Fannin proposes merging fire, police

Measure would save money, mayor says

by KATHY J. PRATER
STAFF WRITER

Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin has formulated a proposal for submission before the city council that would involve fundamental change within the existing city fire and police departments.

The proposal calls for the elimination of the city fire and police departments as they now exist, and to replace them with a newly-formed city "public safety department."

Under this proposal, the fire and police departments and their personnel would be reorganized into one department, which would, according to Fannin, provide a monetary savings to the city.

As the two departments now exist, the fire department operates with a staff of 14 full-time firefighter positions and one part-time firefighter position. Within these positions, there exists one major, one captain, five sergeants, and eight firefighters.

The police department operates with a staff of 10 full-time positions. These include three sergeants and seven patrol officers.

Both departments have positions for chief and assistant chief.

In order for the two departments to be combined into one newly-formed Public Safety Department, six employees currently classified as firefighters, would be eliminated or required to obtain certification as police officers.

Those positions not filled in this manner would be filled by new hires capable of obtaining certification as both firefighters

Seven sent to hospital following bus crash involving five vehicles

by RALPH B. DAVIS
MANAGING EDITOR

For the second time in a week and the third time this school year, a Floyd County school bus has been involved in a wreck.

The latest incident happened shortly before the beginning of school Thursday morning at the entrance to Duff Elementary along Route 80.

In all, five vehicles were involved in the chain-reaction accident.

According to Kentucky State Police

Trooper John Hunt, an unidentified Knott County woman was driving her 1999 Dodge Ram pickup west on Route 80 when she slammed into a 1989 Ford Ranger pickup driven by Janet Miller of Langley as she was exiting the roadway to turn into the school.

Miller's pickup in turn rammed into the back of a miniature bus driven by Della Craft, number 1496, which was transporting special needs students to the school.

The force of the collision caused the bus to strike two other vehicles, a 1998

Chevrolet Silverado pickup driven by Cindy Vanderpool and an older model Pontiac sedan operated by an unidentified driver, both of which were leaving the school at the time.

According to Hunt, the accident may have occurred because the driver of the Dodge pickup was traveling with a dog in the cab with her.

"Distraction is going to be a contributing factor on her part," Hunt said.

Ray Shubinski, director of the East Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics and Technology (EKCSMT) has just recently returned from a weeklong trip to northern Italy.

Shubinski was in Italy from October 22-30. He had been selected from among the nation's leading planetarium directors and instructors to participate in a program sponsored by Learning Technologies Inc., parent company of the STARLAB Planetarium.

Each year, Learning Technologies selects an astronomy educator to visit Italy and teach lessons to students studying English through the utilization of STARLAB.

STARLAB is an inflatable planetarium that seats about 25 students, or 20 adults. The night sky is projected inside the balloon-like structure enabling students to literally possible measures that could be taken to correct certain issues and complaints voiced by certain members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

SPECIAL PREVIEW DAY TODAY!

Among the findings was a decision to possibly adopt and implement a different work schedule for fire department employees and to initiate change:

■ Through the use of fire department equipment for emergencies only or as approved by the mayor or city council. This would include non-use of the equipment during lunch hours and scheduled work hours.

■ A change to an eight-hour work schedule with shift supervisors in order to promote improved safety standards.

■ A decision to have the position of "Safety Officer" to be handled by Fire Chief Mike Wells and Sgt. Gary Dotson in order to relieve firefighter Mike Mays to return to regular duties.

At Wednesday's meeting, committee members held discussions that pertained to:

■ Whether or not to implement eight-hour or 12-hour work shifts.

■ The possibility of instating Gary Dotson as acting assistant fire chief.

■ The formation of work schedules that would need to be implemented if the decision was made to change to eight- or 12-hour shifts.

■ Discussion involving the cost to the city of providing ambulance service and the personnel needed to operate the ambulance.

■ Whether or not Fire Chief Wells would begin to serve as a shift supervisor.

Chief Wells submitted to the committee a proposed work schedule that involves the use of 12 department members per day operating on a 40-hour work week with two days off weekly per employee.

Wells said that in order to implement the schedule, he would need the city to hire two more fire department employees to supplement his staff of 15. The two would still be needed even with Dotson acting as assistant chief.

Wells said that he had one part-time employee who could possibly shift into a full-time position and that he might possibly be able to locate another full-time employee from among current volunteers. Wells mentioned that a new hire would have to be afforded the time needed for training.

Wells also expressed doubt as to his placement as a shift supervisor on the work schedule. Committee member Billy Ray Collins echoed this same doubt, saying that he thought it might prove to be too much for Wells to handle along with the responsibility that he already holds as fire chief.

Committee member Gorman Collins said that the move would be a temporary measure in order to ease the transition into a new work schedule and that after the transition, Wells would resume his regular duties.

A motion to adopt a new work schedule involving a 40-hour work week with two days off per week operating on an eight-hour work day with shift supervisors was approved. The new work schedule will go into effect on Monday, November 6, on a 30-day trial basis. Chief Wells will temporarily assume supervisory responsibilities over at least one shift.

Bruce Roberts, president of the Kentucky Professional Firefighters Union, had, at an earlier date, expressed "safety concerns" surrounding the implementation of an eight-hour work schedule. He said that he believes that a "24-hour on and 48-hour off" work schedule provides improved coverage in emergency situations. Roberts had hoped to meet with Mayor Jerry Fannin earlier in the week as a representative of local firefighters union #3298, but arrangements could not be made.

Fannin said that the city does not recognize unions and that he sees no need hold discussions with Roberts. He further said that he had talked with fire department employees and assured them that he was accessible and willing to talk at any time.

Only seven cities within the state of Kentucky do recognize local firefighter unions.

Roberts' comments on Wednesday afternoon about the decision to implement the eight-hour work schedule were that he thought that the decision was "ridiculous" and retaliatory in nature and was a veiled attempt to deliver a punitive measure against the fire department employees as a response to a website that was posted on the internet last week by local #3298 intended to be an endorsement for local community members Harry Adams, Richard Price, Jimmy J. DeRossett and Tom Hereford in their respective campaigns for election to the city council.

The website also makes accusations in connection with "wasteful habits of years past" and that current city council members support their own "pet projects" to the expense of "much-needed enhancements" to emergency services. Displayed on the site are photographs that show fire department equipment in seemingly ill repair.

Fannin, Wells and council member Gorman Collins Jr. have all made statements to the effect that the website is a "misrepresentation" of fire department equipment.

Chief Wells has said that his equipment is of quality standard and that it has received a class four ISO (Insurance Services Offices, Inc.) rating, the highest possible to receive.

ISO ratings are based upon surveys that examine fire trucks and fire equipment, fire hydrants, 911 services, maintenance records, yearly tests on equipment and hydrants and firemen and their certification.

Roberts went on to say on Wednesday that he intends to "move forward" with court action, if necessary, in order to place an injunction against the adoption of the new work schedule. He said that he has been in touch with the International Association of Firefighters, a nationally-recognized union that operates from offices located in Washington D.C., and that the members there share his concern over the adoption by the city of an eight-hour work schedule for the city's firemen.

In addition to the decision to adopt a new work schedule, other business was conducted that involved the submission of a proposal presented by Fannin to the committee that would implement some fundamental changes within the city's fire and police departments.

The proposal calls for the fire and police departments to be combined into one "public safety department" that would operate with 24 employees cross-trained to perform the duties of either department. The system has been tested and implemented in various cities throughout the south with success, Fannin said.

The committee members decided to meet again on Friday, November 3, to hold further discussions on issues of the proposal and to vote on presentation of the proposal to the city council for review.

The matter of city ambulance service and fiduciary concerns in conjunction with the service will also be presented for discussion on November 3.

Committee members in attendance were Mayor Jerry Fannin, Gorman Collins Jr., Billy Ray Collins, Trent Naim and Robert Allen II.

reach out and touch the stars.

A STARLAB program is operated locally through the EKCSMT's outreach program and is available to students in Regions 7 and 8.

Shubinski was stationed in the town of Brescia, which is located between Milan and Venice. Shubinski estimates that it has a population of between 250,000 to 300,000 people.

While there, Shubinski conducted approximately 18 programs for high school and college students, local teachers, and the public. He said that the experience was very educational and rewarding for both him and his various audiences.

Shubinski said that a broad range of age groups attended the public program and that the adults, as well as the children, seemed to enjoy themselves and many questions were asked. He said that the Italians especially enjoyed the segments on Native American Sky Lore, a favorite topic of Shubinski's.

"I have been very fortunate to know top-flight Native American storytellers," the science center director said. "An example of one of these sky stories is why the Big Bear in the Sky has a long tail. Bears on earth have very short tails. There's several clever and very amusing stories about this."

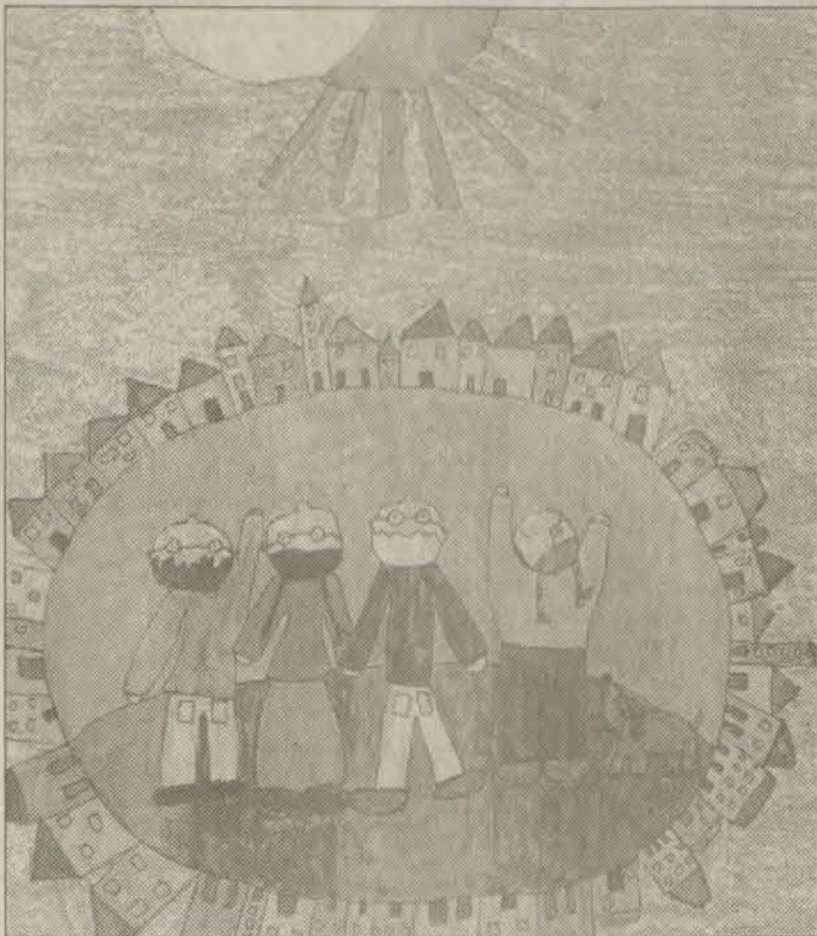

While in Italy, Shubinski presented astronomy programs on two topics, "Native American Sky Lore" being one, and "The Sky Tonight" being the other.

When studying "The Sky Tonight," the students learned about the current night sky, how to find objects in the sky, how the moon behaves, and how to read star maps.

Shubinski's knowledge about the stars and his extensive experience as a planetarium educator made him the strongest candidate for the program, according to Jane A. Sadler, president of Learning Technologies.

Shubinski was head of two of the largest planetariums in the United States — one in Arizona and one in Tennessee. He also started a science museum in El Paso, Texas.

Shubinski also captured the attention of Loris Ramponi, who is with the Serafino Zani Astronomical Observatory in Brescia. It was Ramponi who initiated the "Week in Italy" program about four years ago. The program is intended to be a vehicle to help the Italian students practice their English skills while taking instruction in astronomy and learning about STARLAB from an American "Eclipse," a postcard designed by Italian schoolchild Alessio De Min. The drawing depicted on the card was influenced by the child's visit to a STARLAB learning center in Brescia, Italy. The schoolchildren visit STARLAB on field trips and then return to school where they are allowed the opportunity to express their impressions of the trip and what they learned in a creative manner, either by way of artistic expression or written expression. Ray Shubinski, director of the East Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics & Technology hopes to encourage the development of a twin program here.

Ramponi was impressed with Shubinski's easy interaction with students.

"I am happiest when I'm interacting with kids or teaching," said Shubinski. "In some way, that must have come through", on the audiotape that was sent to Ramponi by way of introduction to Shubinski.

"When I teach in any format ... I literally start at the beginning with the rising sun, the motion of the sun, and then go on to the night sky. People get familiar with what they can go out and see tonight. I want them to know what these things are in the sky. That's the kind of approach that brings a lot of reality to the presentation," Shubinski said.

One event that made the trip to Brescia most memorable for Shubinski was the opportunity to work closely with Ramponi. He said that the exchange of ideas between the two men made for a fascinating experience.

He explained that the STARLAB planetarium uses a projector that holds what is basically a canister of film. By inserting different rolls of film, one is able to project varying images of the night sky onto the planetarium ceiling.

Shubinski said that Ramponi had purchased two projectors and that he uses them in conjunction with one another to create an astral galaxy for his audiences. Shubinski says that the result is a spectacular sight to behold.

Another event that made for an impressionable trip was the discovery of a public observatory nestled among the hills above Brescia. Shubinski said that the placement of the observatory on the hilltop created more of an unobstructed access to the stars.

Shubinski said that he would like to explore the option of constructing a public observatory in eastern Kentucky, perhaps on the Prestonsburg Community College campus or even atop Maggie Mountain on Kentucky Highway 321. Shubinski said that he has not yet had time to speak to any administrators or officials about the idea, but that he feels that it would be a great enhancement to the area both for the local community members and the tourists.

Shubinski brought back with him an array of vividly colored postcards that were produced by means of artwork done by Italian schoolchildren. According to Shubinski, Ramponi explained to him that the schoolchildren come to visit STARLAB on field trips and that when they return to their classroom, they are offered the opportunity to express their experience through the use of creative means such as painting or writing. The artwork, in particular, that they create is reproduced on postcards that are available for purchase to the general public.

According to Shubinski, Ramponi says that the teachers use this as an opportunity to blend science with art, and that the result provides for a positive exchange enjoyed by all.

