Greens cause city council to see red

by Pam Shingler
Editor

It was a not-up-to-par meeting Monday for the typically serene Prestonsburg City Council as members debated how the planned golf course in the Mountaintop Project will be run.

Control of the course, which is now under construction by Ranger Golf, and the extent of the council's oversight appear to be key contentions.

The controversy started after Robert Allen II reported a recommendation from the Administration and Personnel Committee that the council set up a Golf Advisory Board to oversee the 18-hole, state-of-the-art golf course when it is completed.

The board would be made up of three community members, three council members and the mayor, according to the committee's recommendation.

Estill Carter contended that guidelines for operation of the facility need to be in place before a board is appointed. "I think we will have a difficult time getting citizens to serve when they don't know what they're expected to do," he said.

A motion to direct the city's Ordinance Committee to develop the guidelines, as well as to address the makeup of the advisory board, was made by Allen, but it got lost in the ensuing discussion.

"I am uncomfortable with the political overtones (of the board) — not now, but maybe later," said Carter. "I have a problem when four members of the council control a multi-million dollar project. It should be as free of politics as possible."

Carter stressed several times that his concern is not with the current council members. "I can't foretell the future, but we base our idea of the future on what we know of the past," he said, indicating his opinion that some past councils were more interested in personal gain than in the city's welfare.

"If the administration controls (the advisory board), we might as well not have other members on it. There's no problem today, but there can be down the road," he said.

Gorman Collins Jr. told his fellow council members that in any organization where people are involved, the potential for manipulation is there. "We (the council) are volunteers. We have a vested interest in things going well," he said. "If we're doing something wrong, the people ought not to vote for us. Right now, I feel this is what we need to do."

The council is ultimately responsible for the workings of any of its committees or boards.

Ranger Golf of Florida has begun the construction of the 18-hole golf course that is the first phase of Prestonsburg's Mountaintop Project. Machines are on the ridges to move earth and smooth out what promises to be a challenging course. The company has built courses for Arnold Palmer and many other noted golfers. Bogus bill found in Martin

A counterfeit $20 bill was taken in Monday evening at the SuperAmerica in Martin, according to Martin Police Chief Jeff Powell. After the bill had been passed along, a clerk noticed that the bill — described as "real faded" — had no watermark and was about a quarter-inch shorter than a legitimate bill, Powell said. The chief and Officer William Howell are investigating leads. Anyone with information or any Martin area business that receives a suspicious-looking bill should call the officers at 285-3062.

One more arrested

Another name has been added to the list of those arrested in the so-called "drug roundup" that began last Thursday in Floyd and Pike counties. Larry "Bud" Goble of Cow Creek was brought in Monday on charges of trafficking

BOE... Fields, uniforms hot topics

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Despite passing all 14 consent items without discussion, the Floyd County Board of Education was in open and executive session until almost midnight Monday during its regularly scheduled meeting at South Floyd High School.

Board members dealt with a variety of topics, including updates on the football complexes, a report on school uniforms, and insurance for the school system.

Joe Jones, from Johnson Romanowitz Architects, gave the board an update on the planned football complexes. Both Jones and Board Chairman Terry Dotson reminded everyone that these are just conceptual plans.

A South Floyd High School plan calls for a football and track to be built at the Brackett Field site on KY 122. The site would have seating for 1,200 fans and parking spaces for 300 cars. Jones said this site would require buying more land and dealing with several landowners.

He said the Newsome property, at the lower end of Meade Bottom, is probably a better site because it has more land area and only one landowner.

He also said some improvement would have to be made on

Not in Kansas...

Looking for all the world like a prairie in the Midwest, this scene is actually on a mountain top in Floyd County. The wheat, waving in the high breezes, is planted on the flattened ridges of Prestonsburg's Mountaintop Project. While the project awaits athletic, residential and industrial development, the wheat helps stop erosion and aids other grasses in getting a foothold on the strip-mined acreage. Court OKs lawyer for ethics issue

by Pam Shingler
Editor

The Floyd County Fiscal Court last Friday gave the go-ahead for the county's Ethics Commission to hire an attorney to represent it in a legal complaint from Pam Blackburn, wife of Sheriff John K. Blackburn.

Pam Blackburn has challenged the Ethics Commission's ruling that her employment by her husband is a violation of the nepotism clause in the county's Ethics Code.

John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund and chairman of the Ethics Commission, told the court that the Ethics Code provides that the commission can receive legal assistance from the county.

Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson asked Rosenberg to keep expenses at a minimum and try to find an attorney who will charge no more than $50 an hour to represent the commission.

Rosenberg said he welcomes the Fiscal Court's interest in revising the current Ethics Code. "We would all like to have a statewide ethics code," said Rosenberg, to which Thompson indicated agreement.

The Fiscal Court heard from Cathy Hall, field representative for the PRIDE program, who said she is trying to set up PRIDE committees in each county. She said she wants the committee to be made up of a broad cross section of the community with people from churches, civic groups, schools, and the like, all interested in maintaining a clean environment.

Martin marathon laps sewer, police, insurance

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Apparently in an attempt to make up for the fact that only one member showed up for last month's regularly-scheduled meeting, the Martin City Council discussed, debated and argued a number of issues for almost three hours Monday night.

In the middle of a motion to increase the pay of police officers Estill Newsome and William Howell from $7 an hour to $8 an hour, Councilman Jody Howard moved to reduce the police force by three officers. "We're a laughingstock," Howard said.

Mahendra Varia compared the Martin force with that of Prestonsburg. He said Prestonsburg has one police officer for every 260 citizens, while Martin has one for every 90 citizens.

A federal COPS grant covers the cost of two-and-a-half officers, City Clerk Pam Justice pointed out. She said the city would lose the grant if the police force were to be reduced.

"There's no need to go backwards," Councilman Eugene Hutchinson said.

Police Chief Jeffery Powell said officers "get tired" of rumors and threats of layoffs.

"There's nothing personal," Howard said. "It's merely economics."

Reminding the council of its expensive obligation to repair its sewer system, City Attorney Tim Parker said, "You're going to have to save money somewhere."

Stating that the prospect of personnel cuts could be taken up as

Turnout low

Yawn.

That was the reaction of most Floyd Countians in regard to yesterday's primary election. With one precinct — Antioch — remaining to be counted at about 8 p.m., fewer than seven percent of the registered voters in the county had bothered going to the polls.

In 42 precincts and counting nine absentee ballots, only 1,654 persons cast a ballot in Floyd County. Statewide results were not available at presstime, but voter turnout was considered extremely low throughout the state.

Native son Jimmy "Gabe" Turner of Drift won big in his home county in his quest to be the Democratic candidate for railroad commissioner for the Third Railroad District. He captured 73 percent of the local votes in a field of six candidates.

He tallied 1,040 machine votes and one absentee vote — minus the Antioch precinct total.

Anita Steffen won the Republican vote in Floyd County for railroad commissioner. She took 54 percent of the vote, as opposed to 46 percent for Dennis Norton.

Former state legislator Susan Johns took 55 percent of the votes in Floyd County in her Democratic race to become state treasurer. Her opponent Jonathan Miller garnered 45 percent. No Republicans were running for that office.

In the Republican primary for governor, Peppy Martin earned 73 percent of the local vote, to 27 percent for David L. Williams. Of the 128 Republican votes counted at presstime, 92 were for Martin, who will face incumbent Gov. Paul Patton in November — if the local vote is any indicator.

Missy Peppi, an election judge, and Diane B. Clark, an election clerk, made good use of their time by reading a newspaper as they waited for voters to show up at the Porter Precinct. By lunch time Tuesday, only 11 people had voted there and two of those were election officers. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

KY 122 if that site were used. Jones said a fieldhouse would be needed at the site because of the distance from the school. The field house would include concession stands, restrooms and changing rooms for the players.

Not much change was made in the Prestonsburg High School site, but the board was asked to purchase 700 seats that could be used this fall and then become visitor seating when the new complex is constructed. The cost for the seats and the work to install them will come to about $65,000, according to Jones.

Jones said he would have information on two other South Floyd sites at the next meeting on June 28. He said preliminary reports indicate favorable impressions for these two sites.

In a related matter, Jones said the contractors are finishing up the "punch list" for the Prestonsburg High School renovation project and will be finished with the project by June 25.

The board agreed to hire William Barker to remove the old bleachers at a cost of $576.

Three principals, Margaret Vaughn, Elizabeth Conley and Zenith Hall, prepared a preliminary report on school uniforms. During the report, board member Carol Stumbo asked, "Why are we studying this?"

"Dress is a barrier to what we are trying to accomplish," Interim Superintendent Woody Carter answered, adding that some students dress as "freaks, preppies," or other groups.

"We can blend classes together by removing these barriers," Carter said.

Board member Jody Mullins suggested that each school come up with a dress code and enforce it. The principals pointed out that this option was included in their study.

Board member Johnnie Ross said uniforms would be a burden to poor students. He said these kids would wear patched, hand-me-down uniforms while other kids would be wearing nice new uniforms.

"Changing clothes doesn't change people's attitudes," said Stumbo. She said parents are angry and "think this is a done deal."

Carter said he sees this as a chance to get the family resource centers involved and promised more information on the matter at the next board meeting.

The board had the option of keeping its insurance with Nelson Monarch (through the Kentucky School Boards Association) at the same premium as last year or waiting for bids from Kentucky Educational Development Corporation.

Even though the board runs the risk of higher premiums, the members voted to look at the bids and make a decision at the next board meeting. To keep last year's policy the board would have had to make that decision on Monday night.

The South Floyd faculty and students briefed the board on the state of the school. Both students and teachers related how the hardships of consolidation tended to bond the school together as a family.

The teachers reported how their decisions about professional development, curriculum and parental involvement were based on practices suggested by the Kentucky Department of Education.

Melinda Osborne mentioned how decisions about teaching were based on Core Content, Program of Studies, Transformations and other documents that help teachers meet the demands of KERA.

Stumbo complimented the school for taking a bad situation and turning it into a positive. However, she reminded the group as she did most of the groups reporting, "You have done a good job and made progress, but we have a long way to go. Don't let up now."

The board agreed to the transition of the adult education program from the Floyd County School district to The David School. Stumbo agreed to the transition but made a motion that someone from Floyd County be involved in helping to identify the people who are in need of GED training. Carter said he would find a person to do this assignment.

The classes are to be held at sites that will best meet the needs of those seeking GEDs. The current adult education program serves students in several sites in the county.

The board agreed to a non-resident contract with the following counties: Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Magoffin, Pike, Paintsville Independent and Pikeville Independent. Floyd County receives nearly as many students as it loses. During the 1998-99 school year, 148 students came from other districts while 168 left the district to go to one of the above systems.

The board awarded the snack item bid to Lance; the soft drink to Coca-Cola and school photographs to Image Photography with a low bid of $7.40 per package. Office supplies, athletic supplies and printing services were awarded to all companies that bid.

Dotson told Andy Lyons, director of finance, that he could save the board money by identifying bidders who would offer better prices on several items. "What we need to do is get more bidders involved," said Dotson.

Special reports were given on special education, food services, financial services and personnel to address deficiencies noted in the state audit. The board acknowledged the progress that has been made in each of these areas but noted that much work needs yet to be done.

The board agreed to allow American Electric Power to install power factor corrective capacitors in six schools at a one-time cost of $24,327.10. This action would save the system $16,290.06 annually.

In other action the board approved the following:

- several school field trips,
- Allen Central High School girls' basketball team attendance at the Tennessee Tech Basketball Camp in Cookeville, July 6-9.
- 1998-99 amended school calendar,
- maintenance and custodial supply bids,
- bidding for refinishing gym floors at Allen Central and Wheelwright,
- home course for golf matches for Betsy Layne High School,
- use of Wheelwright gym for church organizations,

- creation of greenhouse manager position for South Floyd (Stumbo asked that job description be redone),
- media technicians at Allen Central and Betsy Layne High schools,
- forensic policy,
- contract with KY Cabinet for Human Resources (FRYSC Centers),
- removal of an Osborne Elementary student for the rest of the year,
- sale of property on Toler Creek for $1,050, and
- hiring Thunderbolt Protective Service to provide security guards.

Bill Collins said. "Everything done in this city's name comes back to this volunteer effort," he said. "If anything goes wrong, we're the ones responsible. If it goes in the red, we're responsible."

"That's true of any project," Bill Collins added. "I can't see into the future, but you have to trust in something."

Saying he thinks the present council is one of the best councils the city has ever had, Hansel Cooley suggested that there are apparently some city-related organizations that are trying to operate independently of the council, but he did not indicate what they are.

"I don't want to put something in place that would cause a problem, but we have committees that seem to think they are apart from the council," Cooley said, "and that's not right either."

Mayor Jerry Fannin said his primary concern is for the city's financial responsibility. "I just want to make sure that financially we don't do something that would get out of control," Fannin said.

Carter said he wants to see more citizens on the proposed Golf Course Advisory Board so that it is not "weighted" in favor of any city administration.

"If you want to put 10 people from the community and two from the council on the board, that's fine," the mayor said, "but the council still has to have the financial responsibility."

All of the council members present did agree that the board should have on it people knowledgeable of golf — indeed, who have a "passion" for golf, according to Bill Collins.

"People who run the golf course should be very knowledgeable about golf," said Trent Nairn. "They need to be people who spend time at other (golf) places." He emphasized that they need to know what it takes to attract people to a course and to get them to return.

After the extended discussion, the matter was shifted to the Ordinance Committee, which is to draft guidelines for the operation of the golf course and present a proposal at the next council meeting.

The council also agreed to place an advertisement for a golf groundskeeper in newspapers and golfing magazines. Carter said that officials with Ranger Golf recommended that the city have a groundskeeper "in place" within 45 days. "Once they (the contractor) sow grass, within a week we have to take charge of it," he said.

The council approved recommendations from the Administration and Personnel Committee concerning employment. Heather Conley was hired as a full-time dispatcher and Kerri Johnson as a part-time employee with the fire/ambulance operation. Mark Miller was approved as a volunteer firefighter.

Three persons were hired as temporary summer employees: John Wesley Collins, Nathan Hackworth and Johnna Lawson.

Since the Fourth of July falls on a Sunday this year, the council directed Archer Park Manager Ralph Little to have the annual fireworks display on Saturday night, July 3. In case of bad weather, the exhibition will be rescheduled during the Jenny Wiley Festival in the fall.

Absent from Monday's meeting were Ralph Davis and Danny Hamilton.

The next regularly-scheduled meeting of the council is set for June 14 at 6 p.m.

Hearing canceled

A hearing regarding a zoning change on property in the Briarwood Subdivision in Prestonsburg has been canceled. The hearing was scheduled for Friday, May 28. Omega Health Care Systems had requested changing the residential zone on its property in Briarwood to commercial to build an extension on the Riverview Manor Nursing Home. Tuesday, Omega asked that the hearing be canceled and said it will seek the zone change at a later date, according to Larry Adams, zoning enforcement officer.

W.Va. man killed in area

Larry Allen Mollett, 17, of Crum, West Virginia, died in a three-vehicle accident Thursday night at Hode in Martin County. Mollett was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Dusten Erwin, traveling north on KY 292, when it crossed into the other lane and struck a vehicle driven by Troy Allen, which was then struck by one driven by Malysa Chaffin. The victim was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Kentucky State Police Trooper Billy Hall.

Interviews with Daniel Boone's son now in edited edition

For more than a century, biographers of Daniel Boone have found the materials gathered by 19th century collector Lyman Draper an indispensable resource for study of one of America's most famous pioneers.

Now, the University Press of Kentucky has published an edited volume of the interviews with Boone's son, titled My Father, Daniel Boone: The Draper Interviews with Nathan Boone, edited by Neal O. Hammon.

Draper was fascinated by Boone all his life. After corresponding with Boone's only remaining child, Nathan, Draper traveled to Missouri in 1851 to interview Nathan and his wife, Olive. Much of what we now know about Boone, and the trans-Appalachian West in general, stems from Draper's work, and My Father, Daniel Boone stands as a corrective to many exaggerated or inaccurate accounts of Boone.

Editor Hammon sees particular value in Nathan Boone's account of his father's later life in Missouri, after he had ceased to clash with Native Americans. "More than any other source," Hammon says, "from 1785 to Boone's death, the interviews with Nathan give a much better picture of Boone than any other accounts we have. Nathan goes into a great deal of detail on Boone's Missouri years."

Nathan Boone was obviously aware that he had the opportunity to correct the historical record concerning the activities of his father. Numerous times in the interviews, Nathan refutes statements that had been published in other accounts of Boone's life. He corrects dates and the circumstances of various hunting trips, as well as some of his father's personal habits.

"He never used tobacco in any form," Nathan said of his father. "My mother never used nor raised tobacco, and for this reason I would discredit the tobacco story related by Peek [an historian]."

The volume also offers insight into Nathan Boone's life, especially through some of Olive's comments: "She added a lot to the book, and I wish she'd said a little more," Hammon notes. Nathan recounts a long hunting trip he had undertaken, during which he had visited several tribes of Indians. He states that he returned home on December 24, to which Olive replies, "It was the first Christmas he had spent at home since our marriage, and I had the Indians to thank for that."

Neal O. Hammon earned an undergraduate degree at the University of Illinois and has been an architect for more than 50 years. Hammon, who lives outside of Louisville, has had a lifelong interest in pioneer history. He has published numerous articles in periodicals such as the Filson Club History Quarterly and the Register of the Kentucky Historical Society, and is the author of Early Kentucky Land Records, 1773-1780.

The book was published this month and has a retail price of $19. For information, contact the University Press of Kentucky, 606/257-8761.

Editorial

We can't say it's the gospel truth. We weren't there when the conversation took place. We heard it from, as the cliché goes, "a reputable source."

