We have to play defense. Obviously that is something we haven't had a lot of luck with this year," said the Allen Central mentor. "The boys need to really start wrapping up and tackling. Against Phelps, we would hit a player two or three times but never got his team will continue over the next two weeks until October 27.

"Our goal is to get everybody back on Monday of the Elkhorn City week," said Coach Daniels. "Joe could be back by the Beth Haven game."

Coach Daniels said it is situations such as this that makes coaches bald headed, have high blood pressure and heart attacks.

"It's the curse of a Class A school," he said. "when you have a limited number of players."

The Raider coach is on a wait-and-see basis as to who will play in the game against Allen Central.

"We don't know what we are going to do right now," said Daniels. "We could go out there and on the next play something happen to Ketrin. We just have to wait till game time to see who we have."

The Rebel defense will be looking at Mays in hopes of stopping the fleet-footed running back. He is second in the state in scoring with just over three touchdowns per game.

Charlie Williams could be at quarterback for the Raiders tonight. Coach Daniels said earlier in the year that he would hesitate to use Williams in situations such as this, showing confidence in the frosh signal-caller.

him down."

Coach Halbert feels his defense will work if his team can just learn to tackle.

In the backfield for the Rebels will be Rodney Bentley, who had to sit out last week's game at Phelps. Jesse Hall will be at a halfback slot with Mark Howard and Mark Dunfee switching at the other half back position.

"Really Dufee is questionable for the game," said Halbert. "We don't know if he is going to be able to go."

Coach Halbert said Shannon Mynier was running about 90 percent as is Eric Combs, who was hurt against Phelps Friday night.

"They are doing better but they still have an injury that nags them a little bit."

Game kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m. The game will be called live over WXLN, 104.9. It can be seen on a tape delay basis over WPRG, Channel 5, around 10 p.m.

"It's a chance to get your name in the paper by beating somebody with a streak like that," he said. "It's a chance for us to go 4-0 in our district. It's a chance to be in the cat-bird seat to have that first playoff game at home against the number four on the other side."

KEYS FOR A WIN:

"No turnovers. Flat out none," said Coach Derossett. "We can't turn the ball over. Just like last year, we controlled the ball and I thought we played a perfect first half. We controlled the ball. We controlled the time of possession. You just can't give Breathitt County the football on a short field."

The Prestonsburg coach said he wished that he could kick the football into the end zone but, "we just don't have that capability yet."

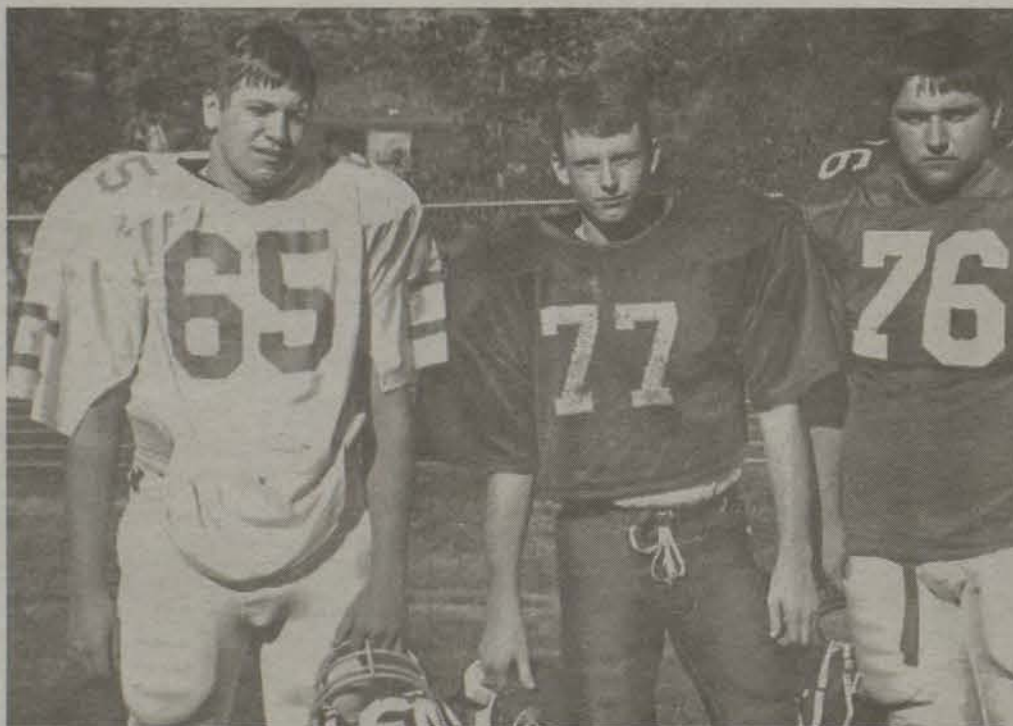

"But if you control the football against them and play sound defense, you have a chance. You're not going to shut them out. You have to make them drive the football and earn it."

Assistant coach Jackie Day Crisp thinks the district title is on the line in this one.

"To be honest with you, yes I think it will be for the district championship," he said. "I know we have some district games, but we're playing the state champs."

Crisp said the Prestonsburg specialty teams have been working hard. "We've only given up one run back this year, and that came in the first game and that hurt us," he said. "If your specialty teams don't perform like they should, it could cause you some problems."

"It's going to be a big game," said Coach Derossett. "We've talked with our defensive team, and I'm not so sure you won't see us play Breathitt County twice this year."

Blue Grass Family Health is primarily a managed care plan. Kentucky Kare is still the only plan that gives you full freedom of choice.