Shubinski said that he would like to incorporate this idea into our regional STARLAB programs and perhaps even initiate an exchange of postcards between U.S. and Italian schoolchildren.

Shubinski hopes that his trip will bring greater attention to eastern Kentucky and the East Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics and Technology.

"One of the requirements of the program is that I must make a complete assessment of my experience. The report will be published in the International Planetarium Society's newsletter. That organization has members all over the world."

Shubinski also said that one of the most intriguing aspects of his trip to Italy was the opportunity to visit the country in which much of the science history he has studied and taught took place.

For more information about STARLAB and activities of the East Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics & Technology, or to schedule a visit, contact Ray Shubinski or Cathy Neeley, outreach specialist, at (606) 889-0303.

Dealing with dropouts

It's no surprise that failure in school is the chief factor that leads students to drop out.

Nonetheless, the findings from questionnaires completed by students who've dropped out of Kentucky schools over the past two years underscore just how often failure is the reason and how disconnected from school these students really are.

That can give educators some direction and suggest new strategies in dealing with the problem of dropouts.

According to data released this week by the state education department, some 47 percent of the students who dropped out over the past two years named failure — not jobs, not boredom, not pregnancy or any of the other reasons — as the reason they gave up on school.

Equally telling, six out of every seven also said they were not involved in any extracurricular activities.

"The message is a powerful one," said Education Commissioner Gene Wilhoit. "Schools need to look at what's going on in that classroom, but they need to make sure that all their children are engaged in activities where they can shine as a person, be a part of something."

In short, schools must strive to keep students connected to academics, of course. They must identify students with learning problems — particularly the core skill of reading — early on and get them the help they need to succeed.

But they also must seek to keep students connected to education — to engage school children in the school, in extracurricular activities and in the social fabric of the school as much as possible.

In other words, they must help students succeed as people, help them feel like they belong. This person building is essential.

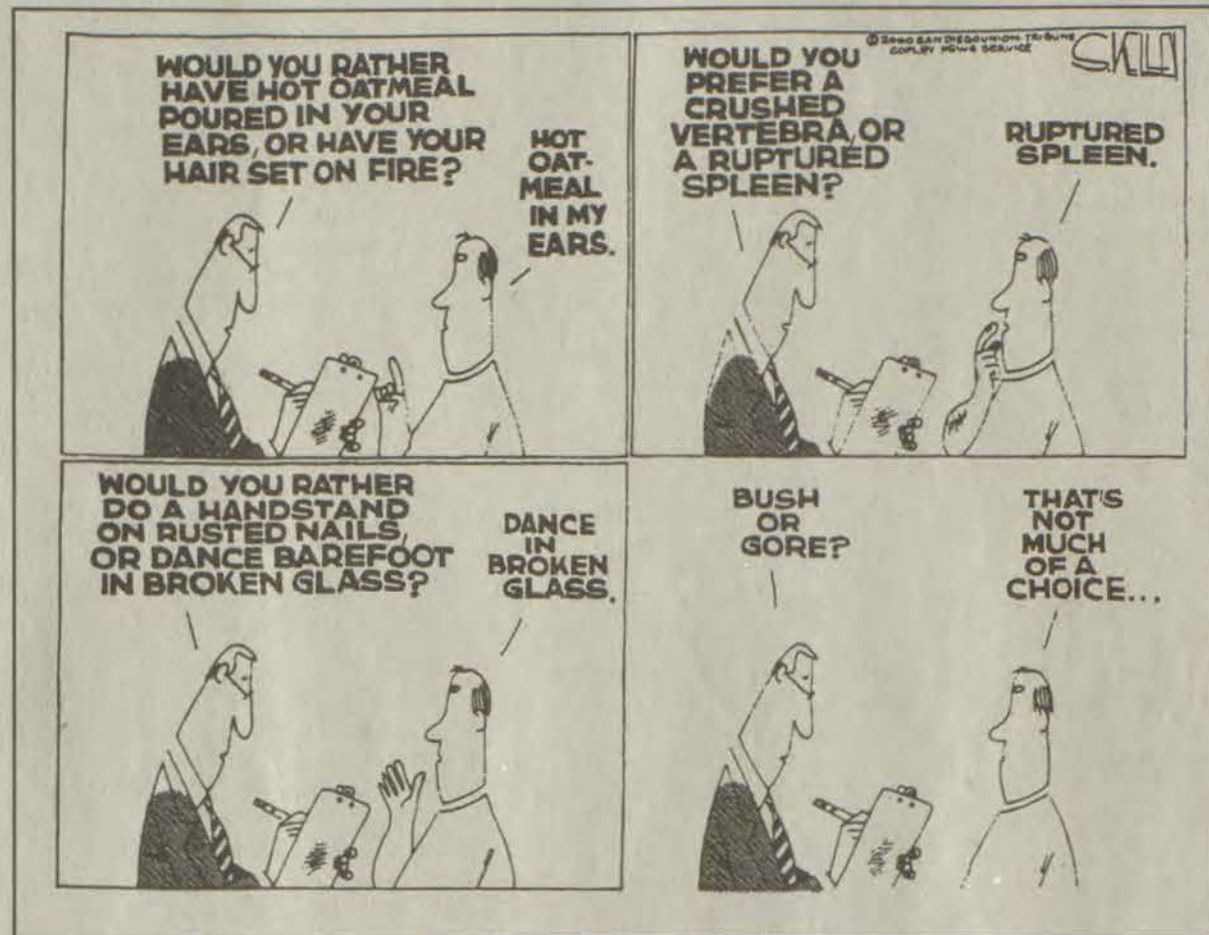

Finally, the schools must seek to engage parents, many of whom unfortunately are reluctant participants in the education of their children.

Parental factors that impact success in school — such as the educational attainment of the parents, the amount of time parents devote to their kids, the interest they have in school and the value they place on education — may be beyond the control of our schools. But they need not be beyond its influence. It will take renewed efforts by schools and all of the social structure to involve some parents, but it will pay off.

Despite 10 years of education reform that has as its essential tenet "all children can learn," Kentucky's dropout rate has remained for years around 5 percent.

It's time to do something about that. It's time to rescue students from failure as soon as it starts and keep them and their parents engaged in education.

Dogwood Drive residents appreciate blacktop

Editor:
We the residents of Dogwood Drive at Hunter would like to take a moment to thank the county for our newly blacktopped road. We would also like to thank Senator Johnny Ray Turner, Judge Paul Hunt Thompson, Commissioner Larry F. Stumbo and Sheriff John K. Blackburn for their help on this project.

Our road has been dirt and potholes for as long as it has been a road (mostly potholes). We greatly appreciate these leaders of our county for bringing us into the 21st century. Thank you once again.

Raising standards in our schools

Editor:
I am an English teacher who has spent his entire career teaching college freshmen how to write. I have taught English at the University of Nebraska, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Colorado, and the University of Wyoming.

I am also a life-long Democrat, and until recently, I thought the day would never come when I would vote Republican. This year, however, I'm voting for George Bush. I'm voting for him for one reason and one reason alone — he favors raising academic standards in our public schools.

For the last 10 years, I have taught English at Prestonsburg Community College. At PCC, I have a reputation for being a tough grader, despite the fact that I nowadays give Cs to student essays which I formerly would have flunked. I hate to admit it, but I have relaxed my grading standards in reaction to pressure from the PCC administration. If I hadn't done so, I would have lost my job.

At PCC, the subject of academic standards is never discussed. I have attended hundreds of department meetings, faculty meetings, and AFT meetings, but I am unable to recall a single occasion when the topic was ever brought up. At no time during my tenure at PCC has my department chairman, the dean of my division, or the president of the college ever complimented me for my well-known high standards.

On the contrary, they have often criticized me for grading too hard. My 1998 Faculty Performance Review, for example, was critical of my "exceedingly high standards." My reviewer recommended that "Dr. Perry should work on a more positive approach in assessing his students' compositions, because they continue to complain about how he responds to their work."

Several years ago, former PCC President Deborah Floyd called me on the carpet after receiving a complaint from a disgruntled student. He had received As on his high school English themes, but I was giving him Fs. When I explained to her that his essays were full of errors, her response was "This is Eastern Kentucky. Robert, not Harvard University. You need to lower your standards."

On another occasion, after I had privately pointed out the grammar errors in a memorandum composed and circulated by our Dean of Student Affairs, President Floyd called me into her office and demanded that I apologize to the offended party. She reminded me that one of our nation's most famous poets, e. e. cummings, had also flaunted the rules of grammar. His case proved, she said, that it wasn't necessary to know the rules of punctuation in order to communicate clearly.

In the Spring of 1998, a PCC colleague who was going up for full professor came to me and asked me to edit his "Educational Philosophy" essay. All professors going up for full professor are required to write such an essay and include it in their promotional folders. Since we were former drinking buddies, I agreed to help him. His essay was full of gross errors of grammar, so I rewrote it for him and he subsequently submitted it to the promotions committee as his own work.

During that same year, I, too, submitted an application for full professor. Imagine my surprise when, at the end of the semester, I learned that my colleague's application had been approved and mine had been turned down.

There is a teacher in my department who routinely gives all of his students As, regardless of their classroom performance. He is a very popular teacher, of course, and his classes regularly attract many students. The PCC administration regularly gives him high ratings, and several years ago he received the PCC "Best Teacher of the Year" Award. His philosophy, which might be called "the warm fuzzy school of teaching," is that the primary purpose of teaching is to nurture student self-esteem. This is a wrong-headed approach to teaching, and it is one reason why our schools are failing so badly.

The CATS scores recently released by the Kentucky Department of Education show that Floyd County Schools rank near the bottom when it comes to academic performance. Our district ranked 167 out of a total of 177 school districts statewide. If we want to solve this problem, we are going to have to start hiring courageous administrators who are committed to raising academic standards. We are going to have to start hiring teachers with liberal arts degrees from good colleges and universities — teachers who are willing to challenge their students and hold them to high standards. We don't need any more teachers of the "warm, fuzzy" school. That philosophy is bankrupt, and our test scores prove that it is bankrupt.

So I'm voting for George Bush. His call for higher standards makes it clear that he understands what's wrong with our public schools. With George at the helm, maybe we can fix them.

Through My Eyes

by Kathy Prater
Staff Writer

Treat all students the same

As the parent of two children who attend Adams Middle School, I am writing in order to voice my concern over a situation there that has been ongoing since the beginning of the school year.

The situation I am referring to is the loss of a band instructor at Adams. Kathy Caudill, who directed the program during the 1999 school year, accepted a position at Prestonsburg High School, leaving her position at Adams vacant.

When first I inquired about the change and expressed my concern about the situation, I was told that the situation was temporary and that a new teacher would be hired. I was told at a later date that no qualified applicants were available to accept the position. I was also told at one point by Ms. Caudill that she had offered to come to Adams for the last period of each day in order to provide instruction there, but that her offer had been turned down.

I purchased a musical instrument last year for my daughter and she took beginning band under the tutelage of Ms. Caudill. I watched my daughter go from not being able to make even a single sound come from her instrument to performing in the annual Spring Concert. I was amazed and very well pleased at the progress that the sixth grade band class made in such a short time. It was rewarding to see that my pleas to "just give it a try" actually turned into a self-satisfied feeling of accomplishment for my daughter.

My son, who entered the sixth grade this year, gave thought over summer break as to what instrument he would select at the beginning of the school year. Once again, I went through the series of doubts and possible scenarios of loss of free time and urged him, as I had my daughter the year before, to "just give it a try" for mom.

Needless to say, we were all disappointed at the turn of events. But, we managed to keep hope afloat and waited patiently for a new instructor to arrive on the scene.

November has now arrived and we are still waiting.

My urge to write this came in response to a sports column that ran in the October 29 issue of the paper. The column made reference to the fact that Ted George, former football coach at Betsy Layne High School, had relinquished his position there in favor of a new position as assistant principal at Adams Middle School.

Concern was expressed as to whether or not a new coach would be hired for the 2001 season. As the article stated, "football is an expensive adventure for any school...the sport, here in the county, does not generate that much revenue and puts a heavy financial burden on the school."

It also raises the question of whether or not the program will survive and whether or not there will be a coach who is interested in the position.

My guess? Most surely, yes, on both available at all times for emergency response. In an extreme emergency situation, the six employees who would be scheduled to provide relief to the six on-duty employees would also be available for emergency response, providing for a total of 24 officers available for emergency response if needed.

The proposal includes a cost analysis which indicates a savings to the city based on an average of the pay rates which are now in place. That savings is approximately $26,000 annually, so therefore, the proposed plan shows a savings in payroll monies while at the same time, increasing the number of people available for emergency response.

vehicles, equipment, or training. The figures are based on an approximate average pay rate of the current employees involved and include both current figures and a proposed pay increase.

cost the city $512,544 a year in salaries, for a savings of $26,876 a year. Fannin goes on to propose that an additional savings of $23,280 could be realized by utilizing one assistant chief that would be assigned to a regular 12-hour shift.

In summary, Fannin says his proposal could realize the city a savings of nearly $50,000 in annual payroll costs, while at the same time increasing the efficiency and effectiveness of its' emergency services personnel and at the same time achieving something that the city has never before been able to do — create equity for emergency services.

Lawsuit

Allen as petitioners. The city of Prestonsburg and Mayor Jerry Fannin are named as defendants.

The suit comes before the court in the form of a petition for declaratory judgment.

The residents are contesting the city's annexation on two grounds — that the annexation ordinance did not adequately describe the area to be annexed and that the council adopted the ordinance before the end of a 60-day period in which the residents could have protested the action.

The residents' lawsuit says that the 60-day period should have begun September 2 — one day after publication of the ordinance in The Floyd County Times — and ended on October 31. The council, however, finalized the annexation on October 19.

The residents also argue in their lawsuit that a petition they had filed in an attempt to block the annexation was improperly rejected by the city. At that time, the city had said the petition did not contain enough signatures to place the matter on the ballot, but the residents argue that it did.

The lawsuit asks for a judgement against Mayor Fannin and the City of Prestonsburg in deciding that the petitions presented to Mayor Fannin were valid and legally sufficient for certification by the county clerk for placement on the ballot at the next regular scheduled election.

A motion was filed on October 25, in conjunction with the lawsuit calling for a temporary injunction to halt further proceedings in connection with the annexation until judgment

Bus wreck

In all, seven people were taken to the hospital, including three from the bus.

The three bus passengers taken to the hospital included an elementary student and a middle school student, who were taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital. The third person, identified as April Couch, is a driver's aide. She was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center to be checked out because she is eight months pregnant.

