3 face federal charges for safety violations

Indictments follow from investigation of 1999 Knott mining death

by RANDELL RENO STAFF WRITER

Three Floyd County men were indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in Ashland for activities that may have led to the death of a Knott County miner.

Jody Sammons, 39, of Minnie, Matthew Hall, 44, of Grethel, and Randy Carroll, 42, of Grethel all served as agents of the J & A Coal Corporation near Lackey in Knott County.

shift section foreman and Carroll was the second shift section foreman in March 1999, when a roof fall killed James Sturgill, 35, of Pinetop and injured three other miners. The three are accused of aiding and abetting in several safety violations at the mine, including:

Bypro woman recovering after being hit by car

by RANDELL RENO STAFF WRITER

A late evening traffic accident involving two vehicles and a pedestrian resulted in injuries to a Bypro woman Wednesday.

Dorothy Stanley, 20, had apparently just exited a taxi when a pickup truck driven by Michael Lakowski plowed into the back of the taxi and into her.

Stanley was hurled into nearby Beaver Creek on impact, according to Left Beaver Rescue Squad member Shannon Hall, who was on the scene.

EMS workers from the rescue squad, Left Beaver Ambulance, and the South East Volunteer Fire Department converged on the scene to offer assistance.

Stanley was transported to the University

What drought?

In addition to the flash flooding caused by heavy rains this week, another problem facing the community has been a sudden influx of trash and other debris into area waterways. Workers were on hand at Dewey Lake yesterday removing the debris.

Like the creeks, flood repair costs keep rising

by RALPH B. DAVIS MANAGING EDITOR

Continuing heavy rains have taken a toll on local roads, banks and hillsides in recent days, resulting in a steep price tag for county

County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson said Thursday that he expects to make a disaster declaration for areas of Floyd County sometime today, then seek state or federal financial assistance to help with the problem.

Thompson said that damages caused by flash flooding this week have been a $400,000 drain on county finances, mostly in road supplies and overtime costs for county road crews.

The judge said most of the damage has been concentrated in and around Martin, including:

- downtown Martin, Ice Plant Hollow,
- Arkansas Creek.
- Frogtown,
- Garth. May Village.
- the left fork of Bull Creek. Most of the problem has been

Blood supply reaches critical low

by WILLIE ELLIOTT STAFF WRITER

McDowell Appalachian Regional Healthcare teamed up with the Central Kentucky Blood Center to help meet the pressing need for blood in central and eastern Kentucky

Officials at the Central Blood Center (CKBC) in Lexington have issued an emergency appeal for blood to combat a summer shortage. According to the center, the blood supply is 800 pints below the desired level of 3,000 pints. Nearly 500 donors each day through the end of the week will be need-

Donors can give blood at any CKBC donor center in Lexington, Hazard, Somerset, Prestonsburg or Pikeville during regular hours. Extended hours may be announced as the need arises. Emergency drives are scheduled.

According to a news release from CKBC, 441 volunteers answered the call on day one of the publie appeal for emergency blood donations.

CKCB said more than 500 pints of blood were used over the weekend, nearly crippling an already struggling inventory of blood resources. Less than a one-day supply of blood remained for the 70 hospitals in CKBC's service area.

Playing it safe

(NAPSA) - It's time for America's parents and teachers to earn some extra credit by making our playgrounds safer.

According to the National Program for Playground Safety, America's playgrounds are not making the grade. In fact, they received a grade of "C" for safety in a recent study. Safer playgrounds will help reduce the estimated 200,000 playground injuries that are reported each year and give parents and teachers added peace of

Follow this checklist to learn if your local playground receives a passing grade for safety:

 Separate signs indicating which equipment is appropriate for children ages 2-5 and ages 5-12 should be posted. The National Program for Playground Safety has teamed up with 3M Nexcare First Aid Products to develop and install such signs at selected playgrounds across the country.

· Parents and educators should closely supervise children on the playground to help prevent injuries and to ensure that they're playing on equipment that's age-appropriate.

· The surface underneath playground equipment should be cushioned. Acceptable surfaces include hardwood fiber/mulch, pea gravel and sand, as well as synthetic surfaces such as rubber tiles and mats. If the fall surfacing isn't adequate, call your local parks depart-

The politics of tax reform

Steve Henry blamed miscommunication for the political blunder he made Tuesday when he suggested that the governor is ready to take on comprehensive tax reform.

It turns out Gov. Paul Patton is not prepared to take on tax reform and is far from ready to ask the 2002 General Assembly to take it up, as Henry suggested.

Before doing anything like that, Patton said he wants to see the outcome of the November elections, assess power shifts in the legislative leadership and know which way the political winds are blowing.

A safe course, to be sure. Pragmatic, you bet. But not bold leadership.

For while the lieutenant governor may have gotten it all wrong on where Patton stands, he got it right in the broader sense: Kentucky needs top-to-bottom tax reform - not the partial reform Patton raised in the last legislative session which was summarily dismissed. Kentucky needs a leader who is willing to step up and put tax reform

In fact, the silly sales tax that Henry said he wants to eliminate only illustrates how arcane Kentucky's tax code is and how ripe the state is for tax reform.

The tax Henry wants to ax applies to prescription drugs when they are administered by physicians, nursing homes and other providers. The cost, of course, is passed on to

Sure, Henry is a doctor and this tax on drugs must be a major pain for his fellow physicians. But, in fact, the sales tax makes no sense. Why should prescription drugs purchased at a pharmacy be exempt from the 6 percent sales tax but those given to a patient by a physician not?

Henry's blunder, undoubtedly, will cost him political points in his bid to be the Democratic candidate for governor in 2003. Instead of coming across as a strong leader, he looks like a follower who doesn't even know what's going on in his own administration.

But the greater blunder will be if true tax reform gets only lip service in the November elections when it should be a defining issue. That blunder will continue to cost everyone in Kentucky who must pay what seems to be a tax on everything and continue to take particular advantage of lowand middle-income Kentuckians, who pay a larger share of their income in taxes than do the rich.

that it can effectively be marketed to buyers.

Through the workshop, artisans will have the opportunity to gain knowledge of many photography techniques, such as lighting, background and photographing still objects.

They will also discover the perfect way to display their work, demonstrations of various photographic techniques and types of cameras and film speeds that best suit the piece.

The photographer conducting this free workshop is Paula Goble of Prestonsburg. She is a very talented photographer, who attended the Art Institute of Atlanta for two years. She has been working as a photographer in eastern Kentucky for 18 years.

The Kentucky Artisan Center, in an effort to assist The goal of the workshop is to assist artisans in artisans, is hosting the workshop on July 18 from 10 capturing the perfect photograph of their artwork, so a.m. to 4 p.m. Each participant is invited to bring his or her own camera.

> This is a terrific opportunity for any artisan, so please pass this message along. If you would like to register or have any questions about the workshop, call the Artisan Center at 606/785-9855.

USDA is addressing civil rights issues

by DAN GLICKMAN

US AGRICULTURE SECRETARY

A few months ago in this column, I discussed some of the progress we had made to improve our civil rights performance at USDA. But I want to revisit this issue, because it is so important and because the pursuit of civil rights is an ongoing journey.

On June 29, I gathered USDA senior management. administrators, human resources staff, civil rights and other employees at the Whitten Building in Washington, where I gave a speech about that civil rights journey. But for those of you who could not be there or haven't had the chance to access the speech on USDA's website, I want to share some of my thoughts

I'm proud of our civil rights accomplishments increased farm lending to women and minorities; more contracts awarded to socially disadvantaged and minority firms; a landmark legal settlement; and greater diversity in the USDA workforce, among other things

But this is no time for a victory lap. There is plenty of work still to be done, and I am committed to pushing this issue relentlessly during my remaining months in office.

I have announced several new steps that will further advance the cause of civil rights at USDA. We are going to increase accountability, making it more difficult for people to use the civil rights settlement process to avoid disciplinary action. We will be hiring outside contractors to help us manage the overwhelming backlog of civil rights complaints.

We will be sending outside investigation teams into selected areas to closely evaluate civil rights compli-

Lighten up

It has been a while since I yukked it up. I've been much too serious in the past few columns. Time to ease up.

For the first time in a long while I visited my parents this past weekend. I truly enjoyed visiting.

One of the things I got to do was attend my former church and meet some very old and dear friends. As the service went along, the pastor eventually got up to speak.

As the scurry of little ones occassionally distracted the solemnity of the words, in that rush someone passed gas. I attempted to be an adult and kept my silence, but in truth I was quite alarmed.

My daughter was nearly bent over in silent laughter as was my baby sister, who is 26. I was in shock. A quick observance revealed that no other children were snickering and the sound seemed to have come directly from the front.

Had it been a crime scene and I were an officer of the law, I would have arrested the pastor for suspicion of flatulence. The more I thought about it, the funnier it seemed because the preacher didn't miss a beat. He kept talking as if nothing had happened.

That is one of the major reasons I couldn't be a pastor. If I had broke wind while teaching, the incident would not have just "passed." I would have keeled over in embarrassment. Or if someone else had done it, I would have made a comment in some way, shape or form.

To quote the song "Jumpin' Jack Flash" - "It's a gas, gas, gas."

Our Lord certainly has a sense of humor. It is evidenced not only by the way certain things pass our way but by just how important we make ourselves.

I can't count the times I have driven out to work and was cut off by someone in traffic. In each situation I was more than likely to consider the cutoff a confrontation.

I would either speed up to beat the guy, flip him or her my IQ while honking the horn, or be dumb enough to think he or she cut me off deliberately.

I recently watched a television minister describe this situation. He of course was admonishing viewers to think Godly.

"If someone cuts you off, let them go on. You win," Pastor Casey Treat said. Instead, Treat said we hold our hand showing our IQ to them and say "You're number one, you're number one."

Isn't life a lot less complicated than we make it?

Many of us enjoy watching the Discovery Channel. Comedian Bill Engvall described the discovery of an a ancient porpoise that was broadcast on the Discovery Channel. The porpoise had in essence an overbite.

Of course Engvall made light of the fish by calling it a dork fish, but God has created many comical animals. For instance have you ever truly looked at the face of a giraffe? It is by design

Have you ever listened to a mocking bird? One nested beside my house can imitate a cricket. I don't know where he is going with that sound. I believe most crickets live in the ground so forget stealing a nest or a mate.

But I thought if God gave animals a sense of humor, this guy would be hilarious. This bird could play tricks on all the birds making them gather together to

Pendleton officer is state

A Pendleton County police constable has been selected as Kentucky's finalist and Honorable Mention Award winner by the National Associaton of Police Organizations (NAPO), sponsor of the Seventh Annual TOP COPS Awards.

Police Constable Peter O. Samples was selected for his immediate and decisive actions against a threat placed by Daniel Justice on July 9, 1999. Following an informant's tip, Police Constable Samples arrested Daniel Justice for threatening to kill a dis-

He then obtained a search warrant and went to Justice's house to investigate reports that Justice was preparing pipe bombs to bring to his appearance for charges of Wanton Endangerment at the Pendleton County District Court.

Upon arriving at Justice's house, Samples, with the help of other police and fire rescue squads, found and detonated two pipe bombs located inside a duffle bag in the Justice's family vehicle. found, as well.

Because of Samples' commitserves, casualties were prevented and a threat to the community and its judicial system was removed.

"I accept this award on behalf of all police officers who put their lives on the line every day, and especially those who have paid the ultimate price by having been killed or injured in the line of duty. I am overwhelmed emotionally by this recognition and thank my fellow police officers and the National top 10 cases.

