Boating enthusiasts put their canoes into the Big Sandy River on Saturday, September 26, during Prestonsburg's annual canoe race, fun float and triathalon. The race started behind Billy Ray's Restaurant in Prestonsburg and ended in Paintsville.

Council: late start, quick action

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Some Prestonsburg City Council members spent more time waiting for their meeting to begin Monday than they did conducting the city's business.

Several city council members and the mayor waited more than 40 minutes for a quorum at the council meeting. Once the quorum was in place, it was only a short time before city leaders finished their agenda.

Business at the meeting included the closing of a portion of North Lake Drive for the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival. Donna Blackburn Wells, chairperson of the festival committee, asked the city to close the street from a concrete pole near the IGA store in Prestonsburg to the red light in the center of town.

Wells asked that the street be closed Thursday, October 8, and Friday, October 9, from 6 p.m. to midnight, and all day on Saturday, October 10.

City attorney Paul Burchett recommended that Mayor Jerry Fannin check with the state about the closure since that highway is a state road.

The council agreed to close the highway if the state approved. After the meeting, Fannin contacted state highway officials and was told the closure was okay if the city provided advance notice to the public that the road will be closed.

Wells also provided council members with an update of festival activities and said that the committee had been "bombarded with phones calls" regarding crafts booths. The festival is providing free space for booths to crafters who make home-made items, and that is attracting a lot of crafts people, she said.

She expressed the committee's appreciation to the council for providing a tent to the festival for the crafts exhibit and said that, next year the festival may need to add extensions to the tent.

"If you have a multitude of people coming in — and the money's coming in — it's feasible to add another section on," councilman Hansel Cooley said.

In other business at the meeting, the council temporarily went out of session and became the Prestonsburg Holding Corporation to approve purchasing property at Trimble Branch from the Browning heirs.

The council agreed to borrow $85,000 to purchase the property, which is located across from Prestonsburg Elementary, from the Bank Josephine. A municipal park will be built at the site.

City council members also:

• agreed to serve as administrator of $200,000 that Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theater received from the state of Kentucky for payment of its debts;

• held reading of a resolution that will allow the city to accept $1,500,000 in state funds that will be used for the construction of the Prestonsburg Water and Sewer Project for the Mountain Top Economic/Recreational Project;

• conducted the first reading of an ordinance to adopt a supplement to its Code of Ordinances;

• awarded a bid for concrete to Hamilton Construction for curbs; and

• approved paying United Systems $10,750 for accounting software.

Council members attending included Robert Alletn, Bill R. Collins, Jerry Fannin, Hansel Cooley, Ralph Davis, and Danny Hamilton. Trent Nairn, Estill Ray Carter, and Gormon Collins were absent.

Board approves revised budget

By Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

To beat the October 1 state-mandated deadline for having a working budget in place, the Floyd County Board of Education met in special session on Tuesday, September 30, to approve a document for the 1998-99 school year.

A working budget can be amended any time during the year to meet the needs of the system.

Matthew C. Wireman, educational financial analyst, informed the board that more money is available than originally thought.

These additional funds reflect $646,490 for a beginning balance, $512,241 in additional SEEK Program Revenue, and a net increase of about $158,611 in available funding resulting from the reduction of operating expenses and increased expenditures from the consolidation of schools.

Wireman and Jerry A. Lyons, director of finance, listed the following as high priority items:

• Fiscal Year 1998 technology match which increased the budget by $158,611

• Copier lease which increased the budget by $58,000.

Also, the salary budgeted for hiring a board attorney was moved to the category of legal services and court judgment.

The purchase of three buses at a cost ranging from $130,000 to $160,000 was placed on the non-priority list. Board member Carol Stumbo said that the purchase of buses should be moved to the high priority list. A long discussion of concerns in transportation followed.

Stumbo reported that on some bus runs there are more students than can be seated and that students are spending as much as

Times adds two to editorial staff

The Times, they are a-changin'. But to some, it's old news.

Pam Shingler, who was associate editor and editor of the newspaper in the late 1980s and early '90s, is back as editor, responsible for the day-to-day news.

Pam Shingler

Willie Elliott, a frequent contributing writer for almost 10 years, has joined the news roster full time as staff writer.

Shingler, a Paintsville native who lives at David, most recently served as development director at The David School. She has also worked in continuing education and public relations at Prestonsburg Community College, as well as being an instructor of English.

She was the first director of the Kentucky Press Association News Bureau and has worked in public relations and journalism in Georgia, Arkansas and Pennsylvania. She earned a Bachelor of Arts in Journalism degree from the University of Georgia and has done graduate work at Georgia, the University of Pittsburgh and Morehead State University.

Willie Elliott

Elliott, who has spent most of his life at McDowell — "from the head of Frazier's Creek to the head of Royal Holler," he says — retired from the Floyd County School System after more than 25 years. He taught English at Wheelwright, McDowell and the consolidated South Floyd High School.

For two years after leaving the classroom, the Vietnam veteran was a writing consultant for 18 school districts in Region Eight.

A graduate of Alice Lloyd College, he received bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Kentucky University and a Rank One certificate from Morehead State University.

Allocation will advance Martin flood project

By Pam Shingler
Editor

A proposed flood control project for the city of Martin has received a boost from the US Congress.

A House-Senate Conference Committee last week agreed to provide $730,000 to continue work on a feasibility study for the project in Martin's low-lying center, which sprawls amid the juncture of Right and Left Beaver creeks and the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River.

The study, authorized by the Army Corps of Engineers and being carried out by the Lexington firm of PB Booker Associates Inc., is looking at a plan to relocate Mar-

Recognized for 25 years of service

The Floyd County Conservation District recognized Anna Sue Stumbo, of McDowell, for 25 years of distinguished service as a supervisor with an Honor Award from the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts for promoting conservation of natural resources. Anna served as secretary on the board of supervisors for the district. Pictured from left: Jim Carter II, chairman, presenting the award to Anna Sue Stumbo on July 19.

Red, White & Blue Day begins in two weeks

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

The city of Martin is preparing for its annual display of patriotism during Red, White and Blue Day.

Festivities begin on Thursday, October 15, with Casey's Carnival Rides, arts and crafts throughout the town, and gospel music on the bandstand in the old IGA parking lot. The gospel music gets underway at 7 p.m. with local groups performing.

Country music is Friday's focus on the bandstand. Performers include Highway 23, Southern Star and Misguided Roses.

On Saturday, from noon until 2 p.m, Marlow Tackett and his band will provide the entertainment at the bandstand. Tackett is a local performer who is nationally known and has released several recordings.

Other activities Saturday include the Turtle Trots at 10 a.m. in front of city hall; a car show at Star Bank; a 5K run at 8:30 a.m. in front of the former grade school; and a parade.

The Red, White, and Blue Day parade is devoted to veterans. It begins at 3 p.m. at Our Lady of the Way Hospital and ends at the Star Bank, according to city clerk Pam Justice, one of the organizers of the festival.

The parade will travel down Main Street, which will be closed to traffic from 2:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Carlton Mullins of Garrett will serve as the parade's grand marshall. Mullins served in the armed services for 30 years, Justice said. He is a member of the D.A.V. Chapter 128.

In addition to veterans, the parade will feature bands, majorette groups, beauty queens, and fire and rescue squad representatives. Allen Central's ROTC Honor Guard will lead the parade.

The festival also includes a beauty pageant. To enter, or for more information, call Imogene Robinson at 285-9569.

Conservation program sponsored by USDA

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has announced that the next Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up will be held during a seven-week period from October 26 through December 11, in USDA Service Centers across the nation.

"This is an opportunity for farmers and landowners to participate in a cost-effective, voluntary program to improve their land, water, and wildlife resources," Glickman said. "It is also an opportunity for current participants with contracts expiring next fall to make new contract offers."

USDA will continue to evaluate and rank eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) based on the potential environmental benefits gained from enrolling the land in the CRP. Decisions will be made on the EBI cutoff after sign-up 18 ends. The EBI cutoff used in previous sign ups may not be used for this one. The cutoff is decided after analyzing the EBI number of all the offers. Those who would have met previous EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contact this time around.

"CRP is a highly competitive program," Glickman said. "I encourage all landowners to find out about the Environmental Benefits Index before the December 11 cutoff and to consult with the experts on steps they can take to maximize EBI points and increase the likelihood that their land will be accepted."

The CRP is designed to improve the nation's natural resource base. Participants enter into contracts with USDA to enroll erodible and other environmentally sensitive land in long-term contracts—for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's local Farm Service Agency is located in Paintsville. Their phone number is (606) 789-3766.

three hours in transit to school each day. Much of this time is not actually spent on the bus but waiting for the bus.

Stumbo stated, "The time some students spend waiting for the bus and riding the bus is equal to one half day of school."

Transportation director Jody Sword informed the board that he was working to correct these problems. He pointed out that while this was not a good situation, it is not illegal to have students standing on buses as long the students don't block the aisle or exits in case of a collision.

After the board agreed to make the purchase of buses a high priority, state manager Arnold Carter pointed out that even if the system had the buses today, the system does not have the drivers to operate any extra buses that may be purchased.

Board member Jody Mullins and Sword contended that many of the problems in transportation could be solved if attendance boundaries were set. Carter and interim superintendent Michael King promised to get the attendance boundary committee together soon.

Another suggestion to correct the problems of overloaded buses and long stays at school was to have alternate bell schedules. One suggestion was to have a north run and a south run with different starting and closing times.

Board chairman Terry Dotson reminded the board that many parents work and cannot leave the children alone. Referring to such a plan, he quipped, "That dog's not going to hunt."

One item on the agenda, setting dates for reviewing and adopting board policy and procedures, will be discussed in sessions that will be scheduled for one day next week and one day the following week. Board attorney Mike Schmitt explained to the board that the existing polices were either taken wholesale from Kentucky School Board Association (KSBA) without being tailored to meet the needs of Floyd County or were made without the benefit of any legal advice.

Osborne Elementary became the second school to brief the board on all aspects of the school. May Valley was the first school to report to the board in this fashion, and all other schools will be giving reports during the school year.

During the report problems are identified and possible solutions suggested. Principal Paul Tackett said Osborne has a problem with textbooks because of the number of students who came from Melvin when the school was closed. Susan Compton from the central office explained the problem is that not all textbooks in any given grade are from the same series.

Chairman Dotson suggested that Osborne trade books with other schools. He said if trading did not correct the problem, the board would help with the purchase of textbooks so each class will have the same series. Dotson also posed the question: "If you had $25,000 would you spend it all on books?"

Stumbo commented on how important textbooks are for parents. She explained, "Parents see textbooks as one way they can help their children with school work."

Linda Holbrook, guidance counselor at Osborne, said that textbooks were a very important start to a good education plan.

In other matters the board approved a dropout prevention grant submitted by Ernie Tackett, principal of the alternative school. On this matter and others Stumbo encouraged the board to get the materials to members in time to be read before the meeting.

The board also declared the mobile classroom units at Harold, Prater, Melvin, and Auxier schools as surplus and will begin to advertise for sealed bids on these surplus properties.

King reported that the Floyd County system is understaffed by one-half position. Mullins commented that for a system that is consistently overstaffed this was welcome news and commended King on this action.

tin businesses and find new uses for the flood-prone part of the city.

Steve Radcliff, who heads the study phase of the Martin project for the Corps in Huntington, said this is the third year of a three-year study. He expects the $1.7 million study to be completed by September of 1999.

He added that the environmental assessment should be ready for public review by next spring. The Corps will then make a recommendation for the "least-cost alternative" for the city, he said.

The Congress and the President will then have to enact legislation to fund the project which Radcliff said is expected to cost "a minimum of $30 million and will take two to three years to complete."

Martin Flood Plain Administrator Pam Justice said she and members of the project task force, Dr. Mahendra Varia and Larry Greer, drove to Grundy, Va., on Tuesday to see how that city is moving on a similar project.

What the local task force hopes to do, Justice said, is buy homes and businesses that lie in the 100-year flood plain. Then, she said, the Corps of Engineers would develop a site out of the flood plain on which businesses could relocate.

The land subject to flooding could then be filled in and used by the city for parks or for residential sites.

"We want to create a beautiful town, one which people will enjoy living and shopping in," she said.

The most recent allocation for the project was announced by U.S. Congressman Hal Rogers' office. Rogers noted that Martin has been "plagued" by flooding for decades. "This will not only save lives, homes, and property, but it will also encourage businesses to expand and set up shop without worry of flood and mud."

SACS accreditation team visits June Buchanan School

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) Visiting Team visited The June Buchanan School on Monday and Tuesday, September 21 and 22, to assess the school's candidacy for SACS accreditation.

Gary Gibson, head of the JBS accreditation steering committee and the athletic director and teacher at JBS, hosted a reception for the visitors on Sunday night on the Alice Lloyd College/June Buchanan School campus in Pippa Passes. Gibson has led an extensive self-study of The June Buchanan School over the past year to prepare for the SACS visit.

"I can't thank all the people here enough," said Gibson. "The work that the teachers, staff, parents and students of JBS have put into this has been overwhelming. If Miss June was here right now, I know she would be very happy."

The SACS team is made up of teachers and administrators from regional schools who have been trained to help other schools assess their strengths and work on any weaknesses. The team is chaired by Sister Nancy Kordenbrook of Villa Madonna High School in Covington,KY, and representatives include Sandy Banks and Beverly Bates from Whitesburg High School, Madge Butcher and Martha Cotterill of Maysville St. Patrick, Mike Caudill of Hazard High School, Galen Combs and John Cooper of the Redbird Mission in Beverly, Tom Ford of Pike Central High School, and Robert Reynolds of Redbird Mission in Beverly, Tom Ford of Pike Central High School, and Robert Reynolds and Allison Vonantz of Richmond Model School.

"The purpose of SACS accreditation process is to help good schools become even better," said Sister Nancy. "We look forward to working with The June Buchanan School."

MSU grants degrees

Three Floyd County students have earned their degrees with honors from Morehead State University during the 1998 summer sessions.

They are:

• Jeremy E. Clark of Eastern, bachelor of business administration, magna cum laude.

• Donna R. Ousley of Martin, bachelor of social work, cum laude.

• Elizabeth J. Smith of Hi Hat, bachelor of science, cum laude.

To earn a degree magna cum laude, a student must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.6 to 3.89 on a 4.0 scale.

To earn a degree cum laude, a student must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 to 3.59 on a 4.0 scale.

Police seek information on Martin burglaries

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Martin City Police are continuing their investigation into a burglary last Tuesday at Smoke Shack on Route 80.

Police Chief Jeff Powell said the thief broke into the business and stole around $600 worth of cigarettes, Skoal, and Nintendo tapes.

The perpetrator pried bars off a back window to enter the building, Powell said.

The business is not located within city limits, but Martin officers were asked to investigate the incident, the chief said. Martin is a fourth class city, which gives the officers county-wide jurisdiction, he added.

The police department routinely responds to requests from other law enforcement agencies to work accidents and check out school alarms at locations outside the city limits, Powell said.

Two weeks ago, the city police received reports that someone was checking city residents' automobiles for unlocked vehicles. He said someone stole electrical tools from the back of a truck parked in front of the Christian Appalachian Project office in downtown Martin.

Martin Police officers are also investigating that incident.

To report tips regarding the burglaries, contact the police department at 285-3062.

PES extends day

Since Prestonsburg Elementary School was dismissed early on Thursday, September 1, for a funeral, the school must make up one hour and 45 minutes.

This will be resolved by extending the school day for 15 minutes for seven days.

