FLOYD COUNTY
The Times

Serving Floyd County since 1927

After Shawna Haywood expressed concern over the condition of the flag that flew over Prestonsburg High School, students in Carolyn Stout's English III class made a plea to Principal Coy Samons for a new flag. Woodmen of the World then donated a large, new flag to the school. In a recent ceremony, the students displayed the flag and then hoisted it up the flag pole. It was an appropriate gesture, because Monday is Flag Day. Run up your own flag and salute. (photo by Ed Taylor)

MAC will be Meyer-less

by Pam Shingler
 Editor

The man who has taken the Mountain Arts Center from construction to opening to its growing acclaim as a regional entertainment and education center is ready to turn the job over to someone else.

Bob Meyer, who has managed the MAC since January of 1996 when it was still under construction, is resigning to take a position with Community Trust Bank in Pikeville.

Calling his job with the MAC a "positive and challenging experience," Meyer said yesterday that he will begin on July 12 working with the regional bank's expansion of its small business loan program.

"Strange as it sounds, I'm going to be a banker in about a month," Meyer said. "From a personal perspective, it makes a lot of sense to me. I think it's the right decision for me and my family."

He alluded to the long hours associated with working at the arts center, which under his leadership has managed to attract national stars and to draw an increasing number of educational and community programs.

The director said he hopes to take a few days off before he takes the Pikeville job, but he will stay at the MAC to get the transition process started.

Meyer intends to remain involved with the MAC. The board of directors of the Kentucky Opry has already designated him to be its representative on the MAC Management Commission.

"I have too much of myself invested in this place to give it up," he said. Community Trust Bank (formerly Pikeville National), he said, encourages employees to be involved in com-

Near-drought conditions in area

Times Staff Report

Despite some sporadic showers this week, the Big Sandy region is experiencing "moderate to severe drought conditions," according to the National Weather Service in Jackson.

Only 2.47 inches of rain fell at the Jackson weather station during the month of May, the third lowest amount on record for May.

Eastern Kentucky, according to the weather service, is "at the high end of the moderate drought category."

Floyd County's rainfall expert, Lon May, who is also coordinator of Disaster Emergency Services, said Wednesday he was "not aware of any crop damage as yet." But he added, "We do need rain."

An advisory from the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet said that throughout the Bluegrass and southeast Kentucky, not enough rainfall has been received to replenish normal stream flow and to fill reservoirs.

Present conditions, the cabinet announced, are more typical of September and October, the state's driest months.

At presstime yesterday, local firefighters were trying to stop a forest fire on Abbot Creek. The fire had raced up the hill before it could be put out at the base, and several units had been called in.

Bob Hackworth of Beaver Elkhorn Water District said yesterday that the water level at the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River is "pretty low." Beaver Elkhorn gets its water from the river at Allen.

"It's not at the critical point yet," Hackworth said, "but if we don't have a good rain by this time next week, it will be critical."

Seven water systems in the central and eastern part of the state have reported some degree of water shortage, according to the state's Division of Water. Magoffin and Menifee counties in this region are among the seven.

The division has the following recommendations for residents to conserve water:

- Don't worry about the lawn. It

Security hired to stop students' 'pranks'

by Willie Elliott
 Staff Writer

Prestonsburg Police rounded up crickets Wednesday at Prestonsburg High School that had apparently been released as the latest prank at the school.

Floyd County Schools' Interim Superintendent Woody Carter has used the latitude that the board gave him in matters of security to hire Thunderbolt Security of Allen to provide security to Prestonsburg High School during the last days of the school year.

Prestonsburg City Police will also patrol the area on a regular basis.

Carter said that in light of last year's "pranks" that resulted in damage to the school, he felt the system should be proactive rather than reactive.

Principal Coy Samons said he worked with Carter on the arrangements and said he was in total agreement with the plan of action being taken.

Samons, referring to the over $7,000 damage that was done to the school last year, said the plan certainly was a cost-effective measure.

Carter said he wanted students and parents to know that the system was on the alert for any incidents that would cause harm to either students/staff or school property. He said law enforcement officials would be on hand to deal with anyone who causes any such harm.

Thunderbolt officials have been patrolling the school from closing in the afternoon until 6 in the next morning.

The last day of school for Prestonsburg was yesterday (Thursday) and graduation is set for tonight.

Housing help on the way

About 20 households in Floyd, Letcher and Knott counties will get help with water and septic systems and housing repairs, thanks to a $50,000 grant from the state Department of Local Government and Kentucky Appalachian Housing Fund. The money, according to US Senator Jim Bunning, originates with the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Bryan White's concert at the Mountain Arts Center this past weekend was energetic and "definitely entertaining," according to one concert-goer, who at the age of 27 said White made her feel like a young girl with a crush. "He has been featured in '16' magazine, Teen, and Tiger Beat, all of which I read as a teenager. I just about caught myself looking under my bed to pull (one of the magazines) out when I got home from the show." (photo by Tammi Jo Hatfield)

Sentencing postponed

The sentencing hearing, originally set for June 9, for Andy Mitchell has been rescheduled for July 2 in Circuit Judge Danny Caudill's courtroom. Mitchell, 54, pleaded guilty this spring to the shooting death of his estranged wife, Billie Jo Mitchell, at her Ivel home in 1997. In the plea agreement, Commonwealth's Attorney John Earl Hunt agreed not to ask for the death penalty and, instead, recommended that Mitchell be given life in prison for the murder charge and concurrent sentences for charges of rape, burglary and stalking.

Woman fined in school skirmish

A Melvin woman was found guilty of harassment — a misdemeanor — in an incident that occurred in December at Osborne Elementary School. Teresa Faye Moore was fined $125 and court costs of $86 in a jury trial in District Judge James Allen's court, for her actions toward teacher Colleen Johnson. The incident happened shortly after Principal Paul David

The first Floyd County Safe Schools Benefit Concert, which raised over $7,000, used talent from all regions of the county to produce the May 21 show.

In the message from the interim superintendent, printed in the front of the program, Woody Carter wrote: "During the past month we have been exposed to a lot of negative media coverage about today's youth. Tonight you will see on display only a sample of the wonderfully talented and gifted kids that we have and quickly realize that they are a limitless resource for our future."

The show consisted of 31 acts, listed below.

Local student receives scholarship to Georgetown College

Georgetown College has awarded Chandra Short a Trustee Scholarship and a Pastor's Christian Leadership Scholarship for the 1999-2000 academic year.

Short, a graduating senior at South Floyd High School, will be a freshman at Georgetown during the Fall 1999 semester. She is the daughter of Quention and Debra Short of McDowell.

Located 12 miles from Lexington, in the heart of the Bluegrass, Georgetown College is a four-year, private liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention. The college has been named by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top 159 national liberal arts colleges. Founded in 1829, the college is dedicated to its role as an innovative community of scholars developing ethical scholars committed to its heritage of Christian discernment. Dr. William H. Crouch Jr. is the 23rd president of the college, which has an enrollment of more than 1,500 undergraduate and graduate students.

Helpline to help senior citizens with legal issues

A toll-free telephone line has been established to help Kentucky senior citizens with legal issues.

The Legal Helpline for Older Kentuckians was established by the Access to Justice Foundation and the Association of Older Kentuckians. These groups received a three-year grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Administration on Aging to establish the Helpline service. The Cabinet for Health Services' Office of Aging Services supported the grant.

The toll-free number is 1-800-200-3633. It is answered Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. EDT, and serves Kentuckians 60 years old and older.

"Individuals needing more extensive services will be referred to a volunteer attorney or to a local Legal Aid agency," said Jamie Hamon, the foundation's executive director. She said that questions not connected to legal issues will be answered by volunteers or referred to benefits counselors in local areas.

Topics that may be covered include health care access, Medicaid, Medicare, long term care, living wills, exploitation or abuse, and consumer matters.

Academic team wins honors

The Pikeville College Academic team completed the 1998-99 season in the last tournament of the year at Cumberland College in Williamsburg.

Division II of the Pikeville College Academic team took first place honors for the second time this season. The team defeated Georgetown College in the championship match after losing during regular play. They also were victorious against Murray State University, Cumberland College, Transylvania University, and Western University.

Division II was awarded the second place trophy in the Kentucky Collegiate Quick Recall League (KCQRL) for the overall season, behind Georgetown College. Transylvania came in behind Pikeville College for the third place position.

Division I came in fourth at the tournament, defeating Western, Shawnee State and Eastern Kentucky University, but losing to Murray and Campbellsville. Division I was ranked fifth in the entire league.

Drought—

- Don't worry about the lawn. It may go dormant during periods of low rainfall, but it will come back.
 - For outdoor plants, if you water, water deeply (at least one inch) once every five to seven days. Don't water when the wind is high or in the middle of the day, and water the ground, not the air and the pavement.
 - If feasible, hold rinse water from dishwashing and bathing and use that "greywater" for watering plants.
 - Minimize car washing. If you do wash your car, park it on the grass to benefit the lawn. Wet down the car, turn off the hose, wash, and then turn the water back on to rinse.
 - Take shorter showers.
 - Don't let the water run while brushing teeth or washing dishes.
- Hackworth with Beaver Elkhorn also urges people with swimming pools "to hold up on filling their pools" until the drought conditions ease up.
- An added advisory from the Division of Water is to make sure that pets and farm animals have a steady source of water.

W'wright leaders work on drains

by Laura Bowers
Contributing Writer

Wheelwright City Commissioners called a special meeting Tuesday night to discuss the location of old, broken down drains and how to fix the problem.

Water shoots down hills, into garages, and onto gardens during heavy storms, Wheelwright resident Glen Thornberry said. The damage, at times, can be severe, he said, and several other residents have complained.

Commissioners Jimmy Little, Marlee Sammons and Don "Bootie" Hall, together with City

Attorney Tim Parker, met with Thornberry and quickly and agreeably decided that the city could locate and fix an old drainage system without damaging individual property rights. Little got out an old map, the commissioners looked at it, and they quickly pinpointed one of the problems on 79 Hill.

Parker said he suggested the meeting be called so that the city could begin working to solve the clogged drainage system before more damage occurs. He invited further citizen discussion on this matter that, he said, will take more time and more money to resolve.

Sadie Marie Cabrera, will celebrate her fourth birthday June 20th. She is the daughter of Liz Cabrera of Bourbon, Indiana. Her father is Domingo Cabrera III of Plymouth. She is the granddaughter of Marilyn Hackworth Owens of Bourbon, Indiana and Douglas Owens of Bremen, Indiana. Her paternal grandparents are Domingo Cabrera II of Plymouth and Mary of Plymouth. She is the great-granddaughter of Charles and Irene Robinson and the late Alex and Ruth Hackworth, and great-great-granddaughter of Liza Hull Hamilton.

Helicopter pilot dies in Pike

A 51-year-old Owensboro man died Tuesday when the helicopter he was piloting hit high voltage electrical lines and crashed at a Branham and Baker Coal Co. surface mine near Dorton in Pike County. According to Kentucky State Police, Charles J. Helms Jr. had just dropped off some passengers and was ascending from the site. He was pronounced dead at the scene. The incident is being investigated by KSP Detective Terry Thompson, Trooper Luke Vanhoush and members of the Federal Aviation Administration, US Mine Safety and Health Administration and Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals.

Pike case sent to Floyd

Pike Circuit Judge Eddy Coleman has ruled that a court case involving Pikeville Methodist Hospital and the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Church will be moved from Pike to Floyd County. The hospital filed suit in March to ask the court to clarify its relationship with the Methodists, after which the conference counter-filed alleging conflicts of interests and asking that Walter May be removed as chairman of the PMH board.

School systems win awards

Ninety proposals involving 125 Kentucky school systems were approved for funding this week from the Center for School Safety. They share $4 million in state funds for projects ranging from alternative classrooms for disruptive students, security officers in schools and violence prevention training. School systems in this district whose proposals were funded include Lawrence County ($109,250) and Magoffin County ($64,882).

Greene is national award winner

The United States Academy announced recently that Tommy Greene of Prestonsburg, who attends the Piarist School, has been named a United States National Award Winner in the following categories:

Listed are those categories and the recognition of each teacher:

Student Council, by Mr. Rose; Honor Roll, by David Powers; English, by Ms. Bradley; Foreign Language, by Ms. Kelly; and Science, by David Powers.

Tommy Greene

These awards are prestigious honors very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. "Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Tommy Greene is the son of Tom and Virginia Greene of Prestonsburg.

Allen named All-American Scholar

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Shane Douglas Allen from Minnie,

has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or higher, grade point average. Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA. Allen, who attends South Floyd Middle, was nominated for this national award by Paul Cline.

School, Allen will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, which is published nationally.

He is the son of Stanley and Rita Allen from Minnie. His grandparents are June Allen of Minnie, and Dorothy DeRossett of Printer.

munity activities. Meyer, who lives at Blue River, served during 1995 as interim Floyd County Judge-Executive after the death of John M. Stumbo and until the election of Ben Hale.

He was programs director for the Big Sandy Area Development District for 10 years. His responsibility there was primarily in the area of economic development, which ties closely with his new job. In addition, he was co-owner of a construction company for about five years, giving him experience in small business operation.

In the bank position, Meyer said he will act as liaison with the Small Business Administration and will work to encourage area residents to take advantage of opportunities to start their own businesses.

Meyer said he will formally submit his resignation during a special meeting of the MAC Management Commission on Tuesday and will help as the search for his replacement gets underway. "I still believe 110 percent in what the Mountain Arts Center is about what its potential is," he said.

CONGRATS, GRADS

It's that time of year, the time when we wish the best to young people who are being graduated from high school. We trot out the clichés, we cry easily and we grin a lot.

We won't put tear drops on the page and you can't tell if we're grinning, but we can come through with some of those old sayings that are meant to congratulate, to encourage and to support.

Such as ...

•— Follow your dream.

If you don't have one, sit down and think one up, and then go for it. Close your ears to the people who make fun of you, whether it's your sibling, your uncle, your best friend, your neighbor or whoever.

Years from now, make it a point to look them up and wave your degree or your race car trophy or your business license or some other proof of your accomplishments in their face. Say, "Thanks for giving me this challenge."

•— Climb every mountain.

This one's oddly appropriate here. Sometimes, climbing the mountain is the only way to get where you want to go. But not always and not necessarily. Sometimes, you can go around the mountain, and, who knows, you might enjoy what you'll find on the journey. Then, there are times when you follow the example of the road builders — just lop off the top.

For goodness sake, though, don't just sit around at the base, afraid of trying to get over the top, sinking in your own fear and inertia. We are all surrounded by mountains — literally and figuratively — and we have to conquer them before we can move forward, and seldom do we find anyone who can or will carry us across.

•— Remember your roots.

Amen. You have a much richer heritage than most people have been willing or able to tell you. Find out more and relish it. Be proud of where you came from and prouder still of where you're going.

At the same time, don't let your roots get tangled up and smother you to death. By all means, do get above your raisin's. Be better, learn more, see more, do more than your parents. Remind them, if you have to, that the best things they can give you are roots and wings.

•— Be self-sufficient.

Learn everything you can. Do everything you can for yourself. Wash your own clothes, cook your own food, sleep by yourself with the light off. Make your own money, read your own books, formulate your own philosophy, think your own thoughts, dream your own dreams.

Be able to live totally independently, and then if someone wants to help you, allow them to.

•— Give back.

Using what your family, your teachers, your neighbors have given you, make it big. Accomplish much. Succeed. Win. Do right.

Thank everyone you can think of who has helped you — before they die. Then, do for other people what these people did for you. Tutor a child. Coach a community softball team. Speak to a class. Hire a student. Write a check.

PARENT SPEAKS UP FOR COACH

Editor:

Just when I thought I had heard it all, I pick up the Floyd County Times sports section (June 4 issue) to read they are not rehiring Jack Pack as head coach at Prestonsburg High School. Don't Mr. Pack's professional background and leadership mean anything to the basketball program?

In the last five years, look what this one individual has produced in the basketball program. Look at what fine young men have gone on to further their athletic careers. This has been under the supervision of Jack Pack.

I have watched him on many occasions with his basketball program, and you can tell he really got the best out of all his players. And the players have the utmost respect for him. I would have loved for this man to have coached my own son for four years.

This man has had a struggle for the last year, and he won his rights back in a court of law. If this is a political move, then I would suggest that Mr. Pack be hired at Betsy Layne High School where he could possibly bring a program to this school.

I figured that Coy Sammons would love to have Tim Rice under his roof at Prestonsburg High School. For the last five years, Coach Rice has been coaching a "young" team that never seems to grow up. After five years, it looks like a program should be off the ground enough to produce a basketball program.

... I sometimes wonder where the basketball program at BLHS would be today if they had allowed Keith Henry to remain coach. Now, this was a man who could gain respect from the players and control his team the way he wanted, not how politics wanted it. I respect this man for what he instilled in my own son. But politics won over.

Is this what parents want for their children? I would hate to think of what would have become of Chase Gibson if his parents had not sent him to Pikeville High School. He would probably still be on the bench at Betsy Layne, trying to gel with the team.

If we had more people like Jack Pack, Danny Adams (Magoffin County) and Keith Henry to guide our children, I can't imagine what would come out of our school systems. I realize that the first priority in the school system is academics, with the athletic program to follow, but how can we maintain a good program with politics always playing a major role? We can't.

Then, parents wonder why children turn out the way they are. As long as you keep a child in the gym or on the baseball field, there is little room for getting into other things. I believe in Jack Pack. I've seen with my own eyes what kind of professional he is on the basketball court, and, again, I would have loved for my son to be under his direction on the basketball floor.

So many times, I've seen Coach Pack take out a player and take the time to talk with him and pat him on the back. That stays with a child for many years, versus throwing a chair or jerking one up by the jersey. I vote for Jack Pack to stay at PHS.

WRITERS APPRECIATE DR. FLOYD

Editor:

We wish to extend our voice of appreciation to Dr. Deborah Floyd for her years of service to Prestonsburg Community College and to endorse the resolution set forth by the PCC Board of Directors.

She has earned the title of President Emeritus by her eight years of service to the college in that role, and it would be fitting that a future building be named in her honor.

During her tenure as president of Prestonsburg Community College, Dr. Floyd has brought innumerable advancements, both in innovative teaching and learning techniques and in health initiatives for the college and the community.

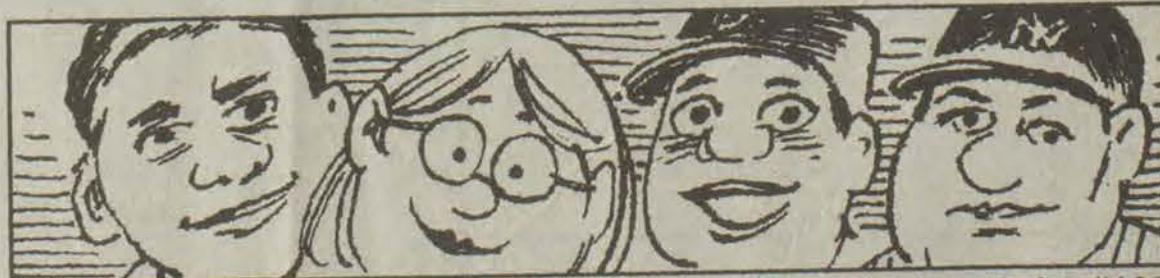

The Health Clinic, which she, in conjunction with the University of Kentucky, established on the campus, was the first of its kind in the United States. This will be a lasting and meaningful legacy to her leadership.