But, knowing how things go around here, it has the ring of truth. From what we've seen before, it sounds plausible. Anyone who keeps up with the history of the beleaguered Floyd County School System knows it could have happened, particularly in regard to the choosing of a new superintendent.

SAY IT AIN'T SO

Here's how it was told to us:

A longtime school official approached a former school official and said something to this effect: "If you want to be superintendent and you can drum up one board vote, I can deliver the two other board votes you need."

"Now, I know you're not doing this out of the goodness of your heart," the former school official said, "so what is it you would expect from me if I were superintendent?"

The longtime school official then named the position he would want in the new superintendent's administration.

Is it true? We can't say for sure. Is it believable? Tragically, yes.

We are not in the habit of printing gossip and rumor. (From comments we get, some folks think we do and others wish we did.) But we felt compelled to pass this on, if for no other reason than to help keep the story from being true.

If it is true that there is one person — or, God forbid, several persons — who believes he can "deliver" board votes, then we want it to stop. Isn't there something we can do to purge the school administration of this kind of maneuvering and manipulation?

If there are board members whose votes are "deliverable," then we would like to see them hang their heads in shame and to turn in their resignations.

This is supposed to be a new day in Floyd County education. We are told the old days of perennial political gamesplaying are over. This is supposed to be a clean, aboveboard search for a new leader who can move the school system into stability and responsibility, fiscally and academically.

If the board makes its decision about the superintendent based on anything but merit and the potential of the new leader to lead, then, indeed, nothing has changed. If that's the case, then we remain in the same old hole, breathing the same old stench.

If some board members' votes can be "delivered," then perhaps that just proves that nothing gets better here, that we as a people are incapable of doing the right thing in regard to our children, that there is no hope. — Pam Shingler

WRITER RESPONDS TO PREVIOUS LETTER

Editor:

Two weeks ago, Arnold Turner Jr., a minister and an attorney, published a very cruel and slanderous letter about me in the Floyd County Times. Why? I would not know Rev. Turner if I met him on the hard road to town.

Yes, I write a lot, speak and say a lot about the political system, the school system, the evident corruption in Floyd County. Sometimes, I have written about the churches, the failure of our religious institutions to help defend our people from being exploited by ruthless and greedy politicians.

I expect constructive criticism for my views and censure when I am wrong. Rev. Turner's letter was neither. Rather, it was a witch's cauldron of misstatements, misquotations and a perversion of what I have written and said in the past.

Rev. Turner closed his letter by stating that I would probably attack him. No, Rev. Turner, I will not attack you. Rather, I will pray for you and your ministry. I will pray that when you preach to your congregation, concerning what Jesus Christ said during his ministry here on earth, that you are more accurate and reliable than when you told the people of Floyd County what I said.

Rev. Turner called me a "renowned character assassin." I write about public institutions, political systems such as the fiscal court or our schools. I ask Rev. Turner to produce one article I have ever written, or one radio or television program where I named an individual and held him up to ridicule or

"assassinated his/her character."

One example will illustrate the ludicrous statements he makes in his letter. Rev. Turner states: "He (Blue Goble) bitterly turned on Christians and churches...bitterly described the local churches as having, nearly demonic preachers controlled by coal barons and politicians."

In the above quotation, Rev. Turner refers to an editorial letter I wrote on January 27, 1999, Page A4, in the Floyd County Times. I was describing the influence of early coal camp churches on our people. I said "Harry Caudill in Night Comes to the Cumberlands, states that the early coal barons imported almost demonic ministers to preach the Adam view of man and the mortal sin associated with anything 'earthly,' and against the expectation of anything good in this life."

Harry Caudill was writing about the historical period of 1890 to about 1915, and I was quoting Caudill, referring to the same period. Simply read what I said, then what Rev. Turner said that I wrote.

Rev. Turner then implies that "some people," and "possibly Lloyd Blue Goble" believe our kids are due the same treatment as the Littleton, Colorado, students...This inference is so terrible that it is like the giant rat of Sumatra; it is too frightening, too evil, to bring up and discuss among civilized people. I will let the readers judge that statement on its own merit.

REMEMBERING THE REASON FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Editor:

Memorial Day is the day we remember and honor those who lost their lives fighting for our nation. The men and women we remember on Memorial Day demonstrated the highest form of faith in the triumph of good over evil. Just as they had a mission, we, too, have a mission: To teach the young people of today to respect America's values.

History teaches us that our faith in freedom—readily backed up by our resolve to defend freedom—has made America—and the world—a better place. Today, 179 of the world's 193 sovereign states elect their lawmakers. That means the earth is covered by democracy in greater proportion than water; it's covered by 93 percent democracy. Clearly, those who made the Supreme Sacrifice for freedom did so for a victorious cause.

History teaches us that the world will never run out of threats to freedom. Hitler is no more. We won the Cold War. But our world must contend with Milosevic in Kosovo and Hussein in Iraq. China has an up side and down side—a growing appreciation for the free market, but a disturbing aspiration for nuclear and strategic supremacy. Clearly, future generations may be called upon again to sacrifice for freedom.

If we teach young people correctly, they will willingly serve in the U.S. armed forces, the defense of freedom will continue and democracy will flourish worldwide.

I often tell others about Danny Flynn, a young Marine. His story helps me reaffirm a young person's faith in the perseverance of a free people.

Private First Class Flynn drove a personnel carrier during the war in Vietnam. He had been in Vietnam for 19 days when he volunteered to take a sick buddy's tour of duty. On that fateful night, May 25, 1968, a Cambodian rocket killed Flynn. He was 20 years old.

Flynn was a native of Kings Park, New York. He was buried with full military honors at Pinelawn Cemetery there. He was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously. A Kings Park baseball field was named in his honor. But the most important tribute to Flynn is carried out by a local middle school. They keep hope alive by teaching young people how important Memorial Day is.

Every year, 5th and 6th graders write letters to Flynn's mother. Through the battlefield death of Danny Flynn new generations are learning about patriotic values. Their notes to Flynn's mother are short, but poignant. "When I say the Pledge of Allegiance, I will remember Danny Flynn," writes one student. "Bringing books to the Kings Park Library will help me focus on the sacrifice Danny Flynn made for me," reflects another.

The children of that middle school wouldn't understand Memorial Day if someone hadn't taught them that freedom isn't free. They continue to learn that America's fallen heroes expressed their faith in democracy by committing the most selfless act of all.

Each of us must instill in young people the importance of Memorial Day. We should also ask God—in our daily prayers—to continue to bless America. If we do these things, America's faith in freedom, justice and democracy will remain intact. So, too, will the blanket of freedom that our honored dead bequeathed to us.

Signs of the times

Yes, you can go home again, but nobody may be there to meet you.

On Friday, I went to the Wheelwright gym to take photos of the Job Corps students who are getting the bottom floor ready for volunteer workers who will use that portion of the gym for housing this summer.

As I walked up the steps, I asked, can it really be 33 years since I walked up the same steps on my way to my first assembly as a teacher. Something said: "Do the math, Willie. It's easy. From 1966 to 1999 is 33 years any way you look at it."

It's hard to argue with a calendar. The calendar always wins and the heart loses. That first day was special to me. Finally, I had classes of my very own.

As I stood in the middle of the floor, my mind could see Dennis Holbrook bringing the ball down the court with his hair flopping and Dennis remaining cool and collected, or I could see Stanley Berger hurrying. Stan always hurried even when he was trying to freeze the ball. I could see Mud Lewis gracefully hitting those turn-around jump shots that he was noted for.

I saw Phil Reeves scurrying around getting everything ready for the game but at the same time keeping his eyes out for a certain girl.

I imagined Mr. Trojan, Perry Jones, walking by me and saying as he always did, "Hello, McDowell Daredevil." Off to my right Pete Grigsby and Frankie Francis were jawing about something. They were probably both wrong and the referee was right. Frankie got the last word this night—he won the game.

I don't know if I ever saw Don Wallen in my life, but as I stood there his name came to my mind. I wonder if he ever thinks about the Wheelwright gym, wherever he is.

As I walked back to the parking lot of the new church (the parking lot is right on the site of the old high school building), I could imagine the kids sitting on the rock wall talking about something as important as the rest of their lives or something as simple as the next party.

As I thought about the teachers, the George Jones line "Who's Going to Take Their Place" came to mind. Who's going to replace Mary Sue Campbell who literally gave her life to that school? Who's going to take Bud Reynolds' and Delores Woody's place—the two that demanded more from students and got it? Who's going to replace Carol Stumbo who made it fashionable again to fight for kids?

Wayland City Commission meets

by Pam Shingler
Editor

The Wayland City Commission decided to leave its new police cruiser unmarked and to sell other vehicles during its regular meeting last Thursday, May 20.

Commissioners voted to advertise for bids to sell a 1989 Crown Victoria cruiser and two Honda military trail bikes. Bids will be taken until June 9.

Mayor Tommy Murphy told the group he is "making calls to get the cheapest contract" to work on drains in the city. He also said he intends to check with Beaver Elkhorn Water District as to whether the city can have a water tank painted with a welcome message.

Murphy listed projects which must be done right away, including cleaning ditches, clearing debris from under a bridge, and taking down a rocky overhang that could fall onto the road.

He also said he is hoping to get a piece of property, owned by Old Valley Mining, donated to the city to be developed as a recreational area.

Commissioners discussed requests from two residents at Shop Fork for street lights and concern over a damaged pole at another residence. The mayor said he would call AEP regarding local needs.

Commission members also agreed that police officers should clock in at City Hall before they leave to pick up prisoners to do work for the city.

They discussed planting wildflowers in sections of the city, but no action was taken. They did agree to work with Bobby Hamilton of Wayland Kwik Mart, concerning his idea for an activity day for children in the community.

The grandparents of a juvenile appeared before the commission to complain that they thought a police officer was harassing the youth. They were advised that the complaint should be put in writing and submitted to the commission.

The city's financial balance as of May 20 was a little more than $11,900.

Also in attendance at the meeting were Commissioners Mary Murphy, Curt Tufts, and Betty Mulkey. The next regularly-scheduled meeting is June 17 at 7 p.m.

TEENS BEGINNING TO GET MESSAGE

Editor:

May is a month of great changes for teens. School is almost over, proms and graduations are scheduled, summer nearly here. But May also is Teen Pregnancy Prevention Month, and a time when parents, health care professionals, educators and teens themselves focus attention on a critical choice to be made by teens: the decision of whether or not to have sex.

Adults know that sexual activity means the possibility of pregnancy and sexually transmitted disease. They know that teen pregnancy is the major cause of school dropouts among girls, that babies born to teen mothers are more likely to be low birth weight, and that 60 percent of all women receiving welfare benefits do so as a result of a teenage pregnancy.

But teens too are thinking carefully about the decision. Many know that, at a minimum, sexual activity can mean dramatic changes in their lives, often before they have figured out what life could be.

As a result, more and more teenagers seem to be choosing sexual abstinence. They have started to respond to the admonition to "Get a Life First. Wait to Have Sex," a statewide campaign sponsored by the Kentucky Cabinets for Health Services and Families and Children that has entered its second year.

Nationally, teens are getting the message. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has just released a report stating the national birth rate dropped to a record low in 1997, due in part to the continuing decline in the teen birth rate across the country. According to the report, the teen birth rate declined by 16 percent from 1991 to 1997.

DHHS Secretary Donna Shalala attributes the decline to innovative programs designed to reach teenagers with information and support to make responsible choices. She also cites the dedication of communities, parents, and teens who have spread the message that young people should delay parenthood until they are truly ready to nurture and support a child of their own.

Other reports indicate that, in many instances, teen girls are making other plans, plans that don't include sex.

For example, a nationwide study conducted last year, called The Women's Sports Foundation Report: Sport and Teen Pregnancy, found those teen girls who play sports are less active sexually, are more likely to be virgins, and had lower pregnancy rates. Some said sports helped them ward off peer pressures to have sex, while others said that sports improved their self-esteem so sex was less important to them.

Unfortunately, the numbers were not as promising for male teen athletes who experienced their first sexual intercourse earlier than male non-athletes.

While Kentucky continues to see a higher overall rate of teen births than the national rate, the message is starting to get through to all Kentucky teens. We too are seeing declining numbers of teen births. Since 1994, the birth rate for 15-17-year-olds has declined by 15 percent.

Also teens continue to tell us that adults have a great influence on their lives and their decisions. All adults should view this responsibility seriously, as an invitation to talk openly and honestly with the teens in our lives about their choices.

This month would be a good time to begin the conversation about sexual abstinence, to really listen to our teens, to hear them when they talk about their lives, and, most of all, to encourage them to "Get a Life First. Wait to Have Sex."

If I stayed very quiet, I could see Merle Little doing one of his crazy stunts that made us love him. I wonder where Merle is now?

I decided to make one more trip through the gym. As I entered the stairwell to the main entrance, I saw the blocks with the names of teachers and students with dates of service or graduation. How can you think of Wheelwright High School and not think of Doris Osborne and Harold Newman? I read several of the blocks and thought about putting my name on one, but more than likely the names will be painted over this summer.

The gym no longer belongs to us—it belongs to the next generation, and it is time to paint over our names and let the next students make their marks.

As I started down, I saw that someone had scrawled on the facing over the stairs: "Once a Trojan, always a Trojan." I looked in one of the rooms and there was the Trojan. He will be covered up this spring.

So it goes. We are all Raiders now. Who would have thought way back then that McDowell and Wheelwright would have teamed up for anything, and certainly not a school?

the new fiscal year budget is considered, Mayor Alan Whicker said he thought "we were all on the same hymn (concerning) the safety of the citizens of Martin."

When Howard's motion to cut the police force came to a vote, the outcome was confusing. Howard, Varia and Thomasine Robinson voted in favor of the reduction, while Hutchinson and Hazel Robinson voted against. Rick Caudill abstained, and the motion appeared to carry, although the mayor said he would veto it.

Attorney Parker then said he thought that in such cases the law allows an abstention vote to be counted as a vote for the status quo, which in this case would amount to a no vote. With Hutchinson's vote considered a no vote, a tie existed, and the mayor cast a deciding no vote — meaning the police rolls will stay the same.

The council then considered the original motion which would give pay raises to two officers. Howard, Varia and Thomasine Robinson voted against the raises, and Caudill, Hutchinson and Hazel Robinson voted in favor. Whicker broke the tie with a yes vote.

Varia suggested that the city develop a pay scale policy that would apply to all personnel, and Whicker agreed that the matter would be taken up at next month's meeting.

Council members heard good news and bad news from its utility wing. With the city under threat of fines for faulty sewers, sewer system manager Rick McCoy reported that significant progress has been made in correcting problems and adhering to the city's agreed order with the Environmental Protection Agency.

McCoy said sewer pipes and pumps have been replaced or repaired in the Cummingsville area, on Railroad Street, on Post Office Street, in front of City Hall and on the main line at the lower end of town, near the old Petry Apartments. Work should be completed on Ice Plant Hollow by the end of the week, he said.

"Everything in town is working," McCoy said.

Attorney Parker said he thought the progress being made on the sewer system would stand the city in good stead with the EPA. "I have confidence that when we advise the EPA we've made this much progress, we probably won't have to be in court," Parker said.

McCoy and Clerk Regina Fraley also informed the council that they are sending letters to all residents concerning the need to re-route down spouts that go into the city's storm sewers. The correspondence asks homeowners to disconnect the down spouts which go into the ground within 30 days.

McCoy said the rain runoff adds to the city's sewer problem, sometimes forcing sewer waste up and significantly increasing the burden on pump stations and treatment. "If it's going underground, it's going into a sewer," he said.

McCoy said workers will conduct and videotape smoke tests to show residents where water is going into the sewers. "We will give them a chance to correct the situation," he said. "If not, we will pull the water."

He added that correcting this problem would cut the system's expenses for electricity and for pump maintenance.

The council approved a contract with the Henry P. Thompson Co. of Frankfort for work on a sewer lift station. The estimate for the job is $60,000, which can be paid in $20,000 increments.

Fraley requested approval to switch money from other utility accounts to cover a $16,000 loan payment to Kentucky Infrastructure Authority before the first of June. Council agreed.

Questions of insurance were left pending. Representatives of Man, Sutton and McGee in Lexington were present to support their proposal for continuing the city's property and casualty coverage. Clerk Justice recommended staying with the company and adding coverage against equipment breakdowns, which the company offered for a small added cost.

Some council members mentioned they had not had enough time to consider the proposals, and Justice said she had the materials ready last month when the meeting had to be canceled because of a lack of a quorum.

The council indicated they wanted to combine the city coverage with that for the water and sewer department and would consider the total package next month.

Action on renewing current health insurance coverage was also put off until more cost quotes can be obtained.

Despite comments throughout the meeting concerning the need to cut expenses, council members voted to lower the insurance tax from 11 percent to nine percent. Varia pointed out the move would decrease the city's income by about $3,000. Voting in favor of the measure were Caudill, Howard, Varia and Thomasine Robinson.

At the request of Police Chief Powell, the council approved purchasing two police cruisers for $3,900 each. Powell said the vehicles, a 1994 and a 1995 model, would be covered by a grant. Howard voted against the purchase.

Council approved a proposal by Solomon Kilburn and Sr. Judy Younker to set up a farmer's market in the city during August and September.

The two, who have completed the Master Gardener's Class sponsored by the Extension Service, said they would affiliate with the cooperative, Kentucky Homegrown, and would encourage local gardeners to sell their produce at the market.

They said they would train people involved with the market, which is to be located on Back Street at the old IGA building. All produce sold, they said, must be locally grown.

"We don't want somebody running to Florida and getting oranges," said Kilburn, a teacher at Opportunities Unlimited in Martin. "I don't think there are any orange trees in Floyd County."

Parker reminded council that the city has an ordinance requiring a fee of several hundred dollars a week for temporary sellers of merchandise, which was passed to discourage "fly-by-night" flea markets.