Of the seven people taken to the hospital, the most seriously injured were Miller, who was suspected to have a broken leg or ankle, and her 14-year-old daughter, who suffered head and neck injuries.

Others taken to the hospital included Vanderpool and the driver of the Pontiac.

According to the bus driver, the accident came as a complete surprise. Craft, who said she has never been involved in an accident in 31 years of driving, said he wasn't sure at first what had happened.

"It all happened so fast, I wasn't sure what was happening," Craft said.

Craft remained at the scene to assist police and complete paperwork related to the crash and was not transported to the hospital. She did, however, complain of lower back pain.

Kentucky State Police, the Floyd County Sheriff's Office, Left Beaver Rescue Squad, Transtar Ambulance and the Martin Police Department all responded to the accident, which partially blocked Route 80 for two-and-one-half hours.

MES students 'put on hits'

McDowell Elementary School is sponsoring "Puttin' on the Hits" on November 3 at 6 p.m.

The event features students lip syncing to hit songs. The primary classes and more than 70 students in fourth, fifth and sixth grades will be performing, along with some staff members.

The program replaces the Fall Festival. Proceeds benefit projects at the school.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Eyes

counts. I also can't help but suspect that those who are in positions to uncover and locate qualified persons to fill such vacancies as those that exist within the Betsy Layne football program, as well as the one that exists within the music department at Adams, will pay special heed to the vacancy within the football program.

The band students at Adams have now gone without an instructor for the better part of the fall semester. Will the needs of the Betsy Layne football program go unattended to for an equal length of time? The answer remains to be seen, but I'm betting not.

Now I want to say that by no means at all do I wish to give the impression that I am not in favor of organized school sports. My son played on the Adams Middle School "B" team this past season and reaped much the same rewards from his participation in the program as did my daughter in her study of music.

School sports provide an opportunity for growth, both physically and mentally. They provide a forum for the development of self-confidence as well as a forum for personal bonding with teammates and coaches. There is much to be said for the involvement of our children in sports activities and the programs deserve our support.

But I believe that the arts also deserve our support and attention. And, much too often, I have observed that when cuts are to be made, it is the arts program that often suffers.

Literature, creative writing, art, photography, music, band — it takes these subjects, as well as sports, science and a basic curriculum, to create well-informed and well-educated children.

There are great positives to be gained from the study of music — the cognitive recognition of written music, the physical coordination involved in the manipulation of the instrument, as well, also, as personal bonding with teachers and classmates and the good feeling that comes from knowing that the individual part you perform helps to create a well constructed unified whole. Teamwork — as evident and important in the formation of an orchestra or band as it is in a football program.

So, therefore, I would like to encourage other parents to speak up about the absence of a band instructor at Adams. I would also like to urge our school officials to not put this situation on the back burner.

Often times, early exposure to an activity creates a passion that can be much more difficult to ignite in later years. So, if it is important to expose our young players early on to sports in order to ensure competence in the high school arena, can't the same be said for our band and orchestra programs? Don't we also wish to assure competence in this arena?

Those shiny trophies look great in the hallways of our schools, but it is also equally nice when our band and music programs win state and national recognition.

So, in closing, I wish to comment on the situation at Adams and to say that I have great hopes that I will soon see band instruction continue there.

Former Kentucky governors reminisce about their experiences in office

Not many states can boast having eight former governors still living. And now that Kentucky governors can run for a second term, such a situation may never occur again.

To recognize these former chiefs of the commonwealth, the Kentucky Broadcasters Association, as part of its annual fall meeting, has gathered them together in KET's studios for a roundtable discussion about their time in office.

"Recollections: Governors' Roundtable," airing Monday, November 6 at 10 p.m. on KET, features former Governor Edward T. (Ned) Breathitt, Louie B. Nunn, Wendell H. Ford, Julian M. Carroll, John Y. Brown Jr., Martha Layne Collins, Wallace Wilkinson and Brereton C. Jones.

Former broadcast journalist and current Eastern Kentucky

University faculty member Ferrell Wellman hosts the program.

Spanning more than 30 years of recent history, the topics of discussion run the gamut of gubernatorial experience. The former governors look back on their time in office to discuss the power of the governor, the toughest decisions they had to make, race relations and their legacies. The governors also talk about the Internet and how voters have changed.

Sparking perhaps the most conversation is the issue of education and the effectiveness of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). Personal anecdotes and reflections sprinkled throughout this relaxed yet spirited gathering, make it a truly unique and entertaining discussion.

"Recollections: Governors' Roundtable" is a KET production, produced by Duncan Hart in partnership with the Kentucky Broadcasters Association. The program is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

KENTUCKY SPORTSLINE

by TOM LEACH

As the fledgling National Thoroughbred Racing Association struggles to remain viable, it serves to remind us of how rare an entity the Breeders' Cup is—as an example of the various strongly provincial factions of the industry pulling together for the common good of their industry. It is not quite the equine version of a Super Bowl that founder John Gaines envisioned, but there is no better day for those of us who are passionate racing fans.

From a handicapping perspective, the Breeders' Cup card is the ultimate challenge as almost every horse is primed to fire its best shot. I could advise you to pass most of the races because it's too hard to pick a winner, but what fun would that be. Part of the appeal of this sport is the chance to back your opinions at the mutual windows, so here's one horseplayer's overview of this Saturday's eight-race lineup (and keep in mind that the picks are made before the post position draw):

DISTAFF

Ribotta is almost racing pundit's sure thing, but I'm going against conventional wisdom.

Beautiful Pleasure was still moving toward a potential peak effort on BC day when Ribotta beat her last time out.

After back-to-back lifetime best performances, Ribotta is primed for a regression.

I'll use her underneath Beautiful Pleasure in exactas, but include Heritage of Gold, Lu Ravi and Surfside in that spot in case Ribotta bounces hard.

JUVENILE FILLIES

Raging Fever is the likely favorite, but she's looked less impressive as the races have gotten longer this fall. And if she's vulnerable, then this is a wide open race.

Freeouracing has never raced beyond seven furlongs, but trainer Neil Drysdale is capable of getting horses to do what other trainers might not and her pedigree suggests the mile-and-a-sixteenth is well within her scope.

At Keeneland, in a recent small stakes race, she broke a tad slow, but settled down in a professional manner in her first ever start on the dirt and exploded through a small opening at the top of the stretch to win going away.

She's my pick to win, but the daughter of French Deputy is no cinch.

I'll box her in exactas with Cindy's Hero (finished strongly on a speed-biased track last out), Platinum Tiara, She's A Devil Due and Nasty Storm.

MILE

My hunch is that the Atto Mile at Woodbine in September is the key to this race, not War Chant's visually impressive win at Santa Anita a month later.

War Chant didn't beat much and his Beyer speed figure for that effort was good but not great. He has trained superbly at Churchill Downs, and I'll use him on Pick Three tickets, but I'll go elsewhere for the winner.

Muhtathir had an outside post in Canada and made a contending move while wide only to flatten out in the stretch. He's won a prestigious Group I race, he's fresh, he specializes at the tricky mile distance and he's kept good company (losing to the likes of the well-regarded Docksider and Kalanski).

I have a strong opinion on this one (unless it rains because he does not care for soft turf), but it's a well-matched field, so hitting the gimmick bets will be extra difficult. I like Altibr and King Cugat as longshot prospects.

SPRINT

I hate going with a favorite in a race that is as tough to win as this one, but I can't get past Kona Gold.

He's been meticulously prepared for this race and should be fresh enough off only five starts to avoid regressing from that spectacular effort last time out.

I think Five Star Day will be the stronger half of the speedballs (three-year old Caller One is the other) and he's my pick to win if Kona Gold

Adams beats Warfield; advances in tourney

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Adams Lady Cats got off to a good start in the middle school girls basketball tournament Wednesday night at Johnson County Middle School. Adams got out early and coasted to an easy 53-25 win over Warfield.

The Lady Cats jumped out on the Lady Devils of Warfield. Adams held a 10-1 advantage after one quarter. Michelle Lackey led the Blackcats through one quarter with five points.

Warfield played a near-even second quarter, but was outscored 10-8 in the second quarter. The Lady Cats went into half-time with a 20-9 lead.

The Adams Middle School Lady Cats came out of the half and had their biggest offensive quarter of the game. Adams put up 20 third quarter points. Lady Cats' Megan Slone and Darcey Hicks each drained a three point basket in the third stanza. Slone led the Adams third quarter scoring flurry with five third quarter points. Warfield's third quarter scoring consisted of a free throw, a field goal and a three point field goal.

Adams finished out strong posting 13 fourth quarter points as opposed to Warfield's 10 point effort.

Molly Burchett tossed in a game-high 12 points for the Adams Lady Cats. Megan Harris, Michelle Lackey and Meaghan Slone each had nine for Adams. Darcey Hicks finished a total of 5, while Megan Patton made good on three free throws for a total of three points. Elizabeth Chaffins and Jenna Stewart each had a two-point basket to round out to the AMS scoring.

Only three players scored for Warfield Lady Devils. After being held scoreless through one quarter, Megan Stanley tossed in a team-high 10 points. Tausha Moore finished the contest with nine points and Haley Adkins rounded out the Warfield scoring effort with six points.

Adams was back in action Thursday night against the Johnson County Middle School Lady Eagles. Results were unavailable as the newspaper went to print and will appear in Sunday's sports.

TOURNAMENT NOTES

- The John M. Stumbo Lady Mustangs captured the girls championship of the 1st Annual Mustang Memorial Tournament. The Betsy Layne Lady Cats finished second and the Allen Lady Eagles finished third.

- The 1st Annual Mustang Memorial tournament was held in memory of three John M. Stumbo students: Marsha Tackett, Justin Martin and Cliff Daniels who are no longer with us.

- The John M. Stumbo boys team finished third in the 1st Annual Mustang Memorial Tournament.

- The Allen Grade School Cheerleaders and Dance team each captured first place in their tournament competition. The Betsy Layne Cheerleaders finished runners-up to Allen.

- Mountain Christian Academy was represented well in their tournament. The team captured the overall free throw trophy and MCA Falcon Sean Leslie captured the individual trophy.

The Allen Eagles jumped out an early lead over the Betsy Layne Bobcats and rolled to a 57-31 win and tournament championship in the 1st Annual Mustang Memorial Tournament.

The Eagles led 17-4 after one quarter. Allen took a commanding 11-4 lead with one minute remaining in the first quarter. Nathan Lafferty was fouled and sank two free throws to put Allen ahead 13-4. Steven Jones extended the Allen lead to 17-4 when he scored on consecutive trips down the offensive floor.

Allen rebounded the Bobcats throughout the first half and went up by as many as 20 points; 24-4. Betsy Layne's Matt Mullins broke the Bobcats first half cold spell when he sank a three-point shot to bring the Bobcats within 17 points; 24-7. Betsy Layne guard Adam Roberts scored on two straight trips down the court just before the end of the half.

The Eagles went on their second quarter run at the end of the stanza when they scored 4 unanswered points and took a 28-11 lead into the half. Betsy Layne struck first blood in the third quarter when Derek Case tossed in a putback. Allen's Tim Griffith was fouled on a rebound putback that went in for the big man. He went to the line and nailed a free shot, completing the old

Grigsby Panorama

Allen Central to host second annual classic

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

High school basketball is on the horizon and some good early match up just may happen in panorama games scheduled in Mid-November.

Allen Central High School will host their second annual Pete Grigsby, Jr. Thanksgiving Classic on Wednesday, November 22. Six regional teams will be previewed at the newly renovated J.E. Allen gymnasium.

In the opening game of the Classic, Belfry will meet Prestonsburg. Both teams are looking to regroup after a disappointing 1999 season and both teams should be vastly improved.

Coach Jackie Day Crisp will have more quickness on the court but lack the size inside, but, again, everyone will be in that boat.

Belfry is going to challenge for a 60th District title this year and will be a quick team with a long bench.

The second game will match the host school, Allen Central, against another team out of the 60th District, Elkhorn City. Allen Central will feature the shooting of junior guard Shawn Newsome and back-court play of senior Larry Mullins.

The defending 58th District champions, South Floyd Raiders, will finish the evening of basketball against always tough Paintsville. Coach Henry Webb will not have the inside presence of last year but will have the tandem of Rusty Tackett and Micheal Hall in the backcourt.

Paintsville was hit hard by graduation but don't feel sorry for Bill Mike Runyon and the Tigers. They will be very competitive and a challenge to Magoffin County in the 57th District.

Belfry will face Prestonsburg at 6 p.m. with Elkhorn City and Allen Central taking the court at 7:15 p.m. Paintsville and South Floyd will close the evening of basketball at 8:30 p.m.

Eagles looking to improve, build on last season

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

After returning nearly everyone from last season's starting rotation, the Alice Lloyd Eagles under veteran coach Jim Stepp are looking for some added and newfound success this season.

The Eagles (16-15) had their first winning record in three years last season.

Two starters, four-year starting point guard Troy Gingerich and R.J. Bilfinovich are gone from last year's team.

Junior Jason Collins is one of Alice Lloyd's returning players. Collins led the conference in rebounding last season with 9.4 rebounds per game. He was also one of the leaders at 15.7 ppg. Collins is the only player on the ALC roster from outside of the Bluegrass State.

Another returning starter, Jeremy Osborne (6-6, 210), a Hueysville, Ky. native along with twin brother Jason Osborne with be the veteran leaders. The Osborne twins along with guard David Feltnr are the only seniors on the Alice Lloyd roster.

Martin, Ky. native Nick Sammons returns to the Alice Lloyd hardwood this season. Sammons will be looking for more playing time as a second year Eagle.

The Alice Lloyd Pippa Passes campus has many new faces this year as does the Eagle basketball team. A total of six freshman dot the ALC roster.

Former South Floyd Raider Ryan Shannon will be looking to transfer his high school roundball success over to the collegiate level this season.

Two members of Johnny Ray Turner's 2000 15th Region Johnson Central Championship team join Coach Jim Stepp's team this season. Johnson Countians Jimmy Burchett and Tommy McKenzie will each look for playing time as freshmen. The one key for the Alice Lloyd basketball team this season could be leadership or the lack thereof. Stepp is desperately looking for leadership from his upperclassmen. A talented group of freshmen and sophomores help make up a complete, versatile Alice Lloyd roster. If Stepp gets the leadership from his upperclassman, the Alice Lloyd Eagles could be dubbed as a sleeper team come postseason time.

bounces. Also, keep an eye on Honest Lady. It's probably too short of a race for her to get the win, but I think she'll be flying into the trifecta at the wire.

