More book troubles upset board members

by KATHY J. PRATER
FEATURES EDITOR

EASTERN — The Floyd County Board of Education met in regular session Monday evening at Allen Central High School where they found themselves wrangling with a few educational basics such as textbooks and student lunches.

According to Roy Johnson, textbook coordinator for the school district, some county schools are still in need of additional textbook funding. In order to "catch up" on district textbook needs, Supt. Paul Fanning recommended to the board Monday evening that funds taken from the district's "five-year plan" that addresses facility needs.

Apparently surprised that the district would still be struggling with a problem in the area of textbooks, since considerable attention to the dilemma was given by the board while discussing last year's budget, board members Mickey McGuire and Chandra Varia expressed dismay that a problem in the area still existed.

Pike man killed in accident

Times Staff Report

PIKEVILLE — Joseph T. Waugh, 21, of Pikeville, died on Monday when his vehicle crossed the center line of Route 194 and struck a tractor-trailer before going over an embankment.

Waugh had been traveling east at about 3 p.m. when the accident occurred. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Coroner Russell Roberts.

No injuries were reported to the driver of the Western Star tractor-trailer.

Assisting at the scene were Med Flight, DHP Ambulance and the John's Creek Fire Department. Accident reconstructionist Detective Eddie Crum and officer James Sandlin, of Kentucky Vehicle Enforcement, are investigating.

Martin volunteer firefighters were on hand Sunday to assist in decorating the town for the upcoming Purple Flash Reunion.

Purple Flash prepare for one last reunion

MARTIN — The wait is almost over for some former students of the old Martin School, with plans being finalized for a Memorial Day weekend reunion bash.

The Purple Flash Reunion, scheduled to be held this Friday and Saturday in Martin, will be the last, committee members say.

Former students have gathered for five such reunions since 1986, but with the current reconstruction of the city and generations of aging students, committee members contend this final reunion, which will culminate with an "Aloha" dance Saturday night, is an expression of farewell to the city and their classmates.

"We've lost seven out of our class," said Paul Spencer, class of 1956. "We're all getting older, the town is going away and who knows what will happen. We're getting at that age where we may not see each other again."

"They're tearing our town down," said Deloris Dingess, com-

Some dissatisfied with dogcatcher

With increasing complaints about the nuisance of stray cats and dogs in the area, several people in say that the county's one-man stray catching service has gone to the dogs.

Connie Newsome, of Teabery, says she called the fiscal court to report a stray dog problem at her home at least four weeks ago when a stray female dog had puppies on her property. That problem turned into an emergency Monday for the Betsy Layne Elementary teacher, when one of those puppies got trapped in a drainage pipe beneath her home.

"If they would have done their job when I first called them, this puppy would not be stranded in this pipe," the frantic Newsome said. "They just think if they give you the run around long enough you'll go away."

Newsome said she and her moth-

Volunteers turned away, parents say

EASTERN — Although volunteers were honored at the Monday evening meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education at which time board members were informed that school volunteers had provided over $299,000 worth of work-hours to district schools, some parents of John M. Stumbo Elementary students were present at the meeting to inform board members that their offers to serve as parent volunteers at the school had been turned down.

Bernardo Maldonado, Linda

Burchett and Sandy Hall each spoke, saying that the school's administrative staff was no longer eager to employ the use of parent volunteers.

"I was told that I was not allowed to volunteer at the school,"

Recount takes place tomorrow

by TOM DOTY

PRESTONSBURG — The close state senate race for the 29th district between challenger Eric Shane Hamilton and incumbent Johnny Ray Turner, will be recounted tomorrow morning in all four counties represented by the seat.

The procedure will be performed at 9 a.m. each in each county, which includes Floyd, Breathitt, Knott and Letcher, that make up the 29th District. The only difference this time is that there will no doubt be extra attention paid to Floyd County, where an error resulted when absentee votes for Turner were not included in data sent to the State Board of Elections

Stonecrest road an emergency, council says

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Mayor Jerry Fannin and the Prestonsburg City Council declared a state of emergency Tuesday for Maggie Mountain Road at a regularly scheduled meeting.

The problem is that the road has started to cave in and is aggravated by water which can't drain properly now and has begun ponding in the lot.

Don Hughes, of Abbott Engineering, was on hand to show pictures of the damage and answer questions about remedies. Hughes pointed out that the problem is "water seeping underneath the road." He opined that under the road is most likely gray shale and that it

■ PAINESVILLE, Ohio — A judge took a page from Solomon to settle a Biblical dispute.

Ruling in the case of a brother and sister who have been locked in a four-year fight over who owns their mother's 125-year-old family Bible, Lake County Probate Judge hit upon a way for each to come away with their share.

"Since the family Bible is not divisible without doing harm to the asset, it must be placed for auction," Klammer said. He ordered the proceeds to be split.

Dorothy Kelsey of Concord Township, about 25 miles east of Cleveland, died in 2000. Her will divided her estate equally between her son Darryl Kelsey and daughter Marguerite Barton.

But the siblings couldn't agree on who should get the Bible, which contains historical information about family members.

Kelsey said he took the Bible before his mother's death while he had power of attorney, so it was never part of the estate. He has since given it to his daughter.

Barton said the Bible was improperly bequeathed to her brother and should be returned.

Her attorney, Gerald Walker, said the siblings rejected suggestions to share the Bible on a rotating six-month basis.

■ GUY, Ark. — The grande dame of American elephants, a veteran of "The Ed Sullivan Show," has retired.

Anna May, a 57-year-old Asian elephant, now roams over 300 acres of pasture, woods, ponds and mud, playing in the grass at Riddle's Elephant and Wildlife Sanctuary.

She was given to the sanctuary by renowned elephant handler William Woodcock, along with another elephant, Amy. The pair traveled the world performing with the Woodcock family.

"Anna May is probably the most famous performing elephant in the United States," said Scott Riddle, who operates the sanctuary. "It's a privilege and an honor to have her."

With Anna May and Amy, Riddle now has a herd of 14 elephants, including two baby

African elephants. Riddle said he will try to breed Amy. He said breeding captive elephants is key to saving wild elephants.

Riddle's is the only sanctuary in the country to offer a home to African and Asian elephants of both sexes.

■ CANBERRA, Australia — Australia's main spy agency has been linked to a damaging federal Cabinet leak — a water leak, that is.

A transparent water pipe installed in the 1980s in the high-security chamber where Cabinet ministers meet gave way last month, flooding the room with enough water to fill a swimming pool and causing nearly a half million dollars in damage.

The steel pipe fitted with a sheet of plastic had been the idea of the Australian Security Intelligence Organization.

ASIO Director-General Dennis Richardson would not confirm or deny that the plastic was installed to allow inspection of the pipe for bugs or other surveillance devices.

Richardson deflected blame. "We did make a recommendation that the perspex (transparent acrylic thermoplastic) was put in," Richardson told a parliamentary committee. "We did not install it ourselves."

The room is expected to be back in use again by June 7. The faulty plastic component has been replaced with a metal part.

■ MIAMI — A man was sentenced to five months in prison for using 270 counterfeit Postal Service credit cards to buy $230,000 worth of gasoline at 203 different stations.

According to prosecutors, federal agents watched one day as Humberto Ulloa, 27, drove his 1992 Chevy pickup to several Miami area stations and made seven consecutive purchases of gas, totaling more than 162 gallons.

His truck's standard fuel tank carried only 31 gallons. The rest was pumped into illegal tanks built into the truck, agents said.

Ulloa was arrested by the Hialeah Police Department on Sept. 9. He pleaded guilty in January to transporting hazardous fuel and possessing and using counterfeit credit cards.

A federal judge on Monday also ordered Ulloa to spend five months in home confinement with electronic monitoring, to serve three years of supervised release, and to pay $2,419 in restitution to the U.S. Postal Service and a $500 special assessment.

Investigations in southeastern Florida several years ago found several individuals who illegally rigged various kinds of trucks to carry stolen gasoline for illicit resale on the street, in parking lots or in driveways of private homes.

Defendants in campus sex case get no jail time

by ROGER ALFORD
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOREHEAD — Four former Morehead State University students will serve no prison time for their roles in a campus sex scandal that resulted in criminal charges against them.

Rowan County Circuit Judge Beth Maze heard testimony from a state police detective and the father of the victim before diverting the two-year sentences she imposed for the men accused of either having sex or watching others have sex with the drunken, 17-year-old coed in a campus dormitory.

"I think it's important that the facts of this case be heard so that I know the facts and the public knows the facts," Maze said on Tuesday.

The case had sparked demonstrations by students who complained that university officials had tried to conceal the incident.

Under an agreement with the prosecutor, Nathan Blackburn, 20, of Pikeville; Jordan Tackett, 21, of Jenkins; Calvin Roach, 20, of Louisville; and Quinton Martindale, 19, of Louisville; pleaded guilty to facilitation of the use of a minor in a sexual performance.

The judge is expected to dismiss the charge against a fifth defendant, Trevor Duncan, 20, of Owingsville. Commonwealth's Attorney George Moore said he is seeking leniency for Duncan because he cooperated with police and prosecutors from the beginning.

The victim, looking like more like a child than a college student with her hair pulled back into a long ponytail and sitting between her mother and father, wiped tears as Kentucky State Police Sgt. Brian Bowling recounted the events that occurred in Room 418 at Waterfield Hall on Sept. 14, 2002.

Bowling, the detective who investigated the case, said the victim was intoxicated and remembered little about the incident. He said others in the room gave differing accounts about various sexual acts.

Originally, Bowling said, he opened a rape case. However, he said the victim couldn't remember what had occurred. He said others in the room told police that the girl was a willing participant.

Bowling said all the men charged in the case knew the vic-er, Cosettia McClanahan, called the fiscal court four weeks ago with an initial complaint regarding the female stray. That complaint, she said, along with several followup calls over the next four weeks, were never addressed by the county's dog warden, Keith Bryant.

Newsome, who never spoke with Bryant directly, alleges that clerks with the fiscal court told her that the Floyd County Animal Shelter was full and unable to take any more animals. The same response came, she said, when she called back a week later, as requested by the clerk.

Floyd County Animal Shelter manager Cathy Mullins denied the allegation, saying that the shelter will accept strays even if employees have to take the animals home. Fiscal court clerks who accept messages daily for Bryant say that Newsome didn't call and report a complaint before Monday morning, when she was seeking help for the puppy stranded in the pipe.

After several hours and unsuccessful phone calls, Newsome said her father rescued the puppy from the pipe yesterday. Bryant retrieved the dogs from the property yesterday, McClanahan said, one day after he spoke with The Floyd County Times regarding the issue.

Bryant, who has been employed by the fiscal court for two years, also said he had no records of complaints from Newsome regarding the situation.

He said he'd made attempts to correct a problem of a Highland resident, Terri Wells, who addressed a letter to the editor to the Times last week mirroring the same type of complaint.

Wells said numerous calls to Bryant about rowdy dogs in her neighborhood were unreturned for nearly three months, until she threatened to address the press with the issue. Wells, the mother of an 18-month-old, said that stray dogs have been tormenting her neighborhood by barking and growling at children and passersby.

Animal activist B.J. Conley, of Martin, said failed attempts to get help from Bryant regarding a huge stray cat problem where she lives prompted her and her husband to handle it themselves.

Using safety live traps, the couple, who've been involved in animal rescue for about a year, catch stray cats and transport them to the animal shelter themselves.

"We have a terrible time trying to get a hold of him," she said. "We called him three or four days ago about a stray dog that had been loose there for two months. He called me back and told me to do whatever I felt I needed to do. He never came out."

With complaints mounting, Bryant and clerks at the fiscal court office maintain that he's doing the best he can do under the circumstances.

"It's not as easy as people think. You just don't pull up and whistle and they jump in," Bryant said, noting that people who have complaints about his abilities as a dog catcher should try his shoes on for size.

"Those who call up and complain should come out and do it for a whole week and I guarantee you they can't stay caught up. It's impossible," he said.

Bryant, who also works as a maintenance worker for the county, is additionally responsible for cutting grass and working in parks and swimming pools throughout the county, jobs which take up much of his time.

Fiscal court secretary Brandy

Kidd says stray animal complaints taken for Bryant, who reportedly receives more calls than Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson, are picked up two or three times a week by the man.

Clerks, she said, must "weed out" a lot of those complaints because people at odds with their neighbors routinely report fraudulent complaints about bothersome pets. At least 70 percent of those calls, she said, are "bogus."

According to Kidd, community complaints often entail the requested removal of more than one animal at one location, a task that boggles the workload of a dogcatcher who also has several other responsibilities throughout the county.

"I wouldn't do his job for what he gets paid," Kidd said.

Although several 2003 records were available, no records were available at the fiscal court office to indicate the number of complaints addressed by Bryant this year. Kidd said he files them when he gathers a "pile" of them to bring into the office.

Mullins, who said the stray cat and dog problem in the county is "to the limit" says she refers customers who call regarding a stray problem to the fiscal court, but says she tells them it would be "faster if they bring them in themselves."

The downside to all of it, she says, is that strays that remain bothersome are usually shot or harmful by property owners.

More emphasis, she said, should be placed on the state's mandatory leash law, which is often ignored by pet owners.

The county pays Bryant $500 on a biweekly basis and routinely provides the Floyd County Animal Shelter with funding to maintain operations.

package at a Kentucky destination following an 8 p.m. drawing. To be eligible, customers must stop at least eight participating businesses to have their "passports" stamped. The winners, who must be present to win, will be drawn from those eligible at the Historic Harkins Building on Court Street.

To celebrate the promotion, businesses are offering special sales all day Friday to area customers.

Tourism director Fred James says the commission is encouraging various organizations to display their booths or causes along Court Street. The commission is requesting that businesses focus on displaying the historical charm of Prestonsburg by including components that are appealing to the motor coach industry, vacationers or other outside travelers.

"This is the first time merchants in Prestonsburg have partnered for advertising and promotion," James said. "This is their own initiative. They feel it will be valuable for tourism because people staying in our motels on that day will have the opportunity to shop in many of our new craft, gift and souvenir stores, which are growing in number within the city ... It's really a win-win situation for businesses, the residents and the tourists who'll be visiting. It's a first-time-ever partnership and it is showing the community spirit."

In addition to providing the city with a festive atmosphere, James said the promotion, if decidedly continued by participating businesses, could be marketed to the motor coach industry next year as a "special product" to attract more tourism to the area.

According to James, the promotion will tentatively continue every month until September. In July, the town will host a North Lake Drive yard sale for non-profit and civic organizations that will continue in September as an arts and crafts sale for area crafters and tradesmen.

Ultimately, James hopes to see that the commission gains enough participation throughout the city to distinctively inspire the categorization of shopping districts in Prestonsburg, such as the Highlands Plaza Shopping District and the Downtown District, which would make these areas more easily recognizable by future customers.

All businesses participating in June include:

- North Lake Drive: Layne's Ace Hardware, Family Treasures, The Hair Gallery, Advance Auto Parts.
- Highlands Plaza: Home Furniture, Checks 4 Cash.
- South Lake Drive: Honda of Prestonsburg, L.B. & J. Designs Inc., Singer, Tobacco Max, Mike's TV & Appliance.
- Downtown: Earl Castle's Jewelry, Statewide Press, Paula's Studio, Edward Jones Investments, Cooley Apothecary Inc., Ray Howard Furniture, Trends and Traditions, Richie's Hallmark, Country at Heart, Lad-N-Lassie, Little Rascals, Billy Ray's Restaurant, The Jewelry Box, Glass Slipper, Down to Earth, The Hock Shop.

Floyd County Clerk Chris Waugh has extended invitations to both candidates to attend. Waugh has also invited a state trooper and says he looks forward to a chance to see such a close race finally declare a decisive winner.

"It was a close race with both men putting a lot of time and effort into their campaigns," Waugh said.

The recount will only be for the state senate race, as no candidates in any of the other races requested one.

For Waugh's part, he is of the philosophy that everything be done in an orderly fashion with no time constraints.

"I'm not going to get in a hurry," Waugh said. "This business is too important."

Our View

Close race warrants review

Last Tuesday's primary turned out to be a barnburner in the state Senate race, so much so that the final word on the matter will not be heard until tomorrow.

At least, we hope it will be tomorrow. We remember all too well the fiasco of the 2000 presidential race, and we certainly do not want to see our own miniature version of that election replayed in our own backyard.

But anytime an election is decided by a margin as narrow as 40 ballots, voters are entitled to every reasonable assurance that the final tally is accurate. Thursday's recount, we hope, will make that determination.

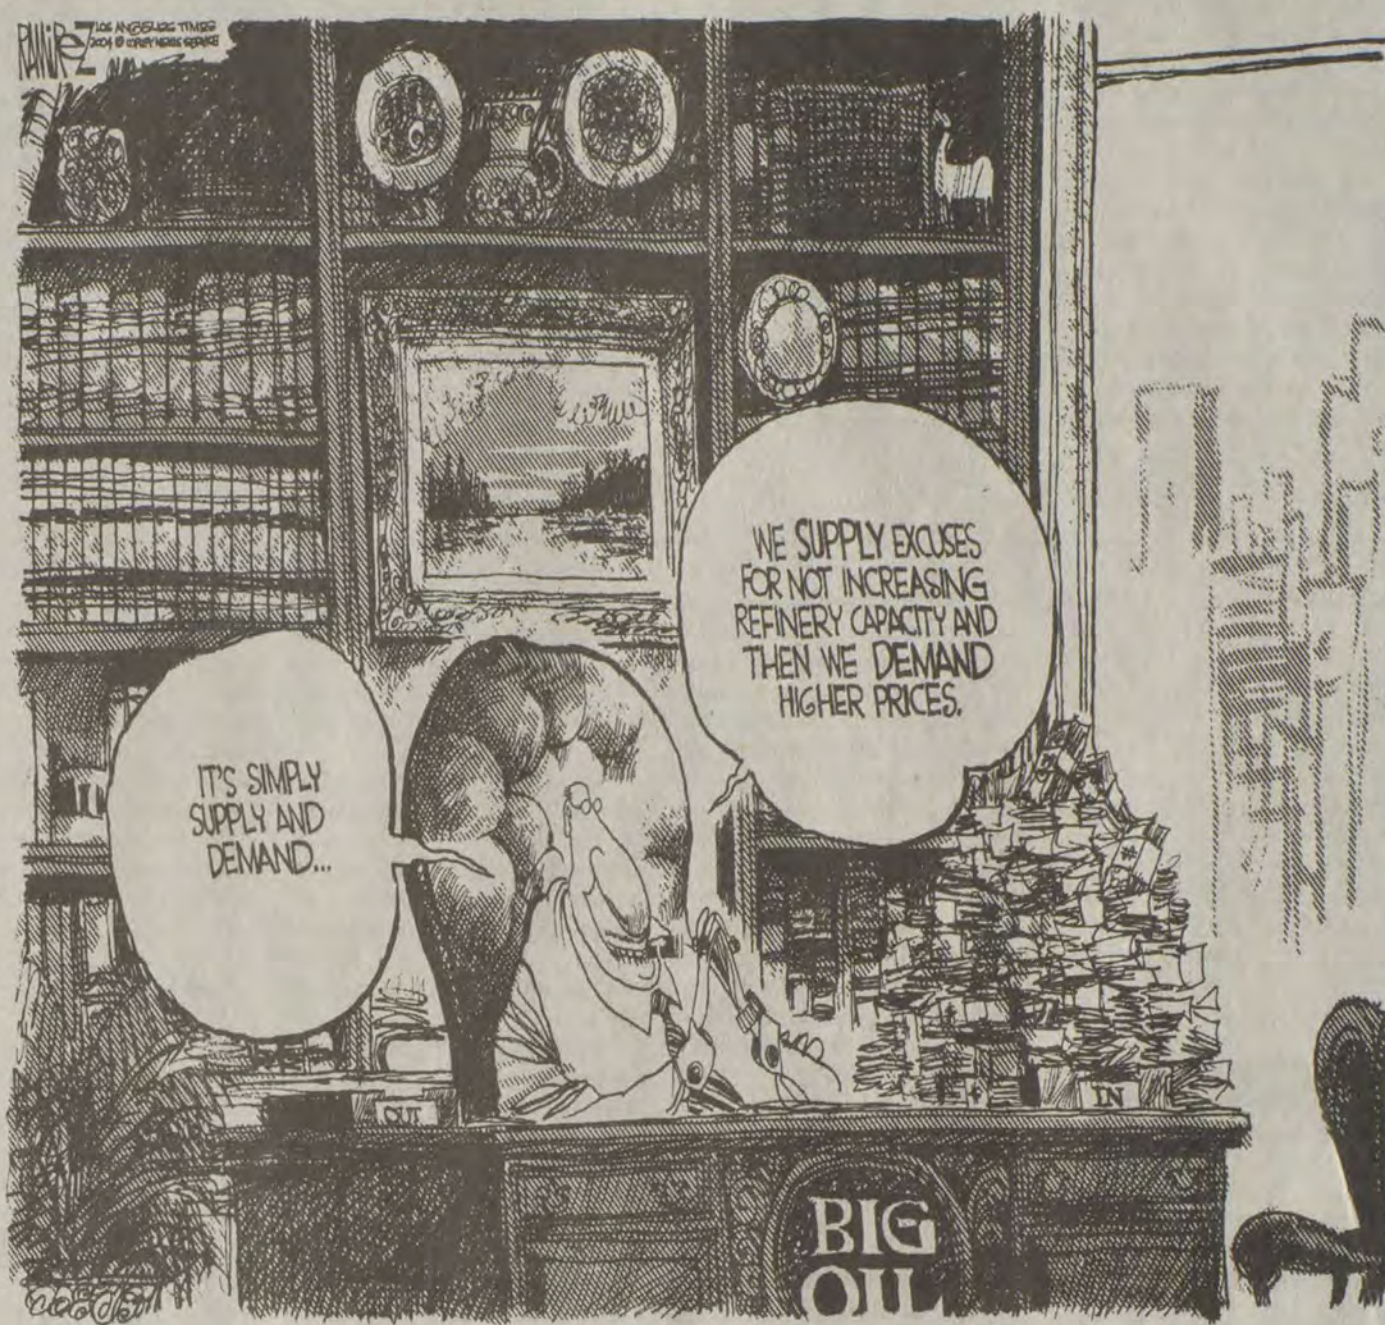

But the key word to remember in this situation is "reasonable." If tomorrow's recount upholds the results — namely, if the margin and vote totals remain the same — that should be the end of the matter.