Dr. Floyd was a worthy successor to our founding president, Dr. Henry A. Campbell, and her leadership, following his, will enable our college to meet the vast challenges of the new millennium.

We wish her Godspeed as she moves on to pursue her future career, toward the achievement of even greater accomplishments in the years to come.

Sssssssteam heat

It was not, could not have been this hot when I was young.

Sure, I remember dirt necklaces ringing my throat after I'd played for hours in the afternoon sun on the flat, coal-packed surface of an abandoned tippie. And I fondly recall how good a glass of ice water tasted when I sat on the front porch with the sweat pasting the backs of my legs to metal chairs.

But it's much hotter now, isn't it?

I can also remember when a big draw for restaurants and theaters was the sign that said simply, "Come in. It's cool inside." Motels, eateries and dime stores promoted the fact that they were air conditioned, something we can't conceive of a business establishment being without now.

It is hotter now.

I was even in Georgia through eight summers, living in several houses and apartments (I move a lot), only one place with air conditioning. I don't remember having a fan in most of those places, but we did leave the door open most nights. (Now you know it was a long time ago.)

The only people I knew well who regularly used air conditioning were my in-laws who lived in far-south Georgia, close to the Florida and Alabama state lines where swamps and alligators can be seen from the highway.

They lived in six rooms of a huge, once-grand house and had a room air conditioner in the windows of five of those rooms. I was always cold in that house and slept under several covers when I was there.

It is hotter now.

In Arkansas where I lived for four years, the delta heat came at you in waves, steam rising off the Mississippi and wending its way up the Arkansas River, right into your skin. Still, I turned on the big window air conditioner only when I had company or those times when the temperature stayed above 95 late into the night several days in a row.

It is hotter now.

I did not have a car with air conditioning until 1992, and, to tell the truth, I seldom used it, primarily when I had to get somewhere with a minimum of damp wrinkles in my clothes. Saturday, I drove to Logan, West Virginia, and I intended to open the window and turn off the air conditioner on the open road, but the blowing air was so hot I ended up running the cooler during the whole trip.

It is hotter now.

At this writing on Wednesday evening after nine, I have four fans on in my upstairs apartment that stands unshielded in the sun all day long. I have rolled up the sleeves on my thin t-shirt. My hair is wet around the hairline, and my forehead is damp. I'm on my second can of pop for the evening, and that's after at least three glasses of ice water.

I hate investing in an air conditioner right now because there's a real possibility my aunt will have to come live with me and we'll have to find another, larger place. But I'm afraid I might have to give in.

As much as I like to have windows open and fresh air circulating, I am sweltering. I might have to compromise. I am convinced it is hotter now.

Webbs to perform at Prater Creek Baptist

The Webbs will be at the Prater Creek Baptist Church at Banner, June 20-25.

The Webbs are a family evangelistic team based near Cumberland, Maryland. Barry is the son of a well-known evangelist, Dr. Hal Webb of the Hal Webb Evangelistic Team. Cheryl is the daughter of Pastor Clifford Proper who pastors in Nichols, New York. They have two daughters, Bethany and Rachel. Together they make up a very unusual family evangelistic team.

The Webbs have quite a variety of talents. First they are accomplished musicians. In their meetings, they sing solos, duets, trios, and mixed quartets. Cheryl is an excellent pianist and Barry plays baritone and flugabone horns. Barry is also a ventriloquist and has had more than twenty years in the field of puppetry.

He does all of the voices for the twenty puppets that travel with the team in their castle puppet stage. Some nights he will draw a chalk art picture, complete with background music and colored and black lights.

Bethany and Rachel also work with puppets and ventriloquism in the children's Bible hour that Mr. Webb conducts during the preaching time.

A multi-talented family from Rawlings, Maryland, will bring their ministry to Floyd County, June 20-25.

— Y'all come back, now, y'hear. Sad to say, to succeed, most of you will have to leave here. And, really, that's all right — hundreds of thousands of mountaineers have had to do just that.

But, where you can make a difference is in learning all you can learn, being as successful as you can be and then bringing it back home. Bring your ideas back and share them with those who have remained — your idea may be the one that helps us find the light. Bring your knowledge back and share it — goodness knows, we have to chip away at our collective ignorance as fast and as hard as we can. Bring your money back and help us build jobs and pride and value.

Those of you who are graduating are already special. For almost every one of you, another student gave up, for any number of reasons, some of them valid, some not. But you've done this and you can do more. You have a high school diploma. Now, go to technical school, go to college, or get a job. Be of use. There's a lot more to life beyond today. — Pam Shingler

Prestonsburg native to head crime unit

A Prestonsburg native has been named chief of the Major Crimes Section of the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation for the state of Ohio.

Darrel Pennington was appointed by Ohio Attorney General Betty D. Montgomery to head the department which oversees the Crime Scene Unit and Special Investigations Unit. The section, made up of more than 40 special agents and staff, is responsible for the investigation of violent crime and corruption, as well as sensitive and complex investigations.

Pennington is the attorney general's former quality assurance coordinator and Sex Offender

Registration and Notification (SORN) administrator. His previous duties included training law enforcement and courts in the area of sex offender registration and new legislation regarding criminal history information.

He formerly served with the Columbus, Ohio, Division of Police, as commander of the Planning and Research, Vice, and Special Forces bureaus. His last assignment was commander of the Detective Bureau.

Pennington has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy at Quantico, Virginia.

Design an Ad Contest

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Ashley Derossett, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, was one of 105 students whose ads from the Lexington Herald-Leader's Design Ad Contest were included in the May 18 edition of the Newspaper.

Art instructor Ellen Trimble had each of her art students do a design, but each school was allowed to submit 13 entries.

Derossett said she was attracted to Pizza Hut's slogan "Making It Great." She said she thought about the slogan and design and tried to think how she could approach the project using her artistic talents.

Derossett said she thought it was important that businesses have good designs. "Usually, if the customer likes the ad, they will like the business," said Derossett.

Look for Derossett's design at Pizza Hut in Prestonsburg.

Derossett plans to attend Prestonsburg Community College for one year and then transfer to Savannah College of Art and Design in Georgia. Her ultimate goal is to become a commercial artist.

To celebrate Derossett's achievement, the class had a pizza party where gifts from the

Lexington Herald-Leader were awarded.

In addition to one of these prizes Derossett received a certification of participation and Newspaper in Education pencil.

Hall named award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that George Hall from Prestonsburg, has been named a United States National Award winner in honor roll.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Hall, who attends the Piast School, was nominated for this national award by Father David Powers, a teacher/counselor at the school.

George Hall will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

Hall is the son of Cainer and Gwen Hall of Prestonsburg. His grandparents are Katherine Hall of Martin, and Deacon George Miller of St. Louis, Missouri.

The Prestonsburg High School Mountain Harmony Handbell Choir presented a Christmas concert for Highlands Regional Medical Center staff and patients and for the volunteers. The choir concluded the semester with a Christmas concert at the Mountain Arts Center. The second semester began with a performance for the principals and counselors of the Talented and Gifted Program. Through donations and fund raising the choir recently purchased two octaves of handbells. Two additional octaves are needed to complete the set. Choir members are, front row, left: Jason Johnson, Justin Stephens, Ty Martin, Brandon Bentley, Alex Hill; second row: Kim Shepherd, Jan Austin, Margaret Damron, Greta Hicks, Jessica Hicks, Rachel Davis, Lacey Hughes, Stephanie Watkins, director Elizabeth Frazier, Kayla Goble, Britni Duff, Andrea Stump, Kelly Knott, Amanda Elliott, and Iris Stumbo.

Accelerated reader in action

by Charlotte Hale

Hi, my name is Charlotte Hale. I go to Prestonsburg Elementary and I'm in the third grade. I'm going to tell you about Accelerated Reader which we call A.R. This is a reading program that helps children learn to read and understand more books. Each child reads one book in their reading level and takes a test on it on a computer.

The reading levels are shown by a colored sticker with numbers on it. On the book, the sticker tells you the level and how many points you can earn. After they get so many points, their class gets to go to the A.R. store in their school. When they go into the store, they buy prizes with their points. Our school has read 12,662 books since the first of the school year or 96 days of school. Last week the school started A. R. after school on Wednesdays. Any student can stay at school from 3 to 4 p.m. to read more of their A.R. book.

I like A.R. because they have good books to read like chapter books and picture books. "The Bailey School Kids" books by Debbie Dadey are my favorite chapter books to read. Other schools should start A.R. because it makes reading fun and helps children learn to read. I'm glad my school has A. R. because it is fun!!

There were two people named Kent and Gloria Fox that came to school and sang some great Tennessee folk songs. They sang the song "High Hopes," but in an Appalachian way. The lady named Gloria told a story with puppets about a girl. She told her mom a lie and felt so bad about it. She had to tell her mom that she did the bad thing she had done. They finished the show by letting kids come up and hit this piece of wood and it made a string puppet dance. Then when everyone was leaving, they played a very good song about a rabbit. (story by Shawn David Goble)

Learning: a lifelong process to be celebrated

It was a natural choice for Alvan Hadley Jr. When he retired in 1989 after serving as a U.S. Army colonel and 24 years as an administrator of military academies, what could Hadley do?

He went back to school. "I like education. I like young people. I've been active all my life, and I couldn't see sitting around and cutting the grass," said Hadley, 74, of Lexington.

"You're going to learn and you're going to teach your entire life. Life is a continual learning and teaching proposition, no matter who you are. The moment you stop learning and teaching, you might as well die," Hadley said.

So, Hadley enrolled at the University of Kentucky.

In early May, he was conferred his doctorate in education, 10 years after entering UK under the Donovan Scholars Program.

Named for former UK President Henry L. Donovan, the program offers tuition-free academic and enrichment courses to anyone over the age of 65. Launched in 1964, it is the nation's oldest program of its kind, awarding its first bachelor's degree in 1967 and its first Ph.D. in 1975. About 550 senior citizens participate in college courses each semester.

Arleen Johnson, director of the Donovan Scholars Program, said the programs attract a broad variety of older students. She noted the number of older students likely will increase, since the population of people reaching age 65 is rapidly growing.

"Older students say they like to come back to school because they study what they want. Some of them, who may have attended college previously, want to flesh out their basic knowledge with electives.

"Some of them are re-tooling, like the ones who take computer classes to develop those skills for business purposes. Others want to write their memoirs, and computer classes are helpful in building skills with word processors," Johnson said.

Johnson noted that a number of older students are drawn back to school to finish their studies. "They may have left school because of war or for family reasons," she said.

Older students usually find their decision to return to school to be wise, she said.

Deb Danner, a researcher at UK's Sanders-Brown Center on Aging, confirmed Johnson's statement. Danner earned her doctoral degree with a dissertation that studied decisions by senior citizens to return to school.

"I interviewed a number of older students, and one of them said, 'To be on campus with young scholars makes me feel many years younger and puts a spring in my step and joy in my heart,'" Danner said.

"I found that older students found value in the challenge of being around a diverse group of people they can interact with," she said.

Hadley, who had received his bachelor's degree from West Point in 1946 and his master's degree from Columbia University in 1953, presents a perfect example of the people Danner and Johnson described.

"I was with young people in their 20s. I learned the new lingo. I don't share all of their interests, but we'd talk a lot over lunch," Hadley said.

So what are Hadley's plans, now that he has received his Ph.D.?

"I might go and take some more classes," Hadley said.

Kentucky law requires all state colleges and universities to provide free educational opportunities to persons over 65. Each institution can provide details of its program. Information about UK's

Donovan Scholars program is available by contacting Judy Henselman at 606/257-2656 or by writing her at the University of Kentucky Donovan Scholars Program, 658 S. Limestone, Lexington, Ky. 40506-0442.

Local student initiated into freshman honorary

Lesley Wells of Auxier, has been initiated into the Georgetown College chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta academic honor society for freshmen. She is the daughter of Melvin and Bobbie Ann Wells.

In order to qualify for membership, students must have a 3.5 or better grade point average for their first semester in college. Alpha Lambda Delta members who maintain a 3.5 or better grade point average for all four years in college are recognized upon graduation.

Georgetown had 80 new qualifiers for Alpha Lambda Delta, based on their first semester record. A total of 47 students received the senior award.

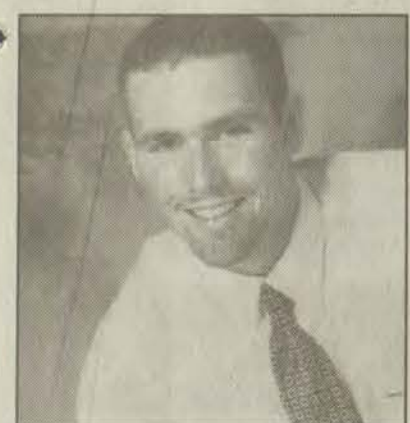

There are 217 chapters of Alpha Lambda Delta located at colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Community members and teachers read numerous books written by Floyd County students to judge winners of the Young Authors competition conducted by the Floyd County Board of Education. The judging was held May 25 at Adams Middle School. Readers often expressed amazement at the creativity and grammatical skills of the young authors. (photo by Willie Elliott)

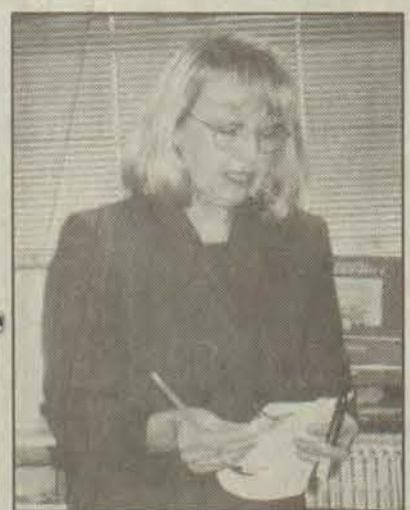

Jessica Dawn Reynolds, a 1999 graduate of Allen Central High School, has been admitted to Berea College as a member of the 1999-2000 freshman class. By virtue of enrollment at Berea, Reynolds becomes the recipient of a four-year, full tuition scholarship, currently worth more than $60,000. She is the daughter of Sally Ousley and James D. Reynolds of Martin.

Owens receives scholarship

Two Floyd County residents have received Chancellor Scholarships from the University of Kentucky. The four-year scholarships provide $1,000 a year. Receiving the scholarships were Sulma Badrudduja of Prestonsburg, and Ryan Owens of Langley. Badrudduja's parents are Syed and Meraj Badrudduja. Owens is the son of Joe and Teresa Owens. A third Floyd County student, Joshua Ward, received an Academic Excellence Scholarship, a one-year award of $1,500. He is the son of John and Vicki Ward of McDowell.

Joyce Watson, math and science coordinator for Floyd County Schools, was invited to Shellah Ratliff's classes at Duff Elementary to share her knowledge in math and science. She spent several days teaching science concepts by using experimental design and the scientific method. The students said they learned a great deal of science.

Local teachers share reward

Teachers in four of Magoffin County's eight schools will receive a share of the $26.4 million in reward money to be distributed throughout the state for improved test scores.

Magoffin County's total share will exceed $488,500.

Reward money will be distributed on two levels. Schools that improved their scores since 1996 will receive one share ($555) per teacher. Schools that exceeded their test score goals will receive two shares, or $1,100 per teacher.

One share will go to teachers at Millard Hensley Elementary and Salyer Elementary. Teachers at Prater-Borders Elementary and Magoffin County High school will receive two shares each.

Dollar amounts for each school breaks down as follows: Millard Hensley — $11,372; Prater-Borders —

$12,565; Salyer — $8,947; and Magoffin County High School — $55,644. — The Salyersville Independent

Historical society has new book

The Magoffin County Historical Society's newest published work is a volume containing all the obituaries excerpted from The Salyersville Independent from 1979-1998.

The 198-page book contains all the names of those individuals, their birth date, date of death, parent's names, spouse's names and identification of their place of burial.

In the book's forward, it was explained by MCHS President Todd Preston, that the purpose of publishing the obituary excerpts was to supplement material provided in four volumes of cemetery records previously printed by the historical society. — The Salyersville Independent

Court votes down solid waste ordinance

When the Martin County Fiscal Court voted against the proposed solid waste ordinance, thus eliminating the proposed mandatory garbage pickup, the pros and cons were addressed thoroughly. Although it was defeated this time, it's not a dead issue. The court can possibly take other courses of action or bring it up again if it so chooses.

During a lengthy Thursday morning meeting, District 2 Magistrate James Jarrett asked that the ordinance be tabled until Inez resident Bob Calloway and others had an opportunity to read the 16-page document. That motion was never under consideration and the vote was cast against the ordinance. — The Mountain Citizen

Sheriff out of luck

Martin County Sheriff Darriel Young has no luck dealing with the Martin County Fiscal Court. His request for assistance was turned down at Thursday's meeting.

Chief Deputy Pete Fitzpatrick presented a letter outlining the sheriff's request to court members a week

California bank sues man who has been dead for six months

One of Martin County's most respected citizens has been sued just six months after his death. A lawsuit was filed last week in Martin Circuit Court against the late James H. Grayson.

An ordained minister for 45 years, Grayson served as the pastor of many churches in southern West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky, including the Warfield Missionary Baptist Church and Inez First Baptist Church. He helped found the Mount Beulah Mission Church and the Tomahawk Mission Baptist Church.

A spokesperson for the legal firm representing the bank said he was unaware the defendant had died six months ago. He added that the bank probably would not have filed the suit if they had known Grayson was dead. — The Mountain Citizen

Copter crash kills one

An Owensboro helicopter pilot was killed Tuesday when his aircraft crashed at a Branham & Baker strip mine at Flatwoods two miles south of Dorton.

According to the Kentucky state Police, Charles J. Helms Jr., 51, "was piloting a helicopter owned by Kindall Mining Company and had just dropped off five passengers at a Branham & Baker Coal Company surface operation ... Upon takeoff from the site, the rotor of his aircraft struck some high-voltage electrical lines and crashed immediately."

The accident occurred around 11:15 a.m. and resulted in total destruction of the aircraft, according to KSP information officer Mike Goble. — Appalachian News-Express

Superintendent Howard Wallen said. The renovation, which also calls for a new entry lobby/waiting room, a new administrative suite, a teachers' resource room and enclosure of the exterior concourse, will be paid off in about 20 years, Wallen said. — Appalachian News-Express

Main jailed for drunk-driving on endloader

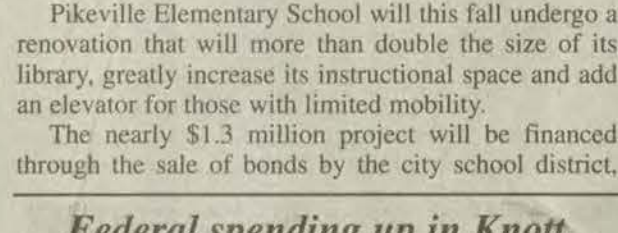

A Jenkins man was jailed early Saturday morning after he backed a piece of heavy equipment into a creek while driving drunk, authorities said.

