David resident charged with selling marijuana

A David resident was arrested Tuesday after he allegedly sold an undercover police officer well over $10,000 in drugs in the last two months.

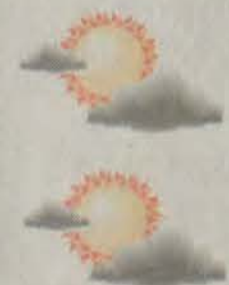

Martin Shepherd, 53, was arrested allegedly selling marijuana to the officer on five occasions.

Shepherd was charged with three counts of trafficking in marijuana after he allegedly made three sales to the officer that were under five pounds. He was also charged with two counts of trafficking when he allegedly sold at or over five pounds of the drug.

According to the arrest citation, those sales began in June. On June 13, June 27 and July 19, the officer allegedly made pur-

"Wash your hands, use Kleenex and keep your hands to yourself," was Kentucky's Commissioner for Public Health Dr. Rice Leach's advice to parents and concerned citizens who attended a town meeting Wednesday night at Betsy Layne Elementary concerning the meningitis situation at the school.

After a parent expressed concern about children putting their mouth on water fountains, Leach added a fourth rule: Keep your mouth off the water fountain.

Raids by sheriff's office net drugs, stolen items

by RANDELL RENO
STAFF WRITER

A weekend raid and an undercover purchase by the Floyd County Sheriff's Office resulted in two men being charged with trafficking in drugs.

Sheriff John Kay Blackburn, Lt. Ricky Thornsberry, Sgt. Shawn Roop, the Lawrence County Sheriff Office and a K-9 unit convened at the scene with search warrants in tow at the home of Charles Diskey in Emma.

The Friday evening raid resulted in the confiscation of an undetermined amount of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Large and small bags of marijuana were found at the scene, said Thornsberry.

Diskey, 42, was charged with trafficking in marijuana, possession of marijuana, and three counts of possession of marijuana.

In another raid, Thornsberry, Deputy Bobby Hackworth and Wayland Police Officer Aaron Kidd were notified of a drug buy in the Melvin area Saturday night. An undercover police officer alleges he made a 10 p.m. purchase of 20 milligrams of Oxycotin, a Schedule II narcotic, from Orris D. "Cotton" Smith, 45, of Dema. The officers met at the Smith home later that same evening with an arrest and search warrants.

A search of the home revealed more of the narcotic and a storehouse of electronic equipment and tools, said Thornsberry.

Officers also searched Smith's mothers home on a tip that he may have stored some items there.

Thornsberry said the tools and electronic equipment were so numerous it could not be packed away in one car. Officers believe some of the items found at the scene were stolen and then used to make drug purchases from Smith.

Smith was charged with trafficking in marijuana and trafficking in a controlled substance.

Further charges are pending in both cases which are still under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Fugitive captured after hit and run

Prestonsburg police officer Ralph Frasure arrested a Dwale man Saturday evening after he allegedly crashed into a car in the Goble Roberts area, fled the scene and then sideswiped another car in Lancer.

Robert Lafferty, 24, of Dwale was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol, leaving the scene of an accident, operating on a suspended license, and disorderly conduct.

Lafferty is accused of hitting a car in the Dixie apartment complex in the Goble Roberts area and fleeing the scene. According to the Prestonsburg Police Department log, a caller reported that Lafferty had taken about 90 pills of an unknown drug before leaving the apartment complex.

Lafferty sideswiped an SUV driven by area pet store owner Penelope Roberts, swerved to turn onto 1428 and plowed into a cliff according to the police report.

Officers Frasure and Kentucky State

Police Trooper Robbie Woods had a short struggle with Lafferty as they attempted to wrest the resistant suspect into the cruiser.

He was taken from the scene to Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Lafferty had been wanted on a bench warrant for failure to appear in court on a separate trial. Lafferty was tried in his absence and given 90 days for attempting to elude a police officer, operating on a suspended license, speeding and resisting arrest.

He was also charged $153.50 in fines and court cost.

Auditor advises tighter controls at KDE

State Auditor Ed Hatchett said Monday that the Kentucky Department of Education's accountability to taxpayers can be restored by implementing additional financial controls and policies.

"We are all aware of the embezzlement KDE has confronted over the last several months. The recommendations made in this report and in our two special examinations can help KDE regain the confidence of Kentucky's taxpaying citizens," Hatchett said.

Hatchett's report found that improper delegations of authority among top-level KDE administrators contributed to an environment in which embezzlement was possible.

In addition, loose or non-existent policies toward co-operatives resulted in the payment of excessive administrative fees and other questionable charges. The report recommends that KDE

- Eliminate improper delegations of authority.
- Establish procedures for cooperatives to follow before they spend funds for KDE programs.

- Require division directors to monitor the financial activities in their programs.
- Tighten controls over the payment of administrative fees to co-operatives.
- Execute uniform master agreements with co-operatives.
- Restrictively endorse all checks when received.
- Employ consistent receipt procedures and effective segregation of duties.

The report also notes that KDE agreed to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in local occupational taxes not withheld from KDE's Ohio Valley Educational Co-operative employees.

It reiterates KDE's responsibility to lapse any unobligated funds remaining at year-end, and once again calls for KDE's appointment of an internal auditor.

Yellowjackets bugging you?

FLOYD COUNTY COOPERATIVE EXTENSION

Yellowjackets with a sweet tooth often are annoying pests outdoors this time of year.

Colonies reach peak size in late summer and foraging activities intensify as workers seek food for developing queens and other members of the colony.

Because workers want a ready source of carbohydrates, they are attracted to sweet foods such as soft drinks, fruits, ice cream and beer.

Yellowjackets will fly down into a soft drink or beer can looking for food; so check these cans if you're eating outside in late summer or early fall.

Workers also scavenge for popular picnic items such as ham, tuna salad and chicken.

Sometimes people mistake yellowjackets for bees; but yellowjackets' behavior and food preferences distinguish them from bees.

Yellowjackets are more annoying than honeybees and bumblebees. Yellowjackets have a persistent habit of scavenging for food at picnics and outdoor restaurants. Conversely, bees gather pollen and nectar from flowers.

The best way to reduce the annoying presence of yellowjackets is to minimize food sources that attract them.

When eating outdoors, keep food and beverages covered until you're ready to eat. Clean up spills and leftovers promptly. Put garbage in a trash can with a tight-fitting lid. If a lid isn't available, put trash in double plastic bags and close them securely.

Avoidance is another way you can eliminate a yellowjacket problem.

Yellowjackets foraging away from the nest are seldom aggressive. They usually won't sting unless provoked. Avoid the temptation to swat at them.

Since yellowjackets are aggressive when in the nest, it's a good idea to avoid nests that are in an out-of-the-way location such as near the roofline of a house. Colonies die in late autumn. The abandoned nests are not refused and soon disintegrate.

Some people are extremely allergic to the venom from a yellowjacket, wasp or hornet sting. You should see a doctor immediately if the sting causes allergic symptoms such as hives, difficulty breathing or swallowing, or wheezing. Use antihistamines and an ice pack to help reduce itching, pain and localized swelling from a sting.

For more information, contact Ray Tackett at the Floyd County Extension Office, 606/886-2668.

State acquires Black Mountain rights

The area near Kentucky's highest peak will be spared from future mining and timber operations, Gov. Paul E. Patton said Tuesday. The state has purchased mineral and timber rights above 3,800 feet on Black Mountain in Harlan County.

"Today marks an historic moment when our Commonwealth has protected the highest elevations of Black Mountain," said Patton. "Future generations of Kentuckians will have the opportunity to recognize the importance of Black Mountain as a priceless natural resource."

The state purchased the mineral and timber rights for around $4.2 million. The 2000 General Assembly approved a bond issue for the purchase of the rights.

The agreement prohibits mining and timber operations above the 3,800-foot elevation, and surface mining in the area between 3,200 and 3,800 feet.

Negotiations for the agreement took more than a year to complete. A group called Kentuckians for the Commonwealth (KFTC) filed a legal petition in 1998 to have the area above the 3,000-foot elevation declared off-limits to coal mining.

In April 1999, KFTC reached an agreement with the other interested parties that called for the state to begin the process of obtaining timber and mineral rights.

Patton said an event to celebrate the agreement will be scheduled later this month.

The parties to the agreement are Jericol Mining Inc., Penn Virginia Corp., The Dale Co., Pardee Resources Group Inc., Pocahontas Development Corp., Jacobe Co., Ark Land Co., Nally and Hamilton Enterprises, Resource Development L.L.C., and Harlan Reclamation Services.

vened at his residence after an alleged shooting incident.

Floyd County Dispatcher Shannon Mynhier was notified of shots being fired in the Garrett area about 9 p.m. Monday evening. Deputies Sgt. Shawn Roop, Lt. Ricky Thornsberry, and Matt Johnson responded to the dispatch which resulted in the former Louisville police officer's arrest.

Several weapons were seized from Conley in the incident. Thornsberry reported there was evidence that shots were fired over some residents. Conley reportedly told the officers he was shooting at some ducks but the ducks and the line of fire were in two different directions, said Thornsberry.

Persons served with an EPO are strictly prohibited from possessing firearms.

Conley, who owns the old Conley Motel between Martin and Allen, was placed under a $2,000 cash bond. The bond was changed to a $10,000 surety bond with the condition Conley completed an alcohol rehabilitation program.

The judge tossed his grandson off the ATV and to the side. But when he attempted to clear the vehicle himself he struck tree and knocked himself unconscious.

Thompson and his grandson were able to walk out of the hills after being unconscious momentarily.

The judge was taken to the McDowell Appalachian Hospital where he was kept for treatment and observation. A preliminary diagnosis said the judge had suffered bruises to his back.

He was released from the hospital Sunday but was readmitted yesterday after doctors discovered a fractured rib and a bruise on his right lung.

Thompson has temporarily moved his office into his hospital room, where he continues to work, said Deputy Judge Brett Davis. He is expected to be released in a couple of days.

The quick thinking judge may have prevented serious injury to his 8-year-old grandson. The child was not hurt in the incident.

Meeting

departments plus a representative from the federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta.

Leach set up one ground rule to start the meeting — to talk about meningitis, but not talk about individual cases.

Juliette Morgan, and epidemiologist from CDC, said both local and state health departments acted according to guidelines. Both she and Leach emphasized that they were not trying to hide anything from the parents, with Leach saying "that would be the dumbest thing we could do."

Leach said he would send his children to the school this fall without immunization, but he added that if his wife said to immunize, he would. He said parents had to make that final decision but from a health provider's standpoint he would not recommend immunization.

Leach said one reason he would be eager to send his children to the school was the excellent scores by last year's third graders who raised the third grade scores by 19 points.

Both Leach and Morgan said that the exact source of the disease would more than likely not be determined. The CDC is working on cultures from two patients, but both said the results would be helpful to the health departments but would not answer many questions that the parents had.

Despite disclaimers by the team that said the topic should remain on meningitis, several parents wanted to talk about dirty bathrooms, use of gloves and hair nets in the lunchroom, and the sewage system at the school.

Glyn Caldwell, state epidemiologist, said all these issues were important but were not likely causes of meningitis and should not be discussed in this meeting.

The new director of the Floyd County Health Department, Thursa Slone, acted as moderator and kept the question-and-answer session moving smoothly. She asked the parents to work with her office on this matter, saying, "It is your health department."

Leach said the teachers and faculty at the school were probably better educated about meningitis than any school in the state. He said they knew what to look for and how to report their findings.

Leach, Morgan and Slone all

promised to keep up the surveillance of the school and act quickly if another case should be reported.

Dr. Paul Fanning said Floyd County schools would open next week and Betsy Layne would be on a regular schedule with the rest of the county.

About 40 to 50 cases of meningitis occur statewide each year. Nineteen have been reported so far this year. Meningitis shows the following symptoms: Fever and body aches (like flu), headache, neck stiffness and rash (much like a blood blister).

Statewide program to be expanded to teach more undereducated adults

Hospitality Television (HTV) has received its fourth contract from the State of Kentucky to expand the School at Work (SAW) program.

SAW, which teaches math and communications skills to undereducated adults, is delivered directly to worksites using a distance learning technique. During the program's three-year history, more than 1500 adults at 160 worksites throughout the state have taken a SAW course.

The program is provided via a partnership between HTV, the state community college system and Kentucky Educational Television.

"We're very pleased with the acceptance of the School at Work program by employers and by adult learners," said Lynn Fischer, founder and president of HTV. "For Kentucky to develop more high-paying jobs we need to increase the education level of our adults, especially those between the ages of 25 and 50. The success of the School at Work approach is proving that this can be done and that we have a chance to achieve the 2020 Vision."

The new contract follows publication of results from the Phase 3 course "Express Yourself! Communications for the Workplace."

A total of 785 people in 82 worksites across the state were enrolled in the course. Participants worked in entry-level jobs in hotels, hospitals, nursing homes, restaurants and schools.

Of the starting group, 73 percent completed the program and 74 percent demonstrated increased knowledge of the subject matter. Behavior changes cited by managers included improved listening skills, improved employee self-esteem and reduced errors in order-taking.

And employees want to keep learning — 88 percent of those completing the courses indicated an increased desire to continue their education.

The Galt House Hotel in Louisville and Moonlite BBQ Inn in Owensboro were two of 37 employers that participated in the Express Yourself course. "The SAW program gives us the opportunity to offer a unique benefit to our employees, which helps in our recruitment and retention of employees," said Linda Lawrence, training director at the Galt House.

Paula Mitchell, who managed the program at Moonlite, said, "We have seen a reduction in errors in carryout. Our employees are listening better and repeating back the order to the customer."

One of the great benefits of distance learning is its ability to increase access to education in the rural areas of Kentucky. Pam Chandler, Title I parent coordinator at Owsley County Elementary School said, "The biggest change that I've noticed through the courses is the increase in participants' self-esteem and self-confidence."

Commenting on the vital role that parents play in educating the next generation, Chandler added, "I've heard comments from the parents that they feel more effective in helping their children with homework, especially math."

The focus of the fall School at Work course will be grammar and business writing skills. Funding is available for 1,300 participants in 136 locations across the State. Pre-testing begins on September 12; the course runs from October 10-21.

Employers who are interested in making the program available at their worksites should contact Tracy Terry at 502/580-2670 or terry@hospitalitytv.com before August 18.

Governor expands Mental Health Commission

Frankfort — Gov. Paul Patton has expanded the Kentucky Commission on Services and Support for Individuals with Mental Retardation and other Developmental Disabilities to include two additional members by executive order.

The two members will represent family members of individuals with mental retardation or other developmental disabilities who reside either in the home of the family member or in a community-based setting or at an institutional residential facility that provides services to individuals with mental retardation or other developmental disabilities.

In conjunction with the executive order, Louise Underwood of Louisville and Lina Byrd of Lexington have been appointed to serve for terms expiring July 15, 2004.

"We feel that adding these new members to represent this critical section of the community affected by the quality and availability of mental health services for their loved ones is in the best interest of the Commission, and will help ensure that the standard of services for Kentucky citizens with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities will be raised," Patton said.

The addition brings the Commission to 14 total members. The initial 12 members were appointed on July 14, in conjunction with House Bill 144, passed by the 2000 General Assembly.

The commission is charged with advising the governor and the General Assembly concerning the needs of persons with mental retardation. Its other duties will be to develop a statewide strategy for the regionalization of those on the waiting list for services, assure equal access in every region of the state; assess the need for specialized outpatient clinics; evaluate the effectiveness of the service delivery system; and develop and recommend a comprehensive ten year plan with funding in the next biennium to begin to address the plan.

About $5 million in state general funds, which, when matched with federal funds, will create more than $16.5 million which will go for community-based services. In the second year of the biennium, those amounts are doubled.

When combined with the federal share, the funding over the two years will create about $50 million in new services.

Groundwater protection plan for heating oil tanks is ready

FRANKFORT — A draft generic groundwater protection plan (GPP) for home heating oil tanks has been developed by the Kentucky Division of Water and is available for review. The division is asking for comments on this draft plan.

Once reviewed and approved, it will join generic plans for residential septic systems, domestic water wells, monitoring wells, water well drillers and poultry facilities on 10 acres or less.

Anyone who stores home heating oil in a 55-gallon or larger tank must develop a groundwater protection plan. The owner or user of the tank may write a GPP or adopt the new generic GPP for home heating oil tanks, once it has been reviewed and approved.

A GPP must list the activities that are being conducted that have the potential to pollute groundwater and give the means that will be used to prevent the pollution from occurring.

A leaking heating oil tank can contaminate soil, groundwater, surface water and private and public drinking water supplies. Many of the tanks installed in the 1950s and 1960s were bare steel and had no corrosion protection, making them vulnerable to leaking.

Even newer tanks may leak if the piping, valves and vents are not maintained. Leaks from aboveground tanks also have the potential to pollute groundwater.

Groundwater is a source of drinking water for hundreds of thousands of Kentuckians who obtain their water from wells, springs and public water supplies. It also provides water for streams, rivers, lakes, ponds and wetlands. Contaminants from heating oil endanger both animal and human health and make water unfit for consumption.

Costs for cleaning up oil-contaminated soil and groundwater can be extremely high.

The draft generic GPP for home heating oil tanks includes practices for maintaining aboveground and underground tanks, ways to determine if a tank is leaking, whom to contact in the event of a leak and how to recognize a potential leak by observing the environment.

The draft GPP for home heating oil tanks may be reviewed by contacting Beverly Oliver of the Groundwater Branch, Kentucky Division of Water, 14 Reilly Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601; 502/ 564-3410. It is also available on the World Wide Web at <http://water.nr.state.ky.us/dow/oil-gpp.htm>.

The comment period extends until September 6.

Youth awaits adoption

A family with whom he can share those "Kodak moments" is what Chris longs for and hopes to have. He has waited a very long time and worked very hard to become the fine young man he is today in an effort to find his adoptive family. It is time that someone took advantage of the opportunity to parent this likable, sincere young man.

Chris is 16 years old and he should be thinking about school, girls, and getting his driver's license, not worrying about if he will ever have a family of his own. As time passes, Chris' desire to be part of a family has not lessened; in fact, it is stronger now than ever before. What may be weakening some are his hopes and his belief that a family will ever be found. He deserves to be part of an adoptive family.

Chris's behavior remains stable and he is doing well in his foster family. He likes to stay busy. Chris continues to be a sports fan. He would love to have a "Dad" who would shoot hoops or go to ball-games with him. Chris is a healthy young man; he does wear glasses to correct a vision problem. Although there are still a few gaps in his development, they have lessened, and the biggest gap he has is the one a family could fill.