MSU students have on-line advantages

Morehead State University stu- online from their student web dents may now access services with account," she said. ease through convenient, state-ofthe-art systems.

Students can compete a variety of routine academic and administrative tasks on the university's web site with immediate interactive feedback, according to Beth Patrick, assistant vice president for information technology.

"The system was designed to provide access to routine services. and information on a convenient 24-7 schedule," Patrick said, "The online, interactive admission process and course scheduling option eliminates the need to visit campus offices to complete the enrollment and registration

MSU students were first introduced to the web-based services as an option in the fall of 1999, when they were able to pre-register for spring 2000 classes.

Using an official program-ofstudy check sheet, the online registration program will electronically advise the student whether the courses selected will qualify for credit under their current degree program.

The system also will perform various online verifications, for prerequisite and required courses. before accepting thee student's schedule request.

Acceptance of the web-based student services has been overwhelming, with more than 72 percent of the current students activating their personal web account since the new site was brought online in the fall of 1999, Patrick

"In addition to enrollment and registration, students attending MSU this fall may apply for and verify the status of their financial aid, apply for housing, order textbooks, drop or add courses, receive grade reports and degree audit checksheets, and pay their fees

Implementation of the webbased student services system was the result of an on-going reengineering project designed to improve services to students, Patrick said. Like ATMs, pay-at-the-pump gas stations and self-service grocery check-out lines, routine student services literally will be available "at the fingertips" of Morehead State students.

Other services in the planning stage include a new OneCard ID system. Scheduled to begin in the spring of 2001, the OneCard is a credit card-sized ID card that, with the aid of an embedded microchip and magnetic-strip technology, will store information that will facilitate financial, security and service transactions throughout campus facili-

"The proposed OneCard will have the ability to function as a student meal card, library card and door key, and will hold balances for petty cash that can be used in campus vending machines, laundry facilities, copy and laser printer stations and the campus bookstore,"

"In time, students will have the option of using their OneCard as an ATM card and debit card for banking services," he said. Additional information on the new services is available from Patrick by calling 606/783-2447.

These structural changes are successor on the important issues important, but civil rights begins with basic human relations, whether it's a manager communicating with his or her staff or an FSA county employee explaining our programs and services to a family farmer.

Ultimately, for any policy or process to work, we have to treat each other with decency and respect, seeing past each other's differences. How we treat each other defines who we are Ultimately, I believe that the employees and customers of USDA will hold the next Secretary's feet to the fire, and the next one and the one after that if necessary, until this journey is complete.

USDA's work is critical. We help our farmers and ranchers compete in a complex global economy. We help provide struggling rural communities with adequate housing and safe drinking water. We provide food assistance to people who have no other place to turn.

At the Forest Service, our firefighters throw themselves in harm's way to protect life and property. Our food safety inspectors help ensure that the meat and poultry on American dinner tables is safe to

With all of these critical functions and more, some of them involving life and death, we simply cannot afford to allow civil rights problems to interefere with our work. So while this is about justice, it's also about our ability to meet our commitments to the people we

The "Sight for Students" program helps children across the United States whose parents work, but are ineligible for government support and cannot afford the eye examinations and eyeglasses they need. The program hopes to serve up to 50,000 children a year.

The "Sight For Students" program is timely in Kentucky since it is the first state in the nation to require an eye examination by an optometrist or ophthalmologist prior to entering public school for the first time.

The law goes into effect July 15, so all children entering school for the first time this fall will have to meet this requirement. A free eye examination and glasses, if needed, can be provided for eligible applicants.

(NAPSA) - Face to face, through newspapers and magazines, over the airwaves, through cyberspace, one organization that has always given support and information about multiple sclerosis (MS) is the National Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic disease of the central nervous system that is devastating because it's impossible to know when attacks will strike, how long they'll last, or how severe they'll be.

In 1999, the Society devoted $24 million to fund over 300 MS research projects internationally, and committed nearly $72 million to support service programs to help those with the disease lead more fulfilling lives and to educate caregivers and health professionals about the disease. The programs are always welloved ones. "When I was diagnosed with MS three years ago, I was scared and confused," says one 28year-old woman. "Families are affected because MS starts in the prime child-raising years and careers can be radically altered."

She continues, "I'm just glad the National Multiple Sclerosis Society was there for me. Through its programs I've learned about MS and how to live with it, and today my family and I are doing better than

The National MS Society also offers a full complement of literature and educational programs to assist primary care physicians, neurologists, nurse practitioners, and other health care professionals.

Facts About The

THE REBUILDER OF A NATION!

NEHEMIAH, OF THE TRIBE OF JUDAH, WAS OFFICIAL CUP-BEARER TO KING ARTAXERES OF PERSIA. THE JEWS, HAVING BEEN TAKEN CAPTIVE OUT OF JUDEA ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS BEFORE BY KING NEBUCHADNEZZAR, HAD RISEN TO HIGH PLACES IN MANY INSTANCES, BECAUSE OF THEIR TALENTS. NEHEMIAH, BORN IN CAPTIVITY, ROSE TO THE LEVEL OF CLOSEST ROYAL ADVISER IN THE ENTIRE KINGDOM. IN 445 B.C., HEARING OF THE DESPERATE PLIGHT OF THE FEW JEWS LEFT IN JERUSALEM—A RUINED CITY OF CRUMBLED WALLS AND BROKEN GATES, COMPLETELY AT THE MERCY OF ROVING BANDS OF CUT-THROATS AND THIEVES WHO TERRIFIED THE COUNTRYSIDE - NEHEMIAH GOT PERMISSION FROM HIS KING TO GO THERE AND TO REBUILD ITS WALLS SO THAT THE INHABITANTS WOULD HAVE PROTECTION AGAINST MARAUDERS. A PERIOD OF TWELVE YEARS ELAPSED, FROM THE TIME HE ARRIVED IN THE CITY, UNTIL THE DEDICATION OF THE REBUILT WALLS (432 B.C.). BUT BEYOND JUST REBUILDING JERUSALEN'S WALLS, NEHEMIAH COMPLETELY RENEWED THE JEWISH NATION AND REVIVED IT'S RELIGION, THE TEMPLE, AND ALL THE ANCIENT CUSTOMS AND MOSAIC LAW! AN EXCEEDINGLY DIFFICULT TASK, WHEN ONE CONSIDERS THE MANY STRATEGEMS AND TRICKS EMPLOYED BY NEAR-BY PETTY KINGS TO PREVENT JERUSALEM FROM RISING TO ITS FORMER STATUS FALL OF WHICH IS EXCITINGLY RELATED IN THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH.

three campus locations. The main plans. campus is located at 513 Third St. in Paintsville. It has been in this same location since 1938. There is an extension located at 150 Industrial Park Rd. at Hager Hill.

The third campus is located at 120 Riverfill Dr. in Pikeville, This Pikeville Campus is a branch campus, housing both Mayo Technical Prestonsburg College and Community College. Students can apply, pay, test, and enroll at either Paintsville or Pikeville locations.

Evening and night classes are available in many of the program areas. More are being added or will be added this year as we fully settle into the Pikeville facility and expand the Paintsville staff.

You can find out about these classes by calling 789-5321, ext. harold.burton@ketes.net.

process by completing the online application you also find on that webpage. You will be notified of what steps you need to do next by the admissions staff.

The entrance test is given every Monday and Tuesday at 8 a.m.

You just need to come to campus before 8 a.m. and be ready to test. All test materials will be provided. If you have ACT scores of 16 or higher in the last five years, you can be enrolled without taking the entrance test.

Information, please

An Informational Day is being planned for July 15 at Wal-Mart in Paintsville, Prestonsburg, and Pikeville from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Personnel from Mayo Technical College, Prestonsburg Community College, and the Pikeville Campus will participate. The goal is to provices.

At each location, there will be , drawings for scholarships for new students. Details have not been finalized regarding eligibility for the drawings, but they will go to new, students. This is a project initiated by the regional Enrollment. Management Team whose membership consists of personnel from Mayo, PCC, and the Pikeville Campus.

KNAT classes

KNAT (nurse aide/orderly)classes will start August 15 at Mayo. The course fee is based upon either 75 hours tuition or a flat rate of $200. Liability Insurance of $12 must be paid. Textbooks are about $40. Students must have TB skin test certificate and up-to-date immunization certificate on first day of class. Students will meet in Building D Room 201. Class days are Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. for 5-1/2 percent of all driving is done at night, but the darkened hours account for 55 percent of traffic fatalities. To help improve nighttime driving conditions, automakers are turning to military technology-infrared "night vision."

One system uses a small, infrared camera-mounted inside the car's grille-with more than 76,000 detectors, each responding electrically based on how much radiation it receives.

The camera interprets the heat and other cars, and projects their images onto a section of the windshield. The images appear in the same relative size and position that the driver would see if the objects given off by pedestrians, animals were visible. The more heat an object gives off, the whiter it appears.

Another method, called "active illumination," sends out infrared signals, and interprets the bounceback to illustrate objects. Instead of looking far beyond the normal field of vision, this system instead enhances the perception of the area covered by normal headlights.

Drivers who have such systems installed would be able to turn them on or off, and adjust the intensity and positioning of the images for maximum safety on the

Hearing loss-What you should know

(NAPSA) - If you're suffering from hearing loss, you're not alone. More than 28 million Americans, about ten percent of the population, are suffering along with you. The encouraging news is that more than 95 percent of hearing-impaired people have correctable hearing loss.

Yet only 20 percent of those people who need a hearing aid have one.

Fortunately, digital technology is powering a new generation of small, discreet hearing aids that combine comfort and convenience. The smallest and most sophisticated of these is Sonic Innovations' CONFORMA. reported to be the only personalized, high-performance device that is instantly available to patients after a single office visit with a hearing care professional.

Hearing care professionals report that CONFORMA's soft shell molds itself to the shape of the wearer's ear canal, providing a custom fit with every use. The device fits deeply within the ear canal-so deep that it will go seemingly unnoticed, largely eliminating the social stigma of wearing a hearing aid.

How Do You Know IF You

HAVE A HEARING LOSS? Hearing care professionals say that often, the first sounds which 'disappear" are those in the higher frequencies, which are most highpitched. Other symptoms of hearing loss include difficulty hearing in public gatherings, hearing the television and understanding conversation within a group of people.

If you suspect you have a hearing loss, get checked as soon as possible. For more information, contact Sonic Innovations at 1-888-678-HEAR www.sonici.com

School board members are silent on evaluation for superintendent

The often delayed and long-awaited evaluation of Magoffin County schools superintendent Henry Clay Sizemore came and went last week without much public promotion and even less information.

Magoffin County school board members, meeting in special session last week, critiqued Superintendent Sizemore's job performance in private and kept their discussion private.

Magoffin Board members, who were required to complete the evaluation before July 1, completed the task last Thursday in executive session to kick off business planned for the special meeting.

The school board remained in private session for about 15 minutes before re-opening the meeting to the public and other school officials. Upon their return from closed session, board members did not discuss anything about the session in public.—The Salyersville Independent

Attorney General Ben Chandler cable television channels. announced that on June 28, five Hardin County residents were charged with four felony and two misdemeanor counts.

Ronnie Stillwell, Stillwell, Robert R. Richev Jr., and Joseph K. Portman have each been charged with one count of theft of services, a Class D Felony.