Listed below are the days that will be extended:

Wednesday, September 30—Dismiss at 3 PM

Thursday, October 1—Dismiss at 3 PM

Monday, October 5—Dismiss at 3 PM

Wednesday, October 7—Dismiss at 3 PM

Thursday, October 8—Dismiss at 3 PM

Friday, October 9—Dismiss at 3 PM

Monday, October 12—Dismiss at 3 PM

The school day will not be extended on Tuesday, October 6, because of ESS classes.

Register, learn, vote

Monday is the last day to register if you intend to vote in the November election.

If you don't play, you can't win, the Lottery folks tell us. And the same reasoning can be used with voting. If you don't register, you can't vote. If you don't vote, your voice can't be heard.

A lot of folks — cynics they're called in fancy circles — say that in this area it doesn't matter if you register or if you vote. They say the same sorry so-and-so's get into office, and if they're not sorry when they get in, they will be by the time they get out (if they ever do).

We don't have much new in the way of advice, except maybe to go into the bathroom and take a look in the medicine cabinet mirror. Here's the diagnosis: The people we elect invariably reflect us, don't they? If they're a sorry lot, it's probably because we allow them to be.

Yeah, yeah, yeah, you say. Put it back on us little folk.

Well, yes. That's where it should be. That's what democracy is, remember? It's supposed to be about ordinary people who choose their elected representatives, who exercise their option to vote, who inform themselves about the issues and the character of the individuals who are running, who have more sense than to believe rumors and innuendoes, and who can see when the emperor is buck-naked.

OK, maybe we're giving more credit than is due.

To summarize, if you have not registered to vote, follow these simple steps:

* Get to the County Clerk's office today or Monday and register.

* Read The Times to learn more about the candidates; better yet, make it a point to meet them.

* Then when the election occurs in a couple of months, find your polling place and vote.

(Rest assured, this is not the last you will hear about this matter.)

Letters To The Editor

PCC program features Middle East expert

Editor:

As its first academic activity for the 1998-1999 school year, Prestonsburg Community College's Faculty Assembly Executive Committee, of which I am a member, sponsored a talk by a long-time friend and former teacher of mine, Dr. Gifford B. Doxsee. Dr. Doxsee is Professor Emeritus of History at Ohio University and an authority on the Middle East and US policy toward it since World War II.

Speaking to a full house of faculty, students and community members in the Magoffin Art Gallery, Dr. Doxsee said that the chief factor in forming our Middle East policy was the "Cold War."

Because we were so focused on reducing or removing Soviet influence there and preserving our access to Middle East oil, as well as maintaining Israel's security, we have sometimes made grave errors in judgment, which ultimately undermined our long-term national interests.

Although religion has been blamed for many Middle Eastern conflicts, as well as a multitude of other world conflicts, Dr. Doxsee emphasized that religion in itself, be it Muslim, Christian, Jewish, etc., has always been a peaceful and constructive aspect of societies.

He said that, historically, it has been the role of most religions to teach moral values, love, and tolerance for one another. Rather, it is usually when politics and religion mix that we have problems of religious aggression.

As Dr. Doxsee addressed his audience, I was struck not only by his fluent knowledge of and totally unbiased approach to the subject matter, but also, and perhaps more importantly, by his honest concern and care for this country and its future.

He expressed this in numerous ways. He spoke emphatically about how dependent on foreign oil we Americans have become, how vulnerable we now are if the sources were to be cut off, and how we ought to be using less energy and working harder toward finding alternative sources.

He mentioned how inefficiently we use our water and how we might find ourselves, unless something is done about it, fighting among our own states for water rights. This is already happening in several parts of the Middle East. (I point out all these issues to my Human Ecology students, but not so eloquently as he, I'm afraid!)

Dr. Doxsee vehemently admonished American companies for marketing tobacco products and pornography in developing countries, especially when we are fully aware of both their health and social dangers. He pointed out how too many of us Americans behave like we are better than everyone else in the world, instead of considering ourselves as their brothers and sisters in humanity.

Dr. Doxsee brought all these points into his discussion without one hint of condescension, disrespect, or malintention. With his genuine, constructive advice, he exemplified the American most of us would like to be: intelligent, caring, and tolerant.

When one considers some of this man's experiences, one might expect Dr. Doxsee to be bitter and hateful. You see, he was one of about 150 American soldiers, who, after fighting in the horrendous Battle of the Bulge, was taken as prisoner-of-war by the Germans.

They were dragged off to Dresden, Germany, where they were held in the notorious Slaughter-House Five, which Dr. Doxsee's fellow prisoner, Kurt Vonnegut, made famous in his book bearing the same name. Once there, they subsisted on watery soup and black bread rations.

After miraculously surviving the Allied fire-bombing of Dresden, Dr. Doxsee and the other American prisoners were forced to clear the city of the rubble before being hauled off to the Czech border. There, they lived on grass and wild greens.

When Germany surrendered, they still had to face the long ordeal of hiding from the Russians, who were taking military and non-military prisoners for barter or slave labor.

Despite all this, as well as watching many of his friends from other countries suffer throughout the years at the hands of war in their own regions, Dr. Doxsee remains a good American and citizen of the world. Not all of us can be as educated and well-traveled as he, but we can seize every opportunity to learn from people like him, who see beyond boundaries, beyond color, beyond personal gain. They continue to think and work for the common good of humanity...the basic ethic upon which this country was built.

On behalf of the Faculty Assembly of Prestonsburg Community College and its chairperson, Dr. Tom Matijasic, I would like to thank Dr. Gifford Doxsee publicly for having taken the time and effort to share his knowledge and wisdom with us, helping us to become more aware that far-away issues ultimately affect us all. He's a good American...and born on the Fourth of July, too!

Writer says law unfair

Editor

I am writing this letter to your newspaper to speak out against a very unfair law that will affect many poor families on this end of the state. Under this new law, if a family is building a new home, they must place their septic tank 20 feet from the nearest stream and at the same time, 20 feet from their home.

Many poor families just starting out in life do not have enough space on their property to follow these guidelines, and if they do not fol-

Hard to believe, but more than four-fifths of a decade have passed since I last sat in this chair. (That makes it sound even longer than eight years, doesn't it?)

Interestingly, the longer the time the better the experience seems to have been. But isn't that nearly always the way? The older we get the more things seem to look better in reruns than in previews.

Seriously, it is good to be back. Many of the people I worked with, respected and even loved are still here — getting better all the time. And those who are new to me, although perhaps not to the paper, appear to be friends in the making.

Three of the interim years while I was away were spent in the media, two with Kentucky Press Association and one with the Appalachian News-Express in Pikeville.

Strong ties with the media, including this paper, were maintained in the intervening years. From time to time, I've done stories, usually features, for The Times and, as ever, have experienced the indescribable thrill you get when you see your words in print.

During this time, however, my criticism of the media has also become more marked.

I wanted to be a journalist from the time I was a little girl and read the Louisville Courier-Journal every day. (Some of us can remember when the Courier was the daily paper of choice in this region.) I remember thinking I had come nigh to achieving my dreams as eighth-grade reporter for the Paintsville High Echo.

I was, even then, in awe of the media, of the perceived glamour of being in on the making of history and the recording of mankind's achievements. Early on, I respected the enormous responsibility of the journalist who was privy to all sorts of information, who could pick and choose what information was important and what was not, and who could interpret that information so readers would understand and perhaps react.

I'm still in awe of the media, but it's not such a positive awe any more. Rather than the awe of the youth gazing, gape-eyed, at a celebrity hero, I feel more the awful awe of the peasants about to be stomped by a drunken, out-of-control Godzilla.

An apt example is what we've been seeing over the past few months. The national and regional media have been in a sickening frenzy over the Clinton sex scandals, totally ignoring what their own polls say the American people want to hear and read about. In essence, they have switched from covering the news to outright manipulation of the news and of us, the audience.

Look at the daily papers we have most access to in this area. Every day for months the lead story has been some kernel from the interminable presidential or congressional sex chronicles. Likewise with television, it's not enough that the national news shows are concentrating on the scandal, our local anchors have to take a shot at it, as well.

The mindset of excess is not necessarily confined to the larger media. It can happen anywhere, particularly when the media adopt an attitude of arrogance and self-righteousness.

In fact, it's an easy attitude to put on in these parts where we have all inherited a legacy of the abuse of political power and the misuse of people and resources by those who claim to have our best interest at heart.

So, why would I get back into journalism? That's tough — sort of.

First, as a reformed smoker and as a foe of opiates, I still cherish the rush of seeing my words on the printed page and the challenge of finding out and learning.

Second, — and I hope I'm not coming across as arrogant and self-righteous — I believe that to be a serious critic you have to be in the fray. If I believe that too many journalists lack integrity and I believe myself to be a person of integrity, then I should be here, right?

That doesn't mean that this is going to be a newspaper that makes everyone feel good every day. Fact is there are some people around here who deserve to feel bad, and I hope we can help make them do so.

I hope we can also continue to seek a balance, presenting the good with the bad and the many facets of each. I want us, too, to be a part of building pride in this region, not by slogans, but by doing all that we can to encourage such things as cooperation, clean-up, innovation, tolerance, and generosity.

I was also attracted back to The Times by what I perceive to be positive changes. The present owner, despite being a non-local chain, seems genuinely to care about the people who put out this newspaper. The attitude seems to be that if the employees are paid a decent wage and are treated fairly and humanely, then the product will be a good one. There's nothing sur-

Changes in our schools:

Learning to write in Kentucky

By Robert F. Sexton

I didn't learn to write well when I was in school.

I remembered this when some teachers told me recently that they dislike Kentucky's writing program. They want, in fact, to weaken the program and kill the writing portfolio. Thank goodness others, like the Kentucky Council of Teachers of English/Language Arts, disagree.

The fact that I didn't learn to write well was true although the schools I attended in the 1950's claimed they were the best in Kentucky. Even worse, I didn't know how weak a writer I was until I got to college; my scores on standardized tests misled me.

On the Scholastic Aptitude Test I wasn't required to write a single word, much less sentences or paragraphs. Still my "aptitude" for what was tested, vocabulary and reading comprehension, compared well to the other high school students in a sample group—well enough, in fact, to be admitted to one of the most selective colleges in the country.

When the first professor in that college assigned me an entire paper (as every professor thereafter did) and there were no more multiple choice questions to answer, my bubble popped. What teachers hadn't asked me to do before was to really write—construct paragraphs, plan out and communicate whole concepts, think about audience and images, put words on paper and have someone read it. I had to learn to write in college.

I thought about my experience learning to write in Kentucky schools as I read an article by Stephen Covey, author of The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People and other best-selling books. Writing was hard for Covey, who remembers the days "when writing instruction amounted to spelling lessons."

One of the most successful writers in America, he's passionate about the importance of teaching students to write well. "It's essential," Covey says. "You might as well ask how important is thinking."

Covey is happy about new approaches to teaching writing like those in Kentucky.

"There was a day when good writing meant correct spelling,

Former PHS students plan fund raising for library

Editor:

Recently, the Prestonsburg High School Class of 1958 had their 40th reunion. One of our activities was a tour of the newly-renovated Prestonsburg High School. Were we all pleasantly surprised?

Our new high school is just wonderful. Until you see it for yourself, you can not begin to appreciate what we now have for our children.

We feel sure that there are numerous things that the high school needs, but cannot get because of lack of funds. Isn't it a shame that we can not just wave a magic wand and our school would have everything our children need? However, since we cannot do this, there is something each graduate of Prestonsburg High School can do that will make a difference.

Our new library is something we're sure all librarians have dreamed about. We could not believe we were actually in a high school library, but when we looked at the empty shelves we realized we were. Our library needs books.

Prestonsburg High School gave to us, and now we feel that we can give back to it in a positive, caring manner. We are forming a committee to start a fund raising campaign to fill our library from brim to brim. Our children deserve no less.

Each of us who graduated have probably done fairly well for ourselves. We owe a lot to the school that helped make us who we are today. Now is your chance to show your appreciation to the wonderful teachers we had, and to give back something of yourself.

Imagine if more than half of the graduates of PHS would contribute at least $15, how many books we could buy. Our librarian, Jamie Honeycutt Adams, said, "Kids need books. They want something they can hold in their hands." Lets put those books there for them.

We need people from each graduating class to serve on a committee to help raise funds. Don't sit back and assume someone else from your class will call; you call today, tell your friends and family about our effort, and last, but not least, send us a contribution.

When you make a contribution, designate if you wish to donate your book in honor of someone (a former teacher, a classmate, a family member) or in memory of someone. We will have a name plate placed in each book.

Please send a contribution today. All checks should be made payable to: Friends of the Library-PHS-MLC, and mailed to: Robert R. Allen II, treasurer, First Commonwealth Bank, 311 N. Arnold Avenue, Prestonsburg, KY 41653;

Peggy Parker Hereford, Class of '58;

"OLWH hosts its 7th annual kid's Health Kamp"

Editor:

Our Lady of the Way Hospital had the distinct pleasure of hosting its 7th annual "Kid's Health Kamp" July 27-31, at Camp Shawnee in Floyd County. Fifty campers, with asthma, diabetes and/or weight control problems, arrived from various counties of Kentucky including Knott, Magoffin, Pike, Johnson, Floyd and from Wayne and Wyoming Counties of West Virginia.

The Community Health Education Department of Our Lady of the Way Hospital would like to recognize the following people who were so instrumental in making the camp a success: the staff of Camp Shawnee, Jerry and Eunice Oaks; Mavis Johnson, RN, CDE, Pikeville Methodist Hospital; Michael Rodriguez and Teresa Allen, Kentucky River Community Care; Allison Caudill and Jessica Reynolds; Volunteers: Sherry Blocker, Bridget Kelly, Mark Moriarty, Kristina Jessen, Jerry Oaks, Jr., Michael Mays, Shamous Jordan, Nicholas Lawson, Sylvester Dew, Darrell Shavers, Johanna Santiago, Nicole Gregor, Fati Salia, Steve Siler, Nichole Enchuategui, Janyl Natal, Ruth Morales, and Stacey Miller.

We would also like to recognize the following employees of Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Dr. Prem Verma, Camp Physician; Evelyn Martin, L.P.N.; Vickie Rose, RT; Carla Fields, PT; Randy Carroll and Thomas Tackett, Plant Services.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is truly grateful for the many people who gave their time and talents so freely. We also appreciate the continued support shown by the community at large for our camp.

Teacher's actions make parent feel secure

Editor:

My son, Eplin Little, who is in the eighth grade at (AMS) was in gym class (PE) and fell down, striking his head against the bleachers on 9-23-98. This was an accident with no one at fault. He cut the back of his head and was bleeding really badly from this cut. The school called Prestonsburg Rescue Squad and the paramedics stopped the bleeding and stabilized my son before transporting him by ambulance to Highlands Hospital Emergency Room. School Personnel contacted my wife at work, and I was informed shortly thereafter. My wife arrived at the hospital before I did and fortunately everything was ok. My son was calm and the x-rays showed no damage, but it did take three stitches to close the wound. The school personnel did there job by calling everyone. Prestonsburg Rescue Squad did their job with stabilization and transportation to a hospital. My wife and I did our job as parents who, once informed, went immediately to the hospital to check on our son. Highlands Hospital Emergency Room handled the situation with proper care. I want to thank everyone for doing the proper job and showing real professionalism to my son and family.

The one person who went above and beyond the call of duty was Ms. DeRossett. She is my son's eighth grade teacher. Ms. DeRossett stayed with my son throughout the entire stream of events. She rode in the back of the ambulance with him to the hospital, and stayed with him until my wife showed up at the emergency room. My son did have this accident about ten minutes before it was time to go home. Ms. DeRossett could have left and gone home, also. Ms. DeRossett did what every parent hopes a teacher would do. She stayed with my son and made sure he was not left alone until we arrived at the hospital. I love my children, and as a parent it makes me feel secure knowing that teachers like Ms. DeRossett are always looking out for the best interest of our children. I want to thank Ms. DeRossett for her kindness, and caring attitude toward my son demonstrated by her actions and deeds.