Chris will need to maintain some contact with his siblings. Will you be the family to add this handsome face to your family portrait? Anyone interested in adopting Chris or other waiting children must first complete a preparation and approval process. Call 1-800-432-9346 or the local Department for Community Based Services office at 606/886-8192.

It took me 15 years to discover that I had no talent for writing, but I couldn't give it up because by that time I was too famous.

Just do it

The local board has spoken, the state board has spoken and now it is time for the people of Floyd County to speak.

We have made tremendous progress in the county in terms of buildings, supplies and other resources to educate our children. But these things are just that — things. The most sophisticated computer in the world or the most up-to-date textbooks are basically useless unless they are used.

It is time for teachers and students to get in the classroom and follow the Nike slogan — just do it. Let's stop accepting mediocre work as excellent work. Let's challenge our kids and push them as far as we can. Let's use those curriculum guides, programs of study and other documents that help to improve student performance.

Come to board meetings and demand that quality teaching take place in your child's classroom. You deserve it and, more importantly, your child cannot do without it, or run the risk of being forced into a substandard lifestyle the rest of his or her life.

Parents, don't quote grades as a sign that your child is getting a good education. Sometimes good grades indicate a quality education and sometimes they don't. Follow the progress of your child. Ask him or her what took place in class. If the answer is "not much" or "nothing," find out why. If you are told it is none of your business, politely let the person know that it is, in fact, some of your business: it's your child's life.

If you see instances where hiring is done based on personality or favors rather than qualifications, ask about it. You won't be popular, far from it. But do you want to be popular or do you want to improve the chances that your child will get a good education?

Don't be guilty of rationalizing by saying, "Our kids are just as good as kids in Lexington and Louisville." They are just as smart and capable as those students, but we know they are not being educated to the level that students elsewhere are. If you doubt my word on that, just watch what happens to our kids when we send them off to college — many times remediation is part of the student's course work.

Do these things in a calm, civil manner and your chances are better that improvements will be made. Work with teachers, principals and board members, but don't be put off.

Helen Mountjoy, from the state Board of Education, has said that things will be run correctly in Floyd County either from within or from without. Let's show Mountjoy that we are capable of doing this for ourselves, but the fewer people we entrust with this responsibility, the greater the chance for failure and the rest of us also fail because we didn't do our part. It does indeed take a whole community to educate a child, and for the most part, the community has been out to lunch.

Urges support of commandments

Editor:

I would like to urge everyone who supports the Ten Commandments to not crawl into a hole or stick your head in the sand.

This attack against freedom of religion should be a wake-up call. It's time we get the "anti-Christians" out of office. It's the only way we're going to stop the biased decisions against Christians.

We need to support people like Jimmy Green and Darrell Beshears who are taking a stand, and be there to pick them up when they get knocked down. If we lose a battle, don't quit.

Write to the court system that is hearing these attacks before they decide and afterward, also. (Luke 18:15). Remember if we elect enough Christians.

They won't be able to push us in the closet.

People, now is the time to wake up; today it's the Ten Commandments—do you think they will stop there? I wouldn't count on it. Let's get involved now or I'm sure we'll wish we had.

Elected officials shouldn't have to hide the fact that they love Jesus. That is what freedom of religion is all about. Any un-biased person should be able to see the difference between personal religious expression and official establishment (law).

So let us always pray for those in authority. But it is time we take the time to elect those who love Jesus.

Find out about Scouting

Editor:

The fall is fast approaching and the animals are getting restless. The wolves are calling, the tigers roaring, bears growling, and the Webelos, well they just make a lot of noise.

Wouldn't your son like to run with a bunch of wild animals? Then maybe its time for your son to join a pack, a Cub Scout pack that is. Let him make friends, play games, have fun, and take his first steps toward becoming a man. Let your son join the call of the wild, become a Cub Scout.

Every parent understands the value of spending personal time with their children. More than any other youth program available today, Cub Scouting supports parent and son relationships in ways that result in memories of time well spent together.

The Cub Scout program is designed to meet the needs of young boys and their parents. Cub Scouting meets these needs through offering fun and challenging activities that the boys and parents do together. Such experiences range from learning to swim, carrying for animals, using hand tools, or cooking over a camp fire.

Every parent wants their son to have fun experiences in their childhood, but fun alone is not enough. Young boys need safe environment and activities that promote strong values and character. These are the elements that families strive to provide and that Cub Scouting supports.

There will be sign-up meetings for the Cub Scouts during the months of August and September. Specific dates and times will be available by the beginning of August. Any boy interested in Cub Scouts should be in grades 1 through 5, and should love to have fun.

For information about Scouting, how to start a Pack or Troop, or wish to volunteer, call Richard Parish at 606/626-8217 or Dan Miller at 606/277-4849.

Short-circuit the internet tax

by SHELDON RICHMAN

The wish to tax sales over the Internet has only one explanation: greed. I use that word advisedly. It is typically thrown around promiscuously to smear business people who earn fortunes by making consumers better off. That's a bad use of the term.

But if by "greed" we mean the relentless grasping for other people's money without giving value in exchange, then that's the point of any tax on the Internet. This sense of greed describes government to a T.

Do state and local governments need revenue? They are awash in it, thanks to the robust economy in which private citizens are producing record amounts of wealth. State and local sales and income taxes are raking in windfalls because of this productivity. But governments need revenue as drunks need a drink. They can never have enough. Taxation, the forcible appropriation of private wealth, stifles production. The economic novice might point to the boom and wonder how anyone could believe that production is stifled. This is the fallacy of ignoring the unseen effects of government policy. We would be even more prosperous if governments at all levels were not siphoning capital out of the hands of consumer, producers, and innovators.

Some people favor a moratorium on taxes on the Internet for a few years until it matures commercially. After three or four years, taxes would be imposed. That's like taking time to fatten the pig before the slaughter. If taxes are a bad idea now, they're a bad idea later.

Inevitably, the fairness issue has entered the debate. Is it fair, we are asked, that traditional businesses have to charge sales taxes while online busi-

Teacher quality is a must

Would you go to doctor or surgeon if he wasn't trained in modern advances in medicine and surgical techniques?

Would you use the services of an attorney if he did not keep up with the amendments of the law?

With all the advances in technology, would you employ a plumber, an electrician, a dentist, an optometrist, or even an ophthalmologist if they did not know of the most advanced materials or techniques of the trade?

Technology moves the world along. Advances in every form have made college prep courses a must in high schools, high school prep courses a need in the middle grades, and therefore middle school preparation in the elementary schools.

But isn't that what we already do? Recent test scores for the area would suggest otherwise.

While our children spent their summers in relaxation, what did our teachers do?

We more or less put our complete trust in literally hundreds of people everyday. All those who professionally guide our lives have frequent retraining in their profession, refresher courses and informative classes to help them be better on the job.

In every profession we train and re-train to stay at the forefront of the business ... that is except in Kentucky.

Here, our teachers are allowed to strenuously climb out of a four-year institution and into the school system, a place where they enter the ranks of professionalism at the cutting edge. There they begin to slide.

There is no accountability for the lessons taught. There is no answerability for a child's progress or lack thereof. There is no test to determine if the teachers are producing quality in learning.

Our governor, our legislative leaders and our boards of education need to take a stronger stand for quality in the classroom. It would be well worth their time to model a program such as the state of North Carolina has, where the teachers are literally held accountable for student progress.

In any job you must excel to advance or receive rewards but in the teaching profession, the sculpting artists of our children are allowed to stay put while the world moves on. And as parents we accept it.

As citizens we should be appalled. In no other profession would we allow the professional to slide along.

In most things, we require the best in all our lives but we require the least from someone who will affect the lives of our children nearly as much as we will.

Think back. How many teachers do you remember? You can stir memories of the good and bad.

Our state's glorious KERA program has not brought our kids into the mainstream of education. Instead it has reduced rote spelling, destroyed geographical skills, and left the three R's in the recesses of time.

We are wasting our most valuable resource. Sources will tell you that more students are entering the college ranks in Kentucky. I wonder how many of those Certified sign language interpreter Paula Ferrell signs the story of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" at Jenny Wiley Theatre.

Spotlight on sign language

On Wednesday, July 26, at Jenny Wiley Theatre, the story of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" was brought to life not only through the enchanting performance, but also in another unexpected way — sign language.

Certified sign language interpreter Paula Ferrell sat beside the stage throughout the show, signing the story as it unfolded. She also signed for "A Walk in the Sky," which is paired with Hunchback on a two-show bill at JWT. Ferrell's interpretation not only served the deaf people in the audience, but also added a new level of interest to the show for hearing audience members.

Ferrell, who resides in Harold, has a Level IV Certification from the National Association of the Deaf. Ferrell provided sign language interpretation for the July 12 performance of "The King and I," on August 2 for "South Pacific" and on August 4 for "The Legend of Jenny Wiley."

Ferrell's interpreting service at JWT is provided through the sponsorship of Frederick and May Lumber, Bocook Engineering, and Silver Thome Steak House.

JWT offers performances Tuesday through Sunday, with doors opening at 7:30 p.m. and show time at 8:15 p.m. For reservations, call toll free at 1-877-CALL-JWT.

California subscribers to meet

by PAM SHINGLER
SENIOR EDITOR

Charles Garrett was a tad puzzled when the post office sent three copies of the Floyd County Times to his home on the same day.

"I said, 'Why did they send me three copies of the same issue?'" the Bull Creek native said when he visited the Times office on Wednesday.

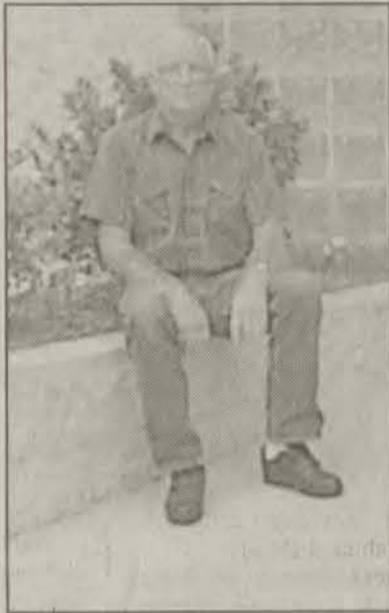

Garrett was back for one of his regular visits to eastern Kentucky from Culver City, California, where he has lived since 1955.

He's a long-time subscriber to the Times, but Garrett knew he didn't need three identical papers.

When he checked the addresses, he found names other than his own. One paper was addressed to Fred Derossett at a Pomona, California, address, and the other to Hal Spradlin in Long Beach.

Garrett was interested in having fellow Floyd Countians nearby, all the way across the country in southern California. He determined to get in touch with both subscribers.

He learned that Derossett is 90 years old and left the Little Paint area in the 1940s. He wasn't able to reach Charles Garrett of Culver City, California, stops by the Times office on a visit back home.

Spradlin before leaving on his most recent trip home, but he plans to call again when he gets back home on Sunday.

Garrett, 69, hopes to get together with both men and exchange stories about their home county.

The Kentucky native has several relatives still in the area, including one sibling, sister Betty Jo Craft, who lives at Goble-Roberts Addition. They are the children of Lee and Sybel Blackburn Garrett.

Garrett, who attended Lower Bull Creek Elementary School, left here in 1949 to join the Navy. A friend in Portsmouth, Virginia, where he lived for a time, told him about the pleasant climate and plentiful job opportunities in California.

"When winter set in, I told my wife, 'Let's get out of here,'" he said. He got a job with a company that made aircraft fasteners and retired after 28 years. He's been retired since the mid-1980s and claims to "love every minute of it."

"I just loaf around, go to bluegrass festivals, and play golf," he said.

He planned to leave Thursday morning for a bluegrass festival near Dayton, Ohio. He said he comes back to Floyd County about four or five times a year.

He travels to music festivals throughout the South and Midwest, where he said he occasionally meets other wandering and transplanted Floyd Countians.

Take the bite out of bee stings

Every summer, more than 25 million Americans are stung by bees, wasps, hornets and yellow jackets. For many, a sting is nothing more than a painful nuisance, but for others, a sting can be life-threatening.

To encourage a safe summer, the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology offers the following recommendations for individuals allergic to insect stings.

- Consult an Allergist regarding evaluation for preventive treatment. Insect sting allergy is treatable with a highly effective vaccination program administered by your local allergist. Anyone who has experienced an allergic reaction to an insect sting (hives, dizziness, nausea, difficulty in breathing or unconsciousness) should see an allergist for evaluation.

- Carry self-injectable epinephrine. Allergic individuals who have not had protective vaccination should carry self-injectable epinephrine (bee sting kits) with them at all times. This drug is emergency rescue medication designed to stop an allergic reaction in progress. Always seek professional medical attention immediately following the use of this device.

- Practice insect avoidance. The risk of an insect sting can be minimized by avoiding the insects and their habitats. Yellow jackets live in the ground and in wall cavities.

students will graduate with honors? I wonder how many will have to take the educational programs just to catch up to basic college algebra or college composition?

Why do our standards remain low for someone who will mean so much to the future of our children? It is time for a change. We do have quality teachers in our school system but an alarming number of those teachers are hanging on to what was considered the forefront of the trade when they graduated college 10-15 years ago.

It is the teachers that have spent their summers updating their minds that will serve our nation the most. It is they who can bring our local educational standards up to par. And the time is now. We can no longer wait and watch our state fall behind and our region return such pathetic scores.

Yes, progress has been made in the area, but there is always room for more.

Rainbows occur when raindrops act as tiny prisms and mirrors to break up sunlight into the colors of the spectrum and send colored light into our eyes.

Hornets and wasps nest in bushes, trees and under eaves of buildings. Use caution in these areas, and never walk barefoot in the grass.

Fragrances used in cosmetics and soaps can attract stinging insects, as can exposed food and beverages at picnics and open garbage areas, so be cautious. For persons interested in more information, a free brochure written by the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology is available by calling 1-800-23-STING. For the name of a board certified allergist in your area, call 1-800-842-7777.

nesses do not? The treatment is disparate, to be sure, but the solution isn't to tax the untaxed. The solution is to untax the taxed! I'm not surprised that state and local officials haven't thought of this.

Government at all levels does too much. It goes far beyond its traditional role of keeping the peace and protecting property. Over the decades government has expanded its scope because it had the revenue to do so. One way to roll back the stultifying power of government is to deprive it of revenue-starve the beast. But while we're finding ways to do that, let's at least not throw the beast any additional red meat. It has its eyes on the Internet; let's make that off limits.

If we're lucky, the offline businesses will respond to the tax-free Internet by demanding that the taxes on them be removed. Maybe the Internet will help spark a broad-based anti-tax movement.

My fear is that traditional retailers will take the short-term easy way out and demand taxation of their cyber competitors. That fear may be unfounded, however, since retailers will increasingly see the value of expanding into online operations, where the tax-free policy will benefit them.

Clearly, governments worry that commerce will shift from storefronts to Web sites and cost them revenue. But it's not their money! It's ours. We don't live and work to serve government. Therefore, government should not eye every technological advance as an opportunity to sink in its fangs and deprive us of our wealth.

As to be expected, someone has even claimed that the tax disparity hurts the poor because they shop online far less than wealthier people do. This is hardly a good reason to tax the Internet, since untaxing retail stores would accomplish the same goal — even-handed treatment of business. Moreover, the logic of the free market is that access to the World Wide Web will become more and more within the reach of even low-income people.

If we are to put this issue into its proper context, we must remember that government is largely in the wealth-transfer business. Most of what it does constitutes a transfer of money from those who earned it to those (not necessarily poor) who did not. In the process, it retards economic activity and innovation, which reduces the improvement of our living standards. The poor suffer from this disproportionately.

For everyone's sake, hands off the Internet!

UK Preview nights to be held across Kentucky

Being a high school senior is all about reaching a final goal, planning for graduation, picking on freshmen, and getting ready to become a green-horn again.

Seniors all across Kentucky are preparing to attend college next fall, and the University of Kentucky is there to help them along the way.

High school seniors, community college students and their parents are invited to attend a UK Preview Night held at 11 locations across the state. Each runs from 7 to 8:30 p.m. local time. The events will be:

- Tuesday, September 5, Ashland Plaza Hotel, Ashland
- Wednesday, September 6, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Prestonsburg
- Thursday, September 7, London Community Center
- Monday, September 11, Prichard Community Center, Elizabethtown
- Tuesday, September 12, Executive Inn Rivermont, Owensboro
- Wednesday, September 13, Executive Inn Paducah
- Thursday, September 14, Holiday Inn, Hopkinsville
- Monday, September 18, Clarion Hotel-Riverview, Covington
- Tuesday, September 19, Radisson Hotel-Louisville East
- Wednesday, September 20, University Plaza and Convention Center
- Tuesday, September 26, Singletary Center for the Arts, Lexington

UK faculty, staff and students will be on hand to speak informally with prospective students concerning their individual interests and questions. A presentation will address common questions on the minds of new students and parents — from financial aid, to housing to student life.

"The preview nights are like one-stop shopping," said Kelly Holland, associate director of admission for UK. "You have a chance to learn about all of UK's academic departments, housing, financial aid, scholarships, career planning, student life, and admission in an informal setting. You'll not find all that under one roof at any other time."

Holland said attending a preview night gives students a good look at what UK has to offer and starts them thinking about their college choices early.

For more information on the events or admission at UK, contact the admission office at 859/257-2000.

Library power expanding

Forward in the Fifth is accepting applications until September 29 from schools that would like to join its Library Power Network.

The Library Power Program began in 1994 with a grant from the DeWitt Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund. Since that time, 39 schools in 19 Kentucky counties have created model school library media centers in which students become lifelong learners.

These centers promote collaboration among classroom teachers and media specialists; help the library media center become more aligned with the curriculum; and encourage student-directed, independent learning about real-life situations. This new direction for library media center programs has helped advance student achievement.

"We're pleased to continue to offer the opportunity to be a part of this network. Schools from across the state have asked us for help in creating effective school libraries, and we feel this is the best way to provide that assistance," said Ginny Eager, Forward in the Fifth's executive director.

Because the Library Power grant has ended, new Library Power schools play a fee of $300 to join the network the first year. Thereafter, the fee is $50 a year.

For that fee, schools receive professional development training, opportunities to network with other Library Power schools and technical assistance and support from Forward in the Fifth.

To be eligible, a school must have a full-time media specialist staffing the media center and a schedule that allows open-access to the library resources.

For a copy of the request for proposals that details the application process, call Forward in the Fifth at 859/986-3696 or visit the website www.fif.org.

Forward in the Fifth is a private nonprofit local education fund that serves 55 public school systems in 39 eastern and southern Kentucky counties. It was organized in 1986 to address the fact that Kentucky's Fifth Congressional District (as it was prior to 1991) had the highest percentage of adults without a high school education in the nation.

