What's in a name

A crew worked Wednesday morning in light rain to cover up The Bank Josephine name with its new name, Citizens National Bank. At branch locations, new structural signs went up, but the task was not as easy at the Bank Jo's downtown Prestonsburg building where the name is, literally, etched in stone. The bank, named for the late Josephine Harkins, was a mainstay of the local economy for 108 years. It was bought by the Paintsville-based Citizens National Corporation in 1997. ## Floyd retires

PCC president going to Harvard

by Pam Shingler
Editor

After presenting part of her report and winding down an information-filled and fairly routine meeting, Dr. Deborah Floyd said she had something else to add and announced her retirement as president of Prestonsburg Community College at last night's Board of Directors meeting.

Floyd, who came to the college eight years ago, said she had been approved for a sabbatical — typically a year of study — effective July 1 and for her retirement, effective November 15.

She said her immediate plans "include attending Harvard University this summer to study executive management." She said she had applied to Harvard last winter and was accepted several months ago. She added her sabbatical request was approved by the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) "a couple of weeks ago."

Apparently, the board members had already been told of Floyd's intention to leave the college because a resolution affirming their support of her work was read by board member Bob Hutchison.

Dr. Deborah Floyd

The lengthy resolution included the provision that she be named "President Emeritus" and the request that a future building be named for her.

Floyd, who is only the second president in the college's 35-year history, gave each of the board members a crystal star paperweight engraved with the University of Kentucky/PCC

SSI a little late

According to Jim Kelly of the Social Security Administration, Prestonsburg office, some Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks are a day late. If anyone has not received a check by today, call the Social Security office at 606/886-8144.

Hindman gets water money

The City of Hindman is getting a $500,000 Community Development Block Grant to renovate its water treatment plant, reopen a raw water well, make distribution system improvements, and incorporate an existing 120,000-gallon storage tank into the city's water system. In announcing the grant, Gov. Paul Patton said the project will address deficiencies in the city's water system. Hindman Water serves 480 customers.

Magoffin couple tops in foster care

A Salyersville couple is on the list of the state's outstanding foster parents — 16 individuals or couples cited by the Cabinet for Families and Children at a ceremony at the Kentucky Horse Center on May 18. Mike and Gail Griffith have cared for 30 foster children, including children with severe medical problems and other special needs, during five years as foster parents. They also have three birth children and one adopted child and are preparing for the adoption of two sisters. They were singled out among foster parents in the Big Sandy Region and were presented a Regional Service Award.

Employment down

Bucking the statewide trend, unemployment rates were higher in the Big Sandy region in April than they were last year at the same time, according to statistics from the Cabinet for Workforce Development. In the recently released figures, the five-county region had an unemployment rate of 8.1% in April of this year, 1.1% higher than April of 1998. In Floyd County, unemployment was up by 1.1%, from 6.6% last April to 7.7% a little over a month ago. Unemployment was also up in Johnson (.7%) and Magoffin (.6%), but down in Martin (3.2%) and Pike (1%). In neighboring Knott County in the Kentucky River district, the unemployment rate was up 3.4% from last April to this year.

Superintendent candidates here next week

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Next week will be jam-packed for the Floyd County Board of Education as members interview four candidates for the position of superintendent.

The four rose to the top from among 35 applicants whose files were examined by a board-appointed screening committee, with help from the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA).

One of the candidates has local ties, two are from Kentucky, one is from Alabama and one from Iowa. Three have doctoral degrees, and one is a commander with the Kentucky National Guard. All have extensive experience as superintendents.

Interviews are slated for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. at May

Lodge of Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. The reception for the public will be from 4 to 5 p.m.

The interviews with the candidates will be done in closed session.

Each candidate's visit begins with a meeting with State Manager Woodrow Carter, who has also been serving as interim superintendent since December. Central office staff will then meet with the candidate.

Lunch with principals from the northern segment of the school district will be followed by a cou-

Parents burn ballots in site base election at South Floyd High School

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Parents at South Floyd High School burned the ballots Tuesday night after they deemed a site-base election for two parent representatives had been conducted unfairly. The election was the second attempt to fill the posts. The first election was held in May and won by Liz Sparkman, an employee of Worldwide Equipment, a company headed by Floyd County Board of Education Chairman Terry Dotson.

The second election was held Tuesday and the votes were burned before a winner could be determined and after parents had been allowed to vote for only one candidate — not two.

After the first election, parents protested that an announcement of open nominations had not been

Mining company seeks permission to landfill at Ivel for coal byproducts

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Lodestar Energy, which operates mines in Pike and Floyd counties, has applied for a permit to build a landfill for coal byproducts on Ivy Creek Road in Ivel.

A news release from the state Division of Waste Management says Lodestar, which has operations on Ivy Creek, expects the proposed landfill to accept "combusted coal byproducts," such as fly ash and bottom ash.

However, Barney Walker, a member of the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission and an environmental activist, said no such landfill is in the five-year solid waste plan which the county had to submit to the state last year.

"If the state goes ahead and issues a permit, they are bypassing (the local) ordinance," Walker said.

That ordinance, according to Walker, states that any wasting facility has to come before the Solid Waste Commission and/or the Floyd County Fiscal Court and a public hearing has to be held.

"If the state issues (a permit), then Floyd County doesn't need a solid waste plan, which it required us to have," Walker said.

Elections

advertised, resulting in a limited number of candidates. Only three candidates had been nominated, according to James Rodney Johnson, a parent and a current candidate for the council.

Johnson said he knew the vacancy was coming up — parent representative Don Sparkman's two-year term expires and Joe Stewart is no longer eligible because his child graduates this year. Johnson said he wanted to run for the council seat and had watched the newspaper for an announcement of the election.

Regulations regarding site-base elections require that notification of elections be advertised, according to Jack Gray, manager of the School Council Development Branch of the Department of Education.

The elections are supposed to be controlled by parent-teacher organizations, but South Floyd High School apparently doesn't have an incorporated group.

Gray said when there isn't an official parent-teacher organization, the principal gathers the parents together for a meeting and that group determines when the elections will be held.

Parents have protested South Floyd High School Principal Debbie Daniels' role in the election and have alleged that she unofficially campaigned for Sparkman at the parent meeting by praising Sparkman's participation in various school events.

"I don't think that's probably ethical, but not illegal," Gray said. "I would not recommend it."

Daniels did not return a call from The Times by presstime Thursday to respond to the allegation.

After the first election was voided, a new election was scheduled and nominations were again open. James Rodney Johnson, Liz Sparkman, Betty Tackett, Mike Hall and Debbie Engle were nominated.

The election date was advertised, but it stated that the polls would close at 6 p.m. Parents had planned to keep the election open until 7 p.m., Johnson said. The election was rescheduled with the 7 p.m. closing time.

Approximately 128 people voted in Tuesday's election, compared to the 43 votes cast in the first election.

At Tuesday's election, parents were told by facilitator Nadine Hicks that they could only vote for one candidate, according to Johnson. He said Hicks had apparently misunderstood a recommendation by the parents to let the top vote-getter serve the two-year term vacated by Sparkman and the second top vote-getter to serve the one-year term vacated by Stewart.

"Nadine must have read that as voting for one person," Johnson said.

Jack Gray said there are no statutes to address the issue of the number of votes allowed by each person, but he said it is "always custom to have two votes" when there are two vacancies.

"If you have two vacancies to fill, ... each person should have been told to vote for two. They had five to choose from. They could have voted for one," he said.

When candidates and parents expressed concern that lack of the second vote by parents could have changed the election, Daniels apparently called Gray about how to handle the situation. Gray apparently told her to seal the box of ballots until parents could determine if they wanted to conduct a third election.

Someone suggested counting the ballots before they were sealed, but that caused disagreement, according to Johnson.

"I said, 'If you're not going to count them, then you've got to destroy them,'" he said.

Gray said that was "probably the best thing to do."

"Call it a mistake ... Go back to the point where you made the mistake and start from there. The mistake occurred when the parents were told to vote for one candidate ... There's no use bringing up what happened ... When you start counting votes, you're stirring up animosity," he said.

Gray said parent groups need to cooperate with their principals in scheduling dates for the election.

"Parent groups need to be aware of potential problems (regarding the school schedule) and decide based on that information," he said.

The election for the parent representatives is scheduled for Tuesday, June 8.

Johnson said Wednesday that he planned to file a formal complaint with the Office of Education Accountability that evening. Johnson said he wants the state to oversee the election.

"There's so much animosity right now, I think we can't agree (on how to conduct the election,)" he said.

He added that parents had told him they could have voted "30 times" if they had wanted because a stack of 200 to 300 ballots were on a table for parents to pick up. The only identification required by parents is an initial beside their children's names.

Only parents with children who will be attending the high school next year were eligible to vote, according to Gray. Only parents of eighth grade, freshman, sophomore, and juniors could vote. Parents of seniors are not eligible, Gray said.

Calls to the Office of Education Accountability to see if a complaint had been lodged about the election were referred to Dr. Ken Henry, who did not return the calls Thursday.

ple of hours visiting in schools.

A reception at which community members are invited to meet the candidate is set for 4-5 p.m. each day.

The candidates and a synopsis of their qualifications:

• Lawrence (Larry) Woodrow Allen is a native of Martin, with a BA from Morehead State University and Master of Science and Doctor of Education degrees from the University of Tennessee. From his start as a math instructor at Olive Hill High School, he has steadily risen professionally. He was named last year as a monitor, assigned by the state Department of Education, for the Pike County School System, which has had some problems similar to Floyd County.

Allen retired in 1998 as superintendent of Jessamine County Schools and previously served in the same capacity at Paducah Independent Schools and Caldwell County Schools in Princeton. He has directed the Statewide Facilitator Project in both Kentucky and Tennessee, has worked with Title IV for the state, and was associate director of the Clinch Powell Education Cooperative in Tennessee.

Allen has worked in education since 1966 and has been involved in several educational associations. He won the KSBA's Dupree Award in 1997.

• James M. (Mike) Davis has been superintendent of Knox County Schools in Barbourville since 1995 and from 1987 to 1995 headed

Barbourville Independent Schools. He was a principal at Barbourville Independent from 1976 until his promotion to superintendent. He taught in grades five through eight in Knox County for four years.

Davis earned a bachelor's degree at Cumberland College, master's degree at Union College, and Rank I certification for school superintendent at Eastern Kentucky University.

He has been affiliated with the Kentucky National Guard since 1971, rising to his present post as Commander of the 238th Training Brigade. He has also been active in professional organizations and received the Superintendent's Leadership Award from the Kentucky Education Development Corp. last year.

• Paul Walton Fanning is superintendent for the Alexander City (Alabama) Board of Education, a position he has held since 1983. He was assistant superintendent for the Talladega County Schools from 1977 to 1983 and has been a teacher, assistant principal and principal for Madison County Schools in Huntsville, Alabama.

Fanning was director of the Alabama General Assistance Center for the College of Education at the University of Alabama, as well as adjunct assistant professor of educational administration at the university, in the 1970s.

He earned a bachelor's degree at Athens College, master's at Samford University, and Doctor of Education at the University of Alabama, along with a certificate of advanced study in guidance and counseling at UA-Birmingham. He received the 1997 Outstanding Superintendent Award given by the University of Montevallo and has served on a number of professional association boards.

• David J. Scala has been superintendent of Keokuk Community School District in Iowa for seven years. Over the period 1977 to 1992, he was superintendent for community school districts in Indianola, Glenwood, Griswold and Baxter, Iowa, and was "shared superintendent" for Baxter and Mingo Community School Districts.

At the start of his career, he taught science and social studies and was a coach. He was also junior high and elementary principal in Colfax, Iowa.

Scala has a PhD in educational administration from Iowa State University, Specialist in Education from Drake University, bachelor's and master's degrees from Northeast Missouri State University, and an associate degree from Centerville Community College.

On his list of administrative accomplishments, he includes establishment of a learning center for dropouts and potential dropouts, initiation of a before and after school child care program, development of a shared decision making process, establishment of a performance-based pay plan for teachers and administrators, and establishment of a middle school alternative program.

appeared perplexed Wednesday afternoon. A man who worked for Lodestar said he had not heard of plans for a landfill.

As one coal truck after another hauled coal from several mining operations along the dusty creek road, one woman remarked that, with a landfill, trucks will be taking out coal and bringing in ash.

The application from Lodestar is available only at the Division of Waste Management office in Frankfort and then by appointment only. Further, to see an application, a citizen must submit a written request at least 72 hours before the desired review date, according to the division news release.

The Times is going through the Kentucky Press Association News Bureau to get a copy of the application, but it could not be available until today.

Persons wishing to review the application in Frankfort may contact Maria Wood at the Division office, 14 Reilly Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601-1190. She will accept written requests by fax, 502/564-9232.

The deadline to comment on the application or to request a public meeting is Monday, June 28, which is the close of the 30-day public comment period, according to the news release. Comments can be sent to Rob Daniell, Division Director, at the Reilly Road address.

Howard

Records.

Howard has been fine tuning her singing and songwriting talents in Nashville for the past couple of years. She does backup singing with John Michael Montgomery and her song, "Love Is Our Business," is listed on sticker on the front of Montgomery's CD.

Reba McIntyre and Patty

Loveless are in the process of recording two of Howard's songs. McIntyre is recording "If Hearts Could Talk," and Loveless is recording "Don't Paint Myself A Corner."

Howard sang with Bryan White on an animated movie version of Tom Sawyer that will be released this fall. She also sang "Softly and Tenderly" on the movie soundtrack with some top name performers for Apostle. That soundtrack won a Grammy. Howard sang that song at a recent performance at the Mountain Arts Center at a Kentucky Opry reunion.

She is the daughter of Judy and Ken Howard of Salyersville.

Addressing continues to plague 911 system

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Address changes/verification and road names for 911 addressing continue to present problems for the Floyd County 911 Advisory Council.

Chairman Jim Caldwell said 130 Floyd County roads have been mapped and addressed, with 70 of those entered into the computer and verified. Caldwell said he didn't know how many addresses this accounted for, but he estimated it to be about 900.

After Caldwell explained what work Jodi Hall and her two workers have completed, Hubert Puckett from Abbott Creek said he was having problems with his mail because of so many addresses. He said the post office had informed him that his mail would be stopped if he did not change his address.

Puckett is using a Highway Contract (HC) address. Postmaster Edith Risner said anyone using an HC address should get a 911 address. Risner said some mail coming to an HC address will be sent back. She said the best solution is for everyone to use one of the 911 addresses.

Anyone who has not been notified of a final 911 number should not make changes to the numbering on mailboxes until the final notification comes from 911, according to Caldwell.

When the mapping is completed, the numbering will be on an odd/even basis. The houses on the right from point of origin will have even numbers and those on the left will have odd numbers. For example, if you go up Abbott Creek off US 23 all the house numbers on the left should be odd and all those on the right should be even. Any address that does not follow this pattern now will be changed.

Caldwell said houses that were off just a few feet would not be changed, but added if they were off enough for a structure to be built in between, a change would be necessary — usually by one number.

Gary Dotson, from Prestonsburg 911, said it is important that people put their 911 number on the structure, or if the structure is far from the road, he suggested landscaping signs that point to the house.

"Let the emergency service people know where you are," he admonished, adding that if mailboxes are used, the 911 numbers should be placed on both sides of the mailbox.

Road signs and lack thereof are causing some problems. Daniel P. Gullett from the Left Beaver Rescue Squad said some of the information coming up on the screen is from enhanced 911 and is not correct. He said his crew ended up calling the number back in one instance to get directions to the house. He added that this method takes too much time to be practical.