Ms. Allen, I would like to thank the Adams Middle School personnel and especially want to thank Ms. DeRossett for taking care of my son.

Different agencies at work at Dewey Lake

When you come to Dewey Lake, you enjoy the work of several different state and federal agencies. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers owns the Dewey Lake Project and has leased portions of it to different state agencies to develop for public use.

The Corps of Engineers maintains the Downstream Recreation Area, the Shoreline Campgrounds and Picnic Sites and German Bridge Campground. The Corps develops and manages projects and programs that provide for flood damage reduction, recreation and environmental protection and restoration. Corps Rangers patrol Dewey Lake to assist visitors and protect the project. For shelter reservations in the Downstream Recreation Area and Picnic Hollow call (606) 886-6709 or (606) 789-4521. All accidents occurring at the Dewey Lake Project should be reported to the Corps of Engineers.

Jenny Wiley State Resort Park is managed by the Kentucky Department of Parks.. The marina, which includes the pontoon rentals, the golf course and pro-shop, the campground, swimming pool and May Lodge are all part of Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. For questions concerning those area, call (606) 886-2711.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry manages the forests on the Dewey Lake Project. The major goals of the Division of Forestry include fire prevention and suppression and the management of non-industrial private forestlands. Through the Forest Stewardship Program, landowners can gain assistance from professional foresters for making the most of their land. Division of Forestry can assist them in improving and marketing their timber resources; improve the wildlife habitat on their land; and reach their forest recreation goals.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry is also involved in education and the Kentucky Master Loggers program. They are available to do school programs focusing on fire prevention and forest ecology. To reach the Eastern District of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, call (606) 478-4495.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) maintains a district office on the shores of Dewey Lake and manages the Dewey Lake Wildlife Management Area.

For information on hunting, fishing and boating, call the Fish and Wildlife Information Office at 1-800-858-1549 weekdays, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For fish and wildlife emergencies or to report a fish and wildlife violation call 1-800-25-ALERT any time of day.

The KDFWR enforces all hunting, fishing and boating laws in Kentucky. They also oversee a number of public use areas, called wildlife management areas, across the state of Kentucky. These areas provide hunting, fishing and other outdoor recreation opportunities. KDFWR, Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers cooperate to enhance fish and wildlife habitat.

KDFWR employees are visible at Dewey Lake. You may see fisheries biologists on the lake sampling fish populations, or on the road stocking fish in tailwaters. Trout are stocked at Dewey Lake tailwaters from spring through late fall.

Wildlife biologists keep tabs on wildlife and wildlife habitat found in the management area. Wildlife and Boating Law Officers have full police authorities and enforce the fishing, boating and wildlife laws of Kentucky. All accidents that happen on the lake should be reported to KDFWR.

Kentucky Life premieres new season

A new studio set, new travels and new faces all combine for Kentucky Life's fifth season, which kicks off on KET at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, October 3, with its host, Courier-Journal columnist Byron Crawford.

"The new season of Kentucky Life promises the same heartwarming storytelling style coupled with all the history, adventure, profiles and fascinating stories Kentucky Life viewers have come to expect," said series producer Joy Flynn.

Learning

proper punctuation, and perfectly shaped letters," he wrote. "Today's students must spend time clarifying their position and audience...They should be graded on precision and passion, as well as on neatness and mechanical correctness."

That's what students do with writing in Kentucky if writing is taught well, and the portfolio is used properly by teachers. This more skillful kind of writing favored by Stephen Covey and others is stressed in Kentucky schools through writing portfolios and the tests that measure real student writing. Kentucky students actually write: they don't just fill in bubbles with a No. 2 pencil. It's a common sense approach.

That's why the Kentucky Council of Teachers of English/Language Arts so strongly endorses Kentucky's writing portfolio. They report that "educators from all over the world have praised Kentucky's writing program."

Of course, what happened to me as a student still happens. Too many parents and teachers aren't yet convinced of the importance of clear writing. A professor at Harvard law school told me she is appalled that her students' writing is so bad. Her students are all college graduates, mind you, tops in the nation. Her law school offers six remedial courses that teach future lawyers to write.

Most people in paying jobs or volunteer work learn quickly and often painfully how important good writing is. There's nothing that so focuses a writer's concentration as knowing that other people, such as a boss or some stranger, will actually read what he or she writes.

In the real world, people write for results: to explain, persuade, convince, stir the emotions, make something happen. In the real world, writing has a purpose, although it can be fun, too. How well you write can tell people a lot about what else you can do.

Employers know this well. Unfortunately, many students never know they're poor writers. If they use poor writing when applying for a job, their application or letter is probably thrown away, and they never know why.

That's why Stephen Covey, first-rate law schools, colleges, and Kentucky schools are so serious about writing. It is fundamental. It separates people with a good education from those with a poor one. It is an extension of a person's thinking.

The lack of writing skills holds people back from full participation in their society and economy. That's why writing is pushed so hard and why the portfolios are so important. You learn to write by writing. Doing that in school would have saved me and lots of others educated in Kentucky schools a lot of grief years later.

Brento Akers, Nat Blackburn and Jim Osborne watch as Professor Smith adjusts the telescope.

Students stare into space to have fun and to learn

By Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Ann Samons, seventh and eighth grade science teacher at Betsy Layne Elementary, with Title I support teacher Lois Tackett, conducted an astronomy session on the hill at Betsy Layne High School on Saturday night.

As part of the evening, the students were treated to a cookout. The school invited parents, faculty and staff from the school, plus board members and personnel from the central office. Jim Osborne, board member for that district, was in attendance.

The seventh- and eighth-grade students at Betsy Layne Elementary had studied the solar system during the previous weeks. Kevin McMillan, father of student Molly McMillan, is an amateur astronomer who has put together his own telescope.

McMillan and the two science teachers called Dwight Smith of the Prestonsburg Community College faculty, who helped them develop the session. Smith brought equipment from the college as well as provided much useful information for the students.

The students had four scopes to view the heavenly bodies. They took turns identifying the various objects in the sky. The weather cooperated nicely as it was a clear, starry night.

The students were supportive of the project. "It is kind of cool to watch the stars and hang out with your friends," said Molly McMillan, who had already done some sky-watching.

Tyler Harris, who did an article for The Times to publicize the event, said, "This goes good with the class we are having. We need projects to go with what we are doing in our classes."

About 400 people came to the Fall Fest Sunday at Archer Park. The event was sponsored by the Prestonsburg H.O.G. (Harley Owners Group) chapter and Prestonsburg Harley-Davidson. The proceeds benefited the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Central and Eastern Kentucky. (photos by Mike Burke)

Waste tire management

The Division of Waste Management is conducting an information session at Jenny Wiley State Park to address the state's new waste tire management laws. Anyone who deals with waste tires—retailers, transporters, accumulators, landfill operators and consumers—is invited to attend.

The sessions will begin at 2 p.m. on October 26.

Registration is not necessary. Call Anya Armes or Nancy Fouser at (502) 564-6716 if you have questions about the sessions.

God saw she was getting tired
And a cure was not to be.
So He put His arms around her
And whispered, come with Me.
With tearful eyes we watched her suffer
And saw her fade away.
Although we loved her dearly,
We could not make her stay.
A golden heart stopped beating,
Hard working hands to rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.

"The Gospel According to Me"

HOW TO PICK A GREAT MATE

Considering that our choice of mates affects the rest of our lives, as well as our children's lives and our grandchildren's lives, it's amazing how little thought some people put into it.

I've been married two decades, and I've spent nearly that many years as a minister regularly counseling couples who are in one mess or another. I've definitely reached some conclusions about what people should look for in a potential husband or wife.

Once you're already hitched it's too late. That's why it's important to consider these matters in advance:

* Answer this question honestly: If I weren't physically attracted to this person, would I want him or her for my best friend?

After a few years of marriage, much of your spouse's physical beauty will fade. His bulging chest and narrow waist will exchange places. Her shapely legs will turn flabby and be tracked with blue spiderweb veins.

Then you'll be left with what's inside, in his or her heart. That's what you'd be wise to fall in love with.

* Marry a person who's easy to please. During a courtship most people try to show only their best possible behavior toward their boyfriend or girlfriend.

So if you buy your girl a 50-cent candy bar, she might act as thrilled as if you'd bought her a diamond necklace. You can't always judge by how well she treats you. The key is to watch how she treats others: her parents, waitresses, coworkers, friends.

Ladies, is your guy endlessly critical? If his parents buy him a used Chevy is he grateful — or angry that it's not a new Lexus? Does he gossip about his siblings behind their backs? The way he treats others, he'll soon be treating you.

Find yourself someone who's already at peace with the world, a happy person.

* Look for trustworthiness. If your boyfriend cheated on his last wife to go out with you, sooner or later he'll cheat on you. If your girlfriend hides her money from the government, she'll hide it from you. If your guy lies to his mom, he'll lie to you.

Paul Prather

* Get yourself somebody who's clean and sober. If the dude drinks himself into oblivion five nights a week or squanders his weekly paycheck on cocaine, don't delude yourself into thinking you'll reform him by marrying him.

He's on his best behavior now. If anything, he's only going to get worse after the I-dos are said.

* Make sure your future spouse exhibits a certain amount of ambition and financial responsibility. I don't mean he or she needs to be a Bill Gates sitting on $61 billion.

But your man should have a steady job. Your woman should pay her bills on time rather than blowing everything she makes on impulse purchases. She probably ought to have at least some interest in advancing in her career field.

If your boyfriend changes jobs every three months because nobody ever recognizes his incredible talents, or if he's been fired more than a time or two, or if he's been laid off so long he's not even trying to find work anymore — you've got trouble.

* Notice whether your fiancé can speak in complete sentences. Right now you might be content to spend all your time together hugging and smooching.

Eventually, you'll find that winter nights can get awfully long. At some point, you'll want somebody to talk to when it's cold outside and there's nothing good on TV.

Your man might be the biggest hunk in four counties. But if he's so dumb he stares at the orange juice bottle for an hour because it says

Our Heartfelt Thanks

The family of Nicodemus Mature would like to thank all of the family and friends who shared our sorrow and last good-byes. Everyone was a great comfort.

We also give our sincerest thanks to the Pilgrims Home Old Regular Baptist Church and its members. A special thank you to Elisha Branham who moderated our loved one's funeral.

We regret we could not send personal thank you notes to all of you but we did not have many addresses. May God bless all of you for the kindness you have shown.

Everyone Welcome

Thanks

The Jacks Creek Baptist Church of Bevinsville, Kentucky would like to give sincere thanks to Pleasant Home Baptist Church for their hospitality and warm welcome to the worship services and picnic.

Card Of Thanks

I would like to give sincere thanks to my friends and neighbors in the Dinwood community, co-workers at Pro-Hair, Jerry McCoy and his wife Nancy. Their kindness and support to me and my family on the passing of my brother, Bernard Phillip Leslie, was greatly appreciated.

* Build your relationship around a mutual trust in God. If you're religious, don't even consider marrying someone who isn't. You won't build up her faith; she'll wear down yours.

Granted, a strong belief in God doesn't guarantee anyone a blissful marriage.

Still, statistically, study after study has found that if both partners profess an abiding faith in the Almighty and attend church regularly, they're less likely to divorce and far more likely to report that they're genuinely happy with their spouses.

They even report having more satisfying sex than non-religious couples. (Godliness, St. Paul said, is profitable for all things.)

Vehicle rules stresses by Army Corps

The United States Army Corps of Engineers, Dewey Lake, has a set policy regarding the use of vehicles off designated roadways on Dewey Lake project.

Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations limits the use of motor vehicles (cars and trucks) to designated roadways. Motor vehicles must comply with all federal, state and local laws while being operated on Corps of Engineers property. Off road use of motor vehicles is prohibited at Dewey Lake.

Four wheelers, three wheelers, motorized mountain bikes, rail buggies, and other "recreational vehicles" are not permitted on Corps of Engineers property at Dewey Lake.

Convicted violators of this policy face penalties of up to six months in prison, up to $5,000 in fines, compelled to make restitution for damaged property and forfeiture of their vehicles.

Permits are not available for the operation of vehicles off road at Dewey Lake (except for official business). Anyone operating a motorized vehicle off road at Dewey Lake is in violation of Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations and state trespass and traffic laws. Kentucky Fish and Game Regulations also call for enforcement of the motorized vehicle prohibition on the Dewey Lake State Wildlife Management Area.

Violators can face separate federal and state charges for the same incident.

A LOOK AT SPORTS

Notes from a hot dog wrapper

Hey! How about that Ryan Martin (Prestonsburg) and Josh Kidd (Betsy Layne). Both will be playing in next week's state golf tournament in Louisville and we want to congratulate them both and wish them the best.

Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Ryan said it was a good chance to get three days of golf in. You might expect him to say that.

I spoke with former Prestonsburg golf coach, Gordon Parido, seeking information when the last time a player from Prestonsburg made the golf state meet.

"No one ever went when I coached them," he said. "Sharon Samons, who was coaching the golf team in the early '80s, had an entire team that went."

Not even Brett James made the state meet for Prestonsburg and Brett was one of the finest golfers to come out of Floyd County.

"Brett would play good all year and then in the tournaments he would not play so good," said Parido. "Ryan played for me when he was in the sixth grade. I knew he was going to be a good one someday."

Stanley Tackett was the last Betsy Layne golfer to make the elite at the state meet. He did that around '81 or '82. Kidd will represent the Bobcats and do it well.

• Thunder Ridge will be the home of the Dirt Track World Championship 100 on October 16,17,18. Nearly 10,000 are expected to converge on Floyd County and surrounding areas to take in the best in Late Model racing.

Speaking of racing, stock car racing will continue this weekend at Thunder Ridge, but will move from Saturday nights to Sunday afternoon. The gates open at 1 p.m. and racing begins at 3 p.m.

"The temperatures are expected to drop in the evenings and we thought it would be better to move to Sunday afternoons for the rest of the race season," said track promoter, Brad Martin. "We had some good racing last Saturday night with about 26 late models racing."

• Tonight's Breathitt County/Prestonsburg football matchup will be shown over WPRG, Channel 5, on Saturday on a tape delay basis. CableVision, Channel 7, will air the game also on a tape delay.

• Pikeville and Phelps will lock up in a good tonight as the two teams are undefeated in district play. The winner here, no doubt, will be considered the choice for a district championship. The Double X, WXKZ and WXLR will air the game live. Also, you may want to catch the Coach John Derossett Show over the Double X on Thursday nights at 7 p.m.

• South Floyd's B.J. Bryant remains one of the top-ten rushers in the state. Bryant is ranked eighth overall after being as high as fourth. Phelps' Billy Peck leads the state in scoring with almost 30 points per game.

• Breathitt County is the state's sixth best 2A school while Prestonsburg is ranked 10th by the Associated Press.

I can just hear the bouncing of the basketballs as we anxiously await October 15, the official day when schools can begin practice. It looks like a banner season ahead of us and all the coaches appear positive in their thinking at this time of the year.

There will be some surprise teams as well those who are expected to dominate.

I like the balance our region will

Martin, Kidd earn berth in state golf meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Paintsville Country Club Golf Course was good for two Floyd County golfers this past week as Prestonsburg's Ryan Martin and Josh Kidd of Betsy Layne earned the right to represent their respective schools in the upcoming state golf meet in Louisville, October 8-9.

Wednesday, October 7, will be a practice time at the Seneca Golf Course in Louisville for all participants.

Ryan Martin

"Ryan is a super frosh," said Prestonsburg golf coach Jackie Pack. "He's a great kid and works hard all the time out there."

