Forests going up in flames again

Blazes likely to continue despite rain

by Randell Reno
Staff Writer

The lack of rain in the area has caused a rash of forest fires over the last week. The Kentucky Division of Forestry (KDOF) reported 10,064 acres of forest burned from March 3 and 7.

The warm temperatures and rainless days have caused 168 forest fires across the state.

The five-county area of Lawrence, Magoffin, Floyd, Johnson and Pike has averaged eight to 10 fires a day.

Local fire departments have lent a hand to the efforts of the firefighters. Employing 80 to 90 firefighters, the Division of Forestry has stayed busy trying to put the blazes down, according to Dexter Conley, district forester.

County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson issued a burn ban earlier this week for Floyd County to prevent any further fires from breaking out.

The ban has been effective thus far, said Conley. Before the ban was put in place nearly half of the fires were from debris fires. The other half were started by arson.

"(On Tuesday), nine of 10 were arson," said Conley.

Conley said the fires are likely to keep spreading. Despite a dousing shower on Thursday, the problems will persist with no measurable rain expected.

"We don't expect it to get any better even after a short rain," he said.

The rain quickly dries off, leaving the ground just as volatile to burning as before, said Conley.

The fallen leaves are fuel for the blazes which can cause extensive environmental damage.

"There is damage to the trees, it burns food for the wildlife, and fast hot fires burn (the

Quick thinking saves family home from fire

by Randell Reno
Staff Writer

Thanks to a 911 call, a David family's home was saved from certain destruction, according to assistant fire chief Greg Davis.

Keith and Donna Bentley had their trailer saved by a quick response from the David Fire Department.

Just nine minutes after receiving the call, Lt. Larry Adams entered the smoky trailer located on Buck's Branch and extinguished what could have become a blaze.

Apparently, the fire was accidentally ignited in a plastic garbage can in the kitchen area. The ensuing slow smolder crept up a snack bar and lay in wait for air to breathe. The temperature inside the trailer could have reached 1,000 to 1,500 degrees, said Davis.

"The fan blades melted till it looked like a spider," said Davis, "It looked like a big octopus."

Prestonsburg's longest serving clerk to retire

by Randell Reno
Staff Writer

Two celebrations will be held today for one of Prestonsburg's city officials, a birthday and the beginning of a retirement.

Sue Webb, Prestonsburg's city clerk, will officially hang up her hat today.

Her last day of work with the city is also her birthday. After 22 years of service to three mayors, 12 separate city councils, a host of police chiefs and one fire chief, Webb has decided to look for greener pastures in her life.

Webb began working for the city under Mayor Harold W. Cooley as an assistant bookkeeper. When the then-serving clerk suddenly left her job just three weeks after Webb's arrival, the bookkeeper found herself in the shoes of city clerk. Since

Training for families facing divorce to become mandatory

by Randell Reno
Staff Writer

The state's judicial system has seen many changes in divorce proceedings over the past few years. Establishing a system specifically for families meant the creation of Family Court in Floyd County.

The Family Court is still in the pilot stages. Many divisions were set up in Jefferson County as an experiment.

The changes have caused those involved in the process to refocus divorce proceedings to center around the children involved. With the stability of family members lives also shattered, a new program has been created to help those in a divorce deal with the raw emotions felt by each person.

Called "Families in Transition," the program tries to alleviate some of the pain involved in a break-up by providing adjustment classes for the families.

While a divorce is never easy,

Woman sues store pharmacy over drug mix-up

One local resident has filed suit against a department store pharmacy for allegedly giving her the wrong drug.

Priscilla Sparkman is suing the Prestonsburg Wal-Mart Pharmacy for filling a prescription marked Quinidine with Quinine.

Sparkman claims the drug has caused her serious, painful, permanent injury.

For the alleged error, Sparkman is seeking from Wal-Mart a monetary award.

Quinidine is prescribed by doctors to stabilize the heart's rhythm. Quinine has been historically prescribed to treat malaria and is now used primarily to provide relief from leg cramps.

A lawsuit reflects only one side of dispute.

Stanville postmaster John McIntosh displays a sheet of the "Help stamp out breast cancer!" stamps. McIntosh has encouraged patrons to buy the stamps since they were introduced last July. (photo by Karen Joseph)

Breast cancer stamps a hit locally

Proceeds go to research deadly disease

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Even though the "Help stamp out breast cancer!" stamp has been out since July 29, 1998, a local postmaster and a reader's letter on the Internet have revived an interest in it.

John R. McIntosh, postmaster at Stanville, had been giving a copy of the video "Frosty the Snowman" when people bought a book of the stamps. McIntosh ran out of the videos on Tuesday, but he encourages people to keep buying the stamps. He said every office should have a supply of the stamps on hand.

The sale of the stamp has been phenomenal, raising $10.1 million for cancer research. According to McIntosh, 70 percent of the money will be sent to the National Institutes of Health and the other 30 percent will go to the Medical Research Department of the Department of Defense for the purpose of conducting cancer research.

Pamphlets and fliers about the stamp and other cancer issues can be found at your local post office.

Rhonda Meade, postmaster at McDowell, said she had sold several sheets of the stamp, especially to employees of nearby Appalachian Regional Hospital.

The following letter is circulating on the Internet and has been instrumental in raising awareness of the stamp. Below is the content of the letter being distributed on the net.

"Peace and good health. It would be wonderful if 2000 were the year a cure for breast cancer was found!!!! The notion that we could raise $16 million by buying a book of stamps is powerful!

"As you may be aware, the U.S. Postal Service recently released its new 'Fund the Cure' stamp to help fund breast cancer research. The stamp was designed by Ethel Kessler of Bethesda, Maryland.

"This is your chance to help take a stand against this disease that kills and maims so many of our mothers, sisters, friends.

"Instead of the normal 33 cents for a stamp, this one costs 40 cents. The additional 7 cents will go to breast cancer research. A 'normal' book costs $6.60. This one is only $8. It takes a few minutes in line at the post office and means so much. If all stamps are sold, it will raise an additional $16 million for this vital research.

"Just as important as the money is our support. What a statement it would make if the stamp outsold the lottery this week. What a statement it would make that we care. I urge each of you to do two things TODAY:

"1. Go out and purchase some of these stamps.

"2. Tell your friends to do the same.

"Many of us know women and their families whose lives are turned upside-down by breast cancer. It takes so little to do so much in this drive.

"The stamps are available at your local post office."

then, she has gone on to serve the city longer than any other clerk ever has.

Webb has seen many changes come to the city of Prestonsburg in her tenure, including the construction of most of the new buildings in town.

She has seen much of the city's growth while at her post. She is particularly proud of the Mountain Arts Center.

The revamping of the city's appearance has made a difference she said.

"The cleanup of the city, the flowers enhance all that," she said.

Webb has been enchanted by the changes inside Prestonsburg.

"The street lamps, the fountain, the mural, and the pretty (Christmas) decorations, I don't think there is a prettier small city during Christmas time," she said.

"The golf course is more than you can comprehend."

Through the years she has witnessed people change too.

"We have sat here and watched kids go from kindergarten to college and have kids of their own go into kindergarten," she said.

Many police officers who have shared a friendship with her have gone on to serve in the Kentucky State Police.

Born in Lancer, Webb has spent most of her life inside Prestonsburg. In her hometown pride, she said she would suggest moving to Prestonsburg to anyone looking for a place to live.

Unfortunately she has also seen her share of tragedies. Webb recalled the passing of Police Chief Dickey Campbell, the tragic fall of Ricky Davis from a fire truck, and the burning of Brown's Produce in town.

Sue Webb received city clerk training while she was already serving the city. She added to that training by receiving an international clerk certification. She was scheduled to renew that training this summer in Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

Webb has enjoyed her job but said at age 59 she wanted to live a little.

"The death of Joe Kendrick put an emphasis on it," she said.

She has raised two successful sons, attorney Jimmy Webb and podiatrist Timothy Webb. And she now crons over six grandchildren, five granddaughters and one grandson.

"They are my pride and joy," she said.

She has spent a little time traveling, too, recently visiting the Bahamas and Yellowstone National Park. Her trip to visit her son in Scotland remains fresh in her mind.

One of the things she remembers is the lack of ice served in drinks.

"They are afraid you wouldn't be getting your money's worth," she said. "I missed billboards the most. You didn't know what was in town. The biggest shock was when Jim started driving on the wrong side of the road."

While there, the local newspapers reported an appearance by the famous Loch Ness Monster. The Webbs made the trip to the loch but had no luck in seeing the monster affectionately called "Nessie."

Webb said she will miss all the friends she has made through her years on the job.

"I hope they will all remember me as being courteous," she said. "I feel like I treated people like I wanted to be treated."

Her hardest transition seems to be leaving Mayor Jerry Fannin.

"I think he is the most fair mayor the city has had," she said. "He has always just wanted to help people. He wants things to look well. Words can't express how I feel. He's one of the finest young men I have ever known."

Webb has been responsible for many of the city's festivities, including the Jenny Wiley Festival and parades. Her cohort for those festivals has traditionally been Donna Blackburn Wells, assistant bookkeeper at the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund.

"Working with Donna has been one of the most wonderful experiences of my life," Webb said.

So today, on her 59th birthday, Sue Webb will work her last day for the city of Prestonsburg. Before passing the reins, she will bid her co-workers a heartfelt goodbye and her life will begin again.

Training

children are often forgotten and left to resolve their feelings through time. Families in Transition works to establish open communications between the parents to benefit the children.

Many of the area's counselors and court officials attended a training session for the program Tuesday at Jenny Wiley State Resort Project Lodge. Dr. Joe Brown of the University of Louisville instructed the group on the emotional effects a divorce has on children.

A divorce is a painful experience for the child or children, and they face many changes in their immediate lives. Guilt, anger, embarrassment, disbelief, fear and grief are feelings they share, Brown said.

Because of these emotions, they begin to question why are their parents are divorcing and many times they blame themselves for the break-up.

The children wonder if they see their mom or dad after they are divorced, what will happen to them, and how their friends will look at them afterwards.

FIT is intended to teach parents to work cooperatively in order meet the needs of their children. If the parents learn to work together they are less likely to return to the court to settle arguments.

Such cooperative acts between parents would include establishing consistency for the children. Bedtimes, meal times and acceptable behaviors need to be the same for both parents.

Other issues taught include supporting the other parent, the distribution of medical costs, community activities such as Little League or Girl Scouts, allowance, items at both homes such as toys, toiletries and clothing, daycare choices and payment, religious upbringing, child support and many other issues facing the children.

The most difficult part of a divorce is establishing a positive parental relationship. The FIT program sets a foundation for the parents to work toward establishing cooperation between themselves so that the child experiences the best atmosphere possible.

The idea is to teach parents to respect one another while realizing the child loves both of them.

Children will also be included in the training. Family court invites the children to express their concerns and feelings in order to begin the healing process. The children's concerns need to be identified and addressed.

Parents and children of a difficult divorce can benefit greatly by the FIT program. It has become mandatory training in the Jefferson Family Court system and will soon be mandatory in Floyd County, possibly as early as next month.

Persons filing for divorce will receive the FIT packet, which will include an informational brochure, court order and a schedule. The training must be completed within three months of receiving the court order.

Saved

ored plastic candle holders had melted to a point they were dripping. The heat also blistered the wallpaper in the home.

The trailer did sustain severe smoke damage as the smoke had grown so thick it was from the ceiling to the floor, said Davis. There was a minimal amount of water damage.

"I bet we didn't use 50 gallons of water," said Davis. "It had almost smoldered itself out."

Keith Bentley and his son had arrived at their home noticing smoke coming from it and the absence of the blinds they had hanging. Bentley opened the door and saw the smoke and quickly closed the door.

Bentley told the firefighters he knew to close the door from watching the 911 television program. The open door could have given the smoldering fire the breath it needed and ignited an inferno, according to Davis.

Firefighters extinguished the fire quickly but had to use a smoke ejector fan to clear smoke from the home.

The save by seven firefighters are witness to the new E-911 system, said Davis. It is rare to save a trailer from a fire, he said.

Searching for America's best, most creative teachers

(NAPS)-Do you know a teacher who turns ordinary classrooms into magical places, or a teacher who made you look at learning in a different way? The Walt Disney Company is searching for those special, creative teachers throughout America who make a difference. If you know of a talented teacher who ignites the spark of creativity in students, this is your opportunity to make sure they get the recognition they deserve.

The Walt Disney Company is now accepting nominations for Disney's American Teacher Awards. Teachers selected as Honorees in this nationwide competition will be featured in a nationally cablecast awards program on Disney Channel in December. As the Outstanding Teacher of the Year, the winner of Disney's top honor will receive $25,000. In addition, The Walt Disney Company will donate a $25,000 prize to that teacher's school and $10,000 to the school district. Since its inception in 1989, Disney's American Teacher Awards Honorees have received $3 million.

Teachers can be nominated by students, parents, administrators, other teachers, themselves or community members. The nomination process takes only a couple of minutes, and can be done via a toll free number, 1-877-ATA-TEACH, or online at www.disneylearning.org. Nominations will be accepted through March 31.

All nominated teachers will receive a letter and application from The Walt Disney Company. Completed applications, along with several letters of recommendation, must be returned by June 2. Disney's American Teacher Awards Honorees are selected by a team that includes representatives of prominent educational organizations, education experts and former Honorees.

"Disney's American Teacher Awards is helping to create a national network of innovative teachers who make a difference in the lives and learning of students," said Laurie Lang, senior vice president and general manager of Disney Learning Partnership. "By rewarding excellence, these awards help support outstanding creative practices across the profession and America."

Disney's American Teacher

Awards is part of Disney Learning Partnership's broader commitment to foster creative, innovative teaching strategies and practices. Established last year, Disney Learning Partnership draws on the resources of The Walt Disney Company to support teachers, schools and parents in their efforts to effectively engage kids in learning. As part of this effort, Disney's American Teacher Awards Honorees will take part in a summer professional development program designed to leverage their talents as exemplary educators, share their knowledge, and replicate their approaches with teachers across the country.

More than 75,000 teachers were nominated for Disney's American Teacher Awards last year, with 75 percent of the nominations from students. Last year's Honorees included a teacher who developed a 40-acre woodland into an outdoor Land Lab to study natural science and another who created visual representations of chemical processes like hydrolysis using M&Ms, tape, water, and a hammer.

smaller animals) up," said Conley.

In addition, the excessive smoke also affects those with respiratory problems, said Conley. The fires can also cause extensive damage to homes.

"It places homes in danger, especially homes with pines around them. The fires burn the tops of the pines out quickly."

With warm weather expected throughout the week, the burn ban is not expected to be lifted soon.

McDowell ARH rehabilitation now offering speech-language pathology

The McDowell ARH Rehabilitation Services Department is now offering speech-language pathology. A speech-language pathologist is a professional educated in the study of human communication, its development, and its disorders.

By evaluating the speech and language skills of children and adults, the speech-language pathologist determines if communication problems exist and decides the best way to treat these problems.

Speech-language pathologists are also able to assist people who have difficulty swallowing due to such things as strokes, extensive radiation treatments, etc.

Speech and language disorders might be present when a person's speech or language is different from that of others of the same age, sex, or ethnic group; when a person's speech or language is hard to understand; when a person is overly concerned about his or her own speech; or when a person frequently avoids communicating with others.

Some of the cause of speech and language disorders are related to hearing loss, cerebral palsy and other nerve/muscle disorders, severe head injury, stroke, viral diseases, mental retardation, certain drugs, physical impairments such as a cleft lip or palate, vocal abuse or misuse, and inadequate speech and language models.

If you suspect a speech or language problem, a thorough evaluation by a speech-language pathologist is needed to determine communication strengths and weaknesses. After this evaluation, the speech-language pathologist will be able to provide a plan for meeting individual needs.

Some examples of speech disorders include stuttering, articulation disorders (difficulties with the way sounds are formed and strung together usually characterized by substituting one sound for another such as wun for run), and voice disorders (inappropriate pitch, loudness, or quality).

Examples of language disorders include things such as delayed language (a noticeable slowness in the development of vocabulary and grammar), and aphasia (loss of speech and language abilities resulting from stroke or head injury), common in older adults.

Tanya Ritchie, MS, CCC-SLP, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and a native of Hindman. Her services are available through the McDowell ARH Rehabilitation Services Department, Monday-Friday, where she can assist in increasing fluency, counseling those with speech and language disorders, assist in regaining lost language skills, and regaining swallowing and speech, improving language skills.

Americans prefer reading e-mail to regular mail

(NAPSA)—A new survey of more than 1,000 online Americans shows that more Americans now prefer getting e-mail to regular mail and a growing majority prefer using e-mail to telephoning.

