Clean hollow gets down and dirty

Dirt from the river bank at Dickie Town is furnishing the top soil for the new golf course at Prestonsburg's Mountaintop Project. Residents along Bays Branch are complaining about the heavy trucks that, they say, are ruining the road and blowing up dust. (photo by Pam Shingler)

Until a few weeks ago, life on Bays Branch — also known as Dickie Town — was peaceful and serene.

The community of 35 or so houses off KY 3, in a bend of the lazy Levisa Fork, seemed almost removed from the rest of the world. You generally had to be going there to end up there; it's not the kind of place you come upon by accident.

You have to go down off the main road, up and over a railroad track and down a steeply-banked lane to find the two rows of neat houses that sit in the broad bottom of the river. People here have gardens and flowered yards, clean windows and front porches.

The scene is not so idyllic today. Dust rolls in huge clouds behind heavy trucks and settles on trees, cars, houses, and children's yard toys. The road buckles under the big wheels in the oppressive heat, the blacktop squished to the side like toothpaste coming out of a tube.

Karen Martin, who runs Dinosaur Day Care, is afraid she'll have to go out of business. "I'm going to have to close if some-

Public service, anyone?

The Floyd County Board of Elections is looking for persons to serve as election officials for the November election. Any registered voter interested in doing this type of public service should contact Chris Waugh, Floyd County Clerk, at the Courthouse; telephone 606/886-3816.

Learn about business loans

A seminar on small business loans is set for Tuesday at the Morehead State University Big Sandy Campus on University Drive in Prestonsburg. Set for 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., the free seminar is sponsored by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and the MSU East Kentucky Small Business Development Center. The instructor will be Mike Morley, director of the center. Topics to be covered include Lending Basics, Financial Statements, Projections, SBA loans, B&I Loans and Revolving Loans. For information, contact the center at 606/432-5848, or the chamber at 606/886-0364.

Save the water

The Wheelwright Utility Commission is asking residents of Wheelwright, Bypro, Upper Burton and Lower Burton to conserve drinking water until further notice. Residents are also asked to put off watering gardens, grass and plants, filling pools or washing cars, according to superintendent Gary McCoy.

Teach someone to read

Mayo Technical College and the state Department of Adult Education and Literacy will host a training session for literacy tutors at the Paintsville campus on July 12 and 14 and July 19 and 21. Training will be from 5 to 8 each evening. Participants completing the course will be given a certificate as a volunteer tutor. Contact Debbie McCool at 606/789-5321, ext. 233, for registration.

Pike man electrocuted

A Pike County man received a fatal electrical shock at a John's Creek coal plant Monday afternoon. Fred Spears, 45, of Pikeville was apparently attempting to remove or repair an electrical motor at a D-Mac Enterprises facility when he was electrocuted. The Mine Safety and Health Administration is investigating the accident. In addition to his mine work, Spears had been a popular radio disc jockey for several years, with the on-air nick-

Work on golf course up to par

Mention a change order at most public meetings and officials start to squirm in their seats.

But at yesterday's meeting of the Prestonsburg Properties Advisory Committee, members heard the words in a positive light. Summit Engineering, which is overseeing construction of the golf course at the Mountaintop Project, asked for approval of two change orders to existing plans that will result in savings to the city.

By altering the appearance of retaining walls at the course and by going ahead with installation of sewer crossings at a fairway, Jack Sykes of Summit said a savings of more than $19,000 can be realized.

The other change recommended — to go ahead with construction of an access road between two fairways — could save more than $60,000. Members of the committee, chaired by Paul Hughes, were quick to OK the changes.

The committee also approved Summit to move forward with advertising for bids for other elements of the project, which will eventually include other recreational facilities, residences and business sites.

Five locals in regional leadership program

Five local professionals — all women — have been selected for the 1999 class of Leadership East Kentucky.

The new program, patterned after Leadership Kentucky, focuses on training leaders in this region, as well as on issues relating to the region.

Local persons among the 45 participants are

• Lydia Chandler, coordinator of Aging Programs for the Big Sandy Area Development District;

• Carla Coburn, executive director of Jenny Wiley Theatre;

• Jean Dorton, director of the Rural Community College Initiative at Prestonsburg Community College;

• Liz Hamilton, Workforce 2001 Coordinator, Big Sandy ADD, and

• Debbie Wallace-Padgett, District Superintendent, United Methodist Churches.

"It's very exciting," said Hamilton, who has already participated in two meetings. "The program includes different peo-

Every summer teens are employed throughout the county to help maintain and improve the campuses and grounds of schools and other operations.

Jamie Milligan, director of the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program, leads 12 such teens at Prestonsburg High School. According to Milligan these teens are placed in the program to gain work experience while earning a little extra money.

The program is sponsored by Big Sandy Area Community Action Program (CAP) through a contract with EKCEP. It lasts six weeks, ending July 30, and pays minimum wage.

Thursday found the kids at Prestonsburg working outside planting various type of flowers, donated by the city, around the school's memorial site and in front of the building.

"We wanted to do a project, something for beautification for Prestonsburg High School. Everyone suggested flowers," said Milligan.

The teens, ranging in age from 15-17, huddled cheerfully around

Spider bites not common, but precautions advised

How serious is the threat from spider bites?

Out of the hundreds of species of spiders in Kentucky, most are harmless — they will run away if given the choice, and their fangs are too small and weak to puncture skin. But occasionally people are bitten.

Most spider venom is not particularly dangerous, said Mike Auslander, state public health veterinarian. But spider bites may warrant medical attention for a couple of reasons, he said. The person could have a serious allergic reaction — anaphylactic shock — and stop breathing. And there are two species that can be dangerous — the black widow spider and the brown recluse.

A six-year-old girl visiting in western Kentucky died in April from a poisonous spider bite.

"I would advise that anyone bitten by a black widow or brown recluse go to the doctor. Other bites don't usually need a doctor's care unless a severe reaction occurs," said Auslander, who works in the Department for Public Health's Epidemiology and Health Planning Branch.

First aid measures are washing the wound and applying cold compresses to help reduce swelling. Watch for a generalized reaction like shortness of breath, weakness, dizziness or headache. Keep checking on the bite to see if it's like a mosquito bite or if it's a more severe reaction — a large red and/or swollen area.

Capturing the spider, dead or alive, and getting it identified can help the physician determine the right treatment, said Auslander.

Information from the University of Kentucky Department of Entomology gives this description of the two "bad guys:"

• Black widow spider — The female is about 1/2-inch-long, shiny black and usually has a red hourglass mark on the underside of the abdomen. In some varieties, the hourglass may be reduced to two separate spots. Spiderlings and males are smaller and have several red dots on the abdomen's upper side.

• Brown recluse spider — It is about the size of a black widow but not so readily distinguished from many other spiders. It ranges from a dark cream color to dark brown. The abdomen is darker than the rest of the body. It has a violin-shaped, dark mark on top of the leg-bearing section of the body and is sometimes called the fiddler or violin spider.

If you spot a suspect spider, it's very important to get a correct identification, taking extensive control measures, said Lee Townsend, extension entomologist at the UK College of Agriculture. Take the spider to the county extension office and it will be sent to UK for identification.

Some household precautions recommended by the UK experts:

• Wear gloves and long sleeves if you are poking around in spider-friendly places, whether it's a pile of leaves outside or indoors in dark closets, attics or basements.

