Train 1, Truck 0

What was left of a Brown Construction Co. dump truck was mangled early yesterday morning when it was hit by a train at Bays Branch. The truck apparently got stuck on the track on a private drive crossing around 5:45 a.m. while it was going to pick up fill dirt, according to Mike Thorpe of the Kentucky State Police. Thorpe said the driver, Thomas "Butch" Perry, got out of the truck and called for assistance, but the coal train got there first. The train, which was traveling at 26 miles per hour, pushed the truck 70 feet before the truck slid over the embankment. Thorpe said the train took 906 feet to stop. Residents of the area have been complaining to county officials and the KSP about alleged speeding by the trucks and damage to their road. (photo by Pam Shingler)

FCHD will continue home health visits

The Floyd County Health Department's home health services are healthy again — just days before the service was supposed to shut its doors.

The Department of Health and Human Service's Division of Medicaid announced in June that it was terminating its Medicare provider contract with the health department's home health services as of July 3.

The announcement came after the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) determined the local agency was not in compliance with its regulations in the area of skilled nursing services.

The noncompliance charge came after a survey completed by the Division of Licensing and Regulations of the Department for Human Resources said that a home health nurse should have made a home visitation when she learned a patient refused a bath due to some pain in the patient's side.

Holiday treats

Fourth of July activities will take place in Floyd County on the third this year. Prestonsburg, Wayland and Auxier will hold Independence Day festivities tomorrow, June 3.

Wayland will have a cook-out, sponsored by the Wayland Historical Society at the Community Center from 10 a.m. until everyone goes home.

Prestonsburg's activities take place at Archer Park. Sponsored by the city of Prestonsburg and Floyd County Fiscal Court, the park will have a giant fireworks display on Saturday night.

Auxier residents will also have fireworks at dark. Hay rides, a food booth and gospel sing begin at 7 p.m.

Off for the 4th

If you have any banking, postal or government business to take care of right away, better do it today or tomorrow because Monday is a national holiday — just in case you've been out of the country for most of your life. Also closed on July 4, the nation's birthday, are Morehead State University's Big Sandy Campus and Prestonsburg Community College, as well as the Floyd County Times. Celebrate, but be smart. Happy birthday, America!

A word to the wise...

On the eve of the Fourth of July celebration, it is appropriate to remind that nine Kentuckians were injured last year by fireworks — most through carelessness. State Fire Marshal Dave Manley warns consumers that all Class C fireworks are illegal to sell or buy in Kentucky. "If any part of the fireworks has wings, fins or other mechanisms designed to cause the device to fly, it is illegal," he said. Also illegal are fireworks with the following warnings: "Explosive," "Emitting flaming pellets," "Flaming balls," "Firecracker," or "Report." Manley suggests leaving fireworks to the professionals — such as the Prestonsburg Fire Department, which will put on a big fireworks display Saturday night at Archer Park.

GOP to meet

On the heels of Independence Day, the Floyd County Republican Party has scheduled a meeting for Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the Woodman of the World Insurance Building on US 23 at Allen. Chairman Bobby Stumbo also said Republican gubernatorial candidate Peppy Martin will be in the area again next week and is willing to meet with groups and individuals. For more information, call Stumbo at 377-6193 or Bobby Wireman at 889-0197.

Local staff recognized

Staff with the Food Stamp Eligibility office in Floyd County have been recognized for doing a top-notch job. Teddi Allen, Donna Allen and Ronald J. Wright were cited with a BLUE award for having a Food Stamp payment accuracy rate of more than 95 percent. "Not only have you exhibited excellence in the accuracy with which you have performed your job, you have made a positive difference in the lives of those who require your services," said a letter from the $6 Million Club, which had its Payment Accuracy Conference in Mobile, Alabama, in May. ## Former E'town president at PCC

by Pam Shingler
Editor

The former president of Elizabethtown Community College is moving east — at least temporarily.

Dr. Charles Stebbins was introduced to faculty, staff and advisory board members at Prestonsburg Community College yesterday as the college's interim president.

He replaces Dr. Deborah Floyd who announced her sabbatical and retirement in early June. She left the campus Wednesday, and Stebbins will move into her office next Tuesday.

Stebbins came to town with Dr. Michael McCall, president of the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS), for a meeting with the PCC Advisory Board yesterday at 10:30 a.m.

McCall reserved the formal announcement of Stebbins' appointment until after he met with the advisory board in executive session, although many of the faculty and staff members in attendance already knew about it.

After the executive session, the advisory board voted to endorse Stebbins' appointment. He will serve until a permanent president is selected through a formal search. No timeline for a search was given.

The college has been troubled for several years with deep schisms among faculty, staff and administration. A management audit done this spring by the state auditor's office spotlighted polarization of the campus, where "management and staff appear to have little desire to successfully deal with issues internally."

McCall received a standing ovation from faculty and staff after a "pep talk," of sorts, in the Pike Auditorium, following the board meeting. He told them, "This is an important day. We have the opportunity to refocus

More news... Born on the 4th of July!

Times Staff Report

The Floyd County Times is giving birth. On Independence Day, Sunday, July 4, the Floyd County Times will publish its first Sunday edition.

The Sunday edition "is the first step to give the community the news they want to see — local news," publisher Rod Collins said Thursday. "The Sunday paper will be first class. I expect it to be the premier paper in the state."

The edition will be a minimum of 24 pages with lots of local news for Times readers, Collins said. The Sunday paper will contain community news, academics, and sports. Some regular features of the Times, such as For the Record, are moving to the Sunday edition.

The new issue will also contain a Sports Plus tabloid and an entertainment tab.

The Sunday paper will allow the Floyd County Times to get the news to its readers in a more timely fashion, according to Managing Editor Janice Shepherd.

"Now we can put in those articles about students' achievements and community events that our readers have said they want to see," Shepherd said.

Collins said he has received lots of community support for the Sunday newspaper.

"People are excited about it. Our drivers are getting a lot of good responses. We're receiving a lot of calls," the publisher said.

Collins said that subscribers will receive the Sunday edition through the mail, but will soon receive it through home delivery.

"In the near future, newspapers will be delivered to their door by carrier, which will speed up the delivery process and put more money into the community — and I hope, in turn, they're spending more money in our community."

Collins said he has envisioned adding the Sunday edition to the Times newspaper lineup since he first took over the publisher's post in April.

"When I first got here, I wanted a Sunday issue. We had a lot of problems we had to fix first. I think we've overcome a lot of (obstacles)," he said.

Some of those problems included updating computers, adding more staff, and changes in designs.

Collins and his wife Cindy will take up residence in Floyd County next week. Collins previously worked for the Richmond Register as head of

Ethics panel toughens code, in face of opposition

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Knowing that the Floyd County Fiscal Court will most likely vote it down and make its own amendments, the Ethics Commission went ahead Wednesday night with plans to strengthen the county's ethics code.

County commissioners and Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson have made it known that they would prefer that county officials, both elected and appointed, be allowed to hire one member of their immediate family.

The code recommended last year by the Ethics Commission and passed by the then-fiscal court included a nepotism section that said officials could not hire their spouses or dependent children. The issue arose this year as Pamela Blackburn sought to work for her husband, Sheriff John K. Blackburn.

The Blackburns contend that she was hired legally last fall by Thompson, who was then sheriff, and thus was not technically hired by her husband.

The Ethics Commission ruled earlier this year that Pamela Blackburn's employment was a violation of the county code because all of the sheriff's department employees automatically lose their jobs when the officeholders change and must be hired back, even if the hiring is implied and not necessarily formal.

Pamela Blackburn has sued to maintain her job and to receive back pay for the time she has worked since January 1.

about the refusal. She learned that the patient had experienced some pain earlier that day and did not want to take a bath. The nurse talked with the patient's family who told her the patient was no longer feeling any pain or voicing complaints. The nurse told the aide the patient had the right to refuse the bath. She also informed the patient's family that if the patient voiced any type of complaint, they should contact her by beeper. She said she would be available to them at any time. When a survey team visited the health department last month, they said the nurse should have made the home visitation and said the agency was not in compliance with the skilled nursing services requirements. The health department argued that the nurse had done the right thing. The patient's physician and family sent letters in support of the nurse's decision to the state agency. Floyd County Health Department Director Carol Holbrook submitted a plan of correction that included "implementing all kinds of quality assurance measures." The changes included keeping logs and daily charts. A licensure survey team visited the health department's home health Thursday and gave a nod of approval to the changes in the home health care service, according to Holbrook.