According to the survey conducted by AmericanGreetings.com (www.americangreetings.com or America Online keyword: AG), two thirds of Americans with e-mail stated that they prefer reading their e-mail to traditional mail.

Millions of Americans now use the Internet to send jokes, stay in touch and exchange online greetings. Nearly 75 percent of Americans with e-mail have received an online greeting and, more importantly, 87 percent of these Americans said it made them smile or laugh.

AmericanGreetings.com offers more than 10,000 greetings that range from edgy, extreme greetings to soft, romantic greetings to laugh-out-loud humorous greetings. This is quite a change from the company's start in 1905 selling postcards

newsworthy trends

from the back of a horsedrawn wagon.

The site features thousands of interactive, animated, slide show and postcard greetings with sounds and messages that reflect a diversity of tastes and occasions.

At this site, people can e-mail greetings or personalize and customize greetings to print at home on a color printer. A reminder service highlights birthdays, anniversaries and other special dates.

Here are some other interesting e-mail statistics the survey uncovered:

- Ninety-five percent of Americans with e-mail use it to keep in touch.
- Seventy-one percent of Americans check their e-mail once a day.
- Nearly half of the Americans surveyed (42 percent) still want e-mail to be more colorful and personal.

• Seventy-three percent of Americans with business e-mail accounts also use them to receive personal e-mail.

• Thirty-four percent of Americans are more likely to read their personalized e-mail before their business e-mail.

• More than half of the survey respondents (59 percent) consider e-mail a social activity.

• Seventy-six percent agree that good e-mail etiquette is as important as good table manners.

• Seventy-one percent of respondents said that the characters, colors and messages found in online greetings reflect the personality of the sender. For more information, visit www.americangreetings.com.

Go all the way or not at all

While we are disappointed with the defeat of Rep. Greg Stumbo's bottle bill, its replacement is wholly unsatisfactory for two reasons.

First, House Bill 745 calls for the state constitution to be amended to make it okay for voters to approve a bottle bill. In other words, voters will have to first vote on whether or not they want to vote on the bottle bill, then vote for it again two years from now in order to pass it.

That process is much too convoluted to be justifiable and opens the measure up to sabotage from the litter lobby, which has shown that it is all-too-willing to spend millions to combat the bottle bill through slick, if not entirely accurate, television commercials.

But secondly, and most importantly, the attempt to amend the constitution in order to allow a referendum on one issue is just a little bit too much tinkering with our system of government than we can be comfortable with.

While the bottle bill is one of the more important pieces of legislation to surface in the legislature in several years and is vital to the cleanup of our hillsides and roadways, it still does not rise to the level necessary to begin fidgeting with the entire framework of our government.

Should HB 745 succeed, it sets a nasty precedent. In the future, anytime the legislature is faced with a difficult decision, it could just amend the constitution to allow voters to do the job for them. If anything, we need our public officials to be more willing to make tough decisions, not less.

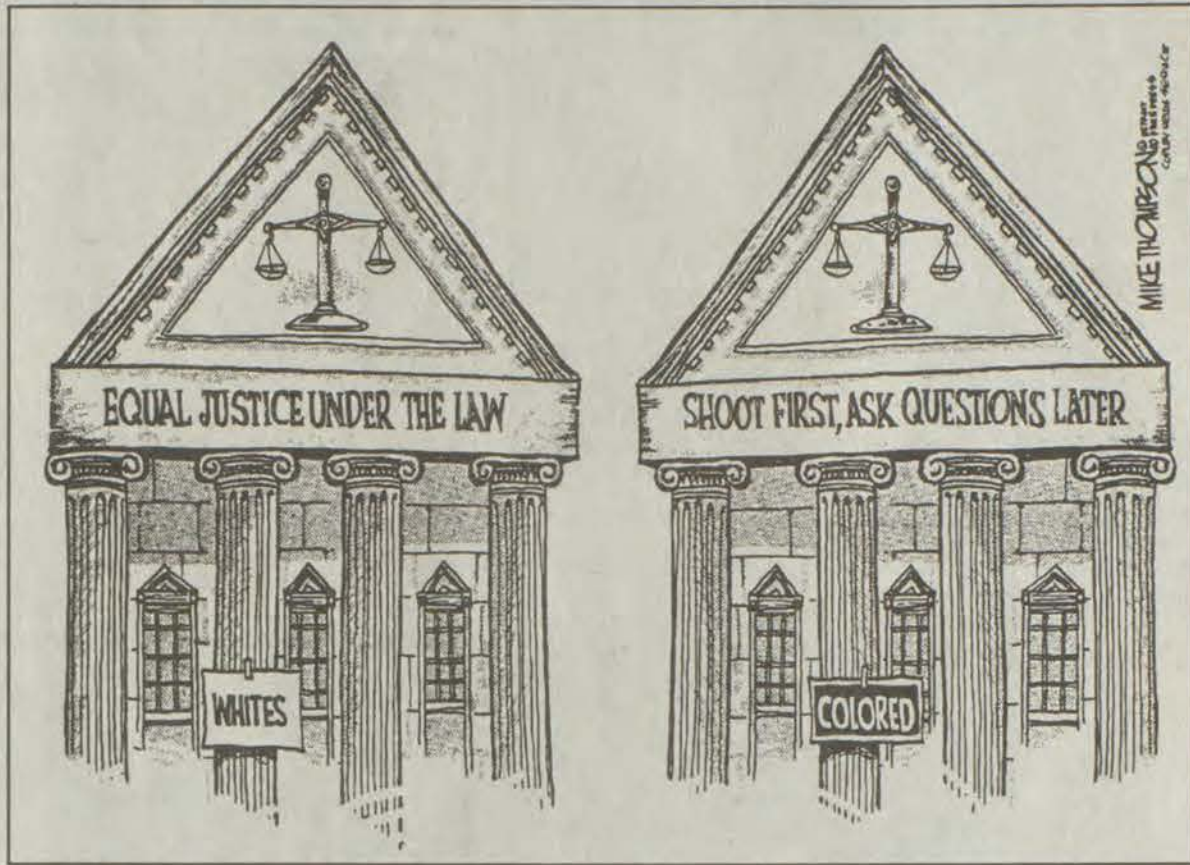

But if legislators are willing to create an entirely new section of the constitution to deal with one issue, why not go all the way and give Kentucky voters the power of ballot initiative, just like they have in California?

Normally, we would be against such a proposal. After all, if we give the public the power to legislate, what is the point of having a legislature?

But since a majority of our legislators have shown that they are too cowardly to stand up to the special interests and too unwilling to follow the will of the vast majority of the public, maybe it is time to revamp our government.

If so, then we would propose including a hefty pay cut for our state representatives and senators. After all, if they are willing to abdicate their power to make laws, there should be a cut in salary corresponding to the reduction in responsibilities.

Less blood to clean up

Editor:

There was a time a long time ago. It was such a long time ago, it was even before Christ was born.

They did things in those days that we don't do today. But they thought it was all right because they didn't see anything wrong about what they were doing. They had fun doing these things and the people enjoyed themselves so much, they built themselves a really enormous building, in the center of which there was an arena.

In this arena, they held fights, putting gloves on men's hands, like some men do these days. Only they didn't have gloves in those days like we have today.

So they did it their way. Instead of gloves, they gave the men knives, daggers and even swords. Why, it got to be so bloody that, after Christ was born, they sort of cleaned up their act.

Now, in Kentucky, we don't do it the way they did then. We just put very small, teeny-weeny, little daggers on roosters and watch them kill each other. This way, you see, there is not so much blood to clean up, not half so much and not nearly so messy. You can even bet money on which rooster kills the other one.

So who says Kentucky is not making progress?

The fading Reform Party

Hoosier humorist Will Rogers once quipped that he belonged to no organized political party, adding puckishly: "I'm a Democrat." Imagine what fun Rogers would have today over the rapidly disintegrating Reform Party.

Created by Texas billionaire Ross Perot, the Reform Party has been beset by internal problems since its inception eight years ago. But recent squabbling among party members and the defection of Minnesota Gov. Jesse Ventura raise questions about its very survival.

In bailing out, Ventura, the party's highest-ranking elected official, cited the constant bickering and the prospect that arch-conservative Pat Buchanan would be the party's presidential nominee. The following day in Nashville, party chairman and Ventura ally Jack Gargan was ousted by party delegates, prompting a shouting match and scuffling between rival factions. Police were summoned and threatened to shut down the party proceedings.

The next 24 hours saw New York tycoon Donald Trump take himself out of the running for president under the Reform Party banner. Like Ventura, Trump concluded the party had become too dysfunctional to mount a credible presidential campaign. Noting that it "includes a Klansman, Mr. (David) Duke, a neo-Nazi, Mr. Buchanan, and a Communist, Ms. (Lenora) Fulani," Trump added: "This is company I do not wish to keep."

This wreckage would seem to favor Buchanan, who has kept a low profile of late. If he becomes the party's nominee, he will qualify for $12.6 million in federal matching funds. This assumes, of course, that Perot doesn't get the itch to get back into the saddle and come riding to the rescue of his party.

That scenario was played out four years ago when Perot remained aloof just long enough for Richard Lamm to campaign for the nomination and nearly have it within his grasp. Then, a "concerned" Ross suddenly tossed his Stetson into the ring and the former Colorado governor was shunted aside like a poor relation at a debutante ball.

Perot's presidential bid in 1996 fell far short of his feisty '92 campaign, when he garnered 19 percent of the vote. By capitalizing on voter discontent, the sharp-tongued Texan siphoned enough votes from then-President Bush to help assure Bill Clinton's victory. Four years ago, Perot's populist act had worn so thin he was generally discounted as a crank.

Why should voters be any more enthusiastic about yet another Perot presidential candidacy, especially with GOP hopefuls John McCain and George W. Bush and Democratic challenger Bill Bradley all competing so strenuously for the cherished role of reformer? That giant sucking sound that Ross Perot popularized could prove to be the Reform Party's death rattle.

The end of innocence

As long as handguns are cheap and easy to come by, American children will keep killing each other with them.

This is a plain fact of American childhood that crosses all boundaries: age, gender, class, race, geography, wealth, intent, sanity.

It is a plain fact of American politics that members of Congress cannot summon the personal courage, the common will and the human decency to say, "Enough."

That a 6-year-old boy in Flint, Mich., would shoot and kill a 6-year-old classmate, Kayla Rolland, should surprise no one. Even at Buel Elementary School, where the shooting occurred, some parents seemed resigned to the fact that "it" could happen anywhere.

Anywhere in America, that is, Paducah, Ky.; Pearl, Miss.; Littleton, Colo.; Springfield, Ore.; Wilkinsburg, Pa.; who can keep them all straight anymore?

"It" could not happen in France or England or Sweden or Spain or Japan, or any of the civilized nations that restrict handgun ownership to the police and the military. That "it" does happen everywhere in

Thank you Mom

With the advent of television and the continuing progress into the technological world of home computers and video games, parenting has been replaced by a machine.

These mindless machines teach the open-minded children and teens violence, non-conformity, rebelliousness and, among other things, promiscuousness.

Last week I suddenly realized that my parents would have seemed cold, hard and abusive in today's world.

Just a few generations ago, the promiscuous end of the baby boomers set in motion the sickening world that we now live in, a place where children rule.

But a few of us still remember the "old school." We remember a time where a spanking was very near a whuppin' and your presence was chiefly to be seen and not heard.

My behind has had so many whuppin's, it must have resembled leather at one point. Life was fun, discipline was real and not an idle threat, and work was performed by all to sustain the family, not just for allowance.

A poem was sent to me across the internet a few weeks ago and it reflected the way my mom and dad raised me. While there are many of you in my generation who have never felt the wrath of your parents through a limb or a belt, a few of you have.

We were raised up right but at times we left our predestined course to check out the "greener" paths. Many of those paths were rewarding, many weren't.

But if we reminisce on our childhood in our conscious being we will remember Mom's or Dad's words in the new situations.

For some reason we seek out the wrong and are so calloused we don't consider it wrong. Instead we consider the experience as an experiment of our personality.

Sometimes we need that mean ol' mom back to smack us on the rear or in some cases in the back of the head. I hope this poem will bring good memories to you as it did to me.

To All of You Mean Mothers

Was your Mom mean? I know mine was. We had the meanest mother in the whole world!

While other kids ate candy for breakfast we had to have cereal, or eggs, or toast.

When others had a Pepsi and a Twinkle for lunch we had to eat sandwiches.

And you can guess our mother fixed us a dinner that was different from what other kids had, too.

Mother insisted on knowing where we were at all times. You'd think we were convicts in a prison.

She had to know who our friends were, and what we were doing with them.

She insisted that if we said we would be gone for an hour, we would be gone for an hour or less.

We were ashamed to admit it, but she had the nerve to break the Child Labor Laws by making us work. We had to wash the dishes, make the beds, learn to cook, vacuum the floor, do laundry, and all sorts of cruel jobs.

I think she would lie awake at night

A good attitude builds good health

The Gospel According to Me

Answer to Super Crossword

People know Pueblo for its... free information. Get into it at www.pueblo.gsa.gov

I'm more convinced every day that the Bible's authors must have been inspired by God.

Less and less is that merely a statement of faith, either. To me, it's increasingly backed up by hard data.

Writing thousands of years ago in a pre-scientific age, the Bible's writers anticipated many of the "discoveries" researchers are making today.

The author of Proverbs, for example, said this: "A happy heart is good medicine and a cheerful mind works healing, but a broken spirit dries up the bones" (Prov. 17:22, The Amplified Bible).

He also said: "Death and life are in the power of the tongue: and they that love it shall eat the fruit thereof" (Prov. 18:21, King James Version).

Now comes a series of academic studies that bear out exactly what the author of Proverbs told the world eons ago.

In recent years medical researchers have compiled a huge body of research designed to understand whether the way people view life — whether they're optimists or pessimists — affects their physical health and their performance at work and school, reports Knight-Ridder News Service.

The results? One long-term project tracked a group of California schoolchildren from the early 1900s over the course of their lives. Those whose answers to essay questions reflected optimistic views lived an average of two years longer than their pessimistic classmates.

There are various theories as to why.

"Pessimistic people are often in bad moods, and you're more likely to do risky things because you're either distracted or reckless," explains Christopher Peterson, a psychologist at the University of Michigan, in the Knight-Ridder article.

Other studies have demonstrated that optimists perform better at work and school, and that they cope better with stress and depression. A study of cancer patients found that while positive words and attitudes may not prolong cancer patients' lives, pessimism certainly shortens them.

It's not just that optimistic people take fewer risks, says Nancy Russell, a Kansas City physician, quoted in the news article: "What we're finding with our research is that our psyche, how we feel about things, affects our immune and central nervous systems, too."

I'm no scientist, but I've seen this principle at work throughout my 20 years in the ministry.

I've had parishioners who seem to dwell on sickness. Anytime there's a bug going around, these people are certain — days or weeks beforehand — they'll get it. They think poor health. They talk poor health.

I've rarely seen them disappointed.

I can't say how many of their illnesses are caused by actual germs, viruses and injuries, and how many are psychosomatic. All I know is that, whatever the causes, these people tend to stay chronically sick.

On the other hand, I've had other parishioners who hardly mention physical ailments at all. If someone says, "Hey, I hear there's a new flu epidemic," these people respond, "Well, it's not going to get me."

Sometimes they base their optimism on a belief that God will keep them in divine health. Sometimes they trust their own physical hardiness.

But in any case I've noticed that such people tend to fall ill less often than other folks. And when they do get sick, they recover faster.

Obviously, my example isn't based on a formal statistical study.

Still, I've long observed that much of our state in life is the result of our state of mind.

I believe it's possible to train our minds — through monitoring the words we speak, through Bible study and prayer — to focus on the positive in any situation rather than on the negative.

In doing so we improve our lot.

And, as I said at the beginning, I'm glad that medical science is finally catching up with the Scripture.

America is the entirely logical consequence of family disintegration in an armed society governed by men and women who abdicate their responsibility to protect innocent children from deadly weapons.

"It" is obscene.

Reasonable people will disagree on the best way to address the social chaos in which the 6-year-old Flint child was growing up. His father was in jail. The boy and a younger sibling had been staying with an uncle in a flophouse for drug users. The boy found the loaded .32 under a pile of blankets. What should be the consequences for such a child?

"We need to put our arms around him and love him," said Arthur Busch, the Genessee County prosecutor handling the case.

Reasonable people will disagree on the degree to which we must turn our middle schools, high schools and now even elementary schools into walled fortresses, equipped with metal detectors and off-duty police.

Reasonable people will disagree on what to do about the guns. We could, as a nation, agree to ban private ownership of handguns. But if we aren't willing to disarm, could we at least limit the production of handguns? If we aren't willing to limit the production of handguns, could we at least compel gun manufacturers to make them safer?