Freddie A. Oakes, 59, was arrested on Three Mile Road at Dorton by Kentucky State Police Trooper Luke VanHoose. He was charged with DUI.

According to the arrest citation, Oakes, of Oakes Trucking at Dorton, ran into the creek when he was backing an endloader down the road at 11:24 Friday night.

The citation said Oakes said he'd been operating the equipment at the time of the accident and hadn't had anything to drink since the wreck.

Oakes failed sobriety tests. — Appalachian News-Express

Federal spending up in Knott

Direct federal spending in Knott County had increased by 6.1 percent from $77,366,000 during fiscal year 1997 to $82,052,000 during fiscal year 1998, according to a report recently issued by the US Department of Commerce. — The Troublesome Creek Times

A resolution is being sought on the property earmarked for the course's second nine holes; a company owned by Bill Sturgill holds the mining permits, and the area must be mined to level it for use in the golf course. An access road to the property must also be completed. — Troublesome Creek Times

Progress on Red Fox project

The golf course portion of the proposed Red Fox project could have design work begin as early as September, members learned at the May meeting of the Red Fox Tri-County Development Authority.

Chairman Russell Bentley says he is pleased with advancements in the project. The Authority has given permission for the state Finance and Administration Cabinet to clear property titles, advertise for proposals from golf course architects and to hire an architect.

Water rate increase approved

Hindman City Council moved swiftly through their agenda at their monthly meeting held June 7, approving the budget and water rate increase.

Little discussion was necessary since it was the second reading of the 1999-2000 Fiscal Year Budget Ordinance and the Amendment to the Water Ordinance.

The water ordinance, raising the cost to Jones Fork water customers, and changing service charges to all customers, was approved. The changes will take place with the July billing. — Troublesome Creek Times

Commission accepts resignation of mayor

Denver Mollette is the new mayor of Blaine following a vote by the city commission on Thursday, which also voted to accept the resignation of elected mayor Cindy Steele.

Three of Blaine's four commissioners — Mollette; Nancy Chaffin and Wilma Blevins — were present to vote on Thursday. The vote to accept Steele's resignation passed 2-1, with Blevins casting the "no" vote.

Steele, who was elected in November over incumbent Larry Wheeler, submitted her resignation letter last month amid political bickering and problems within the city.

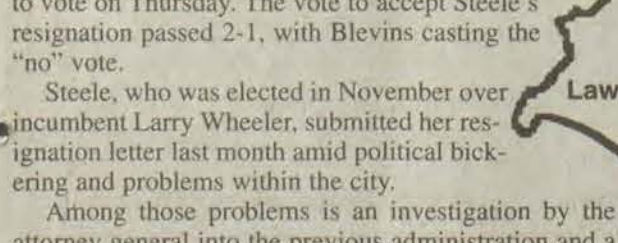

Among those problems is an investigation by the attorney general into the previous administration and a petition that was collected which will allow voters to decide in November whether or not to keep Blaine as a city. — The Big Sandy News

Young told police he was traveling north on US 23 at Lowmansville when a vehicle approached him from the rear flashing its headlights and signaling him to pull off the side of the road.

After stopping, Young got out of his vehicle and sustained a gunshot wound to the upper left chest area. Young got back into this car and drove to his home, where his brother took him to Three Rivers.

KSP Public Relations Officer Gary Kistner said that Young thought the driver of the other car wanted to tell him something.

"After (Young) pulled off, he thought the guy would get out and walk up to him, which he didn't do (Young) got out of the car and took about two steps when he heard a gun discharge," Kistner said. "About five inches above his left breast, a projectile struck him." — The Big Sandy News

Louisa man shot by motorist on US 23

Police have few clues in a shooting that took place on US 23 at Lowmansville early Monday morning.

Police said Wilburn Young, 33, of Louisa, called them from Three Rivers Medical Center around 1 a.m. Monday morning after being shot on US 23.

Jury awards $77,000 to woman who sued geriatric center

A jury awarded a woman $77,000 in damages Wednesday following a judge's ruling that she was improperly dismissed for her job at J.J. Jordan Geriatric Center.

Verlean Pack sued J.J. Jordan, its parent company M.E.B. Inc., and center administrator Davie McKenzie in July of 1996, claiming wage and position discrimination, as well as other abuses, led to her dismissal. — The Big Sandy News

Man apprehended Tuesday following chase at Kellacey

A West Liberty man was apprehended Tuesday after a pursuit of several hours following a shooting incident at Kellacey.

State police said Bobby Lester, 41, was charged with wanton endangerment, fleeing to avoid arrest, and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia after he allegedly discharged a 30-30 rifle several times following an argument with Brian Maciag at the residence of Lacsria Vest at Kellacey.

When KSP and officers from the Morgan County Sheriff's Department arrived at the scene, Lester fled the area and was pursued by police on the road and into the woods. — The Licking Valley Courier

Magoffin woman shot, makes way to Morgan home

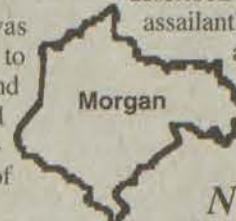

Officers from the Pikeville State Police Post are investigating the shooting of a Magoffin County woman who apparently was left for dead at a remote strip mine site near the Magoffin-Morgan county line sometime last Friday night or early Saturday morning.

The incident was reported after Mildred Slusher, 39, of Royalton appeared seeking help at the residence of Cynthia Gambill in the Coffee Creek section of Morgan County between 8 and 9 a.m. Saturday with a gunshot wound in her back.

Area residents said Slusher, who had made her way through the woods and off the hill to the Morgan County residence from a strip mine site in Magoffin County, described a harrowing experience during which her assailant or assailants had apparently left her for dead after trying to hide her body in a silt pond.

KSP said they were looking for two suspects from Magoffin County. — The Licking Valley Courier

New emergency department opening to be held Thursday

Grand opening of the new emergency department of the Morgan County Appalachian Regional Hospital will be held next Thursday, June 17.

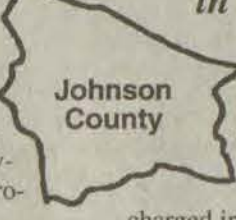

Begun last year in conjunction with the hospital's 25th anniversary, the 6,500 sq.-ft. state-of-the-art emergency department dwarfs the hospital's current cramped 700 sq.-ft. emergency room both in size and efficiency.

The new facility includes two large trauma rooms, three regular exam and treatment rooms, a private triage room, a large waiting area, a large private registration area, telemedicine capabilities, private bereavement room, work room for law enforcement officials, three handicap accessible restrooms, and a new elevator. — The Licking Valley Courier

Karn brings home state championship

Paintsville High's Jake Karn took just four minutes and 27 seconds to earn his place in the record books to become the first Paintsville High School individual competitor to be titled a state champ in any sport.

Karn's performance Saturday earned him the gold medal in the 1600-meter event, which he says is his favorite individual competition, and put him one step closer to achieving an even higher goal — competing on a professional level. — The Paintsville Herald

Jury to hear opening arguments in hit-and-run homicide case

Opening statements were scheduled for Wednesday in Floyd Circuit Court in the trial of a Johnson County man charged with murder.

Jury selection began Tuesday in the trial of Shawn Holbrook, 20, of Van Lear, charged in the December 27, 1997 hit-and-run death of a Grayson man. Prosecutors claim that Holbrook was on drugs the night his pickup truck hit Mark Allen Justice, 21, as he walked along Route 321 on Starfire Hill in Paintsville.

Holbrook's trial was originally scheduled for last month but was continued after two co-defendants — Nicolas Miller of Van Lear and Mark Thomas of Paintsville — pleaded guilty to lesser charges. Both men entered plea bargain agreements with prosecutors and pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of attempting to tamper with physical evidence. — The Paintsville Herald

Garbage defendants enter not guilty pleas

Five Johnson County defendants charged with criminal littering and violating the county's mandatory garbage collection ordinance pleaded not guilty Monday in Johnson District court.

The defendants who entered not-guilty pleas were among 14 people cited in April by ecology officer James McCarty.

Pleading not guilty Monday were Christy Tackett of Patsy Mullins (center) visited Shellah Ratliff's fourth and fifth grade classes at Duff Elementary to help them study wildflowers and mountain plants. She brought in sample flowers from the hills and took the students on a nature walk to help them find the flowers themselves. The highlight of the trip was when she showed them how to "make music" by blowing on a blade of grass placed between their thumbs.

Induction ceremony held at P'burg College

Ceremonies were held on Friday, March 26, at the Pike Auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College, to induct new members into the Alpha Nu Zeta Chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society.

The guest speaker for the evening was Ana Leon, associate professor of mathematics of Lexington Community College, who gave a speech on "What Do People Expect of Leaders."

The service was conducted by Peggy Spears, chapter president, along with Emma Rogers, vice-president; Jill Horton, treasurer; Gregory Carroll, public relations; Bill Loftus and Hassan Saffari, advisors for the chapter.

Phi Theta Kappa is an International Honor Society for two year colleges. A grade point average of 3.5 must be achieved and maintained to qualify for membership.

Among the 1998-99 inductees were Erin Akers, Twyla Marie Auxier, Elouise Bailey, Bobby Baldrige, Crystal Berger, Joseph Blevins, Mary Borders, Sandra Branham, Kitty Burchett, Danna Burke, Elizabeth Campbell, Gregory Carroll, Carol Chafins, Paul Childers, Donna Church,

Executive Director
Floyd County
Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber likes to participate in meetings and activities going on around the county. June promises to keep us really busy!

On Friday, June 11, the Membership Committee will meet at 9 a.m., in the Chamber office. This will be the planning session for our mid-year blitz. You may recall that Bruce Kelleck made a public statement on the Chamber Show that his goal is to add 100 new members. What ambition!

Let's hope the other members of that committee share Bruce's enthusiasm. Those fine folks are Trent Nairn, Allen Bolling, Stephanie Baldwin, David Lafferty, and Norm Marcum. Of course, any Chamber member can be a recruiter.

The full board of directors will meet in the Chamber office on Monday, June 14, from 11 a.m. through lunch. The agenda includes a presentation by Debbie Gilbert, Career Development Center, London, who will tell us about a new website, www.kentuckybusinessmall.com, which features Floyd County.

Also, incoming president Dennie Dorton will share his 1999-2000 goals with us. Board members will also tackle the task of forming new committees.

Those who need to be there are Dennie Dorton, Greg Wilson, Stephanie Baldwin, Suzanne Hyden, Harold Warman Jr., Dr. Fred Meece, Phillip Hunt, Estill Branham, Anne Chaney, Mark

McLemore, Don Fields, Kathy Friend, Thomas Hereford III, Dan Hitchcock, Norm Marcum, Leigh Ann Maynard, Bob Meyer, and Linda Ritchie.

The Rural Community College Initiative, directed by Jean Dorton, will meet at the Mountain Arts Center at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 15, for a work session. The Chamber is participating in an effort to develop a business plan for the Big Sandy region.

On Friday, June 18, Chamber Director Rebecca Derossett will attend graduation ceremonies at the Job Corps. Also, that evening marks the opening of the Jenny Wiley Theatre summer season at 6:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, June 22, the Chamber and the Small Business Development Center will co-sponsor a workshop at the Morehead Big Sandy Extended Campus in Prestonsburg. This free training session, Planning for Success, scheduled from 1 to 3:30 p.m., will be led by Mike Morley of the SBDC. Call the Chamber office to register, 606/886-0364.

Manpower Temporary Services and Stephanie Baldwin will host Business after Hours on Tuesday evening, June 22 from 5 until 7 p.m. Join us for fun and refreshments.

RSVP 889-9710 by June 21.

The Chamber Show filming by LJ Productions will be on Wednesday, June 30, at 2 p.m., in the Chamber office. Guests are Mark Sohn, Classic Cooking; Steve Murphy, S & L Chem Dry; and

Duane Sanders, East Kentucky Center for Science, Math and Technology. Also, The Legal Minute will feature local attorney Ralph Stevens.

See you, same time, same place, next week. Stay in touch!

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey to receive honorary doctorate from Ohio University

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey will receive an Honorary Doctorate of Public Service degree from Ohio University in Athens during commencement exercises planned for June 11.

In a letter announcing the award, Ohio University President Robert Glidden said Bailey's "pioneering efforts and participation in the field of economic development and the improvement of health care for people in Appalachia are laudatory."

Bailey, who earned a Ph.D. degree from Ohio University in 1975, said he was grateful for the recognition from his alma mater.

"To be nominated for such an award is compliment enough to one's good efforts," Bailey said. "But to be recognized in full is truly rewarding. My goal, always, is to serve the proud people of my native land, and I will continue to dedicate my energy toward that end."

Since 1972, Bailey, 54, has been the Executive Director of East Kentucky Health Services Center Inc., a model program nationally for rural health care delivery. As a state senator from eastern Kentucky since 1980, the Hindman Democrat has led statewide efforts to serve low-income and rural people who lack access to health care.

The son of a Floyd County coal miner, Bailey embarked at an early age on a life of activism that has brought much improvement to the Appalachian region.

At 21, Bailey directed the Community Development Program for four poverty-prone counties in eastern Kentucky. In 1971, he founded Appalachian Leaders in Community Outreach (ALCOR), a student-operated enrichment program that developed community centers in isolated locales throughout a 22-county area.

Bailey recruited college students from across America to offer programs in education, recreation, nutrition, health and community development. For these efforts, ALCOR won national acclaim and publicity.

Later, Bailey joined his high school classmate, W. Grady Stumbo, M.D., to establish two medical clinics in eastern Welfare Committee. Since 1997, he has chaired the powerful Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

Bailey's Health Care Reform Act of 1990 created the University of Kentucky's Center of Excellence in Rural Health in the coal-mining town of Hazard, making it the only site outside Lexington where students can participate in UK's Family Practice Residency Program and earn the university's degrees in physical therapy, medical technology and nursing.

Bailey was also instrumental in bringing the only psychiatric hospital to this mountain region, as well as the only long-term care facility for chronic mental patients. Additionally, he helped establish numerous senior citizens' and day-care centers throughout Kentucky.

In 1996, Bailey led efforts to create the first medical school in eastern Kentucky, the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine (PCSOM). In 1998, Bailey sponsored legislation providing scholarships to all Kentuckians attending PCSOM. For the first time, eastern Kentucky students can attend a college of medicine close to their home at a cost they can afford.

Bailey represents the state's 29th senatorial district comprised of Breathitt, Floyd, Knott and Johnson counties. He is married to Nikki Rieck Bailey and has four sons, Malcolm Glenn, Benny Ray, Chet Daniel and Steven Paul.

Kentucky. Their successful efforts became the model for Robert Wood Johnson's Rural Health Practice Project Program, which was implemented by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In 1978, Drs. Bailey and Stumbo were awarded the John D. Rockefeller Public Service Award by the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University.

In 1979, Bailey was elected state senator. For 12 years, he served with distinction as chairman of the Senate Health and

Dr. Saifullah Treats a Special Friend

Dr. Saifullah, the pediatrician at Mud Creek Clinic in Grethel, knows that children are special people. Just ask him--

"I love children. I love to interact with kids...playing with them and seeing their smiling faces."

For your child's sake, you want a person that makes them feel comfortable. For your sake, you want someone who is experienced.

From newborn checkups to immunizations, your child's health and well-being are his greatest concerns. Dr. Saifullah is a Board Certified physician specializing in pediatrics. He has hospital privileges at both Highlands Regional Medical Center and Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Dr. Saifullah is now accepting new patients. So bring your child and have your child bring his/her "special friend." Dr. Saifullah will treat them, too.

Thornsberry makes it two in a row

by James Trimble
Track Writer

It was another good night for racing at the Thunder Ridge Raceway last Saturday night as all five classes were on hand to excite the crowd with lots of wheel-to-wheel action.

Super Bomber qualified first with the No. 43k of Kevin Hall setting the quick time of 20.66. Next the Modifieds qualified with the 10c of Gary Combs turning in the quickest time of 20.42. The Late Models had the No. 17 of Shannon Thornsberry setting the pace with a time of 18.41 and Bombers were led in qualifying by T23 Keith Tincher with a time of 21.39.

Super Bomber heat had 43k Kevin Hall and No. 19 Jamie Slone leading them to the green. Hall jumped out to the early lead with Slone in close pursuit.

Slone kept looking for an opportunity to pass Hall, but Hall kept his cool and went on to win the heat.

Modifieds

Modified heat No. 1 had the 10c of Gary Combs and the 911 of Kurt Hofsess on the front row. Combs jumped out to the early advantage and was able to hold off Hofsess to take the heat.

Modified heat No. 2 had the 032 of James Hall and the 69 of Tim Moore on the front row. At the drop of the green, Moore jumped out to the early lead.

Meanwhile, behind him there was a battle for the second spot between the No. 1 of Byron Allen and the No. 25 of Keith Hamilton and the 77 of Jackie Fields. Moore took the checkered with Hamilton winning the second spot.

Late Model

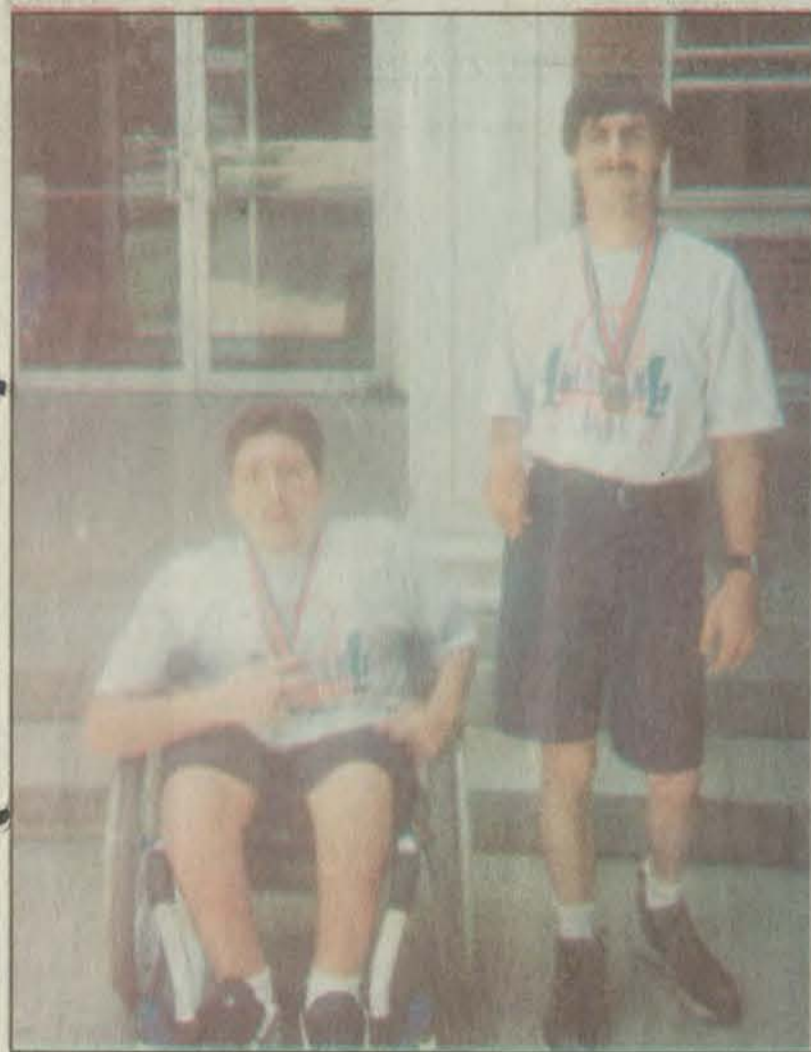

Late Model heat had the 17 of Shannon Thornsberry and the 55 of Ronnie Cole Jr. on the front row. At the drop of the green, Thornsberry jumped out to the early lead and was able to hold off Paul Harris to take the heat.

