Doctor quits over HRMC labor dispute

Dr. Greisman blasts Warman's management in letter of resignation

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Dr. Bernard Greisman, who has been critical of the administration at Highlands Regional Medical Center and supportive of workers who are on strike against the center, has resigned his position at the medical facility via a letter to Chief Executive Officer Harold C. Warman of Consolidated Health Systems.

In his opening statement, Greisman said, "With due respect, I sincerely hope that this letter will be the last one I ever need to write you. In this moment of my life, I would prefer to fill it with music, joy, laughter and peace, but instead, I must again address our continuing dispute."

Greisman told Warman, "Your prime concern appeared to be, in my opinion, the making of money and the saving of expenses."

Griesman also said the quality of health services has continually declined since the arrival of Warman as CEO of the facility.

Greisman said he differed from Warman in many ways, including these: "You believe that every person is replaceable. I do not; You have no respect for the individual. I try my best to be sensitive to everyone; You believe that leadership is synonymous with a master-servant relationship."

"You have taken a hospital that was a jewel in these coal mountains and transformed it into a prison. No, it is not the union's fault. It is your fault and the fault of the board of trustees," Greisman wrote in his letter.

To his colleagues and patients, he advised:

"JUMP IN AND GET WET." He went on to say, "I would like to thank all those patients with whom I had the privilege to serve in my capacity as physician and friend. I would like to thank all my colleagues, physicians, nurses and staff for putting up with me. You are all respected professionals."

Hospital representative Kathy Rubado said neither she nor the hospital had a comment on the letter at this time.

Warman was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Pike man charged with murder, robbery

A Pike County man was placed under arrest by Kentucky State Police and charged with capital murder and robbery in the first degree. Kalton J. Adkinson, 29, of Virgie, was arrested Wednesday and lodged in the Pike County Detention Center.

Adkinson is accused of robbing and killing Richard (Bebay) Roberts, 68, of Caney Creek, based on evidence found in the investigation. Information concerning the robbery of the deceased victim is being withheld at this time. The case is still under investigation.

Officers involved in the arrest and investigation are Det. Sean Welch, Det. Lee Weddington and Det. Terry Thompson of the KSP.

Allen water line questions answered

Questions about water lines for the residents of Allen have been answered. City Attorney Stacey Marshall said Wednesday that Prestonsburg Water officials had agreed to go by the original contract signed by the residents of Allen.

In the original plans, contractors had agreed to provide 50 feet of line from the main line to the homes of residents and to the foundation of those owning low-income homes. Marshall said that a separate contractor would be returning after the mains were

Drug suspect now facing 21 gun charges

by Randell Reno
Staff Writer

While sitting in on a preliminary hearing for alleged trafficking in drugs, a Galveston man had 23 more charges brought against him.

Already charged with 12 counts of drug trafficking, Timothy Wayne Hall 37, of Galveston, was charged with 21 counts of possession of a gun by a convicted felon.

Floyd County Sheriff's Lieutenant Ricky Thornsberry present Circuit Judge Eric Hall with the 21 charges while Timothy Hall waited in the courtroom.

Hall had already stated that the preliminary hearing for trafficking against Timothy Hall would be postponed until Wednesday, Nov. 22.

Timothy Wayne Hall was charged with seven counts of possession of a handgun by a convicted felon, a class C felony, and with 12 counts of

MAC still looking for a director

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

The Mountain Arts Center (MAC) Management Commission meeting went into executive session when discussion in the open meeting centered on personnel by name.

Gormon Collins, in an effort to understand what was being done in the way of cutbacks, inadvertently discussed personnel. Chairman Robert Meyer said, "If we are going to talk about personnel, we need to do it in executive session."

One of the members had to leave the meeting, leaving the commission without a quorum. The executive session had to be canceled until the next meeting.

Prior to the executive session, the commission said that Teddi

Vaughn, of Lexington, had declined the director's position at the center. Meyer said the commission would lean on interim director Keith Caudill for a while longer.

Caudill, who has acted as director since Meyer resigned this summer, is also an integral part of the Kentucky Opry, and has been working 60 to 70 hours taking care of administrative matters plus the time spent preparing for Opry shows.

The commission prepared an analysis sheet to show which acts were doing well and which ones were not breaking even. As could be expected, country music is a big money winner. Bluegrass is even more profitable than country.

Patton calls for trash collection, bottle bill during stop

by Randell Reno
Staff Writer

Just days after being re-elected to a second term, Gov. Paul Patton outlined proposals aimed at cutting illegal dumps and roadside litter during a stop in Prestonsburg Wednesday.

"Bottlers, fast food restaurants and grocers, you are the biggest part of the problem," Patton said, as he addressed the 24th annual Governor's Conference on the Environment at Jenny Wiley State Park Wednesday.

Patton presented his ideas for a cleaner Kentucky to a group of 401 registered guests.

"The goal is to totally stop the illegal disposal of solid waste in Kentucky and then to start cleaning it up," said Patton.

One such way, according to the governor, may be to start charging a deposit on beverage bottles.

Two separate bottle bills have been introduced for the upcoming 2000 General Assembly concerning the solid waste issue.

A one-cent deposit is being proposed by General Jim Bickford, secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

Beverage bottles and fast food cups would have a one-cent tax placed on them that will be used specifically for solid waste disposal.

A projected $30 million could be raised with this tax to fight the garbage problems that have existed in the state for some 40 years now, said Bickford.

County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson said that with the one-cent bill proposed by Bickford, the county could possibly receive $200,000 to $450,000 to help fight solid waste problems in the area. That much money could mean major improvements in the county, said Thompson.

The second proposal, presented by Rep. Greg Stumbo, was for a five- and 10-cent deposit. Five cents would be placed on beverage bottles that are four to 20 ounces in size, and ten cents would be placed on containers greater than 20 ounces, up to a gallon. This deposit would be refunded to the purchaser once the container was returned. Stumbo's idea is to give people an incentive to not litter by placing a value on containers.

Patton also wants the counties to provide mandatory garbage pick-up, clean streams and roadsides, and to provide residents with a recycling program available on a voluntary basis.

Dumpsters for demolition debris and for junk car pick-ups would also be provided for an additional charge.

Patton insists the new programs must provide solid waste pickup to every resident and to the end of each road or hollow. The service must be offered, even if the residents are not able to pay, he said. "Cutting them off will not solve the problem," the governor said. "The county has to be responsible to make sure the service is provided to everyone."

Patton also said that furniture, old tires and appliances should be picked up at no additional charge.

Thompson said many of the proposals addressed by the governor are already in place in Floyd County. The county already has mandatory garbage collection and sewer hook-up ordinances.

Patton said that reaching children at an early age will also aid the cause.

"We must have an education component, educating children so our children will shame the parents into conformity," Patton said.

He recalled an example in his life when his son Chris put him in his place. Patton remembered his son's correction after he had just thrown litter out the window of the family car.

"Dad, our Sunday school teacher said we shouldn't litter God's creation," Patton said his son told him.

Since then Patton admitted he has had many dirty cars.

The littering can stop, said Patton. "It's a habit that we have accumulated over the years," he said.

Thompson said providing garbage pick-up for residents, even if they can't afford it, would be difficult.

"This will be hard for a private company to do, unless the county subsidizes it," said Thompson.

Patton proposed if the garbage bills could not be collected that the property owner be charged for the pick up. Either the property owner pays the bill or is put on trial.

Patton recalled an incident where one man refused to pay his garbage bill while he was county judge-executive in Pike County.

"One man put his house up for sale and moved to Tennessee and called me a communist because he didn't want to pay his bill," he said.

"If you have property you live on or you allow someone else to live on that property, you must have a responsibility to make sure that the solid waste is disposed of," the governor said. "We must have universal participation."

"It is an individual responsibility," said Bickford, who said the state's trash problems have existed for years. "We want to make it as easy as possible on every person in the state."

Thompson said that Floyd County is at the forefront of the state's clean-up efforts. A tire amnesty week is in the works for Floyd County this spring he said. "For one week we want to get every tire we can locate and get rid of them for free."

Staging areas will be set up across the county where residents can bring the tires.

Thompson added that a possible site for a recycling center in the county could be in Garth, where the trash is already taken. The center should be set up to receive cardboard, glass, aluminum and plastics, he said.

Hall was also charged with two counts of unlawful use of a police radio. Hall was allegedly using police scanners to conduct sales, said Thornsberry.

tious answer to the problem of choosing money-making acts: "Let's just schedule shows that make money."

Carter went on to say that scheduling all acts had elements of risk to them. He said it was the commission's job to reduce those risks as much as possible.

Collins said he thought a children's theatre would be a big money maker and serve a valuable service to the community at the same time.

"Any time you have 500 children involved, you get 1,000 parents," Collins said.

Carter said the big drawback to Collins' idea was the absence of an organized children's theater. He suggested the commission look at a similar program in Pike County. Carter said without such a theater in place, it would tax the capabilities of the MAC to its limit.

The financial sheet showed the MAC with a balance of $116,609.02

Patrons of the Floyd County Library can expect at least another week without services. The library has been closed since Nov. 1, as workers from Carpet Decorators install a new carpet. Especially catching is the carpet in the children's section. Carpet installers, from left, Rick Herdner, Tom Stansberry and Brian Stansberry were installing part of the carpet Monday morning. Patrons should also appreciate the carpet with the library's logo. The tentative date for completion is in time to open the library on Monday, Nov. 15. Floyd BOE employees receive professional development training

On Wednesday, Oct. 20, Floyd County board employees from the custodial services and maintenance department attended professional development training at Betsy Layne Elementary School. Eighty-three employees participated in the training.

Jennifer Martin, health coordinator/certified school nurse for the board, and Jane Bond, health educator for the Floyd County Health Department, presented training on blood-borne diseases such as hepatitis B and HIV transmission and prevention. The training sessions were designed in conjunction with Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) standards.

OSHA standards outline a method for the worker and the school to substantially reduce the risk of contracting blood-borne diseases while on the job. Training also involved prevention of the spread of diseases by vaccination, wearing protective equipment and proper cleaning methods when coming in contact with potentially infectious material.

Another training component was asbestos information. Participants viewed videos that developed an awareness of possible asbestos areas and information about what to do if a material is suspected of containing asbestos.

The afternoon session involved small group activities with custodians from each school and the central office participating. Presentations were made by representatives that explained the use of cleaning products and proper use of equipment.

Each year, employees participate in the training to provide the most current, best practices to help keep schools safe.

The services of the custodians and maintenance departments are integral parts of successful and smooth operation of local schools.

Anniversaries

Salisburys celebrate 50 years

The children of Ashland and Joyce Salisbury are hosting a celebration of the couple's 50-year marriage. The anniversary couple were married on November 19, 1949, in Paintsville, just after Ashland returned home from serving four years in the military as a Staff Sergeant with the 45th military police. He retired after 47 years with Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co. She has been a homemaker all her life. They reared six children at their home in Langley: Judy Halbert, Sherry Shepherd, Bill Salisbury, Harold Salisbury, Renee Brown and Tony Salisbury. They have 13 grandchildren. The anniversary celebration will be Sunday, November 14, at 2 p.m., at the Pines Building at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. For directions to the site or other information, call 886-2711.

Celebrating 50 years

The children of Bennie and Wanda Fleming Blankenship are hosting a 50th wedding anniversary celebration for their parents, with an open house at the Prestonsburg Church of Christ Annex on Saturday, November 20, from 1 to 3 p.m. The couple was married on November 23, 1949, at Virgie. They have four children: Diane Fish of Prestonsburg; Darrell of Mt. Juliet, Tenn.; Phillip of Wichita, Kan.; and Timothy of Prestonsburg. They also have five grandchildren. Bennie has been preaching since May 1953, and has been the full-time minister of the Prestonsburg Church of Christ since January 1966, after he left his work as a mine foreman in Pike County. Wanda, a homemaker throughout her married life, was a seamstress for 28 years and has been a salesperson with Home Interior for 21 years. The family requests no gifts.

KCTCS focuses on support of economic development

The focus of the Kentucky Community and Technical College System can be summarized in one phrase, says President Michael B. McCall:

Education and training to support economic development.

KCTCS, which comprises 15 technical colleges and 13 community colleges, was created by the Kentucky Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997. The education and training that KCTCS provides can be placed into three general categories: academic and technical courses for credit-seeking students; workforce training/economic development; and non-credit community and continuing education.

"Everything we do hinges on the economy," McCall said. "If the economy of Kentucky can be strengthened, it will be through the postsecondary education system.

"The bottom line is we have to focus on the needs of employers and on the success of students. Preparing students for further education and employment is what we are all about."

Here is how KCTCS addresses the needs of studies—and the needs of Kentucky employers.

- Academic and technical courses for credit-seeking students. KCTCS colleges enrolled 46,716 full- and part-time students in credit courses this fall, up about three percent from a year ago.

- The technical colleges offer 63 programs in eight general areas, while the community colleges offer 33 programs with 22 special options. Approval of new programs has greatly accelerated since KCTCS was established.

From January 1998 through June 1999, the Board of Regents approved 40 degree, diploma or certificate programs. Those programs include the first degrees offered by technical colleges, and degrees offered jointly by community and technical colleges.

"There has been a real renaissance in program development, and that has opened up opportunities for students," McCall said.

- Also, KCTCS academic and technical programs offered in correctional facilities served more than 1,500 students in 1998-99.

- Workforce training/economic development. Until KCTCS was established, community and technical colleges played only small roles in economic development. No more, said community college chancellor Anthony Newberry, who has worked for the system since 1976.

"Before House Bill 1, we often were absent from the table where economic development projects were being discussed," Dr. Newberry said. "Now we are recognized as a player."

KCTCS has been at the forefront of education and training projects that have benefited major employers such as UPS, SHPS and BellSouth. In 1998-99, KCTCS provided non-credit training for 94,074 students in 7,476 classes. Those students represented 2,404 companies served.

"Our job is to help industries make as much money as they can possibly make and contribute to their communities," McCall said. "But they can't do it without a trained workforce. That's where we come in."

• Non-credit community and continuing education. Continuing education programs at the colleges offer a wide range of courses—from computers to home and garden to career development to communication to arts and leisure.

"Community education courses represent our commitment to improve the quality of life of Kentuckians, similar to the way our colleges enrich their communities through fine-arts programs," McCall said.

One significant piece of KCTCS' continuing education focus is fire and rescue training. In 1998-99, KCTCS served 60,160 fire and rescue students who worked for 1,091 agencies.

"This is a great success story for KCTCS—the training we provide that keeps Kentuckians safe," McCall said.

COMMUNITY CALENDAR

Calendar items will be printed as space permits

Stumbo, Patton hold the keys

They buried the hatchet earlier this year. Now it is time for Gov. Paul Patton and state Rep. Greg Stumbo to make good on their renewed relationship by doing everything in their power to ensure two pieces of legislation designed to make Kentucky a cleaner place get a fair hearing in the upcoming session of the General Assembly.

Four years ago, when Patton was first elected to the governor's mansion, it appeared Eastern Kentucky was at the precipice of a golden moment, a time in which our region was poised to exert unprecedented influence on the course of state government.

With Patton as governor and Stumbo holding all the cards in the House of Representatives as majority floor leader, Eastern Kentucky possessed two of the three keys to power in this state.

And when state Sen. Benny Ray Bailey masterminded the coup which catapulted Sen. Larry Saunders into the senate president's chair, it appeared to be yet another boost to Eastern Kentucky, with local leaders in key positions of power at every level of state government.

But so far, it hasn't happened. Sure, our region has seen more in the way of pork-barrel projects than we're accustomed to getting, and we certainly hope that extra spending will reap some dividends, but meaningful change, at least on the state level, has been elusive.