Caldwell said the road signs come through the fiscal court, and he does not know when they will be erected. He did say that once a sign is put up, it will be the correct 911 name for that road or street. Streets with two or more names are causing emergency crews problems.

Bill Dotson said the fire, ambulance and police departments should have a session on map reading once the maps are released. He said he "didn't want to insult anyone" but many people, including some in these departments, needed information on reading maps. "On your way to an emergency situation is not a time to find out you can't read the map," Dotson said.

Caldwell asked P. R. Long from Appalachian Wireless to make appointments with each of the departments to check on the condition of pagers. Long made several appointments for this week and next to check the pagers. Long also told the departments he had some pagers to give until pagers are returned from being repaired.

Terry Triplett from the Garrett Fire Department said he has a listing of landing sites for helicopters, but the sites are not on Healthnet's list and are "useless." At present, the only sites in Healthnet's records are McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Caldwell said he would provide a list with the paging number for each of the Floyd County departments at the next meeting, which will be on July 7.

SOUTH FLOYD HIGH SCHOOL ELECTION OF PARENT MEMBERS TO THE SBDM COUNCIL

Will be held on Tuesday, June 8, 1999, from 2-7 p.m., in the school lunchroom. Parents/guardians will be casting two votes for the two positions. The candidate receiving the greatest number of votes will serve a two-year term, and the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes will serve a one-year term.

Any parent or guardian of a child enrolled at South Floyd High School or parent of an incoming student may vote to elect the parent council members.

Dr. Saifullah Treats a Special Friend

Dr. Saifullah, the pediatrician at Mud Creek Clinic in Grethel, knows that children are special people. Just ask him--

"I love children. I love to interact with kids... playing with them and seeing their smiling faces."

For your child's sake, you want a person that makes them feel comfortable. For your sake, you want someone who is experienced.

From newborn checkups to immunizations, your child's health and well-being are his greatest concerns. Dr. Saifullah is a Board Certified physician specializing in pediatrics. He has hospital privileges at both Highlands Regional Medical Center and Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Dr. Saifullah is now accepting new patients. So bring your child and have your child bring his/her "special friend." Dr. Saifullah will treat them, too.

To schedule an appointment call: 587-2200 or 886-1242 weekdays 8:00 am - 4:30 pm and Thursday until 7:00 pm.

Extend UK Extension

A couple of mountain leaders are pushing a revolutionary concept: The Extension Service should help rural landowners grow and market vegetables.

This may not strike the casual observer as all that revolutionary. In a tobacco state like Kentucky, why wouldn't the Extension Service help small farmers learn how to produce something new?

But anyone familiar with the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture understands. Before Sen. Benny Ray Bailey and Dr. Grady Stumbo try to drag Extension agents out to creek-bottom tomato patches for strategizing against mold outbreaks, the pair of Hindman Democrats should take on something easy, like curing cancer or ending world hunger.

OK. We're exaggerating. But only a little.

The UK Extension Service is ill-equipped and/or unwilling to assist growers who want to raise and sell produce.

County agents know about tobacco and cattle and soybeans. But few have the expertise to assist vegetable growers. Agents who make the effort to help their county's farmers with something new like raising and selling vegetables, risk marginalizing themselves with the Extension Service. And, if, heaven forbid, the project flops, the agent risks being branded with that failure forever.

Innovation doesn't stand a chance in such a climate — even though rural Kentucky needs innovation in the worst way.

UK's Extension Service must improve its ability to nurture small-scale innovation and help farmers learn how to market new products. If UK's not up to the challenge, Kentucky State University's small-farm experts would be.

Kentucky's leaders must help the Extension Service change to meet the needs of rural Kentucky. Bailey and Stumbo could be especially helpful.

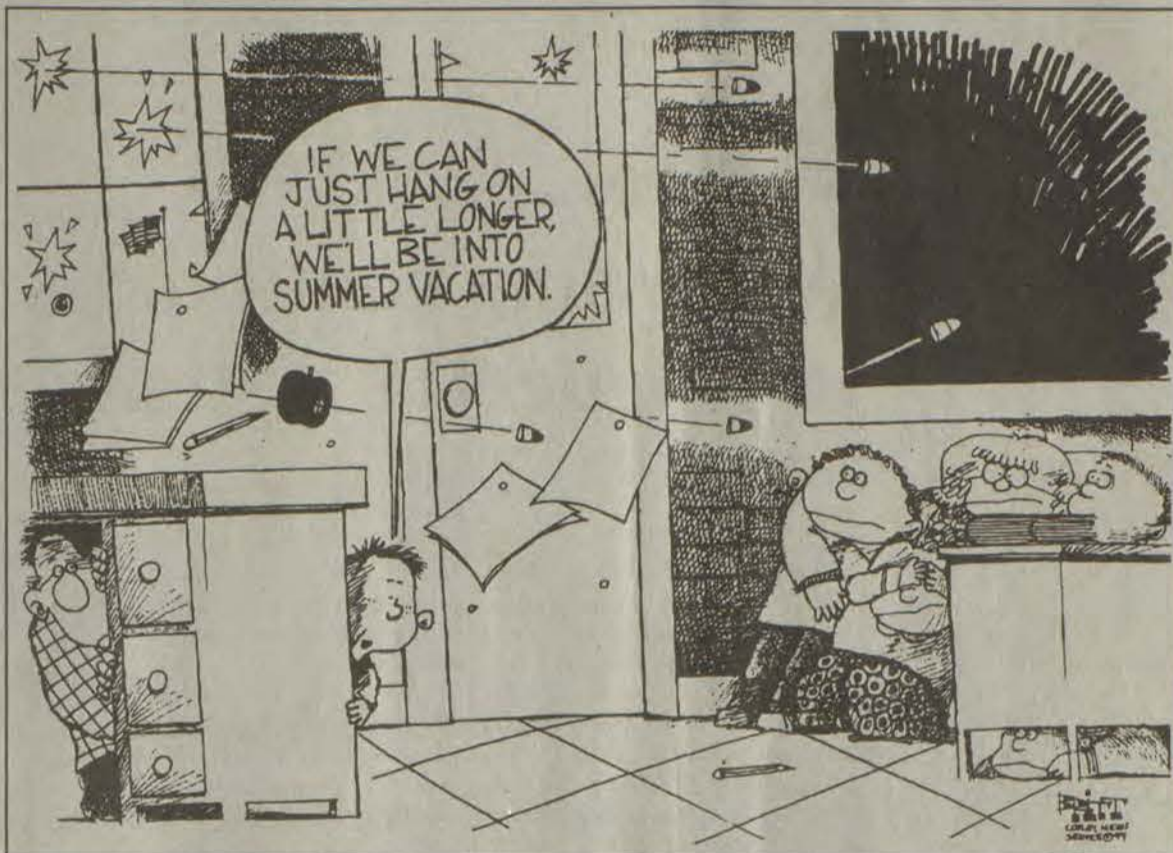

As chairman of the Senate appropriations and revenue committee, Bailey should bring financial pressure and resources to bear. Stumbo should use his position on the UK board of trustees to push for changes in the Extension Service.

The two apparently arrived at this issue via the prisons springing up in Eastern Kentucky. Bailey and Stumbo hope prisons will become customers for locally grown produce, perhaps re-igniting interest in agriculture in coal-mining areas where farming has all but died out.

To that end, Bailey has in mind another change that would be a boon to the rural economy statewide. He wants to revise purchasing laws to give special consideration to Kentucky-grown produce when state parks, prisons, schools and other agencies are buying food. This is a terrific idea; the General Assembly should do it next year.

Editor's Note: For the record, the Extension Service in Floyd County has worked diligently with small farmers on projects ranging from chickens to apple orchards to bees and more.

A leap forward for genealogy

A human family tree has branches stretching back into the dim past. People who want to inspect the interconnections of those branches up close — genealogists — now have an exceptional new resource.

Members of the Mormon Church travel the world to research their ancestors and other people as part of their religious practice. The church has been gathering data for a century and has assembled an archive of genealogical data second to none, with information on two billion people from all over the world.

Recently, church officials inaugurated a Web site, www.family-search.org, that contains information on 400 million of those people. In the next two years, the church expects to add another 600 million names from 110 countries.

The collection of names is an awesome accomplishment in itself, but the treasure of information it opens to genealogical researchers is priceless.

The listing encourages a sense of continuity and

connectedness in the human beings who are alive today.

Each man, woman and child has two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, 16 great-great-grandparents and on and on. Each ancestor is an individual who slept and ate, talked with friends, felt the sunshine and perhaps even thought about his ancestors, too. People are connected with others in ways they can only imagine.

The trace of life begins with each individual and stretches into history, each person building on the genes and the past of the people who produced him. The family of man is enormous, both in its numbers and complexity.

If the Mormon Church's archive can stir an interest in the past, if users can get a hint of the wonderful diversity of the human species, then it will have fulfilled more than its genealogical purpose. It will have helped connect people with the richness and depth of their heritage as human beings.

The four athletes to make Life magazine's 1990 list of the "100 Most Important Americans of the 20th Century" are Muhammad Ali, Billie Jean King, Jackie Robinson, and Babe Ruth.

One more time for TBJ

Not meaning to beat a dead horse, I have The Bank Josephine fresh in mind again because the name was officially "retired" this week. Jo has thrown in her shares and joined the Citizens National Bank.

H.D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick was accepting, but you could tell at Wednesday's name-change ceremony that he was sad. After all, he was affiliated officially with the bank for more than 40 years, and, in fact, it was like family since he is kin to the original Josephine Harkins.

Jimmy Goble, who has worked here at The Times for most of his 80 years, has his own Bank Jo story.

His son, Edward, was encouraged to save his money and open a savings account at the local bank when he was a boy. After he had saved his coins and small bills over some time, he decided he wanted to check on his money, to make sure, Jimmy says, that the bank was taking good care of it.

Jimmy walked with his son to the distinctive old building on Front Street. They went up to Bill Arnold Spradlin, the bank's long-time teller, and, after waiting their turn in line, Edward told Spradlin, "I'm here to see my money."

Without losing a beat, Spradlin picked up a couple of handfuls of bills from the cash drawer and ruffled through them. "There it is," he said.

Edward was quiet at that moment, but he looked perturbed.

"What's wrong, son?" Jimmy asked.

"That's not my money," the young man blurted.

"What do you mean? Of course, it's your money," the father said.

"No," said Edward, "I didn't have any twenties."

Jimmy swears the story is true, but the man does love to tell a good story.

Today, banks are so big we know our money's probably not there, at least not in the form we gave it. Plus, we do much of our banking without any actual money changing hands.

But that's all right with me. Money slips through my fingers anyway — always has — with very little staying long in pocket or bank account.

One last Bank Jo item and I'll stop. There's apparently a possibility the old bank headquarters building on Front Street will be home to the central office of Floyd County Schools.

Dennis Dorton, president of Citizens National, said the fate of the sleek, classical-style building has not been decided. He did say, however, that transfer of the bank building to the school board is a subject under discussion.

Let's hope the discussion proves fertile. The central office has to leave its present substandard building, which has already been sold. The alternative that has been made public is to use the old Martin Elementary School building.

The Martin site has some drawbacks, including being in a major flood plain — and it's a good chance there'll be another flood or two before the not-entirely-realistic proposal to remove the city to a drier location goes very far.

The Martin building also will likely require renovations to meet the needs of the system's administrators. That means money that would be better spent on instruction.

The Bank Jo downtown building is — in a word — beautiful. (In fact, it may be logo. She noted that as of July 1, PCC will no longer use the UK logo and will adopt a new one denoting its affiliation with KCTCS.

She said the paperweights "will likely become collector items."

She used the star to look back at the college's "ambitious" STAR campaign, which she said aimed to "shoot for the stars," and pointed to new buildings, new programs, and the college's involvement in the community.

"Moving forward with the next chapter of my life will be filled with fond memories of the Appalachian Mountains and the wonderful people I have learned to love in this Big Sandy Valley," she read from a prepared statement.

"As the college moves forward, I ask you to continue your support of PCC and to lend your support to KCTCS, in whatever ways you deem appropriate. Your service is needed to help lead this college through the future changes facing PCC as a part of the new KCTCS," she said.

An audit of the college released last week by the state

auditor was critical of the college's management, adding that the staff was "polarized" and that "continuing discord ... is symptomatic of an ineffective control environment."

A fuller report of the board of directors meeting will be presented in Wednesday's edition of The Times.

Prestonsburg High school students paint JWT 1999 wall mural

It's summer once again, and with the help of some Prestonsburg High School (PHS) art students, Jenny Wiley Theatre (JWT) has its 1999 wall mural ready for a season of magic under the stars.

The art students from PHS created colorful depictions of Grease, The Legend of Jenny Wiley, Oklahoma, and Pinocchio for the 1999 mural. This is the first time students from a local school have participated in the creation of the wall mural.

Now in its third consecutive year, the wall mural at JWT has become a major part of the summer season. Under the direction of PHS art teacher Ellen Trimble, the students spent many hours perfecting their masterpiece.

"We are really proud of the students from Prestonsburg High School, and we are glad to exhibit the work of our local artists," Jenny Wiley Theatre CEO Carla Coburn said.

too beautiful for some of the ugliness that has historically been seen in the school system.) The bank building goes back to the early part of this century, but is at the same time thoroughly modern.

And what an impressive statement the transfer would make. It would represent business's growing and positive interest in schools, it would mean the school system headquarters remains in the county seat, and it might portend a more quality-oriented, cost effective atmosphere in the Floyd County School System.

I hope Josephine would have liked that.

JBS wins energy education award

The June Buchanan School was recognized as the Kentucky School District of the Year by the KyNEED (National Energy Education Development) Project on May 14 at the State Capitol in Frankfort.

At the same ceremony, it was announced that the school will also be receiving the National School District of the Year award. This award will be presented to teacher and student representatives at the National Youth Awards Recognition Ceremonies in Washington, D.C., on June 28.

The NEED Project is an energy education program that promotes student leadership with "kids teaching kids." During the summers, national conferences are held in cities across the country to train teachers in energy education.

The NEED Project is a non-profit organization supported by energy related businesses across the nation. Kentucky River Coal Corporation has been a strong supporter of the county workshops and has sponsored East Kentucky teachers at national conferences.

Last summer, Kentucky River Coal Corporation sponsored JBS teachers Paula Smith and Lucinda Huff to attend a NEED conference in Rhode Island. Upon their return, the two teachers developed a pilot program for grades 4, 5, and 8, which focused on the NEED concepts and activities.

Some of the activities most enjoyed by the students were riding in an electric car, going to a coal mine, writing and recording radio public service announcements for WWJD radio station, "mining" blueberry muffins, being student leaders for the Knott County energy workshop, keeping track of classroom energy consumption, and discovering how energy efficient school buildings really are.

JBS students and teachers are currently in the process of seeking sponsors to assist in defraying the expenses of the national conference and travel. Anyone interested in making a tax deductible donation for the trip, contact the JBS office at 606/368-6108.

(Granny) Elsie Mae Noe
May 30, 1914-June 3, 1998

The calendar says you have been gone a year,
But each of us always feels you near.

Our hearts are sometimes heavy,
But our spirits are always light,
Because we know in God's loving arms
You are safe and happy, secure in His might.
Jesus will return one day
Then we will all be together.
We will live in peace and love
With Him forever.