Council agreed that the fee could be waived for the non-profit farmer's market, and Parker said he will draft an amendment to the ordinance.

The council voted against a suggestion from Clerk Justice that the city hook onto the Internet at a cost of $19.95 per month, but members approved her request to attend a week-long workshop sponsored by the Kentucky Clerks Association.

The council also directed the clerk to draft a letter to US Congressman Hal Rogers and the US Army Corps of Engineers in support of the Corps' flood project proposal for the city.

Council members made appointments to the Education Committee: Dr. Chandra Varia, Janie Howard, Janice Dingus, Solomon Kilburn and Nora Lou Scarberry.

The next regularly-scheduled meeting is June 28.

Commission discusses policeman

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

During the police report at the regularly-scheduled Wheelwright City Commission meeting last Thursday, the commission went into executive session to discuss city policeman Danny Martin.

Mayor Marlee Samons asked that the discussion take place in open session but was told that any matters relating to personnel have to be done in executive session.

The commission had two meetings earlier in which they held executive sessions to discuss

Martin. No action was taken at the end of either of these meetings.

When the members returned to open session Thursday night, Samons first said no action was taken, but then said, yes, there was action taken. Samons and commissioner Jerry Tackett, who headed the police department, switched positions. Tackett will now head Utilities and Samons will head Police.

The commission did the needed paper work to receive $15,837 from the Local Government Economic Assistance (LGEA) Program. The money was tentatively allocated as follows: Police, $9,583; Fire, $3,464; and Streets, $2,791.

The two major projects for the streets will be adding more black-top and building sidewalks.

Andy Akers pointed out that there is a legal remedy for collecting delinquent taxes. The commission again charged Policeman Martin with the task of collecting taxes. City Clerk Mary Ann Slone said she has a list of names and, in fact, had provided Martin with this list previously.

The commission discussed the parking problem at Delmas

Johnson's house. Johnson complained that people take the parking places in front of this house. He said this poses a problem for him especially in the winter time. City Attorney Tim Parker suggested that two spots be marked reserved. He said since it is city parking, that was about all that could be done.

Nannie Hall requested that the drain pipe near her home be repaired or taken out, Samons said he didn't like the fact the request was made in the form of an ultimatum, but he said the city would work on it when the back hoe becomes available.

The commission also said an ordinance requiring that trailers be underpinned should be enforced.

After a verbal exchange, Hubert Farmer and Glen Thornberry came to agreement on the tiles that were blocking the entrance to the residence of Farmer's mother. Thornberry said he could have the tiles removed within 30 days.

Farmer also said there was a problem with a drain in the area, but Samons said County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson was going to take care of that problem before winter.

The commission agreed to have work done on the police cruiser when money becomes available. The bill for this work will be less than $250.

The commission appointed Gloria Harlowe, Delmas Johnson, Teddy Stanley and Burnette Little to the Ethics Committee. Those who accept the appointment will join Hubert Farmer. The committee can be from three to five members.

In other action the commission:

- had first reading of budget ordinance amending 1998-99 FY,
- had first reading of budget ordinance adopting 1999-2000 FY, and
- read mayor's budget message.

New book spotlights Flying Tigers

In July of 1941, a group of American and British flyers began one of the most remarkable air campaigns of World War II.

June 18 is the publication date for a new book about those flyers, "With the Tigers over China, 1941-42," published by the University Press of Kentucky and written by Jerome Klinkowitz, professor of English at the University of Northern Iowa.

The author writes that while leaders in Washington believed that the Far East was a lost cause, this group of rogue pilots began operations in Burma, China and Singapore that bought precious time for an Allied regrouping in the face of Japan's relentless assault.

Klinkowitz describes the region as an adventurer's paradise since the early 1930s. Gen. Claire Chennault set about rebuilding the Chinese Air Force while the RAF worked from their bases in India.

The author shows that the Far East was absolutely central to air adventuring and that the Flying Tigers were at the heart of operations in this region in the early years of the war.

"With the Tigers over China" draws upon over a half-century of memoirs and informal histories, which reveal the colorful and daring exploits of men who became heroes in an America starved for good war news in 1941.

The book retails for $25. For information, contact the University Press at 606/257-8761.

Baptist Learning Center Pre-School class holds bike safety program

Children at the Baptist Learning Center rode bicycles, tricycles and toys with wheels to raise money for St. Jude's.

The week of April 19 the Baptist Learning Center Pre-School class conducted a St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital Bike Safety Program.

According to the National Safety Council, riding toy accidents are a major problem in America among children. The class taught safety habits for bicycles, tricycles and other riding toys. At the same time, the children learned about helping others who can't ride because of illness, by raising money for St. Jude's Hospital, which is the leading center for the study of catastrophic diseases. The class raised $825 during the event.

The class consisted of Aaron Griffith, Aaron Meek, Adam Griffith, Austin Sloan, Drew Crum, Elizabeth Collins, Grant Gearheart, Joshua Stambaugh, Jonathan Clatworthy, Johnathan O'Bryan, J.D. Adams, Kaithlyn Caudill, Matthew Thorpe, Nicholas Hites, Rachel Dingus, Rebekah Wright, Ryan Burford, Shandon Moore and Tommy Osborne.

The teacher was Jewell Bays and the teacher assistant, Loretta Ferrell.

New money is now available for rehabilitation of adults through Acquired Brain Injury Waiver

There is a new Cabinet for Health Services program that pays for short-term, intensive rehabilitative services aimed at helping adults with acquired brain injuries get back into community life.

The Acquired Brain Injury Waiver Program went into effect earlier this year and participants are now being enrolled.

An acquired brain injury is a condition that is not present at birth, is not hereditary or congenital, and is not degenerative. A person can "acquire" a brain injury through a blow to the head, oxygen deprivation, allergic conditions, exposure to toxic substances, and other acute medical or clinical incidents.

"A funding source of this type for people with acquired brain injuries has long been a goal of advocates including the Brain Injury Association of Kentucky," said Colleen Ryall, director of the cabinet's Brain Injury Service Unit.

The program was authorized by a waiver obtained from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Medicaid waivers are required if funds are being spent on a specific target group.

To qualify for the Acquired Brain Injury Waiver Program, a person must be between 21 and 65 years old and meet certain medical and income guidelines.

Participants must have a primary diagnosis of an acquired brain injury, require a nursing facility level of care, and have the potential for rehabilitation and reintegration into the community. They must be Medicaid eligible or have an income that doesn't exceed 300 percent of the SSI (Supplemental Security Income) standard. Medicaid financial resource limits for the participant and his or her spouse are the same as those for nursing facility residents.

The goal of the Acquired Brain Injury Waiver Program is to retrain people so they can function in their communities. It is not a life-long service. The average length of rehabilitation time is expected to be six to eight months. Any continued assistance needed after "graduation" from the program should come from other services and the person's social network of family and friends.

The acquired brain injury category does not include conditions relating to mental retardation and other birth defect related disorders, strokes treatable in nursing facilities providing routine rehabilitation services, progressive dementia, spinal cord injuries in which there are no known or obvious injuries to the brain, depression and psychiatric disorders, and conditions that cause the individual to pose an unmanageable level of danger to the community.

A referral to the program can be made by anyone. The first step is to contact a case manager who does the preliminary assessment and, if the person meets the medical and financial requirements, helps develop a comprehensive plan of care.

Covered services under the Brain Injury Waiver Program include case management; personal care and companion services; respite care; environmental modifications; behavior programming, counseling and training; structured day programs; specialized medical equipment and supplies; pre-vocational services, supported employment service, and occupational therapy; speech, hearing and language services; and community residential services (not including room and board).

A list of case managers and more program information is available by contacting the Brain Injury Services Unit, 100 Fair Oaks Lane 4 W-C, Frankfort, KY 40621-0001, 502/564-3615.

Remembering Michael Todd
by Robert McAninch

He was happy playing baseball
Somewhere in my front yard
Daniel said, "He hits the curves, the ones that are really hard"
the last time I saw Michael Todd.
His mother was always watching,
"be careful" she would call
If she saw him in danger
While four-wheeling near the wall.
"He's going to be a mechanic," said Mom
"He tears everything apart"
"I just want him to be happy"
"To have a happy heart"
"That's what I want, for my Michael Todd."
The funeral home was full
The largest crowd I've seen
Over eighty sprays of flowers
A somber group, but serene.
I hardly moved a muscle
As we looked upon the sight
And the bulb above us flickered
Then ceased to give us light.
I thought how fitting that
A bulb would cease to glow
Out of respect for his mother, I suppose
It was such an awful blow.
A terrible four wheel accident
Who knows what is to blame
The sight of his angel face
Made all of us insane.
His shirt was his favorite
Part blue, part purple, part green
A picture from his best friend
For remembrance in heaven's scene.
His school mates were all present
They were young and could not grasp
How difficult to comprehend
Why this death had come to pass.
I looked at his lifeless face
While thinking and while wishing
I listened all my life
And I've haven't heard a thing.
It was a very sorry day
I felt completely awed
I never will understand this
While they placed the fresh dug sod
The last time I saw Michael Todd.

(Six years ago, after the death of the son of his secretary, Faith Campbell, Robert McAninch wrote a poem in the boys memory. He promised himself he would have it published six later after to remind Faith Campbell that her son has not been forgotten.)

Court

She asked those interested in participating to contact the local PRIDE coordinator, Brett Davis, deputy judge-executive.

Jim Muncy of the Center for Rural Development in Somerset informed the county commissioners that he is creating a web site for Internet access to information about all the counties in this region. He said each county will have 250 words at no charge. Beyond the basic entry, he is seeking local advertisers who will offset the cost of additional information about the county. "The more advertising, the more free space," he said.

Also appearing at the meeting was Thomas Jones of the East Kentucky Corporation (EKC), who said he is visiting fiscal courts throughout the region to acquaint them with the corporation and its economic development activities.

Jones said EKC is "trying to hone in on two facets of economic development." The first, he said, is to bring companies to eastern Kentucky, and the second is to provide loans to help small or new businesses.

He said the corporation is now trying to recruit businesses for the new Honey Branch Industrial Site near the Floyd, Johnson and Martin county line and for space in Highlands Plaza in Prestonsburg.

In selecting a site to develop for new business, Jones advised the commissioners that they need a site with at least 10 acres and with water, sewer and roads.

The agenda was long for the administrative segment of the meeting, but most of the business was routine.

Personnel

The court approved Thompson's reappointment of Bessie Gibson to the board of directors of the Wayland Senior Citizens Center and the appointment of Thomasine Robinson to the Martin Senior Citizens board.

In other personnel matters, commissioners approved the hiring of part-time summer help for the road crew. Employed at the rate of $5.15 per hour were John Patrick Martin, Arnold Neil Newsome, Mark Leslie Tackett and Bill Hall. Hired at $6.50 per hour was Donnie DeRossett.

Three persons — Paul Nicholas Little, Justin Hopkins and Ricky Jason Bentley — were approved for part-time work at Minnie and Garrett parks, at an hourly rate of $5.15 per hour, effective May 24.

Commissioners also OK'd the employment of 11 persons, part-time, at the Wheelwright Swimming Pool at $5.15 per hour each, effective May 29. They are Robert Pete Dawson, Bradley Doyle Meade, Rebecca Gay Lakin, Heather Louise Little, Cassandra Jane Hall, Mary Ann Mullins, Stacey Danielle Isaac, Melissa Jo Dorton, Rebekah A. Tackett, Stephanie Ann Castle and Danille R. Hartshul.

Beth Tucker was approved for summer work as a secretary/clerk in the judge-executive's office, at an hourly rate of $5.15, effective May 24.

The hiring of a full-time addition to the road crew, David Shepherd, was approved. His appointment was effective May 24, with an hourly rate of $6.50.

Also regarding personnel, the court honored the request of Jailer Roger Webb that the hourly rate of Deputy Jailer Dewayne Crum be increased to $8.25, effective May 22, since Crum has completed six months of employment.

Acting on the recommendation of the 911 Executive Board, commissioners agreed to employ temporarily three persons who are mapping the county, with payment from a 911 account.

Supervisor Jodi Hall, who worked with the former mapping company, was approved for $12 an hour, retroactive to April 12. Her assistants, Linda Jones and Lois Waller, were approved for $10 an hour, effective April 12 and April 27, respectively.

A resolution to pay Keith Bevins $250 per month for June, July and August to provide water quality control for the Wheelwright Swimming Pool was thrown out — for good reason. According to Thompson, Bevins said he will donate his time to monitor the water.

Finances

Based on Thompson's suggestion that the county can save around 70 percent on long distance telephone service, the commissioners authorized the judge-executive to enter into a contract with TeleProfit International. Thompson said the county would use a state price contract, and all county offices would be switched to the new service.

The Fiscal Court approved payment of $22,300 to Layne Brothers Ford for purchase of a 1999 Ford Crown Victoria automobile for the sheriff. The court skirted the requirement for advertising for bids by declaring that "an emergency exists."

Payment to Hamilton Construction Co. in the amount of $19,180 was also approved on an "emergency" basis. The company's bills cite work on Mare Creek Bridge, Dick Moore Bridge at Frazier's Creek, Melvin Mullins Bridge at Price, Crider Bridge at Cow Creek, Don Tussey Bridge at David and Jimmy Bradley Bridge at Spurlock.

Thompson was authorized by the commissioners to advertise for bids for a pool slide for the Wheelwright Swimming Pool. The judge-executive said he has a commitment from an unnamed person to make a donation toward the cost.

Thompson was also authorized to advertise for sealed bids for other items, including cleaning supplies, office supplies, gravel, blacktop, drain pipe, bridge lumber, diesel fuel, oil and lubricants, tires and tubes, placement of blacktop, pool chemicals, park supplies and food for the detention center.

The judge-executive was also directed to advertise for sealed bids for surplus property, which he said consisted primarily of "old trucks."

To facilitate the construction of an addition to the office building of the Big Sandy Area Development District, the Fiscal Court agreed to enter into an agreement with the Kentucky Association of Counties Leasing Trust Program. The county will be the administrative agent for the lease and will sublet to the Big Sandy ADD.

The commissioners authorized payment of $22,548.44 to Waste Management for hauling garbage during the countywide cleanup and advance payments of $5,000 to TAPCO and $25,000 to Holland Enterprises for their contracted work on PRIDE projects.

Payment was also directed to Kentucky Glass Lined Tank Systems for $35,217, and to Howard K. Bell Engineers for $4,515.58, in relation to the Ligon/Clear Creek Water Supply Project, funded by Abandoned Mine Land funds.

With grant money administered by the Fiscal Court, the following organizations submitted bills for payment:

- Floyd County Rescue Squad, $4,000 to Clay's Heating and Cooling and $240 to MTS;
- Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center, $4,849 to Tackett Furniture and $125 to McKinney's Septic Service;
- Mud Creek Senior Citizens Center, $18,000 to Johnson's Commercial Contracting;
- Wayland Senior Citizens Center, $401.31 to Hindman Promart and $3,789 to Maggard's Heating and Cooling;
- Big Sandy Family Abuse Center, $9,048 to Tackett Furniture; $1,342.97 to Ashland Office Supply; $3,850 to Highland Paving; $1,375 to Kentucky Carpet Factory Outlet; $882 to G.B. Builders; and $2,980.16 to Christian Appalachian Project.

The court approved a revised budget for the Floyd County Clerk's office, reflecting the budget year under the new administration of Clerk Chris Waugh from April 16 through December 31, 1999.

The budget projects total income of $5,054,917 with corresponding outgo. Fees to be paid to the Fiscal Court are projected to be $282,000.

Commissioners also acknowledged approval from State Local Debt Officer Thomas L. Armstrong of the county's refinancing of general obligation bonds.

All three commissioners — Gerald DeRossett, Larry Foster Stumbo and Ernal Tackett — were present for the meeting. The next regularly-scheduled meeting is June 18 at 10 a.m.

In Memory of
Larry "Bubby" Patton

I'm Only Resting

Bubby's touch was warm and gentle,
And his heart was very sentimental.
He filled our lives with happiness and love,
He was a special blessing from God above.
His blue eyes were filled with laughter,
He set a good example to follow after.
He was kind and understanding,
And he was never demanding.
He made a dark day seem bright,
He was filled with a heavenly light.
He wasn't perfect in any way,
But he always had a kind word to say.
A tragedy is now forcing us to live apart,
And a bitter sadness beats within the heart.
But if Bubby could get a message to us today,
This is what he would say,
"I'm only asleep for just a little while,
So remember my goodness with a smile.
Never take a step back into the past,
Go forward with the good memories that last.
Let the lord remove your pain and fears,
And please don't waste
your precious life on tears.
Everyday is a blessing from God above,
So let Him comfort you with His love.
Entrust that God had His reasons,
And know there is a time for all seasons.
There is a season to laugh and a season to cry,
A season to live and a season to die,
Don't let your pain become a valley of sorrow,
Take the courage and look forward to tomorrow.
Just believe in God and make your soul right,
He will lead into His loving light.
Know now that Heaven awaits you and me,
And up there we will be together for an eternity."

Thank You

On May 1, 1999, our mother, Otha Thornsberry, passed away. As of that date, she had been in the ICU at Highland Regional Medical Center for over one month. We would like to thank the medical staff at HRMC for all their professionalism and for their caring and kindness. We especially want to thank Dr. Anthony Stumbo, Dr. John Furculow and the entire nursing staff in the ICU. While mother's chances of survival were very poor, the doctors and nurses kept an optimistic attitude through the entire time. We greatly appreciate the doctors who made every effort possible to save mother and took the time to discuss with us what was happening and what options were available for mother. The nurses were unbelievable. For thirty days, mother had the best nursing care possible. It did not matter if it was 3:00 p.m. or 3:00 a.m., there was help and attention 30 ft. from mother's bedside. There was always a smile on the nurses' faces when they came into the room and when they left. They went above and beyond their duties as mother's nurses. We will always be in your debt.