Ironically, at a time when three Eastern Kentucky Democrats seemingly held all the powers of state government in their grasp, it has been a Republican at the federal level who has effected the most meaningful change in the mountains.

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers' PRIDE program has meant countless millions of dollars for water and sewage, lines and illegal dump clean-ups. More than that, however, the program has united concerned citizens with city and county governments in an ambitious effort to improve the quality of life in Appalachia.

Now, with Bailey's gamble but a memory following this summer's Republican takeover of the Senate, Eastern Kentucky must rely on Patton and Stumbo to force through two proposals Stumbo has offered and Patton has co-opted — mandatory trash collection and a bottle bill.

Passage of these bills would do more than just improve the esthetic beauty of our region. They are also vital to the health, safety and welfare of our residents, because of their potential to reduce disease and groundwater contamination, and will also aid economic development efforts by making our region more attractive to companies looking to locate in Eastern Kentucky.

But while momentum is building behind these ideas, the time to act upon them is growing short. With Patton facing a lame-duck session in 2002 and Stumbo perhaps gearing up for a gubernatorial or congressional run during that same time, the 2000 legislative session is our best chance to win passage of these bills.

Let us hope the new union between Patton and Stumbo is

Speaks out against animal killer

Editor:
Hi, my name is Mary.
I would like to thank everyone who aided in my search, for my beloved pet, Annie; those that I knocked upon their door, those that I called and those that gave me permission to set foot upon their land. I personally wish to thank the DJs who work for WMDJ and WQHY radio stations. But the biggest thank-you goes to the hunter whose name (in our time of sorrow) we forgot to ask.
I know there are some good people who live in this world, but bad far outnumber the good! Our Annie was not far from home, and I believe that she was returning when the EVIL came to her. My sister believes Annie looked upon the man who cold-bloodedly shot her. He is the lowest form of human life that God ever cast upon this earth! What did he see in her eyes, eyes that would never have hurt a soul? Is it possible she begged him (with her eyes) to not do her any harm? It is hard for me to come to terms with the fact Annie died alone, that one of us was not there to comfort her, to tell her everything was going to be all right. I wonder why he did what he did? How can someone aim a gun on something so defenseless and pull the trigger, then just walk off? I pray that God deals with him just as justly as he dealt with Annie! The Bible says, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth! Our Annie will never die again. He could only kill her once. I only had Annie for a short time, and I was only taking care of her until it was time for her to go. I don't believe it was her time, I believe the man who killed her decided by himself that it was her time! Doesn't this make him a real man! Now she is resting and she is completely FREE!

I'm sure some people would not understand how this lovely dog affected my family's lives, or why we would miss her. It feels like the death of a family member. To all the people who have ever lost a pet, our heart goes out to you. At least we were able to find our beloved Annie and lay her soul to rest. But we will always think of her in the fondest way.

True Heroes

What happened to heroes? When I was a kid, many of the world's heroes were seemingly respectable people. For instance, I thought that Johnny Bench, Roger Staubach and Magic Johnson were the world's best role models.

Although Magic Johnson let me down, Roger Staubach remained a Christian athlete until he retired. But, nonetheless, these were not the money-hungry, greed-driven heroes that many of our children look up to today.

While there are no Joan of Arc's out there today, there are people of valor who deserve recognition. Maybe they have not performed a lifetime of good deeds, but for a season in their lives they made the world a much better place to live in.

So thanks should go out, albeit a day late, to those who have put their lives on the line, so that I may sit in this cushioned seat and entertain you the reader.

Thank you, veterans of World War I and II. The forces of evil rose against the world in such a way that Star Wars looks like a play in the park compared to what you saw. There was no Luke Skywalker or Princess Amidala fighting alone, but millions of our nation's and state's finest putting their lives on the line.

And to those of you who fought so bravely in Korea and Vietnam, I offer appreciation also. You went in to foreign and hostile lands as a selfless sacrifice, only to be scorned by the spineless, who opposed you here at home. In many ways your fight was worse, because your enemies were not only foreign but also domestic.

And, lastly, I would like to thank God for those who fought for the freedom of our nation. Those who established this great country, who have made the entire world a richer and more prosperous place.

True heroes are unselfish people who, though they may be seeking glory, gave up a part of themselves so that their friends (our nation) might live, grow and prosper.

Once more, thanks to all you men and women who cared.

Forest burns as weather conditions deteriorate

Dozens of fires are burning across Kentucky and it appears the situation will only get worse.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry has alerted its staff to be on standby as conditions continue to deteriorate. Increased winds and the falling of leaves have combined with the drought to increase the forest fire danger statewide. The heavy accumulation of leaves on the forest floor provides added fuel for fires, causing them to burn hotter and spread faster.

More than 54,000 acres of Kentucky's forests have burned this year, making 1999 one of the worst years for forest fires in the last decade.

"There have been 1,948 forest fires damaging 54,637 acres since the beginning of the year, last year we only experienced 1,140 forest fires destroying 28,224 acres," said Mark Matuszewski, Director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry. "The potential for a record forest fire year exists and we have hired additional staff to be prepared for the worst."

The division would like to remind citizens that 73 counties have outdoor burning bans.

Fifty-three of those were placed under a burning ban by the governor on September 9. His Executive Order states, "All outdoor burning within those watersheds is prohibited unless first approved by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet."

Counties affected by the governor's order include: Anderson, Bath, Bell, Boone, Bourbon, Boyle, Bracken, Breathitt, Campbell, Carroll, Clark, Clay, Elliott, Estill, Fayette, Fleming, Franklin, Gallatin, Garrard, Grant, Harlan, Harrison, Henry, Jackson, Jessamine, Kenton, Knott, Knox, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Lewis, Lincoln, Madison, Magoffin, Mason, Menifee, Mercer, Montgomery, Morgan, Nicholas, Owen, Owsley, Pendleton, Perry, Powell, Robertson, Rockcastle, Rowan, Scott, Shelby, Woodford and Wolfe.

Counties that have imposed their own burning bans are: Ballard, Boyd, Caldwell, Calloway, Carlisle, Carter, Clinton, Crittenden, Floyd, Fulton, Jefferson, Livingston, Lyon, McCracken, McCreary, Marshall, Pike, Trigg, Washington and Webster.

Before conducting any outdoor burning, contact your county judge-executive to determine if a ban has been issued in your county.

If your county has not issued a burning ban, it is still subject to some outdoor burning limitations. During the Fall Forest Fire Hazard Season (October 1 through December 12), the law says no fires can be started within 150 feet of any woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. or when the ground is covered in snow.

While many of the forest fires in Kentucky are caused by carelessness, almost 50 percent are caused by arson. Arson is a criminal offense that can result in a fine of up to $10,000 and a sentence of up to five years in prison.

The division is committed to fully prosecuting anyone accused of forest arson. Forest arson can be reported by calling 1-800-27-ARSON (1-800-272-7766).

For more information contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry at (502) 564-4496 or visit our web site at <http://www.nr.state.ky.us/nrepc/dnr/forestry/dnrdef.html>.

High gas prices make fuel conservation fashionable

The days of cheap gas in Kentucky are over for now. This year's escalating gasoline prices should again make energy conservation popular with motorists, according to AAA.

"In Kentucky, the average price of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline has swung from 89 cents in February to last month's average price of $1.22," said Dan Dickson, public relations manager for AAA Blue Grass/Kentucky. "Back in the 1970's, when gas shortages were common, many people learned to conserve gas. Many of those tips can be very useful today."

To help motorists conserve fuel during this period of higher prices, AAA suggests the following:

- Keep tires properly inflated. This will reduce the resistance your vehicle must overcome to start moving and to keep going.
- Accelerate gently, brake gradually and avoid hard stops. Quick acceleration and speeds requiring hard braking waste fuel.

- Don't let the vehicle idle for more than a few minutes. Idling uses half a gallon to one gallon of fuel per hour and wastes more gas than restarting your engine.
- Check the engine oil level regularly to be sure the engine is lubricated properly.
- Combine errands into one trip or go to one location to do many errands at once.
- Pack lightly when traveling. Avoid carrying items on the roof, to reduce wind resistance.

Other ways to save money on gasoline purchases include not using mid-grade or premium fuel unless it is recommended by your vehicle's manufacturer, aggressively shopping for the lowest gas price in your area, using public transportation where available or car-pooling to work or school.

AAA Blue Grass/Kentucky is a not-for-profit automobile club serving 120,000 members in 61 counties in central and eastern Kentucky and parts of Virginia and West Virginia.

Rogers establishes new line of communication

U.S. Representative Harold "Hal" Rogers announced Wednesday he is opening new lines of contact for Kentucky citizens who routinely use the Internet for communications.

Rogers says he has agreed to become a participant in the House of Representatives' official "Write Your Representative" web page, which allows citizens with Internet access to transmit electronic messages to his office in Washington.

The web site, www.house.gov/writerep, permits citizens around the nation to send written messages to their individual U.S. Representative. Rogers has also established a public e-mail address to receive general comments from Internet users.

"E-mail is a commonplace way for citizens to keep up-to-date with important issues and to express their opinions," Rogers said. "After evaluating several Internet options, I have concluded the Write Your Representative web site gives the people I represent the very best method to express their views directly to me. It protects the individual privacy of Internet users by guaranteeing, under penalty of law, that their personal information—their name, mailing address and e-mail address—will not be sold or used for commercial or political purposes."

Rogers also announced he has established a universal, public e-mail address to accept comment from Internet users. That address, Talk2Hal@mail.house.gov, will be available to anyone who wants to express an opinion to Congressman Rogers but does not require a detailed response. Those who send e-mail to that address will receive an e-mail reply indicating their comments have been received and will also be provided with a customized link to the Write Your Representative web site.

"The people I represent deserve an open, uncluttered and secure point of contact with me through the Internet," Rogers said. "I am pleased to offer the Internet users I represent these new avenues of communication."

New substance abuse program offers help for pregnant women

Gov. Paul E. Patton has signed emergency regulations effective October 20 to allow Medicaid coverage of substance abuse prevention and treatment services for pregnant women and new mothers.

The Kentucky General Assembly paved the way for this new coverage by appropriating state funds in the 1998 session to "match" federal dollars for services to this population.

The $500,000 in state money plus the federal match will total $1,197,793 a year to fund the program.

This new program is the result of collaboration between two departments in the Cabinet for Health Services—the Department for Medicaid Services and the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

"Our goal is healthy babies and healthy mothers to care for them. We will be able to give these women more help than was possible in the past," said CHS Cabinet Secretary Jimmy D. Helton.

This new program will allow Medicaid to offer a more comprehensive package of benefits. In the past, a Medicaid-eligible pregnant woman with a substance abuse problem did not have the variety and intensity of services available to her that are provided under this new regulation.

Prevention and treatment services for pregnant women and new mothers with substance abuse problems will reduce the possibility that their babies will have low birth-weight or birth defects such as fetal alcohol syndrome.

These expanded services should increase the likelihood that the mother can appropriately care for her newborn.

The substance abuse prevention and treatment period for postpartum women continues at least 60 days after the date of the baby's birth.

The availability of this Medicaid benefit should help reduce future Medicaid health care costs for the infant and mother. The failure to prevent or treat substance abuse increases educational costs associated with providing special education services to a developmentally delayed child.

Also, child abuse or neglect in some of these families results in child protective services costs associated with addressing these problems.

The benefits package includes:

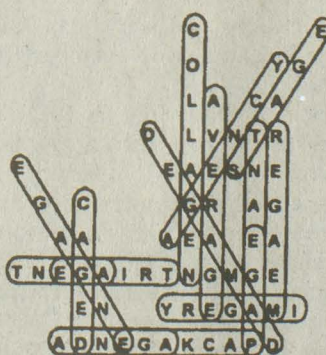

- Three types of prevention services (universal, selective and indicated) based on the woman's risk factors for substance abuse.
- Substance abuse assessment
- Treatment services:
- Substance abuse outpatient care.
- Substance abuse intensive outpatient.
- Case management.
- Community support services.

The Cabinet for Health Services has been working on this project for a couple of years. A series of work group sessions was held with providers and cabinet staff to design the service benefits package and draft the emergency regulations.

There are an estimated 20,000 pregnant women who are Medicaid eligible each year. Of that number, about 2,000-3,000 are experiencing alcohol or drug problems during their pregnancies.

It is estimated that initially 25 percent would actually use these services, and the cabinet plans to increase participation through outreach efforts.

Committee report looks at 10 years of education reform

OBITUARIES

Kentucky's efforts to improve its schools in the past decade have resulted in significant progress. But much remains to be done—particularly in the areas of reading, teacher preparation and community involvement—if the state is to reach the goals it established in reforms enacted in 1990, according to a report released Wednesday by the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence.

"Gaining Ground: Hard Work and High Expectations for Kentucky Schools" is described by the committee as "a concerned citizen's snapshot...of a complex reform after a few years of implementation."

The report reviews Kentucky's circumstances—trailing the nation in numerous measures of educational quality—when the sweeping school-improvement efforts began. It looks at such critical indicators of progress as funding levels, state and national test scores, and equity issues. And it focuses on areas of continuing need with recommendations for improvement.

"Our general observation at this interim point is that, overall, Kentucky's schools have made gains, but the progress isn't enough," the committee concludes in the report. "Many schools have made strong improvement, but not enough schools have made enough improvement. Too many have improved slowly or hardly at all. But there is ample proof that reform can work."

Beyond statistical evidence, the report also notes broad signs of progress that reflect the changing attitudes of Kentucky educators and citizens toward the state's school system. Included are such indicators as the general acceptance of high academic standards for schools, the public's willingness to invest more tax money in education, the increasing focus on student achievement, and the acceptance of reform as desirable.

Similarly, the report also looks at areas where change is still required. These include the need for more demonstrated progress at the classroom level as teaching practice is changed, enhancing the role of postsecondary education in training high-quality teachers, engaging more parents and families as full partners in education, and ensuring that school councils focus their efforts on increased student learning.

"Thousands of Kentucky educators have worked harder and smarter than ever before to make the progress we've seen so far, and all of us should celebrate their accomplishments," said Robert F. Sexton, the committee's executive director. "But if Kentucky is to reach its goal of continually improving our schools to teach every child well, we must recommit to the vision of educational excellence that we established in 1990."

The report's recommendations emphasize three areas:

- Reading instruction must improve in the early grades so all children enter middle school able to read and understand the work at that level. Reading instruction also must be available in middle school for students who arrive there unprepared.

• The quality of training available to current teachers and the preparation that new teachers receive in college must be vastly improved.

• Citizens and communities must renew and expand their commitment to schools, recruit new allies, demand improved academic achievement and recognize that educators are not solely responsible for quality education. It is particularly important to ensure the best possible start in life for Kentucky's children. The committee supports the approval and funding of the recommendations expected soon from the Governor's Task Force on Early Childhood.

Patton designates a week for veterans

Surrounded Wednesday by veterans from across Kentucky and school children, Gov. Paul Patton proclaimed November 7 through November 13 as Veterans' Week and November 11 as Veterans' Day in the commonwealth. More than 355,000 veterans live in Kentucky.

"On behalf of all the people of Kentucky, we thank the veterans who have sacrificed and served to protect our freedom," Patton said. "The Kentucky General Assembly and we want everyone to have the opportunity to pause and think about the gratitude we owe these men and women who have served us so well. That's why tomorrow is a legal state holiday honoring veterans."

The governor noted that Americans in this century have fought four major wars outside U.S. borders and said while everyone prays that won't happen in the 21st century, should it ever be necessary, "...we as a nation will continue to have the will to fight and die to protect our freedom as the people in this century have demonstrated they are willing to do."

Patton told the children in the audience that war is the ultimate expression of people's inability to be fair to each other.