However, if the recount ends up showing discrepancies between tomorrow's results and last Tuesday's, no matter who benefits from the changes, further investigation may be necessary. In a democracy, nothing should be more certain than the integrity of the system used to tabulate the public's will.

Any discrepancy would warrant further review, and we would suggest that outside, independent consultation would be necessary.

We are confident that when the recount is conducted tomorrow, the county clerks in the four affected counties — Floyd, Knott, Breathitt and Letcher — will do their best to ensure a professional and accurate tally of the votes cast last week. We also encourage them to pay little attention to anyone who attempts to tilt the scales in one direction or another. That, more than anything, is what made the Florida recount such a shambles.

Guest Column

Clark site best for new school

by The Reverend Canon Johnnie E. Ross

First, I want to express my support for the consolidated elementary school being proposed by the Floyd County Board of Education in the Prestonsburg area and in particular, choosing the Clark Elementary School site. I want you to know that I support the selection of this site for the following reasons.

■ The Clark Elementary School site would allow for the school to develop and implement an environmental education curriculum, complete with a natural laboratory that consists of a hardwood forest, mountain stream and wetland. Further it would allow for the students to experience native flora and fauna in a way offered at no other school in the county and could foreseeably be a model for outdoor classrooms in the mountains. Such a facility could have a wildlife observation hut, artificial wildlife housing (bird boxes, raccoon boxes, brush piles for rabbits, etc ...).

■ The wooded area located behind the Clark Elementary School site would be a perfect place for the development of an outdoor amphitheater/classroom. It is the only site currently under consideration that would allow for the construction of an outdoor amphitheater/classroom with real integrity and develop an environmental educational program that would be unprecedented anywhere else in the county and possibly the state.

■ The Clark Elementary School site would allow students to study local and national history while "living" within the context of National Historic Landmark. Students at this school would have quick and easy access to the Middle Creek Battlefield, a National Civil War Site. As currently planned, this site would have an interpretive component that would include a Union and Confederate Interpretive Loop Trail. This educational venue would, like the environmental outdoor classroom, encourage learning by affording students a hands-on experience. The opportunity to connect national and local history in this way would be available to not other student so readily.

■ The Clark Elementary school site has a total of 19.5 acres available for educational use (according to the figures I received from Greg Adams, FCBE) which, if properly planned for, would allow for the future growth and expansion of the facility without the purchase of additional property. Such planning is imperative for future boards and the proper stewardship of current resources.

■ The Clark Elementary school site would allow for field events. In fact, the people of Prestonsburg use the field for Little League and other field events almost daily during the spring, summer and fall even now. No such property exists at the other proposed site.

■ The Clark Elementary school site removes the worry of city traffic and the stresses of city noise like police and fire department sirens. In fact, recent studies have indicated that noises such as these, given today's climate, tend to upset children

Washington needs a change

My name is Den Hunter. I am only expressing my feelings about our leaders in Washington, D.C.

I feel we really need a great change and some people in office that know what they are doing. The ones we have now can't control anything. Look at our gas prices and our food prices. All of our jobs are going overseas. They should be ashamed, selling out America.

Let's take America back or we will have to take our wives to the store in a wheelbarrow if we don't get so hungry. It looks like we are going to have to go back to our outside toilets and oil lights. Under the administration we have today, we better raise a good garden if we want to eat.

Let's quit killing our poor people. Vote Democratic. I hope all the voters see like I do. I think we all should make that change this fall, before it is too late. A 5-year-old child could do a better job running our economy than the ones we have today in D.C.

Enjoyed area, people

Many thanks to everyone in Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Salyersville, Inez and surrounding communities for the generous hospitality extended to the 250 volunteers from 13 states during MissionFest in April. Each of the teams served in a variety of ways from making quilts for institutionalized teens to construction at the Haven of Rest, Heavenly Treasures and Allen Baptist Church.

My three roommates from Mississippi have indicated their appreciation of the beauty and the people of your geography. We all gained friendships and work responsibilities that are life-changing experiences for each of us.

Specifically, thanks to Bonnie Tackett and Kathy Sparks at First Baptist Church, Paintsville, for their untiring efforts, effective planning, wise organization and kind spirit in service to the Lord.

Please be sure I plan to visit the Paintsville Apple Festival this fall, or shortly thereafter, and bring others to experience some of the rewards benefiting MissionFest volunteers ranging from a Lockheed-Martin engineer and wife from Littleton, Colo., responsible

Video game fans dance off extra pounds

by ANITA CHANG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Forget the image of paunchy video gamers holed up in a dark room, surrounded by sticky Twinkie wrappers and empty soda cans.

Dance Dance Revolution players burn extra pounds along with their quarters. Weight loss is an unexpected benefit of a game designed for dance music.

Natalie Henry, 14, was drawn to the pulsing techno songs, and didn't realize she had slimmed down until she went clothes shopping.

"I went to go buy pants and the 14s were too big. The more I played, I gradually had to get smaller size pants," said Natalie, who now buys size 8 baggy cargoes.

The premise of DDR is simple: Players stand on a 3-foot square platform with an arrow on each side of the square — pointing up, down, left and right. The player faces a video screen that has arrows scrolling upward to the beat of a song chosen by the player. As an arrow reaches the top of the screen, the player steps on the corresponding arrow on the platform.

Sound easy? Throw in combinations of multiple arrows and speed up the pace, and the game is as challenging and vigorous as a high impact aerobics class. Most beginners look like they're stomping on ants and are flushed in the face after one or two songs.

"At first I was playing it for fun, but when you see results you're like, 'Yeah!'" said Matt Keene, a 19-year-old from Charleston, S.C., who used to weigh more than 350 pounds and wear pants with a 48-inch waist.

Also aided by better eating habits, the 6-foot-5 Keene explained in a phone interview he had dropped to about 200 pounds. Now he works out on a weight bench to bulk up because he thinks he's too skinny.

More than 1 million copies of DDR's home version have been sold in the United States, said Jason Enos, product manager at Konami Digital Entertainment-America, which distributes the Japanese game in the United States. About 6.5 million copies have been sold worldwide.

The home version, which costs about $40 for a game and $40 for a flat plastic dance pad, includes a "workout mode" that can track how many calories the user burns while playing.

The game was designed to be fun. But "what the creators knew is that this is a physical game no matter how you dice it," said Enos, who says he has lost 30 pounds playing DDR. "At some level there's going to be people who want to focus on that element of the game for their own physical health or for exercise."

One pediatrician is so convinced of the health benefits that he's planning a six-month study of DDR and weight loss among 12- to 14-year-olds, in an effort to give the game credibility among physicians.

Dr. Richard Adler, of the University of Tennessee Health Science Center in Memphis, said he likes the game because it "gets the kids off their butts and they lose weight."

"Just like the kids are addicted to regular video games where they use their hands and thumbs, they just don't want to stop," said Adler, who drives a sport utility vehicle with a license plate urging people to "xrsighz."

One possible downside, Adler said, is that DDR might cause discomfort in the joints of players who are heavy and have arthritis.

DDR has been so effective in getting teens off the couch that some schools have incorporated it into their physical education programs.

The chief drawback fans cite is that DDR can be addictive, and therefore expensive. In the arcade, it costs from $1 to $1.50 to dance for about six minutes.

Natalie spent $150 the first four months she played.

"Unless you have the money to do it, you shouldn't do it. I came here with $3," she said.

As she cooled herself in front of a fan at a video arcade, two teenage boys danced on a machine nearby. Their sneakers pounded out a staccato rhythm at a pace so fast that "Lord of the Dance" Michael Flatley would be envious.

Not everyone sees dramatic results. Seventeen-year-old Justin Meeks says his body is more toned, but his weight hasn't changed. He's pleased to point out, though, that his dancing skills have helped him get girls.

"Two. I'm guilty of that," Justin said with a grin as he watched friends play DDR.

Others say the game has changed their lives dramatically. Four years ago, Tanya Jessen was an unhappy college freshman in Seattle, eating fast food and spending most of her time on the computer.

Her weight hovered around 235, despite weight-loss efforts. "I thought I was fine until I hit about 220, and I was steadily gaining weight," Jessen said in a telephone interview.

She knew if she kept on that path, she'd weigh 300 by age 25.

Then when Konami released DDR USA two years ago, Jessen got hooked, playing at a Gameworks arcade before and after class. After a year, the 5-foot-8 college student had lost 60 pounds. That motivated her to become more health-conscious — cutting back on high-calorie foods and drinking water instead of soda.

Jessen, 22, is now a svelte 140 pounds and says self-confidence has made her more outgoing and particular about her appearance.

"There's something about not having to shop in the men's section anymore," she said.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital awarded accreditation from Joint Commission

MARTIN — By demonstrating compliance with the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organization's national standards for health care quality and safety, Our Lady of the Way Hospital has earned the Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval.

Founded in 1951, the Joint Commission is dedicated to continuously improving the safety and quality of the nation's health care through voluntary accreditation. The Joint Commission's on-site survey of Our Lady of the Way Hospital occurred in April.

"We sought accreditation for our organization because we want to demonstrate our commitment to patients' safety and quality care," said Kathy Stumbo, Our Lady of the Way Hospital's president and CEO. "We view obtaining Joint Commission accreditation as another step toward achieving excellence. This is our third consecutive triennial survey in which we have not received any follow-up requirements. We are very proud of our employees for this feat."

"Above all, the national standards are intended to stimulate continuous, systematic and organization-wide improvement in an organization's performance and the outcomes of care," said Kurt

Patton, executive director, Hospital Accreditation Program, Joint Commission. "The community should be proud that Our Lady of the Way Hospital is focusing on the most challenging goal — to continuously raise quality and safety to higher levels."

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is a not-for-profit healthcare facility located in Martin, Kentucky, and operates six rural health clinics. Our Lady of the Way Hospital is a member of Catholic Health Initiatives, a national health care organization comprised of 68 hospitals, 43 long-term care, assisted and independent living and residential facilities, and six-community health services organizations located in 19 states.

Birthday Shadows

by Nancy Davis

May is here.
It's time to Plant flowers,
Mow the grass,
Clean the house,
Plan a party!
Make a menu,
Order your birthday cake,
Order balloons;
But this year
All has changed.
There will be no party,
No cake,
No birthday cards,
No celebrating.
But there will be balloons,
There will be flowers,
There will be visiting;
But not at home.

A loving remembrance of

tim was under 18 years old. He said some others in the room weren't charged because they didn't know she was a minor. The victim was treated at a northern Kentucky hospital for an internal injury and bruises on her ankles about two days after the incident. Bowling said she had originally sought treatment at a campus clinic, but was turned away because they needed parental consent for treatment. Bowling said under Kentucky law the clinic not only should have treated her injuries but also should have reported them to police. Neither happened, he said. Moore argued against the judge's decision to have testimony as part of the sentencing hearing on Tuesday. He said doing so would be a violation of the plea agreement with the defendants. "I want justice to be done, and I think in order that to happen, I need to know the facts," Maze said. The victim's father said he would have rather not heard the details of what happened in the dorm room. "I feel like it was a second victimization today," he said.

more than make them feel secure. Removing that additional stress would no doubt better serve our younger students. The Clark Elementary school site would allow for the development of a traffic flow plan that could insure the safe arrival and departure students and segregate public traffic from school bus traffic.

Elementary school site would speak volumes to local social and economic justice issues, giving voice to an entire community of taxpayers that feel politically, socially, and economically voiceless. With nearly 80 percent of the students enrolled at Clark now receiving free and reduced lunches, as opposed to the nearly 65 percent in the city, it would appear that to choose otherwise would be to a decision against those struggling families of our county. From a social justice standpoint, the Clark Elementary school site would keep struggling Floyd County students in an environment that is more familiar and comfortable, not to mention what the introduction of "urban" students into that environment would do for them.

The Clark Elementary school site is more conducive to constructing a single-story structure, one without stairs and/or elevators, making it more advantageous to children with special needs. In addition, portions of the current building could be kept for renovation and incorporation into the new structure, (the current gymnasium/cafeteria/auditorium could be renovated to be the new school's media center/library facility).

Geographically, the Clark Elementary school site appears to be more centrally located as the crow flies and would perhaps keep bus rides to a minimum.

Finally, let me encourage you to take a long and in-depth look at those who have attended these meetings over the last few months who have been more vocal. I do this in the hope that you will see through the façade of their "caring" and uncover for yourself the personal, political and financial motives that are truly there.

In March of this year I attended one meeting of the committee held at Clark Elementary School. I did so in the hope that I could speak a reasonable voice that would be heard by the committee and then communicated on to you. I write this email/letter for fear that that has not and will not be done.

Angering hard-liners, Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon declared in a speech to his Likud Party that he was determined to reach a peace deal and end 36 years of rule over the Palestinians. An airplane carrying Spanish peacekeepers returning from Afghanistan crashed in Turkey, killing all 75 people aboard.

Are You Hearing As Well As You Should?

Did you know that hearing loss is the third most chronic condition in older Americans after arthritis and high blood pressure? The inability to remain alert to everyday sounds and maintain good communications with others can cause not only embarrassment, but may have serious consequences. A person with a mild to moderate hearing loss may be at risk without knowing it.

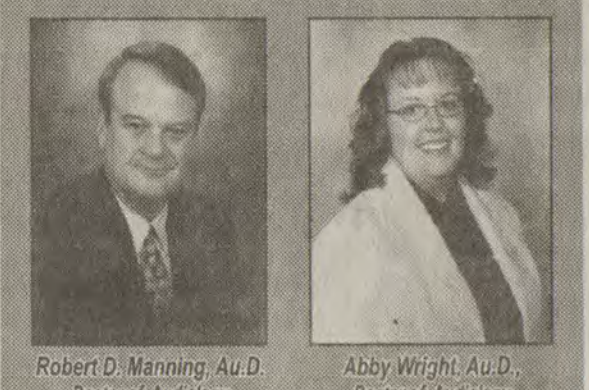

Why It's Important to Have a Diagnostic Hearing Evaluation

A Diagnostic Hearing Evaluation determines the type, degree, configuration and symmetry of your hearing loss. At Audiology Associates, one of our skilled Doctors of Audiology will perform the diagnostic hearing tests. If testing reveals you are a candidate, we will make an evaluation of your lifestyle and personal goals before determining the best hearing aid style for your hearing loss.

Pikeville Medical Center offers new cancer treatment

PIKEVILLE — Pikeville Medical Center is bringing cutting-edge medical technology to Eastern Kentucky.

PMC has just finished installing the latest in radiation cancer therapy. The new, 2.6 million machine is a state-of-the-art ONCOR Impression Linear Accelerator from Siemens.

PMC, only the second cancer center in the United States to purchase the ONCOR system, has been aggressively training its oncology staff since installation began several months ago. This new system will revolutionize and expand the radiation oncology treatment program for PMC's Leonard Lawson Cancer Center.

"It has been our continuing commitment to provide the latest and best technology and facility for our patients," said Walter E. May, PMC President. "The new ONCOR system will let us safely treat cancers that were, until now, untreatable. Lives will be saved because of this incredible technology. We are now the leading cancer center in this part of the United States."

"The new ONCOR Linear Accelerator was developed by the world's best radiation therapy doctors," stated Dr. Raghuram S. Modur, radiation oncologist at PMC. "The result is the latest technology that provides our community with leading-edge treatments. We have technology that will be able to deliver improved outcomes to our patients while reducing the amount of time required for their daily treatment."

The ONCOR Linear Accelerator was designed to take the latest technological advancements from Siemens in one integrated treatment delivery system. It brings together real time portal imaging, multi-leaf collimation, automated treatment field sequencing and auto-assisted patient positioning — benefits most people have never heard of but which will make a tremendous difference in the care given.

"I was surprised and very impressed to hear that Pikeville Medical Center purchased this incredible technology," said Dr. Brad Collett, another radiation oncologist who joined PMC just this month. "One of the deciding factors for any new physician who is trying to decide where to practice is always 'what kind of equipment am I going to be using?' Knowing this facility had the very best made my decision easy."

PMC has also purchased the COHERENCE Oncology Workspace, which is designed to improve the flow of work in the radiation oncology department. Together, ONCOR and COHERENCE, coupled with the new Siemens CT scanner, provide flexibility and efficiency for innovative cancer treatments of today. They also provide a platform to support the treatment techniques of tomorrow.

ation therapy for patients. He explained, "The administration at Pikeville Medical Center, along with the board of directors, have provided us with the tools we need to continue to supply our community with state-of-the-art radiation therapy. In addition, the ONCOR system has given PMC the capability to deliver the most advanced and innovative treatments such as Intensity Modulated Radiation Therapy (IMRT)."

IMRT provides the ability to maximize the amount of radiation delivered to tumors while minimizing the amount of radiation to normal tissues surrounding the tumor. This ability to "paint" or "sculpt" the dose around the tumor is demonstrating improved treatment outcomes and quality of life for patients.

"For patients, the best radiation therapy is a shorter treatment time, better outcomes, and improved quality of life," explained Kathy Khoshreza, director of the Cancer Center. "For the Cancer Center and support staff, ONCOR will increase efficiency and quality throughout the entire workflow."

It is important to us that the technology we use to deliver treatment to our cancer patients remains the best of any in the country," stated Joann Anderson, Chief Executive Officer. As we have often said, we strive to provide the highest quality medical care in a Christian environment. This is one more step in the right direction for Pikeville Medical Center."

Judge wants quick agreement on Medicaid lawsuit

The Associated Press

LEXINGTON — A federal judge is pressing state Medicaid officials and advocates for the disabled to resolve remaining issues in a lawsuit over strict new eligibility rules.

"I mean, I want them worked out," U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood said at a hearing Monday. He said he wanted an agreement by Friday.

At issue are rules that former Gov. Paul Patton instituted to cut costs in Medicaid, the state-federal health insurance program for the poor and disabled. The changes resulted in scores of people losing eligibility to have Medicaid pay for their in-home or nursing home care.

On April 22, Hood ordered those services reinstated within 15 days. He also ordered new evaluations of all cases in which people applied for care but were denied under regulations in place between April 4, 2003 and Jan. 30 and are still not receiving services. About 3,500 people were affected.

Attorneys for the state and plaintiffs had disagreed over what constituted compliance with Hood's order.

Anne Marie Regan, senior staff attorney for the Office of Kentucky Legal Services Programs, who represents those denied services, told Hood state officials did "basically nothing different" after his order.

David Fleenor, general counsel for the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, said the cabinet wants to signal "a new approach to this case."

"We want to fix the problem that was caused last year and we want to comply with your orders," he said.

Last week, Health and Family Services Secretary James Holsinger ordered re-evaluations for people adversely affected by last year's rules changes.

While that is taking place, people whose benefits were cut off are to have them restored. Fleenor and Regan are to collaborate on wording of a notification.

The lawsuit was filed in October by 10 recipients who lost eligibility under Patton's changes. Patton required people to meet three health criteria — not two — for Medicaid coverage of nursing home or in-home care. He also redefined the criteria, making them harder to meet.

Gov. Ernie Fletcher, who succeeded Patton in December, loosened the rules in January. Now they again require two criteria but Fletcher kept Patton's definitions. Fletcher also allowed patients to stay in nursing homes if their doctors said moving would be traumatic.

Fleenor said the cabinet plans a major revision of the regulations. He also said the state intends to restore services to people who lost coverage because their primary problem was a mental disability.

Volunteers

said Hall, "and I don't understand why."

According to Hall, she underwent parent-volunteer training and a criminal background check before being informed by school administrative staff that her services were not needed.