Martin placed first among individual players, shooting a four over par 74. Pikeville's Dustin Jones finished second with a 77 while Kidd took third place eight-over at 78.

Paintsville, as a team, placed first with a 302. Second place went to Pikeville with a 312 and Johnson Central finished third at 323. Prestonsburg and Whitesburg rounded out the top five teams. Prestonsburg finished with a 345 while Whitesburg shot a 357 as a team.

Other top-10 finishers were: Hazard (368), Betsy Layne (375), Elkhorn City (377), Allen Central (392) and Sheldon Clark (393).

Brett Patton was the medalist for Allen Central, shooting an 89. Don Paul Corbin, Pikeville, was the tournament's medalist winner with a one-under-par, 69.

"Josh played a good tournament," said Betsy Layne coach Keith Henry. "He was consistent, nothing spectacular, but he never got in trouble either. He played a steady game."

Martin had to play the tournament with a handicap.

"I thought I played real well," he said. "Well, I started out well until I cracked my finger. It hurt real bad."

Martin, in placing his club into his golf bag, chipped a bone in his left hand but played the tournament out.

"I'm looking forward to Louisville," said the freshman golfer. "It's a chance to play golf for three days."

Martin and Kidd will practice on Wednesday before going for 18 holes on both Thursday and Friday.

"We hope to get them to practice together here before we go to Louisville," said Coach Henry.

The Betsy Layne coach said he was concerned with the first hole at the tournament for Kidd and knew if the young golfer could get past the first hole he would do well.

"There was a big crowd at the number one tee and I was afraid he would not get off to a good start," said Coach Henry. "But he stepped up and hit well down the middle of the fairway. It was a big shot, a

Ousley scores 20 in losing cause

Megan Ousley tossed in a game-high 20 points, but her South Floyd Middle School Lady Raiders dropped a 48-40 decision to powerful Johnson Central last Monday night at Raider Arena.

Rhonda Adams led Johnson Central Middle School with 18 points. Ashley Wireman added eight while Sarah Sparks and Brianne Daniels scored seven each.

Stephanie Skeans netted nine points for South Floyd with Ashley Johnson tossing in six points, including a three-point basket. Brandy Anderson scored three and Leigh Ann Tuttle scored two points.

The Lady Raiders trailed 33-28 going into the final quarter but rallied to make it a one-point game with 4:16 to play. Johnson buried a three-point basket to bring her to within one point of the Lady Eagles.

Turnovers hurt South Floyd in the final four minutes of the game. The team was guilty of six mistakes.

Johnson Central handled the South Floyd press easily and scored easily in getting the final eight-point margin.

The two teams played to a 13-13 tie after the first six minutes of the game. Consecutive baskets by Adams to begin the game staked Johnson Central to a 4-0 lead until Skeans scored on a rebound basket for a 4-2 game. The game was tied at 6 before Johnson Central raced out to a 13-8 margin. Ousley then took charge, buried a trey and scored on a steal to tie the game at 13.

In the second quarter, the Lady Raiders took their first lead on Anderson's three-point basket at the 4:50 mark, 16-13. Johnson's rebound basket, Tuttle's lay-up and a free throw by Skeans gave South Floyd a 24-19 half-time lead.

In the third, the biggest lead for South Floyd came at 26-19 on a lay-up by Ousley. A 4-0 run by Johnson Central narrowed the margin to one point, 26-25. Central took the lead for good on a basket by Sarah Sparks. They led 33-28 after three quarters.

For Johnson Central, Melissa Murphy, Michelle Music and Jessica Nelson added two points each.

The Lady Eagles went to 9-3 on the season, while South Floyd dropped to 5-2.

experience this year. With Paintsville again joining us as "just one of the boys" it will be a dog fight for a regional title this year. Last year everyone knew the outcome, although they would not admit it. But the year 1998-99 will be a different one as many teams in the region will be very competitive.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday!

for him."

Martin had problems with the number 15 hole when his ball went off the toe of his club and hit a tree branch.

"He hit a limb and went into some water," said Coach Pack. "He had to take a five and lost two strokes on the home. He missed a three-footer on the number six hole and that cost him a stroke."

"I also had a double bogey on 18th hole," said Martin.

Henry said he and Kidd were sweating out the finish of the tournament when Kidd entered play on the 17 hole five-over-par. Kidd had a birdie on the 17th hole but had to take a triple bogey on the 18th hole.

"Josh and Ryan are both super kids and you like to see kids from here get to go to the state meet," said Coach Henry.

Henry and others were instrumental in getting Region 11 split to give players like Martin and Kidd a chance to play in a state meet.

"If we hadn't fought to get the region split, these two probably would have not been going to Louisville," he said. "It has been hard for kids to get to the state tournament."

Girls High School Volleyball

Prestonsburg improves to 3-1

Adams, Howell lead Lady Blackcats

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The 1998 girls volleyball season may be new for the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats but, the way they have been playing, one would think they have been at it for a long time.

Prestonsburg improved to 3-1 on the season — their line lost to Allen Central — after winning in two sets at Betsy Layne Tuesday night. Prestonsburg took the first match 15-2 and won in match two, 15-8.

Led by sophomore Stephanie Adams, Prestonsburg jumped out to a 5-0 lead. Adams, one of the top players in the region, picked up the first five points on the second serve of the game for the Lady Blackcats. Heather Hamilton picked up the first point for Betsy Layne for a 5-1 match. But some good defensive play by Prestonsburg gave the ball back to the Lady Blackcats' court. But Angela Howell could not get her serve to fall and a sideout gave the ball back to Betsy Layne, where Samantha Maynard made it a 5-2 game on a nice serve. But, again, it was the Prestonsburg defense holding the Lady Cats.

Brooks Coleman gathered in points six and seven for Prestonsburg and a 7-2 lead. Charity Whitaker, in for Brandi Slone, scored point number eight.

A Betsy Layne sideout, put the ball in Amelia Conley's hand and she served up points nine through 13 for a 13-2 game. The third and final point for Betsy Layne came on Denise Jones' serve. Following a sideout, Adams scored her sixth and seventh point and a 15-3 win for Prestonsburg in the first match.

In game two, Prestonsburg followed the strong serve of a trio of players. Howell, Coleman and Whitaker accounted for 13 of the 15 points in the second game.

Adams gave Prestonsburg a 1-0 lead but some good defensive play by Betsy Layne tied the game at 1 on a strong serve by Sheena Akers. On a serve by Howell, Prestonsburg took a 3-1 margin before a sideout.

Betsy Layne scored its second point on Heather Hamilton's serve. But Coleman put the Blackcats up 6-2 with three excellent serves. Serves by Maynard and Cox made it a 6-4 game before Conley put Prestonsburg up 7-4.

Betsy Layne took its only lead at 8-7 on serves by Denise Jones. But the lead was short lived when Howell picked up points eight, nine and 10 for Prestonsburg and a 10-8 game. Betsy Layne's final points came on Watson's serve to pull her team to within one, 10-9. Coleman scored two straight points and Whitaker picked up points 13, 14 and 15 for the game match.

"Both wins were excellent examples of a strong effort on the part of the entire team," said coach Russell Shepherd. "The girls set the ball up for their teammates and it makes a difference when they work together. They played excellent on offense and defense tonight. I'm proud of them."

Prestonsburg, Breathitt to settle district issue

Bobcats will have to clear Cawood hurdle

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Week six!

Wow! What a successful first five weeks for coach John Derossett's Prestonsburg Blackcats! After falling to Lexington Catholic to start the season, Prestonsburg has reeled off four consecutive victories to improve to 4-1 on the season.

But three of the four wins have been district victories that vaulted the Blackcats into first place in Class AA, Region IV, District 2 standings. Also, worthy of noting is the fact that Prestonsburg has already faced the likes of Whitesburg and Cawood, two teams Breathitt County must face.

The success that coach Mike Holcomb has brought to mountain football at Breathitt County has been well documented. The Bobcats lost Jonathan Chapman to Pikeville, who lost him to a season-ending injury. But the Bobcats are still one of the top 2A schools in the state.

Breathitt County owns a 3-2 overall record, which is uncharacteristic of a Breathitt County football team. The two-time state 2A champions are 2-0 in the district while Prestonsburg is atop the ladder at 3-0.

If you look for an edge, the edge would have to favor Breathitt since the Bobcats have but one game left on the road and four at home. Whitesburg, which will host Cawood and Betsy Layne in district play, will be the only away game.

Cawood will have Leslie County and Shelby Valley as its final two district games after this Friday night.

A Breathitt County win or a victory for the Blackcats should determine the top spot in the district standings, awarding the winning team with home field advantage in the first two rounds of the playoffs.

Shelby Valley, Betsy Layne and Leslie County have yet to record a district win this season. Betsy Layne will have an open date this weekend and return to the gridiron on October 9 at home against Leslie County.

I think this will be the team to pull out a win over the Bobcats. Prestonsburg will win this one by three points. Shelby Valley squares off against Leslie County and the Wildcats will roar by six points at home. Whitesburg takes on non-district foe, Fleming-Neon, and it will be the Yellowjackets by a conversion over the Pirates.

Look for a big, big game Friday night when the Blackcats meet the Bobcats at Breathitt.

Adams edges by Warfield; defeats Magoffin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Adams Middle School Lady Blackcats dropped a heartbreaker to Warfield in middle school basketball but posted a win over Magoffin County earlier.

Adams fell to Warfield 42-41 Wednesday night with the Lady Indians outscoring Adams 15-12 in the final period. Jennifer Curnutte led the Lady Blackcats' scoring with 11 points, including a three-point basket. Erin Majakey finished with nine points while Miranda Lafferty and Charlie Mullins scored five apiece.

Lisa Chapman led the Lady Indians with 14 points while Kellie Moore tossed in 12. Mary Endicott scored nine points.

Adams led most of the game but never could mount a surmountable lead. Lafferty scored five first quarter points that gave Adams a 10-8 lead at the first stop. The two teams played even in the second quarter with Adams leading 16-14 at the half.

In the third, Heather White drilled a three-point for Adams that allowed the Lady Blackcats to maintain a two-point advantage heading into the fourth quarter.

Coleman scored six fourth quarter points to help the Lady Indians to pull out the one-point victory. Coleman hit four of five free throws down the stretch to notch the win.

Amanda Stephens and Tabatha Caudill had four points each for Adams. White finished with three.

Against Magoffin County, Curnutte scored a game high 10 points to lead Adams to an easy 34-14 win over the Lady Hornets. Curnutte hit two three-point baskets in the game. Majakey finished with five points and Stephens netted four.

Adams grabbed a 9-4 first quarter lead behind Curnutte, who drained a three-pointer and scored seven of the nine first quarter points.

Curnutte hit her second trey in the second period that propelled Adams to a 21-5 half-time lead. Majakey had two points at the half with Caudill scoring three.

Magoffin County scored only three points in the third period and that came on a trey by Miranda Montgomery.

Caudill finished with six points for Adams. Lafferty added three. Stephens, Amanda Webb, and Jamie Slone scored two points each.

Hoop Scoop

by Clark Francis

By Clark Francis, Editor & Publisher of the HOOP SCOOP

I'm not sure it's ever happened before, but the University of Kentucky appears to be on the verge of landing two of the top three seniors in the nation. Already in the fold is 6'4 Keith Bogans from Hyattsville (DeMatha) MD. He committed to the Wildcats on Monday. Later this week or early next week 6'10 Marvin Stone from Huntsville (Grissom) AL is also expected to make it official for the Wildcats.

If that weren't enough, 7'0 John Stewart from Indianapolis (Lawrence North) IN, who currently does not rank among our top 100 seniors nationally, but who has a lot of potential, has also publicly announced that he is planning on signing with the Wildcats during the fall signing period in November.

However, that alone is not enough to ensure that Kentucky will have the #1 ranked recruiting class. As a matter of fact, as it stands today, the school with the best recruiting class is Duke, not Kentucky. Actually, it's safe to predict that both schools will be running neck and neck for a while. Kentucky should retake the lead once Stone publicly commits to the Wildcats, but Duke would jump back into the lead again if they get 6'7 Michael Dunleavy from Portland (Jesuit) OR, who is expected to pick the Blue Devils over Stanford and North Carolina.

Let's take a closer look. Bogans and Stone are ranked #2 and #3 nationally, respectively by the HOOP SCOOP, while 6'2 Jason Williams from Metuchen (H.S.) NJ, who the Blue Devils landed three weeks ago, ranks #6 nationally and 6'11 Casey Sanders from Tampa (Prep) FL, who committed to Duke on Monday, ranks #9. Kentucky also has the edge on the third player signed, because Stewart ranks #152 nationally, while 6'10 Nick Horvath from Arden Hills (Mounds View) MN, who committed to Duke last June, ranks #159.

Another school that has been busy as of late is Tennessee. On Monday the Volunteers got a commitment from 6'2 Terrance Woods from Memphis (Treadwell) TN, who moved into our top 100 nationally after we saw him hit 11-13 3-pointers in Augusta, GA in the NIKE Peach Jam in July. Not only is he one of the best 3-pointer shooters in the nation, but he was an important recruit for the University of Memphis, which can't be happy about Tennessee stealing one out of their own backyard.

Then, a day later the Volunteers landed a quality point guard in 6'2 Jon Higgins from Shaker Heights (H.S.) OH, who ranks #54 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP and is the consensus top ranked senior in Ohio, despite the fact he has been out since July with an injury. Tennessee also received a commitment from 6'6 Ronald Slay from Mouth of Wilson (Oak Hill) VA last spring, so like so much of the SEC, the Volunteers are off to a great start.

Arkansas and Mississippi also have been busy lately. A week ago we mentioned that Arkansas had gotten a big commitment from 6'6 Joe Johnson from Little Rock (Central) AR, who ranks #28 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP. However, even more recently they added Johnson's high school and AAU teammate 6'5 Jarrett Hart from Little Rock (Central) AR and 6'9 Kevin Robinson from Butler County (JC) KS, who signed with the Arkansas out of high school two years ago, committed again to the Razorbacks.

Ole Miss landed 6'3 Aaron Harper from Jackson (Provine) MS and 6'4 Emmanuel Wade from Marianna (Lee) AR, both within the last week and 6'10 Jon Guinn from Oxford (H.S.) MS, who ranks among the top five seniors in Mississippi, also committed to the Rebels recently.

Outside the SEC, Kansas appears to be on the verge of landing an excellent recruiting class. The first to commit was 6'9 Andrew Gooden from El Cerrito (H.S.) CA, who ranks #44 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP. He picked the Jayhawks two weeks ago. Then, several days ago 6'9 Nick Collison from Iowa Falls (H.S.) IA, who ranks #27 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, but who is ranked as high as #2 nationally by Bob Gibbons in All-Star Sports, committed. We also look for Kansas to get 6'3 Kirk Hinrich from Sioux City (H.S.) IA, who ranks #41 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, to pick Kansas in the near future.

We've also been busy keeping track of a number of other major commitments within the week. Boston College pulled off the upset by beating Tennessee and Xavier for 6'0 Troy Bell from Minneapolis (Holy Angel) MN. Georgia got 6'4 Shawn Fields from Lexington (Catholic) KY a year ago, so they obviously had the perfect in to get 7'1 Nathan Popp, also from Lexington (Catholic) KY. Seton Hall got the perfect complement for 6'11 Samuel Dalembert from Elizabeth (St. Patrick) NJ, who picked Seton Hall two weeks ago, when 6'7 Gregory Morton from Bronx (St. Raymond's) NY committed on Monday.

Michigan State got a major commitment late last week from 6'6 Jason Richardson from Saginaw (Buena Vista) MI, who ranks #16 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP. However, the final pieces to that puzzle may not come until next year. The Spartans are also the heavy favorite for 6'3 Marcus Taylor from Lansing (Waverly) MI, who is ranked as the #1 junior in America, and 6'9 Zach Randolph from Marion (H.S.) IN, who is a consensus top 10 junior nationally.