Until we meet again,
We love you

Prestonsburg coach Jack Pack will not return to the Blackcats basketball program this year. He was notified he will not be recommended for the job this coming season. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Blackcat coach looking for reasons for decision

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

The most successful boys' basketball coach in recent years for Prestonsburg High School was told earlier this week he would not return to the helm of the school's basketball program. Coach Jackie Pack said the only reason he was given was that "it was best for Prestonsburg."

School principal Coy Samons informed Pack of his decision not to rehire him this past Monday. Pack said he was surprised about the notification.

"He really didn't give me an answer, only that it was best for Prestonsburg," Pack said. "Even as late as last week I was told I would be back."

Pack has been head coach the past four seasons. It was well documented the problems Pack had last summer when he was relieved of his duties at the local high school because of "improper conduct" allegations. Then-interim superintendent Mike King fired Pack from his position last year as both coach and teacher. Pack won a victory in the courtroom and was reinstated by the court.

"I asked Mr. Samons to give me a reason, just one legitimate reason, and he only said it was best for Prestonsburg," Pack said. "That is all he would say. Best for who? The politicians, doctors, businessmen. It is certainly not best for the kids."

Principal Samons was contacted at the high school. He preferred not to comment on the situation until after Thursday night's site base council meeting.

The drama unfolded, according to Pack, when on May 6 the site base council made a unanimous decision to rehire all the school coaches for next season.

"Mr. Samons told me on May 7, it was all over, 'you are the coach,'" Pack said. "Somewhere in the neighborhood of May 21, Mr. Samons decided to post all coaching positions, but again tells me everything is okay, he's just covering himself."

Pack said that on May 27 the posted list had only one name for the job of head basketball coach at the school and that name was his. But things soon changed.

"The listing had been up for a week. I checked the list at 1:30 and my name was still the only name," he said. "At 2 p.m. of that day, it had five names, meaning four other people were added between 1:30 and 2 p.m."

The action to hire all coaches back, made at a previous site base council meeting, according to Pack, was rescinded on a motion made by baseball coach Russell Shepherd.

"On Monday (May 27), Mr. Samons called me in and told me that I would not be recommended by him as coach of basketball or golf next year."

Prestonsburg advances to finals behind Coleman

Brooke Coleman collected three hits and drove in two runs to back up the two-hit pitching of Brandi Slone as the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats posted a 7-5 win over the Lady Eagles of Johnson Central. The Lady Blackcats will return finals of the regional softball tournament.

Kimi Nunnery had two hits in the win and picked up one RBI.

Coach Bridget Clay, wearing number seven on her jersey, paced the sidelines in the seventh inning as Slone struggled with her control, allowing Johnson Central to score twice to make it a 7-5 game. Slone got Jamie Goble on strikes to start the seventh but issued back-to-back walks to Kim Taylor and Brianna Daniels. Both runners moved up on two wild pitches and scored on Sheena Scott's two-run single.

After walking Amanda Griffith and with runners in scoring position, Slone got Rachel Doderer to pop out and struck out Megan Hall to end the game.

Coach Clay's team grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first inning. After Slone struck out the side in the Johnson Central first, senior Shelly Greathouse singled with one out, stole second and Amelia

Harris bats P'burg past Cougars

by Ed Taylor

Coach Russell Shepherd's Prestonsburg Blackcats got a strong defensive performance and some timely hitting from Kaln Harris to eliminate the Elkhorn City Cougars in the men's 15th Region baseball tournament at Johnson Central Wednesday night.

Grant Castle went the first five innings for the Blackcats before giving way to Harris in the sixth inning. Harris had three doubles and drove in two runs in Prestonsburg's 8-1 win. Senior Adam Hall had a two-run single in the game.

Castle struck out six batters allowing no runs on just one hit. Harris gave up a run to the Cougars in the sixth inning on three hits.

Prestonsburg's defense, which had struggled of late, committed only one error against the Cougars.

Prestonsburg missed a scoring opportunity in the first inning putting runners at second and third with no one out. Russ Music and Adam Hall drew consecutive walks but were left stranded when Runyon retired the next three in order.

The Blackcats did get on the scoreboard in their half of the second with two runs to assume a 2-0 lead. Harris doubled with one out. Hank Mullins walked and both runners scored on Hall's two-run single.

Prestonsburg's lone error came in the second when Elkhorn put two runners on base against Castle but was left stranded.

In the Prestonsburg third, the Blackcats made it a 3-0 game on a walk to John Ortega and Jon May's single.

Castle retired Elkhorn in order in the fourth. It was a 4-0 game after Prestonsburg batted in the sixth. Seth Crisp led off the inning with a base hit to left field. Harris singled to left sending Crisp to third. He scored on Gabriel Shepherd's sacrifice fly to right field.

The Cougars avoided the shut out with a run in the bottom of the sixth. Harris allowed three straight singles by the Cougars.

In the Prestonsburg seventh, the Blackcats scored four times with two runners coming home on Harris' two run double, his third of the game. Castle, Ortega and May had hits in the inning. Ortega had a double.

Castle was robbed of a hit in the second inning when he hit fly ball to right field was hauled in on an outstanding play by Ratliff.

around, replacing the popular Gordon Parido at the helm. Pack, in his first year, brought the Blackcats a conference title, district championship and regional tournament appearance. The last time Prestonsburg had won a district tournament was in 1984.

Under Pack's guidance, Prestonsburg won three district championships, made four regional tournament appearances, and reached the regional finals once.

Under Coach Pack,

Prestonsburg was 29-6 against county teams. Packs overall record in his four years at Prestonsburg was 70 wins and 38 losses. He was named Coach of the Year three times.

Pack, who coached basketball at Wheelwright, was moved to Allen Central after Wheelwright and McDowell consolidated to form South Floyd High School. Pack started as an assistant to Johnny Martin at Allen Central. In his second year at the Right Beaver school, Pack stepped aside as an assistant and took the Prestonsburg job.

While at Wheelwright, he built the Trojans into a county and regional contender, and won the heart of Trojan fans and players.

Coach Pack felt he was betrayed in the decision at Prestonsburg.

"When a person tells you, you are going to be hired back, which I was told on a number of occasions, and that abruptly changes, I just don't understand. I want to understand. I want reasons why for the decisions. I put my whole life in this stuff," he said.

"My record speaks for itself," Pack added. "What more could I do to prove myself. I have had winners everywhere I have been. I have one losing season in the 22 years I have coached basketball and that was at a junior college (St. Catherine's)."

Coach Pack felt there were others involved in the decision not to bring him back this coming season.

"There are people in town who want to run this show out here," he said. "There are a lot of people in this town who don't like Jack Pack because Jack Pack runs his own show."

Pack said others tried to influence him in whom he should play but said he would never yield to their pressure and played whom he felt was best for the team.

Pack had plans to take

Prestonsburg to summer camps and was planning a basketball camp of his own. The practice had to stop and the camp will not be a reality.

"It's not going to end here, I'm not going to let it," he said, but did not explain what steps he plans to take to protest the action.

Pack said he was told, however, that he will retain his teaching position at the school.

Coleman

Conley followed with a base hit.

Coleman was hit with a pitch to load the bases and Nunnery singled up the middle, scoring Greathouse. Margaret Damron made it 2-0 with a RBI single and Megan Hyden drew a bases-loaded walk to score Coleman with the third run in the inning.

Johnson Central made it 3-1 with a run in the top of the second. The run scored on what has been a problem all season for Slone, walks and wild pitches.

Slone walked Sheena Scott to open the Lady Eagle second. After she stole second, two wild pitches put her at home with the first Lady Eagle run.

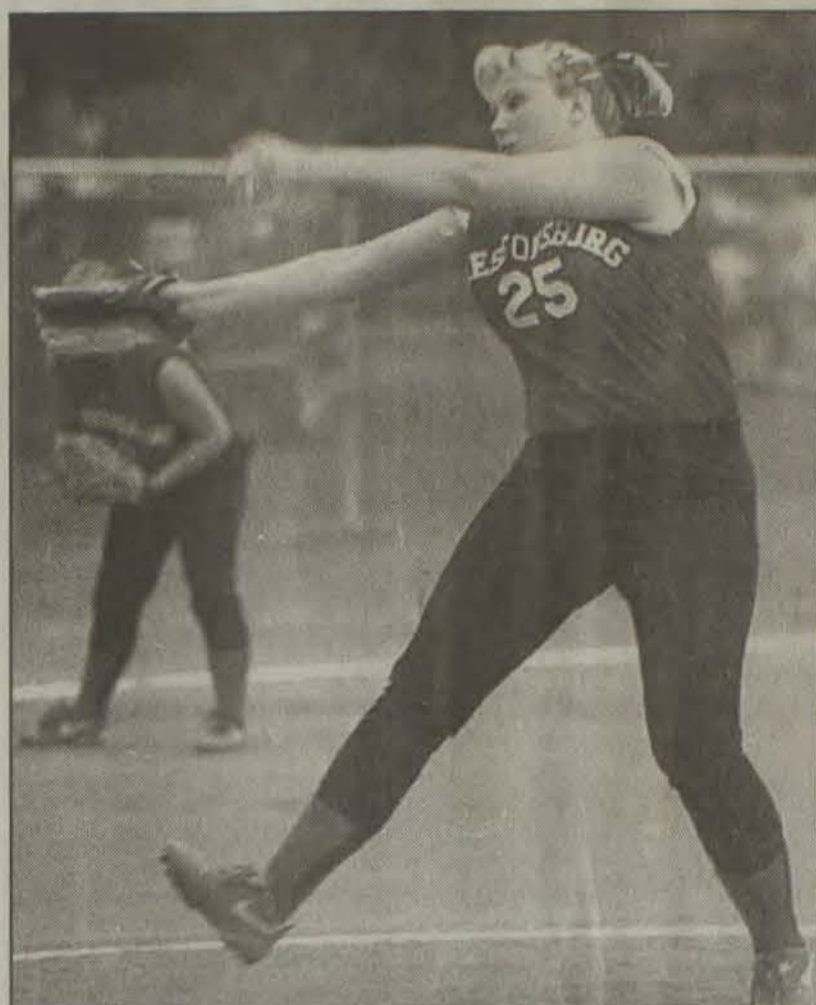

Daniels, who started for Johnson Central, kept the Lady Blackcats off the base paths in the second and third innings. In the fourth, the Lady Eagles made it a 3-2 score with a run. Again it was a lead-off walk to Scott, a stolen base and two wild pitches that allowed Scott to score.

Prestonsburg took a run back in the bottom of the fourth. With two out, Greathouse was on with a fielder's choice and scored on Coleman's RBI double.

Johnson Central added a third run in their half of the fifth for a 4-3 game. But Prestonsburg came back with three of their own in the sixth to make it a 7-3 affair. Coleman collected her third hit of the game and drove in a run. Nunnery had her second hit in the inning.

Slone, in picking up the win, struck out 14 batters and walked 10.

Prestonsburg improved to 20-10 on the season and faced Pikeville in the regional championship game.

Girls' regional finals rained out at Pikeville

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The championship game of the girls' 15th Region softball tournament was halted after three and half innings because of rain this past Wednesday night.

The game was called in the top of the fourth inning with Pikeville at the plate with two out and Prestonsburg leading 4-3.

The game was to resume from the point of being called. Because of the postponement, the game will be reported in Wednesday's sports section.

Allen leads Drift Astros past Martin Rangers

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Scott Allen collected three hits and drove in five runs to lead the Drift Astros past the Martin Rangers 13-6 in the Floyd County Bambino League at Minnie Park. Allen had a double and two singles in the game.

Shawn Mosley hurled five and two-thirds innings to pick up the win. He fanned seven batters while walking an equal number.

Mosley left the mound when Martin struck for four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Josh McKinney started for Martin and suffered the setback. He hurled the first two innings allowing eight runs. He struck out four. Fredo Domandoingez followed McKinney to the mound and went two innings with three strikeouts. Ryan Hammond was the third pitcher for Martin, pitching the fifth and sixth innings.

Martin had four hits in the game and all four were for extra bases. Hammonds had two doubles. Jordan Hale doubled and Jarred McKinney had a two-bagger.

John Mullins collected two doubles for Drift while driving in two runs. Andrew Lafferty collected a double and two runs batted in.

"Andrew is a dandy", Drift coach Clinis Hall said. "He is something to watch. He has to be the best catcher in our league."

Drift improved to 7-2 on the season and will meet the Martin Reds at the Minnie Park tonight for a doubleheader.

A look at sports: Who will guide the Blackcats?

But first this...

I was very touched by the presentation of a plaque from the Betsy Layne Lady Cats basketball team this past Tuesday. I was invited to their banquet Monday, but was unable to make it.

So, Tuesday the plaque was brought to me here at the paper and from the depths of my heart, it was like someone had given me the key to the city. Just to know someone appreciates the little things I do. The negative comments seem to always be the order of the day. But to Coach Cassandra Akers and the Lady Cats' basketball team, from an old boy who has covered an awful lot of basketball games and has received several state awards, this one is the best. Thank you very, very much. You all are great and I hope you have a great season this winter!

With the news that Coach Jack Pack will not return to the hardwood at Prestonsburg next season (Have we been here before?) the question is, who will guide the Blackcats when the 1999-2000 season begins in December?

Top two contenders connected with the job as applicants are Harold Tackett and Jackie Day Crisp. Crisp has been successful in guiding the Lady Blackcats the past two seasons and took his team to the regional finals last year in only his second season, winning the 58th District tournament at South Floyd.

Tackett coached the girls' program for four seasons and was instrumental in turning the program into one of the top regional contenders.

Now they both are looking to move up to the boys' program. But I am not so sure taking the boys' team would be a move up. The Lady Blackcats will carry a regional top ranking in the preseason when they bounce the ball come October 15 when practice starts.

The boys' program will be hit hard by graduation and will be in a rebuilding stage. Applying for the girls' job were Bobby Hamilton, Bobby Hackworth and Bridget Clay. Clay coached Prestonsburg for six seasons before losing her job to Tackett. Clay is an all-star in her own right and knows the game. Hackworth was an assistant with Coach Jack Pack two seasons ago and did not coach last year. Hamilton has been on the girls' coaching bench under both Tackett and Crisp for the past four years.

How will it all turn out? Well, that will depend on the site base council at Prestonsburg (which met Thursday night). Coach Pack did a great job over the past four years and it seems last summer's court battle is carrying over in determining his not being rehired.

However, I wonder why Ashland Gearheart was not considered for the girls' job? Now, those who have applied for the job are good candidates. I know each one and have the highest respect for them. But Ashland has paid his dues in the grade school ranks and has proven he can coach. While the other candidates have been there, Ashland deserves a shot at it. I don't know if Ashland applied for the position or not. From what I have been told, he didn't. But he sure would have made a good one.

Belfry's Ramanda Music keeps reaping outside awards. By the way, I look for Music to be playing basketball in Floyd County next season! That's just the way I feel. Another note: no, she is no relation of mine but just a great kid that is deserving of all the recognition she gets.

Sources tell me that Harold Tackett has applied for the head boys' coaching job at Betsy Layne. You know, a person cannot come in and turn a program around in one or two years. They need more time than that.

I think Tim Rice has done a good job at Betsy Layne and needs another year to get things on the winning side. This business of bringing in a new coach every season is ridiculous. I have nothing against Harold Tackett and he knows that. He and I are very good friends, but I think folks should be given a chance and Tim deserves another year or two.

