Police hold suspect in car thefts

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Floyd Spears, 19, of Allen, was arrested Thursday after the Prestonsburg Police were alerted to a suspect breaking into cars parked in the student lot of Prestonsburg High school at 9:20 Thursday morning. Officer Brian Walker was able to pull over the suspect minutes after receiving a description of the vehicle he was driving after a senior at the school called the police with a description of the vehicle.

The student parking lot is located behind the school and down a steep hill, which made it a ripe location for the thefts. The suspect allegedly broke into six vehicles and took car stereos and any loose items available before moving on to the next car.

"The suspect is getting medical treatment for his hand at the moment and hasn't been formally arrested yet," said Major Petry of the Prestonsburg Police Department. "He had a tool but must have gotten careless and cut himself."

Petry opined that there may be a connection between these "smash-and-grabs" and several others in the area, with two of them occurring at the high school last Friday. One student was at the police station and identified his

Gov unveils second state spending plan

The Associated Press

FRANKFORT — Gov. Ernie Fletcher's administration on Thursday presented a new temporary state spending plan that includes more money for Medicaid and a higher cost of living increase for retired teachers.

The new plan will run state government from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31.

In a statement, Fletcher called the plan a "sound public policy document" that reflects his commitment to fiscal responsibility.

Kentucky has been without a budget since July 1. The General Assembly adjourned its regular session in April without passing a budget because of a House-Senate impasse over tax code changes sought by Fletcher.

Fletcher's first 90-day temporary spending plan ran through Thursday.

The administration said its new plan includes $15 million more in state funds and an extra $34.3 million in federal funds for Medicaid, the state-federal health insurance program for the poor and disabled.

The plan also includes a 0.8 percent cost of living increase for retired teachers above the automatic 1.5 percent they were scheduled to receive.

Job Corps students put the finishing touches on a playhouse they built to raise money for Big Sandy CASA.

Job Corps lends hand to Big Sandy CASA

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — "Casas for CASA" is a joint fundraising venture that was undertaken when Big Sandy Area CASA Director Michelle Sode approached the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center with a request for fundraising help. The resulting effort has produced two playhouses that were crafted by the young people at Job Corps under the direction of carpentry teacher

Dennis Conley.

These mini-homes will be raffled off later this year with the United Way seeing to it that the money raised goes to CASA, which is a non-profit organization that provides advocates for children involved in the legal system. A CASA volunteer sticks with one child during their engagement with Family Court and advocates for that child. The counselor stays with that one child until his or her case is fully adjudicated.

Deborah Burchell, director of the Job Corps, was delighted to lend a hand to CASA and its funding agency, United Way of Eastern Kentucky. She noted that the Job Corps students got a lot out of the effort.

"The students got to learn about civic pride and had fun at the same time," Burchell said. "They enjoyed working on the project and learned something about building an actual Lawsuit seeks removal of jailed Knott judge-exec.

by ROGER ALFORD
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PIKEVILLE — Should an eastern Kentucky politician imprisoned for election fraud be allowed to remain in office?

That question was put to a judge in a lawsuit filed this week in Knott County Circuit Court.

Mike Hall of Hindman, the losing candidate in a 2002 primary election campaign for Knott County judge-executive, filed suit Monday asking that the office be declared vacant and a special election be held to choose a replacement.

Hall lost in the Democratic primary by 520 votes to Donnie Newsome, who was convicted earlier this year in a vote-buying scheme. Hall said the election results shouldn't stand because Newsome essentially cheated to win.

Newsome has continued to function as Knott County's judge-executive because Kentucky law dictates that even convicted felons can't be removed from office until their appeals are exhausted. Newsome is appealing his conviction.

The lawsuit is the latest development in a series of election fraud cases that some observers believe have helped to feed negative political stereotypes of the region. One of the cases is scheduled for trial on Monday.

Kendra Stewart, a political science professor at Eastern Kentucky University, said the vote fraud convictions over the past year points to political corruption that many people knew existed in the region.

"It's affirming beliefs that people already have, but in other ways it's bringing home to citizens that the system can be changed," she said.

Hall said he learned from a newspaper article that Newsome, who is being held in a federal prison in Manchester, testified that he received an illegal $20,000 contribution from Ross Harris.

Harris is a Pike County coal operator who was convicted of election fraud two weeks ago in a separate case.

That illegal contribution, Hall said, played a substantial role in his losing the election "in that the $20,000 in cash could certainly have influenced more than 500 voters in Knott County."

Newsome is serving a 26-month sentence for the vote fraud conviction. More than a dozen people from Knott County have either pleaded guilty or been convicted of vote fraud in the past two con-

Chili supper, pie social to raise funds for Meals on Wheels

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — The Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center, located at 76 Patsy Evans Drive, will be holding its annual "Chili Dinner and Pie Social" on Tuesday night, starting at 6 p.m.

The center's director, Al Gunter, promises a lot of tasty pies will be served at the event and that the United Way of Eastern Kentucky will see to it that all funds generated by the social go towards the center's Meals on Wheels Program. Brown Food Service and U.S. Foods will be donating pies for the event this year as they have done in the past.