"We are better and stronger than we've ever been," Holbrook said. "This staff is marvelous. The support we've received from the community has been beyond measure. Other public agencies have contacted us and asked how they could help ... We feel like we've been vindicated of these charges of noncompliance ... We are here and we intend to say here."

Holbrook said the health service has not lost any of its patients, but she has learned that some out-of-county home health services think the service has closed. "We're going to have to do a lot of damage control and let people know we are fine," she said.

Emergency physicians help prepare public for fireworks

Emergency Medicine Physicians across Kentucky want to make sure Fourth of July celebrations this year remain safe. In the past two years, emergency departments nationwide have treated almost 20,000 people for fireworks related injuries. A majority of these injuries occur in July during Independence Day celebrations.

When using fireworks, it's important to remember that fireworks are not toys and there is no such thing as "safe" fireworks. Even sparklers, which are often handed to small children, can reach 1,000 degrees and may ignite clothing. In fact, 19% of all fireworks related injuries are estimated to be caused by sparklers.

"Most injuries are to the hands," said Tim Price, M.D., of the University of Louisville's Health Care Department of Emergency Medicine and member of the Kentucky Chapter of the American College of Emergency Physicians. "Eye injuries are the second most common injury and are especially dangerous; one-third result in permanent blindness."

The American College of Emergency Physicians suggest these do's and don'ts to help make this year's fireworks celebration safer:

- Do buy from reputable dealers. Never purchase or use illegal or unlabeled fireworks. Notify the police of anyone selling them.
- Do read the labels and follow all warning instructions. Most injuries occur because of improper use.
- Do check for spilled gasoline before lighting a match.
- Do keep a bucket of water or fire extinguisher nearby.
- Do light fireworks one at a time and stand several feet from the explosive.
- Do dispose of fireworks properly.
- Do store unused fireworks in a cool dry place.
- Do get a baby sitter for infants and young children if you are going to a fireworks show. The noise can be very disturbing for them as well as for pets.
- Don't give fireworks to small children—older children should always be supervised by an adult.
- Don't light fireworks indoors or near other objects; stay away from houses and flammable materials.
- Don't light fireworks near dry grass or leaves.
- Don't wear loose clothing while using fireworks.

- Don't detonate fireworks in glass or metal containers, the fragments can cause severe injury.
- Don't try to relight or handle malfunctioned fireworks. Soak them with water and throw them away.
- Don't carry fireworks in a pocket.
- Don't try to make your own devices, and don't purchase kits for making fireworks. Mixing chemicals is very dangerous and can kill you.

Correction

An article in Wednesday's edition stated that mayors-pro tem could only vote in a tie-breaker decision. Mayors-pro tem who are city council members do not lose their right to vote as a city council member, according to a decision by the Kentucky Attorney General.

"Under (KRS 83A.130 section 3634), it is the duty of the mayor to preside at meetings of the council, and he may only vote in case of a tie. In his absence, a member of the council may be chosen as mayor pro tem; but this does not deny him the right to vote as a member of the council," according to the Attorney General's decision.

Naomi Judd kicks off second phase of KCHIP

Melissa Stephens of Frankfort knows the value of health insurance. That's why she was among the first parents to enroll her children in the Kentucky Children's Health Insurance Program, known as KCHIP.

"Knowing that my kids now have health insurance, I can sleep better at night; it's just like a dream come true," said Stephens.

Stephens joined country music superstar Naomi Judd to help kick off the second phase of KCHIP, June 23, in Frankfort.

Judd, a Kentucky native and former nurse, unveiled the new KCHIP logo and the commercials she and her daughter, actress Ashley Judd, prepared for a statewide public awareness campaign.

About 1,200 volunteers from across the state attended the kickoff in Frankfort and seven regional sites, which were linked by satellite. The participants received training on distributing information, identifying eligible children and helping families apply for KCHIP coverage.

Naomi Judd told the Frankfort crowd about her experience as a single parent before achieving stardom as a singer. She encouraged the volunteers to seek out eligible families and get them enrolled in KCHIP.

"We can't expect a kid to do well in school, we can't expect a kid to have a good sense of self-esteem or self-worth if they're not healthy," said Judd, who was introduced by Lt. Gov. Steve Henry. "And that's their birthday. We owe it to these kids."

An estimated 100,000 uninsured Kentucky children are now eligible for health coverage through KCHIP.

"We want to make sure that every Kentucky family that is eligible takes advantage of the opportunity to secure health insurance for their chil-

Children and dozens of other groups and individuals to help eligible families apply for coverage.

Health Services Secretary John Morse told the Frankfort audience that he hoped the KCHIP logo—a child and a butterfly—would be seen across the state. "The symbol won't stand alone. It will be backed up by thousands of people like you who have stepped forward to get the word out about KCHIP and encourage families to enroll their children," Morse said.

The Cabinet for Health Services has also established a toll-free number for questions about KCHIP and the applications process. The number is 1-877-KCHIP-18 (524-4718). For the hearing impaired, call 1-877-524-4719.

Gov. Paul E. Patton said. "This program is vital to helping children get a healthy start in life."

Last July, KCHIP coverage was offered to teens ages 14 through 18 who live in families with incomes below the poverty line.

With phase two, KCHIP coverage is available July 1 to children birth through age 18 who live in families with incomes under 150 percent of the federal poverty line. For a family of four that would be $25,050 a year.

Families can learn about KCHIP and get applications at a number of locations across the state. The Cabinet for Health Services is working with schools, local health departments, health care providers, family resource and youth services centers, the Cabinet for Families and

Ethics

When the matter of amendments to the code was discussed at a special fiscal court meeting last week, the three county commissioners and the judge-executive expressed their opinion that the code should allow the hiring of one family member.

Going back to discuss amendments to the code, the Ethics Commission decided to strengthen their recommendations even more by prohibiting the hiring not only of spouses and dependent children, but also parents, all children, and brothers and sisters.

It is this version of the ethics code, which also includes strengthening of the financial disclosure section, that will go before the fiscal court at its regular meeting on July 16.

Ethics Commission Chairman John Rosenberg said he expects the fiscal court to make an amendment to the code to suit their previously stated wishes.

Rosenberg said that with a revised code in place, the job of the Ethics Commission will be primarily to research possible violations and arrange for hearings.

Counties are required by state law to develop codes of ethics. In regard to the hiring of family members, some have prohibited any such hiring and others have given officials free rein.

Both Rosenberg and Thompson have publicly expressed their desire that the state would devise a blanket code that would apply to all counties.

WORDS OF PRAISE

Cheers for Paintsville Elementary School for winning the International Conference of Future Problem-Solving competition in Ann Arbor, Michigan. It is yet another in a long list of academic achievements for the small, eastern Kentucky school.

To make the latest accomplishment even more impressive, it marks the second consecutive year the school has won the event that features teams of gifted students from throughout the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. A year ago, Paintsville students won in community problem-solving, another event in the international competition.

Members of the Paintsville team of fifth- and sixth-graders were Katie Heaberlin, Sarah Blanton, Morgan Blanton and Becca Wells with John Compton the alternative.

In future problem solving, teams of students are given a scenario that requires them to work through a series of steps to arrive at a solution to a problem and devise an action plan to implement it. The event has a two-hour time limit.

The event requires intense teamwork, creative thinking, innovative ideas and the ability to develop a workable plan of action. There are many committees of adults that could learn a great deal about how to get things done by participating in such an exercise. This event is great training for meeting the challenges young people will face as adults.