Today, Forward in the Fifth works to bring communities and schools together to ensure all children have the educational opportunities necessary to live full and productive lives.

Kentucky 4-H'ers hit the state fair

It's the time of year again — summer will soon be winding down and Kentucky 4-H'ers will be gearing up to strut their stuff at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville.

The fair begins on August 17, and will conclude on August 27. During these 10 days, Kentucky 4-H'ers will be engaged in several shows and contests.

The 2000 4-H/FFA Junior Livestock Show is scheduled for the second week of the fair, while the Dairy Show will take place during the first week. The Sale of Grand and Reserved Champions is set for August 24.

Cloverville will surely be a busy place this year; Kentucky 4-H'ers, including Floyd County members, are expected to display more than 3,200 items, including photographs, foods and crocheted items.

Events at this year's fair include the Ham Judging Contest on August 17, and Club and Specialty Acts on August 19. Both the Fashion Revue and Senior Speech and Demonstrations Contest are scheduled for August 26.

Kentucky 4-H is offering something new this year, as well. In addition to a Senior Avian Bowl Competition, junior 4-H'ers will be competing in their own Avian Bowl Contest.

For more information on the Kentucky State Fair and Kentucky 4-H State Fair Contests and Events, contact the Floyd County Cooperative Extension Service at 606/886-2668.

Governor to speak at KECC kickoff

The 2000 Kentucky Employees Charitable Campaign (KECC) will get off to a running start August 9 with a kickoff celebration featuring keynote speaker Gov. Paul E. Patton. Commonwealth employees will gather from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center in Frankfort for barbecue, listen to the music of Bill Johnson and the Bluegrass Pickers, and compete for door prizes.

The KECC provides an opportunity for state government and KCTCS employees to give to the charity of their choice using payroll deduction.

The KECC is endorsed by the governor, is chaired each year by a member of the Governor's Cabinet, and is planned by state employees and the Personnel Cabinet. This year's chairman is Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet Secretary Ron McCloud.

There are six approved charitable groups who take part in the campaign: United Ways in Kentucky, Community Health Charities, Christian Appalachian Project, Kentucky Easter Seals, The WHAS Crusade for Children, and Prevent Child Abuse Kentucky.

These approved charities undergo rigorous scrutiny by the Personnel Cabinet and must meet stringent guidelines for accountability. More than a thousand charitable programs are represented by the approved charities.

* United Way of Kentucky is the KECC Administrator.

Second ambulance discussion becomes issue at court meeting

The need for a second ambulance service here has once again become a topic for public discussion, this time cropping up anew during a meeting of the Magoffin County Fiscal Court.

On different occasions during recent years, local citizens have petitioned state officials in an attempt to locate a second ambulance service in Magoffin County.

Those attempts, thus far, have been denied. Currently, Paul Howard, who serves as Salyersville Volunteer Fire Department Chief, is fighting to keep similar efforts alive.

County records second highest unemployed rate

Unemployment rates rose in 73 Kentucky counties between April and May, fell in 37 and remained the same in 10 counties, according to the Department for Employment Services, a Cabinet for Workforce Development agency.

From April 1999 to May 2000, jobless rates fell in 84 counties, went up in 35, and stayed the same in Woodford County.

Lewis County recorded the state's highest unemployment rate — 16 percent, followed by Magoffin County, 14.1 percent.—The Salyersville Independent

Fiscal Court clears way to join planning council

With a single vote the Magoffin County Fiscal Court may have satisfied several pending requirements involving the local future of potable water supply and demand.

Meeting in regular session on July 27, fiscal court members voted unanimously to approve a Big Sandy Area Development District resolution that offers compliance with state regulations and future water source plans.

The approved resolution allows Magoffin County to join the area development district's Regional Water Management Planning Council, which satisfies new state requirements and will serve as a planning council for the future of Magoffin County's water service programs. According to the resolution, which was presented to the local fiscal court by ADD Information Services Director David Gardner, KRS 147A.01 requires that Magoffin County Fiscal Court establish a water management council or join a regional council for the purpose of developing a water management plan.—The Salyersville Independent

Fifty apply for bricklayers' jobs

Forty-nine men and one woman applied for bricklayers' jobs at a meeting July 26 at the office of Martin County Economic Development Director Carolea Dials.

Ted Linscott, field representative for the Southern Ohio Administrative District Council of International Union of Bricklayers and Allied Craft Workers, oversaw the application process that lasted three hours.

Most applicants are from Martin County, but a few are from Johnson and Lawrence counties. Of the 50 applicants, Linscott will hire 10-20 apprentices (trainees) and then hire 30 journeymen bricklayers in the near future. Apprentices will be paid around $11 an hour, while the experienced journeymen make $22 per hour, according to Dials.—Mountain Citizen Statistics released by the Department for employment Services.

But the report shows that the county's rate was much lower than the 117 percent raise reported in May of last year.

The four other counties in the FIVCO district also saw an increase in their unemployment rates between April and May.

Boyd County's rates rose from 4.9 percent to 5 percent in May; Greenup County's increased from 5.4 percent to 5.5 percent; Carter County's rate jumped from 6.3 percent to 8.4 percent; and Elliott County's rate went from 10.1 percent to 11.7 percent.—The Big Sandy News

911 to switch from city to county by next April, coordinator says

Operation of the 911 system in Lawrence County will likely revert to county officials by next April, the county's new 911 coordinator said last week.

In addition, coordinator Jeff Pack predicted that the basic 911 service, currently operated by the city of Louisa, will become enhanced by next June, which will make it easier for local authorities to respond to emergency situations.—The Big Sandy News commented afterward. "If we ever find a cure for cancer, we know that research is the answer, but not only to find a cure; it is also vital for developing new and better treatments," Dr. Bellamy said.

Billed as a "community celebration of cancer survivorship," the Relay, as in the past, garnered county-wide participation by citizens who support the Relay teams' car washes, raffles, bake sales, contests and other fund-raising activities throughout the year.

Regional board continues plans for water projects

One of the most immediate needs in eastern Kentucky is the establishment of a viable source of drinking water for both residential and commercial use. Locally, the Carr Fork Regional Water Commission is working toward that goal with the building of a water plant on Carr Creek Lake.

Bill Francis, chairman of the water commission, explained that the proposed two million gallon per day plant would serve Knott, Letcher and parts of Floyd and Perry counties (including the water systems in the cities of Hindman and Vicco). —Troublesome Creek Times

Pact reached between PMH and contractor

As of 12:01 today, the Atlanta-based company responsible for the construction of Pikeville Methodist Hospital's nearly complete $50 million patient tower technically should have been off the job.

But agreements reached Tuesday between PMH and Beers Construction Company — three days before hospital administrators had planned to terminate its contract with the firm — will keep those crews on board and require them to complete all remaining work by September 9 at the latest, PMH spokesman Danny Briscoe said.

Considering it was just last Wednesday when hospital administrators issued public notice to the company it would be terminating its contract due to claims of inadequate manpower and not having remaining work sufficiently complete according to deadlines, the quick turnaround is a bit surprising, Briscoe said.—Appalachian News-Express

Funding secured for sewer extension

The Mountain Water District this week received $997,734 in funds needed to continue sewer line extensions in the Mossy Bottom area.

The funds approved by the Kentucky Infrastructure

Authority will allow line extensions from the Mossy Bottom bridge to Green Meadow, according to Will Brown, Mountain Water superintendent.

Also approved this week was a $207,750 grant from the Economic Development Administration, Brown said, which will allow additional work to begin in the area.

The final phase of the $2.2 million Mossy Bottom sewer project will provide sewer service for 250 homes from the Mossy Bottom area to Green Meadow on U.S. 23 North and from American Electric Power to Walters Toyota on U.S. 23 South.

KY 805 reopens following oil spill

Crews were expected to complete cleanup efforts yesterday (Tuesday) at the scene of an oil spill, which occurred near Dorton earlier this week and closed down both lanes of a roadway there for nearly 24 hours.

KY 805 was reopened to motorists late Monday afternoon after it was determined the oil spilled from the electrical transformers, which fell from a flatbed truck early Sunday evening, did not contain harmful carcinogen levels, Doug Tackett, director of the Pike County Emergency Management system, said.

Who's looking for the escaped convict?

More than two weeks after a convicted felon strolled out the front doors of the Big Sandy Detention Center, the escapee remained at large Thursday (July 27) and the question of who's investigating the escape was finally answered.

Officials with the Paintsville Police Department and Kentucky State Police confirmed that their agencies are not investigating the July 12 escape of Lindsay Derusha.

When asked about an investigation into the escape, Paintsville police chief Tom Haney said, "I have no idea. I know we're not (investigating it)."

Haney noted, though, that he gave each officer a copy of the 34-year-old Derusha's photograph, and that the officers would arrest the convict if they saw him in the area.—The Paintsville Herald

Schools at head of CTBS class

Results of state-wide testing for students have been tallied, and Johnson County Superintendent Orville Hamilton reported Tuesday that the results show a continuing trend of progress for the school district.

Hamilton received a standing ovation Tuesday when he informed district employees that Johnson County Schools ranked number one among 34 county school districts in eastern Kentucky — from Maysville to Perry County.

"Remember last year, we were way down the list to second," Hamilton joked. "... Folks, that's an honor."

Hamilton later explained that the results of CTBS (Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills) for third, sixth and ninth graders illustrate the district's continued progress in academics.

"We feel like the last six years we've put forth a great deal of money and training of teachers on academics here in Johnson County Schools," the superintendent said.

Bid awarded for new Eden Elementary

A 6.2 million bid was awarded to Akers and Akers Construction of Salyersville, for construction of the new Eden Elementary School on route 645. The school will consolidate schools in Tomahawk and Grassy.

Martin County Superintendent William R. Slone, along with board members Johnny Allen, Betty Endicott and Nola Antle, opened bids from three companies at 2 p.m. on July 27 at the central office.

Akers and Akers' bid of $6,212,735 was the lowest of the three. Slone estimates the new school will be completed in 16 months. The BOE entered an immediate contract with Akers and Akers, the board must get state approval of contracts and a funding formula.

Slone said the company has already begun to mobilize the property, purchased from the state at a reasonable cost last year. The project is at least six months behind schedule, but the superintendent set a tentative

Eight burglaries reported in last 2 weeks

Lawrence County may not be the burglary capital of Kentucky, but it is definitely in the running for the title.

Within the last two weeks, according to Deputy Scott Randall, eight break-ins have been reported to the sheriff's department, including two at Yatesville Lake Marina. The other burglaries have been "scattered" throughout the county, he said.

Items taken during the incidents range from chainsaws to fishing equipment, he said.

Since January, the sheriff's department has investigated 13 burglaries in the county, and all of the cases remain open, Randall said. That doesn't include burglaries reported to the Louisa Police department and the Kentucky State Police in Ashland.

"Most of them are hard to solve," the deputy said.

Local unemployment rate increases in May

Lawrence County's unemployment rate rose between April and May, but it was a trend experienced by the other counties in the FIVCO Area Development District.

The jobless rate in Lawrence County jumped from 7.1 percent in April to 7.6 percent in May, according to sta-

Students to report for classes her on Monday

Morgan County Schools will open for classes next Monday, August 7. For teachers, the school year began this week with two days of in-service training on Wednesday and Thursday.

The official opening of the 2000-2001 school year will be Friday, August 4, and will begin with a Back to School Ready-Fest at Morgan County High School.

The event will include a cookout for all participants, and all students, parents and guardians are invited. Free school supplies, free haircuts, free immunizations and free clothing will be available for all students attending. The event will begin at 5 p.m., and end at 7 p.m.—The Licking Valley Courier

Relay for Life last Friday nets $66,000

Morgan County's fourth annual Relay for Life, held last Friday night at the high school track and field facility at Index, netted a total of $66,090.54, most of which will be used by the American Cancer Society to finance research in the nation-wide effort to find a cure for cancer.

"When they know it's for a good cause, Morgan Countians always come through, and they did it again this year," Dr. George Bellamy, this year's Relay chairman,

Knott man dies in Letcher Co. jail

A resident of Red Fox in Knott County died over the weekend after he was found hanging in a jail while incarcerated in the Whitesburg Jail.

Letcher County is one of the locations contracted to hold inmates since the closing of the jail in Knott County.

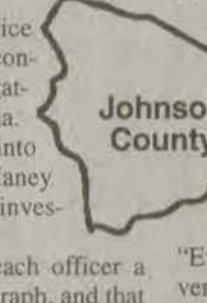

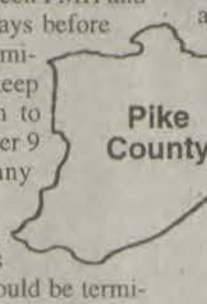

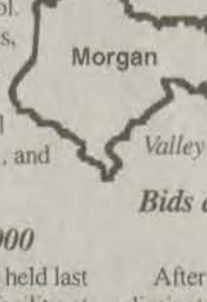

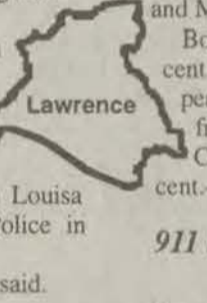

According to a press release from Kentucky State Police, Winford Lee Higgins, age 31, died in a Lexington hospital on Saturday, July 27.

Higgins was found by guards at the jail about 7:30 p.m. on Friday. He was transported to the Whitesburg ARH by the Letcher County Ambulance Service, then taken on to the U.K. Medical Center, state police report.

A statement from the Lexington Fayette County Coroner's office said that Higgins died from his injuries about 6 a.m. on Saturday. The coroner's report ruled the death a suicide.—Troublesome Creek Times

A Look at Sports

"...and she is a dance cat..."

Remember when talking with parents and the conversation came around to their kids, they were quick to tell you what school they attended "and they play football," or "and they play basketball."

Seems anymore if a parent has a daughter at Prestonsburg High School, usually the following is heard: "and they are a dance cat."

Today the high school dance teams have become the high school rage. Competing and doing well brings national recognition.

Jody Shepherd and the Prestonsburg Dance Cats are getting ready to embark on their sixth season of competition and the 2000 year looks to be more hectic than the previous five.

Prestonsburg will travel to Kings Island, make a trip to San Diego and then to St. Louis later in the year.

The defending national champions have only four seniors this year and that speaks well of the years ahead. (A full story will appear in Sunday's sports section.)

They are dedicated young ladies and work hard getting ready for a season of dancing. They will perform at all home football games as well as basketball home games.

So as there is pride in being a basketball or football player, the Dance Cats take pride in being just that — Dance Cats, national champions!

The Cincinnati Reds (I haven't mentioned them lately) are still in the thick of things in the National League Central Division. They still trail the St. Louis Cardinals by four games (as of Wednesday).

I, for one, had given up on the Reds and thought once they were 10 games out it was over. But they have fought back and cut six games off the Cardinals' lead over two weeks.

Of course, the Cardinals have helped by not playing so-great baseball. If the Reds can keep it close they will have a chance to get the Cardinals the last three games of the season as the two teams close the regular season at St. Louis.

The Reds are trailing by six games in the wild card berth. So their best chance is to win their division.

The National League Central is the weakest of the rest of the National League. But when you get into a short series like the playoffs, anything can happen.

With the trading deadline for making deals gone (except for waiver deals) the Reds chose to keep what they have and take their chances. The bats are starting to boom, especially that of Eddie Taubensee. Wouldn't you know it, when he found his stroke he goes down with an injury.

The Reds came close to dealing Scott Williamson in a three-way trade but Reds GM Jim Bowden changed his mind at the last minute.

Looking at the trade, I don't think the Reds would have helped themselves much in the pitching department.

Isn't it strange that the Reds and Braves have not hooked up much this season? It used to be every time the Reds were going good they would drop a series to the Braves. Atlanta is coming to town soon.

The boo birds at Shea Stadium did not seem to bother Barry Larkin.

High school football coaches, we will be around next week starting to work on our football preview. Have us a roster ready.

Until Sunday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Hyden gets piece of the Lady Vol floor

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

It has been a busy summer for Prestonsburg girls' basketball player Megan Hyden. Hyden has made the circuit for basketball camps this summer and just recently attended Pat Summitt's Tennessee camp.

"I have been home about a week all summer," said Hyden, "But it has been good experience for me going to the camps."

Hyden, who attended her third camp this summer at Tennessee, was recognized for her leadership on the court and awarded a piece of the floor the University of Tennessee Lady Vols played on two years ago.

"It was a good camp," she said. "It was really something to be there with all the Tennessee players. You could go up and play a pickup game with them any time. They all stayed around at the camp and Coach Summitt was there all the time."

"She would come over, and if you were sitting on the bench, she would tell how you were doing and make suggestions to you. It was a great camp."

Hyden attended Blue Chip camp at Bellarmine College, as well as team camp at Morehead State.

"The Blue Chip camp was a lot of fun," she said. "We had to run at 1 a.m. in the morning because our floor was a bit rowdy."

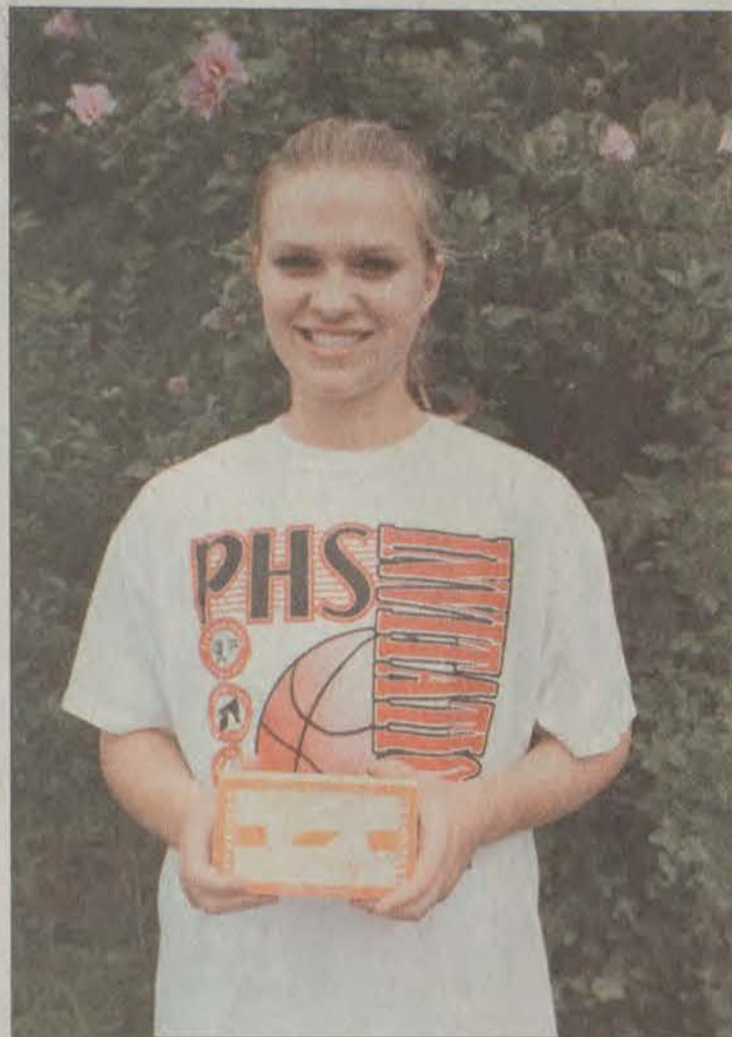

Hyden will be a junior this season at Prestonsburg and a key to the defense of the Lady Blackcats district championship. She will see playing time at the two guard this season.