We hope that we are not faced with this type of situation again, but if we are, it will be with these doctors and nurses if at all possible.

We also cannot thank Ted Shannon and the Drift Pentecostal Church enough for their kindness and support. Their funeral services containing kind and thoughtful words and beautiful singing were exactly what mother would have wanted. You are a blessing to our community.

We also want to thank our good friend, Alfred Rhea, for his songs during the services.

Many thanks to Hall Funeral Home and the Floyd County Sheriff's Office.

Last, but not least by any means, we greatly appreciate our friends and families who gathered with us during this time and who sent beautiful flowers, cards and food. You will be remembered always for your kindness and thoughtfulness.

McCall visits campuses to assess needs

In his first few months as president of the Kentucky Community and Technical College System, Dr. Michael B. McCall is embarking on a process that ultimately will determine the system's direction.

As part of a strategic planning procedure, McCall is assessing the needs of the system and developing the knowledge to run KCTCS as efficiently and effectively as possible.

"I'm going to ask a lot of questions," McCall said. "That is a learning process as we bring together these two branches—the community colleges and the technical colleges."

To determine the KCTCS' most pressing needs and most important objectives, McCall already has met with the system's leadership, including the Board of Regents, his executive cabinet and local college presidents and directors. He is continuing that process by visiting all of the colleges over a span of several months.

McCall already has conducted campus visits to Somerset Technical College, Somerset Community College, the Danville campus of Central Kentucky Technical College, West Kentucky Technical College, Paducah Community College, Madisonville Technical College, Madisonville Community College, Maysville Community College, Northern Kentucky Technical College, Laurel Technical College and Henderson Community College. Along the way, he has gained valuable insight into issues that the colleges face.

"The only way to understand the colleges, their culture and their people is to go to them," McCall said. "We learn so much on every visit."

With information gleaned from the visits, McCall is supplementing

KCTCS' strategic planning process, which will result in a common set of goals by next academic year.

"Once everyone knows where we are going, it makes it much easier to serve our students," McCall said.

As president of KCTCS, McCall oversees a system that has an annual budget of nearly $300 million. He reports to the 14-member Board of Regents.

KCTCS was created by the Kentucky Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997, which Gov. Paul Patton proposed and the General Assembly approved.

Besides its for-credit academic and technical programs, KCTCS offers programs in continuing education, adult education, community service and customized training for business and industry.

Students awarded Allied Health degrees

Several Prestonsburg area students were recently awarded degrees from the University of Kentucky College of Allied Health Professions. Students were honored during a recognition ceremony on May 8.

Susan Hamilton, daughter of Don and Ruby Mayo, and wife of Danny Hamilton, graduated with a master's degree in communication disorders. She will work in the Floyd County school system. Rhiannon Burke, daughter of John and Debra Burke, graduated with a bachelor of health science degree. Frank Fannin, son of Henry and Mary Fannin, graduated with a bachelor of health science degree in physician assistant studies. Donette Martin-Wallace, daughter of Donald and Brenda Martin, and wife of Mark Wallace, graduated with a bachelor of health science degree in physician assistant studies.

They were among 212 students graduating from the College of Allied Health Professions this year. The College of Allied Health was established at UK in 1967 and was the first school of its kind in Kentucky and one of the first 12 in the United States. Since 1990, the college has had the largest enrollment at UK with more than 1,500 students.

The college offers eight disciplines of study including clinical laboratory sciences, clinical nutrition, communication disorders, clinical pastoral counseling, health services management, physician assistant studies, physical therapy, and radiation sciences.

This year the Clinical Laboratory Sciences division was ranked No. 1 among the United States programs by Clinical Laboratory Science, a national trade journal. Last year, the physical therapy and communication disorders programs were ranked as two of the best programs in U.S.

Pinning ceremony held at Morehead

Morehead State University recently honored students in the Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences who had completed degree requirements this spring for the baccalaureate and associate degree programs in nursing. Girls' track and field...

South Floyd repeats as county champions

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County Athletic Conference held its annual track and field meet last Thursday at the Allen Central facility and as expected, the South Floyd Lady Raiders dominated the event, scoring 105 points with Betsy Layne taking second place with 58. Prestonsburg placed third and Allen Central fourth.

Lindsey Hall bettered her time of 29.20 a year ago and posted a 28.91 to win the women's 200-meter dash. Prestonsburg's Brook Hicks almost duplicated Hall's last year score with 29.22 for second place. Betsy Layne's Tabitha Mitchell finished third and Wendi Moore, South Floyd, was fourth.

Prestonsburg's Crystal Slone ran a 13.46 for first place in the women's 100-meter dash. Olivia Stewart of South Floyd was last year's winner and did not compete in the event this year. Slone had to miss last year's meet because of another obligation. Lindsey Hall placed second behind Slone at 13.87 with Betsy Layne's Tabitha Mitchell finishing third. Rounding out the top six were Toni Little, South Floyd, Devon Reynolds, Betsy Layne, and Rachel Vaughn, Prestonsburg.

In a race that only freshmen and a seventh-grader competed in, Tabitha Mitchell of Betsy Layne took first place with a time of 1:14.86 to win the women's 400-meter dash. Johnna Ison of Allen Central placed second with Ashley Johnson, a seventh-grader, finishing third. Fourth place went to South Floyd's Sara Johnson. Lindsey Hall was last year's winner at 1:06.49.

Prestonsburg captures boys' conference track & field meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach John Derossett and his Prestonsburg track and field team felt good about their chances in this week's regional meet at Leslie County after they won handily the Floyd County Conference meet at Allen Central last week.

The Blackcats got their normal finish out of Ryan Hardee plus some extra points from Aaron Ousley and Austin Clark.

Hardee, as expected, dominated the long distance runs by winning the 800, 1600, and 3200-meter races. Hardee had a time of 2:18.68 in winning the half-mile. His time was a little slower than last year's 2:03.52, which was good for first place.

In the mile run, Hardee posted a 5:07.57 for first place, again slower than last year's first place finish of 4:51.00. In winning the two-mile race, Hardee had a time of 12:35.00.

Betsy Layne's Barrett Blankenship finished second in the half-mile and 1600-meter run. Wes Meade finished third in the half-mile, while Jim Boyd finished in the second slot in the two-mile.

Clark, James Slone and Adam Ward rounded out the top six finishers in the half-mile.

Shane Allen took third place in the mile run with Chris Jervis, Matt Hamilton and Heath Hall rounding out the top six finishers.

In the two-mile, Heath Hall placed third, Matt Hamilton took fourth and Riley Hall of

May collects 3 hits in 14-4 mercy win

For four innings in Monday's first round of the boys' 58th District baseball tournament, it looked as if the South Floyd Raiders could possibly pull another upset of the Prestonsburg Blackcats, the number one seed, and duplicate an earlier feat at the start of the season.

But any hope of such a surprise ended in the Prestonsburg fifth when they scored six times to post a mercy win behind the torrid hitting of centerfielder John Ortega. All Ortega did was blast two home runs, collect three hits and drive in four runs. First baseman Jon May collected three hits in the victory and had an RBI.

Grant Castle picked up the win for the Blackcats going the five innings. Castle struck out seven batters in scattering eight South Floyd hits.

Daniel Lafferty started for the Raiders and was pitching well but was a victim of Ortega's early offense. Lafferty fanned three batters, allowed four runs on 11 hits.

Nick Moore relieved Lafferty in the fourth inning with no one out. He gave up 10 runs on eight hits and did not strike out a batter.

The two teams were tied 4-4

Slone whiffs 19 in no-hit effort against South Floyd

Howell collects two hits in 7-0 shutout

Prestonsburg senior southpaw, Brandi Slone, struck out 19 batters in hurling no-hit softball against the South Floyd Lady Raiders in the opening round of the girls' 58th District softball tournament at the Minnie Park this past Monday evening.

Slone was untouchable from the plate but she did issue nine walks in the game while hitting two batters. The bats for Prestonsburg were not actually making too much noise in collecting but four hits against South Floyd pitching. Angela Howell had two of those. Amelia Conley and Brooke Coleman had the other two. Howell doubled in the fifth inning for the only extra base hit.

Prestonsburg placed fifth.

Clark captured the 400-meter dash for Prestonsburg with a time of 1:01.65 just edging Betsy Layne's Brock Keathley, who finished second ahead of James Hunter of Allen Central. Jordan Compton, Betsy Layne, James Walker, South Floyd, Chris Hall, South Floyd and Nathan Leslie of Prestonsburg finished the top seven participants.

Allen Central went one and two in the men's 100-meter dash with speedster Mark Dunfee finishing in 11.70, just short of Matt Rose's winning time of a year ago. Brandon Huff ran a 12 flat for second place with South Floyd's B.J. Bryant finishing third. Ryan Shannon, South Floyd, Jeremy Caudill, Prestonsburg, Chad Bryant, Betsy Layne, Matt Clay, Prestonsburg and Gary Stratton of Betsy Layne completed the field of runners.

Shannon posted a time of 25.92 to win the men's 200-meter dash.

South Floyd's Sean Tyson placed second and Mike McDonald of Prestonsburg finished third. Matt Clay, Marcus Allen and Matt Williams rounded out the top six finishers.

Aaron Ousley of Prestonsburg ran a 18.86 in winning the men's 110 high hurdles. Allen Central's James Hunter finished a close second at 19.06. Prestonsburg's Nate Allen and Josh Allen of Betsy Layne rounded out the field.

In the 300-meter hurdles, Shannon posted a time of 48.20 to take first place ahead of Prestonsburg's Aaron Ousley. Ousley finished in 51.69 just edging James Hunter of Allen Central. Josh Allen, Mike McDonald and Nicholas Jamerson rounded out the field of runners.

The foursome of B.J. Bryant, Sean Tyson, Matt Tackett, and Ryan Shannon took first place for South Floyd in the men's 400-meter relays. The four had a finishing time of 49.94. Prestonsburg placed second and Betsy Layne third in the event.

In field events, Allen Central's Jackie Owens won first place in the triple jump with a leap of 36 feet, 8 inches just edging out Betsy Layne's Chad Bryant who was measured at 36 feet, 7 inches. Brock Keathley finished third with fourth place going to Kevin Woods. Gabriel Stewart placed fifth and Ryan Johnson sixth.

Prestonsburg's Jeremy Caudill was measured at 41 feet, 7 inches in capturing the men's shot put. Teammate Nathan Leslie was just inches away finishing second at 41 feet, 4 inches. Allen Central's Jesse Hall placed third with Jody Hall of South Floyd taking fourth place. Justin Akers, Jimmy Stumbo, Eric Combs and Matt Williams finished out the field.

Allen Central's Ryan Owens took first place in the men's discus with a throw of 133 feet, 3 inches. Owens has been one of the top throwers in the region this season and will travel to Leslie County for this week's regional where he holds the record throw at the Leslie County facility.

Justin Akers of Betsy Layne placed second with a toss of 114 feet. Third place went to South Floyd's James Walker with Jeremy Caudill placing fourth. Leslie, Allen, and Stumbo finished out the top six.

Kyle Tackett cleared the high jump bar at 5 feet, 8 inches for first place in the high jump. Blankenship placed second and Owens took third place. Allen, Robbie Holbrook, Nate Allen and Charles Ray rounded out the field.

Brandon Huff of Allen Central had a jump of 19 feet, 2 inches to win the long jump event. Owens was a close second at 18 feet, 9 inches. Third place went to Prestonsburg's Kevin Woods. Chad Bryant finished fourth and Kyle Tackett took fifth place. Brock Keathley, Sean Tyson, Robbie Holbrook rounded out the field.

with Prestonsburg coming to bat in the bottom of the fifth inning. The Blackcats scored six times in the inning for the 10-run lead and mercy.

Ortega came to the plate with two teammates aboard, caught a Moore fast ball and stood at the plate as he watched it clear the left field fence for a three-run shot that gave Prestonsburg the 10-run lead.

Ortega got the scoring underway for Prestonsburg in the second inning after Lafferty had set them down in order in the first. Ortega drilled an off-speed pitch over the left centerfield fence for a solo home run. May and Harris collected hits in the inning with Harris driving in a run. Russ Music singled home a run in the frame to make it 3-0.

South Floyd got on the scoreboard in the third inning to make it a 3-2 game. Charlie Williams opened the inning with a single and scored on Mike Hall's RBI single. Ryan Shannon, who singled ahead of Hall, scored on Byron Hall's safety up the middle.

Ortega singled with one out in the Prestonsburg half of the second and he came home on Harris' RBI single for a 4-2 game.

South Floyd tied the game at 4 with two runs in the fourth inning against Castle. The Raiders went to the plate picking on the first pitch from the righthander. Josh Ward came close to hitting the ball out of the yard, but it was ruled a ground-rule double. He scored on an error off the bat of Williams. Skeans doubled to right center with Williams stropping at third. He came home on Shannon's run-producing single. Some bad base running got Skeans caught between home and third where he was tagged out to end the inning.

After Castle retired the Raiders in order in the fifth, Prestonsburg broke the game open in the bottom of the inning.

Shannon finished with two hits for the Raiders.

Pikeville College tennis team wins in nationals

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was the first round of the 48th Annual NAIA Men's Tennis National Championship and the first such trip for the Pikeville College Bears tennis team. The Pike County team made a strong showing in the opening round as Todd Kitchen advanced after the first round.

Kitchen felt he had something to prove. The Hindman sophomore was the only Pikeville College player to survive the first round by defeating Doug Stevens of Sioux Falls, S.D. 6-3, 6-2. Kitchen said his volley was good.

"My serve and volley worked real well," said Kitchen, whose brother, John, serves as coach of the team. "I hit my volleys good and that's probably what pulled me through."

Kitchen entered the tournament representing the KIAC as its single champion.

"I wanted to prove to people my win in the conference tournament wasn't a fluke," he said. "I hope I did that today."

Kitchen's luck ran out in the second round falling 6-0, 6-0 to No. 31 seed Ondra Kebrle, of Oklahoma Christian University.

In the loss, Kitchen had problems with his serve. The first three games of the opening set were tough battles, all going to deuce on multiple occasions before Kebrle won all three.

"I couldn't be more proud of Todd," his brother said. "He played real well. The first couple of games decided the match. But he did something that hasn't happened in a while and that's to give the KIAC a win in the singles draw."

In other opening round action, Jesse Rudd of Salyersville lost to Jay Horne of Union, Tennessee, 6-1, 6-1; Paintsville's Chad Sellers fell to Marcus Kastel of Lewis & Clark State, Idaho, 6-0, 6-0; Colby Justice of Berea dropped to number 24 Lars Husang of Webber, Florida, 6-0, 6-0; and Clay Boone of Maysville bowed to No. 4 Ricardo Mena of Flagler, Florida, 6-0, 6-0.

Neil Strong of Jackson, defaulted to Shorter, Georgia College's Carmilo Ramirez after dropping the opening set 6-2.

"This team has worked real hard all semester, and I'm really happy with them," the older Kitchen said. "This is our first trip here, and we've given everything we had. Now it's time to focus on doubles."

is time to bring in a third official to help keep the games under control.

"Most of the requests we have for next year is for the three-man crews," 15th Region assigning secretary Ancie Casey said. "All of the post season tournaments will automatically have three-man crews."

Casey, who will direct the officials' clinic next month at Pike Central High School, says the game is getting quicker and kids are much bigger.

"I think you will see the three-man crew most of next year," he said. "Schools are already asking for three next season."

Casey said the upcoming clinic is mandatory for officials and those individuals who want to become high school officials must attend the clinic.

"We are looking for some young officials who want to improve their skills or those who have never called before, to be part of our camp," Casey said.

The camp is scheduled for June 14-17 at Pike Central. For several years, it was held at Belfry High School. Officials are given game assignments and critiqued after each session by the camp officials. The camp begins at 5 p.m. each day.

With the advent of the three-point shot and the quicker up tempo game, coaches and fans alike have recognized that the three-man crew, that most dreamed about, would have to become a reality if the game was to move on.

Economics have been the reason for not using three-men crews in the past, but now administrators are recognizing that to curtail violence, a third official needs to be added.

"Schools cannot afford three officials," said then-Allen Central athletic director David Bowling, who now is the assistant principal at Betsy Layne High School. "With the drop in attendance at games, it is all a matter of economics."

NBA DRAFT

For the first time under Coach K at Duke, the Blue Devils not only will have a player jumping ship, they'll have four and they'll be led by the college's number one player, Elton Brand. Brand will be followed to next months NBA draft by William Avery, Cory Maggette, Trajan Langdon in the draft. All four are expected to go high in the first round of 29 players.

BASEBALL..Major League style

The Cincinnati Reds are on a tear of late completing a successful six game road trip

(5 wins, 1 loss). The Reds have moved out of the cellar and are pushing the Cubs for second place.

I have caught a couple of games on the tube and it looks as if the Reds are getting a good combination of pitching as well as hitting. That combination always works good, doesn't it?

Now, I don't want to brag on them too much because they are coming back home and they don't play well at Cinergy Field. They have a winning percentage on the road. I hope, when they build the new stadium, they play better there than at Cinergy. Have you noticed that since they changed the name of the ballpark from Riverfront to Cinergy, the Reds have a hard time winning at home?

How about this: Sean Casey All-Star first baseman!

What a year he is having and seems to be handling the success well. Word has it he could be a future National League batting leader.

BASEBALL....High School Style

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and Allen Central Rebels baseball teams tied for first place in the conference so a special meeting was called for this past Sunday at McDonald's to determine the number one seed in this week's district tournament. Prestonsburg won the toss and took the number one seed.

Weather permitting, the finals of the tournament will be held tonight at the Allen Park.