Cincinnati is in the market for another wing player and it could come down to whoever commits first between 6'5 Marshall Williams from Milwaukee (Vincent) WI and 6'5 Leonard Stokes from Buffalo (Turner-Carroll) NY. Apparently both players are telling people that they are going to Cincinnati, but neither has told Bearcats' head coach Bobby Huggins. Stokes also has Providence, West Virginia, and Virginia Tech on his list. Williams other schools include Michigan, Memphis, and Missouri. The only other senior Cincinnati is involved with is 6'2 George Baker from Lexington (Dunbar) KY.

Earlier this week the NCAA announced sanctions against the University of Louisville, which include no post-season play for one year and a reduction of scholarships from 13 to 12 for two years. However, this is nothing more than a slap on the wrist, because, unless Louisville's point guard play is much better than we suspect, we don't look for the Cardinals two win any more games than they did a year ago. As a result, we weren't looking for them to be in the tournament this year before the NCAA's penalty was handed down.

As for the loss of a scholarship, Louisville has more role players than they know what to do with. Instead, they need to sign quality, but it is doubtful that they will have a chance to land four or five players who figure to impact as a freshman. As a result, the scholarship reduction also figures to be something they can live with. Right now the Cardinals have three scholarships, minus the one they just lost, to give. However, if Travis Best and/or Jeff McKinley transfer next spring, they then could sign three or four players in this recruiting class.

As for Louisville's recruiting, the Cardinals appear to be the heavy favorite for 6'10 Marquis Estill from Richmond (Madison Central) KY. They also are involved with players like 6'5 Reese Gaines from Madison (West) WI, 6'11 Steve Hunter from Durham (Mt. Zion Christian) NC, 6'5 Demario Hooper from Texarkania (Texas) TX, 6'5 Antonio Jackson from Butler County (JC) KS, 6'11 Chris Andersen from Blinn (JC) TX, 6'2 George Baker from Lexington (Dunbar) KY, 6'1 Rick Jones from Georgetown (Scott County) KY, and 6'5 Chris Shumate from Louisville (Male) KY.

UCLA, Duke, Kansas, Syracuse, UNLV, Georgetown, Connecticut, and St. John's are among those still involved with 6'9 Carlos Boozer from Juneau (Douglas) AK, who ranks #5 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, but don't look for anything to happen soon. As a matter or fact, he told us at Rick Barrett's Midnight Madness on Saturday night in Cherry Hill, NJ that he expects to wait until spring to sign.

We still think it will be UCLA and there is no doubt he is the Bruins #1 recruiting priority, as was evident by the fact that UCLA assistant coaches Michael Holton and Jim Saia were both in attendance on Saturday night to watch Boozer. They also were there to see 6'5 Jr DeShawn Stevenson from Fresno (Washington Union) CA, who ranks #3 nationally in the junior class by the HOOP SCOOP. Stevenson, who had 26 points and was the MVP for his team in the Midnight Madness All-American Game Saturday night, has an early list which includes UCLA, Kansas, Duke, North Carolina, Arizona, Connecticut, and Fresno State.

Another top five junior who we saw over the weekend at the Charlie Weber Adidas Tournament in College Park, MD was 6'5 Jr Jerome Harper from Columbia (Keenan) SC. He's like Litrell Sprewell without the attitude and he may have as much potential! His handling skills are good enough to allow him to play a lot of point guard, but he's a phenomenal athlete and a terrific outside shooter with deep range and the ability to get his shot off against anybody. Right now his recruitment is wide open, as schools like Florida, Cincinnati, G-town, USC, Arkansas, Iowa, Clemson, Texas, and Alabama are all showing early interest. However, remember two things. First, South Carolina doesn't lose many kids from Columbia, SC. Second, Kentucky assistant coach George Felton was once the head coach at South Carolina and Kentucky head coach Tubby Smith was his assistant.

Also 6'7 Donnell Harvey from Cuthbert (Randolph Clay) GA reinforced his ranking as the #1 player in the nation by the HOOP SCOOP in the top all-star game at Rick Barrett's Midnight Madness. Nobody plays harder and does more to effect the game. He finished with 12 points, 18 rebounds, six blocks, and numerous alters and deflections. Harvey confirms that Clemson is currently the leader, but also adds that he is planning on signing in the spring. Also on his list are Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Florida, Connecticut, Georgetown, and Alabama, but our feeling is that this one is far from over.

It now looks like Virginia could win the battle for 6'7 Travis Watson from Mouth of Wilson (Oak Hill) VA, who ranks #19 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, by default. That's assuming that Michigan gets 6'8 Aloyius Anagonya from Detroit (St. Martin DePorres) MI and Clemson gets 6'7 Donnell Harvey from Cuthbert (Randolph Clay) GA.

Florida State may also have a shot, but Texas' chances appear to be slim and none, because Watson's mother is moving to Lynchburg, VA, where she will live next door to Pat Boggs, the coach of the Virginia Select AAU team. All this is perfectly legal, because Boggs has been Travis' legal guardian for the last three years - the first when he was sophomore at Naruna (William Campbell) VA and the last two at Mouth of Wilson (Oak Hill) VA. Apparently the mother wants to be closer to her son, so the point is she wouldn't be moving to Virginia if Watson was planning on going back to Texas.

We don't have 6'9 Stephane Pelle from Mercersburg (Prep) PA ranked among our top 100 seniors nationally, because he doesn't like contact inside and he didn't play well when we saw him during the summer. However, his list is still very impressive with Virginia, Stanford, Villanova, Colorado, and Georgia Tech.

He doesn't rank among our top 100 nationally, because he's too small and we're not sure he shoots it well enough, but 5'10 Fab Fisher from Brookville (Long Island Lutheran) NY is one of our favorite players in the class. And he's probably getting under recruited, as Georgetown is the only big-time school on his list. Virginia Tech is also mentioned, but the others - Rider, Canisius, UNC-Wilmington, Hartford, Fairleigh Dickinson, and Central Florida - are all more in the middle of the spectrum.

Isaac scores 21

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jessica Isaac scored a game-high 21 points to lead the Allen Central Middle School to a 53-46 overtime win at Warfield in middle school basketball Monday night.

Isaac buried three three-point baskets in the game, but two were big ones as they came in the extra period.

The two teams played to a 42-42 standoff leading into the overtime period.

Allen Central sagged at the free throw line, hitting only 13 of 33 attempts and only three of 10 in the fourth quarter alone.

Isaac scored eight points in the extra period including two three-point baskets.

Amber Scott scored in double figures with 13 points while Jeni Spurlock finished with eight points.

Scott hit a three-point basket and scored seven points as Allen Central raced out to a 14-6 lead after the first quarter. Warfield held a five-point advantage at the half, 25-20, but Allen Central cut the lead to one, 31-30, after three periods.

Warfield attempted 39 free throws and made just 16.

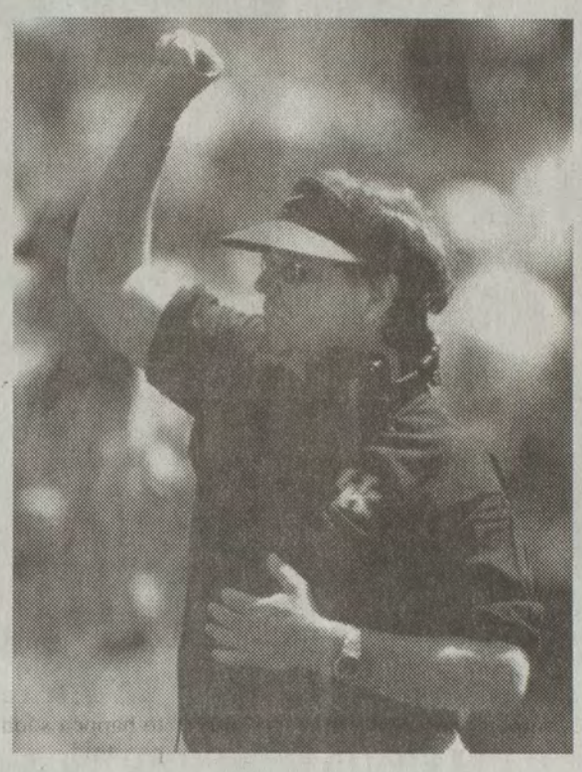
"Major" Defense

Mike Major enters his second season as defensive coordinator at Kentucky. For the second consecutive year, Major will deal with significant inexperience on his defensive unit. Just five starters return from last season and UK finished spring practice with only 19 scholarship players on defense. The numbers got better in August with the influx of a defensive-dominated freshman class.

The play of Major's stop troops in 1997 drew praise from Coach Hal Mumme. "Our defense gave us a chance to win as many as seven games," Mumme said. "Considering there was a lot of on-the-job training, and given the number of players we had available, we did about as well as we could do."

The play of Major's group of linebackers should improve. Jeff Snedegar and Lee Wesley enter their second season as starters and one of the real finds of spring practice was the play of Marlon McCree at outside linebacker.

Major came with Mumme from Valdosta State, where he was the defensive coordinator from 1991-1996. As a position coach, Major guided the linebackers four years and the defensive backs during the 1993 season. The Blazers had a 40-17-1 record during those five years and advanced to the NCAA Division II playoffs in 1994 and 1996.



Major's defense set a school record in 1994 by allowing only 162 points - the fewest in VSU history. His defensive units led the Gulf South Conference in numerous statistical categories and achieved top 10 national rankings for defense. His teams posted six shutouts in five years. VSU had produced only four shutouts in the 10 years preceding Major's arrival.

Nine VSU defensive players were named first-team All-GSC under Major's tutelage. Antonio Edwards was GSC Defensive Player of the Year in 1992 and went on to become a starting defensive end for the Seattle Seahawks. Four other Major-coached Blazers also signed professional contracts, including tackle Artie Ulmer, who was selected in the 1997 NFL draft by the Minnesota Vikings.

"Since I work so closely with the offense, I need a defensive coordinator I can turn it over to and trust," Mumme said. "There's nobody I trust on the sidelines more than Mike. He's a true student of the game and is a perfectionist. He's also great at making adjustments during the game."

Rick Kestner #80

RICK KESTNER of Stone had the best day of any Kentucky receiver during his junior campaign in 1964 ... Kestner hauled in nine passes for 185 yards and three touchdowns in leading the Wildcats to a 27-21 upset of No. 1-ranked Ole Miss at Mississippi Memorial Stadium in Jackson ... In the third quarter, Kestner was on the receiving end of a 32-yard halfback pass from Rodger Bird to give UK a 13-7 lead ... Kestner added two additional scores on tosses from QB Rick Norton (60 and 23) as the Wildcats rallied from 14-13 and 21-20 deficits late in the second half for the upset.

The Yeast Senior File

My best non-athletic talent is: Singing

When I played football as a kid, I pretended I was: My uncle, Nick Yeast, who played for national championship teams at Eastern Kentucky.

What I like most about Coach Mumme is: He is very encouraging. When you make a mistake, he says, "Play the next play!"

My goal in life is: To be as successful as I can and come back and help troubled youth. I want to help keep kids off the street because they are our future.

Tailgating Recipe of the Week

Swiss & Frank "FOOTBALL" SPIRALS

Yummy for this week's tailgate party — you will need:
2 5.5-ounce packages cocktail wieners (32 wieners)
32 2-inch strips process Swiss cheese
1 8-ounce package refrigerated biscuits (10 biscuits)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons sesame seed

Preparation:
Cut a lengthwise slit in each wiener; insert strip of cheese in each. Quarter 8 biscuits. (Bake remaining with appetizers.) Shape quarters in 4-inch strips, Wind, spiral fashion, around each wiener. Place on baking sheet; brush with butter and sprinkle with sesame. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes, or until browned. Serve warm. Makes 32.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

For the 16th year in a row, Ricky Rudd has won at least once. He led 198 laps, dominating the late stages of the NAPA AutoCare 500 at Martinsville Speedway.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Jay Sauter took advantage of a bruising exchange of paint between Jimmy Hensley and Ron Hornaday, proving that while rubbing is racing, it does not always produce a victory.

Hensley and Hornaday had to settle for second and third in the NAPA 250 at Martinsville.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Jeff Gordon vs. Ford Motor Co.

With six races to go, the Chevrolet Monte Carlo has won 13 races, the Ford Taurus, 12.

By all accounts, Ford's introduction of the Taurus has been a rousing success, but Gordon has won 10 times by himself, and his Herculean season could deprive Ford of the manufacturer's championship.

NASCAR This Week writer Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "It has been noted many times that Gordon is really Ford's best friend, because NASCAR can hardly adjust the rules to help the Chevy as long as Gordon wins so often.

"But Gordon's performance is so incredible that he is close to beating the Tauruses practically all by himself."

THE WINSTON CUP CIRCUIT

THE WINSTON CUP SERIES
COMING UP: UAW-GM Quality 500
WHERE: Charlotte Motor Speedway, Concord, N.C.
WHEN: Sunday, Oct. 4
DEFENDING CHAMPION: Dale Jarrett
EVENT QUALIFYING RECORD: Ward Burton, Chevrolet, 185.759 mph, Oct. 5, 1994.
RACE RECORD: Ernie Irvan, Ford, 154.537 mph, Oct. 10, 1993.
OTHER FORMER WINNERS: Jarrett, Dale Earnhardt and Bill Elliott have each won this race twice. Other active former winners are Rusty Wallace, Ken Schrader, Darrell Waltrip, Geoff Bodine, Irvan and Terry Labonte.
NOTABLE: No active driver has won the pole more than once. ... Labonte's 1996 victory was a key factor in his championship charge.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL
COMING UP: All Pro Bumper to Bumper 300
WHERE: Charlotte Motor Speedway, Concord, N.C.
WHEN: Saturday, Oct. 3.
DEFENDING CHAMPION: Joe Nemechek
TRACK QUALIFYING RECORD: Mark Martin, Ford, 176.696 mph, Oct. 6, 1994.
RACE RECORD: Sam Ard, Oldsmobile, 141.269 mph, Oct. 8, 1983.
OTHER FORMER WINNERS: Martin has won four CMS BGN races, one more than Dale Earnhardt. Two-time winners include Dale Jarrett, Terry Labonte, Jeff Gordon and Darrell Waltrip. Chad Little, Sterling Marlin, Phil Parsons, Michael Waltrip and Jimmy Spencer have all won once.
NOTABLE: The late Rob Moroso won this race back-to-back in 1988-89. He and Ard are the only BGN regulars ever to win in the fall.

PROFILE

Jeff Gordon

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Jeff Gordon says he appreciates the increasing fan support NASCAR is getting.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

Jeff Gordon is well on his way to a historic career. Gordon has won a higher percentage of his starts than any other driver in Winston Cup history.

Gordon has been racing since he was 5 years old. He was rookie of the year in 1993 and won his first race in the Coca-Cola 600 the following year. He won championships in 1995 and 1997 and appears well on his way to a third title this year.

The team of Gordon, crew chief Ray Evernham and the Rainbow Warriors pit crew has proved to be an almost unbeatable combination.

HOMETOWN: Born in Vallejo, Calif., raised in Pittsboro, Ind., now lives in Davidson, N.C.

AGE: 27

WIFE: Brooke

CAR: No. 24 DuPont Chevrolet Monte Carlo, owned by Rick Hendrick.

FIRSTS: Start (Nov. 15, 1992, at Atlanta), pole (Oct. 6, 1993, at Charlotte), win (May 29, 1994, at Charlotte).

RECORD: 182 starts, 23 poles, 39 wins, 95 top fives, 117 top 10s, over $22 million in earnings.

