Just in time for Christmas?

by Susan Allen

State board hopes to fill all three board vacancies before the holiday. Search is reopened in District Four.

State education officials are hoping to give Floyd Countians an important Christmas present—three new members for the board of education.

Lisa Gross, spokesperson for the Department of Education, said Tuesday that officials are hoping to have a full board in place by Christmas.

There are three vacancies on the board and interviews were held Monday for applicants seeking to fill the seat in District One.

Originally, 12 people applied for the seat on the board, but that number dropped to eight.

State officials have said they hope to have someone appointed to the post in time for the board's December 15 regular meeting.

Those interviewed Monday were Jimmy DeRossett, Bryan Grizzell, James Stewart, Rose Marie Johnson, Johnnie Ross, Rocky Rowe, Dallas Sammons and William Walker.

Applicants Ned Pillersdorf, Gary Frazier, Debra Hall and Turner Campbell withdrew their names from consideration. The vacancy occurred when board member Ursal Ray Wilcox resigned in October.

The Kentucky Board of Education is acting as the Floyd County board because there are only two remaining members, chairman Jody Mullins and B.J. Newsome. There has to be at least three board members in order for the board to conduct business.

The interviews were conducted at the district's central office by William Birdwell, coordinator for the school board selection committee for the state; Bill Redwine, executive vice president of Morehead State University Alumni Association; and Bob Hutchinson, a Johnson County School Board member.

There are two remaining board vacancies in District Four and District Two. District Two board member Ray Brackett resigned in September and District Four board member Eddie Patton resigned last month.

Only two persons applied for the District Two seat: Lorena "Sis" Hall, a former principal and teacher, and Barry Spurlock, an insurance agent.

One applicant, Glenda Hall, applied for District Four seat, according to Gross. Hall ran against Patton in the November 1996 general election.

Gross said the application process will be reopened in District Four and state officials hope to hold interviews for both vacancies on December 16.

FBI has no role in probe of murder

by Susan Allen

Federal officials are not investigating circumstances surrounding the November shooting death of Billie Jo Mitchell of Ivel.

A Floyd County Grand Jury recommended on November 6 that the FBI conduct an investigation into the way the case was handled by local authorities.

Pat Bashore, spokesman for the FBI in Louisville, said Tuesday that there has been no evidence that any federal laws were broken.

"There was nothing sent to us to indicate there were any federal violations of law and therefore we are not allowed to conduct an investigation," Bashore said.

Bashore said normally federal officials do not discuss whether an investigation is ongoing, but a statement was issued on this matter due to the nature and high public interest in the case.

A letter concerning the matter has been sent from the FBI to Floyd Commonwealth Attorney John Earl Hunt. Hunt could not be reached Tuesday afternoon to comment on the FBI's letter or how he would proceed with the grand jury's request.

Mitchell was shot five times in her kitchen and her estranged husband, Andy Mitchell, has been charged with her murder.

Andy Mitchell, who was shot once in the chest on the same day, denies killing his wife and said he was shot by someone he did not see while standing on his wife's front

Church burglarized

Some of the items stolen from the Little Nancy Old Regular Baptist Church over the weekend were recovered Tuesday from behind the church by Floyd detective Jim Rederick and church member Chuck Hall. Other stolen items have not been located, but authorities are following up on leads which implicate a "very strong suspect," Rederick said. Story inside.

Woman suffers bumps and bruises; alleged purse-snatcher goes to jail

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

An Ohio man was jailed last week on two felony charges after he allegedly dragged a Mountain Comprehensive Care Center employee across a parking lot while trying to steal the woman's purse.

Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin said this type of behavior will not be tolerated and precautions have been taken to deter any further criminal acts.

Jason P. Adams was arrested last Wednesday and charged with strong-arm robbery, theft by unlawful taking, and fourth degree assault as a result of the purse-snatching incident.

"We started back several months ago working on thefts," Mayor Fannin said Tuesday, "and that's something we're not going to tolerate."

Fannin said there is always an increase in crime during the holidays and extra officers have been put on patrol to "keep a watch on everything."

According to Prestonsburg Sgt. Anthony Castle, two 16-year-old accomplices were with Adams when the incident occurred. Although he would not identify the juveniles, the sergeant said they would be charged with complicity to commit theft by unlawful taking.

The sergeant said the incident occurred around 4:40 p.m. last Tuesday at the Mountain Comprehensive Care parking lot when an employee attempted to leave the facility.

The employee, Kim Tussey, told authorities that three subjects had approached her and one of the men grabbed her purse and pulled her about 50 feet across the parking lot when she refused to let go of it.

Tussey suffered minor injuries to her arm and body while trying to prevent the theft.

Sgt. Castle said Tussey identified one of the juveniles by looking through school annuals, and Adams was later identified as the older thief.

Patrolman Mike Conn assisted Castle with Adams' arrest.

"No matter what it takes, we're going to catch these people," Mayor Fannin said about taking a more aggressive approach to apprehending criminals. "We not just going to overlook something like that."

Police searching for ripoff artists

by Susan Allen

A Banner couple's home was burglarized November 25 by a couple posing as rug salesmen.

Cecil Crum, 69, and his wife reported that a man and woman entered their home last Tuesday, pretending to be interested in selling them a rug, according to sheriff's detective Homer Neeley.

The woman asked the couple for a drink of water and when Crum and his wife went into the kitchen to get it, the male accomplice apparently removed a strong box from their home, Neeley said.

About an hour after the pair left Crum's residence driving an older model four-door red vehicle, Crum and his wife noticed their strong box missing, the detective said.

The box contained 10 double eagle silver dollars dated 1923; four Indian head quarters; approximately $500 in cash; and various important documents, Neeley said.

The Crum's also found that a lock had been twisted off a small jewelry box.

"It's important for people to know that this kind of scam is going on in the county and they need to be aware of it," Neeley said.

The incident is under investigation by Neeley and anyone with information is asked to contact the detective at 886-6711.

Martin mayor to work full-time during search for new city clerk

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Martin Mayor Alan Whicker will devote all his time to that city's business if he can get a leave of absence from his job.

At a special city council meeting Monday, Whicker asked council to raise his pay so he can tend to the city's affairs temporarily on a full-time basis.

Citing the absence of a city clerk and mounting problems with state environmental protection officials, the mayor said it was necessary for him to be in the office daily.

Last week, long-time city clerk Johnnie B. Stephens unexpectedly announced her resignation during a council meeting and Friday was her last day on the job. The clerk also served as the city's flood plain administrator and alcoholic beverage commissioner.

Whicker said his current pay as mayor is $500 a month and he would need at least $1,800 monthly in order to take the job. The mayor also said that he would need insurance benefits because his would cease if he takes a leave of absence from his job at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

Some council members wanted to know if the city could afford to pay the mayor such a salary.

Whicker said his pay could come from the city's water department which "is doing well" at the present time.

Mary Ann Conn, who acted as clerk Monday and who works in the water department, said she was concerned the move would deplete the department's reserves.

"We only keep about $10,000 in the account," Conn said.

Whicker said he would only work full-time for "two or three months" until a clerk is employed and the state EPA problems are addressed.

Councilwoman Thomasine Robinson said she was concerned about the financial impact of the move, saying the salary plus benefits would cost the city over $2,000 a month.

Councilman Everett Akers Jr. said it was important to have someone knowledgeable about the city's business in the office now.

"Somebody's gonna have to run the show," Akers said.

City attorney Tim Parker said he thought it was a good idea for the mayor to be on the job day in and day out.

"It may actually benefit the city financially," Parker said. He added that Whicker would now have time to apply for various grant funds for the city.

Councilman Eugene Hutchinson wanted to know if council could legally pay the mayor to work full-time.

"We cannot raise the salaries for the present administration," Hutchinson said. "We can only do that for the next administration."

Symposium at PCC will focus on death with dignity

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

When he was admitted to a local hospital, the elderly patient had just suffered a major stroke and was not expected to live. Yet, family members insisted that physicians use every procedure available to prolong the man's life. A hole had to be cut in the man's throat to insert a trachea tube so a machine could breathe for him. A hole had to be cut in his stomach so a feeding tube could be inserted. The patient died about two weeks later.

"He did not die in peace," Dr. Raghu Sundaram, president of the Floyd County Medical Society, said this week.

Dr. Sundaram asks: "Is life worth prolonging beyond the Lord's will?"

Dr. Sundaram and other medical experts will address that question during a program at Prestonsburg Community College to educate the public about procedures used to prolong life that can impact the quality of life.

Dr. David Nash, chairman of the Ethics Committee at the University of Kentucky Medical Center will explain how that treatment affects patients when he speaks on the topic, "Setting Limits on Medical Treatment — Futile Care."

Vickie Cook, a system analyst with Hospice of Big Sandy, will discuss the caregiver's role. Mrs. Cook will speak on the "Role of Hospice in the Community."

The program is sponsored by Hospice of Big Sandy, the Floyd County Medical Society, and local churches. It begins at 6 p.m., December 9, in the Pike Student Center auditorium at Prestonsburg Community College. It is open to the public, and admittance is free.

Senior centers to conduct first annual conference

The first annual Floyd County Senior Citizens Center conference will be held today, December 3, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg.

Opening remarks and a welcome will be made by Floyd County Judge-Executive Ben Hale. Other state officials, as well as mayors from the local townships have also been invited to attend.

Representatives from the senior centers of Betsy Layne, McDowell, Prestonsburg, Wayland, Martin area, Mud Creek and Wheelwright are going to be giving a five-to-ten minute presentation of the events they have planned in the future, reports on food and other services which are available for the homebound, and other concerns regarding their centers.

County asks for delay of RND sale

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County officials have asked that the forced sale of the RND building and property at Warco be postponed in an effort to attract more potential bidders.

Floyd County Attorney Keith Bartley said he has filed a motion asking the court to delay the sale until the county can do an advertising blitz outside the state.

In October, First Commonwealth Bank, which has a lien on the property, sued RND, the county, the Floyd County Development Authority and other governmental agencies to force the sale of the property. The court ordered that the property be sold and a sale is set for December 11.

Bartley wants the extension to have time to lure more bidders to the sale.

"We hope to attract more potential buyers for the property," Bartley said. "And we want to contact anyone who has ever expressed an interest in the property."

Under the law, the sale must only be advertised in the newspaper with the largest circulation in the county.

First Commonwealth president, Burl Spurlock, who is a member of the Development Authority, was not the authority chairman when the RND deal was put together as previously reported. Spurlock was an authority member.

At first, Spurlock said he may oppose the county's request for an extension of time.

"They've had a year to do this," Spurlock said. "They've not done anything. They've let it go through the natural process for foreclosure. It's odd they wait until the eleventh hour."

Bartley said he wants to garner more interest in the sale because the county is responsible for a $225,000 loan from First Commonwealth Bank for the failed business venture.

Spurlock said that the bank was losing revenue because the RND building is not being used. When reminded that the court order for the sale said that the bank would recoup its loan plus any accumulated interest, the bank president said, "I guess they're (county officials) afraid the bank won't bid on it and will let the property go for nothing."

When it was explained that Bartley wanted to improve the county's chances of selling the property above the $225,000 it is obligated to under a loan to First Commonwealth, Spurlock appeared to change his mind.

"Nobody would be opposed to that," Spurlock said. The bank president said that the additional advertising costs would be borne by the successful bidder or the master commissioner, who ordered the sale.

When told that Bartley's motion for more time indicated that the county would be solely responsible for all the advertising costs, Spurlock said, "that's unusual."

Bartley and Spurlock were somewhat at odds last week when Bartley said he felt it was conflict of interest for Spurlock to be the president of the bank and a member of the Development Authority which concocted the RND deal.

Spurlock said he stated up front in 1993 that there was a conflict for him with the project and that he abstained from any discussions on RND.

"I resigned as chairman of the Development Authority some time ago because I experienced a conflict during the foreclosure," Spurlock said. "I think there was a conflict and I abided by our conflict of interest policy."

Bartley had also said he felt there was a conflict regarding the bank and ThunderRidge racetrack. Spurlock said last week that his bank had "nothing to do with that place."

Spurlock seemed somewhat miffed that Bartley said it was a conflict for Spurlock to sit on the Development Authority while his bank was involved in loaning money to projects arranged by the authority.

"I don't think it gave any undue advantage to the bank," Spurlock said of the loan to RND.

Bartley said it would be difficult for anyone in that position to separate what would be in the best interests of the county and their own business. He added that the county should not be responsible for guaranteeing any loans for a private industry.

Spurlock said any such business deal should be carefully thought out.

"All I can say is that you should use good prudent business judgment," Spurlock said. "If you borrow money to guarantee loans for others, you should use good sound business judgment. Economic development is not easy, it's difficult. If you don't have the stomach for it, you shouldn't be in it."

Spurlock added that he didn't feel the current county administration supported the development authority as much as former county officials.

He added that the RND venture had failed, but he said the deal with R & S Truck Body Company at Ivel is a success.

Parker said that was true, but he thought council could do so for the mayor because it is only a temporary arrangement.

Councilman Steve Farthing wanted to know if the mayor would go back to part-time after a new clerk is hired and trained.

Councilman Rick Caudill asked the mayor, "in other words, can they go on you?"