"They told me that they would call me," she said, "but they never did."

Hall, along with Maldonado, said that the school's principal, Deresa Ray, was not being open with parents and was making decisions without soliciting parent input.

"We have only two volunteers at the school now," Maldonado said. "There is no volunteer program anymore."

Burchett, who also addressed the board with a complaint that her child had been punished at the school by being told to clean the lunchroom, asked the board, "Whose school is it? Is it her (Ray's) school or is it the kids' school?"

Supt. Fanning replied, "Ma'am, it is a public school operated by the board of education."

Fanning informed the parents that he would examine the situation at the school, along with offering to meet with the parents and the school principal in an attempt to bring light, and a resolution, to the problem.

"All I want to say," said Hall, "is don't view parents as trouble-makers. Get us involved. I want to be involved with my child's education."

Attempts to contact Principal Ray were unsuccessful as of press time.

In other business, the board received a report by Charlie Barnhart, architect, on the construction plans of a new addition to the Betsy Layne Elementary School. Though Barnhart informed the board that his firm had "tried hard to balance real needs with real dollars," he also reported that the new addition could cost as much as $2.4 million.

Currently, around 800 students attend Betsy Layne Elementary, and the school is employing the use of two portable classroom buildings.

"Obviously," said Supt. Fanning, "we have financial challenges right now. And with no state budget, we are not in a position to make a decision at this time."

Fanning said that the project would be looked at a later time, once a state budget had been adopted.

According to Matt Wireman, finance director, "We still don't know anything (in regard to a budget), but hopefully, the governor will have made a decision by mid-to-late-June... There's really nothing to talk about at this time. The only thing that concerns me is the unknowns. If the state government shut down tomorrow, we'd make it about a month."

Also, a decision to look into "anti-nepotism" policies, already in place, according to Fanning, was made at the suggestion of board member Mickey McGuire.

"We already have a policy along that line," Fanning said, "but we can review the subject again." Both McGuire and Chandra Varia said that they were concerned that some schools were continuing to make hiring decisions based on more than qualifications.

"Sometimes," said Varia, "I'm afraid that the school hires the person they want, not the one most qualified."

"Some of these schools are being run like family businesses," said McGuire, "We need to look into it."

Supt. Fanning also took a moment during the meeting to remember the Guess family, of Martin, who lost three children and their mother during a tragic automobile accident earlier this month. "These children were students at Allen Central Middle and

May Valley Elementary," Fanning said. "Our condolences most surely go out to the family."

148 legislators getting refunds due to pension ruling

by CHARLES WOLFE
 ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — A court ruling that struck down a legislative pension increase will result in a refund of about $473,000 to 148 current and former members of the General Assembly.

For most, the refund will be about $3,650. Fifteen former legislators would receive about $2,600 apiece, according to figures supplied by the Legislative Research Commission and the Judicial Form Retirement System, which administers the legislative pension plan.

The money was withheld from legislators' paychecks in anticipation of retirement benefits being substantially increased as a result of legislation passed in 2000.

The Kentucky Supreme Court in October declared the legislation unconstitutional. Actual pension payments never increased.

"This refund — that's their money," Donna Early, executive secretary of the Judicial Form Retirement System, said in a telephone interview. "It's not taxpayers' money. It actually belongs to these legislators who were paying the higher contribution in anticipation of an increased benefit."

The legislative pension is unlike those of other public employees in Kentucky because legislators are paid for each day spent on legislative business, not an annual salary.

Pensions are based on an "assumed salary," which has been $27,500 since the retirement system was created. The effect of the 2000 legislation was to raise the assumed salary by 72 percent to $47,308 and to continue increasing it with the cost of living. Higher individual contributions were withheld from paychecks accordingly.

The Supreme Court said the legislation was too vague to be constitutional.

One hundred eighteen legislators and 14 former legislators are enrolled in the Kentucky

Legislators Retirement Plan. Fifteen incumbents and one former legislator are in a different plan, the Kentucky Employees Retirement System.

The two systems are expected to refund $473,428, Bobby Sherman, executive director of the Legislative Research Commission, said Monday.

Kentucky Pharmacists Association, Wyeth Pharmaceuticals honor Prestonsburg pharmacist

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Pharmacists Association has selected Harold Ward Cooley as the recipient of the 2004 Bowl of Hygeia Award for outstanding community service. A Wyeth Pharmaceutical representative presented the award to Cooley at the Association's Annual Conference Awards Luncheon on Saturday, May 22.

Cooley owns and operates of Cooley Apothecary located at 128 North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg and is a member of the Kentucky Pharmacists Association and also serves on the Board of Directors for the American Pharmacy Service Corp. Cooley is a graduate of The University of Kentucky and resides in Prestonsburg with wife, Tish Clark.

The Bowl of Hygeia is the most widely recognized international symbol for the pharmacy profession and is considered their most prestigious award. The Bowl of Hygeia has been associated with the pharmacy profession as early as 1796 when the symbol was used on a coin minted for the Parisian Society of Pharmacy. The bowl represents a medicinal potion and the snake represents healing. Healing through medicine is precisely why the pharmacy profession has adopted the Bowl of Hygeia symbol.

Established in 1958 as an award for pharmacists who possess outstanding records of civic leadership in their communities and to encourage pharmacists to take active roles in the affairs of their respective communities. The award is presented annually by participating pharmaceutical associations in each of the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the ten Canadian provinces. In 1964, The American Pharmacists Association (APhA) adopted the Bowl of Hygeia as its symbol to represent the pharmacy profession. Historically, most winners of the Bowl of Hygeia are community pharmacists who advance the standards of pharmacy. In addition to service through their local, state and national pharmaceutical associations, award recipients have devoted their time, talent, and resources to a wide variety of interests.

Traffic delays expected on U.S. 23

COAL RUN — Highway District 12 traffic signal specialists are preparing to re-install the set of signals on U.S. 23 north of Pikeville at the intersection with Weddington Square and the former location of Shoney's Restaurant.

Todd Fleming, traffic technician superintendent, said the work involves a double lane closure.

"We will have to merge six lanes of traffic down to two, one going north and one going south," Fleming explained. "There will be times that we will have to stop traffic completely to run the lines overhead and hand the signal heads."

Fleming said the work will start today and will continue through Thursday, weather permitting.

"It's a two-day process at the very least," Fleming said. "We apologize for the inconvenience of slowing down and stopping traffic in order to get this work done, and we thank everyone who drives U.S. 23 for their understanding and their patience."

Fleming explained that this is the set of signals that were damaged Dec. 29, when a commercial 18-wheeler clipped the pole that held the guy wires for the signal heads.

Judge, mayors designate June 'Drug Court Month'

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Judge Eric Hall was present Tuesday for the signing of a proclamation that saw the new "Drug Court" program honored with some recognition for the month of June.

Two months ago, Hall led an open forum on the program at the courthouse. That night he outlined its goals. What makes the program unique is that it targets drug users for treatment and has been successful in Lexington. At the March meeting it was announced that the program had its first registrant but that person has now been joined by others.

"We have three doing well in the program now," Hall said Tuesday. "They are doing well. One has failed in three treatment programs but hasn't had any setbacks now. The three could be joined by others if a federal grant comes through, though right now a grant from UNITE is sufficient."

Hall said that additional funding is vital to serving everyone who could benefit from the program. One method to monitor their success has been writing about their experiences in the program. "It's one of the most insightful requirements of the program. You really get to know them and get a sense of how they are doing," Hall observed.

Graduating from the program can take up to a year and a half depending on the individual's needs. Hall promised that media outlets will be invited to the first graduation ceremony and promised, "You'll never have seen anything quite like it."

Books

"I don't recall being told that we were putting off purchasing textbooks," said McGuire. McGuire went on to question how the district had managed to install bleachers at Betsy Layne High School and continued to make decisions to "run empty buses" while at the same time, failing to "buy new math books."

"It looks like the budget committee needs to look at buying some textbooks," McGuire said. "We've spent about $150,000 running school buses around with not many people on them ... and we were told we had money left over ... but we don't have enough textbooks?"

Varia echoed McGuire's astonishment by saying, "We spend money everywhere, but when it comes to the books, that's when we try to save it ... I want to put in a motion that next year, every child in the Floyd County school system will have a book on the day that school begins."

Varia further wanted to employ a policy that would state clearly that certain funds to individual schools would be earmarked expressly for the purchase of textbooks by that school. Board member Glenna Stone then reminded Varia that the board could not "dictate" to school site-based councils by telling them how to spend their budgetary money.

"I want every child to have their books on the first day of school," Varia pressed before board chair Carol Stumbo offered Matt Wireman, finance director, a chance to explain that "without a budget, I legally have no place to encumber the money" for textbook purchases.

The books most needed at this time, according to Johnson, are mathematics and practical living textbooks.

The board agreed to make the purchase of needed textbook materials a priority and to strive to have all needed textbooks in each school by the beginning of the new school term.

In light of reports regarding the disposal of several student lunches in recent weeks, such as that reported to have occurred at Prestonsburg Elementary where some students were initially served a hot lunch only to have the lunches taken away once it was discovered that the students had exceeded their "charge" limits, Supt. Fanning reported at Monday's meeting that the incidents had, indeed, occurred.

"It is regrettable and unfortunate," Fanning said, "but the incidents did occur."

Fanning said that it was primarily "a failure in communication" that led to the students being served, instead, a paper bag lunch containing a peanut butter sandwich and a milk.

Varia, obviously upset over the occurrence, pressed to "know who started" the communication that led to the incidents.

Fanning replied that to delve further into the subject would violate board "personnel" policy and Carol Stumbo suggested that a meeting be held at a later date for discussion of the incidents, though Brenda Fish, food service director, was present at the meeting and told the board that she "would like to" make a few comments.

However, the decision to discuss the matter in a meeting with the superintendent was upheld.

The following day, Fish was contacted by telephone and asked if she would like to comment on the matter, but declined to do so, saying that she "hoped" to be given the opportunity to "clear up a few things at the next board meeting."

Also, in a related matter, McGuire posed to the board the option of considering the addition of 10 minutes to the school day in order to allow students to have more time to eat their lunch. "From what I understand," he said, "the kids stand in line maybe 10 minutes or more waiting to get their lunch and then don't have enough time to eat ... Let's consider extending the school day so that the kids can have a 30-minute lunch period."

Kristina Springer, director of pupil personnel, spoke, saying that in the past, even when the option of extended lunch periods had been available, site-based councils had decided to use the extra time in other ways.

"Well, I don't think the principals are unhappy about the amount of lunch time the kids are getting, but I think the kids are pretty unhappy," McGuire said. "And, I don't think they'll add it to their instructional time because I don't think they want to work. Even the teachers don't get 30 minutes for their lunch, either."

McGuire's motion to extend the school day by 10 minutes was tabled at the meeting and vice chair Jeff Stumbo said that the board would address the subject at a later time and said that he, too, felt that the matter was worthy of attention.

mittee member from the class of 1956. "There's not going to be a Martin, anything."

The school's homecoming committee, which has been planning since February, began decorating the town Sunday for the event, which will commence Friday with a reception in the Denzil "Hoss" Halbert Gym. During the reception, the Corp of Engineers will present a slideshow about the town relocation project and committee members will show videos of past reunions.

During the "Welcome Home" ceremonies on Saturday, the graduating class of 1954, celebrating its 50th anniversary, will be honored along with the top 25 basketball players at the school.

The festivities will continue Saturday afternoon with a parade through Martin and music on school grounds by the "Gum Branch Heartbreakers," a bluegrass band. The "Aloha" homecoming dance will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday.

According to Dingess, more than 300 people are currently registered for the event, most of whom are traveling from all over the world.

The school closed its doors in 1972, with the construction of Allen Central High School. Several committee members on hand Sunday reminisced about the "good ol' days" shared between them and their classmates. They depict the school and community as a close-knit "family" of friends who have kept in touch, for the most part, even years after they graduated.

"I grew up in this little school. I went here 12 years," said Evelyn England Martin, who graduated in the "last of the best class" of 1972. "It was a great place ... This community loves each other. It becomes a part of you. Purple is heartwarming. It's something that can never be destroyed. It will always be a big part of our hearts."

"We're Purple Flash through and through," said Rodney Hutchinson, class of 1956.

Committee members request that the following classmates or their families be present to accept awards during the Welcome Home ceremony on Saturday:

- Class of 1950: Doug Lafferty, Gordon "Squirt" McCarty.
- Class of 1951: Bob Taylor.
- Class of 1952: Pete

Grigsby Jr.

■ Class of 1953: Ronald Tackett, Ezra "Jug" Click.

■ Class of 1954: Bill "Foot" Lambert.

■ Class of 1956: Delmar "D-Bird" Thompson, Jobie Click Jr.

■ Class of 1959: Edgle "Bide" Click, Frank King.

■ Class of 1960: David Conley.

■ Class of 1961: Daryl Luxmore.

■ Class of 1964: David "Possum" Mayo.

■ Class of 1965: Larry B. Hall, Steve Halbert.

■ Class of 1968: Jackie Day Crisp.

■ Class of 1969: Joe David Stumbo.

■ Class of 1972: Larry "Super" Crum.

will absorb the water and deteriorate.

The best solution for the road, it was agreed, was to drill it and see what material is underneath. The drainage system for the road, which leads up to the Stonecrest Clubhouse, will need to be reworked as the runoff is missing the drop box.

The motion was carried to declare the road a state of emergency and immediately contact C&H Construction to begin work on it. Council member Hansel Cooley was quick to raise the destructive nature of water and stated, "It will destroy anything. The water is the main problem."

The council also discussed the current problem with University Drive's construction which has tied up the road in both lanes. C.E. Branham raised the issue but no estimate of how long both lanes will remain closed was available.

ALLEN - On Monday, Betsy Layne got all the scoring it needed for a win over in just four innings of work. The Bobcats jumped out in front of South Floyd early in the second game of the 58th District Baseball Tournament, scoring three runs in the first inning and kept pace throughout the rest of the game, beating the Raiders easily, 11-0.

The Bobcats scored multiple runs in three of the four innings. Betsy Layne picked up quickly on the pitching of South Floyd starter Scott Allen.

In the opening inning, Betsy Layne's Brandon Thacker and Pat Stapleton each doubled and scored. Stapleton's double drove in two of Betsy Layne's three runs in the initial inning. Stapleton later scored on a Jordan Case single.

Stapleton took to the mound for Betsy Layne and recorded the win, strik-

BETSY LAYNE - Survive and advance was the key Monday evening in the opening round of the 57th District Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament.

In the second game of the tournament, Allen Central hung on to beat Betsy Layne 17-15, advancing into the championship game.

Allen Central senior starting pitcher Jessica Isaac walked the first five Betsy Layne batters before striking out two in the first inning. Allen Central's first inning was quiet - three up and three down.

Isaac started off the second inning by striking out the first Betsy Layne batters and got help from defense.

ALLEN - Allen Central enjoyed a 4-1 lead and looked to be in control heading into the third inning of Monday's 58th District Tournament game against Prestonsburg. The Blackcats entered the tournament with no district/conference wins to their credit from the recently completed season. Allen Central was a perfect 6-0. As with any post-season, the records can be thrown out. Prestonsburg battled back Monday and led 6-4 heading into Allen

Central's last at-bat. Allen Central, the defending 15th Region Champion, put runners on base in its last at-bat and had no intention of going away, plating three runs in its final at-bat. Allen Central's last run of the game, the game-winning run, came across with the bases loaded. Ramon Spurlock, the seventh-place hitter in the Rebel batting order, took one for his team with game deadlocked at 6-6 when he was hit by a pitch thrown by Prestonsburg eighth-grader Josh Rodebaugh, who started and went the distance for the Blackcats.

Tyler Turner scored the winning run for the Rebels, giving Allen Central a 7-6 win.

Prestonsburg got out in front of Allen Central in the top half of the first inning. Blackcat leadoff hitter Ed Osborne smacked a ground rule double and later scored on a Jarred McGuire RBI single.

Allen Central got to Rodebaugh somewhat in the bottom half of the first inning, scoring four runs off the Prestonsburg eighth-grader.

Nick Music, Justin Jacobs, Turner and Brock Kidd each reached base and scored in the home half of the first inning. Jacobs had a triple and drove in a run in the opening inning to help Allen Central out to a 4-1 advantage.

Turner, a sophomore, got the start out on the mound for Allen Central and went two strong innings before giving way to junior Ryan Hammonds. Turner left the pitcher's position with a 4-1 lead. Prestonsburg had more success against Hammonds and quickly tied the game up with a three-run third inning.

The Blackcats responded well to the pitching change. McGuire, John Mark Stephens and Nick McGuire all got on the base and scored in the top half of the third inning. Jarred McGuire hit a double and Stephens and Nick McGuire each legged out singles.

Prestonsburg added two more runs in the fifth inning to lead 4-4. Stephens, the Prestonsburg third baseman, and senior Kyle Wicker, the starting catcher for the Blackcats, both registered hits and scored in the fifth inning.

Turner re-entered as pitcher, replacing Hammonds in the sixth inning. The Allen Central junior pitched the final two innings and held Prestonsburg's offense scoreless.

The decision of who to pitch weighed heavy on Allen Central Coach Craig Kidd's mind over the weekend, in the days leading up to the district tournament game versus Prestonsburg.

"As far as pitching, we looked at some different things before the game; we had hoped to split the innings between some of our pitchers," said Kidd.

For Allen Central, Music and Jacobs both got on base and scored in front of Turner in the game's final inning.

The win placed Allen Central in the 58th District Tournament title game against Betsy Layne, a winner over South Floyd in the second game of the tournament. The championship game was played yesterday evening. Results were unavailable at press time.

Rebs

Both teams scored three runs apiece in the third and Betsy Layne went on to add the lead to 8-3 as Kim Clark and Krystal Daniels knocked in runs.

Junior Becky Thomas started a one-out rally that saw Allen Central send nine batters to the plate and scored six runs in the fourth inning. Sophomore Tonda Conn hit a drive to right center that drove in three runs and allowed Allen Central to take the lead at 9-8. Isaac retired the side in the top of the fifth, before weather halted play for approximately 30 minutes.

"We started out and had a big fourth inning," noted Allen Central Coach Mark Martin. "Becky (Thomas) had a good hit to start things off Tonda's bases-loaded drive was just a big hit for us. She has a lot of ability and hopefully, she will continue to work hard."

Allen Central picked up one run in the bottom of the fifth as freshman Amanda Thacker scored on a fielder's choice to push the lead to 10-8.

Betsy Layne scored three runs in the sixth inning.

Allen Central scored six runs in the bottom of the sixth, sent 11 batter's to the plate. Senior Jessica Isaac had two doubles in the inning and drove in two runs.

Betsy Layne rallied in the top of the seventh inning, as Isaac walked the bases loaded before Martin calmed his troops with a meeting at the mound.

"I felt like we just needed to settle down at that point and pretty much as it has been all year with this group they hung tough together and got a big win for us," added Martin.

Pitcher Misty Tackett took the loss for Betsy Layne.

Martin, also the girls' basketball coach at Allen Central High, has now coached two teams of Lady Rebels to regional tournaments.

"We're excited about going to the regional tournament," said Martin. "This group has been a fun group to be around. Jessica and Terri (Mullins) had a good day and get to continue to play next week. Those two have

The Lady Panthers will take part in the Pikeville College camp July 13-15.

In addition to the teams camps, several Lady Panthers will also get time on the court in various individual camps.

"Several players are attending individual camps and going to Blue Chip events," said Halbert. "We'll play a full summer schedule of games."

In July, Halbert will coach in the third annual East Kentucky Junior All-Star Classic. The annual all-star game will again will be held at Pikeville College.

Lady Rebels edge Pike Central

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

GARRETT - After defeating Betsy Layne 10-5 Thursday, the Allen Central High fast-pitch softball team went on to beat Pike County Central 11-10 in a regular-season finale Friday.

Allen Central entered the game against Pike Central having struggled for the most part over the last two weeks of the regular season. The Lady Rebels lost to South Floyd (4-7) and Shelby Valley (2-10) at home and was dropped in a home game Saturday, May against Johnson Central (0-18).

Allen Central defeated Johnson Central in the second game with a final of 14-11. after the game was called due to Johnson Central coach's being ejected.

Pike Central was able to score in the first four innings as it built a 7-0 lead after three innings. Junior Becky Thomas drove a deep drive in left-center for the first Allen Central hit. Thomas stole third and scored on a passed ball. Lady Rebel senior Jessica Isaac, the starting pitcher, hit a double and drove in two more runs to cut the lead to 7-3 at the end of four innings.

Pike Central only scored one more run and that came when Haley Ratliff drew a base on balls and scored to push the lead to 10-5 entering into the home half of the seventh.

"Ratliff is just an aggressive and competitive kid," said Allen Central Coach Mark Martin. "Her stealing home with a lead 9-5 late in the game just shows that."

For Allen Central, freshman Amanda Thacker battled off a couple of foul balls to draw a base on balls. Sophomore Alanna Cline then singled to right and drove home Thacker, starting a game-winning rally in which Cline drew a base on balls with bases loaded to allow Elizabeth Dingus to cross the plate for the winning run.