"We are very proud of her," said Prestonsburg Coach Harold Tackett. "She has shown leadership on past Prestonsburg teams and we look for good things from her this year on the floor."

Hyden addressed a group of campers at Adams Middle School in telling of her camping experiences this summer.

Since her freshman season, Hyden has been a player of consistency and, as a freshman, was the top free-throw shooter in the girls' 1998-99 15th Region tournament.

Prestonsburg holds Meet the Blackcats Day Sunday

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Get your camera out, make sure the flash is charged up and come out to the Prestonsburg football stadium Sunday and meet the Blackcats football team.

The Blackcats will Meet the Press this Sunday with several special events on the schedule for the special day. From 3 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. the team will be introduced and players will be available to the press for interviews and, later, pictures will be taken.

The fun will get started when the players will take on parents in a flag game. Easy on mom and dad. The 30-minute torture will begin at 4:30 p.m.

From 5 p.m. until 6 p.m. a cookout with music will be the order of the day.

Prestonsburg Coach John Derossett urges all cheerleaders, Dance Cats, majorettes, stat girls and managers to be in attendance this day for program pictures.

Coach Derossett also invites all Adams Middle School and Allen Elementary football players from grades 5-8 and coaches to be in attendance.

The Prestonsburg Boosters Club, which is sponsoring the special day, invites all media personnel and Blackcat fans.

Prestonsburg opens their 2000 season on the road at Clay County in the Appalachian Bowl. The Blackcats will face Perry Central.

The Blackcats will play five home games this season and games will be held at the present football facility: Pikeville (August 25), Grundy, Va. (September 15), Whitesburg (September 22), Pike Central (October 13), and Harrison County (October 27) will visit Prestonsburg.

Adams Middle School holds girls basketball camp

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

Basketballs could be heard throughout the Adams Middle School this past week as girls' basketball coach Jennifer West conducted a basketball camp for middle school players.

Seventeen campers turned out for the four-day camp, which ran Monday through Thursday. Two age groups took part in the camp. The two age groups included players in fifth and sixth grades in one group, and seventh and eighth graders in another. Both groups were combined during the four day camp.

Coach West feels the four-day camp was a successful one.

Four eighth graders participated in the camp along with three seventh graders.

West was very pleased with the effort put forth by the campers this week.

"The group of girls we had at camp worked really hard this week," she said. "We have newcomers coming in this season who have worked hard, along with players that returned from last year."

The goal for this year's Adams team is obvious — "Our main goal this season is to win a Mountain Middle School Conference championship, and of course the Floyd County Conference," commented West.

Coach West acknowledged that she usually waits until a week before school starts before bringing players in. West felt the camp was very beneficial for those who participated.

Tryouts for the Adams girls' basketball team will be held shortly after school starts. The basketball season will get underway in early September.

Adams will be trying to repeat the success of last season, only adding to it just a little bit. Last year's team finished sec-

Combs returns to 201 capturing modified checkers

by CHRIS BELCHER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Dirt track action at Sitka's 201 Speedway was dampened Saturday night just prior to hot laps, forcing track officials to postpone action until Sunday afternoon, due to the heavy rains.

On Sunday, Mother Nature again threatened to rain out racing, yet a determined track crew managed to push the water out of the quarter-mile of red clay. After only an hour or so, racing finally got the green.

Late model qualifying would put the #97 of Salyersville's David Powers atop the qualifiers with a 14.01 run around the red clay, with defending super bomber champion Gary Cunagin of Paintsville and Barnett's Creek's Ronnie Conley posting identical qualifying times of 16.13. Gary Combs would best the 15 open wheeled modifieds, who were making their debut at 201. Combs posted the quick time of 15.31.

Late models would be the first division to see action Sunday afternoon. On the start David Powers took a quick lead from his inside pole position, with plenty of pressure coming from Martin's Shannon Thornsberry and Allen's Chuckie May.

Basketball Bears to play 13 national tournament teams

by STEVE LEMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Pikeville College basketball schedule is out, with many capable opponents highlighting the Bears upcoming season. The 2000-2001 schedule is a tough grid checkfull of national tournament teams of a year ago.

Pikeville College will play 16 home games, 13 contests with teams who were in last year's national tournament, and an NCAA Division I school.

The Bears will start the season on November 4, hosting Miami-Hamilton in one of the five home games in November. The November portion of the schedule also features the annual Pikeville College Invitational Tournament on Thanksgiving weekend. Rio Grande, Miami-Hamilton and Bethel (Tenn.), along with the host school Pikeville, make up this year's tournament field.

Pikeville plays only one home game in December. The first home game of Mid South Conference just happens to be the first home game of the season. Two-time national champion Georgetown College comes to Pikeville on Saturday, Dec. 2. Six days after the Mid South home opener, Pikeville will head off to the Jim Reed Classic in Georgetown on Dec. 8-9. The Bears and the Tigers will play Knoxville and Barber-Scotia, another member of last year's national tournament.

The December schedule concludes with the first NCAA

After measuring Powers over the first three circuits, Thornsberry played his hand on the fourth lap, setting his #97 almost collecting the outside wall.

With a long green flag run, Shannon discovered a quicker way around the track hitting the same mark in the corners each time by. Powers kept within striking distance of Thornsberry's lead, narrowing the advantage each time around. After a restart as a result of the second caution of the race, Powers made his way back up the field, overtaking May.

The best race on the speedway ended up being between two Grayson racers. Steve "The Preacherman" Littleton and Tom Hall both raced around through to lap 17 before May washed up the hill along Littleton to hold to the inside wall.

When the payoff flag fell, it was David Powers taking the checkers for his fifth feature win of the season. Following Powers to the checkers was Littleton, Prestonsburg's Marty Minix, May, Pikeville's Glen Patton, and Harold's Steve Jarrell.

This Saturday night the late models will run the red clay of 201 for a $1,200 to win feature.

Sunday's super bomber feature pitted two Magoffin Countians against one another as Falcon's Buck Lemaster started from the inside pole position beside defending super bomber champion Gary Cunagin of Paintsville.

On the start Lemaster would find his way to the front in a hurry, passing Cunagin, who was running in third. Jim Lemaster took both the #98G of Cunagin, and Spanky Arnett's #76 to the inside of turns one and two.

With both Lemasters out front, Arnett and Cunagin would put on a show for the third spot, with Volga's Tom Sparks making it a three-way dance through the corners.

On the seventh lap, Arnett got up on the rear quarter of Spark's #BJ1, and sparks did indeed fly from Arnett's machine, which would pit the Magoffin County driver on the next lap. Jim Lemaster held his Camaro right to the inside line, and shortened Buck Lemaster's lead every lap.

By the 13th lap, both drivers were side by side with some contact being made between the two as they came around the flagstand. Jim Lemaster finally made his inside lane work to his advantage. He held on to a slim lead to make a narrow finish ahead of Buck Lemaster. Sparks finished third, followed by Cunagin and points leader Michael Paul Howard.

The 201 Speedway opened up the gates to a full field of modifieds this past Sunday, with a veteran modified driver getting out in front and staying in front to take the modified checkers.

Cunagin got his dirt track start at 201 back in 1992, and since then has enjoyed success in bombers, super bombers, and for the past several years in the modified division at several other tracks.

With 201 Speedway planning to open up the open wheel class, look for several of the best open wheel drivers to race the red clay of 201.

West Virginia's Tim Moore finished second in Sunday's open wheel race, followed by Randell Lester, Victor Lee, Glenn May and Clint Shutts rounding out the top five.

Lucasville's George Meade ended up in the right place at the right time in the bomber feature, after race leader Bonnie Blair and Albert Butcher ended up eliminating each other on the last set of turns to the checkers. Meade went on to win the race followed by Keith Potter, Doug Saylor, Prestonsburg's Will Harris and A.J. Stambaugh, driving Bob Witten's #2 car.

Road hog feature action saw Stambaugh take with the fastest hog in the lot, beating Lloyd Kimbler, and Scott Pennington to the finish.

Sunday's final checkers fell on Frenchburg's Aaron Ratliff in the four cylinder feature, getting to the finish ahead of Curtis King and Jack Clevenger.

This Saturday night 201 ups the ante for late models with a $1,200 purse going out to the winner. Purses will be raised in the other divisions as well. Don't miss the return of the mules to 201 Speedway this next Saturday night.

Raiders to battle Wildcats

The South Floyd Raiders football fans will get a sneak preview of their football team this Friday night, August 4 at 7:30 p.m. when they face 2A Shelby Valley Wildcats on the gridiron at Brackett Field in Wheelwright.

It will be a first look at new head coach Nathan Jones, as well, for Raider fans. Jones took over the South Floyd program this year, his first since graduating from Eastern Kentucky University in the spring.

Shelby Valley was one of the top 2A teams in the state last year but the Wildcats were hit very hard by graduation and Coach Derek Potter will be in rebuilding season.

On the reverse side, South Floyd will return the area's top backfield in B.J. Bryant, Matt Tackett and Joe Platkus.

Josh Johnson will call the signals and give the Raiders a good option quarterback. Defensively, Ryan Hall, Brian Newsome, J.J. Perry, Danny Hall and Johnny Spears will lead the Raiders along with Bryant, Tackett and Platkus.

The game kicks off at 7:30 p.m.

ond in a tough Mountain Middle School Conference.

Many of the Prestonsburg High School Lady Blackcats helped out with the camp. The older players coming in were something good for the whole program. The feeder program is something West strongly believes in.

"The feeder program is something that definitely benefits everyone," said West.

Gay Hatfield will be back as an assistant coach at AMS this season. Hatfield will be working mostly with the seventh grade team.

The AMS girls basketball team will be looking to capture a conference title when the season gets underway in early September.

Hyden

The Prestonsburg standout stated that the thing that stands out at the camps is there is too much "I."

"If you don't handle the ball, you never get it," she said. "At the camps, the word teamwork is lost. There is no such thing. Whoever gets the ball usually is the one who shoots it."

"There were a lot of good basketball players at the Tennessee camp," she said. "I would say there were between 500 to 600 players. Some you will see in the pros."

Hyden attended the camp with Betsy Layne's Jenny Parsons, Devon Reynolds and Tabitha Mitchell.

"Tabitha and I played on the same team and that made it nice," said Hyden. "We had a good time. Jenny won an award while there."

The Brickyard beckons

by STEVE MICKEY

When Bill France Jr. and Tony George decided that it was finally time to put Indianapolis Motor Speedway on the schedule, I doubt if either one dreamed that the race would become as big as it is in such a short time. The Brickyard 400 is now considered one of the crown jewels that makes up the Winston Cup schedule each season.

Depending on who you talk to, Indianapolis is considered the most famous speedway in the world. It has that nostalgic past when it was paved with bricks, and it has the rich history of the Indianapolis 500 which is held each Memorial Day.

For years NASCAR didn't want to try to butt heads with the Indy car following in that area, but all of that thinking came to an end when in 1993 a dozen Winston Cup drivers showed up at the 2.5-mile track to get a glimpse of a stock car's first laps on a track that was considered the sole property of open wheel racing.

As you know, the test went according to plan and the following year Indianapolis Motor Speedway appeared on the Winston Cup schedule. It was a record crowd for a Winston Cup race that showed up to watch local favorite Jeff Gordon win the first-ever Brickyard 400.

Gordon grew up in the shadows of the speedway at nearby Pittsboro and admitted that he dreamed of the day that he would get to race at the historic venue. He not only got his wish of racing at Indy, he seems to have found the secret in getting around the track. The driver of the DuPont Chevrolet has two victories, three poles, four top-fives and five top-10s in six starts.

Joining Gordon as the only two-time winner of the event is Dale Jarrett. The Robert Yates driver has finished third or better, including two victories in 1996 and 1999, in five of the six previous Indy races.

Jarrett labels Indy as a handling race track where you need a lot of horsepower. Yates' cars are known for their handling ability and his horsepower is second to none in the series, which has to make Jarrett one of the favorites to make his way to victory lane this Saturday.

Although he has only competed in one Winston Cup race at Indianapolis, Tony Stewart has a successful history at the speedway. He started 11th and finished 7th in the 1999 Brickyard 400. Stewart started on the pole and finished 24th in the 1996 Indianapolis en route to winning the rookie title for the race. He has competed in three other Indy Racing League races there, starting fourth or better twice and finishing in the top 10 twice, including a 9th-place finish in the 1999 Indy 500.

Indy is the only track that can rival Daytona when it comes to the amount of teams that will use one of their sessions to try and figure out how to get around the flat rectangle shaped track. The reason so many teams are willing to use one of their test dates at Indy may be the large payout that the track gives.

The guaranteed purse for a last-place finish at Indianapolis is $80,655 which is more than all but the top-four finishers won at the last race at Pocono. The total purse for this year's event will be around $7 million dollars, with the winner's share being over three-quarters of a million.

Indianapolis also rivals Daytona when it comes to the amount of media hype that surrounds the event. It could be real easy for a driver to buy into the hype and start racing for the money and forget the real focus of running for a championship.

With 14 races still left on the schedule after Indy and a top-10 that is only separated by 322 points, this weekend's race could prove to be pivotal in a team's title run. You can bet that there will be more than one crew chief this weekend in the ear of his driver trying to convince him that the big payout will occur after Atlanta and not Indy.

FOOTBALL

Coaches John Derossett and Nathan Jones have their respective football teams in camp at Georgetown this week.

Prestonsburg will be a youthful looking team this fall and Coach Derossett is expecting some of that youth to show up in the scheme of things during the 2000 season.

Of course, Coach Jones is new to the area, the school, the players but is very optimistic as the start of the season nears. The numbers are down for the Raider team but certainly the talent is there.

James Derossett will be the new head football coach at Adams Middle School.

Up at Allen Central, the Rebels continue to work hard as they are very, very optimistic about the upcoming season. Coach Kevin Spurlock will feature a huge front line.

Coach Ted George and the Betsy Layne Bobcats are excited about the kick off of a new season. The Cats believe they can compete during the new season and a playoff berth is within reach.

VOLLEYBALL

Girls' high school volleyball is coming alive in the county with teams beginning practice time. All four of the county schools will play in Region 8, Sub-district 15. Those six teams will include Allen Central, Betsy Layne, Magoffin County, Paintsville, Prestonsburg and South Floyd.

Allen Central Coach Larry Maynard worked his team out at the gymnasium Monday and he is all excited about the season.

BASKETBALL

Coach Gary Kidd has wasted little time in getting the Piarist School basketball programs underway. He has been busy with cross-country, as well.

Gary will coach girls' and boys' basketball and run the cross-country program as well as being the school's athletic director. He assured us that returning basketball players would be involved in the cross-country sport.

Kidd, who officiates football and basketball, as well as umpires baseball, will not be permitted to referee basketball this season.

"Conflict of interest," he said.

"But I will keep my rating intact."

He will call football and umpire baseball in the spring.

At Prestonsburg High School, Coach Harold Tackett and the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats returned from their Morehead camp and the Prestonsburg coach was pleased with the way his team played, finishing 5-3.

"We played well and we looked good against some good teams," he said. "We had Brooke (Coleman) go down in the first game with an ankle sprain, but others stepped up and played well."

"We lost two games by one point and lost by 10 to West Carter."

Coach Tackett talked about how pleased that Floyd County has a coach the caliber of Cindy Halbert, former coach at Belfry High School and now head mentor at Allen Central.

"We need quality coaches like Cindy," said Tackett. "I think she will be good for girls' basketball in the county."

Yet to participate in summer basketball is junior-to-be Ramanda Music. Music has not taken part in any Prestonsburg workouts but the Prestonsburg coach is confident that she will be there when school starts.

Prestonsburg shooting guard Megan Hyden received an award at Pat Summitt's basketball camp at the University of Tennessee.

The Allen Central boys' varsity cheerleaders held a camp with three cheerleaders from Morehead State University conducting the festivities.

The girls' varsity squad has been busy this summer and their only time off came during the dead period.

Both squads continue to work hard during the summer months. While everyone else enjoys most of the summer, cheerleaders keep busy all summer long.

While the boys' varsity will support the football team at Allen Central, the girls' cheerleaders will work out every day until basketball season begins.

Pikeville College football to meet media, fans August 13

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The calendar on the wall tells us it's August, therefore football season is very near. Pikeville College football Coach Zak Willis is set to unveil his first team to the public on Sunday, August 13.

This season marks Pikeville College's first with a football team. Anticipation for the first football team in Pikeville College's history is building with each passing day.

The team will hold its media day at 2 p.m. Sunday, August 13, and will meet with fans and community members later that day, beginning at 4 p.m.

Willis is extremely excited as Pikeville College is set for its first taste of college football.

"This is an important time for us, and we're excited to welcome the media and the community to take advantage of this opportunity," said Willis. "These young men have been told how excited this area is to have college football, and this will be an occasion for them to see this first-hand. We're excited about this, and know the community is as well. We want to take this opportunity to thank our fans, and show them that their excitement is not unwarranted."

Willis and Pikeville College will have nearly 80 players on the team in this initial season.

At 2 p.m. the first team picture and all individual photographs will be taken at the baseball facility, located directly behind the Pikeville College gym. The coaching staff and players will be available during this time for any media members who may be interested.

Following the media time at around 4 p.m., the team will be in the city park to meet the public. Fans are encouraged to take advantage of this unique opportunity to welcome these young men to the community. Food and drinks will be provided to all of those who come. All fans are urged to attend. The team will be in the park until 6:30 p.m.

"We want to welcome the media to join us at 2 p.m. for our first media day. Our coaches and players will be accessible during this time. We feel it is crucial for us to have a positive relationship with the media, and this will be an opportunity to further that relationship," said Willis.

"Then at 4 p.m., we'll all walk down to the park where we'll be able to introduce our family to this community," the coach continued. "We want our staff and team to become active members of the community, and this will be the first opportunity for our young men to meet everyone."