DESCRIBE YOUR RELATIONSHIP WITH THE FANS. "The fans we have are just awesome. They keep coming in bigger and bigger numbers everywhere we go, and keep getting more and more loyal to the sport and supporting it more and more everywhere we go. Now we're going to new venues all over the country, places that you'd say no fans would go to the track. Then, all of a sudden, bang, the stands are full. It's great to see. Just like the Truck Series in Memphis. That was a sold-out crowd. It's great to see motorsports getting that type of support, and it's really good that I get the fan support that I do."

DO THE BOOS BOTHER YOU? "You really don't put too much emphasis [on that]. I've got a lot of people who do support me, and that means a lot to me. The ones who don't, I don't take it personally. I'm one of the new guys on the circuit.

"Guys have been in this sport and have dominated it for a long time. They have a lot of fans who have been behind them for many years, and they want to see their guys winning. Anybody who is knocking them out of the win column, they're going to get some negative reactions.

"Right now, we've won a lot of races. People enjoy seeing us get beat. As soon as somebody else comes along and wins a bunch of races, they're going to get the same reaction. Everybody wants to see it kind of spread out. Any time it's not, that's the kind of reaction you're going to get."

YOUR TURN
Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,

Dale Earnhardt ought to try qualifying on a Clydesdale! No doubt he couldn't run much worse than in his incompetent race car.

Your efforts are pathetic. You have the money. You have the experience. Go figure…

Ditto for Waltrip.

You sure have the correct car number on Buckshot Jones's car equals 00. Double nothin'.

Why don't you let these kids grow up before you let them in cars? Does money get you anything?

Richie Thomas
Findlay, Ohio

Dear NASCAR This Week,

NASCAR has it rigged so a Ford is supposed to win the championship this year.

Jeff Gordon is winning despite Jack Roush's five Fords. Why don't they ban Gordon instead of harassing him?

Then Roush could enter five or 10 more cars and win them all. Fords have, the advantage, that's plain to see; no other car can compete except for Gordon.

Remember when the winning was reversed, NASCAR made changes. But not now. I have been a fan for years and always liked Mark Martin, but Roush has changed that.

I give up until there is some real competition. Had enough.

Thank you.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ Rich Bickle came to Martinsville not knowing how long he was going to be driver of Cale Yarborough's No. 98 Ford Taurus. Crew chief Skip Eyler put together a car and an effort that enabled Bickle to finish fourth in the NAPA AutoCare 500. Such a performance ought to give this team some stability and confidence.

Who's hot... Who's not

WHO'S HOT? Jeff Burton has seven straight top-five finishes.

WHO'S NOT? Michael Waltrip has gone 20 races with one finish in the top 10.

TRIVIA

2. Who was the Most Popular Driver in 1966?
3. Who won the first race at Charlotte Motor Speedway?

ANSWERS
1. Darrell Waltrip in 1990
2. Darel Dieringer
3. Joe Lee Johnson

Fan Tips

Charlotte Motor Speedway has constructed bridges over Hwy. 29 to enable fans to make their way from their parking spots to the mammoth grandstands. Yet many fans continue to make their way across the highway. Using the bridges would greatly alleviate traffic and make the drive to the speedway less of a hassle.

FROM THE ARCHIVES:

The rich history of NASCAR

Buddy Baker won the first race of his career in the 1967 National 500 at Charlotte. That initial win ended Richard Petty's record 10-race winning streak as Baker drove Ray Fox's No. 3 Dodge Charger into victory lane.

AROUND THE GARAGE

Earnhardt hires Martin's former crew chief as consultant

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — When Dale Earnhardt's driving days are over, he will have a wealth of talent in place at his Mooresville shops.

Steve Hmiel is just the latest in a long string of key hirings Earnhardt has made for the team he owns. Earnhardt fields teams in the Winston Cup Series with driver Steve Park, Busch Grand National series with Dale Earnhardt Jr., and Craftsman Truck Series with Ron Hornaday.

Hmiel, a longtime employee of Jack Roush and for six years Mark Martin's crew chief, was fired abruptly by Roush nearly a month ago. On Thursday, Earnhardt announced Hmiel's hiring, at least for the time being, as a consultant. If Hmiel decides to stay, he will become manager of the entire operation.

PAY PER CAMERA: Speedway Motorsports has put together an agreement between Turner Sports Inc. and DirecTV to put an "enhanced" telecast of the UAW-GM Quality 500 on pay-per-view this weekend.

The Oct. 4 race at Charlotte Motor Speedway will be offered for $9.95 over DirecTV for a "full broadcast plus continuous broadcasts from four in-car cameras."

The regular WTBS telecast will be furnished at no extra charge to cable subscribers.

FOR ALL YOU '3' FANS: Dale Earnhardt Chevrolet in Newton, N.C., will hold its annual open house on Monday, Oct. 5, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., with Earnhardt Sr. and Jr., Ron Hornaday and Steve Park on hand as well as former champion and broadcaster Ned Jarrett and artist Sam Bass.

ON THE TABLE: David Green failed to make the field for the NAPA AutoCare 500, but a regular job driving Larry Hendrick's No. 41 Chevrolet is his for the asking.

Team manager Mike Hill said Green's failure to make the field would not affect the decision and confirmed that an offer had been made. Green is under no pressure to make up his mind anytime soon, Hill added.

"We looked at David Green because he fits our profile," said Hill.

"He is compatible with our race team, he has a good understanding of the race car and he's not a raw rookie."

ALL ABOUT ME

My name is Toni Dowell. I live in Martin, Kentucky. I live with my mom and my sister. My birthday is on May 30, 1990. I am eight years old.

My eyes are brown like a tree. My hair is light brown like the sand. My favorite sport is baseball. I am on the Marlans team. My team color is green. My favorite hobby is rollerbladeing. I love to rollerblade everyday. I like to spend most of my time with my mom. My mom is fun to go places with. I am a very shy person when I have to get in front of alot of people. I do not like to sing in front of people either. I am not like the rest of my family. I am the only one in my family that is shy.

If I had to choose one thing I like best about myself it would be the way I look. I think I look pretty and I'm a good student. I can't figure out why people think they look ugly. Everyone is beautiful in their own way. We all are different but that's how God made us.

THE MARTIN "BAMBINO" BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

by Nick Music

5th Mrs. Farmer

The Martin Bambino baseball tournament was played in June, 1998 at the Martin City baseball field. The tournament started on Monday and ended on Saturday. It was a double elimination game. The last two teams in the tournament played for the Championship.

The Cardinals went all the way to play the last game of the tournament. The Cardinals were the Home team and the Astros were the Visitors. The first batter of the game got a hit, the next batter hit the ball back to the pitcher and turned a 1-6-3 double play. The third batter hit a time drive which hit the Cardinals' shortstop on the right brow bone. The shortstop suffered a cut over the right eye which required four stitches. All this took place in the first inning.

The shortstop returned in the fourth inning. The fans gave him a standing ovation. The score was 8 to 1. The Astros were up to bat and it was a 1-2-3 inning.

Then, it was the Cardinals' turn to bat. The shortstop was the first batter. He was walked to first base and three other guys were walked to bring the shortstop in. In the bottom of the fourth, the score was tied 9 to 9. The Astros were up to bat and the Cardinals got another 1-2-3 inning.

The Cardinals were at bat again. The first batter struck out. Then the shortstop was up at his second at bat of the game. On the third pitch he hit a home run, breaking the 9 to 9 tie. Then the Cardinals scored four more runs which made the score 14 to 9. After three outs, the Astros were back up at bat at the top of the sixth. The Cardinals got one out, the next batter got a hit. After the second out, the Cardinals were only one out away from winning the tournament. The next batter struck out and the Cardinals won the tournament.

BIG GAME

Blackcats, Bobcats to claw out district title tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It is week six of the high school football season but, when you look at the schedules of the Prestonsburg Blackcats and Breathitt County Bobcats, you will not find a bigger game for either school than tonight's District 2 matchup

The football action will feature the passing game of the Breathitt County against the running game of Prestonsburg.

Kyle Moore is the top passing quarterback in the state and is averaging over 300 yards per game in passing.

"Well, they have the best quarterback in the state," said Prestonsburg coach John Derossett. "We realize that we cannot completely stop him so we are going to try and contain him."

The Bobcats, who failed to make it three in a row for a state championship in Class 2A, has played the season without their all-time leading rusher in Jonathan Chapman, who transferred to Pikeville.

Although the Bobcats throw the football 80 percent of the time, they still have a strong running game.

"They have a lot of people, and they will be ready. They have a strong tradition over there, especially with two state championships."

Coach Derossett said his team plans not to rush Moore but give good down field cover.

"It will be better for us not to rush him but to cover him," he said. "It is better to let them get the little screen passes and not get much. We have to have good coverage down field."

Although the Bobcats come in with the state's best at quarterback, the Blackcats are not a team without their own top players. John Ortega ranks in the top ten in scoring in the state and is averaging close to 20 points per game. He has scored 10 touchdowns this season and rushed for over 500 yards.

Grant Castle could be the key for the Blackcats against the Bobcats. Castle has good speed and works hard on the field. Hank Mullins was very impressive against Cawood and did not get much time on the gridiron in a 62-14 rout of Betsy Layne last week. Mullins will be another key for the Cats. What can be said about fullback Jeremy Caudill that hasn't already been said? He is a great blocking back but ,at the middle linebacker slot, Caudill is respected by the Bobcats. Moore will be very aware of his presence.

Nathan Leslie continues to lead the Blackcats' defense and just gets better with each game. However, Prestonsburg will be without junior Mike McDonald on the defensive side of the football after being ejected against Betsy Layne last week for a fight. McDonald will have to serve a one-game suspension.

"With Mike out, that is going to hurt us some," said Coach Derossett. "He is a starter for us and this is a game we need him." The Prestonsburg coach did not want to expound on the ejection.

Adam Hall has had a great season in the short time he has been back since the Whitesburg game. Last week Hall had his career best at the signal caller's slot completing nine of 11 passes for 245 yards. Top receivers for the Blackcats is junior Seth Crisp. Crisp had two touchdown catches last week at Betsy Layne.

KEYS TO A WIN AT BREATHITT COUNTY

Coach Derossett and his team know the significance of this game and going into focus is imperative.

"We are focused as a team," he said. "We are a mature team, and we show it. We will just take things one step at a time. We have three starters on this team and they have worked hard on the mental part of the game. They know their roles."

Taking care of the football will be one key for the Blackcats as they want to keep the football out of the hands of the Bobcats as much as possible.

"Turnovers are going to be a big key for us," said the Prestonsburg mentor. "We have to guard against the onside kick and play sound football."

Defensively, Breathitt County will be led by all-state candidate Wade Collins at a linebacker position.

"He is one of the top 50 players in the state," said Coach Derossett. They have another player in B.J. Fugate, who is a very aggressive defensive player. They have the Noble kid and Neace kid who are good football players.

"They have the White kid who has come in and taken Chapman's place in the backfield. They are not hurting at the running back positions."

BLACKCAT NOTE:

Prestonsburg assistant coach Jerry Butcher was acting like a kid again and ended up separating his shoulder during a practice and had to have surgery.

"We want to wish Jerry the best," Coach Derossett said.

The Weekend EXTRA

SMOKE GETS IN YOUR EYES

My friend Ailene got carded in a local business establishment last week. She was attempting to purchase a package of cigarettes, but the cashier refused to sell to someone who did not have the proper identification.

"I got carded for trying to buy cigarettes," Ailene said one morning as she and I were walking.

"Did the cashier have poor vision?" I snickered.

"Very funny, Sara," Ailene said sarcastically. "No, the cashier could see fine. I just didn't have my driver's license with me."

"Ailene, I don't mean to sound insensitive. And don't take this personally, but I could have guessed you were old enough to purchase cigarettes without an ID."

"Sara, do I denote a touch of jealousy?" Ailene mused.

"A touch! It's more like a slap. What happened?"

"They said it was their policy to ask for identification on anyone who purchased cigarettes."

"Then they didn't think you were too young?" I asked.

"I don't suppose, Sara. But what if they had?" she asked defiantly.

"You look youthful," I admitted. "But I'd put you over 21. Did you get the cigarettes? Why are you so agitated? If someone mistook me to be underage, I'd be elated."

"Because although they wouldn't sell them to me without ID, they said they would sell them to Venus because she had identification with her."

"And?"

"And then Venus could give them to me," Ailene answered.

"Okay. So?"

"So they would sell them to someone that they knew was going to give them to me, but they wouldn't sell them to me," she replied, indignantly.

"Let me get this straight. The cashier wouldn't sell you cigarettes because you didn't have an ID, but they'd sell the cigarettes to your friend who had an ID and let her give them to you."

"Correct. And it's ludicrous!"

"Did you get your cigarettes?" I asked.

"Venus bought them."

"So you think she should be arrested for contributing to the delinquency of a minor?"

"Sara, let's drop the subject. I just thought it was interesting and somewhat funny that I couldn't but cigarettes at my age ~ ID or not."

"Al, fess up. Did the cashier wear glasses?" I asked.

"Forget it. I thought the situation was ironic. That's all."

If Ailene gets carded the next time she goes to the movies, I'm going to find out what kind of baby lotion she uses.

Allen to sing at MAC

Jana Allen, granddaughter of Ralph E. Allen and Pauline H. Allen of McDowell, will perform as a vocalist with the Opry of the Virginias at the Mountain Arts Center on Saturday, November 14, at 7:30 p.m.

Allen is the youngest member of the Opry of the Virginias, that received a standing ovation for its performance in May at the 17th Annual Dandelion Festival in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. She is a 17-year-old senior at Alleghany High School in Alleghany County, Virginia, the same school where her father, M. Ray Allen (a 1959 graduate of McDowell High School) teaches English and mythology.

Asked what her biggest thrill has been as a vocalist, she replied, "Opening for Goose Creek Symphony is probably my most exciting experience so far." She opened for Goose Creek Symphony at the historic Stonewall Theatre in Clifton Forge, Virginia, last spring.

M. Ray Allen, the president and founder of Appalfolks of America Association (AAA), the owner and operator of the theatre, said, "Jana began singing with the Virginia Junior Opry as a seventh grader, and she has developed her own style of presenting the songs she sings."

In addition to her experience as a member of the Virginia Junior Opry that has performed concerts at Turner Ashby High School near Harrisonburg, Wilson Memorial High School near Staunton, Taylor Park near Danville, Maurry River Park in Buena Vista, the historic Stonewall Theatre and the 50th Annual Rockingham County Fair, Allen performs as a member of Gratitude, a gospel music ensemble from Covington, Virginia.

She has distinguished herself as a member of the honor choir at AHS where she is an honor student, and she is planning to minor in voice in college while pursuing a career in broadcast journalism.

Allen was selected as a member of the Opry of the Virginias along with four other members of the Virginia Junior Opry by Bob Campbell, the only living entertainer who has toured as one of the four Statler Brothers besides the current four. Campbell, the director of both the Opry of the Virginias and the Virginia Junior Opry, has toured with the Johnny Cash Show and with Tex Ritter. He performs with both the Opry of the Virginias and the Virginia Junior Opry.

M. Ray Allen recalled, "During a visit to my parents in McDowell, I took Jana to see the Kentucky Junior Pros, and she really enjoyed the show." The Kentucky Junior Pros are going to open for the Opry of the Virginias on November 14, at the Mountain Arts Center. Jana Allen recalled, "The Kentucky Junior Pros were very professional and had a lot of talent."

As for her upcoming performance at the Mountain Arts Center, Jana Allen said, "I'm excited about the scheduled performance, and I feel that we have a good show to present."