FILLY & MARE TURF

I don't see any superstars in the American contingent, so I'll take the highly-regarded Petrushka for the win. She loves distance races and has been pointed for this spot, which is important to note. European horses who come to the Breeders' Cup as an after thought to their main goals rarely do well. My longshots to watch in this one are Colstar and Spanish Fern. The former has never raced beyond a mile-and-a-quarter, but she closed in very fast time to win a Grade I race in her last start. The latter closed stoutly in her last out after trailing a ridiculously slow early pace.

JUVENILE

JEFF GREEN CLAIMS THE 2000 BUSCH SERIES CHAMPIONSHIP

Even though he finished third in Sunday's Sam's Town 250, Jeff Green had accumulated enough points to claim the 2000 Busch Series Championship even though there are

Winston Cup rookie, Matt Kenseth needs to earn just $4,186 at Phoenix to make a case for A.P. Valentine, Point Given, Arabian Light and Street Cry. (Possible favorite Flame Thrower is a toss out for me, because I don't think a one-dimensional speedball can beat all of these good horses.)

My pick, though, is Macho Uno. I know he didn't beat much in that last race in Canada, but he got a strong speed figure despite just coasting to the victory and then he immediately shipped to Louisville to begin training over the Churchill Downs surface.

TURF

Montjeu might be a heavy favorite if his owner elects to run him here, but as I said earlier, I don't like to bet on European-based horses whose connections don't plot out a schedule that has the Breeders' Cup as the ultimate goal.

It's hard for three-year olds to win this race, but I'm going with Ciro as a longshot in the Turf. I think the group coming out of the main New York preps is pretty ordinary and the Europeans haven't focused on this as primary objective. Manndar is a strong prospect, but he has not competed at the tricky mile-and-a-half distance since last summer and that might compromise his chances.

CLASSIC

If Fusaichi Pegasus doesn't win, then almost any other horse might, including defending champion Cat Thief.

One to definitely watch is Giant's Causeway, the British invader. His mother, Mariah's Storm, loved to run at Churchill Downs and was a graded-stakes winner there. And he's been pointed for this race by a sharp young trainer.

The experts all say a three-year old will win, but few mention this particular sophomore.

He shows tactical speed in his European form and might just be able to get the jump on Fusaichi Pegasus.

I'm boxing those two in the exacta for the Classic, and I'll make Giant's Causeway my upset pick to win.

Good luck on your handicapping this Saturday.

fashioned three point play and putting Allen ahead 31-13. Allen scored five unanswered points following Griffith's free throw.

Betsy Layne sharp shooter Matt Mullins drained his second three-pointer of the game just before the third quarter horn sounded. The Bobcats went into the third quarter railing 44-23.

An even scoring attack led the Allen Eagles to a good fourth quarter, a win and a 1st Annual Mustang Memorial Tournament Championship. Five different Allen Eagles scored in the fourth frame. Matt Crisp came off the Allen bench and tossed in five points for two field goals and a one-for-two shooting performance from the charity stripe. Crisp's lone free throw went in the record books with 15 seconds remaining in the game. Following a Betsy Layne run out to their basket, the Allen celebration commenced.

"Our defense really stepped up tonight," said Allen coach Ashland Gearhart. "Our defense won this game for us. I'm proud of how hard these kids played."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE SEVEN DAY KING!

ZIMRI, A GENERAL UNDER ELAH, KING OF ISRAEL, KILLED THE KING DURING A DRUNKEN REVEL AND TOOK THE THRONE OF ISRAEL FOR HIMSELF! TO MAKE SURE THAT THE KINGDOM WOULD REMAIN IN HIS HANDS, HE MURDERED EVERY MEMBER OF ELAH'S FAMILY—BROTHERS, WIVES, SONS, INFANTS—TO MAKE SURE THERE WOULD BE NO HEIRS TO CLAIM THE THRONE IN ELAH'S NAME! BUT...

... THIS STRATEGY BACKFIRED ON ZIMRI! HIS OWN ARMY, ON HEARING OF THIS VICIOUS SLAUGHTER, WAS SO HORRIFIED THAT ITS MEN MARCHED AGAINST ZIMRI'S PALACE, WHERE THE KING-FOR-A-WEEK SET FIRE TO THE ROYAL DOMICILE, PREFERRING TO DIE RATHER THAN FACE THE BRAND OF STERN JUSTICE HIS FORMER SOLDIERS WOULD MOST CERTAINLY ADMINISTER TO HIM—FOR, IN ONE WEEK, ZIMRI HAD CAUSED AS MUCH MISERY AS MOST OTHER TYRANTS ACCOMPLISHED IN A LIFETIME OF RULE!

NEXT WEEK: SING UNTO THE LORD!

Pikeville Panthers carry 'favorites' role in region

THE PIKEVILLE PANTHERS will have home field advantage throughout the 2000 playoffs. Pikeville's only setback of the season was an overtime loss to Somerset. The Panthers play host to Everts tonight at the W.C. Hambley Athletic Complex.

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

The Pikeville Panthers are in a familiar position that they have become accustomed to after the regular season football ends — playing in a state playoff game.

Coach Chris McNamee's Panthers will be going to yet another state playoff and are a heavy choice to reach at least the semifinals and maybe even a state championship.

The Panthers completed the regular season unbeaten in district play while losing once, and that to a good Somerset team, in finishing 9-1 on the year.

District 8 has been considered one of the weaker districts in the state, but don't sell the Panthers short.

Pikeville will open state play tonight (Friday) by hosting a good and surprising Everts Wildcat team that finished the season 6-4 overall and 2-3 in their district. However, the Wildcats are not to be taken lightly, and don't expect the Panthers to be caught doing so.

Everts, who at one time was everyone's homecoming opponent, has emerged as one of the top teams in District 7 although three of their six wins came at the expense of three of the weakest teams in the wins, but two came against Betsy Layne and Elkhorn City after they defeated Union County, Tennessee. Everts split the final four games of the 2000 season, just making the playoffs.

Pikeville faced some top talent in the mountains in winning over good 3A school, Lawrence County, to open the season. The Panthers had little trouble with powers Hazard and Belfry, as they reeled off seven consecutive wins before traveling to Somerset.

Pikeville did not play that badly against Somerset and appeared to have the game won until the fourth quarter.

The Panthers won over Fleming-Neon and a good Paintsville team to end the regular season.

The Panthers could be without the services of starting quarterback Matt Branham who separated his shoulder in the Paintsville game. However, Paul Howard, just a freshman, is a very capable signal caller, and with a receiver the caliber of Chase Gibson, it could be a big night for the Panthers' passing game.

Barrett Rogers will run out of the backfield. Rogers has excellent speed and good quickness.

Nick Lynch will be the target for either Branham or Howard, whoever gets the nod against Everts.

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

CHAS HARMON OF PAINTSVILLE hopes to be a leader when the Tigers meet Cumberland tonight in an opening playoff game at home. The Tigers finished second in their district.

Tigers set to host Redskins

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

Losing a district championship game hurts. However, it is better to have had the opportunity to lose a district championship than to have not been in the position to lose one at all.

The Paintsville Tiger football team had the chance to win a Class A Region 4, District 8 championship last week when they hosted a very talented Pikeville (9-1) team. Paintsville dropped a 27-8 contest to the Panthers, but could possibly bring something away from such a crushing setback. The regular season finale/district championship loss to Pikeville put the Tigers in second place in the district and gave them a home playoff game this week with the Cumberland Redskins.

Coach David Lemaster will most definitely have his Tiger team ready for tonight's (Friday's) opening round game at Paintsville's Memorial Field. The Tigers district championship game loss to Pikeville last week should be way back in the minds of Tiger players. It's playoff season and Paintsville football seems to always turn it up a notch during the playoffs.

A multi-faceted Paintsville offense has put up a total of 282 points this season. Junior quarterback Chas Harmon guides the Tiger offense. Senior fullback/linebacker Matt Brown is a solid performer on both sides of the ball. Senior athlete Brad Turner and sophomore back Tate Harmon give Coach Lemaster and his staff a rushing or receiving threat whenever they step out onto the field.

The Paintsville defense has given up an average of just 15.5 points per contest through 10 regular season games. Matt Brown anchors a young Paintsville defense from his linebacker position. Brown's younger brother Ryan also lines up at a linebacker position for the Tigers. Senior Brad Austin returned from an injury earlier this season and has since come on to have an outstanding defensive season. Two sophomore defensive ends, Ryan Jarrell and Josh Conley, also contribute to the Tiger defense.

The Cumberland Redskins are coming into Paintsville on a three-

POWELL COUNTY AT PRESTONSBURG

Prestonsburg hosts Powell Co. tonight

Blackcats' one seed gives home field advantage

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

The 2000 state playoff season kicks off tonight with regional teams playing at home because of being a number one seed.

Sheldon Clark High School, along with Pikeville and Belfry, will be the host team tonight as will the Prestonsburg Blackcats.

Coach John Derossett's ballclub finished 4-1 in their district and will host a not-to-take-lightly Powell County Pirate team that finished 3-7 overall and 2-3 in District 7 play.

Prestonsburg (5-5 overall) had to depend on a dominated sophomore team this season and early quality games helped the "youth corp" to mature a little quicker.

Senior lineman Dusty Scott thinks this year's team is more focused than they were at the onset of the season in August.

"It is going to be a tough game for us," said Scott. "We are ready to play."

THE PRESTONSBURG BLACKCATS find themselves in familiar circumstances as they make yet another appearance in the state playoffs this Friday night. The Blackcats, who finished with a 4-1 district record and 5-5 overall, will entertain the Powell County Pirates at home. Prestonsburg received the number one seed after finishing first in the district season. Should the Cats pull out a first round game they would stay for week two against either Middlesboro or Whitesburg.

Pike Central visits Breathitt County

SPORTS EDITOR

What a final two weeks of the high school football season for the Pike Central Hawks!

On October 13 the Hawks visited the Prestonsburg Blackcats, a team they needed a win over to stay in the race for the number one seed in District 8. The Hawks looked very impressive with a 21-7 win over the host school, with the Pike Central defense holding the Blackcats to a first half touchdown and shutting them down the rest of the way.

However, last Friday night, the Hawks stumbled at the gate and dropped a 20-6 decision to the Whitesburg Yellowjackets. In just a matter of seven days, the Hawks went from being a contender for the top spot to the fourth seed out of District 8.

With all that bad luck, Pike Central was awarded with the dubious task of playing at Breathitt County in the opening round of the 2000 State Football Playoffs tonight.

Breathitt County was a perfect 5-0 out of District 7 and finished 7-2 on the season, playing just nine games.

Joe Waugh is a standout running back and will lead the ground game for the Hawks. Justin McCleary will quarterback Pike Central but may have trouble with the Breathitt County secondary, one of the best in the state in stopping the pass.

Breathitt County has all-starer Alan Sperry behind center and was one of the state's leading passers this year. The Bobcats find themselves in a familiar role as a favorite to advance on to as far as the final

LESLIE COUNTY AT BELFRY

Belfry welcomes Leslie Co.

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

The Belfry Pirates finished the 2000 regular season with a 6-4 record, but when you look at the teams they fell to it is easy to see the Pirates played a grueling schedule.

Coach Philip Haywood's grid-iron personnel have been heavy on the injury list this season and that has cost them at least two games, maybe three.

The Pirates dropped a 46-28 decision to a struggling Lawrence County team and fell to county rival Pikeville, 31-14, as they would win one and lose one in a very inconsistent season.

The Pirates had only one stretch where they put together consecutive victories and that was at the onset of the 2000 year. They opened with an impressive win over Bourbon County and defeated Bill Letton's Montgomery County team. After that, the Pirates would take turns about to lose and then win. They closed the season with a 41-0 win over Shelby Valley.

Belfry's offense is led by Chad Childers one of the top receivers in the state. Childers leads the team in touchdowns and individual rushing.

Leslie County closed out the season with a 500 year at 5-5 and finished 3-2 in District 7, receiving the four seed.

Chris Barger is one of the top passers in the state and why not? He is the cousin of another top quarterback, Tim Couch of the Cleveland Browns.

Leslie County finished the season on a winning note with back-to-back wins over Estill County and Powell County. They improved after half way of the season, winning four of their final five games.

They were very impressive in a win over a very good Harlan team (32-21) after dropping games to Johnson Central and Clay County to start the season.

In stats such as points given up and points scored, the Eagles are about even. They scored 254 points while allowing 253. Against regional teams, the Eagles compiled a 3-3 mark.

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

THE JOHNSON CENTRAL GOLDEN EAGLES gather around Coach Bill Musick prior to a game earlier this season. The Golden Eagles are undefeated as they host Clark County tonight at Golden Eagle Field.

Danny Hamilton goes for $10,000

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

You are visiting one of the Happy Mart Convenient Stores. You order some food and while waiting, you notice you can sign up to have your name drawn for a chance to win $10,000 by just kicking a 35-yard field goal.

Former Prestonsburg receiver Danny Hamilton did just that and this Friday night he will attempt to kick that 35-yard field goal for a check in the amount of $10,000.

"I was at their Pikeville store and waiting on my food," said Hamilton. "I just threw my name in the box and it was drawn out."

Hamilton first had to find success at Paintsville last Friday night before he could move on to Pikeville. He and another candidate had three tries at field goals of 15, 25 and 35 yards.

"He kicked the 15 and 25 but missed on the 35-yard attempt," explained the former Blackcat. "I missed on the 25-yard try but hit the 35-yard one."

Hamilton has been visiting the Prestonsburg field almost daily in practicing and getting the kick down. His distance has been long enough but just hasn't got the direction through the goal post down just yet.

"I will have one chance and one chance only to hit it," he said.