BASEBALL....Little League Style

A good buddy of mine, Buddy Bieger of David, proudly showed me the fine trophy he won as part of the home derby at Archer Park, sponsored by the Prestonsburg Youth Baseball last Saturday. Congratulations, Buddy!

A BELATED HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISH...

I let this one get by me, but I want to wish South Floyd's Jaime Slone a belated happy 18th birthday. Jaime celebrated her special day last week. Happy birthday, Jaime. Jaime runs track for the Lady Raiders.

GOOD LUCK...

The track and field regional will be held this week, Thursday and Friday, and here's hoping our teams do well and hold on to the state meet next week.

Allen Central, Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg will run at Leslie County while South Floyd will compete at Russell.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

THE ROBERT TRENT JONES GOLF TRAIL ACADEMY OF GOLF

Graduate with Honors

You will see improvement right before your eyes and, most importantly, understand why the improvement is made.

ERIC ESHLEMAN
Director of Instruction

The new Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail Academy of Golf is a CompuSport Teaching Center, offering golf instruction that is unique to Alabama and found few other places in the world.

The CompuSport teaching system is a one-of-a-kind teaching tool pioneered by Olympic Medalist and biomechanics expert Dr. Ralph Mann. CompuSport provides what every golfer wants—instant feedback and immediate improvement.

Dr. Mann filmed over 100 of the world's greatest golfers and developed a model golf swing. The composite model is adjusted to your body type and then used in a variety of ways. From set-up to back-swing to impact to follow through, you'll learn where your hands, hips, head and shoulders and club need to be on every shot. CompuSport instruction also covers pitching, chipping, sand play and putting.

The system uses two high speed video cameras (one directly behind you and one to your side) to capture every movement in your golf swing. The CompuSport

Model is super-imposed on top of you for an immediate comparison of your swing versus the ideal swing for your body type.

The entire lesson is recorded on a take-home video tape with live instructor comments. As each lesson progresses, you will see yourself "before" and "after" on split screens. You will see improvement right before your eyes and, most importantly, understand why the improvement is made.

The teaching system has been used to help golfers of all skill levels, from beginners to PGA Tour Players. The list of golfers who have used CompuSport includes such greats

as Jack Nicklaus, Greg Norman, Tom Kite, Payne Stewart, Davis

Love III and Val Skinner and many more. Let us add your name to the list.

Sports In Perspective

by Denis Harrington

Each year Hall of Fame selection committees representing the major professional sports determine what former players and management personnel merit enshrinement in their respective temples of athletic immortality.

The election process is supposed to focus on the attainments of the candidates and be devoid of any bias interjected by the electors.

Yeah, right.

In the case of Leo Durocher, he definitely suffered from some less than fond memories on behalf of several old baseball writers who were members of the Hall of Fame selection committee.

During his tenure as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants, Chicago Cubs and Houston Astros, "The Lip" was the proprietor of a profane mouth, an abrasive ego, a hustler's heart and an unveiled aversion for the players' union. But as a field boss he had few equals and deserved an invite to Cooperstown, N.Y. at first eligibility.

Yet certain aging denizens of the press row were determined that their self-appointed nemesis would never receive the honor of induction within his lifetime. And they succeeded in this quest. Not until Durocher had died did his plaque finally adorn a wall in the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Pete Rose should be so fortunate. Here's a guy who retired from an illustrious major-league career with a record 4,256 hits to his credit and a 44-game hitting streak which tied a National League mark. Known for his head-long dives on the base paths, he played with a relentless passion that defied comparison.

Off the field, he liked to gamble. He bet all sports heavily, including baseball. But he steadfastly denied ever wagering on a game in which his team was involved. And there is no evidence that he had done so. Then the IRS charged him with failing to report all his earnings and he did a brief stint in jail.

Since then Rose has conducted himself in an exemplary manner. Now will the Lords of Baseball make good on his pass to Cooperstown? The prospects don't seem promising. Needless to say, not a few Hall of Fame members freely exhibited a strong penchant for booze, broads and bigotry in their public lives and some were even known to lay a bet on occasion. So inducting Rose into their midst will hardly sully the reputation of this august body.

No, the problem is certain of baseball's hierarchy don't think Rose has shown sufficient remorse and penitence for his deeds. To date he's failed to bend the knee and beg forgiveness. But he feels the price due the error of his ways has been paid and now the Hall of Fame should be opened to him. And he's right.

Much the same can be said for Alex Karras, a perennial All-Pro defensive tackle with the Detroit Lions from 1958 to 1971. He and Green Bay Packers running back Paul Hornung each incurred a year-long suspension from the National Football League for gambling in 1963.

When back in uniform, Karras continued to play in Hall of Fame fashion for another eight seasons. "I didn't do anything illegal," he said. "And I never bet games in which the Lions played. Most of the guys I knew in the NFL bet. These were your basic office pool type wagers."

Following retirement, Hornung humbled himself before the league establishment and was admitted to the Canton, Ohio shrine. Karras declined and is still waiting for the phone to ring. "The year's suspension was the punishment," he said. "I did that. So now my play should be the only thing they consider. And I feel I earned induction."

Hal Greer, a standout guard and shooter with the 1967 NBA champion Philadelphia 76ers, said of the Hall of Fame follies, "It's political. Getting to the right people is what it's all about."

Despite a glittering 15-year pro career and a championship ring, Greer was being ignored by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame selectors.

"I figured my accomplishments spoke for themselves" he said, "but it didn't get done until my supporters got to the right people. So many guys who played great aren't in there. It's just not right."

Welcome to the real world of sports.

South Floyd took second place and Allen Central finished third.

In field events, Olivia Stewart cleared the high jump bar at 4 feet, 8 inches for first place in the event. Crystal Slone took second place. Tabitha Berger, Shawna Case and Natasha Stewart rounded out the top five.

Slone was measured at 14 feet, 7 inches in winning the women's long jump. Johnna Ison placed second with 13 feet, 8 inches. Clarissa Parker of South Floyd was third with a jump of 13 feet, 8 inches.

Toni Little, Rachel Vaughn, Brittany Blankenship and Shawna Case finished out the field of seven participants.

South Floyd's Brandy Scott was a first place finisher in the women's triple jump. Scott had a leap of 27 feet, 1 inch. Tabitha Trammell was close in second place with a measurement of 26 feet, 5 inches. Betsy Layne's Brittany Blankenship and Trish Robinson placed third and fourth with Allen Central's Shawna Case finishing fifth.

Jenny Wells repeated as the top shot put and discus thrower in the conference. Wells was measured at 29 feet, 10 inches in shot put. She had a throw of 90 feet, 10 inches in the discus.

South Floyd's Amber Smith finished second in the shot put with a measurement of 25 feet, 1 inch. Third place went to Tiffany Johnson with Allen Central's Liz Howard finishing fourth. Cindy Vanover was fifth for South Floyd.

Sonya Tackett placed second behind Wells in the discus with a throw of 81 feet, 1 inch. Third place went to Liz Howard at 61 feet, 4 inches. Tiffany Johnson, Ashley Williams and Heather Little round out the top six.

SPORTS IN KENTUCKY

UK and others should eliminate "string-along" from recruiting strategy

"String-along time" was the theme of a column in this space in 1982. A Kentucky all-state high school basketball player, Brett Burrow at North Hardin High was interested in signing with Kentucky, but those running Wildcat basketball at the time were under the spell of McDonald's All-Americanism.

Burrow was 6-9 with excellent potential and came from good stock, his father Bob having been an All-American at UK in 1956. In 1982 UK coach Joe B. Hall needed a big man and would eventually choose a McDonald's All-American from New York, Bret Bearup. But not before stringing Burrow along, telling the youngster to wait until spring before signing. When spring came, Burrow was asked to "walk on" at UK.

Hurt and insulted, much the way Rick Jones has been this year, Burrow signed with Vanderbilt coach C.M. Newton and went on to become an SEC standout player.

The string-along column in '82 came to mind last week when it became clear Scott County's Jones had travelled the same path as Burrow. Only some of the faces have changed. Tubby Smith conducted the string-along, eventually telling Kentucky Mr. Basketball there would be no scholarship but asked him to walk on.

Trouble I have with this scene, beyond allowing a young person to believe his dream school was genuinely interested in signing him, is that Newton knows the string-along strategy and participated in it to a point when the parents of a dreamy-eyed kid were left to indulge in a sob story played out in daily newspapers that demeans everyone involved. In a broad-brush generalization to obscure the point, UK director of athletics told a reporter last week, "we can't take every Kentucky kid." In fact, UK's staff, still bedazzled by McDonald All-Americanism, seems unable to correctly analyze and project skills for even one or two Kentucky-breds in spans of 2-3-4-5 years. Perhaps Jamaal Magloire babysitter Simon Mars' unsalaried place on the staff could be better put to use by an in-state recruit observer.

Over 17 years since Burrow left for Vandy, the list is long of high schoolers who have gone from the Commonwealth to become solid college players elsewhere. Most recently Greg Buckner at Clemson, Lamont Barnes at Temple, Isiah Victor at Tennessee, David Graves at Notre Dame, J.R. VanHoose at Marshall and Shawn Myrick at Cincinnati. Of course, UK cannot take "every" Kentucky kid, as Newton likes to say, but it is reasonable and right to believe Wildcat basketball would be a better fit for an in-state prospect here or there rather than Myron Anthony, Ryan Hogan or Michael Bradley. Moreover, if college coaches are indeed most interested in the welfare of impressionable 18-year-olds, then string-along tactics should be eliminated from the recruiting strategy book. Student-athletes will be made cynical soon enough after they become part of major college athletic programs today.

UK HOOPS NEXT SEASON?
Most oft heard question so far this spring? A. Will Charismatic do it? B. Can Tim Couch do it? C. Will Jamaal Magloire do it? D. All the above? E. None of the above? F. Who cares?

The answer is E.
Number one question (about): UK hoops roster and prospectus for next winter. Following is one man's view which, I should confess has been so accurate the last two years as to stun me. I believe Tubby Smith's team — with or without Jamaal Magloire — will be a scrambling, helter-skelter club that will win 20, barely. It will beat Louisville, barely, then make it to the NCAA dance off the bubble after which nobody applies for the NBA draft and assistant coach George Felton takes a head job west of Big Muddy. With the departure of seniors, defectors and possibly an NBA-wannabe, the millennium season will be the most challenging in Tubby Smith's career. For UK fans it may be the most endearing since 1989-90's first under Rick Pitino (14-14).

A roster look.
√ Saul Smith. Key player leadership-wise and otherwise.

√ J.P. Blevins. Opportunity knocks. What the Metcalfe County native does in off-season is crucial. Saul Smith is no 35-40 minute player. Here's your chance, kid.

√ Tayshaun Prince. Stronger? More savvy? Can he shoot off the dribble?

√ Jamaal Magloire will be back. With Michael Bradley gone, Jam will be top candidate for team pronoun — me, myself and I (push that NBA draft stock).

√ Jules Camara. Without Scott Padgett, Bradley, Heshimu Evans and possibly Magloire, can he be "the man" inside? By January maybe if Nate Knight becomes Mark Pope and Marvin Stone is better than expected.

√ Marvin Stone. All-McDonald's reputation is history. Can he ignore the expert who said, "Stone needs to learn to be the refrigerator instead of being a refrigerator carrier." If Stone blends, he could make UK fans forget Padgett and Evans.

√ Marquis Estill. Non-factor until he passes four tests. Academics, both knees and shows he can compete against C.J. Black, Udonis Haslem and a few other choppers.

√ Dark horse. Nate Knight. Let's see what ya got.

√ Desmond Allison. Effective without Wayne Turner? Yes, if Keith Bogans is as good a "slasher" as advertised. No, if Bogans behaves as ballyhooed freshmen normally do.

√ Keith Bogans. Anybody remember Dwight Anderson? Labeled a can't miss star, can Bogans play patient and shoot from the perimeter?

√ Todd Tackett. Ryan Hogan out of the way and Bogans the rookie, here's your chance, kid to become the People's Choice.

√ Wild card. Derek Smith. Hal Mumme has a boatload of tight ends. If Smith is redshirted he could spring early for basketball. Rugged and 6-6, Smith could be a help by January and perhaps even in the rotation by February.

Best news on recruits UK did not sign — Ryan Humphrey (from Oklahoma) and Marcus Haislip (to Tennessee). Humphrey and his father are duplicates of the Bradley duet. Self interest, best way to the NBA. The Bradleys milked their UK cow for two remarkable seasons and a good share of national limelight, then left to refine individual game elsewhere. Haislip is a project at a time when UK's roster shapes up as a rebuild. The gangly 6-8 rookie would likely get only backseat attention and might be lost in the shuffle.

Ah, hoops ... and it's only May.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

∞ About Marianne Walker's When Cuba Conquered Kentucky... David Brandon, Burundi, Central Africa (E-mail), "I'm sold. I'd sure like a copy. But I can't find WCKK in our local bookstore. (You'd be rather 'impressed' with our bookstore selections.)"

Robert Butler, Mt. Sterling: "This book made me appreciate my Mom and Dad's hard work (growing up in Hopkins County). I grew up just like those (Cuba) boys did. (Last week) I told (Montgomery County coach) Bart Rison's wife, 'if you want to do something for your husband, get him this book.'"

Benjamin Hopper, Evansville area, (E-mail): "Doesn't the reviewing of someone's book require, at the least, you read the entire book, instead of filling up space with quotes? If you didn't finish, then you should have waited until you did before writing this column. It seems like you were so ecstatic that Kentucky has produced something of historical basketball significance (again), that you just had to rub it in Indiana's face. To put it bluntly, the whole Indiana-Kentucky rivalry is stale, as is this state's ridiculous infatuation with UK basketball. It doesn't matter if the book is better than Hoosiers, you don't know that for a fact because you haven't even finished the book. How can you 'savor' something you have yet to finish? There's a fine line between 'savoring' something and just being too lazy to finish (it). Sorry, but it was one of the worst reviews I've ever read."

About ex-UK player Michael Bradley and father David. (Name withheld; Henderson (E-mail): "Bradley's father made a pretty good point. I mean, kids are catching (this) from all sides, including yourself (take it easy on these poor little, soon to be rich, kids). But consider yourself in the kid's shoes. All the (college coaches) come in to make their pitch and one coach stands out among the rest. He's THE MAN that your superstar wants to play for. But in a couple of years THE MAN takes a hike to the pros (ala Rick The Almighty). Now, here comes this African American (I'm assuming THE KID has nothing against minorities), up and coming coach out of the Deep South and just maybe the kid doesn't take a liking to him. Is this fair for your son? I mean, the new guy on the block never met your son before, wasn't in the picture when the recruiting was going on. It's all a big bunch of business, I know you agree. And nothing is bigger on the collegiate side than at UK. Who are they kidding about this education stuff."

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO...

Whatever happened to UK co-center Don Mills from UK's 1958 NCAA title team? A Berea native, Mills is a successful State Farm Insurance agent in Richmond, Ky.

John Prudhoe, co-captain of UofL's basketball team in 1955? He is an accountant with Caterpillar Tractor Co. in Peoria, Ill. ... Ray Barga, co-captain of the 1973 UK football Wildcats is a professional fishing guide in the Land-Between-The-Lakes area.

This week: Whatever happened to Richard Jaffe, UK football 4-year letterman 1976-79? And whatever happened to James "Fly" Williams, basketball star at Murray State in the 1970s?

And so it goes.

Harris makes it four in a row at the Ridge

James Trimble
Track Writer

It was another great night of racing at Thunder Ridge last Saturday night, with a regular night of racing scheduled for all classes. Although the weather looked like rain during most of the day, the sun came out for a nice racing night.

As always qualifying, first up and first to qualify was the Super Bombers and No. 19 Jamie Slone had the quick time of 20.31. In the Modified division, the 10c Gary Combs had the fastest time of 20.39. In the Late Model division, the No. 28 of Chucky May blistered the track with a time of 17.83 and the Bombers Division had the No. 44 Danny Lowe turning the 3/8 mile track in 21.93 to wrap up the night of qualifying.

The Super Bomber heat had the No. 19 Jamie Slone and the 43k of Kevin Hall leading them to the green. At the green, Slone jumped out to the early advantage and right behind him Hall and No. 24 Micheal Howard was locked in a battle for second position. They raced side by side swapping the position on two separate occasions which allowed the leader to build up a safe lead and cruise to the checkered flag.

The first of two heat races rolled out next with the 10c of Gary Combs and 96 Dale Turner on the

Angie Tackett suffered the setback for the Lady Raiders in working just a third of an inning. She allowed four runs in the first before giving way to Minnie Tackett.

Prestonsburg moves into the championship game tonight at Minnie against either Allen Central or Betsy Layne. Prestonsburg finished runner-up to Pikeville in last year's regional tournament.

Prestonsburg struck for four runs in the bottom of the first inning for a 4-0 score after Slone set the Lady Raiders down in order in the first. Coleman singled home two runs and two scored on an error.

Slone retired the first seven batters she faced until she issued a one-out walk to Monica Hobson in the third inning. The Lady Blackcats plated a single run in the second inning for a 5-0 advantage. Howell started the inning with a single and scored on an error at first base.

Kimi Nunnery opened the Prestonsburg third when she walked, stole second and came around to score on a sacrifice as Prestonsburg led 6-0.

The final Prestonsburg run came in the fifth with Stacy Goble scoring on Howell's double, her second hit of the game.

South Floyd threatened in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings as Slone walked two batters in each of the innings. The Lady Raiders had runners at first and second with one out in the fourth, but Slone fanned Angie Tackett and Minnie Tackett to end the threat. In the South Floyd fifth, the Lady Raiders loaded the bases against Slone on two walks and hit by the batter. Again, she got out of trouble.