Additionally, Ronnie Stillwell is charged with a misdemeanor count of possession, use or transfer of a device for theft of telecommunications services, and Kristi Carey is charged with a misdemeanor count of criminal simulation.

It is alleged that Ronnie Stillwell used a computer and illegal software to reprogram Digital Satellite Service (DSS) cards. Ronnie Stillwell is accused of reprogramming cards for himself, his brother, Roger Stillwell, Robert R. Richey Jr. and Kristi Carey to obtain illegal Ronnie Stillwell allegedly received approximately $1,240 in services for eight months, while Roger Stillwell allegedly received approximately $930 in services for six months. It has not been determined the dollar amount of services Robert R. Richey Jr and Kristi Carey allegedly received.

Joseph K. Portman had in his possession an illegal programmed DSS card that was used to obtain $1,085. Portman received his card at a separate location.

Trading stocks on-line is straight-forward, but has pitfalls

Trading stocks on-line is as rela- ing for fun and profit, there are tively straightforward as the television commercials depict, but there are pitfalls that potential e-traders should avoid, advises University of Kentucky finance expert Paul

For instance, the professor said e-trading is so easy and provides so much information, stock buyers and sellers might get carried away, financially speaking.

"Sometimes more information is good and sometimes it can rattle the investor's cage," Childs said. People can get caught up in the short-term market fluctuations and can make decisions that are not good for their long-term financial health.

Expectations about investment returns can lead investors astray, too, he said. People who are just getting into the market and are anticipating returns of 20 to 30 percent on their investments as have been seen in recent years are apt to reap more disappointment than double-digit profits, Childes observed. Historically, long-term stock market returns fall in the 8-12 percent average.

A very good use of computerized financial services, Childs said, is the ability to track and maneuver money held in mutual funds such as retirement accounts. Most mutual fund companies (such as Vanguard, Fidelity, American Century and most others) have Web sites where an investor can regularly check their investment growth and move funds from one area to another, such as from value to growth stocks or overseas investments.

But whether the investor is monitoring retirement funds or invest- important costs.

some decisions they should make before hitting that "send" button. Childs suggests the following:

· Decide what package of services best suits your needs and shop the best price among the dozens of companies offering the service. For instance, is the buyer looking for indepth stock analysis or just a cheap service for buying and selling. Fees vary with the services offered.

· Set limits on the amount of money you want to spend on

. Determine if you want to have funds withdrawn from checking accounts for regular mutual fund investments. (Childs said he has such an arrangement that is quite convenient, but requires close attention when balancing the check-

HAP defeats Morgan County to move on to championship round

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

In a game played under cloudy skies and muggy temperatures, the Harold-Allen-Prater 9- and 10-year-olds defeated Morgan County 12-10 to advance into the championship round against Paintsville. The HAP All Stars jumped out a 3-0 advantage in the top of the first inning, maintaining a lead or tie throughout the entire game.

HAP third baseman Nick Akers got the vistors on the scoreboard with a first-pitch single. With two outs in the inning, the HAP-enforced damage was just getting started. Clean-up hitter Colby Hayes came up and singled, scoring Akers from third.

Tyler Hamilton continued the HAP-attack with an RBI single to score Hayes. Hamilton would come around to score before the inning ended, giving HAP a three-run advantage going into the bottom of the first inning.

After holding Morgan County scoreless in the bottom of the first, HAP went back to the well, plating three runs on two hits. Brandon Case made his way around the base paths, reaching base after being hit by a pitch. Nick Akers got his second single of the game on a 1-2 pitch that would score Case from second. Colby Hayes also collected his second single of the game, scoring along with Scott Little, who had reached on a walk one batter earlier.

The number three was a lucky number for the HAP All Stars, as they would score three runs in each of the first three innings. Clay Jamerson provided a big hit from the bottom of the order, a single that got HAP started on their way to another three-run inning.

With a runner at second, Brennan Case came to the plate looking to move the runner up, or possibly drive him home. Case had one strike against him before driving one into the gap for an inside the park home run scoring Jamerson from second and pushing the HAP lead to nine.

A LOOK AT SPORTS ...

Martin has tough act at Thunder Ridge Speedway

This weekend the Thunder Ridge Speedway will host its sixth annual Thunder Ridge 100 and will award cash prizes totaling over $50,000. Wow! That's a bundle.

A lot of hard work goes into a production such as the Thunder Ridge 100. No, I don't have first hand experience with a show of this magnitude, but I have seen some of the behind-thescenes work and you could tell that it is not easy.

Brad Martin has been track promoter for the past four years at the local stock car track. He has had to be able to keep the drivers happy and returning weekend after weekend. After all, if you don't get the cars, you don't get the fans.

While the biggest show of any race night is the late models, the modifieds have become more popular, seemingly, this season than in previous years.

At Thunder Ridge, because of the economics of the sport, the late models do not get to race every weekend.

Therefore the track does not get all the fans they want each weekend. But there has always been some exciting dirt track racing at Thunder Ridge.

I remember when the facility first opened and the excitement that was in the air over such a facility being part of the entertainment grid in our county.

Chris Blair was the track's first promoter and what a job he did. Chris made sure the media was informed about what was going on at the track and even wrote the stories himself. He was a good track writer. He furnished us with pictures and driver profiles.

Chris left for bigger grounds as he was snatched up by a bigger track.
Others have held the job at Thunder
Ridge as track promoter. I can say, with all those I have known, the job is a tough act and not as easy as one would think.

Often you are misunderstood, and not too popular simply because you made some wrong judgments.

Race fans have a tendency to forget that promoters are human and prone to make bad calls and wrong decisions.

I think Floyd County has the nicest dirt track facility around, and it should be supported by those who are local drivers. I know. I know. Some decisions that were made do not set too well with some drivers and therefore they go looking for another track. At the other track you are welcomed with open arms and treated like royalty — until you are a person.

I like Thunder
Ridge. Now, I don't have a car running there but I enjoy (when I can make it)

going there and just visiting with the drivers, looking at their cars and watching them race.

I have to admit, I am not an allnighter. I cannot remain at the track until the wee hours of the morning. Way back, there was a time I could. But that has been several years ago.

I wish I could go and remain through all the features. I really do. Now, of late, Brad has had the order running through pretty good and fans are getting home quicker. That is good.

I look forward to being part of the mixture this Saturday night (weather permitting). I hope to get some interviews with drivers and just rub elbows with the big name drivers as well as those whose names are not so well-known.

I hope the track is packed with excited fans and that the rest of the year will be an exciting time.

The Thunder Ridge 100 will bring a lot of folks to our area. They will come from all over. It will help our local econ-

SPORTS EDITOR

Shannon Thornsberry, Chuckie May, Paul Harris, Brandon Kinzer, plus many, many others will be just a few of the local drivers who will join others from across America for the sixth running of the Thunder Ridge 100 at the Thunder Ridge Speedway.

All the action gets the green flag tonight and will conclude on Saturday where the winner of the late model Thunder 100 will receive a check for $10,000.

Track Promoter Brad Martin has been working hard in alerting drivers from other parts of the big race date at the local track.

Tonight's grid shows qualifying runs for the late models as well as heat races, with drivers jockeying for the pole positions at the start of the race.

In fact, tonight will feature qualifying races for all classes as well as heat races.

Saturday evening all the marbles will be on the line for the 100-lap feature. The gates will open at 5 p.m. each night with hot laps scheduled for 7 p.m. and racing at 8 p.m.

Saturday night's lineup will begin with a bomber feature followed by the late model consi. The UMP modified will follow and the winner of this feature race will take home the $3,000 purse. Look for a lot of modifieds for this one.

After the modifieds will be the Thunder Ridge 100 and it is expected to be a great show. The super bomber feature will conclude the night of racing.

Friday night will feature a live band and dance. Also on Friday night, fans will be able to get autographs of their favorite drivers.

The late model feature will play $6,000 to the second-place finisher and third place will receive $5,000. Each driver will receive $300 to start. The feature race will pay back 24 places. Drivers in the modified class will receive $125 to start.

Martin said he expects the biggest names in dirt track racing to be on hand for the upcoming race.

Donnie Moran is last year's champion and is expected to be back and defend his title.

Drivers like Jackie Boggs, who has had a lot of success at Thunder Ridge and is the 1998 champion, will also be on hand. Throw in past winners line Billy Moyer (1995), Rick Aukland (1996) and Freddie Smith (1997) and Profanity is to sports what Wrigley is to chewing gum.

A good cussin' can be heard around ball fields, courts and gymnasiums the land over whatever the level of play involved. Coaches do it, players do it and fans do it. So what's the big deal?

Several weeks ago the television sound crews got too close to Tiger Woods on the 18th tee at the Pebble Beach Golf Club during the second round of the U.S. Open Championship. What their shot mikes picked up was some rather blue language which reached the ears of no few youth watching the broadcast of the tourna-

Although Woods later apologized for his outburst, the damage had been done. Historically, the USGA and PGA Tour administrations haven't imposed penalties for such breaches of etiquette and sporting conduct.

But then again, neither do any of the other fun and games organizations. A couple of years ago Pittsburgh Steelers head coach Bill Cowher came home after a game to a rather chilly reception from the wife and family. Come to find out about it his children, who had been viewing the festivities on TV, observed daddy dear stalking sidelines and clearly directing a sullied diatribe at a nearby official. It was a humbling experience indeed. That's when Cowher took

'My kids could read my lips during a closeup shot", he said. "I hadn't thought about that and was embarrassed. And if my kids can do it so can other young people around the country. Ever since then I've made it a point to put a muzzle on my lips. You never know when the camera's watching'

One of the worst mouths in sport belonged to John McEnroe, a Hall of Fame tennis player of a decade ago. His tirades against referees and linesman were prime time stuff and no onlookers could have been in doubt as to what was being enunciated. Right behind him were the likes of Jimmy Connors and Ilie Nastase.

Did the tennis authorities do anything to discourage this behavior? Nope. To this day McEnroe and Connors are still at it as members of the senior tour. Given this dubious example, many a tennis-oriented youngster followed suit, tossing, bouncing and bending racquets in a display of ire all the while loosing epithets learned from Rod Laver, one of the greatest tennis players of all time and ever a gentleman, said, "McEnroe played with more intensity than most of the othersduring his era. He would have been an interesting player to watch without his antics. And in fact his behavior did give him a higher level of exposure to tennis. But you have to ask yourself at what price? It brought a kind of baseball atmosphere to the game and I don't think we want to attract that kind of

When pressed for his personal reaction to McEnroe's tactics, Laver replied. "I would be mortified to do such a thing. Quite frankly, it's just not in the spirit of the game."

Tight shots of heated exchanges betwixt umpires and such as Billy Martin and Earl Weaver never failed to be enlightening. Dugout shots also provide excellent learning material for the young and uninitiated. Not only does the lip synching leave little to the imagination, be the culprits players or coaches, but the sight of pumping fingers adds no little visual punctuation to the proceedings.

Long-time National Football League official Pat Harder once observed, "In the heat of battle tempers are bound to flare and people will say things without much thought. But some guys are just prone to being potty mouths. I don't think that should be tolerated and I wasn't one to accept it."

Bring up the subject of profanity in organized sport and the result is usually a lot of shoulder shrugging. Common retorts are "Hey, it's all over the movies and television. People are used to it now.'

Aren't folks in the sporting spotlight supposed to be role models? On one occasion Hall of Fame pitcher Bob Gibson said "A boy's father should be his role model. Not me"

What an answer. Click off the remote and play catch with the kids instead. And watch change take place.