The mayor said it would only be for a short time.

"I want to give it some time until we get some stability," Whicker said.

Akers asked the mayor what would happen if his employer would not give him a leave of absence.

"It's over," Whicker said. "It will be a moot issue."

Akers made a motion to hire the mayor for a three-month period and then "bring it up again" for consideration.

The motion passed on a 5-1 vote, with Robinson voting against it, saying the city could not afford the expense. Caudill abstained from voting.

Sgt. Castle said Monday that Adams had a previous robbery charge against him in Ohio and that he was also accused of assaulting two police officers in that state.

Adams pleaded not guilty Monday in Floyd District Court. He was placed under a $20,000 cash bond for the robbery charge. He is also being held at the Floyd County Adult Detention Center in lieu of $5,000 and $4,000 partially-secured bonds for the theft and assault charges, respectively.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. December 10 to determine if there is probable cause to refer Adams' case to a grand jury.

porch. Billie Mitchell had obtained emergency protective orders against her husband, who she accused of committing acts of domestic violence against her.

A warrant for Andy Mitchell's arrest was issued four days before the shooting, but he was not picked up.

The warrant, assigned to Floyd deputy sheriff Dwayne Jarrell, was issued October 29 by Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill.

Jarrell was unsuccessful in finding Andy Mitchell and was off duty two of the four days prior to the shooting.

Billie Jo Mitchell also told police that her husband had come to her home on October 28 and had raped and threatened her.

From October 29-31, Billie Jo Mitchell lived at the Floyd County Spouse Abuse Center.

advertise the city clerk's position and update the job description.

Under the current job description, the clerk needed only to be able to type and operate modern office equipment.

The mayor said he felt a clerk should be able to type 60 words per minute and be knowledgeable about computers and computer programs. He added that the person should also be familiar with the legal responsibilities regarding the taking of meeting minutes and record keeping of city government documents.

Whicker said it would be hard to replace the former clerk's experience on the job.

"What worries me most about it is... the hardest part will be to fill the experience in the position," Whicker said. "How are we going to train them?"

Parker suggested that the mayor contact the Kentucky League of Cities and inquire about training seminars for city clerks. Parker offered to discuss the legal aspects of the positions with the new clerk.

Council agreed to set the minimum pay at $7.66 per hour, the amount the former clerk was making when she left the position.

Parker suggested that council consider granting a pay increase to the successful applicant after several months on the job "if they hit the ground running."

Farthing joked that if a pay increase was approved, "Johnnie B. might come back."

State board to meet as Floyd board

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Kentucky Board of Education is slated to meet today (Wednesday) in Frankfort as the Floyd County Board of Education and will consider only one item of business in that capacity.

In a letter to interim Floyd superintendent Martin Carr, associate education commissioner Tom Willis said the agenda for the Floyd County meeting had been prepared in the direction of legal staff.

"On advice of Department of Education legal counsel, the agenda is limited to one item of business," Willis' letter said. "This is the approval of treasurer's report and the payment of bills and claims. The bills and claims presented are those originally submitted for the Floyd County Board of Education meeting scheduled for November 18..."

The state school board is acting as the Floyd County board because there are only two remaining members, one short of a quorum.

Since September, board members Ray Brackett, Ursal Ray Wilcox and Eddie Patton and superintendent Gene Davis have resigned amid ouster threats by state Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody.

Last month, Cody filed removal charges against chairman Jody Mullins and member B.J. Newsome. The two are charged with misconduct in office, willful neglect of duty and nonfeasance.

A hearing on those charges and a request by Cody for a three-year state takeover of the school system is set for January 21-23 in Frankfort.

The hearing was originally scheduled to begin December 15, but state officials wanted to give the local board an opportunity to discuss the issue. A third board member is expected to be appointed in time for the December 15 regular Floyd board meeting.

Cody accuses board members of failing to take proper actions to eliminate a projected $300,000 budget deficit at the end of the 1996-97 school year. The Floyd district has had year-end budget deficits for the past three years.

Newsome and Mullins have said they do not intend to resign and will fight the ouster charges. The two say they have not had time to address the school system's problems because they just took office in January.

An extensive management audit of the school system concluded in October, showed scores of problems in management, personnel and financial operations of the district.

Cody told local officials in February that he would seek their ouster if the district ended the school year with a budget deficit. Cody also said he would attempt to hold the board members and superintendent personally liable for any deficit.

Seasonal crime increase; church burglarized

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

The Christmas Season may mean a lot of things to different people, but to local authorities the holiday season is also a time when Floyd County usually experiences an increase of thefts and burglaries.

"This is the time of year for burglary crimes to be on the rise," Floyd detective Jim Rederick said Tuesday. "There's always an increase of crime during the holidays."

The detective said that although he expects the increase in crime, he was still a little shocked that someone had broken into an area church and stolen a painting of The Lord's Supper, along with numerous other items.

The Little Nancy Old Regular Baptist Church, in Hi Hat, was broken into on Saturday or Sunday and various items, including the painting; a microwave; and two vacuum cleaners, were stolen.

Rederick said he was not quite sure how the thief gained entrance to the church because there were no signs of forced entry.

Most of the church's belongings were recovered Tuesday along the creek bank directly behind the church.

According to church members, the perpetrator either had a key to the church or entered the building after it was used for a non-church function Saturday night before it was locked up.

The detective's investigation was opened after a caller contacted the sheriff's office about "some boys" in the area who were overheard talking about some of the items which belonged the church.

Church members were not aware that the church had been broken into at that time, but later confirmed that some items were missing from the church.

Detective Rederick questioned numerous people in the area and found one resident who said he had purchased a microwave that had the church's name on it. That resident informed the detective that he called the man he bought it from and told him he no longer wanted it.

After several attempts were made to locate the man who tried to sell some of the stolen merchandise, the detective contacted the county attorney's office to obtain a warrant for the man and an alleged accomplice.

Det. Rederick would not identify the alleged burglar or his accomplice until the warrants are served.

Most of the stolen merchandise was recovered Tuesday when it was discovered directly behind the church on the other side of the railroad tracks.

The detective said the thief must have carried out the church's items and put them there to get later. He also said that he has received reports that the alleged burglar and his friend returned to the scene and had already picked up some of the stolen items.

The detective said he has a "very strong suspect" in connection with the church's burglary and attempts were being made to locate the suspect.

Det. Rederick's investigation into the burglary of the church is ongoing, and anyone with information about the incident or the whereabouts of the stolen merchandise should contact the Floyd County Sheriff's Department at 886-6171.

Somebody's got to win...

by Scott Perry

Now that the furor and gnashing of teeth has subsided in the debate over separation of UK's community colleges from the mother ship, let's examine the potential such a move has offered our area.

The new, if not forced union of the community colleges with Kentucky Tech has created an educational opportunity for the Big Sandy region with unprecedented possibilities. And it comes at a time when opportunity isn't just knocking at the door, it's charging with a battering ram.

Consider these points:

The job market in this country and around the globe for that matter is woefully short of qualified workers with high-tech credentials. Programmers, software developers and technicians are in such short supply that many manufacturing companies have been forced to table production plans because they cannot meet the demand.

What we have in the Big Sandy are the nuts and bolts. All we need are the instructions for putting together a competent workforce that can supply the people needed to meet the workplace demands. The consolidation of Prestonsburg Community College and Mayo State Vo-Tech is the answer.

At PCC we offer two years of core curriculum in high-tech fields. After getting the basics there, students spend two years at Mayo, where practical learning experience is provided.

There's our four-year college, with a narrow but flexible focus.

This concept isn't new. It was suggested years ago in proposals to construct about a half-dozen advanced technology centers throughout the state. Those plans fell through, mostly for the want of money, but they can be rekindled now with comparatively few dollars.

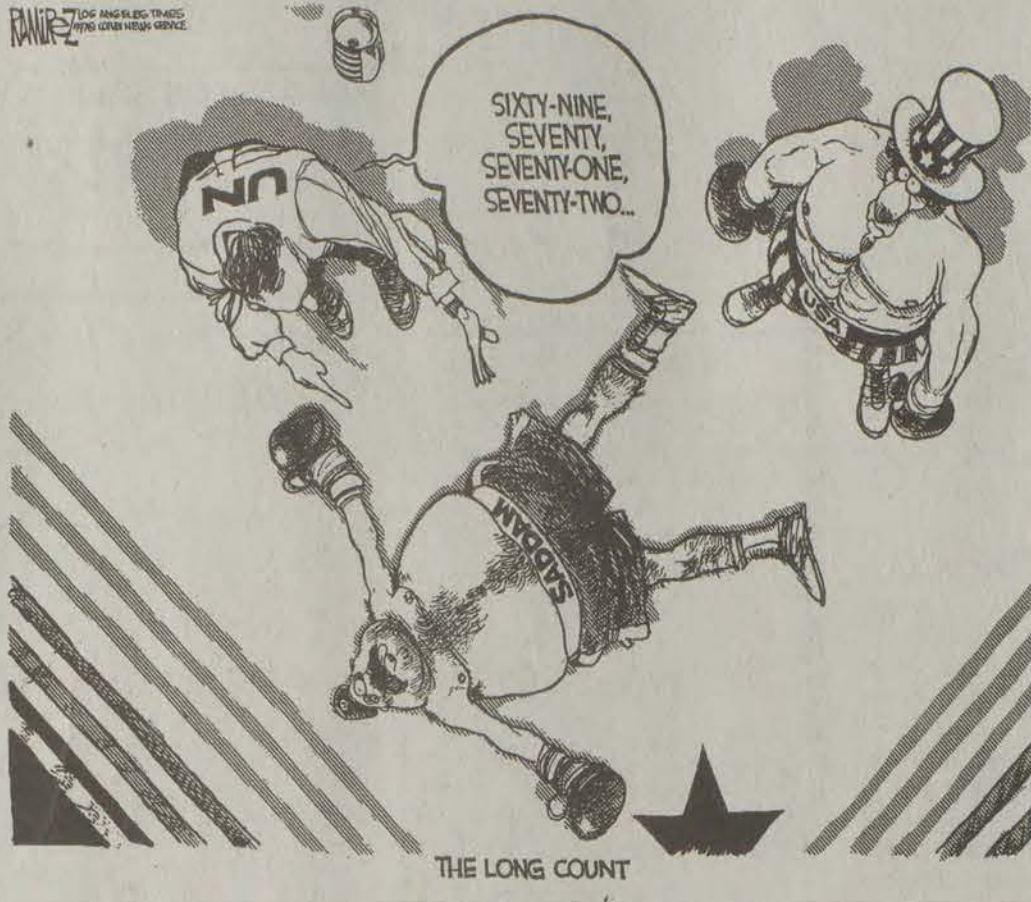

Kentucky Tech campuses around the state can be converted to advanced technology centers with the community colleges providing the basics.

Each vocational school can zero in on one or more high-tech specialties, preferably those which will require the greatest number of workers.

Kentucky can become the high-tech training ground for the nation and our region can get in on the act.

Like the lottery promoters say...

Somebody has to win, might as well be us.

Letters to the Editor

Couple praises city's emergency and rescue teams

Editor:
We want to take this opportunity to express our gratitude to the David Volunteer Fire Department, Floyd County Sheriff's office, Prestonsburg Fire Department, EMT's and Paramedics.

On Saturday, November 22, 1997, the home next to us caught fire. The houses are located very close to each other. Had it not been for the fast response of these people, our home could easily have burned.

This was a very traumatic experience for us. We both have cardiac conditions and during this crisis, we both developed chest discomfort and dangerously elevated blood pressures. The paramedics and EMT's responded quickly to our medical needs and helped to get us on our way to Highlands Regional Medical Center, where we both stayed overnight for observation.

There is never enough credit given to our emergency and rescue teams. We thought this would be a perfect opportunity to let people in our area know how lucky they are and that they do have people they can depend on during emergencies like this. We are living—proof!

Report to Kentucky

by Senator Wendell Ford

Any volunteers!

Would you believe there's a government program that's inspired a country music song? The government program is the Points of Light Foundation, but you won't find any mention of trucks, divorce or heartache.

That's because more important than inspiring a country music song, the Foundation has inspired a renewed commitment to volunteerism in this country.

President Bush initiated the Points of Light Foundation back in 1990, and it's just one of several efforts to encourage volunteerism in this nation.

President Clinton also sought to further increase volunteerism through AmeriCorps. Together these programs are connecting volunteers with America's neediest.

The idea behind both programs is to "link national service to a national strategy for addressing deep-seated social needs such as better schools, curbing crime and drugs, and reducing homelessness." The trend toward government downsizing makes these efforts even more important.

In an effort to recognize some of America's outstanding volunteers, the Points of Light Foundation co-sponsors the annual President's Service Awards with the Corporation for National and Community Service—an organization that instituted the award back in 1982.

These prestigious awards were established to honor the efforts of outstanding individuals, families, groups, organizations, businesses and labor unions engaged in voluntary community service.

The awards will be presented next spring by the President at a White House ceremony during National Volunteer Week—April 19th through April 25th.

Since the award was first instituted, 302 winners have been honored. Each of these individuals exemplifies the significant impact volunteers make in solving some of our communities' most serious social problems.