Bomber heat No. 1 had Keith Tincher and No. 44 Danny Lowe leading the field to the green. Tincher jumped out to the early advantage and never looked back leading the six lap heat flag to flag.

Gary Combs and his wife were in the winner's circle this past weekend at Thunder Ridge. Combs is well-known for his winning tradition in racing at local tracks.

Chris Meadows of Weeksbury and Bill Hunt (right) of Hi Hat won medals in the Kentucky Special Olympics held June 4-6. Both won silver and gold medals in the competitions.

"Kickin' it up" at state special olympics events

Two local athletes, Bill Hunt of Hi Hat and Chris Meadows of Weeksbury, participated in the Kentucky Special Olympics June 4-6, at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. "Kickin' It Up," a Western Theme, was displayed the entire weekend.

Friday's opening ceremonies included the arrival of the "Flame of Hope" and lighting of the torch, the Special Olympics Oath, and celebrity appearances. Ceremonies concluded with a fireworks display. All 2,000 athletes, coaches, volunteers and family members remained on the field to enjoy the return of Lexington Police Band 911.

The event actually began on May 24 when the official Special Olympics torch began its journey across the state, carried by hundreds of men and women in law enforcement. By the time it reached Richmond for the opening ceremonies of the 1999 Summer Games, it had passed through 80 counties and had been seen by thousands of citizens along the route. Kentucky's Torch Runners represent every local, state and federal law enforcement agency in the state.

The group has organized local fund-raising events, sold T-shirts and participated in statewide functions all year. Members of law enforcement who earned the right to represent the "Circle of Honor" escorted the torch into Roy Kidd Stadium for the official passing of the flame to Special Olympics Athletes.

Athletic competition began early Saturday morning in Track and Field, Aquatics, Gymnastics, Power Lifting, Soccer and Developmental events. Bill Hunt started the local athletes by winning the Silver Medal in the Shot Put. Chris Meadows followed by winning the Silver Medal in the Softball Throw.

Immediately following the Softball Throw, Chris struck Gold by winning the 100 and bringing home the Gold in the 100-meter Dash.

Chris was asked to compete in the World Games this year, but he is ineligible because he hasn't lived in Kentucky for the past two years.

Bill was selected to compete in the World Special Olympic Games in 1995 and is a 1999

alternate on Team USA that will compete in the World Special Olympic Games in Raleigh, N.C., June 26-July 4. Over 7,000 athletes from over 100 countries will be competing in these games.

All athletes enjoyed special activities throughout the weekend. Olympic Town offered games, music and food. The Kentucky Thoroughblades demonstrated the exciting sport of Street Hockey.

On Saturday evening the athletes celebrated their accomplishments from Summer Games '99 with a Victory Dance and boogied Down to the music of Borderline.

Chris Meadows, the son of Ed and Linda Senig of Weeksbury, received his medal from a presenter in the Special Olympics state competition. Since he began competing in the games three years ago, Chris has won five gold and one silver.

Mosley's pitches, Allen's hits lead Astros

Some hard hitting and some swift-flying balls helped the Drift Astros pull out a big win Wednesday in Bambino League action.

The Astros defeated the Martin Reds 14-5. Shawn Mosley put in a good performance as the winning pitcher for the Astros. Reds' pitcher, Robbie Vanderpool, had a good arm in the game, but just couldn't pull out a win for the Reds.

In the top of the first, Wes Tackett walked for the Astros, and Shannon Hall got a base hit. With two runners on, John Mullins got a two-run double to make it two to nothing.

In the bottom of the first inning, the Martin Reds failed to score.

In the second inning, the first three batters walked for the Astros. John Mullins came to plate and smacked another base hit and an RBI for the Astros.

With the bases loaded with Astros, all the Reds could do was watch the ball soar when Scott Allen came to the plate and hit a grand slam home run over the centerfield fence.

In the bottom of the second for the Reds, Shawn Perry got a base hit, J. Prater drew a walk, and T.J. Hall came up with a two-run single for the Reds.

The third inning saw no scores increase for either team as the competition came head-to-head.

The Astros were back in form in the fourth inning. Shannon Hall walked, Scott Allen walked, Andrew Lafferty got a two-run triple, and Shawn Mosley got an RBI double.

The Reds were kept at bay in the fourth and did not score again until the fifth inning. Tyler Slone walked, Kevin Dustin got a base hit, and Robbie Vanderpool hit a three-run home run to give the Reds their fifth run in the game.

The Astros continued to look good in the fifth. Bryan Salisbury walked, Wes Tackett walked, and John Mullins came back with a two-run triple.

Scott Allen hit an opposite field home run out of the park for a two-run home run and the winning score on the scoreboard.

Justin Moore started the game and had three strikeouts. Robbie Vanderpool took over in the second inning and had nine strikeouts.

Pitcher Shawn Mosley had seven strikeouts and "really looked good for the Astros," his coach, Clinis Hall commented Thursday.

Shannon Hall comes up with six in win

The Drift Astros and the Martin Reds split a double-header last Friday night.

Both teams played well, according to Astros Coach Clinis Hall. The Reds won the first game 9-8. The winning pitcher was Robbie Vanderpool.

In the second game, the victory went to the Astros. Shannon Hall "was the star of the game for the Astros with three doubles and a triple," Hall said.

Bomber heat No. 2 had No. 62 Joel Jenson and Johnny Layne on the front row. At the checkered flag, Jenson was able to hold off all challenges, winning the heat and outside pole for the fea-

Road Hog
The Road Hog heat had B17 Brandon Johnson and 128 Keith

Branham on the front row for the start. Johnson jumped out to the early lead and was able to take the heat.

Super Bomber
The Super Bomber feature was next with the 43k of Kevin Hall and the 19 of Jamie Slone ready to pick up where they left off in the heat race. At the drop of the green flag, like in the heat race, Hall jumped out to the early lead with Slone right on his bumper. Slone tried everything in his power to get around Hall, but the two cars were well matched, and Hall had a good line around the track, keeping Slone at bay for the entire 15-lap feature. At the line, it was 43k Kevin Hall in first. In second was the 19 of Jamie Slone; in third was the 5 of David Clifton; fourth was the 77 of Randy Fannin; and fifth was the 5 of Danny Smith.

Modified feature
Modified feature had the 10c of Gary Combs and the 69 of Tim Moore on the front row. This proved to be a very competitive race with lots of side by side action and close racing throughout the 20-lap feature. But in the end it was the 10c of Gary Combs taking the victory. In a close second was the 911 of Kurt Hofsess, third goes to 69 Tim Moore, fourth was Jason Johnson and rounding out the top five was 51 Greg Ison who made his way from fifteenth to finish an impressive fifth.

Late model
Late Model feature had the 17 of Shannon Thornsberry and the 10 of Paul Harris on the front row. At the drop of the green flag, Thornsberry took the lead with Harris in close pursuit. During the entire 25-lap feature, Thornsberry and Harris ran nose-to-tail with Harris looking for any chance to take the lead but Thornsberry was up for the challenge, driving a good line and not making any mistakes to allow Harris to take the advantage. In the end Thornsberry took the checkered, followed closely by Harris in second, in third was the 10 of Raymond Nichols, in fourth was the 55 of Ronnie Cole Jr., and rounding out the top five was the 72 of Roy Mullins.

Bomber feature
Bomber feature had the T23 of Keith Tincher and the 62 of Joel Jenson on the front row as the green fell. The early lead went to Tincher as he led lap one, but Jenson fought back to take the point on lap two. On lap five Jenson got a little loose coming out of turn three, causing the cars behind him to check up causing a wreck.

After reviewing the tape of the incident several times, Thunder Ridge officials determined that the leader caused the wreck and sent Jenson to the rear of the field, and giving Tincher the lead back. When the green was out, Jenson made an impressive run. Trying to get back to the front of the field, he made his way from the back of the pack all the way back up to fifth place at the checkered flag, but up front Tincher was able to hold on to the lead and win the Bomber feature followed closely by the 2x of Tandy Spurlock in second. In third was the 63 of Jonny Layne. In fourth was the 44 of Danny Lowe, and in fifth was 62 Joel Jenson.

Road Hog feature
Road Hog feature had the B17 of Brandon Johnson and the 18k of John Henson on the front row. As usual, the action was hot and heavy but Johnson was able to hold on to the lead for the entire 12 laps and take the victory. Coming in second was the 18K of John Henson, in third was the J17 of Jimmy Arnett, in fourth was the 128 of Keith Branham and rounding out the top five was the 69 of Dennis Bartley.

The next action at Thunder Ridge will be in two weeks as next week Thunder Ridge will take a break to allow fans to go the Dream Race at Eldora. It will also give Thunder Ridge officials a chance to work on the track and the drivers a chance to work on their cars and get ready for action again on June 19 as all classes will be on hand to resume the season.

Jamie King collects 4th All-American notice of track career

Despite having to run more than three-fourths of the race with just one shoe, Eastern Kentucky University track standout Jamie King, a senior from Botkins, Ohio, was still able to collect her fourth

NCAA Division I Track All-American award this past weekend by finishing seventh in the 1,500-meter run at the 1999 NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championship held at Boise State University. Just into the first of four laps in the finals, King's right heel was stepped on from behind, knocking her shoe from her foot. But this did not deter King, who ran the rest of the race with one shoe and was able to defeat seven of the 14 athletes in the field.

King, who qualified for the finals Saturday night by finishing third in her heat on Thursday with a time of 4:24.48, ran a 4:26.06.

"This was just an awesome show of courage and dedication to run three-quarters of a mile with just one shoe," said EKVU head track and cross country coach Rick Erdmann who accompanied King to Boise for the finals and witnessed this unusual occurrence. "And the amazing part is she not only completed the race, but she was able to defeat seven runners and make All-American again."

"I think most people would have just given in to the pain and discomfort, but not Jamie. I don't believe I have ever seen such a great effort."

She received All-American status in 1998 by finishing eighth in the 1,500 meters and in 1997 by placing 10th in the same event at the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships. Her third NCAA All-American award came in 1998 when she set a school record in the indoor mile by placing third at the NCAA Indoor Championships with a time of 4:42.90.

A six-time winner of the Ohio Valley Conference Female Athlete of the Year Award in the sports of cross country (twice), indoor track (twice) and outdoor track (twice), King also holds school records in the indoor 800-meter run (2:08.21) and the outdoor 800-meter run (2:06.19).

She has the second fastest all-time 1,500 meter run in school history with her 4:17.76, just a notch below Pam Raglin's school record of 4:16.84 set in 1986.

After giving her foot time to recover, King plans to resume training for a possible appearance in the June 25-27 United States Track and Field Championships in Eugene, OR.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Everyone else had to pit, but not Bobby Labonte, and when the green flag waved for the final 105 laps, the result was Labonte's first victory of the season. Jeff Gordon was the only other car on the lead lap as he, third-place finisher Mark Martin, fourth-place Tony Stewart and all the other leaders had to pit in the waning laps. For the second week in a row, both Joe Gibbs-owned Pontiacs, Labonte and Stewart, finished in the top four.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Dale Earnhardt Jr. won for the first time this year as well, defending his title in the MBNA Platinum 200 at Dover Downs. Earnhardt, the 1998 series champion, took a 34-point lead over Matt Kenseth.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Jack Sprague, the 1997 SuperTrucks champ, won the nighttime event at Bristol Motor Speedway. It was Chevy driver Sprague's second victory in a row. Sprague was never threatened in the closing laps, finishing nearly 4 1/2 seconds in front of Dodge driver Stacy Compton.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Kenny Wallace vs. Jeremy Mayfield

Wallace started fourth at Dover and was in the top 10 all day long until, to his way of thinking, Mayfield "lost it and hit me in the left side and put me in the wall." That's not the way Mayfield saw it.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion:

"Wallace is a pretty straight shooter and may well have thought Mayfield took him out, but the replay indicated that Wallace actually hit the wall before there was any contact with Mayfield."

Ken Schrader

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

One of America's more versatile drivers is a creditable 13th in the Winston Cup point standings, but Ken Schrader still longs for his first victory since June 2, 1991, at Dover Downs. Schrader, a former sprint-car national champion, was Winston Cup rookie of the year in 1985, when he drove for Richmond, Va., car owner Junie Donlavey. He finished a career-best fourth in the point standings as recently as 1994.

HOMETOWN: Born in St. Louis, Mo., raised in Fenton, Mo., lives in Concord, N.C.

AGE: 44

WIFE: Ann

CHILDREN: Dorothy Lynn (9), Sheldon Bradley (3)

CAR: No. 33 Skoal Chevrolet Monte Carlo, owned by Andy Petree

FIRSTS: Start (July 14, 1984, at Nashville), pole (March 27, 1987, at Darlington), win (July 31, 1988, at Talladega)

CAREER STATISTICS: 437 starts, 23 poles, 4 wins, 64 top-five finishes, 167 top-10s, almost $13 million in career earnings.

WHY DO YOU THINK THE MIDWEST HAS BECOME SUCH A POTENT PRODUCER OF WINSTON CUP DRIVERS? "There are a whole

lot of series that give good preparation. In the USAC Silver Crown Series, which a bunch of us came from, the cars are pretty heavy. They're nothing like Cup but still pretty heavy and undertired. You have to muscle them around, and that's kind of like a Cup car. In the ASA (American Speed Association, a Midwest stock-car circuit), you learn the chassis knowledge you need. It's just made more people more aware of the people out there in those series."

DO YOU HAVE ANY DESIRE TO PULL THE INDY-CHARLOTTE DOUBLE, LIKE TONY STEWART AND JOHN ANDRETTI? "If I'm going to be pulling double duty, I have no desire to run either a CART or an IRL car. I like my old stock cars. I have no desire to be involved with anything but a stock car or maybe a truck."

HOW MUCH DOES IT BOTHER YOU NOT TO HAVE WON RECENTLY? "It's tough when you're not winning every week. Everyone in this sport is doing it because they want to win races. You just have to do the best you can to keep it up and put something out on the horizon that you are working in the direction of winning races. We'd like to move up to the top five (in races), instead of the top 10, and we need to get in the top 10 in points and work toward the top five."

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Could you explain how the money (prize) for each race is distributed by positions, 1 to 43? There (have) been quite a few times where a driver who finishes closer to last still gets more prize money than a driver who finishes in a better position.

Paul Green
Dubuque, Iowa

NASCAR has bonus plans, the most prominent being the Winners Circle, which rewards the most successful teams and the ones which successfully qualify for all the races. When a team is on such a plan or plans, its prize money is enhanced at every race. This accounts for the seeming discrepancies.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
In 1998, NASCAR and Goodyear developed a rain tire (and) also had the owners install (windshield wipers). So why haven't they finished any races in the rain?

James E. Dougherty
Jacksonville, N.C.

The tire you mention was developed ONLY for road courses. No practical means of racing on ovals with rain tires has been developed.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
How do I go about getting tickets for the next Daytona 500 race? Any information on the race would be helpful.

Mary Gasser
St. Cloud, Minn.

Call (904) 253-7223. We suggest you do so right away. They are hard to come by.

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: Bobby Labonte, second and first in the last two races.

■ NOT: Ernie Irvan, no better than 22nd in the last nine races.

Trackside Trivia

- Who was the first driver to be black-flagged during a race at Daytona?
- Who won three straight Convertible Division championships?

1. Herman "The Turtle" Beam, for running the first eight laps of a 100-mile qualifying race without a helmet, in 1960. 2. Bob Welborn.

Eggleston named crew chief for Sterling Marlin

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

DOVER, Del. — Scott Eggleston was named crew chief for Team Sabco's No. 40 Coors Light Chevrolet and driver Sterling Marlin. He moved the 20 feet or so from where he was crew chief for Team Sabco's BellSouth Chevrolet and driver Joe Nemechek.

Team manager Tony Glover will serve as interim crew chief for Nemechek.

LOOKING FORWARD TO IT: Rusty Wallace likes the upcoming stretch of Winston Cup races between now and mid-July. "It's kind of an enjoyable stretch because I get to go to some race tracks that I haven't been to in a while," said Wallace. "There's something about when I go to Pocono. I like going to Pocono. I don't know what it is, but I like going up there. There are a couple favorite restaurants we hang out at, and the condos we stay at are pretty cool. I have fun up there."

"There are a lot of racetracks I like because I have fun, and there are some that I just hate. I like the track, but I hate the surroundings."

THANKS JOE: Not the least of

Tony Stewart's advantages in the race for Winston Cup rookie of the year is the owner who brought him to the Winston Cup Series.

Said Stewart of Joe Gibbs: "I couldn't have asked for a better car owner than Joe. In this business, to put a team on the track you're talking big dollars, and I'm not talking six digits, you're talking seven digits and sometimes eight. Sometimes you lose your focus, and people tend to become objects at a certain point."

"I've been with race teams where those people were treated like material or tools instead of people. One thing about Joe Gibbs, everyone is treated as an equal. He's there, willing to listen and willing to help you any way he can. Everybody's so worried about the business side, they forget it's people who make it happen. He really takes care of his people. He makes you feel like you're special."

POTENTIAL DARLINGTON MILLIONAIRES: The top five finishers in the Coca-Cola 600 will be eligible for the No Bull Five $1 million bonus in the Southern 500 Sept. 5 at Darlington. For the record, they are Jeff Burton, Bobby Labonte, Mark Martin, Tony Stewart and Dale Jarrett.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ Sometimes calculating fuel mileage on a Winston Cup stock car is a risky proposition. Crew chief Jimmy Makar figured that his driver, Bobby Labonte, could go 106 laps around Dover Downs International Speedway on one tank of fuel, so Labonte topped off his fuel tank with precisely that number of laps to go in the MBNA Platinum 400. No one else could or would make such a decisive decision, and as a result, Labonte won the race by the largest margin, 22.071 seconds, of the season to date.

al of a permit for a surface and underground coal mining operation located 1.5 miles northeast of Thomas in Pike, Floyd, and Martin Counties. The proposed operation will disturb 649.9 surface acres and will underlie 174.4 acres and the total area within the permit boundary will be 824.3 acres.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.5 miles northeast of Brushy Fork Road's junction with KY 194 and located on Cow Fork. The latitude is 37°41'34". The longitude is 82°33'13".