Beaver

Neil Allen reached on an error charged to the Paintsville shortstop to put two runners on with no outs. Zack Bradshaw collected the first Beaver Creek RBI of the contest, driving in Lafferty for the first Beaver Creek score of the night.

Second baseman John Hall kept the Beaver Creek inning going with a single and RBI followed by a Casey Tackett walk that drove in the fourth run of the inning.

Up until the fourth frame Paintsville pitcher Geoff Fairchild had not found himself in trouble, allowing only a couple of Beaver Creek base runners. The fourth inning proved to be something he hadn't seen all night. Beaver Creek discovered where the pitcher was throwing the ball and caught up with his pitches, leading to a Center fielder Anthony Conn had the final base knock of the inning, a single to right field scoring Tackett. The Conn single gave Beaver Creek a four-run lead going ino the bottom of the fourth.

THe Paintsville All Stars matched the Beaver Creek run total in the bottom of the fourth, plating five runs on five hits. Lafferty pitched from behind in the count all inning long, eventually giving up a hit or a walk.

The big blow of the inning was a Tate Harmon triple, good for two runs batted in. Paintsville's Brandon Gullett, Aaron Hackworth, Paul Browning, Chris Hurt and Harmon would all reach base and score in the inning, giving Paintsville all they would need going into Tuesday night's restart.

The anticipation was high for the Beaver Creek team when play resumed Tuesday night. Coaches, players and fans alike felt that the Beaver Creek team was capable of beating Paintsville. After all, Beaver Creek had proven that that the night before when they jumped ahead by four runs in the top of the fourth.

Hitters came to the plate Tuesday for Beaver Creek, and hitters sat down for Beaver Creek. Geoff Fairchild's pitching was much more crisp Tuesday night than it had been Monday, and the defense behind him sure didn't hurt any. The Paintsville team played error-free throughout the entire game.

Beaver Creek got a runner on in the sixth, but did little to advance him. Neil Allen drew a walk, only to run into a force play at second to end the inning.

Following the mild Beaver Creek threat in top of the sixth, Paintsville bounced back to add a run in the bottom of the inning. Second baseman Chris Hurt went around to score on a Dustin Hall fielder's choice.

Six players came to the plate for Paintsville in the inning. One; third baseman Ryan Jarrell, reached on a Beaver Creek throwing error that advanced the goahead run to third.

Beaver Creek's hopes of staying alive in the Senior League tournament came down to the top of the seventh. Beaver Creek needed at least two runs just to get to the bottom of the inning.

John Hall and Casey Tackett stood at first and second with two outs in the inning. Right fielder Lance Collins came to the plate and had two strikes against him before being hit by a pitch to load the bases. Thomas Nelson came to the plate lofting a two-strike pitch into the gap in right-center. The ball looked to be falling in for an extra base-hit just as Paintsville's Dustin Hall cut the ball off for the final out of the game and the District 7 Championship for Paintsville.

One big inning in each of the two games with Paintsville put the Beaver Creek team down to a point where they couldn't find a way back. Take out the one inning in each of the two games and Beaver Creek could very easily be in the position Paintsville's in now District 7 Champions.

With two outs, Tyler Hamilton came to the plate hoping to get something going for HAP. Hamilton played heads-up baseball taking third and scoring two batters later. Nick Johnson drew a fourpitch walk and scored after two swipes of his own to give HAP two runs in the inning, all they would need to secure the win.

HAP pitcher Colby Hayes had struggled somewhat through the second, third and fourth innings, allowing 10 runs on nine hits. Although allowing two base hits and a walk in the final inning, he came on strong, getting two of the last three hitters he faced to ground out. securing the 12-10 victory.

Hayes faced a total of 32 Morgan County batters in six innings of work, alowing a 10 runs on 14 hits, four of those runs being earned runs. The HAP pitcher struck out four and walked three on the day.

The Harold-Allen-Prater victory moved the team order to win the tournament championship, HAP would have to beat undefeated Paintsville twice. All of the Little League All Star tournaments are played under a double elimination format.

The 2000 season will be the last year of the present alignment of districts and will see a big change in the year 2001.

The 2000 season brings a lot of optimism as well as expectations as the teams have yet to take their first Optimism can be based on different things such as a new coach with a new system and coaching philosophy. Other incentives include a new player, a returning player who had to miss last year or one who has developed into quite a player.

For the Allen Central Rebels, they have a legitimate chance to compete for a state championship in the eight-man format. Barred from competition last year in eight-man, the Rebels will return and will be one of the top programs in the state. Of course, there are only eight teams which play eight-man foot-

The Rebels, denied an opportunity to return to district competition this year, will automatically be back there in the year 2001.

The front line will be a big plus for the Allen Central program plus some good returning talent in Brandon Sizemore, Nick and D.J.

Betsy Layne and Coach Ted George cannot wait for the first kickoff of the 2000 season and Coach George is very optimistic this time around.

Why not? He has one of those players who has shown he can play although he has never played before. Basketball standout Brock Keathley has joined the forces of the Bobcats and Coach George likes what he has seen thus far.

"I told him if he had played football the first three years of high school he could be a Division I player," said the Betsy Layne mentor. "He is that good. We are excited about having Brock playing this season. He has good hands and will be one of our receivers. He may see some time in the backfield as well."

Another basketball player, Nathan Tackett also is a member of this year's football team.

Prestonsburg High School will not have a new football stadium when the 2000 season kicks off and neither will they have one when the season ends in October. But the Blackcats are going to be an improved squad and their best time could be in 2001 when this year's sophomores are juniors.

Coach John Derossett had an outstanding group of freshmen last year and, as sophomores this season, they will have to grow up fast if Prestonsburg is to avoid another 3-8

The Blackcats will play their home games at home despite the condition of the stadium and what is going on around it.

Work on the new stadium has begun with the removal of buildings on the purchase property. While the regular season is being played, work around the facility will continue until the season ends in October. Completion of the field is expected in August 2001.

Coach Derossett will return last year's starting quarterback in Austin Clark, who went behind center after three weeks of the season last year. The backfield lost Hank Mullins to Pikeville College but will return Matt Slone and a corp of good young runners.

South Floyd is late getting ready for the season but a new coach is in place in the person of Nathan Jones from Dayton, Ohio.

Coach Jones said he is eager to get started and expects good things from this year's squad.

"That's the kind of comments he's getting, and that kind of gets on my nerves," Michael said. "It doesn't seem well.'

Darrell Waltrip, indeed is deserving of a better send-off than his

With 84 wins, Waltrip is third on the all-time NASCAR win list.

The elder Waltrip, who as a youngster dreamed of suiting up to play basketball at the University of Kentucky, found his calling as a race car driver, and NASCAR would never be the same again.

Sure Darrell Waltrip has provided race fans with many memories of championships and wins over the years, but his contribution to auto racing doesn't stop there.

Waltrip moved to Franklin, Tenn., to further his racing career and also changed his life in other ways. Some of those changes were spiritual changes and the beginnings of Motor Racing Outreach (MRO), an organization that brings religion to the track on Sunday and even has its own chaplain, Max Helton. Waltrip and his wife Stevie were two of the original six members of the board of directors.

Waltrip took a break from his farewell "Victory Tour" earlier this year to serve as an advisor for the Kentucky Speedway now open in

Among other hats Waltrip has worn during his storied racing career is that of car owner. A few years ago farewell tour has witnessed thus far. he owned his own race team and planned to make it a family operation, perhaps with brother Michael piloting the car to victory lane down the road. It wasn't to be. Things didn't work out and Darrell had to sell

What does the great one plan to do after the farewell tour bids its last goodbye? He's contemplating writing a book or two.

"Yeah, there's a book or two in my future," Waltrip said. "I just haven't wanted to do that while I was still competing. You don't want to write a story until you've got the

NASCAR Connection

Like father,

NASCAR has long identified itself as a family sport where sons follow in their fathers' footsteps or brothers follow brothers into the

This past Sunday at New Hampshire there were former Winston Cup champions Ned Jarrett and Dale Earnhardt's sons Dale and Dale Jr. in the starting field along with five sets of broth-

The family ties don't just exist on the track, they also go into the garage area where fathers and talents to their sons and brothers. At the present time no family in the garage area has a higher visibilty than the Parrott family.

The patriarch of the family, Buddy Parrott, has obtained legresume that reads like a fairy tale. Buddy cut his teeth in the sport in 1970 when he started working for one of the all time great mechanics, Harry Hyde. That same year Hyde's driver Bobby Issac won the championship. After that Buddy became one of the hottest commodities in the garage area. His first crew chief job came in 1975 and he soon found himself working with big name drivers like Buddy Baker, Richard Petty, Darrell Waltrip and Rusty Wallace. During this time, Buddy's son, Todd, was beginning his education in the garage with Petty Enterprises and Wallace's Blue Maxx team that brothers have also passed on their won the championship back in

Todd moved with Wallace in 1991 to Penske South and was joined the following year by his father, who assumed the role of Wallace's crew chief. When Buddy endary status in the garage with a came to Wallace's organization, he hired his younger son, Brad, to become the tire specialist.

The family affair in the garage went about showing the series the Parrotts knew their business as they helped Wallace win 18 races during the 1992-93 seasons. The sons were also taught the importance of getting their driver in and out of the pits in a hurry as Wallace's "Over the Wall Gang" became one of the first in the sport to start turning out pit stops in the 16-second range.

Buddy moved on and is now team manager for Jeff Burton and Mark Martin, but Todd and Brad remained with Wallace. Robert Yates was wanting to start a second team in 1996 and named Todd as his rookie crew chief to work with veteran driver Dale Jarrett. Yates' faith in Todd didn't take long to pay dividends as the Jarrett/Parrott combination won both the Busch Clash and the Daytona 500 to start the season.

When Todd was hired, one of his first people he employed was his brother, Brad. He made Brad the chassis and tire specialist on the team and later his top assistant as the two were on their way to winning the Winston Cup Championship last year.

Just how good a job Brad does with the tires and chassis set up on a car can be traced back to the off years that Rusty Wallace experienced when Brad left to join his older brother. Wallace will be quick to tell you that when Brad left it took his team a couple of years to get to where they could duplicate the setups that Brad always put under the car.

During the past four-and-a-half years that Brad has been with Jarrett's team, just like father he became a hot commodity in the garage area. He had been offered seven different crew chief jobs before finally accepting an offer last week from Cal Wells' PPI Motorsports to become crew chief for rookie driver Scott Pruett.

Although he is only 32, Brad brings the experience of working with two of the best in the business in his father and brother. The experience will be put to the test as Pruett has failed to qualify for three races and finds himself in 38th place in the points standings.

AVID Pearson, Cale Yarborough or Dale Earnhardt? Those were the driver choices team owner Rod Osterlund gave Lou LaRosa in 1979 for their Winston Cup team.

LaRosa, the chief engine builder for the team, decided to take a chance on the upand-coming Earnhardt.

Obviously, it was a great choice. The brash Earnhardt won Rookie of the Year honors in 1979, and in 1980 claimed the first of seven Winston Cup championships

"I really liked the kid," LaRosa recalled in the Peter Golenbock book "The Last Lap." "Dale was a smart-ass, aggressive, cocky. He didn't give a [expletive], he was going to the front.

Twenty-one years and more than 650 Winston Cup races later, some things haven't changed. While the older and wiser Earnhardt may not be as sassy as he was as a rookie, at 49 years old he hasn't lost the intensity that has defined his career. And he's still going to the front.