"Pike Central beat us pretty good earlier in the season and them getting a early lead did not help our confidence any at all," added Martin.

"Thacker and Cline were able to set the inning, they both got on base and that seemed to set everything else up."

Isaac got the job done with both her pitching and hitting.

"Jessica had her moments on the mound and just had a good day at the plate. Her double in the seventh was a big play," Martin noted. "Good win for us and hopefully, we can carry this momentum into post season. The girl's really played well today."

Allen Central returned two starters in seniors Isaac and Terri Mullins from a team that lost to Pikeville in last season's regional semifinals. The Lady Rebels closed out the regular season with a record of nine wins against nine losses.

DO'S AND DON'TS OF GARDENING

The International Chiropractors Association, (ICA), which offers tips and warnings concerning safe gardening related to spinal health, states that "The best preparation for summer gardening is a body properly conditioned and supported by exercise, good posture, and chiropractic care all year 'round." The ICA also provides a list of ten "Do's and Don'ts of Gardening" to help ensure your safety.

- Warm up with light movement or a brisk walk to loosen your muscles and increase flexibility.
- Know your limitations. Do not overwork. Vary your activities and take regular rest breaks.
- Avoid bending over repeatedly while standing upright to perform ground-level work like weeding. Get closer to the task by kneeling or sitting.
- Protect your back when you stand up from a sitting or crouched position. Get up by straightening your legs at the knees, not by lifting your torso at the waist.
- Lift dirt and plants by letting your arms, legs and thighs carry the load; Bend and straighten at the knees instead of the back and hips.
- Use long-handled tools to supply leverage and help you avoid stooping while raking, digging, pushing or mowing.
- Switch hands frequently when doing prolonged raking, hoeing or digging. Repetitive motion on one side can cause progressively serious joint imbalances and may produce postural misalignments and pain.
- Do not work too long in one position, especially one that is awkward or unusual. This can reduce circulation, restrict mobility and promote strain injuries.

• Carry objects close to your body. Keeping the load near your center of gravity reduces the risk of straining the neck and back.
• Do not overexpose yourself to long periods in the sun. Protect your head and skin and drink plenty of fluids.

Scott captures Willard Speedway feature win

TIMES STAFF REPORT

WILLARD — A surprise rain shower only delayed racing by 45 minutes Saturday evening at Willard Speedway. Quite a bit of rain fell in a very short time around 6 p.m., but did not dampen the spirits of those gathered to watch, and participate in the fiercely competitive racing seen every week at Willard. No one present even suggested leaving, as they looked on patiently while track officials worked the track to soak up the rain and create the best possible surface for racing. When the cars took to the track for their hot laps, the surface reached the desired conditions and the show went on.

After the hot laps, qualifying laps resulted in Robbie Scott of Shinnston, W.Va., setting fast time of 12.480 in his No. 18 Late Model. So, Scott picked up the $100 fast time bonus and later won the first heat race. This was Scott's first appearance at Willard and he was off to a great start. The second heat race was won by Richard Smith (00) of Portsmouth, Ohio. Both Late Model heats were run caution free which moved the show along quickly.

The Modified fast time of 14.143, was set by consistently successful driver Kevin Copher (12), who won the last Modified feature at Willard on May 8. Another winner of a recent Modified feature, Jeff Meadows (3J), sponsored by Carl Grover Motorsports, won the Modified Heat race.

In the Late Model feature, Robbie Scott led the race for the first six laps despite intense pressure from Richard Smith and Terry Hicks, both of whom have won recent feature races at Willard and are great competitors. Hicks passed Smith on lap five and ran down Scott to take over the lead on the seventh lap. Hicks then maintained the lead from lap seven to 23 when lap traffic took its toll. As Hicks, in the lead car was not able to move up the track to make the pass with the Scott running beside him, the lap traffic caused Hicks to run into the tail of the 17 car of Applegate. Smith took the opportunity to sneak by Hicks and gain the lead. For Hicks, it was a bad break due to lap traffic but for Scott, it provided the advantage that put him in front for the remainder of the 30-lap race, although it continued to be a close contest between these two drivers for the duration of the feature race.

About Scott's first visit to Willard, he said, "I like it here. They kept the show moving, and I really enjoyed it."

His parents were on hand as well, and his father commented, "the track was everything we heard it was, and we will be back for the Willard 100 on June 19, if not before."

Third, fourth, and fifth place finishers in the Late Model feature were Tony Hamilton (79), Smith (00) and Mike Estep (33).

Also loaded with talented racers, the Modified feature was won by Meadows, who recently won his first feature at Willard and now adds a second victory to his record. Second place finisher was Eric Roseberry (R2), an experienced Willard racer and close neighbor of the racetrack. Third place went to Copher (12), who was the winner of the recent Mama's Shootout feature race. Fourth and fifth place finishers were Thomas Mays (9) and Jess Wallace (5).

James McDaniel in his No. 248 Bomber, won both the heat race and the feature race Saturday. Second through fifth places respectively were Wayne Lawson (L1), Stacy Jackson (0), Kenny Preece (P3) and Doug Moore (7M).

Glenn Marshall (T4) took the checkers in the V6 Stock feature race. Marshall also won the second Heat race, whereas the first Heat winner was Steve Mills (15). Second through fifth in this feature contest, were Justin Jaynes, Steve Mills, Brian Maynard and Greg Sparks.

Dennis Meadows (33) added yet another victory to his winning record by coming in first in the first Heat race, and also won the Four-Cylinder feature race. The second Heat race in this division was won by Dale Collins (11). Second through fifth places in the feature race were taken in this order by, Dale Dehart (06), Jeff Isaacs (5), Dale Collins and J.D. Carter (8).

Intermission drawings from two different sets of tickets, had one lucky winner in Jason Bellamy of Kenova, W.Va., who took home a gift certificate from Carter's Auto Parts and the 50-50 cash as well. The winner of the trivia question posed by Grayson Tire & Service Center for a $50 gift certificate, was Rita Scott of Shinnston, W.Va. Quite a crowd gathered at the tower, trying to answer the question of who won the most Nascar races in 1986, but only Rita Scott had the right answer.

The next race at Willard Speedway is scheduled for Saturday, May 29, the Memorial Day Special, honoring veterans and on-duty service men and women. The first 150 honorees who come through the gate will be given a free cap, our thanks, and a big welcome to this event held in their honor. For more information, go online to www.willard-speedway.com

Kenseth passes Newman with two laps to go in All-Star Challenge

by KEITH PARSONS ASSOCIATED PRESS

CONCORD, N.C. — With $1 million on the line, Matt Kenseth showed just how aggressive he can be.

He moved right to the rear bumper of Ryan Newman — but never touched him — and then moved past with four laps left to win the Nextel All-Star Challenge on Saturday night, taking home the six-figure prize.

When it was over, Kenseth stepped out of character a bit and celebrated by doing doughnuts by the finish line.

"A million bucks, boys!" he screamed to his crew over the two-way radio. "You guys are the best!"

Kenseth beat Newman by about five car-lengths, with Tony Stewart, Michael Waltrip and Dale Earnhardt Jr. rounding out the top five.

The defending Nextel Cup champ had only one victory during his conservative run to that title, but he came into 2004 seemingly determined to alter his image. He won two of the first three races in dominating fashion, then struggled a bit over the next several races.

He broke out of that slump in a big way.

"It feels good to come here to have such a rocket car," Kenseth said. "I'm excited for this million bucks, and excited for all these guys on the crew."

This race is split into three segments, starting with 40 laps. Nearly half the field was damaged early, when Kurt Busch tried to push Roush Racing teammate Greg Biffle past Kenseth on the 10th lap.

Instead, the contact sent Biffle into the outside wall at the end of the frontstretch, with a large portion of the field bearing down on him.

In all, 11 cars were involved — including defending race champ Jimmie Johnson — and six were forced to the garage for the rest of the night. That list included Biffle, Busch, Kevin Harvick and Sterling Marlin, who got into the All-Star Challenge by winning the preliminary race.

"I don't understand what happened," Biffle said. "You've got to finish the race first, and he wrecked us on the straightaway."

"He took out the whole field."

If I was (team owner) Jack

Roush, I don't know what I'd do."

Busch took the blame. "It was just an all-star type bump," he said. "I apologize for all the wrecked cars on pit road. I've got to get myself in check, I guess."

Stewart won that first segment, and the top eight were inverted for the second, 30-lap portion, which was won by Newman.

Paul Harris returned to his winning ways Saturday, outracing other Late Model drivers at Half Mountain Speedway.

Evans earns fourth 201 Late Model win

by CHRIS BELCHER 201 SPEEDWAY TRACK WRITER

SITKA — After nearly a two-hour rain delay, racing got underway at the 201 Speedway Saturday night.

West Virginia native Rod Evans earned his fourth Late Model feature win holding off David Smith and David Hackathorn (both fellow West Virginians).

David Powers of Salyersville came in fourth and newcomer Jim Edmiester rounded out the top five.

T & T Car Audio of Paintsville made Pikeville's Glenn Patton's quick lap of 15.30 in Super Bomber qualifying worth an extra $100.

Patton shared the front row with Jim Lemaster as a $1,000 top prize was up for grabs in the Super Bomber feature.

The fourth lap had Patton driving his machine too hard into the fourth turn and looping it around, bringing out the first of only two cautions and sending Glenn to the tail of the 13-car feature. On the re-start Lemaster continued to show the way, but Allen Turner kept the heat on the leader in the center of turns three and four. When the field was shown half way, Turner had found the lane that was quicker and pulled right up to the numbers on the leader, Jim Lemaster, chasing him into the first set of left hand turns, and getting up to the driver's side quarter panel of the two-time Super Bomber champion.

When they came for the $1000 checkered flag Jim Lemaster, driving Claude Spence's No. 42-sponsored Monte Carlo shook off some bad luck earlier in the season to lead all 25 laps of the feature, despite a strong showing by Minnie's Allen Turner, making his 1st appearance at the 201 Speedway in a couple of years. Jamie Adams of Laurelville, Ohio, was third, and after re-starting the race on the tail on the fourth lap, Pikeville Plumber Glen Patton raced back to a 4th place finish.

Lap traffic played a role in the Open Wheel modified feature on the halfway point of the race when early race leader and defending series champion, Clint Shutts of Prestonsburg had to choose a lane to the outside of a lapped machine, handing the lead to Salt Rock, West Virginia's Keith Sanson, who took over the point and held on for the win in his Dale Mears powered 2004 G.R.T. Chassis. Stanville's Marty Meade made his return to 201 to place 2nd ahead of Logan, W.Va. driver Tim Moore, Mike Osborne Sr., and early race leader Clint Shutts.

Magoffin County was represented well in the finish of the Bomber feature with Falcon's Michael Paul Howard taking his second win in as many weeks. Scott Lemaster returned to the 201 Speedway to finish a strong second ahead of Falcon's Buck Lemaster and Scooter Lemaster. Ervin Blair was fifth followed by Gary Cunagin and Ronnie Booth.

West Liberty's Wes Bailey took the Road Hog checkers finishing in front of defending series champion Rick Baker of Perry County, A.J. Stambaugh, Wes Blair and Derek Powers.

Stacy Hall won the Modified Four Cylinder feature in his #B9 machine, ahead of Hindman's Marty Hall, DI Henson and defending champion Jack Clevenger.

It reads on the back of her regular four cylinder Chevy Cavalier, "It's all fun and games till you get outran by a girl." Inez's Mary English made her three kids proud along with a strong showing of fans, winning the regular four cylinder feature in the Dial's Motorsports, Tim's Transmissions, Beadie Blackburn racing engine powered D25. Alerd 'Junebug' Newsome finished second ahead of Mark Jude, Brian Penson, and Shawn Blackburn.

The B9 Four cylinder would see victory lane for the 2nd time of the evening when Mudcreek Motorsports Momma, Donna Hall, won the Powder Puff feature over Dee Dee Hamilton, Valerie Dials, Mary Marino and Bessie Horne.

On Saturday, May 29, gates will open at 4 p.m. with a live concert by the local band Ransome, playing country music and old time rock and roll.

A special Memorial Day event is being planned in recognition of fallen officers month. For a complete rundown of racing result of the 201 Speedway, visit www.201speedway.net.

UK president addresses ticket investigation

by ROGER ALFORD
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — An investigation into a claim that complimentary tickets to Kentucky football games were used as payment to a Lexington contractor could be wrapped up in a matter of days, university President Lee Todd said Monday.

"We'll deal with it fairly; we'll deal with it ethically," Todd said following a meeting of the University of Kentucky Athletic Association board of directors. "I would hope in another week or so, we'd be able to make a decision" on whether the allegation has merit. "We'll try to do it as quickly as we can."

George Laferte, the contractor, told the Lexington Herald-Leader that he received six football tickets from Melissa Hudson, wife of offensive coordinator Ron Hudson, for installing shelves and other work at their home over a two-week period last summer. Laferte said he was supposed to get some money, too, but never did.

Laferte said the wife's home was worth $4,500. He said she wasn't adequately compensated for the work.

UK Athletics Director Barnhart said the investigation will look not only at the ticket sale but also at whether anyone bartered free tickets for gain.

"They're not being traded or bartered in any way," Barnhart said. "We want to get to everyone how this should be handled."

Paying a contractor would not be a violation of NCAA rules, Todd said it would be a violation of UK rules.

Todd said the tickets were given to members of the staff so that they could go to games to promote university sports.

"The tickets aren't anyone's personal property," he said.

University athletics received $51.2 million in self-generated revenue in the budget, handed out 3,000 complimentary tickets for seven games last season, totaling 22,045 free tickets, $534,354, according to a report released on Monday.

Reds 7, Astros 5

by JOE KAY

CINCINNATI — Barry Larkin decided to try for third, confident about his chance of stretching a leadoff hit.

Then, he tripped and worried he wouldn't make it.

A Cincinnati stumble? Not a chance.

Larkin was safe at third — that was the umpire's call, anyway — and the Reds were on their way to a 7-5 victory Monday night and a rare four-game sweep of the Houston Astros.

NL. He's hitting the ball so well that Houston manager Jimy Williams intentionally walked him twice during the series to face Griffey.

One time it worked out, the other time it backfired.

"You talk about Casey leading the league in hitting and the way Griffey is swinging the bat," Williams said. "Which kind of poison do you want?"

The way things are going for the Reds, it really doesn't matter. Even their mistakes turn out all right.

REDS NOTEBOOK

Countdown begins to Junior's 500th

by JOE KAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Ken Griffey Jr. knows what he'll do when he hits home run No. 500.

Nothing.

He'll round the bases with his head down, careful not to show up the pitcher. There will be nothing to set it apart from the first 499.

That's the way his father would want it.

Griffey's two-run homer on Sunday moved him to 490 and started the countdown to the milestone. Large white-on-red countdown numbers have been added to the home run smokestacks at Great American Ball Park.

He edged closer on Monday with a solo shot in the first inning off Houston's Tim Lincecum, his 10th of the season and 491st overall, tying Fred McGriff for 21st on the career list.

Griffey said before Monday's game that he won't celebrate as he rounds the bases on No. 500. His father, former Reds outfielder Ken Sr., called him over and scolded him after he raised his arms in celebration of his first home run in knothole baseball.

The message: Never show up a pitcher.

"I was 14," he said. "I hit a home run and ran around the bases like Steve Garvey. I touched home plate and he said, 'Bring (yourself) over here.' I never even got to shake my teammates' hands. It was the first time I ever hit a ball over a fence."

Assuming he gets it this season, Griffey, 34, will be only the sixth player to hit 500 homers before his 35th birthday. Sammy Sosa was 34 when he hit No. 500 at Great American last season. Babe Ruth, Hank Aaron and Willie Mays also were 34, and Jimmie Foxx was 32 years old.

Griffey was on target to become the youngest ever to reach 500 when he arrived in Cincinnati as part of a trade before the 2000 season. He hit 40 that year, then was limited to 22, 8 and 13 each of the next three seasons because of injury.

Although Griffey plans to stay low-key, his teammates have something else in mind. First baseman Sean Casey is likely to pummel him.

"Casey will probably tackle me," Griffey said. "But that's his job. That's why you love him. He's our alter ego. The things you want to do, he does. The things people want to say, I say. He gets away with it because he's so nice."

He wasn't all that nice on Sunday. Griffey was on deck when Casey hit a homer in the seventh and got so excited that he smacked Griffey on the batting helmet with both hands as they passed.

A stunned Griffey shook his head a few times, then was slow to get into the batter's box because he was still recovering from the brain-rattling blow.

"The next time he does it, we're just going to fight right there," Griffey said, laughing. "He does it one more time, there's going to be consequences."

On Monday, he didn't give him a chance. When Casey crossed home plate after his fourth-inning solo homer off Redding, Griffey put out his right hand and leaned away, then tried to smack Casey on the back of the helmet as he headed for the dugout.

NO 'E' IN JIMENEZ: The Reds' defense is much improved from last season, when it was the worst in the majors. One big reason is the play of their second baseman.

D'Angelo Jimenez has improved his range and the way he turns double plays this season, a factor in the Reds' solid infield play. Also, Barry Larkin has avoided injury and is the only starting shortstop in the majors without an error.

Jimenez was a shortstop earlier in his career and was still getting accustomed to a new position last July when the Reds got him from the Chicago White Sox in a trade.

"I feel more like a second baseman now," he said Monday. "I feel comfortable there."

Jimenez, 26, is glad to settle on one position, which gives him a better chance to stay in the lineup.

"It's a good thing," he said.

ing out 10 South Floyd batters and giving Betsy Layne a ticket to the 58th District championship game.

Stapleton had a double in the third inning and Jordan Case singled. Lance Collins also doubled in the third inning, giving Betsy Layne two more runs, amounting to a 5-0 lead for Bobcats at the end of three innings.

Betsy Layne scored six runs in the fourth inning. Thacker doubled again in the fourth inning. Kidd, Stapleton, Case, Collins and Derek Case each had singles when Betsy Layne was up at bat in the home half of the fourth inning, eventually scoring six runs.

South Floyd was held to just two hits in the loss.

A commanding pitching performance by Stapleton, coupled with a team-heavy offensive output, helped Betsy Layne to come out top.

"Stapleton pitched well for us," said Betsy Layne Coach Duran Newsome. "We hit the ball real well, too."

Reds: We believe

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

If no one else has any faith in the 2004 version of Cincinnati Reds baseball, well, the players do. With a just completed sweep of the Houston Astros this past Monday night, the Reds got some of the best pitching they have witnessed the past five seasons.

I am not ready to get on the Reds bandwagon just yet because there are a lot of games to play yet. By feelings about Dave Miley as the Reds new skipper has not changed and will not as long as he continues to go with Danny Graves in the late inning. Graves is no longer the dreaded closer that most clubs used to dread. He does make it interesting in the final inning. He has four blown saves this season and for a closer that is not good this early in the year. Good closers may have that many in a full season.

Jose Acevedo continues to be the hard-luck pitcher for the Reds this season. By all rights he should be 6-3 on the year but Miley always finds a way to get the righthander out of the game to where he does not figure into the decision. Against Colorado he hurled seven excellent innings, struck out 11 batters, did not allow a run, but Miley pulled a Bob Boone brought in Brian Reith and the lead was gone and Acevedo had no chance for a win, although the Reds did win the game.

Against Houston Monday night, Acevedo is in front 4-2 after six innings.

Miley gets the hook out, yanks the righthander and John Riedling gives up a two-run homerun for a 4-4 game. Again, the Reds still win but Acevedo does not figure in the decision.

I have to admit that I am caught up in the current streak of the Reds but refuse to let myself get too excited about the goings on in Redsland. I would love to see the Reds make a run and show the rest of the baseball world how wrong they were by crowning the 2004 Reds the worst team in baseball.

While everyone else, myself included, is doubting, the Reds are believing in themselves and they are winning. So, really, it matters little what I or anyone else thinks.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

P'burg Mets' winning streak continues

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MINNIE — The Prestonsburg Mets extended their winning streak to four games with an exciting 13-4 victory over the Beaver Creek Astros. The game was played under threatening rainy skies. Both teams threatened to score throughout, but the Mets were able to capitalize on some clutch hitting. The winning pitcher for the Mets was Michael Burchett, who struck out nine Astros in his four innings of work, including striking out the side to seal the victory for the visiting team. Cody VanHoose had four hits and scored four runs for the Mets. Burchett also contributed four hits and Ryan Troxell came through with probably the most important hit of the game, a clutch single that kept a rally going in the fourth inning.

The Mets will take on the Beaver Creek Cardinals Friday at 7 p.m. at Archer Park in a matchup of two of the area's top Little League teams. It is anticipated that there will be a large crowd at the game and fans are urged to arrive early and secure parking places and seating.

An overflow crowd is expected for the Floyd County Little League matchup.

Betsy Layne, edging South Floyd 9-8 in the first game of the 57th District Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament.