The proposed operation is located on the Thomas U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Pocahontas Development Corporation, Lon B. Rogers, Martin County Coal Corporation, William McCoy Heirs, and TJ Hardin Heirs and underlies land owned by Pocahontas Development Corporation, George Morrison, East Kentucky Energy Corporation, and Martin County Coal Corporation.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 3140 South Lake Drive, Suite 6, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, No. 2 Hudson Hollow, 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

NOTICE

Pursuant to KRS 74.440, there will be a public hearing at 6:00 p.m., June 16, 1999, at the business office of the Beaver Elkhorn Water District. The purposes of the hearing are to inform the public and solicit comments regarding the proposed participation of the Beaver Elkhorn Water District with other water districts and/or municipal systems in Perry, Letcher, and Knott counties in forming a new "water commission" to develop and manage a source of supply of safe drinking water at the Carr Fork Reservoir. All interested parties are encouraged to attend and participate.

FLOYD COUNTY

Serving Floyd County since 1927

After Shawna Haywood expressed concern over the condition of the flag that flew over Prestonsburg High School, students in Carolyn Stout's English III class made a plea to Principal Coy Samons for a new flag. Woodmen of the World then donated a large, new flag to the school. In a recent ceremony, the students displayed the flag and then hoisted it up the flag pole. It was an appropriate gesture, because Monday is Flag Day. Run up your own flag and salute. (photo by Ed Taylor)

MAC will be Meyer-less

by Pam Shingler
Editor

The man who has taken the Mountain Arts Center from construction to opening to its growing acclaim as a regional entertainment and education center is ready to turn the job over to someone else.

Bob Meyer, who has managed the MAC since January of 1996 when it was still under construction, is resigning to take a position with Community Trust Bank in Pikeville.

Calling his job with the MAC a "positive and challenging experience," Meyer said yesterday that he will begin on July 12 working with the regional bank's expansion of its small business loan program.

"Strange as it sounds, I'm going to be a banker in about a month," Meyer said. "From a personal perspective, it makes a lot of sense to me. I think it's the right decision for me and my family."

He alluded to the long hours associated with working at the arts center, which under his leadership has managed to attract national stars and to draw an increasing number of educational and community programs.

The director said he hopes to take a few days off before he takes the Pikeville job, but he will stay at the MAC to get the transition process started.

Meyer intends to remain involved with the MAC. The board of directors of the Kentucky Opry has already designated him to be its representative on the MAC Management Commission.

"I have too much of myself invested in this place to give it up," he said. Community Trust Bank (formerly Pikeville National), he said, encourages employees to be involved in com-

Near-drought conditions in area

Times Staff Report

Despite some sporadic showers this week, the Big Sandy region is experiencing "moderate to severe drought conditions," according to the National Weather Service in Jackson.

Only 2.47 inches of rain fell at the Jackson weather station during the month of May, the third lowest amount on record for May.

Eastern Kentucky, according to the weather service, is "at the high end of the moderate drought category."

Floyd County's rainfall expert, Lon May, who is also coordinator of Disaster Emergency Services, said Wednesday he was "not aware of any crop damage as yet." But he added, "We do need rain."

An advisory from the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet said that throughout the Bluegrass and southeast Kentucky, not enough rainfall has been received to replenish normal stream flow and to fill reservoirs.

Present conditions, the cabinet announced, are more typical of September and October, the state's driest months.

At presstime yesterday, local firefighters were trying to stop a forest fire on Abbot Creek. The fire had raced up the hill before it could be put out at the base, and several units had been called in.

Bob Hackworth of Beaver Elkhorn Water District said yesterday that the water level at the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River is "pretty low." Beaver Elkhorn gets its water from the river at Allen.

"It's not at the critical point yet," Hackworth said, "but if we don't have a good rain by this time next week, it will be critical."

Seven water systems in the central and eastern part of the state have reported some degree of water shortage, according to the state's Division of Water. Magoffin and Menifee counties in this region are among the seven.

The division has the following recommendations for residents to conserve water:

- Don't worry about the lawn. It

Security hired to stop students' 'pranks'

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg Police rounded up crickets Wednesday at Prestonsburg High School that had apparently been released as the latest prank at the school.

Floyd County Schools' Interim Superintendent Woody Carter has used the latitude that the board gave him in matters of security to hire Thunderbolt Security of Allen to provide security to Prestonsburg High School during the last days of the school year.

Prestonsburg City Police will also patrol the area on a regular basis.

Carter said that in light of last year's "pranks" that resulted in damage to the school, he felt the system should be proactive rather than reactive.

Principal Coy Samons said he worked with Carter on the arrangements and said he was in total agreement with the plan of action being taken.

Samons, referring to the over $7,000 damage that was done to the school last year, said the plan certainly was a cost-effective measure.

Carter said he wanted students and parents to know that the system was on the alert for any incidents that would cause harm to either students/staff or school property. He said law enforcement officials would be on hand to deal with anyone who causes any such harm.

Thunderbolt officials have been patrolling the school from closing in the afternoon until 6 in the next morning.

The last day of school for Prestonsburg was yesterday (Thursday) and graduation is set for tonight.

Housing help on the way

About 20 households in Floyd, Letcher and Knott counties will get help with water and septic systems and housing repairs, thanks to a $50,000 grant from the state Department of Local Government and Kentucky Appalachian Housing Fund. The money, according to US Senator Jim Bunning, originates with the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Bryan White's concert at the Mountain Arts Center this past weekend was energetic and "definitely entertaining," according to one concert-goer, who at the age of 27 said White made her feel like a young girl with a crush. "He has been featured in '16' magazine, Teen, and Tiger Beat, all of which I read as a teenager. I just about caught myself looking under my bed to pull (one of the magazines) out when I got home from the show." (photo by Tammi Jo Hatfield)

Sentencing postponed

The sentencing hearing, originally set for June 9, for Andy Mitchell has been rescheduled for July 2 in Circuit Judge Danny Caudill's courtroom. Mitchell, 54, pleaded guilty this spring to the shooting death of his estranged wife, Billie Jo Mitchell, at her Ivel home in 1997. In the plea agreement, Commonwealth's Attorney John Earl Hunt agreed not to ask for the death penalty and, instead, recommended that Mitchell be given life in prison for the murder charge and concurrent sentences for charges of rape, burglary and stalking.

Woman fined in school skirmish

A Melvin woman was found guilty of harassment — a misdemeanor — in an incident that occurred in December at Osborne Elementary School. Teresa Faye Moore was fined $125 and court costs of $86 in a jury trial in District Judge James Allen's court, for her actions toward teacher Colleen Johnson. The incident happened shortly after Principal Paul David

Local student receives scholarship to Georgetown College

Georgetown College has awarded Chandra Short a Trustee Scholarship and a Pastor's Christian Leadership Scholarship for the 1999-2000 academic year.

Short, a graduating senior at South Floyd High School, will be a freshman at Georgetown during the Fall 1999 semester. She is the daughter of Quention and Debra Short of McDowell.

Located 12 miles from Lexington, in the heart of the Bluegrass, Georgetown College is a four-year, private liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention. The college has been named by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top 159 national liberal arts colleges. Founded in 1829, the college is dedicated to its role as an innovative community of scholars developing ethical scholars committed to its heritage of Christian discernment. Dr. William H. Crouch Jr. is the 23rd president of the college, which has an enrollment of more than 1,500 undergraduate and graduate students.

W'wright leaders work on drains

by Laura Bowers
Contributing Writer

Wheelwright City Commissioners called a special meeting Tuesday night to discuss the location of old, broken down drains and how to fix the problem.

Water shoots down hills, into garages, and onto gardens during heavy storms, Wheelwright resident Glen Thornberry said. The damage, at times, can be severe, he said, and several other residents have complained.

Commissioners Jimmy Little, Marlee Sammons and Don "Bootie" Hall, together with City

Attorney Tim Parker, met with Thornberry and quickly and agreeably decided that the city could locate and fix an old drainage system without damaging individual property rights. Little got out an old map, the commissioners looked at it, and they quickly pinpointed one of the problems on 79 Hill.

Parker said he suggested the meeting be called so that the city could begin working to solve the clogged drainage system before more damage occurs. He invited further citizen discussion on this matter that, he said, will take more time and more money to resolve.

Helpline to help senior citizens with legal issues

A toll-free telephone line has been established to help Kentucky senior citizens with legal issues.

The Legal Helpline for Older Kentuckians was established by the Access to Justice Foundation and the Association of Older Kentuckians. These groups received a three-year grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Administration on Aging to establish the Helpline service. The Cabinet for Health Services' Office of Aging Services supported the grant.

The toll-free number is 1-800-200-3633. It is answered Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. EDT, and serves Kentuckians 60 years old and older.

"Individuals needing more extensive services will be referred to a volunteer attorney or to a local Legal Aid agency," said Jamie Hamon, the foundation's executive director. She said that questions not connected to legal issues will be answered by volunteers or referred to benefits counselors in local areas.

Topics that may be covered include health care access, Medicaid, Medicare, long term care, living wills, exploitation or abuse, and consumer matters.

Academic team wins honors

The Pikeville College Academic team completed the 1998-99 season in the last tournament of the year at Cumberland College in Williamsburg.

Division II of the Pikeville College Academic team took first place honors for the second time this season. The team defeated Georgetown College in the championship match after losing during regular play. They also were victorious against Murray State University, Cumberland College, Transylvania University, and Western University.

Division II was awarded the second place trophy in the Kentucky Collegiate Quick Recall League (KCQRL) for the overall season, behind Georgetown College. Transylvania came in behind Pikeville College for the third place position.

Division I came in fourth at the tournament, defeating Western, Shawnee State and Eastern Kentucky University, but losing to Murray and Campbellville. Division I was ranked fifth in the entire league.

Drought—

- Don't worry about the lawn. It may go dormant during periods of low rainfall, but it will come back.

- For outdoor plants, if you water, water deeply (at least one inch) once every five to seven days. Don't water when the wind is high or in the middle of the day, and water the ground, not the air and the pavement.

- If feasible, hold rinse water from dishwashing and bathing and use that "greywater" for watering plants.

- Minimize car washing. If you do wash your car, park it on the grass to benefit the lawn. Wet down the car, turn off the hose, wash, and then turn the water back on to rinse.

- Take shorter showers.

- Don't let the water run while brushing teeth or washing dishes.

Hackworth with Beaver Elkhorn also urges people with swimming pools "to hold up on filling their pools" until the drought conditions ease up.

An added advisory from the Division of Water is to make sure that pets and farm animals have a steady source of water.

Clark Elementary, McDowell Elementary, South Floyd High, and Stumbo Elementary. Meals begin the following Monday at Duff Elementary, Osborne Elementary, Prestonsburg Elementary and Prestonsburg High.

Helicopter pilot dies in Pike

A 51-year-old Owensboro man died Tuesday when the helicopter he was piloting hit high voltage electrical lines and crashed at a Branham and Baker Coal Co. surface mine near Dorton in Pike County. According to Kentucky State Police, Charles J. Helms Jr. had just dropped off some passengers and was ascending from the site. He was pronounced dead at the scene. The incident is being investigated by KSP Detective Terry Thompson, Trooper Luke Vanhoush and members of the Federal Aviation Administration, US Mine Safety and Health Administration and Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals.

Pike case sent to Floyd

Pike Circuit Judge Eddy Coleman has ruled that a court case involving Pikeville Methodist Hospital and the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Church will be moved from Pike to Floyd County. The hospital filed suit in March to ask the court to clarify its relationship with the Methodists, after which the conference counter-filed alleging conflicts of interests and asking that Walter May be removed as chairman of the PMH board.

School systems win awards

Ninety proposals involving 125 Kentucky school systems were approved for funding this week from the Center for School Safety. They share $4 million in state funds for projects ranging from alternative classrooms for disruptive students, security officers in schools and violence prevention training. School systems in this district whose proposals were funded include Lawrence County ($109,250) and Magoffin County ($64,882).

Greene is national award winner

The United States Academy announced recently that Tommy Greene of Prestonsburg, who attends the Piarist School, has been named a United States National Award Winner in the following categories:

Listed are those categories and the recognition of each teacher:

Student Council, by Mr. Rose; Honor Roll, by David Powers; English, by Ms. Bradley; Foreign Language, by Ms. Kelly; and Science, by David Powers.

Tommy Greene

These awards are prestigious honors very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. "Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Tommy Greene is the son of Tom and Virginia Greene of Prestonsburg.

Allen named All-American Scholar

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Shane Douglas Allen from Minnie,

has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or higher, grade point average. Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA. Allen, who attends South Floyd Middle, was nominated for this national award by Paul Cline.

School, Allen will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, which is published nationally.

He is the son of Stanley and Rita Allen from Minnie. His grandparents are June Allen of Minnie, and Dorothy DeRossett of Printer.

Meyer, who lives at Blue River, served during 1995 as interim Floyd County Judge-Executive after the death of John M. Stumbo and until the election of Ben Hale.

He was programs director for the Big Sandy Area Development District for 10 years. His responsibility there was primarily in the area of economic development, which ties closely with his new job. In addition, he was co-owner of a construction company for about five years, giving him experience in small business operation.

In the bank position, Meyer said he will act as liaison with the Small Business Administration and will work to encourage area residents to take advantage of opportunities to start their own businesses.

Meyer said he will formally submit his resignation during a special meeting of the MAC Management Commission on Tuesday and will help as the search for his replacement gets underway.

"I still believe 110 percent in what the Mountain Arts Center is about what its potential is," he said.

CONGRATS, GRADS

It's that time of year, the time when we wish the best to young people who are being graduated from high school. We trot out the clichés, we cry easily and we grin a lot.

We won't put tear drops on the page and you can't tell if we're grinning, but we can come through with some of those old sayings that are meant to congratulate, to encourage and to support.

- Such as ...
- Follow your dream.

If you don't have one, sit down and think one up, and then go for it. Close your ears to the people who make fun of you, whether it's your sibling, your uncle, your best friend, your neighbor or whoever.

Years from now, make it a point to look them up and wave your degree or your race car trophy or your business license or some other proof of your accomplishments in their face. Say, "Thanks for giving me this challenge."

- Climb every mountain.

This one's oddly appropriate here. Sometimes, climbing the mountain is the only way to get where you want to go. But not always and not necessarily. Sometimes, you can go around the mountain, and, who knows, you might enjoy what you'll find on the journey. Then, there are times when you follow the example of the road builders — just lop off the top.

For goodness sake, though, don't just sit around at the base, afraid of trying to get over the top, sinking in your own fear and inertia. We are all surrounded by mountains — literally and figuratively — and we have to conquer them before we can move forward, and seldom do we find anyone who can or will carry us across.

- Remember your roots.

Amen. You have a much richer heritage than most people have been willing or able to tell you. Find out more and relish it. Be proud of where you came from and prouder still of where you're going.

At the same time, don't let your roots get tangled up and smother you to death. By all means, do get above your raisin's. Be better, learn more, see more, do more than your parents. Remind them, if you have to, that the best things they can give you are roots and wings.

- Be self-sufficient.

Learn everything you can. Do everything you can for yourself. Wash your own clothes, cook your own food, sleep by yourself with the light off. Make your own money, read your own books, formulate your own philosophy, think your own thoughts, dream your own dreams.

Be able to live totally independently, and then if someone wants to help you, allow them to.

- Give back.

Using what your family, your teachers, your neighbors have given you, make it big. Accomplish much. Succeed. Win. Do right.

Thank everyone you can think of who has helped you — before they die. Then, do for other people what these people did for you. Tutor a child. Coach a community softball team. Speak to a class. Hire a student. Write a check.

PARENT SPEAKS UP FOR COACH

Editor:
Just when I thought I had heard it all, I pick up the Floyd County Times sports section (June 4 issue) to read they are not rehiring Jack Pack as head coach at Prestonsburg High School. Don't Mr. Pack's professional background and leadership mean anything to the basketball program?

In the last five years, look what this one individual has produced in the basketball program. Look at what fine young men have gone on to further their athletic careers. This has been under the supervision of Jack Pack.

I have watched him on many occasions with his basketball program, and you can tell he really got the best out of all his players. And the players have the utmost respect for him. I would have loved for this man to have coached my own son for four years.

This man has had a struggle for the last year, and he won his rights back in a court of law. If this is a political move, then I would suggest that Mr. Pack be hired at Betsy Layne High School where he could possibly bring a program to this school.

I figured that Coy Sammons would love to have Tim Rice under his roof at Prestonsburg High School. For the last five years, Coach Rice has been coaching a "young" team that never seems to grow up. After five years, it looks like a program should be off the ground enough to produce a basketball program.

... I sometimes wonder where the basketball program at BLHS would be today if they had allowed Keith Henry to remain coach. Now, this was a man who could gain respect from the players and control his team the way he wanted, not how politics wanted it. I respect this man for what he instilled in my own son. But politics won over.

Is this what parents want for their children? I would hate to think of what would have become of Chase Gibson if his parents had not sent him to Pikeville High School. He would probably still be on the bench at Betsy Layne, trying to gel with the team.

If we had more people like Jack Pack, Danny Adams (Magoffin County) and Keith Henry to guide our children, I can't imagine what would come out of our school systems. I realize that the first priority in the school system is academics, with the athletic program to follow, but how can we maintain a good program with politics always playing a major role? We can't.

Then, parents wonder why children turn out the way they are. As long as you keep a child in the gym or on the baseball field, there is little room for getting into other things. I believe in Jack Pack. I've seen with my own eyes what kind of professional he is on the basketball court, and, again, I would have loved for my son to be under his direction on the basketball floor.

So many times, I've seen Coach Pack take out a player and take the time to talk with him and pat him on the back. That stays with a child for many years, versus throwing a chair or jerking one up by the jersey. I vote for Jack Pack to stay at PHS.

WRITERS APPRECIATE DR. FLOYD

Editor:
We wish to extend our voice of appreciation to Dr. Deborah Floyd for her years of service to Prestonsburg Community College and to endorse the resolution set forth by the PCC Board of Directors.

She has earned the title of President Emeritus by her eight years of service to the college in that role, and it would be fitting that a future building be named in her honor.

During her tenure as president of Prestonsburg Community College, Dr. Floyd has brought innumerable advancements, both in innovative teaching and learning techniques and in health initiatives for the college and the community.