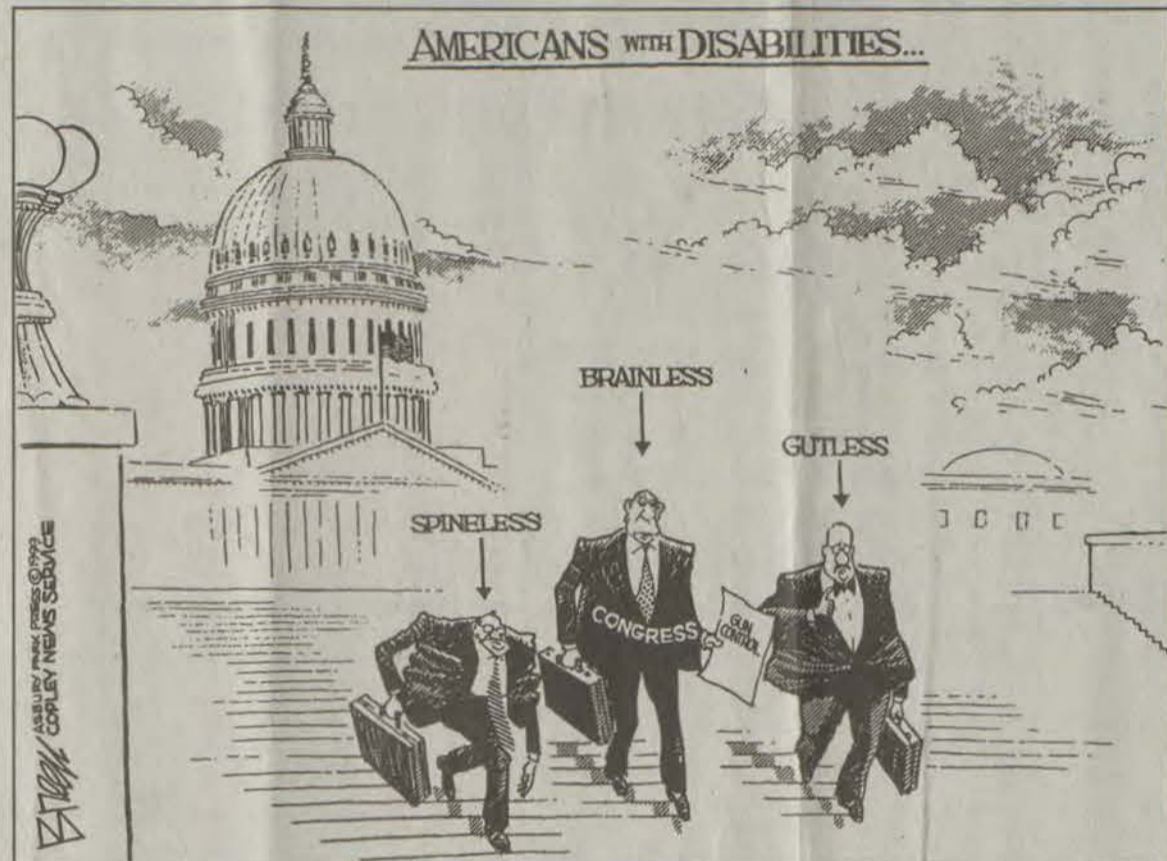

The topic for this year's contest was particularly fitting for students from a small community in eastern Kentucky: How to narrow the gap in the distribution of wealth to lessen its impact on poor countries by 2035. These kids should share their winning ideas with leading adults in their community.

Paintsville Elementary has been dominant in future problem-solving since the event began as part of elementary academic competition. The school won the Kentucky state title the first year of competition and has finished second twice and third once.

Academic coach Brenda Porter is a major reason for the school's success. She obviously knows how to prepare students for this event and inspire them to do their best. The string of success also is a tribute to a lot of young people who have spent a lot of sometimes tedious hours doing research and practicing for the competition.

With two international titles, the school is not about to rest on its past accomplishments. Porter and her young whiz kids already are working on an idea for next year's community problem-solving competition, which involves a year-long project. Expect the school to again do well. Excellence is a tradition at Paintsville Elementary.

Letters to the Editor

READER HAS QUESTIONS REGARDING ATHLETICS

Editor:

I am writing this letter to ask our board members, teachers, and other qualified members of our school system a question. If they are all so concerned about our students and why we keep losing students every year, why is something not being done?

If the school board, teachers and principals are so concerned, then why can't Floyd County get concerned and qualified teachers or individuals who are willing to give our children 110% in our athletic functions?

Every year our children are getting someone new to teach them the fundamentals of sports. Some are qualified and some are not. It is a shame that out of so many teachers in our school system it seems that no one wants to coach in some sports.

There are individuals in our county who are sometimes better qualified to teach our children but the choice always goes to the high school first. Some of these individuals are only in it for the money.

Then the question always rises, "Why is Floyd County losing students every year?" I know that academics is important in our schools. But some students have the academic ability but would also like to excel in their sports activities.

Some coaches in this area do not turn in the statistics to the state on our athletes that do well. For those of you that do, I'm sure those parents thank you. For that reason, athletes from other areas are offered scholarships and not our children.

If my child is doing well in a sport, sure I'm going to take my child where he or she will get the chance to do their best and maybe get a scholarship from it.

There are going to be a lot of coaching changes this year. I hope these individuals will give all these kids a chance to prove themselves and not play them because they are so and so's child. If they give our kids their all I'm sure our kids will give them their all.

And, last, I would like to thank Woodrow Carter for attending so many of our school functions. Parents are not the only ones who noticed your attendance at the school functions. Thanks, also, go to Ed Taylor. Sometimes I don't see how he does it, but he does.

SPEAK UP FOR AMERICAN PRODUCTS

Editor:

The electronic factories went overseas and I didn't speak up, because I wasn't an electronic worker. The garment manufacturers went overseas and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a garment worker. Then the steel factories went overseas and I still didn't speak up because I wasn't a steelworker. Then the chemical factories start going overseas, and by that time there were few of us to speak up.

In the paper, I saw where another company was going to Mexico. This company is in Providence. They employ 144 workers at an average wage and benefit package of $19 an hour. They say they can save $3 million annually.

If I calculated correctly, this will be an average wage of 90 cents per hour for the Mexican workers. I am sure they will reduce the price of their product they make by this much to their customers.

When will the American public wake up? We have to start very soon or we will not be making any products here, where the people enjoy a decent wage. When we go to the stores we need to be looking for products that are made in America, not by the sweatshops in other parts of the world.

When you go into the stores, ask the clerks and management to start getting more things made in America. It is hard to find some of the products, as these are no longer made in the USA. We have waited too long to start speaking up.

Remember to try to look for products that are made in America and start speaking up to the management for the stores to get these items before there is no one left to speak to.

NURSE ISSUE SETTLED BEFORE VOTE, READER SAYS

Editor:

The administration of Highlands Regional Medical Center repeatedly report to the press that 17 RNs were not allowed to vote in the May 25 election for union representation. They tell only what they want the public to know.

The truth of the matter is that at a hearing held at the Floyd County Courthouse prior to the election date being set, the hospital officials made the proposal that those 17 be exempt from the voting process as they were supervisors. The union agreed to this proposal and a legal agreement was signed by both parties with the names of those individuals listed as being excluded. This is a matter of record at the courthouse.

HRMC administration appealed the 46-45 vote in favor of union representation to the National Labor Relations Board in both Cincinnati, Ohio and Washington, D.C. On June 4, the NLRB rendered its decision that the RNs were certified members of SEIU/1199.

Hospital administrators refuse to recognize the RNs as members of the union and will not negotiate with them as members of the bargaining unit. They intend to spend thousands more dollars to appeal this decision to federal courts. It is a funny thing to me that a business that is supposed to be in the red can afford such expenses.

The hospital negotiating committee is comprised of five members, but only one is allowed to speak, the Pennsylvania lawyer. The other four members sit in the negotiation meetings closed-mouthed as if puppets on strings. The board of directors at HRMC have insulted Kentuckians by bringing outsiders into this area who do not care about the people of eastern Kentucky.