"Remember, violence is not the best way to resolve disputes," the governor said. "As the next generation of leaders, it's your responsibility to learn to resolve disputes without violence."

Retired Brigadier General Leslie Beavers, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Veterans' Affairs, reminded those present for the Capitol Rotunda ceremony, "This is the last Veterans' Day for the 20th century. Kentuckians have kept a special place in their hearts for their veterans. The governor's orders go out across the state to honor our patriots. One million Kentuckians have served their country, from every part of the state. Nine thousand Kentuckians in this last hundred years gave their lives for us."

With applause, the veterans thanked the governor and the legislature for setting aside November 11 as a state holiday in their honor.

Diabetes awareness rally planned in Frankfort

The Kentucky Diabetes Network will hold the first Diabetes Awareness Rally at 10 a.m. in the Capitol Rotunda in Frankfort on November 19.

Derrick Ramsey, former University of Kentucky football star and currently the athletic director at Kentucky State University, will be the featured speaker.

The network, which includes the Kentucky Department for Public Health, is holding the rally to increase public awareness of the seriousness of diabetes and the importance of blood glucose control. Diabetes is the sixth leading cause of death in Kentucky.

An estimated 245,139 Kentuckians have diabetes, but 81,713 of them don't know they have it. Another one million Kentuckians are at risk because of age, obesity and sedentary lifestyles.

November is National Diabetes Month and Gov. Paul Patton is scheduled to be present to proclaim the third week in November Diabetes Awareness Week in Kentucky.

Correction

In a recent article about a trailer fire near the Plantation Motel, it may have been misconstrued that the Prestonsburg Fire Department did not respond to the rekindling of the fire.

Crews from PFD did respond to the second call by sending a rescue truck to the scene. Firefighters said the trailer was lost by the time they had arrived on the scene.

Firefighters say there were no hot spots at the scene when they left from the first call.

The fire department wishes to assure residents of the city that they respond to every call.

Johnson scores 16 as Osborne improves to 2-0 on season

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Charles Johnson's Osborne Eagles fifth and sixth grade basketball team improved to 2-0 on the young season by virtue of a 47-40 win over visiting W.R. Castle Monday night at the Wheelwright gym.

Josh Johnson scored 18 points to lead the Eagles, with Ethan Johnson netting 12 points. Ryan Little tossed in eight. Jeffrey Green had 13 points to lead Castle, coached by Randy Ward. Matt Castle added nine as did Jamie McCarty. Dennis Matthews and Ethan Johnson had the only three-point baskets for the Eagles and those came in the second quarter. McCarty hit Castle's lone trey.

Little scored six of his eight points in the first quarter as Osborne led 15-12 at the first stop. But Castle got a good performance from Green in the opening period, scoring eight first-period points. Matthews hit his trey in the opening period for the Eagles with Josh Johnson scoring four points. Ethan Johnson had two points in the first.

The Eagles led at half time 26-21 as Castle refused to go away. Ethan Johnson hit a three-pointer and scored six points in the second quarter for Osborne. Josh Johnson and Little had two points in the period.

In the third period, Osborne outscored Castle 12-11 with Josh Johnson scoring eight of his 16 points in the quarter. Ethan Johnson and Matthew Johnson had two points each. McCarty hit a trey and scored five points in the third quarter for Castle. Castle and Green each had two points. Kyle Sublett, who had two first-quarter points, had a field goal in the third.

Osborne had to stay ahead of Castle from the charity line in the fourth quarter. They had only one field goal, a basket by Brook Letterman. The Eagles hit six of nine attempts down the stretch to secure the win.

T.J. Hall had four points for the Eagles. Matthews finished with three. Matthew Johnson and Letterman finished with two apiece.

Sublett tossed in seven points for Castle. Anthony McCarty had two points.

Mullins, Isaac lead ACMS past Allen

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Terri Mullins scored a game high 18 points and Jessica Isaac added 10 to lead the Allen Central Middle School Lady Rebels past the Lady Eagles of Allen in a second round game of the Right Beaver Classic at the Allen Central Middle School gym Wednesday night.

Chanel Music led Allen with six points, with Kelly Key and Jamie Wright scoring four points apiece.

Allen Central held a 12-4 lead after the first quarter, with Isaac scoring six points in the opening period. Becky Thomas, who had eight points for the Lady Rebels, scored four in the opening quarter. Music and Alana Cline chipped in the four points for Allen.

Allen trailed Allen Central 20-8 at the half with Mullins scoring four points in the second stanza. Thomas and Amber Griffith had two points apiece.

It was all Allen Central in the third period as they went on a 16-2 run that netted them a 36-10 lead. Mullins had eight of her 18 points in the third stanza. Isaac scored four, Amanda Mills added two and Samantha Nelson scored one.

Allen put together a mild threat in the fourth period with a 12-5 run against the Lady Rebels. Key and Wright had four points each for Allen in the period.

Mekala Rice, Tela Gayheart, Cline and Sara Reffett scored two points for Allen.

Amanda Mills finished with two points, as did Amber Griffith.

Lykens leads Bobcats past Beaver Creek

by Karen Joseph
Sports Writer

Whitney Lykens scored a total of 29 points in Betsy Layne's win over the Beavers from Beaver Creek in round two of the Right Beaver Classic on Tuesday.

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats struggled to pull off the victory. Although final score was 51-44, it was a very close game all the way.

Betsy Layne will advance in the tournament to take on the Raiders of South Floyd on Thursday night.

Betsy Layne had a very slim lead at the end of the first period. The game was scoreless until Lyndsay Frasure hit a jump shot for the Bobcats with 3:42 remaining in the first quarter.

Frasure also grabbed three rebounds for the Bobcats in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, the Beavers outscored the Bobcats by three. The Beavers, or really Elisha Hall, took control of the game and Beaver Creek went into the locker room with a three-point lead. Elisha Hall had eight points, an assist, a blocked shot and a rebound for Beaver Creek in the second quarter.

The Bobcats came back out in the second half a much better composed team.

Whitney Lykens hit nine of 10 free throws in the third quarter and also had a field goal. Lynsday Frasure had a field goal and a free

Behind the Scenes!

Ever wonder what all takes place in putting together a basketball tournament?

All the bodies it takes to make sure everything goes off as scheduled and everyone is in place such as the person at the door, concession workers, score keepers, timers, etc.

It takes a lot of folks!

In attending Monday night's opening session of the Right Beaver Classic at Allen Central Middle School, I was observing Brian Handshoe, the tournament manager.

Brian was all over the place, checking out everyone and making sure cups were at the water spots for each team, the floor was dry after spilled soft drinks, everyone was all right and all that goes with being a tournament manager.

Sometimes we fail to thank people like Brian who has the duty of overseeing everything. Fourteen teams opened the Right Beaver Classic and only four teams will play in the two championship games tonight. That involves over 200 kids, not counting the coaches and all the others who come along with a team.

Brian had help and he had good help at the concessions, the door and around the area, but still he had to oversee it all.

I, for one, appreciate all that Brian did and think he does an excellent job as athletic director at ACMS and the tournament has been great. Thanks, Brian, from us all.

A Look at Sports

I got to see Ronnie Patton at the tournament Monday night. He was doing his part in taking up the admission fee.

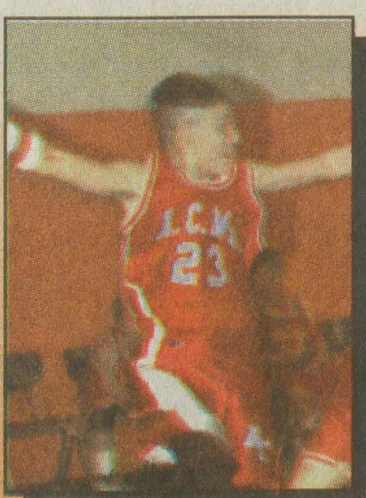

I spoke to him briefly, but have been thinking what a shame it is not to be using his coaching ability somewhere.

I still contend he was not done right at South Floyd when he was not hired back at the girls coaching position for this year. I have nothing against the present coaching staff, but feel Ronnie got a bad deal. But others feel the same way as I do.

What the South Floyd job needs is some stability. Ronnie would have given them that. In

The Allen Eagles placed three players in double figures in their 44-36 win over the Allen Central Middle School Eagles in the second round of the boys Right Beaver Classic Wednesday night.

Nathan Lafferty tossed in 13 points and Josh Bingham added 12, with Nathan Newsome finishing with 11 for the Eagles.

Allen Central was led by Paul

Francis' 12 points as only four players scored for the Rebels. Justin Hall and Austin Francis netted nine points. Tackett had a three-point basket for his three points.

Allen Central held a 12-6 lead over the Eagles at the first stop behind the scoring of Austin Francis with five points. Paul Francis drilled the first of his two three-point baskets and Hall had four points for the Rebs. Bingham scored four of the six points for Allen with Crider scoring two.

Allen made some adjustments at the quarter's end and came out hot, outscoring Allen Central 17-8 in the second stanza.

Lafferty scored eight points in the second for the Eagles. Newsome had five. Allen went to the locker room with a 23-20 half time lead.

After three quarters, Allen Central was able to get a point closer but in the fourth period, Allen put the game away with a 14-8 run.

Nicholas Jamerson and Crider finished with four points for Allen.

Mims' last second shot falls short in 66-63 loss

by Ed Taylor

It could be a very positive loss, if there is such a thing, or a moral victory, if you believe in them, but coach Randy McCoy's Pikeville Bears gave 19th ranked Rio Grande all they wanted Tuesday night before dropping a 66-63 decision.

Pikeville (1-1) experienced a cold night of shooting from the floor, hitting only 35 percent for the game. The Bears hit a cool 31 percent in the first half, making only nine of 29 attempts. They improved to 40 percent in the second half.

Pikeville had the last look in the final seconds as freshman guard John Mims' (Pikeville High School) three-point attempt at the horn fell short.

Rio Grande held a nine-point advantage much of the second half until the Bears cut it to three points.

Mims was pressed into service after starting point guard B.J. Ratliff was injured in the first half and never returned to the hardwood.

The Bears struggled once again from the charity stripe, shooting a cold 61 percent, hitting only 19 of 31 attempts.

Pikeville's last lead came with 14:00 left in the game, when they led by one point. The Redmen then took the lead for good, running out to an 11-point lead.

Freshman Craig Ratliff (Paintsville High School) led the Bears with 18 points and nine rebounds. Ricky Freeman and Brian Russell each finished with 12 points. Freeman had eight boards in the loss. John Riggs netted six points while Thomas Jenkins (Allen Central) and Mims finished with four. Jenkins had three assists in the game and five rebounds.

Ratliff, an all-conference sophomore, played only the first 11 minutes of the first half before he was injured on a break out in the first half.

Rio Grande's Jeremy May led all scorers with 24 points, the only Redman in double figures.

The Redmen shot 43 percent from the floor, hitting a sizzling 52 percent in the second half.

Pikeville trailed 30-27 at the half.

Justin Hall (23) went up to block a shot from an MCA player in the closing minutes of game three in the Right Beaver Classic Monday night. Allen Central posted a 75-43 win over the Falcons to advance to the semifinal round. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Carl Crisp has already called a season schedule of basketball games. "I have called over 20 games already this season," said Carl. Hey, the season is just getting started!

John Biery, coach at the Mountain Christian Academy Falcons, was nervous before his team took to the floor against defending county champion Allen Central Monday night.

Said John to referee Carl Crisp, "If it gets ugly, throw me out of the gym."

I really liked the look of the Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats Monday night at the RBC. Coach Dwight Newsome has his team playing well and I like some of the good young players that are coming in (I'll not mention names).

Sports in Perspective

by Denis Harrington

There is no more primal interpretation of sport in these modern times than what is enacted within the roped confines of the prize ring.

Men, and now women, with mitted fists at the ready attempt to batter their opponent into a state of reeling repose. One punch after another rocks the brain against the spiny vault of the skull, irreparably damaging delicate cells and synapses that control essential bodily functions, even life itself.

It's legalized assault with intent to maim, and even kill.

Sugar Ray Robinson, oft eulogized as the greatest pugilist, pound for pound, of all time, once observed, "Getting the other guy in trouble is what boxing's all about."

The participants in this ritual of bloodletting have historically emerged from desperate circumstances to willingly step out under the lights with malicious intent.

As Tennessee Ernie Ford used to baritone, "I was born one mornin' it was drizzlin' rain, fightin' and trouble are my middle name..."

Jake LaMotta, an erstwhile world middleweight champion who was reared in New York City's infamous Hell's Kitchen, said, "I grew up fighting in the streets, in reform school. So it was just logical that I should get paid for it."

In his youth, Jack Dempsey drifted from one western hobo jungle to another, using his fists as a means of support.

"You had to win to collect, to eat," he said. "I was a hungry fighter in the strictest sense of the word."

Many years later, at age 80, he considered his past and remarked, "If I had to do it all over again, I'd still be a fighter. You see, it's all I knew how to do. It's what I did best."

Almost without exception, necessity makes a prize fighter. But in a profession where the killer instinct is much valued and richly rewarded there also thrives a strange bonding among the men who perpetrate violence upon one another. In some cases, given beneficial circumstances, this nexus can eventually assume the guise of mutual respect, and yes, even love.

Consider a most unlikely liaison involving the late Joe Louis and Billy Conn.

Let's go back to the summer of 1941 when Louis, the reigning heavyweight champion of the world, faced Conn, regarded by many as the finest light heavyweight ever, for his title. Louis weighed in excess of 200 pounds while Conn tipped the beam at a mere 169 pounds.

For 12 rounds Conn did the unthinkable. He punched and ran, piling up an insurmountable points lead. All he had to do was keep out of harm's way for another nine minutes and the most esteemed championship in all of boxing would be his.

But Conn wanted more. He wanted a knockout. Instead, he went down for the count at 2:58 of the 13th round and Louis retained his laurels.

Some days afterward the two men met and Conn said, "You could've let me win, Joe. I would've given the title back to you in six months. Just so I could say I was heavyweight champ."

Louis replied, "I tried, Billy. Only if you couldn't hold it for 15 rounds, how were you gonna do it for six months?"

After the war there was a rematch but Louis won again and this time decisively.

When their fistic careers were over Conn and Louis kept in touch. They would visit frequently, always digging at one another about what might have been in the summer of 1941. During the period Louis worked as a greeter for a Las Vegas casino, he always arranged for Conn to get extra chips to play the tables.

Not infrequently Conn brought along a film of their '41 fight for general viewing. Once the camera started to roll Louis would disappear into a nearby bar. Now and again Conn called to his friend, "Hey, Joe, come see how I'm whipping your butt."

Finally, with the start of the 13th round, Louis would re-enter the room, saying, "It's goodbye, Billy, folks." Then Conn went into the bar.

In Louis' declining years, when he was confined to a wheelchair and broke, Conn was there with money and moral support. Ultimately, Louis died and Conn picked up the tab.

Like a rose thriving in a crack of metropolitan stone their relationship was indeed a curiosity.

Four teams comprise JCHS Eagles' basketball panorama

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

First-year Coach Brent Rose and his Betsy Layne Bobcats will be one of four teams that will comprise the Johnson Central Golden Eagles basketball panorama tomorrow night (Saturday) at Johnson Central gymnasium.

Betsy Layne will face Sheldon Clark in the first game, with a tip off time of 6 p.m. Betsy Layne could be a sleeper in this year's Floyd County Conference. Sheldon Clark is expected to be a contender in the always tough 57th District.

The second game will pit Mercer County against host Johnson Central at approximately 7:15 p.m. Mercer County is coached by former McDowell standout Stacy Hall, who played for Johnson Central Coach Johnny Ray Turner.