If we aren't willing to require technology smart enough to foil a 6-year-old, could we at least require gunlocks? If we aren't willing to require gunlocks, could we at least make it harder to get a gun license? If we aren't willing to make it harder to get a gun license, could we at least enforce existing gun laws?

Any society that is not willing to do anything when a 6-year-old can easily find a gun, take it to school and kill another 6-year-old cannot call itself civilized.

If the pale, round face of Kayla Rolland, her grieving parents and traumatized classmates cannot move us to act, America has not only lost its way. It has lost its soul.

thinking of more things for us to do. She always insisted on us telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

By the time we were teenagers, she could read our minds.

Then, life was really tough! Mother wouldn't let our friends just honk the horn when they drove up. They had to come up to the door so she could meet them.

While everyone else could date when they were 12 or 13, we had to wait until we were 16.

Because of our mother, we missed out on lots of things other kids experienced.

None of us have ever been caught shoplifting, vandalizing other's property or ever arrested for any crime. It was all her fault.

Now that we have left home, we are all God-fearing, educated, honest adults, we are doing our best to be mean parents just like Mom was.

I think that is what's wrong with the world today. It just doesn't have enough mean moms anymore.

Do you know a mean mother you could pass this on to?

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS

Although family relations should never be the sole reason for voting for a candidate, the experience of us all has shown that a person's roots are a helpful indicator of his or her character. I trust mine speak of good things.

My father is Arnold Turner Jr., whose parents were Arnold Turner of McDowell and Annette Newsome Turner, originally from Ligon. Their parents were Joe "Hoss" Turner, originally from Turkey Creek, and Myrtie Martin Turner of Minnie and Milford Newsome of Ligon and Dona Hall Newsome of McDowell.

My mother is Libby Burga Turner, originally of Wheelwright, whose parents are Bill Burga of Hager Hill, and the late Alta Osborne Burga of Wheelwright. Their parents were Dewey Osborne and Eulah McReynolds Osborne of Wheelwright, and Thomas Burga of Johns Creek and Polly Clark Burga of Brandy Keg.

My loving wife of 11 years is Angel Justice Turner, daughter of Billy Joe Justice and Shirley Stamper Justice of Mullins. We are blessed with two wonderful children, Blake 4 years old, and Celeste, 5 months old.

I ask for your vote, because I am the candidate seeking this important office for all the right reasons. I want to make our county a better, more decent place, where our children are safe, the elderly are protected, and the least among us are treated as fairly as the wealthy or powerful. That is my sole ambition. I consider no man my enemy, and seek only to serve. I know I can bring the decency and fairness needed to this office to make a new beginning for our county. January 1, 2001, will bring with it Floyd County's first full-time Commonwealth Attorney. Let's not turn again to the ways of the past.

Please help me by giving me your vote and support. I promise, you will never regret it and my conduct will always show my gratitude for your trust.

Mommy, a year has gone by since you've been gone. But it seems like forever since you left us alone. We all know how you hated to go. And we know you're with Jesus, But we still miss you so. Mommy, "going home" just to see you Brought all of us more joy than you ever knew. Only God knows why you had to go. Leaving behind the ones who loved you so. Mommy, sometimes I can almost hear you say, "Children, take care of each other as you did for me. And meet me in Heaven, that's where I'll be; Where there's no more parting, sorrow, or pain. And with Jesus forever 'My Family' will reign."

Sadly missed by all, Fannie, Jo, Norma, Joan, Alger & Jack

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

WHEN THE GREAT PROPHET ELISHA LAY UPON HIS DEATH BED, JOASH, KING OF ISRAEL, CAME TO MOURN HIM AND ELISHA BADE HIM PICK UP A BOW AND ARROW AND POINT IT IN THE DIRECTION OF SYRIA AND SHOOT IT OUT THE WINDOW. JOASH DID AS THE PROPHET DIRECTED. THEN ELISHA TOLD JOASH TO TAKE THE REST OF HIS ARROWS AND STRIKE THEM UPON THE FLOOR....

...JOASH DID SO, BUT IN A PERFUNCTORY MANNER, FOR HE COULD SEE NO IMPORTANCE IN THIS ACT, LAZILY STRIKING THE FLOOR THREE TIMES. ELISHA BECAME ANGRY AT THIS DISPLAY OF LAZINESS FOR HAD JOASH STRUCK THE ARROWS SIX TIMES, HE WOULD HAVE COMPLETELY DEFEATED SYRIA TO SAVE HIS KINGDOM. BUT, SAID THE PROPHET, NOW HE WOULD ONLY DEFEAT SYRIA IN THREE BATTLES—NOT ENOUGH TO SAVE ISRAEL! ALL THIS WAS BORNE OUT AFTER ELISHA'S DEATH—SURE ENOUGH, JOASH WON ONLY THREE BATTLES AS THE PROPHET HAD DECLARED!

Roy Orbison anthology on KET

The black hair and trademark sunglasses left an indelible image of Roy Orbison in the minds of many. But it was his voice that made him a legend.

Although he died on December 6, 1988, Orbison remains one of rock's truly distinguished talents, whose influence still grows with each passing year.

"Roy Orbison Anthology," a collection of classic Roy Orbison performances, airs on KET and KET2 Saturday, March 11 at 10 p.m.

Songwriters McLean and Anka turn in hot performances on KET

Songwriters shine during an evening of performances by Don McLean and Paul Anka, Monday, March 13, on KET and KET2.

Madonna's current success with "American Pie" is the most obvious sign of the timeless quality of Don McLean's work. The legendary songwriter lights up KET and KET2 with an evening of song during "Don McLean: Starry, Starry Night," airing at 8 p.m.

This concert—McLean's first ever television special—is a tribute to one of the most popular singer/songwriters in pop music history. The concert also features guest appearances by Garth Brooks and Nanci Griffith.

Next up at 9:30 p.m. is "Paul Anka: Night of a Lifetime." Legendary entertainer Paul Anka delivers a magical performance that includes four decades of hit songs.

Accompanied by a 14-piece orchestra and the St. Paul's Choir, Anka shows why he is one of the

The program includes comments of friends and colleagues who acknowledge how Orbison's genius and simple humanity have influenced their work and their lives. Among their number are Ringo Starr, Bruce Springsteen, Tom Petty, Emmylou Harris, Bono, k.d. lang, Jeff Lynne, Robert Plant, Barry Gibb, Robin Gibb, Maurice Gibb, Bernie Taupin and Barbara Orbison.

The program features archival footage spanning three decades, including: "Only the Lonely," a 1960 performance from American Bandstand; "Crying," from a 1965 Amsterdam concert; "Oh, Pretty Woman," a rare 1964 music video of Orbison in London, England; and several other performances spanning his entire career.

"Roy Orbison Anthology," produced by Hallway Entertainment, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing. Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Department launches new web site

People who want to learn more about coal mining and companies that want to apply for permits electronically will benefit from a redesigned Web site. The Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement has unveiled its updated site at www.nr.state.ky.us.

The new site is designed for use by people who are unfamiliar with coal mining. A glossary and numerous educational materials make the site easy for the general public to understand. For example, the site explains the differences between contour, underground, mountaintop removal and area mining.

The site also features useful information for coal companies, including electronic forms which can be used to apply for mining permits electronically.

Examples of postmining land uses, updates on abandoned mine land projects and award-winning mine sites are also featured on the Web site.

The site's exact address is <http://kydmsre.nr.state.ky.us>.

February breaks tradition to bring above normal rainfall

For the first time in almost a year, Magoffin County and eastern Kentucky have received an above-normal amount of precipitation, which could mean an official end to a devastating drought.

Rainfall and snow totals for the month of February added up to 4.81 inches, according to Chris Bailey, weather caster for WKYT-TV in Lexington.

Bailey said that the normal precipitation for February is 3.20 inches. For the year, Bailey said the eastern Kentucky area has received 8.21 inches, which is 2.4 inches above normal.

The area has not received the normal rainfall for an individual month since last spring, which led to last summer and fall's drought, one of the worst ever in Kentucky.—The Salyersville Independent

Funeral services held for Johnny Glenn Simpkins

Closure to the six-year old murder case may have finally come for family and friends of the victim late this week when funeral services were held for Johnny Glenn Simpkins.

Born January 20, 1962, Simpkins lost his life in a September 1994 incident that attracted much attention locally, and was investigated by several branches of local, state and federal law enforcement.

Simpkins, formerly of Salyersville, was reported missing and remained missing until his remains were found almost two years later in an illegal abandoned dumpsite near the Morgan-Magoffin county line.

A DNA test was used to identify the remains. A Magoffin County man was later arrested and charged with the murder in the case.

Funeral services were held Saturday, February 26, at 1:00 p.m. at Dunn-Kelly/Prater and Dunn Funeral Home. Philip Puckett officiated.—The Salyersville Independent

Barnard Stone, a member of The Downtown Chattanooga Club, presented Patrick with a George F. Hixon Fellowship, Diamond Level Award.—The Salyersville Independent

Feds indict Martin Co. man

A federal grand jury in Pikeville indicted a Martin County man February 16 on 10 counts of receiving, possessing, concealing and storing an assortment of heavy machinery, including tractor-trailers and pickups and altering the vehicle identification number (VIN) of other trucks.

James Arin Moore, 30, of Lovely, faces a maximum of 60 years in federal prison and a $1.5 million fine for six counts of receiving stolen property across state lines, plus an additional 20 years and a $1 million fine on four counts of altering and obliterating VIN numbers.

Moore surrendered to Federal Bureau of Investigation Special Agent Scott Barker early Monday morning in Pikeville. He was arraigned in U.S. District Court later that day before U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood, who set a trial date for May 1. Moore's arrest comes after Kentucky State Police seized a number of stolen trucks and trailers six months ago in different locations across Martin County.—Mountain Citizen

Continuance granted in Grim murder trial

A murder trial scheduled to begin Monday in Lawrence Circuit Court has been continued until May.

Circuit Judge Stephen N. Frazier rescheduled James W. Grim's trial for May 8, according to a spokesperson in the commonwealth's attorney office.

Grim, of Tudor Key, is charged with murder in the May 18, 1997, death of another Johnson County resident, Phillip Michael Wagner of River, whose skeletal remains were found in Lawrence County in December 1998.

Grim was arrested in Colorado in early 1998 after a sealed indictment was returned against him by a Lawrence County grand jury. He has pleaded not guilty to the charge, but court records indicate that he allegedly told a friend that he killed Wagner.—The Big Sandy News

3 locals involved in Carter accidents

Three Webbville residents were involved in separate accidents during the last week in Carter County.

On Monday, a two-vehicle accident on Route 486 in Carter County sent two people to an Ashland hospital.

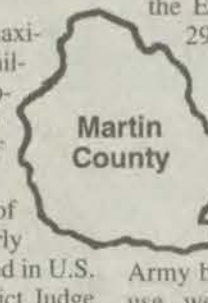

Kentucky State Police at Ashland said David A. Sloas, 20, was driving a 1996 Oldsmobile Cutlass, south on Transportation Cabinet wants restraining order lifted

The Transportation Cabinet filed a motion Thursday, in Johnson Circuit Court to dissolve a temporary restraining order which blocks the closure of the Elk Creek Bridge near the intersection of KY 292 and KY 2031.

A hearing was scheduled at 10 a.m. Thursday, in Lawrence Circuit Court to hear citizens' complaints and highways officials, who are eager to move on with the project without the added cost of putting in a low-water access across Elk Creek.

Residents living near the span, an old Army bridge constructed six years ago for temporary use, were granted a temporary restraining order by Circuit Judge Stephen Nick Frazier on February 24, the day the span was to be closed for at least six months while a permanent bridge was built.—Mountain Citizen

Arson suspected in two fires at Ezel last week

Arson is suspected as the cause of fires that destroyed a barn and a Head Start bus at Ezel on Wednesday night of last week. State police are investigating a number of incidences that occurred in the community on the same night in which vehicles were broken into and robbed.

Blackwater Fire Department Chief Claudell Nickell said firemen were summoned to the property of Johnny Guy Mays about 11 a.m., where a barn was on fire. Nickell said the barn and its contents were destroyed, including a quantity of tobacco owned by Gary Campbell and some farm equipment.

Later at 3:10 a.m., Thursday, firemen were called out again, this time to Ezel Head Start Center where a 1997 International Head Start minibus was on fire. Firemen were able to extinguish the fire, but the vehicle was ruined, Nickell said.—The Licking Valley Courier

City hall groundbreaking Saturday

"It's a new beginning for Hindman," said Hindman City Council member Glenda Bentley, about the groundbreaking ceremony for the new Hindman City Hall and Welcoming Center scheduled for Saturday. Council member Pat Calhoun agreed. "It is a very exciting time for us."

Hindman Mayor Janice Jarrell made the announcement during Monday night's city council meeting. Mayor Jarrell is inviting everyone to attend the very important occasion in the history of Hindman. Jarrell noted, "We've all been looking forward to this for a long time. It is a very important link in the CDI plan.

Now that Governor Patton will be on hand added to the anticipation surrounding the event. City Attorney Bill Weinberg said he was pleased when he learned that Patton will be able to attend.—Troublesome Creek Times

'Bag it up' week is county's first spring cleanup

Knott County will hold the first of two spring cleanup activities this month. In conjunction with the statewide Commonwealth Cleanup Week, March 19-25, Ecology Officer Roger Hicks says the county will again coordinate "Bag it up" week.

This cleanup will not include large trash items or involve a central drop-off site; that will occur in the annual county-wide cleanup in April, Hicks says. During the March "Bag it up" week, everyone is encouraged to clean up around homes and highways. USA Waste will provide pickup of trash left on roadsides.

The county will furnish garbage bags for volunteers. These will be available for anyone who wishes to register at the county garage beginning Wednesday, March 15.—Troublesome Creek Times

Gibson fears possible civic center deficit

For the time being, it appears that Gov. Paul Patton's plan to dedicate additional funding to the Eastern Kentucky Exposition Center project could weather the legislative storm that set in last week after he pulled the plug on his proposed budget.

But Pike County Judge-Executive Karen Gibson, who has pitted herself against Patton in a running public feud over funding for the proposed civic center, remains apprehensive about the subject.

That's because the question of what body — the city of Pikeville or the county — could be forced to possibly pick up the slack of an estimated $250,000 annual deficit projected for the center still is unanswered.

"If it's a done deal, then I'm worried about who's going to cover the deficit," Gibson said. "I know it would ruin Pike County.—Appalachian News-Express

Ex-PMH clerk facing 102 theft charges

A former payroll clerk at Pikeville Methodist Hospital is facing more than 150 counts of theft and second-degree forgery for allegedly taking $78,000 from the hospital's bank account through stolen or forged checks during a six-month period beginning July last year.

Nicholas A. Wright, 40, of Pikeville, was indicted on those charges Monday by a Pike Grand Jury and pleaded not guilty Tuesday morning in an arraignment before Pike Circuit Judge Charles E. Lowe Jr.

Wright was arrested and lodged in the Pike County Detention Center prior to that court appearance after Kentucky State Police served an indictment warrant against him. He was released two hours later on a $50,000 surety bond.—Appalachian News-Express

School cuts could run deep

Paintsville board of education members voted March 29 to adopt a staffing allocation plan for next school year that could lead to substantial reductions in the system's work force, but the numbers are not yet carved in stone.

The staffing plan, which is based on enrollment numbers and student-teacher ratios, must be set each year by March 1. While school boards have no role in filling jobs — other than superintendent and board attorney — they are responsible for creating positions, eliminating positions and establishing the total number of jobs.

The staffing plan proposed by Superintendent Jim Roe is based on projected enrollments in elementary, junior high and high school classes for next year. Roe estimated a student count of 369 in the elementary school, with a student ratio of 22 to 1. At the high school, which includes junior high students, Roe projected an enrollment of 360 to start the 2000-2001 school year and a student-teacher ratio of 20 to 1.—The Paintsville Herald

Michigan girl by her six-year-old classmate has raised questions about how justice will be applied to the young killer.

It has also awakened some ghosts, In Paintsville.

In May 1929, after six-year-old Carl Mahan walked to his Frank Street home, retrieved his father's shotgun, walked down the street and fired the weapon point blank at eight-year-old Cecil VanHoose, killing him instantly, the answer to that question was quick in coming.

The young Mahan was tried in adult court on a charge of murder — within a week of the shooting — and sentenced to 15 years of reform school. But the sentence was never enforced and Mahan did not go to jail. He died in 1958 at the age of 35.