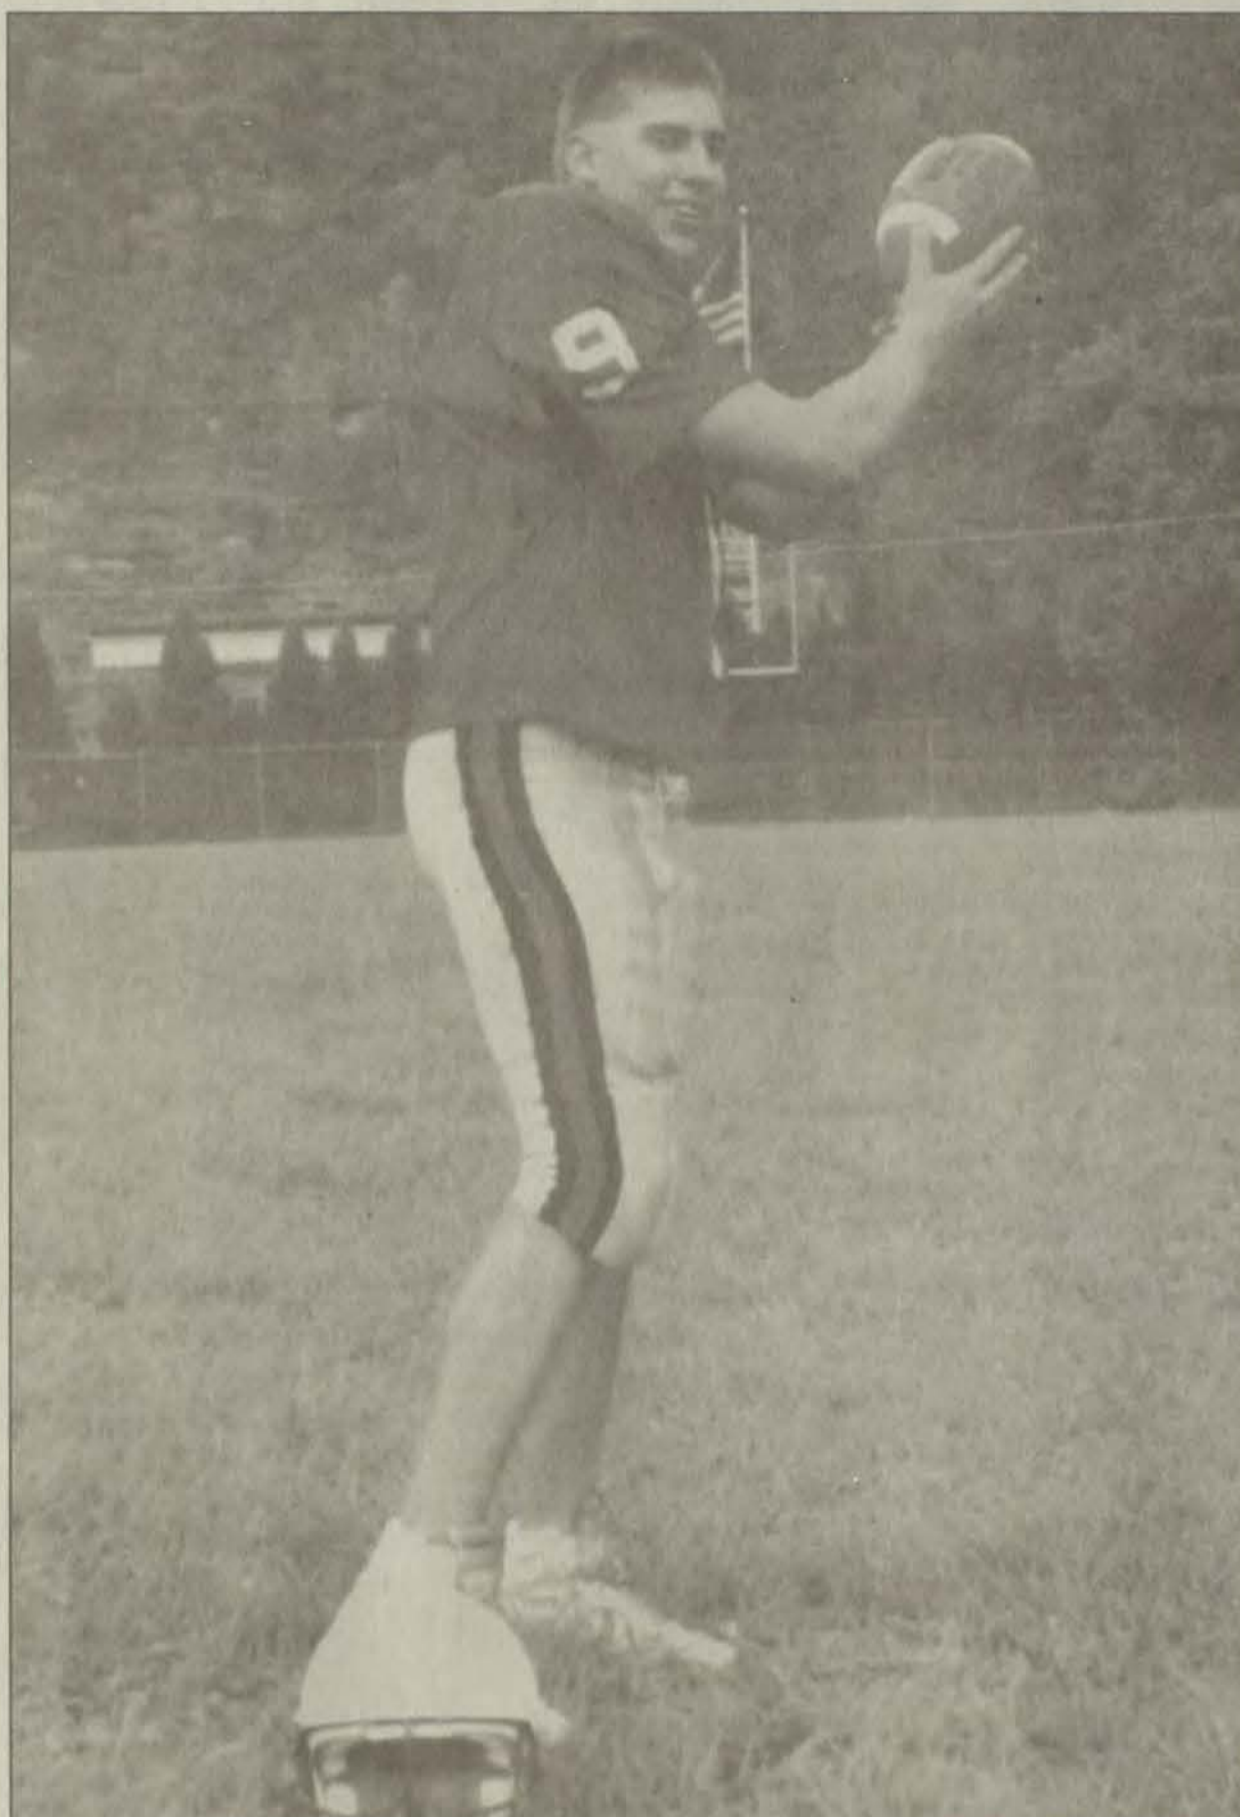

Hamilton was a punter in high school but did have some experience of kicking field goals at UK.

"I played intramural football there and kicked some field goals," he said.

Having already nailed a 35-yard attempt at Paintsville, he is confident he can repeat the task.

"When it went through it was dead center," said Hamilton.

Hamilton will be the only person going for the cash prize and surely the Pikeville stadium Friday night will be rooting even for a Prestonsburg Blackcat — a former one.

game losing skid. Cumberland had a near-perfect 6-1 record before dropping their last three games of the regular season to Williamsburg, Lynn Camp, and Harlan. Coach Frank Vicini's Redskins are led by sophomore quarterback Eddie Creech (6-1, 165). The Redskin offense has scored 262 points this season. Cumberland's defense has surrendered 317 points this season. Coach Vicini's team made it into the playoffs as a No. 3 seed just ahead of the No. 4 seeded Williamsburg (4-6).

The Redskins are reeling following last week's heartbreaking 35-32 loss at home to district rival Harlan. Harlan (6-4) converted at the end against Cumberland and took a win away from the host Redskins.

Cumberland is a much improved team from last season's 0-10 squad.

"They've got a real good quarterback," said Paintsville coach David Lemaster. "He's a real good athlete. Their defense likes to put the pressure on and they've been playing good defense. We have to play control football and keep possession of the ball. We're injury-free as far as injuries go and everyone should be ready to play."

Kickoff for tonight's Cumberland-Paintsville game is set for 7:30 at Paintsville's Memorial Field.

The Bobcats got off to a rather unusual start when the season open in August. Uncharacteristic of Breathitt, they dropped their first two games to Boyle County and Hazard. In fact, they were shutout by the Bulldogs which was highly unusual.

After the loss to Hazard, the Bobcats closed the season strong with seven consecutive wins including a 50-34 thriller over Middlesboro to wrestle first place from Middlesboro.

Pike Central's longest winning streak was three games and that came in early September when they won over Morgan County, Shelby Valley and Betsy Layne, three rather rebuilding teams. The Hawks dropped three of their final four regular season games.

It will be a long trip to Jackson but an even longer one back if the Hawks cannot pull off the upset.

PAINTSVILLE TIGER FOOTBALL COACH David Lemaster will lead his Tigers into battle against the Cumberland Redskins tonight at Paintsville's Memorial Field.

Prestonsburg

Scott feels the team has grown over the past few weeks and they will be capable of going deeper in the playoffs than last year.

"I think we can get past the first two rounds," he said. "After that it gets tougher. But the Powell County game is going to be good for us."

Prestonsburg will have two solid backs in the backfield in Kevin Woods and Matt Slone. Add fullback Michael Fannin and the running game of the Cats will be intact.

Slone gave his assessment of the Powell County team motoring into town tonight.

"Powell County is a three-back team and a power team," said Slone. "All they do is run the football and I think we have the defense to stop them. We are ready and focused on what we have to do."

Prestonsburg defense was one of the reasons the Blackcats were capable of pulling off an upset of powerful Belfry that put them in the district hunt. Senior offensive lineman, Rodney Porter, said the team will have to duplicate the feat.

"I feel this team is going to go a long ways in the playoffs," he said. "But we will have to go out and play the way we did against Belfry and Shelby Valley."

A Prestonsburg victory would pit the Cats against either Middlesboro (a two-seed in District 7) or Whitesburg (a three-seed in District 8). Junior Kevin Woods enjoys the tougher competition.

"I would rather play

Middlesboro in the second round," he said. "It would give us better competition. The potential to go farther than last year is here on this team and I, like the others, feel we can go farther."

Should the Cats knock off Powell, it could very well present another Prestonsburg-Whitesburg match up, again on the Cats home field. Prestonsburg posted a 21-7 win over the Yellowjackets earlier in the year.

Sophomore Joey Willis will quarterback the Blackcats and has not been as effective in the past two outings. But again, not many QB's have found much success against a team like Harrison County.

Austin Clark and Chris Spriggs will be in the flats as well as deep for Prestonsburg, as the Cats have gone to the air for most of the latter part of the season.

"We have thrown the football maybe a little too much lately," said Coach John Derossett. "We may not throw as much against Powell County."

"They (Powell County) will present a problem for us but we feel we are ready to come out and play."

Kevin Jervis has been a pleasant surprise for the Blackcats this season and remains key to the rushing game for Prestonsburg.

Defensively, Mike McDonald, Matt Setser, Andrew Howell, Tony White and Andrew Burchett will pace the Cats defense.

All senior split end Matt Clay had to say about it was: "It is going to be a good football game."

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Ed's Look at the Playoffs

CLASS 1A

Game Pick

Hazard at Pineville Hazard by 7

The Mountain Lions had a good season finishing 4-1 which was good enough for the number one seed out of District 7 and a home field advantage. But Pineville will be no match for a good Hazard Bulldog team that went 8-2 on the year and second place in District 8. Hazard by a touchdown.

Cumberland at Paintsville Paintsville by 12

The Redskins will make a trip to Paintsville but that is all they will get out of it — a trip. Paintsville will control this one from the opening kickoff and should advance to round two of the state playoffs. Paintsville by a touchdown and more.

Fleming-Neon at Harlan Harlan by 5

First round games seem easy to pick but this one may finish a lot closer than fans want to admit. While Fleming-Neon played in the weaker district and has to go on the road, the nod goes to Harlan. But this could be an upset. Harlan by a slim margin.

Evarts at Pikeville Pikeville by 23

No doubt about it, the Pikeville Panthers are one of the class teams in Class A football and have everything they need to move to the championship game. It all starts with Williamsburg, but the Panthers will take this one easily. Three touchdowns or more.

CLASS 2A

Pike Central at Breathitt Breathitt Co. by 10

The Hawks of Pike Central improved from the previous seasons and went from a three-way tie for a district title to a four seed. The bad-luck Hawks now must find a way to beat a good Breathitt County team and on their home field, which is hard to do. Breathitt County takes this one by 14.

Leslie County at Belfry Belfry by 20

Coach Phillip Haywood's Pirates should have little trouble moving on to round two of the state playoffs. The Pirates, healthy again, will meet an upstart Leslie County team but their youth will not be enough to overcome the experience of the Pirates. Belfry by 20.

Whitesburg at Middlesboro Whitesburg by 3

In the only upset I am predicting, the Yellowjackets will pull the only surprise in the regional playoffs by winning over a good Middlesboro team. Whitesburg has their quarterback back and is a different team when he is there. Whitesburg by a very slim margin, 3 points.

Powell Co. at Prestonsburg Prestonsburg by 14

Coach John Derossett and the Blackcats know they cannot look past the 3-7 Pirates and must be focused and stay focused as they entertain the visitors from Stanton tonight. However, look for the Cats to have a strong all-around game and win by 14.

CLASS 3A

Cawood at Sheldon Clark Sheldon Clark by 21

Perhaps some of the best football in the playoffs will come from Class 3A. But that won't happen the first time around. Cawood will be no match for the 10-0 Cardinals and on their home field. John Matney's ballclub by 21 or more.

CLASS 4A

Clark Co. at JCHS Johnson Central by 6

The last time the two teams met, the Golden Eagles edged Clark County 18-16. This promises to be one of the better first round playoff games in the state tonight. However, we have to believe that Coach Bill Musick and his Eagles are ready after a big win over Boyd County to close their season. Johnson Central by 6.

DUSTY HAMMONDS (48) has been a player of consistency for the Allen Central Rebels this season. The Rebels face Carverna tonight in the eight man tournament.

Steve's Look at the Playoffs

CLASS 1A

Game Pick

Hazard at Pineville Hazard by 7

The Hazard Bulldogs finished the regular season with a good 8-2 record. The Bulldogs' only two losses of the 2000 regular season campaign were crucial district setbacks to Pikeville and Paintsville. Coach Maurice Dixon should have his team ready to play as they travel to Pineville to take on the Mountain Lions. The Hazard offense should be able to put points on the board against a Pineville defense that allows an average of 22.5 ppg.