Pikeville College is ready to deliver a program many have been wanting for years.

"This is going to be something great, not only for the college but also the town and area," Willis said. "The college community is excited, the town is excited. Everyone knows something special is about to happen here at Pikeville College. It will start August 13."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

HOW THE BIBLE HELPED WIN A WORLD WAR I CAMPAIGN!

THE TURKS, UNDER GERMAN HIGH COMMAND, WERE A CONSTANT THREAT TO THE BRITISH-HELD SUEZ CANAL, ENGLAND'S LIFE LINE TO HER COLONIES DURING WORLD WAR I. IT FELL TO GENERAL SIR EDWARD ALLENBY TO SQUASH THIS THREAT! IN A SERIES OF BRILLIANTLY EXECUTED BATTLES, ALLENBY SUCCEEDED! IN PLANNING HIS BATTLE ENGAGEMENTS, HE AND HIS STAFF STUDIED, ALONG WITH THEIR TACTICAL MAPS, ALL THE RECORDED BATTLES IN THE BIBLE AND, IN SOME INSTANCES, FOLLOWED THE SAME TACTICS THE ANCIENT JEWS HAD EMPLOYED...

ONE SUCH EXAMPLE OCCURS IN THE BATTLE FOR THE PASSES OF MEGIDDO, INTO THE PLAIN OF ESDRAELON, DURING SEPTEMBER OF 1918. TAKING A TIP FROM SUCH ANCIENT GENERALS AS JOSHUA, KING DAVID, AND KING OMRI, ALLENBY ATTACKED ON A BROAD FRONT BUT MASSES HIS CAVALRY AT ONE POINT TO BREAK THROUGH THE TURKISH LINE—THIS DONE, THE CAVALRY RACED HARD, DUE NORTH, TO CUT OFF THE TURKS' ONLY MEANS OF RETREAT AT THE PASSES OF EL AFFULE AND BEISAN, THUS ENTRAPPING THE ENTIRE ARMY SO THE ADVANCING INFANTRY COULD FINISH THEM OFF!

ALLENBY'S STAFF PLACED MUCH CREDIT FOR THE SUCCESS ON CONSTANT STUDY OF THE ANCIENT TACTICS IN THE BIBLE, AND AS ONE BRITISH "TOMMY" PUT IT, "HIF TH' BLOOMIN' TURKS AD STUDIED OUR BIBLE TH' WAY WE DID, THEY MIGHT AVE MADE HIT A LOT FLIPPIN' ROUGHER FOR US!"

School's first day need not be traumatic

It's the first day of school. You're nervous, your stomach hurts, your palms are sweaty, your eyes have swollen with tears, and you want a hug. But are you the parent or the child?

"That first day of school is such a transition for everybody," said Katherine McCormick, an early education specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Education. "It marks the end of the time when you as the parent are your child's primary teachers, and it is a milestone in the child's life. But it is a regular part of the family life cycle."

McCormick said it is OK and natural for both child and parent to experience some anxiety when the school bell rings for the first time.

She suggested that everyone should keep in mind not what ends, but what begins at this point.

"This is a new beginning that holds even greater chances for the two of you to share life," she said. "Someone else will introduce your children to an idea, and they will want to share that with you. That's a new bond and a new way for you to grow together."

Parents should prepare the way by talking to as many people as they can, especially teachers, McCormick said. They can tell you what the child will be doing in class and how you can help, at home and at school.

Teachers also can give you valuable information on school policy, from clothing to needed supplies. You also should talk to the teacher about any health or other needs, likes or dislikes and food preferences of your child.

Other parents can give vital information about schedules, expectations and how to deal with what will come up. They also can be treasure troves of tips for dealing with your child's, and your own, separation anxiety.

"Early school is about how to function in a group and in class," McCormick said. "It is important for these years to be as good as they can be."

Here are some additional tips for easing the transition into that first day of school.

- Visit the school with the child before the first day and meet the people. Talk about the things the child will do at school, and have some fun on the playground. It will be more comfortable for the child if she sees on that first day faces and places she recognizes and looks forward to something that was mentioned during the visit.

- Give children the opportunity to interact with other children before school. These can be at libraries, churches or community playgroups. This will help them build necessary social skills.

- Involve siblings in the process before and after school begins. Older siblings especially can help by sharing their experiences, in child speak.

- Get children used to the culture of school. A few months before school begins, start doing activities at home that the child will do in school. Read books you've gotten from the library, make crafts, do artwork, and even have lunch on a tray. This will create behaviors that will transfer to school and make it seem more natural.

- A week or so before the first day, begin to practice getting up early. Set a schedule, get the child up and go somewhere. Be sure to think this through the night before and do any preparation you can, such as ironing and gathering materials.

- Make sure your child eats. Many children will get too excited or anxious to eat, but young bodies need a lot of nutrition. You may have to keep a healthy snack on hand at all times; especially right after school in case they didn't eat lunch. Mention your concern to the teacher, if the problem persists too long. As the newness and anxiety wear off, eating habits should return to normal.

- Get lots of rest. The average preschool/kindergarten-aged child will need at least 10 hours of sleep each night. This is where a good routine really counts.

- To help ease separation anxiety for all involved, give your child a clear signal about when you will see her next. Don't say things like "Daddy loves you and will see you later." First, this stirs already high emotions and gives no definite indication of when you will be reunited. Make the parting positive and reassuring. "You're going to have a great day, sweetie. Mommy will see you at 3:30 p.m." is more like it.

- If it will help and not be disruptive, let the child take a special object with him to school. It will help him transfer feelings of home to school, and eventually he won't need it anymore.

- Parents must come to terms with a teacher's authority over their child. This is often the most difficult thing to do, but it is critical. Because children will emulate parents' feelings, the child must see that you respect and support the teacher.

- Don't worry if the child doesn't come home chattering constantly about what she did that day. She may not yet have the words or emotions to explain. You may have to prompt her with questions or activities. Avoid being intrusive and nagging, however. That may make her anxious about talking to you.

- If it will help you, don't be afraid to have a good cry after you've retreated—with a big smile on your face—from the school. You may even want to watch them play at a distance for a bit until you're more composed and better able to drive.

Floyd County Headstart/Preschool

The Floyd County Head Start and preschool programs welcome all Headstart/Preschool children and parents to the 2000-2001 school year.

The teaching staff, family service workers, and central office staff will try to make a positive beginning for each child's first experience with the educational program.

Parents are always welcome to come and volunteer in the classrooms. Remember the Parent is a child's first teacher and with the learning process going on at home and in the classroom the child will have a successful year.

Here is a list of the staff names and phone numbers, so if you have any questions about the Headstart/Preschool Program or any concerns feel free to call us.

The following area centers, teachers and family service workers are:

- Allen, 874-2165, Teresa Campbell, Donna Reitz;
- Betsy Layne, 478-8737, Cindy Allen, Alfreda Boyd and Kim Crisp.
- Clark, 886-8944, Susan Yonts, Glenda Newsome;
- May Valley, 285-4706, Kim Grubb, Jamie Slone and Kim Crisp.
- McDowell, 377-1137, Lynn Slone, Judy Stumbo, Lucreta Duncan and Carolyn Blanton;
- Osborne, 452-2307, Ruth Huff, Judy Newsome and Ann Hamilton;
- Prestonsburg, 886-8145, Neva Tackett, Pat Newsome, Terry L. Johnson and Glenda Newsome.
- Stumbo, 587-2911, Mary Osborne, Deb Tackett and Juanita Stephens.
- Central Office Staff, Vivian McGarey, director; Gracie Scott, Early Childhood Consultant, 886-4525; Ernestine Shelton, High School Education Coordinator, 886-4526.

PRIDE develops new education initiative

As another school year quickly approaches, PRIDE is busily preparing for a new education initiative for teachers and students this fall. In October PRIDE plans to kickoff Project Clean Streams, a program aimed at getting students interested in the quality of water around them.

Karen Engle, PRIDE executive director says "We are looking for students in grades 4 through 12, from 100 schools across the 40-county PRIDE region to become involved with Project Clean Streams."

Engle said PRIDE will partner with the Kentucky Water Watch Program to provide training for the teachers, all of the necessary testing equipment, as well as KERA-based curriculum. All that is required is that there is a creek or stream within walking distance from the school.

The program is open to teachers, but also to 4-H Leaders, Extension Offices and Kentucky Water Watch Volunteers. PRIDE is working to establish a database on the web site so that information gathered by the students can be reported and shared with other schools outside the county and state.

Training for the teachers is planned for mid September.

"Many educators have already expressed an interest in the program and we are looking forward to hearing from many more. This is an opportunity that promises not only to be very educational, but fun as well," Engle said.

The Project Clean Streams initiative is in addition to the PRIDE Environmental Education grants that were mailed out to formal and non-formal educators this summer.

Cathy Hall, PRIDE education coordinator, will coordinate the program. If you have a creek or stream on your school property or within walking distance, and would be interested in PRIDE Project Clean Streams, you can reach her at 1-888-577-4339 or you may register on line at the PRIDE Web Site at <http://www.kypride.org/>

Through the efforts of U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, PRIDE is the first comprehensive, regionwide, local-state federal cooperative effort designed to address the serious challenge of cleaning up the region's rivers and streams of sewage and garbage, ending illegal trash dumps, promoting environmental awareness and education, and renewing pride in eastern and southern Kentucky.

The program is funded through a grant of $10 million from the U.S. Department of Commerce and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

MSU offers online services

As Morehead State University students return to the campus this fall, they may purchase textbooks and supplies online and complete a variety of routine academic and administrative tasks on the university's Web site.

The University Bookstore has opened a virtual store that will allow electronic shopping 24-hours a day. "Our online store offers everything from textbooks and course materials to gifts, apparel and general merchandise," said Jackie Griffey, bookstore general manager.

"We're confident students and others will find our Web site just as friendly and easy to shop as our regular store," she said. After ordering their books online at <http://bookstore.morehead-st.edu>, students may pick up their purchases at the store, physically located in the Adron Doran University Center.

The popularity of the Web-based student services has been overwhelming, with more than 72 percent of the current students activating their personal Web accounts since the new site was brought online last fall, according to Beth Patrick, assistant vice president for information technology.

"The system was designed to provide access to routine services and information on a convenient 24-7 schedule. The online, interactive admission process and course scheduling option eliminates the need to visit campus offices to complete the enrollment and registration process," she said.

"In addition to book sales, enrollment and registration, students attending MSU this fall may apply for and verify the status of their financial aid, apply for housing, drop or add courses, receive grade reports and degree audit checksheets, and pay their fees online from their student Web account," Patrick said.

So that students may perform all of these online tasks from the comfort of their residence hall rooms, the Office of Information Technology has begun a new program to lease computers on a per semester basis. The machines available for lease come loaded with a Web browser and Microsoft Office '95.

Further, information technology will offer a telephone help desk and several network installation assistance workshops for students interested in having Internet access in their residence hall rooms. The sessions will be offered August 24, August 31, September 7, September 28 and October 26 at 1 p.m., in the study area of Alumni Tower.

Residence halls will open for upperclassmen only at noon, Tuesday, August 15. New students will begin checking into their residence halls at 8 a.m., on Thursday, August 17.

The Office of Student Development will assist new students by introducing them to resources, philosophy, rituals and cultures of the campus community at an orientation program that starts at 6 p.m., in Button Auditorium on Thursday, August 17.

Among the activities scheduled are participation in business days, movies, a concert, a picnic and presentations by various university officials, including Dr. Susan Creasap, assistant director of bands, and Myron Doan, dean of students.

In addition, there will be featured presentations, such as Andre Minkins, and 7 a.m. Productions will present a play, "By Noon," which is a study in diversity. Mike Green will present "Greeny's Tips for Student Success."

Graduate students also will participate in an orientation program, which will be held Tuesday, August 8, at 6 p.m., in the Riggle Room, ADUC.

Before beginning classes on Monday, August 21, students will enjoy a variety of activities that will welcome them to the campus, from sports to events sponsored by the Student Government Association and Student Activities Council. To meet their fellow classmates, students are invited to an ice cream social and street dance in the area between Lappin Hall and the Combs Building on Sunday, August 20, from 8 to 11 p.m.

Hypnotist Tom DeLuca will perform on Thursday, August 24, at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium. Other SGA/SAC events scheduled for the fall semester include hot air balloon rides, Wednesday, August 23; comedians Vic Hanley and Buzz Sutherland, Wednesday, September 20; and Fridays at the University Cinema is "Free Movie Night," which is free to all MSU students with a valid identification card.

Family Weekend is slated for Friday-Sunday, September 8-10, with various activities, including a golf scramble on Saturday, September 9, at the university's Sunnybrook Golf Course. The day's agenda also offers a tailgate party on the Academic-Athletic Center lawn at 4:30 p.m., prior to the football team's season opener against Butler University. A fireworks display will follow the game, weather permitting.

The soccer team will kick off its season Saturday, August 19, with an exhibition game against Cumberland College at MSU's Mahaney Recreational Complex. Eagle Volleyball begins its season, Friday, September 1, with the MSU Invitational in Wetherby Gymnasium.

The men's basketball team begins its season on Monday, November 13, with an exhibition game in the AAC. The Lady Eagles play an exhibition game, Sunday, November 5.

This year's Homecoming will be Friday-Sunday, October 20-22, on the campus. Highlights include the Athletic Hall of Fame Banquet on October 20, the Eagle football team taking on Bowie State on October 21, as well as reunions and a post-game fish fry.

During the 2000-2001 season, Morehead State music majors will present student recitals on a variety of instruments while theatre students will perform in four main stage plays. All recitals and theatre productions are free to the university's students with a valid identification card.

Among the shows to be produced by theatre students are "The Government Inspector," Thursday-Saturday, October 12-14; "Quilters," Tuesday-Sunday, November 14-19; "The Heiress," Tuesday-Sunday, February 20-25; and "The Secret Garden," Thursday-Saturday, March 29-31.

Also to be offered is the Second Stage Season, a series of student-directed plays, with the proceeds benefiting theatre scholarships. Those productions include "An Evening of One-Act Plays" in September; "Cloud Nine" in December; and "Lives of the Saints" in April.

If you would like to be a part of the fall semester of activities, details on how you may register for classes are available from MSU's Office of Admissions by calling 606/783-2000, or toll-free at (800) 585-6781.

THE PARENT CORNER

Parent's ABC's

Attend school functions and visit the school periodically.
 Be positive about the teacher in front of the child.
 Confer with the teacher regularly to monitor your child's progress and share your child's strengths, weaknesses and interests.
 Develop positive relationships with the child's classmates/parents.
 Examine the curriculum and course content your child is being taught.

 Form a "team relationship" with the teacher/administration.
 Go directly to the teacher when there is a problem.
 Help your child with his/her homework, as needed.
 Involve yourself actively in your child's education.
 Join and participate in the PTO/PTA.
 Know the names of key school personnel (teacher, administrators, counselor, nurse).
 Listen attentively to your child.
 Monitor and limit the amount/type of television viewing for your child.
 Notify the school if a medical or family problem occurs.

 Observe your child's classroom and give positive comments to the teacher.
 Play games with your child.
 Question your child, in a non-threatening manner, with genuine interest about his/her school day.
 Read to your child or have him/her read to you regularly.
 Spend quality/quantity time daily with your child. Express your unconditional love verbally and non-verbally.
 Teach your child good moral, social and spiritual values. Train up your child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.
 Undergird and support the child's teacher, classmates and administration.

 Volunteer to serve in some capacity in school.
 Write positive notes/letters of appreciation to the teacher/principal.
 Express high expectations for your child's learning.
 You can make a difference—believe and act on it...and Zoom into the total school environment.

Hurray for volunteers

Volunteers at Allen Elementary School were recently recognized for their efforts with a reception. Students and staff thanked them for their assistance. Present were, from left, Angie Collins, Gwendalyn Endicott, Debra Head, Della Clark, Betty Moore, Garnet Lowe, Kathy Spears, Patty Joe Woods, Lise Roe and Jennifer Kay Miller.

Free watches for perfect attendance

Being in school is time well spent, and that's why WMDJ Radio of Martin, and Music Carter Hughes of Prestonsburg, want to reward students who take going to school seriously.

The two businesses are cooperating to give an electronic digital stopwatch to each student who does not miss a day of school during a nine-week grading period.

The promotion is open to students in grades K-12. If a student's report card shows "0" absences at the end of the grading period, he or she can bring the grade card to the WMDJ station, near Martin, and pick up the watch.

What to do if your child comes home with head lice

Don't panic. Anyone—adult or youngster—can get head lice. Head lice are passed from person to person by direct contact on shared objects (combs, towels, headphones, etc.).

It has nothing to do with cleanliness and does not reflect poorly on you as a parent.

The problem is easily managed. Just follow the instructions below:

Check every member of the family.

- Look for tiny white eggs (nits) on hair shafts, near the scalp, especially at the nape of the neck and behind the ears. Head lice are small grayish-tan insects without wings. Any family member with lice or nits—must be treated.

Use an effective head lice treatment.

- Several are available without a prescription. The creme rinse requires just one application and protects against reinfestation for up to two weeks. Shampoo treatments require a second application 7-10 days after the first, are less effective, and offer no extended protection. Ask your pharmacist for more information.

Remove all nits.

- Gently comb the child's hair with the special nit removal comb. These combs are usually provided with the lice treatment products.

Wash clothes, bed linens, and towels.

- Use hot water and dry on hot cycle for at least 20 minutes. Items not machine washable must be dry cleaned or stored in a tightly sealed plastic bag for at least two weeks. Items such as headphones and helmets should be similarly bagged and stored.

Soak combs, brushes, etc. in hot water

- The hotter the better, but at least 130°F. Items should be allowed to soak for 5-10 minutes.

Vacuum everywhere.

- To make sure the rest of your home is louse free, you should vacuum, carpets, pillows, mattresses, upholstered furniture, and even the car seats. Head lice cannot survive without a human host. They cannot survive on family pets. Choose an effective treatment, use as directed, and perform the steps listed above to eliminate head lice from your home and to help prevent their spread in the community.

Superintendent...

A Message from the Superintendent of Schools

by DR. PAUL FANNING

Students report for their first day of instruction on August 9. Prior to that day a lot of planning will have been incorporated into the objectives for learning that we have set for our students. The school board has set vision and mission statements along with goals for our school system. We have listed them in this article and all of us should keep them in mind as we proceed through the 2000-2001 school year. Thank you for your past and future support of Floyd County Schools.

VISION STATEMENT

The vision of the Floyd County School Board is committed to the development of schools of excellence that are linked to their communities and are constantly evolving and improving.

MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the Floyd County Schools is to develop students who have the ability to succeed at their next levels of learning by providing a safe, challenging environment delivered by a quality staff in partnership with the community.

GOALS

The following goals attained unanimous agreement from the Board Members present:

1. Establishment of high expectations.
2. Continued improvement in financial management and the budgetary process.
3. Improvement and strengthening communications between the Board of Education and site-based councils.
4. Curriculum alignment
5. Improvement and implementation of the planning process.
6. Establishment of job performance and account ability measures.
7. Development of a facilities improvement and maintenance plan.
8. Planning to enhance arts and humanities and curricular areas not currently being addressed.
9. Improvement of instructional practices/quality of staff through the hiring and selection process.
10. Strengthening community relations.

MOTTO

"Children First"

The James A. Duff Elementary School Academic Team had a terrific year during 1999-2000. During District Governor's Cup competition at McDowell Elementary, they advanced to regional competition, where they placed No. 1 overall. The team won top honors in Quick Recall and was tops in written assessment at the Jenny Wiley Academic Conference. Front, from left, Tera Addis, Jayme Staggs (captain), Ben Reed, Richard Vanderpool and Jamie Meade; second row, from left, Tiffany Owens, Keith Duncan, Melissa Noble, and Rebel Lawson; back row, from left, Dagan Bickford, Josh Martin, Zach Patton, Brittany Frasure and Stephanie Gray. On the team, but not pictured, was Ashton Frasure.

English teacher uses technology

John Patton, English teacher at Prestonsburg High School, has integrated technology into his classroom in an innovative way.

Recently, Patton decided to use the Kentucky Department of Education technology that is used to train teachers in scoring portfolio writings.

Students had the opportunity to view sample writings displayed on a monitor. The sample writings provided students with information on scoring.

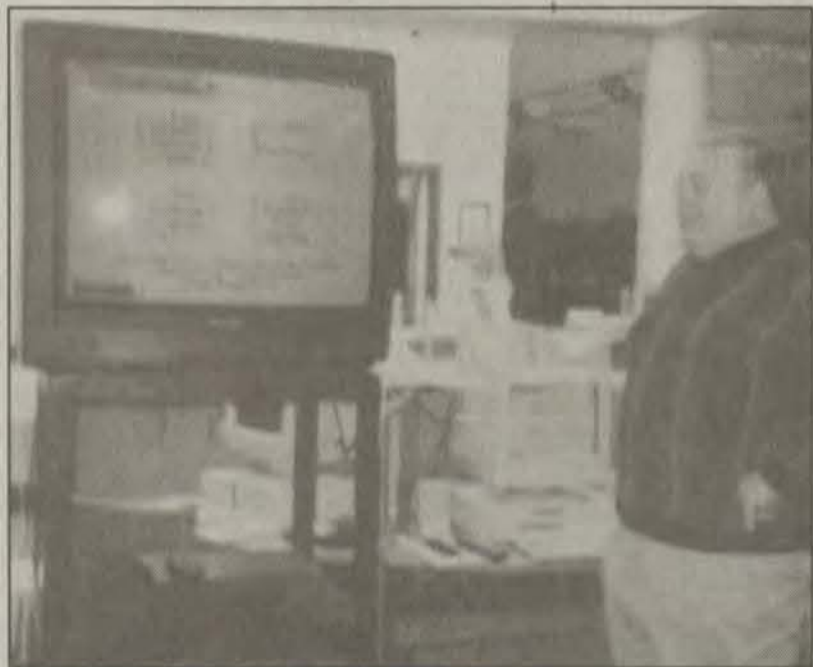

Classroom teaching and the use of this technology will give students a much better understanding of how writings are scored as novice, apprentice, proficient and distinguished.

Students then will be better equipped to identify strengths and weaknesses in their own writing.

The use of this technology tool provides an excellent way to reinforce concepts that are taught, Patton said, adding that the technology helps to ensure that the necessary criteria are presented in the same way as reviewers will be scoring writings.

"If teachers should know, then students should know," he said.

John Patton, PHS English teacher

Reminder: Parents, please complete and return Lunch Applications as soon as possible, if you are interested in free or reduced lunches. If you have been notified that your children have been pre-approved for the 2000-2001 school year, it will not be necessary to complete an application.

Research, preparation, common sense ease the transition to college

(ARA) - As over 1.5 million first-time freshmen head to college this fall, moms shed tears, fathers clutch their wallets, and students juggle excitement and fear. Even though leaving for college is one of life's expected transitions, parents and students need to prepare to ensure a positive experience.

Monica Groves, dean of student development at Northwestern College in Saint Paul, Minnesota, advises incoming freshmen to look at the college experience as a big move. "After living in the routine of your parents, you are now living in the routine of the college community. It's a whole mindset move. Research the location, community services, even the living space."

It's also a move into the relative unknown that challenges comfort zones. "Don't be ashamed or embarrassed if you feel totally clueless," she continues. "It's like walking into a 14-story building for the first time and someone asks you for a list of what is on each floor."

The key is to remember that there are people at the college readily available who understand your feelings and are there to help. "Use these resources, ask questions, and seek information. It's not a sign of weakness, but a sign of maturity to seek help," Groves stresses.

PRACTICAL ADVICE

The college transition will be smoother when freshmen consider the following:

- Learn laundry basics BEFORE going to college.
- Open a checking account at a local bank. A local address is wise for doing business in the community, and the bank can be a source for future college or car loans.
- Check with other students or do research on transportation to grocery stores, malls, restaurants, entertainment, etc.
- Don't skimp on nutrition to cut costs. Food service participation is essential for good nutrition. A steady diet of cheap junk food only results in illness, missed classes and wasted tuition.
- The amount of reading is one of the biggest shocks to freshmen. Learn basic speed-reading and note-taking skills.

STUDY ADVICE

Even though it appears many students go to college for the social life, the academic perspective eventually takes precedence. Groves says the college experience needs to be considered a full-time job. Most colleges use the ratio of two hours of study to one hour in class, which averages out to an eight-hour day. When eating, sleeping and recreation are factored in as necessary constants, not much time is left.

While many students need a part-time job to pay for their education, Groves recommends working not more than 10 hours a week. "If you can handle both the full-time college experience and part-time work, a job is good experience and teaches you how to handle money and manage time.

"It's up to you and you alone to get to class. No one is going to force you," she continues. "If you miss a class to sleep-in or run around with friends, you're throwing away tuition, plus falling behind in already-tight schedules and overwhelming reading assignments."

Dr. Jacqueline Glenny, associate professor of communication at Northwestern College, stresses time management. "Schedule laundry, cleaning the dorm room, shopping, cooking, even sleeping. No one is going to tell you when to go to bed, so it's easy to stay up late."

She suggests joining study groups that have a definite study focus. "It's better to use classmates, not friends when studying often turns to socialization. Seek out the "A" students, those who speak up and have the right answers in class."

Glenny says students have to be their own spokesperson. "Parents can't step in for you by going to the professors every time there's a problem. You need to talk to the professors yourself. Don't be intimidated by them."

ADJUSTMENTS

Homesickness can be expected during the first term, Johnson says. "The student needs to connect with someone right away - a friend, a church. Try to get involved in at least one extracurricular activity."

If there are still adjustment problems after one term, parents need to consider it may be more than just homesickness, he continues. It could be an indication of a more serious problem such as sexual harassment, depression or learning problems. "Talk to the child; try to figure out what is bothering them; discuss options." If talking doesn't yield answers, parents may need to contact the college for insight.

Johnson adds that most parents know what to expect from their children regarding adjustments and know instinctively where to draw the line in making the college transition. Glenny believes that if parents have been raising their children to be responsible adults, "it all kicks in once they are on their own."

"Holly was ready to go," Butler affirms. "She could cope with the hectic schedule. All during junior high and high school her schedule was busy."

"I spent a lot of time in prayer and in the professor's office," Holly says. "Their doors were always open for questions and they were willing to help. The biggest shock was the grading scale. I could no longer get an "A" with a 95%. The profs had very high expectations. I remember complaining about a seven-page paper due the second week of school."

Glenny adds, "College teaches basic life skills: keeping track of keys, room deposits, security issues, deadlines. Going to college and living with a roommate is also great experience for marriage, another of life's transitions!" she smiles.

History and philosophy of Mountain Christian Academy

Mountain Christian Academy, an academically enriched, Christian school in eastern Kentucky, was established in 1983. Mountain Christian Academy's mission is to provide a quality education in a Christian environment.

A curriculum that includes music, art, physical education, library, computer education and Spanish provides students with an excellent education with which to face the future. And most important of all, by providing daily Christian education classes and school prayer, students develop the moral and ethical attitudes upon which our nation depends.

Mountain Christian Academy is recognized by Kentucky's Department of Education as a certified non-public school and is accredited by and holds full membership in the Kentucky Association of Independent Schools.

All teachers are college graduates and have appropriate teaching certification.

Students are required to wear a school uniform consisting of khaki pants or skirts and red MCA sweat-shirts or T-shirts. White shirts with a collar may also be worn. The dress code is to be observed by students in kindergarten through eighth grades.

Students admitted to MCA should understand that the classroom is a serious work environment. Homework will be assigned at the discretion of the teacher.

Report cards are issued every nine weeks. Mid-terms are issued each quarter. Parent-teacher conferences are scheduled biannually.

Bus transportation is available for the Pikeville, Prestonsburg and McDowell areas.

Extracurricular activities at the school include a 4th and 5th grade academic team, a 6th, 7th and 8th grade academic team, student government association, 4-H club, science club, photography club, junior training league basketball, training league basketball, A and B boys' basketball and cheerleading.

The school also features

Christian education, a science lab, Japanese language and culture, Spanish, art, music, chorus and a computer lab.

MCA hosts several fundraising activities, including a horse show, golf scramble, gospel sing, fall festival, ice cream social, book fair, athletic banquet and an annual award dinner.

'Good news' at the MAC

The Shulers

The Joyaires

A joyful noise is sure to waft throughout the Mountain Arts Center on Thursday, August 10, as the MAC presents a free Family Gospel Show.

Four top families on the gospel music circuit will perform in the show, which begins at 7 p.m. They are the Whisnants, the Hayes Family, the Shulers, and the Joyaires.

Last year, the Whisnants celebrated 30 years of singing gospel music. They have had seven songs on the Top 40 Gospel charts and two in the Top

Salome's STARS

ARIES

(MARCH 21 TO APRIL 19)

You might be the Zodiac's Sheik of Sheep, but Cupid could soon turn you into a doting little Lamb who wants to be somebody's very special someone.

TAURUS

(APRIL 20 TO MAY 20)

Your gift for creating order out of chaos might be severely tested, as problems continue to arise. Be alert. Someone might be trying to undercut your efforts.

GEMINI

(MAY 21 TO JUNE 20)

A romance that seemed to have a chance for a long run could be winding down instead. Take time to assess your true feelings before attempting to restart it.

CANCER

(JUNE 21 TO JULY 22)

More allies rally around as you deal with your workplace challenger. Things are much easier on the home front, where good news brings cheer to you and your kin.

LEO

(JULY 23 TO AUGUST 22)

An unexpected complication might force you to change your usual travel plans. But instead of growling over the situation, see it as a chance for a new experience.

VIRGO

(AUGUST 23 TO SEPTEMBER 22)

That hazy atmosphere you've been living under is clearing up. Things become more defined and easier to deal with. Celebrate with that special person.

LIBRA

(SEPTEMBER 23 TO OCTOBER 22)

Expect to learn some surprising facts about some people in your life, as you sort out a misunderstanding. Everyone benefits when the air is finally cleared.

SCORPIO

(OCTOBER 23 TO NOVEMBER 21)

Your aspects are positive for new ventures. As usual, let your sharp insight guide you as you consider a new undertaking. Travel is also favored.

SAGITTARIUS

(NOVEMBER 22 TO DECEMBER 21)

If you've been planning a career change, you could soon get some exciting news. Positive developments are also favored on the home front.

CAPRICORN

(DECEMBER 22 TO JANUARY 19)

A longtime relationship with a partner or spouse is put to a severe emotional test. Your strength and innate wisdom will help you get through the difficult times.

AQUARIUS

(January 20 to February 18)

Continue to make the needs of your loved ones your priority, despite distractions. Once things are settled in your personal life, you can deal with other challenges.

PISCES

(FEBRUARY 19 TO MARCH 20)

Go with the flow and let this new relationship develop before you make a commitment. Things you might have missed will come to the surface with time.

YOU WERE BORN THIS WEEK:

You have a flair for the dramatic. You also have a hot temper, which you often struggle to keep under control.

Robert Penn Warren, icon of American literature, profiled by Kentucky Life

He wrote All the King's Men and is the only author ever to win Pulitzer Prizes for both poetry and fiction. An icon in American literature, Robert Penn Warren is a native of Guthrie, and the subject of a Kentucky Life profile airing on KET at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, August 12.

Dave Shuffett hosts the program that also features a visit to the Pennyroyal Museum in Hopkinsville.

Warren, internationally known as one of the premier American writers of the 20th century, had his roots in Kentucky. Born in 1905 in Todd County, "Red," as he was known, drew upon his native landscape for inspiration. Much of his work features southern themes and small-town characters and events.

Warren's most famous novel, "All the King's Men," a fictionalized look at the life of Louisiana Gov. Huey P. Long, won a Pulitzer Prize for fiction. Later, the book was made into an Academy Award-winning movie.

Warren's successes, however, were not limited to fiction. The first poet laureate of the United States, Warren twice received the Pulitzer for poetry with his collections, "Promises" and "Now and Then."

Edgar Cayce made his name in the first half of the 20th century as a psychic healer, perhaps the most famous the United States ever produced. During his lifetime he was credited with assisting thousands of people suffering from all manner of ailments. Both Cayce and Warren are featured in Hopkinsville's Pennyroyal Museum, where Kentucky Life takes viewers to discover clues to times gone by in western Kentucky.

Kentucky Life is produced and directed by Joy Flynn. Series writer is Ellen Ballard. Segment producers for this program are John Fitch and Megan Moloney. Craig Cornwell is executive producer.

Nuts on Turner Branch

Leisure, Smile awhile

Nuts on Turner Branch

There's an old song by Johnny Horton that goes something like: "They ran through the briars, And they ran through the brambles, And they ran through the bushes where the rabbits couldn't go..." That old song was brought home this past weekend when "Nuts" escaped.

I'm probably getting ahead of myself, so let me start at the first. By Nuts, I'm referring to Anna and Chuck (and more specifically Mickey) Melvin's pet schnauzer named after our old friend David Michael "Peanuts" Kazee.

I felt sorry for Nuts after learning he was facing a week's sentence in a strange kennel due to a series of circumstances, so I volunteered to dog-sit for a few days. Little did I know.

After attempting to mark his territory on our carpet, Nuts quickly fell into the role of watchdog. And what a watchdog he was. No matter who he was with and in what room, he evidently felt the need to attack anyone else who intruded.

He could be snuggling with me on my bed, but as soon as he would hear my husband, Ronnie, approaching from the hallway he went into his "attack" dog mode which on more than one occasion backed Ronnie into a corner.

However, if Ronnie were lying on the couch watching TV with Nuts at his feet gnawing on a chew bone (a Norman Rockwell painting if I ever saw one) and I walked into the room, Nuts would behave as if he'd just seen a strange cat and go in this "killer" act again.

And he would do the same thing with mother. Whoever Nuts was with was his "best friend" and Lord help anyone else who infringed upon his space. In other words, if Nuts were in a room with anybody and anyone else wanted to enter that room, they did so at their own risk.

And now to the big adventure. Of course, the thing about house dogs is the nature of the beast requires that they be walked several times a day. So it was during one of these walks that I was talking with my neighbor, Clifford VanHoose, who lives up Lucy Lane behind our house.

I thought I had Nuts firmly secured on the 20-foot retractable leash that I was gripping in my right hand when a cat darted across our path and shot up the hill toward the woods. You would have thought that someone had set a cherry bomb under Nuts' tail as he charged up the hill after that cat, taking part of my fingernail with the leash handle which now trailed 20 feet behind him.

This cat quickly outwitted Nuts by running behind a tree, and once out of sight of the pursuing dog, scrambled up the first branch about 10 feet off the ground. Nuts, still in hot pursuit, thought the cat had disappeared into the underbrush and just kept right on going. And going. And going.

I don't know at what point Nuts realized that he was lost and decided to give up on the cat, but I do know that he was nowhere to be heard or seen. I immediately alerted Ronnie to the emergency which meant that he was the one who was going to "hit the bush" and not me.

And, boy did he hit it. According to Ronnie, Lewis and Clark had it easier. After a scary expedition that took him nearly to the big power towers and back (he was nearly attacked by two wild turkeys who came exploding out of the undergrowth), I called out to him that I had finally located Nuts.

The poor little thing (Nuts, not Ronnie) seemed to be hung up and was perched on the edge of a 25-foot cliff that runs parallel to the highway. He could easily be seen and acted as if he wanted to jump down to me, and probably would have, except, as I would find out later, he was hopelessly entangled.

In fact, when Ronnie got to him (that was the fun part and I'll come back to it in a minute), he found his 20-foot leash was wrapped around three trees and a bush and had stopped the dog six inches short of going over the edge. Ronnie said if dogs had guardian angels, Nuts surely had one that day, because he would have certainly hung himself had he had one more foot of leash.

And now for the briars and the brambles. In order to get to Nuts, Ronnie, who had not foreseen the density of a briar patch that would have given Brer Rabbit, a heart attack, tried to navigate his way through the entanglement by stepping on the bottom stems of the briar brushes thus pressing them down so that he could carefully walk on them like a carpet. Bad idea!

At one point, when his prickly carpet was nearly three feet thick, his foot slipped and Ronnie tumbled head-long downhill and was consumed by a man-eating briar patch.

This happened two more times before he finally reached Nuts, who was scared and uncooperative. Probably because he was facing what looked like a bloodied maniac screaming cuss words in decibels even a dog would have a hard time picking up.

And the tough part was yet to come. The briars, which Ronnie had fallen on and through, were now pointed downhill. So not only did he have to retrace his path back, but he had to do it uphill with a dog in his arms. The poor little thing (Ronnie, not Nuts) said the dog was too traumatized to walk anyway.

Finally, bloodied but unbowed, and after a near heat-stroke, Ronnie came limping down the hill with Nuts in tow. However, he had the last word when he handed me the leash and without knowing it created his own Aesop-like moral, worthy of being cross-stitched and framed on Grandma's wall: "Always keep a firm grip on your Nuts."