Only one ball left the infield and that was a fly ball to right fielder Stacy Goble. One out was the result of a forced play. Other than that, Slone recorded all the outs by the strike zone.

South Floyd had a runner at third base when Jessie Mosley walked to lead off the inning.

front row. At the green flag, Combs jumped to the front and never looked back, leading the eight lap heat race flag-to-flag and winning the first heat.

The second heat had the No. 911 Kurt Hofsess and the No. L33 Tim Moore on the front row. At the drop of the green, Hofsess jumped out to the early lead but Moore was in close pursuit. Hofsess showed why he is the defending track champion holding off Moore and taking the second heat.

The Late Model heat rolled out next with No. 28 Chucky May and the No. 17 of Chris Wilson on the front row. At the drop of the green, May took the lead and No. 32 Greg Lucas moved to second. Directly behind the leader No. 10 Paul Harris and No. 17 Shannon Thornesberry was locked in a battle for third. Harris was able to hug the bottom of the track just barely missing the tire barriers in the corners. He worked his way up from his seventh starting position to take second from Lucas on the eighth lap, but on the white flag lap Harris spun bringing out the caution and setting up a one-lap dash. But on that last lap, May was able to hold off Thornesberry to take the win.

The Bomber heat was next with No. 44 Danny Lowe and 2x Tandy Spurlock leading them to the green. At the drop of the green, Lowe jumped into the lead with Spurlock in a close second. It stayed that way until near the end when lapped traffic played a big part in the outcome. As the field took the one-to-go flag, they came up on a slower car that bunched the leaders up. Spurlock was able to pull alongside Lowe and block him behind the slower car which allowed Spurlock to pass Lowe as they came to the checkered flag in what was probably one of the wildest finishes of the night.

The Road Hog heat was next with plenty of two-wide racing and beating and banging which is common in this division but in the end the J17 of Jimmy Arnett survived to take the heat win and the pole for the feature.

The Super Bomber feature was next with No. 19 Jamie Slone supposed to be on the pole and 43k Kevin Hall on the outside pole. Unfortunately, Slone didn't make it to the start of the race but did join the race three laps into it. Up front, the 43 of Hall and the 24 of Micheal Howard were having a war for the lead with Hall able to hold Howard off for the first seven laps. On the eighth lap, something happened to Hall's car and Howard was able to take the lead and the victory of the Super Bomber feature. Following Howard to the line was the No. 5 of David Clifton in second. In third was No. 43k Kevin Hall; fourth was No. 5 Danny Smith; and fifth was the No. 65 of Dempsey.

Modified feature was next with the No. 10c Gary Combs and No. 911 Kurt Hofsess on the front row. At the drop of the green, Hofsess took the lead with Combs in very close pursuit. With plenty of close racing throughout the field, the best battle on the track was up front as Combs appeared to be faster than Hofsess but Hofsess showed that you don't always have to be the fastest to lead if you have the experience to hold off the people behind you.

Hofsess had to drive with one eye in front of him and one eye on Combs, who was challenging him on almost every lap of the 20 lap feature. As they came down to the white flag, Combs was picking his spot for the pass and knew he had only one shot to get by as they went into turn one, Combs got his car into position to try to get the inside position on Hofsess coming out of turn four. Combs got a little too aggressive and got into the rear of Hofsess spinning Hofsess out and bringing out the caution. On the restart, Hofsess, was given his first place position back and Combs was sent to the rear for causing the wreck. And, when the green flew again, Hofsess was able to hold on for the final lap and take the victory. Following Hofsess to the line was the No. 69 of Dale Turner in second. In third was No. 51 Greg Isom; in fourth, No. 135 Clint Shoots; and fifth, 1x Jason Johnson.

Late Model feature had No. 28 Chucky May and No. 17 Shannon Thornesberry on the front row. At the drop of the green flag, May took the lead with Thornesberry in second. The caution quickly was out as Thornesberry went to the pits with a flat tire but Thornesberry was able to rejoin the race without losing a lap. Thornesberry would be at the tail of the field for the restart. The green was in the air and May was still the leader but second now belonged to Harris. Harris worked on May for three laps and was finally able to put his car on the front of the field but May was not done. May fought back trying to slide in front of Harris coming out of turn four but was unable to hold the position. Meanwhile, Thornesberry was back in the pack in traffic trying to get around the No. 55 of Ronnie Cole Jr. and, after battling for 10 laps with Cole, he was finally able to make the pass. By that time, the leader had moved straight away ahead. Thornesberry kept trying, working his way around No. 32 Greg Lucas. Soon afterward, Thornesberry would spin to the infield but no caution and would rejoin the field in fifth and that's where he would finish. Up front Harris was able to hold off May and take his fourth victory in a row followed by Chuckie May in second. In third was the 28 of Greg Lucas. In fourth was the 55 of Ronnie Cole and rounding out the top five was the 17 of Shannon Thornesberry.

The Bomber feature had the 2x of Tandy Spurlock and the 62 of Joel Jensen on the front row. At the drop of the green flag, Jensen took the lead. With plenty of side-by-side action Jensen was able to hold on to the lead until lap nine. No. 44 Danny Lowe was able to pass Spurlock on lap eight and then pass the leader, Jensen, on lap nine to take the lead that he would never give up. Following Lowe to the line in second was No. 62 Joel Jensen. In third was 63 Johnny Layne. In fourth was 2x Tandy Spurlock and rounding out the top five was Keith Tinchler.

Road Hog feature was next with the J17 of Jimmy Arnett and the 69 of Dennis Bartley. On the front row, the action was fast with the twelve lap feature going off with no cautions but plenty of action with cars spinning and lots of side-by-side action throughout the feature. In the end, the J17 of Jimmy Arnett was the feature winner with B17 Brandon Johnson in second. In third was the 69 of Dennis Bartley; in fourth was the 77 of Randy Fannin; and rounding out the top five was the 128 of Keith Branham.

In a wild one, Rangers hold off Diamond backs 25-21

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

There was no shortage of runs for either the Prestonsburg Rangers nor the Diamondbacks when the two teams finished three very wild innings with the Rangers pulling out a 25-21 game that would have made the Cincinnati Reds and Colorado Rockies proud.

Even though there were 46 runs scored between the two teams, each team collected seven hits each, which does not speak well of either the pitching or defense.

Aaron Patton hurled the first inning and two-thirds for the Rangers. Absher went the first two and a third for the Diamondbacks.

Brock Kidd and Mike Crum followed Absher to the mound.

The Rangers scored 10 times in the top of the fourth to take a 25-12 lead over the Diamondbacks. But, in the bottom of the fourth, the D-backs nearly made a comeback of their own by scoring nine runs on nine walks and a base hit.

The Diamondbacks led 5-4 after the first inning and 12-7 at the completion of two innings. The Rangers scored eight runs in their half of the third to lead 15-12.

HAP Little League Results

ASTROS VS INDIANS "A" TEAM

Brandon Combs allowed one hit and one run as the Allen Astro's posted a 4-1 win over the Indians in Little League play at Allen Park.

Brandon Senters had the lone Indians' hit and that came in the first inning. The Cubs scored their lone run in the fifth on a lead-off walk to Cory Castle and a ground out to second base, giving the RBI to Drew Hilton.

Nathan Lafferty had two hits and drove in two of the A's runs. Both of his hits were triples. He tripled home a run in the first inning and again in the third. Steven Chafin had two hits. Matt Johnson and Buddy Conn had one hit apiece.

The Astros took a 1-0 lead on Lafferty's first inning triple. The Indians tied the game at 1 in the top of the fifth, but the Astros struck for three runs in the bottom of the inning to lead 4-1. Chafins doubled home a run in the inning.

INDIANS VS ASTROS, "B" TEAM

Scott Little did it all from the mound and well as the plate as the Astros "B" team posted a 17-7 win over the Indians.

Little was the winning pitcher, collected two hits, scored four runs and clubbed his seventh home run of the season.

Tyler Layne was a perfect four-for-four from the plate and he had seven runs batted in while scoring four times. James Lafferty and Jonathan Powers had singles for the Astros.

Little allowed the Cubs but two hits.

CUBS VS ASTROS, "A" TEAM

Brandon Combs drove in three runs and Zack Stanley picked up a win as the Astros "A" team mercies the Cubs 12-1.

Shawn Hamilton collected two of the four hits for the Cubs. He singled in the third and had a fourth inning double. Heath Akers and Kyle Rice had singles.

ASTROS VS CUBS, "B" TEAM

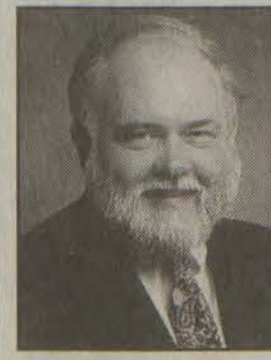

Scott Little struck out five batters in getting a win against the Cubs "B" team as the Astros defeated the Cubs 10-6.

James Lafferty, Clay Jamerson and Kelly Jarrell drove in two runs each.

Dallas Mitchell had a two-run single for the Cubs in the second inning when they scored six times. Ben Chaney had a two-run double in the same inning. Chaney finished with two hits in the game. Kody Howell had a base hit.

Lafferty's hit was a solo home run leading off the second inning.

Neonatal anniversary:

Ten years of saving lives

Editor's Note: Tyler Layne wrote the following story as part of a school assignment.

My name is Joseph Tyler Layne. I was born on April 1, 1989 at 10:43 a.m. I only weighed 3 lbs. 15 ozs. and was 17 1/2 inches long. I had to stay 35 days in the special care nursery called the Neonatal Unit. My mom said "I was a miracle because I just about died."

The special care nursery opened just three weeks before I was born. I am very thankful for my doctor and the nursery because I might have died. Every year the special care nursery holds a party. This is for all the babies who have been in the special care nursery. We get to see clowns, turtles and get gifts.

Joseph Tyler Layne

Joseph Tyler Layne spent some time with his former neonatologist, Dr. Ruth Ann Shepherd, during Pikeville Methodist Hospital's celebration of the 10-year anniversary of its neonatal critical care unit.

Harry E. Altman did an emergency cesarean on her because the baby could have drowned in the blood.

Joseph Tyler Layne entered the world six weeks early. He weighed only 3 lbs. 15 ozs. and was 17 1/2 inches long. His lungs had not had time to fully develop, but his mother was given a small glimmer of hope for her son's life. Just a few weeks before, on March 1, Pikeville Methodist Hospital opened its Neonatal Intensive Care Unit.

"If it (the unit) had not been here and they would have had to fly him to the nearest unit (in Huntington, West Virginia), he would not have made it. Dr. (Ruth Ann) Shepherd (medical director of the unit) said he would not have survived," Tommie Layne said.

"When you held him, you could hold him in one hand," she added.

"With the care and help of the nurses, he is fine." Joseph Tyler was kept in the unit until his lungs were developed enough to be put into a regular nursery. Then, after two or three days, he was released. Today, he is a fourth grade student at Allen Elementary and active in various sports activities, including baseball, football, and basketball. He also visits the nurses at Pikeville Methodist every chance he gets and he hasn't missed any of the anniversary celebrations for the neonatal unit.

The unit held a 10-year anniversary celebration on March 27 in the Pikeville College gym with a Winnie the Pooh theme. Winnie the Pooh characters were among those attending the celebration. A video with pictures from the 10 years of babies was presented. More than 500 people attended.

The neonatal unit is utilized by babies who are born with medical complications that require 24-hour care by highly-skilled nurses and on-staff neonatologists. About 2000 babies from around the region have "graduated" from the neonatal unit, according to Dr. Shepherd, who is also a full-time neonatologist at the hospital.

"It's a service that we provide for the area that reflects our mission — to provide quality, regional health care in a Christian environment," Dr. Shepherd said. "We know how much the families appreciate having their babies cared for locally, where families and friends can support them. Many get close to the staff during their stay and come back to visit, and the neonatal reunions give us a chance to maintain those relationships and see how the babies have grown."

Dr. Shepherd was recently joined in the "Special Care Nursery" by a second full-time neonatologist, Dr. Vicki Rose.

When Tommie Lynn Layne looks at her son she is reminded about how important the neonatal unit is to people in this area who give birth to critically ill babies. She credits the neonatal unit and its staff with saving the life of her son.

"I feel like without Dr. Shepherd, the hospital and the unit, Tyler wouldn't be here," she said as she compared photos of her son taken in 1989 in the neonatal unit and 1999 in a baseball uniform.

Winnie the Pooh embraced two neonatal "graduates" during the celebration of ten years of saving lives in the neonatal unit. The celebration was held in the Pikeville College gymnasium.

Safety Blanket

When I was fresh out of the seminary, my wife, Kathy, and I moved with our 2-year-old son, Nate, to a small native village in Alaska. The small three- and four-passenger planes we took on our connecting flights so terrified our little boy that he took his favorite blanket and covered his head until we set down on the small dirt landing strips. Later, during the long adjustment months that followed, when we were learning how to live in a new place among new people of a different culture, my son carried his security blanket everywhere, and it soon became soft and well-worn. He couldn't fall asleep until he had his blanket and could snuggle into its warmth.

The second year that we were in the village, I had a chance to guest speak at a mission conference in Seattle. While I was packing for the trip, my son followed me around the room, asking where I was going, and how long would I be gone, and why did I have to speak to those people, and was anyone going with me? Fine-tuning my speech in my mind, I was a little distracted and concerned about catching the small plane out of the village on time. My son seemed most worried about my having to fly out in bad weather on one of those small planes he feared so much. I reassured him that I would be fine, and I asked him to take care of his mom until I came back. With a hug at the door, I was off to the village landing strip and on to my speaking engagement.

When I got to the hotel in Seattle, I didn't have time to unpack until later that evening, and I was horrified when I opened my luggage and found my son's security blanket inside. I pictured my wife trying desperately to find the lost blanket as she prepared our son for bed. I immediately rushed to the phone to call Kathy and tell her that the blanket was in my luggage, so she could reassure our frantic son.

Kathy picked up the phone and barely had time to answer when I began to explain that the blanket was in my luggage and I had no idea how it had accidentally been packed. I was in the midst of my apology when Kathy calmed me down with the news that she already knew where the blanket was.

She told me that she had picked Nate up and held him by the window to let him watch me drive away from the house. She had suggested that they pray for "Daddy to have a safe trip." Knowing that our son would be most afraid of the small plane ride to the major airport, she prayed, "Dear Lord, please help Daddy feel safe on the little plane." When the prayer was over our son Nate spoke up and comforted his mom. "Don't worry, Mom, I gave Daddy my blanket to keep him safe."

Decoration Day means home and kin

To some, it's merely an excuse for a three-day weekend; a chance to picnic in the park; to play a couple of extra rounds of golf or take in a baseball game. But to many Eastern Kentuckians, Memorial Day is still Decoration Day, and holds a special yearning for home and kin.

Decoration Day proves that Thomas Wolfe was definitely wrong when he wrote, "You can't go home again."

You see, what he apparently didn't take into account was that special holidays such as this, triggers a built-in homing device with which all hillbillies are equipped. Regardless of what it is, or how it really works, this innate power transcends hundreds, even thousands of miles, from the choking atmosphere of the industrial north to the salty breezes on both coasts.

So home, even though in reality nothing more than a particular geographic location, becomes an even more special place on Decoration Day. It's a time when one can feel a closeness to family members who have passed on; when a flower can be placed near the eroded headstone of an ancestor gone far too long for many of the younger family members to remember; to linger a moment near a plot that only until last May was unfilled.

Decoration Day is a time that as the gentle breezes rustle the leaves of the ancient oak that spreads its branches like a giant umbrella over the tiny cemetery, filled with little more than mounds of dirt and childhood memories, that one's own mortality becomes more evident. It's a time when one wonders aloud, "Who will visit me in 30, 40, or 50 years?"

Yes, folks can go home again, as will be attested this weekend by all those cars with far-away license plates heading bumper to bumper up the Mountain Parkway, and winding around once familiar mountain roads like shiny multi-colored tinsel on a giant Christmas tree.

I can't agree with Thomas Wolfe, for no matter how rich we become or how poor we once were, as long as Eastern Kentuckians have souls and dreams and memories, they will come home again...on Decoration Day.

Digressing a bit, as we try to make sense out of the craziness that has been occurring in the nation's schools lately, perhaps cartoonist Dick Wright of the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch has hit on the truth.

In a cartoon that ran last week, Wright has depicted a group of students lined up to pass through a metal detector similar to those you would see in an airport. Two adults are standing nearby, and one, obviously the principal, is saying to the other, "It's the latest in school safety devices. That light and horn go off if a student tries to smuggle in a gun, knife, bomb or a copy of the Ten Commandments!"

'Nuff said.

ANNIVERSARIES

First anniversary

Becky Renea and Sammy Gene Bentley of Beaver, celebrated their first anniversary on March 20, at Reno's. They were married March 21, at Zion Regular Baptist Church. Bentley is employed at Eagle Coal Company in Martin County and Mrs. Bentley is an employee of J.C. Penney and student at Prestonsburg Community College. Also the couple has a new addition to the family, a baby boy, Zackery Austin.

by Mable Rowe Lineberger, Ph.D.

Although all Memorial Day ceremonies are important and deceased ones may be remembered in different ways, "Decoration Day" is an extremely valuable holiday in our culture. Probably similar to many in our region, I have childhood memories of walking up a long hill to an isolated family cemetery.

At about seven years of age, I went with my maternal grandparents upon Tick Ridge, a very rural area of Wayne County, West Virginia. There was a small, white, frame church house with benches for services and a site nearby for the women to lay out a dinner. Then, as I visited those same grandparents during adulthood, my grandmother's main request was to visit the same cemetery. Nearing her mid-90's, she enjoyed so much walking through the primitive grave markers and recalling family members who had died over the years.