And they represent the potential within each one of us to give back to the community and assure a better future for all Americans.

I know there are many Kentuckians who have dedicated countless amounts of time and energy to helping others in their community. I hope that those of you who know someone who fits this description will take the time to send in a nomination for this prestigious award.

But don't wait too long. The deadline for nominating is just around the corner—January 12, 1998.

You can contact the Points of Light Foundation at 202-223-9186 ext. 202 for nomination forms.

Most of these dedicated volunteers are happy to continue their work without any kind of recognition.

But by letting them know just how much we appreciate their commitment to community, we also let other Americans see how they too can make a difference.

And with all that good will on tap, we can leave the heartache to the country music songwriters.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Caught a show on the tube this weekend about how the police chief in Charleston, South Carolina has put the bite on crime by reorganizing his department into a more user-friendly outfit.

Two of his policies toward accomplishing that goal caught our eye.

First, he vowed not to cede any neighborhood in his town to crooks and, secondly, he set out to involve the law-abiding public in his crime-fighting strategies.

Keeping the public posted on police activities, a departure from the department's former mind-your-own-business approach, has paid some nice dividends.

Public confidence in the police department is high and crime is low. Folks in Charleston, a big city by our standards, have been made partners in their own well-being and police officers are finding their jobs made easier...and safer. Since the policy of openness was adopted, no Charleston police officers have been killed in the line of duty and just one has been wounded.

It's not a fluke. The changes were made 16 years ago.

A little communication, it seems, can go a long way.

Speaking of communication, we have a sneaking suspicion that this ESP business is just a racket.

Hey, if these so-called psychics were really able to see into the future, how come they aren't winning the lottery jackpots week after week? More likely they're seeing the present reality of P.T. Barnum's claim that there's "a sucker born every minute." And, at $1.95 a minute for those "hotline" calls, there are probably enough suckers to make the lottery look like petty cash.

Who wants to see into the future anyway? Have you ever noticed that the most famous prognosticators tend to see nothing but bad things ahead? Nostradamus, the most famous seer of them all, filled a book with prophesies of gloom and doom. Trouble is, none of the predictions come with a reliable timetable.

What, these guys can see all these things that are going to happen in the future, but there's never a calendar or a clock around to date and time the premonition?

Sorry, but our horoscope says that's a bunch of baloney.

So is this system of rewards and sanctions that the Kentucky Education Reform Act established to complement annual school testing prowess.

First of all, the process is a one-way street. There are no sanctions. Have you heard of one single school teacher in Kentucky who lost his or her job because his or her students did poorly on basic skills tests?

Of course not. The reward process is equally flawed.

Good teachers ought to be recognized for their abilities and the success of their students, but not with cash bonuses tied to KIRIS test scores. As we have seen in the news recently, that process promotes abuse.

Our suggestion is to follow the lead of business and reward valuable teachers who show consistent quality in the classroom with salary hikes. Do away with cost of living increases and make raises based on performance. Muster out those who don't measure up.

And let's not forget that students and parents have something to do with classroom success, too. If a system of rewards is to be fair, there has to be something in it for them.

Credit card use gets workers jailed

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Two A & C Equipment Supply employees were arrested last week for allegedly using the company's credit card to purchase thousands of dollars worth of merchandise for themselves.

Julius Keith Mulley, 25, of Minnie, and William Calloway Ayers, 26, of Pikeville, were arrested last Wednesday by Floyd detective Homer D. Neeley and deputy Denver Spurlock for the improper use of the company credit card.

Mulley and Ayers were each charged with failing to make required disposition of property and lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center.

The initial estimate for the amount of merchandise the two suspects obtained without permission from the company management was in excess of $1,600.

Det. Neeley said Tuesday that the exact amount is not known at this time, but added that the total is believed to be considerably higher than initially estimated.

According to the detective's uniform offense report (UOR), "no attempt toward restitution was made prior to warrants and subsequent arrests were made."

Statements from the credit card company indicate that the receipts obtained by the accused had been altered.

The statement states that on some occasions the receipts were changed to show that diesel fuel was purchased, when unleaded gasoline was actually obtained.

Det. Neeley said all of the company's vehicles use diesel fuel and there was no need for Mulley and Ayers to purchase unleaded fuel unless it was for their own use.

The credit card statement also indicates that food and money orders were purchased with the credit cards, and that in some instances, no designation of what was purchased was on the receipts because they had been erased.

All of the unlawful transactions with the company credit cards were videotaped at the BP Station in Martin, Det. Neeley said.

Mulley and Ayers were released from the jail pending an arraignment on the charges.

Teaberry man is robbed at knifepoint

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

The robbery of a Teaberry resident became a family affair Friday night when he was held at knifepoint and robbed by his nephew.

Claude Isaacs, 19, was lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center and charged with first degree robbery for allegedly stealing a large amount of money from his uncle.

"(Isaacs) went to his uncle's residence and held him at knifepoint," a KSP media release says. "(He) left the residence on foot with a large amount of money."

Isaac is accused of robbing his 70-year-old uncle, Chester Newsome, also of Teaberry.

The media release states that Isaacs was detained by family members until KSP troopers arrived on the scene to take him into custody.

After he was lodged in jail, Isaacs was served with a felony warrant for allegedly damaging Maxine Newsome's vehicle by hitting it with a brick. He was charged with criminal mischief, a felony, for that incident.

During his arraignment Monday morning, a not-guilty plea was entered to Isaacs' felony charges, and a woman who identified herself as Isaacs' mother informed the court that she did not want to pursue the criminal mischief charge.

Isaacs is being held at the jail in lieu of a $20,000 cash bond in connection with the robbery charge.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. December 10 to determine if there is probable cause to refer Isaacs' case to a grand jury.

UK FIRST MONDAY

Visions of holiday dinners, Christmas presents and New Year's Eve parties dance in the heads of just about everyone this time of year - even those who are alone.

Because the holiday season is a time of friendly gatherings and family reunions, feelings of loneliness and isolation are aggravated this time of year. Although the most obvious problem is for those living alone far from friends and family, they are not the only ones who sometimes struggle.

"That's one of the biggest misconceptions people have - that if you have a family or are around friends, you can't feel alone," said Rhoda Stone, a University of Kentucky therapist who often helps college students deal with their holiday loneliness. "Married people, or those with siblings around them can have problems. Because they don't feel that sense of connectedness, they end up feeling alone or isolated."

Often, the lonely deal with their problems by trying to constantly surround themselves with others. But that sometimes just allows someone to ignore the real problem, Stone said. In some cases, lonely people overindulge - whether in eating, drinking or buying - as a way to ignore the problem.

The solution is to face the lone-ness, she said.

"We're with ourselves 100 percent of the time. We need to know what makes us tick," she said. "I'm really big on taking care of yourself - being kind to yourself."

Holiday cheer for the lonely

So Stone recommends learning to appreciate time alone in addition to finding ways to connect with others.

As those who suffer from loneliness get to know themselves better, they often find that the loneliness is no longer overwhelming.

"These are the people who are comfortable with themselves," Stone said. "It's something we learn to do gradually over time."

Stone makes these recommendations to those suffering from holiday loneliness:

- Learn to nurture or be kind to yourself.
- Learn to enjoy time alone by reading, writing, watching a favorite movie or renting a new movie.
- Initiate contact with others by inviting them out to dinner or a movie.
- If it is out of town relatives or friends that you miss, make contact by telephone, letter, audio or video tape or e-mail.

• Volunteer at an agency that could use your particular skill or talent.

• Rediscover your town or city by visiting the local welcome center for a list of brochures or activities in the area.

• Check your local paper for special holiday events.

• Pamper yourself with a massage, facial, manicure or pedicure.

• Limit alcohol or drug use since they can increase feelings of sadness or loneliness.

• Do not be afraid to let others know how you feel.

• Be insightful - get to know yourself and what causes you to feel alone or isolated from others.

• If feelings of loneliness increase beyond what you can tolerate, seek professional help immediately.

Certificate of Need projects approved

The Cabinet for Health Services has approved 13 certificate of need projects, while five others were denied, as they will review more than 40 applications with final decisions expected in February, 1998.

Floyd County is among those listed as recipients that were so far approved.

In our county, CME-Mobile IV Therapy Service in Prestonsburg wishes to establish a mobile health (IV therapy) service for patients in Clay, Johnson, Lee, Leslie, Martin and Owsley counties, and was approved. As well, the McDowell ARH Rehabilitation Agency at McDowell is awaiting a decision for their request to establish a rehabilitation agency.

Two Lexington-based facilities, the first being UK Medical Center that wanted to renovate to include a 15-bed gerontology/psychiatric unit, was denied, and the second, Diagnostic Radiology Systems who wanted to expand their mobile MRI service to the Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center in Johnson County, was also deferred.

In Johnson County, the Paintsville Physical Therapy Clinic needed $318,000 for the establishment of a rehabilitation agency, but was withdrawn.

The Physical Therapy Center of Pikeville wanted to change the location of an existing rehabilitation agency from one address in the city to another, and was approved at an estimated expenditure of $10,000.

The Pike County Physical Therapy Clinic's desire to establish a rehabilitation agency at a sum of $318,000, was withdrawn.

The dollar amounts listed are capital expenditures - not a state grant. Projects listed without a dollar amount did not require a capital expenditure.

Persons affected by the proposals may request a hearing on a project. Hearing requests must be submitted in writing to Certificate of Need Office, 275 East Main Street, Frankfort, KY 40621. The deadline to request a hearing is December 5, 1997.

America Reads Challenge at PCC

Eileen Lewandowski, who coordinates both Service Learning and the America Reads Challenge at Prestonsburg Community College, has issued an invitation to all who are interested in hearing the service learning center's "good news" to join with the students who have been busy this semester combining service to the community with their academic courses in a special Celebration.

She and Dr. Dorothy Carlson, who has been teaching America Reads Challenge Community Service Work Study students to tutor second graders who are not yet reading at grade level to read better, will be joining with the students to talk about their successes and the challenges of serving others.

The end-of-semester celebration will be held on Wednesday, December 3, from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. in Room 112 of the Johnson Building at Prestonsburg Community College.

The student's supervisors (from the various local agencies where they have been working) have been invited to join the college family in honoring those who have given so freely of their time and efforts.

Several students will be discussing their projects. There will be displays, scrapbooks, and other information regarding their work. The program's community partners will have an opportunity to put faces to the names of those behind the scenes. Awards and certificates will be presented to some of the program's special participants.

Students have been asked to nominate a supervisor who has made their service opportunity especially meaningful. Site supervisors have been asked to nominate outstanding student volunteers or tutors. Special projects or extraordinary achievements will be noted.

While the program is celebrating its current semester's successes, the totals from the 1996-1997 school year indicated that 412 students participated in service learning at some point during that year. Of them, 236 students submitted reports verifying 6407 hours of service to the community, serving family resource/youth service centers, senior centers/nursing homes, health care facilities, classrooms, mental health, non-profit agencies, preschools, social services, law enforcement, professional practices, the environment, and programs at the college. Over 200 sites were noted in the database. The enormous effort, which goes into this kind of endeavor, needs to be noted and celebrated, Lewandowski said.

Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Eileen Lewandowski at 606-886-3863 ext. 405 regarding service learning, or Dr. Dorothy Carlson at 886-3863, ext. 437 regarding the America Reads Challenge.

by Carla Coburn
Executive-Director
Floyd Chamber of Commerce

This week the members of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce held their December Membership Meeting at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. The monthly meeting itself was one of the items on the agenda for discussion. The Chamber has approximately twenty-five members attending the monthly meeting on average, and in an effort to reach more members in the new year, the Chamber is planning to have two satellite meetings at alternating locations throughout the county each month, in addition to the regularly scheduled meeting at Jenny Wiley.

Also on the agenda was the Holiday Open House sponsored by a member, Dr. Mable Lineberger, at the Samuel May House, this Friday, December 5th, from 5 thru 8 p.m. An evening of networking and entertainment is scheduled in our region's most historic setting, an event that our members won't want to miss.

The Chamber also discussed an effort to have a "Business After Hours" in December with the downtown merchants of Prestonsburg. The event is being coordinated by Donna DeRossett of The Glass Slipper.

This week our Executive Director, Carla S. Coburn, represented our business organization to a panel of State One-Stop Coordinators. She has participated in the project for almost two years, and was part of the committee who completed the grant phase of the project. The State One-Stop Coordinators are currently conducting an implementation feasibility study of the $275,000 grant received by our county. Also representing our organization in the One-Stop effort is Dennis Dorton of the Bank Josephine.

This week we welcome the following businesses as members of our organization. The Bank Josephine, AAA Mine Service, Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative, Absher Enterprises, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Dr. Chandra Varia, Mountain Telephone Service, Davidson Memorial Gardens, Layne Bros. Ford, Federal Express, Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, Floyd County Fiscal Court, Guyan Machinery, Prestonsburg Tourism Commission, Floyd County Environmental Services, John's Clubhouse, Highlands Regional Medical Center, Brandeis Machinery, Big Sandy Insurance, AB Interior Designs, Dr. Mable Lineberger, Kentucky Lottery, Carter Funeral Home, R/S Truck Body, First Commonwealth Bank, East Kentucky Development Association, Pikeville National Bank and Wells Ready Mix. MCDOWELL DAZZLING DAREDEVILS WIN FIRST PLACE IN THE RED, WHITE, AND BLUE PARADE!!