Look at what is happening with basketball at South Floyd. It is musical coaches. The boys' program went through it and the girls' program is experiencing it. It appears that Henry Webb has settled into the boys' job and the Raiders are going to have to be reckoned with next season. But the girls' coaching job continues to be a joke: changing each year. I know, many of the folks up Left Beaver are upset over it all.

What appears to be happening to us is who is mad at you and who is not; who is wanting their man and who is content. I am not much of a fan of the site base councils. Now, they are good folk but I think any decision to hire and fire should lie where it belongs and that is with the board of education. Site base councils do not take the politics out of it, and never will.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

HAP Little League Results

DODGERS VS ASTROS, "B" TEAMS

The Allen Astros farm team collected seven hits but the Harold Dodgers had zero as Scott Little hurled a no-hitter in shutting out the Dodgers 16-0 in a three inning game.

James Lafferty collected three hits for the Astros and had four RBI's. Lafferty blasted two home runs in the game and tripled in the third inning.

Little had two hits, including a two-hit third inning home run. Tyler Layne and Tyler Blair had one hit in the win.

Lafferty hit a two-run home run in the first when Allen scored five times. He duplicated the feat in the second going to right center.

Layne's only hit was a home run in the second.

ASTROS VS DODGERS, "A"

TEAMS

Nathan Lafferty was a thorn in the side of the Harold Dodgers in Little League play at the Allen Park. All Lafferty did was go a perfect four-of-four from the plate, blast a grand slam home run and drive in eight runs to lead Allen to a 22-3 mercy win over the Dodgers.

Matt Johnson collected four hits in the game and drove in four runs. Buddy Conn also had four RBI's for the Astros. Brent Combs and Logan Clark had two RBI's apiece. Combs was the winning pitcher for the Astros.

Tommy Bradley collected two hits for the Dodgers, including a third inning double. Mason Rivers hurled two innings for the Dodgers in absorbing the loss. Rivers had a single for the Dodgers. Harold Ruth, Kyle Hall and Jody Click collected a hit apiece.

Smiley, Wicker collect two-hits in 9-2 win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Kenny Smiley and Kyle Wicker collected two hits while John Little and Greg May combined for a two-hitter for the Prestonsburg Reds in a 9-2 win over Paintsville in senior league play at Archer Park Monday evening.

Little got credit for the win in hurling the first two and two-third innings. May pitched the final two and a third. Little allowed two runs on two hits while walking five and striking out three. He hit one batter.

May was perfect in his stint, retiring all seven batters he faced. He fanned five of the seven that came to the plate.

Prestonsburg exploded for six runs in the bottom of the second inning for a 6-0 lead, sending 10 batters to the plate. Jarred McGuire had a bases loaded single, driving in one run. Delmar Ousley singled in a run but Smiley had the big hit, clearing the bases with a triple.

Little gave up a lead-off walk to Fannin to start the Paintsville third but retired the next two on a grounder and strike out. But he experienced some control problems and gave up a double to Cantrell, a walk and hit batter. May came on to fan Hyden to end the inning with the score 6-2.

Prestonsburg scored twice in the bottom of the third on a base hit by

Wicker, a walk and Shane Dingus' single.

The final Prestonsburg run came in the fifth on a lead-off walk to Justin Cantrell and May's triple.

Prestonsburg improved to 4-2 on the season.

Allen Central's Owens defends regional discus title; state meet next

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

One of the pleasant sports stories in Floyd County has to be the success of Allen Central's Ryan Owens. Owens, virtually an unknown in discus three years ago, has made tremendous strides the past two years and won his second consecutive regional discus title at the Class 2A meet at Leslie County.

But Leslie County seems to suit Owens because earlier this year he set a new stadium record at the facility with a toss of 135-feet. In the regional meet, he came close to that mark with a toss of 134-feet, good for first place. Owens' winning throw last year was 131-feet.

Owens will compete in the state meet for the second straight year in discus at UK's Shively Field. The state meet will be held today and Saturday. Owens is expected to throw Saturday morning.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Jeff Burton captured his third victory of the season, and first ever at Lowe's Motor Speedway, with a richly entertaining victory over Bobby Labonte in the Coca-Cola 600. Tony Stewart was a contender as well, but the strain of driving in both the Indy 500 and the Coke 600 eventually caused Stewart to slump to fourth, behind Mark Martin. Burton and Martin, both of whom drive for Jack Roush, were first and third. Labonte and Stewart, in Joe Gibbs-owned Pontiacs, were second and fourth.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Another impressive weekend for Martin began with yet another BGN victory in the CarQuest 300 at the 1.5-mile Charlotte tri-oval. Martin, who has never won the series championship, won for the 38th time in the series. That's seven more than anyone in history.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Tony Stewart vs. John Menard

It was Menard, Stewart's ex-Indy Racing League car owner, who unsuccessfully sued to prevent Stewart from competing in both the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600. Menard's car, driven by Robby Gordon, would have won at Indy had it not run out of gas just before the white flag.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion:

"Stewart wants to put his tiff with Menard behind him, but on a day in which the brilliant Winston Cup rookie finished in the top 10 in both events, one of his happier moments had to be when Gordon, in Menard's car, coasted to a halt. The failed gamble handed the 500 to Kenny Brack, who drives for A.J. Foyt, with whom Stewart is close."

PROFILE

Tony Stewart

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

The overwhelming favorite for Winston Cup rookie of the year pulled off another memorable weekend, competing in both the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600 on the same day. What's more, Stewart finished in the top 10 in both events, placing ninth at Indy and fourth at Charlotte.

Stewart also finished third in The Winston, the all-star event held the previous weekend at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Before coming to NASCAR, Stewart won three United States Auto Club championships (midget, sprint-car and Silver Crown) in the same season (1995), sat on the pole for the 1996 Indy 500 and was the Indy Racing League champion in 1997.

HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Columbus, Ind.

AGE: 28

MARITAL STATUS: Engaged to Krista Dwyer

CAR: No. 20 Home Depot Pontiac Grand Prix, owned by Joe Gibbs

FIRSTS: Start (Feb. 14, 1999, at Daytona), pole (April 18, 1999, at Martinsville), win (none)

CAREER STATISTICS: 12 starts, 1 pole, 0 wins, 3 top-five finishes, 5 top-10s, almost $700,000 in career earnings.

HOW DID BEING A WINSTON CUP DRIVER AFFECT YOUR PERFORMANCE AT INDY? "The nice thing about being in the Winston Cup Series is that it has trained me to deal with 500-mile races. Knowing the fact that I had to run 600 race laps, as opposed to 1,100 miles, my mind-set toward a longer race helped me relax a little more in the car ... and be more patient. Now that I have run a couple of 500-mile races, I know that I have to be patient at the beginning of the race to conserve myself physically, as well as the race car. It was a long day, more demanding physically than mentally."

DESCRIBE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DRIVING A WINSTON CUP CAR AND AN INDY RACING LEAGUE (IRL) CAR. "If you start out with the IRL cars you have the different wings and the underbodies. The turbulence of the air becomes a critical factor with the handling characteristics of the car. You need to know how to handle that going into the race. Your turbulence will be at the start of the race and since we were starting 24th, I had to be pretty careful. I think my experience in the last three years in IRL has prepared me for starting

Mike Hensley/NASCAR This Week

Tony Stewart talks with the media as he prepares to climb into his car prior to the start of the Coca-Cola 600.

that far back even though it is uncustomary for us. Dealing with the aerodynamics all day, you try to keep the car flowing in clean air because that is a big part of handling the car. When you switch gears and go to the Winston Cup cars, you have a lot of banking to hold the car, unlike IRL. When you are dealing with a 3,400-pound car, you are dealing more with mechanical grip than aerodynamic grip. You pay a lot more attention to the balance of the car."

ARE YOU SURPRISED AT THE AMOUNT OF SUCCESS YOU'VE HAD AS A ROOKIE?

"Absolutely. I am definitely surprised. The Winston Cup Series is so competitive, that to come in as a rookie, you just want to make the races and then complete them. If I had accomplished that goal as a rookie, that would have been a good season. To have the finishes we have had, and get the experience that we have had, we are surprised with where we are at. It is due to the race team, our great sponsor in Home Depot, and Greg Zipadelli as a crew chief. We have the key ingredients to make us successful."

Who's Hot... Who's Not

HOT: Jeff Burton, who put his Richmond woes behind him.

NOT: Still no top 10s this year for Johnny Benson.

Trackside Trivia

1. What Craftsman Truck Series driver works with children who are either in treatment or survivors of cancer?
2. Who was the only driver to win the Darlington spring race three years in a row?
3. What NASCAR driver's real name was Francisco Eduardo Menendez?

ANSWERS: 1) Randy Tolisma; 2) David Pearson; 3) Frank Mundy.

AROUND THE GARAGE

Stewart's double impressive, despite two failures

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

CONCORD, N.C. — In the end, Tony Stewart's double was a moral victory but a glorious failure.

At the end of the Coca-Cola 600, Stewart simply ran out of fuel, not in his No. 20 Pontiac but bodily. Stewart could have won the race, but the final 100 miles saw him fade badly to a fourth-place finish.

Stewart collapsed as he climbed out of his car and was rushed to the infield medical center.

"It was disappointing that Bobby (Labonte) lost a million dollars by a hundred feet, but I can't fault the effort of either of my drivers," said Joe Gibbs. "Tony had a great day. You can't fault his effort and the courage he showed."

ALL PETTY BLUE: In August, four Petty Enterprises vehicles will carry similar paint jobs into competition in three NASCAR divisions for a weekend commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Randleman-based family operation.

Petty Pontiacs driven by Kyle Petty and John Andretti will participate in the Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Saturday, Aug. 7. A few miles away, in Clermont, Ind.,

Indianapolis Raceway Park will host a Craftsman Truck Series event on Thursday, Aug. 5, and a Busch Grand National event on Friday, Aug. 6.

Jimmy Hensley drives a Petty-owned Dodge Ram truck, and Adam Petty drives Chevrolets and Pontiacs in Busch Grand National. All four vehicles will carry similar blue ("Petty blue" to race fans) paint schemes with gold trim.

MOORE FOR NADEAU: Veteran mechanic Newt Moore has joined Melling Racing to be "car chief" for Jerry Nadeau. Moore will work in tandem with crew chief Jeff Buice on the No. 9 Ford.

The Melling team was saddened by the death on May 29 of Harry Melling, 54, the team's owner and founder. Melling's son remains in primary charge of the race team.

THREE BY THE WAYSIDE:

Wednesday night's Charlotte qualifying session marked the first time all season that Tony Stewart, Dale Jarrett and Kenny Irwin did not take one of the 25 available first-round spots. Now only Mark Martin and Jeff Gordon can claim that distinction.

CREW OF THE WEEK

It's no small feat to qualify in the top 10 for your first Winston Cup race and then to finish in the top 20. Hats off to driver Dale Earnhardt Jr., crew chief Tony Eury Sr. and "car chief" Tony Eury Jr., who managed to lift their effort from the Busch Grand National level to Winston Cup with considerable aplomb. The crew competed successfully in both Lowe's Motor Speedway weekend events. Dale Jr. finished 16th in the Coca-Cola 600, three laps behind winner Jeff Burton.

County's road system map is being updated

For the first time in at least 10 years, Magoffin County is getting an updated county road system map.

Steve Howard, an administrative aide to County Judge-Executive Paul H. Salyer, and Road Supervisor M.J. Spurlock are accompanying state workers on a trek through Magoffin County to map roads. On the first three days of the project, they covered 91 roads.

All roads on the current county map, as well as other roads that may have been maintained by the county and cemetery roads, are being included in the survey. — The Salyersville Independent

Pot fields raided

Harvest time came early in Magoffin County recently when law enforcement officers combined to raid two separate pot fields and destroyed nearly 750 marijuana plants that would carry an estimated street value of maybe $800,000 or more, at full maturity.

Magoffin County Sheriff Pat Montgomery said the marijuana fields were discovered as the result of anonymous tips. The Magoffin County Sheriff's Department, Kentucky State Police and Salyersville Police Department were each represented in locating the illegal crops on Right Middle Fork and the Johnson Fork area.

The secluded field on Right Middle Fork yielded 721 plants, while 27 plants were discovered in the field on Johnson Fork. — The Salyersville Independent

Injured ATV rider survives the night alone on the trail

An injured Magoffin County man spent an entire night alone in a steady downpour on a mountain ATV trail before being rescued.

Ralph Rudd, 40, of River Road, was injured May 23 on Bee Tree of Oakley Creek, when the all-terrain vehicle he was riding reportedly slipped out of gear while he was attempting to ascend a steep incline. The ATV slammed into a tree.

Alone at the time, Rudd was unable to summon assistance and was forced to remain on the hillside trail and endure the elements for nearly 10 hours until help arrived the following morning.

As daylight broke, he reportedly commenced screaming for help until an unidentified person at a nearby residence heard his pleas and called 911.

Arson not dismissed in school fires at Phelps

Authorities are not ruling out arson in the two fires that destroyed the Phelps High School Day Treatment Center.

Bruce Hopkins, Pike County School System Communications Director, said Tuesday that the building was not completely destroyed in the first fire and that, apparently, an additional fire was set earlier this week. Both fires occurred at night.

The Phelps Day Treatment Center, established in November 1996, was the second of the Pike school district's "alternative" learning centers. The other is located at Shelby Valley High School. — Appalachian News-Express

Victim cancels hearing on day she was shot

A Phelps couple was apparently considering getting back together after going through divorce proceedings when the husband allegedly gunned down his wife last Thursday.

Franklin Avery Norman, 35, was arrested last Thursday at Kimper and charged with murder for the death of Kathy Norman.

Norman told police he had shot his 36-year-old wife approximately five times with a 357 Magnum as she walked toward their home at Calloway Branch. Norman gave police a taped confession.

After the shooting, a neighbor said the incident happened last Thursday afternoon after Franklin Norman returned home from work at McCoy-Elkhorn Coal Company. The couple began arguing, and the shooting happened minutes later.

According to court records, the couple separated in February 1998, less than two months before their 10th anniversary. They reconciled and lived together until around February 11, 1999, when they separated again, documents show.

They were scheduled to appear in Pike County Family Court on June 8 for a case-management conference but in an apparent attempt at reconciliation, Kathy Norman asked the court to cancel that conference last Thursday, the day she was killed. — Appalachian News-Express

Attorney general added to PMH suit

In the latest chapter of the continuing saga of Pikeville Methodist Hospital vs. the Kentucky Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, state Attorney General Ben Chandler has been added as a defendant in the case.

Pike Circuit Judge Eddy Coleman granted the Methodist Conference's motion to join the attorney general on Friday, overruling a motion from PMH's attorneys. — Appalachian News-Express

Turner gets 10 years

Lloyd Turner Jr. received a 10-year sentence Thursday in Martin Circuit Court for the May 2, 1998 armed robbery at the home of Earl Harmon.

The 18-year-old Inez man and his uncle, 20-year-old Donald Turner of Jackson, were charged with the armed robbery of Harmon's wife, Betty, and their six-year-old grandson, Mrs. Harmon had returned home at 1:30 p.m. and discovered a vehicle parked at the doorway of her home.

She and her grandson were immediately ordered to lay down at gunpoint by one of the armed men, refused, pushing her way into the home and keeping her grandson in front of her. She reached the front door, saw a car's headlights on the highway and scared the men off, saying her husband was arriving and "you're going to get caught." — The Mountain Citizen

County budget sent to Frankfort for review

After four unsuccessful attempts to reach a quorum, the Martin County Fiscal Court met Friday at noon, approving the paychecks of county employees and poll workers in last week's primary election and other items at the special meeting.