The win placed the Prestonsburg girls into the district tournament championship game yesterday.

"These girls have worked hard all season," Prestonsburg Coach Jack Pack, said, in an interview at the end of the recently completed regular season. "As the regular season went on, they improved and got better."

Prestonsburg jumped out to an early lead Monday and led 2-1 at the end of the first inning. The game was tied 3-3 at the end of the third inning.

The top of the Prestonsburg batting order was extremely productive.

Lady Blackcat leadoff hitter Michelle Lackey reached base and scored three times. Darcey Hicks reached base and scored in each of her first two trips to the plate.

Prestonsburg had its most productive inning of the game in the fourth inning, scoring three runs and grabbing a 6-3 lead. South Floyd answered with three runs of its own in the fifth inning, tying the game at 6-6. Prestonsburg answered with two runs in the fifth inning and another run in the sixth inning and led 9-6 when the final inning came up.

Natasha Osborne and Lisa Fannin each doubled and scored for South Floyd in its final at-bat, but Slone and the Prestonsburg defense behind her held the Lady Raiders from gaining control and taking the win in the game's final at-bat.

Osborne scored three times for South Floyd and Megan Ousley touched home plate in scoring fashion twice.

Prestonsburg's opponent in yesterday's district tournament championship game, Allen Central, beat Betsy Layne in the first game of the tournament.

Brown earns Morehead State's first Steve Hamilton Sportsmanship Award

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MOREHEAD — Despite the fact that the award was named for former Morehead State athlete, coach and administrator, the late Steve Hamilton, no Eagle or Lady Eagle had ever won the Ohio Valley Conference's Steve Hamilton Award until now. Kandi Brown (Olive Hill/West Carter High School), a senior guard/forward on the MSU women's basketball team, was chosen as this year's recipient of the league office announced today.

The award, which recognizes an OVC male or female junior or senior student-athlete who best exemplifies the characteristics of significant athletics performance, good sportsmanship and citizenship, will be presented on June 3 in Nashville, Tenn. It is voted upon by the conference's athletics directors and sports information directors. Brown is the sixth person and fourth women's basketball player to receive the award since it was established in 1998.

Brown

Brown played in every game of her collegiate career. One of the league's top 3-point and free throw shooters, she set a new OVC all-time record for treys made (248) and tied the Conference mark for consecutive made free throws (41) during the 2003-04 season. She became the NCAA's all-time leader for career free throw percentage after leading the league and ranking in the Top 10 nationally in foul shooting in each of her four years, finishing with a career 91.54 average. She was also among OVC leaders in scoring (13.6 ppg), assists (97), steals (37), three-point percentage (33.3), three-pointers per game (2.1) and assist-to-turnover ratio (0.75) during the 2003-04 season.

A second-team All-OVC selection in each of the past two years, Brown was also named to the OVC All-Freshman squad in 2000-01. She finished her Lady Eagle career ranked among the school's Top 10 lists for scoring, steals, assists, blocked shots, made three-pointers and made free throws. The health and physical education major owns a career 3.38 grade point average, landing on the MSU Dean's List three times and the OVC Commissioner's Honor Roll once.

"It is an honor for Kandi to be recognized in that fashion," said MSU women's basketball head coach Laura L. Litter. "She has brought a tremendous amount to the University and exemplifies the meaning of a true student-athlete. Our philosophy as a program is giving back to the community is a top priority, and Kandi has always been very committed to that."

Along with her accomplishments on the field and in the classroom, Brown has also participated in numerous community service projects as a member of the Morehead State women's basketball team. Those projects include the Clearfield Elementary School Fall Festival; "Trick or Treat" with the Lady Eagles; Fazio's National Read to Kids Week; Big Sister-Little Sister "Bag-a-Fan;" Rally For a Cure Golf Tournament; Community Earth Day; volunteer work at the Morehead Youth Development Center Clinic; organizing, sorting and donating books to the public library; bagging groceries for the elderly at local supermarkets; wrapping holiday gifts for the needy; hosting the Hoop & Scoop get-together for community youth, sponsoring the Lady Eagle Ball Girl program; participating in the beautification of the Gateway Children's Advocacy Center; raking leaves for shut-ins; raising funds for the D.O.V.E.S. program; assisting with local AAU teams and tournaments; hosting a mini Day Camp for kids; serving as a counselor at the MSU Champs Camp; conducting a post player clinic at Tilden Hogge Elementary School and assisting with the National Girls' and Women in Sports Day.

Lance Berkman's tying two-run homer in the seventh, a momentary setback. Larkin led off the eighth with a drive to center off Brad Lidge (0-3) and was determined to make it to third.

"I kind of stumbled around second base and was thinking, 'I don't know now,'" the 40-year-old shortstop said. "It worked out OK. I saw the replay and from what I saw, it didn't look good."

Umpire Terry Craft called him safe, and the rally was on.

"They made all the plays, made all the pitches and got all the calls," said Houston's Craig Biggio, who had a pair of hits. "We're not sitting here crying over it. They're hot right now and when you're hot, you get everything going your way."

Casey was intentionally walked, Griffey grounded out and Kearns followed with his third homer, deep into the seats in left field. Danny Graves gave up a run in the ninth before closing it out for his 21st save in 25 chances.

Then, fans in the outfield seats hoisted brooms to celebrate the rare sweep. Houston hadn't been swept in a four-game series since June 24-27, 1999, when the Reds took four in the Astrodome.

"Those guys are as good as it gets," said Kearns, who had shaving cream smeared in his hat and shirt after an impromptu celebration. "Just to win the series would have been sweet. To sweep is great. I can't say enough."

Ticket

Auditors haven't yet completed their review of the last basketball season. A 2002-03 audit showed 17,070 complimentary tickets with a value of $342,540 were handed out for 15 games at Rupp Arena and one game at Freedom Hall.

Barnhart said the tickets are given not only to coaches and other athletics staffers, but to students, administrative employees, even legislators.

The athletics director said a thorough investigation is being conducted, but he doesn't expect it to turn up widespread violations. He said the allegation against Hudson is just that — an allegation.

"People love to rush to judgment," Barnhart said. "We won't do that."

FOOTBALL: Troubled pro football hopeful Clarett loses another court decision

NEW YORK — Maurice Clarett lost yet another court decision in his attempt to play in the NFL next season.

An appeals court said that federal labor policy allows NFL teams to set rules for when players can enter the league. The decision by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was consistent with the appeals court's refusal last month to permit the former Ohio State running back into the NFL draft.

The draft was held on April 24-25, and Clarett was ineligible for it. This ruling means he will not be eligible for a supplemental draft and will have to wait for the 2005 draft.

The ruling also affects Southern California wide receiver Mike Williams, who applied for entry in this year's draft.

Collins signs with Raiders

ALAMEDA, Calif. — Kerry Collins signed with the Oakland Raiders, ending his monthlong search for a team.

The deal is for three years and about $12 million.

Collins, a nine-year NFL veteran, was released by the New York Giants on April 28, four days after they acquired Eli Manning, the No. 1 pick in the draft.

Rich Gannon, knocked out of the Raiders' 17-10 loss to Kansas City last Oct. 20, ended last season on injured reserve, and so did his backup, Marques Tuiasosopo.

The Raiders have said Gannon is completely healthy after having shoulder surgery in November to repair a torn labrum.

BASEBALL Wood' still out up to three weeks

CHICAGO — Kerry Wood's right arm is structurally sound, a bone scan showed, but the Chicago Cubs' ace is still expected to miss up to three weeks.

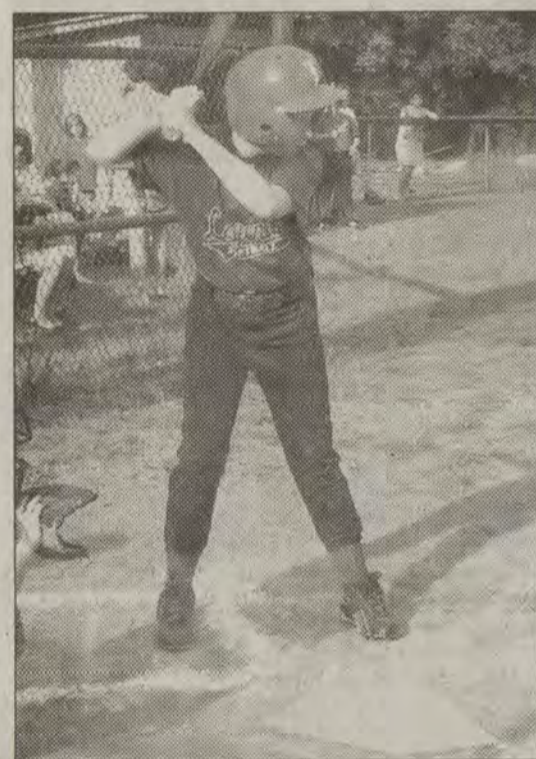

The test confirmed the original diagnosis of tendinitis in the lower triceps muscle. There was no evidence of a stress fracture.

James Sturgill of the Yankees threw out a Cubs baserunner Monday during a Harold-Allen-Prater Little League game. Scores and results from HAP Little League will appear in Friday's edition.

LOCAL LEG- ENDS...

In the first game of a doubleheader between the Prestonsburg Legends and the Beaver Creek crew, Kaitlyn Minix of the Legends got ready to run after reaching first base on a single.

Mikka Hackworth of the Prestonsburg Legends appeared at the plate in the first game of a doubleheader late last week. More on area Little League fast-pitch softball, including game summaries and scores, will appear in Friday's edition.

Early summer fishing opportunities available

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

FRANKFORT - Shorts and tee shirts are now part of our leisure clothing ensemble. Salty sweat burns the eyes for the first time in the year when we exert ourselves. The bathroom mirror reflects a sun-burned nose and neck the morning after mowing the yard.

Summer time weather is here, and veteran fishermen know that the first real summer like temperatures coincide with one of the best times of the year to fish. Kentucky offers a myriad of opportunities to fish year round, but the late spring and early summer time period brings fish up into the shallows where they are more receptive to our baits and lures.

In western Kentucky, the water temperature on Kentucky Lake usually rises to the low to mid-60s by late April. This begins the spawning period for largemouth bass. The desire to reproduce brings the bass into shallow water.

The male bass come shallow first to begin fanning nests, followed by the larger females to deposit their eggs.

Just before they come in to spawn is a great time to target the large female bass on Kentucky Lake. While the male bass are in the back of bays and creeks making nests, the big females "stage" out in deeper water. Using a one-half to one-ounce carolina-rigged soft plastic lizard, finesse worm or tube bait is very effective on these fish.

Good staging areas for pre-spawn females are brushy or stumpy flats next to a creek channel, or on a long tapering point that falls off into deep water or an offshore gravel hump. Finding bass on this pattern may come a little earlier or later in the year depending on weather conditions and water level. You may also catch fish that have already spawned and moved back out into deep water by targeting these areas.

Kentucky Lake is laced with a multitude of offshore secondary creek channels. These channels are highways used by fish to travel from the safety of deep water to their feeding areas in shallow water. If all else fails, work these channels with a crankbait or a Carolina rig.

Some of the earliest fishing memories for many anglers are catching bluegills and redear sunfish (shellcrackers) with our father or grandfather.

Early summer is an excellent time to target bluegill and shellcrackers and other sunfish in smaller, state-owned lakes in central and north central Kentucky.

Corinth, Elmer Davis, Boltz and Wilgreen Lakes all hold good populations of bluegill while Corinth Lake is a good producer of trophy redear sunfish.

These lakes are small enough for a canoe, float tube or small johnboat.

Bluegill spawn in May and June when the water temperatures rise into the 70s. They become aggressive during spawning time and attack any live bait or artificial lure that drifts into their territory.

Bluegill and redear sunfish fishing is a perfect choice when introducing a young angler to fishing. A cane pole, a long 10 to 12-foot fiberglass rod popular for crappie fishing, or an ultralight spinning or spin cast rod are good choices for sunfish. Red worms, bits of night-crawler or a cricket threaded onto a size 8 or 10 long shank aberdeen hook with a bobber and small split shot is a productive rig for bluegill.

Place the bobber about 18 inches above the hook and move it up or down the line until you find the right depth and bluegill begin to bite. Place a small split shot weight about 6 to 8 inches above the hook. Children love to watch a bobber disappear under the water and bobber watching holds their attention.

Another excellent bluegill method is to tip a 1/32 or 1/16-ounce white or chartreuse hair jig with a wax worm and cast it to weed lines. Fly rods rigged with a small white, black or chartreuse popper or a small sponge spider cast to tree tops, brush or weed lines is a sporting way to catch bluegill. Redear sunfish fall for these same presentations, but they also love small yellow curly-tailed grubs cast on a lead head jig.

Paintsville Lake is known for its walleye fishery, but May and June find Kentucky (spotted) bass actively biting. The lake holds a burgeoning population of Kentucky bass. Kentucky bass seem overlooked by bass anglers yet they bite willingly, fight hard and make excellent table fare.

Paintsville Lake is as clear as tap water most of the time, so lighter, non-flourescent lines and smaller lures are the key to catching Kentucky bass. The clear water promotes the growth of extensive weedbeds throughout the lake and the spotted bass hold along the edges of these weedbeds in early summer.

Target the weed edges with four-inch black finesse worms, pumpkin or watermelon seed-colored tube jigs, or three- to four-inch pearl curly-tailed grubs rigged on a 1/8-ounce lead head jig. Refrain from using large heavy lures for Kentucky bass on Paintsville Lake.

You want your offering to slowly tumble and fall through the water column, not fall to the bottom like a concrete block. You may even want to fish your soft plastics weightless over these weedbeds if the Kentucky bass prove finicky. Another excellent method is working 1/8-ounce lipless crankbaits in chrome with a blue back, fire tiger or crawfish colors over these weedbeds.

Try these areas this May and June for some exciting fishing in Kentucky. For more information about Kentucky fishing, call 1-800-858-1549 or log on to fw.ky.gov.

Jockey still hospitalized after spill

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — Jockey Mike Morgan remained hospitalized Monday with back pain from a four-horse spill a day earlier at Churchill Downs.

Morgan's mount, Lady's Don't Tell, was euthanized Sunday evening. Trainer Peter Salmen Jr. said the 3-year-old filly suffered a broken shoulder when she tumbled over Lil' Bit Of Pucker, the first horse to fall in the chain-reaction spill.

Morgan and three other jockeys — Rafael Bejarano, Daniel Coa and Joe Deegan — were thrown to the track when their horses fell near the top of the stretch in the 10th race Sunday.

Coa and Deegan were treated and released from area hospitals Sunday. Bejarano did not require medical treatment.

Morgan said Monday his back still hurt but he suffered no broken bones. Morgan said he did not know how long he would be hospitalized.

"I'm not moving too well," he said.

Lil' Bit Of Pucker, with Coa aboard, was fifth just off the rail when the spill occurred in the one-mile maiden claiming race. Darling Bee, ridden by Bejarano, and Zoe In Red, with Deegan aboard, also went down in the race.

POISON OAK

One lucky rascal

Tuesday is June 1. It was on that date in 1961 that I marched across the stage of Brock Auditorium, on the campus of Eastern Kentucky State College, and was handed a hard-earned BA Degree by Dr. Robert Martin, the college president.

Also in line for a sweaty handshake was then vice-president of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, who had just delivered a rather boring commencement address.

Clyde Pack

Perhaps it was boring because I paid little attention to what he was saying due to the fact that I worried - actually I was 100 percent sure - that when it came time for my name to be called, it wouldn't be. It was, though, which made it okay that the diploma Dr. Martin handed me belonged to someone else. I retrieved my own minutes after the ceremony from the Dean's office and went home happy.

One would think that because of that very important event in my life, June 1 would always be a special day. Well, it is...but not for that reason. Just two short years later - to the day - I was honored beyond belief when Wilma Jean Penix, the daughter of Hobert and Almira Penix, of Williamsport, Kentucky, became my wife. To this day, I still don't know why a sane, intelligent woman would ever have agreed to do so, but she did. I'm not very good in

KIM'S KORNER

Forgive thy brother

"Why?," is probably the number one question our Lord Jesus Christ hears from the majority of the human race. Sometimes, He clearly gives us our answers to that probing question. While other times, we may never know the answer to certain "Why's" that we ask.

It's simply profound that when we receive confirmation to a message, or vision, that we've been fortunate enough to receive. That's exactly what took place one recent Sunday morning before leaving for church.

Just recently experiencing hurt, much time was being spent in prayer for the ability to forgive. To truly forgive. Forgive freely, frankly, and completely, without remembering.

That old saying, "I'll forgive but I won't forget," just doesn't get it when you're trying to walk with Christ. Here again, "Why?"

Well, because if we don't forget the hurt, then the resentment builds, then animosity musters, and the possibility exists that you're likely to explode like a volcano once the garbage builds so high that you just can't seem to take it any longer. Not good!

As the TV was tuned to TBN this particular Sunday morning, there stood a pastor spouting scripture after scripture on "Forgiveness"! A loud, "Thank You Jesus," I shrieked out!

Sri Lanka Departure

By Dr. Phyllis Puffer,
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, SOCIOLOGY,
BIG SANDY COMMUNITY AND
TECHNICAL COLLEGE, PRESTONSBURG
CAMPUS

Author Summary: A tourist rides through a big city unknowingly sitting on a wet seat.

A three-wheeler is a wonderful invention. At least the kind they have in Sri Lanka. A three-wheeler is a poor man's taxi and bustles around carrying passengers here, there and everywhere. It really does have only three wheels and is shaped like a triangle. It is clearly related to the automobile but is equally clearly in a different category. It is just large enough for a driver and two or three passengers. The driver sits alone in the front at the tip of the triangle steering, stopping, starting, turning, avoiding being run over by buses, cars, trucks, and whatever else might be on the road that day. The vehicle is a modern one and quite up to date. The driver has a radio and can ask the dispatcher for directions when trying to locate a particularly obscure address or to receive instructions. The one, two or three passengers sit behind the driver enjoying the scene from about a foot from the ground, shaded from the sun or rain by the automobile-like top and appreciating the breeze coming through the open sides. The one disadvantage I found is that a passenger's respiratory system is located at the same level as the exhaust pipes buses and trucks.

It was my last day on this large, beautiful island off the coast of India which used to be known as Ceylon. I had telephoned for a three-wheeler and was on my way to the airport. The driver was unusually tall and solid in comparison with many other Sri Lankans. He filled all the space in his designated position in front. It made sense when he told me his father had served in the army when the British were there. Judging the father by the son, the father would have immediately attracted the army recruiters and would have had a successful soldier's career. He and I chatted back and forth and I tried to take full advantage of my last opportunity to learn about island life.

We were in the capital city of Colombo, located at the southern edge of the country on the ocean. One afternoon I had walked along the oceanfront. Some other dozens of individuals and small groups were walking through the huge open area also. It was hot. The

CRITTER CORNER

Cat Rescue!

By Dr. Carol Combs-Morris,
DVM

It was one of those things that you know you're going to get in trouble for doing, but you go ahead and do it anyway.

The man on the phone was a neighbor who had a stray cat up a tree in his backyard and needed help. This doesn't fall under the duties of the average vet clinic, but there were some extenuating circumstances. The neighbor is disabled. Even if the fire department could be talked into breaking some rules, they would have been hard pressed to get their equipment where it needed to go. The clincher was that a bad storm was forecast and the cat had already been in the tree for three days. At the time it seemed like the obvious thing to do. Looking back, there were several smarter and safer ways we could have approached the situation.

The clinic was slow that morning (because all the intelligent people were home preparing for the storm). Being the fools that we are, Teresa, Wanda and I gathered our emergency equipment (a fishing net and a pet taxi), and volunteered to go help with the cat. Maybe the staff of a vet clinic sounds like the ideal pet rescue squad to you, but let me explain. Wanda had just lost an encounter with her horse and the barn door and was

"Lilly." Lilly is a brand-new kitty that was found by Sherry Prater when she was only around a week old. Sherry shares that Lilly is "full of personality!" and that "she is definitely the most energetic of all my kitties!" Who could ever resist such a precious little face? Hopefully, Lilly won't ever need the "rescue" services of Dr. Carol and her crew!