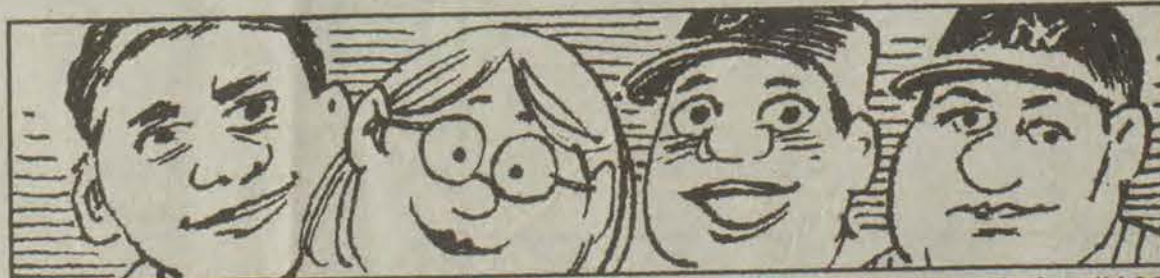

The Health Clinic, which she, in conjunction with the University of Kentucky, established on the campus, was the first of its kind in the United States. This will be a lasting and meaningful legacy to her leadership.

Dr. Floyd was a worthy successor to our founding president, Dr. Henry A. Campbell, and her leadership, following his, will enable our college to meet the vast challenges of the new millennium.

We wish her Godspeed as she moves on to pursue her future career, toward the achievement of even greater accomplishments in the years to come.

Sssssssteam heat

It was not, could not have been this hot when I was young.

Sure, I remember dirt necklaces ringing my throat after I'd played for hours in the afternoon sun on the flat, coal-packed surface of an abandoned tippie. And I fondly recall how good a glass of ice water tasted when I sat on the front porch with the sweat pasting the backs of my legs to metal chairs.

But it's much hotter now, isn't it?

I can also remember when a big draw for restaurants and theaters was the sign that said simply, "Come in. It's cool inside." Motels, eateries and dime stores promoted the fact that they were air conditioned, something we can't conceive of a business establishment being without now.

It is hotter now.

I was even in Georgia through eight summers, living in several houses and apartments (I move a lot), only one place with air conditioning. I don't remember having a fan in most of those places, but we did leave the door open most nights. (Now you know it was a long time ago.)

The only people I knew well who regularly used air conditioning were my in-laws who lived in far-south Georgia, close to the Florida and Alabama state lines where swamps and alligators can be seen from the highway.

They lived in six rooms of a huge, once-grand house and had a room air conditioner in the windows of five of those rooms. I was always cold in that house and slept under several covers when I was there.

It is hotter now.

In Arkansas where I lived for four years, the delta heat came at you in waves, steam rising off the Mississippi and wending its way up the Arkansas River, right into your skin. Still, I turned on the big window air conditioner only when I had company or those times when the temperature stayed above 95 late into the night several days in a row.

It is hotter now.

I did not have a car with air conditioning until 1992, and, to tell the truth, I seldom used it, primarily when I had to get somewhere with a minimum of damp wrinkles in my clothes. Saturday, I drove to Logan, West Virginia, and I intended to open the window and turn off the air conditioner on the open road, but the blowing air was so hot I ended up running the cooler during the whole trip.

It is hotter now.

At this writing on Wednesday evening after nine, I have four fans on in my upstairs apartment that stands unshielded in the sun all day long. I have rolled up the sleeves on my thin t-shirt. My hair is wet around the hairline, and my forehead is damp. I'm on my second can of pop for the evening, and that's after at least three glasses of ice water.

I hate investing in an air conditioner right now because there's a real possibility my aunt will have to come live with me and we'll have to find another, larger place. But I'm afraid I might have to give in.

As much as I like to have windows open and fresh air circulating, I am sweltering. I might have to compromise. I am convinced it is hotter now.

Webbs to perform at Prater Creek Baptist

The Webbs will be at the Prater Creek Baptist Church at Banner, June 20-25.

The Webbs are a family evangelistic team based near Cumberland, Maryland. Barry is the son of a well-known evangelist, Dr. Hal Webb of the Hal Webb Evangelistic Team. Cheryl is the daughter of Pastor Clifford Proper who pastors in Nichols, New York. They have two daughters, Bethany and Rachel. Together they make up a very unusual family evangelistic team.

The Webbs have quite a variety of talents. First they are accomplished musicians. In their meetings, they sing solos, duets, trios, and mixed quartets. Cheryl is an excellent pianist and Barry plays baritone and flugabone horns. Barry is also a ventriloquist and has had more than twenty years in the field of puppetry.

He does all of the voices for the twenty puppets that travel with the team in their castle puppet stage. Some nights he will draw a chalk art picture, complete with background music and colored and black lights.

Bethany and Rachel also work with puppets and ventriloquism in the children's Bible hour that Mr. Webb conducts during the preaching time.

A multi-talented family from Rawlings, Maryland, will bring their ministry to Floyd County, June 20-25.

— Y'all come back, now, y'hear. Sad to say, to succeed, most of you will have to leave here. And, really, that's all right — hundreds of thousands of mountaineers have had to do just that.

But, where you can make a difference is in learning all you can learn, being as successful as you can be and then bringing it back home. Bring your ideas back and share them with those who have remained — your idea may be the one that helps us find the light. Bring your knowledge back and share it — goodness knows, we have to chip away at our collective ignorance as fast and as hard as we can. Bring your money back and help us build jobs and pride and value.

Those of you who are graduating are already special. For almost every one of you, another student gave up, for any number of reasons, some of them valid, some not. But you've done this and you can do more. You have a high school diploma. Now, go to technical school, go to college, or get a job. Be of use. There's a lot more to life beyond today. — Pam Shingler

A Prestonsburg native has been named chief of the Major Crimes Section of the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation for the state of Ohio.

Darrel Pennington was appointed by Ohio Attorney General Betty D. Montgomery to head the department which oversees the Crime Scene Unit and Special Investigations Unit. The section, made up of more than 40 special agents and staff, is responsible for the investigation of violent crime and corruption, as well as sensitive and complex investigations.

Pennington is the attorney general's former quality assurance coordinator and Sex Offender

Registration and Notification (SORN) administrator. His previous duties included training law enforcement and courts in the area of sex offender registration and new legislation regarding criminal history information.

He formerly served with the Columbus, Ohio, Division of Police, as commander of the Planning and Research, Vice, and Special Forces bureaus. His last assignment was commander of the Detective Bureau.

Pennington has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy at Quantico, Virginia.

Design an Ad Contest

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Ashley Derossett, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, was one of 105 students whose ads from the Lexington Herald-Leader's Design Ad Contest were included in the May 18 edition of the Newspaper.

Art instructor Ellen Trimble had each of her art students do a design, but each school was allowed to submit 13 entries.

Derossett said she was attracted to Pizza Hut's slogan "Making It Great." She said she thought about the slogan and design and tried to think how she could approach the project using her artistic talents.

Derossett said she thought it was important that businesses have good designs. "Usually, if the customer likes the ad, they will like the business," said Derossett.

Look for Derossett's design at Pizza Hut in Prestonsburg.

Derossett plans to attend Prestonsburg Community College for one year and then transfer to Savannah College of Art and Design in Georgia. Her ultimate goal is to become a commercial artist.

To celebrate Derossett's achievement, the class had a pizza party where gifts from the

Lexington Herald-Leader were awarded.

In addition to one of these prizes Derossett received a certification of participation and Newspaper in Education pencil.

Hall named award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that George Hall from Prestonsburg, has been named a United States National Award winner in honor roll.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Hall, who attends the Piast School, was nominated for this national award by Father David Powers, a teacher/counselor at the school.

George Hall will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

Hall is the son of Cainer and Gwen Hall of Prestonsburg. His grandparents are Katherine Hall of Martin, and Deacon George Miller of St. Louis, Missouri.

The Prestonsburg High School Mountain Harmony Handbell Choir presented a Christmas concert for Highlands Regional Medical Center staff and patients and for the volunteers. The choir concluded the semester with a Christmas concert at the Mountain Arts Center. The second semester began with a performance for the principals and counselors of the Talented and Gifted Program. Through donations and fund raising the choir recently purchased two octaves of handbells. Two additional octaves are needed to complete the set. Choir members are, front row, left: Jason Johnson, Justin Stephens, Ty Martin, Brandon Bentley, Alex Hill; second row: Kim Shepherd, Jan Austin, Margaret Damron, Greta Hicks, Jessica Hicks, Rachel Davis, Lacey Hughes, Stephanie Watkins, director Elizabeth Frazier, Kayla Goble, Britni Duff, Andrea Stump, Kelly Knott, Amanda Elliott, and Iris Stumbo.

Accelerated reader in action

by Charlotte Hale

Hi, my name is Charlotte Hale. I go to Prestonsburg Elementary and I'm in the third grade. I'm going to tell you about Accelerated Reader which we call A.R. This is a reading program that helps children learn to read and understand more books. Each child reads one book in their reading level and takes a test on it on a computer.

The reading levels are shown by a colored sticker with numbers on it. On the book, the sticker tells you the level and how many points you can earn. After they get so many points, their class gets to go to the A.R. store in their school. When they go into the store, they buy prizes with their points. Our school has read 12,662 books since the first of the school year or 96 days of school. Last week the school started A. R. after school on Wednesdays. Any student can stay at school from 3 to 4 p.m. to read more of their A.R. book.

I like A.R. because they have good books to read like chapter books and picture books. "The Bailey School Kids" books by Debbie Dadey are my favorite chapter books to read. Other schools should start A.R. because it makes reading fun and helps children learn to read. I'm glad my school has A. R. because it is fun!!

There were two people named Kent and Gloria Fox that came to school and sang some great Tennessee folk songs. They sang the song "High Hopes," but in an Appalachian way. The lady named Gloria told a story with puppets about a girl. She told her mom a lie and felt so bad about it. She had to tell her mom that she did the bad thing she had done. They finished the show by letting kids come up and hit this piece of wood and it made a string puppet dance. Then when everyone was leaving, they played a very good song about a rabbit. (story by Shawn David Goble)

Learning: a lifelong process to be celebrated

It was a natural choice for Alvan Hadley Jr. When he retired in 1989 after serving as a U.S. Army colonel and 24 years as an administrator of military academies, what could Hadley do?

He went back to school. "I like education. I like young people. I've been active all my life, and I couldn't see sitting around and cutting the grass," said Hadley, 74, of Lexington.

"You're going to learn and you're going to teach your entire life. Life is a continual learning and teaching proposition, no matter who you are. The moment you stop learning and teaching, you might as well die," Hadley said.

So, Hadley enrolled at the University of Kentucky.

In early May, he was conferred his doctorate in education, 10 years after entering UK under the Donovan Scholars Program.

Named for former UK President Henry L. Donovan, the program offers tuition-free academic and enrichment courses to anyone over the age of 65. Launched in 1964, it is the nation's oldest program of its kind, awarding its first bachelor's degree in 1967 and its first Ph.D. in 1975. About 550 senior citizens participate in college courses each semester.

Arleen Johnson, director of the Donovan Scholars Program, said the programs attract a broad variety of older students. She noted the number of older students likely will increase, since the population of people reaching age 65 is rapidly growing.

"Older students say they like to come back to school because they study what they want. Some of them, who may have attended college previously, want to flesh out their basic knowledge with electives.

"Some of them are re-tooling, like the ones who take computer classes to develop those skills for business purposes. Others want to write their memoirs, and computer classes are helpful in building skills with word processors," Johnson said.

Johnson noted that a number of older students are drawn back to school to finish their studies. "They may have left school because of war or for family reasons," she said.

Older students usually find their decision to return to school to be wise, she said.

Deb Danner, a researcher at UK's Sanders-Brown Center on Aging, confirmed Johnson's statement. Danner earned her doctoral degree with a dissertation that studied decisions by senior citizens to return to school.

"I interviewed a number of older students, and one of them said, 'To be on campus with young scholars makes me feel many years younger and puts a spring in my step and joy in my heart,'" Danner said.

"I found that older students found value in the challenge of being around a diverse group of people they can interact with," she said.

Hadley, who had received his bachelor's degree from West Point in 1946 and his master's degree from Columbia University in 1953, presents a perfect example of the people Danner and Johnson described.

"I was with young people in their 20s. I learned the new lingo. I don't share all of their interests, but we'd talk a lot over lunch," Hadley said.

So what are Hadley's plans, now that he has received his Ph.D.?

"I might go and take some more classes," Hadley said.

Kentucky law requires all state colleges and universities to provide free educational opportunities to persons over 65. Each institution can provide details of its program.

Donovan Scholars program is available by contacting Judy Henselman at 606/257-2656 or by writing her at the University of Kentucky Donovan Scholars Program, 658 S. Limestone, Lexington, Ky. 40506-0442.

Local student initiated into freshman honorary

Lesley Wells of Auxier, has been initiated into the Georgetown College chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta academic honor society for freshmen. She is the daughter of Melvin and Bobbie Ann Wells.

In order to qualify for membership, students must have a 3.5 or better grade point average for their first semester in college. Alpha Lambda Delta members who maintain a 3.5 or better grade point average for all four years in college are recognized upon graduation.

Georgetown had 80 new qualifiers for Alpha Lambda Delta, based on their first semester record. A total of 47 students received the senior award.

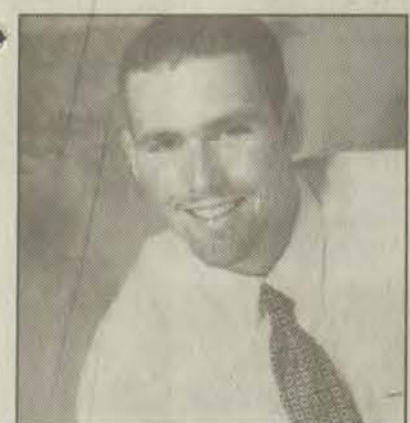

There are 217 chapters of Alpha Lambda Delta located at colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Community members and teachers read numerous books written by Floyd County students to judge winners of the Young Authors competition conducted by the Floyd County Board of Education. The judging was held May 25 at Adams Middle School. Readers often expressed amazement at the creativity and grammatical skills of the young authors. (photo by Willie Elliott)

Jessica Dawn Reynolds, a 1999 graduate of Allen Central High School, has been admitted to Berea College as a member of the 1999-2000 freshman class. By virtue of enrollment at Berea, Reynolds becomes the recipient of a four-year, full tuition scholarship, currently worth more than $60,000. She is the daughter of Sally Ousley and James D. Reynolds of Martin.

Owens receives scholarship

Two Floyd County residents have received Chancellor Scholarships from the University of Kentucky. The four-year scholarships provide $1,000 a year. Receiving the scholarships were Sulma Badrudduja of Prestonsburg, and Ryan Owens of Langley. Badrudduja's parents are Syed and Meraj Badrudduja. Owens is the son of Joe and Teresa Owens. A third Floyd County student, Joshua Ward, received an Academic Excellence Scholarship, a one-year award of $1,500. He is the son of John and Vicki Ward of McDowell.

Joyce Watson, math and science coordinator for Floyd County Schools, was invited to Shellah Ratliff's classes at Duff Elementary to share her knowledge in math and science. She spent several days teaching science concepts by using experimental design and the scientific method. The students said they learned a great deal of science.

Card of Thanks

The family of Helen Clark wishes to thank all of those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love. We especially want to thank the ministers, Jimmy Brown and Bill Campbell, and those who helped in the service for their comforting words; the sheriff's department for their assistance in traffic control; and the Carter Funeral Home for their kind and professional service.

MSU offers SOAR programs

Morehead State University will host two Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) programs in June to familiarize incoming freshmen, transfer students and parents with the campus.

The daylong programs, slated for June 11 and 19, will begin with registration at 9 a.m. in the Adron Doran University Center. Displays of the university's academic programs will be available for viewing on the third floor of the student center.

An official welcome by university personnel is scheduled for 11 a.m. in Button Auditorium. Among those offering greetings will be MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin; Executive Vice-president for Academic Affairs Michael Moore Vice president for Student Life and Athletic Director Mike Mincey, and Director of University Bands Susan Creasap.

Following a lunch break, students will participate in an academic advising and registration session while parents attend a question and answer session and enjoy a campus tour.

Representatives from student housing, financial aid, academics, retention, student health services, telephone services public safety and student life will be available to provide information during this time.

Additional SOAR sessions will be offered on July 10 and 16. Information on the sessions is available from MSU's Office of Admissions at 800/585-6781 or 606/783-2000.

Local teachers share reward

Teachers in four of Magoffin County's eight schools will receive a share of the $26.4 million in reward money to be distributed throughout the state for improved test scores.

Magoffin County's total share will exceed $488,500.

Reward money will be distributed on two levels. Schools that improved their scores since 1996 will receive one share ($555) per teacher. Schools that exceeded their test score goals will receive two shares, or $1,100 per teacher.

One share will go to teachers at Millard Hensley Elementary and Salyer Elementary. Teachers at Prater-Borders Elementary and Magoffin County High school will receive two shares each.

Dollar amounts for each school breaks down as follows: Millard Hensley — $11,372; Prater-Borders —

$12,565; Salyer — $8,947; and Magoffin County High School — $55,644. — The Salyersville Independent

Historical society has new book

The Magoffin County Historical Society's newest published work is a volume containing all the obituaries excerpted from The Salyersville Independent from 1979-1998.

The 198-page book contains all the names of those individuals, their birth date, date of death, parent's names, spouse's names and identification of their place of burial.

In the book's forward, it was explained by MCHS President Todd Preston, that the purpose of publishing the obituary excerpts was to supplement material provided in four volumes of cemetery records previously printed by the historical society. — The Salyersville Independent

Court votes down solid waste ordinance

When the Martin County Fiscal Court voted against the proposed solid waste ordinance, thus eliminating the proposed mandatory garbage pickup, the pros and cons were addressed thoroughly. Although it was defeated this time, it's not a dead issue. The court can possibly take other courses of action or bring it up again if it so chooses.

During a lengthy Thursday morning meeting, District 2 Magistrate James Jarrett asked that the ordinance be tabled until Inez resident Bob Calloway and others had an opportunity to read the 16-page document. That motion was never under consideration and the vote was cast against the ordinance. — The Mountain Citizen

Sheriff out of luck

Martin County Sheriff Darriel Young has no luck dealing with the Martin County Fiscal Court. His request for assistance was turned down at Thursday's meeting.

Chief Deputy Pete Fitzpatrick presented a letter outlining the sheriff's request to court members a week earlier, but despite having the full support of Judge-Executive Lon E. Lafferty, the court voted 4-1 not to give Young the help he requested. — The Mountain Citizen

California bank sues man who has been dead for six months

One of Martin County's most respected citizens has been sued just six months after his death. A lawsuit was filed last week in Martin Circuit Court against the late James H. Grayson.

An ordained minister for 45 years, Grayson served as the pastor of many churches in southern West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky, including the Warfield Missionary Baptist Church and Inez First Baptist Church. He helped found the Mount Beulah Mission Church and the Tomahawk Mission Baptist Church.

A spokesperson for the legal firm representing the bank said he was unaware the defendant had died six months ago. He added that the bank probably would not have filed the suit if they had known Grayson was dead. — The Mountain Citizen

An Owensboro helicopter pilot was killed Tuesday when his aircraft crashed at a Branham & Baker strip mine at Flatwoods two miles south of Dorton.