In addition to her performance in the field of country music, Jana Allen has performed in several plays with the Clifton Forge Players and other drama groups. She landed the lead role in the Missoula Children's Theatre production of "Johnny Appleseed," a drama presented by the Alleghany Highlands Arts Council. Also, she has appeared in "Annie," "Free Mel Greensberg!," "A Musical Tribute to the Railroad," "The Life and Times of Mad Ann Bailey," and "His First, Best Country," a drama by the late poet laureate of Kentucky, Jim Wayne Miller.

Concerning her performances as a singer, Jana Allen observed, "It is a way to communicate all kinds of emotions to an audience, and I know that it is something that people enjoy hearing."

Tickets for the Opry of the Virginias are $8 in advance compared to $10 at the door, and group purchases of ten or more tickets may be made for $6 each. Tickets are available at the Mountain Arts Center.

M. Ray Allen noted, "Jana's last role in drama was the leading lady in "Free Mel Greenberg!," a musical comedy this year at the historic Stonewall Theatre, and she played the part of a country music singer who was trying to make it to Nashville."

Although Jana Allen does not have her sights set on Nashville, Bob Campbell says that she is very talented and really sells her songs to the audience.

The Opry of the Virginias is a troupe of 12 entertainers: Jana Allen, vocalist; Campbell, master of ceremonies, guitarist and vocalist; Shannon Drummond, vocalist; Beth Miller, vocalist; Deborah Coleman, vocalist; Jimmy Lucas, vocalist; Hoop, comedian; and Mark Patterson and the Midnight Special Band.

Jana Allen's mother, Cherie Davis Allen was Miss Virginia in 1968, a vocalist with the Los Angeles Civic Opera, and an actress who performed on Broadway with Lerner and Lowe's original production of "Gigi." Her stage was name was Cherie Suzanne.

M. Ray Allen was inducted into the Morehead State University Hall of Fame in 1991 for his literary achievements, his community service work with Appalfolks of America Association (AAA), and his career as an educator. He is in his 35th year as a teacher who holds his A.B. degree (1963) and M.A. degree in secondary education (1965) from MSU, and his M.F.A. degree in theatre arts from UCLA in 1980.

In addition to Jana Allen, Ray and Cherie have a son, Landon Allen, who is a junior at Virginia Military Institute; Amber, 13; and Anmarie, nine.

News of the Weird

And Perrier and bowls of red M&M's: When authorities raided a cockfighting operation near Gadsden, Ala., in July, they found not only a restaurant and 250-seat theater for patrons, but two air-conditioned trailers in which the roosters hung out before their matches, one of which featured piped-in country music.

According to a Reuters wire service report in August, lobbyists in Bonn, Germany, called the Working Group for the Unemployed held a series of rallies to demand six weeks' annual paid vacation for people out of work, pointing out that those looking for work often are under greater stress than those with jobs and thus need a longer holiday.

In September, federal, state and local authorities raided a field near Salinas, Calif., and seized about 1,000 khat plants, which produce a controlled substance that is still fairly new to the U.S., probably having been introduced by soldiers who served in Somalia. Khat is said to produce bliss, clarity of thought, euphoria and excessive energy. And the Chicago Tribune reported in August that Abbott Laboratories has just completed successful human trials of ABT-594, a drug said to be 200 times as powerful as morphine but still nonaddictive. The drug comes from a tiny Ecuadoran frog whose highly poisonous secretions have long been used to coat blowgun darts.

First Things First

U.S. News & World Report disclosed in July that Iraq, with a supposedly hungry populace, yet limited to buying only essential "humanitarian" items under the U.N. trade embargo, ordered 25 rowing machines and four liposuction devices from a German company. And in August, in a 13-page bequest released by the Register of Wills in Bethlehem, Pa., Robert Allan Miller of Bethlehem, was revealed to have set aside $5,000 for 10 monthly awards "to the most conscientious police officer(s), who (give) the most traffic tickets to motorists who double-park." Said a friend, "(Miller) lived on a really narrow street."

Husbands' and Wives' Intimate Moments

In August, a 26-year-old woman reported being raped by five men in her van on a street in Spokane, Wash., and a massive police manhunt began. Several days later, she apologized and said the sex was consensual, part of a fantasy she lived out by picking the men up, and that her husband was involved. And in August, a couple from Silver Spring, Md., were arrested for indecent exposure at an adult cinema in Baltimore after the husband had arranged for four men to have sex with his wife on the premises. According to police, several other males in the theater complained, apparently because the live sex interfered with their watching sex on the screen.

More Police Chiefs and Their Guns

John Grotluschen, police chief of Clarkeville, Iowa, accidentally shot himself in the hand in August while cleaning his gun. And Bruce Seal, sheriff of Claiborne County, Tenn., accidentally shot himself in the foot in July while reaching into his pocket for his car keys. And Chuck Lewis, police chief of Coggon, Iowa, revealed to reporters in July that because of his 1995 assault conviction, Sheriff Don Zeller won't give him a license to carry a gun.

I Don't Think So

Rev. Muhamed Siddeeq, spiritual adviser to Mike Tyson, telling the New Jersey State Athletic Commission in July that the fighter is of such great character that not only should he get back his boxing license (which was removed after he bit off part of Evander Holyfield's ear in his last fight) but is a prime candidate to succeed Kofi Annan as U.N. secretary general: "I see Mike solving many of the world's problems."

Mary Lauro, head of a civic group seeking to incorporate the new town of Imperial in Jefferson County, Mo., upset in May that her issue was not being taken seriously enough by the county commission: "(Commissioner Jon Selsor) is right next to Hitler, Stalin and all the other dictators."

The Los Angeles Times reported in July that in addition to construction of a small park in Washington, D.C.'s Dupont Circle neighborhood named for the late Sonny Bono, there is "talk" at the University of California, Riverside, of creating a Sonny Bono School of Government.

In July, a 28-year-old man was ticketed for speeding in Great Falls, Mont., allegedly doing 104 in a 45 mph zone. According to the Cascade County Sheriff John Strandell, the man said he had just washed his car and needed to drive fast to dry it off.

In September in Arusha, Tanzania, former Rwandan prime minister Jean Kambanda was convicted of genocide in a United Nations tribunal for his role in the slaughter of 500,000 Rwandan Tutsis in 1994, but professed surprise that he was sentenced to life in prison. His lawyer said that because Kambanda had cooperated with authorities in naming his henchman, he was hopeful of doing no more than two years.

Least Competent Criminal

James L. Liddell was arrested in Granite City, Ill., at his home, about an hour after police say he robbed a Magna Bank branch. Police said Liddell apparently decided to rob the bank while in line to cash a $12.19 payroll check made out to him, which was recovered at the scene, along with the ID he intended to use to cash it.

Recurring Themes

News of the Weird reported in 1995 on the preferred expression of worship at the Vineyard Christian Fellowship Church, Toronto, Ontario: falling to the floor in soothing laughter over the greatness of the Holy Spirit. Worshipers came from around the world seeking the "Toronto Blessing"

IN FOCUS – BRUCE DAVISON: On October 6, CBS will air "Little Girl Fly Away," starring Mare Winningham, Bruce Davison and CCH Pounder. The film, which is said to be based on an actual event, is about a woman – played by Mare Winningham – who receives threats from a man she believes wants to kill her. As the investigation proceeds, startling discoveries are made.

"I see this film as both a thriller – who is threatening this woman and will he be found before he actually kills her? – and a love story," says Bruce Davison. The husband, whom I play, loves his wife and is prepared to be there for her no matter what. As the investigation continues, he's shocked by what he learns about her, but he remains devoted to her."

Davison, who starred in the TV series, "Harry and the Hendersons," was nominated for an Oscar for his work in the film, "Longtime Companion," which ranks as one of the best movies ever made about AIDS and human relationships, He's been active in AIDS-related groups for years, and also works with organizations dealing with child abuse.

Bruce and his wife, actor Lisa Pelikan, have a young son, Ethan. He says, "Since becoming a father, I've become aware of how exhausting it can be to raise a child, but there is nothing more rewarding."

DIAL TONES: Emilio Estevez and William Forsythe star in TNT's "Dollar for the Dead," airing October 11. When asked to name his favorite film, Estevez, son of Martin Sheen and brother of Charlie Sheen, said, " 'Once Upon A Time in the West,' which was directed by Sergio Leone and starred Henry Fonda as a bad guy. Doing this (TNT) film is my way of paying tribute to all the great films Leone left us."

Laura Linney, who co-starred with Jim Carrey in the hit flick "The Truman Show," will star in an upcoming ABC movie, "Love Letters," based on A.R. Gurney's popular play. Legendary film director Stanley Donen ("Singin' in the Rain") will make his television directing debut with "Love Letters."

that is likened to the euphoria in other religions that causes adherents to speak in tongues. Among the more successful programs in the U.S., according to recent reports in the Chicago Sun Times (August) and the Providence Journal-Bulletin (September), are the non-denominational Fun Church in Chicago that also attracts busloads of worshipers from Indiana and the "Laughing Revival" of the New Life Worship Center in Smithfield, R.I., whose parishioners may remain on the floor for up to an hour, giggling.

Undignified Death

In September in Lanham, Md., a 26-year-old man lost control of his motorcycle and crashed, killing himself. Police said it was alcohol-related; four hours earlier, the man had been driven home from a part-time job, which was to get drunk at a police training class so officers could practice doing sobriety tests on him. When he left work, he had a 0.12 blood-alcohol level.

Magoffin teacher is one of the best

Freda Hensley McNew's second and third-graders were involved with their study of rocks when photographers, reporters, and representatives from the Kentucky Department of Education, as well as officials from the local school system, converged on their room.

When Kentucky Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody announced to the students that their teacher "has been selected as one of the best teachers in the United States," the students clapped and cheered.

The 52-year-old Magoffin educator was one of four outstanding educators in Kentucky to be presented the 1998 Milken Award. For her achievement, she will be presented with a $25,000 prize.

She also gets an all-expenses paid trip to Los Angeles next June, along with a visit to Disneyland — The Salyersville Independent

Transfer station, recycling center construction to start

The Magoffin County Fiscal Court continues with plans to build a new transfer station and recycling center, with construction expected to begin in the near future.

The last signatures were being collected last week, which will give approval to DJ Construction Company, Bowling Green contractors, to begin work.

During the fiscal court's regular meeting last week, votes were cast to apply extra grant money for the establishment of a recycling center on the property that will house the transfer station.

A grant acquired from the Appalachian Regional Commission in the amount of $400,000 was mostly used for the closure of the old landfill adjacent to Lark Arnett Hill. — The Salyersville Independent

Board of education sets tax rates

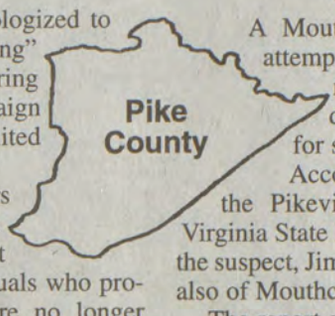
The Magoffin County Board of Education set the real estate and personal property tax rates during a regular meeting Thursday, September 17.

Board members voted to take Superintendent Henry Clay Sizemore's recommendation to accept the compensating tax rate of 42.5 cents per $100 of estimated real estate value, with 0.4 cent exoneration.

The compensating rate for personal property was also approved, setting it at a rate of 43.3 cents per $100 of estimated property value.— The Salyersville Independent

Hospital's CEO resigns

Chaos appeared to reign at Pikeville Methodist Hospital Tuesday as administrator/CEO Martha O'Regan Chill officially resigned and one of the facility's board members openly criticized board president Walter May.



In a letter dated August 26, May apologized to hospital employees for giving them "wrong" information about the facility's wages during the PMH administration's ill-fated campaign against employee organization by the United Steelworkers.

May's letter said the board of directors had been misled and told that PMH's wages were equal to or better than those at other area hospitals. He said that individuals who provided the "inaccurate" information were no longer associated with the hospital.

Chill — at that point — was said to be "on leave."

In a September 3 letter from attorney John O. Sheller to Chill, the hospital CEO was told the board had voted on August 26 to terminate her employment "with cause in the event you do not resign by September 22 under the terms of the severance agreement given to you on August 20."

The hospital's board appointed Joann Anderson and Kathy Shaughnessy to share the duties of chief operating officer. — Appalachian News-Express

Mouthcard man suspected of attempted murder

A Mouthcard man is suspected of criminal attempt to commit murder after he and the mother of his child, whom he reportedly doused with gasoline, were hospitalized for severe burns, authorities said.

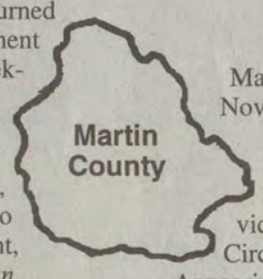
According to a Kentucky State Police report, the Pikeville KSP Post was contacted by the Virginia State Police in regard to the hospitalization of the suspect, Jimmy Wolford, 42, and Patricia Miller, 32, also of Mouthcard.

The report said the couple was at Buchanan County General Hospital. The pair was later reportedly transported to the University of Virginia burn unit.

A court official said Wolford had reportedly doused Miller with gasoline. But the KSP report said the exact cause of Miller's and Wolford's burns is still under investigation. — Appalachian News-Express

Jewell surrenders to Ohio police

Local law enforcement officers are hoping that last week's arrest of a Martin County man in Richland County, Ohio on conspiracy charges will lead them to the killer or killers of Lovely Mini Mart owner Fred Chamberlain.



McKinley Jewell, AKA Billy Jewell, turned himself in to Mansfield, Ohio law enforcement officials last Thursday morning after a week-long manhunt that covered three states.

Jewell was indicted by an Ohio Grand Jury charging him with Conspiracy to Commit Murder. According to the indictment, Jewell is alleged to have hired an Ohio man to act as a 'hit man' to kill Emily Creek resident, Fred Chamberlain. — The Martin County Sun

Weapon found at Lovely Mini-Mart

A routine visit to the bathroom apparently resulted in the recovery of a small caliber weapon Sunday morning at the Lovely Mini-Mart, according to business' manager, Joe "Julio" Walker.

Faye Chamberlain, the widow of murdered businessman Fred Chamberlain, stopped at the service station to use the bathroom and discovered a gun hidden behind the wall, authorities said.

Deputies found a small-caliber weapon and a plastic bag containing plant material. They would not say if the material was drugs or if the gun was the weapon used in the murder of Fred Chamberlain. — The Mountain Citizen

Trial date set for Wesley Jordan suit against school board

Martin Circuit Judge James A. Knight set a November 5 trial date for Adam Jordan, the father of Wesley Jordan, the stepson of convicted child abuser Steve Maynard and the son of Bonnie Maynard who was also convicted of abusing Jordan, at last Friday's Circuit Court motion hour.

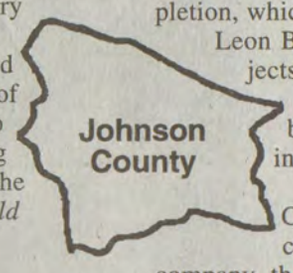
Appearing on Jordan's behalf was Prestonsburg lawyer Ned Pillersdorf who had filed suit last year claiming that Jordan had endured years of torture and abuse because Martin County School Board truant officer Carroll Kirk had failed to investigate Jordan's absence from the school system.

The lawsuit claims that if the school board had met their required legal duties to Adam Jordan, the abuse would have been discovered and stopped months earlier.

A pretrial hearing is set for October 16. Michael J. Schmitt has been hired to defend the school board in this lawsuit. — The Martin County Sun

Lower bond denied for murder suspect

A Johnson County man who has been in jail since his arrest on a murder charge in May has been denied a lower bond, less than a month before his scheduled trial.