Floyd County magistrates rejected a contract, Friday, with Rumpke of Kentucky, for solid waste disposal, despite intense lobbying by the county attorney, and voted instead to put the services out for competitive bids. The solid waste debate began when Delores Smith, representing the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, asked the court for more details about the financial aspects of the Rumpke proposal, and expressed concern about the increased costs for commercial customers...Bids for a 21-classroom addition at Betsy Layne Elementary came in under budget, Tuesday, and included a new fully-equipped kitchen in the project. Jim Osborne, chief of operations for the Floyd County school district, reported Tuesday that the construction bids came in under the architect's estimates...Friday's Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting was full of surprises, with the biggest being that the meeting was moved from the tiny meeting room in the courthouse annex to the spacious circuit courtroom. The accident happened at approximately 6 p.m., Monday, on Plum Street, in Maytown...Floyd County Circuit Judge John David Caudill ruled, Thursday, that there was not enough evidence of fraud to void the November 1993 election for the mayor of Wheelwright. Lowell Parker, an unsuccessful mayoral candidate who lost by four votes, filed suit, last year, against David Marlee Sammons, who was the victor in the mayor's race, alleging election irregularities and election fraud. Parker also claimed that a qualified voter in the city race was not allowed to cast his vote in the election...A press conference will be held by Appalachian Racing on Friday, June 3, at noon, to announce the name and unveil the logo of their new facility near Prestonsburg. Two separate caravans, which included ambulances, school buses, coal trucks, rescue squad, and law enforcement vehicles, began their journeys at opposite ends of U.S. 23. One traveled the route from Dorton in Pike County, and the other from the Lawrence-Johnson County line. Right on schedule, the caravans met at 2:30 at the Holiday Inn, at Prestonsburg, where a press conference was scheduled...A high-profile Knott County murder case and the accused murderer, have been moved to Floyd County after the Knott Circuit Judge removed himself from the case. math, but if I'm not mistaken, this June 1 makes 41 years since the little ceremony took place, and, truth be known, on many occasions during the interim, she's posed that same question to herself.

Over the years I've jokingly tried to convince her that I'm the best thing that ever happened to her - except, of course, for son Todd and granddaughter Alison - while all the time knowing that it was I who had struck gold.

Guess that's why I got so aggravated the time several years ago when an emergency-room doctor inquired as to whether the woman who stood beside the examining room table holding my hand was my "significant other." In no uncertain terms I told him, "Absolutely not! She's my wife."

He didn't get it, probably thinking I had a hearing problem and didn't understand the question. But as she stood there smiling, I knew that she understood.

That marriage license that went into effect on June 1, 1963, is much more valuable than any ole BA Degree. Am I one lucky rascal, or what?

wearing a brace on one arm. Teresa and I were born two of the biggest klutzes known to man. In addition, Teresa has had surgery on her head that has almost destroyed her sense of balance, and my slipped disc and subsequent back surgery have left me with a leg that is unpredictable on solid ground and almost useless if the footing is bad.

Now I need to paint a picture for you of the would-be rescue scene. Our neighbor lives halfway up a steep hill. His house and yard are situated on a nice flat spot, but on one side the hill resumes its steep upward slope while on the other it drops away precipitously. The tree containing the cat was growing on the downhill side, and the cat was almost at eye level when standing on the lawn several yards away. Once you hiked down to the tree's actual location, however, our victim was in the crotch of a limb almost thirty feet above the ground. Did we think to bring a ladder? Don't be ridiculous. Our neighbor said he had one, but it probably wouldn't reach all the way. The wind was picking up and we didn't have a lot of time.

While he left to retrieve the ladder, we tried to formulate a plan. My climbing anything was out, since it took both of the other women just to get me down the hill. Wanda decided she was in the best shape to go up the ladder, figuring she could use her injured arm to brace herself and scruff the cat with the other hand. Teresa would meet her halfway up the ladder if she had to, and transfer the cat. My assignment was to hold the pet taxi. You know what they say about the best-laid plans...

Our neighbor returned with his ladder, all twelve feet of it. We took stock of this new development. The tree limbs were arranged so that the lowest ones protruded toward our left, nearest the hill. The cat was on the third branch up. Another branch grew toward our right, roughly at the level of the lowest left-facing branch, but jutting out over the sheer drop of the hillside. We finally came up with the idea of placing the ladder on the hill away from the base of the tree so the top was as close to the branches as possible. After some maneuvering, we had it where Wanda judged she could reach the lowest left-hand branch from the top rung of the ladder.

Everything was going pretty well, so far. Wanda made it to the first branch and pulled herself up onto it. The second branch was an easy reach, but looked rotten close up, and she was afraid to trust it. Still, standing up, she was able to reach the cat, get a secure hold on its scruff, and lower it from its perch. This is when everything started to unravel. Wanda discovered too late that she had not factored in having the cat in one hand while trying to descend. She couldn't use her other arm to balance herself to get back on to the ladder.

No problem, Teresa assured her. She would just climb the ladder and let Wanda pass the cat to her. She left her post helping to steady the ladder and shinned up. The ladder had seemed stable all this time, but just as she got to the top, something shifted. The neighbor man made a desperate effort to steady it, and I dropped the pet taxi and bumbled over to help. Too late. Teresa felt the ladder giving way and made a dive for the nearest branch, which unfortunately was the one pointing to the right. She dangled there for what seemed like an eternity, probably a hundred feet off the ground. To add insult to injury, in our frantic attempts to reposition the ladder, we were cracking her knuckles repeatedly with the top of it. The ladder finally in position, she executed an acrobatic maneuver that would have made a monkey proud. By wrapping her legs around the ladder, she somehow got back on, and reached up for the cat. Wanda, who had been sitting in the tree watching in horror, passed it down as if this were all part of the plan. The cat was either the most trusting animal in the world, or it was in shock.

Halfway down, I was able to hold the pet carrier up high enough for her to drop the cat in safety. I had the door latched before Teresa's feet hit the ground. Nobody said anything for a long time. It was raining by the time we reached the clinic. By the end of the day, we had a watered-down version of our cat rescue suitable for telling husbands and mothers.

This is one of the reasons it has taken me so long to write about this misadventure. By the time their memories have faded somewhat, our families generally think we have learned our lesson, and would NEVER try something so stupid again. It would be nice if we could convince ourselves of that.

You see, if I were to guess, I would say there isn't a church around that doesn't have at least one member gracing a pew that has been hurt at another church by a fellow brother or sister in Christ. Why? And how on earth could that be possible, for Christians, of all people, are supposed to treat one another with kindness, love, and respect above all, you may be thinking.

Now "why?" - well, it's been said before in this very paper, and I shall say it again - because Christians aren't perfect.

That flesh thing again, is why!

It's a multitude of reasons, from many different areas. Many different spirits!

Some range from the need to control everything, to arrogance, jealousy, self-righteousness, and the list goes on.

Whatever the "spirit," fact remains that there are many who get hurt in one way or another in our churches.

I remember a particular sermon preached on Christians judging Christians. And what an awesome lesson it was.

When will our flesh ever learn that our Lord Jesus Christ is our one and only Judge! That He and He alone knows our hearts.

How many times have you heard, or said for that matter, that "So & So" isn't where they need to be in their walk with Christ Jesus? How many times have you heard, or said, things about your brothers and sisters in Christ knowing better? How many times have you found faults in your brothers or sisters, while yet you deny the faults of your own? How many times have you left a church because of hurt, only to be hurt again at another?

Point: Christians are humans! Another unforgettable sermon titled, "Opposition," was enlightening and ever so welcomed. Without opposition we won't grow. How true this is!

Another truth is that way too many of us take our hurts and flee. Or we bury our hurts within. We don't make them known, bring them to light, or allow them to surface so that forgiveness can manifest and healings occur.

Granted, some will never admit to a wrong, some have that "arrogant spirit," mentioned above and will not take responsibility for causing pain, sorrow or conflict. These are the very ones we need to lift up to our Lord Jesus Christ, for His light to shine upon and open their blinded eyes and closed minds.

Forgiveness is truly the oil of relationships.
Til Next Week, Forgive!

Departure

beach was wide and white. A strong wind was blowing inland and a fine spray from the ocean coated my glasses with tiny specks of briny liquid.

Unlike US cities where the downtown is the deteriorated section, the Colombo downtown was the richest and most beautiful part of the city. Here were located the big luxury hotels which attracted the most expensive international tourists. The large banks were there as well as the most important business headquarters. Well-arranged trees, flowers and bits of grassy areas decorated the cityscape. Young boys, some wearing the traditional male dress of sarong, were stationed at some of the doors, giving the democratic US traveler passing through a brief, guilty sense of exalted, ancient rajdom. It was in one of these hotels that I had accidentally glimpsed a wedding banquet through a temporarily open door as I stood in the kitchen talking with an acquaintance. The room was filled with long tables arranged in parallel rows. The bride in Western white and her groom in Western black tuxedo were making their way along the tables, greeting their guests.

The driver and I continued our conversation and progress toward our destination. After about 45 minutes or so of city and then haphazardly built up country, we arrived at the airport. The driver slid up to the curb between a bus and a "regular" automobile, a minnow between a whale and a porpoise. I paid, then got out with my small, light suitcase and my smaller shoulder bag. I said goodbye to the driver, turned, and started toward the airport.

"Madam!" The driver's low but penetrating, shocked exclamation caused me to stop and turn around.

My eyes automatically followed his fixed stare to the back of my skirt. There, in the middle, was a large, wet spot. In a flash I understood what had happened. The vinyl covering of the passenger seat had a large irregular crack in it. I had noticed it when I had gotten in and sat down but had not given it a thought at the time. Unnoticed, the day's rain shower had seeped into the foam rubber underneath, ruining my public persona.

I don't know why I didn't. I usually do. But this time I did not explain. Perhaps because it seemed so ridiculous or perhaps hopeless. I merely grabbed the waistband, twisted the skirt deftly to the side, turned around again, and marched into the airport. With the next fare, the driver would figure it out.

Happy Birthday BURGER!

The Humble Hamburger Turns 100

The hamburger may have come from unremarkable beginnings, but it has risen to an icon of American cuisine. While there is some debate over the origin of America's Favorite Sandwich, most food historians agree that the hamburger made its official debut at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904.

Many accounts credit Fletcher Davis — a.k.a. "Old Dave" — with serving an unnamed sandwich at his Athens, Texas, lunch counter in the late 1880s. It was a simple ground beef patty served between two slices of freshly baked bread, spread with a mustard-flavored mayonnaise and topped with sliced onion and cucumber pickles. In 1904 Davis traveled to the St. Louis World's Fair where he sold this sandwich from "Old Dave's Hamburger Stand" on the midway. The name "hamburger steak" had been used in America since the early 1800s to refer to chopped beef patties cooked in the style of Hamburg, Germany, so the new sandwich became known simply as a "hamburger."

While early burgers were little more than beef and bread, those today come in many varieties. Professional and "backyard" chefs alike create burgers made of beef, lamb, pork, seafood and poultry — even "veggie" versions. They incorporate ingredients and flavors ranging from Southwestern to Greek, and Mediterranean to Asian, creating a world of burger variations.

So, in honor of the burger's centennial celebration, invite a few friends to enjoy a "birthday burger bash" with this Southwestern-inspired menu.

Salmon Burgers With Chipotle Aioli and Pineapple-Avocado Salsa

Recipe by Jeffrey Starr, Culinary Director
Sutter Home Family Vineyards

Aioli

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 4 teaspoons chopped cilantro
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Tabasco Chipotle Pepper Sauce
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Salsa

- 1/2 cup diced California avocado
- 1/4 cup diced pineapple
- 2 tablespoons diced roasted red bell pepper
- 1 tablespoon chopped red onion
- 1 1/2 teaspoons chopped cilantro
- 1 1/2 teaspoons minced serrano pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon fresh lime juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Burgers

- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup Chipotle Aioli (reserved from recipe above)
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
- 1 teaspoon Tabasco Chipotle Pepper Sauce
- 1 1/2 pounds skinless salmon fillet, finely chopped*
- 1/2 cup panko (Japanese bread crumbs, available in Asian markets) or fine, unseasoned dry bread crumbs
- 2 green onions, thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons chopped cilantro
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Vegetable oil
- 4 hamburger buns, split
- 4 leaves green leaf lettuce
- 8 California avocado slices

To make aioli, whisk together all ingredients in large bowl. Reserve 1/4 cup for burger mixture; refrigerate remainder.

To make salsa, combine all ingredients in large bowl. Refrigerate, covered.

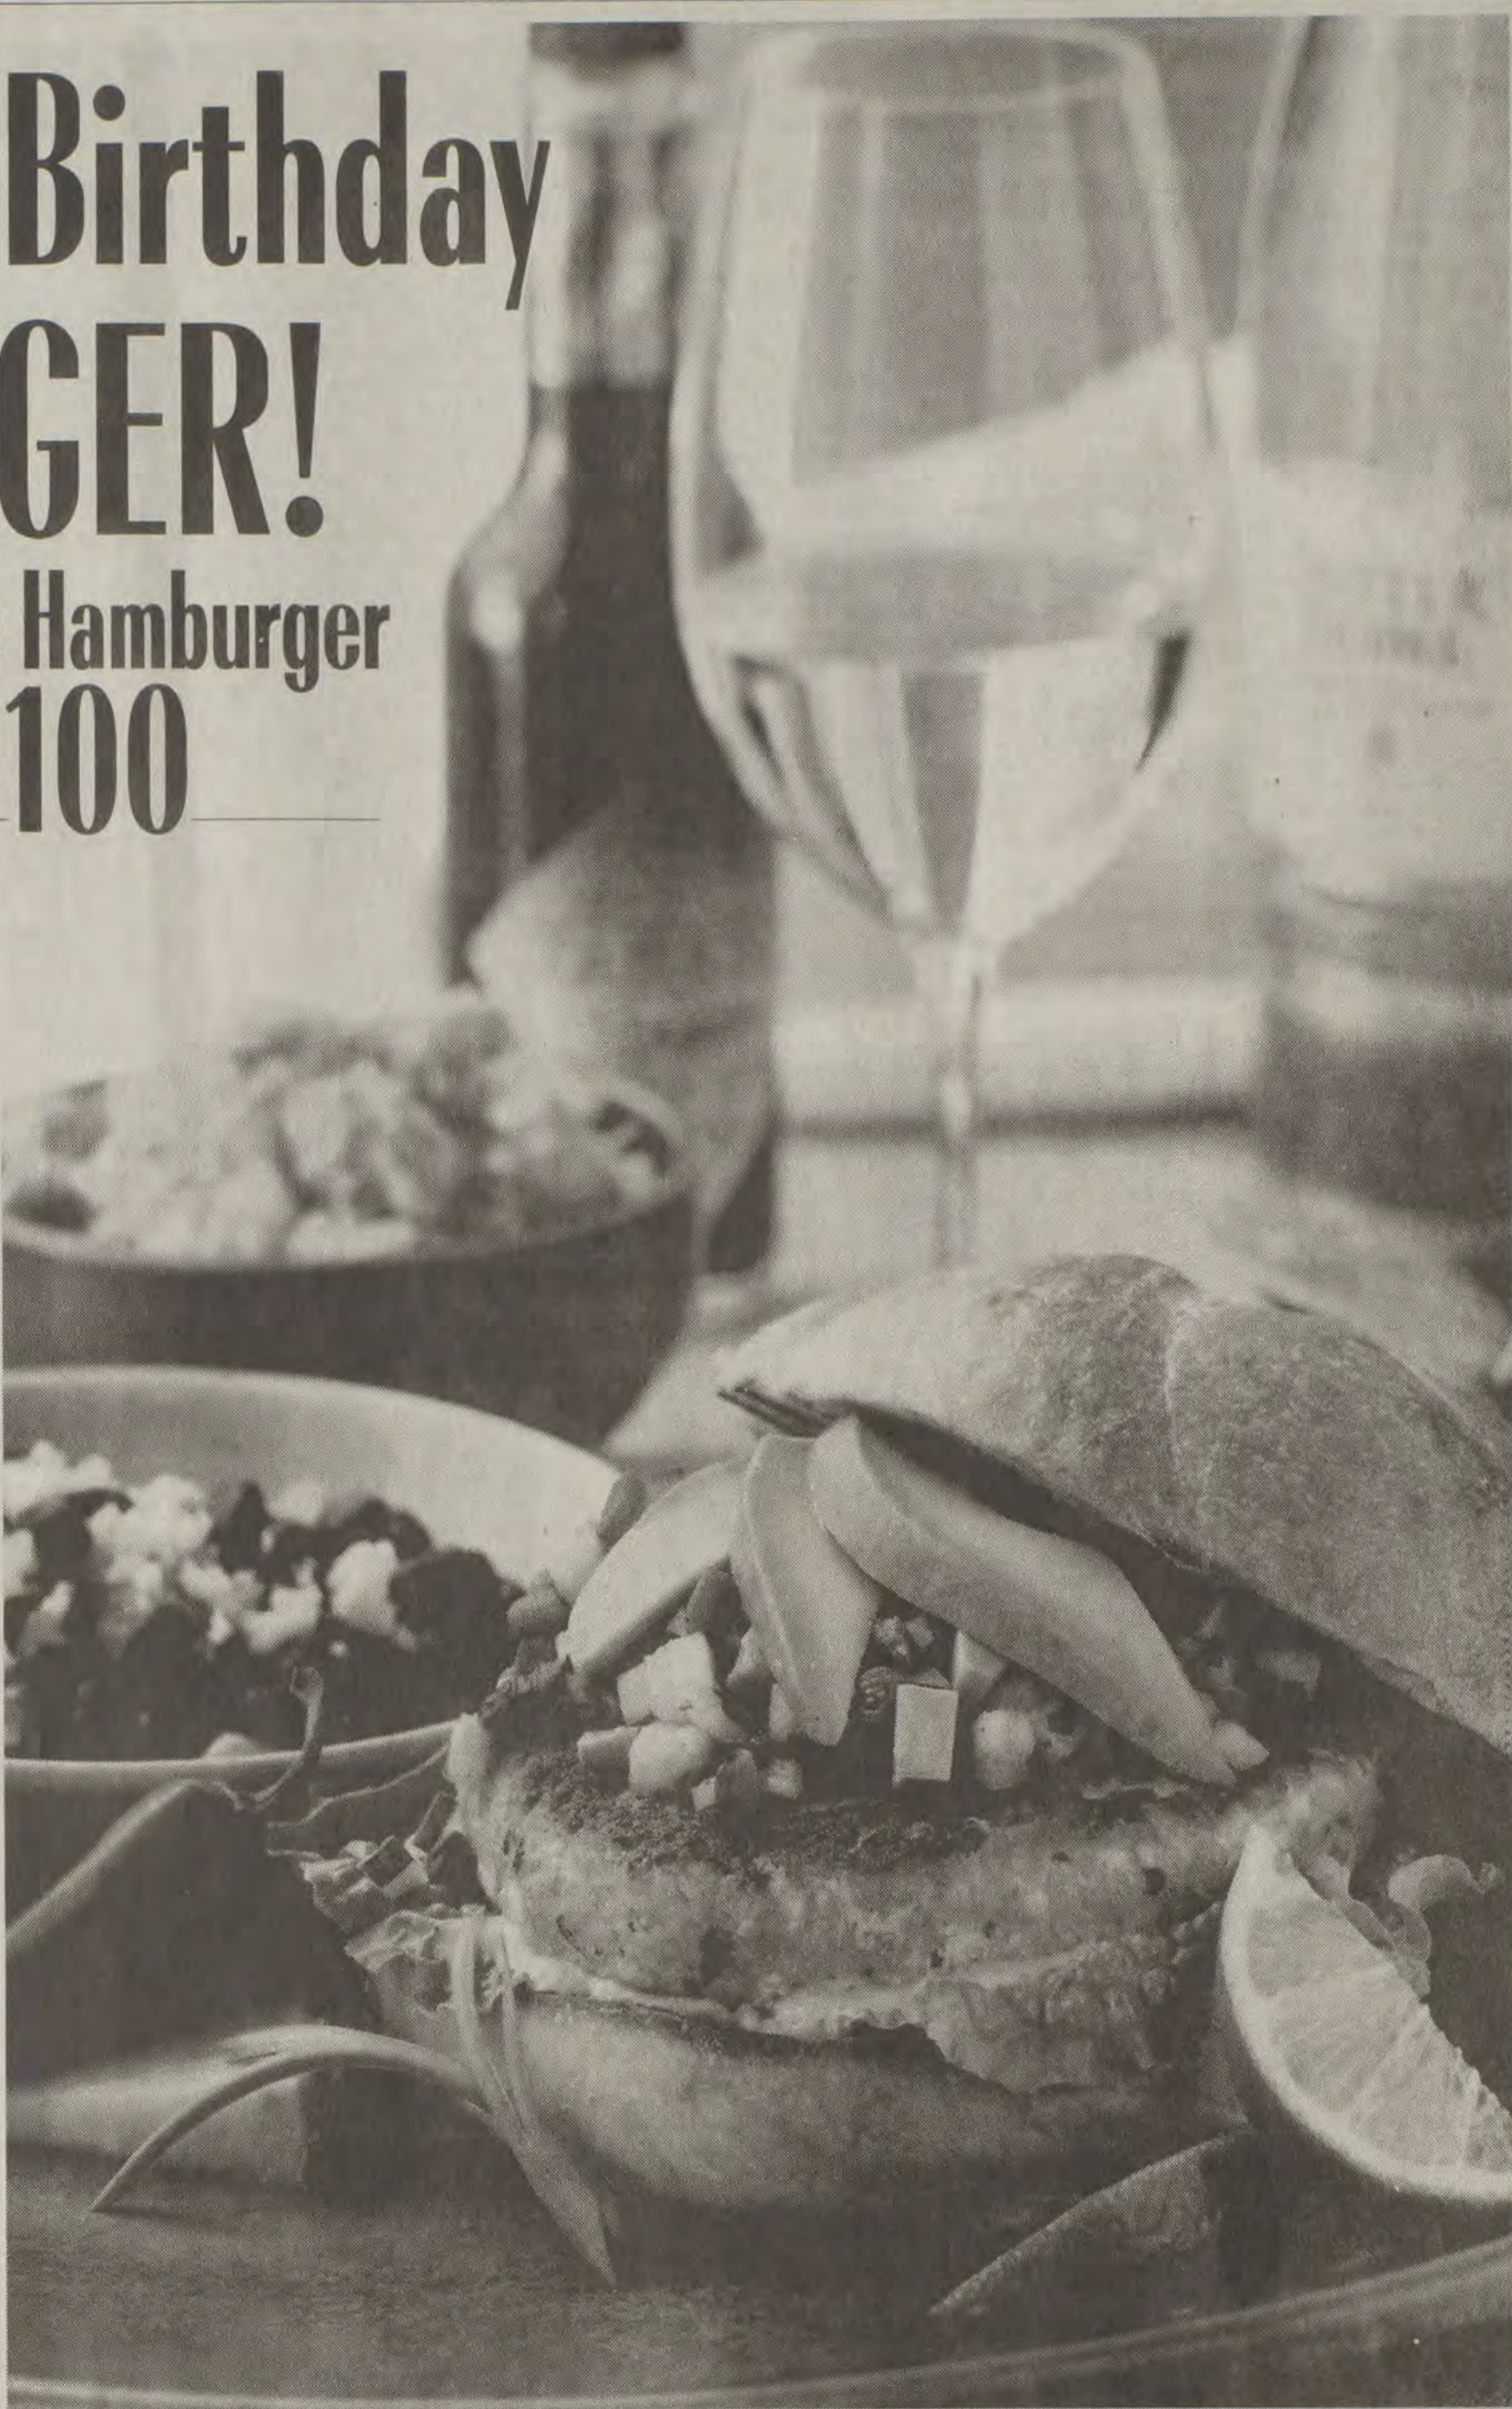

To make burgers, in large bowl combine egg, reserved aioli, lime juice and Chipotle Pepper Sauce. Stir in salmon, bread crumbs, green onions, cilantro and salt. Form burger mixture into 4 patties. Chill patties at least 1 hour.