LIFE AND DEATH

Last Friday night as I talked to my aunt on the phone, her husband died. She told me when she first called that she did not expect him to live through the night. She had been keeping bedside vigil for more than a week and looking after him, with the help of Hospice, for a couple of months.

By watching what he ate, by making sure he took the right pills at the right time and by pushing the patience of his doctors sometimes to the limit, she had helped him steal five years of life from the time he was diagnosed with bone cancer — on top of diabetes and heart problems.

Until just recently, he had continued his post-retirement job as a handyman at two office complexes near their modest home, which has become steadily surrounded by offices, light industry, motels, and eateries on the west side of Indianapolis, where airplanes fly into the airport so close to their house that you can almost read the numbers.

For years, she had helped him plant flowers around the buildings in the spring and pick up cigarette butts dropped on the mulch and gravel and on the sidewalks, all the time complaining, with a quirky toss of her head, about inconsiderate people — "ignorant people," she called them.

In the week before he died, she called people in the offices he tended to and, in response, dozens filed into their house to bid him good-bye, although no one could be sure he knew they were there.

On Sunday and Monday at the funeral home, men whom he had worked with for more than 35 years at a plant owned by Indiana Senator Luger came by to comfort Aunt Ruby and to pay their respects to a beloved colleague. The plant, which helped enrich the Lugers, had no retirement plan for its workers.

The managers of the buildings he cared for, to supplement his Social Security check, also came by, and one sent Aunt Ruby a generous check in his honor.

The couple's neighbors paid respects at the funeral home, most of them walking slowly, some with canes, all of them remembering others who had gone before.

Aunt Ruby's two stepdaughters and their beautiful children and grandchildren were there, mourning in their own way. One of the young girls, pretty, blond, and tomboy-ish, had written and illustrated several poems in honor of her great-grandfather, and the family placed them in the coffin with him.

A young man whose life had been greatly affected by Ruby and Bob got leave from the Army to attend the funeral and drove up from South Carolina. He had done some damage to their yard when he was a little boy, and Ruby had marched across the street to his home and reported his mischief to his parents. He was forced to atone and they became fast friends.

When he was in high school, he would get up on snowy days in the wee hours and help Bob shovel snow from the walks at the buildings he was responsible for. In the summer, the young man helped Bob with the grass cutting and trim.

The boy says he probably would not have finished high school if not for Ruby and Bob's love and encouragement. He tells everyone who will listen about a high school class project in which he interviewed Ruby and wrote of her growing up in Auxier and on John's Creek in

'Driving agreement' is available

A local law firm has come up with an idea to promote responsible and safe driving practices by teenagers.

The firm of Vanover, Hall and Bartley is sponsoring a project designed to have parents and new teen-age drivers enter into a driving agreement, much like a contract, in which rules and conditions are set forth to promote safe driving.

The "Driving Agreement" is designed to promote safe driving, as well as to provide both parent and teen driver with a set of rules and conditions for operating the vehicle safely.

The Driving Agreement is free to the public by contacting the law offices in Pikeville or Prestonsburg.

The agreement oversees such areas as drinking and driving, cur-few and academic performance. It also provides for punishment if the driver violates the agreement.

"We hope to encourage parents to become involved with how their teen-age drivers operate their automobiles through encouraging safe driving practices. We're also including several conditions the parents must make in order to set an example for their children," said Jim Vanover, who drafted the agreement.

The press statement said the law office hopes to promote the Driving Agreement in area high schools and through local driving training programs as a way to increase awareness of automobile safety and responsibility.

Youth residing in Washington, D.C.

For most students, summer signifies a big awaited break from the classroom. Ashland University Junior Brian Newsome, son of former Floyd countians Curt and Carolyn Newsome, sees it differently. This summer Brian is spending time at the Political Science Center in Washington, D.C.

While there, Newsome is working as an intern 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. He is attending lectures, dinners with important speakers and taking a class to further his education in the evenings.

He has a keen interest for history and politics. He enjoys giving speeches and studying about all the branches of government in the United States and other countries and learning what the world is going through.

Anyone who would like to contact Newsome may write him at: Riverside Hall 9058, 2201 Virginia Ave., Washington, D.C. 20052.

Letters

The hospital employed many tactics in an effort to prevent union organization of RNs. If the hospital is having financial problems, how can they justify these outrageous expenditures?

Supervisors suddenly became visible to night shift employees at all hours expressing their concern and offering to listen to any questions one might have. This happened in the few weeks that preceded election day. Since that time they have made no night appearances. Odd?

Don't be like the ostrich with your head buried in the sand, find out facts. Who do you see when a patient or visitor at HRMC, caring employees or administration? Support the working staff at HRMC!!!

SUPPORTS HRMC WORKERS

Editor:

As a concerned citizen, it is my opinion that the public should be aware of the uncaring attitudes of the administration and legal services at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The administrator, chief financial officer, human resources director and attorney were imported to this area from Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

The board of directors at HRMC are responsible for these outsiders being here and therefore must be in agreement with their uncaring attitudes.

The aforementioned group of individuals show no concern for the welfare of the citizens of eastern Kentucky. Their only concern seems to be the hundreds of thousands of Kentucky dollars they receive and when their job is done, they will go to another area and begin the process again.

No one can tell me that there are not persons in Kentucky as well educated as these men and who should rightfully have these jobs and I am sure Kentuckians could do a better job. Why not keep Kentucky money in Kentucky?

It is the intent of these "hatchet men" to replace fulltime workers with many years experience and service at HRMC with either experienced or inexperienced workers by paying them higher wages and no benefits, such as health insurance.

The workers who provide direct patient services at HRMC are not the high paid persons who sit behind a desk giving orders and pushing a pencil. The workers (nursing staff, technical and clerical personnel workers), not management, are the caring staff at Highlands. It is time the board members and concerned citizens of eastern Kentucky wake up, open their eyes and ears. Speak up and voice your support of our hospital.

When the reduction in force occurred in February the persons affected were individuals who have to work every day to survive. Those making big salaries were not affected.

Now HRMC is recruiting yet another high priced administrator from out of Kentucky who will be paid a huge salary. There are already too many chiefs and not enough Indians. The hospital administration tells there is no money, so how can they justify continuing to hire high-priced outsiders?

Let your voice be heard. Support those who care in their effort to negotiate a new and fair contract!

Shuford participating in deployment to Arabian Gulf

Navy Airman Antonio K. Shuford, a 1998 graduate of Carl D. Perkins High School of Prestonsburg, is halfway through a three-month deployment to the Arabian Gulf, while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, based in Yokosuka, Japan.

Shuford and fellow sailors are participating in Operation Southern Watch enforcing U.N. resolutions levied against Iraq after the 1991 Gulf War. During the operation they are patrolling the no-fly zone over Southern Iraq and prohibiting the flow of illicit contraband to and from Iraq.

During the first half of the deployment, Shuford's ship made port visits to Bahrain and Jebel Ali of the United Arab Emirates. While in port, Shuford had the opportunity to participate in community relations projects.

Aircraft carriers, like USS Kitty Hawk, are forward deployed around the world to maintain the U.S. presence and provide rapid response in times of crisis. They serve as a highly visible deterrent to would-be aggressors and, if deterrence fails, offer the most versatile and powerful weapons available. He joined the Navy in October, 1998.

the 1920s and '30s. He got an A+.

At a month shy of 82, Aunt Ruby looked particularly frail and vulnerable earlier this week. This was the third husband she has buried. The first she met in Portsmouth and went to Indianapolis with in 1941, so she is more Hoosier than Brierhopper, although she will fight you over that observation.

The second husband was a movie-star handsome Indiana native with whom she had a stormy relationship. He once shot her in the shoulder, and she nursed him as he died of liver cancer.

She met Bob, the most solid of the lot, the companion of her age, when she was in her 60s and still a handsome woman. They were married for 17 years.

She has also outlived her parents, her only child, two sisters and three brothers.

My cousin Lois, who went to Indianapolis with me, and I have wonderful memories of Aunt Ruby. She was a stunningly beautiful woman in our youth. She dressed to the nines and was feisty and self-confident, overly so, some would say.