Cumberland at Paintsville Paintsville by 12

Cumberland started the season off red-hot with a 6-1 record. The Redskins have since faltered and finished the regular season on a three-game losing skid. Paintsville senior Matt Brown should ruin all over a young Cumberland defense. If the Tigers establish a versatile offense early, they could roll in this one.

Fleming-Neon at Harlan Fleming Neon by 10

The Fleming-Neon Pirates played the role of spoiler when they defeated a good Paintsville Tiger team back in week three of the season. Fleming-Neon (7-3) nearly pulled off an upset before falling 32-22 to Pikeville. The Pirates are a No. 3 seed, possibly the best three seed in the area. The Green Dragons could have a rough go of it in this Class A battle.

Evarts at Pikeville Pikeville by 30

The Evarts Wildcats (6-4) travel to Pikeville to take on a determined team with high hopes for this post season. Evarts finished 2-3 in the district and managed to make it in as a No. 4 seed. Former Evarts coach Bill Musick is now at Johnson Central (10-0) and former Mr. Football Scotty Russell is long gone from his playing days and this isn't 1990. Look for the Panthers to post an easy win in this one.

CLASS 2A

Pike Central at Breathitt Breathitt Co. by 32

The Pike Central Hawks were at the top of their game after defeating Prestonsburg. The Hawks faltered and fell to the Whitesburg Yellowjackets last week. The loss dropped the Hawks from a potential top of the standings down to near bottom. Breathitt senior quarterback Allen Sperry is the state's leading passer and will add to those totals tonight.

Leslie County at Belfry Belfry by 8

"Leslie County quarterback Chris Barger has shown signs of greatness reminiscent of his cousin Tim Couch. However, the young Barger doesn't have the supporting cast around him to get the job done on the road at Death Valley."

Whitesburg at Middlesboro Middlesboro by 14

The Whitesburg Yellowjackets (7-3) are a team of ups and downs. Whitesburg started the season 4-0 before stumbling at Prestonsburg at the halfway point of the season. Whitesburg has a tough test on the road against the Middlesboro Yellowjackets. Middlesboro should win in this Battle of Yellowjackets.

Powell Co. at Prestonsburg Prestonsburg by 14

The Powell Co. Pirates travel to Prestonsburg to face the Prestonsburg Blackcats. Prestonsburg (5-5) could go back to a powerful running game in this one. Coach John DeRossett's Blackcats have taken more to the air in recent weeks. P-burg running back Matt Slone should have a field day in this one.

CLASS 3A

Cawood at Sheldon Clark Sheldon Clark by 28

The Cawood Trojans (5-5) can only hope to contain because they are far from being able to stop Coach Matney's Cardinals. Cawood is much improved from previous years but is a long way from being a Class AAA state championship contender.

CLASS 4A

Clark Co. at JCHS Johnson Central by 10

The Cardinals make their second trip to Golden Eagle Field this season to take on my alma mater Johnson Central. The Golden Eagles pulled out a 18-16 week three victory over the Cardinals. Coach Musick has his troops ready after claiming last week's district championship over the Boyd County Lions. Johnson Central (10-0) is on a roll and Clark County can't stop it. Hey Coach, Tonight's the Night!

ALLEN CENTRAL AT CAVERNA

Rebels hit road for eight-man playoff game

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Allen Central Rebels travel to Hart County Friday night to do battle with the Caverna Colonels in the KHSAA eight-man state football playoffs. Colonel Field will be the site of Friday night's game as Allen Central (2-8) will hope to pull out a win over host Caverna (2-7). Allen Central began the 2000 high school football season with a disappointing 18-12 loss to county rival Betsy Layne. This high school football season has been one of near misses for the Rebels. Losses to Betsy Layne, Cumberland and Phelps are all setbacks Coach Kevin Spurlock's Rebels could have reversed and put as W's in the win column. The Rebels schedule was nothing short of brutal. Allen Central played West Virginia power Matewan High, Cawood and a very good Paintsville Tiger team.

The quarterback position has been one of uncertainty for the Rebels. Senior Jonathan Ellis and sophomore Alex Patton began the preseason in competition for the starting quarterback job. Ellis won the job but fell to injury during the season.

The younger Patton took over under center before Ellis made another return before giving way to a seasoned quarterback who made his return to the Allen Central team during week 8 of this season. Senior Brandon Sizemore has rejoined the Rebels and is looking to lead them to eight-man glory. Sizemore quarterbacked the Rebels to their second win of the season and his first win as a Rebel this season just two weeks ago when Beth Haven traveled to Eastern for a Saturday afternoon affair. The new Allen Central quarterback looked brilliant in a big win over the visiting Bearcats.

Beth Haven is no stranger to the eight-man football format. The small school with enrollment under 100 students is located in Valley Station in Jefferson County. The Bearcats have competed in the eight-man state tournament before against the likes of Eminence and Caverna, like Beth Haven has competed in the eight-man football tournament before and are hoping to fend off the visiting Rebels.

Caverna has an enrollment of just over 200 students. The Colonels boast wins over Kentucky School for the Deaf and Beth Haven.

Allen Central Coach Kevin Spurlock will have the Rebels ready for a postseason title run.

"Our kids are ready to play," said Spurlock. "With the exception of ZW Chaffins who is lost for the season, everybody else is healthy. I'll be really disappointed if we don't go in there and come away with a win. I feel like we've got a real good shot of winning this eight-man tournament."

Sheldon Clark looking to make title run

Experienced Cardinal team on a roll at 9-1

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Sheldon Clark Cardinals completed a near-perfect season last week by beating a good Rowan County team. Rowan County (2-8) finished up a dismal season by playing the visiting Cardinals close for a while. Key words - For a while.

Coach Jim Matney's Cardinals could have been looking ahead to this week's opening playoff game. The Cardinals haven't looked ahead too much this season. The Cards are the owners of a 9-1 record and look primed for a run at a Class AAA title. The title run begins Friday night when the Cawood Trojans (5-5) come into Martin County.

Sheldon Clark opened up the 2000 gridiron season by pounding a visiting Knott County Central team 46-0. The Cardinals only setback of the season came on Aug. 26 in week two when the Cards fell on the road 21-6 to Class A power Beechwood. Although the score doesn't indicate it, the Cardinals did put up more total offense than the host Tigers. Coach Matney's club was prone to fumbles in the Beechwood game and came away smarting from a loss in a game they could have very easily won.

Sheldon Clark rebounded in week three and beat eventual Class AA Region 4 District 8 champion Prestonsburg 46-0. The Cardinals haven't lost since.

The Cardinal offense averages 35.6 ppg. Sheldon Clark's offensive weapons number many. Quarterback Kendrick Damron guides a talented Sheldon Clark offense. Seniors Chad Howell and Ben Delong are Damron's primary targets. Mo Spradlin leads a strong Sheldon Clark ground attack. Ben Delong also gets several carries as the Cardinals second leading rusher. Howell, Gary Hinkle, and Brian Porter all get touches in a balanced Cardinal offensive attack.

The Cardinal defense gives up a mere average of 6.3 points per contest. An experienced group of seniors make up the nucleus of this year's Sheldon Clark football team.

The Cawood Trojans were on the playoff bubble for much of the season. A week nine win over district opponent Knox Central put the Trojans in and left Knox Central (2-8) out.

The closest Coach John Luttrell's Trojans have been to Sheldon Clark High School this season was a week three journey to Eastern and a game with the Allen Central Rebels. The Trojans established a bruising ground game early and cruised to a 41-0 blanking of the Rebels.

Back-to-back losses to Whitley County and Rockcastle County put the Trojans playoff hopes in jeopardy. The Trojans rebounded to play quite nicely in last week's home game with Knox Central.

The Sheldon Clark Cardinals have played well all season. The Cardinals look to be on a possible state title run.

Kickoff for tonight's Cawood-Sheldon Clark game is set for 7:30.

Whitesburg travels to Middlesboro Yellowjackets

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Whitesburg Yellowjackets (7-3) will travel to Middlesboro tonight for a first round playoff game with the Middlesboro Yellowjackets (8-2).

Whitesburg began the season with four straight wins. The Yellowjackets posted wins over Pineville, Matewan, WV, Perry County Central and Leslie County to begin the 2000 campaign.

The Whitesburg Yellowjackets traveled to Prestonsburg in week five of the season and had their wings clipped by coach John DeRossett's Prestonsburg Blackcats. The Yellowjackets lost their second straight of the season to rival Fleming-Neon. Whitesburg could have very easily packed up the equipment, but have instead persevered and now have a little momentum as they head into Middlesboro.

The Whitesburg offense is averaging 23.6 points per contest, while a stingy defense is allowing a paltry 10.5 points per contest the lowest average in Class AA Region 4.