Coach Turner is looking forward to the start of the season, with his Golden Eagles ranked third in pre-season polls behind Pikeville and Paintsville.

"I am excited about this team," said the Eagles coach. "They are an unselfish group and they get along real well."

Coach Turner, who coached the great '89 team at McDowell, says this team could be a little better than that one.

"I think it is better than the '89 team I had," he said. That team included Henry Webb, Dickie Joe Shannon, Rady Martin, Brent Rose and a host of others.

"We are going to have some good depth this year with eight seniors," said Turner. "These kids are good kids and they are good in the classroom as well."

The panorama will consist of two 15-minute halves. KHSAA rules will apply.

CLARENCE D. RICE TIP OFF CLASSIC

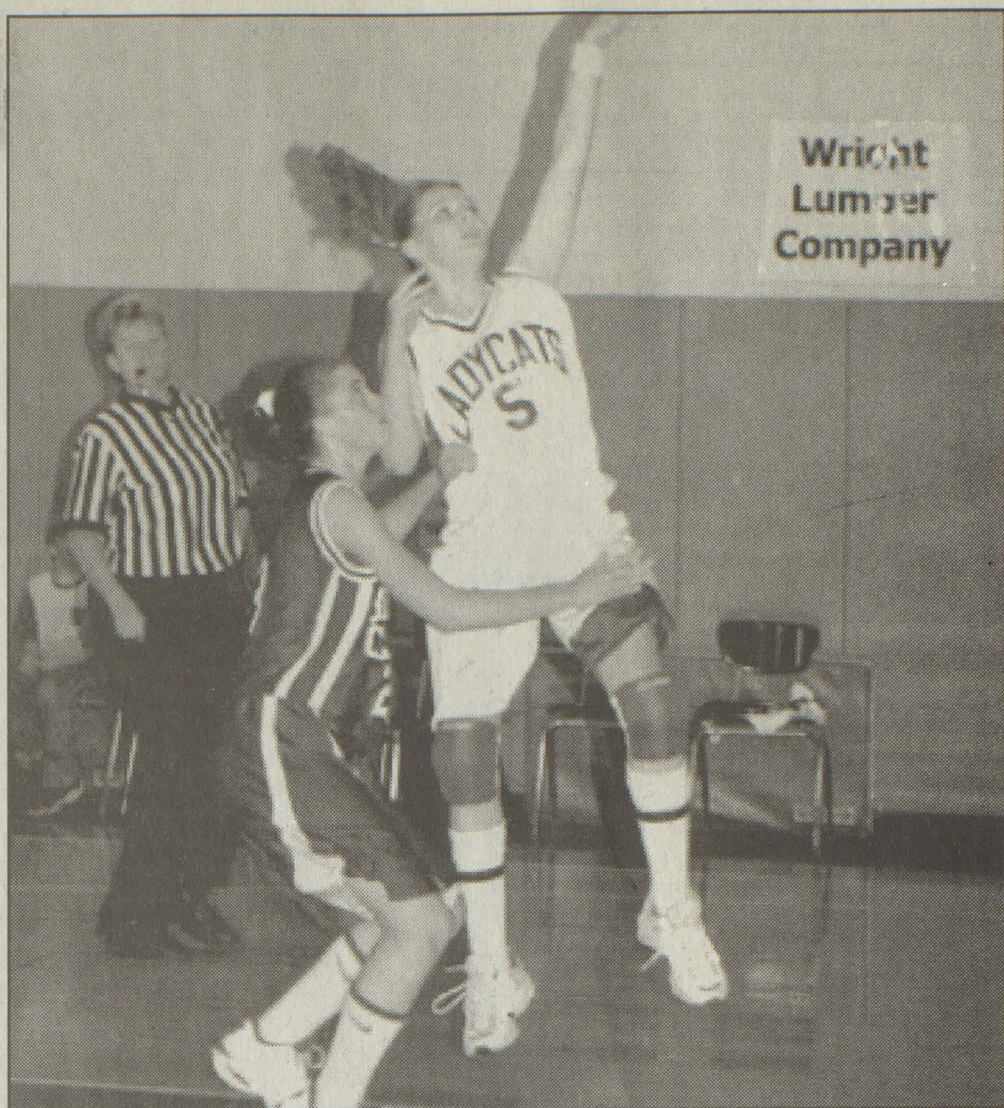

Johnson Central will also host the Clarence D. Rice Tip Off Classic on Dec. 3-4, with two Floyd County teams taking part.

Greenup County, out of the 16th Region, will face Henry Webb's talented South Floyd Raiders in game one. Coach Randy Ward's Musketeers have been one of the most consistent winners out of the 16th and Ward often brings a strong team to the tournament.

South Floyd has been tapped as preseason favorite in the 58th District and one of the top five teams in the 15th Region.

Betsy Layne will meet Johnson Central in the second game Friday night. Again, it will be mentor against former student.

The tournament finals is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 4 with a tip off time of 7 p.m.

Pikeville pulls off upset of Rio Grande

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Pikeville College Lady Bears (2-1) outscored 16th ranked Rio Grande 16-8 in overtime and pulled out a 74-66 win for their second victory of the yet-young basketball season.

Pikeville, who struggled from the charity stripe in the first 40 minutes, hit 14 of 19 free throws to secure the win.

Coach Bill Watson was elated over the way his team played against the nationally-ranked team.

"This was a big win for us," said the Pikeville coach. "We beat a ranked team, a good club, in our home opener. That's a big win for a young ball-club."

Young is a good, descriptive word for the Lady Bears, with nine of the 12 players either freshmen or sophomores.

It was a 58-58 game after regulation play and both teams hit two free throws at the onset of the overtime for a tied game at 60-60.

But sophomore Charity Burke (Pikeville High School) hit two free throws at the 4:04 mark of the extra period, and freshman Amanda Collins (Pike Central High School) scored on a lay up to give the Lady Bears a 64-60 lead. Collins' basket would be the only field goal for the Lady Bears in the overtime period. Pikeville never trailed after taking the four-point lead.

Rio Grande held a 31-26 half time lead over the Lady Bears Tecco Gallion tossed in 18 points to lead the scoring for Pikeville. She pulled in seven rebounds before fouling out. Collins finished with 16 points and Jamie Heflin (Belfry) added 13 points for the Lady Bears. Collins had seven caroms and Heflin dished off five assists.

Former Betsy Layne standout Jessica Johnson, who signed with Pikeville this past summer, netted seven points, hitting a three-point basket. Burke finished with eight points.

Game scoring honors went to Rio Grande's Karley Mohler who tickled the twine for 23 points. She also dominated the boards with 14 rebounds. Mindy Pope added 14 points for the Redwomen.

Rio Grande shot a cool 31 percent for the game while Pikeville hit 41 percent of their shots. Rio Grande outrebounced the Lady Bears 57-34. Pikeville was four of 13 from the three-point circle.

The Lady Bears enter tournament play tonight in the Rax Invitational, with the finals scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m.

Mullins, Isaac lead ACMS past Allen

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Terri Mullins scored a game high 18 points and Jessica Isaac added 10 to lead the Allen Central Middle School Lady Rebels past the Lady Eagles of Allen in a second round game of the Right Beaver Classic at the Allen Central Middle School gym Wednesday night.

Chanel Music led Allen with six points, with Kelly Key and Jamie Wright scoring four points apiece.

Allen Central held a 12-4 lead after the first quarter, with Isaac scoring six points in the opening period. Becky Thomas, who had eight points for the Lady Rebels, scored four in the opening quarter. Music and Alana Cline chipped in the four points for Allen.

Allen trailed Allen Central 20-8 at the half with Mullins scoring four points in the second stanza. Thomas and Amber Griffith had two points apiece.

It was all Allen Central in the third period as they went on a 16-2 run that netted them a 36-10 lead. Mullins had eight of her 18 points in the third stanza. Isaac scored four, Amanda Mills added two and Samantha Nelson scored one.

Allen put together a mild threat in the fourth period with a 12-5 run against the Lady Rebels. Key and Wright had four points each for Allen in the period.

Mekala Rice, Tela Gayheart, Cline and Sara Reffett scored two points for Allen.

Brad Martin hits four 3's to defeat John M. Stumbo

by Karen Joseph
Sports Writer

In the second game of the Right Beaver Classic on Tuesday night, it was the John M. Stumbo Mustangs taking on the very powerful and big Beavers from Beaver Creek.

Beaver Creek can take the ball to the basket and also shoot from outside. Stumbo, being smaller, had a tough time defending against the Beavers.

Stumbo also had to play without the services of Jack Slone. Jack Slone went down just before half time with an ankle injury. This put the Mustangs at a disadvantage and the Beavers easily defeated John M. Stumbo 59-31.

In the first quarter the Mustangs held their own against the Beavers, and the Mustangs only trailed by three points at the end of the first quarter.

Diamont Caudill a jump shot for Beaver to put Beaver Creek on the scoreboard first, then Stumbo took the lead for the first and only time of the game on an old fashioned three-point play.

Brandon Hall made a two-point basket for Stumbo and was fouled by Joe Moore. Hall hit the free throw and the Mustangs led 3-2.

But Beaver Creek quickly regained the lead and never relinquished it. The score at the end of the first quarter had the Beavers up by three.

Beaver Creek put the game out of reach for the Mustangs in the second quarter.

Beaver Creek outscored the Mustangs 19-7 in the second period.

Stumbo had several open shots, but just couldn't get the ball to go in. Jack Slone had six of the Mustangs' seven points in the second quarter, including one three-point basket.

The Mustangs trailed 33-18 at the half.

In the second half, Beaver Creek controlled the game, outscoring the Mustangs 15-10.

Brad Martin hit two three-point baskets for the Beavers. Brandon Hall scored six of the 10 points for Stumbo.

In the fourth and final quarter John M. Stumbo seemed to lose its composure. The Mustangs could only muster three points.

Brandon Hall scored all three points for Stumbo.

Eric Cook took control for the Beavers in the fourth. Cook hit four straight baskets in the last two-and-a-half minutes of the game to run his total to 19 points for the game.

Brad Martin had a total of 17 points for the Beavers, including four three-point baskets. For Stumbo, Jack Slone was high scorer. Slone scored 10 points in the first half and did not play in the second half.

Trio of Isaac, Mullins and Thomas combine for 36 points over Stumbo

by Karen Joseph
Sports Writer

Tuesday's final game at the Right Beaver Classic, featured a very evenly paired match between the Lady Mustangs of John M. Stumbo and the Lady Rebels from Allen Central Middle School.

Both teams have a lot of height and strength, but the Lady Rebels of Allen Central jumped ahead early and came away with a 38-30 win.

For the Rebels, Jessica Isaac, Terri Mullins and Becky Thomas each had 12 points for the Rebels. Stumbo's Kesha Newman was leading scorer for both teams, with a total of 16 points.

In the first quarter, Shelly Hammonds hit two three-point baskets for the Lady Mustangs, but the Rebels still outscored Stumbo by four points.

In the second quarter, the Rebels outscored the Mustangs again by four points and this would give the Rebels the eight-point edge they would need to win. The Rebels went into the locker room at the half with the eight-point lead and maintained it the rest of the game.

Both teams scored 14 points in the second half. Stumbo only shot one free throw the entire game.

Allen Central shot a total of 21 free shots, 17 of them coming in the fourth and final quarter.

But the Rebels hit their free throws coming down the stretch to hold on for the win.

Stumbo hit four field goals, while Allen Central hit only two in the fourth quarter.

Shelly Hammonds had another three point basket for the Mustangs, but it was the free throws that allowed the Rebels to hold on to the lead.

Shelly Hammonds finished the game with nine points for the Lady Mustangs, while Sarah Flannery and Natalie Newsome finished with two each. Heather Hamilton had a free throw for Stumbo and finished with one point.

For the Lady Rebels, Isaac, Mullins, and Thomas each had 12 points each and Amanda Mills had the other two points.

The Bobcats had a six-point lead at the end of the third quarter, 34-28.

Beaver Creek fought back in the fourth and the Bobcats outscored them by only one point.

With 1:30 remaining in the game, the Beavers came within three on a two-point basket by Elisha Hall, making the score 45-42 in favor of the Bobcats.

Whitney Lykens hit two free throws to push the Bobcats back out by five. Betsy Layne then held the ball and made Beaver Creek foul.

Beaver Creek got the ball back and Whitney Lykens fouled Keisha Johnson. Johnson hit both of her free-throw attempts to bring the Beavers back within three.

On the next play, Whitney Lykens went up for the shot and was fouled by Kristi Osborne. Lykens hit both shots to give the Bobcats back the five-point lead.

With only 17 seconds remaining, Kristi Osborne attempted a three-point basket for the Beavers, but the ball rattled out of the basket.

Elisha Hall committed her fifth and final foul by fouling Tabetha Witt with 15 seconds to go. Witt put the final touches on the game by hitting both free throws and gave the Bobcats the 51-44 win.

Union and utility co-op continue bargaining

Members of a union representing outside employees of an area utility co-op's officials are continuing to negotiate a new contract in an attempt to avert a possible strike.

The two sides have made progress recently, a union spokesman says, but the two sides remain apart on several issues, including a work agreement and the recent layoff of employees.—The Salyersville Independent

Licking River basin most affected by dry weather

Stream flows across the state have declined steadily during the past two weeks. Ninety percent of sites monitored by the U. S. Geological Survey are less than 50 percent of average flow for this time of year, the driest period of the year. Seventy-six percent are at less than 25 percent of average, and 36 percent are at or below 10 percent of average.

The Licking River basin has once again returned to the status of "most impacted," with a flow in the main stream at Catawba the lowest it has been this year. The Salt River basin is close behind. These are followed by the Kentucky, the Green and the Upper Cumberland; however, the Kentucky River's flow is falling considerably faster than either of the others.

Survival hints part of winter weather awareness week

Winter Weather Awareness Week for Kentucky is set for November 15 through November 19. With the recent cold temperatures our weather thoughts have switched to the events that are sure to come. Now is the time to prepare for the elements of winter weather: cold, snow and ice.—The Salyersville Independent

Pike BOE member resigns

A Pike County school board member has resigned under the threat of removal proceedings for allegedly trying to influence hiring in the district.

W. Keith Hall, who returned from an eight-month suspension earlier this month, had received an ultimatum last week that he resign by 4 p. m. Tuesday (November 9) or face removal charges. He faxed his resignation to state Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody at 1:55 Saturday.

Kevin Nolan, Kentucky Department of Education general counsel, confirmed Monday that former Superintendent Reo Johns, former interim Superintendent Brenda Gooslin and former Personnel Director T.J. Ford were some of the complainants against Hall.

Freeburn man tells of the horrors of World War II

In his attempt to sum up the brutality of war in as few words as possible, Union general William T. Sherman said, "War is hell."

While being both familiar with and, at least in principle, agreeing with Sherman's terse summarization, Willie Prater, 72, believes there exists another kind of hell that even Sherman himself would have had trouble imagining.

That's why the Freeburn resident thought it best if he take the time and choose his words carefully before offering an opinion on the subject. Simply, Prater believed it imperative that the average layperson receive a fair but realistic depiction of hell-on-earth as he knows it to be.—Appalachian News-Express

County mourns loss of Chapman

John Henry Chapman, father and friend to many, passed away Friday at home after a short illness.

The 37-year-old former coal miner, who lost his job when Wolf Creek Collieries ceased operations four years ago, was diagnosed with colon cancer in April. He is survived by his wife Tammy; his daughter, Lisa, a standout basketball player for Warfield Middle School last year and freshman at Sheldon Clark, and son, John Melvin, a Sheldon Clark junior who carries a 3.9 grade point average.