She always brought me a new, store-bought outfit for Easter and for Christmas when I was a kid. All my other clothes were made by my grandmother. The family photo album has an annual record of my new clothes. Lois and her two older sisters, who were teen-agers when I was little, got Ruby's fine clothes when she tired of them.

Lois and I helped Aunt Ruby straighten out her checkbook, which she never had to worry about when Bob was alive. We made a list of things she needed the Hospice volunteer to help her with, and we took her to the grocery store.

We looked at the tiny, bent woman and we tried to think of the strong, vital aunt we'd known. We were reminded of how hard life can be and of the good genes we hope we carry.

A Look At Sports

NBA Draft!

As expected, at least by me, Duke's Elton Brand was the NBA's top pick in Wednesday night's NBA Draft. Well, some thought Lamar Odom would have been the top choice of the Chicago Bulls.

ED TAYLOR Wait a minute! Chicago Bulls. Picking first! Sounds different doesn't it. The LAST PLACE team gets to pick first and the Bulls finished last. Wow! Michael what had you done?

Kentucky's Scott Padgett went 28th out of the 29 first-round picks. At least he will be guaranteed a contract and become a some-what rich player.

Jamal Magloire must have sat in front of the tube and said to himself many times over, "what if?" But I think Jamal made the right choice and he just needs to set his mind and sights on a great season this coming year.

Odom, who wanted to go pro, back to school, then turn pro was the fourth pick in the draft. Steve Francis, from Maryland was the overall two pick, a surprise, well at least to me.

Jonathan Bender, once sought, coveted and everything else by UK, went fifth right out of high school. The NBA is sending the wrong messages to the high school ranks.

Well, Scott will be $566,500 richer as an NBA player!

Here is a worthy note!

The Betsy Layne football Bobcats will hold summer conditioning starting Monday, July 5, on the hill behind the high school. All players interested in playing football at Betsy Layne are urged to be at the first gathering.

"We can't do much except un," said Betsy Layne coach Ted George. "We can't be in pads but we can run and condition. It's just a chance to get all the players together."

The practice gets underway at 5 p.m.

You're a pitcher and you strike out 17 batters but you're the one on the short end of a 2-0 final score. Imagine now Randy Johnson felt after the Arizona Diamondbacks were shut out on one hit by Ron Villone and Scott Williamson Wednesday night. It was the ninth straight win for the Cincinnati Reds and kept them in first place in the National League Central.

Villone has been impressive his last two outings and has surrendered only two hits. He shut out Houston 3-0 last week in Houston.

SOUTH FLOYD'S B.J. BRYANT looks forward to the '99 football season. Getting in shape is needful for the star running back. (photo by Ed Taylor)

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

The 1999 high school football season is on us and teams can start conditioning next week before they head out to summer camp. But for South Floyd's B.J. Bryant, the process of getting in shape for the upcoming season that kicks off August 27 has already begun.

"Right now, I run every morning. I run about two-miles a day," he said. "I like to do step-running. It helps build your legs."

Bryant is a strong running back that will draw a lot of attention this season as he enters his junior year. Bryant was instrumental in helping the Raiders to their second straight playoff appearance last year and third in four years.

The strong back rushed for nearly 1,200 yards last season, second to only Prestonsburg's John Ortega. Bryant was the conference leading scorer in '98 with 27 touchdowns.

South Floyd has become one of the top single A teams in the region and Bryant credits the likes of Nick Compton and Ketrin Mays for helping to turn the program around.

"Nick and others, they really started it when South Floyd became a high school," said Bryant. "In grade school, we all looked up to them. We played against them and it just helped make us better."

Mays was a speedster on the Raider team with Bryant getting lost as a freshman and not getting the recognition for his quickness. But for the returning back, that was no problem.

"I don't worry about the credit I get or don't get," said Bryant, "as long as we win. That's what matters to me, is winning and playing as a team."

"Team concept is very important to us. Coach (Donnie) Daniels has stressed that to us over and over. I realize without my teammates, I would get 2-yards. Football is not like basketball where you can get by with two or three good players, but you have to have a complete team effort in football."

Bryant said he dreams of playing at the next level and has two seasons to prepare for the next level. But he also confesses, that college is more than being able to run a football — there is also academic segment of it.

"I realize that now after last year," said the speedster back. "Everyone has stressed that to me over the past two years. But realizing how important academics are, I think I will be all right in that area. I hope to get my grade point average up before then."

While Bryant will be the "bull's eye" on the target other teams will have for the Raiders this year, he feels that could be a mistake.

"We have Matt Tackett in the backfield as well and Matt is a good runner," said Bryant. "Joe Plakus will be there as well but may not carry the ball that much. But Joe knows what he has to do."

Bryant is confident the Raiders can make the state playoffs for the third consecutive time when the season ends in October.

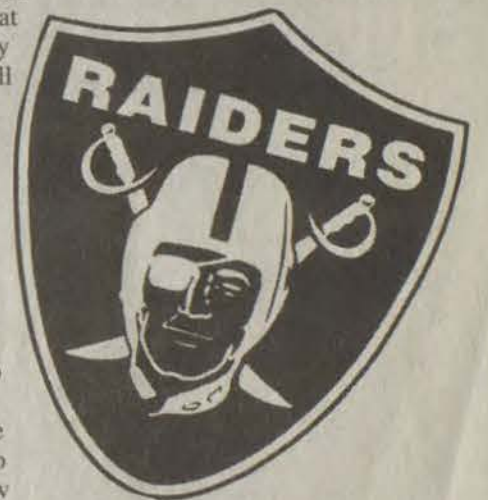

"We didn't lose that many players, and I expect us to do very well this year," said Bryant. "We lost four starting linemen from last year but we have good players who can step and replace them. Also, we have some good young players coming up."

The Raiders will be going to summer camp in August and Bryant is wanting to use that time to get in shape.

"We will have two or three practices a day and then play a game while in camp," he said. "But I just want to go there and get in shape for the upcoming season."

The unselfishness showed through when Bryant spoke of his team's

Allen "buzzes" to two first place finishes

by Ed Taylor

Veteran archer Kenneth "Buzz" Allen was shooting nothing but straight arrows this past Sunday afternoon as part of the 40 3D Target Shoot at the East Kentucky Archery Club tournament on Stratton Branch.

Allen won the Open Division and placed first in the difficult Super Shoot.

Rick Picklesimer finished second behind Allen in the Open. Third place went to Forrest Bentley.

In the unlimited, Herman Bentley was the top shooter followed by David Basham and Eric Adkins.

Bob Clark took first place in the Limited shoot and second place went to Georgie Tackett.

In the recurve class, Breck Hammond was the top shooter, winning over Mike Hammond and Matt Tomlinson.

In the difficult Super Shoot, which requires good eye sight and the use of just one arrow, Allen was the first place finisher there. There are six targets archers take aim on and the shooters can use just one arrow per target. The 3D targets are concealed in spots that take an archer's eye to spot them.

Other winners at the shoot were Cody Hamilton, Panda; Christ Hamilton and Derek Allen, Cub; Nathan Frisby, Long Shot; David Basham, Hidden Smoker.

The East Kentucky Archery Association will take the holiday off before returning to the range on July 11 for a 30 target shoot.

The club is located on Stratton Branch off Route 3 at the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club.

The Cincinnati Reds went 18-9 in the month of June. If Denny Neagle and Steve Avery get straightened out, maybe, just maybe....

When I was returning home for Lexington after surgery last week, I stopped in Winchester to get gas. Then a voice from the past said, "You never know who you will see in Winchester, Kentucky!" I turned and saw it was former Prestonsburg Blackcat coach Gordon Parido. The coach was heading to Disneyland with his family. He looked as if he could still coach.

Bryant

accomplishments rather what he can do as an individual.

"I want to go to college and play football," he said. "If I don't do as good as I did last year that is all right, as long as we go further in the playoffs. I would like to play at the next level, but I would rather win as a team than to have myself placed on a high pedestal."