• Reduce clutter indoors and use a vacuum cleaner or broom to remove spiders, webs and egg sacs.

• Install tight-fitting window screens and door sweeps to exclude spiders and other insects.

• Discourage spiders from coming indoors by moving firewood, building materials, and debris away from the foundation. Shrubs, vines and tree limbs should be clipped back from the side of the building.

• Consider installing yellow or sodium vapor light bulbs at outside entrances. These lights are less attractive than incandescent bulbs to night-flying insects which, in turn, attract spiders.

• To further reduce spider entry from outside, insecticides can be applied as a "barrier treatment" around the base of the foundation.

Advice about the right insecticide to use and more detailed information about spiders can be obtained by calling the county extension office.

To help spider-proof children, you can:

• Caution children in a way that won't make them unduly frightened. Explain that most spiders won't hurt them; in fact, spiders help people by eating harmful insects like flies.

• But there are a couple of spiders they should avoid, so they should not play in wood piles and rock piles and they should let a grown-up know any time they are bitten by anything.

• Turn this into a learning experience for older children by encouraging them to check out books on spiders from the library and/or visit web sites especially for children.

Clean

thing's not done," said Martin, whose center is located on a side road off the already-narrow Bays Branch, surrounded by carefully tended flower and vegetable gardens.

Martin says she has already lost four clients because of the condition of the road which has resulted in flat tires, disconnected tailpipes and an assortment of scratches.

She adds that people on up the road haven't had mail delivery from the East Point Post Office for about a week because of the road.

"This used to be a very quiet neighborhood," Martin says. "We didn't have any problems."

The City of Prestonsburg

The source of the upheaval in the community is dirt — rich, sandy soil being transported from the river bank to a mountain top on the edge of Prestonsburg.

The City of Prestonsburg contracted last month with Brown's Construction Co. of Paintsville to have fill dirt hauled in for the city's Mountaintop Project, the ambitious plan to transform strip-mined hills into a recreational, residential and industrial complex.

The dirt is becoming top soil for an 18-hole golf course that is now under construction as the first phase of the complex.

Because of the destination of the Bays Branch dirt, many residents are angry with the city, claiming they are paying for Prestonsburg's gain.

But City Attorney Paul Burchett emphasized yesterday that the city did not choose where the dirt comes from. "We simply let the contract for the work," he said. "Where the soil came from is not up to us."

The city originally contracted with White Construction for the fill work, but that company backed out of the agreement with a little more than 10 percent of the work completed.

The city council then agreed to go with the next lowest bidder, which was Brown. At the June 21 council meeting at which the decision was made, Mayor Jerry Fannin said a Brown official told him the company had a close source of dirt and would have lower haul fees than the other company.

Burchett said the city cannot cancel the contract. "If we stopped the contract, we would get sued (by the company)," he said. "I sympathize, but I don't know what we can do."

The attorney said he expects the hauling of dirt to continue for another "two or three months."

The county

Dickie Town residents have kept the phone hot to some county offices. Floyd County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson has visited the site several times and met with the people who live along the road.

He has promised residents that the county will repave the road once the hauling is done, and he has instructed Mike Jarrell, county road department head, to assist in keeping the road passable while the hauling is going on.

Jarrell has taken his share of complaints from people in the community. "Unless we have a weight limit on the road, posted by the fiscal court, there's nothing we can do to stop the trucks," Jarrell said Wednesday, just before ordering work crews to dump another 20 tons of rock and gravel on the most recent holes.

He said his workers put 220 tons of stone on the road last week. The short rain early last week made the sand even heavier, he said, and added to the problem.

"I've told the residents that as soon as they (Brown) leave, we'll blacktop the road," Jarrell said. "I sympathize with the people, but we can't do anything."

The road through the community is a public road, he said, and the company cannot be restrained from hauling on it. He added that the fill dirt is being loaded from private land, reportedly owned by Gene Webb, and that the road leading to the main Bays Branch is private.

Jarrell said the county shored up the railroad crossing when the hauling first began.

The state

Residents have questioned whether Brown has to have a permit to remove the dirt from the river bank, but a call to the Division of Water in Frankfort resulted in a negative response. An official with the division said that generally a permit is not required to take dirt away from a waterway unless the quality of water is affected. A permit is needed, however, if fill is dumped near a waterway.

The residents have also lodged numerous complaints with the Kentucky State Police, claiming that the trucks are speeding through the community. KSP vehicles have monitored the road.

The Brown Company

Mike Brown, president of Brown Construction, said yesterday that his company is doing everything it can to minimize the community's inconvenience.

"I feel like we're bending over backwards to appease the situation," Brown said. "We are doing everything in our power to keep the road

"We feel comfortable putting out for bid the water, sewer and roads," Sykes said.

Hughes agreed that if the bids are advertised this summer, the city will "probably be eligible for the pool of money in October," when government grants are available.

Sykes said he is also ready to let bids for golf course equipment, particularly mowers and other implements for taking care of the greens, which will be ready in a few months.

The suggested bid list also includes golf carts, 65 to be bought and 65 to be leased. The carts are needed by the anticipated course opening next spring.

With equipment comes the need for a maintenance building. The committee authorized Summit to proceed with the 4,000-square foot building, which is estimated to cost $120,000 and would be used to house carts and grounds equipment.

Summit officials had on view a drawing of a proposed access road from Dewey Lake to the golf course, which was done by another engineering company for the state highway department. The proposal was, however, deemed unsatisfactory by committee members because it would cut through a fairway.

"This would destroy the integrity of the golf course as it's designed," Hughes said. "The whole reason to get an access road up there is to get to a championship golf course. It won't be championship if the road goes through it."

Sykes said the city needs to send a letter stating its position on the road to the highway department, requesting that the road not go through the golf course.

"It's time to go back and sit down with the governor," Hughes said, referring to the support Gov. Paul Patton has given to the project.

Hughes also informed the committee of problems that have been encountered with a 12-acre parcel of land on the mountain site that was originally to have been traded with WDOC radio. The city was to have moved the radio station tower at a cost of $65,000.

"I think we should abandon the idea of trading the WDOC property and shift farther north to get the same amount of land," he said, after telling the committee of other claims that have been made against the land.

"There's too much legal hassle," he said. "It doesn't seem like it's worth it."

Hughes also reported that he was having problems locating Dr. David Mayo whose signature is needed for a land deed. He said Dr. Mayo was thought to be traveling in Europe.

The committee chairman said the city has received "30 or so" applications for the position of groundskeeper which was recently advertised.

Sykes told the group that golf course designer Russ Cochran is to be in town on Tuesday to look at the course. He invited committee members to join them on a tour of the course.

Contract lays foundation for employment re-engineering

The Cabinet for Workforce Development has signed a $6.8 million contract with KPMG to begin the initial stages of re-engineering the Department for Employment Services. The three-year nearly $20 million project will have major implications for Kentucky employers, job seekers and state employees.

The project, known as Kentucky's Electronic Workplace for Employment Services (KEWES), will equip the department with advanced technology to process and track the millions of documents necessitated by the department's labor-intensive administration of Kentucky's unemployment insurance program. The department paid out more than $224 million in unemployment benefits to Kentucky workers in 1998.