Johnson Circuit Judge James A. Knight on Wednesday denied a motion to lower Jerry Scott's $750,000 bond.

Scott, 44, of Swamp Branch, is charged with the murder in the shooting death of William Taylor, 37, also of Swamp Branch. He has been lodged in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center since the May 30 incident. — The Paintsville Herald

Board wants dispute settled at new school

Oil Springs Elementary — both the old school and the new facility being built at Jenny's Creek — highlighted action of the Monday's meeting of the Johnson County school board.

A dispute between the contractor and a subcontractor for the new school led the board to pass a resolution asking that the issue be resolved. Superintendent Orville Hamilton said he was concerned that the dispute would delay the school's completion, which is scheduled for June 30, 1999.

Leon Burchett, who oversees construction projects for the county schools, told the board that the dispute centers around what brand of air conditioning units to install in the new school.

The contractor, Akers and Akers Construction, wants the mechanical subcontractor to use American Air Filters, the company that won the bid, but the subcontractor wants to use a different brand. — The Paintsville Herald

Paintsville earns bronze star

Paintsville has added another name to its list. It can now be known as The City of Bronze.

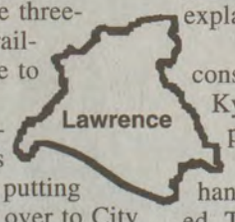
Paintsville was one of 20 Kentucky cities chosen last Friday as a Bronze Community as part of the Renaissance Kentucky Program, which assists cities in downtown revitalization efforts. — The Paintsville Herald

Council orders removal of two trailers

A pair of Louisa residents were told by the city council Thursday to move their mobile homes after the city's mobile home board found that they were put on the lot illegally.

The owners of the trailers argue that they weren't aware of the 1975 city ordinance regulating mobile homes, and that forcing them to move would be unfair.

Dale Presley and his daughter, Jamie King, had put two trailers on a lot on Hayes Street after they said they were given permission by city officials. Also, city utilities were hooked up to the mobile home.



Elaine Messer, the chairperson of the three-member mobile home board, said the trailers should have never been placed there to begin with.

VanHoose said street superintendent George Little, who is Presley's father-in-law, came to him asking about putting the trailers in, and he turned the matter over to City Attorney Eldred "Bud" Adams Jr.

The city's mobile home ordinance was not enforced until last year when the council appointed the three-member board. Under the ordinance, anyone wanting to move a mobile home into the city must first file an application with the board, and the mobile home and the lot must meet certain criteria. — The Big Sandy News

Highway safety group discusses overpass project

Concerned citizens and property owners gathered once again Monday to go over the pros and cons of a proposed overpass at the intersection of U.S. 23 and Ky. 3.

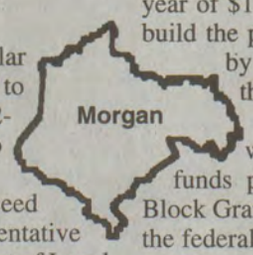
Members of the local group Citizens for Safer Highways requested that state representatives hold another forum to explain the project so they could see the options and comment on them.

Kevin Damron, a representative from the Kentucky Department of Highways, was on hand to explain how the $8 million project would work.

Damron said there were two plans still under consideration by the state, both of which relocated Ky. 3 to the north of the U.S. 23 intersection and provided an overpass.

In the first plan, called Alternate 1A, all left hand turns onto or off of U.S. 23 would be eliminated. Traffic traveling south on U.S. 23 would make a right-hand turn and circle around to cross the overpass to get into Louisa. Likewise, traffic traveling north would have to exit to the right and cross the overpass to get to the lake area toward Fallsburg. — The Big Sandy News

Engineers given green light on new water plant



The West Liberty City Council at its regular meeting Monday evening gave the go-ahead to GRW Engineers to begin design of a new 2-million gallon a day water treatment plant to be built at Cave Run Lake.

The decision commits the city to proceed with the project and comes on the heels of a tentative agreement worked out by the state Department of Local Government and the Public Service Commission that appears to have the blessings of both the city and the county.

The commitment by Gov. Paul Patton earlier this year of $1 million from state budget surpluses to help build the plant hinges on the signing of an agreement by the city and the fiscal court to cooperate on the project.

The signing of a memorandum agreement will officially lock in the $1 million in surplus funds plus a $930,238 Community Development Block Grant and a $1,676,000 loan-grant package from the federal Rural Development Administration.

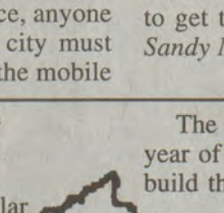
The new plant would be located in the vicinity of the Poppin Rock Boat Ramp on Cave Run Lake. — The Licking Valley Courier

ALC student dies in crash

Tim Ritchie, a student at Alice Lloyd College, died in an automobile accident at Mallie on September 24.

According to Kentucky State Police, Ritchie, 20, was traveling north on Hwy. 899 when his vehicle lost control, left the road, hit a tree and overturned. Ritchie was not wearing a seat belt.

He was pronounced dead at the scene.



Ritchie managed Alice Lloyd College's Lady Eagles basketball team. He also worked at the WWJD radio station. — Troublesome Creek Times

Conley found guilty of manslaughter

On September 28, Thomas Conley, 30, of Leburn was adjudged guilty of second degree manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident for the February 27 death of Joe Dyer, 52, of Hindman.

According to a press release from the Knott Commonwealth Attorney, the case involved an automobile accident at the intersection of Ky. 550 and Dawson Branch in Hindman. Conley was operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. — Troublesome Creek Times

Rebecca Gayheart stars in Urban Legend

Rebecca Gayheart, a Knott County native, is starring in a movie that opened recently in movie theaters.

Gayheart has appeared in Nothing to Lose with Tim Robbins; Beverly Hills; and Scream 2. Her latest movie is Urban Legend, a movie about a string of campus killings.

Gayheart portrays Brenda, whose best friend Natalie says the killings are connected to someone who is fascinated with urban legends. That coincides with a college course led by Robert Englund of Freddy Krueger legend. — Troublesome Creek Times

ORDINANCE NO. 01-98 AN ORDINANCE CREATING AND ESTABLISHING A WATER FRANCHISE.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF ALLEN, KENTUCKY:

WHEREAS, by Contract dated the 22nd day of December, 1997, by and between the City of Allen and the City of Prestonsburg, the City of Allen transferred its water distribution system to the City of Prestonsburg;

WHEREAS, the City of Prestonsburg, acting by and through its Utilities Commission, is presently providing water service to the former customers of the water system of the City of Allen.
Section 1 - There is hereby created and established a water franchise and privilege granting to the purchaser thereof, whose bid may be accepted, the discretionary right to construct, erect, lay, relay, replace, operate and maintain a waterworks system and plant, embracing mains, pipelines, valves and valve boxes, hydrants, meters and meter boxes, service pipe and appurtenances, and any and all other facilities, appliances, apparatus and equipment necessary, used or useable, in the operation of a waterworks system for the purpose of supplying and to supply water to the inhabitants of the City of Allen, Kentucky, for domestic, commercial, industrial and other purposes within the right-of-ways through, upon, over, along and under bridges, viaducts, sidewalks, public places and on the main public roads and highways in the City of Allen, Kentucky, and on all streets, avenues and roads, running off from or connected therewith either directly or indirectly, and the privilege of opening and excavating the same without the payment of license or other fee as the business of the purchaser thereof may from time to time require, in constructing, erecting, laying, relaying, replacing, operating, maintaining or removing its pipelines and other works and equipment and together also with the right to transport water through its mains and pipelines to any other mains or pipelines, laid or to be laid, which are or may be connected therewith.

Section 2 - The franchise and privilege granted and established by this ordinance shall be exercised in accordance with the conditions set out herein and shall continue in full force and effect for a period of twenty (20) years beginning on the date of acceptance by the City of Allen, Kentucky, of a bid therefor.

Section 3 - Prior to the opening of any right-of-way for the purpose of constructing, erecting, laying, relaying, replacing, operating, maintaining and/or removing any of said pipes and appurtenances, service facilities or other equipment in the exercise of the rights herein granted, the purchaser shall notify the Mayor of the City of Allen, or an official designated by the City of Allen, Kentucky, for such purpose, except in the case of an emergency, in which event not)fication shall be subsequently given within a reasonable time. When the purchaser enters upon any right-of-way for the purposes herein specified, it shall prosecute the work, at its own cost and expense, except when the City of Allen, Kentucky, has requested relocation of facilities more than once within the same governmental project, all costs of such second relocation shall be paid by the City of Allen, Kentucky. Purchaser shall prosecute all such work with due diligence and shall dig and close up all trenches and exposed places as rapidly as possible, and shall leave the right-of-ways in the same condition as when it entered the same for said purpose or purposes, all as required by the scope and nature of the project. All such repairs shall be maintained by the purchaser for one year in as good condition as the remainder of said right-ofway; and upon completion thereof, the City of Allen, Kentucky, through its duly constituted representative, shall inspect said work and, if properly replaced and restored, shall give to the purchaser a certificate thereto or, if not, it shall give to the purchaser a detailed statement of the work necessary to be done in order to comply with all reasonable requirements or regulations of the City of Allen, Kentucky, in restoring the surface of said right-of-way. If the purchaser does not replace within a reasonable time the surface of any right-of- way which has been opened by the purchaser, the City of Allen, Kentucky, after written notice of its intention, may replace such surface to the condition herein specified at the cost of the purchaser.
Section 4 - The purchaser in pursuance of the rights, privileges and franchise herein granted, shall not unreasonably or unnecessarily obstruct roads or other public places or right- of-ways and during the progress of any of its works, shall exercise due care in the protection of the public from accident or injury and shall hold the City of Allen, Kentucky, harmless from any and all damages, suits and actions, by reason of negligence of the purchaser or its employees while constructing, erecting, laying, relaying, replacing, operating, maintaining and/or removing its works or equipment.

Section 5 - The quality of water to be furnished by the purchaser and the operating conditions affecting its quality shall be in accordance with the requirements and regulations of the Environmental Protection Agency or any legally constituted federal body designed as its successor in jurisdiction, the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, and Division of Water or any legally constituted state body designated as its successor in jurisdiction, and the Public Service Commission, if applicable, or any legally constituted state body designated its successor in jurisdiction.

Section 6 - The conditions and requirements of service to the inhabitants of the City of Allen and the rates to be charged by the purchaser for such service shall be in accordance with the lawful rules, regulations and orders of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky, if applicable, or any legally constituted State body designated as its successor in jurisdiction.

Section 7 - It shall be the duty of the Mayor, as soon as practicable after the effective date of this Ordinance, to offer for sale at public auction said franchise and privilege and it shall be sold to the highest and best bidder, at a time and place to be fixed by her, after she shall have given due notice thereof by advertising this Ordinance in full, one time, not less than seven (7) days nor more than 21 days before the time to be fixed by her, in the Floyd County Times, a newspaper of general circulation in Floyd County, Kentucky, which newspaper is published in Floyd County, Kentucky. The City of Allen, Kentucky, reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality or irregularity in the bidding.

Section 8 - During the term of this ordinance, no fee, tax or assessment shall be made by the City of Allen, Kentucky, for any permit or privilege for the purchaser to excavate in or to use public grounds of the City of Allen, Kentucky, or otherwise carry out the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 9 -

(a) The franchise or privilege hereby granted shall be vested in the purchaser thereof, upon acceptance by the City of Allen, Kentucky, of the bid therefor, but the purchaser shall enter into a formal contract with the City of Allen, Kentucky, consenting to the terms, conditions, stipulations and provisions herein contained, which contract shall be in a form acceptable to the City of Allen, Kentucky.

(b) If the City of Prestonsburg, acting by and through its Utilities Commission, is the successful purchaser, the Contract dated the 22nd day of December, 1997, shall be the contract required by this ordinance and no further act, action or deed shall be required to effectuate this franchise.

Section 10 - The purchaser and City of Allen, Kentucky, shall designate in writing representatives who are responsible for responding to requests for information related to water service in the City of Allen, Kentucky, made by each.

Section 11 -(a) In the construction, reconstruction, maintenance or removal of any of said equipment and apparatus, the purchaser shall have due regard for the rights of the City of Allen, Kentucky, and others, and shall not interfere with, or in any way injure the property of the City of Allen, Kentucky, or others, under, on or above the ground. Said purchaser shall comply with all the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and ordinances of the City of Allen, Kentucky, as to placing lights, danger signals or warning signs and shall be liable for any and all damage that may arise by reason of its failure to neglect to comply with such ordinances and laws. Work by the purchaser hereunder shall be done in a workmanlike manner and within a reasonable time as required by the scope and nature of the project and so as not to unnecessarily interfere with public use of any of said streets.

(b) Whenever the City of Allen, Kentucky, or any of its departments, agencies and/or agents, servants or employees shall grade, regrade, construct, reconstruct, widen or alter any street or shall construct, reconstruct, repair, or maintain or alter any other public project including, but not limited to storm sewers, sanitary sewers and street lights) herein, it shall be the duty of the purchaser, when so ordered by the City of Allen, Kentucky, to change, remove, relay and relocate its equipment and apparatus in the street at its own expense so as to conform to the established grade or line of such street and so as not to interfere with such public project so constructed, reconstructed or altered, except when the City of Allen, Kentucky, has requested relocation of facilities more than once within the same governmental project, all costs of such second relocation shall be paid by the City of Allen, Kentucky.

Section 12 - All tests and measurements required to be taken by the purchaser by state and federal authorities shall be recorded and maintained for as long as required by the authority and shall be made available upon request to the City of Allen, Kentucky.

Section 13 - The purchaser shall not be excused from complying with any of the terms and conditions of this ordinance by any failure of the City of Allen, Kentucky, upon any one or more occasions, to insist upon the purchaser's performance or to seek purchaser's's compliance with any one or more of such terms or conditions.

Section 14 - The purchaser agrees not to oppose intervention by the City of Allen, Kentucky, in any suit or proceeding to which the purchaser is a party and which involves this franchise agreement.

Section 15 - The purchaser shall abide by all provisions of the franchise and will not at any future time make any claim that the provisions of the franchise were, as of the time written, unreasonable, arbitrary or void.

Section 16 - Service requested and used by the City of Allen, Kentucky, shall be furnished in accordance with the applicable rates, rules, regulations and conditions of service otherwise applicable to the customers located within the corporate limits of the City of Allen, Kentucky.

Section 17 - The purchaser shall have the right to provide water service outside the corporate limits of the City of Allen, Kentucky, which, if the purchaser so desires, may be formed into one integrated system.

Section 18 - The City of Prestonsburg, acting by and through its Utilities Commission, is the successful purchaser, the Contract dated the 8th day of June, 1998, shall be the Contract required by this ordinance and no further act, action or deed shall be required to effectuate this franchise.

Section 19 - Purchaser shall provide potable water treated by waterworks and facilities owned by the purchaser.

Section 20 - Within five (5) years from the date of acceptance by the City of Allen of purchaser's bid, purchaser shall upgrade the water distribution system by replacing substantially all of the existing water lines.Section 21 - The purchaser, his or its successors or assigns, shall have the right to remove all of its property and facilities from the streets, avenues, lanes, alleys, ways and public grounds of the City of Allen within a reasonable time after the expiration or other termination of this franchise

Section 22 - Time shall be deemed to be of the essence in the performance of the terms and conditions of the franchise.

Section 23 - In any controversy or dispute under this resolution, the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky shall apply.

Section 24 - If any sentence, clause or phrase of the resolution is held unconstitutional or otherwise invalid, such infirmity shall not affect the remaining parts of the resolution.

Section 25 - The Mayor is hereby authorized and directed to publish this ordinance as required by law.

Section 26 - All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed and this ordinance shall be in full force and affect from and after its final passage.