According to the Kentucky state Police, Charles J. Helms Jr., 51, "was piloting a helicopter owned by Kindall Mining Company and had just dropped off five passengers at a Branham & Baker Coal Company surface operation ... Upon takeoff from the site, the rotor of his aircraft struck some high-voltage electrical lines and crashed immediately."

The accident occurred around 11:15 a.m. and resulted in total destruction of the aircraft, according to KSP information officer Mike Goble. — Appalachian News-Express

Superintendent Howard Wallen said. The renovation, which also calls for a new entry lobby/waiting room, a new administrative suite, a teachers' resource room and enclosure of the exterior concourse, will be paid off in about 20 years, Wallen said. — Appalachian News-Express

Pikeville Elementary planning $1.3 million expansion project

Pikeville Elementary School will this fall undergo a renovation that will more than double the size of its library, greatly increase its instructional space and add an elevator for those with limited mobility.

Main jailed for drunk-driving on endloader

A Jenkins man was jailed early Saturday morning after he backed a piece of heavy equipment into a creek while driving drunk, authorities said.

Freddie A. Oakes, 59, was arrested on Three Mile Road at Dorton by Kentucky State Police Trooper Luke VanHoose. He was charged with DUI.

According to the arrest citation, Oakes, of Oakes Trucking at Dorton, ran into the creek when he was backing an endloader down the road at 11:24 Friday night.

The citation said Oakes said he'd been operating the equipment at the time of the accident and hadn't had anything to drink since the wreck.

Oakes failed sobriety tests. — Appalachian News-Express

Federal spending up in Knott

Direct federal spending in Knott County had increased by 6.1 percent from $77,366,000 during fiscal year 1997 to $82,052,000 during fiscal year 1998, according to a report recently issued by the US Department of Commerce. — The Troublesome Creek Times

Progress on Red Fox project

The golf course portion of the proposed Red Fox project could have design work begin as early as September, members learned at the May meeting of the Red Fox Tri-County Development Authority.

Chairman Russell Bentley says he is pleased with advancements in the project. The Authority has given permission for the state Finance and Administration Cabinet to clear property titles, advertise for proposals from golf course architects and to hire an architect.

Water rate increase approved

Hindman City Council moved swiftly through their agenda at their monthly meeting held June 7, approving the budget and water rate increase.

Little discussion was necessary since it was the second reading of the 1999-2000 Fiscal Year Budget Ordinance and the Amendment to the Water Ordinance.

The water ordinance, raising the cost to Jones Fork water customers, and changing service charges to all customers, was approved. The changes will take place with the July billing. — Troublesome Creek Times

Commission accepts resignation of mayor

Denver Mollette is the new mayor of Blaine following a vote by the city commission on Thursday, which also voted to accept the resignation of elected mayor Cindy Steele.

Three of Blaine's four commissioners — Mollette; Nancy Chaffin and Wilma Blevins — were present to vote on Thursday. The vote to accept Steele's resignation passed 2-1, with Blevins casting the "no" vote.

Steele, who was elected in November over incumbent Larry Wheeler, submitted her resignation letter last month amid political bickering and problems within the city.

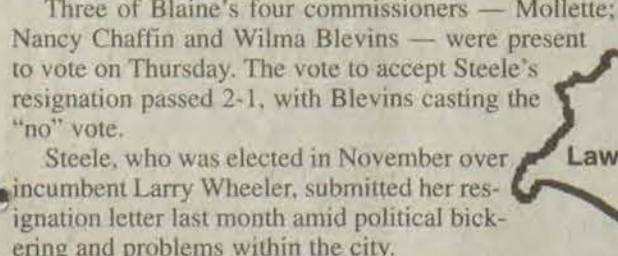

Among those problems is an investigation by the attorney general into the previous administration and a petition that was collected which will allow voters to decide in November whether or not to keep Blaine as a city. — The Big Sandy News

Young told police he was traveling north on US 23 at Lowmansville when a vehicle approached him from the rear flashing its headlights and signaling him to pull off the side of the road.

After stopping, Young got out of his vehicle and sustained a gunshot wound to the upper left chest area. Young got back into this car and drove to his home, where his brother took him to Three Rivers.

KSP Public Relations Officer Gary Kistner said that Young thought the driver of the other car wanted to tell him something.

"After (Young) pulled off, he thought the guy would get out and walk up to him, which he didn't do (Young) got out of the car and took about two steps when he heard a gun discharge," Kistner said. "About five inches above his left breast, a projectile struck him." — The Big Sandy News

Louisa man shot by motorist on US 23

Police have few clues in a shooting that took place on US 23 at Lowmansville early Monday morning.

Police said Wilburn Young, 33, of Louisa, called them from Three Rivers Medical Center around 1 a.m. Monday morning after being shot on US 23.

Jury awards $77,000 to woman who sued geriatric center

A jury awarded a woman $77,000 in damages Wednesday following a judge's ruling that she was improperly dismissed for her job at J.J. Jordan Geriatric Center.

Verlean Pack sued J.J. Jordan, its parent company M.E.B. Inc., and center administrator Davie McKenzie in July of 1996, claiming wage and position discrimination, as well as other abuses, led to her dismissal. — The Big Sandy News

A West Liberty man was apprehended Tuesday after a pursuit of several hours following a shooting incident at Kellacey.

State police said Bobby Lester, 41, was charged with wanton endangerment, fleeing to avoid arrest, and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia after he allegedly discharged a 30-30 rifle several times following an argument with Brian Maciag at the residence of Lacsria Vest at Kellacey.

When KSP and officers from the Morgan County Sheriff's Department arrived at the scene, Lester fled the area and was pursued by police on the road and into the woods. — The Licking Valley Courier

Magoffin woman shot, makes way to Morgan home

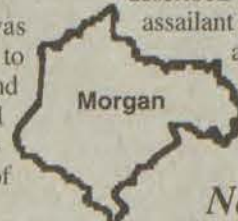

Officers from the Pikeville State Police Post are investigating the shooting of a Magoffin County woman who apparently was left for dead at a remote strip mine site near the Magoffin-Morgan county line sometime last Friday night or early Saturday morning.

The incident was reported after Mildred Slusher, 39, of Royalton appeared seeking help at the residence of Cynthia Gambill in the Coffee Creek section of Morgan County between 8 and 9 a.m. Saturday with a gunshot wound in her back.

Area residents said Slusher, who had made her way through the woods and off the hill to the Morgan County residence from a strip mine site in Magoffin County, described a harrowing experience during which her assailant or assailants had apparently left her for dead after trying to hide her body in a silt pond.

KSP said they were looking for two suspects from Magoffin County. — The Licking Valley Courier

New emergency department opening to be held Thursday

Grand opening of the new emergency department of the Morgan County Appalachian Regional Hospital will be held next Thursday, June 17.

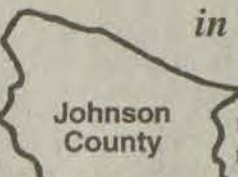

Begun last year in conjunction with the hospital's 25th anniversary, the 6,500 sq.-ft. state-of-the-art emergency department dwarfs the hospital's current cramped 700 sq.-ft. emergency room both in size and efficiency.

The new facility includes two large trauma rooms, three regular exam and treatment rooms, a private triage room, a large waiting area, a large private registration area, telemedicine capabilities, private bereavement room, work room for law enforcement officials, three handicap accessible restrooms, and a new elevator. — The Licking Valley Courier

Paintsville High's Jake Karn took just four minutes and 27 seconds to earn his place in the record books to become the first Paintsville High School individual competitor to be titled a state champ in any sport.

Karn's performance Saturday earned him the gold medal in the 1600-meter event, which he says is his favorite individual competition, and put him one step closer to achieving an even higher goal — competing on a professional level. — The Paintsville Herald

Jury to hear opening arguments in hit-and-run homicide case

Opening statements were scheduled for Wednesday in Floyd Circuit Court in the trial of a Johnson County man charged with murder.

Jury selection began Tuesday in the trial of Shawn Holbrook, 20, of Van Lear, charged in the December 27, 1997 hit-and-run death of a Grayson man. Prosecutors claim that Holbrook was on drugs the night his pickup truck hit Mark Allen Justice, 21, as he walked along Route 321 on Starfire Hill in Paintsville.

Holbrook's trial was originally scheduled for last month but was continued after two co-defendants — Nicolas Miller of Van Lear and Mark Thomas of Paintsville — pleaded guilty to lesser charges. Both men entered plea bargain agreements with prosecutors and pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of attempting to tamper with physical evidence. — The Paintsville Herald

Garbage defendants enter not guilty pleas

Five Johnson County defendants charged with criminal littering and violating the county's mandatory garbage collection ordinance pleaded not guilty Monday in Johnson District court.

The defendants who entered not-guilty pleas were among 14 people cited in April by ecology officer James McCarty.

Patsy Mullins (center) visited Shellah Ratliff's fourth and fifth grade classes at Duff Elementary to help them study wildflowers and mountain plants. She brought in sample flowers from the hills and took the students on a nature walk to help them find the flowers themselves. The highlight of the trip was when she showed them how to "make music" by blowing on a blade of grass placed between their thumbs.

Induction ceremony held at P'burg College

Ceremonies were held on Friday, March 26, at the Pike Auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College, to induct new members into the Alpha Nu Zeta Chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society.

The guest speaker for the evening was Ana Leon, associate professor of mathematics of Lexington Community College, who gave a speech on "What Do People Expect of Leaders."

The service was conducted by Peggy Spears, chapter president, along with Emma Rogers, vice-president; Jill Horton, treasurer; Gregory Carroll, public relations; Bill Loftus and Hassan Saffari, advisors for the chapter.

Phi Theta Kappa is an International Honor Society for two year colleges. A grade point average of 3.5 must be achieved and maintained to qualify for membership.

Among the 1998-99 inductees were Erin Akers, Twyla Marie Auxier, Elouise Bailey, Bobby Baldrige, Crystal Berger, Joseph Blevins, Mary Borders, Sandra Branham, Kitty Burchett, Danna Burke, Elizabeth Campbell, Gregory Carroll, Carol Chafins, Paul Childers, Donna Church,

Executive Director
Floyd County
Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber likes to participate in meetings and activities going on around the county. June promises to keep us really busy!

On Friday, June 11, the Membership Committee will meet at 9 a.m., in the Chamber office. This will be the planning session for our mid-year blitz. You may recall that Bruce Kelleck made a public statement on the Chamber Show that his goal is to add 100 new members. What ambition!

Let's hope the other members of that committee share Bruce's enthusiasm. Those fine folks are Trent Nairn, Allen Bolling, Stephanie Baldwin, David Lafferty, and Norm Marcum. Of course, any Chamber member can be a recruiter.

The full board of directors will meet in the Chamber office on Monday, June 14, from 11 a.m. through lunch. The agenda includes a presentation by Debbie Gilbert, Career Development Center, London, who will tell us about a new website, www.kentuckybusinessmall.com, which features Floyd County.

Also, incoming president Dennie Dorton will share his 1999-2000 goals with us. Board members will also tackle the task of forming new committees.

Those who need to be there are Dennie Dorton, Greg Wilson, Stephanie Baldwin, Suzanne Hyden, Harold Warman Jr., Dr. Fred Meece, Phillip Hunt, Estill Branham, Anne Chaney, Mark

McLemore, Don Fields, Kathy Friend, Thomas Hereford III, Dan Hitchcock, Norm Marcum, Leigh Ann Maynard, Bob Meyer, and Linda Ritchie.

The Rural Community College Initiative, directed by Jean Dorton, will meet at the Mountain Arts Center at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 15, for a work session. The Chamber is participating in an effort to develop a business plan for the Big Sandy region.

On Friday, June 18, Chamber Director Rebecca Derossett will attend graduation ceremonies at the Job Corps. Also, that evening marks the opening of the Jenny Wiley Theatre summer season at 6:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, June 22, the Chamber and the Small Business Development Center will co-sponsor a workshop at the Morehead Big Sandy Extended Campus in Prestonsburg. This free training session, Planning for Success, scheduled from 1 to 3:30 p.m., will be led by Mike Morley of the SBDC. Call the Chamber office to register, 606/886-0364.

Manpower Temporary Services and Stephanie Baldwin will host Business after Hours on Tuesday evening, June 22 from 5 until 7 p.m. Join us for fun and refreshments.

RSVP 889-9710 by June 21.

The Chamber Show filming by LJ Productions will be on Wednesday, June 30, at 2 p.m., in the Chamber office. Guests are Mark Sohn, Classic Cooking; Steve Murphy, S & L Chem Dry; and

Duane Sanders, East Kentucky Center for Science, Math and Technology. Also, The Legal Minute will feature local attorney Ralph Stevens.

See you, same time, same place, next week. Stay in touch!

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey to receive honorary doctorate from Ohio University

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey will receive an Honorary Doctorate of Public Service degree from Ohio University in Athens during commencement exercises planned for June 11.

In a letter announcing the award, Ohio University President Robert Glidden said Bailey's "pioneering efforts and participation in the field of economic development and the improvement of health care for people in Appalachia are laudatory."

Bailey, who earned a Ph.D. degree from Ohio University in 1975, said he was grateful for the recognition from his alma mater.

"To be nominated for such an award is compliment enough to one's good efforts," Bailey said. "But to be recognized in full is truly rewarding. My goal, always, is to serve the proud people of my native land, and I will continue to dedicate my energy toward that end."

Since 1972, Bailey, 54, has been the Executive Director of East Kentucky Health Services Center Inc., a model program nationally for rural health care delivery. As a state senator from eastern Kentucky since 1980, the Hindman Democrat has led statewide efforts to serve low-income and rural people who lack access to health care.

The son of a Floyd County coal miner, Bailey embarked at an early age on a life of activism that has brought much improvement to the Appalachian region.

At 21, Bailey directed the Community Development Program for four poverty-prone counties in eastern Kentucky. In 1971, he founded Appalachian Leaders in Community Outreach (ALCOR), a student-operated enrichment program that developed community centers in isolated locales throughout a 22-county area.

Bailey recruited college students from across America to offer programs in education, recreation, nutrition, health and community development. For these efforts, ALCOR won national acclaim and publicity.

Later, Bailey joined his high school classmate, W. Grady Stumbo, M.D., to establish two medical clinics in eastern Welfare Committee. Since 1997, he has chaired the powerful Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

Bailey's Health Care Reform Act of 1990 created the University of Kentucky's Center of Excellence in Rural Health in the coal-mining town of Hazard, making it the only site outside Lexington where students can participate in UK's Family Practice Residency Program and earn the university's degrees in physical therapy, medical technology and nursing.

Bailey was also instrumental in bringing the only psychiatric hospital to this mountain region, as well as the only long-term care facility for chronic mental patients. Additionally, he helped establish numerous senior citizens' and day-care centers throughout Kentucky.

In 1996, Bailey led efforts to create the first medical school in eastern Kentucky, the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine (PCSOM). In 1998, Bailey sponsored legislation providing scholarships to all Kentuckians attending PCSOM. For the first time, eastern Kentucky students can attend a college of medicine close to their home at a cost they can afford.

Bailey represents the state's 29th senatorial district comprised of Breathitt, Floyd, Knott and Johnson counties. He is married to Nikki Rieck Bailey and has four sons, Malcolm Glenn, Benny Ray, Chet Daniel and Steven Paul.

Kentucky. Their successful efforts became the model for Robert Wood Johnson's Rural Health Practice Project Program, which was implemented by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In 1978, Drs. Bailey and Stumbo were awarded the John D. Rockefeller Public Service Award by the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University.

In 1979, Bailey was elected state senator. For 12 years, he served with distinction as chairman of the Senate Health and

Thornsberry makes it two in a row

by James Trimble
Track Writer

It was another good night for racing at the Thunder Ridge Raceway last Saturday night as all five classes were on hand to excite the crowd with lots of wheel-to-wheel action.

Super Bomber qualified first with the No. 43k of Kevin Hall setting the quick time of 20.66. Next the Modifieds qualified with the 10c of Gary Combs turning in the quickest time of 20.42. The Late Models had the No. 17 of Shannon Thornsberry setting the pace with a time of 18.41 and Bombers were led in qualifying by T23 Keith Tincher with a time of 21.39.

Super Bomber heat had 43k Kevin Hall and No. 19 Jamie Slone leading them to the green. Hall jumped out to the early lead with Slone in close pursuit.

Slone kept looking for an opportunity to pass Hall, but Hall kept his cool and went on to win the heat.

Modifieds

Modified heat No. 1 had the 10c of Gary Combs and the 911 of Kurt Hofsess on the front row. Combs jumped out to the early advantage and was able to hold off Hofsess to take the heat.

Modified heat No. 2 had the 032 of James Hall and the 69 of Tim Moore on the front row. At the drop of the green, Moore jumped out to the early lead.

Meanwhile, behind him there was a battle for the second spot between the No. 1 of Byron Allen and the No. 25 of Keith Hamilton and the 77 of Jackie Fields. Moore took the checkered with Hamilton winning the second spot.

Late Model

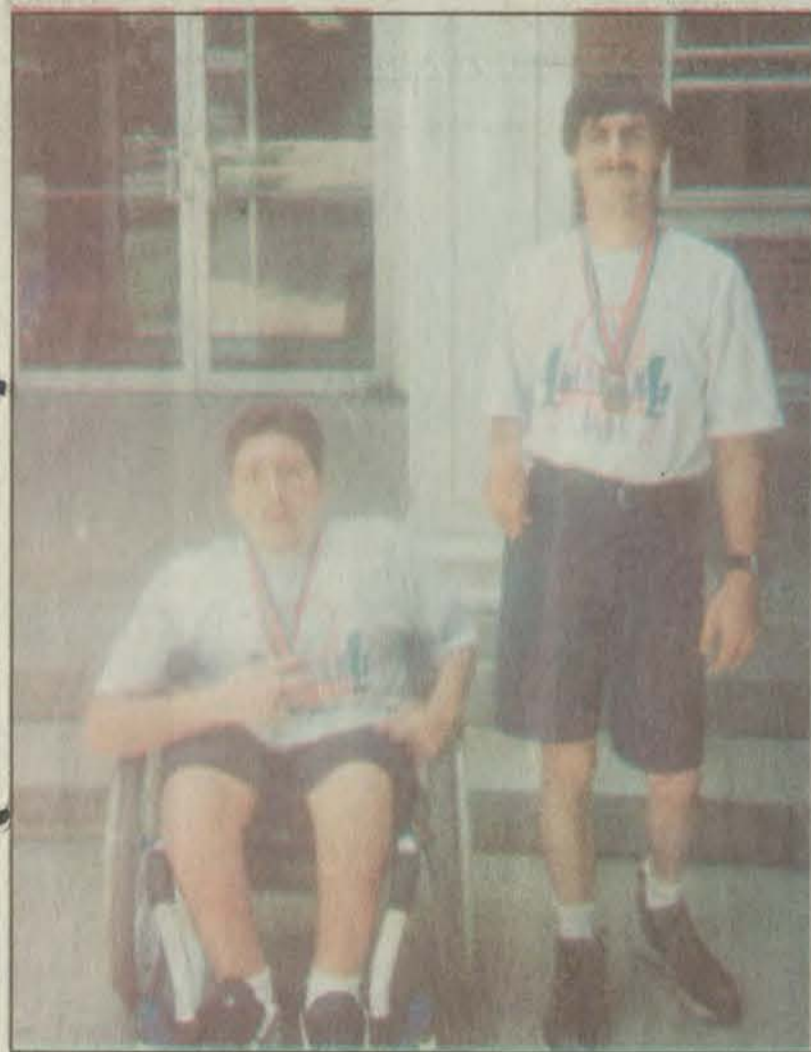

Late Model heat had the 17 of Shannon Thornsberry and the 55 of Ronnie Cole Jr. on the front row. At the drop of the green, Thornsberry jumped out to the early lead and was able to hold off Paul Harris to take the heat.