With the completion of this project, Kentucky's Department for Employment Services will be the most technologically advanced agency of its kind in the nation.

MSU to host public reading at the Kentucky Folk Art Center

The Morehead Writing Project at Morehead State University will host a public reading at the Kentucky Folk Art Center on Saturday, July 10, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Featured readers will be Michael Pearson, creative nonfiction writer, and George Eklund, MSU associate professor of English and coordinator of the creative writing program.

Pearson, associate professor of English and the director of the creative writing program at Old Dominion University, will read from his recently published memoir: "Dreaming of Columbus: A Boyhood in the Bronx." His essays and stories have appeared in "The New York Times," "The Baltimore Sun," "The Boston Globe," "The Washington Post," and "The Southern Literary Journal."

Pearson's first book, "Imagined Places: Journeys into Literary America" was published in 1991 and listed by the "New York Times Book Review" as one of the notable books of the year.

Eklund will read selections from his newest manuscript, "White Sink," and book, "The Sorrow of the King." An Al Smith Fellow in Poetry, Eklund has published numerous poetry in journals, including "The North American Review," "Plainsongs," "Widener Review," "Poet and Critic," and "The Midwest Quarterly." His works have been included in "I Feel a Little Jumpy Around You," and "Through the Gap: An Anthology of Kentucky Poetry."

A reception and book signing will follow. The entertainment for the evening will be provided by Jayro MacNeil. Admission is free and open to the public.

Additional information is available from the Kentucky Folk Art Center at (606) 783-2204, or the Morehead Writing Project at (606) 783-2426.

Gov. Paul E. Patton said that KEWES fits perfectly with his goal of using technology to make state government more efficient and to deliver better services to taxpayers.

"This project will dramatically improve services by transferring paper-pushing to machines and allowing staff members to spend their time face-to-face helping Kentuckians access jobs and training," he said. "It also responds to our changing society by allowing people to access services through the Internet and telephone."

KPMG, a business solutions company based in Montvale, New Jersey, will provide professional services to help design the optimal unemployment insurance delivery system.

Department for Employment Services Commissioner Margaret Whittet said that technology alone will not be enough to meet customer needs.

"We can't simply give employees computers and other technology and expect that to be enough to truly modernize the way we deliver services," she said. "The assistance provided through this contract will allow us to truly redesign our operations so that we can take full advantage of the new hardware and software."

When fully implemented, KEWES will allow unemployed Kentuckians to apply for unemployment insurance benefits by telephone, over the Internet, or in person at a field office. People who are looking for jobs will also have the same access options.

Kentucky employers who file quarterly tax reports and pay unemployment insurance taxes will be able to fulfill this obligation electronically. In addition, employers will be able to establish accounts and obtain information about their accounts by telephone or over the Internet.

KEWES is funded through an initiative supported by the governor and passed in the 1998 legislative session. Because of the health of the unemployment insurance trust fund, which was in excess of $550 million in early 1998, the legislation provides employers a $17.5 million tax break each year and unemployed Kentuckians a $17.5 million benefits insurance each year.

In addition, the legislation provides up to $10 million per year for three years for KEWES technology.

The trust fund is financed from taxes paid by Kentucky employers. Its current balance is in excess of $670 million.

Sullivan College offers local program

Residents of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and surrounding counties now have another choice in completing their college education right here at home.

Sullivan College, Kentucky's largest private college is currently offering its Bachelor of Business Administration program on the campus of Prestonsburg Community College.

The Louisville-based college is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and has campuses located in Louisville, Lexington, and Ft. Knox, in addition to the extended campus at Prestonsburg.

Students with two or more years of college credit, who enroll in the program can complete a Bachelor of Science degree in as little as 12-18 months. Options are available in management of accounting. All classes are taught during the evening to accommodate the working professional.

Fall classes begin September 27. Further information regarding transfer credits, registration, scholarships or financial assistance can be obtained by contacting Sullivan College's Lexington campus at (800) 467-6281.

HRMC to host course

Highlands Regional Medical Center will host a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE)/ Sexual Assault Response Team Course for nurses, July 17-21.

The program is funded by the Violence Against Women Act Grant No. 5924 and is free of charge to area registered nurses.

The SANE course is designed to teach RNs how to better care for their patients by recognizing, collecting, and preserving evidence in court, interviewing victims and linking them to vital community resources.

There are clinical requirements that are to be fulfilled by participants in their own communities.

This is a Kentucky Board of Nursing Approved SANE course.

Lectures by leading experts in their respective fields will discuss the forensic investigation from trauma to trial.

Topics include Kentucky criminal justice system; sexual assault legislation and laws; victim compensation; rape trauma; cultural diversity; testifying; prosecution; defense; police investigation; DNA; interviewing; sexually-transmitted diseases; evidence collection techniques and more.

For information, contact Susan Ellis at HRMC, 606/886-7426.

Local student honored at Georgetown

Lesley Wells, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wells of Auxier, has been named to the "A" Honor Roll at Georgetown College for the 1999 spring semester. Academic Dean Dr. Keon Chi has announced.

Students named to the "A" Honor Roll must earn 12 semester hours and have a grade point average of 3.75 or higher.

Used cars to be sold for $5.00*

Walters Automotive Group, Eastern Kentucky's largest volume new and used car dealer, just announced plans to hold a five dollar used car and truck sales event on Saturday, July 10th, 1999.

Recent record sales from the last few months have resulted in an overstock of trade-ins. According to Mr. Walters, sales have been at a tremendous rate. Walters said, "now we must reduce the number of our used cars and trucks to a more manageable level." During this five dollar sale, cars and trucks will be sold for thousands below their original price. In fact, there will be cars that normally sell for five to eight thousand dollars sold for three to five thousand. Mr. Walters said, "our customers will find these prices even lower than at wholesale auctions." Auction bidding often inflates the true value of a car, so you pay more. Here, every car is on sale, first come, first served, and no bidding.

It's the perfect opportunity to get a good quality used car at the lowest price possible, including cars for only five dollars. The used vehicles from all Walters dealerships will be on display at Walters Mazda-Mitsubishi, next to K-mart in Pikeville. At 9:00 a.m., all vehicles will be opened so that buyers may inspect the vehicles for one hour before the sale begins at 10:00 a.m. Whoever is sitting behind the wheel at 10:00 a.m., when the prices are posted on the windshield, will be given the first opportunity to purchase the vehicle at the sale price. This innovative approach to selling used vehicles will make it easy for anybody in the market for a good used vehicle to get a great car or truck at a very low price with no hassle. "Wholesale buyers will be represented to take trade-ins during this sale," Mr. Walters said. "We also have six business managers who will help buyers arrange low-cost financing. We've got over 3.3 million dollars in inventory to choose from. Our total inventory will be close to 350 used cars and trucks. We want to remind everyone that this is a one-day sale only. When our inventory has been reduced, we will remove the sale prices and return to normal operations. Since we are a local business, we would like to give back to the community," Mr. Walters said. "We would rather allow local people to buy these overstocked vehicles than wholesale them at an auction."

*Limited quantity of vehicles at this price. All vehicles subject to tax, title, tags and processing fee.

UNBALANCED SCALES

Once again, we've been shown an example that justice is not consistent, that it is not clearly defined and that it changes with regard to who is judging and who is being judged.