A sense is that death in a rural community seems more profound because the population is smaller and the individuals' lives are more intertwined. Thus, many people—adults and children—are affected significantly by one loss. Another issue seems to be that most folks tend to avoid thinking about dying, death, and grieving due to painful emotional reactions related to loss.

"Children grieving death"

My wise Grandpa Kirk, who died at 97, often stressed our need to prepare for death, as we do for birth. He was right. By grieving others' deaths, we are probably better able to deal with our own impending deaths. Like so many processes of life, children need to be appropriately helped to deal with the death of a loved one. How comfortable do you feel about helping a child cope with a death and the need to grieve?

No matter what the age, grieving is a natural process that impacts significantly upon all family members. If grief is not addressed, it can contribute to chronic problems or become repressed, and eventually be destructive. The first step in helping children grieve is to realize that children's understanding of death varies with age and experience.

Typically, children 3-to-5 years old, deny that death is final and may see death as temporary. They are prone to see death like sleep or like a parent going to work. Children 6-to-10 years old become aware of the reality and finality of death. About the age of 10, they understand they themselves will die and may become curious about death and burial rituals. By 11, children are more likely to perceive death on an adult level. Most likely, children react differently to death; it depends upon who died and how close he was to the person who died. Reportedly, any child old enough to form a relationship will experience some form of grief when a relationship is severed.

All children react differently from each other and adults when grieving. Some possible physical signs and symptoms include: numb, headaches, fatigue, appetite changes, and excessive crying. A few indicators of the mental impact may be: easily distracted, forgetful, short attention span, fearful, difficulty organizing, and "if only" regrets. Of the many emotional indicators of grief, there are feelings of guilt, loneliness, shamefulness, hopelessness, anger, sadness, and irritability.

Needless to say, you are more likely to be aware of the child's behavioral reaction to grief: increased aggression, withdraws, defiance, increased risk taking, drug/alcohol use and/or abuse, and spends more time with peers. Children may display their feelings of sadness on and off over time, and at unexpected moments.

Professional help may be needed when these appear: extended depression, loss of interest in daily activities, inability to sleep or eat, extended regression, and sharp drop in school performance.

In the first step to assisting a child cope as effectively as possible with death and grieving, the child needs to be told the truth, based on what he can understand, but make sure not to frighten him with painful details; i.e., "Grandpa was getting so old that he wasn't able to do all the things he wanted to do." When he has questions and unhappy feelings, answer him honestly; "No one knows why someone we love has to die and go away. I hate too that Granny had to go. But we can remember all we can about her so we can keep her with us that way."

These explanations may not help: (1) "Grandma will sleep in peace forever." The child may fear going to bed or to sleep; and (2) "It is God's will." The child will not understand a God who takes a loved one because He needs that person Himself. Sometimes children will have fears that other family members will leave them. Young children, having "magical thinking" and thinking their thoughts or wishes affect outcomes, are likely to feel that they are to blame.

Another approach is to share your religious beliefs with your child and explain your own ways of dealing with grief. Also share old family stories and make your life as a child come alive for your child. Hopefully, your child will understand that happy times with family members stay on, and our memories never leave us.

In regard to the actual time of the death, children can best be helped by a common sense approach of the following: the child's level of understanding, emotional stability, and displayed needs. Grief is not a sign of weakness, so support the child while he grieves. Your presence is enough, and just listen.

Include children in the rituals of death to the point they can tolerate, i.e., ask them if they want to view the body. Do not expect children to be able to attend to services as adults do. It is helpful for the children and the adults to have a non-family person to care for the children at such times. Keep to usual routines as much as possible. Show your own grief and talk about the departed person.

The adults in the child's life—parents, extended family members, and teachers—need to respect a child's need to grieve. They need to help the child realize that grief is a natural and normal reaction to loss and a necessary happening at the time of loss.

SMALL WORLD

GROWTH OF A TOWN

During my career as a postmaster, I was fortunate to be given some assignments that took me away from my pretty post office in Betsy Layne. Once in a while something would go well and there would be some recognition given.

It was probably for an accumulation of things that the Air Transport Association of America, an affiliation of the major airlines, once awarded five other postmasters and me with a membership in a group they had formed called the Order of the Vest. The other recipients hailed from San Antonio, Texas; Plain City, Ohio; Gatlinburg Tennessee; Chickasha, Oklahoma, and a town in New York I don't remember right now.

The presentation was made at a national Postmasters' convention in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, in 1981. It was a surprise for all of us and we were called to the podium to accept it. Except for my Kentucky family of postmasters, very few of the delegates had any idea how small the town of Betsy Layne is.

Of course I still treasure the award but I tell about it here as background for another story. The following year, the convention was held in Biloxi, Mississippi, and on that first day I looked around the room for Kentucky's banner so I could go find a seat by Jack Stumbo or some other good friend from my state.

Jack said, "A lady named Mrs. Stratton from the state of Colorado was just here looking for you. She said it's important that she see you before this meeting ends."

My curiosity was aroused and, during a break in the program, I went to find the Colorado group and Mrs. Stratton to ask why she wanted to see me. She said, "I told my husband about that award you got last year from the airlines. He grew up in Betsy Layne but has been away for several years, and he wanted me to ask you when you got an airport."

I said, "Oh no, having an airport had nothing to do with that. Much of the mail from all our offices is transported by air." Then I added, "But please tell Mr. Stratton the town has grown some since he lived there. A four lane road now runs through it and, and though we still don't have an airport, we finally did get our first red light at the busiest intersection."

IDENTIFYING PEOPLE

Mrs. Stratton told me both her and her husband's first names but I didn't write them down and so have forgotten. My curiosity has been aroused many times since then, and I wish I could remember for I'm sure someone from home would have known him.

My father, Jack Sellards, served as tax commissioner many years ago and knew almost every family in the county. Then in his later years, when he would meet someone of a younger generation, he would ask, "And who were your people?"

If I'd had any idea back then that I would ever be writing a newspaper column, or that I would become even more interested in families and their connections, I would have asked Mrs. Stratton more about her husband. I would have wanted to know, "Who were his people?"

QUOTATIONS

As someone who enjoys interesting quotations, I was pleased this week to receive a few by way of e-mail from Hilda Payne of Pikeville. I suppose the authors' names were unknown to her, but one of them read: "When everything's coming your way, you're in the wrong lane."

Another stated: "Many people quit looking for work after they find a job."

I'm always interested in news or responses from our readers. My mailing address is: P.O. Box 188, Betsy Layne, KY 41605. For e-mail: hallway@eastky.net.

Ace retailers and NFL legend John Madden mark Ace Hardware's 75th anniversary

Ricky and Cathy Layne of Layne's Ace Hardware at Prestonsburg joined longtime Ace Hardware spokesman and former NFL coach John Madden in celebrating Ace Hardware Corporation's 75th Anniversary at the company's spring convention and exhibit, held May 6-10, in Orlando. The Laynes were among the more than 12,000 Ace retailers, employees, vendors and guests who attended the convention which featured business seminars, displays of the latest in home improvement products and new ideas in merchandising.

Layne's Hardware celebrates ACE's 75th

ACE retailers across the country are helping the company celebrate its 75th anniversary through various events.

Layne's ACE Hardware in Prestonsburg is celebrating through special activities. This past Saturday, the store had free refreshments for its customers and conducted a Ducane grill demonstration.

Store owners Ricky and Cathy Layne will give away a John Madden football. Customers can register for the football all week. The drawing will be held May 29.

This year also marks the 10th anniversary for Layne's Hardware.

In addition to local promotions, the Ace Hardware web site (www.acehardware.com) has featured contests and promotions from February through May.

Ace Hardware Corporation is a dealer-owned cooperative that began rather inauspiciously in 1924 when hardware store owner Richard Hesse found much was wanting in the traditional way of buying merchandise. Buying from a jobber, or middleman simply drove up the price on every hardware item, cutting into the retailer's profits.

One day a Greek peddler selling Mediterranean sponges pointed out to Hesse that considerable savings could be realized by purchasing sponges by the bale, rather than individually. Not having the capability of buying that many sponges, however, Hesse called several of his fellow dealers to ask if they would be interested in splitting the bale. They were, and they did, and the rest is history.

Columbia Gas reminds to "call before you dig"

As the days grow longer in spring and summer, you don't have to look far to find gardeners, landscape companies and building contractors hard at work. In all too many cases, however, these outdoor workers put themselves and others in danger by digging near unmarked natural gas lines and other types of buried utility lines. For that reason, Columbia Gas of Kentucky is reminding customers and contractors to "call before you dig."

One toll-free call to the Kentucky Underground Protection Center—1-800-752-6007—puts the caller in touch with a free underground utility location service operated by Kentucky Underground Protection Inc. But calling 'before you dig' (BUD) is not just a good idea, it's the law.

Last year in Kentucky, Columbia Gas responded to 372 calls for broken natural gas service lines and main lines. "Most of our line breaks are simply the result of BUD not being notified prior to the work so that the lines could be marked," said Mike Webb, operations manager at Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

Anyone planning to dig should call the 'BUD' line at least two business days, but not more than 10 business days, prior to beginning their work. Once the call is made, member utility companies of Kentucky Underground Protection in the area of the excavation are notified, and each utility marks its lines.

Although most utility companies are members of Kentucky Underground Protection, some, including Kentucky Utilities and Kentucky-American Water Company in Lexington, are not. Those companies must be contacted directly for line markings.

And while safety is the number one reason to have utility lines located before digging, line breaks are costly too. According to Webb, excavators who don't request utilities be marked and then break natural gas lines are financially responsible for repairs. When those repair costs are combined with the time delay on the project, the financial impact of a line break on a business or individual property owner can be significant.

For more information about utility line marking, or to make a locate request, contact the Kentucky Underground Protection Center at 1-800-752-6007 or www.kyunderground.com.

Veterinary Technology Programs at MSU receives accreditation

The Veterinary Technology Programs at Morehead State University has received continued full accreditation from the American Veterinary Medical Association's Committee on Veterinary Technician Education and Activities through December 31, 2001.

A biennial report was submitted to the AVMA this year which detailed the program's progress in meeting national standards, according to Dr. Scott Rundell, coordinator of MSU's Veterinary Technical Program.

"Accreditation is absolutely essential to the success of the program," Dr. Rundell said. "Achieving that standard is an ongoing effort. It really demonstrates the dedication and hard work of our faculty and staff."

The program is scheduled for a complete evaluation and site visit in 2001.

By virtue of Summary Judgment and Order of Sale of the Floyd Circuit Court entered on the 26th day of April, 1999 in the Floyd Circuit Court, in the above styled cause, for principal amount of said indebtedness, plus accrued interest through April 23, 1998, in an amount equal to $8,958.87, plus all advances by Plaintiff of real estate taxes, assessments, insurance, premiums, maintenance and costs, escrow fees and all other advances which Plaintiff must pay to preserve the real estate involved herein, and the Plaintiff's interests and rights therein, along with late penalties thereon at the rate of $8.18 per month, beginning with April 23, 1998, until date of complaint, plus costs expended herein, including a reasonable attorney fee in the amount of $1,000.00 pursuant to KRS 411.195 and/or KRS 294.110(4), plus interest on the entire balance at the rate of 10.5% per annum beginning April 23, 1998, until satisfied in full, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Old Floyd County Courthouse Door, 3rd Avenue, Prestonsburg, the following: • The floodplain would be impacted by the proposed construction due to stream crossings. • The proposed water and sewer system must be located within the floodplain in order to serve the proposed customers. • The proposed action conforms to applicable state and local floodplain protection standards.

In order to avoid or minimize any adverse environmental impacts, the Rural Utilities Service will require the applicant to incorporate the following mitigation measures into the proposed project's design. • The applicant will be required in the RUS Letter of Conditions to amend its bylaws whereby it will deny service to any new customer planning to build in a floodplain or identified wetland area.

• The water and sewer lines will be laid on public right-of-ways, where necessary to avoid impacts on any prime farmland and/or wetlands that may be in the vicinity. Copies of the Environmental Assessment can be reviewed or obtained at USDA/Rural Development, 220 West First St., Morehead, Ky. 40351, Phone (606) 784-6447. For further information, call Joseph C. FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from the City of Prestonsburg. The proposed project consists of the installation of approximately 19,500 linear feet of 8" water line, one new 200,000 gallon water storage tank and one new 50,000 gallon water storage tank, two 300 gallon per minute booster pump stations, 7,000 linear feet of gravity sewer lines and 3,000 linear feet of forced main sewer lines and two sewage lift stations to serve the new Recreational and Economic Development Complex. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, USDA/RUS has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and determined that the quality of the human environment will not be significantly impacted nor will an environmental impact statement be required. USDA/RUS has further determined that the location of the proposed construction would impact the 100-year floodplain. It has been determined that there is no practicable alternative to avoid this impact. The basis of this determination is as follows:

• The floodplain would be impacted by the proposed construction due to stream crossings. • The proposed water and sewer system must be located within the floodplain in order to serve the proposed customers. • The proposed action conforms to applicable state and local floodplain protection standards. In order to avoid or minimize any adverse environmental impacts, the Rural Utilities Service will require the applicant to incorporate the following mitigation measures into the proposed project's design. • The applicant will be required in the RUS Letter of Conditions to amend its bylaws whereby it will deny service to any new customer planning to build in a floodplain or identified wetland area. • The water and sewer lines will be laid on public right-of-ways, where necessary to avoid impacts on any prime farmland and/or wetlands that may be in the vicinity. Planning for a college education?

Avoid these common mistakes

By anyone's standards, paying for college is expensive. That's why it's so important that parents and students avoid costly mistakes along the way. Here are some common errors the Kentucky Society of CPAs says you should avoid.

Letting the numbers scare you

In order to develop a savings plan, you'll need to determine how much college is likely to cost and what you can afford to save. There are many online savings calculators that can help you figure out the amount you need to put away monthly or annually to meet your goal. But don't let the numbers intimidate you. If you can't save as much as you need, save as much as you can.

Not starting early enough

The most common mistake people make is waiting too long to begin saving. When it comes to saving for college, time is your best ally. If you start saving when your children are very young, the amount you have to set aside each month will be smaller, and the power of compounding will make your savings grow more quickly.

Investing too conservatively

Saving for college is no different from investing for any other long-term goal. You have to weigh the benefits and risks of the investments you're considering against what you want to have in hand when it's time to use the money. To keep up with rising costs, you'll need a diversified portfolio, with a sizable portion allocated to equities and/or equity mutual funds. While stocks carry some investment risk, they offer greater opportunity for growth of assets. The safest and easiest way to invest in stocks is through mutual funds which provide diversification and professional money management, and make it easy for you to invest using automatic deposit.

While equity investing is a good idea over the long term, you'll need lower volatility once your child enters high school. As college approaches, you should begin to move your assets into more conservative investments such as short-term bond funds, U.S. Treasury Bills, money funds, and Certificates of Deposits.

Saving money in your child's name

Saving money in a child's name can result in lowering parents' tax liability. However, if you plan to apply for financial aid, it may be unwise for your child to have considerable assets. That's because, in determining how much a family should be able to contribute toward college expenses, college aid formulas typically weigh student assets more heavily than those of their parents.

Thinking college saving might be counterproductive

If you've heard that the money you have saved toward your child's education might end up hurting your chances for financial aid, don't believe it. Your expected family contribution (EFC), the amount a student and his or her family are expected to contribute toward the cost of attending college, is based more on your income than your assets. If your income is relatively high, your expected contribution will be, too. So it's prudent to set aside enough to meet your obligation.

Not learning all you can about financial aid

Be sure to get educated on the types of financial aid available. Some financial aid comes in the form of grants or scholarships that don't have to be repaid, but the greater percentage of the aid disbursed is in the form of loans and work-study programs. For federal aid and private aid from most colleges, you'll need to complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, or FAFSA. Some of the more expensive private colleges require that you complete the CSS Financial Aid Profile as well. The financial information you submit on these forms is used to establish your student's eligibility for federal assistance.

Pay close attention to deadlines for submitting financial aid forms. Schools generally process financial aid forms that arrive by the priority filing date (usually February 1) separately from the ones filed later. Applications that come after the priority date may not receive the same level of aid.

Ignoring private scholarships

Private scholarships and grants from a wide range of private, state and federal sources are awarded on a range of qualifications, including ethnic background, work experience, community involvement, and extracurricular interests. The problem is finding them. The best place to start is with your child's high school guidance counselor. You also can check into college scholarship guides at libraries and bookstores. On the Internet, www.fastweb.com or www.finaid.org provide information on thousands of scholarship sources. Steer clear of computerized search services that charge a fee to match your student up with scholarships. You can find most of the same scholarships yourself by using the resources mentioned above.

Neglecting to save for retirement

Don't let the need to save for your child's education sidetrack you from savings for your retirement. The tax-deferred gains available when you contribute to a 401(k), or Keogh account are too good to pass up. And since the FAFSA doesn't consider retirement assets when computing your EFC, your retirement nest egg won't affect your eligibility for college aid.

Paying for college isn't easy, but planning and investing wisely will go a long way toward making college more affordable.

Graduating into debt: How to budget for loan payments

If you're one of the millions of college graduates leaving college with a degree in one hand and a stack of student loans in the other, you will want to read what the Kentucky Society of CPAs has to say about the importance of planning for the repayment of your student loan.

• Step 1—Understanding your loan

To fulfill your repayment obligation and build a strong credit history, you need to understand the terms of your student loan, develop a realistic budget, choose the right repayment option, and make timely payments. Colleges generally conduct exit interviews with seniors during which a financial aid counselor reviews the student's total indebtedness, the repayment options available, and when repayment begins. Most loans give you six months of breathing room, but some require that you begin repayment immediately.