Council protests staffing proposal

The Paintsville High School Site-Based Council, meeting in regular session Monday night, went on record to display its displeasure with the proposed staffing allocation for the 2000-2001 school year as presented by the Paintsville Board of Education.—The Licking Valley Courier

OEM roadside assistance plans—Paramedics for your car

(NAPSA)—It's 8 a.m. and you're on your way to work...BOOM! Your car is rear-ended. Thankfully, no one is hurt, but you can't say the same for your car.

Since it's the law for all drivers to carry insurance, roadside assistance plans offered by insurance companies are usually the first called when a roadside emergency occurs. However, most consumers are unaware of the emergency roadside assistance programs provided by their vehicle's manufacturer.

According to a 1998 J.D. Power and Associates survey, original equipment manufacturer (OEM) emergency roadside assistance plans cover the majority of new and/or leased vehicles during their warranty periods for several roadside emergencies including minor collisions. Yet, more than one-third of the consumers covered by OEM plans contact independent providers.

The roadside emergency coverage offered by original vehicle manufacturers matches or is often more inclusive than the insurance companies' counterparts. For example, the Ford Auto Club provides the following roadside assistance throughout the 50 states, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands and Canada:

- Service 24-hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year, including holidays
- Towing for warranty and non-warranty problems including accidents
- Changing of flat tires on-site
- Delivering fuel if the vehicle runs out of gas
- Jump starting dead batteries
- Unlocking doors

Similar to other OEM Roadside Assistance plans, Ford covers all its vehicles under the Ford Roadside Assistance program for 36 months or the vehicle's first 36,000 miles, whichever comes first, (48 months or the vehicle's first 50,000 miles for Lincoln) or for the duration of the vehicle's lease.

Better Than Average

Adding new elements to the average roadside assistance service, many OEM Roadside Assistance Customer Service Representatives (CSR) send local authorities

(police, emergency vehicles) to the scene if needed. This provides added security and safety, options missing from some insurance roadside assistance plans. "Our first priority is to establish the customer's safety," said George Gilbert, crash parts merchandising manager for Ford Customer Service. "Once that is established, the Roadside Assistance program works to get the customer's vehicle back on the road promptly and inexpensively."

And convenience is part of the process. Since most OEM Roadside Assistance participants can choose which authorized dealership to have their vehicle towed to, free of charge, the roadside assistance programs can make life easier after such an emergency. Best of all, consumers can insist that genuine OEM parts are used in their vehicle's repair.

One trait common among all consumers is the desire for choice. OEM roadside assistance plans, which result from today's safe, lower maintenance cars, provide a prompt, reliable, money saving, alternative to insurance companies' roadside assistance claims. And when you need roadside assistance, having someone fast and reliable to call for help can make all the difference in the world.

MSU Founders Day is April 6

Arrangements are being finalized for a variety of activities during Morehead State University's annual Founders Day observance on Thursday, April 6.

The university will recognize several individuals who have made significant contributions to MSU's growth through the years, according to President Ronald G. Eaglin.

"We look forward to having members of the community join us in celebrating the university's 78th birthday as a public institution and its 113th since being founded as a private school," Eaglin stated.

The day will begin with a special breakfast at 8:30 a.m., in the Crager Room of the Adoron Doran University Center for retired faculty and staff members. Friends of MSU retirees may purchase tickets in advance at a price of $7.

A meeting of the MSU Retirees Association will follow the breakfast. Dr. John Phillely will preside and new officers will be elected.

Scheduled for 10:45 a.m. at the Memorial Plaza in front of Camden-Carroll Library, is the memorial bricks ceremony. The names of deceased faculty and staff members will be read aloud to the tolling of a single bell. Bricks bearing the name of each person will be on display and later added to the plaza.

The Founders Day Awards Luncheon is set for noon, also in the Crager Room. It will include presentation of the Founders Day Award for University Service.

New MSU Fellows and other benefactors of the University also will be honored. Tickets, at $10 per person, must be purchased in advance.

Founders Day 2000 ends after a 2 p.m. groundbreaking ceremony for the $14 million renovation and expansion of Breckinridge Hall. The former laboratory school is being modernized to house WMKY Radio and the Department of Communications. Completion is expected in late 2001.

Additional information and reservations are available by calling 606/783-2033.

Governor to raise pay levels of state employees

Frankfort — To address what he termed "grievous inequities" in the current compensation system for state workers," Gov. Paul Patton recently presented a revised compensation plan for state employees that brings lower paid workers up to a more equitable and competitive level.

"Recognizing that my proposed comprehensive revision of the state personnel compensation program cannot be implemented this session, I will, by Executive Order, effective July 1, 2000, make these changes in order to address some of the most grievous inequities in the current system," Gov. Patton said.

Under the governor's plan, all employees will receive a five percent increment on their regular increment date. The plan will also raise the entry level wage of all pay grades an additional 7.4 percent on July 1, 2000 and July 1, 2001.

In order to ensure that new employees will not make more than long-term employees, all employees, who are not on probation, will have their salaries adjusted to at least five percent above the new entry level wage. Patton will also raise the pay grades of all employees who are 3, 4, or 5 pay grades too low according to the Personnel Cabinet's evaluation system. These changes will affect more than 4000 employees and result in all state employees being within two pay grades of where the Personnel Cabinet's evaluation system says they should be.

Of the 35,850 full time filled positions, 3,768 are receiving more than a five percent increment in fiscal year 2000-2001. An estimated 4,329 employees will receive grade changes on July 1, 2000.

Of that number, 1136 workers will receive more than their five percent increment. About 2632 employees who are not receiving grade changes will receive a raise above their five percent increment due to the increase in the entry-level salary.

Patton's compensation plan will continue to make needed changes to the system in future years by raising the entry level and mid-point wage to an amount equal to the cost of living index.

Job fairs set for teachers

More than 120 school districts will be represented at two upcoming Kentucky Teachers Network job fairs.

The fairs will be held Wednesday, March 29, in the Exum Center at Kentucky State University, and Thursday, March 30, in the student center ballroom at the University of Kentucky. The activity will run from 3 to 7 p.m.

There is no charge for the fairs, which are open to teachers, administrators, coaches, graduating students or other educators who are looking for positions for the 2000-

2001 school year. Recruiters from Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Virginia, Illinois, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Texas, Maryland, Delaware, Nevada and California will accept resumes and may conduct initial interviews.

KTN is jointly sponsored by Eastern Kentucky University, KSU, Morehead State University and UK. Additional information is available from MSU's Office of Career Services at 606/783-2233 or online at www.morehead-st.edu/ktn_job-fair.

Kentucky seniors get help with insurance questions

FRANKFORT — A new toll-free number is now available for use by seniors who have questions about health insurance. Health care has undergone many changes that are often fast-paced and confusing. As a result, there is a growing need for information and assistance in this area.

SHIP is managed by the Cabinet for Health Services' Office of Aging Services. It is an insurance counseling program for seniors who are Medicare beneficiaries and other senior health insurance consumers.

SHIP provides objective information, counseling, and referral services to assist older Kentuckians with their health insurance coordination. "This program is good news for seniors in Kentucky. Health insurance concerns can be frustrating for all of us, especially older individuals who are faced with constantly changing rules and regulations related to health insurance. We are pleased to be able to offer this important service to older Kentuckians," according to Jerry Whitley, executive director, Office of Aging Services.

By using the SHIP program toll-free number, Kentucky seniors have access to accurate and timely information about health coverage issues. Counselors are available to assist callers from 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., Monday-Friday.

A message is taken during non-business hours and all messages are returned promptly the next business day.

SHIP has already provided assistance to thousands of older citizens in Kentucky and this new toll-free number has expanded the program to reach many more in need.

The state of Nebraska has an official fossil: it's the mammoth.

Crisp inks with Campbellsville

Former Blackcat likes 'family atmosphere'

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Prestonsburg's Seth Crisp signed a letter-of-intent to play football at Campbellsville College this fall.

The signing took place at the school's library in the presence of his teammates and parents.

Campbellsville coaches Haywood Riner Jr., offensive line coach and school recruiting coordinator, along with offensive coordinator Eric Graves, were present at the signing.

Crisp said the choice of Campbellsville College was an easy one.

"They have a good family atmosphere down there," he said. "I just want to go down and work as hard as I can. I worked hard here in high school and hopefully good things will happen down there."

Crisp said he has not decided on a major yet.

Coach Graves said they watched a highlight film on Crisp that Prestonsburg assistant coach Mike

Blackburn provided for them. "Seth's quickness and movement attracted us," said Graves. "He is the type of player, when in the open field, is tough."

The Campbellsville coach said they were looking to play Crisp at the "Z-back," which is a slot back and flanker at Campbellsville.

"With his speed, quickness and movement, we are looking at him as a receiver," said Graves.

Coach Riner said that Crisp has things that can't be taught.

"He has quick feet," he said. "He could also end up on the defensive line as well."

"The biggest adjustment any kid has to make when they leave any

Lady Cardinals Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals advance to semi-finals

by Karen Joseph
 Sport Writer

In the opening round of night two in the 15th Region girls' tournament, the winners of the 57th district, the Lady Cardinals of Sheldon Clark, took on the host Elkhorn City Lady Cougars, runners-up in the 60th district.

The Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals were ranked second going into the tournament and Elkhorn City was ranked eighth. But during tournament time, rankings don't always mean anything.

But Coach Mack Gibson knew he had his hands full with the Lady Cards. The Lady Cardinals are a very talented ball team. They possess the second leading scorer in the state, Mandy Harmon. And Harmon is just a junior.

The Lady Cougars had a big second quarter, coming within five points, but the Lady Cards came back out in the second half and easily defeated the Lady Cougars, 85-58.

Harmon led both teams in scoring with 23. Fellow teammates Kelli Moore and Nikki Copeland had 15 and 10 respectively.

Elkhorn City was led in scoring by 5-7 junior Cindy Belcher. Belcher finished with 20 points for the Lady Cougars. Freshman Alisha Hawkins also hit the double digit mark with 12.

The Lady Cardinals jumped out to a comfortable lead in the first quarter by outscoring the Lady Cougars 25-11 in the opening quarter.

But the Lady Cougars would not give up. In the second quarter, the Lady Cougars outscored the Lady Cardinals by three points. With 5:41 remaining in the second quarter the score was 31-11.

Sheldon Clark scored the first six points of the second quarter. But then the Lady Cougars had a 17-0 run to narrow the gap to three points with 1:37 remaining in the half.

Belcher and Sarah Anderson each had three-point baskets in the Lady Cougar run. Eighth grader Patience Hylton had two straight baskets, plus two free throws. Belcher had two two-point baskets and Brandi

A Look At Sports

Joe Back: he's back and more

It was a bright sunny day on the outside and I was busy listening to an interview I had recorded when, through the double doors of our office, which were open because of the freshness of the day outside, walked none other than Joe Back.

Now, I hadn't seen Joe for a long, long time and it was good to get to chat with him a little.

Joe will be working for radio station WSGS and will call his 21st state high school basketball tournament later this month.

Joe said he got his start working the state tournaments when he was a sophomore in high school.

"I had gone to a hearing over the eligibility of my brother Steve and Tom Mills was the KHSAA Commissioner then," recalled Back. "After that I was invited to work the state tournaments running errands. Then I got into radio with WQHY and Jim Ed Allen."

Mills was succeeded by Billy Wise as commissioner of the KHSAA until his retirement and the emergence of Louis Stout, the present day commissioner.

"I have been there through three commissioners," Back said.

Back said the biggest shot he had witnessed in a state tournament game was the one by Paul Andrews from Laurel County.

"It was a half-court heave that won the game," he said.

The best two state tournament coaches?

"It would have to be Bobby Keith (Clay County) and Alan Feldhaus (Mason County)," he stated.

The worst breakout at the fieldhouse? "When Hazard lost to PRP in 1986," said Back. "The fans from Hazard threw everything onto the floor."

Who was his favorite mountain team in the tournament?

"Paintsville," said the veteran sports-caster.

So, Back is back and the sports world is all right!

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats advanced to the semifinals of the girls' 15th Region with a first-round win over Pikeville.

Prestonsburg will have their hands full when they face Sheldon Clark, a team they lost to twice during the regular season, in the second game Monday night at Elkhorn City.

Ramanda Music had an outstanding game with 16 points, 16 rebounds and 10 steals.

Prestonsburg advanced to the regional finals last year and hopes to repeat the feat this year.

Johnson Central rallies to advance to semifinals

Betsy Layne falls 76-62 after losing lead

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Definition for a successful year for Johnson Central head basketball Coach Johnny Ray Turner would be if his Golden Eagles won the 15th Region, the state tournament and he won his bid for state Senate seat.

"That would make a great year," said the Johnson Central coach, who is running for senator this year.

Turner's team took a step toward the trifecta when his Johnson Central (23-5) team posted a 76-62 win over Brent Rose and the Betsy Layne Bobcats (16-13), in a game that was much closer than the final score would indicate.

Coach Turner said his former player and now coach of the Bobcats came in with a good game plan.

Prestonsburg Ladycats survive last-minute Pikeville Scare

Ramanda Music racks up 18 points

by Karen Joseph
 Sports Writer

In the second game on Tuesday, on the second night of first-round action in the girls' 15th Region basketball tournament, the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats met the Lady Panthers of Pikeville.

This was a cat fight. These two teams had played early in the season and it was Prestonsburg coming away with the win. But the Pikeville Lady Panthers have improved all season.

The Lady Panthers are the defending 15th Region All "A" champs. The Lady Blackcats were runner-up in the 15th region last year. The ingredients were there for this to be a very close ballgame.

But the Ladycats of Prestonsburg, who are playing their best ball of the season, were able to overcome a last quarter scare and defeat the Lady Panthers by a score of 60-51.

Prestonsburg sailed through most of the game with a comfortable lead, but in the final quarter the Pikeville Lady Panthers came to within four points. But Prestonsburg was able to connect on their free throws and come away with the win.

level and go to the next level is the speed of the game," said Prestonsburg Coach John Derossett. The pace of play. The speed of play. I am sure Seth will see that."

Crisp was coached by his father, Jackie Day Crisp, from the time he was in grade school and through his high school days. Speaking as a coach, Coach Crisp said his son would have to work on his speed.

"Here he went through a weight program and he always played basketball," said Coach Crisp. "He couldn't work on weights all year round. His quickness is there but he needs to work on that speed a little bit more. He has already started doing that this spring."

Speaking as a father, Coach Crisp said he was pleased with Seth's decision.

"I am very happy with his decision," he said. "He went down about a month ago and visited Campbellsville and was really impressed with the facility and coaching staff down there. It is a good school and I am really excited for him."

Patience will be the thing for Crisp when he arrives on campus to start his college life, according to Coach Riner.

"It is going to be a year or two to get him self where he wants to be," said Coach Riner. "But he is an excellent student and that attracts us."

Coach Riner

said Campbellsville is interested in education and football but other things.

"But we are also interested in Christian values," he said. "That is an important part of how we run our program. We are going to share Christ with our kids."

Riner said the tradition of Prestonsburg football has always drawn Campbellsville to recruit here.

"This is a great turnout here this afternoon," he said. "Prestonsburg has a strong football tradition here. We have tried to recruit here before but never got anyone. We just think Seth is going to be a great addition to our program."

"Jackie is still involved in sports (head basketball coach at Prestonsburg). I have a heart and I have picked up with some of the other boys.

Campbellsville already has 20 players in the fold for the upcoming season.

Coach Derossett said the atmosphere at Campbellsville is the kind of place you want "your kids to attend."

"It is a good Christian atmosphere and all their coaches have some Christian affiliation," he said. "All I ask Seth to do is go down there, stay and make something out of himself. That is all I ever tell anybody."

Crisp makes the second gridiron player to sign with a Kentucky school. Jeremy Caudill, a Parade All-American, inked with Kentucky back in February.

Crisp started at quarterback at the onset of last football season but was moved to the backfield and as a receiver. Coach Derossett believes that worked best for Crisp.

"This year we had to move Seth around a lot," said Coach Derossett. "I think it helped his recruiting. When we talked with Campbellsville they saw they were getting a multi-purpose player."

Coach Derossett is hoping that other schools will recognize the talent that is here in the county.

"Maybe some of these schools, like Pikeville College who is starting football next year, will look up here and see that we have some quality football players."

Mothers always dread the day their son leaves for the college life. Rita Crisp says it will hurt some but...

"Jackie is still involved in sports (head basketball coach at Prestonsburg). I have a heart and I have picked up with some of the other boys. I keep up with the others. It is not like they are completely gone. But we will be going to Campbellsville every Saturday."

Rita said she was pleased with the choice her son had made.

"If he had to go away from home, yes, I was pleased with it," she said. "After talking with Dr. French Harmon, he assured me of what a super school it was."

Cardinals

Branham had a basket to help the Lady Cougars come back.