The McDowell Dazzling Daredevils captured first place in the twirling category at the Red, White, and Blue parade on Saturday, October 18th. The Dazzlers were dressed to success in patriotic colors with white sweaters, blue skirts, red turtlenecks, and red, white, and blue bows to match the event. Their routine was just as successful as their uniforms. They began their routine with a special dedication to all the veterans who had lost their lives, to all past historical figures who had lost their lives and dedicated their performance to Princess Diana, Mother Teresa, and Jon Benet Ramsey (a child who had lost her life to a violent crime). The routine consisted of songs by Lee Ann Rimes, God Bless America, and Puff Daddy Comes, Missing You. The routine was set off by beautiful American flags carried by the girls and one big American flag carried by two parents.

The Dazzlers worked extremely hard on their routine for the parade but not only that they had fun and that is something that is always stressed with this entertaining group. The Dazzlers sponsor is Kim Reynolds and their advisor is Ernestine Shelton. Ms. Reynolds was a majorette for McDowell High School for 4 years and has been the Dazzlers sponsor since the group was started 3 years ago. Mrs. Shelton has been a majorette sponsor for 25 years and was Ms. Reynolds sponsor for her four years at McDowell High School. The Dazzlers use to be known as the McDowell Little Twirlers and had won 3rd place in their first Red, White, and Blue parade 2 years ago. Last year they had won 2nd place and so in preparing for this years parade they only had one thing on their mind and that was capturing 1st place, and they did.

The Dazzlers consist of 30 girls from Kindergarten to 5th grade. They are as follows: Tiffany Moore, Angela Buelis, Stephanie Fraley, Tara Gearheart, Amanda Sammons, Kim Patton, Laken Moore, Alex Howell, Taylor Howell, Morgan Howell, Danielle Tackett, Trista Damron, Mary Williams, Kelsey Dye, Lindsey Dye, Dorsa Hall, Kasie Osborne, Bailey Hamilton, Stephanie Conn, Chelsie Conn, Taran Parsons, Victoria Moore, Marsha Newsome, Valarie Case, Heather Vance, Megan Daniels, Shasta Conn, Ashley Spriggs, Kayla Tackett, Whitney Vance, and Rachel Howell.

The Dazzlers had 4 helpers in the parade who carried the banner and carried 2 flags, they were as follows: Brandon Salisbury, Joby Blackburn, Robert Preston, and Ashley Shephard. The Dazzlers also had a mascot who marched with them, a little dog named Dusty.

The Dazzlers and their sponsors would like to thank all who supported them in their performance, they are as follows: Cecilia Buelis, Maria Preston, Tammy Gearheart, Lisa Sammons, Linda Salisbury, Mr. Osborne, McDonalds at Martin, all the parents who marched with us during the parade, the bus driver who was very good to the girls and their parents, the kind director at the parade who helped us find our way, Shaun Hamilton, Willie Elliott, Bobbie Joe Blackburn, the Red, White, and Blue committee, Jason Sammons and Lisa Howell. If we have forgotten anyone, forgive us and thank you.

I would like to take this time as the Dazzlers sponsor, to say that I am very proud of my girls for all their hard work. They truly deserved first place because of their determination and hard work. I hope that the rest of the season will be as successful as the Red, White, and Blue parade was. If you would like to see the Dazzlers perform they will be performing at every home game for the McDowell Daredevils. Thank you to everyone and especially to the girls for making being a sponsor fun.

A special note to the principal at McDowell Elementary (Mr. Osborne) from the Dazzlers: Thank you for all your support and kindness.

By Kim Reynolds (sponsor)

"A Light to the Mountains" documents history

When Frank C. Button and his mother, Phebe, arrived by train in Morehead in 1887, gunfire still rang in the streets.

The Buttons' mission was to bring "a light to the mountains," to bring education into a lawless area of rough terrain. Born out of the Rowan County War, the bloodiest feud in Kentucky history, Morehead Normal School was established by members of the Christian Church in an attempt "to help create serenity out of turmoil."

The Buttons opened the door to the new school on the morning of October 3 and "the first student, an orphan named Annie Page, shyly appeared." By that afternoon, she was joined by another girl, Ethel Bertie Hamm; two more students arrived on the second day. They finished the school year with 32 pupils and Frank C. Button subsequently led the institution for 27 years.

The rich heritage of Morehead State University is beautifully detailed in "A Light to the Mountains: Morehead State University, 1887-1997" to be released in mid-December. Written by Dr. Donald F. Flatt, MSU professor of history, and published by the Jesse Stuart Foundation, this is the first publication to document the school's history from its formation to the present. It is being published in conjunction with the University's 75th anniversary as a state institution.

The reader-friendly text was compiled from historical documents in addition to numerous interviews. It is complemented by more than 100 photos and extensive appendices which read like a "who's who" of MSU.

Also highlighted in the book is educational pioneer Cora Wilson Stewart, who furthered the school's original mission in 1911 when she established the "Moonlight Schools." A forerunner to the adult literacy movement, these schools offered the first evening classes to adults in the community who worked during daylight hours. The image of more than 1,000 people walking beneath the light of the full moon to attend classes in these rustic schoolhouses is a timeless tribute to Stewart's foresight and her contribution to adult education on a national level.

As it continued to train teachers, Morehead State Teachers College, later Morehead State University, like many institutions, suffered its share of growing pains. During the first century of its existence, the University was a political battleground, volleyed between governors, strong presidents, and powerful regents, who struggled for control.

However, despite its political melee, the university always managed to provide quality education for its students, unrelenting in its mission to serve the people of Eastern Kentucky. Academic programs were added, and buildings sprang up along the crescent of University Boulevard as students continued to pursue higher education at Morehead State. The ring of gunfire in the streets has been replaced by the gentle ringing of the Little Bell Tower as thousands of students fill the sidewalks between classes.

To date, more than 40,000 students have graduated from Morehead State University and their impact upon the political, cultural, and economic aspects of this region cannot be underestimated. MSU alumni have become educators, health care providers, politicians, business administrators and community leaders, not only throughout Eastern Kentucky but also around the globe. The "light to the mountains" continues to enlighten those who seek illuminations, its rays transcending generations in the Appalachian foothills.

The author will autograph copies of "A Light to the Mountain," at various locations throughout the holidays, including the University Bookstore on the MSU camps on Tuesday, December 6, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Book Haven in the Morehead Plaza on Friday, December 19, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Additional information, or to place, an order is available from the MSU Alumni Association at (606) 783-2316 or (606) 783-2080.

Correction

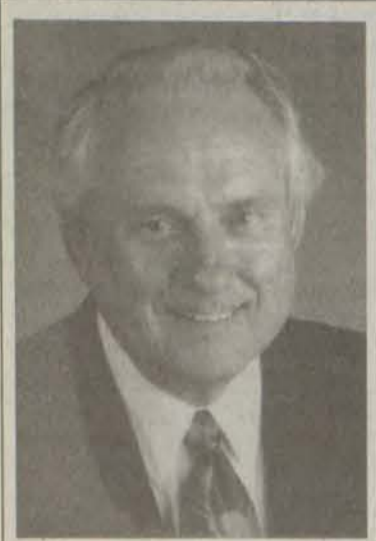

In a recent obituary for Lonzo Owsley, formerly of Betsy Layne, his age was listed incorrectly. Owsley was born May 25, 1908, so he was 88 at the time of his death, not 98.

COMMUNITY ENCOURAGER

by Katie Newsome

Joining efforts

Task force members include Charles Frye, chief lab technician, McDowell ARH; Kathy Stumbo, chief officer, Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Charles Williams, C & M HomeCare; Dena Sparkman, assistant administrator, McDowell ARH; Ellis Buchanan, executive director, Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., and seated, Katie Newsome, community outreach coordinator.

A task force to promote more cooperation among health care providers has been initiated by the McDowell ARH. Local community people and persons representing health care services are members of this team.

Health care providers from McDowell ARH, Our Lady of The Way Hospital, Big Sandy Health Care, and C & M HomeCare met recently to discuss ways of improving health care services to local residents.

A campaign to inform and educate the community about heart disease was set for February, 1998. Each facility will have a representative to work with other organizations to coordinate the activities, advertising and educational materials.

The possibility of a consortium of health care providers joining in efforts to streamline their resources and services was discussed. At this point there was no commitment, but doors were open for future collaborative efforts.

Those attending the meeting were: Charles Frye, chief lab technician, McDowell ARH; Charles Williams, owner of C & M HomeCare Store; Dena Sparkman, assistant administrator, McDowell ARH; Ellis Buchanan, executive director, Big Sandy Health Care, Inc.; and Katie Newsome, community outreach coordinator.

Playing games, learning

If you are looking for an escape from the weekend madness of holiday shopping, PCC's Community Biology Club (CBC) has an activity just for you.

On Saturday, December 13, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m., the CBC will be having their "Educational Games" session in PCC's Martin Student Center.

More than 25 board games, card games, and puzzles will be available for people of all ages (6 and up) to play. Each game has a scientific or mathematical theme, which is presented in such a way as to be both fun and educational.

Among the board games is "Space Hop," which tests players' knowledge of the planets; "Endangered Species," designed to give players an idea of how wildlife preserves are set up; "Super Sandwich," which gives important information about proper nutrition as players "eat their way" through the game.

The card games include "Environmental Rummy," a game on classification; "Predator," a food-chain game; "Oh Wilderness," a card game about wilderness skills, and "Science Bingo."

"Teachers should encourage their students to attend this activity with family or friends (maybe for extra credit?)" says Dr. John Shiber, coordinator of the event. "There is something for everyone to learn about, while having fun in the process."

For further information, contact Dr. Shiber or the Office of Continuing Education & Community Service at PCC (606-886-3863).

Participants should bring a bag lunch. Soft drinks will be available, courtesy of the Division of Biological Sciences. The activity is free and open to everyone in the community.

In Loving Memory of Wilson Morrison

"He's yours, Lord, not mine now, to have and to hold.
He's yours alone, Lord, to lead through flower-scented fields.
To behold the beauty of Your heavens, to sing with the heavenly hosts.
To live in your fairer mansions, free of pain and weariness.
Oh, I'll see him again, but now he's yours, Lord, to have and to hold."

A Look At Sports

Mr. Basketball? Is there really another choice?

The 1997-98 high school basketball season tipped off last night, and already the talk is who is going to be Mr. Basketball in the state of Kentucky. I mean, we have a whole season of front of us, and much is being said of the battle between Metcalfe County's J.P. Blevins and Paintsville standout J.R. Vanhooze.

Well, since we are having to read about it so early, we might as well comment on it. I really don't think there is any hard decision here. It is J.R. Vanhooze as the only candidate for the position. That is not taking anything away from Blevins. He's an outstanding basketball player and, yes, the University of Kentucky has signed him to a scholarship for next fall. But, as both players have stated publicly, their college choices should have no bearing on who is named Mr. Basketball.

When you compare accomplishments of both young men, then there are no comparisons. Vanhooze is a runaway winner. He led small Paintsville to a state title as a sophomore. He has led them to two final four appearances, and his team is ready to make regional history if they can win a fourth 15th Regional championship.

There could be some argument for Blevins in a way being he could become the first player since "King" Kelly Coleman to score more than 4,000 points in a career. But, how many state championship teams has he played for? How many final four appearances has his teams made?

Any more, the best public relations for the players are the players themselves, and that seems to be the course these two outstanding players are pursuing. Both have been outspoken for each others' being deserving of the award. Vanhooze said being named Mr. Basketball is something he has thought of as a kid. Blevins thinks it would be the pinnacle of a glorious high school career.

Of course, it will be the media who decides who will wear number one on their jersey when the Kentucky/Indiana All-Star game tips off in June of '98. So, why all the hype over who will be the 1998 Mr. Basketball in Kentucky? It sells papers and makes for interesting reading.

While Vanhooze heads to Marshall University and Blevins travels to UK, I still contend (and I know it is way too late) that both players should be wearing the Kentucky blue next year. I think Tubby Smith and staff missed the boat on this, and should have inked Vanhooze. He is an outstanding basketball player, and equally a fine young man.

Lexington Catholic is the preseason number one pick in boys' basketball this year. Why not? They recruited, (whoops), got Nathan Popp from Shelby County, and the seven-footer will make them as tough as ever.

Point made :

Keathley gets apology from league

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Remember the story of the baseball coach who has been confined to a wheelchair for the past eight years and just loves kids, the game of baseball, and just life in particular? Remember when he was ejected from a game last July because he was coaching third base in an all-star tournament in Lexington? Remember how the officials, after the first game when he was put in a draw-out corner, and the home plate umpire mocked him by saying, "how did you like you little corner, coach?"

Well the egg is all over the face of Babe Ruth District manager Don Russell and the umpires after the Babe Ruth National Headquarters said that Russell and the rest in charge of the all-star tournament was in the wrong for ejecting Keathley from the game, and later from the public park itself.