Considered washed up by many - something he's heard on more than one occasion - and not a legitimate threat to win another Winston Cup championship, Earnhardt is proving the doubters wrong.

Midway through the 2000 season, the driver of the No. 3 Goodwrench Service Chevrolet is looking for a record-breaking eighth championship.

He's done so in a manner that has been indicative of his entire career - with consistency more so than wins.

Following Sunday's race at New Hampshire International Speedway, Earnhardt was second in the points race just 45 behind leader Bobby Labonte.

"I've got a job and an opportunity to win that eighth championship. That's what we're focusing on. That's what we're driving for," Earnhardt says. "We're doing it with a more solid team than I've had in past years.

"I may have been hurt for the last two years and working with pain and stuff and didn't realize it until it got worse and worse. I had to have something to do about it, That's all in the past. It's over. We're healthy. The team is healthy, Everything is there. Now it's ours to capitalize on, and move forward and get those top fives.

Earnhardt hasn't really been in a championship hunt since 1995, when he finished second to Jeff Gordon, who won his first title. Then, Earnhardt steadily dropped from the ranks of the elite, finishing fourth, fifth and eighth the next three years. Last year, however, despite finishing seventh, Earnhardt grabbed three wins - including a sweep of Talladega - and looked more like the man considered by many to be the greatest in the sport's his-

Earnhardt has admitted that injuries suffered in the past at Talladega may have had something to do with his subpar performances.

'After the crash in Talladega, I was bruised up a year with my sternum and my collarbone. I probably hurt my neck then. Maybe another crash at Talladega in '97 aggravated it more," Earnhardt says. "It finally started putting pressure on a nerve and started causing a problem. Surely '99 was a terrible time, a terrible aggravation for me, but I got through it and got fixed. Now in 2000 I'm perfect, other than I need to tighten up the gut a little bit."

There's no doubt Earnhardt has a rekindled glimmer in his eye. In past years he's overcome new crew chiefs, injuries and the longest winless streak of his career. Now not only does he talk about an eighth championship, but of even more years on the racetrack.

"I've got four years of racing left, at least. Who knows, I might even drive another car with my own team. I'm not ruling anything out." says Earnhardt, who has won six of his championships while driving for Richard Childress. "If physically and mentally I can't do this, if I can't go down in the corner and drive competitively with the next guy and beat him or win a race, that's going to [deter-mine when I stop]. Your reflexes and health or whatever is going to tell on you. I don't see it happening in the next three

In those next three years, however, he does see an eighth championship.

"Winning [No. 8] is our next goal," Earnhardt says. "Guys play in the minor leagues and never get to go to the majors. Guys get to race in Busch or the [Craftsman] Truck series and never get an opportunity to drive a Cup car. I'm there. I have the opportunity. I'm not content with not winning. If somebody tells you I'm riding my years out, they're not paying

Not again

OMEONE once told me hat sports are not life or death. That person lied to me. Kenny Irwin's tragic death at New Hampshire International Speedway is just another harsh reminder that sport as we once knew it no longer exists.

There's no such thing as a noncontact sport. There is no finesse only power and speed. Safety is only a relative term. How safe can someone truly be when driving 160 mph or faster and coming an inch or less from solid concrete and 40 other cars driving just as

NASCAR, like every other sport that witnesses a tragedy, will investigate. It will make some changes. It will, without a doubt, put forth the effort to make sure these deaths do not become commonplace

But will it make a difference? It might. But what can you do to save a driver when his body comes to such an abrupt stop? The human body isn't designed to withstand such impact.

But the saddest thing of all is that most fans get their biggest adrenaline rushes when they see an accident. A race, they say, is boring without one. Kind of like a hockey game is boring when the gloves don't come off, or a fight is a dud when there are no knock downs or KOs. Just look at the television highlights. If you're not watching everyone hit home runs, you're watching them fight, get hit and get hurt.

No, sports may not be life or death. But for many, it is their life, their wholeness, their spirit. Unfortunately for Kenny Irwin, a young guy who should have had many years ahead of him, sports was his death as well.

Our thoughts and prayers go out to all those who knew Kenny and loved him. My prayers also go to NASCAR. While I use a lot of space giving NASCAR a hard time I know NASCAR will do what it takes to make sure this doesn't happen again. - Track &

I would be hard to imagine Mark Martin being any more dedicated tothe sport he loves so much.

But with the announcement of Pfizer as his primary sponsor for the 2001 Winston Cup season, Martin says he hopes he can help other people.

Through the new sponsorship by the Pfizer product Viagra (sildenafil citrate), Martin will raise awareness of men's health issues.

"It is a perfect fit for me," Martin says. "I've been an advocate for men's health for years. Now I have a sponsor whose company goal is to help people live longer and healthier lives. Many men don't hesitate to make sure their car's maintenance is up to date, but they will put off seeing their doctor for years

"I believe a year or a year and a half to me from a fan that says thank you for saving my daddy's life, or my husband's. That's very possible and that's important. To me, what's really important is what you can do.

Martin began a relationship with Pfizer at the beginning of 2000 by becoming a spokesman for its Men's Health Tune-Up for Life program. The program was created to help educate men and their partners about common medical conditions by offering free health screenings at NASCAR Winston Cup events, Martin, Bobby Labonte and Rusty Wallace have been the company's spokesmen.

Martin has endured a great deal of pain over the last year. He had back surgery and spent most of his off-season laid up. So the veteran driver certainly understands the importance of men's been going through less pain this year than last. Even though his numbers may not be as impressive in the standings, he's certainly enjoying the year more.

"Well, I did a lot more smiling the first half of this year than last year,' Martin says. "Even when things weren't going good on the racetrack for us. Injuries are one thing, and having back problems or broken bones, that's one thing, and that's why I'm so excited to get chosen to be on the men's health initiative.

"Everything else I've ever done in motorsports, I've tried to sell the fans something. I never [had the chance] to give them something that could possibly make a difference in their whole quality of life, so I really think there's something special about that.' Martin says the best thing about his new sponsorship is the fact that it's already part of his lifestyle.

"I just think that this is a neat opportunity for me to come in here and really go full force. It fits me perfectly,' Martin says. "I don't have to change my lifestyle. I can set the example. It's not something I say that I do that I really don't do. It's a cause 1 believe in, and I think it's neat to be associated in this way.' ValVUIIII Mark Martin

'Village' is more than gift mart

Story and photos BY PAM SHINGLER Leisure Times Editor

Pioneer Village is a good place to go to find crafts made by local artisans, but it's also a good place to see how houses were made by our Appalachian ances

The growing complex is located in long, narrow Rainbow Hollow in the community of Red Fox, near the Knott/Letcher county line.

The historic buildings were moved to the site when Carr Creek was to be flooded to create the lake of the same name. The log cabins date far back into the

The gift shop, chockablock with crafts, is in the old Francis Cabin, a two-story, former house of massive timbers. A path up the hollow leads to the Johnson Cabin, which reportedly has set in four counties, moving only once.

Visitors can tour the Johnson Cabin, after spending themselves (and likely their money) in the Francis Cabin shop. A shelter is available for picnics and

On the first Saturday in October, a Civil War encampment will be a featured part of an Octoberfest celebration on the grounds.

Under construction is a country store that will sell foodstuffs, including specialty items such as jams and jellies, according to Lynn Adams who operates the Four rooms in the Francis Cabin, as well as the wraparound porch, are full of handcrafted items, ranging

Salome's Stars

ARIES

(MARCH 21 TO APRIL 19)

This might not be the right time to move a relationship to another level. Keep it light for now, and wait for a more favorable period to ask for a commitment.

TAURUS

(APRIL 20 TO MAY 20)

Your determination pays off as your ideas find a receptive audience. Be flexible about making changes. You have a lot of people pulling for your success.

GEMIN

(May 21 To JUNE 20)

A health scare turns out to be more dietary

Subscribe to the Floyd County Times, call 886-8506 for details than dire. It might be an allergy or a temporary upset, but have it checked out. Vacation plans might have to be changed.

CANCER

(JUNE 21 TO JULY 22)

A disagreement between you and a coworker could come to a serious confrontation. Before things get out of hand, ask an impartial third party to mediate.

LEO

(JULY 23 TO AUGUST 22)

Your sense of style gets you noticed by the right people at work. However, you need to back up your style with substance in order to get that promotion you're seeking.

VIRGO

(August 23 to September 22)

A so-called friend turns out to be the source of the problems in your relationship. Make your explanations to your partner and then hope for the best. Cut all ties with your oncetrusted pal.

LIBRA

(SEPTEMBER 23 TO OCTOBER 22)

An attempt to re-establish an old friendship runs into difficulty when your old pal insists on living in the past while you prefer to move on.

SCORPIO

(OCTOBER 23 TO NOVEMBER 21)

Planetary movements affect your energy level. Consider making a temporary switch from energy-intensive activities to something less demanding.

SAGITTARIUS

(November 22 to December 21)

Family matters take precedence in the early part of the week. Later, you get good news about a once-rocky relationship that has now stabilized.

CAPRICORN

(DECEMBER 22 TO JANUARY 19)
Your vacation plans could run up against someone else's plans for your time. Before you say no, it might pay to listen to all the facts.

AQUARIUS

(JANUARY 20 TO FEBRUARY 18)

A family dispute forces you to examine where your loyalties should lie. Best advice: Instead of taking sides, work to bring the parties together.

PISCES

(FEBRUARY 19 TO MARCH 20)

A career change you once considered and then dismissed has unexpectedly opened up again. You might now feel you're more prepared to make this move.

YOU WERE BORN THIS WEEK: You can be alone if you have to be, but you much prefer being with people — and fortunately, people love being with you.

Village

from traditional dolls to decorative canes to floral arrangements to quilts.

The craftspeople — 168 altogether — offer their works on consignment, according to Nan Feltner, an artisan herself who works at the shop parttime. Her specialties are dried apple rings, wreaths, potpourri, and edible-looking salt dough pastries.

Represented are crafts from Knott, Letcher, Perry, Leslie and Floyd counties. Prominently featured are candles made in Floyd County by a duo that bills itself as McKenzie & Pack.

Adams said she is "always looking at new crafters."

Visitors to Pioneer Village have come from every state, as well as countries in Europe and Africa. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, 1 to 6 p.m.

p.m., and Sunday, 1 to 6 p.m. For information about the crafts/history complex, call 606/642-3650.

Directions

From KY 80, take KY 160 to Hindman, on around Carr Fork Lake to KY 15, Go south on KY 15 (toward Whitesburg), for a mile or so. Pioneer Village is on the left. Watch carefully because it's easy to miss.

Mind over matter

Remember the old saying, "Age is just mind over matter, if you don't mind it doesn't matter."

To that I say, "Phooey!" With all the illnesses my friends and family have been experiencing lately. I've found that this adage is a farce

Age DOES matter - much more than I'd like to admit, I just didn't know how much until my sister and friend, Susan, in San Francisco, decided to send me two mind provoking e-mails in one week. I hope you will find them as interesting as I have:

THE BENEFITS OF GROWING OLDER

In a hostage situation you are likely to be released first.

It's harder and harder for sexual harassment charges to stick.

Kidnappers are not very interested in you.

No one expects you to run into a burning building

People call at 9 p.m. and ask, "Did I wake

People no longer view you as a hypochondri-

There's nothing left to learn the hard way. Things you buy now won't wear out.