There has been no evidence presented that Jason Watts is an evil young man. But he made a grave error and he broke the law — of both man and God — when he drank himself into a stupor, got behind the wheel of a vehicle and crashed it, causing the deaths of two of his friends.

Many other young men are serving long jail terms for less serious errors of judgment. But a judge in Pulaski County has decided that the threat of jail — shock probation — is sufficient punishment for the former University of Kentucky football player.

There can be no doubt that Watts is sorry for what happened. But, it's a sure bet that the other men serving terms for the same crime are also sorry. What kind of person would not be?

The judge credited Watts with speaking to school groups about the error of his ways, and well he should broadcast the warning that the abuse of alcohol is serious and can lead to death. But is that atonement enough?

The Lexington Herald-Leader pointed out last week that a young Eastern Kentucky University athlete is still in jail over a similar incident in which one person was killed in 1993. Don't you suspect he wishes his judgment had been meted by the Somerset judge?

Or do you suppose that justice might look more kindly on a UK student than on an EKVU student? God bless the errant soul who stopped at community college or the one who dropped out before finishing high school.

And do you suppose the scales dip more favorably depending on the color of one's skin or on the amount of money in the checking account or even on one's genealogy?

Justice, we've been told, is blind. Sometimes, however, its eyes appear to be all too open. — Pam Shingler

Reader applauds theatre

Editor:
The past two weekends I have attended "Grease" and "The Legend of Jenny Wiley" at the Jenny Wiley Theatre.

These plays are fantastic, and the actors and actresses have unbelievable talent. The directors have done an outstanding job in blending talent, music and props to make it a night you won't soon forget.

Patric Baldauff has done a tremendous job in showing believable Native Americans and showing their perspectives in "The Legend of Jenny Wiley."

Thanks to all the people who have worked to make the theatre possible. People of the area should get out and support this "hidden jewel" in eastern Kentucky.

Highlands Regional management 'does not want a strike'

Editor:
As many in the community know, Highlands Regional Medical Center is currently negotiating a contract with District 1199/Service Employees International Union which represents more than 300 employees at the Medical Center.

Additionally, District 1199 is seeking to represent the registered nurses at the Medical Center. The leadership of the medical center is in close contact with the registered nurses on a daily basis. Through this contact, it is clear many of the registered nurses do not want union representation.

Management of the hospital has to take into consideration the needs of the employees at the medical center.

Several businesses in the community have expressed concern about the impact a strike could have on the economics of the community. The management of the medical center is aware of the devastation a strike can have on local business, the employees of the medical center, and the medical center's future.

The professional management team at the medical center must take a longer view of Highlands' future in the changing health care environment.

The employees of Highlands Regional Medical Center have enjoyed generous increases in wages and benefits for many years. In fact, the average wages at Highlands are among the highest paid in the state. Highlands is prepared to offer competitive wages and benefits for our region.

Management does not want a strike. Only the union can call a strike; management cannot. Management is sitting at the table and willing to negotiate as long as it takes. In this case, employees would continue to work under the terms of the existing agreement. The existing agreement is quite generous.

If there is a strike at Highlands, it is not because management has failed to bargain in good faith. It is because the union will pursue its own agenda, which has nothing to do with providing good healthcare to our region or benefiting the local business community.

It is important to note the medical center's labor contract is not with the local workers at Highlands. The contract is with the union's president which is located in Columbus, Ohio. Unfortunately, the employees of Highlands are subject to the control and agenda of their out-of-state authority and may only be able to stand back and watch while the Ohio leadership calls a strike at Highlands.

Management at Highlands continues to bring the best talent it can attract to guide the negotiations to a

It's whining time, again

Back when there was more time in the world, I could stand for what seemed like hours at a greeting card stand and laugh until the tears ran down my cheeks. I've always thought the perfect job would be to work in the creative division of a card company. Of course, with my luck I'd get stuck writing sympathy, get well and down-on-your-luck messages.

I bought a whole stack of a new line of Hallmark cards recently, the cheap ones that are not as sophisticated-looking as the pricier ones, but are oh, so funny. I'll handle them over and over now, trying to pick just the right one for the right friend.

My favorite suits me to a tee, and I know I have several friends in far-off places who will relate to the message and grin with me. It's got a yelping dog on the cover, and the message reads, "When you're feeling kinda gloomy and the sun doesn't shine, just lift up your voice and whine, whine, whine!"

Consider yourself warned: I'm fixing to whine.

I got a speeding ticket last Saturday on my way to Fishtap Lake to write a story for TV Times. Yes, I was speeding, but so were the people passing me. Foul!

I'm looking for an alternate route to US 23. I had never got a speeding ticket in my life until the four-lane opened in Floyd County, and now I've tallied three over about six years. I obviously cannot be trusted on this road. My Toyotas must look awfully sporty to the police.

I broke down and bought an air conditioner. I admit, I'm not nearly as tough as I used to be. But, ouch, how it hurt to put that purchase on my already inflated

Pastor is welcomed back

Editor:
June 27, Ira McMillen came home again. This was not the first time. There were other times when he returned to Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church. He came back to preach the funeral of a person he had won to Christ and baptized. He returned for the dedication of new buildings and he came for personal visits with dear friends who were still in contact after he left Prestonsburg, following the "Call of God" to preach in places large and small.

His message to the congregation on the final Sabbath morning in June had brother McMillen (he never cared for the title Reverend, preferring Brother instead) preaching about the work of the church. He was wound up like an eight-day clock. He ran overtime.

His wife, Jeanette, was present, but he ignored her signals to "cut it short." Later in the afternoon, when he said he had preached too long, his good wife reminded him of her efforts to stop him.

Brother McMillen's reply was, "There were still things I felt needed to be said."

Brother McMillen told the congregation of his successful ministry at Irene Cole Memorial. He spoke about taking a census of the community to find those who were not going to any church and their church preference, if any.

He told of enlisting church members to go in the afternoons and, in some instances, in the mornings, to outlying areas to conduct Sunday Schools and Vacation Bible Schools.

The Sunday Schools were held every Sunday and the Vacation Bible Schools were for a two-week period during the summer.

On Sunday mornings Brother McMillen would preach at the jail and would preach at two or more mission Sunday Schools in the afternoon. He told the congregation that one Sunday during his ministry at Irene Cole Memorial he preached six times.

Brother McMillen talked fondly of the radio program, Sunshine Corner. The program was broadcast live at 9 a.m. every Sunday morning. Jeannette would play the piano and sing a song from the Baptist Hymnal and Brother McMillen would deliver a devotional to complete the 15-minute program.

The congregation listened attentively to his sermon. They showed no sign of restlessness throughout the lengthy discourse and were generous with loud and clear "Amens" as the eloquent former pastor poured out his heart and soul to his listeners.

At the close of the service, lines formed and moved forward down the center aisles to clasp the hands of Ira and Jeanette McMillen.

Following lunch at May Lodge with Pastor Valentine, his wife Jennifer, daughter Kate, and Delmas Saunders, the McMillens returned to their brand new home at 120 West Showalter Drive, Georgetown, Ky. 40324.

credit card. And, I suppose I've seen the last of a $10 electric bill.

We've been going through Heck Week at the newspaper. If you catch a lot of errors, please keep them to yourself and be kind, unless you believe them to be mean-spirited and hurtful.