After the incident, Keathley pondered whether he should file a suit over the incident. At the urging of others, he hired Ned Pillersdorf to represent him in the lawsuit, and the suit brought a settlement of $6,000 and an apology from the national headquarters.

"I didn't do it for the money," Keathley said. "If I was in it for the money, then I would have sued for more. But there are lawyer's fees."

Keathley has worked with young baseball players over the past several years, and has never let a mining accident rob him of the joy of helping young players play the game of baseball. He was a long-time coach in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League before moving up to Babe Ruth baseball last season. He coached the 13-year Babe Ruth All-Stars last year at Lexington's Shillito Park where the incident occurred.

"I just wanted to make a point," said Keathley of the lawsuit. "I did it for all the other handicapped people."

While trying to keep Keathley off the base paths, the umpires or tournament officials could not find a rule disallowing him from being there. However, he was refrained from the field.

After the first game, Keathley and his team returned for an afternoon game when he was informed again he could not be in the baseline. At the urging of parents and fans, following the start of the game, Keathley took his place on the sidelines, only to be told he had to go to his van and stay.

"I have never had trouble in the past of getting out of the way," he said in an earlier interview with the Times.

While the national headquarters has not directly apologized to Keathley, he did read of the account in the state paper.

"That is good enough for me," he said. "I haven't heard from them. But

South Floyd stays close but falls big to Pikeville, 63-40

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Lady Raiders (0-1) just ran out of steam in the fourth quarter, and dropped a 63-40 opening season game to the Pikeville Lady Panthers this past Monday night at South Floyd.

Charity Burke tossed in a game-high 26 points to lead the Lady Panthers (1-0).

Misty Burger led the scoring for South Floyd with 15 points. Martha Crawford tossed in seven, and Olivia Stewart finished with six.

South Floyd stayed close in the first half, but second half turnovers hurt the Lady Raiders. South Floyd trailed 22-18 in the second quarter. A basket by Margaret Morgan made it a three-point game, 23-20.

Pikeville scored the next six points to go up 29-20 before Danielle Tackett buried a three-point basket to cut the lead back to six, 29-23. The Lady Raiders trailed by nine at the half, 34-23.

Burke led an early third quarter charge that netted the Lady Panthers a 17-point lead, 42-25.

Burke hit a short jumper to give Pikeville a 20-point advantage, 47-27, as they began to pull away.

Pikeville outscored South Floyd 17-7 in the third to lead 51-30 after three periods.

Shanna Hall had two points for South Floyd. Amanda Compton finished with just one point, as she played in foul trouble most of the game. Jo Jo Pack netted four points, Morgan totaled two, and Tackett had three points.

Sama Naria added 13 points for Pikeville, with Jill Kimbelain scoring 10. Trena Potter scored six.

South Floyd will host the Elkhorn City Lady Cougars this Saturday night at the Raider Arena.

Allen Central opens season on sour note falling to Johnson Central Eagles 56-55

by Ed Taylor

First-year coach Anthony Moore was looking for some senior leadership on the floor when his Allen Central Lady Rebels entertained the Johnson Central Lady Eagles Monday night to open the 1997-98 basketball season at Allen Central. That leadership wasn't there as the Lady Rebels dropped a 56-55 decision to Johnson Central in overtime.

But it was more than just a lack of leadership, handling the press and hitting key free throws that haunted the Lady Rebels as well. They shot a low 39 percent from the charity stripe, and 36 percent from the floor.

Allen Central had their chances to put the game away in regulation play, but poor free-throw shooting in the final minute hurt the Lady Rebels. Senior Misty Scott went 0-for-9 from the stripe, but missed five attempts inside the final minutes of regulation play.

With seven seconds to play in the extra period, Jamie Blair drove to the right of the basket, and then went in for an easy uncontested basket to give Johnson Central a 56-55 lead. There was no weak side help on defense for the Lady Rebels.

"No one stepped over," said Coach Moore. "I've got seniors out there and nobody is really stepping up for me. None of them is showing any leadership."

Blair led the Lady Eagles with 18 points, and Megan Salyer scored 12 points. Josie Melvin scored 12 points and Amanda Griffith added nine.

Crystal Martin led the Lady Rebels with her 14 points, while Natalie Cooley tossed in 13, and Jessica Martin had 12 points.

A breakdown on defense allowed the Lady Eagles to tie the game and send it to overtime. On an out-of-bounds play under the Johnson Central basket, Melvin was left open at the three-point circle and buried a three-pointer with 11 seconds to play, to tie the game at 48-48. Scott stood at the free-throw line with 21 seconds on the clock, and missed both charity tosses that would have given Allen Central a five-point cushion.

With 3:39 to play in overtime, Johnson Central took their first lead of the game on a layup by Griffith. A free throw by Josie Melvin made it a 51-48 lead, as Allen Central turned the ball over on consecutive possessions.

The game was tied at 52-52 on a rebound basket by Scott after a missed free throw. Two-of-four free throw shooting by Blair gave Central a 54-52 lead with 47 seconds left in the overtime. Sophomore Jessica Martin completed an old-fashioned three-point play that gave Allen Central the lead at 55-54 with just 32 ticks on the scoreboard.

On a jump ball situation, the possession arrow pointed Allen Central's way with 29 seconds to play. But Johnson Central put Jessica Martin back on the line, where she missed both attempts.

Johnson Central kept looking inside to Griffith, but Blair found an open on the right side, drove the lane and scored to give the Lady Eagles a one-point lead.

With 11 seconds left, Allen Central called a time out for the final ticks. But Allen Central was slow in moving the ball as the time expired.

Johnson Central came out and their first two baskets by going low in the middle, but seemed to abandon the middle afterwards. Johnson Central coach Philip Wireman said he lectured his team at halftime about not looking inside.

"I told them we were looking to win the ball game on that three-point shooting and we just weren't making the shots," he said. "I told them we weren't doing the little things we suppose to do. We weren't boxing out and we were giving up the base line."

Johnson Central trailed 27-17 at the half, but the Lady Eagles picked up the tempo in the second half.

"They came back out in the second half and did what I asked them to do," said Wireman. "We got back in it and come out with a good win."

Immediately, at the start of the second half, the Lady Eagles went inside with three quick baskets to pull within six of Allen Central, 29-23. Melvin scored twice down low, and Salyer had an easy basket.

"In the second half, we got the ball inside a few times," said Coach Wireman. "We started penetrating with the ball and I thought we did an excellent job of putting the ball in the basket."

But Jessica Martin buried a trey, and Cooley completed a three-point play to lead a 6-2 spurt for Allen Central that netted them a 35-25 advantage. Allen Central led 36-29 after three quarters.

Central scored the first four points on the fourth quarter to pull to within three, 36-33, of the Lady Rebels. Two free throws by eighth grader Ramanda Music, and Crystal Martin's basket along the baseline, gave Allen Central a 40-33 lead with just five minutes to play.

Johnson Central turned up their press, double-teaming the ball, and Allen Central just couldn't adjust, and turned the ball over twice with Johnson Central scoring off each mistake to trail 40-37.

"I have girls who can handle the ball," said Coach Moore, "but when it comes pressure time, they don't want the ball in their hands."

In the final three minutes of regulation play, Allen Central had only one field goal, and a layup by Crystal Martin. They attempted 16 free throws in the final three minutes, hitting only six. With 46 seconds left, Melvin scored on a short jumper for a 47-45 game. Crystal Martin hit the front end of a two-shot foul to give Allen Central a three-point lead, 48-45. Then, Salyer tied the game with her trey and it was overtime.

"We just didn't execute well against their press," said Coach Moore. "I hollered at them all night."

Allen Central appeared to tire in the fourth quarter. "Yes, I think Allen Central got a little tired in the fourth quarter against our press," said Wireman. "Especially going into overtime."

Ramanda Music finished with seven points for the Lady Rebels, and pulled down eight rebounds and had three assists. Scott finished with two points, while Jenna Hall added one point.

Becky McKenzie had a three-point basket and scored three points for Johnson Central. Christina Fairchild had one point.

Allen Central returns to the hardwood Thursday night against powerhouse Whitesburg.

Hall "treyriffic" in win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Tyler Hall buried three three-point baskets, and scored 13 points as the Osborne Eagles won easily over the Prater Creek Cougars in elementary basketball last Monday evening at Wheelwright.

Wendell Tackett led all scorers with 16 points, and Michael Hall scored 12 for the Eagles. Osborne hit six three-point baskets in the game. Michael Hall had two, and Justin Hall had one.

Wesley Senters, Wesley Meade and Jason Skeens scored seven points each for Prater Creek. Nick Spears finished with six points, as did Timmy Boyd. Brandon Jarrell and Roy Conn had two points apiece.

Tyler Hall busted two of his three treys in the first quarter that staked the Eagles to a 18-12 first-quarter lead. Tackett hit two field goals and two free throws for six points. Meade had four points for Prater in the first.

It was Michael Hall's turn in the second for Osborne, hitting two three-point baskets as Osborne took a 29-19 halftime lead. Skeens had four points for the Cougars.

In the third, Tyler Hall hit his third trey and scored seven points in a 13-11 third for Osborne, that netted them a 42-30 lead after three periods. Meade hit a trey for Prater, and Craig Keathley had four points in the period.

Leon Brown finished with seven points for Osborne. Josh Johnson added six, and Justin Hall tossed in three. Randall Matthews and Michael Little scored two points each. Tackett pulled in nine rebounds and had five steals. Josh Johnson had seven boards, while Tyler Hall had six rebounds.

I'm glad that it turned out the way it did. Maybe it will help some other handicapped person down the road."

"He (Ronald Tellefsen, National Babe Ruth President) said it was a misunderstanding. He said they weren't allowed to do what they did."

According to reports, the 1998 rule book will be revised to allow districts to make adjustments to the rules in order to accommodate a person who has a disability.

"The apology came Thursday," said Keathley. "Not to me directly, but from a story in the newspapers. This was the only way (lawsuit) to get anything done about it."

With the action that Keathley has taken, he struck a victory blow for all handicapped people who wish to coach the game of baseball, at least in the Babe Ruth organization.

Paintsville becomes the second-best team in the state. The Tigers have not only Vanhoose returning, but Todd Tackett as well. But, the Tigers will be without the services of standout Jason Conley, who decided not to play basketball his senior year at Paintsville. That is going to be a big void to fill. However, in a preview interview, coach Bill Mike Runyon feels his bench is going to be longer this year with a good crop of juniors waiting in the wings.

In a scrimmage game at Paintsville last weekend, both Vanhoose and Tackett combined for 70 of their team's 87 points. The bench will have to come through for the Tigers, and scoring must be found somewhere along the way.

Tackett, who has yet to decide on a school for next year, (although he was leaning toward Clemson), may have made a wise choice. He is another player that could play for Tubby at UK. But, we will all have to wait and see.

But when you have the caliber of players such as David Graves and Shawn Fields coming back for Lexington Catholic, there are two very good reasons to vote a team number one.

Prediction: The Prestonsburg Blackcats will be receiving some votes this year, and don't be surprised if they are not in the top 20 in the state. This is going to be a fine basketball team.

OTHER STUFF

• It doesn't appear that it is going to be a good season for the UK Wildcats. This is the worst outside shooting team that UK has had in many seasons. We have been spoiled with the three-pointers. There is too much looking inside for the big men. UK has to have some play out of their guards. Wayne Tuner showed a little life against Clemson last Saturday. But can he continue it? Allen Edwards appears to be lost on the court, and Scott Padgett acts as if he just doesn't care.

I don't see them beating the likes of Purdue, Indiana or Louisville. Georgia Tech could be a problem for them. In the SEC, South Carolina and Georgia will give them fits in their division. Florida, Arkansas and Auburn will burn the Cats as well.

• With the high school basketball season underway, be sure and tune in to the 15th Region Sports Forum tonight at 8:30 p.m. Give me a call and let's talk about the upcoming season, as well as other sports. The long distance call is toll-free, and won't cost you anything.

Newsome scores 37 as Adams scores 66-46 win over Melvin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Shawn Newsome scored a game-high 37 points and Ryan Martin added nine points to lead the Adams Middle School Blackcats to a 66-46 win over the Melvin Cougars this past Monday night in grade school basketball.

"You have to give Adams credit, they have a very good team," said Melvin coach Tony Isaac. "The major difference was the fact they just out hustled us. We looked tired."

Rusty Tackett led Melvin in scoring with 21 points. Matt Smith added 17 for the Cougars.

"Rusty did not play his good game," said the Melvin coach. "In fact it was sloppy basketball all night."

It was a fourth barrage by Adams that broke open a game which was closer than the final score would indicate. Adams went on a 23-8 run in the fourth to open up the big lead. Newsome had 17 field goals in the game, and all were under the basket.

"He shot layups on us all night long," said Coach Isaac. "We couldn't stop him."

Adams led 18-16 after the first quarter, with Newsome scoring 13 points in the opening period. Matt Turner hit a three-pointer in the first. Tackett scored nine of his 21 points in the first quarter for Melvin. Smith hit a three-point basket and had six points in the first. Jeremy Tackett also buried a trey, and had five first-quarter points.