Federal funds target watershed in Martin County

Financial assistance is available to target major pollution of Coldwater and Backlog Creeks in Martin County, according to a press release from the Kentucky

Division of Forestry. Grants from the Kentucky Division of Water and U. S. Environmental Protection Agency will provide homeowners and business financial and technical support to battle erosion in selected watersheds of the Big Sandy Area. In addition to Martin County, other areas include the entire Johns Creek watershed in Pike and Floyd counties and Mudlick and Jenny's Creek in Johnson County.

Williamson nabs car thief

Chalk up another arrest for Inez City Police Chief Mitchell Williamson, who nabbed a 17-year-old juvenile from Fleming at Inez Motel on November 2.

Assisted by Kentucky State Police Trooper Tim Dials, he charged the juvenile with receiving stolen property, possession of alcoholic beverages and prescription drugs not in proper container.

Fee-pooling proposed for sheriff, clerk

County Judge-Executive Tucker Daniels expressed concern that his proposed fee-pooling plan might not set well politically with the offices it serves may have been premature.

At Tuesday's regular meeting of the county's fiscal court, Daniel asked the commissioners to consider a plan that would reduce and redirect administrative responsibilities in the county clerk's and sheriff's offices, indicating he expected the idea to attract its share of criticism.

But, both Sheriff Bill Witten and County Clerk Betty Jo Conley suggested Tuesday they would not rush to judgment on the proposal.

Fund request tabled, but criticism is not

The county's fiscal court took a long time to say "no" to a funding request entered by the

Johnson County Rescue Squad Monday, but commissioners and Judge-Executive Tucker Daniel also encouraged the organization not to take no for an answer.

Pointing out they were not eligible for the same funding allocated from various sources for volunteer fire departments, rescue squad representatives asked the court to provide the group $5,000 for operating expenses this year.

Resource center is funded on third try

Paintsville Elementary School officials recently learned that the third time was indeed a charm in their efforts to secure funding for a family resource center.

PES principal Teresa Petot told the city school board Monday that her school has been awarded a state grant to finance a family resource center. Two previous attempts at securing funds for a center, authorized by KERA, had failed, Petot said.

Legal question stall Mills jury selection

The lengthy process of seating a jury for the Gary Mills murder trial got even longer Tuesday in Johnson Circuit Court when Judge Stephen N. Frazier temporarily stopped the proceedings to consider a legal question that could result in a mistrial.

After about a week-long selection process, a jury had not been picked on Tuesday to hear the case against Mills, who is accused of murder by complicity in the 1998 death of Lawrence County resident William Walker Ratliff.

Frazier had hoped to seat a jury after lunch Tuesday, but during the recess he reportedly learned of an incident last week when some prospective jurors had seen Mills, who remains incarcerated on the charge, in handcuffs and other restraining devices at the courthouse.

Prosecutor declares war on dead-beat parents

Lawrence Countians who are behind in child-support payments and are not making an attempt to pay, may soon find themselves in jail if they don't ante up, County Attorney Kimberly Compton indicated this week.

Compton said she will present "about a half-dozen" child-support cases to the Lawrence County Grand Jury on Friday in an attempt to get dead-beat parents to pay up. She said the cases that will be presented will involve violators who are "just so far out of compliance" that indictments are the only legal recourse her office has to collect back child-support payments.

Election board to recount city races in Blaine

Two candidates have requested a recount of the Tuesday, November 2, election in the city of Blaine, where the mayor's race resulted in a tie vote and a write-in candidate unofficially won a race for city commissioner.

Lawrence County Clerk Gallie Issac Jr. said Monday that Mayor Denver Mollett and city commissioner candidate Crystal Meade asked for a recount of their respective races at Blaine, where voters last Tuesday decided to keep their city government intact.

Supt. Gold accepts board's offer of contract extension

Jeff Gevedon, who was elected Nov. 2 to complete the term of former school board chairman Jack Howard on the Morgan County Board of Education, was sworn in at the board meeting Monday.

After Gevedon's swearing in, Supt. Joe Dan Gold accepted an offer by the board to extend his contract, which expires June 30, for four more years. The action was unanimously approved by the board and Gold said he was "happy and pleased" and is looking forward to serving the school system another four years.

Rumors here of hub-bub in district court fail to materialize

Rumors which have circulated here all week that Morgan County Sheriff Bill Frank Lacy might join Elliott County Sheriff Ronnie Stephens in being barred by Judge Bill Woods from his district courtroom failed to materialize Tuesday. The rumors stemmed from Judge Woods' abrupt decision last Friday not to utilize Sheriff Stephens for bailiff duties and his subsequent decision to have Stephens removed from his courtroom.

Postal surveys go out to patrons of Hazel Green P.O.

Morgan County postal patrons served by the Hazel Green Post Office have received surveys from the Postal Service offering them a choice of keeping their present Hazel Green addresses or accepting new addresses with a Morgan County place name. Regardless of their choice, their mail service will continue to be provided through the Hazel Green Post Office.

The new addresses being offered are Grassy, Ky. 41352 for patrons who reside in that area; Mize, Ky. 41352 for patrons in that area; and Cannel City, Ky. 41408 for patrons in that area.

Personal income up in Knott

The average income per person in Knott County increased more rapidly than personal income state-wide or nation-wide from 1990 to 1997, according to a recent Department of Commerce's Regional Economic Income Series report.

While the rate of improvement was greater, average income in Knott is still substantially lower than figures across the state or nation. The per capita personal income in Knott County increased by 36.6 percent from $9,896 in 1990 to $13,514 in 1997.

Hindman pastor to speak at Ky. Baptist Convention

God can work even in grief. Just ask Dr. Mike Caudill and the people of Hindman. Caudill, will share the story of his family, church and community during the Tuesday afternoon session of the 1999 Kentucky Baptist Convention. The convention will be held November 16-17, at Northern Kentucky Regional Convention Center in Covington.

From 1996-1998, the town lost seven teens to car accidents and sudden illnesses. The community walked through a deep valley of loss, and few were plunged deeper into that valley than Caudill, pastor of the First Baptist Church there, whose own 16-year-old son was one of these seven young people who died during that two-year span.

Casey Caudill suffered an apparent cardiac arrest and collapsed on the field while playing baseball in March 1998.—Troublesome Creek Times

Former teacher dies

Miss Eurette Hammond, retired teacher and member of the Knott County Hall of Fame, died at Letcher Manor Nursing Home in Whitesburg on November 5.

Until the end of her life, she was a kind and compassionate person who reached out to others. She became a resident in Letcher Manor in June 1998, and in the months she stayed there, she made many friends. He niece Ann Holbrook, relates that she has already received several calls from the nursing home staff who loved and miss her. "They were wonderful to her at Letcher Manor," Mrs. Holbrook says, "and she was happy there."—Troublesome Creek Times

HELP LEAD FLOYD COUNTY TO EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE

Kentuckians have an unprecedented chance to rebuild the state's school system, and local boards are central to the reform movement. Share a sense of pride with other citizens by serving the children of Floyd County.

You are invited to nominate yourself or a qualified acquaintance to serve on the Floyd County Board of Education.

There is a vacancy created by the resignation of a current board member.

Activity Board members are involved in four main tasks:

- Developing policy-making guidelines that govern the operation of schools.
- Providing visionary leadership and vigorous stewardship with long-range educational plans and programs.
- Hiring the district superintendent and issuing annual evaluation reports.
- Setting local tax rates and ensuring that public funds are spent wisely and efficiently.

Requirements

- At least 24 years old.
- Kentucky citizen for the last three years.
- Registered voter in the School Board District Two.
- High school diploma or GED certificate.
- Except in limited circumstances, board members may not have a relative employed by the school district.

Pick up an application at the Floyd County Board of Education office at 183 North Arnold Avenue, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, or the County Court Clerks Office, Central Avenue. Mail the completed form to Wilmer S. Cody, Commissioner of Education, 500 Mero Street, First Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, KY 40601. Applications must be postmarked by November 21, 1999.

The Kentucky Department of Education does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age or disability in employment or the provision of services.

To market, to market ...

Writer spends day at the granddaddy of them all, the Paintsville Livestock Market

Story and photo's by Willie Elliott

It is a Big Sandy custom. Sometime during the fall of the year a trip to the stock sales in Paintsville is necessary, something you just have to do. (Actually, I think it is in Staffordsville, but we just say Paintsville.)

We say we are going to the stock sales, and the place does, in fact, deal in livestock, but the average visitor never sees an animal of any kind. Some people may act like animals, but that doesn't count.

The best way to prepare for the arduous task of covering all that ground from parking lot to a complete trip around to the various vendors is to start with a good breakfast at Shoney's. You say you aren't allowed to eat gravy and biscuit? This is one of the few days out of the year that you are permitted to cheat. It was checked out, and it is a fact.

(See Market, page two)

Vendors sell everything from catchy caps to leather saddles.

A plan to cover the grounds should be agreed upon at once if you are traveling with a companion. If a plan is not made, much time can be spent looking for each other, rather than for the goods and the crowd.

Crowd watching can be entertaining. Sometimes the tables are turned and people watch you watching people. A visitor never knows what he/she is going to see.

Well, that is not entirely true. The visitor can rest assured that he will see lots and lots of bluegrass tapes and CDs. The vendors do a brisk business.

Not that there is a big demand for them, but old 8-tracks can be found for sale. Unfortunately (or maybe it is fortunate) the 8-track players are harder to find.

You just know that one of these days those things are going to be collector's items. But for the time being, they have gone the way of the CB.

One favorite pastime is reading caps—yes, reading the messages on the front of billed hats. Sometimes the messages are too suggestive and should not be out where children can see them. But most are harmless, as well as humorous.

Some of the recent favorites include "I'm retired: Good-bye tension, hello pension," "A deer hunter will do any-

Appalshop has full schedule

From pickin' and singin' to movie-going, Appalshop, the arts and heritage complex in Whitesburg, has scheduled several public events for November and December.

On Friday, November 12, following the Letcher County 4-H Club Variety Show at 5:30 p.m., a free community screening of the film "Orlando" by Sally Potter will be shown at 10:30 p.m. in the Appalshop Theatre.

The annual Old-time Banjo Day is slated for Saturday, November 13. A workshop will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the C.B. Caudill Store at Blackey. A concert of banjo music will be broadcast live on WMMT at the Appalshop Theater at 7 p.m. Cost of the workshop is $15, the concert $6, or both for $20.

On Tuesday, November 16, a screening of local students' videos, made through the Appalachian Media Institute, starts at 11 a.m. That day, the opening of "Big Swap" regional student art exhibit also takes place.

A free community screening of the James Wendt film, "Travis," will be offered on Friday, November 19, at 8:30 p.m. in the Appalshop Theater.

The annual WMMT-FM Thanksgiving Open House is planned for 1 to 5 p.m. on Thursday, November 25.

The following day, a free community screening of Spike Lee's film "Crooklyn" is set for 8:30 p.m. in the Appalshop Theater.

December's activities begin on Thursday, the 2nd, with Bluegrass Live with Larry Sparks, broadcast live on WMMT at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $12.

On Friday, December 3, Carol Elizabeth Jones and James Leva will appear in concert at 8 p.m. in the Appalshop Theater. Cost is $8.

An Old-Time Jam, featuring musicians of all skill levels, is planned for Saturday, December 4, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Appalshop conference room. The public can join in or just come and listen.

"New Ground Revival," with Roadside Theater and the Mullins Family Singers, is on tap for Saturday, December 11. The presentation, which will take place at the Campbell's Branch School at Line Fork at 7 p.m., is a musical play with 28 songs accompanied by banjo, guitar and fiddle.

On Friday, December 17, a free community screening of the film "October Sky" is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. in the Appalshop Theater.

The annual Christmas in Appalachia program, with the Roadside Theater, is set for Thursday, December 23, at the Theater.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

by Chuck Shepherd

— Ex-policeman Paul Harrington, 53, was arrested in Detroit in October for killing his wife and son, having reportedly confessed that he was having trouble providing for them and wanted them never to be homeless. In 1975, Harrington killed his first wife and their two kids but was found not guilty by reason of insanity and sentenced to a mental institution, but within two months, he was ruled no longer a danger and released.

— According to an October Philadelphia Inquirer report, several dozen astrologers are making a living dispensing financial advice, and there is even an investors' newsletter, Investing by the Stars, at $300 a year. Appliance repairman Robert Hitt, of Blue Bell, Pennsylvania, tracks celestial alignments at $35 a month for the 200 subscribers at his AstroEcon Web site and says the market is headed down and will tank on May 5, 2000. Said one mainstream financial adviser, explaining the astrologers' success, many investors just "want somebody to tell them what to do."

FOOLS FOR CLIENTS

— Latest Adventures of Defendants Who Elected to Be Their Own Lawyers: Joe Pietrangelo, 54, on trial in September for assaulting the mayor of Niagara Falls, Ontario, used a strategy of silence to the charge because the "corrupt" judge refused to let him complain about more important issues concerning his father's will. (He was convicted.) And Lawrence Brown, 30, on trial at press time for murder in Toronto, decided he didn't need a lawyer even though he had told a guard, "You guys are always picking on me because I killed some white bitch." And Norman Laurence, 37, set for trial in Warwick, Rhode Island, in January for murder, previewed his lawyerless defense by telling the judge: "I did kill the woman. But that confession isn't right."

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL SPIRIT

— In July the San Francisco Chronicle profiled local beggar David "Bushman" Johnson, who solicits spare change after entertaining customers by leaping out from behind handheld shrubbery and trying to scare them. His partner, Gregory Jacobs, sets up the passerby to begin with, holds the collection can, and then admonishes, "Hey, the Bushman got you fair and square! Pay the man!"

— University of California at Davis researcher Gang Sun told the American Chemical Society annual meeting in August that he has developed the technology to attach anti-microbial substances to textiles, clearing the way for the manufacture of self-cleaning clothes. He said the first commercial uses would be to reduce the spread of germs in hospital gowns and bedding and for odor control in sports clothing.

— Richard and Peter Walkley of Hemel Hempstead, England, started a shopping-tip Web site this year with about $19,000 they made in the previous year exploiting discrepancies between posted, prices and scanned prices at Sainsbury's supermarkets. The store offers price-mismatched items free; the Walkleys examined every item in the store and came away with large quantities of mis-priced products (e.g., 19 cases of Rolling

Smile Awhile

Sara Hopson

Shuffle off to Florence

Traveling luggageless through Northern Italy, I kept repeating the words to that old song 'Shuffle Off to Buffalo', "You go down and get your panties, I'll go down and get my skanties and away we'll go." After all, four days in a foreign country without underwear can make you a little idiotic.

"Here!" Ronnie yelled as he threw a pair of his bikini briefs in my direction. "Wear these today. And, for sanitary reasons, would you care to wear one of my shirts, too?"

I was humiliated! Was I beginning to emit an odor? Was Ronnie as embarrassed as I was that I had on the same pair of jeans I was wearing when we left Paintsville? I really got discouraged when he offered me a pair of his khakis.

"I can't wear those! They're WAY too big!" I fumed.

"Just a suggestion, ice cream butt," he smiled, as he folded them back up and packed them away in his neatly arranged suitcase.

When we boarded the bus on the third morning of our tour, the tourists excitedly asked if my luggage had arrived.

"No, this is Ronnie's shirt."

"Still wearing the same jeans?" A woman from New Zealand asked as she started to sit down in front of us.

"Sure am," I lamented.

"Let's sit at the front," her husband

quickly suggested.

"See, Ronnie," I whined. "People are starting to think I'm dirty."

"Sara, what do you want me to do? Stand up and tell everybody you're at least wearing my blue underwear?"

As he started to rise I hooked my thumb in his belt loop and pulled him back down into the seat. "Don't be silly!" I said. "Anyway, I'm wearing the green ones."