The court failed to reach a quorum at its regularly-scheduled meeting May 19. Three more attempts to hold meetings also failed when three of the magistrates were "no shows."

In a last-ditch attempt to pay employees, Lafferty called for another special meeting Friday at noon, Deputy Judge Garry Lafferty said county employees affected by the shutdown could still be paid if the court approved payment before the banks closed at 2 p.m.

Magistrate Darriell Mills expressed concern that the budget had been sent to Frankfort without approval by the fiscal court. The budget had to be passed in the form of an ordinance with a first and second reading. According to minutes of the April 28 meeting, the budget was introduced and the county conducted its first reading.

Lafferty said he "fully intended" to have the court vote on the budget at the regularly scheduled May meeting, which was canceled due to having no quorum as the three magistrates, one of whom was Mills, did not show up. — The Mountain Citizen

Convicted rapist gets 20 years

A Martin County man convicted of rape nearly a month ago was sentenced to 20 years in prison last Thursday in Martin Circuit Court.

Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier sentenced 43-year-old Robert Newsom of Inez, to 20 years for a first-degree rape charge and five years on a sexual abuse charge. — The Mountain Citizen

Man killed in wreck Sunday

A Morgan County man was killed in a one-vehicle accident about 11:15 p.m. Sunday on KY 1260 at Lost Creek. Dead is Ricky Pennington, 38, of Lower Sand Lick. Pennington was an employee of Addington Bros. Mining.

Police reports indicate he was traveling west on KY 1260 when he apparently lost control of his vehicle and ran off the left side of the road. Officers said Pennington then apparently over corrected, causing the vehicle to travel back across both lanes where it struck a guard rail and overturned, ejecting him from the vehicle. — The Licking Valley Courier

Police defuse bomb scare at grocery store

A Paintsville man was arrested without incident last week after he allegedly announced at a local grocery store that he had a bomb and was going to detonate it.

But when the Paintsville Police Department responded to Save-A-Lot last Tuesday afternoon and searched Carl E. Baldridge, who allegedly made the threat, all that was found was a box containing parts for a sink, according to police records.

Baldridge, 23, of Stafford Avenue, was arrested and charged with terroristic threatening and first-degree wanton endangerment.

The police citation indicates the incident occurred shortly after 7:30 p.m. when Baldridge was inside the grocery store "threatening to blow up (the) establishment and threatening store workers and (a) subject shopping." — The Paintsville Herald

Riders enjoy spring trail ride

After eight years of successful trail rides on the Cyprus-Amox property, the Blue Ribbon Horse Club and Knott County Tourism Association held their first spring ride last weekend.

Riders came from across the state — Louisville, Owenton, Lewis County and Pikeville, as well as Knott and surrounding counties. There were 106 horses involved in the event.

The weekend's activities included riding several trails of different lengths. Participants camped out Friday and Saturday nights. Live music added to the atmosphere on Saturday evening, and Keith Mullins' famous cooking was featured. — The Troublesome Creek Times

Community joins national effort

Morgan County's youth are scheduled to join thousands of community organizations across the county for Safe Night USA on June 5.

Safe Night, USA is a party planned by youth and adults with time to learn how to resolve conflict and alcohol. Morgan County's Safe Night is scheduled to begin in the Old Mill Park and conclude in the Community Center.

Portions of the event in Morgan County will be televised live on KET and WKYT Lexington Channel 27. The theme for the evening is "No drugs or alcohol, no weapons, no arguments."

Local residents are asked to turn on their porch lights Saturday evening as a sign of their support for the national effort. — The Licking Valley Courier in January, the Johnson County Fiscal Court received a welcome shot in the arm Thursday when two men convicted of bilking the county out of thousands of dollars repaid their debts in full.

Former county judge-executive Hobert Meade and Flat Gap auto broker Johnny Pennington have each paid their restitution in full over the past five weeks, adding an unanticipated $34,690.73 to the county's coffers. — The Paintsville Herald

Store manager chases thieves, helps cops recover stolen goods

Alice York, a store manager at Paintsville's Shoe Show, went the extra distance last Monday when she ran down an alleged shoplifter and helped lead police to the recovery of stolen merchandise from three Paintsville businesses.

Actually, the Paintsville Police Department recovered items allegedly stolen from two local businesses. York retrieved her store's alleged stolen merchandise when she caught up with the accused shoplifter in Wal-Mart's parking lot. — The Paintsville Herald

An architect provided projects updates to the Community Development Initiative Steering Committee and the public audience at a meeting held May 27.

Tom Weis, representing the architectural firm designing a new city hall/welcoming center, said that project is on schedule and "moving very fast." He predicted the construction of the building of the welcoming center will start in about three to four weeks.

Bill Weinberg, CDI committee chairman, said the program (description of the planned uses of space within a building, is finished for the Education Opportunity Center and schematic drawings will be submitted within the next eight to 14 days.

Weis said there will be a 150-seat main meeting room, Centernet, eight to nine offices, restrooms, production studio, and offices for county and other organizations. Morehead State University reportedly has also expressed interest in locating classrooms in the center. — Troublesome Creek Times

Blaine mayor resigns amid city's problems

Amid political bickering, a state investigation into prior administration and a petition to dissolve the city government, Blaine Mayor Cindy Steele has submitted her resignation.

Steele, 28, was elected this fall over incumbent Lenny Wheeler, but declined to comment on her reasons for submitting her resignation last month. The Blaine City Commission was expected to vote on her resignation Thursday night.

Earlier this year, a petition to dissolve Blaine's status as a city was circulated and gained enough signatures to appear on the November ballot. Voters in the city will then decide whether they want to keep the city government. — The Big Sandy News

Unemployment rate changes little from previous year

Unemployment rates in Lawrence County haven't risen much in the last year. However, they haven't fallen either. In April of 1998, 10.2 percent of Lawrence County's work force was unemployed. Recently the rates were as high as 11.6 percent (March 99), before falling again last April to 10.3 percent. — The Big Sandy News

A taste of the real world

The sign over the door said "Welcome to Reality Town," but the news many middle school students received last Tuesday was anything but welcome. It showed many of them that it takes a lot more money than they think to get by in the world.

The project, called the Reality Store, is a cooperative effort between schools and 4-H, as well as several local business, to show students what life is like once they have jobs and have to pay bills.

Students start by picking a career they are interested in, and before they enter the Reality Store they find out how much income their chosen field makes and then draw to see how many children they have. — The Big Sandy News

What's in a name

A crew worked Wednesday morning in light rain to cover up The Bank Josephine name with its new name, Citizens National Bank. At branch locations, new structural signs went up, but the task was not as easy at the Bank Jo's downtown Prestonsburg building where the name is, literally, etched in stone. The bank, named for the late Josephine Harkins, was a mainstay of the local economy for 108 years. It was bought by the Paintsville-based Citizens National Corporation in 1997. ## Floyd retires

PCC president going to Harvard

by Pam Shingler
Editor

After presenting part of her report and winding down an information-filled and fairly routine meeting, Dr. Deborah Floyd said she had something else to add and announced her retirement as president of Prestonsburg Community College at last night's Board of Directors meeting.

Floyd, who came to the college eight years ago, said she had been approved for a sabbatical — typically a year of study — effective July 1 and for her retirement, effective November 15.

She said her immediate plans "include attending Harvard University this summer to study executive management." She said she had applied to Harvard last winter and was accepted several months ago. She added her sabbatical request was approved by the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) "a couple of weeks ago."

Apparently, the board members had already been told of Floyd's intention to leave the college because a resolution affirming their support of her work was read by board member Bob Hutchison.

Dr. Deborah Floyd

The lengthy resolution included the provision that she be named "President Emeritus" and the request that a future building be named for her.

Floyd, who is only the second president in the college's 35-year history, gave each of the board members a crystal star paperweight engraved with the University of Kentucky/PCC

SSI a little late

According to Jim Kelly of the Social Security Administration, Prestonsburg office, some Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks are a day late. If anyone has not received a check by today, call the Social Security office at 606/886-8144.

Hindman gets water money

The City of Hindman is getting a $500,000 Community Development Block Grant to renovate its water treatment plant, reopen a raw water well, make distribution system improvements, and incorporate an existing 120,000-gallon storage tank into the city's water system. In announcing the grant, Gov. Paul Patton said the project will address deficiencies in the city's water system. Hindman Water serves 480 customers.

Magoffin couple tops in foster care

A Salyersville couple is on the list of the state's outstanding foster parents — 16 individuals or couples cited by the Cabinet for Families and Children at a ceremony at the Kentucky Horse Center on May 18. Mike and Gail Griffith have cared for 30 foster children, including children with severe medical problems and other special needs, during five years as foster parents. They also have three birth children and one adopted child and are preparing for the adoption of two sisters. They were singled out among foster parents in the Big Sandy Region and were presented a Regional Service Award.

Employment down

Bucking the statewide trend, unemployment rates were higher in the Big Sandy region in April than they were last year at the same time, according to statistics from the Cabinet for Workforce Development. In the recently released figures, the five-county region had an unemployment rate of 8.1% in April of this year, 1.1% higher than April of 1998. In Floyd County, unemployment was up by 1.1%, from 6.6% last April to 7.7% a little over a month ago. Unemployment was also up in Johnson (.7%) and Magoffin (.6%), but down in Martin (3.2%) and Pike (1%). In neighboring Knott County in the Kentucky River district, the unemployment rate was up 3.4% from last April to this year.

Superintendent candidates here next week

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Next week will be jam-packed for the Floyd County Board of Education as members interview four candidates for the position of superintendent.

The four rose to the top from among 35 applicants whose files were examined by a board-appointed screening committee, with help from the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA).

One of the candidates has local ties, two are from Kentucky, one is from Alabama and one from Iowa. Three have doctoral degrees, and one is a commander with the Kentucky National Guard. All have extensive experience as superintendents.

Interviews are slated for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. at May

Lodge of Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. The reception for the public will be from 4 to 5 p.m.

The interviews with the candidates will be done in closed session.

Each candidate's visit begins with a meeting with State Manager Woodrow Carter, who has also been serving as interim superintendent since December. Central office staff will then meet with the candidate.

Lunch with principals from the northern segment of the school district will be followed by a cou-

Parents burn ballots in site base election at South Floyd High School

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Parents at South Floyd High School burned the ballots Tuesday night after they deemed a site-base election for two parent representatives had been conducted unfairly. The election was the second attempt to fill the posts. The first election was held in May and won by Liz Sparkman, an employee of Worldwide Equipment, a company headed by Floyd County Board of Education Chairman Terry Dotson.

The second election was held Tuesday and the votes were burned before a winner could be determined and after parents had been allowed to vote for only one candidate — not two.

After the first election, parents protested that an announcement of open nominations had not been

Mining company seeks permission to landfill at Ivel for coal byproducts

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Lodestar Energy, which operates mines in Pike and Floyd counties, has applied for a permit to build a landfill for coal byproducts on Ivy Creek Road in Ivel.

A news release from the state Division of Waste Management says Lodestar, which has operations on Ivy Creek, expects the proposed landfill to accept "combusted coal byproducts," such as fly ash and bottom ash.

However, Barney Walker, a member of the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission and an environmental activist, said no such landfill is in the five-year solid waste plan which the county had to submit to the state last year.

"If the state goes ahead and issues a permit, they are bypassing (the local) ordinance," Walker said.

That ordinance, according to Walker, states that any wasting facility has to come before the Solid Waste Commission and/or the Floyd County Fiscal Court and a public hearing has to be held.

"If the state issues (a permit), then Floyd County doesn't need a solid waste plan, which it required us to have," Walker said.

Howard's new video will debut on CMT

A new video by Salyersville native Rebecca Lynn Howard, 20, will debut on CMT's Delivery Room on June 9. The video, "When My Dreams Come True," will air on the show, which runs at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 10 p.m., June 9.

Floyd Countians can watch the show on Inter-Mountain Cable and Big Sandy Cable Company Cablevision, though, does not offer CMT.

Howard's single and her album will be released later. She is signed with MCA

Elections

advertised, resulting in a limited number of candidates. Only three candidates had been nominated, according to James Rodney Johnson, a parent and a current candidate for the council.

Johnson said he knew the vacancy was coming up — parent representative Don Sparkman's two-year term expires and Joe Stewart is no longer eligible because his child graduates this year. Johnson said he wanted to run for the council seat and had watched the newspaper for an announcement of the election.

Regulations regarding site-base elections require that notification of elections be advertised, according to Jack Gray, manager of the School Council Development Branch of the Department of Education.

The elections are supposed to be controlled by parent-teacher organizations, but South Floyd High School apparently doesn't have an incorporated group.

Gray said when there isn't an official parent-teacher organization, the principal gathers the parents together for a meeting and that group determines when the elections will be held.

Parents have protested South Floyd High School Principal Debbie Daniels' role in the election

and have alleged that she unofficially campaigned for Sparkman at the parent meeting by praising Sparkman's participation in various school events.

"I don't think that's probably ethical, but not illegal," Gray said. "I would not recommend it."

Daniels did not return a call from The Times by presstime Thursday to respond to the allegation.

After the first election was voided, a new election was scheduled and nominations were again open. James Rodney Johnson, Liz Sparkman, Betty Tackett, Mike Hall and Debbie Engle were nominated.

The election date was advertised, but it stated that the polls would close at 6 p.m. Parents had planned to keep the election open until 7 p.m., Johnson said. The election was rescheduled with the 7 p.m. closing time.

Approximately 128 people voted in Tuesday's election, compared to the 43 votes cast in the first election.

At Tuesday's election, parents were told by facilitator Nadine Hicks that they could only vote for one candidate, according to Johnson. He said Hicks had apparently misunderstood a recommendation by the parents to let the top vote-getter serve the two-year term vacated by Sparkman and the second top vote-getter to serve the one year term vacated by Stewart.

"Nadine must have read that as voting for one person," Johnson said.

Jack Gray said there are no statutes to address the issue of the number of votes allowed by each person, but he said it is "always custom to have two votes" when there are two vacancies.

"If you have two vacancies to fill, ... each person should have been told to vote for two. They had five to choose from. They could have voted for one," he said.

When candidates and parents expressed concern that lack of the second vote by parents could have changed the election, Daniels apparently called Gray about how to handle the situation. Gray apparently told her to seal the box of ballots until parents could determine if they wanted to conduct a third election.

Someone suggested counting the ballots before they were sealed, but that caused disagreement, according to Johnson.

"I said, 'If you're not going to count them, then you've got to destroy them,'" he said. Gray said that was "probably the best thing to do."

"Call it a mistake ... Go back to the point where you made the mistake and start from there. The mistake occurred when the parents were told to vote for one candidate ... There's no use bringing up what happened ... When you start counting votes, you're stirring up animosity," he said.

Gray said parent groups need to cooperate with their principals in scheduling dates for the election.

"Parent groups need to be aware of potential problems (regarding the school schedule) and decide based on that information," he said.

The election for the parent representatives is scheduled for Tuesday, June 8.

Johnson said Wednesday that he planned to file a formal complaint with the Office of Education Accountability that evening. Johnson said he wants the state to oversee the election.

"There's so much animosity right now, I think we can't agree (on how to conduct the election,)" he said.

He added that parents had told him they could have voted "30 times" if they had wanted because a stack of 200 to 300 ballots were on a table for parents to pick up. The only identification required by parents is an initial beside their children's names.