Harmon finally broke the dry spell for the Lady Cards when she hit two free throws. Lauren Burke hit two baskets to give the Lady Cards a 39-28 lead going into the dressing room.

Sheldon Clark came out in the second half and went on a 6-1 run on the first two minutes of the game. The Lady Cougars struggled from the floor, while the Lady Cardinals hit just about everything they threw up. Copeland had a three-point basket for the Lady Cardinals and Julie Yates had one for the Lady Cougars.

The Lady Cardinals had a high scoring third quarter and pretty much put the game out of reach. Sheldon Clark scored 29 points in the third quarter, while Elkhorn City only scored 17. With 1:20 remaining in the third quarter, Yates fouled out of the game. The Lady Cardinals led at the end of the third quarter by a score of 68-45.

The Lady Cardinals again outscored the Lady Cougars in the final period and sailed on to win by the score of 85-58.

The Lady Cougars finished their season with a record of 13-17, while the Lady Cardinals improved their record to 26-6.

The Elkhorn City team will be back next year stronger than ever. They only lose one player. Larissa Davis is the only senior on the team. They only have two juniors, so watch out for them in the next couple of years.

Sheldon Clark will face Prestonsburg in the second game in semi-final action on Monday night.

Belfry gives Shelby Valley scare, falls 77-65

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jeremy Akers and Shannon Akers combined for 43 points to lead the Shelby Valley Wildcats past a determined Belfry team, 77-65, in a first-round game of the boys' 15th Regional tournament at Allen Central Wednesday night.

Jeremy Akers scored a game-high 22 points, while Shannon Akers netted 21. Dusty Hall finished with 16 for the Cats.

Matt Slater topped the Pirates with 18 points, while Jonathan Wright finished with 16 and Gerald Hager netted 15.

Shelby Valley, which lives and dies by the three, hit eight of 23 three-point attempts. The Wildcats shot a sizzling 53 percent from the floor.

There were four ties in the game and 18 lead changes.

With the game going from team to team, Shelby Valley settled into the lead and kept it late in the fourth quarter. The last lead for Belfry was early in the fourth period when they held a 53-52 lead, with 6:04 to play. A 10-0 run by Shelby Valley netted them a 62-53 lead on a three-point basket by Shannon Akers.

The game was tied at 2, 4 and 6 in the first period, with Shelby Valley leading 16-15 at the first stop. Belfry led 15-13 on a three-point basket by Matt Slater but Jamie Bartley came back with a trey of his own and the Cats led by one at the end of the first period.

It was a see-saw affair between the two Pike County schools in the second period. Shelby Valley hit four three-pointers in the quarter but Belfry would not go away. Hall took control of the Cats' offense in the second quarter, scoring 10 of his team's 21 points. He had two three-point baskets, giving Shelby Valley a 41-39 lead at the half.

The Wildcats opened shaky at the start of the third period, turning the ball over three times and allowing Belfry to take a 46-41 lead. Shannon Akers, who was not that involved offensively in the first half, had a tip-in and completed a three-point play to keep the Cats close. Belfry led 51-50 after three periods.

Shelby Valley took Slater out of the game in the fourth quarter, holding him to just a field goal in the final period. In fact, Slater had only two field goals in the final 16 minutes of play.

The two teams were even in the rebound department with 29 apiece. Belfry had 18 turnovers to Shelby Valley's 13.

Belfry shot well from the free-throw line hitting 13 of 17 attempts for 76 percent. The Wildcats were 17 of 29 from the charity stripe for 58 percent.

Belfry finished 15-13 on the year. Shelby Valley improved to 25-5.

Betsy Layne

"They played us tough all the way," said Coach Turner. "You have to give them credit, they played a very good game. Coach Rose has done an excellent job at Betsy Layne."

Central placed four players in double figures. Tommy McKenzie, Tommy Burchett and Mitchell Coleman finished with 19 points each. Clint Hackney added 11 points. Justin Bartley and Brock Keathley led Betsy Layne with 12 points apiece. Nathan Tackett, off the bench, scored 11 points and Brad Daugherty finished with nine.

Betsy Layne outrebounded the Eagles 34-27. Scott Collins pulled down eight for the Bobcats. Bradley Brooks and Adam Collins had six each.

Betsy Layne shot 46 percent for the game while the Eagles hit 52 percent of their shots.

It was during the third quarter that Betsy Layne could not do anything right and did everything wrong. The Bobcats had rallied from a first-quarter deficit to take a five-point, 38-33, halftime lead. The lead went to seven points at the onset of the third period on a lay-in by Brock Keathley to make it a 40-33 contest.

Johnson Central hit the Bobcats with full-court pressure and Betsy Layne never could solve the problem of getting the ball up the court.

In all, Betsy Layne turned the ball over 25 times and 12 of those came in the third period. Betsy Layne scored only seven points in the period and went scoreless over the final four-and-a-half minutes of the quarter. Inside the final four minutes, they had possession of the basketball 10 times and turned the ball over on eight of them. Of the eight, Johnson Central scored off seven.

Johnson Central took a 56-45 lead into the final quarter.

Betsy Layne still had one more run left in them as they pulled to within six of the Eagles, 58-52, on a basket by Adam Collins, a jumper and three-point basket by Bartley. While staying close, the final two minutes proved drastic for the Bobcats as they saw Scott Collins pick up his fifth personal foul. In the final four minutes, Betsy Layne had but two field goals as Central pulled away.

Johnson Central came out quickly in the opening quarter, scoring the game's first seven points. Coleman got the scoring started with a three-pointer on the first shot of the game. Burchett followed with a rebound basket and Coleman scored off a steal.

A quick Betsy Layne timeout, and Adam Collins put the Bobcats on the board at the 6:41 mark. But Coleman drilled his second three-pointer for a 10-2 Central lead.

Betsy Layne had trouble with the half-court pressure of the Eagles in the early going but played better after the second time in the quarter.

Nathan Tackett, off the bench, sparked the Cats, along with junior Brad Daugherty. A 9-5 Betsy Layne run made it a 20-13 margin and the Bobcats trailed 23-17 after the first quarter.

Betsy Layne picked up the pace in the second quarter and pulled to within four points, 33-29, on a basket by Scott Collins. The basket by Collins was the first of a 11-0 Betsy Layne run that gave them the five-point margin at the half.

The Bobcats took their first lead of the game with 1:22 to play in the half when Tackett hit two free throws to make it a 34-33 Betsy Layne lead. A three-pointer by Bartley and a Tackett free throw made it five points at the half.

Johnson Central will meet Shelby Valley for the first time tonight in a semifinal match up after Shelby Valley defeated Belfry in an open round game.

"We played Belfry and won over there but we haven't played Shelby Valley yet," said Coach Turner. "It should be a good game."

FROM LAST WEEK

THE WINSTON CUP SERIES

LAS VEGAS — Jack Roush has a pair of superstars driving his Ford Taurus. Good luck follows one around just waiting to happen. The other couldn't catch a break if it hit him in the hands.

Jeff Burton's victory Sunday in the CarsDirect.com 400 was all too typical.

Yes, NASCAR's Rainman is (groan) "an excellent driver."

For the third time in the past two seasons, Burton won a race that was rain-shortened. For the second time, he won a $1 million bonus under such conditions.

Mark Martin, the ill-fated superstar, led up until there were, you guessed it, 13 laps to go, although no one knew it at the time. Martin admitted later he had no idea rain was imminent.

Both Burton and fast-closing Tony Stewart slipped past. The rain picked up, a red flag was waved for the second time and, eventually, that was that.

"I thought Martin was playing

'possum,'" said Stewart, who finished second. "To tell you the truth, when I got past him (Martin), I just thought he's just biding his time and he's going to come back and beat both of us."

Martin's entire career has been plagued by falling just short; he has finished second in the Winston Cup point standings three times.

"I didn't know the weather was going to be like it was," admitted Martin. "I would have tried a little harder to keep the lead if I had known it was about to rain. Nobody told me."

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Burton also won the Vegas Saturday race, the Sam's Town 300, and again, it was at the expense of teammate Martin.

The Chevrolet of Jack Sprague spun out right in front of the leader. Martin managed to miss the spinning car but lost the lead to Burton, who took the yellow flag seconds later. The race ended under caution.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Jeff Burton vs. Ward Burton

Jeff's anger at brother Ward subsided after he won the race, but he was highly frustrated when Ward, fighting to stay on the lead lap, doggedly prevented Jeff from passing him and briefly cost his brother the lead. "I did get frustrated," admitted Jeff. "I didn't blame Ward for racing to stay on the lead lap; that's what you're supposed to do. ... I got upset because he made some moves that put us in jeopardy of wrecking our race car, and that's when I got upset. A minute later and I'm not upset anymore."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Think it's easy to race your brother? It's not, and it doesn't matter whether it's on a dirt track in a pair of four-cylinder Pintos or going for the big bucks in Vegas."

Ward Burton will switch from Pontiac to Dodge next season.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

Ward Burton, coming off a successful 1999 season but winless since 1995, will switch from Pontiacs to Dodges next season along with teammate Dave Blaney.

Burton's younger brother, Jeff, won six races last year, three times at Ward's expense. The two finished 1-2 at Las Vegas, Rockingham and Darlington, with Jeff winning each time.

Ward Burton arrived in the Winston Cup Series in 1994, driving a Chevrolet owned by A.G. Dillard. The following year he drove nine races for Bill Davis, winning at Rockingham, and has been with Davis ever since.

win (Oct. 22, 1995, at Rockingham)

FOR THE UMpteenth TIME, HOW DIFFICULT IS IT TO COPE WITH THE LONG LOSING STREAK? "It's not really difficult. I'm not going to put some undue pressure on us. If we keep running like that, a win will come for us. It has been a while, we've had a lot of top-five finishes, and we're happy with the way our team is progressing."

DOES THE MEDIA ATTENTION TO THE SECOND-PLACE FINISHES GET OLD? "No, the media is my friend. But I can't let the media put undue pressure on me and my team. I feel like, if we do that, I'm going to drive and take chances I shouldn't. At the end of last year, Tommy (Baldwin, the crew chief) and I were both trying to do things that were over our head, over what the equipment would let us do. We've just got to keep doing what we're doing. We're trying to run all the laps first, and race every lap as hard as we can, also, but we've got to finish the races to try to win. We've just got to wait our turn. If we keep getting good cars like today, it will come."

AROUND THE GARAGE

Vegas victory has helped Martin see the lights

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

LAS VEGAS — Mark Martin admits his victory in the Las Vegas 400 two years ago curbed an innate dislike for the Nevada gambling capital.

"Vegas is cool. I hated Vegas with a passion before they put a race track there," Martin said. "I did everything in my power to avoid going to Las Vegas. Since they put a race track there, I've found out that it's a real pretty place. It's got some good food and some good sights to see, and cool things to do even if you don't gamble, plus the race track is one of the best I've ever driven on. We've had a nice string of successes there and look forward to keeping it going."

RATINGS CONCERN: So far the season's television ratings have been troubling to those tracking the NASCAR popularity boom.

The Daytona 500, televised by CBS, had its lowest ratings since 1993 and fell approximately 13 percent from 1999.

Last week's Dura-Lube/Kmart 400 at Rockingham drew a 5.2 cable share on The Nashville Network, down 16 percent from its 6.2 the previous year.

AN ANNIVERSARY: On March 2, 1975, Ricky Rudd, then 18, qualified 26th and finished 11th in the Carolina 500, a race held at what was then known as North Carolina Motor Speedway in Rockingham. Rudd observed the 25th anniversary of that occasion at Las Vegas.

In order to earn the ride, in a car owned by Bill Champion, Rudd won a tryout of sorts with his brother Al.

"We took the car to a local short track where we auditioned for the chance to drive," Rudd recalled. "We both had about the same lap times, but Al spun the car out a few times. Bill (Champion) didn't have a lot of money and didn't want to worry about having to fix a wrecked car, so they decided I would drive the car."

DIFFERENT BREEDS OF CAT: Jeff Burton, who won the Sam's Town 300 and CarsDirect.com 400, was asked to compare the handling characteristics of cars in the Winston Cup and Busch Grand National series.

"They drive totally different," he said.

"The Busch car, because they don't have a whole lot of power, you can drive in the corner a lot deeper; you can get in the gas a lot quicker. You just drive a Busch car a whole lot harder than you can drive a Cup car. A Cup car is more finesse; it requires patience and understanding that if you drive in the corner too deep you're actually going to run slower. Picking up that throttle really quick is important. With the Busch car you've gotta drive it hard every single lap if you're ever going to run fast, so it takes two totally different driving styles to run good in both series."

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
I feel NASCAR fans have been hurt over its growth. As a person who attended 13 Cup races last year, the ticket and hotel prices keep going up. Tracks keep increasing their seating, with no more roads to get in or out. Now to this $400 million TV contract: Everyone but the fans (NASCAR, teams and tracks) will benefit from the new money. Now I fear that fans will be punished again. Why? Because the big-contract TV will want shorter races, more night races, and races even if it rains to meet their time obligations. All of the above has put hardships on the race fans. Even the drivers do not drive to and from the tracks, but now stay in motor homes at trackside to save time and expenses. What do you think?

Larry Parke
Benton, Ky.

We think you make a lot of good points. Better roads are being constructed as tracks work with government to accommodate the fans, but if a new grandstand is built at the same time the infrastructure improves, there is no net gain in accessibility. Price gouging by area merchants has become a huge problem at most tracks. It seems as though everyone's needs are being addressed except those of the fans.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
NASCAR penalizes teams for allowing a tire to roll across pit lane. I have watched on numerous occasions where a NASCAR official has stopped tires that would have rolled out into pit lane, and no penalty was assessed. To be fair to all teams, I believe that if an official stops a tire, then a penalty should be assessed.

Barry L. Mundis
Mechanicsburg, Pa.

A very good point.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
How does NASCAR decide what body style is allowable or legal? They all look so similar. Are they at all like the Ford, Chevy or Pontiac we see on the street?

Greg Ryan
Grand Haven, Mich.

Up until recent years, the body styles were amended primarily for safety reasons, with front air dams and rear spoilers added to help keep the cars on the ground at high speed. Recently, however, NASCAR has worked with manufacturers with the intent of equalizing the cars aerodynamically. A controversial proposal, which has been discussed again recently, is actually making similar templates for all the cars, which NASCAR prefers to call "aero-matching."

FROM THE ARCHIVES

■ Both Kyle Petty and his son Adam debuted with victories in races sanctioned by the Automobile Racing Club of America. In 1979 Kyle Petty drove a Dodge Magnum to victory at Daytona in the ARCA 200, and in 1998, Adam drove a Pontiac to victory in an ARCA race at what was then known as Charlotte Motor Speedway.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ After he masterminded Jeff Burton's victory in the CarsDirect.com 400, Frank Stoddard said, "I'm young and inexperienced and don't know any better," but he was only joking. Stoddard and the rest of Burton's crew did a faultless job.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS UTILITIES RELOCATIONS RIVER NARROWS (KY HIGHWAY 40) PAINTSVILLE CITY'S UTILITY COMMISSION PAINTSVILLE, KENTUCKY

1) Invitation
Sealed proposals for the following work will be received by Paintsville City's Utilities Commission of Paintsville, Johnson County, Kentucky, at the Utilities Commission Offices, 137 Main Street, Paintsville, Kentucky, no later than 2:00 p.m. local time, Thursday, March 16, 2000, for furnishing labor and materials and performing all work as set forth by the Advertisement, General Conditions, Specifications and/or Drawings prepared by Bocook Engineering, Inc., for the relocation of existing utilities along River Narrows Road (KY Highway 40) due to the construction of new River Narrows Road (KY Highway 40), Paintsville, Kentucky. Immediately following the scheduled closing time for the reception of bids, all proposals which have been submitted in accordance with the above conditions will be publicly opened and read aloud.

2) Project Description
The specifications and drawings accompanying them describe the waterline relocation due to construction of new River Narrows road (KY Highway 40) Paintsville, Kentucky. The work includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- A) the installation of 6" and 8" water lines;
- B) the installation of 6" Gate Valves and Flush Hydrants;
- C) the relocation of thrust blocks;
- D) the installation of 8" and 12" steel casings by bore and jack;
- E) the installation of 8" and 12" steel casings by open trench;
- F) the installation of concrete caps

G) the relocation of meters and recovery of existing usable fixtures;

H) the reconnection, plugging and abandonment of existing water lines;

I) approximately 2,786 meters total of new water distribution lines;

J) approximately 351 meters total of new gas line.

All other items of work required by the specifications and drawings, e.g., coordinating connections, the temporary shut-off of water and other items dealing with the existing water system shall be coordinated with the Engineer and the Paintsville City Utilities.