Brush a medium-hot grill lightly with oil. Grill salmon patties about 4 minutes or until browned on one side. Turn patties over and cook 4 minutes more or until just done.

Grill buns on outer edge of grill. Spread cut sides of bottom halves with 1 tablespoon Chipotle Aioli, top each with 1 lettuce leaf, 1 burger, 1/4 cup Pineapple-Avocado Salsa, 2 avocado slices and top half of bun, cut side down.

*Tip: To chop salmon, cut into 1-inch cubes; pulse in food processor until coarsely chopped. Do not overprocess.

Bordertown Black Beans

Recipe by McIlhenny Company, makers of Tabasco Chipotle Pepper Sauce

- 1 pound dry black beans
- Water
- 1 bay leaf
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 large green bell pepper, chopped
- 6 large cloves garlic, minced
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
- 3 to 4 tablespoons Tabasco Chipotle Pepper Sauce
- Queso fresco (available in latin markets) or crumbled farmer's cheese, crumbled feta or fresh goat cheese
- Hot cooked rice (optional)

Sort beans and rinse well. Place in Dutch oven and cover with water; soak 6 to 8 hours or overnight. Drain and rinse.

Cover beans with fresh water, add bay leaf and bring to a boil; reduce heat to medium-low, cover and simmer just until tender, about 1 1/2 hours, adding additional water if needed.

Heat olive oil in large skillet over medium heat. Add onion, green pepper and garlic, and cook until tender, about 10 minutes, stirring often. Add to beans along with salt, cumin and oregano. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until beans are very tender, about 20 to 30 minutes longer, adding more water if needed. Stir in Chipotle Pepper Sauce to taste and remove bay leaf. Sprinkle with cheese. Serve over rice if desired.

A $50,000 Burger?

If you think you make the best burger around, then Sutter Home Family Vineyard's 14th annual Build A Better Burger Contest is your chance to prove it. In honor of the 100th birthday of the burger, this year's grand prize is a sizzling $50,000. For complete rules and additional burger recipes, visit www.buildabetterburger.com or send a stamped, self-addressed #10 envelope to Build A Better Burger, P.O. Box 248, St. Helena, CA 94574-0248. Recipes must be received no later than August 31, 2004.

One way to bring out the best in your burgers is to enjoy them with a glass of your favorite wine. Jeffrey Starr, Culinary Director for Sutter Home Family Vineyards, offers a few of his favorite wine pairings for today's hottest flavors:

- Serve hearty beef burgers topped with gorgonzola cheese with a rich, spicy California Zinfandel.
- Cool the heat of Southwestern Salmon Burgers With Chipotle Aioli and Pineapple-Avocado Salsa (see recipe) with the fruit-filled flavor of Pinot Grigio.
- Pair chicken burgers infused with Asian flavors with a refreshing White Zinfandel.

Spice Things Up...

Looking for a way to spice up your burger repertoire? Condiments provide a bevy of options for adding flavor to the basic burger. Tabasco Chipotle Pepper Sauce is one that's sure to heat things up. Sprinkle directly on cooked burgers for a little kick or mix it in to ground meats to infuse rich, smoky flavor.

- Add 5 tablespoons Chipotle Pepper Sauce to 1 cup barbecue sauce for a spicy condiment creation.
- Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise with 1 clove garlic, minced, and 3 tablespoons Chipotle Pepper Sauce. Brush on burgers during grilling for creamy, smoky taste.
- Mix in approximately 1 tablespoon of Chipotle Pepper Sauce per 1 pound of ground meat (beef, turkey, pork, etc.) prior to grilling burgers.

Green With Envy

Adding toppings is one way to create a signature burger. The smooth texture of California avocados is a classy complement to a hearty burger. And, avocados offer nutrients, monounsaturated fat and fewer calories than many other toppings.

- Avocados contain mostly monounsaturated fats — the "good fat" which has been shown to lower LDL (bad) cholesterol and boost HDL (good) cholesterol.
- Take your guacamole beyond the bowl of tortilla chips — use it as a burger topping as well.
- Cut an avocado in half lengthwise, then seed, peel and slice. Drizzle with fresh lime or lemon juice and brush lightly with olive oil. Gently place slices on grill over hot coals for 2 minutes on each side. Season with salt to taste. Serve as a side dish or layer slices atop your favorite burger.

Poll: Kentuckians want access to reimported prescription drugs

The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE — A majority of Kentuckians want the federal government to change policy and make it easier to buy prescription drugs from Canada and other countries, according to a newspaper poll.

In a Bluegrass Poll conducted by the Courier-Journal between May 5-11, 63 percent of 811 adult respondents said they would favor such a change in federal policy.

"My aunt is 82 years old, and she pays hundreds of dollars for her medications," said Carolyn Gore of Louisville, a poll participant who agreed to an interview about her views.

Gore works as a supervisor for Louisville Metro Waste Management. She said she wasn't worried about the safety of Canadian drugs, an issue often raised by the U.S. pharmaceutical industry and other critics of so-called reimportation.

"Well, you know, people in Canada are taking the medicine," she said. "So I can't see where safety would be a paramount issue."

Another 27 percent of respondents said they opposed easing the rules to buy medications from Canada and elsewhere. The rest either weren't sure or had other views.

The poll's margin of error is plus or minus 3.4 percentage points.

Federal law currently prohibits the reimportation of medications from other countries, although many Americans buy their drugs from Canada over the Internet, by traveling across the border, or by using "store-fronts" linked to Canadian pharmacies to order prescriptions.

Some members of Congress, including Rep. Anne Northup, R-3rd District, are pushing for legislation to legalize these purchases, and say it is gaining momentum and on the verge of being adopted.

"A lot of us think it will be approved by the end of the current Congress," Northup said in an interview with the newspaper last week.

In the poll, majority support for such a change in federal policy held up among a wide range of demographic groups — men, women, Republicans, Democrats, and elderly, young, well-educated, less educated, high-income and low-income people. Sixty-nine percent of men and 58 percent of women supported a change.

The poll also showed that 56 percent of those interviewed said they took such medications daily. But only 4 percent of Kentuckians polled said they or someone in their household had purchased drugs from another country to save money.

Generally, the poll's results parallel other surveys.

In February, an Associated Press poll found that 65 percent want the federal government to make it easier for people to buy prescription drugs from Canada or elsewhere.

Opposition to a change remains strong, and the heads of two associations representing pharmacists cited safety concerns as their main reason.

"It's a matter of patient safety," said Lawrence Sage, executive vice president of the Indiana Pharmacists Alliance.

"There is no guarantee where these drugs are coming from," said Mike Mayes, head of the Kentucky Pharmacists Association. "You don't know what you're getting" if the purchase is made outside the United States, Mayes said.

Another opponent, a retired Baptist pastor who was polled by the newspaper, said his main concern was the economy.

"I feel we should be buying our medications in this country" rather than somewhere else, Jefferson County resident Frank Wesley Noel said in a later interview. "We're giving them money that our country needs."

Northup said she thinks the way many older people make decisions about buying medications makes the current U.S. system "unsafe" for them, and that a secure process for buying at lower prices from other countries would help them. Some people without health insurance decide to go without the medicine they need because they can't afford to pay the U.S. prices, she said.

A bill now in the Senate, she said, would require that the government set up procedures to assure drugs from other countries are safe for sale to Americans.

Court overturns contempt charges against three journalists

by JOE BIESK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Court of Appeals overturned contempt charges against three eastern Kentucky journalists Friday, and ruled they did not have to pay their $500 fines.

The case involved a dispute over who had the right to use The Mountain Citizen newspaper's name.

Martin County Circuit Judge Daniel Sparks in June 2002 had found the journalists — publisher Roger Smith, owner Lisa Stayton and editor Gary Ball — guilty of contempt after publishing the weekly newspaper despite his order to stop using the name. Sparks also fined them each $500.

The newspaper ended up paying much more money to fight the fines than the $1,500, Ball said. Still, it was the principle that was worth fighting for, he said.

"I'm glad it's over with," Ball said.

The newspaper had been fighting to keep its name after Inez attorney John R. Triplett maneuvered to obtain it himself. He was able to take its name when Stayton failed to file annual incorporation papers with the Secretary of State.

Triplett, the former chairman of the Martin County Water Board, had been criticized by the newspaper.

A three-judge panel of the appeals court overturned Sparks' contempt order, saying the restraining order it was based on was too vague.

Stayton had published the paper through New Wave Communications Inc., which the secretary of state administratively dissolved in 2000, after its papers lapsed.

Triplett incorporated several corporations in May 2002, among them one called New Wave Communications Inc. The circuit court then granted an injunction, which Triplett wrote, preventing the newspaper from being published under different names, including Mountain Citizen Inc. The newspaper publishes under the name The Mountain Citizen, which was not among the names included in the injunction.

"It is impossible to divine from the petition ... what legitimate interests were being safeguarded by this restraining order," Judge John D. Minton Jr. wrote in the appellate court's majority opinion. "Moreover, it was issued apparently without notice to Smith, Stayton and Ball."

Newspaper officials were not told of the restraining order until it was faxed to their office about five hours before their deadline,

Biweekly survey finds U.S. gas prices up 14 cents

by TIM MOLLOY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — Gasoline prices across the country rose more than 14 cents in the past two weeks and show no signs of slowing their climb, an industry analyst said Sunday.

The weighted national average for all three grades of gasoline was $2.10 per gallon on Friday, according to Trilby Lundberg, publisher of the biweekly Lundberg Survey, which regularly polls 8,000 gas stations across the United States.

The rise was caused by increased demand created by market pressures and seasonal environmental regulations requiring a move to costlier formulas, she said.

"So far the higher prices have not chased demand away, and our biggest demand season is yet to come," she said. "There is no evidence yet that gasoline prices are peaking. They may soon, but there's no evidence that that is occurring yet."

Lundberg predicted that oil supply will rise whether or not OPEC agrees to officially raise its quota at its Beirut meeting on June 3. She said high prices will be "irresistible" for oil-producing nations, and they will unofficially release more oil even if OPEC votes not to.

"They've been doing this for months and we can expect it to continue and even increase," Lundberg said.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which had decided in March to cut its official output, has come under growing pressure from the United States and other consuming nations to boost production as oil prices rose above $40 a barrel in recent weeks.

But Lundberg said oil price drops won't necessarily result in lower U.S. gas prices. She said the reductions would be at least partially offset by increased demand from economic growth, environmental regulations, and an increase in driving during the summer months.

The average price of gasoline has broken all-time record highs for three months straight, although the average price remains lower than the peak gas price in March 1981 when adjusted for inflation, Lundberg said. That price, adjusted for today's dollars, was $2.91 for all grades combined, she said.

The national weighted average price of gasoline at self-serve pumps on Friday, including taxes, was about $2.07 for self-serve regular; $2.17 for mid-grade, and $2.26 for premium.

San Diego had the highest average price of any city, with self-serve regular selling for an average of $2.36. The average for self-serve regular in California was $2.33.

Cecil Roberts running for re-election as UMWA president

The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — Cecil Roberts announced Monday he will seek a third term as president of the United Mine Workers of America union.

Dane Kane of Ebensburg, Pa., is running on the same ticket as international secretary-treasurer. Kane is District 2 International Executive Board member. Current secretary-treasurer Carlo Turley has said he will retire at the end of 2004.

Although Roberts is the only announced candidate, the nominating period will be from June 15 to Aug. 1. The election will be Nov. 9 for a five-year term.

The membership in November also will be voting on three at-large international vice presidents, six international district vice presidents and three international auditor-tellers.

Roberts has been president since 1995. He was re-elected in 1997 and 2000. A native of Cabin Creek, Roberts is a sixth-generation coal miner.

State's second-ranking mining official fired

The Associated Press

FRANKFORT — Kentucky's second-ranking mining official was forced to step down.

Kenny Johnson of Harlan County said his resignation was requested Thursday in a phone call from an employee in the Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet. Johnson said he wasn't given a reason.

The 52-year-old had served four years as deputy commissioner of the state Division of Mines and Minerals. Supervisors in appointed jobs are not protected by the civil-service program and can be fired without a reason.

Labor leaders in Kentucky were critical of the decision, saying Johnson has a record as a strong advocate for the safety of miners. Kentucky AFL-CIO president Bill Londrigan said the firing was a payback by Governor Ernie Fletcher to coal operators who supported his election.

A spokesman for the Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet says Fletcher was elected with a mandate to make changes in state government. Mark York says the administration has made other personnel changes and will continue to make more.

This Week: Mars Rovers

© 2004 by Vicki Whiting, Editor Jeff Schinkel, Graphics Vol. 20 No. 22

ROBOT ROVERS

NASA scientists sent two little robot rovers to Mars. One is named Spirit; the other is called Opportunity. NASA scientists control the robots from Earth. They send messages that tell the robot rovers where to go. The robots are taking pictures and testing rock samples.

Weekly Writing Corner

Best Book of the Summer

The book I would recommend for the summer would be "Green Angel." I would recommend it because it keeps you waiting and you never want to put it down.

Hayley,
6th Grade

I would recommend "Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix." It is darker than all the others, but better.

Mike,
6th Grade

A book I recommend other kids should read is "Dragon Slayer." I recommend this book because it keeps you awake, and has a lot of adventures that are very exciting.

Kristin,
4th Grade

The book I recommend for other kids to read over the summer is "Rabbit Hill." It's about how people's houses and yards affect the wild creatures like the rabbits that live around them.

Katherine,
6th Grade

I recommend to others that, if they haven't read all three of "The Lord of the Rings" books, that they should. They each contain things that are not in the movies and they're really good books. Another great book would be "The Hobbit." This one describes how Bilbo got the ring.

Alanna,
5th Grade

The book I want to read this summer is "Houdini." I want to learn some of his famous tricks and see if he really was one of the best escape artists.

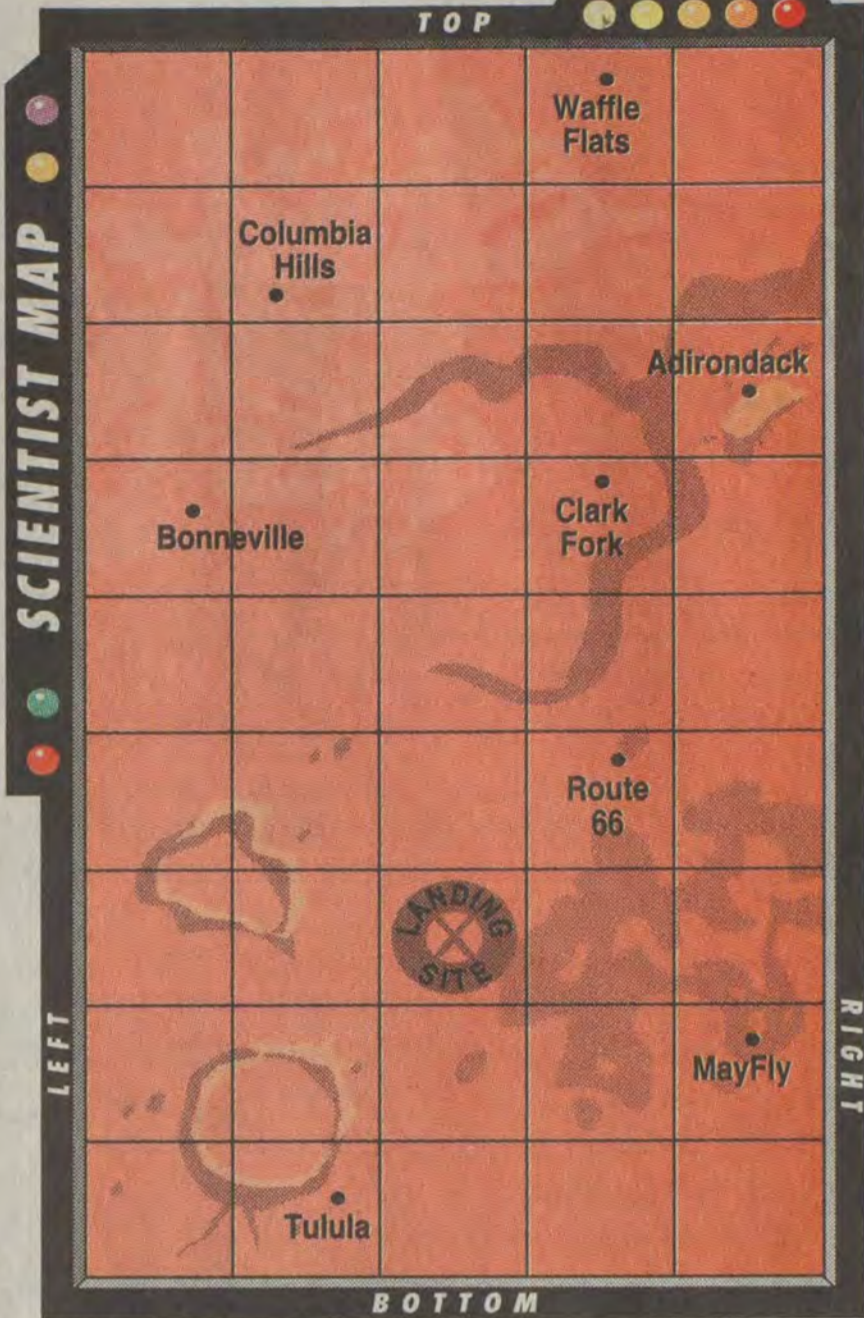

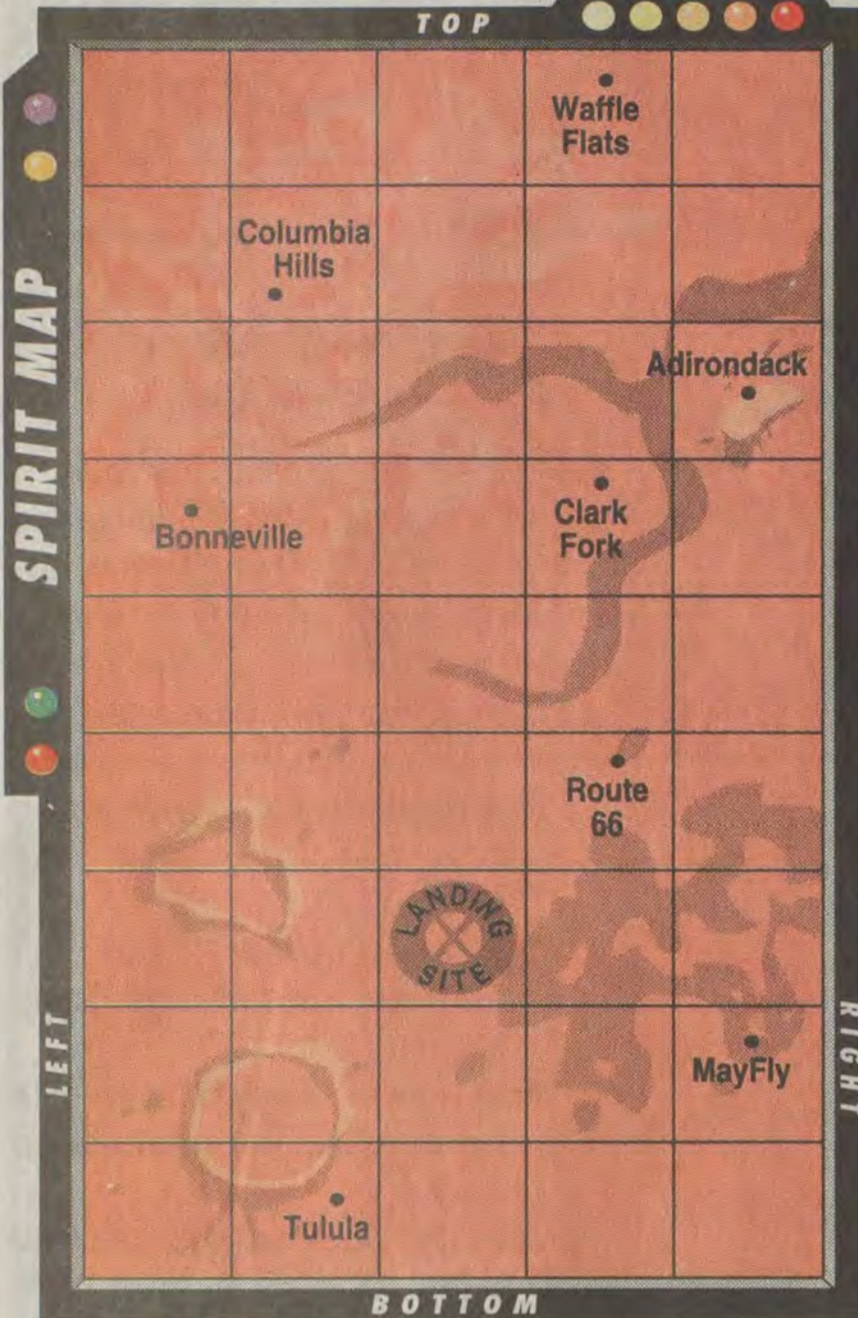

Michael,
7th Grade

The book I recommend is called "A Summer in the South" because it is a fun mystery. All of the characters are animals. I love this book and I bet you would too.