Gunter said that the Meals on Wheels Program is vital for the area and depends on the annual event to stay in shape, said,

"For many seniors, it is also a social interaction to look forward to, and for too many it is the only meal they get on a daily basis and must be stretched to cover breakfast, lunch and dinner," said United Way Executive Director Pamela Compton.

Gunter agreed, saying, "If we ever lost the center it would be a shame, but the Meals program would have to come first because many depend on it. It's the most important thing we do."

Gunter noted that it is always

■ GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Worried that a flaming man fired from a cannon might send the wrong message to children on the eve of Fire Prevention Week, the city commission has snuffed out the act of a headliner with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

"Bailey's Comet" will not soar brightly when "The Greatest Show on Earth" visits Van Andel Arena this week.

The circus' city fireworks permit still will allow performer Tina Miser to shoot her husband out of a cannon. But it won't let her douse him with lighter fluid before she sends him sailing across the arena.

Brian Miser, whom the circus promotes as a "human fireball," wears two fireproof suits and is doused with fire extinguishers when he lands, so the act probably would pass a city safety inspection, Fire Safety Inspector Ted Jensen said.

Jensen said he was concerned about the children who see the act.

"As a fire department, we're having a hard time with it," he told commissioners on Tuesday.

Sunday, the last day the circus will be in town, also will mark the start of Fire Prevention Week, Jensen said.

"That makes it a little more difficult for us," he said.

■ EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. — In search of a date, an ex-con instead found a quick way behind bars when police said he tried to use a checking account that wasn't his — that of the Madison County Jail.

David Wroten was charged with financial fraud for allegedly using the account to try to cover the $39.95 membership fee for an online dating service, prosecutors said.

"How dumb is it to use a law enforcement agency as your bank, so to speak? I guess if you're going to scam somebody, picking on John Q. Public is one way to go, but picking on your neighborhood Police Department is even worse," said Sheriff Robert Hertz.

Wroten, 20, allegedly got the account number from a check issued to him for money left over in a jail account when he was released in April after being held there on a theft charge.

Shortly after, Wroten allegedly registered for the dating service, which accepts wire transfers from checking accounts for the membership fee. He allegedly gave them the jail's account number.

The bank stopped the transfer and authorities began investigating. "Thank God for the dumb ones, because this dating service apparently requires that you post a picture of yourself so prospective dates can see what you look like before they contact you," Hertz said.

■ NEW CANAAN, Conn. — John Kjekstad, hoping to avoid rush-hour traffic on the way home, found a quick, but ultimately illegal way to get home: via helicopter.

Kjekstad, who runs two helicopter and airplane charter companies, had planned Thursday to land his chopper at Teterboro Airport in New Jersey and drive home to New Canaan.

On his way to the airport, though, Kjekstad told police he saw bumper-to-bumper traffic on the Merritt Parkway and chose to fly directly home instead.

After landing in his back yard, a neighbor complained.

He was issued a $75 ticket for violating a town ordinance prohibiting landing aircraft on residential property, Sgt. Louis Gannon said Tuesday.

Kjekstad, who was born in Norway, has been in the helicopter business since the mid-1980s. He said he does not usually use his back yard as a landing spot.

■ WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — A generation ago, geeks, nerds and brainiacs were easy to spot. They always had slide rules sticking out of their breast pockets.

Now a Purdue University exhibit pays homage to those low-tech accessories that were a necessity for generations of scientists, engineers and mathematicians.

Nearly 200 slide rules are on display at Purdue's Potter Engineering Center. All were donated by Purdue alumni, among them Neil Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon.

Slide rules were rendered obsolete by electronic calculators in the 1970s, ending a run that lasted nearly 400 years. But they are far from forgotten.

James Alleman, a professor of civil engineering, began collecting slide rules as a hobby in 1982. Later, he asked alumni to donate their retired rules.

Robert Miles, a Purdue professor emeritus of highway engineering, eventually approached him with the idea of making a display to commemorate the mathematical tool.

"I told him this project had to be done. It's a demonstration of the evolution of technology," Miles said.

Stumbo creates Kentucky Bureau of Investigation

The Associated Press

FRANKFORT — Attorney General Greg Stumbo announced Thursday he was reorganizing his administration to create a new department called the Kentucky Bureau of Investigation.

The KBI will, among other things, target distribution networks in the state's illegal drug trade, Stumbo said. It will consist of units that focus on drug investigations, public corruption and special investigations and Medicaid and welfare fraud.

"Quite frankly this office, in years past, didn't focus as much on drug investigation as they did some other things, and I'm not being critical ...," Stumbo said. "But we're trying to turn our ship in a little bit different direction."

During his campaign, Stumbo said he wanted to target illegal drug pushers in Kentucky.

Stumbo appointed former Louisville police officer David James as KBI commissioner. James will head an agency that includes 35 investigators. The KBI is supposed to operate within the attorney general's office's existing budget.

The new office will not interfere with ongoing efforts by the state police or the Justice Cabinet, Stumbo said.

Hospital wrangling with insurer over reimbursement rates

The Associated Press

FRANKFORT — A Pikeville hospital is wrangling over reimbursement rates it will receive next year with the one insurance company assigned to its region under Gov. Ernie Fletcher's proposed health plan for public employees and teachers.