"Green ones? Oh, those are the pair I wore yesterday," he kidded. "Listen honey, back in my hippie days we'd often wear the same pair of jeans for weeks at a time. In fact, one friend of mine, as sort of an experiment, decided to wear a pair every day to see how long it would take until they fell apart."

"Is that supposed to console me?"

"Well, it took nearly two months!" he laughed. "The point is you've still got a ways to go yet until you're naked."

"Two months! If I have to wear these jeans another DAY I'll go crazy."

"Actually, he was crazy long before that," Ronnie chuckled. "The good news is, denim will wear just as long on a sane person as it will on someone who's gone around the bend."

"Will you stop talking about crazy people and my dirty jeans?" I pleaded.

"I was just trying to make you feel good."

"Oh," I queried. "How so?"

"Well," he replied. "Since you're now sharing my new Fruit of the Looms, your mother will be happy to know that if they have to cart you away in a straight-jacket, at least you'll be wearing clean underwear!"

I ignored Ronnie's remarks and decided (like the airlines had) to forget my luggage for the time being and try to enjoy the mag-

NATASHA'S STARS

Here's a quick way to see how your week will go, with 10 being the best and 0 the most difficult.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 19)

Watch your steps, leaps and bounds. Carefully consider any moves you make, and make sure you have a backup plan that acts as your safety net. This week is a 5.

TAURUS

(April 20 to May 20)

Romance rounds the corner and might catch you when you least expect it. As you stop to settle yourself, everything falls into place. You know the routine without even having to try. This week is a 10.

GEMINI

(May 21 to June 20)

Discard all that is not absolutely necessary. You hold the material that means the most in the depths of your mind. All else acts as a distraction to the duties you have been assigned. This week is a 6.

CANCER

(June 21 July 22)

Keeping as busy as a bee ensures that your mind doesn't wander toward that which is unsettling. At some point, though, stopping to consider all of the options is essential. This week is a 6.

LEO

(July 23 to August 22)

Temptation has you cornered in a bit of a hot spot. At least you know that you don't have to watch your back. Only start when you deem it is completely appropriate. This week is a 5.

VIRGO

(August 23 to September 22)

A new experience gives you tons to talk about. Remember that most others weren't there at the time, so your recollections need to be precise if there is to be a complete understanding. This week is an 8.

LIBRA

(September 23 to October 22)

The potential to be tried has been placed in front of you in plain view. You might as well welcome it as warmly as you can, as it tests you either way you choose to play the game. This week is an 8.

SCORPIO

(October 23 to November 21)

Your abilities to intellectualize make for an impressive debut in any of your undertakings. You ensure that your smarts are as wise on the street as they are in the classroom. This week is a 10.

SAGITTARIUS

(November 22 to December 21)

While you spend time looking over all of the details, be wary of being blind to that which is obvious. You could see stars if you allow the facts to hit you over the head. This week is a 4.

CAPRICORN

(December 22 to January 19)

Discussion pours forth in a way that is most productive. Everyone feels as if their input is valuable, and you are leading the charge in this arena. Communication rises to a crescendo. This week is a 9.

AQUARIUS

(January 20 to February 18)

Long-term solutions and planning could have you shortsighted when it comes to making your moves. Live in the here-and-now for the moment, and the rest should follow suit. This week is a 9.

PISCES

(February 19 to March 20)

Thoughts come to you as if you have packed your mind with an endless supply of ideas. Your ability to slip into rapid fire allows you to stand tall through any situation. This week is a 9.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN:
Mateo said he'd forgive Hayley for doubting him about saving Ryan's life, but it was still too late for them. Marian thwarted Adam's plans to leave with Colby. Dixie and Tad searched for proof that Adam was behind the takeover at the station. Liza changed her mind about telling Jake that Adam fathered Colby when she saw how lovingly Jake tended to the child. David demanded Edmund give him the directorship as a way of thanking him for saving Gillian. Erica accused Alexis of lying about David. Wait To See: David has an admission for Erica. Stuart asks Marian what she did with Adam. Opal prepare to make Palmer jealous.

AS THE WORLD TURNS:
Margo made a gruesome discovery. Lucinda agreed to help Molly make some changes in her life. Jake felt his life collapsing around him. Abigail and Chris spent time together. Georgia had bad news for Eddie, ditto Kim for John. Wait To See: Margo is increasingly unable to hide the truth from Tom.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL:
Brooke was shocked to see Thorne on a date with Macy. Thorne later told Brooke he can't break the news about them to Macy until he tells his mother, Stephanie, first. Meanwhile, Macy assumed Thorne's "distance" was caused by his concern for Stephanie. Becky demanded photos of little Eric and told Tawny she's sure Brooke would help her regain custody of her child. C.J. advised Amber not to try to be like Kimberly but to remember that Rick had fallen in love with the kooky, sexy lady she used to be: Wait To See: Tawny fears Becky will make good on her threat.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES:
Lucas tried to persuade Carrie to "fight dirty," if she hoped to defeat Sami at her own game. Victor and Vivian agreed to work together to investigate possible abuses at the nursing home. Unaware that "Hope" (Princess Gina) was faking being under hypnosis, Marlana was stunned when "Hope" made an allusion to something she and John did before he married Marlana. Tension mounted between Abe and Brandon. Wait To See: Nicole tries to seduce Eric. Belle has a question for Brandon.

GENERAL HOSPITAL:
Sonny tried to keep up a loving facade with Hannah as he worked through some difficulties with his plan. Luke and Sonny later ended their professional partnership. Nikolas was furious with Juan for triggering painful memories of Lucky. Tony suspected Stefan and Laura worked together to poison Helena. Faison admitted to Felicia that he had Anna killed. Mac told Helena she's the prime suspect in Katherine's death. Wait To See: Luke and Laura make a difficult decision. Jerry invites Roy to his and Bobbie's wedding.

GUIDING LIGHT:
As Drew celebrated being with her new family, Pilar plotted to remove Ben from hers.

Weird

Rock beer).
 — A May Wall Street Journal dispatch from Beijing profiled the first successful franchised restaurant in China, Shen Qing's Baked Pig Face, now up to seven outlets and featuring his government-patented specialty, the 30-herb, 12-hour-cooked whole pig's head. Connoisseurs eat all parts, said Shen, including the cheeks, eyes, snout, lips and tongue, but especially the brain, the consuming of which "can make you smarter."

— Australian biologist Mark Norman of James Cook University reported in July that small male cuttlefish that ordinarily are too puny to attract females have the ability to change colors and shape so as to resemble females. According to a report in New Scientist magazine, this allows them to swim harmlessly with male-female pairs and then to steal the female as soon as the male is distracted.

(which carries a penalty of up to 90 more days).

UPDATE

— News of the Weird reported on the 1997 version of Thailand's annual Vegetarian Festival in the city of Phuket, in which hundreds of men demonstrate their spiritual devotion (a meld of Taoism, Confucianism and Buddhism) by marching through the streets with their bodies painfully impaled with things like rods and tree branches, hoping for good health and prosperity. In the 1999 version in October, larger than ever, devotees criticized the growing commercialization, as some men now skewer themselves merely to advertise their businesses (e.g., a tour boat operator with a swordfish jaw through his cheeks).

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

— Jesus T. Rodriguez, 34, was arrested in September on drug trafficking charges; he had aroused suspicion when he walked into a Firststar Bank in Strongsville, Ohio, with two grocery bags full of cash totalling $300,000, yet listed himself on a federal form as unemployed. And Drtangyn Sinclair, 33, was arrested in Franklinton, Ohio, in October and charged with robbing a CVS Pharmacy; he had yanked the cash register off the counter and carried it away, unaware that the cash drawer was a separate unit under the counter.

ALSO, IN THE LAST MONTH ...

— The Postal Service abandoned a promotion putting Y2K countdown clocks in post offices because they seemed to remind customers how long they'd been in line (Dallas). A hospital suspended a surgeon after a complaint from a patient that he chatted with a car salesman on a cell phone during the patient's colon operation (Hong Kong). Santa Cruz, California, announced an adult-education class in the value and techniques of screaming and yelling. The Florida Department of Corrections traded death-row inmate William Van Poyck to Virginia for a prisoner to be named later. A coroner ruled that the underwired bras worn by two women contributed to their deaths when lightning struck them while they huddled under a tree (London, England).

Jenny Wiley Theatre announces shows for 2000 season

Planning is underway for the 2000 season at Jenny Wiley Theatre.

The Theatre will open its 36th season on June 16, with the Rodgers & Hammerstein classic, "The King & I."

That show will be followed by an area favorite, and the theatre's namesake, "The Legend of Jenny Wiley," on June 29.

Then following the Fourth of July holiday, the theatre will open "South Pacific," on July 5, another Rodgers & Hammerstein classic. This show is special to Jenny Wiley Theatre, because it was the very first show to be brought to the stage back in 1965.

The theatre will be paying special attention to families and children next summer with a two for one treat. Both "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "Trouble on the Santa Fe Trail" will open on July 18. These individual shows will be paired as Act I and Act II for the evening and will be shown throughout the summer for the price of one show.

The theatre is taking reservations for the 2000 season and is making available for the holiday shopping seasons gift certificate, and season tickets. These make excellent stocking stuffers and Christmas gifts.

To reserve tickets, call Jenny Wiley Theatre at 606/886-9274 or toll free at (877) CALL-JWT. Check out the web site at www.jwtheatre.com.

Soaps

Marah lashed out when Josh walked out. Cassie's resignation was rejected. Carmen made a serious error. Wait To See: Olivia shares an awkward Thanksgiving with the Lewises.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE:

Rae told Bo that Asa once said he wanted Grace dead. Jackie offered to get rid of Asa for Ben. Sam shocked Nora by withdrawing his marriage proposal because he feared she accepted as a way of soothing his pain over Will. Roseanne panicked when Cristian said he was returning to Llanview to help Carlotta. Skye told Ben she had information about Asa that involved Max. Wait To See: Max makes a stunning confession to Renee.

PASSIONS:

Charity asked Miguel to help her regain her memory. Sam rebuffed Ivy's attempt to tell him something "important" saying he wanted to forget their past. Alistair told Julian he's coming home. Charity began recalling the night of the fire and her mother's fight with a vicious dog. Timmy found an old painting of Tabitha dressed as a pilgrim. Wait To See: Tabitha acts to stop Charity from revealing the truth.

PORT CHARLES:

Kevin railed at Scott, Lucy and Victor for trying to trap Eve and refused to believe she'd betrayed him to DV. But Eve later told all to Kevin and said she'd go along with the plan to give the phony letters to DV. After learning that Frank would be leaving the house, Courtney admitted to Joe and Karen that she and Frank were dating.

Scott was surprised by a steamy kiss from Rachel. Wait To See: Scott rushes Lee to the hospital.

SUNSET BEACH:

Meg arrived in time to see "Ben" (Derek) try to persuade Maria he no longer loves Meg. Tess heard Tim's voice warning her about her dire deeds and was later unnerved when she found him laughing at her. Jude thwarted Annie's well-timed plan to spike Olivia's drink.

Meg decided to find out why "Ben" was acting so strangely by assuring him that she loved him and desired him. Wait To See: Ricardo has a surprise for Antonio. (So, what else is new?)

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS:

Brad made a decision about the information he had regarding Victor's sperm deposit at the reproductive lab. Nikki looked forward to her wedding plans but couldn't quite shake off her feelings about Ramona. Victoria sensed Cole's uneasiness and assumed things were going downhill in his marriage to Ashley. Meanwhile, Ashley continued to anticipate when she and Cole would have their first child. Wait To See: Jill fears Billy may have a serious drinking problem.

SOAP SCRAPS

Some of Nathaniel Marston's (Eddie, "As the World Turns") fans were outraged that he was arrested for pummeling an ATM machine in New York last month. Some have suggested that he was taken into custody because of his "fame." The fact is, the police had no idea who he was when they were called to investigate the incident. So cool down, folks, and let justice take its course.

Meanwhile, back in Oakdale, rumors that Peter Parros (Dr. Ben Harris) will be leaving have been well and truly denied. And rumors that the stork would soon be visiting Maura West and Scott deFreitas (Carly and Andy) were well and happily confirmed.

On November 19, "Sunset Beach" will tape its last episode, which is expected to air December 31. That news would seem to put an end to speculation that Aaron Spelling and his fellow producers were getting close to placing the show on another network.

Owen Bush, who debuts this week as Orville on "Passions," is familiar to film fans who have seen him in such flicks as "The Last Starfighter," "The Russians Are Coming! The Russians Are Coming!" and "Bonnie & Clyde." Orville is said to have a mysterious link to Harmony's other newcomer, Chad (Donn Swaby).

TO: Mary Lee of Toronto, Canada: Your favorite "Days of Our Lives" actor, Roark Critchlow (Mike), is doing a short return run on the soap this week only.

thing for a buck," "Those who gripe the most... are those that do the least," and "A woman's favorite animals: a jaguar in the driveway, a mink in the closet, a tiger in the bedroom and a jackass to pay for it all."

You know the fruit will be there. One of the best plans is to get one of your favorite, such as those delicious grapes, and munch on them as you go through looking at all the wares.

When asked about whether it was necessary to wash the grapes, one vendor popped a couple in his mouth and did not fall over. That was a signal that the grapes were ready to eat, and eaten they were.

And of course, there are all kinds of apples. The vendors really don't like selling individual apples but they will. They should know that a basket of apples cannot be eaten in such a short time.

For some visitors, the items are strictly to look at. It is enjoyable to look at the old-time tools and implements, but who wants to buy those things. There is enough work to do with newer tools.

And some items that are beautiful and even artistic simply have no place in the average household. Here was this beautiful saddle, but the question was "What will I do with a saddle?"

The long walks make it necessary to visit Baskin-Robbins in Paintsville on the way out. I do believe that is just plain cheating and is not covered in allowable cheat days. Violators will pay the following week.

An even greater advantage to such a trip is the time you get to spend with someone special on a day that should be bottled for use in January or February.

Choose your days and don't go on a rainy, cold day. That's not fun — that's punishment. And as you leave, you can say that should do us... until next spring and then we'll do it all over again. That's a long time to wait for biscuits and gravy, but it is a wait that is worthwhile.

Tools for just about any kind of yard work can be found at the market.

CRITTERS CORNER

by Carol Combs Morris, DVM

I compulsively tighten the bolts on cat carriers. My clients probably just thought it was a nervous habit, which I guess eventually it was, but I have my reasons.

My most vivid memory of an escaped cat is sort of a second-hand one; I was not directly involved, but I have heard my staff tell the story so many times that I may as well have been.

It was one of those broiling hot, humid summer days and we had been slow, up until a client brought it a fairly large dog having a heat stroke. It had stabilized, and was in that stage where its temperature was still too high, but we had progressed to slowing our cooling efforts so we didn't overdo it and send it into hypothermia.

I had the dog in the tub, still sponging it with cool water and monitoring its temperature, and my assistant, Carol, was cleaning up the mess of wet towels and ice from the cage room floor.

Running water, barking dogs and the radio had prevented us from hearing anything going on out front until Beverly, our receptionist, burst through the cage room door yelling, "Bottom fell out of a lady's cat carrier outside — cat's loose — we need help — phone's off the hook — you stay with the dog!"

Carol dropped her armload of soggy towels and ran after Bev. (From this point I am telling the story second-hand.)

The cat had made a mad dash across the highway and was headed down a small side road toward the railroad tracks. It had a good head start, but Carol and Bev were in hot pursuit, closely followed by Bev's daughter Michelle, who was helping out at the clinic that summer.

The cat's owner, an older lady with some difficulty walking, was bringing up the rear as fast as she could.