Bryant said his goal was to make the state playoffs again, go further and even make the state final game in Louisville.

"I think this team will be good enough to accomplish that," he said. "The last two years we have gone we have lost in the first round. But making the state finals is my goal or at least to go further than we have before."

Bryant said the question mark facing this year's Raider team will be on both sides of the line.

"On the offensive line we have Jody (Hall) coming back along with Jason Jones and Jarrod Johnson," said Bryant. "We need to fill a couple of positions and I look for Johnny Spears and James Walker to be in those two spots. Walker is small but he is strong and quick."

Jody played on the defensive side of the football as well, along with Jarrod. We have big Ryan Hall returning, along with Joe (Plakus), Andy Moore and Brandon Kohler."

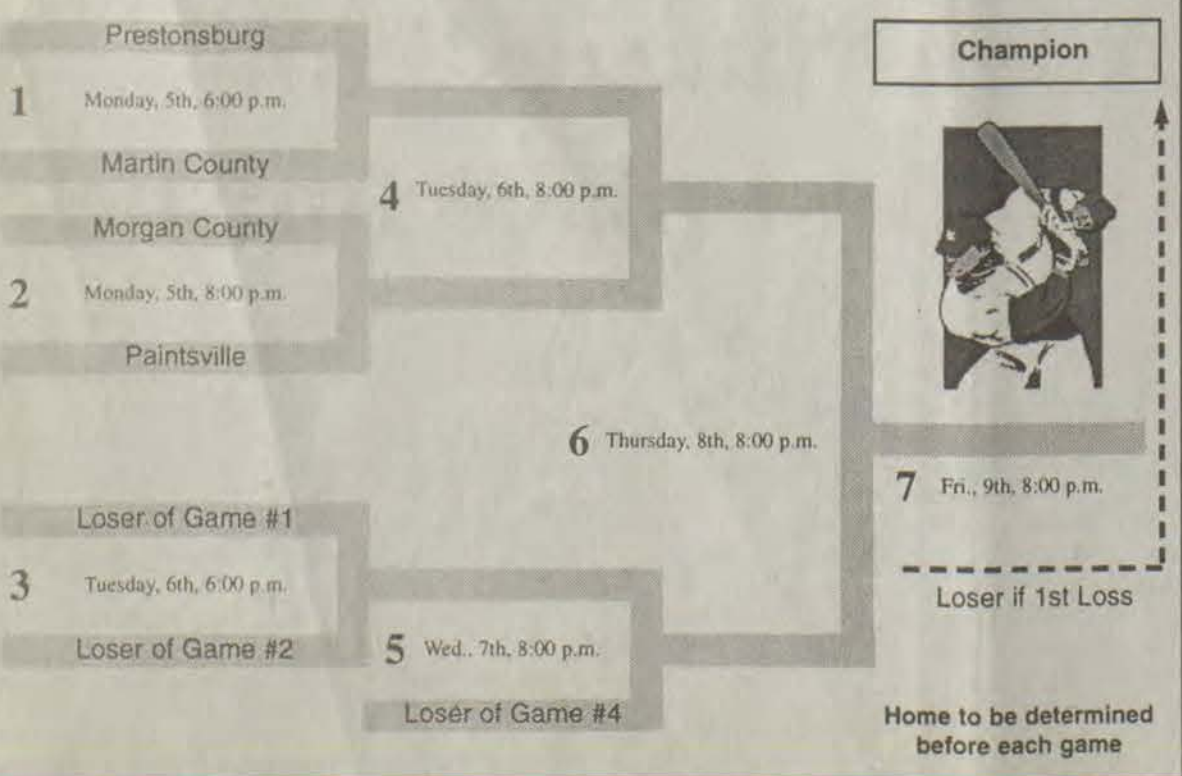

Bryant is confident, hopeful, and determined. But he also realizes that the next level will depend on more than how he performs on the gridiron, but in the classroom as well.

ARCHERY IS a growing sport as this group of archers would have made Robin Hood want to have them as part of his merry men. The East Kentucky Archery Club will hold its next shoot July 11 on Stratton Branch.

SSHS star signs with Pikeville College

When it came time to find the right players to help build a volleyball program, coach Missy Gragg went home.

Gragg, in her second season as head volleyball coach at Pikeville College, has signed the second player from her alma mater to help her get things started on the right foot.

Today, Gragg signed Eliza Davenport, a recent graduate of Sullivan South High School.

Davenport, who played basketball and ran track as well as playing volleyball in high school, is a 6-0 hitter. She will join classmate Christina Fleming at the NALA school.

"Sullivan South is one of the best volleyball programs you'll find anywhere," said Gragg. "I know these girls are taught well, because I played here myself. Eliza brings a size factor to our team we didn't have last year. She will fit in nicely with what we're trying to do at Pikeville College."

Sullivan South was the runner-up in the state tournament last season, finishing with a record of 53-1. They were undefeated in their conference, district, region and sub-state.

Gragg was happy to have two players from the same school.

"There will be someone there they know," she said. "It won't be like they're alone here. These girls have grown up together and know each other on the court and off. It will be a big plus for them to be at Pikeville together."

While the volleyball program got a shot in the arm, the tennis program did well when former Pikeville High School tennis player, Janice Runyon, signed a letter of intent with Pikeville College.

Runyon is a 1998 graduate of Pikeville High School, where she played varsity tennis for four seasons. She was the No. 2 seed at the end of her career.

"Janice will be a big help to us at Pikeville College," said Frances Coleman, coach of the women's tennis team at Pikeville. "She has a lot of experience, which is something we've lacked since we started our program. She brings a lot to the table."

This fall will be the fourth season the private liberal arts institution has sponsored a women's tennis team.

"We need players such as Janice to help us improve," Coleman said. "She will be a big addition to our program."

Women's World Cup could boost local soccer

If there is one sport that is on a constant hot streak, it is soccer. Traditionally the most popular sport in the world, apart from here in the U.S., soccer has recently made a dramatic flight across communities throughout America.

Pikeville Area YMCA of Kentucky is getting ready for one such flight of its own this summer with Britannia Soccer, Ltd, the nation's leading soccer education company. Britannia will be hosting over 400 camps nationwide throughout the summer, including here locally at Bob Amos Park on July 19-23. Interested individuals should contact local coordinator Loretta McKinney, (606)433-9622.

This summer will not only see the Women's World Cup here in the U.S., with 16 nations involved, but also with increased media attention, the emergence of a soccer frenzy throughout the states. CEO Martyn Conquest of Britannia Soccer said

"this summer's Women's World Cup will be fantastic for the growth of soccer in the community. New enthusiasm for the game will help generate better prospects for both the women's and men's U.S. team's in the future, and help us achieve our goal of providing quality soccer education to players, parents, and coaches throughout America."

Britannia only employs highly qualified European coaches to ensure consistent quality throughout its programs and to help provide growth in the sport.

Tipped as favorites, a lot is riding on the U.S. women's performance this summer. America get set for a soccer roller-coaster ride!

Women ride the sports express

The death of Betty Robinson Schwartz in Colorado at the age of 87 last month offers a chance to look at the progress in women's athletics made during her lifetime.

Schwartz was 16 when her running career began. She later said she'd never heard of women's track and field competition before she was approached by a high school coach who saw her run for a train.

Her fourth track meet, only four months after she began, was the 1928 Amsterdam Olympic Games where she won the first gold medal ever handed out in the sport for women, running the 100-meters in 12.2 seconds.

Women's sports were not important on the national scene at the time, though in some states some high schools offered women's competition in such things as track, volleyball and basketball.

Now consider the condition of women's sports at the time of Schwartz's death. Young female athletes compete in high school, track, soccer, volleyball, basketball, softball, golf and swimming to name a few. College level competition is available and scholarships are offered in many sports.

Women's Olympic competition in many ways rivals men's contests in intensity and interest. Two professional women's basketball leagues have formed, their viability strengthened by successive bronze and gold medals in the sport at the 1992 and 1996 Olympics.

And, perhaps most interesting, there is talk of a women's professional soccer league. The 1999 Women's World Cup soccer competition was held in the United States this year and the U.S. team came home the winners.