We're experiencing growing pains from the addition of the Sunday paper. Just when we need more people to write, typeset, proofread, etc., we've taken a substantial cut.

To wit, managing editor Janice Shepherd, who had scheduled her vacation long before the extra edition was planned, is watching the waves in South Carolina. Hannah ???, who typesets many of the stories you send in and that we get from other sources, is enjoying the Florida scenery.

You may not have heard, but staff writer Willie Elliott had angioplasty to open blockage of an artery last week and is preparing for another bout on the operating table next week. He's looking good and he says he's feeling good, but he's, understandably, not working. We desperately miss his hard work, his unfailing good humor, and the comfort of his presence.

Sports editor Ed Taylor did double and triple duty — as he normally does — in the first part of the week so that he could have his second cataract surgery yesterday. We expect him to come back with new vision, but we really miss him when he is not here; there is a void and a sense that we can't possibly do without him.

Something we cannot whine about, however, is the return — if only temporarily — of Polly Ward, a former Times staff member. She has been kind enough to help us out of the abyss, editing copy, typesetting, re-writing, and writing. I don't even want to think about what we would do without her. Thank you, thank you, thank you, cousin (way back, we think).

And, of course, new staff writer Randell Reno and our former intern, now summer staffer, Kristy Stevens have been putting in 12-hour+ days to keep us from sinking.

If it weren't for them and Polly, I wouldn't even have time to whine.

County cuts back on garbage pickup

In an effort to keep the county within its budget spending, garbage pickup service in Magoffin County has been cut back from five to three days a week. The changes took effect July 5.

Deputy Judge-Executive Marcella Salyer said that the change should not effect the delivery of services. — The Salyersville Independent

Local recording artist honored

Recording artist and Magoffin County native

Rebecca Lynn Howard was greeted by fans and family members at a reception held in her honor at Ramey Park, Saturday, June 26.

Howard was presented a key to the city by Salyersville Mayor Joe Howard, and was named a distinguished Magoffin County citizen by county Judge-Executive Paul H. Salyer, among other honors.

Under contract with a major recording studio, Howard's first album was released last month. Her first video is being played regularly on cable television networks that feature country music.

As a promising songwriter, Howard has had songs recently recorded by several country stars. — The Salyersville Independent

Attempted murder is charged in stabbing

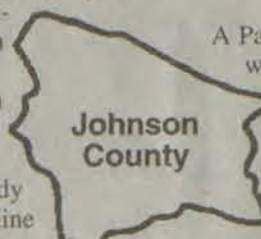

Herald

An early Sunday morning fight led to the stabbing of an Oil Springs man, and a Wittensville resident was charged with attempted murder in the incident.

Lodged in the Big Sandy Detention Center was Tony R. Hampton, 28, who is being held in lieu of a $10,000 cash bond.

Hampton allegedly stabbed Randy Baldwin several times at Baldwin's Little Mine Fork home at 3:40 a.m. on Sunday, according to an arrest warrant obtained by Kentucky State Police Trooper Roger Varney.

Baldwin was taken to Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center, where hospital officials declined to release information about his condition. — The Paintsville Herald

Mother accused of beating infant

A Paintsville woman, Barbara Powers Whitt, 28, was arrested June 28 for allegedly abusing her three-week-old daughter.

Whitt was charged with first-degree criminal abuse by Paintsville Police officer Paul D. Witten, who accompanied social workers to Whitt's residence to investigate allegations of child abuse.

Whitt's four children were removed from the home and taken into custody by social workers, Witten said.

Whitt was lodged in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Paintsville. — The Paintsville Herald

Callahan Highway is snagged again

Kentucky Highway Planning Deputy Charley Raimer said July 2, that the anticipated Callahan Highway has been delayed by a lack of communication between transportation departments from the two bordering states. Raimer acknowledged that the August date for a public meeting will not be met.

The $100 million project will span seven miles of sparsely populated territory and the Tug River when completed, and will link Inez and Kermit, West Virginia, via a four-lane "intrastate" highway. — The Martin County Sun

City budget grows again

As Louisa's city budget creeps toward the million-dollar mark, Mayor Michael Sullivan said it's a sign that the town is growing, but the year ahead will still be a tough one.

Council members gave an initial okay to the city's $934,395 budget for the coming fiscal year Monday night, and were expected to give it final approval Tuesday night.

The budget for the coming year is considerably larger than this past year's which was originally estimated at $822,818. — The Big Sandy News

Barking dog alerts family to fire in home

Jail pact ok'd

The Morgan Fiscal Court at its June meeting approved a contract with the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center for boarding of juveniles.

Judge-Executive Sid Stewart said boarding of county prisoners costs the county an average of $130,000 to $140,000 a year.

In a related matter, the court declared an emergency allowing the transfer of $5,000 from the general fund to the jail fund. — The Licking Valley Courier

Governor Paul Patton recommended in June that his Community Development Initiative (CDI) — begun as a pilot project last year — be opened to two more of Kentucky's Appalachian communities this year.

Morgan County Judge-Executive Sid Stewart said Morgan County's application, which was among the also-rans last year, will be dusted off, upgraded and submitted again.

CDI is an effort to focus and accelerate state funding and resources on the economic development of selected eastern Kentucky cities that otherwise might require years to achieve their goals or that could not advance on their own. — The Licking Valley Courier

Mayking resident drowns at Carr Creek Lake

The body of a 36-year-old Mayking man who drowned at Carr Creek Lake over the weekend was recovered Saturday, July 3, according to Kentucky State Police reports.

Witnesses said David A. Sturgill was attempting to swim across the lake near Litt Carr campground when he began to flounder and gasp for air about ten feet from shore. Sturgill's body was found at daybreak Saturday by the Knott County Rescue Squad. — The Troublesome Creek Times

Hindman City Water System

Hindman Mayor Janice Jarrell recently announced a mandatory cutback of water use in the city's water system.

Due to moderate drought conditions in Eastern Kentucky, a backup well has gone dry, and the city of Hindman's water system is now operating on one well only.

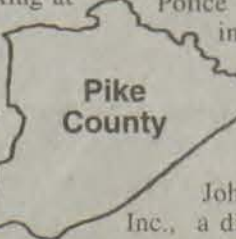

Customers are asked to stop filling swimming pools, washing cars, watering lawns, gardens or flowers. Anyone caught doing any of the above will lose their water service immediately, Mayor Jarrell said.

The water department will be making regular checks throughout the system to make sure there are no unnecessary water usages occurring. — The Troublesome Creek Times

Man killed in mine accident

Fred Spears, a well-known Pike County radio personality who for several years was known to his loyal listeners as simply "The Fredster," was electrocuted Monday afternoon, July 5, while working at a Johns Creek preparation plant, D-Mac Enterprises Inc.

Spears first gained notoriety while working as a disc jockey for WIFX in Jenkins. He later came to Pikeville and began working as a disc jockey for WDHR. Spears was employed as night disc jockey at WZLK in Pikeville, at the time of his death. — Appalachian News-Express death of a 17-year-old Raccoon youth, police said. Police say Brian Curtis Mullins was traveling alone up Frozen Creek in his ATV at around 2 a.m., Friday, when he apparently struck a pipe and landed in the creek.