I guess the scene was pretty bad. Carol was already dripping wet from restraining the frantic, borderline seizing dog in the tub; she, Bev, and Michelle were wearing shorts because the rickety air conditioner in the clinic was not very effective, and they all had on the hideous pink aprons that we bought in a moment of insanity because they matched the waiting room wallpaper.

Halfway to the railroad, Michelle yelled out, "Who ya gonna call? CAT BUSTERS!!"

By the time they reached the tracks they were out of breath and laughing hysterically. The hilarity was short-lived when they realized the cat had dived into the blackberry thicket in the field on the other side.

A country girl born and bred, Carol plunged straight into the bram-bles. Bev, raised in Cleveland, but game for a challenge, plowed in from a different angle.

Michelle skirted around the perimeter of the thicket, trying to keep the cat confined to one area and keep tabs on its position.

Carol actually laid hands on it once, when it suddenly scrambled up a utility pole, but by the time she could get untangled from the vines and made a desperate grab for it, all she got was its tail.

She and the cat studied this new situation for several seconds, while she tried to decide if she could pull it down by its tail without hurting the cat and without having 10 pounds of claws and teeth land on her head. The cat solved the problem by vaulting over her head and back into the briars.

By now Beverly had formulated a plan and all three began easing up on the now tiring feline as quietly as possible (translation:

keep any profanity under your breath!) from different directions.

This appeared to be working until a blast from a car horn sent the cat into orbit again. (It was a neighbor who had spotted them all on their hands and knees in the brambles and wanted to know if they were having some kind of problem!)

I don't even remember which one it was who made the final tackle on the cat and pinned it until someone got a secure grip. By this time, the owner had not only caught up with them, but had had the presence of mind to bring the carrier and put it back together.

When they all reached the clinic, the dog I was working with was in better shape than any of them; I now had four people and a cat who appeared to be having heat strokes. Eventually everyone involved (including the dog) went home in fairly good shape, except for the girls whose scratched arms and legs made them look like they'd taken on a saber-toothed tiger and lost.

The moral of this story: if you see grown women wearing shorts and crawling through a blackberry thicket, don't even ask. And always keep the bolts tightened on your cat carrier.

National arts leaders to meet in Louisville

The Kentucky Arts Council will host the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies (NASAA) 1999 annual meeting, "Betting on the Future," in Louisville, November 18-21.

More than 450 arts leaders from around the country are expected at this national conference, which will focus on four significant issues—education, arts sectors, technology and the future.

In the first three, keynote speakers will set the table for a series of charrettes that will address different challenges affecting the arts and culture and the role of public arts support. Charrettes are used by architects and designers to bring together a variety of expertise to envision different approaches to a project.

Participants will cooperatively develop strategic solutions to making the arts central to the educational, economic and cultural well-being of our society in the next millennium.

Given the unique format of this conference, there will be a number of keynote speakers and opportunities for interviews. Author, professor and minister, Michael Eric Dyson, described by some as a "hip-hop intellectual," will open Thursday's education session, which will focus on integrating the arts into lifelong education.

On Friday, November 19, Bill Ivey, chair of the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA), will address the dynamic relationship between the nonprofit, for-profit and unincorporated arts sectors.

Technology is transforming our age and Jim Blackaby, a technologist with Minneapolis' Walker Art Center, will address some of the challenges and opportunities for the arts in the digital age.

Finally, bringing these different threads together into a vision of the future on Saturday morning will be Haldane King, a marketing expert specializing in forecasting trends.

Closing the conference on Saturday, November 20, is Kentucky poet and author Wendell Berry, who will offer an artist's perspective on the changing cultural landscape.

Other speakers of interest during the conference will include Dr. Forrest Tobey, a composer and co-leader of the jazz/world fusion group Off Chants. Tobey will perform with a new member of the orchestral ensemble, the computer, on Saturday, November 20.

North Carolina Director of Tourism, Gordon Clapp, one of the national leaders in tourism, will provide an overview of the current state of cultural tourism—how far we've come and where we go next during a preconference on Wednesday, November 17. His remarks will serve as the prologue for the two panels, which will focus on partnerships, marketing and branding. David Lovelace, Deputy Secretary, Kentucky Tourism Development Cabinet, will join Clapp as one of the featured panelists.

The conference will be at the Seelbach Hilton Hotel, 500 Fourth Ave., Louisville, "Betting on the Future" is sponsored in part by the General Electric Fund, Binney & Smith Inc., BellSouth and the Coca Cola Co. The National Assembly of State Arts Agencies is the membership organization of the nation's state and jurisdictional arts agencies.

NASAA's mission is to advance and promote a meaningful role for the arts in the lives of individuals, families and communities throughout the United States.

To learn more about the role of SAAs and their programs, go to NASAA's Web site at <<http://www.nasaa-arts.org>> or call 202/347-6352.

Bluegrass show a winner

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Bluegrass music lovers were treated to two distinctly different sounds at the Mountain Arts Center last Friday, with the Freighthoppers doing the older material and Illrd Time Out performing the more modern material.

A reviewer (or listener) must be careful to review a genre for what it is and not what the listener wants it to be. One can't go to a bluegrass show and be disappointed because there is no rock.

The Freighthoppers band has a sound going back a century or more. After a few songs, everything seemed to sound the same. I suppose from crowd reaction that I will get a disagreement on this.

Fans asked for specific songs so the group must have a fan base out there. The Freighthoppers do a good job performing their kind of music. I probably would not go a concert featuring music of this specific kind. On the other hand, 80 percent of Friday night's audience would be sure to shun a Neil Diamond concert.

One thing about the set by the Freighthoppers that was awkward was the arrangement of the artists. The group tended to gather in a tight group with their faces, for the most part, away from the audience. Much of the enjoyment of such music is the expression on the faces of the artists.

When I go to the Junior Pro productions, I am always taken by the look on Shane Boyd's face. He either loves what he is doing or should get an Oscar. I like to see the faces of the players as they perform.

Some titles will give an indication of what the Freighthoppers have to offer: "Preacher in the Woodpile," "Rickey the Furniture Man,"

"Four-cent Cotton" and the one that seems to be the epitome of their style of music, "Old Gray Mare Kicking out the Windows."

The Illrd Time Out sections of the show (Freighthoppers did one 45-minute set and Illrd Time Out did two 45-minute sets) was more modern and thus more entertaining — to me. They were probably meant to be since they were the featured act.

One thing I missed with both groups was the use of lights that visitors to the MAC have come to expect. One reason for the absence of the lights is the time factor. The groups came in Friday afternoon and did not have the time to work a great deal with the technical staff at the MAC. I still missed the light show.

The Illrd Time Out band spaced themselves on the stage so that each was always visible to the audience, and the group did a good job of featuring each artist at some point in the show.

One of the strong points of this group is their harmony. They know how to work together. One song that displayed this talent took me by surprise: "Only You." Who would have expected a Platters song at a bluegrass show?

This versatility is one of the strong points of this group. They did such diverse things as the obligatory "Blue Moon of Kentucky" to "It's Raining in LA" to a couple of gospel songs, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "Snow Angel" that displayed the full range of their musical artistry.

After a few songs in the second set, I went to the studio and listened to the feed that was going out over the Internet. That was neat experience.

So, have I been converted to a bluegrass fan? No, but I probably would go to such shows every now and then. But the show was for the near-capacity crowd who came to hear good music. They were not disappointed.

CRITICS CORNER

by Brad Elson

THE STORY OF US:

Bruce Willis and Michelle Pfeiffer star in this semi-serious but comedic tale from director Rob Reiner. They portray a married couple who seem on the brink of separation. However, both are loath to take that step because of their two young children (Colleen Rennison and Jake Sandvig).

While the kids are off to summer camp, Mom and Dad attempt to reconcile. To do this, they attend numerous counseling sessions which are both funny and annoying. During the sessions, the two wind up taking nasty jabs at each other, alternately whining and complaining. It's not a high point in the film.

Reiner takes us on a sentimental journey into the couple's past. We see them meeting and dating through the '70s, on up to the '80s and ultimately winding up in the present. However, it doesn't work. The flashbacks and flash-forwards are almost dizzying. Instead of providing a cohesive background on this couple, the audience winds up dazed and confused. Worse still, the varying hairstyles and clothing styles are distracting.

Both actors turn in strong performances, despite the lack of structure of the script itself. Willis is endearing, the emotional, fun, somewhat irresponsible spouse. As such, he is a knockout. Pfeiffer has the challenge of portraying the solid, always-calm-in-a-crisis, long-suffering wife. Her performance is poignant and direct. Unfortunately, neither can save this flick.

While Reiner gave us a winner in "When Harry Met Sally," this picture doesn't come close to measuring up. That's too bad. Reiner is one of our more talented film directors and writers. He just couldn't get it together on this one.

Don't waste a trip to the movie house. Wait for this to come out on video instead.

Ashland's Festival of Trees coming up

Take a stroll through "Tinsel Town" at the Paramount Arts Center. Join the Paramount Women's Association in celebration for the 15th Annual Festival of Trees, November 20-28.

From the lobby doors to the Paramount stage, a spectacular display of custom decorated trees, hand-crafted holiday needlework, gingerbread houses, and items crafted from all sorts of different materials will delight all ages. All these festive items are waiting to be purchased by bid.

The admission is $4 for adults, $2 senior citizens, and $1 for children under 12. The money raised from the efforts of more than 500 volunteers, sponsors and decorators benefits the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland, and its programs, including the Youth Education Series for area schools.

The festivals will be open to the public, November 20-28, during the following hours:

Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m.-8 p.m.; Sunday, 1-5 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.; Wednesday, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.; Thanksgiving Day, 4-8 p.m. The Preview Party will be Friday, November 19, at 7 p.m.

vice for eight of fine china with Waterford Crystal stemware, flatware, and linens and centerpiece or a $500 shopping spree at the Ashland Town Center.

Youth are involved once again this year with trees created and decorated by students at area elementary schools, and gingerbread houses decorated by area high schools. Entries from the coloring contest will be on display during the festival.

Documentary on KET looks at the city that never sleeps

"If I can make it there, I'll make it anywhere." These famous lyrics embody the power and myth that is America's true melting pot of diversity—New York City.

There is no place in the world quite like New York. Its dark beauty and inimitable power have for generations stirred men and women to the depths of their souls—seeming the very expression of all ambition, all aspiration, all romance and all desire.

For those who cannot get enough of New York City, KET presents a landmark television event—"New York: A Documentary Film, a Special Presentation of The American Experience"—a five-part series airing at 9 p.m. Sunday, November 14, through Thursday, November 18.

Beginning with the Dutch colonization of New York in the early 17th century,

"New York: A Documentary Film" traces the rise and growing pains of the world's premier city.

From slavery issues and the Civil War to the interplay between capitalism and democracy, the program casts a magnified view of the metamorphosis of a port into a world-class center of trade and culture.

"New York: A Documentary Film, a Special Presentation of The American Experience" is produced by Lisa Ades and Ric Burns and is a production of Steeplechase-Films in association with WGBH/Boston and WNET/New York.

The program is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing. Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Plans underway for Hobbyfest 2000

East Kentucky Hobbyfest 2000 will be held January 8, at the Ramada Inn in Paintsville.

The Argand Room will be the site of the event, featuring 40 tables of collectibles including TY Beanies, comic books, dolls, Pokemon, coins, stamps, sportscards, and diecast cars, plus much more.

Collectible vendors or dealers are encouraged to reserve space for the event.

A Pokemon card game tournament will be held, along with the show. The two divisions of play in the tournament will be basic and advanced with universal rules being enforced.

Tournament entry fee is set at $10 per entrant prior to the event, and $20 the day of the event. Players wishing to play in both divisions can do so for an entry fee of $15.

The top two finishers in each division will receive a trophy along with a Pokemon prize. All participants will receive a Pokemon Tournament certificate of participation.

Anyone interested in reserving a table for the event or taking part in the card tournament can inquire by contacting Steve at 606/789-1403 or James at 606/297-2763.

Society provides free recording to local musicians without a budget

Brotherhood Recording Society, a non-profit organization, has been providing a recording endowment for musicians and songwriters in Eastern United States in promoting the culture of music since 1986.

This foundation has been reaching out to the music community by offering the use of their state-of-the-art 24-track, digital and analog recording studio free of charge.

BRS's engineers have experience in a variety of major album projects enabling them to consistently deliver top performance in every innovative application.

"The studio reflects an accurate and acoustic design. Whether mixing drums, orchestral instruments, guitar amps or voice, the sound of the rooms is in sync with today's demands for a live, dynamic sound, yet with natural ambient properties," says Marty Anderson, officer of administrations.

Q. I have a glass butter churn embossed with the words "1 qt." and "Dazey Churn & Mfg. Co., St. Louis, U.S.A.". It is 11 1/2 inches tall. It has a round screwtop with cast-iron gears mounted on top. A metal and wood handle turns the gears that turn the paddles inside the churn. When was my churn made?

A. Glass butter churns were first made around the turn of the century, when glass jars were first made by machine. Your churn probably was made in the 1930s. The Dazey Churn & Manufacturing Co., later named Dazey Corp., became a subsidiary of Landers, Frary and Clark in 1945. Dazey's products have included churns, fruit juicers, ice crushers, knife sharpeners and can openers.

TIP: Always make sure the repairs to jewelry are made with matching solder, gold on gold, platinum on platinum. Lead solder will lower the value of any piece of jewelry.

Q. My mother's family has passed down a large locket with four small photos mounted inside. The photos are of four people from the same family - the parents and two children. The locket is said to date back to before the Civil War. Was this a common kind of jewelry at the time?

A. You have a piece of what is called "Daguerrean jewelry." In 1839, Louis-Jacque-Mande Daguerre invented an early type of photograph called a Daguerreotype, which reproduced images on a silvered copper plate. Miniature photos were used in bracelets, brooches, buttons, earrings, rings, pendants and pins. They preserved the image of loved ones and were often made for special occasions such as birthdays or anniversaries. Although they were popular at the time, few have survived because the images are so fragile.

WOMEN AT WORK BY TAMARA JONES

With Steve Jobs of Apple and Bill Gates of Microsoft and Andrew Grove of Intel, etc., etc., we sometimes forget that Rear Admiral Grace Murray Cooper ("Amazing Grace" as her colleagues called her) actually made it possible for computer technology to become the indispensable tool of modern business. Dr. Cooper solved many of the programming challenges for the first generation of computers, and helped them evolve from machines that were more like giant calculators into their increasingly sophisticated forms.

One of the "amazing" attributes of Amazing Grace was her refusal to accept defeat. She knew there was always an answer to a problem. She rejected the philosophy of 'we've always done it that way' as not only not scientific, but insulting to human intelligence. "We evolve," she said, "by finding new and better ways to do things ..."

Dr. Cooper was born in New York City in 1906. She earned a BA in mathematics and physics from Vassar College. She earned her MA in 1930 and a Ph.D. in 1934 at Yale. Her thesis was brilliant, and at first, her advisers thought "a man must have written it."

During World War II, she joined the Navy and started working on an early generation of computers. After her husband died in 1945 she devoted herself to developing new and "friendlier" programs and applications. She recognized the country would need programmers and encouraged the training of young women to study math, engineering and physics, telling them of the opportunities opening up for them in the growing computer industry.

In 1969, she accepted the first-ever "Computer Science Man-of-the-Year Award" and, according to a colleague, suggested that while she was honored to be recognized for her achievements, it would have been nicer to see the term "Computer Scientist of the Year."

She believed that by the Millennium, computers would be a vital part of all our lives. Once again, she was right.

On January 1, 2000, let's remember Amazing Grace for all she did to make all our lives better.

Education Today...

Forget predictions that the Internet will eliminate print media: The "wired" generation likes them both.