Promoters are hoping that hundreds of thousands of fans who attended the international contests will help persuade backers that a women's professional league could succeed.

Opportunities for women in high school, college and professional sports have expanded dramatically since Schwartz first ran for her train in 1928.

Title IX, the federal government's gender-equality law for educational programs, opened doors in many places that had been closed prior to the 1970s.

There are women athletes honored for their athletic ability and some who are paid for the endorsement value of their names. Witness the devoted following of Mia Hamm, perhaps the most famous member of the U.S. Women's World Cup team. And the wide acclaim given Rebecca Lobo and others of the Women's National Basketball Association.

Women are being taken seriously as athletes by more people. Much has been built on the foundation laid by Schwartz and all of the young women who came before and after her.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Chad Little vs. NASCAR

The starters at the end of the field at Sears Point used a makeshift pit area, dubbed "Gilligan's Island" because it was in the middle of the horseshoe created by turn 11. To prevent them from gaining an advantage, NASCAR assessed a penalty to each car in this area on every stop. "I don't think that's fair," said Little. "We lost a minimum of three spots every single pit stop, guys that I worked hard out there to pass."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "If Little hadn't had to take a provisional starting spot to make the field, he wouldn't have had to deal with it."

PROFILE

Jerry Nadeau

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Jerry Nadeau has participated in the Winston Cup series since 1997.

By Monte Dutton
 NASCAR This Week

Jerry Nadeau received relatively little attention when he arrived in the Winston Cup Series in 1997, but he has quietly earned respect for himself and his race team. What Nadeau hopes to achieve is a rebirth in the fortunes of Melling Racing. Founded by the late Harry Melling, the team won a championship with Bill Elliott as driver in 1988. The team's most recent victory came with Elliott behind the wheel in 1991. Nadeau is unique among Winston Cup drivers in that he spent part of his career racing in Europe. AGE: 28 HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Danbury, Conn., lives in Alpharetta, Ga. MARITAL STATUS: Single CAR: No. 9 Cartoon Network Ford Taurus, owned by Melling Racing

RECORD: 49 starts, 0 wins, 0 poles, 0 top-five finishes, 1 top-10, more than $1.5 million in career earnings
FIRSTS: Start (June 15, 1997, at Michigan), pole (none), win (none)
WHAT'S YOUR FAVORITE TRACK? "Michigan is a good race track, the speeds are high. There's not really a lot of attrition there and that's really good, but I like the short tracks and road racing too. I like everywhere we go, so that makes it fun to go out there."
WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO WIN? "Before you can win, you need to get top-10 finishes and then top-five finishes. We've got a good race car. We're making progress. If everything goes well and we have good pit stops, if I can stay out of trouble, the potential is there for a good finish almost everywhere we go."
HOW HAS HARRY MELLING'S DEATH AFFECTED THE TEAM? "I think everybody's upset. Mark, Matt (Melling), the whole family is very upset. Harry is watching us right now, so I think we've got that going for us."

Who's Hot... Who's Not

- HOT: Dale Jarrett, 13 straight top-10 finishes.
- NOT: Derrick Cope and David Green, still no top-15 finishes.

Trackside Trivia

1. Name the Indiana car builder for whom Jeff Gordon, Tony Stewart and Kenny Irwin all drove during their USAC days.
2. What was unique about the now-defunct short track in Langhorne, Pa.?
3. What was Tiny Lund's actual first name?

ANSWERS
 1. Bob East 2. It was a circle with no straights; 3. DeWayne.

AROUND THE GARAGE

Petty OK after collapsing at his home

By Monte Dutton
 NASCAR This Week

Richard Petty, stock car racing's all-time leader with 200 victories, collapsed last week at his Level Cross, N.C., home and was hospitalized suffering from bleeding ulcers.

Petty, who owns two Winston Cup teams, was listed in good condition at weekend's end and was expected to be discharged from Moses Cone Hospital in Greensboro, N.C.

THE BEST OF RIVALS: Tony Stewart and Kenny Irwin were contemporaries on the United States Auto Club open-wheel circuits. In 1995, Stewart became the only driver ever to win three USAC titles (midget, sprint-car, Silver Crown) in one season. Irwin never won a title but won eight midget and seven sprint races and was second in Silver Crown points the year Stewart won the title.

"I guess you'd say that me and Tony had a love-hate relationship," said Irwin, 29. "But it's been a lot of fun. I wouldn't change one thing about our rivalry."

JOE, ABOUT THAT CARD: When Stewart took a road-racing course in Sonoma, Calif., at the Bob Bondurant school, everything went well until the final five minutes, when Stewart put one of the "school cars" into a concrete wall.

As a result, Stewart had to put an $800 charge on boss Joe Gibbs' Visa card.

"Joe told me he didn't have any idea it cost that much to go to a road-racing school, so I finally had to fess up to sticking the school car in the fence," Stewart said.

Fan Tips

■ Pace, maker of picante, salsa and other Mexican foods, is holding an instant-win game, with the grand-prize winner getting to ride in the pace car at the 2000 Daytona 500. Twenty-four million lids have been produced nationwide, with 1,500 other winners receiving a 1/24th scale die-cast replica of the Pontiac pace car.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ John Andretti started 31st and finished third in the Save Mart/Kragen 350, but it took more than just Andretti's quality work behind the wheel. Crew chief Robbie Loomis and the rest of the Petty Enterprises crew helped Andretti pick up a number of positions and collectively gave ailing car owner Richard Petty quite a get-well message.

FROM THE ARCHIVES

■ One hundred sixty-four tracks have hosted events in the premier NASCAR series, which has been called Strictly Stock, Grand National and Winston Cup during its existence. The first was Charlotte Speedway, a .75-mile dirt track. NASCAR has raced at two Canadian tracks. The 165th track will debut later this year when Homestead-Miami Speedway joins the circuit.

Tight budget effects county services, jobs

County spending will be extremely tight for the coming fiscal year, but with proper management and a little luck, there should be no elimination, or even curtailment of services, members of the Magoffin Fiscal Court were told recently.

"You are dealing with someone else's budget, not your own," Tom Armstrong of the Department of Local Government (DLG) told magistrates. "You get through this next year and then you can have your own budget."

According to Armstrong, any flexibility that might have been in the next fiscal year's budget, which starts July 1, was lost because of the need to pay the county's debts. That amount currently is about $439,000.

To pay off the debt while still balancing the budget, the county found additional revenue by transferring $125,000 from an escrow account into the General Fund, using a $50,000 surplus from the 911 program and getting an extra $105,000 in rural road aid, according to Deputy Judge-Executive Marcella Salyer.

The rest was made up by cutting spending, particularly in the road fund. — The Salyersville Independent

Horse show to be part of local 4th celebration

The first annual Salyersville Volunteer Fire Department Horse Show is scheduled for Sunday, July 4, and will be touted as part of the Magoffin County July Fourth Celebration.

The event will be held at the May Industrial Park on Route 460, two miles west of Salyersville and near the Mouth of Elk Creek, KY 2019.

The show has been sanctioned by the Kentucky Walking Horse Association. The show will start at 1 p.m. — The Salyersville Independent

KSP enters probe; Cole vows to fight

An investigation into the administration of the Johnson County Health Department has taken a decidedly felonious turn, with confirmation last week that the Kentucky State Police have taken charge of the probe.

Earlier this week, Dr. Rice Leach, commissioner for the state's Department of Public Health, expressed hope that a review of the health department's administration would "turn out to be nothing more than a big management mess," but assignment of the investigation to the KSP on Wednesday suggests that the probe has become criminal in nature.

Dr. Leach confirmed that "a state police investigation is underway" at the health department, but he said he could offer no further comment on the scope of the probe. — The Paintsville Herald case, which involved environmental contamination caused by the NEC plant in Harland County. — The Paintsville Herald

Cops get tip, pot grower confesses

Acting on a tip, the Johnson County Sheriff's Department made a felony drug arrest after a John's Creek resident signed an affidavit confessing his delicate care of the crop.