Mullins was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Coroner Charles Morris. Kentucky State Police Trooper Darrin Van Horn continues to investigate the accident. — Appalachian News-Express

Area code changes:

FCC launches info consumer campaign

by The Federal Communication Commission

In order to minimize confusion and answer consumer questions, FCC Chairman William E. Kennard has launched an area code consumer information campaign.

The campaign will explain to consumers the reasons for recent area code changes and how the FCC plans to significantly reduce the frequency of area code changes.

It is stressful, costly and often frustrating to have to switch to a new telephone area code. For most of this century, Americans were accustomed to home and businesses with just one main telephone line.

Over the past two decades, however, the use of wireless telephones, fax lines and internet access lines — each with their own number — has exploded and the pool of available numbers is quickly becoming exhausted.

Even small businesses often have dozens of phone lines and homes with two or more lines are common.

But increasing demand for numbers by consumers and businesses is not the main reason for the recent increase in area code changes.

The main reason is that the numbering system was designed in and for a monopoly environment. As a result of the FCC's policies in accordance with the 1996 Telecommunications Act, the telecommunications markets are now becoming increasingly competitive. New telephone companies need numbers to provide service.

The good news is that many new telephone companies are seeking to compete.

The new competitors, which include wireless telephone services and paging services, need telephone numbers before they can do business. A key part of any numbering solution will be to find the best way to utilize numbers that are not now being used.

Interested internet users can find a "Consumer Alert" and a list of "Frequently Asked Questions" on area code issues posted on the FCC's internet web site (<http://www.fcc.gov>).

The FCC web site is linked to the North American Numbering Plan Administrator web site, which provides information on the status of all area codes. Additionally, FCC officials are joining local and consumer representatives to provide information on area code changes.

The FCC is also working closely with the states in considering various proposals to address the area code challenge.

In May, the FCC launched a formal inquiry into the most economical way to increase the efficiency with which telecommunications providers use telephone numbers.

This process will lead to a new system of assigning telephone numbers that will take us well into the next century. The need for a new system is pressing: of the 215 area codes now in use, more than 70 may need new area codes within the next year or so.

American have long enjoyed the most reliable and highest quality phone network in the world, and the FCC is committed to preserving those qualities.

Further consumer information is available by calling the FCC's toll-free number, 888-CALLFCC, or visiting the internet page at www.fcc.gov. The FCC internet page includes the complete Consumer Alert on Area Code issues and a page of "Frequently Asked Questions."

CHAMBER NOTES

by Rebecca Derossett
Executive Director
Floyd County
Chamber of Commerce

education-based economy. Director Jean Dorton will appear on The Chamber Show in July to enlighten the public about the program.

the Morehead State University Big Sandy Extended Campus in Prestonsburg.

July has started with a bang - literally. Independence Day brought lots of celebrations with fireworks and the usual picnics in the park and family reunions. Now it's time to get to work.

The regular meeting is on Monday, July 12, at noon, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Chamber member Ken Carriere will introduce his associate, Roger Hodges, who will talk about Pre-Paid Legal Services. President Dennie Dorton will present his goals for 1999-2000, followed by a brief business session. The public is invited.

Director Rebecca Derossett will attend two city council meetings this month, one at Allen on July 12 and the other at Wheelwright on July 15. The Chamber wants to get the word out that the Chamber is for all of Floyd County, not just Prestonsburg. Visiting the city councils is one way to do this.

The Chamber has lots on the plate this month. The Rural Community College Initiative group is still meeting to develop a regional business plan. The next session is at R/S Truck Body conference room on Wednesday, July 14, 10 a.m. Feel free to attend.

On Tuesday, July 13, from 1 p.m. until 3:30 p.m., the Chamber will again co-op a free business seminar with the Small Business Development Center. Register now for the session, Starting a Small Business, taught by Mike Morley at Director Derossett will also make presentations this month to the AARP, the Big Sandy Senior Citizens Directors, and the Area Development District Council on Aging to encourage citizens to attend the Y2K Seminar on August 19 at the Mountain Arts Center, 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. A fee lunch will be provided.

RCCL is a fairly new program which concentrates on building an education-based economy. Director Jean Dorton will appear on The Chamber Show in July to enlighten the public about the program.

A special treat is in store for Chamber members on July 20 at Business After Hours. Carla Coburn and staff will host the event at Jenny Wiley Theatre, 7 - 10 p.m. The group will enjoy refreshments and attend the production, The Legend of Jenny Wiley. Call Carla at 606/ 886-9274 by the 16th to RSVP.

See you same place, same time, next week. Stay in touch!

13-14 Year Area 2 Tournament

Mintonette returns for another year

by Ed Taylor
 Sports editor

It could have been considered a 'tragedy' of errors as Prestonsburg and Morgan County faced off in the 13-14-year-old Area 2 Tournament Wednesday night in Paintsville.

Morgan County used two pitchers against the Cats, recording 13 strikeouts, one hit and three base on balls. Morgan County scored runs in the first inning. With the bases loaded and two outs, a deep fly ball that was dropped allowed two to score. They added another run in the third when a single to right allowed Gevedon to score from third.

The Blackcats tied the score in the bottom of the third when Morgan County walked Prestonsburg's May and Ousley, then Matt Setser launched a double into deep left field scoring one. Dixon, two batters later, rocketed a double to center for two RBI's. And that would be the only rally that the Cats would have.

Morgan County would allow only four more runners on base: two were hit by pitches and two were walked. The remaining batters were fanned or gunned down by a defense that put only one error in the books.

Joey Willis gave an excellent performance on the mound for Prestonsburg. The left hander threw mightily, pitching a complete game. Willis fanned eight batters, allowed just five hits and walked one, but fielding and throwing errors by his fellow Blackcats thwarted his efforts. In fact, errors permitted three of the four runs scored.

The final numbers for Prestonsburg were 3 runs, 2 hits, and 6 errors. Morgan County had 4 runs, 5 hits, and 1 error.

Just a few weeks away local high schools will once again return to the hard court. Students across the county will assemble together to learn of the importance of passing and defensive blocking. As the practices continue they will learn the essentials of team work. The bruises born of diving for ball after ball will toughen soft skin. The aches of constant training in lateral movement will tone and strengthen rarely used muscles. Calves will develop into springs and instruments of speed as the jumping and running never cease. Skills will be honed as talent is discovered. The tempers will flare, harsh words will be shouted, and out of the all sweat and pain leadership will arise.

Maybe 12 members will sit on this bench and like all sports one or two players will really shine and hoist the team upon their shoulders to carry them through the season. But these teens will get sparse support from the community in general. The stands won't be filled to capacity because this isn't the grand old game of basketball that most of us love so well. Instead this game originating in 1897, three years after basketball was born, was created to replace basketball.

In the city of Holyoke, Massachusetts, William Morgan, physical director of the YMCA, created a new game to replace the rigorous game of basketball. The middle aged men using the YMCA wanted to play something that was not so rigorous and taxing as this game of basketball that now dominated the gyms. So borrowing rules and equipment from games already in existence Mr. Morgan created Mintonette. Today, William Morgan's game has become so popular around the world that only soccer is better known or participated in. More than 46 million Americans play Mintonette and over 800 million play worldwide at least once a week.

By 1920, Mintonette had spread to Canada, the Orient, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Uruguay, Brazil, and the Philippines. The Filipinos made their own contribution to the game with a play called the bomba. This play consisted of one player passing the ball to another player who would jump high into the air and hit the ball as hard as he could into the opponents court.