Aislinn,
5th Grade

I would recommend a book called "Dear Mr. Henshaw." This book is about a kid who wants to be an author. So why don't you read this book over the summer, it's great!

Jose,
5th Grade

KID SCOOP'S ROBOT COMMANDER GAME

Find out what it is like to command a robot on Mars!

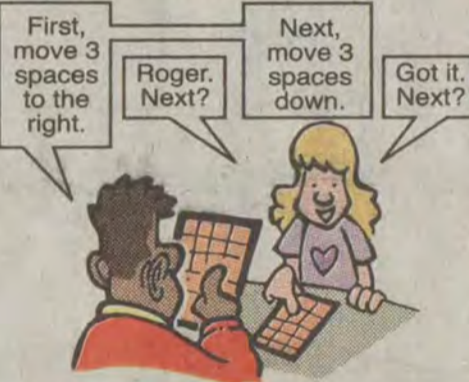

Prepare for the Mission:

- Cut out the maps and the Spirit playing piece.
- Choose one player to be the scientist and one to be the robot, Spirit.

HOW TO PLAY:

1. Give a map to each player. The player with the Spirit map also gets the robot playing piece.
2. The scientist picks a spot to send Spirit, but doesn't tell the other player.
3. Without looking at each other's maps, the scientist gives Spirit directions, one at a time, and tries to get the robot to the right destination.

Standards Link: Reading Comprehension: Follow multiple-step written directions.

4. When the scientist says, "Stop," Spirit should be at the right spot.
5. Check Spirit's map to see if it is at the spot the scientist selected!

9-Year-Old Names Rovers

More than 10,000 from children were sent to with ideas for naming the robot . Sofi Collis, a 9-year-old 3rd grader from Arizona, wrote the winning essay that named the now on Mars.

Sofi wrote, "I used to live in an orphanage. It was dark and cold and lonely. At night, I looked up at the sparkly and felt better. I dreamed I could there. In America, I can make all my dreams come true. Thank you for the 'Spirit' and the 'Opportunity.'"

WELL THOUGHT OUT PUNSTERING

IN a literal sense, a conundrum is a riddle based on an imagined similarity or dissimilarity of things answered with a pun. A classic conundrum-poem published back in the '20s is presented below. Let's see if you can find the pun answer.

The hoisting rope gave way one day, and swift the bucket fell;

It dropped its rider, Jock McCrae, six fathoms down a well.

But when they'd set his broken toe, and dislocated knee,

Why did Jock say his fall had been, "A minute quantity?"

Puzzle it out, if you can..

TRACE ELEMENT! Challenge: Find four five-letter words by rearranging letters of the word TRACE. There's CRATE, for instance; now find three more. Limit: two minutes.

Cater, caret and react are three more.

MATCH-UPS! You are asked to correctly match syllables shown in the diagram at right to form six two-syllable words identifying an assortment of dwelling places or other structures.

Begin, if you wish, with the syllable at top left (No. 1), and draw a line to a compatible syllable at right. Then connect a second set of syllables with a line, and so on.

Syllables at left precede those at right in all words to be formed.

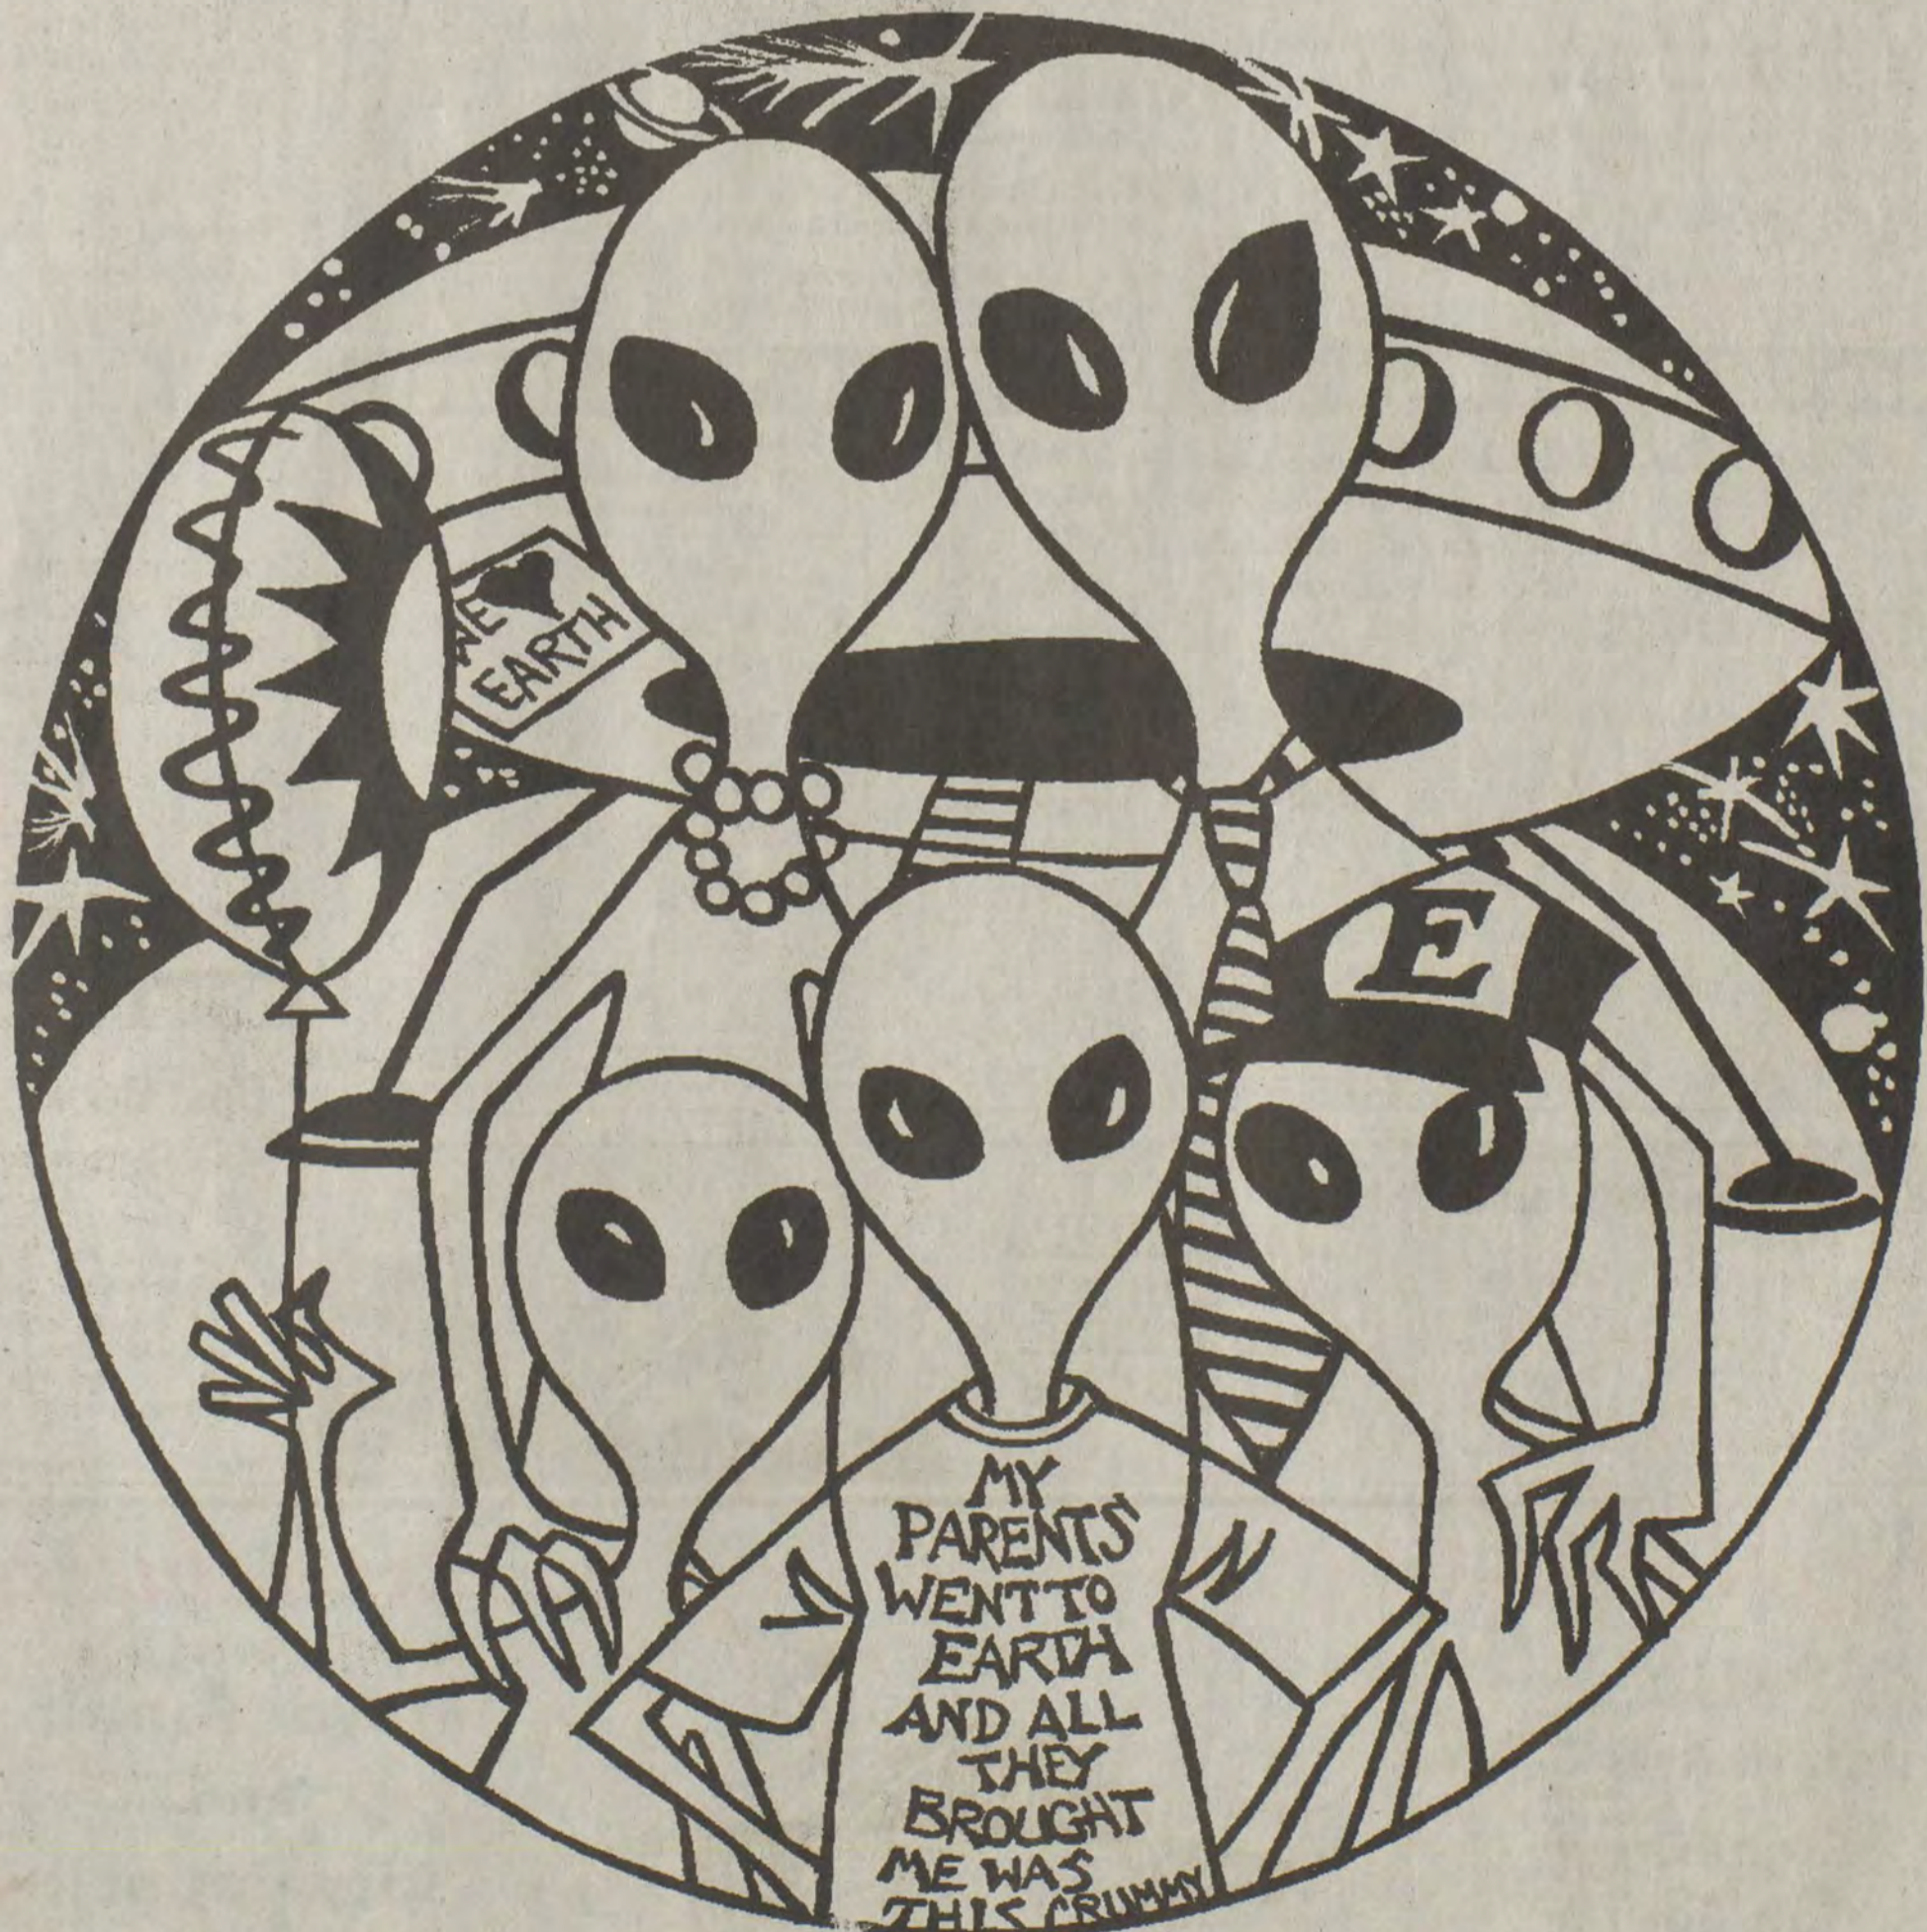

How quickly can you make the six match-ups?

1. Cottage. 2. Cabin. 3. Clubhouse. 4. Motel. 5. Palace. 6. Castle.

Because it was a drop in the bucket.

My Kid Scoop™

Vol. 3 No. 22 © 2004 by Vicki Whiting, Editor Jeff Schinkel, Designer/Illustrator

Help this robot rover find its way to the top of the rock.

Two little robot rovers were sent to Mars. The rovers roam the surface of Mars taking pictures and sending information back to earth. The rovers are helping scientists learn more about Mars.

My Rhyme Time

Red sky at night,
Sailor's delight;
Red sky in the morning,
Sailor's warning.

My Letters

R is for Rover
r is for rover

Learning Buddies: Read the two phrases aloud. Have your child read with you. Trace the uppercase and lowercase letter R. Say the letter as you trace it.

How many words or pictures can you find on this page that start with the R sound like the word rover?

My Numbers

How many roses?

How many robots?

Learning Buddies: Trace and say the number. Read the questions. Touch and count to find the answers.

My Sentence

Learning Buddies: Read the first part of the sentence aloud. Ask your child to think of a way to finish the sentence. Write your child's words in the lines. Read the entire sentence to your child while pointing out that reading is done from left to right. Older children may want to trace all or some of the letters in the sentence.

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
Letter identification With your child, look through the newspaper to find pictures of things that start with the same sound as the letter R in rover.	Math Play Point to the number 1 in the newspaper. Have your child say the number and, if it's large enough, have your child trace the number.	Red Read Tell your child that Mars is known as the red planet. Then find the color red in today's newspaper. What things can you find that are red?	Round in Red Give your child a red crayon or marker. Have your child find and draw a red circle around: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an animal • a car • a house 	Big R, Little r On one page of the newspaper search for an uppercase letter R and a lowercase letter r. Draw a line to connect the two. Can you find more uppercase and lowercase R-r pairs?	Little Eye Look at something on a page in the newspaper and say, "I spy with my little eye something (give one little clue)." Let your child ask questions to try and discover what you spy. Take turns "spying" and guessing.	What's Hiding? Let your child find a picture of something he or she likes in the newspaper. Look at the picture for about 30 seconds. Then cover the picture and see how many details your child can remember about the picture.

My Kid Scoop comes out once a week, but you can use the newspaper every day to prepare your child for success in school. Each daily activity focuses on a specific learning readiness skill.
Step by Step Success 1. Read the activity instruction aloud. 2. Show how to do the activity by doing it yourself first. 3. Ask your child to copy what you do.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

EXPLORING THE REALMS OF HISTORY, SCIENCE, NATURE & TECHNOLOGY

A BRIEF OVERVIEW OF

MEDICAL INVENTIONS

Ancient history

The earliest doctors were shamans or medicine men who healed the sick using a combination of spiritual faith and herbal knowledge. Ancient Egyptian priest-doctors were skilled pharmacists who also knew how to set broken bones. Ancient Chinese doctors dispensed drugs, and from before 2500 B.C. they practiced an early form of acupuncture. In India, as early as 700 B.C., doctors could deliver a baby using a surgery called cesarean section. The Romans were among the first to recognize that dirty water resulted in sickness.

The future

Scientists are still working to find cures for cancer, AIDS, multiple sclerosis and diabetes. It is likely that the future holds cures for these and many other diseases. Two-hundred years' worth of medical breakthroughs have helped people live longer. But in many poor nations people still die of hunger and preventable diseases. Perhaps the future will find a way to provide basic medical care to all people.

Hippocrates

(Greece)

Hippocrates
(c. 460-377 B.C.) was a famous Greek physician, traditionally regarded as the father of medicine. He believed that religion had little to do with the art of medicine and that science held the key to successful healing. He wrote many articles stressing the importance of diet, fresh air and rest for the ill. His name has long been associated with the Hippocratic Oath, though it was not written by him. Today, many medical students, upon graduating, still take a modified version of the oath.