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

by CHUCK SHEPHERD

On July 4 at Coney Island in New York, Japan's Kazutoyo "The Rabbitt" Arai (who weighs 101 pounds) beat defending champ Steve Keiner (400 pounds) in the annual Nathan's international hot-dog-eating championship. Arai gobbled up 25 in 12 minutes, to Keiner's 16. Slim Japanese eaters have frequently won the contest, which struck Keiner as "one of God's mysteries," but another bulbous former U.S. champ, Ed Krachie (who ate 15 this year), once postulated the "Belt of Fat" theory, that surrounding fat limits stomachs' expansion.

Researcher Peter Cochrane of British Telecommunications continues development of his "Soul Catcher" brain-implanted microchip that he believes some day will be capable of recording all of a person's chemical reactions in all senses so as to capture "a lifetime's worth of experience and feeling," according to a June New York Times report. (Already, doctors at a Veterans Administration hospital believe they have trained a patient whose ability to communicate was shut down by a brain-stem trauma; after an implant, he can order a cursor around merely by thinking of where he wants it to go.)

THE ART OF PROTEST

In June, a British housewife held an appliance repairer hostage in her home for three hours until the company agreed to replace the faulty washing machine it had sold her and been unable to fix (Somerset, England). In April near Milan, Italy, about 30 voters showed up at the polls wearing only underwear, somehow in protest of excessive airport noise. In May, an unidentified man burst into a congressional hearing in Washington, D.C., armed with jagged-edged soda bottles and threatened to kill himself if someone didn't stop Pepsi from selling sodas to eastern European countries.

UNCLEAR ON THE CONCEPT

In May, the Maricopa County (Arizona)

District Library announced that it had received a 15,000-book donation from a drive sponsored by the Cracker Barrel restaurant chain, a campaign that altogether distributed more than one million donated books. However, the Maricopa County gift consisted of 1,000 pasta cookbooks, 200 copies of a book on Windows 95 software, and 11,796 copies of the same children's book, "What Would Happen If ..."

In April, the New Hampshire legislature voted to correct its law on penalties for sex abuse of children. Adults convicted of aggravated sexual assault on a child in New Hampshire can receive up to 20 years in prison, but until the new bill actually becomes law, molesting one's own child still draws a maximum of only seven years.

Well, Sure!

Queens College (New York City) professor Harvey Baker told The New York Times in May that he had a dynamic new method for helping people overcome even intense fears of tarantulas. However, he had fallen far short of the 100 volunteers he needed to demonstrate the method because few people who have extreme tarantula phobia would participate in his study.

In February, Patrick Lee Harned, 17, who is jailed in Astoria, Oregon, on charges that he killed a 7-year-old girl at the command of the voices in his head, turned to convicted serial killer Keith "Happy Face" Jespersen, serving a life term at the Oregon State Penitentiary, for advice on prison life, girls and, of course, defense strategy. Wrote Harned, "I just want to get my time done and do good and get married and have a kid and have a better life and walk on the beach with my wife, kid, family, and have a better life with help, amen. What can I do?"

An April New England Journal of Medicine article reporting the results of automobile whiplash claims in Saskatchewan before and after the province switched to no-fault insurance revealed that whiplash was much more common under the "fault" system. According to a commentator, part of the result might be due to vic-

WOMEN AT WORK

by TAMARA JONES

The National Republican Convention will take place this week from July 31 to Aug. 3. The National Democratic Convention takes place Aug. 14-17. Both events will be covered by the media's big guns, including CNN's distinguished news anchor, Judy Woodruff.

I pointed out to Woodruff that when I speak to young women, they seem to be surprised that it wasn't so long ago that women didn't anchor news desks, let alone take on the coverage of major events such as conventions.

"I know," Woodruff said. "And, I suppose that's all right as far it goes. We should accept it as perfectly normal that women are doing these things. But I think it's also important that young women understand that these opportunities didn't come easily. No matter how qualified a woman might have been, there was a time when she still had to face the bias that had for so long kept women out of these positions."

Today, there are far more of these hard-won opportunities opening up for women in broadcast journalism. I asked Judy Woodruff what advice she would have for a young woman just starting college who hopes for a career in the field.

"I would encourage her to take as many courses as she can in history and English," Woodruff said. "She should develop strong writing skills. I would also urge her to expand her interests and learn as much as she can about, well, everything. You can never tell when you'll need to rely on some piece of information you learned at some point."

I'll have more from my interview with Judy Woodruff in an upcoming column.

REPLY TO GRACE IN MONTANA:

Like you, many women leave their jobs to raise their children. This, however, reduces contributions to their Social Security accounts and that, in turn, reduces their retirement benefits. However, women's groups are pushing for legislation that will allow the Social Security Administration to credit the accounts of anyone who took time out to do the important work of family care.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN:

Leo was blamed for setting up the Virgin Victor Web site. Stuart wrestled with his confused memories about a car accident. Meanwhile, Eliot overheard Arlene talking to Marilyn about an auto accident. Edmund demanded that David and Dixie reveal Dimitri's whereabouts. Erica turned down David's proposal when he refused her one condition. Wait to See: Brooke and Eliot grow closer. Alex has an uneasy reaction to a scent in Dimtri's room.

AS THE WORLD TURNS:

Julia made an important life-changing decision. Emily and Jake were stunned by what happened when Molly decided to warn David. Bryant's unwelcome "visitor" forced him to come to terms with the truth. Carly's plan began to take shape. Wait to See: Lives are endangered by a terrifying car crash. Carly learns something that could change her situation.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL:

Brooke discovered her menacing intruder was Kimberly. A defiant Thorne told Stephanie he won't give up Brooke even if Stephanie disowns him. Meanwhile, Kimberly visited Macy's grave and vowed that Brooke would never have Thorne. C.J. was upset with Amber's "guests," including Ash, and told Amber to send them packing. Meanwhile, a jealous Sam (who thought Amber was after Ash) planted marijuana and Ecstasy in the apartment and called the police. Amber and Sam were arrested and baby Eric was taken by child protective services. Wait to See: Kimberly's revenge begins.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES:

Craig and Nancy tried to bolster their positions in Salem society. Tensions mounted between Bo and John over John's growing involvement with Hope's baby. Mimi was overwhelmed by her deplorable living conditions. Eric told Roman he was leaving town and that despite his father's disapproval, he loves Nicole. Later, in a hurry to get to Nicole's place, Eric tried to outrun a freight train. Wait to See: Brady returns to Salem.

GENERAL HOSPITAL:

Stefan mulled over how he might use Chloe's psychic abilities. Lucky and Nikolas realized someone else killed Ted and framed Emily. Later, the two ambushed the woman who attempted to blackmail Emily. Tony alerted Jax that Helena was asking about Chloe and the new medication. Taggart was stabbed coming to Mike's defense in his fight with two thugs. Wait to See: Chloe dreams that Helena will kill her.

GUIDING LIGHT:

Richard and Cassie discussed the issue of producing an heir. Holly reached out to help Blake with her writer's block. Danny accepted Carlo's dangerous offer. Olivia made Josh believe Reva's absence caused him to lose out on an important deal. A livid Rick discovered Abby's birth control pills. Claire vowed to stop Michelle from having a child with Danny. Wait to See: Beth threatens Phillip.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE:

Bo decided to delay Matthew's DNA test. Meanwhile, Melanie made Bo believe she's returning to Colin. Nora managed to get a note to Will (who remained locked in Colin's basement) and he realized she was still alive. Skye used Daniel to get to Max. Later, a stunned Rae came face-to-face with Daniel who refused to reveal their daughter's whereabouts. Wait to See: Lindsay and R.J. strike a dangerous deal.

PASSIONS:

Ivy swore to Sam that she never told him that Ethan was his son. Timmy removed the evil pendant from Grace before she could choke Tabitha to death. Later, Charity put on the pendant and saw a vision of her mother, Faith, in the fire, urging her to embrace evil. Ivy tried to get Julian away before a nurse revealed too much about Ethan's birth. Wait to See: Grace tells Julian about the hospital's birth records.

PORT CHARLES:

Ian encouraged Lucy to start the new clinic at the hospital. Jamal feared Cedric might get to Alison. Courtney learned Joe could be HIV-positive and confronted him about it in front of his mother and the staff. Lucy reached out to a troubled Livvie. Rachel continued to have delusional dinners with her mother. Wait to See: Chris realizes where he's seen Livvie before.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS:

Nick told Sharon and Nikki he'll hire Carter (actually, Matt Clark after his plastic surgery) to work at the coffeehouse if his references check out. Jack told Jill Victor's relationship with Ashley could hinder Jabot's efforts to deal with Victor's lawsuit. Dru told Malcolm she and Lily will move in with Neil. Chris told Michael she and Paul were going to start a family. Wait to See: "Carter" starts his plan of revenge against Nick.

- Soap Scraps -

by SALLY STONE

Postings on the Internet are largely critical of the decision by "The Bold & the Beautiful" to let Macy (Bobbie Eakes) die in a car explosion just moments after her estranged husband, Thorne (Winsor Harmon) rescued her rival, Brooke (Katherine Kelly Lang). Thorne turned back to get Macy, but everything went "boom" before he could pull her out of the wreckage.

The soap reportedly took the action because they didn't know what else to do with the character.

The fans, however, point out that B&B's usual pattern of dealing with such situations is to send the characters into some sort of limbo. They cite James (Ian Buchanan), Sheila (Kimberlin Brown), Adam (Michael Swan) and most of the Logans, Spencers and assorted Forresters as examples of characters who were written off, not killed off.

But lest we forget — this is a soap, and Macy could still return with some sort of explanation to

Reis named art gallery coordinator at MSU

Jennifer Reis of Cincinnati has been named art gallery coordinator in Morehead State University's Department of Art, effective July 1.

She will be responsible for organizing and coordinating the shows in the main gallery of Claypool-Young Art Building, which includes the installation of the exhibits. She also will teach two sections of Understanding the Visual Arts and will manage MSU's permanent art collection.

Before coming to MSU, Reis was photographic services coordinator for the Cincinnati Art Museum where she coordinated large photography projects, including institutional catalogues. While working as a member of the exhibition crew for Cincinnati's Contemporary Arts Center, she assisted with preparation and registration of the exhibits and supervised the packing and shipping of contemporary artworks. She is a former instructor at the Visual Arts Association in Louisville.

Reis earned a B.F.A. degree in printmaking in 1996 from the Columbus (Ohio) College of Art and Design where she was the recipient of scholarships from the college and the John Dudley Chamberlain Memorial. She received her M.A. degree in museum studies in 1998 from Syracuse (N.Y.) University.

After graduation, Reis was a registration assistant and editor of the "DepARTment Anthology," a book of children's artwork and poetry at Columbus Museum of Art and served as an intern at the Herbert F. Johnson

Jennifer Reis

Museum of Art at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y.

Active in professional organizations, she is a member of the American Association of Museums and the Visual Resources Association.

Raised in North Canton, Ohio, Reis is the daughter of Vincent and Theresa Reis of Minerva, Ohio.

Additional information on upcoming exhibits in MSU's Department of Art is available by calling 606/783-5446.

KET celebrates KY music with special presentations of Jubilee

The best of bluegrass, jazz and rock blend harmoniously as KET presents some of the most popular episodes of "Jubilee" in a special, four-night celebration of the rich diversity and talent featured in Kentucky's summer music festivals, airing Monday through Thursday, August 7-10.

On Monday, August 7 at 10 p.m., "Jubilee" spotlights acclaimed guitarist Nils Lofgren's classic rock.

In his stellar career, Lofgren has released 10 albums, performed with celebrated artists such as Neil Young, Ringo Starr and Rod Stewart and is currently touring with Bruce Springsteen as an original member of the legendary E Street Band. Lofgren's performance was taped at the 1998 Master Musicians Festival in Somerset.

Next, on Tuesday, August 8, at 10 p.m., the Bernard Allison Group lights up the "Jubilee" stage with riveting blues. Son of the late blues superstar Luther Allison, the younger Allison has become a great guitarist in his own right—as well as a distinguished vocalist and songwriter.

Taped at the 1999 W. C. Handy Blues Festival in Henderson, the performance showcases Allison's scorching guitar licks, thick tone and mature vocals.

Then, on Wednesday, August 9, at 10 p.m. "Jubilee" features the award-winning, traditional bluegrass of IIIrd Tyme

Out. Since forming in 1991, IIIrd Tyme Out has been named "Vocal Group of the Year" five times by the International Bluegrass Music Association (IBMA).

The performance, taped at the 1999 Festival of the Bluegrass at the Kentucky Horse Park, features their signature quartet singing that has become the standard by which other contemporary groups are judged.

Finally, on Thursday, August 10, at 10 p.m., a premiere episode of "Jubilee" features bluegrass performances by the Daltons and the Kettleheads recorded at last summer's Master Musicians Festivals in Somerset.

The Daltons, a family trio hailing from Pulaski County, specialize in southern gospel with a touch of bluegrass. Noted for their sweet harmonies and virtuoso instrumentals, Jeff, Randy and Kim Dalton recently released their new single "Among the Thorns" nationally.

Next, Kentucky natives, the Kettleheads, featuring Tom Minton, R.C. Emerson, Steve Couch and Owen Reynolds, take the stage with their unique blend of progressive bluegrass and jazz. Their four-part vocal harmonies and innovative bluegrass instrumentals shine with fire and finesse.

"Jubilee" is a KET production, produced and directed by H. Russell Farmer.

KET presents "Lucy," an original work featuring Louisville Ballet, Orchestra

Inspired by the 1974 discovery of "Lucy"—a 3.2 million-year-old hominid skeleton—in the Hadar desert of Ethiopia, Kentucky composer Shirl Jae Atwell set out to interpret her vision of "Lucy's" world.

Paired with choreographer Alan Jones, artistic director of the Louisville Ballet, Atwell's vision came to life in the form of a modern-dance work, named for its inspiration.

Presented by the Louisville Ballet with The Louisville Orchestra, "Lucy," airing Tuesday, August 8, at 8 p.m., on KET, is a thoroughly modern piece that draws from the worlds of classical composition and tribal tradition. The ballet explores the earth of more than three million years ago, interpreting how our human-like ancestors might have viewed that chaotic world.

"Lucy" stands out as a crowning achievement for all parties involved. Visually stunning and musically arresting, it is choreographed, scored and performed by Kentuckians. The show recently received a regional Emmy Award for best "Arts and Culture" program and garnered a certificate of merit from the Gabriel Awards.

"Lucy" is a KET production, produced by Vince Spoelker.

KET production documents women's contributions to Kentucky's public affairs

Cora Wilson Stewart established moonlight schools for adult literacy education in Rowan County. Josephine Henry fought for married women's property rights. Georgia Davis Powers became the first woman and first African American to hold a Kentucky Senate seat.

Whether in education, health care, public service or political office, women have shaped Kentucky in fundamental ways.

Airing on KET, Sunday, August 6, at 10 p.m., "Women of Kentucky: Our Legacy, Our Future," offers a historical look at women's struggle to gain—and maintain—a voice in Kentucky's public affairs.

Hosted by Dawne Gee, of Louisville's WAVE-TV, the documentary explores the history of women's social activism in Kentucky from the proud successes of early education reform, women's suffrage and civil rights to issues of wage disparity and unequal political representation facing women in 2000.

Through interviews with Kentucky women professionals, public activists and politicians, "Women of Kentucky: Our Legacy, Our Future," examines women's social progress and the challenges they continue to combat. Featured women include former Gov. Martha Layne Collins (D); U. S. Rep. Anne Northrup (R); State Rep. Eleanor Jordan (D); Dr. Penny Miller, associate professor of political science at the University of Kentucky; Dr. Anne Butler, director of the Center for Excellence for the Study of Kentucky African Americans at Kentucky State University; Kathy Hockersmith, president of the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association; and Tori Murden-McClure, the first woman and first American to row solo across the Atlantic Ocean.

"In order to see more women vote, work on community issues and run for elected office, we know we must find a way for young women—and men—to learn about the many outstanding Kentucky women whose lives provide excellent models," asserts Genie Potter, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women.

"Women of Kentucky: Our Legacy, Our Future" is part of a four-part project created through a partnership of KET, Kentucky Commission on Women and Kentucky Department of Education, to raise awareness about the contributions of Kentucky women, past and present.

In addition to the TV program, the "Our Legacy, Our Future" project also includes a color poster, Web site (www.womeninkentucky.com) and a teacher's research guide.

Gov. Paul Patton and first lady Judi Patton provided funds to send this educational packet to every Kentucky public school and library.

The program, produced by Elaine Walker, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Viewers can find out about more programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Pleasant Hill Craft Fair August 5-6

Fine craftspeople from Kentucky, the South and Midwest come together in a casual park-like setting during the fifth annual Pleasant Hill Craft Fair scheduled for August 5-6. The two-day event promises to be the biggest event ever held at Shaker Village.

The Pleasant Hill Craft Fair will be open to the public, from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., both days. It features more than 60 craftspeople, who have been selected through a strict jury process, that will be making and selling their traditional work on site.

In addition to the Craft Fair, visitors will have an opportunity to take a living history tour of this National Historic Landmark at a greatly reduced ticket price. Village admission is $5 both days for adults and youth, 12-17, $2.50 for children age 6-11. Children under 6 are admitted free when accompanied by an adult. (The reduced admission price does not include horse-drawn carriage rides).

The village tour includes a self-guided, living history tour of 15 restored buildings, working craftspeople, Shaker music performances, and historic farm demonstrations. If fair-goers do not have reservations for the Shaker Village dining room, they can dine at the Summer Kitchen and additional food vendors will be on site.

Also, on Sunday, August 6, Shaker Village will be celebrating Mother Ann Day, which commemorates the 1774 arrival of Shaker founder Ann Lee to the American Colonies. During Mother Ann Day, there will be special music performances at 2 and 4 p.m.

Shaker Village is located seven miles east of Harrodsburg and 25 miles southwest of Lexington on US 68. For more information on the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill Craft Fair, call (800) 734-5611.

Stanton Corn festival

The 11th annual Stanton Corn Festival, presenting some of the best of Kentucky handmade crafts and music, will be Saturday, August 5, and Sunday, August 6, in Stanton.

The musical concerts will be featured on Main Stage and are free and open to the public. The concerts begin at 11 a.m., on Saturday, and at noon on Sunday. They run continuously both days.

The festival will feature plenty of fun for all ages with activities for children, and food from around the world. All craft exhibitors open at 10 a.m. both days.

Special events throughout both days include craft demonstrations, clogging and line-dancing exhibitions. A 5K-Run begins at 8 a.m. on Saturday and a beauty pageant open to anyone at 6 p.m. Saturday evening. A car show is set for Sunday with more than 200 cars on display.

The Stanton Municipal Park is located off the Mountain Parkway at Exit 22. Just follow the large ears of corn painted on the streets to the festival. The park is disability accessible, including restrooms.