3) Method of Receiving Bids
Bids will be received from General Contractors on a unit price basis for the total project. All phases of work shall be bid to and thorough the General Contracting Firms. Bids shall be submitted in the manner herein described and on the official proposal form included with the conditions and specifications and shall be subject to all the conditions as set forth and described in the Bid Documents.

4) Method of Award
Award shall be issued on the lowest responsive bid price by a responsible bidder. The Bid Proposal will contain all qualifying requirements and forms.

5) Plans and Specifications reviewed
Plans, Specifications and Contract Documents may be examined at the following places:

a) Bocook Engineering, Inc., 312 Tenth Street Paintsville, KY 41240-1387

b) Paintsville City Utilities 137 Main street, P.O. Box 631 Paintsville, KY 41240

c) Kentucky Department of Transportation Pikeville District Office Pikeville, KY 41501

d) F.W. Dodge Corp. One Paragon Centre, Suite 230 2525 Harrodsburg Road Lexington, KY 40504-3358

6) Obtaining Plans and Specifications
Plans and specifications may be obtained from Bocook Engineering, Inc., 312 Tenth Street, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240, upon deposit of a $75 check made payable to Bocook Engineering, Inc.

SPECIAL NOTE: No bidding documents (forms of proposal) will be released commencing five (5) days prior to the date of the bid opening.

NOTE: It is most important that requesting firms identify the position of their firms as to prime bidder, miscellaneous subcontractor, material suppliers or others.

7) Bid Submittal
Bids must be received at the Paintsville City utilities office in the Paintsville City Building, P.O. Box 631, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240, by March 16, 2000. Bids will be opened immediately following in the Paintsville City Building, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240.

Contractors must submit their bid in a sealed envelope and the envelope must contain the following information on the outside lower left-hand corner, viz.:

Sealed Bid Invitation No.: _____
Bid Date: _____

Bids, upon their receipt by Paintsville City Utilities are stamped showing the hour and date received. Bids received after the scheduled closing time for reception of bids will not be considered provided legal and acceptable bids have been received on said referenced invitation.

8) Bid Withdrawal
No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening of bids. Clerical errors and omissions in the computation of the unit price bid shall not be cause for withdrawal of bid without forfeiture of bid bond. Bids may be withdrawn, in person only, prior to the closing date for receipt of bids.

9) Bonding
All bids shall be accompanied by a bid guarantee of not less than five (5%) percent of the amount of the base bid. A 1000% Performance and Payment Bond shall be furnished by the successful bidder. All bonding and insurance requirements are contained in the Instructions to Bidders and/or Conditions.

10) Right to Reject
The Paintsville City Utilities reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive all formalities and/or technicalities where the best interest of Paintsville City utilities may be served.

Yoders Bulk Foods...

Hindman store assaults the senses, but what a way to go

Photos and Story by Pam Shingler

If your nose and taste buds could talk, they'd holler "Hi-i-i-dee!" If they could sing, they'd croon something like "Yum, yum, yum — yum, yum, yum and ummmm-mmm good!"

That's if they were to walk into Yoder's Bulk Foods Store in downtown Hindman.

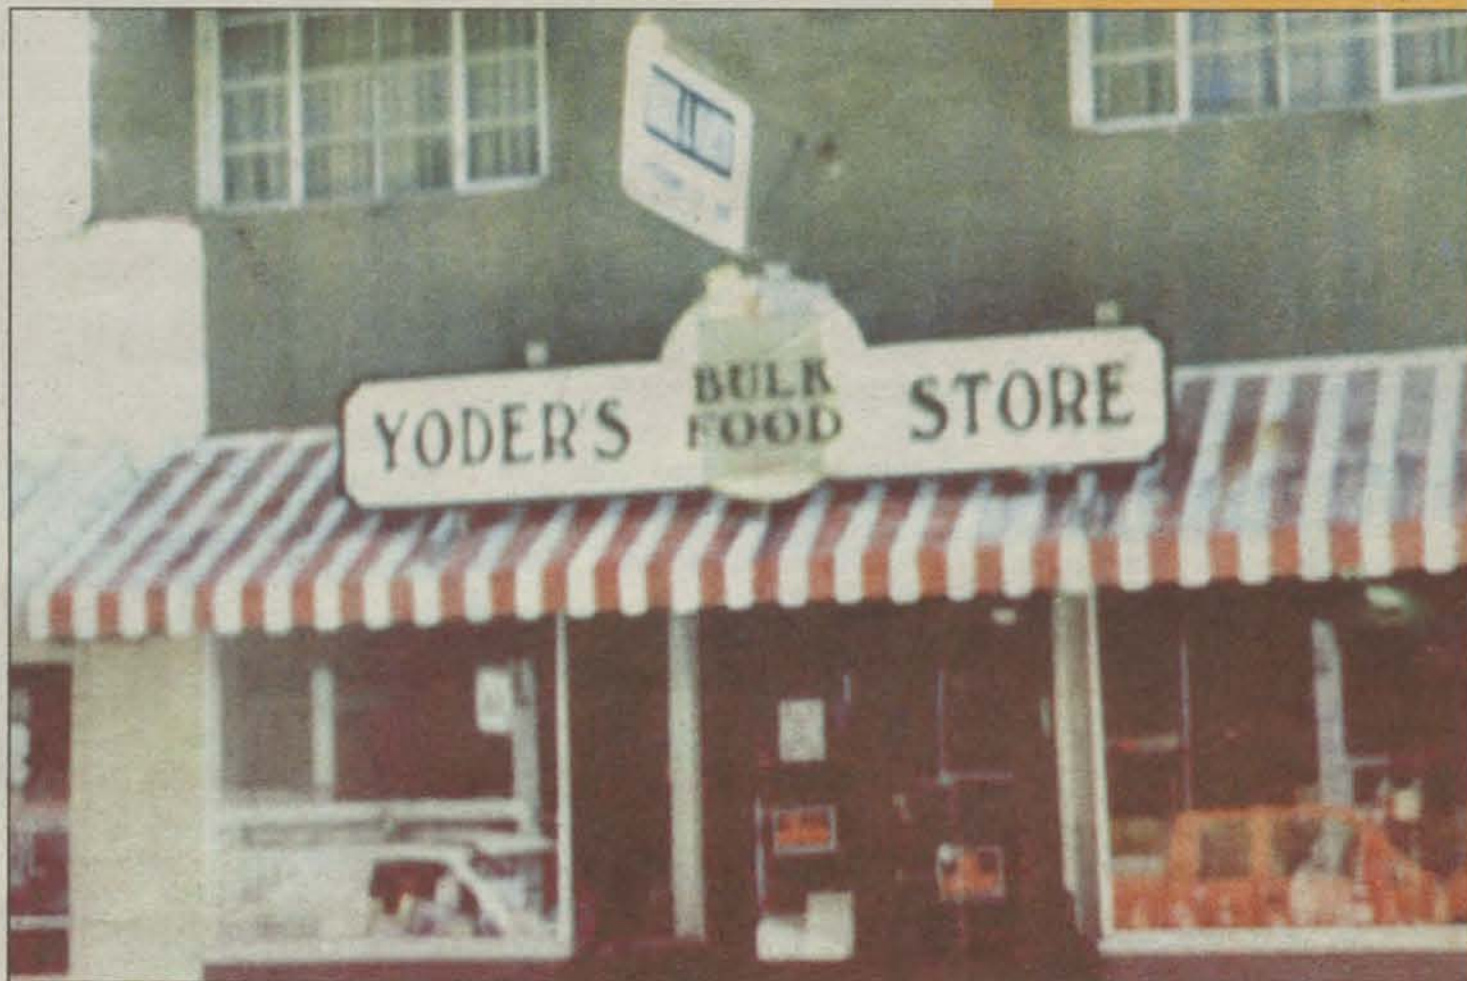

No, it's not the bags of wheat flour or containers of dried beef broth or brightly colored jars of homemade preserves, although those are a treat for the eyes and a good thing to do for the health.

The bombarding of the taste and smell senses rises from the shelves of freshly baked loaf breads and rolls, light-as-air angel cakes, and pies with real-egg meringues.

If you like fresh baked goods, especially breads, this is the place to go. (Give yourself some time, so you can luxuriate in the free aromas before you load up your basket.)

Owner Daniel Yoder, whose bakery is at his home at Soft Shell, bought out his aunt, Arlene Mast, in 1997 and kept her label — Aunt Arlene's — as well as her reputation for fine baked goods.

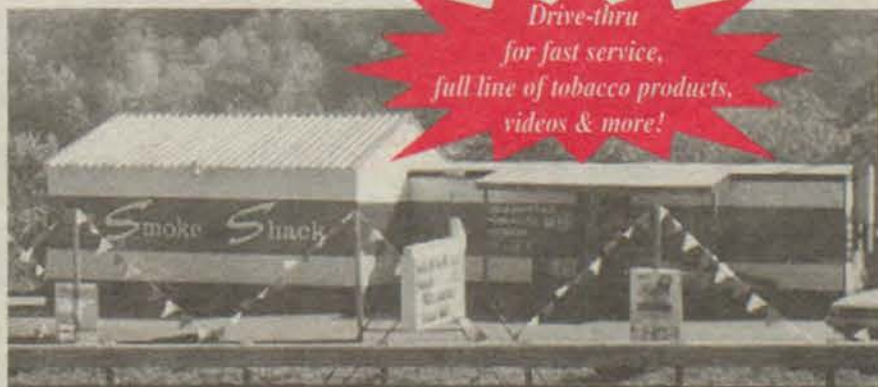

Yoder, however, was no stranger to the kitchen. When he was a youngster, he and

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES

(MARCH 21 TO APRIL 19)

The last lingering days of winter leave the rambunctious Ram more restless than usual. Put that extra energy into strengthening a too-long-neglected relationship.

TAURUS

(APRIL 20 TO MAY 20)

The clever Bull will ignore outward appearances and dig a little deeper to find important hidden facts before making a decision. A friend needs you.

GEMINI

(MAY 21 TO JUNE 20)

It's a good time to reorganize around the home and on the job. Missing items will seem to magically reappear once you discard the clutter.

CANCER

(JUNE 21 TO JULY 22)

Tame that skeptical nature. Be open to well-intended advice from a family member. A co-worker has a suggestion that can be beneficial to both of you.

LEO

(JULY 23 TO AUGUST 22)

A so-called bargain could turn out to be a mite more risky than you thought. Keep that purse closed for now. A better deal is just down the line.

VIRGO

(AUGUST 23 TO SEPTEMBER 22)

A sudden romantic overture emerges out of the past and catches you off guard. Respond with your usual honesty. This is not the time for coyness.

LIBRA

(SEPTEMBER 23 TO OCTOBER 22)

Romantic aspects are especially favorable this week. A career move also holds positive potential. Check out possible drawbacks before making a final decision.

SCORPIO

(OCTOBER 23 TO NOVEMBER 21)

You dislike changing plans. But it could be a wise move to be a little more flexible than usual. The reason will become apparent very soon.

SAGITTARIUS

(NOVEMBER 22 TO DECEMBER 21)

A loved one may feel left out of your life as you pursue your objectives this week. Take time to offer reassurances that your priorities haven't changed.

CAPRICORN

(DECEMBER 22 TO JANUARY 19)

This is a good time to stop nursing your wounded pride and start repairing that strained friendship. Take the first step now, and let the healing process begin.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

by Chuck Shepherd

In December, education officials in the borough of Islington in London, England, announced they would begin to pay 30 14-year-old students to attend classes on Saturday mornings to improve their chances of graduation. The academically borderline students would sign a four-year contract for the extra sessions, at a wage of almost $6 an hour (nearly $1 more than the minimum wage for teen-agers).

NEW JERSEY EDUCATORS' BABYLON

In October, high school teacher Edward R. Kotwica committed suicide by walking in front of a train in Bergen County hours after he was charged with fondling a 17-year-old female student. Two weeks later, piano teacher Samuel S. Aster, 59, hanged himself in Teaneck; he had been charged with molesting seven of his young students. Less than a month later, Adam Victor Reed, 53, a former board of education member in Monmouth County, was arrested and charged with possession of 12 boxes of child pornography.

THE WEIRDO-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

A 45-year-old man was identified by police in February as the one who had recently taped as many as 100 vials of water to trees in Milwaukee and suburbs (though at press time, he had not been charged with a crime). He told police that he was testing the frequencies of radio stations because one of them had been bombarding him with signals. Though he did not explain the role of the vials, he vowed to send the test results to the FCC. The man's son, 17, said he was a good father but that sometimes he neglects his medication.

Joseph Sherer, 41, was arraigned in Bozeman, Montana, in January on 11 felony charges, including aggravated assault and impersonating a physician, stemming from what police believe were from 40 to 200 phone calls he made from his Sunrise, Florida, home to women in Montana, advising them to perform harmful procedures on themselves (such as persuading one woman to cut off a nipple and flush it down the toilet). According to police, Sherer had episodes of similar, but not as dangerous, phone calls in other cities in the 1980s.

E.H. Dennis, 77, was convicted in Greensboro, North Carolina, in January of scaring attendees at a 1998 Guilford County Commission meeting by making an explicit bomb threat against commissioners if he didn't get his way in a land-use dispute. According to a videotape of the meeting, Dennis calmly described how commissioners' body parts would be strewn around the area after the bomb went off. During a break in testimony at his trial, Dennis left the courtroom and stepped over to the elections office, where he left a $147 cashier's check as filing fee to run for a seat on the commission.

New York City firefighter Albert Hohmann was arrested in February after being identified by police as the man who, naked, sneaked into a restaurant at night and snacked on expensive food and wine. Hohmann's lawyer denied the charge despite the fact that the restaurant's surveillance camera was running and that the intruder sported an easily identifiable tattoo of "Mr. Peanut" on his derriere.

THE CONTINUING CRISIS

Trauma therapist Karen Frogley complained in January to Reverse Bungy New Zealand about the company's installation of a 130-foot-high tower with a bungee-attached capsule in downtown Wellington, outside Frogley's office building. Frogley says the jumpers' blood-curdling screams make her rape and car-crash patients anxious during their sessions.

In December, People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals offered 350 homeless shelters in the U.S. and 34 more in Canada holiday "tofurkeys" — tofu shaped to resemble turkey parts. Said the PETA coordinator, of the campaign to save hapless turkeys, "Homeless people especially can empathize with those who are oppressed."

In December, the Education Ministry in Turkey asked a math publisher not to use the letters "p" and "k" in algebra equations because they could form the acronym for the rebel Kurdistan Workers

SMILE AWHILE...

Tarnished Camelot

Back in November when Rory Kennedy's documentary "American Hollow" made its debut on HBO, I chose not to make any comment about its contents which depicted the everyday life of the Bowlings, an eastern Kentucky family from Perry County. But since discovering that the documentary is eligible for an Oscar, I changed my mind and decided to add my sentiments.

After reading a New York Times article about Kennedy's filmmaking expertise I came to understand just how well her family relates to the Bowlings. For example, both are large families—Iree Bowling had 13 children while Rose Kennedy had nine. Also, many eastern Kentuckians have Irish-American roots and made hooch, just like the Kennedys who migrated from Ireland and made their fortune by bootlegging.

And, like the Kennedys of Massachusetts, the Bowlings of Kentucky have had their fair share of trials and tribulations. Just consider the similarities:

Bowling and Kennedy contain the same amount of letters as do the family matriarchs, Iree and Rose respectively.

The Bowlings go to an old regular church;

the Kennedys are regular churchgoers.

The Bowlings have Easter Egg hunts for their children and grandchildren; the Kennedys spend holidays on Easter Island.

The Bowlings have a big Labor Day picnic and the Kennedy women are usually in labor.

Edgar Bowling is on Prozac, while a number of Kennedys are known to frequent rehabs on a regular basis.

Samantha Bowling's soon-to-be ex-husband abuses her; and Willy Smith, a Kennedy nephew, was tried for rape.

And, as for jails, neither the Bowlings nor the Kennedys are unfamiliar with the furnishings inside. (Of course, the Bowlings had a little more difficulty raising bail.)

And the similarities between the matriarchs of the family were astounding.

Great-grandmother, Iree Bowling, snapped green beans and killed chickens by hand while Rose Kennedy snapped her fingers and a chef would appear with green beans au gratin and chicken Kiev.

The Bowlings receive government assistance; the Kennedys have assisted the government. Actually, there was a time when the Kennedys pretty much were the government. In fact, their party's stand on this issue is what provides the Bowlings with their monthly "dole."

And, of course, our southern accent was once again attacked—Bass, Iree's husband, spoke in such a slow, southern drawl, the director deemed it necessary to have his speech subtitled. And this from a New England family who adds an "R" to the word Cuba and drops the "R" from party.