Mintonette is a natural sport for outdoor play. It quickly grew in popularity, especially with young people, who introduced the game to their parents. And with people accumulating more and more leisure time, equipment for the game was being bought worldwide. Mintonette gained tremendous exposure as a byproduct of World War I. The American Expeditionary Force distributed more than 15,000 balls to our soldiers and Allied forces. During the Second World War, the armed forces were again responsible for introducing large numbers of our citizens, soldiers and foreign nationals to the game. In 1949, Mintonette gained a World Championship tournament. In 1964, it was introduced to the Olympics.

I have played this game for many years both for the fun of fellowship with my friends and loved ones and as a fierce competitor in high school, college, and in church outings. In fact, I never knew just how popular the game actually was until I researched these internet sites: www.volleyball.org, home.earthlink.net, and www2.eos.net.

Through the years Mintonette has become more and more competitive and far more rigorous than the original game that replaced basketball at the Holyoke YMCA. But it is still played just for fun at many picnics and in many back yards. So, this year when it returns to the schools and our children and neighbors children begin their training, let's go out and support them by being there to cheer them on as they play this old game, a hundred plus year old game that requires physical agility, team work, and discipline. Join in on the fun.

Prestonsburg vs Martin County

The Prestonsburg 9-10-year-old All-Stars retook the field Saturday evening at Paintsville park loose and ready to play. They faced an equally loose and prepared team from Martin County, playing the first game in the losers bracket of the Area 2 Tournament.

Martin County proved to be better prepared, as Prestonsburg had only four batters in the first, with the only runner being walked.

When Martin County came to the plate, they placed three hits on the board, two doubles and a single, and two runs.

Although Martin County drew first blood, the momentum changed quickly. Scoring once in the second, and nine times in the third, Prestonsburg's starting pitcher Josh Rodebaugh settled in and the defense tuned up.

Rodebaugh threw down only four strikeouts in three innings, but he was backed up by terrific defense. The outfielders allowed very few balls to get by them, shutting down the offense for Martin County for three straight innings. The defensive play of the game had to be a catch by outfielder Carman Maines, who then tossed the ball to third baseman Brock Kidd for a double play. At the top of the fifth, Prestonsburg seemed to be in command with a

Monsters are going to be at the Ridge

One of the biggest nights of racing at Thunder Ridge will be joined by one of the biggest shows in the world when the Monster Truck Show comes to the local racing facility this Saturday, July 10.

Brad Martin, track promoter, said that six of the top monster trucks will be on hand for the fans to enjoy. The show will precede the regular night of racing that will include four classes of stock cars, bombers, super bombers, modifieds and road hogs.

Martin said that the world famous Monster trucks are "a racing fans delight." Kids will be permitted to come to the infield and have their pictures made with their favorite truck.

"Everyone I have talked to who has seen them really enjoyed it," he said. "We are glad to have them at Thunder Ridge and I am sure that all race fans will enjoy the show. It will be a family night at Thunder Ridge. Families will be able to see the trucks, as well as stock car racing, for the price of one."

One of the trucks to be part of the show will be the Equalizer, the world champion. Also, the show will include the Black Widow, Sudden Impact, Clydesdale, Bad Boy and others. The show will take place in the infield at Thunder Ridge.

The gates open at 5 p.m. The show starts at 7 p.m. Stock racing will be mixed in with the Monster Truck Show.

Firecracker Shootout at Riverside

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Appropriately named, the Riverside Raceway Fourth of July Firecracker Shootout brought the crowd out this past Friday night as Riverside opened their gates for the first time this season during the week.

"We had a big turnout this Friday night," said Ricky Setser. "We had a good race night."

The weather has been a firecracker of its own, but that didn't deter drivers from coming out and taking part.

Brian McKinney took home a first-place finish and a second trophy, as well. McKinney took the checkered flag in the Stock Heavy class and also took home the $200 purse. James Sturgill finished second and Anthony Huff drove his No. 13 kart to a third-place finish.

In the Stock Medium, McKinney had to second for second place behind Sam Hobbs from St. Albans, West Virginia. Hobbs took the feature race and also won $200. James Sturgill finished third in the feature race.

Trophy winners in the Rookies class went to Nathan Ross in kart No. 14. Ross placed first in the event, followed by Justin Adkins in No. 99 and Jacob Ross in No. 3.

13-2 lead. But Martin County was not finished. Problems on the mound and two fielding errors took over as Martin County put seven batters on base and four runs on the scoreboard. Prestonsburg was more than a little nervous entering the bottom of the sixth. Although they still held a 13-6 lead, they had been shut out of the sixth with a single hit. In the bottom of the sixth, Martin County presented its final assault. Prestonsburg's reliever Mickey Crum walked a batter, got a strike out, and then walked two more, allowing another run to score. Determined to finish, he dug in and pitched two strikes to finish the game and to seal Prestonsburg a win and a chance to travel on in the tournament. Prestonsburg 13, Martin County 7

HAP vs Magoffin County
The second game featured another eager Floyd County team as Harold-Allen-Prater took on Magoffin County. HAP pitcher Tyler Layne had an easy task before him. All he had to do was to deliver the ball to the plate and sit back and watch as his teammates delivered play after play of near flawless defense. Magoffin County pitchers managed to get six strike outs in the game, but the runners HAP put on base were less than satisfied with a single base, stealing 17 total bases and scoring in every inning. And HAP's batters got stronger as the game went along. They scored one run in the first and in the second, but followed those with three in the third and six in the fourth. Tyler Layne did get five K's, but the fielders carried the weight of the game shutting down all but one scoring opportunity presented to Magoffin County in the top of the fourth. HAP advanced to play cross county opponents, Prestonsburg, which earlier defeated Magoffin County 11-1.

Little's stingy pitching to seven runs. Patton pitched four hitless innings with seven K's and a walk, allowing HAP three runs in the third inning. His reliever, Mickey Crum, came on in the fourth. Crum tallied up seven strikeouts, two hits and two walks. Terrific pitching efforts by both teams still ended in one team leaving the tournament, which, unfortunately, had to be a Floyd County team. Prestonsburg faced Morgan County Tuesday night. Morgan County lost its first game to Paintsville, which remains undefeated.