The exhibit area is completely shaded by large trees. The times are Saturday, 10 a.m. until dark, and Sunday, 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

For more information, call Dallas Pelfrey at 606/663-2271 (daytime).

History Center slates programs

by KELLI SUMMERS

KENTUCKY HISTORY CENTER

As usual, there is a lot going on at the Kentucky History Center. There is literally something for everyone, so read through this list and mark your calendars to come to historic downtown Frankfort!

The Kentucky Historical Society will again host "Kentucky Literary Journeys," a book discussion group led by the state Poet Laureate Richard Taylor, which focuses on Kentucky authors this fall. The cost for the four-part series is $25 and includes background reading materials and a "novel" dessert to be served at each session.

These lively discussions will take place on the first Thursday of each month starting in August. This year's reading list includes:

- "The Memory of Old Jack" (1974) by Wendell Berry, August 3

- "Weeds" (1923) by Edith Summers Kelley, September 7

- "Night Rider" (1939) by Robert Penn Warren, October 5 and

- "Come and Go, Molly Snow" (1995) by Mary Ann Taylor-Hall, November 2

Richard Taylor will join the Kentucky Historical Society again this year as discussion leader. Taylor is a professor of English at the Kentucky State University.

August's Center Scene event will take place on Thursday, August 17, and will bring a Mexican fiesta to the History Center. Admission is free to KHS members and $5 for non-members.

On the third Thursday of each month, the public is invited to meet at the Kentucky History Center for culture, cuisine, cocktails and conversation. Center Scene offers the opportunity for participants to become acquainted with the History Center's exhibits and programs while networking with other professionals or just visiting with friends. Call Julia Curry for reservations at 502/564-1792, ext. 4414.

Two Saturday events highlight the newest exhibits at the History Center. On Saturday, August 12, children and their families can learn more about John James Audubon and the Kentucky birds and wildlife he painted.

This Super Saturday will take place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Children need to be accompanied by an adult and groups of 10 or more must register. Call Jennie Bare Boyd at ext. 4424 for more details.

A Firearms Collector's Day on August 19 provides an opportunity for firearms enthusiasts to come together for advice and information concerning the proper care, storage and display of antique weapons.

Contact Joan DiMartino at ext. 4467 for more information or to receive a registration form.

CRITTERS CORNER

by CAROL COMBS-MORRIS, DVM

I've been forced into watching lots more TV than usual since my back surgery; I've surfed 'til I expected the remote to self-destruct. I have also discovered that it doesn't much matter; Steve Irwin seems to be on every channel.

The first few times we saw The Crocodile Hunter, Pat sat in front of the screen, eyes bugging, repeating over and over, "That guy's CRAZY!" He admitted the other night, however, that the show was growing on him: "You know," he said, "I really like this program, but I'm a nervous wreck by the end of the show."

Could it possibly be that it hits a little too close to home? We've logged some time ourselves stalking critters. Stray dogs and cats are our usual targets, but the list includes several other species.

Injured birds, an assortment of wayward frogs, lizards and ground squirrels who didn't belong in the house, terrapins on the center line of the highway, a few horses, and once, an escaped Jersey cow on the Mountain Parkway are among our adventures.

I can think of very few close friends or family members who have not, at some point, accompanied me into places they would prefer not to go, in search of some fugitive animal.

It wasn't long before I began to fantasize about a local-access cable channel version of Steve's show. It would feature all the local "crazy animal people" and their adventures in rescue. Our exotic locales would include the weed patches, blackberry thickets, ditchlines, creeks, and garbage dumps of Floyd and surrounding counties.

Regular segments would include use of such essential equipment as fetch poles, snappy snares, and live traps. We would have visiting local experts explaining how to turn mundane household items into effective animal rescue equipment.

No muzzle? Once you know the proper knots, just use your shoestring. Do you have a clothes hamper, a couple of laundry baskets, or a minnow bucket? Then you do have a cat carrier!

We would demonstrate advanced techniques for luring in frightened pups, using only submissive body language and the loaf of bread for tomorrow's lunch.

Emergency first-aid measures would be illustrated as someone drains off their McDonald's Coke and uses the ice to treat an injured cat for heat stroke in the floorboard of the car. (Note the look of resolve on the driver's face as he turns on the flashers, hits the gas and aims for the nearest vet's office, trusting that his experienced assistant will be able to keep the seizing feline off his accelerator foot).

The tension would mount as the episode featuring the stray dog holed up under the neighbor's trailer unfolds. Will our heroes be able to capture and remove the snarling animal, using only a looped six-foot extension cord, without injury to themselves or the plumbing? Will they be able to get the underpinning back in place before the trailer's owner, who has no idea this is going on, comes home from work?

During the episode entitled "When Rescues Go Wrong," the audience would marvel at the ability of a woman to stand perfectly still while someone disengaged a dog who has its teeth sunk completely through her lower lip.

Pat doesn't think it would catch on. "Who would want to watch people crawling through a garbage dump after a dog?"

"Then again," he added after a few seconds, "you might have a shot on one of those Funny Home Video shows. Do I need to remind you that our last chase ended with you flat on your face in a cemetery, with your nose buried in an arrangement of plastic roses?"

No. He did not need to remind me.

"It's just not the same as chasing something really dangerous, like crocodiles or poisonous snakes," he continued. "I mean, sure, sometimes we end up with a bite or scratch, but so what—it's not like we're dealing with man eaters."

"What about the dog with the broken hip you and Trish rescued from beside the road? That would have been suspenseful," I countered.

"For Pete's sake, Carol," Pat rolled his eyes. "That dog was so happy to see us he would have jumped into our arms if he could have used all four legs!"

"That's not the point," I said. "Someone was finally coming to help him. You said that everyone else was just standing there afraid to get near him because he was a Pit Bull. This stuff doesn't look so tame to someone who doesn't do it all the time."

"Besides, it's not just minor injuries. I personally have contracted lice, mange and ringworm from these escapades, and if I hadn't already been vaccinated against rabies when I was in school, I would have had to have had shots at least three times."

"You should have been given a lobotomy the first time you mentioned Vet Medicine as a career."

He's not the first person to tell me that. I'm still optimistic about the show; we just need to work out some details. Don't be surprised if you see Steve Irwin in a local garbage dump; he'll be our first celebrity guest.

In other news: Lauralee Bell (Chris, "The Bold & the Beautiful") and her husband, Scott Martin, will welcome their first child in late January. Bell will start her maternity leave in December.

Starting August 2, Michael Sabatino (ex "All My Children," "As the World Turns," "B&B," "Days of Our Lives," "Sunset Beach") will be commuting to work on the "Guiding Light" set with his wife, Crystal Chappell, who plays Olivia on the soap. (His character's name was not available at press time.)

"Y&R" cast newcomer Russell Lawrence will appear as the rapist, Matt Clark. The role was previously played by Eddie Cibrian (ex Cole, "SB").

Rebecca Gayheart (ex-Hannah, "Loving," ex-Toni, "Beverly Hills 90210") and Sarah Michelle Gellar ("Buffy," ex-Kendall, "AMC"), will share the screen for the first time since "Scream 2" in the upcoming feature flick, "Harvard Man."

Peggy McCay (Caroline, "Days of Our Lives") plays James Dean's grandmother in the upcoming TNT film, "James Dean: An Invented Life." (c) 2000 King Features Synd., Inc.

Kentucky jazz and poetry highlight special presentations of "In Performance" on KET

Jazzy poetry and poetic jazz, highlight a special three-day showcase of some of Kentucky's most talented performers on KET's "In Performance at the Governor's Mansion," in August.

On Wednesday, August 9, at 9 p.m., KET premieres "The Poetry of Jazz/The Jazz of Poetry," a new presentation with musical performances by the Mike Tracy Quartet and vocalist Gayle King.

Complementing the jazz,

Frank X. Walker, "Affrilachian" poet and director of the Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts, and Governor's School for the Arts alumnae Shayla Lawson and Ellen Hagans share their poetry.

Leading up to the new presentation are two of the most popular episodes from the "In Performance" series. First, on Monday, August 7, at 9 p.m., the showcase begins with In Performance at the Governor's Mansion: "Bluegrass Royalty," featuring the legendary pickings of Sam Bush, J.D. Crowe and the Goins Brothers—performers who embody bluegrass music's deepest roots as well as the farthest reaching branches of its new sounds.

Then, on Tuesday, August 8, at 9 p.m., In Performance at the Governor's Mansion: "On the Road at the RiverPark Center, Owensboro" presents classical and gospel music by the Owensboro Symphony Orchestra, pianist Lee Luvisi, vocalist Alma Randolph and the Sutton Singers.

The programs are produced and directed by George Ramussen. Nancy Carpener is executive producer. The program is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

American Shorts "The Ryan Interview" starring Ashley Judd encores on KET

One of Kentucky's most famous daughters took a break from Hollywood's big screen to star in KET's local production of "The Ryan Interview," adapted from the short play by acclaimed playwright Arthur Miller.

American Shorts "The Ryan Interview," starring Ashley Judd, airs Wednesday, August 9, at 8 p.m., on KET and Friday, August 25, at 9 p.m., on KET2.

Judd plays an urban newspaper reporter assigned to do a piece on centenarian Bob Ryan, played by veteran actor Eddie Bracken. At first, Judd's character, Fredricka Rose, is irritated by the old man and the assignment. Eventually, however, she begins to listen to Ryan's stories. Doing so forces her to face his humanity and to evaluate the way she lives her own life.

"The Ryan Interview" was shot in high-definition video format on location in Lexington and Woodford County. PBS chose the production for its national schedule, and it will air on public television stations across the country in August.

American Shorts "The Ryan Interview," a KET production, is produced by Guy Mendes and directed by Boston-based director Fred Barzyk. The program is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

News of the Weird

tims gaming the system, but the results might also show that "if you have to prove you are ill, you can't get well."

UPDATE

A genre given up in this column four years ago as No Longer Weird has been resurrected by advances in science. It has been known for years that production of heat-trapping methane by livestock flatulence was a major contributor to global warming, but the 1997 Kyoto protocol created technology incentives to reduce the problem, such as the development in Scotland recently of special bacteria for animal feed that converts the methane to less-noxious carbon dioxide in cows' digestive systems, and an industrial Beano-type supplement developed by a Canadian firm to ease cows' belches and other emissions.

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

In June, according to police in Detroit, Dwayne Nolan was to meet his lawyer at a police station so they could fill out the paperwork to get Nolan's car back after it had been impounded in an alleged drug deal. As Nolan awaited the lawyer's arrival, officers noticed that Nolan was in fact the same man currently wanted locally for murder. Said Sgt. Joe O'Leary later: "I've never seen anybody actually walk into a station on another matter, obviously knowing he's wanted on a murder warrant." To make it official, an officer asked the lawyer, matter-of-factly, to identify a photo taken from the warrant, which he did (according to the police), and Nolan was arrested.

ALSO, IN THE LAST MONTH ...

A 23-year-old man died from a friend's punch to the chest, delivered only after the man begged to be hit to relieve his hiccups (Ocean City, Maryland). A vicious heat wave in Turkey was credited with saving a life when a suicidal woman on a mountainside swooned before she could leap, and was rescued. An America West pilot (who had flown the day before), riding as a passenger on an America West flight, went out of control, screaming, throwing things, and yelling "Get away from me," until he was restrained by the crew (Phoenix). A county judge (who is an opera fan) enlisted 21 jail inmates to be extras in a local production of Verdi's "Aida," earning community-service credits (Cincinnati).

The Kingsmen come to the New Barn Theater

To their credit, The Kingsmen can claim 14 number one hits and 27 top 10 singles, along with "Album of the Year" and "Song of the Year" in 1992. They are the recipients of nine Dove awards from the Gospel Music Association.

The southern gospel legends have performed all over the United States, including an appearance at the White House, for President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter. Renfro Valley Entertainment Center will welcome the Kingsmen to the stage of the New Barn Theater at 7 p.m., on Friday evening, August 25.

Tickets for this gospel event are $13 and $15.

Make plans now to spend this special weekend in Renfro Valley, where you can also see the Mountain Gospel Jubilee on Saturday afternoon, and stay for a performance by Charley Pride at 7 and 9:15 p.m., Saturday evening.

For information or reservations for these or any other Renfro Valley event call 800-765-7464 or 606/256-2638.

Signature encores biographies of two of Kentucky's premier authors on KET

Barbara Kingsolver and Bobbie Ann Mason are Kentucky natives shaping the face of American popular fiction. With novels that are both critically acclaimed and widely popular, the personal stories behind these women's creative genius are as compelling as their fiction.

Airing Sunday, August 6 at 9 p.m., on KET, "Signature: Barbara Kingsolver" profiles the Carlisle, native and author of works such as "Pigs in Heaven," "Animal Dreams" and "The Bean Trees."

Kingsolver is a politically-engaged writer whose themes show her concern about the environment, social justice and the survival of the family. Now living in Arizona, the author traces her political awareness to growing up in Kentucky.

"Kentucky is a place where you can't help seeing the difference between the haves and the have-nots," says Kingsolver. "It's a place that tends to breed firebrands—but with an overlay of southern kindness."

The Signature interview examines how Kingsolver adapted from what she calls a "wallflower" youth to an adult with an "aptitude for listening"—a gift that she puts to good use in writing her fiction.

Then, on Sunday, August 13, at 9 p.m., Signature: Bobbie Ann Mason" profiles Mason, a Kentucky author whose novels and short stories are a blending of tragedy and quirky comedy that comment on the dislocating pace of modern social change.

In the program, Mason visits her hometown of Mayfield, and explores the rich influence of that place and its people on her work. Mason discusses her award-winning novels, "In Country" and "Feather Crowns," and reads from her well-received story collections, "Love Life" and "Shiloh and Other Stories."

"Signature: Barbara Kingsolver," a KET production, is produced and directed by Guy Mendes. "Signature: Bobbie Ann Mason" is a KET production, produced and directed by Marsha Hellard.

20s. Their son, "I'll Stand for the Lord," made the Top 10.

The Hayes Family presents pure southern gospel family music. They have been on of the country's favorite family groups for more than 25 years.

The Shulers provide a mix of traditional and progressive southern gospel, with a hint of praise and worship and inspirational styling. They offer family harmony, heart-felt testimony and spirit-filled ministry.

The Joyaires have been traveling for 20 years and have 13 recordings to their credit. Their goal, they say, is to lead others to Christ and to be a blessing to everyone with their musical ministry.

For more information about the concert, call the MAC, toll-free, at 1-888-MAC-ARTS or locally 886-2623.

OMERTA,
by Mario Puzo
(Random House; $25.95)

"Omerta" is the last in the late Mario Puzo's mafia trilogy which so far has included "The Godfather" and "The Last Don." "The Godfather" shocked readers with its exposé of a criminal underclass that controlled illegitimate enterprises and corrupted public and private officials to maintain control. In fact, Puzo probably spotlighted the so-called Mafia more than any investigative agency or form of media, yet questions have remained regarding the validity behind Puzo's fiction.

However, there never was doubt about Puzo's compelling power as a storyteller. "The Godfather," a runaway bestseller, when transposed to the screen won a number of Academy Awards (Oscars). Though "Omerta" hardly rivals "The Godfather," it has that page-turner appeal that makes Puzo such a rousing read.

Don Raymonde Aprile, focus of "Omerta" in life and death, has survived the pressures from law enforcement and rival crime families to reach an old age in which he divests himself of all holdings except a number of banks. Aprile's two sons and a daughter were reared little aware of his activities.

That is not the case with Astorre Viola, the infant son of an elderly Sicilian Don raised by Don Raymonde. Astorre becomes the heir to Aprile's banks and his avenger when Don Raymonde is gunned down on the steps of New York's St. Patrick's cathedral.

Puzo was a master of plot and there are times when a blotter list would help in keeping score, but the excitement is constant as a breach in the "code of silence" (omerta) leads to the identity and eradication of Don Aprile's assassins.

Puzo had a unique style, one that will take a long time to replace.

Biography on KET examines Dvorak, inspiration he drew from America

When Antonin Dvorak came to America, his purpose was to direct the newly instituted National Conservatory, a school for American musicians.

Dvorak was charged with the duty of creating a uniquely American sound for a country still searching for its own identity. Inspired by his African-American composition students, he stirred controversy when he declared that the source for a unique American sound was found in "Negro melodies."

Airing Monday, July 31 at 10 p.m. on KET, "Dvorak and America" explores the life and times of the most celebrated Czech composer in history.

The one-hour special gives particular attention to Dvorak's sojourn to the U.S. in the early 1890s and the music that was influenced by his time here, including what is perhaps his most famous composition, Symphony No. 9 From the New World.

The program documents the life of Dvorak through his music, archival photographs, letters, diaries and interviews, including one with Dvorak's granddaughter, Vera Johnova.

Also featured are selections from Dvorak's compositions performed by the Czech Philharmonic. "Dvorak and America" is produced by Travelfilm Company, Czech Television and AVRO.

It has been a long time since Dean Hill of West Liberty bought his first Nikon's 35mm camera in Hong Kong.

As a Peace Corps volunteer in Thailand in 1978, Hill purchased a camera to document the people and the landscape where he worked. Now, more than 20 years later, Morehead State University is displaying one of his first exhibits in Special Collections, on the fifth floor of Camden-Carroll Library.

After two years in the Peace Corps, he sold his camera to help pay for a trip through Asia. It wasn't until about five years ago, that Hill decided to pick up a camera again.

A logger and a sometimes carpenter by trade, Hill now hopes to make photography his full-time profession. "I'm making my first push to make an income from my work," he said.

The MSU exhibit, which includes photographs of the Paint Creek and Paintsville Lake areas of Morgan and Johnson counties, will be on display through Monday, August 21. It may be viewed during the library's regular hours. The photographs are available for purchase.

Mainly self-taught in his craft, Hill has taken workshops to polish his skill. "They (the workshops) help you take what you've got and develop your own style," he said. The courses, plus traveling in Asia and the southwest and northwest United States, "helped me from behind the camera."

Hill's favorite shots are those taken early in the morning on Paintsville Lake, near his home. "At the crack of dawn, I go out with my coffee and my camera and wait for the light to get right," he said.

The photographs he chose for the library exhibit include "Morning Mist," "It's a Spring!" and "Peak of Colors."

"I tried to get some seasonal pictures and mystical-type shots with the fog," he explained. "It seems to fit in with the typical eastern Kentucky landscape."

Hill also has an exhibit at Hungerford's Gallery of Stone and Metal Arts in Lexington. Later this year, he plans to display and sell his photographs at the Morgan County Sorghum Festival in September, and Paintsville's Apple Festival in October.