You buy a compass for the dash of your car. You can eat dinner at 4:00.

You can live without sex but not without glasses.

You can't remember the last time you laid on the floor to watch television.

You consider coffee one of the most important things in life. You constantly talk about the price of gaso-

You enjoy hearing about other people's oper-

You get into a heated argument about pension plans.

You got cable for the weather channel.

You have a party and the neighbors don't even realize it.

You no longer think of speed limits as a chal-

You quit trying to hold your stomach in, no matter who walks into the room.

You send money to PBS.

You sing along with the elevator music.

You talk about "good grass" and you're referring to someone's lawn.

Your arms are almost too short to read the newspaper,

Your back goes out more than you do.

Your ears are hairier than your head.

Your eyes won't get much worse.

Your investment in health insurance is finally beginning to pay off.

Your joints are more accurate than the National Weather Service.

Your secrets are safe with your friends because they can't remember them either.

Your supply of brain cells is finally down to a manageable size.

IF I HAD MY LIFE TO LIVE OVER

(Written by Erma Bombeck after she found out she was dying from cancer)

I would have gone to bed when I was sick instead of pretending the earth would go into a holding pattern if I weren't there for the day.

I would have burned the pink candle sculpted like a rose before it melted in storage.

I would have talked less and listened more. I would have invited friends over to dinner even if the carpet was stained or the sofa faded. I would have eaten the popcom in the "good" living room and worried much less about the dirt when someone wanted to light a fire in the fire-

I would have taken the time to listen to my grandfather ramble about his youth.

I would never have insisted the car windows be rolled up on a summer day because my hair had just been teased and sprayed.

I would have sat on the lawn with my children and not worried about grass stains.

I would have cried and laughed less while watching television and more while watching

Oscar-nominated Buena Vista Social Club celebrates legendary Cuban musicians

Guitarist Ry Cooder's 1997 Grammywinning album, Buena Vista Social Club. brought together several legendary Cuban musicians - many in their 80s and 90s and nearly forgotten in their own country - and put them in the spotlight again.

Airing Wednesday, July 19 at 9 p.m. on KET and Thursday, July 20, at 8 p.m. on KET2, Buena Vista Social Club, A Presentation of PBS Showcase, celebrates the group members' extraordinary talent and rich Cuban heritage as it documents the making of their successful Latin album and subsequent world tour.

I would never have bought anything just because it was practical, wouldn't show soil, or was guaranteed to last a lifetime.

Instead of wishing away nine months of pregnancy, I'd have cherished every moment and realized that the wonderment growing inside me was the only chance in life to assist God in a mir-

When my kids kissed me impetuously, I would never have said, "Later. Now go get washed up for dinner."

There would have been more "I love you's." More 'I'm sorry's."

But mostly, given another shot at life, I would seize every minute, look at it and really see it, live it, and never give it back.

No Way — An Insincere Lawyer! Attorney Michael Lazaroff, 50, pleaded guilty in St. Louis in June to federal charges that he gave clients extravagant gifts over the past seven years, totaling $380,000, but then surreptitiously inflated their bills with phony charges in order to make clients pay for their own gifts. Lazaroff's "generosity" included concert tickets and trips to Las Vegas.

Lost in the public debate over whether DNA testing should be done on death-row convicts is the case of Texan Roy Criner, now 33, who is in no danger of execution but has been imprisoned since 1990 (sentence: 99 years) for rape, despite a subsequent DNA test concluding that the sperm in question was not his. One appeals court had overturned Criner's conviction even before the DNA test was performed, but the state's highest court reimposed the conviction, and in interviews with the PBS TV program "Frontline" in January, Judge Sharon Keller of that court said that Criner was nonetheless properly convicted even though the sperm did not match.

Recent Names in the News

Mr. 99 Daniel McGill (on occasion of his marriage in March, Knoxville, Tennessee); Mr. Will Wynn (who promised his supporters he would win a city council seat in Austin, Texas, and who, in May, did win); Mr. Chunky Click (defeated for re-election in June as sheriff in Carlsbad, New Mexico); Ms. Priscilla Feral, president of the group Friends of Animals (protesting mistreatment of gophers during a June festival in Viola, Minnesota).

The Continuing Crisis

Britain's national patent office disclosed in March that it had received a first: poet/waitress Donna Rawlinson MacLean's application for a patent on herself. MacLean told The Guardian newspaper that her application qualifies (that she meets the legal standard of "novel" and "useful"): "It has taken 30 years of hard labor for me to discover and invent myself, and now I wish to protect my invention from unauthorized exploitation."

Latest Feng Shui Developments: The San Francisco Chronicle profiled astrologer/psychic Eloise Helm in March, just after she upgraded her speciality to "international feng shui consultant," which she noted was a more lucrative calling (at the going Bay Area rate of $1,000 per client). She has rejected tarot cards for a "feng shui compass" to see whether harmony is breaking through in a room. And author Alison Daniels assured reporters earlier this year that her book "Feng Shui for You and Your Cat" was not a parody, that in fact cats are natural practitioners of feng shui, and that cat owners should pay attention to cats' judgments (in that many common cat behaviors, such as climbing curtains, are just reactions to the presence or absence of energy streams).

Pedro Valls Feu Rosa, a state supreme court judge in Brazil, has developed the artificial-intelligence software program Electronic Judge so that clerks operating laptop computers at the scenes of traffic accidents and other disputes can dispense even-handed justice by inputting facts and having the program reach judicial decisions instantly. According to an April report in London's The Independent, most parties seem satisfied to have their cases tried while they are still fresh, with witnesses present, but the inventor acknowledges that his program is not appropriate for cases requiring complex interpretations of the law.

Several press accounts from Cambodia recently reported on the emerging preferred form of retaliation by that country's spurned boyfriends; to splash battery acid in the woman's face. A Deutsche Presse-Agentur story found a dozen victims in Phnom Penh during the winter. A similar but short-lived fad

New children's show brings "out-of-this-world" approach

A new children's series from a star far, far away has landed on public television. Designed to entertain and educate children age two to five.

The Dooley and Pals Show combines live action with 3D animation, dozens of original songs, talented children and lovable space creatures.

The Dooley and Pals Show, airing Saturdays at 1 p.m. beginning July 22 on KET2, is a unique children's series built on the concept of education through entertainment and discovery.

With its colorful cast of characters — the loveable alien Dooley, his robot buddy M.A.R.T.I.E and space creatures Cosmos and Zoom — The Dooley and Pals Show combines music and dancing with life lessons and social skills appropriate for kids in this age group.

Dooley is a friendly alien who lands in the back yard of an Earth family and quickly makes friends with the family and neighborhood children. On a journey of discovery, Dooley recruits the children as his guides.

Empowered by their roles as "teachers," the kids teach Dooley valuable lessons and share information through play and song. The children actually become role models, demonstrating the value of knowledge and the joy of sharing.

A major strength of The Dooley and Pals Show is its foundation for development. Grounded in developmentally and educationally appropriate early-childhood practice, each episode uses strategies proven to be effective in stimulating young children and facilitating age-appropriate learning.

The Dooley and Pals Show is a production of Victory Entertainment in association with South Carolina ETV.

Because of the nature of deadlines, I'm unable to hold this column for confirmation of whm the 'mystery departee" from "The Bold and the Beautiful" might be. But by the time you read this, that person's identity will be revealed.

In other news from the soap front, Steve Burton, who stars in Steven Spielberg's upcoming series, "Semper Fi," reprises his role as Jason on "General Hospital" for six weeks starting August 25.

Cole James, son of Jess Walton (Jill, "The Young & the Restless") joins his mom's soap in the recurring role of Wes.

David Hasselhoff, who played Jill's brother, Snapper Foster, on "Y&R" (1975-82), is an international star courtesy of his series, 'Knight Rider" and "Baywatch.' But as he once told me: "My dream is the dream of every actor. No matter what else you do, you hope to do Broadway at least

Now that dream could come true. If negotiations work out,

Norton diabetes and endocrine center offers tips on traveling with diabetes

Travel, be it for leisure or business, is an experience that people with diabetes need not miss. And, with a few extra preparations and advance planning, you can go anywhere in the world,

The Norton Diabetes and Endocrine Center offers the following guidelines* to help make your trip more enjoyable and safe.

 Always plan ahead and take more supplies than you will need. This will prevent running out if you extend your trip or encounter unexpected delays.

What you will need:

✓ Twice the supplies you need for trips less than a week and one week extra for longer trips.

✓ Insulin, syringes, swabs, glucometer and ketostix (if applicable), along with some form of identification stating that you have diabetes and a list of your medications and dosages.

✓ Extra food in case meals are delayed or missed (not in your luggage).

✓ Extra prescriptions, motion sickness pills, medicines for possible vomiting or diarrhea, glucose tablets.

Traveling by car? Plan for car trouble, long stretches without rest, and delays.

What you will need:

✓ 10 grams of carbohydrate every hour to guard against low blood sugar and insulin reactions. (Fruit, crackers, or glucose tablets).

✓ Don't keep insulin or glucometer supplies in areas of the car that can become very hot or cold. If you're comfortable, it is safe.

In-flight injections

When injecting in the air, the only difference is to inject about half as much air into your insulin bottle as you normally would. The difference in pressures (cabin is lower) doesn't require as much air.

Insulin does not need to be refrigerated. It will "keep" at room temperature for several months. It is affected by extreme temperatures

Other Considerations

You may need to increase the number of times testing your blood sugar as stress and excitement may affect glucose levels. If your levels are high, increase exercise and reduce carbohydrates. Ask your doctor for guidelines to increase or decrease insulin while traveling.

Activities—exercise burns sugar. Decrease carbohydrates when you are being lazy and increase them for extra busy days.

Foot care:

- ✓ Never go barefoot.
- ✔ Practice good foot care.
- ✓ Don't wear new shoes for more than an hour the first day. If you plan on walking a lot, wear shoes that are broken in.
  - ✓ Inspect feet daily. If you develop blisters do not break them. This can lead to infection.

· Traveling Abroad

To avoid delays explaining your syringes, insulin and other supplies, have a prescription and letter from your doctor explaining that you have diabetes.

Know common phrases such as "I have diabetes," "get me a doctor," and "sugar or orange juice please" in the language pertinent to your destination.

Avoid water in countries like Mexico, Central or South America, Asia, or Africa, because the bacteria can cause diarrhea and make it difficult to balance your insulin and available glucose.

Adjusting meal times and insulin can be done with guidance from your physician.

Festival features farm products, crafts

The annual Mountain Market Festival at Natural Bridge State Resort Park in Powell County is a showcase for local farm products and crafts. This year's festival is scheduled for Saturday.

August 19, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Throughout the day, an open-air market will feature farm-fresh produce, handmade regional crafts, and other local products for sale. Visitors also can learn some of the tricks of the trade from the state park system's renowned cooks in a "chef's culinary corner."

Musicians also will perform at various times during the day.

Then, starting at 7:30 p.m., a square dance will be held, featuring long-time emcee and square dancer caller Richard Jett.

The open-air market, music and dance will be staged in the lower park area around the Hoedown Island pavilion.

Meanwhile, all park recreational facilities will operate throughout the day, including the public pool, nature trails, and pedalboats. The festival is open to the public and is sponsored by the Archway Regional Tourism Association, the county extension offices of Powell, Lee, Wolfe, Menifee, Montgomery, Owsley, Estill and Breathitt counties, and the Tourism Development Cabinet.