Melvin trailed 31-28 at the half, as Newsome scored 10 points in the second quarter. The Cougars trailed by only five after the third quarter, with Adams holding Tackett to just one point in the third. Smith picked up the scoring for the Cougars with six points. Kevin McKinney hit a three-point basket in the stanza.

Tackett scored all eight points for Melvin in the fourth quarter, hitting two three-point baskets. Chris Spriggs came off the Adams bench and scored six points in the fourth. T.C. Hatfield and Ryan Martin had four fourth-quarter points for the Blackcats.

"Adams just out ran us," said Coach Isaac. "We just ran out of gas the last four minutes of the game. We were tired. We have three starters who are playing in the junior pro league here at Wheelwright and I think that is hurting them."

Melvin hit six three-point baskets in the game. Smith and Tackett had two apiece. Tackett finished with five points for Melvin, and McKinney scored three. Rusty Tackett pulled down 11 rebounds for Melvin, had six steals and three assists. McKinney had seven boards and Tackett six. Tackett had five assists in the game.

Big fourth quarter lifts Allen over McDowell Lady Daredevils

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Ramanda Music scored 22 points and Rachel Mitchell added nine as Allen turned back a good McDowell team, 35-24 in a low-scoring affair Monday night at Allen.

Music, who was held to zero field goals in the first half, scored 13 points in the fourth quarter to lead the Allen charge.

"McDowell played good defense," said Allen coach Ashland Gearheart. "If Mandy hadn't had a big fourth quarter, we would have been in trouble."

Allen scored only two points in the opening quarter, and that came on two free throws by Music. McDowell led 6-2 after the first period. Jessica Paige, Stephanie Skeans and Megan Ousley had field goals for McDowell.

Allen trailed 9-8 at the half, as neither team could find the basket in the second period. Mitchell had the only field goal for either team.

The two teams played even in the third quarter as McDowell took a 16-15 lead into the fourth quarter. But Music turned up her offense and led a 20-8 Allen run that resulted in a victory. Beth Joseph scored four points for Allen.

Ousley led McDowell with 13 points. Paige finished with six points. Skeans and Leigh Ann Tuttle tossed in two apiece. Sarah Johnson had one point.

Amy Morgan, Brandi Bowers and Brandi Anderson scored two apiece.

Stephanie Hall led Prater Creek with seven points. Angela Akers had the other two for the Lady Cougars.

Mitchell scored eight of her points in the first quarter as Osborne led 20-5 at the first stop. Johnson had 10 points in the period. Hall scored all five of Prater's points.

Betsy Layne falls hard

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Betsy Layne will host Feds Creek Thursday night in their home opener.

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats opened their 1997-98 basketball schedule on a rather low note as they went on the road in visiting Jenkins this past Monday night, and suffered a 81-54 setback at the hands of the Lady Cavaliers. Jenkins placed four players in double figures in a balanced scoring attack. Jensen scored 28 points to lead all scorers. Sampson added 16, and Vanover netted 14 points. Duty tossed in 10 points.

Jessica Clark led Betsy Layne with her 16 points. Sabrina Yates was the only other Lady Cat in double figures with 10 points. Heather Kidd scored eight, and Rachel Thompson had seven points.

It was a close first half, with Jenkins owning a 28-24 halftime lead. The Lady Cav's led 14-7 after the first quarter, but Betsy Layne outscored Jenkins in the second period to trail by only four at half-time.

It was all Jenkins in the second half, as Jensen lead the Lady Cavalier charge. Jenkins led 53-38 after three quarters in a 25-14 spurt.

Shenna Akers came off the Betsy Layne bench, and scored six points. Amanda Hall finished with two points, as did Hamilton. Leslie Hopkins added three for Betsy Layne.

Help needed in Christmas for children

The Evergreen Bowling Center will hold their Second Annual Christmas for Kids for the area's head start children, and is in need of assistance from local people.

The goal of the drive is for the area's 365 head start kids to each have a gift this Christmas. To reach that goal, help is needed. You can help one of two ways, or even both. Buy a gift for a 3-to 4-year-old to place under the big Evergreen Christmas Tree, or contribute money and the center will do the shopping for you.

Also, volunteers are needed to help with the Kid's Christmas Party when all the goodies and gifts are passed out. Some could bake cookies for the party, or help with the gift wrapping. For more information on how you can help, call 886-1400 for details.

Breathitt explodes in fourth to rout Prestonsburg 108-74

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Jackie Day Crisp made his high school coaching debut this past Monday night, and his Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats were impressive, even though they did drop a 108-74 decision to 14th Region powerhouse Breathitt County. The 108 points is the most scored in a girl's game at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

Prestonsburg placed three players in double figures, led by Crystal Stone and Shelly Greathouse's 22 points each. Kimi Nunnery added 16 points.

Prestonsburg played the Lady Bobcats close through three quarters, but Breathitt County exploded for 36 points in the fourth quarter in outscoring Prestonsburg 36-13 in the final stanza.

The first quarter was an offensive quarter to say the least, as both teams combined for 52 points in the opening period. Breathitt owned a 27-25 lead after the first quarter. At halftime the Lady Bobcats were clinging to a 45-41 advantage.

Breathitt County started to put some distance between them and Prestonsburg in the third period, outscoring the Lady Blackcats 27-20 in the third period to lead 72-61 after three quarters.

Five players scored in double figures for Breathitt County led by High with 26 points. Mullins scored 25, and Holbrook 13. Hendrickson netted 16, while Gross finished with 10 points.

Jessi Burke and Amelia Conley scored four points each for Prestonsburg. Ladonna Slone tossed in two, and Brandi Wells added two. Sarah Mullet scored one point.

The 108 points is the most scored in a girl's game at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

Melvin Lady Cougars upset Adams, 36-31

added 12. Toni Little scored seven points.

The remarkable thing about the game was from the charity stripe, where Melvin hit 26-of-40 attempts. They shot 26 free throws in the fourth quarter alone, and only had one field goal. Thornsby had hit four in a row before missing four in a row. She had the only field goal for the Lady Cougars in the fourth period. Williams attempted 14 free throws in the fourth quarter, hitting seven.

"It was a big win for us," said proud of every one of them. They were tickled to death."

Melvin trailed all through the fouled out of the game.

Erin MaJakey led Adams with 11 points. She hit a three-pointer in the fourth quarter. Ashleigh Ousley was held to just four points before fouling out. Heather Nelson and Andrea Goble each the third period but hit six-of-six free throws to stay close, trailing 20-18 after three quarters.

Ross scored three points for Adams. Tiffany Frasure added two, and Shepherd scored two. Mullins had one point.

"It is the first time we have beaten a big team this year."

It was perhaps the biggest win in a long time for the Lady Cougars of Melvin as they pulled off a 36-31 win over the Adams Middle School Lady Blackcats Monday night at Adams.

Tiffany Williams and Ashley Thornsby combined for 25 points in leading Melvin to their fifth win of the season. Williams finished with 13 points, and Thornsby

ROBERTS TO RETIRE, ROBERTSON JUST TO REST AS ROAD RACE SEASON ENDS

The racing season is drawing to a close, and one of the last races of the year was held Saturday, in Wheelersburg, Ohio. Two Floyd County runners, Rick Roberts of Auxier, and Prestonsburg's Jesse Robertson, participated in the Run Your Turkey Off 5K Road Race in Wheelersburg.

It was career race #599 for Roberts, who finished 14th overall, and second in his age group at Wheelersburg. Roberts plans to run one more race on December 6 in Huntington, W.Va. After that race, Roberts intends to retire from racing. Over the course of his career, he has consistently placed among the top runners.

The Wheelersburg race was the last of the year for Robertson, giving him a total of 40 races for 1997. Robertson placed fourth overall and won his age group with a time of 17:31. It was the first race outside of Kentucky for Robertson, who said this has been his best season in a career where he set course records a three of the road races he attended in '97. Robertson said, "It is time to rest a couple of weeks and then start running again."

BELCHER GETS FIRST ACE

Bruce Belcher, former Wheelwright Trojan basketball standout, was an excited golfer, well sort of, after getting his first-ever hole-in-one at the Johns Creek Golf Course this past weekend.

Belcher, who started to use a 6-iron, switched to an 8-iron in sinking the hole and Bruce decided to switch to a 8-iron."

"He started to use a 6-iron and I told him I thought it was a little too much iron," said Hall. "I overshot the hole and Bruce decided to switch to a 8-iron."

Belcher was named to the 1961 All-State Tournament team when the Trojans made the Sweet Sixteen.

caught while fishing at Cave Run Lake toward the end of October. He delayed in having the fish mounted to hang on his wall. Two days before he was to have the bass mounted, he caught a 23-inch bass that weighed in at six-and one-half pounds.

"I'm glad that I waited before I had the other fish mounted," said Endicott. "That's my biggest fish yet."

KDFWR COMMISSION TO MEET DECEMBER 5

The next meeting of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) Commission will be Friday, December 5 at 8 a.m.

This meeting will be held in the Arnold L. Mitchell Building at the Game Farm on US 60 West in Frankfort.

The KDFWR Commission recommends all hunting, fishing and boating laws for passage by the Kentucky General Assembly and approves expenditures made by the department.

LAFFERTY, JERVIS BAG DOE ON WMA YOUTH HUNT

ENTRY DEADLINE FOR BLUEGRASS WINTER GAMES

The first entry deadline for the first-ever Bluegrass Winter Games is Wednesday, December 17. It applies to basketball, bowling, chess, martial arts, power tumbling, racquetball, 5K road race, and table tennis.

Entry booklets were mailed to 1997 Summer Games participants and are available from the Floyd County Times, parks and recreation departments and SuperAmerica stores.

To request an entry booklet be mailed to their homes, citizens need to call the Bluegrass State Games office at 1-800-722-BGSG (2474).

Winter Games events will be held at 25 venues in Lexington, Louisville, and Richmond the weekends of January 2-4, January 10-11, and January 24. Early registration is encouraged because some events, like volleyball and 5-on-5 basketball, have limits on the number of participants that can be accommodated.

The Bluegrass State Games are a project of the Governor's Commission on Sports, Physical Activity, and Wellness.

MARTIN: "TAURUS WILL BE READY FOR DAYTONA"

In Japan for the NASCAR Suzuka Thunder, Mark Martin had the following comments about his team, and the new Ford Taurus that will replace the Thunderbird in 1998. "Well, first let me say, the Valvoline team won't have any time off. When I get back, we'll continue testing. There's a lot of work to be done. We've run wind-tunnel tests, and we'll be running more, plus other testing. "May fans seem to think that, because we don't have any racing going on that we aren't busy, but that's not true. We aren't on the road as much, but everyone in the shop is as busy as they are during the season. Maybe busier. Most of the shop people work 10-hours a day, six-days a week. That's just the way it has to be done in order to be ready for Daytona. We're not ready yet, but we will be ready come Daytona. Yes sir, you can bet we'll be ready."

WALTRIP OUT OF TRUCK RACING

Do you have a couple extra million you would like to invest? Want to buy a Craftsman Truck Series team all ready to go? Then you might want to give Darrell Waltrip a call. According to a press release, he has six trucks, a transporter, tractor plus engines, and parts up for sale. After the season finale Craftsman Truck event at Las Vegas Motorspeedway, driver Rich Bickle gave Waltrip notice that he was quitting the team. Two weeks later, Sears, announced that they would not be sponsoring any individual teams for 1998.

"We no longer have a truck team, and have no plans to continue the program," said Darrell Waltrip. Motorsports' spokesperson, Keith Waltz, commented "We are talking with a possible buyer, and at this time all our truck personnel have been transferred to the Winston Cup team."

Waltrip has said he intends to run another season in the Winston Cup series, but as of now, he has no primary sponsor.

IS WINSTON WEST SERIES NEXT MAJOR ONE?

Not too many fans in the east pay much attention to racing in the western half of the country, but it's growing -- fast.

In 1971, R.J. Reynolds initiated its sponsorship of the series with a $10,000-point fund. In November 18, they announced they would boost the point's fund from its present $50,000 to $300,000.

"Everyone -- teams, track operators and fans -- have responded enthusiastically that this will aid the NASCAR Winston West Series in fulfilling its potential," said Reynolds. Spokesperson Dan Henley, commented "NASCAR racing is the fastest-growing sport in America, and we intend to see that the Winston West Series rides the crest of this wave."

In addition to the short-track races at Altamont Raceway, near Tracy, California; there are Evergreen Speedway in Monroe, Oregon; Mesa Marin in Bakersfield; Portland, Oregon; Tucson, Arizona; Pikes Peak, Colorado, and there are now two new superspeedways in California and Las Vegas.

"With the increasing strength and depth of the competition, we can predict that NASCAR Winston West Series racing will be a significant and exciting part of NASCAR's 50th Anniversary celebration in 1998," said Dennis Huth of NASCAR.

Music pumps in 22 as Allen Lady Eagles edge Martin Lady Flashes

by Ed Taylor

Ramanda Music and Bethany Joseph combined for 34 points to lead the Allen Lady Eagles to a 46-45 edging of the Martin Lady Flashes last Monday night in elementary basketball. Music finished with a game-high 22 points, and Joseph netted 12 points.