Only parents with children who will be attending the high school next year were eligible to vote, according to Gray. Only parents of eighth grade, freshman, sophomore, and juniors could vote. Parents of seniors are not eligible, Gray said.

Calls to the Office of Education Accountability to see if a complaint had been lodged about the election were referred to Dr. Ken Henry, who did not return the calls Thursday.

ple of hours visiting in schools.

A reception at which community members are invited to meet the candidate is set for 4-5 p.m. each day.

The candidates and a synopsis of their qualifications:

• Lawrence (Larry) Woodrow Allen is a native of Martin, with a BA from Morehead State University and Master of Science and Doctor of Education degrees from the University of Tennessee. From his start as a math instructor at Olive Hill High School, he has steadily risen professionally. He was named last year as a monitor, assigned by the state Department of Education, for the Pike County School System, which has had some problems similar to Floyd County.

Allen retired in 1998 as superintendent of Jessamine County Schools and previously served in the same capacity at Paducah Independent Schools and Caldwell County Schools in Princeton. He has directed the Statewide Facilitator Project in both Kentucky and Tennessee, has worked with Title IV for the state, and was associate director of the Clinch Powell Education Cooperative in Tennessee.

Allen has worked in education since 1966 and has been involved in several educational associations. He won the KSBA's Dupree Award in 1997.

• James M. (Mike) Davis has been superintendent of Knox County Schools in Barbourville since 1995 and from 1987 to 1995 headed

Barbourville Independent Schools. He was a principal at Barbourville Independent from 1976 until his promotion to superintendent. He taught in grades five through eight in Knox County for four years.

Davis earned a bachelor's degree at Cumberland College, master's degree at Union College, and Rank I certification for school superintendent at Eastern Kentucky University.

He has been affiliated with the Kentucky National Guard since 1971, rising to his present post as Commander of the 238th Training Brigade. He has also been active in professional organizations and received the Superintendent's Leadership Award from the Kentucky Education Development Corp. last year.

• Paul Walton Fanning is superintendent for the Alexander City (Alabama) Board of Education, a position he has held since 1983. He was assistant superintendent for the Talladega County Schools from 1977 to 1983 and has been a teacher, assistant principal and principal for Madison County Schools in Huntsville, Alabama.

Fanning was director of the Alabama General Assistance Center for the College of Education at the University of Alabama, as well as adjunct assistant professor of educational administration at the university, in the 1970s.

He earned a bachelor's degree at Athens College, master's at Samford University, and Doctor of Education at the University of Alabama, along with a certificate of advanced study in guidance and counseling at UA-Birmingham. He received the 1997 Outstanding Superintendent Award given by the University of Montevallo and has served on a number of professional association boards.

• David J. Scala has been superintendent of Keokuk Community School District in Iowa for seven years. Over the period 1977 to 1992, he was superintendent for community school districts in Indianola, Glenwood, Griswold and Baxter, Iowa, and was "shared superintendent" for Baxter and Mingo Community School Districts.

At the start of his career, he taught science and social studies and was a coach. He was also junior high and elementary principal in Colfax, Iowa.

Scala has a PhD in educational administration from Iowa State University, Specialist in Education from Drake University, bachelor's and master's degrees from Northeast Missouri State University, and an associate degree from Centerville Community College.

On his list of administrative accomplishments, he includes establishment of a learning center for dropouts and potential dropouts, initiation of a before and after school child care program, development of a shared decision making process, establishment of a performance-based pay plan for teachers and administrators, and establishment of a middle school alternative program.

appeared perplexed Wednesday afternoon. A man who worked for Lodestar said he had not heard of plans for a landfill.

As one coal truck after another hauled coal from several mining operations along the dusty creek road, one woman remarked that, with a landfill, trucks will be taking out coal and bringing in ash.

The application from Lodestar is available only at the Division of Waste Management office in Frankfort and then by appointment only. Further, to see an application, a citizen must submit a written request at least 72 hours before the desired review date, according to the division news release.

The Times is going through the Kentucky Press Association News Bureau to get a copy of the application, but it could not be available until today.

Persons wishing to review the application in Frankfort may contact Maria Wood at the Division office, 14 Reilly Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601-1190. She will accept written requests by fax, 502/564-9232.

The deadline to comment on the application or to request a public meeting is Monday, June 28, which is the close of the 30-day public comment period, according to the news release. Comments can be sent to Rob Daniell, Division Director, at the Reilly Road address.

Howard

Records.

Howard has been fine tuning her singing and songwriting talents in Nashville for the past couple of years. She does backup singing with John Michael Montgomery and her song, "Love Is Our Business," is listed on sticker on the front of Montgomery's CD.

Reba McIntyre and Patty

Loveless are in the process of recording two of Howard's songs. McIntyre is recording "If Hearts Could Talk," and Loveless is recording "Don't Paint Myself A Corner."

Howard sang with Bryan White on an animated movie version of Tom Sawyer that will be released this fall. She also sang "Softly and Tenderly" on the movie soundtrack with some top name performers for Apostle. That soundtrack won a Grammy. Howard sang that song at a recent performance at the Mountain Arts Center at a Kentucky Opry reunion.

She is the daughter of Judy and Ken Howard of Salyersville.

Addressing continues to plague 911 system

by Willie Elliott
 Staff Writer

Address changes/verification and road names for 911 addressing continue to present problems for the Floyd County 911 Advisory Council.

Chairman Jim Caldwell said 130 Floyd County roads have been mapped and addressed, with 70 of those entered into the computer and verified. Caldwell said he didn't know how many addresses this accounted for, but he estimated it to be about 900.

After Caldwell explained what work Jodi Hall and her two workers have completed, Hubert Puckett from Abbott Creek said he was having problems with his mail because of so many addresses. He said the post office had informed him that his mail would be stopped if he did not change his address.

Puckett is using a Highway Contract (HC) address. Postmaster Edith Risner said anyone using an HC address should get a 911 address. Risner said some mail coming to an HC address will be sent back. She said the best solution is for everyone to use one of the 911 addresses.

Anyone who has not been notified of a final 911 number should not make changes to the numbering on mailboxes until the final notification comes from 911, according to Caldwell.

When the mapping is completed, the numbering will be on an odd/even basis. The houses on the right from point of origin will have even numbers and those on the left will have odd numbers. For example, if you go up Abbott Creek off US 23 all the house numbers on the left should be odd and all those on the right should be even. Any address that does not follow this pattern now will be changed.

Caldwell said houses that were off just a few feet would not be changed, but added if they were off enough for a structure to be built in between, a change would be necessary — usually by one number.

Gary Dotson, from Prestonsburg 911, said it is important that people put their 911 number on the structure, or if the structure is far from the road, he suggested landscaping signs that point to the house.

"Let the emergency service people know where you are," he admonished, adding that if mailboxes are used, the 911 numbers should be placed on both sides of the mailbox.

Road signs and lack thereof are causing some problems. Daniel P. Gullett from the Left Beaver Rescue Squad said some of the information coming up on the screen is from enhanced 911 and is not correct. He said his crew ended up calling the number back in one instance to get directions to the house. He added that this method takes too much time to be practical.

Caldwell said the road signs come through the fiscal court, and he does not know when they will be erected. He did say that once a sign is put up, it will be the correct 911 name for that road or street. Streets with two or more names are causing emergency crews problems.

Bill Dotson said the fire, ambulance and police departments should have a session on map reading once the maps are released. He said he "didn't want to insult anyone" but many people, including some in these departments, needed information on reading maps. "On your way to an emergency situation is not a time to find out you can't read the map," Dotson said.

Caldwell asked P. R. Long from Appalachian Wireless to make appointments with each of the departments to check on the condition of pagers. Long made several appointments for this week and next to check the pagers. Long also told the departments he had some pagers to give until pagers are returned from being repaired.

Terry Triplett from the Garrett Fire Department said he has a listing of landing sites for helicopters, but the sites are not on Healthnet's list and are "useless." At present, the only sites in Healthnet's records are McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Caldwell said he would provide a list with the paging number for each of the Floyd County departments at the next meeting, which will be on July 7.

SOUTH FLOYD HIGH SCHOOL ELECTION OF PARENT MEMBERS TO THE SBDM COUNCIL

Will be held on Tuesday, June 8, 1999, from 2-7 p.m., in the school lunchroom. Parents/guardians will be casting two votes for the two positions. The candidate receiving the greatest number of votes will serve a two-year term, and the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes will serve a one-year term.

Any parent or guardian of a child enrolled at South Floyd High School or parent of an incoming student may vote to elect the parent council members.

Extend UK Extension

A couple of mountain leaders are pushing a revolutionary concept: The Extension Service should help rural landowners grow and market vegetables.

This may not strike the casual observer as all that revolutionary. In a tobacco state like Kentucky, why wouldn't the Extension Service help small farmers learn how to produce something new?

But anyone familiar with the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture understands. Before Sen. Benny Ray Bailey and Dr. Grady Stumbo try to drag Extension agents out to creek-bottom tomato patches for strategizing against mold outbreaks, the pair of Hindman Democrats should take on something easy, like curing cancer or ending world hunger.

OK. We're exaggerating.

But only a little.

The UK Extension Service is ill-equipped and/or unwilling to assist growers who want to raise and sell produce.

County agents know about tobacco and cattle and soybeans. But few have the expertise to assist vegetable growers. Agents who make the effort to help their county's farmers with something new like raising and selling vegetables, risk marginalizing themselves with the Extension Service. And, if, heaven forbid, the project flops, the agent risks being branded with that failure forever.

Innovation doesn't stand a chance in such a climate — even though rural Kentucky needs innovation in the worst way.

UK's Extension Service must improve its ability to nurture small-scale innovation and help farmers learn how to market new products. If UK's not up to the challenge, Kentucky State University's small-farm experts would be.

Kentucky's leaders must help the Extension Service change to meet the needs of rural Kentucky. Bailey and Stumbo could be especially helpful.

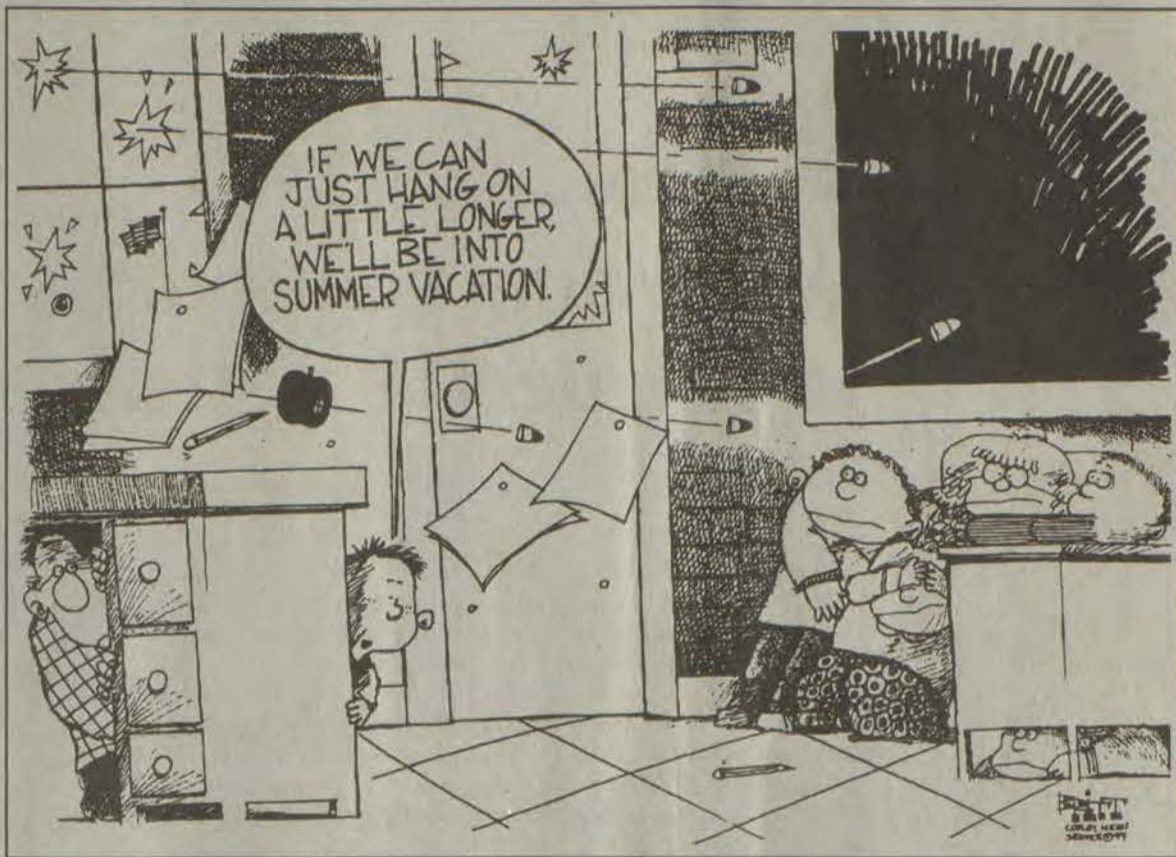

As chairman of the Senate appropriations and revenue committee, Bailey should bring financial pressure and resources to bear. Stumbo should use his position on the UK board of trustees to push for changes in the Extension Service.

The two apparently arrived at this issue via the prisons springing up in Eastern Kentucky. Bailey and Stumbo hope prisons will become customers for locally grown produce, perhaps re-igniting interest in agriculture in coal-mining areas where farming has all but died out.

To that end, Bailey has in mind another change that would be a boon to the rural economy statewide. He wants to revise purchasing laws to give special consideration to Kentucky-grown produce when state parks, prisons, schools and other agencies are buying food. This is a terrific idea; the General Assembly should do it next year.

Editor's Note: For the record, the Extension Service in Floyd County has worked diligently with small farmers on projects ranging from chickens to apple orchards to bees and more.

A leap forward for genealogy

A human family tree has branches stretching back into the dim past. People who want to inspect the interconnections of those branches up close — genealogists — now have an exceptional new resource.

Members of the Mormon Church travel the world to research their ancestors and other people as part of their religious practice. The church has been gathering data for a century and has assembled an archive of genealogical data second to none, with information on two billion people from all over the world.

Recently, church officials inaugurated a Web site, www.family-search.org, that contains information on 400 million of those people. In the next two years, the church expects to add another 600 million names from 110 countries.

The collection of names is an awesome accomplishment in itself, but the treasure of information it opens to genealogical researchers is priceless.

The listing encourages a sense of continuity and

connectedness in the human beings who are alive today.

Each man, woman and child has two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, 16 great-great-grandparents and on and on. Each ancestor is an individual who slept and ate, talked with friends, felt the sunshine and perhaps even thought about his ancestors, too. People are connected with others in ways they can only imagine.

The trace of life begins with each individual and stretches into history, each person building on the genes and the past of the people who produced him. The family of man is enormous, both in its numbers and complexity.

If the Mormon Church's archive can stir an interest in the past, if users can get a hint of the wonderful diversity of the human species, then it will have fulfilled more than its genealogical purpose. It will have helped connect people with the richness and depth of their heritage as human beings.

The four athletes to make Life magazine's 1990 list of the "100 Most Important Americans of the 20th Century" are Muhammad Ali, Billie Jean King, Jackie Robinson, and Babe Ruth.

One more time for TBJ

Not meaning to beat a dead horse, I have The Bank Josephine fresh in mind again because the name was officially "retired" this week. Jo has thrown in her shares and joined the Citizens National Bank.