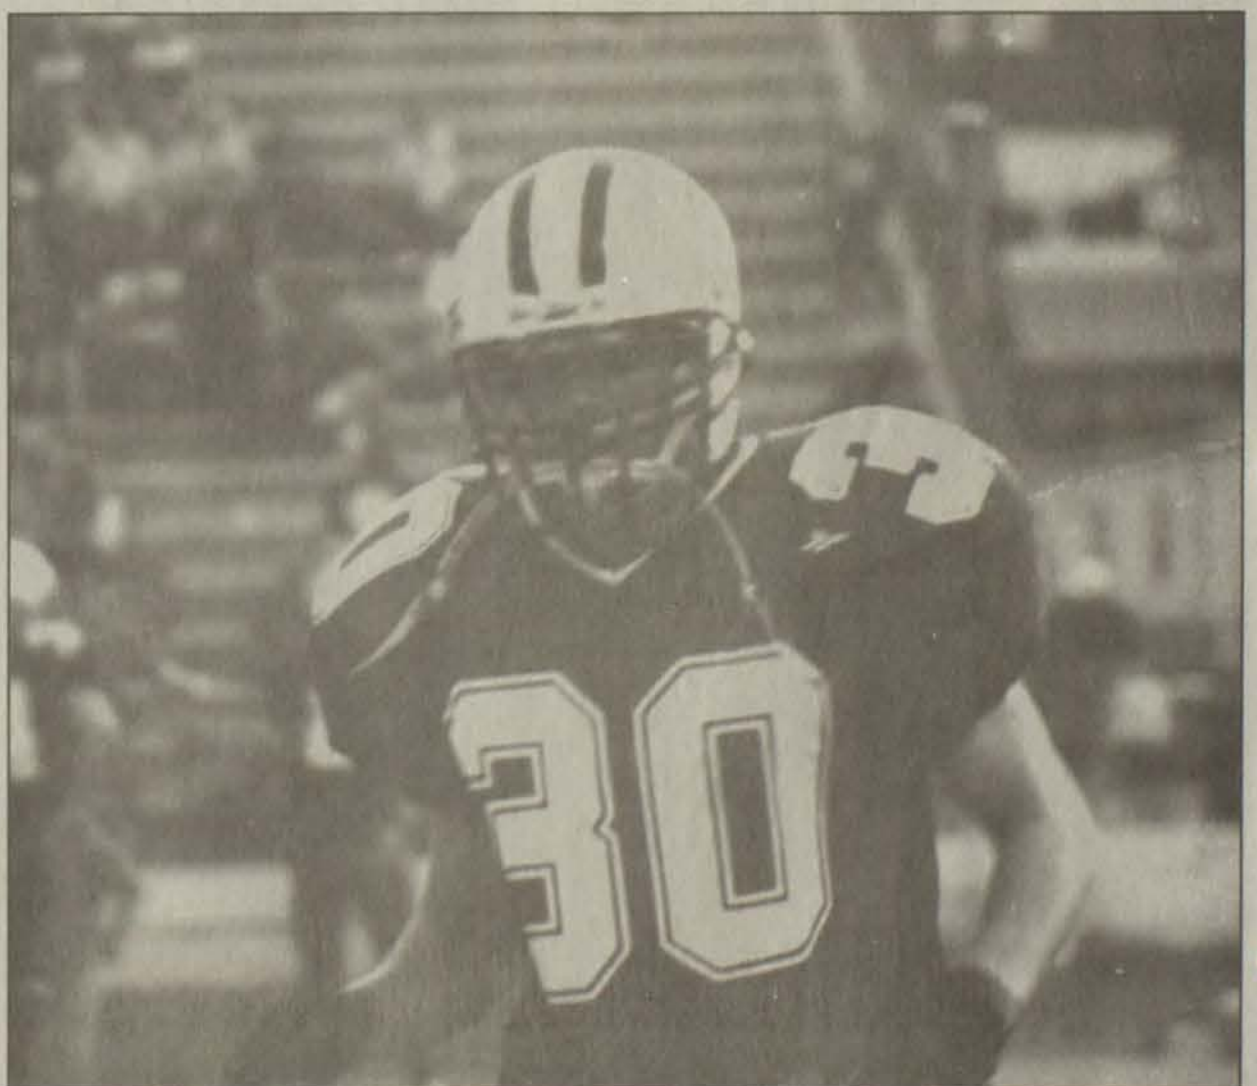

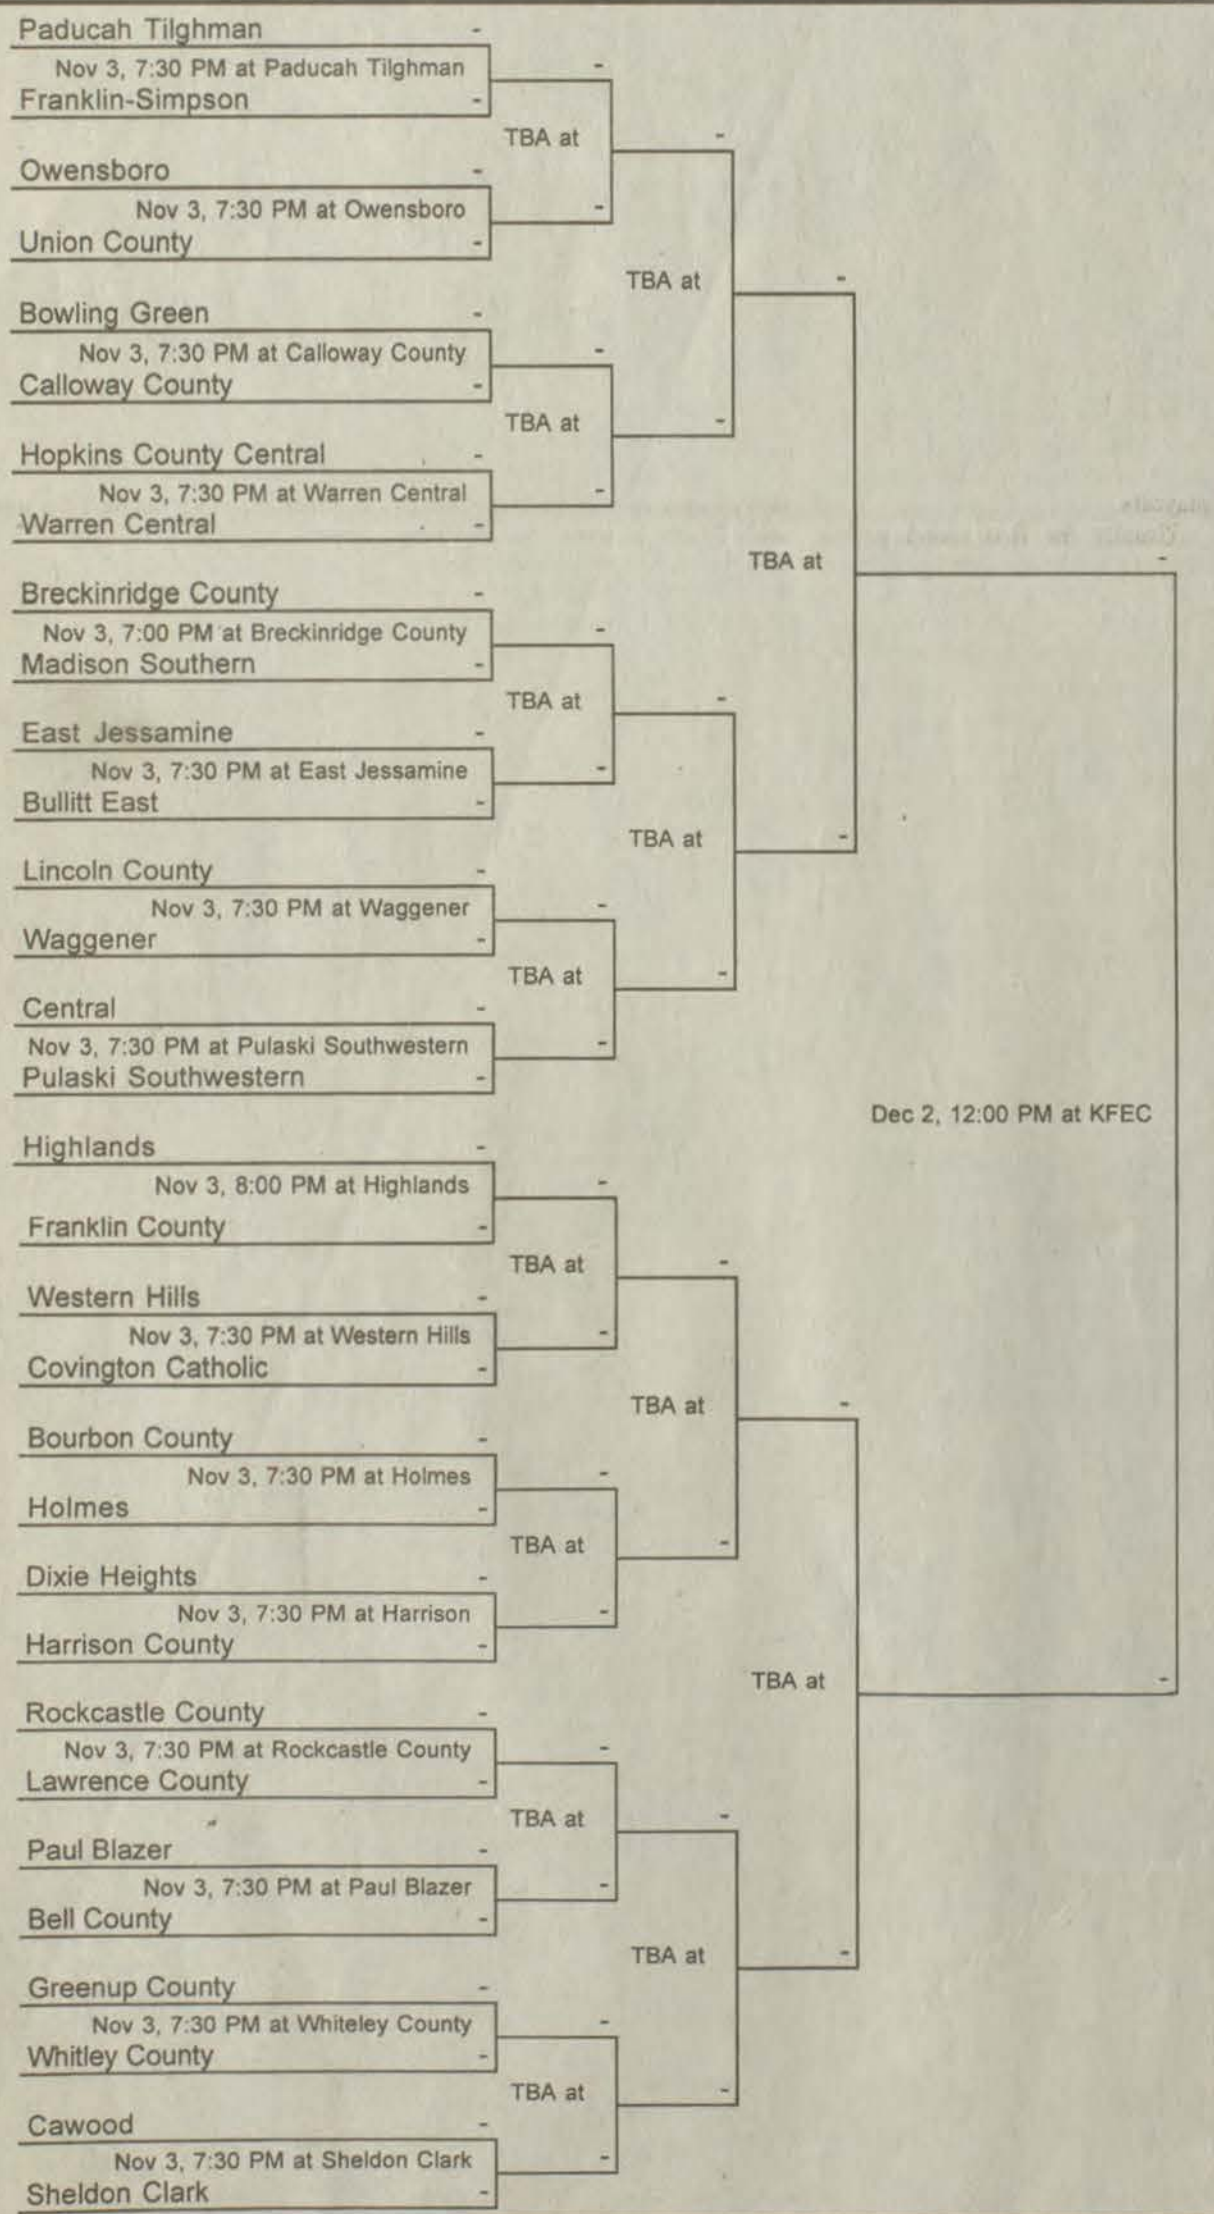

Middlesboro brings a lot to the table on both offense and defense. The Middlesboro offense is tops in Region 4, averaging 37.4 ppg. The Middlesboro defense lets up just 13.8 tallies per outing.

This could be a defensive struggle or it could be a shoot-out.

The Whitesburg offense lit up the scoreboard two weeks ago when they put 64 points on the scoreboard. Home field advantage could play to the host Yellowjackets' favor. Neither team has been shut out this season and a shutout doesn't look very likely in tonight's game.

The Middlesboro offense has shutout wins over Garrard County and Lynn Camp. The visiting Yellowjackets suffered a morale-crushing 50-34 loss to Breathitt County two weeks ago. Middlesboro players and coaches alike feel the Breathitt County game is a game they should and could have won.

Tonight's Middlesboro-Whitesburg game could go down to the wire. Whitesburg Coach Tony Sargent and Middlesboro head man Ken Roark could be in for a little bit of everything in tonight's game. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

PAINTSVILLE TIGER IN YOUR FACE!!! The Tigers will hope to score a home field win over the Cumberland Redskins at Memorial Field.

10-0. Perfect, unblemished, undefeated. All of those spotless words describe the 2000 Johnson Central Golden Eagle football team. The Golden Eagles are perfect on the season with a sparkling 10-0 record and a historical first district title in the school history. This year's Central team is already the winningest single-season squad in the school's history.

But the Golden Eagles aren't particularly content with their accomplishments. In other words they're not about to stop playing football yet. The Golden Eagles are on a roll and determined to stake a claim at a Class AAAA state title. Who's to say they don't have a chance at a title? Musick's men won't back down. They proved that back in week three of the season when they strolled into Lexington.

Coach Bill Musick and his bunch have had quite a football season with wins over Tate Creek, Boyd County and Clark County, a team the Golden Eagles will host in the first round of the state playoffs tonight at Golden Eagle Field.

The Clark County Cardinals came into Johnson County back in week three with a 1-1 record on the young season. The visiting Cardinals left with an 18-16 loss and a 1-2 record. The Golden Eagles improved their record to a shiny 3-0 mark the following week. Johnson Central went into Tate Creek back on Sep. 8, and scored a huge monumental 22-18 win over a very talented host team, Tate Creek.

Things in Johnson County and more specifically at Johnson Central High School haven't been the same since. Coach Musick has seen his diehard football team come from behind and take games away from district foes South Laurel, Clay County, and Boyd County, last week for the district championship.

Folks in Johnson County have jumped aboard the Johnson Central locomotive, a train that many JCHS gridiron supporters have been riding for quite some time. The Johnson Central train is running at rapid speeds and shows no signs of slowing down.

The Golden Eagles offense in Class AAAA Region 4 is second with 311 total points scored. The only team ranking ahead of Johnson Central in the total points score category is Paul Dunbar. The big play backfield of senior quarterback Casey Music senior, running backs Scott Salyer and Marc Shepherd along with sophomore Chet Griffith and lightning-quick freshman Chat Yates.

A stout Johnson Central defense has given up just 123 total points this season, an average of just 12.3 per contest. Linebacker Scott Salyer is the Golden Eagles' leading tackler. Juniors Derrick Sublett and Paul Webb anchor a strong defensive line, while Casey Music doubles from his signal-calling position as a safety in the Central secondary.

Paul Columbia's Clark County Cardinals boast a .500 record of 5-5 on the season. Early-season losses to Harrison County and Johnson Central, coupled with a late three game losing skid, comprised of losses to Dunbar, Tate Creek and Madison Central, and last week's win on the road at Woodford County, leave the Cardinals even on the season.

Clark County's defense has given up a total of 266 points this season through 10 games. The Cardinal offense has put up a total of 292 points through the regular season schedule.

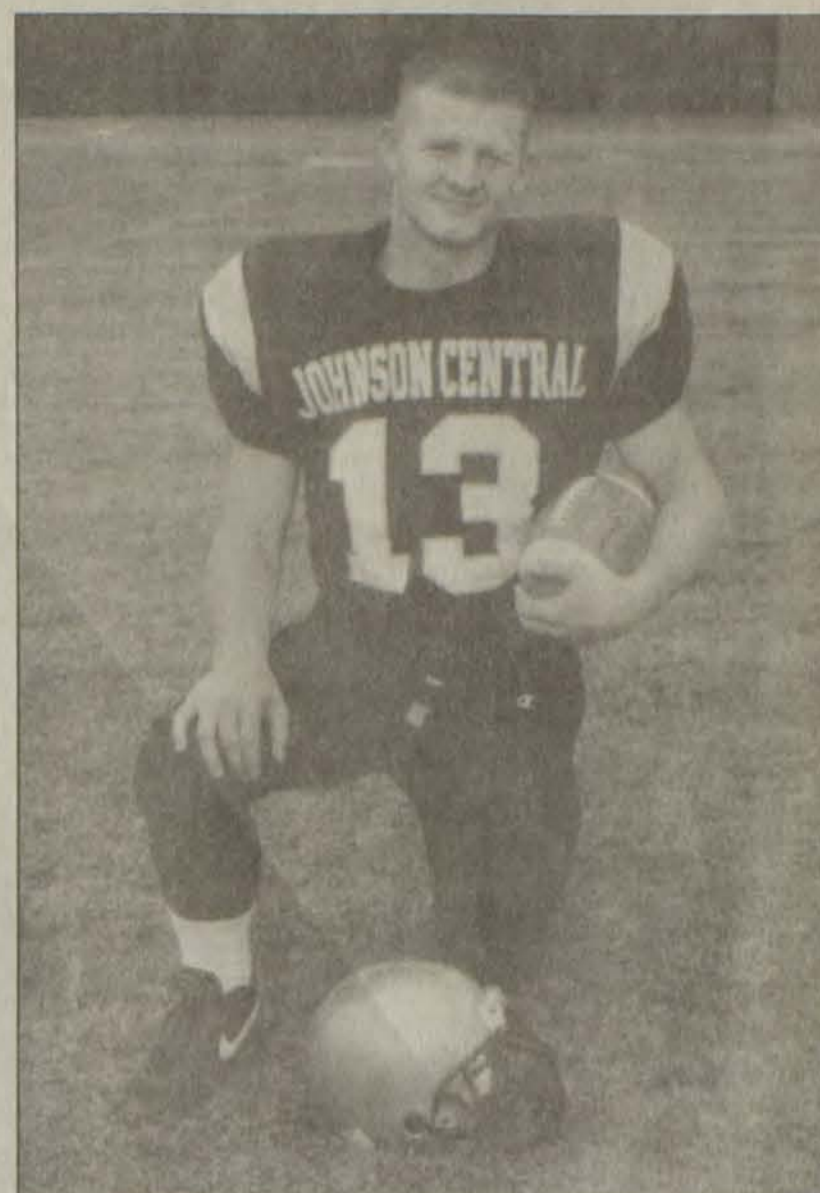

The Clark County offense is diverse with receiver Travis Earvin and running back Chris Sharrok.

The Golden Eagle defense should be sky-high for this game. The Golden Eagle offense should be as steady as ever.

"We're going to have to hold onto the football on offense," said Johnson Central Coach Bill Musick. "Our kids are going to be ready to play. Everybody is 0-0 now and we just have to go out and play the football game."

A large Golden Eagle crowd is expected for tonight's game.

Kickoff for tonight's Clark County-Johnson Central game is set for 7:30 at Johnson Central's Golden Eagle Field.