Martin got 14 points from Jaclyn Martin, but she was hurt mid-way of the fourth quarter, and never re-entered the game. Megan Hyden scored 10 for Martin. Martin trailed 10-8 after the initial quarter, with Music scoring four points for Allen. Martin held her without a field goal in the second quarter in a 17-7 run that netted Martin a 25-17 halftime lead. Joseph hit a three-pointer in the quarter just before halftime.

Music carried the Eagles in the third period with six points, and Joseph had three as Allen found themselves down 37-30 after three quarters.

Music then led the charge in the fourth for the Lady Eagles with 10 points and a comeback win.

Jessica Issac scored six points for Martin. Jaclyn Brown, Leigh Ann Brown, and Jenny Spurlock had four points each for Martin. Terri Mullins scored two points.

Chanel Music, Falon Osborne, Rachel Mitchell, Cara Collins, Amber Marsillett and Taryn Harris all scored two points each for Allen.

McDowell hands Harold Lady Red Devils 42-31 setback

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Lady Daredevils got 13 points from Jessica Paige, and nine points from Stephanie Skeans, to post a 42-31 win over the Lady Red Devils of Harold in girl's grade school basketball.

Trish Robinson led Harold with 11 points, and Whitney Lykens had eight, as did Tasha Rice.

McDowell held a slim 10-7 first-quarter lead, and went to the locker room clinging to a 16-11 advantage. Paige had scored half of the McDowell points, eight, in the first two quarters. Rice had six points for Harold in the first half.

The third quarter turned out to be the deciding period, as McDowell outscored Harold 12-8 to lead 28-19 after three quarters. Trish Robinson buried a three-point basket in the fourth quarter for Harold in trying to lead the comeback. Amy Keathley had two points in the fourth for Harold, and finished with two.

Leigh Ann Tuttle scored six points for McDowell. Megan Ousley finished with seven, and Awards you won't see!

Friday night will be the last official function of the 1997 season. New York City will take on a southern flavor this week as NASCAR teams flock to the Big Apple for the annual awards banquet this Friday at the fabled Waldorf-Astoria. For the top ten drivers in the final point standings, it will be a chance to take center stage and be afforded the opportunity to thank all the people that made it possible for them to have such a great year.

More importantly to the drivers and teams is the fact that the top 25 teams will all pick up a bonus check from R.J. Reynolds, ranging from at least $1.5 million to the Winston Cup Champion down to $25,000 for the 25th-place finisher.

For the length of the program, you would think that they would be giving out awards for just about everything that went on during the exciting 1997 season. The truth of the matter is that those things that interest us fans the most are overlooked on this night, so it is up to me to try and recognize some very deserving people that may be overlooked this Friday. So, the following is the first ever:

THE FAN'S CHOICE AWARDS: DRIVER WHO DIDN'T BELONG IN NASCAR: This award didn't even have anyone getting any votes other than Robbie Gordon. Seems that maybe Robbie was just driving for Sabates to get him to sponsor an entry in the Indy 500 for him!

BEST CONTACT ON THE TRACK: The "love tap" between Jeff Gordon and Rusty Wallace during the last turn of the Food City

500 at Bristol spoke volumes. With that little tap it was if he was saying, "it is time for you to move on now and let a new generation of short track experts take over."

MOST TEARS IN VICTORY LANE: Jeff Burton's first-ever NASCAR victory at the inaugural race at Texas had both him and his wife forcing NASCAR officials to put out a caution flag for a wet track to victory lane. It will have to go down as one of the more emotional scenes in victory lane.

WORST CALL BY NASCAR OFFICIALS: Just think back to Martinsville and the call made on Rusty Wallace for a premature start after a caution. The Miller driver had led all day, and was just a handful of laps from the finish when NASCAR pointed its finger at him and made him go all the way to the back of the field.

BEST PARTING OF THE

WAY: The way that Bobby Hamilton and Richard Petty decided to split up after this year could be used as a model for all owners and drivers. After the late summer announcement that Hamilton would be leaving to join the Kodak team in '98, the STP teams started to come on strong. The best finishes of the season, and even a win, came after the announcement of their departure.

BEST QUOTE FROM A TRACK OWNER: Roger Penske gets this one for his statement, "I don't want another race date until I am sure that we have all the kinks worked out in California." Did you hear that Bruton?

There you have it, a few awards that won't be recognized in New York, but to a race fan like myself, those are some of the moments that will forever make 1997 one of the best years ever in NASCAR.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)--A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis® is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Animal Control Is Out Of Control In Kentucky.

In half of Kentucky's 120 counties, there are no animal shelters for lost or homeless pets.

In many shelters now, there's filth, disease and some folks say you don't want to know what goes on inside.

This is no way to treat man's best friend.

Help homeless animals find shelter.

SPORTS IN KENTUCKY

When (UK & UofL foe) Ole Miss shows up in polls

When Ole Miss showed up 14th in the coaches' basketball poll this week, seven notches behind Kentucky and 11 ahead of Louisville, it was time for an early look at the college rankings. The Rebels play here twice this season — at Louisville Dec. 22, and at Kentucky Feb. 14.

The usual suspects top the coaches poll — unbeaten Duke, North Carolina and Kansas. All are legitimately 1-2-3, but then the water gets murky. Arizona and Purdue are 4-5. Coach Gene Keady's Boilermakers were most impressive against North Carolina in Alaska last week.

South Carolina is 6th, and Kentucky 7th, with the rest of the poll a forgettable scramble. Are Tubby Smith's Wildcats rated too high? More than the Arizona one, a meeting with impressive Purdue Wednesday on a neutral floor (ESPN) should be a defining game for Kentucky's December pedestal.

Against Clemson at the weekend, UK's execution was better, but regrettably the Wildcats still don't exude the kind of prevailing confidence and flare that has characterized UK in recent years. Solution? A home-stand. Beginning Dec. 13 with Georgia Tech, a 5-game stand tips at Rupp Arena.

A sidelight about the rankings — No. 19 Temple and No. 25 Louisville could well be in the Top 10 by February. Both exhibit the kind of potential to "get cooking" and soar into the upper reaches. High ranking in February is the only one that matters — plants seeds with NCAA Tournament selectors on which teams to choose, where they are bracketed, and in which regions.

LOUISVILLE CARDS

A tournament week into the season, Louisville is a team with much promise to grow up to Final Four contender-ship. In Puerto Rico, Denny Crum's Cardinals showed flashes of why they can become a special team. With seasoning, newcomers Cameron Murray and Marques Maybin, along with platooners Tony Williams and Eric Johnson, may be a backcourt to rival Milt Wagner and Lancaster Gordon.

Inside, Alex Sanders, Damion Dantzler and Nate Johnson could make UofL a better and more exciting team, unencumbered by a plodding big man.

The Cards should have beaten Georgia Tech Saturday, but experience won the day. Yet there were lessons learned as there will be in matches with North Carolina, Purdue and Arkansas coming next.

A pivotal early season game for Louisville might be Arkansas insofar as determining if UofL will/can maintain discipline and control against an opponent that often plays out of control and lures its foes into doing likewise.

UK BOSS NIKE TAKING MORE HITS

A season for Grinch and Scrooge, and somebody has to do it, so allow me. Last week when some sports writers were bellowing righteously about the new NBC/NBA $4.6 billion contract; a decline of sportsmanship; Mickey Mantle's last lover selling off the late Yankee's things, including a lock of hair; and preachings about Wayne Huizenga's fire sale of the Florida Marlins, I was wondering why nobody in Kentucky paid much attention to what America's television nosy networks were up to.

(With tongue firmly in cheek), I'm thinking, hey, ABC and the other American television networks ought to keep their cameras facing Gulfward on Saddam Hussein, and stop sniffing around and making noise in Japan about UK's boss Nike Corp. twisting arms to keep its shoe prices high in Tokyo.

And the networks should stop with the exposes on Nike sweat shops and slave wages in SE Asia, too. Be quiet! You're meddling with Kentucky's economy here.

After all, a slice of Nike loot is coming home to the good old USA ... and, after Michael gets his cut, a truckload is going into UK athletic department bank accounts. So, all you network wonks, stuff a sock in it and pick on another Fortune 500 business.

If Nike isn't left alone to get its declining numbers back up, then how can we expect UK's economy to remain solvent? Unless Nike sales numbers start to improve soon we could see another trickle down to tuition hike at UK which could eliminate another layer of wannabe-UK students whose families can barely afford to send their kids to the state's flagship U, as it is.

This national media scrutiny ... let's all hope Saddam puts another palace off limits to inspectors, or maybe George Steinbrenner will buy Mexico City, so these network guys will have something to put on the tube besides the price of shoes in Tokyo?

Right, C.M.?

OBSERVATIONS

✓ Whoever set UK's basketball schedule, thanks for a fan-flavored December. Arizona, Missouri, Clemson, Purdue, Indiana, Georgia Tech and Louisville should raise the Wildcats' levels of execution to match levels of expectation.

✓ Scout report on UK's Scott Padgett: Make him shoot off the dribble every time.

✓ For those who have played basketball, do you get the idea no matter where the game or at what time, Arizona's Mike Bibby simply 'lights up' against Kentucky?

✓ We know Mike Krzyzewski knows he has something special when, after Duke whacked Arizona last week, the Blue Devils coach said: "We still need to work on things, like bringing the ball up court against pressure and late (game) free-throw shooting."

✓ Marques Maybin, Louisville. Hottest newcomer to college hoops with neat name to match?

✓ With former Arizona State basketball players being indicted for point-shaving, wonder if ex-players at other schools are running for cover?

✓ Wish I could say honestly,

"Ralph Hacker is getting better." Can you?

✓ Meanwhile, everything considered, Tom Leach working UK football was an A, and misses an A-plus only because he screamed a bit too often.

✓ Leading candidate for the Pout&Quit Award: UCLA Bruins.

✓ Whatever happened to Eric Manuel?

HEISMAN BALLOT

Peyton Manning, still. And a note to those hyping Michigan's Charles Woodson: Show us his academic numbers. Show us his football numbers from seasons past. Surely, Jimmy Heisman had in mind the award would go to a student-athlete, and not necessarily the next-best flamboyant NFL prospect.

And, if Heisman voters have been itching for years to vote for a non-quarterback, as one member of the media herd insinuated last week, then why didn't Ohio State lineman Orlando Pace win in a landslide a year ago?

UK FOOTBALL RECRUITING

From all indications, UK football is enjoying a traffic jam and will have a veritable smorgasbord to choose from in dispensing its 20-plus scholarships starting in February. Several hundred high schools and handful of JUCOs are still in the recruiting hopper.

And, according to one analyst, "It's going to be quite an upset if Kentucky doesn't sign both the Harrodsburg kids (Dennis Johnson and Julius Yeast)."

DIS 'N DATA

✓ High school football in Kentucky will miss the likes of Owen Hauck, Boone County's football coach who retired this week after 45 years in the profession. Does anyone stay in any job that long anymore?

✓ Through games played Nov. 21, if the 26 coaching victories Owen Hauck posted at Mt. Healthy, Ohio were added to his Kentucky total ... and if 20 coaching victories MoJo Hollowell had at John Marshall High, Ind. were added to his, then state leader Joe Jagers of North Hardin, Hauck of Boone County and Hollowell at Owensboro Catholic would all have a Bluegrass State best, 284.

✓ "There's a high school player at Montgomery County who's going to be special," Bob Butler of Mt. Sterling said three years ago. "Remember this name. Beth Vice. Just remember."

This preseason, Beth Vice, who has signed with Alabama, is a candidate for Kentucky Miss Basketball.

✓ Ever wonder why snappy NBA advertisements never mention ticket prices?

PARTING SHOT

Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski on four-quarter experiment in college basketball this pre-season: "We already have a great game, and I don't think the motivation was to make the game better. I think it was to get another time-out."

And so it goes.

King-Randolph is inducted into Toledo, Ohio Athletic Hall of Fame

Rhonda King-Randolph, daughter of Rodney and Mary L. King, granddaughter of Draxie B. Newsome of Ligon, the late Lark Newsome and the late Rev. Ernest King and Ethel King, will be inducted into the University of Toledo Athletic Hall of Fame on January 23, 1998 for her numerous accomplishments as a student/athlete.

Seven years after playing her last inning as a Rocker first baseman, Randolph is still in the record book as the leader in six different categories: slugging percentage (.494), doubles (42), home runs (19), runs batted in (131), total bases (31), and walks (79).

While rewriting the record books, Randolph received numerous awards for her efforts.

She is the first female athlete in Rocket athletic history to earn All-American first-team honors.

As a three-time All-MAC performer, she helped lead the Rockets to 131 wins, including a MAC title, and a seventh place finish in the College World Series in 1989.

After her career at Toledo, Randolph was honored by an invitation to try out for the United States Olympic softball team.

Randolph graduated from UT in 1990 with a degree in public relations, and is currently the head soft-

Messiah
 The Prestonsburg Community College Community Chorus, under the direction of M. Michael Conley, associate professor of music, will perform Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, December 7, at 3 p.m. at the Mountain Arts Center. Admission is free.

Remember the three-cent stamp?