At one point in the article, Kennedy stated that, "It (filmmaking) is a way to access culture that otherwise feels different and feels 'other,'" she says. "Then you identify and you think, 'Wow, I've been through those—everybody I know has gone through those—exact same things. They're just like you and me.'" That's interesting, because according to the same news article Kennedy is still in contact with the Bowlings (she and her crew lived with them during the filming) so I wonder if she's invited them up to Hyannisport to a barbecue yet.

All kidding aside, much of what Kennedy filmed was an actual depiction of how the Bowling family and many other families in Eastern Kentucky live. However, once again, an outsider's point of view continues to perpetuate the myth that we are all lazy and ignorant.

What I'm waiting for is for some filmmaker to come to eastern Kentucky and do a documentary on how outsiders come to our area, exploit our culture, and make money off of our poverty while our unemployment rate continues to be one of the highest in the nation. Now that's Oscar material!

Historical marker...

New historical marker in Sadieville

The Kentucky Historical Society announces the dedication of a new historical marker in honor of Robert H. Brooks, the first casualty of World War II. The ceremony took place at the new Sadieville City Hall in Scott County on February 19.

Brooks was killed on December 8, 1941, during the initial bombing of Clark Field near Fort Stotsenburg in the Philippine Islands. He was declared the first U.S. Armored Forces casualty of World War II.

The main parade ground at Fort Knox was named Brooks Field in his honor on December 23, 1941. The marker is sponsored by the city of Sadieville, Scott County Fiscal Court and American Legion Scott Post No. 24.

In cooperation with the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, the Kentucky Historical Society oversees the placement of these historical markers throughout the commonwealth.

The Kentucky Historical Society, its museums and facilities are agencies of the Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet.

The Kentucky History Center is the headquarters of the Kentucky Historical Society and is located in downtown Frankfort.

PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT LIKE YOU AND ME

Because of an inexplicable rash in mid-1999 of newborn babies being abandoned on the street, Child Protective Services in Houston bought 75 billboard ads in December to beg reluctant mothers to take unwanted babies to hospitals or social services agencies. And at the Berea Baptist Church in Johannesburg, South Africa, at least four newborns have been deposited recently through its oversized mail drop for unwanted babies. South African authorities are equally baffled at the sudden upsurge in abandoned babies.

RECURRING THEMES

Barely six months after the murder conviction of San Diego surgeon John Ronald Brown (whose patient died while voluntarily having a healthy leg removed), a hospital in Scotland announced that it has been the site of two similar but successful surgeries in the last three years, on patients so dissatisfied with their bodies that they have a psychological need ("apotemnophilia") to have a healthy limb removed. Surgeon Robert Smith said he was troubled by his patients' (one British, one German) needs, but ultimately performed the operations at no charge because the patients were so distraught, one having earlier shot himself in the leg to improve the chances a surgeon would agree to amputate.

PEOPLE RECENTLY FATALLY RUN OVER BY THEIR OWN VEHICLES

A 37-year-old man who tried to get out while backing up his van fell to the ground and was run over (Silver Spring, Maryland, December). And a 22-year-old man who decided to push his asphalt-filled truck up an off-ramp as it was sputtering to a halt after running out of gas, slipped as the truck started to roll backward (Jacksonville, Illinois, January). And a 30-year-old man who got underneath his truck at a service station to adjust the starter was crushed when the truck lurched forward on top of him (Sugar Land, Texas, December).

ALSO, IN THE LAST MONTH ...

A 58-year-old man got 12 months in jail for forgery; it was his 151st criminal conviction since 1961 (Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario). The publisher of the "For Dummies" book series donated $350 million to MIT for brain research. "Mountain man," the escaped murderer from Bulgaria who spent 12 years burglarizing houses in Washington state, received $412,500 from Snohomish County because a police dog bit off part of his foot during the arrest. A furniture store floor collapsed, injuring 161 shoppers (13 seriously) in a frenzy to buy one of 36 $229 armchairs marked down to $18 (Dos Hermanas, Spain). A 51-year-old man, out of work 14 weeks with broken ribs after being hit by a bus, was billed $850 for damage to the bus (London, England).

CRITIC'S CORNER by DNA Smith

"THE WHOLE NINE YARDS"

When I saw the trailer for this movie, I was certain "The Whole Nine Yards" would be one of the worst movies of the season. Boy, was I surprised.

"The Whole Nine Yards" is actually a pretty funny little movie. It's not a great gangster-caper flick like "Get Shorty," but it does a good job of providing enough laughs to make you feel like you didn't waste your money or your time at the theater.

Of course, if you don't like Bruce Willis movies or Matthew Perry, avoid this picture because both Willis and Perry don't so much act in this movie as portray inflated versions of their well-known screen personas.

The plot, such as it is, goes something like this: Perry plays a henpecked, nervous dentist whose harpy French-Canadian wife (Rosanna Arquette) wants him dead so she can collect Perry's insurance money to pay off her father's debts and live the good life.

Enter Bruce Willis as the new next-door neighbor who happens to be a mob hit man on the lam.

Arquette tells Perry to go to Chicago to rat Willis out to the mob and collect — get this — a Finder's Fee. While Perry is in Chicago, Arquette pulls a double-cross and hires Willis to kill Perry.

Things get even more complicated when Perry falls in love with Willis' estranged wife, played by Natasha Henstridge, and discovers she's sitting on $10 million that she can only collect if she goes to the bank with her husband's and the mob boss' death certificates.

Throw in a few more double-crosses and contrived plot twists and 90 minutes later toss in a predictable Hollywood ending. As I said, "The Whole Nine Yards" isn't a great movie, so don't expect to see anything too original — including the performances.

The perky Amanda Peet, however, delivers a commendable performance as Perry's dental assistant who longs to be a hit man. Considering the thin material she had to work with, Peet does a good job providing her fair share of the laughs.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN:

Junior took the stand in Jake's suit for Colby's custody and admitted he was sometimes afraid of his father (Adam) After the judge ruled in Jake's favor, an emotional Liza revealed the full story of Adam's machinations and the fact that Adam, not Jake, is Colby's father. Adrian blasted Tad for knowing the truth (about Colby) and not telling Jake and the family. Wait to See: Guy tries to trigger Alex's memory of her past. Adam and Tad are arrested.

AS THE WORLD TURNS:

Bryant urged Chris to do what's best for Abigail. Lucinda and Jake searched for her grandson. Holden became increasingly suspicious of Simon. Jack and Julia tried to get around the good intentions of their friends. Wait to See: Simon attempts to get closer to Lily.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL:

Sally told the detectives she couldn't describe the shooters. Later, Sally told Macy and Kimberly she trusts their father (Adam) to make sure the hit men will not return. C.J. comported Kimberly when she realized her dad was gone. Thorne came to Brooke's defense when Ridge and Eric protested about being left out of Morgan's fashion show. Wait to See: Amber makes a potentially dangerous decision.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES:

Brandon shocked Abe by his sudden change in strategy during the arbitration of Brandon's complaint. Greta screamed in horror as her mother, Gina's, body floated in the lagoon. Hope saw Bo and John near the castle and devised a way to escape from Kurt. Meanwhile, Stefano appeared to be on his deathbed. Wait to See: Chloe's schoolmates continue to torment her. Kurt learns about Gina's death.

GENERAL HOSPITAL:

Helena watched as Lucky hung up on Luke without saying a word to his father. Laura and Nikolas both lashed into Stefan for deceiving them about Lucky. Nikolas told a stunned Liz Lucky might still be alive. Jax refused to believe Chloe's tumor could be fatal. Wait to See: A.J. makes a rash decision that backfires. The FBI refuses to let Roy rescue Bobbie.

GUIDING LIGHT:

Phillip and Beth prepared Lizzie for her first chemotherapy session. Michelle considered divorcing Danny. Danny, meanwhile, received a surprising "proposal." Richard and Cassie saw their cover blown and realized they were in danger. Wait to See: Rick comes to Phillip's rescue. Reva receives a hopeful sign.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE:

Ben rejected Max's claim that he (Ben) could be Asa and Renee's son, but he agreed to treat the stricken Asa nonetheless. Later, Ben found proof that he is, indeed, the Buchanan heir. Bo and Hank tried to make R.J. accept that Tea left willingly with Todd. Viki learned her tumor was malignant. Wait to See: Skye makes an underhanded pact with Ben. Blair leans about Max's betrayal.

PASSIONS:

While locked away in the hospital's psychiatric ward, Tabitha learned Charity will also be committed and given a drug that will make her susceptible to suggestion. Ivy warned Eve not to tell Grace about her and Sam. Tabitha was placed in restraints after a nurse overheard her murmuring about murder and the dark side. Pierre ordered Roger to kill Sheridan when she arrives in Paris. Wait to See: Ivy's plan for Sam takes an unexpected turn.

PORT CHARLES:

Eve and Chris realized Julie may have been Kevin's assailant. Julie later urged Chris to believe in her innocence. Rachel caught Chris looking for evidence to clear Julie. Meanwhile, Kevin came out of his coma to reveal Greg Cooper stabbed him. Kevin also revealed Cooper admitted he, not Julie, committed the "General Homicide" murders. Alan tried to avert the nurses' strike. Lucy was astonished to meet fashion icon, Donatella Stewart (Louise Sorel). Wait to See: Mary is puzzled at Frank's attempts to cross the nurses' picket line. Kevin tells Eve of his decision about his future.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS:

Billy told Mac he awakened (from his alcoholic coma) when he heard her voice. Nina told Ryan she didn't want his tense situation with Tricia affecting Philip. Nikki learned Ramona had been in town. Victor turned down Brad's demand to be released from his contract. After watching the videotape, Paul, Chris and Lynne realized Ross may have been Victoria's stalker. Meanwhile, Ross admitted to Victoria that he planted the letter in Warton's jacket to keep him (Warton) in jail. Later, Ross was arrested. Sharon realized Tony's death had not been an accident. Wait to See: Sharon and Nick decide how to handle Sharon's information.

Leisure airfares take off hiking travel costs, says AAA

Soaring airfares led February's rise in leisure travel costs, according to AAA. Round-trip leisure airfares increased 1.6 percent in the last month to a national average of $246.94, the highest rate since last July.

The monthly AAA Leisure Travel Index shows the combined national average cost for airfares, lodging and car rental rates in February was $420.69, up $38.08 or 10 percent from $382.61 in January.

The national average cost for a round-trip leisure airline ticket this month rose $34.18 from January's $213.85. Airlines are blaming rising jet fuel costs for the higher prices for airline tickets.

"The high cost of fuel isn't limited to just gas stations," said Dan Dickson, public relations manager for AAA Blue Grass/Kentucky. "It also affects the airline industry, which in turn passes those extra jet fuel costs on to travelers who buy airline tickets."

Elsewhere in the Travel Index, average lodging rates, which have risen steadily since November, climbed $3.71 to $135.62 this month, up 3 percent over last month.

Car rental rates averaged $38.13, a 19-cent increase from January's $37.94.

The February report is based on data from more than 11,000 AAA Two and Three Diamond lodging room rates, 3,800 intermediate-sized car rental rates and 1,200 domestic airfares for 20 major U.S. destinations.

AAA is the largest travel agency in North America, with nearly 1,000 travel offices in the U.S. and Canada. AAA Blue Grass/Kentucky has two travel offices in Lexington, as well as offices in Frankfort, Danville and the Ashland area.

Yoder's has a good selection of sugar-free goodies, including jellies, cake mixes and pudding mixes.

PCC art gallery schedules shows

The Prestonsburg Community College Art Gallery, in the Magoffin Learning Resource Center, is open from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The public is invited to visit, free of charge, any of the following tentatively scheduled exhibits for the 2000 academic year:

- Robert Franzini, February 11-March 10;
- Estill Robinson, March 11-April 10;
- Student Art 100 Show, April 11-May 6;

ALC theatre students to perform tintypes

"Tintypes," a musical revue conceived by Mary Kyte with Mel Marvin and Gary Pearle, will be performed Thursday and Friday, March 23 and 24, at 8 p.m., in the Estelle Campbell Center for the Arts on the campus of Alice Lloyd College.

The musical focuses on a lone immigrant, new to New York City at the turn of the century, who one by one meets the other characters in the show as they introduce themselves to each other and the audience through song.

"Tintypes" is under the direction of theatre instructor Todd D. Norris who comments, "The students and I are excited about reviving theatre at Alice Lloyd College, and I know 'Tintypes' will renew the community's interest and enthusiasm in the arts here on campus."

For more information regarding the production, contact the theatre department office at 368-6050.

Yoder

two brothers had to help out wherever needed. "We got into meal-making, and I enjoyed baking," he relates.

He and his wife started the bulk foods business in their home in 1992, after they returned from three years as Mennonite missionaries in the Dominican Republic. They had dealt in bulk foods in the Latin American country, as a way of helping the local people get nutritional food at reduced cost.

In the store across from the Knott County Courthouse near the main intersection in Hindman, the shelves are neatly stocked with foods that are good for you, as well as just plain good.

One section is devoted to grains, most without the additives of standard brands, and some not generally seen in mainstream stores, such as barley and millet.

Wheat and spinach noodles are nearby, as are instant mashed potatoes that look as if they may have come from the real thing.

If you like to bake your own bread, you can buy

Canned goods in shiny glass jars recall Mammaw's cupboard. Preserves, sauces, pickles and other goodies are made without all the extra additives and are available at Yoder's in Hindman.

yeast in bulk. It's near the rows of spices, ranging from cajun to mustard seed to arrowroot.

Colorful and alluring is a section of canned goods in glass jars. Jams, jellies, three-bean salad, pickled baby corn ears and many other products are offered.

Chopped nuts, candies and mixes for cakes and puddings are also stocked.

One section is filled with sugar-free sweets — candies, jellies and mixes. Natural sweeteners, such as clover honey, are available.

Refrigerated behind glass is honest-to-goodness, fresh, homemade butter. It rests among an array of deli meats and cheeses.

(A suggestion: Buy some sandwiches — made as you watch — and pack a lunch out to Carr Fork Lake.)

Other than the home-baked goods, most of the food at Yoder's comes from around Lancaster, Pennsylvania, known as Amish country and known for fine foods.

The Amish, Yoder points out, are an offshoot of the Mennonite church, not the other way around. Mennonites do use many modern inventions, as long as they "are not in conflict with Biblical teachings. About 14 or 15 Mennonite families live in the Soft Shell area. Like Yoder's family, many have been there for more than 35 years.

The bakery and store operation are about as big as Yoder wants right now. He, his wife and six full-time employees prepare about 100 loaves of bread a day — a few more on Mondays when the demand is higher, along with rolls, cakes, cookies and pies.

Yoder doubled the size of his home bakery last fall. "I don't want to get too big," he says.

Besides his own store in Hindman, he sells baked goods to Mountain Top Marathon in Hazard and to the Oriental Shoppe in Paintsville.

"The Lord has been very good to us," Yoder repeats several times during a conversation.

Hours for the Hindman store are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday-Friday, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. The store is closed the week between Christmas and New Year's.

To call ahead, telephone 606/785-3344.

Little packages of foodstuffs, ranging from grains to beans to nuts and candies, give reason to the name, Yoder's Bulk Food Store.

CRITTERS CORNER

by Carol Combs-Morris, DVM

I think county rabies vaccination clinics can be one of the most fun things you can do as a veterinarian. OK, so I'm warped. Maybe it just makes you appreciate the relative sanity of a day in the office. (Notice I said relative).

There's something about the challenge of seeing 30 animals in as many minutes—guessing ages and breeds and judging temperaments of strange animals that have to be restrained and handled—while trying to keep straight who was there first and whether the number on the tag is the same as on the certificate.

"We've seen everything from a Bouvier des Flandres to a Rottweiler-Basset Hound mix (picture a Rottie head on a Basset body) to a dog that appeared to be a Japanese Akita but that the owner swore was an English Bulldog, emerge from hollers in remote sections of several counties.

A typical day means we have been on the road since early morning, stopping at post offices, schoolyards, churches and little country stores for 30-45 minutes at a time. In most cases we are alternately bored silly when only two or three animals are brought to a stop and then furiously busy at stops that include lots of animals and/or owners who inexplicably seem to know nothing about their animals.

Sample question-and-answer session needed to fill in a vaccination certificate: "What's your name?"

"Spot."

"Ok, I've got the dog's name, now what's your name?"

"John Smith."

"Owner's name is John Smith. Now where do you live?"

"I'm not the owner."

"Who's the owner?"

"My son."

"And his name?"

"Joe Smith."

"And where does he live?"

"In Lexington. He's going to school."

"You know, we probably should put a local address on this if the dog lives here."