Robert D. Delong, 26, of Van Lear, was taken into custody without incident after the sheriff's department uprooted five marijuana plants, which constitutes the felony charge, growing behind his residence.

DeLong wrote in his confession that he had planted the marijuana seeds in January and had been "miraculously growing and watering daily." — The Paintsville Herald

Mayor asks for another meeting on E-911

Louisa Mayor Michael Sullivan is trying to patch things up with county officials in an attempt to save the county's enhanced 911 system after tempers flared at a city council meeting last week.

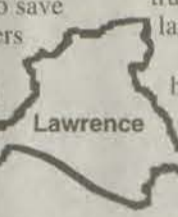

City officials said last week that they felt they were being left out of the process of laying down ground rules for an enhanced 911 system, and confronted county officials with their concerns.

Following a heated discussion on the topic, the Louisa City Council voted to refuse to sign a contract with BellSouth unless a joint board between the two governing bodies was formed, and the county threatened to drop the issue altogether if they couldn't make the decisions until the service went online. — The Big Sandy News way, and blocking both lanes for hours.

Lawrence County Sheriff's Deputy Scott Randall said the driver of the truck was traveling north when he lost control of the vehicle coming around a curve. The truck tipped onto its side, spilling coal over both lanes.

The southbound lanes were cleared after about an hour, but the northbound lanes were blocked until after midnight, backing up traffic for miles. — The Big Sandy News

Chickens are in .... pigs are out

Pigs are out, but all other farm animals are okay — at least for now — inside Louisa's city limits.

Louisa's City Council said last Tuesday they planned to review their ordinance on farm animals in town after city officials received complaints about some residents keeping roosters at their homes.

Louisa Police Chief K.T. Adkins said he researched the city's ordinances and found only one concerning livestock. The ordinance from 1941, says residents cannot have any type of hogs in city limits.

An earlier ordinance places a ban on herding pigs down Main Street. — The Big Sandy News

Judge issues decision in attorney's fee dispute

A judge ruled recently that a Paintsville attorney is entitled to more money from a former law partner in connection with a settlement in a federal lawsuit involving a Harlan County contamination case.

Boyd Circuit Judge Kelley Asbury, acting as special judge in a Johnson Circuit Court case filed by Scott Preston against former partner Anna Melvin, ruled Monday that Preston should recover 2 percent of the settlement awarded to the 600 clients in the federal

Publicity brings rash of killer 'sightings'

In the wake of a nationwide manhunt for accused serial killer Rafael Resendez-Ramirez, local authorities have followed up on at least three unsubstantiated sightings in Johnson County this week.

The most recent sighting in Johnson County was reported around 8:30 p.m. Monday after a caller advised that she saw "a Mexican" walking south on Route 23 near the skating rink, according to a police dispatcher. — The Paintsville Herald

Knott Ambulance Service upgraded

On Saturday, July 3, in Knott County, the Knott County Ambulance Service will officially go online with paramedics and advanced life support equipment.

The county's ambulance service has been staffed with Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT) for basic life support since its inception.

Ambulance Service Director Reggie Tuttle said the upgrade could literally mean the difference between life and death for some patients in distress. — Troublesome Creek Times

The county work detail spent the spring working with Roger Hicks' solid waste program, cleaning up dump sites. The workers are now busy clearing cemeteries having removed brush and weeds from 53 cemeteries this season.

Letcher County man killed in logging accident

A Letcher County logger was killed Saturday, June 26, when a log fell on him, according to a Perry County sheriff's deputy.

Roy Slone, 36, of Whitesburg, was loading logs at Ball Creek, near Ary in Perry County, when a log fell off the truck and landed on him. Slone died from chest injuries. He was pronounced dead at the scene. — Troublesome Creek Times

Riverfill property selected for $12.5 million facility

It's official. The new $12.5 million civic center to be built in downtown Pikeville will be located behind the federal building on the corner of Main Street and Huffman Avenue.

The civic center board made the decision — in executive session last Wednesday — based on a site-evaluation reported presented by Presnell Associates Inc., the Louisville firm hired to design the center, according to executive director of the Eastern Kentucky Exposition Center Donna Damron. — Appalachian News-Express

Two jailed for lewd conduct at Wal-Mart

Several people were jailed early Sunday morning in connection with a drunken gathering outside the Pikeville Wal-Mart Super Center, where two people were arrested for "having sex" at the side of the building, authorities said.

Chris Hamilton, 19, of Teaberry, and Rhonetta Williams, 24, of Stanville, were arrested by Pike County Sheriff's Deputy Virgil D. Ray on charges of alcohol intoxication and disorderly conduct.

According to the arrest citations, Hamilton and Williams said they were having sex, reportedly in public view, just to act stupid. The incident reportedly occurred at 2:08 a.m.

Jessica Akers, 19, of Betsy Layne, Dormal R. Tackett, 20, of Columbus, Ohio, and Marlin Hamilton, 19, of Toler, were all charged with alcohol intoxication for being drunk in the Wal-Mart parking lot, where about 11 people gathered, citations said. — Appalachian News-Express

Man on ATV hits, then drags deputy

A Phelps man has been charged in the intentional hitting and dragging of a Pike County sheriff's deputy who tried to arrest him from an all-terrain vehicle on Saturday.

According to an arrest warrant, Jerry C. Fields, 25, hit and dragged Deputy Johnny Burgraff 50 to 75 feet after Burgraff told him he was under arrest.

Burgraff was taken to the South Williamson

State incentive plan approved for large 'white-collar' firm

The Menifee-Morgan-Rowan-Carter Regional Industrial Park Board has approved participation in the Kentucky Job Development Act (KJDA) in a move to attract a large distribution business for the regional industrial park in Rowan County that could employ up to 500 "white-collar" workers.

KJDA, a 10-year state incentive program, requires a 20 percent match of local funds, which will come from a 1 percent Rowan County occupational tax on any industry locating at the park.

The action by the regional park board means that Morgan, Menifee, and Carter counties, which joined with Rowan County to develop the industrial park in expectation of receiving a share of all taxes generated by firms that locate there, will not receive any of the occupational tax revenues that would be generated by the firm over the 10 years. — The Licking Valley Courier

KSP finds indoor pot operation

A Morgan County man is being sought on drug charges after an indoor marijuana production operation was discovered during a June 21 search of his property.

Detective Mike Martin of the KSP Drug Enforcement and Special Investigations Branch in Lexington said the pot operation was discovered while officers, acting on a tip, were searching the property of Jackie Johnson of KY 7 near Wrigley for stolen auto parts.

Johnson, 38, was not at home at the time of the search. — The Licking Valley-Courier

Bumbling bandits busted

A comedy of errors right out of a Woody Allen movie best describes a foiled bank robbery at the Bank of Mingo Thursday in Naugatuck.

Christopher Maynard, 22, and James Bryant, 22, both of Sod, and 30, year-old Gregory Kent Huffer, 30, of St. Albans are learning that crime does not pay, especially if you panic and get caught. The trio apparently became unnerved during a botched robbery attempt and are charged with attempted armed robbery with a firearm, according to Mingo County Sheriff's Chief Field Deputy James Pack.

Pack said the trio were apparently scared off when one of the would-be robbers thought a bank employee had tripped a silent alarm to the sheriff's office. — The Mountain Citizen

FAA officials look at Big Sandy Regional Airport

Officials from the Federal Aviation Administration's Memphis, Tennessee district office visited Big Sandy Regional Airport June 22, according to John Crum, chairman of the BSRA board.

"We were looking at safety over-run zone, as well as other things," Crum said Friday, saying the airport has applied for an Instrument Landing System (ILS) that will enable pilots to land in all types of weather conditions.

The over-run safety area, or runway safety area as one FAA official put it, can be compared to "the paved shoulder on a highway," giving pilots an extra cushion of safety in case an aircraft needs this additional space to compensate for excessive speed or other reasons.

Big Sandy is equipped with one 5,000-foot landing strip, which is sufficient to land small aircraft, including small jets, according to Crum. — The Mountain Citizen