• Step 2—Budget, budget, budget

Good financial planning starts with sound budgeting. To determine how much you can afford to pay toward your debt each month, you will need to compute your income and expenses. In terms of estimating your income, be sure to take into account that the pay you are quoted is not what you will be taking home. Taxes and variety of other payroll deductions, such as medical insurance, are going to result in a paycheck that may be considerably less than you expected.

Once you have determined your take-home income, you can realistically predict your monthly payments. Add up your living expenses such as rent, utilities, food, car and transportation expenses, and recreation. If you're not sure where you spend your money, you might want to keep a written record of your expenses over a few months. Student loan borrowers are typically advised to keep their monthly student loan payments within 8 to 10 percent of their monthly incomes. This guideline ensures that borrowers have enough discretionary income to cover other living expenses, as well as the occasional pizza or movie.

In addition to paying off your debt, CPAs emphasize the importance of saving some portion of your pay each month. It doesn't have to be a lot, but it should be regular. Your first savings goal should be to build up an emergency cash reserve equal to three to six months of after-tax pay. Once you've done that, it's not too early to start thinking about saving for retirement.

• Step 3—Choose a repayment option

Your loan balance and interest rate determine your monthly payment amount. As a general rule, you can plan on paying about $125 per month for every $10,000 you borrow. The repayment options available to you depend on the type of loan you have.

Most borrowers choose the standard 10-year equal-installment plan that requires you to make payments of equal amounts over a maximum of ten years. This plan carries the highest monthly payment, but costs less over the long term because you pay less interest. Students who cannot meet the monthly payment required by the standard repayment plan may choose the graduated payment or income-sensitive plan. With a graduated payment plan, your payments start out low and rise every few years, on a fixed schedule. This option makes sense if you are just starting out in a career and expect your income to increase steadily. Another option, the income sensitive plan, adjusts annually to reflect changes in your income. CPAs recommend that you avoid stretching out the term of your loan unless it is absolutely necessary that you do so. While flexible payment options reduce your monthly payment, adding extra years to your loan means you will pay more interest over the life of the loan.

• Step 4—Make timely payments

Once your repayment period begins, it is important that you make regular payments. Failure to do so may result in a ruined credit rating, substantial collection costs, and lost opportunities in employment and in purchasing a car or a home. If you are having trouble making your payments, it is important to contact your lender. Most lenders are willing to work with you to make repayment easier. You may be eligible for a deferment, which allows you to put off payment for a while if you are unemployed, returning to school, or on parental leave. If you don't qualify for a deferment, you may be able to postpone payment through a forbearance. Under a forbearance, the lender allows you to stop making payments for a short period of time (though the interest on your loans will continue to accrue). Another option, consolidation, affords you the opportunity to lower your monthly payment by consolidating your loans and extending the term of your loan up to 30 years.

CPAs point out that as a result of a recent change in the tax law, there's one more step you'll need to take and this one will save you money. Student loan borrowers with qualifying income may be able to deduct all or part of the interest paid on qualified student loans. If you qualify, you may deduct $1,500 in student loan interest for 1999. That amount will rise in $500 increments until it reaches $2,500 in 2001. This deduction is available whether or not you itemize. Only interest paid during the first 60 months in which interest payments are required is deductible.

The Perfect Graduation Gift

(NAPSA)—As millions of high school and college students prepare to walk down the aisle to receive their diplomas, friends and relatives are busy running down the aisles of malls and shops in search of the perfect graduation gift.

According to etiquette expert Hilka Klinkenberg, one of the most common mistakes gift givers make is to buy the graduate something trendy. What's "in" one day may be "out" the next, she says.

"Instead, consider a gift that is always appreciated like a universal gift certificate, which lets the recipient do the choosing. I suggest the American Express Gift Cheque," says Klinkenberg. "It's warmer than a personal check, shows more thoughtfulness than cash and comes in a celebratory gold envelope."

Tips for graduation gift givers:

- Focus on the graduate, not on yourself. Don't let your emotions lead you into giving a gift that will probably never be used or displayed, like a commemorative plaque or time capsule.

- Base your decision on what you can afford and your relationship to the graduate. There is no "right" amount, but as a guide Klinkenberg recommends that friends of high school graduates spend around $25 per gift and relatives start their gift giving at $50. Double these amounts of college grads—but only if it's within your budget.

- Think high-tech. How about paying for a year of Internet service or buying the graduate a personal digital assistant? Consider sharing the expense of a more costly item, like a laptop computer, with other friends or relatives.

- Creative packaging scores high marks. For example, present a future stock broker with a gift cheque in a box that's wrapped with the stock pages of the newspaper.

- One of Klinkenberg's favorite ideas is to pair a gift cheque with something that relates to the graduate's college or career choice and interest. "A bulletin board plus a gift cheque are ideal for graduates who are moving away from home for the first time. A future executive will surely appreciate a beautiful portfolio with a contribution to their business wardrobe."

American Express® Gift Cheques can be purchased at 1-800-828-GIFT, through American Express Travel Offices, AAA Clubs and many financial institutions. For more information about Gift Cheques, including the nearest place of purchase, call 1-800-666-7317.

High-tech gifts make the grade with grads

Basic tools help computer-savvy students head to college, careers

A large percentage of today's graduates have grown up with computers. Nurtured with Apple IIc's and IBM PCjr's, they've ridden the high technology wave that has crested with cable modems, Pentium® II 450 processors, 10 gig hard drives and global communications via the Internet.

So, it's no surprise that high-tech gadgetry tops the list of many a graduate's gift list. From practical to just plain fun, here are some of the top contenders:

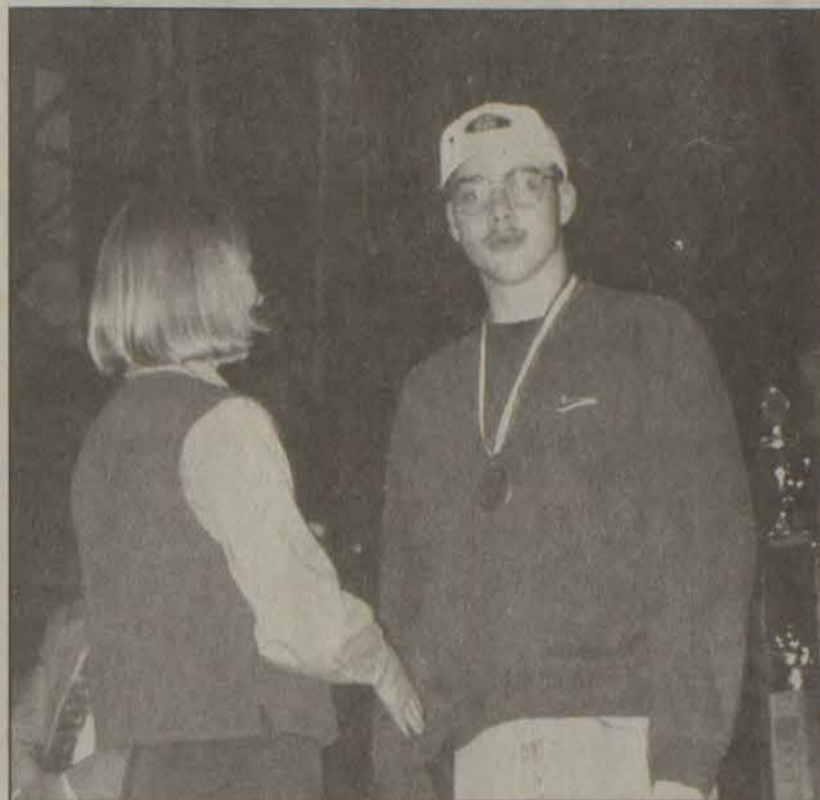

- Laptop computers. Portable and powerful, laptop computers are the perfect fit for graduates moving on to college. Easily transported from the dorm room, to the library, to weekends at home, they keep notes and assignments instantly accessible. Laptops run the gamut in price and features, from the Toshiba Satellite's 2515 CDS and WinBook XL, which retail for $1,399 to the Panasonic Toughbook 27, which retails for $4,499.

- Desktop computers. While they can't boast portability, they can boast low prices. A handful of manufacturers, including Emachines of Irvine, California, have aggressively entered the retail PC market, pushing the price tag below $600, making these computers an attractive gift for graduates heading to college or launching a career.

- Hand-held computers are another hot commodity. From simple organizers to palm-size PCs, they offer a wide variety of features from managing schedules and contacts, to sorting e-mail, placing phone calls, sending faxes and synchronizing information with a desktop computer. Big names in the hand-held arena include 3Com's Palm Pilot series, the Casio Cassiopeia and the IBM WorkPad.

- Data protection. Whether they're working on a critical term paper or sales report, today's graduates will appreciate the handy data protection offered by GoBack, a new software application from Wild File Inc. GoBack has the unique ability to help PC users recover from software-related problems by taking their hard disks back to a time when everything was okay—five minutes, five hours, even five days ago. An immediate solution to unexplained system crashes, virus attacks, bad software installations, or simple user error (such as accidentally overwriting a file). GoBack can save hours of time and money recovering from typical PC headaches. For more information, visit www.goback.com.

Joshua Ward was awarded with a silver medal in the "Internet Surfers" competition at MSU.

Ward is silver medalist

Morehead State University's campus was covered with talented high school students on April 17.

One of these students was Joshua Ward. Josh placed second overall and was rewarded with a silver medal in the "Internet Surfers" competition.

The competition requires the competitors to listen carefully to a question, then find the answer on the internet and provide the answer along with the web page it was found on. During the entire process, the competitors are timed.

James Spurlock attended the competition with the competitors from South Floyd High School.

Morehead State University student receives Award of Excellence from Phi Kappa Phi

Katie Evans, a senior at Morehead State University, has received an Award of Excellence from the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi. She was one of only 30 recipients nationwide to receive the $1,000 scholarship.

"There are so many brilliant students across the country," she said. "It was amazing to win. I was absolutely surprised."

Evans, a native of Ashland, is a mathematics major and statistics minor. A May candidate for a bachelor's degree from MSU, she plans to pursue a master's degree in applied mathematics at Virginia Tech.

Unaware that Phi Kappa Phi offered financial awards, Evans learned about the process of applying for a scholarship from her adviser, Joyce Saxon, MSU assistant professor of mathematics.

"The application emphasized involvement in the Honors Program, internships, work experience, and involvement on campus and in the community. It really focused on a holistic picture of the individual," she said. Evans has been active in the Honors Program for four years and is a member of the Leadership Development Program, Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society and the Math Club. She has completed several internships, including a math research program at Louisiana State University, an applied research program in math at the University of Kentucky's Center for Biomedical Engineering, and a lie detection research project at the Las Alamos National Lab.

"Each project gave me good experience and offered something different from regular classwork," she said.

After reviewing the applications, a committee of MSU faculty members chose Evans to be the chapter's candidate for the national competition. "I knew some of the other students who had applied, and they were top-quality students. It was an honor just to be selected by Morehead State's committee, because the competition was so impressive," she said.

In addition to the $1,000 scholarship, Evans will receive a lifetime membership to Phi Kappa Phi. "I believe this will encourage me to become more active in the organization," she said. "I hope that I can represent the University in a prestigious manner. It has been such a privilege to attend MSU and to work with such outstanding faculty here."

Established in 1897, The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi is the oldest and largest national honor society that recognizes and promotes superior scholarship in all academic areas of higher education. The Society currently has a worldwide membership of more than 900,000 in 281 chapters.

Senator McConnell's proposal is one step closer

U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell announced recently that his proposal to provide tax-free college savings plans is one step closer to becoming a reality for American families trying to plan ahead for their child's education.

The announcement came as McConnell's proposal overwhelmingly passed the Senate Finance Committee.

Under this legislation, parents who have established a pre-paid public or private college tuition savings plan for their child won't have to worry about the IRS taxing them when the money is withdrawn.

The legislation calls for making college savings accounts 100 percent tax-free from start to finish—meaning if a student withdraws funds from their education savings account and uses it for tuition, books, equipment, and room and board, they will not be taxed. Current law required that students pay tax on the earnings at the time of distribution.

Senator McConnell has been a leader in the fight to make college more affordable for American families:

- In 1996, McConnell was able to eliminate the tax burden on the states that administer these programs. He was also able to shift the tax burden from the parent to the student, who is generally taxed at a lower rate.

- In 1997, McConnell expanded the tax-deferred treatment to include room and board costs, which typically constitutes 50 percent of total college costs.

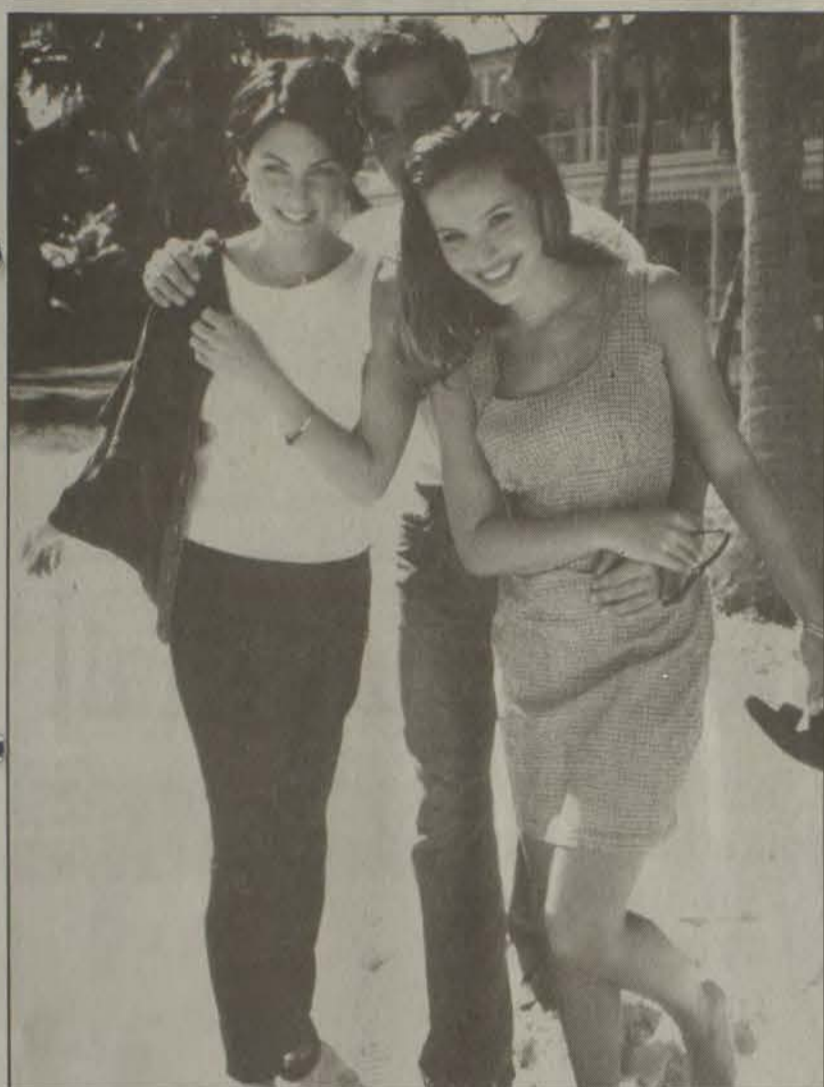

- In 1999, McConnell re-introduced his proposal to make college savings plans 100 percent tax-free.

"Today we are one step closer to making college educations more affordable," said McConnell.

"It has been my long-held belief that everyone deserves the opportunity to get an education, and I'm pleased that we've found a way, through these 100 percent tax-free savings plans, to help American families send their children to college."

Bare arms and a scoop-styled neckline take the heat out of summer.

Six ways to look your best this summer

When graduation is over, it's time to enjoy the summer.

That means there are a lot of occasions to get dressed for...beach vacations, summer weddings, and backyard barbecues, to name a few. Cato, a leading women's apparel specialty retailer, offers advice on how to create a great-looking summer wardrobe with six easy tips.

Dare to bare...arms, that is. One of the hottest items this summer is the knit tank top. In solids or prints, tanks look great alone or paired up with another top for a layered look. Go casual and coordinate your summer tank with comfortable, lightweight drawstring pants or shorts.

Show off your neck with one of this season's newest necklines: the deep V-neck, the boat, the square, the heart-shape and the scoop. For the most up-to-date look, combine one of these modern tops with a pair of ultra-chic capris.

Complete your outfits by dressing your feet with sandals—a summer essential. Capris look great with wide-band, chunky-heeled slides; while baggy, drawstring pants look better with smaller shaped, low-heeled sandals.

Take the heat out of summer with another “must-have”—the classic sleeveless sheath dress. Layer this figure-flattering piece under a softly constructed jacket or light-weight cardigan for day to evening versatility.

Add some color to your summer style. The best colors to look for are vibrant and colorful, such as tangerine orange, lime green, hot pink and sky blue. Rich and saturated spice tones are also on the horizon for mid-summer looks.

And finally, add a bit of personality to your summer wardrobe with some of the season’s trendiest accessories. It’s easy to create an instant update with cool oval shaped sunglasses, sparkling hair jewelry, a funky fisherman hat, or anything with butterflies or dragonflies.

Whatever you choose to wear, have fun with your wardrobe. It’s summertime!

Governor’s Scholar. She is the daughter of Scotty and Renee Allen of Minnie. She competed with others across the state and was chosen to participate in the prestigious college preparation program.

To qualify, Miss Allen had to send records of her grades, ACT score, teacher recommendations, and complete an essay about herself. In the essay, Miss Allen wrote about her philosophy on life, and how strong, positive role models gave her the encouragement to be a strong individual.

The program allows her to attend a five-week course of expanding classes and college preparation. During those five weeks, she is allowed to see her parents one time.

“That is the best part about the entire situation,” Allen replied.

Allen hopes to pursue her college education at Florida State, but if all else fails, she will attend the University of Kentucky.