"Oh. Well, just use my address. If you're going to use that, I guess you might as well put my name on that thing, too."

Back to square one.

Now for the fun part—the age of the animal. Rabies certificates have only two options: Under one year and one year or older. You learn fast to properly word this question. "How old is he?" would seem to be the obvious choice, but is definitely a mistake.

"We got him when Sally was in seventh grade," followed by owner's disappearance back to truck to confer with family members as to just when this was.

Person filling out certificate is standing with open mouth trying to yell that if Sally is now in college, we can just check the one year or over box and move on.

Correct wording of the age question is "Is this animal more than a year old?" While this helps, it does not eliminate confusion. Actual responses to this question (I am not making these up): "He'll be over a year old in four more months."

"I don't know. He just wandered in three years ago and we don't have any idea how old he was then."

"You get the drift.

I've already alluded to the problems that arise when trying to fill in the breed line. Actually the certificates say "predominant breed," but that's not exactly a piece of cake, either. No one wants you to write down just "mixed breed," and honestly, I like a little more information written down for identification purposes, too.

Most owners are thrilled when you can make a ballpark guess about their dog's ancestry (and there are lots of times that I have to admit to owners that I'm not sure I'm in the ballpark).

You can get your foot wedged in your mouth so fast you don't even know how it got there, however. Even if you know your breeds fairly well, there are lots that are easily confused.

It's easy to mistake an unclipped Bichon Frise for a minature Poodle, for example, if you don't take a close look. Belgian Tervuren and German Shepherds can look similar at first glance. I cannot, however, confuse an English Bulldog for an Akita, no matter how hard I try.

The first time I ever saw a Plott Hound I thought it was a really rangy Labrador mix, but the owner patiently explained that it was not an extremely common breed and went on to describe the breed characteristics. I can identify the breed fairly consistently now.

Another man was not so understanding. If there really is such a breed as a Warfield Hare Hound, I owe him an apology, but I have never heard of one before or since, and I still think it looked like a fuzzy Beagle mix.

If you have a champion Doberman Pinscher on lead and the vet or technician asks what kind of dog it is, don't think they've lost their minds. Just know that they've opened their mouth one time too many already that day.

We've almost got the certificate filled out. If you think I've slighted the cats, wait for a future installment and I'll fill you in on Cat Carriers I Have Seen: The Good, The Bad and the Useless.

Pop music explosion ...

KET and KET2 go pop. Sunday, March 12, as James Taylor, The Four Tops and the Bee Gees showcase their spectacular, era-defining music.

First up at 6 p.m., "James Taylor Live," brings a dose of blue-eyed soul from the 1970s favorite "Handy Man." Other hits featured include "Fire and Rain," "Carolina In My Mind" and "Sweet Baby James."

Next at 8 p.m., "The Four Tops in Concert" showcases the legendary group's string of hits about love, happiness and romantic heartbreak. Classics such as "Baby I Need Your Lovin'," "Same Old Song" and "Can't Help Myself" light up the screen.

Rounding out this musical evening is "Bee Gees: One Night Only" at 9:30 p.m. In a glossy musical and visual event, the Bee Gees perform their most popular singles.

From their psychedelic beginnings in the '60s through their reign as disco kings in the '70s and a string of hit hits throughout the '80s and '90s, the Bee Gees' signature harmony remains the thread that ties it all together. This very special evening of music includes an appearance by Canadian diva Celine Dion.

"James Taylor Live!" is produced by Hangnail Productions. "The Four Tops in Concert" is produced by WPBT/Miami. "Bee Gees: One Night Only" is produced by HBO.

Jose Feliciano, Steely Dan take musical ride through three decades

Two of the most important musical acts from the 1970s prove their relevance to the 21st century, Monday, March 20, on KET and KET2.

Airing at 8 p.m., "Jose Feliciano: A Legend in Concert" showcases the man who forged a new path for Latino artists to the top—40 charts during the early 1970s. Bringing his passionate style and virtuoso guitar playing to the forefront, this special captures Feliciano in a spirited performance.

Recorded in New York City, the concert includes a range of original material and several of Feliciano's extraordinary interpretations—with lyrics in both Spanish and English.

Next up at 9:30 p.m., "Steely Dan, An In the Spotlight Special," brings the riveting sounds of the pop/jazz legend to the small screen. With Walter Brecker and Donald Fagen at its core, Steely Dan combines its distinctive vocals and cool jazz with pristine production for a timeless pop-rock sound.

This concert features many of the band's best-known songs from such gold and platinum albums as Pretzel Logic, Aja and Countdown to Ecstasy, plus their first studio recording in 20 years, Two Against Nature.

"Jose Feliciano: A Legend in Concert" is produced by Anita Bennett and Associates in association with Connecticut Public Television. "Steely Dan, An In the Spotlight Special," is produced by WNET/New York.

Both programs are closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

American Masters on KET presents intimate portrait of Ella Fitzgerald

Her first dream was to be a dancer. Growing up in Yonkers, New York, she was inspired by the serpentine moves of "Snake Hips" Tucker and practiced them constantly with friends.

Then, one fateful night at the Apollo Theatre in 1934, the headlining Edwards Sisters brought down the house with their dancing.

"Amateur Hour" began immediately after and 16-year-old Ella Fitzgerald stepped onstage—but was too intimidated to dance. Instead, she sang "Judy," silenced the awestruck crowd and won first prize. Thus began one of the most celebrated careers in a music history.

American Masters, granted exclusive access to Fitzgerald's estate to make the first full-length documentary portrait of this legendary singer, presents "Ella Fitzgerald: Something to Live For," airing Tuesday, March 21, at 9 p.m. on KET and KET2. Singer Tony Bennett narrates.

From orphaned days on Harlem streets to the upper stratosphere of musical fame, Fitzgerald's life was the quintessential American success story.

Through 58 years of performing, 13 Grammy Awards and more than 40 million records sold, she elevated swing, be-bop, ballads and the blues to their highest potential. She was, undeniably, the First Lady of the Song.

In interviews with friends, colleagues and family, viewers hear her stories, laced with humor, charm and modesty. "She was the best there ever was," says Johnny Mathis. "Amongst all of us who sing, she was the best."

"Ella Fitzgerald: Something to Live For, an American Masters Special," produced by WNET/New York, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Irish Tenors sing songs of Ireland on St. Patrick's Day on KET

Ireland's favorite vocal sons, The Irish Tenors, explore the rich tradition of Irish music with a magnificent performance on the day that all claim to be (at least a little bit) Irish.

On Friday, March 17, at 9 p.m., KET and KET2 celebrate St. Patrick's Day in a truly festive fashion with a presentation of "The Irish Tenors."

This touching program brings together three of the world's most beautiful tenor voices—John McDermott, Ronan Tynan and Anthony Kearns—performing the much-loved music of Ireland. The melodies are uplifting, at times haunting and almost always familiar.

Presented before a live audience in Dublin's National Concert Hall, "The Irish Tenors" features these three talented lads both individually and collectively, accompanied by the Ratio Telefits Eireann Orchestra.

"The Irish Tenors" is produced by TV Matters, Radius Television and Faust Entertainment. The program is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

When Cuba conquered Kentucky is March bookclub@ket selection

In 1952, Cuba High, a tiny school in far Western Kentucky, won the state basketball championship—and the hearts of fans throughout the Commonwealth. The story behind the Cuba Cubs' improbable victory is the subject of Marianne Walker's "When Cuba Conquered Kentucky," the March selection for bookclub@ket.

Tom White, longtime publicity director for The Red Mile racetrack in Lexington and witness to the 1952 Cubs' triumph, joins host Bill Goodman and regular panelists to discuss "When Cuba Conquered Kentucky" Saturday, March 11, at 12:30 p.m., on KET. The program repeats Tuesday, March 14 at 11:30 p.m., on KET, and Tuesday, March 28, at 8:30 p.m., on KET2.

"When Cuba Conquered

Kentucky" captures the excitement, desire and hard work that propelled Coach Jack Story and his Cuba Cubs into the limelight. Walker, who teaches English and philosophy at Henderson Community College, also provides an engaging portrait of a rural Kentucky that no longer exists, a world of the close-knit communities and country stores, where even a radio or a basketball was a luxury.

Walker will be online (<http://www.ket.org/bookclub>) to chat with readers, Tuesday, March 14, at 8 p.m. The Web site also features background information and links for "When Cuba Conquered Kentucky" and other "bookclub@ket" selections.

The April selection is "Kinfolks: The Wilgus Stories" by the Kentucky native Gurney Norman. Coming up in May is "Rice," a collection of poetry by Nikky Finney.

bookclub@ket is a KET production. Liz Hobson is executive producer, and Janet Whitaker is producer/director.

The series is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Quilts from Paducah, glasswork from West Virginia

During TeleFund 2000, KET celebrates America's rich crafts culture with two fascinating documentaries airing Saturday, March 18.

First, "America Quilts," airing at 5:30 p.m. on KET and KET2, uncovers these humble bedspreads to find a revealing piece of American history, a therapeutic craft and a long-respected art form.

The program examines quilts from three perspectives: as historical records, as symbols of family and community and as works of art.

The documentary features present-day quilts and quiltmakers from across the country, including works from major American quilt shows such as the annual show in Paducah. Quilters share the inspiration for their award-winning patterns and designs, their techniques and the stories told by their quilts.

Next, "Hearts of Glass: The Story of Blenko Handcraft," airing at 7 p.m. on KET and KET2, is a detailed, affectionate look at an immigrant's dream that has become the last great America glass factory where all the work is done by hand.

The program traces the West Virginia-based company's 100-year history through four generations of the Blenko family, beginning with founder William John Blenko. Blenko glass is found in collections from the White House to European cathedrals to the Museum of Modern Art.

As a special treat, Richard Blenko will be in KET's studios during the broadcast to sign the glassware offered as premiums for TeleFund 2000.

"America Quilts," produced by Wisconsin Public Television, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing. "Hearts of Glass: The Story of Blenko Handcraft" is produced by Witek & Novak.

Inspector Morse returns to 'Mystery!' for gripping investigation of murders

Mystery! once again brings back the intrepid Inspector Morse in a compelling whodunit about murder, mayhem and politics. And much to the relief of fans everywhere, Morse's first name is finally revealed. The two-part program airs in one evening on KET and KET2, beginning at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 16.

"Inspector Morse: Death is Now My Neighbor" finds Inspector Morse (John Thaw) and his sidekick Lewis (Kevin Whaley) called in to investigate the mysterious deaths of two Oxfordshire neighbors, murdered only 24 hours apart—with the same gun.

The investigation begins to unearth links between the two crimes, but it also leads Morse and Lewis straight into the hothouse atmosphere of the election for Master of Lonsdale College.

In Part One, a young woman (Julia Dalkin) is fatally shot. With only a valentine from an unsigned lover to go on, Morse talks to neighbors in the adjoining homes, including Geoffrey Owens (Mark McGann), an aggressive journalist, and Adele Cecil (Judy Loe), a music teacher with whom Morse is immediately taken—and who he secretly hopes is innocent.

And then, at precisely the same time the next morning, Geoffrey Owens is shot and killed.

In Part Two, Morse and Lewis learn that the murders are connected to a discretely but bitterly fought competition taking place at Oxford's Lonsdale College. The current Master of Lonsdale, the malicious Sir Clixby Broom (Richard Briers), is retiring, and two professors, Denis Cornford (Roger Allam) and Julian Storrs (John Shrapnel), are vying for the post, with their wives doing whatever they can to influence the election behind the scenes.

Mystery! "Inspector Morse: Death is Now My Neighbor," presented by WGBH/Boston, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

■ Singer Sarah Brightman returns to KET for one heavenly evening

Sarah Brightman takes viewers to musical paradise in "Sarah Brightman: One Night in Eden," airing Wednesday, March 15, at 9:30 p.m., as part of KET's TeleFund 2000.

Transcending the traditional concert performance, "Sarah Brightman: One Night in Eden" is a theatrical extravaganza that captures the March 13, 1999, debut of Brightman's One Night in Eden tour.

Filmed with 12 cameras before a sold-out audience at South Africa's Sun City resort, the special features spectacular lighting, sets and choreography.

The performance explores a diverse range of musical styles, from the theme from Titanic, "Il Mio Cuore Va. (My Heart Will Go On)," and the Bee Gees' "First of May" to Puccini's "Nessun dorma," as well as original and adapted compositions featuring Brightman's own lyrics.

Brightman thrills the audience with the title track from her gold album "Time to Say Goodbye" and a medley of songs from "Phantom of the Opera," the Andrew Lloyd Webber musical that brought Brightman international fame as the original "Christine."

The enchanting soprano's interpretations of opera arias, timeless pop hymns and musical theater classics fuse sound and vision, accenting the talent of this multifaceted performer.

"Sarah Brightman: One Night in Eden," a production of Nemo Studios, Hamburg, and DoRo Production GmbH/Austria, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

■ A night of classical music on KET

Another fabulous night of music on KET and KET2 features stars of today turning an eye toward history and music's more "classical" sound.

Sunday, March 19 at 7 p.m., "Charlotte Church: Voice of an Angel" showcases the talented teenager performing with the London Symphony Orchestra. Church performs 11 songs from her debut album, Voice of an Angel, including her signature song "Pie Jesu" from Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Requiem."

Next at 8 p.m., beneath the gilt, statuary and flickering candles of the Santa Maria sopra Minerva, a basilica in Rome, tenor, Andrea Bocelli lifts his voice to inspirational heights in Great Performances "Andrea Bocelli: Sacred Arias Easter Version."

The last stop on this musical journey is Liverpool's Royal Philharmonic Hall for a taste of "Paul McCartney's Working Classical." This special, airing at 9:30 p.m. features music from McCartney's third "classical" CD, "Working Classical," performed by the London Symphony Orchestra.

The program is highlighted by string quartet arrangements of a number of McCartney's popular love songs, all written with his late wife, Linda, in mind.

"Charlotte Church: Voice of an Angel" is produced by Sony Records. Great Performances "Andrea Bocelli: Sacred Arias" is produced by John Walker. "Paul McCartney's Working Classical" is produced by NBD Television Limited.

All programs are closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Paramount announces upcoming 2000 season

Four headliners are scheduled for the 2000 season of the Troubadour Concert Series at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland.

Bruce Hornsby returns for the season opener on Saturday, April 15. Hornsby has his share of hit records ("Mandolin Rain," "That's Just The Way It Is"), and his piano has backed up other musical legends, including the Grateful Dead and Bela Fleck. Tickets are $25.50 and $19.50.

Blues legend Taj Mahal helps herald the Kentucky Derby weekend with a concert on Thursday, May 4. He and his Phantom Blues Band always please the crowds. Tickets are $25.50 and $19.50.

The son and grandson of legends, Hank Williams III, will appear in concert on Friday, August 18. Though favorably compared with his famous grandfather, he is making a name for himself nationwide. Tickets are $25.50, $19.50 and $14.50.

Don Williams, country music star, Grand Ol' Opry member and platinum-selling recording artist, Don Williams will perform on Friday, October 13. Among his greatest hits are "Amanda," "Livin' on Tulsa Time," and "I Believe in Love." Tickets are $25.50 and $19.50.

All concerts begin at 8 p.m.

Season tickets, at $95 for all four performances, went on sale March 9. For information, call the Paramount box office at 606/324-3175.

The Paramount Arts Center is located at 1300 Winchester Avenue in downtown Ashland.

Theatre critics to hold annual conference in Louisville

The American Theatre Critics Association (ATCA) will hold its annual conference, March 28-April 2, at the Kentucky International Convention Center in Louisville. More than 150 critics and their guests, representing 35 states, are expected to attend the first ATCA conference held in Kentucky, making it the most popular conference in the association's 26-year history.

The theme of this year's conference is "ATCA/Louisville 2000: New Plays for a New Century," and is timed to overlap with, and include, Actors Theatre of Louisville's 24th Annual Humana Festival of New American Plays.

While a primary focus of the ATCA conference will be the 32 new works scheduled at the Humana Festival, conference attendees will also have a chance to see premiers by several other Louisville theatres, including Stage One, the Bunbury Theatre, the Roundtable

Theatre and the Pleiades Theatre.

A highlight of the conference will be ATCA's national playwriting awards. Since the mid-1970s, ATCA has supported the development of new works through its New Play Awards, presented to three plays or musicals that premiered outside New York City during the previous calendar year.

Since the early 1990s, ATCA also has sponsored the Osborn Award to an up-and-coming playwright. For the first time, both awards will be presented during the ACTCA's conference in Louisville. All four award-winning playwrights are expected to attend the festival and accept their awards in person.

ATCA, founded 26 years ago, is a non-profit professional group of journalists and the only national critics group for theatre critics.