Two surveys conducted by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) found that college students use both print and online resources to research potential employers. One of the surveys was conducted in print, the other on NACE's Career Planit web site.

The results were similar, despite the difference in media: In the print survey, 80 percent of students said they use the Internet to research employers, and 72 percent said they use print materials, such as recruitment brochures. In the web-based survey, more than 76 percent said they use both print and Internet sources.

"For college students, it's not an 'either/or' question," says Marilyn Mackes, NACE executive director. "They use both. More and more, we're seeing how print and online media complement each other. Print is often the best choice for more-detailed information while the Internet is great at delivering quick, short takes on a topic."

The print survey also found that graduates with degrees in technical fields - including engineering and computer science - were as likely as their "non-techie" counterparts to use both print and the Internet. Engineering students, for example, were about as likely to use print (84 percent) as they were to use the Internet (86 percent); among computer science majors responding, 88 percent, predictably, said they use the Internet to investigate employers but about two-thirds also said they look at print sources. Surprisingly, print usage was lowest among, of all people, education majors. It was highest among engineering graduates.

More than 1,180 students responded to NACE's annual Graduating Student & Alumni Survey, which appeared in print. Results of the survey appeared in the summer issue of NACE's Journal of Career Planning & Employment. NACE also conducted a survey on its Career Planit website: 365 students responded to the online survey.

The National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) is the leading source of information for human resources professionals who recruit and hire college graduates and for career service practitioners on college campuses who advise students and graduates in career planning and the job-search process.

Michael Twitty at MAC

Michael Twitty is one of the featured stars of the Danny Wayne Las Vegas Style Review that will be presented at the Mountain Arts Center on Saturday, November 13.

Michael Twitty, the son of Conway Twitty, has begun to follow in his father's footsteps in his musical career.

Family tradition is a cherished trait in country music and like many others, Michael is a part of that heritage. He grew up learning his craft firsthand from one of the music industry's best talents, his dad.

He's spent the past 20 years developing his style and paying his dues. His energy, vocal power and timely wit, will keep an audience on the edge of their seats for his entire performance, and on their feet at the close of his show!!

Dollars & Sense...

by Bryon Elson

The IRS considers online auctioneers to either be operating a business or engaging in a hobby. Both circumstances come with their own tax issues.

How do I know if I'm running an e-business? If your online auctions are for profit, then you're running a business. If you're purchasing items, whether online or elsewhere, then reselling them, you're probably running a business. The IRS uses nine factors to determine if a taxpayer's activity is a hobby or a business. Here are a few examples:

Whether the activity is carried out in a businesslike manner with a business plan;

Whether the auctioneer maintains complete and accurate records on his or her activities;

The amount of time and effort put into the activity.

If your online auctions qualify as a business, report all of your income and expenses on Schedule C. Your net gain is subject to self-employment and regular income tax.

I'm selling some sports memorabilia for fun and making money. Isn't this a business?

The short answer is maybe - but if you don't operate as a business, the IRS will probably look at this transaction as a hobby.

You still have to report income on anything you sell online.

If you're selling items you already own (rather than items that you've made or that you've purchased for resale), report the sales price and subtract the cost on Schedule D (capital gains).

Other income (for example, the sale of a teddy bear that you made as a hobby) goes on a 1040 form first.

Expenses from your auction (materials, online fees, etc.) can only be deducted if you itemize.

Many online auctioneers fall into this category and chances are, they will report the income from online auctions and get no benefit from any related expenses.

Keeping track of the following items will help when it comes time to report your online earnings:

Price you paid for auction item you intend to sell;

Cost of components used to make item;

Online trading costs;

Sales price/date sold;

Shipping costs;

Time and effort put into your online auction activities.

Cooking is probably as old as Mankind. Biology teachers contend the human gut contains enzymes which have evolved specifically to deal with cooked foods, proof in itself that broiling, baking, and frying are skills the earliest creatures to walk upright regularly used. Whether true or false CD cookbooks abound in computer stores, their sales being unspectacular but steady. One of the most popular (the best seller in its category for two consecutive years) is SierraHome's Complete MasterCook Suite 5.0, a compilation of 28 Betty Crocker recipe books. It's easy to use, well documented, and a bargain at $49.95!

Why, you might wonder, would someone want an electronic cookbook? Haven't paper ones been perfectly satisfactory for eons? Convenience is a major reason: once a recipe's located you never need worry about soiling or ruining pages with greasy fingers. After all, you can print an electronically-stored document 10,000 times! But that's just the beginning: the manipulation and storage of huge databanks is a computer's forte. Want to scale up a recipe for six to feed 100 ... or 1,000? Just tap in parameters and quantities automatically recalculate. Need to know the calorie, fat, or vitamin content of a favorite dish? Have a family diabetic who needs to calculate pesky "exchanges?" Just query the database! You can even track ingredient prices, generate a shopping list before toiling over that oh so hot stove, even edit a recipe (along with adding original touches or full-blown creations) to suit your taste!

There's clever features to intrigue you, too. You can automatically link to your Internet connection to send recipes to friends, update the program at SierraHome's website (www.sierrahome.com), find links to cooking websites, even add new recipes to the 6,000 you have! Instructional videos are included, there's a glossary of cooking terms for novices, and the 226 page Instruction Book is easy to use. You probably won't ever open it! MasterCook installs in minutes and system requirements - basic-ly Win9X and an 800x600 resolution capable computer - are minimal.

Is there a downside to MasterCook Suite 5.0? Two minor ones: its internal Search engine can be slow, and its interface's "Back" Button sometimes, inexplicably, takes you too far back.

MasterCook is a fine program. It's an investment for future generations!

Q. I grew up in Canada as a devoted fan of Monty Python and have carried my devotion over to my life in the States. (Fortunately, my American-born wife shares my Pythonian affection.) I recently read something about the producers of "South Park" planning to use Python sketches in their programs. I seem to recall that Python won a court battle to protect their material from being used by anyone or any other group. Can you shed some light on this? Trevor P.

A. You're right about the law suit. Monty Python's original members sued ABC and the BBC back in the 1970s to keep control over their sketches. However, they do grant permission every now and then for use of their material under very strict guidelines. They gave permission to the "South Park" producers to use in their upcoming cartoon short honoring Monty Python's 30th anniversary.

Q. Please fill in the blanks in a story I heard on TV the other day about a website for Frank Sinatra being taken down. What's it all about? Wendy G.

A. It's about something called "domain squatting" and the decision by singer Brian Evans to give up his domain names to the Sinatra family.

To explain: Domain squatting involves buying up e-mail domain of a celebrity's name for purposes of getting that celebrity to pay for the right to use their own name if they decide to set up a website in that name.

In this case, the singer named Brian Evans, known for his admiration of the late Frank Sinatra, owned the domain names, www.theratpackisback.com, and www.ratpackisback.com. He planned to set up a cyber community for Sinatra and Ratpack fans. Instead, he recently decided to give - not sell - the names to the Sinatra family for their own use.

Q. Is Arnold Schwarzenegger planning to appear in a sequel to his buddy Bruce Willis's movie, "The Sixth Sense," or did I imagine that I heard something like that on my car radio today? Michael D.

A. Arnold is not doing a sequel of "The Sixth Sense." But he is starring in a new movie, "The Sixth Day" which is just about to go into production. Arnold plays a man who has been replaced by a clone.

Q. Please settle this question for me and my brother. He says President Clinton can run again for the presidency if he wants to. I say he's limited to two terms by the Constitution. Who is right? Ann R.

A. As best as I can tell, you both are. The Constitution limits the president to two consecutive terms. But Mr. Clinton can run again after the next term of office is completed. (You Constitutional scholars out there should correct me if I'm wrong about this.)

nificent countryside. There were medieval towns perched upon giant, mountain tops (a military strategy in those days) where beautiful cavernous churches displayed some of the most incredible architecture and artwork the world has ever known.

When you've never seen a building over 250 years old, and then find yourself standing inside a cathedral that dates back nine centuries with ceilings more than one hundred feet high and decorated with dramatic frescoes that took as much as 90 years to paint — the only word that comes to mind is one that is overused in this day and time, especially by our younger generation — "awesome."

And there's another word that would be appropriate here — "humbled." There were times when all Ronnie and I could do was stare, as words could not do justice to the sights that, up until now, we had only seen in books and on film.

"Ronnie, I'm speechless!" I announced, as we walked through a church that had been built in 1260

A.D.

"That's a first for you," he remarked as he videoed a pulpit that had taken more time to build than is spent on an entire church today. "Just looking at all this sure makes your lost luggage pale in comparison, doesn't it?"

"Thanks, Ronnie," I huffed. "My wardrobe crisis hadn't crossed my mind all morning. And, then just as I'm enjoying a gorgeous, 800-year-old stained glass window depicting the martyrdom of Saint Stephen, I'm suddenly assaulted by visions of some dishonest Belgium baggage handler wearing my new Natori lingerie."

"You're welcome," Ronnie laughed. "I'm just trying to keep you grounded in reality and be a stabilizing force in your life. You did mention that in those vows you wrote, didn't you?"

"No, Darth, I didn't," I stated.

Tune in next week for more grounding and stabilization when Ronnie says, "Honey, is it my eyesight or is that building leaning just a tad?"

Book raises questions about today's viruses

(NUE) - Have advances in cancer research and genetic biotechnology given rise to new viruses and the potentiality for plagues threatening millions of Americans? More frightening, could the AIDS and Ebola epidemics have been planned?

These are among the questions raised by Dr. Leonard Horowitz, an international authority on public health education, in his book, "Emerging Virus: AIDS & Ebola — Nature, Accident or Intentional?" (Tetrahedron Publishing Group)

The work is a fascinating and unsettling study of what Horowitz sees as links among the country's vaccine makers, defense contractors, and the biological weapons industry.

Horowitz's book dissects the potential motives underlying the belief he ascribes to African Americans that HIV and Ebola may have been deliberately launched. He challenges the AIDS establishment and much of what is considered gospel about emerging viruses.

Rather than buy into the theory that HIV and Ebola — the world's most deadly viruses — naturally evolved and jumped species from monkey to man, the author explores the possibility that these viruses were laboratory creations, "accidentally" or even intentionally transmitted via tainted hepatitis, polio and smallpox vaccines in the United States and Africa.

During the Cold War, in the 1960s and early 1970s, the biological weapons race was a horrifying reality, Horowitz observes. He charges that military contractors, with technical support from the World Health Organization, developed countless immune-system ravaging viruses during that period of time and experimented with antidote vaccines for national "defense" and cancer prevention.

The author, who is leading a grassroots drive to expose certain vaccine-makers' ties to biological weapons producers, Defense Department contractors and a number of emerging diseases, says he was snubbed by a congressional committee for exploring such links.

Horowitz was not invited to give testimony at the panel's preliminary hearings on the subject. Instead, he was asked merely to submit his documentation for future consideration.

"In my estimation, Dr. Horowitz has unearthed a covert operation run amok that is bigger than any secret operation in U.S. history," retired Colonel Jack Kingston, formerly on the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon, said.

To obtain a copy of "Emerging Viruses," you can special order it through your bookstore or contact the publisher at 1-888-508-4787.

Jenny Wiley Heritage Trail opens

FRANKFORT — A new driving trail that retraces the steps of famed pioneer Jenny Wiley has been established.

The Jenny Wiley Trail Heritage Byway embraces a 154-mile loop drive in eastern Kentucky that includes portions of the Country Music Highway (US 23) and scenic KY 1.

The driving route provides easy access to more than 60 miles of existing recreational facilities, including hiking trails, watchable wildlife areas, campgrounds, river canoeing opportunities, and biking trails.

The driving route replaces the old Jenny Wiley hiking trail. A state task force established in 1996 examined maintenance and land-use issues that had led to the trail's deterioration. The task force decided to close the pathway and set up a trail that incorporated existing public facilities, such as state parks and wildlife management areas.

Participating in the task force were representatives of the Transportation Cabinet, the Division of Forestry in the Cabinet for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, and three agencies in the Tourism Development Cabinet — the departments of Parks, Travel, and Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Working with a $50,000 legislative allocation, the task force has printed 20,000 brochures that outline the new trail's route. It also recounts the harrowing tale of Jenny Wiley's kidnapping by Indians in 1789 and her eventual escape. The pamphlet will be distributed at sites throughout the region, such as state parks and local tourism offices. It is also available by calling 1-800-225-8747.

The Transportation Cabinet has erected more than 100 roadside signs marking the route.

'99 VOLVO S80 T6 TWIN TURBO

When your prime marketplace rivals are BMW's "5" series, the Mercedes "E's," and even the newly restyled Cadillacs, you'd better offer a fine product. Volvo, with its recently introduced twin turbo T6 S80, has no worries about competing even in this rarefied atmosphere.

Inside, the S80 T6 sports scanty analog instrumentation nestled amid its burled wood dash. Electric windows, a "drive by wire" electronic throttle, 4-wheel power disc antilock brakes, heated buckets, power rack and pinion steering with adjustable column, auxiliary sound system controls embedded in the wheel, center console, an advanced Stability and Traction Control System to prevent skids, daytime running lights, mediocre cupholders, excellent control "feel," and more features than there's room to mention are packed inside this $41,000 base price vehicle. The fold-down rear seat offers expansive legroom; the trunk is huge, finished nicely, and boasts low liftover height.

Buying a Volvo automatically means you'll get the industry's most advanced set of safety features. The S80 uses dual front and side airbags, an accident-triggered "side curtain" to prevent head injuries and minimize vehicle ejections, and a Whiplash Protection System.

Under the hood resides an inline 6-cylinder, 4-valve 2.8 liter engine. The 268HP twin turbo with variable valve timing produces so much torque over so large an RPM range, you'll seldom realize the car isn't normally aspirated. Fuel efficiency was observed at 17 city and 25 highway (EPA 18/25). Turning to 0-60 acceleration, expect 8.1 seconds from this 3,682-pound vehicle. The mileage figure approaches the genre's top; sprint times rank near the bottom.

The T6 was mated to a properly geared 4-speed automatic transmission with manual shift capability and lockup torque converter. The unit offers an ice-cheating third-gear Winter start mode, and for even better control there's a limited slip differential.

The T6's suspension was a stellar example of firmness and compliance.

Traditional European rock-solid "feel" is retained, yet the ride is family-comfortable and controlled. On the road, superb handling is the norm. Body lean on freeway ramps is minimal, and the wide Michelin MXX3 mud and snow radials grip well. At a measured 38 feet the turning circle is average for the class.

The Volvo S80 T6 is excellent. A long test drive will convince you of its worth!

Nature on KET traces the history of horses

Long admired for their beauty, grace and fiery spirit, horses have played an essential role in world history, making significant contributions to human endeavors in transportation, entertainment, labor and war.

To better understand this majestic animal, "Nature" presents "Horses," which traces the evolution and history of the wild horse and explores its many past and present roles in human society. The program airs on KET at 8 p.m. Sunday, November 14, and on KET2 at 8 p.m. Wednesday, November 17.

"Horses" visits the mountainous steppes of Mongolia, where the only known species of wild horse still exists. For many decades, these "Przewalski" horses were harassed for their foals and captured for zoos and wealthy collectors.

Soon none were left in the wild and fewer than 300 were known to be in captivity.

Recently, international conservationists helped a Mongolian group establish a 120,000-acre reserve.

"Horses" also visits the famed Royal Andalusian School of Equestrian Art in Jerez, Spain, for a thrilling look at the extraordinary Spanish riding horses.

The program recalls how the horse became extinct in North America thousands of years ago, only to be reintroduced by the Spanish conquistadors and quickly embraced by native tribes. "Horses" also explains how horses learn and develop socially and provides insight into their interaction with humans.