JOHNSON CENTRAL QUARTERBACK CASEY MUSIC will hope to lead his team to victory tonight against Clark County. The Golden Eagles have a perfect 10-0 record.

Playoffs

by Ed Taylor

It has been a quick 10 weeks of high school football and here we are at the beginning of the state playoffs.

Usually the first round games are easy to predict but I think that will be different this time around. There will be some good first round games and simply because there is not much difference between a one seed and a four seed.

One of the very good first round games will pit Leslie County at Belfry in Class 2A. The Wildcats are a touchdown underdog to the Pirates, but Belfry has not played that well in the second half of the season.

Cumberland visits Paintsville in Class 1A and Coach David Vanhose is not taking the Redskins lightly. He admits, the Tigers defense must hold Cumberland under 20 points if the Tigers are to advance.

Also in Class 1A, Fleming-Neon will cross the mountain to Harlan, and not only is the trip difficult but winning at Harlan is not easy. This will be a very good football game with the visiting team with a better overall record than the host team.

Down at Middlesboro, Whitesburg from District 8 makes the journey and it could be a "real stinger" for the Yellowjacket, and you can take your choice here. This will be a good first round game.

Probably the biggest first round game will be played at Johnson Central in Class 4A. Coach Bill Musick's club will host George Rogers Clark in a rematch of an earlier game that ended in a 18-16 win for the Eagles. This could be as close, but we pick the Eagles to soar to a win.

Of course, after Friday night the number of playoff teams will be cut in half with 128 teams getting the start, and only 64 will survive the first round.

Here in our area, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, and Sheldon Clark (should they win) will have home field advantage when the second round kickoff next Friday night.

NOTES:

• It is not known the status of Pikeville quarterback Matt Branham (injury) as to whether he will be behind center when the Panthers face Evarts Friday night.

If Branham doesn't start, and I don't figure he will be in the lineup with Evarts in town, the Panthers will have a very capable quarterback in Paul Howard, a freshman. I watched Paul play in a junior varsity game and he impressed me. I know he is just a freshman, but he is capable, believe me.

Paintsville coach David Lemaster told me that his team was healthy and ready as they battle Cumberland this Friday night. The Tigers have a good one in Matt Brown. He just doesn't run around the defense but over them. I like Brown and he will be a top college player as well.

Chas Harmon had suffered a slight injury in the South Floyd game but will be at quarterback tonight.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will throw the ball less and enjoy the run more when they host Powell County tonight. Coach John Derossett's ballclub has looked to the air waves too much of late in moving the ball. Look for Matt Slone to get the ball a bunch of times tonight.

The Prestonsburg front line hasn't afforded sophomore quarterback Joey Willis much pocket time. He has been pressured and sacked a number of times in the last three games.

We do not know how the crews who will be officiating the playoffs locally but you can rest assure they had better not wear their rabbit ears.

It is not easy to be an official, especially during the playoffs. The officials, according to fans, have lost more games this year than any defense or offensive teams.

Look for several of our area players to ink letters of intent this coming February. What an abundance of good seniors we have. But, did you notice that there is a very good crop of sophomores and juniors this year. Future football looks good in the region.

The Johnson Central Eagles finished with a perfect 10-0 mark, the best of any team in our area. But we also feel the Eagles drew a tough first round opponent.

I hope everyone enjoys the football playoffs. Just remember, someone has to lose. So if it's your team, accept it graciously. Good sports everyone. See you around the gridiron!

HAZARD AT PINEVILLE

Hazard looking to win

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

Normally, an 8-2 record is good enough for at least a second seed in any high school football district in the state of Kentucky. Such isn't the case with the Hazard Bulldogs.

Coach Maurice Dixon's Bulldogs finished up with an 8-2 record, but could only muster a No. 3 seed coming out of Class A, Region IV, District 8. Hazard went to a tie-breaker points system with the Paintsville Tigers and the Fleming-Neon Pirates. Each team had two losses, in the district. Hazard's only losses were to Paintsville and Pikeville. A tie-break left the Bulldogs hoping for some luck and some road-cookin' as they go on the road to face the Pineville Mountain Lions.

Pineville (6-4) is on a three-game winning streak as they host Hazard in the first round of the state football playoffs.

Senior wide receiver Daniel Salyer (5-7, 160) and senior half-back Jason Smith (5-9, 180) provide the big play threats for Pineville Coach DeLynne Cline. Junior Kyle Sams (5-11, 175) guides the Pineville offense. Senior Derrick Philpott (6-0, 210) anchors the Mountain Lion offensive line. The Mountain Lions' most disappointing loss of the season came in week three when they went on the road and lost to the Cumberland Redskins.

The Hazard roster is loaded with athletes and the Bulldogs will need to be at the top of their game as they travel into Pineville.

A talented backfield of Jamal Howard (5-11, 180) and junior Derrick Combs makes for a very formidable backfield. Freshman quarterback Steven Sizemore guides the Hazard offense. Sizemore could be one of if not the most talented freshman signal-callers in the entire state.

Junior linebacker Steve Hall (6-0, 165) is the leader of the Bulldogs' defense. Howard also doubles up on the defensive side of the ball.

Center Michael Woodhull (5-10, 225) anchors the Bulldog offensive line.

This year's Hazard club is relatively young, compared to past Maurice Dixon teams.

The winner of the Pineville-Hazard game will take on the winner of the Cumberland/Paintsville contest.

A possible Paintsville-Hazard rematch of a week seven encounter could be on the horizon.

Game time for the Hazard-Pineville contest is set for 7:30 p.m.

A folksy Sunday

Jennifer Rose

Ann and Phil Case

Internationally acclaimed folk singer Jennifer Rose and folk music duet Phil and Ann Case will present an evening of folk music on Sunday, November 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Reminiscent of an early Joan Baez, Rose's style is described as "creative" and "fresh." She's performed in Japan, Italy, Austria and Denmark. Her United States performances include appearances at the National Cathedral in Washington, DC, the Great American Dulcimer Convention in Kentucky, Musikfest and many others.

Ann and Phil Case have been singing and playing music together since 1990. They specialize in singing old-time Appalachian duets, old-fashioned parlor songs and Depression-era tunes, as well as performing old-time instrumental duets.

Their sound and appearance is characterized by the use of 1920s and '30s vintage instruments. They have recently been awarded a grant as master artists from the Ohio Arts Council to teach Appalachian duet singing.

The event is sponsored by Prestonsburg Tourism Commission and the state park. It's free.

Stanley at the Sipp

The Historic Sipp Theatre's Bluegrass at the Sipp concert series begins a new line-up for the 2000-2001 season in downtown Paintsville, Saturday, November 11, at 7:30 p.m., with Ralph Stanley & The Clinch Mountain Boys, who will be joined by the Lonesome Hollow Boys.

Stanley, one of the last surviving "Founding Fathers" of Bluegrass Music, began his career in the 1940s, performing with his late brother, Carter. Together, they made country music history and made The Stanley Brothers.

Ralph Stanley, though now in his 70s, continues to perform more than 200 personal appearances annually, including national TV performances and appearances on the Grand Ole Opry. He has released two Grammy nominated albums in the past two years, including duets with the major stars of country music.

His singing and playing are among the most copied in bluegrass music, based on his legendary banjo playing and tenor singing, which harkens back to the style of singing he learned as a child, attending Primitive Baptist Churches in his native Virginia.

Critics call his current band "one of the best," with a sound that resembles the original Stanley Brothers sound more than any in recent memory. This will mark Stanley's fifth appearance at The Sipp Theatre in as many years.

Also appearing with Stanley, The Lonesome Hollow Boys, are a traditional group from Paintsville. They are often found performing on local TV or at the Paintsville Community Center, where they regularly perform on Friday nights.

Anita Belhasen, music coordinator at The Sipp, stated that additional concerts are already booked for year 2001, including Dave Evans & River Bend, J. D. Crowe & The New South, Blueridge and Larry Sparks.

The Sipp Theatre is operated by The Sipp Theatre Foundation, a non-profit organization, established for the purpose of restoring the theatre and providing quality entertainment to the citizens of eastern Kentucky.

Tickets for the November 11 show are available at Wilma's Restaurant, Court Street, Paintsville; WRLV

Radio, Church Street, Paintsville.

Salyersville; Custom Ticket prices are $8 for Cleaners, S. Lake Drive, advance tickets, $9 for Prestonsburg, and The Sipp advance reserved tickets and Theatre, Main Street, $10 at the door.

Championship rodeo in Louisville

While the North American International Livestock Exposition could easily stand on its own, it is rightly complemented by the wild excitement of the North American Championship Rodeo—the invitational finals for the Pro Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA)—November 9-11 at 7:30 p.m. in Louisville.

The Great Lakes Circuit Rodeo Finals brings the top cowboys together to compete for more than 500,000 in prizes and the title of Regional Champion. The total purse ranks among the top 10 percent of all PRCA rodeo prize money and is the second largest purse for a circuit finals.

Tickets are available now at the Freedom Hall Box Office, 502/367-5144, and at all TicketMaster locations.

On Thursday, November 9, a child 12 or under will be admitted for only $1 with each purchase of a regular $17 ticket. Friday's tickets are also $17, but a $5 discount coupon from participating McDonald's restaurants can be applied. Group discounts are available on Friday, November 10. Tickets for Saturday, November 11, are $20.

In April, another 16-year-old boy, on his bicycle, was killed by an airborne deer that had just been hit by a car in North Canton, Georgia. And in August, Hida Yochikata, 37, survived, but with major back injuries, after being hit by an airborne dog that had fallen from a ninth-floor window in a Paris suburb.

In October, Matthew J. And John Paulk, whose personal "religion cures homosexuality" experience landed him on the cover of Newsweek in 1998, was demoted as an executive with the Christian group Focus on the Family after he was caught in October reveling in a Washington, D.C., gay bar. And Mike Trout, another Focus on the Family official, resigned in October after confessing to an extramarital affair.

Murder defendant Gregory D. Murphy, strolling out of his uneventful pre-trial hearing, suddenly turned and coldcocked his lawyer with a left to the face (Alexandria, Virginia). A woman filed a lawsuit against the American Red Cross, claiming that she contracted oral herpes from her CPR class's unsanitized dummy (Hammond, Indiana). In a settlement of fraud charges with the Florida attorney general, a psychic hotline agreed to hire only people who swore in writing that they had psychic powers. An off-duty police officer, out on bond after his arrest on suspicion of DUI in the deaths of two motorists, was himself hit by a drunk driver a week later while out bicycling (Kailua, Hawaii).

CRITTERS CORNER

by CAROL COMBS-MORRIS, DVM

With cold weather fast approaching, I thought it might be wise to reprise last year's article on antifreeze poisoning. This time of year, when everyone is getting their vehicles ready for winter, is a high-risk period for pets to gain access to accidental antifreeze spills.

I hope to accomplish several things here: first, to make you aware of how antifreeze causes toxicity, how the poisoned animal behaves, and how quickly you must act if there is any chance of saving your pet's life.

Frankly, I also want to scare you enough to cause you to exercise extreme caution anytime you handle or store this product.

I guess there's no getting around some basic chemistry to explain how antifreeze does its damage. Stay with me—I'm not about to get too deep into that subject. The chemical name for the most common antifreeze is ethylene glycol; the name hints that it is related to ethyl alcohol, or ethanol, the type found in alcoholic beverages.

Ethanol is evidently also produced in small amounts by the body as a waste product, since animals and people are equipped with an enzyme—alcohol dehydrogenase—that is responsible for binding to the alcohol and escorting it out of the body via the kidneys.

Since ethylene glycol "looks," chemically, so much like ethanol, the enzyme picks up this compound also and tries to get rid of it the same way. The trouble is, while the enzyme and ethanol were designed for each other, and are an exact fit, the enzyme-ethylene glycol combination goes together like two pieces of a jigsaw puzzle that almost match, but not quite.

This makes for a "bumpy" or "prickly" molecule with little protrusions that catch on others like it, and starts a crystallization process. The crystals soon begin to clog the tiny tubes of the kidney, and kidney failure results.

Now you can better understand what happens to the animal who laps up some spilled antifreeze. It takes an incredibly small amount of ethylene glycol to poison an animal—on the order of a few teaspoons for an average-size dog—since, as you now know, it isn't the antifreeze itself, but the new compound formed in the body that does the damage.

Ethylene glycol also has a taste many animals like, and they will drink it voluntarily. Although cats tend to be a little more discriminating, even the most finicky of felines will lick the substance off his feet if he happens to walk through it.

Unfortunately, the first stages of poisoning are often missed by owners. The animal literally becomes "drunk," and while it usually staggers around a little at first, it soon goes somewhere to sleep off the effects. A few hours later, the animal wakes up "sober" and appears normal. This lulls owners into a false sense of security. "I found the chewed-up jug, but he seemed fine, so thought he would be OK," is a common lament heard from owners of poisoned pets. This is the time when the actual damage is being done.

Obvious signs of poisoning are seen when the kidney failure begins. Vomiting, staggering (this time from toxic waste products built up in the blood), decreasing urine production, an odor of acetone on the breath, depression, seizures, coma and death are seen over the next few days.

It appears to be a particularly difficult, prolonged and uncomfortable death; one of the few times I automatically recommended euthanasia was confirmed antifreeze toxicity in an animal showing signs of kidney failure.

I am by no means trying to imply that there is absolutely no hope if an animal drinks antifreeze. If the problem is caught early enough, there is treatment. It is time-consuming, expensive and certainly not foolproof. The chances of recovery go down dramatically with each hour that elapses before diagnosis and treatment. There are new tests and new treatments available, that tip the scales ever so slightly in our favor.

Also, there are new propylene glycol based antifreezes on the market that, while not totally non-toxic, are much safer. I think they are well worth their slightly higher cost.

Remember that pets are not the only victims of antifreeze poisoning; it also pre-empt the same potential danger to young children.

Refusing to purchase regular antifreeze sends a message to manufacturers that consumers are concerned with safety. Also, remember that many windshield-wiper solutions contain antifreeze.

The moral of the story is: Think safety! Handle and store antifreeze products with great care, clean up spills promptly, and if you even think your pet may have swallowed some, call your veterinarian immediately.

If it is after hours, leave a message, leave your phone number, and while you are waiting for a return call, go ahead and call poison control for advice on any first aid you may be able to administer. Ask your vet ahead of time for the number he recommends and post it with your other emergency numbers. I sincerely hope you never have to use it.