For more information, contact Mike Reed at the Powell County Extension Office at 1-606-663-6404 or the staff of Natural Bridge at 1-800-325-1710.

State Fair tickets available at Kroger

Advance discount gate admissions to the Kentucky State Fair are once again available at all Kroger locations in Kentucky and southern Indiana.

Using the Kroger Plus card, fairgoers can purchase discounted tickets, through Wednesday, August 16.

Gate admission pays for all attractions, displays and shows at the Kentucky State Fair, other than paid concerts and evening performances of the World's Championship Horse Show.

In addition, Kroger will also offer discounted Thrillway ride tickets for the Fair. Under the same date restrictions, patrons can buy 30 ride tickets for only $14—a savings of one-third the regular price.

Northern Kentucky qualifies for top destination

The Northern Kentucky Convention and Visitors Bureau has receive notification as an early qualifier for Facilities and Destinations Magazine Top Destination Award.

This distinction is based on reader's choice and is based on the merits of a city in hosting a wide array of meetings and conventions. Association planners evaluated CVB's on attractiveness of destination; accessibility; value; professional service; accommodations; quality of facilities; and community involvement.

Says Tom Caradonio, president of the Northern Kentucky Convention and Visitors Bureau, "It is an honor to qualify for this award so early. It shows that our hard work is paying off, we are meeting our goals as a bureau, and more over, that we are recognized among association meeting planners for providing the service they expect from a Convention and Visitors Bureau."

All CVB winners will be announced in the Facilities and Destinations Magazine's September/October issue.

A Public Voice 2000 asks: Can public schools be saved?

Few public issues are more important to the future health and prosperity of the United States than the condition of our public schools. However, it is impossible to deny that those schools are in desperate shape, failing in their mission as often as they suc-

Hosted by former presidential advisor and NewsHour regular David Gergen, A Public Voice 2000: Public Schools looks at the decline of public schools and examines ways to improve them.

The program airs Tuesday, July 18, at 10 p.m. on KET2.

Beginning with the question, "Is there a way to fix them?" the focus of the program is encouraging constructive dialogue. From focus of the program is encouraging constructive dialogue. From giving parents a choice of schools, to raising standards by stressing basics, to making education a community effort, to providing adequate funding to all schools, the program thoroughly explores solutions to the problems facing schools.

Now celebrating its 10th anniversary, A Public Voice continues to demonstrate that civil and educational political dialogue is necessary to find workable solutions to the nation's problems.

Shaker Village presents music this weekend

A celebration of music of the Kentucky Shakers will be held at Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill, July 15-16. The strains of Shaker a cappella music will be heard throughout the village.

On Saturday, July 15, the South Union Quartet from Shakertown at South Union, near Bowling Green, will perform "Music from the Outer Vineyard" at 11 a.m., 1, 3 and 4:30 p.m. The South Union Quartet is directed by Tommy Hines.

Sunday, July 16, the Pleasant Hill Singers, under the direction of Donna Phillips, will present "Living Souls, Let's Be Marching." Performance times will be 1,3 and 4:30 p.m. The Pleasant Hill Singers are a volunteer group performing Shaker music to a wide range of audiences across Kentucky.

The Shakers are credited with writing more than 24,000 hymns during their relatively brief history. Others called them "Shakers" due to their whirling and dancing during worship, an indication that their songs of worship were lively and spirited.

The special weekend programming shows the variety of music written by the Shakers and performed by two outstanding groups from Kentucky. Visitors have an opportunity to visit the village and hear these special music presentations from 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. both days.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5.50 for youth ages 12-17. For ages 6-11, admission is $3.50 and children under six are admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Visitors may want to take advantage of the cooler temperatures along the Kentucky River by taking a one-hour excursion aboard the Dixie Belle. Combination tickets for village admission and Dixie Belle riverboat excursions are available.

For more information on the Music of the Kentucky Shakers weekend, call 1-800-734-5611.

'Blink' explores roots of racism

Witness the testimony, by turns frightening and heartening, of Greg Withrow, once a rising star in the white supremacist movement, who dramatically turned his back on the ideologies of hate.

In Elizabeth Thompson's haunting new documentary, "Blink," Withrow and those who know him take viewers on an epic journey through the psychological and social realities of white supremacy in America.

P.O.V. "Blink," airing Tuesday, July 18 at 10 p.m. on KET and Saturday, July 22 at 8 p.m. on KET2, is no ordinary media portrayal of personal redemption.

It presents us with an ongoing internal struggle whose outcome isn't certain — for Withrow or for America.

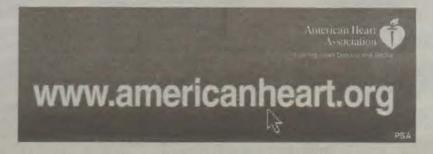

One can quickly see why Withrow would rise to leadership in Tom Metzger's racist skinhead movement or, indeed, in any movement he might join. He is intense and breathtakingly resourceful.

However, Withrow is also angry and prone to violence because he was raised not only to hate nonwhites but also to use violence to motivate himself and to make the world pay attention.

He is also burdened with the feelings of marginalization and helplessness that afflict some working-class white Americans in a rapidly changing and divided society. The catalyst for change in Withrow's attitude was his marriage to Maria, a Latina woman whose family had been the victims of persecution in Nazi Germany. Yet, Withrow's violent tendencies are still quite evident.

The film leaves the viewer wondering just how much this man has changed and, in turn, how much others like him can change.

P.O.V. "Blink, " produced by Elizabeth Thompson, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-ofhearing.

Stars shine in the paid concerts of 2000 Kentucky State Fair

The Kentucky State Fair is adding three more concerts to its already star-studded lineup.

For the first time ever, concert tickets purchased at the Freedom Hall Box Office and TicketMaster locations will include gate admission to the Fair. All concerts begin at 8 p.m.

Excitement will reach a new level when Coors Light presents the cowboy duo of country music, Brooks & Dunn, with special guest star Lonestar in Freedom Hall on Saturday, August 19. Brooks & Dunn has recorded a number of No. 1 singles, including "Boot Scootin' Boogie," "If You See Him/If You See Her" and "My Maria," Tickets to see the duo are $26.

Kenny Rogers and Pam Tillis will wow the crowds in Cardinal Stadium on Friday, August 25. Some of the hit songs Rogers has produced include "The Gambler," "Buy Me A Rose" and "The Greatest."

Tillis has produced her share of hit songs, including, "All The Good Ones Are Gone," "Maybe It Was Memphis" and "Mi Vida Loca."

Tickets to see these two great artists in one show are $22.50.

Euphoria and Hysteria will be running wild on Saturday, August 26, as Def Leppard rocks the crowd in Cardinal Stadium with "Pour Some Sugar On Me," "Love Bites" and "Armageddon It." Tickets to see Dr. Leppard are $22,50.

The Dixie Chicks with special guest and native Kentuckian Ricky Skaggs kick off the concerts of the Fair in Freedom Hall on Thursday, August 17. Tickets are on sale now for $44. Christina Aguilera with special guest Before Dark takes the stage in Freedom Hall on Friday, August 18. Aguilera's tickets are $26 and are also on sale now.

For tickets, write State Fair Tickets, P.O. Box 37130, Louisville, KY 40233 or visit www.kyfairexpo.org.

Hasselhoff will replace Tom Wopat as Bernadette Peters' co-star in the Broadway hit, "Annie Get Your Gun" when Wopat leaves later this year. (By the way, this is the same show in which Susan Lucci — Erica, "All My Children" — won her Broadway laurels when she subbed for a vacationing Peters.)

Forbes March (Scott, "AMC") has reportedly told the soap that he plans to leave the show to attend New York University Film School full time starting this fall.

"AMC" is the only soap that once boasted a Kennedy clan member on its cast list, to wit: Christopher Lawford (Charlie Brent, 1992-97). Now one of the soap's alumni, Daniel Hugh Kelly (ex-Travis) will play Lawford's uncle, President John F. Kennedy, in NBC's upcoming miniseries "Jackie, Ethel, Joan: The Women of Camelot."

Kennedy Smith is the name of the character Linden Ashby (ex "Loving" and "Melrose Place") plays on the new USA Network series, "The War Next Door," kicking off July 23. Smith's wife is played by Susan Walters (another "Loving" and "MP" grad) who also happens to be Ashby's wife in real

MSU announces theatre line-up

Morehead State University theatre students will present four main stage productions during its 2000-01 season: "The Government Inspector," "Quilters," "The Heiress" and "The Secret Garden."

"The Government Inspector," written by Nikolai Gogol and adapted by Peter Raby, will be presented October 12-14, at 8 p.m., in Button Auditorium. This satirical comedy is set in a small town, where corrupt officials mistake a young clerk for a government inspector. The town's officials proceed to bribe him with hospitality, money and the mayor's daughter as a bride. Chaos erupts when they discover their error.

"Quilters," written by Molly Newman and Barbara Damashack, who also wrote the music and lyrics, is set for November 14-18, at 8 pm. and November 19, at 2 p.m. in Kibbey Theatre. This story of a pioneer woman and her six daughters is told through music, dance and drama. It combines a series of interrelated episodes that portray the cycle of life on the American frontier.

"The Heiress," written by Ruth Goetz and Augustus Goetz, suggested by Henry James' novel, "Washington Square, is the schedule for February 20-24, 8 p.m. and February 25, at 2 p.m., in Kibbey Theatre. This Tony and Academy Award-winning drama takes place in mid-19th century New York. A wealthy, young girl falls in love with a fortune hunter and agrees to an elopement. When she discovers his intentions, the young girl seeks revenge.

"The Secret Garden," book and lyrics by Marsha Norman with music by Lucy Simon, will be performed. March 29-31, at 8 p.m., in Button Auditorium. Based on the novel by Frances Hodson Burnett, the play is a classic story of an orphaned girl who is sent to live with her only living relatives in England. The story unfolds with the discovery of a secret garden.

Theatre students also will present three second stage events. The performances, scheduled for Kibbey Theatre, include "An Evening of One-Act Plays," in September, "Cloud Nine," by Carl Churchill, December 7-9, 8 p.m., and "Lives of the Saints," by David Ives, April 19-21, 8 p.m.

"Our student-directed productions provide stimulating, creative experiences for everyone, and raise money for theatre scholarships," Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU coordinator of theatre.

Tickets for the main stage productions are $8 for adults per show and $24 for season ticket holders. For those who wish to become patrons, tickets are $60 for individuals and $80 per couple, MSU students are admitted without charge with a valid LD. card.

Admission to the second stage performances are $3 at the door.

Additional information and reservations are available by calling MSU's Theatre Box Office at 606/783-2170.

Artist Paul Sawyier featured on KY Life

The life of Paul Sawyier, the respected Frankfort, artist whose works can be found in many Kentucky homes, is featured on a special edition of Kentucky Life.

Hosted by Dave Shuffett, the program airs Saturday, July 22, at 8:30 p.m. on KET.

Born near Columbus, Ohio in 1865, Sawyier's roots were in Kentucky, and his family returned to their home state when Paul was a small child.

His prominent family enjoyed a life of relative affluence, residing in a desirable section of Frankfort. Sawyier studied in Cincinnati and New York before returning again to his beloved Kentucky to support himself as an artist. Through archival photographs, re-enactments and interviews with Sawyier scholar Arthur Jones, a picture unfolds of an artist who made a unique contribution to the history of art in America.