H.D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick was accepting, but you could tell at Wednesday's name-change ceremony that he was sad. After all, he was affiliated officially with the bank for more than 40 years, and, in fact, it was like family since he is kin to the original Josephine Harkins.

Jimmy Goble, who has worked here at The Times for most of his 80 years, has his own Bank Jo story.

His son, Edward, was encouraged to save his money and open a savings account at the local bank when he was a boy. After he had saved his coins and small bills over some time, he decided he wanted to check on his money, to make sure, Jimmy says, that the bank was taking good care of it.

Jimmy walked with his son to the distinctive old building on Front Street. They went up to Bill Arnold Spradlin, the bank's long-time teller, and, after waiting their turn in line, Edward told Spradlin, "I'm here to see my money."

Without losing a beat, Spradlin picked up a couple of handfuls of bills from the cash drawer and ruffled through them. "There it is," he said.

Edward was quiet at that moment, but he looked perturbed.

"What's wrong, son?" Jimmy asked. "That's not my money," the young man blurted.

"What do you mean? Of course, it's your money," the father said.

"No," said Edward, "I didn't have any twenties."

Jimmy swears the story is true, but the man does love to tell a good story.

Today, banks are so big we know our money's probably not there, at least not in the form we gave it. Plus, we do much of our banking without any actual money changing hands.

But that's all right with me. Money slips through my fingers anyway — always has — with very little staying long in pocket or bank account.

One last Bank Jo item and I'll stop.

There's apparently a possibility the old bank headquarters building on Front Street will be home to the central office of Floyd County Schools.

Dennis Dorton, president of Citizens National, said the fate of the sleek, classical-style building has not been decided. He did say, however, that transfer of the bank building to the school board is a subject under discussion.

Let's hope the discussion proves fertile. The central office has to leave its present substandard building, which has already been sold. The alternative that has been made public is to use the old Martin Elementary School building.

The Martin site has some drawbacks, including being in a major flood plain — and it's a good chance there'll be another flood or two before the not-entirely-realistic proposal to remove the city to a drier location goes very far.

The Martin building also will likely require renovations to meet the needs of the system's administrators. That means money that would be better spent on instruction.

The Bank Jo downtown building is — in a word — beautiful. (In fact, it may be logo. She noted that as of July 1, PCC will no longer use the UK logo and will adopt a new one denoting its affiliation with KCTCS.

She said the paperweights "will likely become collector items."

She used the star to look back

at the college's "ambitious" STAR campaign, which she said aimed to "shoot for the stars," and pointed to new buildings, new programs, and the college's involvement in the community.

"Moving forward with the next chapter of my life will be filled with fond memories of the Appalachian Mountains and the wonderful people I have learned to love in this Big Sandy Valley," she read from a prepared statement.

"As the college moves forward, I ask you to continue your support of PCC and to lend your support to KCTCS, in whatever ways you deem appropriate. Your service is needed to help lead this college through the future changes facing PCC as a part of the new KCTCS," she said.

An audit of the college released last week by the state

auditor was critical of the college's management, adding that the staff was "polarized" and that "continuing discord ... is symptomatic of an ineffective control environment." A fuller report of the board of directors meeting will be presented in Wednesday's edition of The Times.

Prestonsburg High school students paint JWT 1999 wall mural

It's summer once again, and with the help of some Prestonsburg High School (PHS) art students, Jenny Wiley Theatre (JWT) has its 1999 wall mural ready for a season of magic under the stars.

The art students from PHS created colorful depictions of Grease, The Legend of Jenny Wiley, Oklahoma, and Pinocchio for the 1999 mural. This is the first time students from a local school have participated in the creation of the wall mural.

Now in its third consecutive year, the wall mural at JWT has become a major part of the summer season. Under the direction of PHS art teacher Ellen Trimble, the students spent many hours perfecting their masterpiece.

"We are really proud of the students from Prestonsburg High School, and we are glad to exhibit the work of our local artists," Jenny Wiley Theatre CEO Carla Coburn said.

too beautiful for some of the ugliness that has historically been seen in the school system.) The bank building goes back to the early part of this century, but is at the same time thoroughly modern.

And what an impressive statement the transfer would make. It would represent business's growing and positive interest in schools, it would mean the school system headquarters remains in the county seat, and it might portend a more quality-oriented, cost effective atmosphere in the Floyd County School System.

I hope Josephine would have liked that.

The calendar says you have been gone a year,
But each of us always feels you near.

Our hearts are sometimes heavy,
But our spirits are always light,
Because we know in God's loving arms
You are safe and happy, secure in His might.
Jesus will return one day
Then we will all be together.
We will live in peace and love
With Him forever.

Until we meet again,
We love you
Billie and Hubert

Blackcat coach looking for reasons for decision

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

The most successful boys' basketball coach in recent years for Prestonsburg High School was told earlier this week he would not return to the helm of the school's basketball program. Coach Jackie Pack said the only reason he was given was that "it was best for Prestonsburg."

School principal Coy Samons informed Pack of his decision not to rehire him this past Monday. Pack said he was surprised about the notification.

"He really didn't give me an answer, only that it was best for Prestonsburg," Pack said. "Even as late as last week I was told I would be back."

Pack has been head coach the past four seasons. It was well documented the problems Pack had last summer when he was relieved of his duties at the local high school because of "improper conduct" allegations. Then-interim superintendent Mike King fired Pack from his position last year as both coach and teacher. Pack won a victory in the courtroom and was reinstated by the court.

"I asked Mr. Samons to give me a reason, just one legitimate reason, and he only said it was best for Prestonsburg," Pack said. "That is all he would say. Best for who? The politicians, doctors, businessmen. It is certainly not best for the kids."

Principal Samons was contacted at the high school. He preferred not to comment on the situation until after Thursday night's site base council meeting.

The drama unfolded, according to Pack, when on May 6 the site base council made a unanimous decision to rehire all the school coaches for next season.

"Mr. Samons told me on May 7, it was all over, 'you are the coach,'" Pack said. "Somewhere in the neighborhood of May 21, Mr. Samons decided to post all coaching positions, but again tells me everything is okay, he's just covering himself."

Pack said that on May 27 the posted list had only one name for the job of head basketball coach at the school and that name was his. But things soon changed.

"The listing had been up for a week. I checked the list at 1:30 and my name was still the only name," he said. "At 2 p.m. of that day, it had five names, meaning four other people were added between 1:30 and 2 p.m."

The action to hire all coaches back, made at a previous site base council meeting, according to Pack, was rescinded on a motion made by baseball coach Russell Shepherd.

"On Monday (May 27), Mr. Samons called me in and told me that I would not be recommended by him as coach of basketball or golf next year."

Brooke Coleman collected three hits and drove in two runs to back up the two-hit pitching of Brandi Slone as the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats posted a 7-5 win over the Lady Eagles of Johnson Central. The Lady Blackcats will return finals of the regional softball tournament.

Kimi Nunnery had two hits in the win and picked up one RBI.

Coach Bridget Clay, wearing number seven on her jersey, paced the sidelines in the seventh inning as Slone struggled with her control, allowing Johnson Central to score twice to make it a 7-5 game. Slone got Jamie Goble on strikes to start the seventh but issued back-to-back walks to Kim Taylor and Brianna Daniels. Both runners moved up on two wild pitches and scored on Sheena Scott's two-run single.

After walking Amanda Griffith and with runners in scoring position, Slone got Rachel Doderer to pop out and struck out Megan Hall to end the game.

Coach Clay's team grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first inning. After Slone struck out the side in the Johnson Central first, senior Shelly Greathouse singled with one out, stole second and Amelia

Harris bats P'burg past Cougars

by Ed Taylor

Coach Russell Shepherd's Prestonsburg Blackcats got a strong defensive performance and some timely hitting from Kaln Harris to eliminate the Elkhorn City Cougars in the men's 15th Region baseball tournament at Johnson Central Wednesday night.

Grant Castle went the first five innings for the Blackcats before giving way to Harris in the sixth inning. Harris had three doubles and drove in two runs in Prestonsburg's 8-1 win. Senior Adam Hall had a two-run single in the game.

Castle struck out six batters allowing no runs on just one hit. Harris gave up a run to the Cougars in the sixth inning on three hits.

Prestonsburg's defense, which had struggled of late, committed only one error against the Cougars.

Prestonsburg missed a scoring opportunity in the first inning putting runners at second and third with no one out. Russ Music and Adam Hall drew consecutive walks but were left stranded when Runyon retired the next three in order.

The Blackcats did get on the scoreboard in their half of the second with two runs to assume a 2-0 lead. Harris doubled with one out. Hank Mullins walked and both runners scored on Hall's two-run single.

Prestonsburg's lone error came in the second when Elkhorn put two runners on base against Castle but was left stranded.

In the Prestonsburg third, the Blackcats made it a 3-0 game on a walk to John Ortega and Jon May's single.

Castle retired Elkhorn in order in the fourth. It was a 4-0 game after Prestonsburg batted in the sixth. Seth Crisp led off the inning with a base hit to left field. Harris singled to left sending Crisp to third. He scored on Gabriel Shepherd's sacrifice fly to right field.

The Cougars avoided the shut out with a run in the bottom of the sixth. Harris allowed three straight singles by the Cougars.

In the Prestonsburg seventh, the Blackcats scored four times with two runners coming home on Harris' two run double, his third of the game. Castle, Ortega and May had hits in the inning. Ortega had a double.

Castle was robbed of a hit in the second inning when he hit fly ball to right field was hauled in on an outstanding play by Ratliff.

around, replacing the popular Gordon Parido at the helm. Pack, in his first year, brought the Blackcats a conference title, district championship and regional tournament appearance. The last time Prestonsburg had won a district tournament was in 1984.

Under Pack's guidance, Prestonsburg won three district championships, made four regional tournament appearances, and reached the regional finals once.

Under Coach Pack,

Prestonsburg was 29-6 against county teams. Packs overall record in his four years at Prestonsburg was 70 wins and 38 losses. He was named Coach of the Year three times.

Pack, who coached basketball at Wheelwright, was moved to Allen Central after Wheelwright and McDowell consolidated to form South Floyd High School. Pack started as an assistant to Johnny Martin at Allen Central. In his second year at the Right Beaver school, Pack stepped aside as an assistant and took the Prestonsburg job.

While at Wheelwright, he built the Trojans into a county and regional contender, and won the heart of Trojan fans and players.

Coach Pack felt he was betrayed in the decision at Prestonsburg.

"When a person tells you, you are going to be hired back, which I was told on a number of occasions, and that abruptly changes, I just don't understand. I want to understand. I want reasons why for the decisions. I put my whole life in this stuff," he said.

"My record speaks for itself," Pack added. "What more could I do to prove myself. I have had winners everywhere I have been. I have one losing season in the 22 years I have coached basketball and that was at a junior college (St. Catherine's)."

Coach Pack felt there were others involved in the decision not to bring him back this coming season.

"There are people in town who want to run this show out here," he said. "There are a lot of people in this town who don't like Jack Pack because Jack Pack runs his own show."

Pack said others tried to influence him in whom he should play but said he would never yield to their pressure and played whom he felt was best for the team.

Pack had plans to take

Prestonsburg to summer camps and was planning a basketball camp of his own. The practice had to stop and the camp will not be a reality.

"It's not going to end here, I'm not going to let it," he said, but did not explain what steps he plans to take to protest the action.

Pack said he was told, however, that he will retain his teaching position at the school.

Coleman

Conley followed with a base hit.

Coleman was hit with a pitch to load the bases and Nunnery singled up the middle, scoring Greathouse. Margaret Damron made it 2-0 with a RBI single and Megan Hyden drew a bases-loaded walk to score Coleman with the third run in the inning.

Johnson Central made it 3-1 with a run in the top of the second. The run scored on what has been a problem all season for Slone, walks and wild pitches.

Slone walked Sheena Scott to open the Lady Eagle second. After she stole second, two wild pitches put her at home with the first Lady Eagle run.

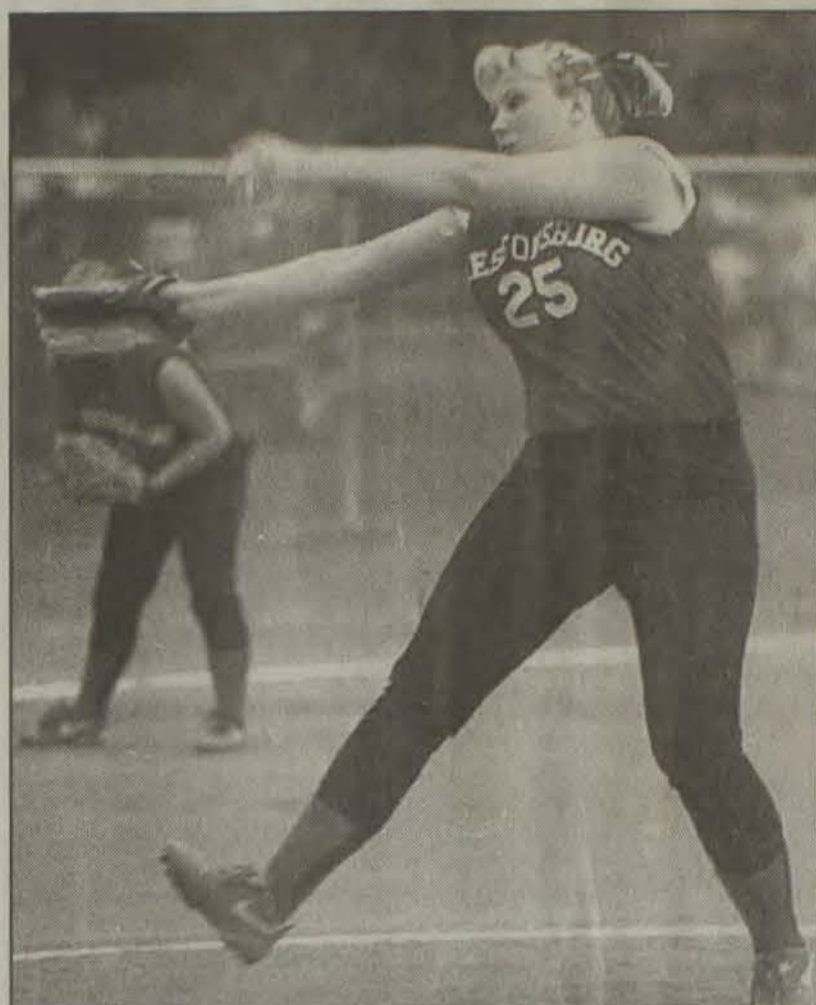

Daniels, who started for Johnson Central, kept the Lady Blackcats off the base paths in the second and third innings. In the fourth, the Lady Eagles made it a 3-2 score with a run. Again it was a lead-off walk to Scott, a stolen base and two wild pitches that allowed Scott to score.

Prestonsburg took a run back in the bottom of the fourth. With two out, Greathouse was on with a fielder's choice and scored on Coleman's RBI double.

Johnson Central added a third run in their half of the fifth for a 4-3 game. But Prestonsburg came back with three of their own in the sixth to make it a 7-3 affair. Coleman collected her third hit of the game and drove in a run. Nunnery had her second hit in the inning.

Slone, in picking up the win, struck out 14 batters and walked 10.

Prestonsburg improved to 20-10 on the season and faced Pikeville in the regional championship game.

Girls' regional finals rained out at Pikeville

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The championship game of the girls' 15th Region softball tournament was halted after three and half innings because of rain this past Wednesday night.