I stopped at the post office on my way to work the other morning, and noticed hanging in the lobby a sign featuring a lady's hand holding a shiny new penny. In bold letters it announced that the postal-service is seeking a one-cent increase in the first-class stamp, effective in May 1998.

Poison Oak

Clyde Pack

I hasten to add that when one considers the price of everything else and what we'll actually get for the 33 cents, it will still be a bargain. Anyway, I guess it's because I'm old, but as I drove on to work, my memory delivered some vivid pictures of the old Muddy Branch Post Office of the 1940s.

I can remember Mom giving me a dime and three letters to mail and warning me not to lose the change. A first-class stamp was only three cents.

Airmail stamps were six cents, though, and you put those on letters in special envelopes with red and white stripes around the edges. And, when I was six years old, there were a lot of airmail stamps sold because just about everybody had somebody in the service. It tickled me to death when we'd get a letter from one of my older brothers who was in the navy.

A penny postcard, as I recall, was still just a penny.

I guess it says a lot about how much there was to do in those days, but it really was a big deal for me to go to the post office. It was fun just to be there when a man on the C & O passenger train would throw off the mail sack as it sped by each weekday morning. We got a double-dose of excitement on those days when the train had to stop and the man would have to hand down certain fragile items, like a crate of biddies or some fruit trees. I was standing right there beside the tracks the morning he gingerly handed down the mandolin I had ordered from Montgomery Ward. I'd saved up for it myself; I'd ordered it myself; and, I had planned to teach myself to play. Suffice it to say, two out of three ain't bad.

Generally speaking, my memories regarding the old post office are pleasant ones. But, as is the case with most everything else, there are certain unpleasant ones that from time to time seem to creep in, too.

It was on a trip to the post office that I lost the first dog I ever owned. His name was Skippy, and he was a little brown and white feist. He had tagged along one morning when I had gone to get the mail. I was just stepping out of the door when Skippy, who was supposed to be sitting outside waiting for me, darted across the highway after a cat. He was killed by a car.

I remember standing there beside the road looking down at him for a long, long time, until Marshall VanHoose stopped his car and picked me up and took me home. I don't remember who picked up Skippy and buried him. For a long time, though, it wasn't much fun going to the post office.

Children learn lessons from role-playing

by Janice Shepherd
 Managing Editor

In a classroom setting at the Mountain Arts Center in November, children, ranging in age from five to eight years old, rehearsed a scene from an adaptation of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

In a lackadaisical rehearsal, some of the children recited from memory, while others completely forgot their lines. Director Joe Clark did not seem happy as he watched the youngsters.

Taylor Boyd, portraying Scrooge, and Lara Daniels, in the role of the ghost of Christmas past watched the scene unfold as they waited on the edge of the make-believe stage. As the scene concluded, Scrooge turned to the ghost and said: "Spirit, can we leave now?"

The children began running off the stage to prepare for another scene, but they stopped immediately when Clark said, "No, you can't."

"I had my hand on my watch during that entire scene, that scene was so ugly," Clark told the children.

"You can do better, Clark said, and turned to a child who did not know any of his lines. "Do you know why you can do better?" the director asked.

"Because I'm not studying my lines," the youngster answered, and Clark nodded.

He then gently, but firmly, explained to the children about the preparation required for their roles and, by the time he finished talking to them, they were giggling and dancing and ready to put more into their characters.

That scene was typical of Clark's ability to make learning fun, according to Misty Daniels, education coordinator at the Mountain Arts Center. The children had just received a lesson in discipline in the guise of play.

The children — most of whom were too young to read beyond basic ABCs — grabbed their script books, stretched out on the floor, propped their chins in their hands and perused their parts.

"Aren't they just precious?" Clark asked Daniels.

One small child, who portrayed one of Bob Cratchet's children and was full of energy during the rehearsal, asked Clark if her dance routine was okay.

"You're just a little dynamo," Clark said. "Honey, you can dance."

He pointed to another youngster and said: "You can dance, too. Why don't you go over there and dance with little Miss Firecracker?"

The two children started dancing, and the rest of the youngsters started laughing and seemed to be having a great time as they went through numerous scenes.

The children are members of the primary class at the Children's Theatre Workshop at the Mountain Arts Center. They will perform "A Christmas Carol," on December 15 at the Mountain Arts Center.

Clark, who is the children's theatre's director, writes original scripts for some of the plays the children perform. In other productions, he adapts scripts to make them more meaningful to the children and to the audience.

For instance, children in the age group nine through twelve will present "The Little Red Ridinghood Christmas Special, a tale about a dysfunctional family. The story takes place after Little Red Ridinghood is saved from the wolf by the woodsman. Little Red Ridinghood's mom marries the woodsman and, although Little Red Ridinghood loves her stepfather, things aren't so happy in the Ridinghood home and a social worker gets involved with the family.

Daniels said Clark's scripts have "almost a Simpson-type of humor."

Clark's sense of humor has the audiences at the rehearsals, as well as at the performances, chuckling. His shows are becoming popular — at last semester's concluding performance, 350 people were in the audience.

During a show last semester, the parent of a youngster watched in trepidation because she knew her son had a problem with shyness.

"I was a nervous wreck," Sandy Tackett said.

Her son, though, had no problems on stage.

"(Jordan) was a real trooper. It blew me away. It went just like clockwork. It was well-rehearsed and well-planned."

"It's incredible. He (Jordan) wouldn't get up and say his name (in the first classes). Jordan watched the first few classes. It was to the point if he didn't get up and do it, I wasn't going to pay for more lessons," Tackett said.

Education coordinator Misty Daniels said the youngster only watched from the sidelines and would not participate in the scenes when he first started attending the acting classes.

Clark helped to change that, both

EXTENSION NEWS

Each year home economists receive thousands of questions relating to food safety and the preparation of the traditional holiday turkey. Here is an outline of those questions and the answers. Following these scientifically proven and SAFE methods will help to ensure that your families foods are safe as well as enjoyable and nutritious.

Knowing the answers for your holiday season

What is the best way to roast a turkey?

Place a thawed or fresh turkey, breast up, on a flat rack in a shallow pan, 2-2 1/2 inches deep. Insert oven-safe meat thermometer into the thickest part of the thigh. Brush or rub skin with oil to prevent drying of the skin and to enhance the golden color.

Place in preheated 325 degree oven. When the skin is golden color and the turkey is about two-thirds done, shield the breast loosely with a tent of lightweight foil to prevent overcooking of the breast. Use the following schedule as a guideline; start checking for doneness 1/2 hour before recommended end times:

Net Weight (pounds)	Unstuffed (in hours)	Stuffed (in hours)
10 to 18	3 to 3 1/2	3 3/4 to 4 1/2
18 to 22	3 1/2 to 4	4 1/2 to 5
22 to 24	4 to 4 1/2	5 to 5 1/2
24 to 30	4 1/2 to 5	5 1/2 to 6 1/4

Test the degree of doneness with the meat thermometer. The internal temperature should reach 180-185 degrees F deep in the thigh; also, juices should be clear, not pink when the thigh muscle is pierced deeply. Just above the rib bones at the thickest part of the breast the temperature should reach 170-175 degrees. If the bird is cooked with stuffing, the internal temperature should reach 160-165 degrees.

How do you recommend handling a turkey so it's safe to eat?

- Thaw frozen turkey in the refrigerator or cold water. Never thaw at room temperature!
- Keep thawed or fresh turkey in a refrigerator.
- Prevent juices from dripping onto other foods in the refrigerator by placing wrapped turkey on a tray.
- Thawed turkey may be kept in a refrigerator up to four days before cooking
- Roast fresh turkey as soon as possible, but no later than the "use by" date on the packaging.
- Place raw poultry on non-porous surfaces; these are easy to clean. Avoid wooden cutting boards.

- Use paper towels, not cloth, to dry off turkey, and wipe up juices.
- Stuff turkey just before roasting, not the night before. Leave enough room for juices—do not pack too firmly.
- Wash hands, work surfaces and utensils touched by raw poultry and its juices with hot, soapy water.
- Use cooking methods that allow the turkey to reach an internal temperature of 140 degrees F in less than four hours. Avoid using low roasting temperatures or partial cooking methods.
- Use a meat thermometer to determine the turkey's doneness.
- Store turkey, stuffing, gravy, broth and other cooked foods properly within two hours after cooking (or after the meal).

How can leftover turkey be safely stored?

Within two hours after roasting, remove stuffing from turkey and carve the meat off the bones, then place in refrigerator or freezer.

Refrigerator Storage: Wrap turkey slices and stuffing separately and use within three days. Frozen Storage: Wrap in heavy foil, freezer wrap or place in freezer container; for optimum taste, use stuffing within one month and turkey within two months.

Where should the meat thermometer be placed?

The meat thermometer is inserted into the thickest part of the thigh. In the thickest part of the breast and in the center of the stuffing cavity.

What is the proper way to stuff a turkey?

If you plan to stuff the turkey, remember that it is more difficult to ensure the safety of the food regarding foodborne illnesses. Turkeys that are roasted with stuffing require more cooking time than unstuffed birds.

- Stuff the turkey just before roasting, not the night before.
- Use 1/2 cup stuffing per pound for turkeys weighing up to 10 pounds; for turkeys more than 10 pounds, use 3/4 cup per pound.
- Stuff both cavities lightly; stuff the neck cavity first, then turn the wings back to hold neck skin in place or skewer if skin is too short; stuff body cavity, but do not truss or skewer it closed. Place extra stuffing in foil or casserole dish and cook along side the turkey during the last hour of roasting or until the stuffing's center is 160-165 degrees.

Laurice Rosier, whom Joe Clark (seated) calls "The Firecracker," practiced her lines as Kaitlyn Turner watched from the floor. Daniels and Tackett said.

Sandy Tackett said the acting classes had given her son confidence in his abilities and confidence to speak out. She credits Jordan's improved self-esteem to Clark.

"This is the only thing (that Jordan) has consistently liked. Joe (Clark) is good at judging Jordan's personality," Tackett said.

Misty Daniels said Clark's love for the children is apparent during his instruction time with them.

"Joe is an actor and a stand-up comedian, but I think he feels he's found his niche (working with children's theatre)," Daniels said.

"Joe can come in in the worst mood, but when he gets around his 'babies' he comes alive."

Clark teaches by making a game of whatever he's trying to instruct, according to Daniels. The first thing he does is teach some basic rules: no hands in pockets; no chewing gun, and "no talking when I'm talking."

Students also learn the proper way to breathe and speak. Older students work with a wide range of acting methods. They also learn stage direction.

The Children's Theatre sessions is open to students ages five and up. Classes are separated by age categories, including five through eight; nine through twelve; and thirteen and up.

Performances are held at the end of each semester, and the shows are free.

No classes are held in the summer months. For more information about the Children's Theatre, contact Daniels at 889-9125

POET'S CORNER

THE WASTED LIFE

There is nothing so sad as a wasted life. It's like the passing of time over troubled waters, which flows out into the sea of life, and is lost in the waves of the tide.

A life without meaning, like drift wood laying on the beach. That no one pays any attention to. Taking up space or have others to trip over.

The life of a person who has wanted it, touches the hearts of people more than the person who has had success, after success, right before their eyes. Waste has caused the world more problems, and trouble than any other kind of matter.

The trouble with the wasted life, is it wastes the lives of those who love them most. Causing broken hearts, and shed tears, that run out into troubled waters which run forever finding no place to rest.

How sad it is that every person who has wasted their life Always says I am hurting no one but myself. Not thinking how they are tearing apart those who love them.

While making a mark on the world, and all who have heard about them. There is no person too little, to mean or too lonely that someone can't reach, life is too short. So please don't waste it.

Kentucky ranked eighth in housing shipments

The Kentucky Manufactured Housing Institute (KMH) has announced that Kentucky ranked eighth nationally in manufactured housing shipments from January through the end of September, with total shipments of 9,058 homes.

Manufactured housing in Kentucky continues to be the best dollar for dollar value for potential home buyers, said Morris Hylton, KMH president, because manufactured homes can be built at about half the construction cost of conventionally-built homes.

To date, there have been 11,374 residential building permits issued in Kentucky. Of that total, manufactured home shipments represent 44.3 percent of new housing starts.

The East South Central Region, which includes Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Alabama, had total shipments of 41,816 homes.

Nationwide manufactured home shipments continue to remain steady with 149,437 homes shipped beneath January through September. Texas leads the way on the number of home shipments at 28,167 to date.

The Kentucky Manufactured Housing Institute is the statewide trade association representing retail dealers, manufacturers, service/supplier companies, community developments and other industry businesses operating in Kentucky.

Wal-Mart shares holiday sales with local charity

Wal-Mart will turn the flurry of holiday spending into an early present for Highlands Development Fund Breast Center by donating a percentage of store sales between 7 a.m. and noon on Saturday, December 6.

Store associates selected Highlands Development Fund Breast Center as the beneficiary of their annual holiday fund-raiser because of the difference the organization is making in the community.

"The holidays are an appropriate time to give something back to a deserving community program," said Greg Salyer, manager of the Wal-Mart store in Prestonsburg.

This season marks the fifth year Wal-Mart will donate a percentage of holiday sales to local charities. Wal-Mart stores nationwide contributed over $3.67 million to community charities through this activity last year.