Area 2, 9/10 year old Tournament Results

by Randell Reno
Sports reporter

"1-2-3-PRESTONSBURG" was shouted by the Prestonsburg All-Stars. The team was loose, smiling, and eager to play. Just a few minutes later cheers of "1-2-3 MORGAN COUNTY WIN" were pronounced and the game began. One thing for certain, one team would end its tournament play and the other would go on to face Paintsville. Pitching duties were nearly ornamental as neither team recorded very many strikeouts, only four for both teams. Solid defensive play by Morgan County shut out Prestonsburg in the first inning, allowing four players to come to bat. When Morgan County's turn came, they jumped. Sending six batters to the plate and running aggressively around the bases, Morgan County notched a 3-0 lead and put butterflies in the stomachs of Prestonsburg's fans and players. In the second inning, both teams played excellent defense. Prestonsburg went down 1-2-3 by grounding out twice and striking out. Morgan County went 1-2-3 by a strikeout, fly out, and on then on the game's second grounder to Michael Lackey. Prestonsburg's second baseman, who tossed the runner out at first. Prestonsburg began its third inning with more confidence. Three up and three down "we're still in this thing," was the call. But great defense by Morgan County shut down the would-be rally, allowing Prestonsburg to score only one run after five came to bat. Morgan County returned to the batter's box with a vengeance, batting around and posting six more runs on the now flabbergasted Blackcats, including a deep hit resulting in a two-RBI home run by Devan Adkins. Morgan stayed aggressive on the bases and cool-headed on the bench, thus ending the inning 9-1. The last chance inning for Prestonsburg began with the team cheering "OFFENSE." Defense became the reality. The first batter flied out to left center; the next walked and stole second on a passed ball. Sadly, that is where he watched the finish of the game as the next two batters were fanned by relief pitcher Kenny Lykins. With hopes of shutting out Morgan County, Prestonsburg took the field once more. But a double, a single, and a line drive to center ended the game 11-1, sending Morgan County to meet the home team. Prestonsburg had a good team, but it just wasn't to be this year. Morgan County will have to beat Paintsville twice to win the tournament.

Eighteen-year-old Casey Atwood became the series' youngest winner ever, passing Jeff Green on the final lap to take the DieHard 250 on the Milwaukee Mile. Atwood also won the pole.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Greg Biffle, winless a year ago, took his third victory of the season in the DieHard 200 at Milwaukee. Ford driver Biffle pulled away from Jack Sprague's Chevrolet in the waning laps.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Rusty Wallace vs. Dale Earnhardt

Wallace led nearly half the laps at Daytona, but when he counted on Earnhardt to draft with him near the end, Earnhardt left him high and dry and Wallace finished 11th. "I couldn't believe it," said Wallace. "I thought of all guys, he'd help me." Earnhardt wound up second. His take? A man's got to do what a man's got to do.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "It's everybody for himself when the race is on the line. Earnhardt has never been inclined to look out for anyone but himself, and that's one of the reasons he's won so many races. He isn't inclined to help his own teammate, Mike Skinner, so why should Wallace be any different?"

FROM THE ARCHIVES

■ Winston Cup driver Bobby Hamilton grew up working on race cars driven as a hobby by the late country-music star Marty Robbins. "He taught me how to play the guitar and gave me my first guitar," recalls Hamilton. As a boy, Hamilton cultivated a friendship with Robbins and the singer's son Ronny and occasionally spent weekends at the Robbins home.

Political presence appears among NASCAR

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — All the Winston Cup teams gathered this week at the sport's titular capital for an Independence Weekend celebration of speed, but one NASCAR operative was hobnobbing with no less a political presence than the Rev. Jesse Jackson. In Washington, D.C., Brian France was making a presentation to the Rainbow Coalition while the stock-car racers were preparing to qualify at Daytona International Speedway. Brian France is the grandson of NASCAR's founder.

■ HAVING A LITTLE FUN: Tony Stewart went to the dirt track again last Wednesday night, and this time he brought along some friends. Stewart, Ken Schrader and Busch Grand National regular Dave Blaney raced late model stock cars at the Action Track in Terre Haute, Ind. The three NASCAR drivers, all former open-wheel stars, were paired in the same heat event. All three qualified for the feature, and Stewart won it. Stewart's next dirt-track event is scheduled for the weekend of the next Cup open date, which falls on July 17-18. He will race at a track in Brownstown, Ind.

■ RUDD LOOKING: Tide, Ricky Rudd's longtime sponsor, will apparently move to a new team being formed by California businessman Cal Wells.

ON THE SCHEDULE

PROFILE

Dale Jarrett

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Dale Jarrett is on pace to win the first Winston Cup points title of his career.

By Monte Dutton

NASCAR This Week

Once again, Dale Jarrett is a prime contender for the Winston Cup, but for the first time, Jarrett may be the front-runner this year.

Jarrett's father, Ned, won NASCAR titles in 1961 and 1965.

Jarrett has won Winston Cup races for three different teams: the Wood Brothers, Joe Gibbs and now Robert Yates. He also is one of seven drivers to have won the Daytona 500 more than once.

AGE: 42
HOMETOWN: Born in Newton, N.C.; lives in Hickory, N.C.

WIFE: Kelley
CHILDREN: Jason (22), Nataliee (11), Karsyn (9), Zachary (4)

CAR: No. 88 Quality Care/Ford Credit Ford Taurus, owned by Robert Yates

RECORD: 372 starts, 21 wins, 7 poles, 103 top-five finishes, 153 top-10s, more than $17.5 million in career earnings

FIRSTS: Start (April 29, 1984, at Martinsville), pole (Feb. 11, 1995, at Daytona), win (Aug. 18, 1991, at Michigan)

HOW DO YOU CONDITION YOURSELF FOR HOT SUMMERTIME RACES? "I don't know about anybody else, but I sit in a sauna. You can't ride around or sit around in air conditioning all week and expect to be good on Sunday if you know it's gonna be hot. Even if it's 75 degrees, it's still going to be 130-something in the car. You always know it's going to be hot."

DOES YOUR TEAM EVER SACRIFICE HORSEPOWER TO GET BETTER MILEAGE?

"I can't imagine anybody goes into a race thinking like that. There are things that we could do that would improve our fuel mileage quite a bit, but it would also slow our lap times down quite a bit. That's not a very good trade-off from my perspective. Let me race and then, if it comes down to that, tell me I've got to save some fuel later on. I think if you go in thinking that, then you're going to be in trouble."

HOW ABOUT RACING FOR POINTS? IS THAT A MYTH TOO?

"It's about the same thing. Everybody asks what you do different while you're leading the points, and you just go in to try and win every race. There is no difference. I haven't ever had the luxury of getting down to the end of the season and having to worry about that. We've always been trying to win the last couple of races to have that opportunity, so it's kind of the same thing. You've got to race hard and then adjust to the circumstances."

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
How did Jeff Gordon choose his number 24 for his Winston (Cup) car? I have a NASCAR Mercury Cyclone diecast with the name Cecil Gordon (No.) 24 on it. Any relation? Any chance this is where Jeff came up with his (No.) 24?

James Fetterman
Bradford, Pa.

NASCAR assigns the numbers, although the governing body will work with teams on availability. Gordon's number is more related to the fact that Hendrick Motorsports already had the No. 25 in its fleet. Jeff Gordon and Cecil Gordon are not related, and the fact that both used the same number is a coincidence.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Why do racetracks not have a non-alcohol seating section for fans who do not want to smell that mess? That's why I quit going to races.

Dave Blackburn
Newton, N.C.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Correct me if I'm wrong, but wasn't Terry Labonte driving an Oldsmobile Cutlass when he won the Winston Cup points championship in 1984?

Frank Bryant
Stoney Creek, N.C.

During part of his tenure in the Billy Hagan, Piedmont Airlines-sponsored car, Labonte drove an Olds, but when he won the championship, he was driving a Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

ANSWERS

AROUND THE GARAGE

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ The tension could not have been greater. It was the last pit stop in the Pepsi 400, and Todd Parrott needed to get Dale Jarrett out in first place and with enough fuel to make it to the finish. The Ford Quality Care team succeeded on both counts, and Jarrett managed to hold off Dale Earnhardt to win his third race of the season. Jarrett ran out of gas on the cool-down lap.