The game was called in the top of the fourth inning with Pikeville at the plate with two out and Prestonsburg leading 4-3.

The game was to resume from the point of being called. Because of the postponement, the game will be reported in Wednesday's sports section.

Allen leads Drift Astros past Martin Rangers

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Scott Allen collected three hits and drove in five runs to lead the Drift Astros past the Martin Rangers 13-6 in the Floyd County Bambino League at Minnie Park. Allen had a double and two singles in the game.

Shawn Mosley hurled five and two-thirds innings to pick up the win. He fanned seven batters while walking an equal number.

Mosley left the mound when Martin struck for four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Josh McKinney started for Martin and suffered the setback. He hurled the first two innings allowing eight runs. He struck out four. Fredo Domandoingez followed McKinney to the mound and went two innings with three strikeouts. Ryan Hammond was the third pitcher for Martin, pitching the fifth and sixth innings.

Martin had four hits in the game and all four were for extra bases. Hammonds had two doubles. Jordan Hale doubled and Jarred McKinney had a two-bagger.

John Mullins collected two doubles for Drift while driving in two runs. Andrew Lafferty collected a double and two runs batted in.

"Andrew is a dandy", Drift coach Clinis Hall said. "He is something to watch. He has to be the best catcher in our league."

Drift improved to 7-2 on the season and will meet the Martin Reds at the Minnie Park tonight for a doubleheader.

A look at sports: Who will guide the Blackcats?

But first this...

I was very touched by the presentation of a plaque from the Betsy Layne Lady Cats basketball team this past Tuesday. I was invited to their banquet Monday, but was unable to make it.

So, Tuesday the plaque was brought to me here at the paper and from the depths of my heart, it was like someone had given me the key to the city. Just to know someone appreciates the little things I do. The negative comments seem to always be the order of the day. But to Coach Cassandra Akers and the Lady Cats' basketball team, from an old boy who has covered an awful lot of basketball games and has received several state awards, this one is the best. Thank you very, very much. You all are great and I hope you have a great season this winter!

With the news that Coach Jack Pack will not return to the hardwood at Prestonsburg next season (Have we been here before?) the question is, who will guide the Blackcats when the 1999-2000 season begins in December?

Top two contenders connected with the job as applicants are Harold Tackett and Jackie Day Crisp. Crisp has been successful in guiding the Lady Blackcats the past two seasons and took his team to the regional finals last year in only his second season, winning the 58th District tournament at South Floyd.

Tackett coached the girls' program for four seasons and was instrumental in turning the program into one of the top regional contenders.

Now they both are looking to move up to the boys' program. But I am not so sure taking the boys' team would be a move up. The Lady Blackcats will carry a regional top ranking in the preseason when they bounce the ball come October 15 when practice starts.

The boys' program will be hit hard by graduation and will be in a rebuilding stage. Applying for the girls' job were Bobby Hamilton, Bobby Hackworth and Bridget Clay. Clay coached Prestonsburg for six seasons before losing her job to Tackett. Clay is an all-star in her own right and knows the game. Hackworth was an assistant with

Coach Jack Pack two seasons ago and did not coach last year. Hamilton has been on the girls' coaching bench under both Tackett and Crisp for the past four years.

How will it all turn out? Well, that will depend on the site base council at Prestonsburg (which met Thursday night). Coach Pack did a great job over the past four years and it seems last summer's court battle is carrying over in determining his not being rehired.

However, I wonder why Ashland Gearheart was not considered for the girls' job? Now, those who have applied for the job are good candidates. I know each one and have the highest respect for them. But Ashland has paid his dues in the grade school ranks and has proven he can coach. While the other candidates have been there, Ashland deserves a shot at it. I don't know if Ashland applied for the position or not. From what I have been told, he didn't. But he sure would have made a good one.

Belfry's Ramanda Music keeps reaping outside awards. By the way, I look for Music to be playing basketball in Floyd County next season! That's just the way I feel. Another note: no, she is no relation of mine but just a great kid that is deserving of all the recognition she gets.

Sources tell me that Harold Tackett has applied for the head boys' coaching job at Betsy Layne. You know, a person cannot come in and turn a program around in one or two years. They need more time than that.

I think Tim Rice has done a good job at Betsy Layne and needs another year to get things on the winning side. This business of bringing in a new coach every season is ridiculous. I have nothing against Harold Tackett and he knows that. He and I are very good friends, but I think folks should be given a chance and Tim deserves another year or two.

Look at what is happening with basketball at South Floyd. It is musical coaches. The boys' program went through it and the girls' program is experiencing it. It appears that Henry Webb has settled into the boys' job and the Raiders are going to have to be reckoned with next season. But the girls' coaching job continues to be a joke: changing each year. I know, many of the folks up Left Beaver are upset over it all.

What appears to be happening to us is who is mad at you and who is not; who is wanting their man and who is content. I am not much of a fan of the site base councils. Now, they are good folk but I think any decision to hire and fire should lie where it belongs and that is with the board of education. Site base councils do not take the politics out of it, and never will.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

HAP Little League Results

DODGERS VS ASTROS, "B" TEAMS

The Allen Astros farm team collected seven hits but the Harold Dodgers had zero as Scott Little hurled a no-hitter in shutting out the Dodgers 16-0 in a three inning game.

James Lafferty collected three hits for the Astros and had four RBI's. Lafferty blasted two home runs in the game and tripled in the third inning.

Little had two hits, including a two-hit third inning home run. Tyler Layne and Tyler Blair had one hit in the win.

Lafferty hit a two-run home run in the first when Allen scored five times. He duplicated the feat in the second going to right center.

Layne's only hit was a home run in the second.

ASTROS VS DODGERS, "A"

TEAMS

Nathan Lafferty was a thorn in the side of the Harold Dodgers in Little League play at the Allen Park. All Lafferty did was go a perfect four-of-four from the plate, blast a grand slam home run and drive in eight runs to lead Allen to a 22-3 mercy win over the Dodgers.

Matt Johnson collected four hits in the game and drove in four runs. Buddy Conn also had four RBI's for the Astros. Brent Combs and Logan Clark had two RBI's apiece. Combs was the winning pitcher for the Astros.

Tommy Bradley collected two hits for the Dodgers, including a third inning double. Mason Rivers hurled two innings for the Dodgers in absorbing the loss. Rivers had a single for the Dodgers. Harold Ruth, Kyle Hall and Jody Click collected a hit apiece.

Smiley, Wicker collect two-hits in 9-2 win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Kenny Smiley and Kyle Wicker collected two hits while John Little and Greg May combined for a two-hitter for the Prestonsburg Reds in a 9-2 win over Paintsville in senior league play at Archer Park Monday evening.

Little got credit for the win in hurling the first two and two-third innings. May pitched the final two and a third. Little allowed two runs on two hits while walking five and striking out three. He hit one batter.

May was perfect in his stint, retiring all seven batters he faced. He fanned five of the seven that came to the plate.

Prestonsburg exploded for six runs in the bottom of the second inning for a 6-0 lead, sending 10 batters to the plate. Jarred McGuire had a bases loaded single, driving in one run. Delmar Ousley singled in a run but Smiley had the big hit, clearing the bases with a triple.

Little gave up a lead-off walk to Fannin to start the Paintsville third but retired the next two on a grounder and strike out. But he experienced some control problems and gave up a double to Cantrell, a walk and hit batter. May came on to fan Hyden to end the inning with the score 6-2.

Prestonsburg scored twice in the bottom of the third on a base hit by

Wicker, a walk and Shane Dingus' single.

The final Prestonsburg run came in the fifth on a lead-off walk to Justin Cantrell and May's triple.

Prestonsburg improved to 4-2 on the season.

Allen Central's Owens defends regional discus title; state meet next

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

One of the pleasant sports stories in Floyd County has to be the success of Allen Central's Ryan Owens. Owens, virtually an unknown in discus three years ago, has made tremendous strides the past two years and won his second consecutive regional discus title at the Class 2A meet at Leslie County.

But Leslie County seems to suit Owens because earlier this year he set a new stadium record at the facility with a toss of 135-feet. In the regional meet, he came close to that mark with a toss of 134-feet, good for first place. Owens' winning throw last year was 131-feet.

Owens will compete in the state meet for the second straight year in discus at UK's Shively Field. The state meet will be held today and Saturday. Owens is expected to throw Saturday morning.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Jeff Burton captured his third victory of the season, and first ever at Lowe's Motor Speedway, with a richly entertaining victory over Bobby Labonte in the Coca-Cola 600. Tony Stewart was a contender as well, but the strain of driving in both the Indy 500 and the Coke 600 eventually caused Stewart to slump to fourth, behind Mark Martin. Burton and Martin, both of whom drive for Jack Roush, were first and third. Labonte and Stewart, in Joe Gibbs-owned Pontiacs, were second and fourth.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Another impressive weekend for Martin began with yet another BGN victory in the CarQuest 300 at the 1.5-mile Charlotte tri-oval. Martin, who has never won the series championship, won for the 38th time in the series. That's seven more than anyone in history.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Tony Stewart vs. John Menard

It was Menard, Stewart's ex-Indy Racing League car owner, who unsuccessfully sued to prevent Stewart from competing in both the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600. Menard's car, driven by Robby Gordon, would have won at Indy had it not run out of gas just before the white flag.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion:

"Stewart wants to put his tiff with Menard behind him, but on a day in which the brilliant Winston Cup rookie finished in the top 10 in both events, one of his happier moments had to be when Gordon, in Menard's car, coasted to a halt. The failed gamble handed the 500 to Kenny Brack, who drives for A.J. Foyt, with whom Stewart is close."

Tony Stewart

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

The overwhelming favorite for Winston Cup rookie of the year pulled off another memorable weekend, competing in both the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600 on the same day. What's more, Stewart finished in the top 10 in both events, placing ninth at Indy and fourth at Charlotte.

Stewart also finished third in the Winston, the all-star event held the previous weekend at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Before coming to NASCAR, Stewart won three United States Auto Club championships (midget, sprint-car and Silver Crown) in the same season (1995), sat on the pole for the 1996 Indy 500 and was the Indy Racing League champion in 1997.

HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Columbus, Ind.

AGE: 28

MARITAL STATUS: Engaged to Krista Dwyer

CAR: No. 20 Home Depot Pontiac Grand Prix, owned by Joe Gibbs

FIRSTS: Start (Feb. 14, 1999, at Daytona), pole (April 18, 1999, at Martinsville), win (none)

CAREER STATISTICS: 12 starts, 1 pole, 0 wins, 3 top-five finishes, 5 top-10s, almost $700,000 in career earnings.

HOW DID BEING A WINSTON CUP DRIVER AFFECT YOUR PERFORMANCE AT INDY? "The nice thing about being in the Winston Cup Series is that it has trained me to deal with 500-mile races. Knowing the fact that I had to run 600 race laps, as opposed to 1,100 miles, my mind-set toward a longer race helped me relax a little more in the car ... and be more patient. Now that I have run a couple of 500-mile races, I know that I have to be patient at the beginning of the race to conserve myself physically, as well as the race car. It was a long day, more demanding physically than mentally."

DESCRIBE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DRIVING A WINSTON CUP CAR AND AN INDY RACING LEAGUE (IRL) CAR. "If you start out with the IRL cars you have the different wings and the underbodies. The turbulence of the air becomes a critical factor with the handling characteristics of the car. You need to know how to handle that going into the race. Your turbulence will be at the start of the race and since we were starting 24th, I had to be pretty careful. I think my experience in the last three years in IRL has prepared me for starting

Mike Herndill/NASCAR This Week

Tony Stewart talks with the media as he prepares to climb into his car prior to the start of the Coca-Cola 600.

that far back even though it is uncustomary for us. Dealing with the aerodynamics all day, you try to keep the car flowing in clean air because that is a big part of handling the car. When you switch gears and go to the Winston Cup cars, you have a lot of banking to hold the car, unlike IRL. When you are dealing with a 3,400-pound car, you are dealing more with mechanical grip than aerodynamic grip. You pay a lot more attention to the balance of the car."

ARE YOU SURPRISED AT THE AMOUNT OF SUCCESS YOU'VE HAD AS A ROOKIE?

"Absolutely. I am definitely surprised. The Winston Cup Series is so competitive, that to come in as a rookie, you just want to make the races and then complete them. If I had accomplished that goal as a rookie, that would have been a good season. To have the finishes we have had, and get the experience that we have had, we are surprised with where we are at. It is due to the race team, our great sponsor in Home Depot, and Greg Zipadelli as a crew chief. We have the key ingredients to make us successful."

Who's Hot... Who's Not

HOT: Jeff Burton, who put his Richmond woes behind him.

NOT: Still no top 10s this year for Johnny Benson.

Trackside Trivia

1. What Craftsman Truck Series driver works with children who are either in treatment or survivors of cancer?
2. Who was the only driver to win the Darlington spring race three years in a row?
3. What NASCAR driver's real name was Francisco Eduardo Menendez?

ANSWERS: (1) Randy Tolisma; (2) David Pearson; (3) Frank Mundy.

AROUND THE GARAGE

Stewart's double impressive, despite two failures

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

CONCORD, N.C. — In the end, Tony Stewart's double was a moral victory but a glorious failure.

At the end of the Coca-Cola 600, Stewart simply ran out of fuel, not in his No. 20 Pontiac but bodily. Stewart could have won the race, but the final 100 miles saw him fade badly to a fourth-place finish.

Stewart collapsed as he climbed out of his car and was rushed to the infield medical center.

"It was disappointing that Bobby (Labonte) lost a million dollars by a hundred feet, but I can't fault the effort of either of my drivers," said Joe Gibbs. "Tony had a great day. You can't fault his effort and the courage he showed."

ALL PETTY BLUE: In August, four Petty Enterprises vehicles will carry similar paint jobs into competition in three NASCAR divisions for a weekend commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Randleman-based family operation.

Petty Pontiacs driven by Kyle Petty and John Andretti will participate in the Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Saturday, Aug. 7. A few miles away, in Clermont, Ind.,

Indianapolis Raceway Park will host a Craftsman Truck Series event on Thursday, Aug. 5, and a Busch Grand National event on Friday, Aug. 6.

Jimmy Hensley drives a Petty-owned Dodge Ram truck, and Adam Petty drives Chevrolets and Pontiacs in Busch Grand National. All four vehicles will carry similar blue ("Petty blue" to race fans) paint schemes with gold trim.

MOORE FOR NADEAU: Veteran mechanic Newt Moore has joined Melling Racing to be "car chief" for Jerry Nadeau. Moore will work in tandem with crew chief Jeff Buice on the No. 9 Ford.

The Melling team was saddened by the death on May 29 of Harry Melling, 54, the team's owner and founder. Melling's son remains in primary charge of the race team.

THREE BY THE WAYSIDE:

Wednesday night's Charlotte qualifying session marked the first time all season that Tony Stewart, Dale Jarrett and Kenny Irwin did not take one of the 25 available first-round spots. Now only Mark Martin and Jeff Gordon can claim that distinction.

CREW OF THE WEEK

It's no small feat to qualify in the top 10 for your first Winston Cup race and then to finish in the top 20. Hats off to driver Dale Earnhardt Jr., crew chief Tony Eury Sr. and "car chief" Tony Eury Jr., who managed to lift their effort from the Busch Grand National level to Winston Cup with considerable aplomb. The crew competed successfully in both Lowe's Motor Speedway weekend events. Dale Jr. finished 16th in the Coca-Cola 600, three laps behind winner Jeff Burton.