Bomber heat No. 1 had Keith Tincher and No. 44 Danny Lowe leading the field to the green. Tincher jumped out to the early advantage and never looked back leading the six lap heat flag to flag.

Gary Combs and his wife were in the winner's circle this past weekend at Thunder Ridge. Combs is well-known for his winning tradition in racing at local tracks.

Chris Meadows of Weeksbury and Bill Hunt (right) of Hi Hat won medals in the Kentucky Special Olympics held June 4-6. Both won silver and gold medals in the competitions.

"Kickin' it up" at state special olympics events

Two local athletes, Bill Hunt of Hi Hat and Chris Meadows of Weeksbury, participated in the Kentucky Special Olympics June 4-6, at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. "Kickin' It Up," a Western Theme, was displayed the entire weekend.

Friday's opening ceremonies included the arrival of the "Flame of Hope" and lighting of the torch, the Special Olympics Oath, and celebrity appearances. Ceremonies concluded with a fireworks display. All 2,000 athletes, coaches, volunteers and family members remained on the field to enjoy the return of Lexington Police Band 911.

The event actually began on May 24 when the official Special Olympics torch began its journey across the state, carried by hundreds of men and women in law enforcement. By the time it reached Richmond for the opening ceremonies of the 1999 Summer Games, it had passed through 80 counties and had been seen by thousands of citizens along the route. Kentucky's Torch Runners represent every local, state and federal law enforcement agency in the state.

The group has organized local fund-raising events, sold T-shirts and participated in statewide functions all year. Members of law enforcement who earned the right to represent the "Circle of Honor" escorted the torch into Roy Kidd Stadium for the official passing of the flame to Special Olympics Athletes.

Athletic competition began early Saturday morning in Track and Field, Aquatics, Gymnastics, Power Lifting, Soccer and Developmental events. Bill Hunt started the local athletes by winning the Silver Medal in the Shot Put. Chris Meadows followed by winning the Silver Medal in the Softball Throw.

Immediately following the Softball Throw, Chris struck Gold by winning the 100 and bringing home the Gold in the 100-meter Dash.

Chris was asked to compete in the World Games this year, but he is ineligible because he hasn't lived in Kentucky for the past two years.

Bill was selected to compete in the World Special Olympic Games in 1995 and is a 1999

alternate on Team USA that will compete in the World Special Olympic Games in Raleigh, N.C., June 26-July 4. Over 7,000 athletes from over 100 countries will be competing in these games.

All athletes enjoyed special activities throughout the weekend. Olympic Town offered games, music and food. The Kentucky Thoroughblades demonstrated the exciting sport of Street Hockey.

On Saturday evening the athletes celebrated their accomplishments from Summer Games '99 with a Victory Dance and boogied Down to the music of Borderline.

Chris Meadows, the son of Ed and Linda Senig of Weeksbury, received his medal from a presenter in the Special Olympics state competition. Since he began competing in the games three years ago, Chris has won five gold and one silver.

Mosley's pitches, Allen's hits lead Astros

Some hard hitting and some swift-flying balls helped the Drift Astros pull out a big win Wednesday in Bambino League action.

The Astros defeated the Martin Reds 14-5. Shawn Mosley put in a good performance as the winning pitcher for the Astros. Reds' pitcher, Robbie Vanderpool, had a good arm in the game, but just couldn't pull out a win for the Reds.

In the top of the first, Wes Tackett walked for the Astros, and Shannon Hall got a base hit. With two runners on, John Mullins got a two-run double to make it two to nothing.

In the bottom of the first inning, the Martin Reds failed to score.

In the second inning, the first three batters walked for the Astros. John Mullins came to plate and smacked another base hit and an RBI for the Astros.

With the bases loaded with Astros, all the Reds could do was watch the ball soar when Scott Allen came to the plate and hit a grand slam home run over the centerfield fence.

In the bottom of the second for the Reds, Shawn Perry got a base hit, J. Prater drew a walk, and T.J. Hall came up with a two-run single for the Reds.

The third inning saw no scores increase for either team as the competition came head-to-head.

The Astros were back in form in the fourth inning. Shannon Hall walked, Scott Allen walked, Andrew Lafferty got a two-run triple, and Shawn Mosley got an RBI double.

The Reds were kept at bay in the fourth and did not score again until the fifth inning. Tyler Slone walked, Kevin Dustin got a base hit, and Robbie Vanderpool hit a three-run home run to give the Reds their fifth run in the game.

The Astros continued to look good in the fifth. Bryan Salisbury walked, Wes Tackett walked, and John Mullins came back with a two-run triple.

Scott Allen hit an opposite field home run out of the park for a two-run home run and the winning score on the scoreboard.

Justin Moore started the game and had three strikeouts. Robbie Vanderpool took over in the second inning and had nine strikeouts.

Pitcher Shawn Mosley had seven strikeouts and "really looked good for the Astros," his coach, Clinis Hall commented Thursday.

Shannon Hall comes up with six in win

The Drift Astros and the Martin Reds split a double-header last Friday night.

Both teams played well, according to Astros Coach Clinis Hall. The Reds won the first game 9-8. The winning pitcher was Robbie Vanderpool.

In the second game, the victory went to the Astros. Shannon Hall "was the star of the game for the Astros with three doubles and a triple," Hall said.

Bomber heat No. 2 had No. 62 Joel Jenson and Johnny Layne on the front row. At the checkered flag, Jenson was able to hold off all challenges, winning the heat and outside pole for the fea-

Road Hog
The Road Hog heat had B17 Brandon Johnson and 128 Keith

Branham on the front row for the start. Johnson jumped out to the early lead and was able to take the heat.

Super Bomber
The Super Bomber feature was next with the 43k of Kevin Hall and the 19 of Jamie Slone ready to pick up where they left off in the heat race. At the drop of the green flag, like in the heat race, Hall jumped out to the early lead with Slone right on his bumper. Slone tried everything in his power to get around Hall, but the two cars were well matched, and Hall had a good line around the track, keeping Slone at bay for the entire 15-lap feature. At the line, it was 43k Kevin Hall in first. In second was the 19 of Jamie Slone; in third was the 5 of David Clifton; fourth was the 77 of Randy Fannin; and fifth was the 5 of Danny Smith.

Modified feature
Modified feature had the 10c of Gary Combs and the 69 of Tim Moore on the front row. This proved to be a very competitive race with lots of side by side action and close racing throughout the 20-lap feature. But in the end it was the 10c of Gary Combs taking the victory. In a close second was the 911 of Kurt Hofsess, third goes to 69 Tim Moore, fourth was Jason Johnson and rounding out the top five was 51 Greg Ison who made his way from fifteenth to finish an impressive fifth.

Late model
Late Model feature had the 17 of Shannon Thornsberry and the 10 of Paul Harris on the front row. At the drop of the green flag, Thornsberry took the lead with Harris in close pursuit. During the entire 25-lap feature, Thornsberry and Harris ran nose-to-tail with Harris looking for any chance to take the lead but Thornsberry was up for the challenge, driving a good line and not making any mistakes to allow Harris to take the advantage. In the end Thornsberry took the checkered, followed closely by Harris in second, in third was the 10 of Raymond Nichols, in fourth was the 55 of Ronnie Cole Jr., and rounding out the top five was the 72 of Roy Mullins.

Bomber feature
Bomber feature had the T23 of Keith Tincher and the 62 of Joel Jenson on the front row as the green fell. The early lead went to Tincher as he led lap one, but Jenson fought back to take the point on lap two. On lap five Jenson got a little loose coming out of turn three, causing the cars behind him to check up causing a wreck.

After reviewing the tape of the incident several times, Thunder Ridge officials determined that the leader caused the wreck and sent Jenson to the rear of the field, and giving Tincher the lead back. When the green was out, Jenson made an impressive run. Trying to get back to the front of the field, he made his way from the back of the pack all the way back up to fifth place at the checkered flag, but up front Tincher was able to hold on to the lead and win the Bomber feature followed closely by the 2x of Tandy Spurlock in second. In third was the 63 of Jonny Layne. In fourth was the 44 of Danny Lowe, and in fifth was 62 Joel Jenson.

Rod Hog feature
Road Hog feature had the B17 of Brandon Johnson and the 18k of John Henson on the front row. As usual, the action was hot and heavy but Johnson was able to hold on to the lead for the entire 12 laps and take the victory. Coming in second was the 18K of John Henson, in third was the J17 of Jimmy Arnett, in fourth was the 128 of Keith Branham and rounding out the top five was the 69 of Dennis Bartley.

The next action at Thunder Ridge will be in two weeks as next week Thunder Ridge will take a break to allow fans to go the Dream Race at Eldora. It will also give Thunder Ridge officials a chance to work on the track and the drivers a chance to work on their cars and get ready for action again on June 19 as all classes will be on hand to resume the season.

Jamie King collects 4th All-American notice of track career

Despite having to run more than three-fourths of the race with just one shoe, Eastern Kentucky University track standout Jamie King, a senior from Botkins, Ohio, was still able to collect her fourth

NCAA Division I Track All-American award this past weekend by finishing seventh in the 1,500-meter run at the 1999 NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championship held at Boise State University. Just into the first of four laps in the finals, King's right heel was stepped on from behind, knocking her shoe from her foot. But this did not deter King, who ran the rest of the race with one shoe and was able to defeat seven of the 14 athletes in the field.

King, who qualified for the finals Saturday night by finishing third in her heat on Thursday with a time of 4:24.48, ran a 4:26.06.

"This was just an awesome show of courage and dedication to run three-quarters of a mile with just one shoe," said EKVU head track and cross country coach Rick Erdmann who accompanied King to Boise for the finals and witnessed this unusual occurrence. "And the amazing part is she not only completed the race, but she was able to defeat seven runners and make All-American again."

"I think most people would have just given in to the pain and discomfort, but not Jamie. I don't believe I have ever seen such a great effort."

She received All-American status in 1998 by finishing eighth in the 1,500 meters and in 1997 by placing 10th in the same event at the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships. Her third NCAA All-American award came in 1998 when she set a school record in the indoor mile by placing third at the NCAA Indoor Championships with a time of 4:42.90.

A six-time winner of the Ohio Valley Conference Female Athlete of the Year Award in the sports of cross country (twice), indoor track (twice) and outdoor track (twice), King also holds school records in the indoor 800-meter run (2:08.21) and the outdoor 800-meter run (2:06.19).

She has the second fastest all-time 1,500 meter run in school history with her 4:17.76, just a notch below Pam Raglin's school record of 4:16.84 set in 1986.

After giving her foot time to recover, King plans to resume training for a possible appearance in the June 25-27 United States Track and Field Championships in Eugene, OR.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Everyone else had to pit, but not Bobby Labonte, and when the green flag waved for the final 105 laps, the result was Labonte's first victory of the season. Jeff Gordon was the only other car on the lead lap as he, third-place finisher Mark Martin, fourth-place Tony Stewart and all the other leaders had to pit in the waning laps. For the second week in a row, both Joe Gibbs-owned Pontiacs, Labonte and Stewart, finished in the top four.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Dale Earnhardt Jr. won for the first time this year as well, defending his title in the MBNA Platinum 200 at Dover Downs. Earnhardt, the 1998 series champion, took a 34-point lead over Matt Kenseth.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Jack Sprague, the 1997 SuperTrucks champ, won the nighttime event at Bristol Motor Speedway. It was Chevy driver Sprague's second victory in a row. Sprague was never threatened in the closing laps, finishing nearly 4 1/2 seconds in front of Dodge driver Stacy Compton.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Kenny Wallace vs. Jeremy Mayfield

Wallace started fourth at Dover and was in the top 10 all day long until, to his way of thinking, Mayfield "lost it and hit me in the left side and put me in the wall." That's not the way Mayfield saw it.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Wallace is a pretty straight shooter and may well have thought Mayfield took him out, but the replay indicated that Wallace actually hit the wall before there was any contact with Mayfield."

FROM THE ARCHIVES

■ David Pearson won 14 poles at Charlotte Motor Speedway (now Lowe's) during his hall-of-fame career. From the fall of 1973 through the 1978 season, Pearson was the track's only pole winner, starting up front 11 races in a row. Pearson's career victory total of 105 is second only to Richard Petty's 200.

Eggleston named crew chief for Sterling Marlin

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

DOVER, Del. — Scott Eggleston was named crew chief for Team Sabco's No. 40 Coors Light Chevrolet and driver Sterling Marlin. He moved the 20 feet or so from where he was crew chief for Team Sabco's BellSouth Chevrolet and driver Joe Nemechek.

Team manager Tony Glover will serve as interim crew chief for Nemechek.

PROFILE

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

One of America's more versatile drivers is a creditable 13th in the Winston Cup point standings, but Ken Schrader still longs for his first victory since June 2, 1991, at Dover Downs. Schrader, a former sprint-car national champion, was Winston Cup rookie of the year in 1985, when he drove for Richmond, Va., car owner Junie Donlavey. He finished a career-best fourth in the point standings as recently as 1994.

HOMETOWN: Born in St. Louis, Mo., raised in Fenton, Mo., lives in Concord, N.C.

AGE: 44

WIFE: Ann

CHILDREN: Dorothy Lynn (9), Sheldon Bradley (3)

CAR: No. 33 Skoal Chevrolet Monte Carlo, owned by Andy Petree

FIRSTS: Start (July 14, 1984, at Nashville), pole (March 27, 1987, at Darlington), win (July 31, 1988, at Talladega)

CAREER STATISTICS: 437 starts, 23 poles, 4 wins, 64 top-five finishes, 167 top-10s, almost $13 million in career earnings.

WHY DO YOU THINK THE MIDWEST HAS BECOME SUCH A POTENT PRODUCER OF WINSTON CUP DRIVERS? "There are a whole

lot of series that give good preparation. In the USAC Silver Crown Series, which a bunch of us came from, the cars are pretty heavy. They're nothing like Cup but still pretty heavy and undertired. You have to muscle them around, and that's kind of like a Cup car. In the ASA (American Speed Association, a Midwest stock-car circuit), you learn the chassis knowledge you need. It's just made more people more aware of the people out there in those series."

DO YOU HAVE ANY DESIRE TO PULL THE INDY-CHARLOTTE DOUBLE, LIKE TONY STEWART AND JOHN ANDRETTI? "If I'm going to be pulling double duty, I have no desire to run either a CART or an IRL car. I like my old stock cars. I have no desire to be involved with anything but a stock car or maybe a truck."

HOW MUCH DOES IT BOTHER YOU NOT TO HAVE WON RECENTLY? "It's tough when you're not winning every week. Everyone in this sport is doing it because they want to win races. You just have to do the best you can to keep it up and put something out on the horizon that you are working in the direction of winning races. We'd like to move up to the top five (in races), instead of the top 10, and we need to get in the top 10 in points and work toward the top five."

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Could you explain how the money (prize) for each race is distributed by positions, 1 to 43? There (have) been quite a few times where a driver who finishes closer to last still gets more prize money than a driver who finishes in a better position.

Paul Green
Dubuque, Iowa

NASCAR has bonus plans, the most prominent being the Winners Circle, which rewards the most successful teams and the ones which successfully qualify for all the races. When a team is on such a plan or plans, its prize money is enhanced at every race. This accounts for the seeming discrepancies.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
In 1998, NASCAR and Goodyear developed a rain tire (and) also had the owners install (windshield wipers). So why haven't they finished any races in the rain?

James E. Dougherty
Jacksonville, N.C.

The tire you mention was developed ONLY for road courses. No practical means of racing on ovals with rain tires has been developed.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
How do I go about getting tickets for the next Daytona 500 race? Any information on the race would be helpful.

Mary Gasser
St. Cloud, Minn.

Call (904) 253-7223. We suggest you do so right away. They are hard to come by.

Trackside Trivia

1. Who was the first driver to be black-flagged during a race at Daytona?
2. Who won three straight Convertible Division championships?

1. Herman "The Turtle" Beam, for running the first eight laps of a 100-mile qualifying race without a helmet, in 1960. 2. Bob Welborn.

ANSWERS

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: Bobby Labonte, second and first in the last two races.

■ NOT: Ernie Irvan, no better than 22nd in the last nine races.

AROUND THE GARAGE

races between now and mid-July. "It's kind of an enjoyable stretch because I get to go to some race tracks that I haven't been to in a while," said Wallace. "There's something about when I go to Pocono. I like going to Pocono. I don't know what it is, but I like going up there. There are a couple favorite restaurants we hang out at, and the condos we stay at are pretty cool. I have fun up there. "There are a lot of racetracks I like because I have fun, and there are some that I just hate. I like the track, but I hate the surroundings."

THANKS JOE: Not the least of

Tony Stewart's advantages in the race for Winston Cup rookie of the year is the owner who brought him to the Winston Cup Series.

Said Stewart of Joe Gibbs: "I couldn't have asked for a better car owner than Joe. In this business, to put a team on the track you're talking big dollars, and I'm not talking six digits, you're talking seven digits and sometimes eight. Sometimes you lose your focus, and people tend to become objects at a certain point.

"I've been with race teams where those people were treated like material or tools instead of people. One thing about Joe Gibbs, everyone is treated as an equal. He's there, willing to listen and willing to help you any way he can. Everybody's so worried about the business side, they forget it's people who make it happen. He really takes care of his people. He makes you feel like you're special."

POTENTIAL DARLINGTON MILLIONAIRES: The top five finishers in the Coca-Cola 600 will be eligible for the No Bull Five $1 million bonus in the Southern 500 Sept. 5 at Darlington. For the record, they are Jeff Burton, Bobby Labonte, Mark Martin, Tony Stewart and Dale Jarrett.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ Sometimes calculating fuel mileage on a Winston Cup stock car is a risky proposition. Crew chief Jimmy Makar figured that his driver, Bobby Labonte, could go 106 laps around Dover Downs International Speedway on one tank of fuel, so Labonte topped off his fuel tank with precisely that number of laps to go in the MBNA Platinum 400. No one else could or would make such a decisive decision, and as a result, Labonte won the race by the largest margin, 22.071 seconds, of the season to date.