One of Sawyier's most popular themes was a covered bridge that spanned the Kentucky River in Frankfort. Another popular setting for his paintings was the Elkhorn River near Frankfort.

Also interviewed in the program are Kentuckians who have original Sawyier works. Several received them from family members who were friends of the outgoing and popular artist. Jones also dispels the myth that Sawyier never enjoyed his fame. In fact, he was able to support himself as an artist in a time when others found it virtually impossible to do so.

Kentucky Life is produced and directed by Joy Flynn. Series writer is Ellen Ballard. Producer for this program is Charlee Heaton Pagoulatas. Craig Cornwell is executive producer.

The program is closed-captioned for the deaf and heard-of-hearing. Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at http://www.ket.org.a Kentucky.com affiliate.

News of the Weird

in 1997 saw dozens of jilted men toss hand grenades at their would-be girlfriends.

The Manchester (Connecticut) Journal Inquirer reported in March that heroin was so cheap in nearby Hartford that one police lieutenant had seen the price as low as $2.50 per dose (a 10th of a gram), which would mean that someone buying it in a convenience store parking lot, for example, would be paying less for it than a pack of cigarettes sold inside.

In March, Remy Bricka set out from Los Angeles to "walk" to Sydney, Australia, using a pair of boatlike skis and a long paddle and towing a catamaran behind him containing supplies and a place to sleep. And in April, Belfast, Northern Ireland, hospital worker Willie Nugent raised money for charity by "swimming" across a river in downtown Dublin, Ireland, despite the fact that he cannot swim; instead, Nugent crawled across a bridge, in movements resembling a breast stroke. (The swimmer made it, but the walker's catamaran was wiped out by a storm on the first day, and he had to quit.)

The Environmental Protection Agency told reporters in May that it could not begin cleanup of the toxic Kim-Stan landfill near Roanoke, Virginia, because whoever owns it has been hiding out ever since a bankruptcy proceeding in 1990. The government cannot legally begin to stop the leaking of cadmium, manganese, zinc and aluminum into the nearby Jackson River without the owner's permission.

Recurring Themes

In 1998, News of the Weird reported on a married couple forced to live apart because the American husband was barred from Canada, and the Canadian wife was barred from the U.S. (both because of criminal records), and who could spend time together only on the U.S.-Canada bridge at Niagara Falls, which they regularly did. Another couple in the same situation apparently had decided a while back that meeting on the bridge was not good enough, and in February 2000, Shawn Gibson was convicted in St. Catharines, Ontario, for the sixth time for entering Canada illegally to see his wife, and sentenced to five months in jail.

Undignified Deaths

A 39-year-old man committed suicide in downtown Tokyo in May by jumping eight flights off of the Keio department store building; he landed on pedestrian Shinya Obata, 27, who was seriously injured but survived. Less lucky was Yang Shuhui, 26, who happened to be walking under where the suicidal Ms. Hsu Tzu-jung, 36, landed in a seven-story March leap in Taichung, Taiwan; both died.

Also, in the Last Month ...

Prince Ernst August of Monaco apologized to Turkey for urinating on its pavilion at an urgent moment in the Expo 2000 World's Fair (Hanover, Germany). The leading national advocate for permitting alcoholics to merely cut back but not abstain was charged with vehicular homicide with a 0.26 alcohol reading (Seattle). Surgeons called firefighters to the hospital to help amputate the leg of a diabetic woman whose titanium rod implant was too tough for OR equipment (Olney, Maryland). Police found three toddlers alone and feeding chocolate to their parents' new pet, a year-old black bear (Lincolnton, North Carolina). After watching her 47-year-old husband get sentenced for DUI, a distraught wife was arrested driving away from the courtroom, drunk herself

(Sanford, Florida).

'Pops' features conductor Williams, LuPone, Yo-Yo Ma

From Star Wars to Amistad, composer John Williams' career has been full of unforgettable scores, unmatched acclaim and numerous major awards.

In 1999, Williams added yet another film score to his résumé with Angela's Ashes, based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning memoir by Frank McCourt.

On Friday, July 21 at 10 p.m. on KET, Williams, the Boston Pops laureate conductor, returns to Evening at Pops along with a star-studded lineup.

Williams conducts the Boston Pops Orchestra in several selections from Angela's Ashes as well as music from Far and Away and his original score for the millennium, "Celebrate 2000."

Also appearing on the program are criticallyacclaimed stage, screen and television actress Patti LuPone and world-renowned cellist Yo-Yo Ma

McCourt also takes the stage, reading excerpts from his memoir.

Evening at Pops, produced by WGBH/Boston and the Boston Symphony Orchestra Inc., is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Documentary looks at women pilots of WW2

While Rosie the Riveter was leading thousands of women into factories to help fight World War II on the homefront, another group of women was also helping the war effort.

But these women were in the air, flying bombers and fighters and facing the same dangers and ordeals as their more celebrated male counterparts.

A handful of glamorous, pre-war female aviators are celebrated in the history books, but the thousands of women from America, Russia and Britain who flew bombers and fighters during World War II have not been acknowledged.

Now, a new documentary on KET2 opens this dusty chapter of history and brings the fascinating stories of these women avi-

Wasps and Witches, airing Friday, July 21 at 8 p.m. on KET2, tells the little-known story of these brave young women, a number of whom died in the service of their countries, some in single-combat dogfights against skilled German pilots.

Many more survived the ordeal to tell their stories.

The program's producers traveled to three continents to find the subjects profiled in this special: female pilots who relate their powerful and, in many cases, emotional experiences.

Auction artifact leads to search for lost culture of Easter Island

For Sir David Attenborough, coming across an old carving at an auction meant more than just finding a nice piece of art. It meant transforming himself into an historical detective on the trail of an extraordinary artifact.

The Lost Gods of Easter Island, a one-hour special airing Tuesday, July 18 at 8 p.m. on KET, takes viewers along as Attenborough attempts to trace the artifact to its original owner, British naval officer and explorer James Cook.

According to legend, Cook received the original carving in 1774 from the native Polynesians inhabiting Easter Island. When Cook's ship arrived at Easter Island, the natives welcomed the crew with gifts and hospitality.

One of these gifts was a wooden statue, which Attenborough describes as a "grotesque head, attached to a body grossly elongated and as thin as a stick."

What Attenborough didn't realize when he bought the artifact nearly 15 years ago, however, was that the statue may be worth more than a monetary figure. It may be a link to an undiscovered

Combining elements of art, anthropology and history against a backdrop of natural history. The Lost Gods of Easter Island traces the origin of the carving

In doing so, the program tells the story of a forgotten civilization and a people who inhabited one of the most remote places on Earth.

Humor adds to Jubilee

The Dry Branch Fire Squad has a solid reputation as an exceptional traditional bluegrass band. Their live shows, however, set them apart from the pack, mostly due to the humor of frontman Ron Thomason.

His "wise fool" persona is the perfect comic foil to the musical mastery the group brings to the stage.

This blend of musicianship and showmanship is sure to delight viewers of the next episode of Jubilee, airing Thursday, July 20 at 10 p.m. on KET. The program was taped at last sungmer's Festival of the Bluegrass at the Kentucky Horse Park.

Jubilee, a KET production in its fifth season, is produced and directed by H. Russell Farmer.

CRITTERS CORNER

mal kidney func-A reader in northern Kentucky tion. asked for some information about dealing with a cat in kidney failure. (OK, so it was cousin Christine, but it nev sounded imprestumors, sive). stones, She defects, toxins, etc. has a 14-But I will limit this disyear-old cat cussion to the renal failure seen in older cats, who was just diagnosed which is mostly a with the disresult of wear and tear order, and is struggling with decion the kidneys over sions concerning his long-term care, diet, and quality of life. This is a fairly common problem among older cats, and I am sure she is not the only reader faced with this problem.

Let's review some of the kidneys' basic functions. I'll try not to make this too boring, but I confess that renal physiology was one of the classes where I had to fight hardest to stay awake. (Renal, by the way, is one of the two medical terms that refer to the kidney. The other is the prefix nephro-, which you see used in terms such as nephritis and nephrologist.)

Basically, the kidneys are filters. All sorts of waste products build up in the blood as a result of normal metabolism. The kidneys, along with the liver, have the job of removing these unwanted com-

A second important function of the kidneys is the ability to concentrate urine if the body needs to conserve water, and to dilute it in instances where there is excess fluid in the body or when there are lots of impurities that need to be flushed out. This is also important in regulating blood pressure.

In addition, the kidneys help regulate the electrolyte balance, involving chemical ions such as sodium, potassium and phosphorous. The relative concentrations of these electrolytes are critical to the entire body.

A compound called erythropoietin, which stimulates the production of red blood cells, is also manufactured by the kidneys.

Some organs, like the liver, have some ability to repair and regenerate themselves when they are damaged. This is not true of the kidney. To compensate, the body is equipped with much more functional tissue than is actually needed. This is why an animal or person with only one kidney can still

Obviously. there are many things that can affect normal kidfunctioninjuries, infections, kidney birth time; they are just wearing out. Dogs develop the same problem, but it doesn't seem to be as common, and there are usually more warning signs.

Cats in general appear to get sick faster and more severely than dogs, and many owners (including my cousin) beat themselves up because they didn't notice the signs sooner. Sometimes this is because the person doesn't know what to look for, but it is often due to the nature of cats themselves.

Dogs are pack hunters, and if a dog is starting to get sick (not really ill, but not feeling well either), he can depend on the rest of the pack to some extent for protection and food.

Cats, on the other hand, are solitary hunters. A sick cat not only can't catch his own dinner; he is likely to become someone else's. For this reason, cats hide illnesses as long as they can, and once a cat is obviously sick, it is likely to be much worse than a dog showing the same signs.

So, what do you look for that might tip you off that your cat is suffering from kidney failure? Remember that these signs may be very subtle, and in an older cat who is slowing down

*Increased thirst and urination. A failing kidney can't get rid of waste products as it should, so these compounds buildup in the blood. This condition is called uremia. The body tries to compensate by drinking more water, which is removed through the kidneys, taking some more of the impurities with it.

· Dehydration. The body is using the fluids it has available mostly to flush through the kidneys, often at the expense of the rest of the body. Lift the skin of a normal car or dog (or person), and it will snap back into place immediately (it may be a little slower in older animals because the skin is less elastic). In a dehydrated animal, however, the skin forms a "tent" that may take several seconds to return to position. The length of time this takes can give you an estimate of severe the dehydration is.

> · Fatigue, depression. appetite. An animal kidney failure has lots of toxic waste products building up in the blood, which can cause him to feel nauseous and just lousy in general. Severe levels of these toxins can even cause neurologic problems such as disorientation or seizures. The animal's appetite is usually poor, and he may be anemic due to poor red blood cell production.

Also, the electrolyte imbalances associated with kidney failure usually result in low potassium levels. Anyone who has overdone their blood pressure medicine and forgotten their potassium supplement can tell you how weak this makes you feel. A cat whose blood potassium is way too low may stand with its neck flexed down and its head almost agent its chest. The medical term for low potassium is hypokalemia.

· Weight loss. This is seen in chronic kidney disease, and becomes more obvious with time.

· Bad breath. Not your normal "tuna breath." This is a different smell, peculiar to uremic animals, and it's almost impossible for me to describe. I'm not good at discerning different odors (which can be a blessing in this profession), but once you've smelled this you will recognize it.

If you notice any of these signs, take your pet in for a veterinary exam immediately. Next time, we'll discuss how kidney failure is diagnosed and treated.