An executive at Pikeville Medical Center said that cost-cutting demands by insurer CHA Health would reduce the hospital's revenues by more than $1 million next year.

"We've had an agreement with CHA for several years, and we have not had this issue arise until this year," said the hospital's chief financial officer, Danny Harris. "What they're asking for will create a significant financial burden."

A CHA Health official said the dealings with the hospital are "normal negotiations" aimed at getting the best price for the insurer's customers.

But what's different under Fletcher's plan is that CHA Health has an exclusive contract to represent state workers and teachers in the two large eastern Kentucky regions that stretch from Tennessee to Ohio. In the past, many of those public employees could choose from other carriers.

"That gives CHA more bargaining power," Harris said. "I believe it creates a regionalized monopoly."

Fletcher's health plan for public workers and teachers carved the state into eight regions and assigned only one carrier to each.

Neal Spero, CHA's chief marketing officer, insisted the negotiations with the Pikeville hospital had little to do with the state's contract.

"I think that would be the situation no matter what happens with the state," he said. "You're trying to get the best price."

Spero declined to talk about specific negotiations with hospitals.

Elsewhere in the region, Appalachian Regional Healthcare's network of hospitals is in the second year of a three-year contract with CHA Health, so no negotiations for new rates are likely, said the system's chief financial officer Chris Ellington.

Robert Brock, chief financial officer for Marymount Medical Center in London, said he had not been contacted by CHA about negotiating lower rates.

Teachers and public workers have lambasted Fletcher's health insurance plan for raising out-of-pocket medical costs for many of the 229,000 employees, retirees and their dependents.

Teachers are threatening to strike Oct. 27. Fletcher will call lawmakers back to Frankfort next week to tackle the issue in a special session costing $50,000 a day.

Administration officials, including Mark Birdwhistell, a former CHA executive who now serves as Fletcher's undersecretary of health, have defended the structure of the system, saying it will work better with one insurance company per region.

house."

Burchell was happy to share more information about Job Corps and said, "This year marks our 40th anniversary. We pay kids to work and offer a diverse series of programs. Vocational skills, military prep, GEDs and high school diploma programs, as well as free job skill training."

There are currently 118 Job Corps throughout the nation and this year saw the Floyd County Division take first place in job placement.

The Job Corps students put a lot of time into the CASA project, logging 200 hours of service and their dedication shows in the final product. The houses each have an estimated value of $2,700.

Carpenter Dennis Conley also also commented that it was a good exercise for his students.

"This was the same as actually building a house. They had to master squaring and measuring," Conley said.

The house will be raffled off in the five counties that United Way of Eastern Kentucky serves. They will soon be touring those counties so residents can purchase a chance on them. A touring schedule will be announced shortly for Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties.

tywide elections.

Newsome's attorney, Steve Reed of Louisville, said he has received a copy of the complaint but hasn't had time to examine it closely.

"I anticipate responding to it appropriately very shortly," he said. "I doubt the court has the authority to provide Mr. Hall the remedy he is seeking, but I want to do a little more research into this novel issue."

Harris, who prosecutors portrayed as the kingpin of the election fraud conspiracy, was convicted along with an associate,

Glen Turner of Drift.

Three people are scheduled for trial next week — former state Sen. John Doug Hays, who was seeking election as Pike County district judge in 2002, his wife, Brenda Hays, and one supporter, Jerry Joe Dotson of Freeburn. Jury selection is set to begin Monday morning.

Tom Varney of McCarr, who was indicted with the others, is expected to plead guilty and testify against the others.

Charges against four other Hays campaign workers were dropped last week by prosecutors.

Dear Daddy,

We are writing you a letter for we need to talk to you, and sending it by Jesus—what else can we do?

Dear Daddy, how we love you and miss you each day. We know you are watching from Heaven, with one big smiling face. In memory there's a picture of the one so dear to us, loving arms that used to hold us, as we sat on your knee. We can't wait to see you with Mommy by your side. Just wanted to let you know, we were sad when you died. We thank God for giving us the smile on your face, and for giving us a rainbow that came upon your face. We heard Jesus say—Just lean on my arm, where there is always a rainbow right after a storm.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer, on concern over election voting:

Americans will have to hold their breaths and hope for minimal voting problems on Nov. 2. Four years after the Florida voting fiasco, our ability to ensure a smooth, accurate election count leaves much to be desired.

No election can be conducted without potential for error or fraud. ...

New problems arise, though, as we move forward. Touch screen voting must have a paper trail, so recounts can be conducted. Secretary of State Sam Reed wisely has ordered paper records for the 2006 election. Congress has so far failed to follow suit on the federal level.

A host of other ideas has arisen, including having large stacks of paper ballots available at all polling places in case of machine problems. ...

Secrecy ought to disappear from the systems for testing software in voting machines. ... There must also be a serious look at the legitimate questions raised about the political ties between voting-machine manufacturers and Republicans. ...

Chicago Tribune on the FCC's day of reckoning for Janet Jackson's "wardrobe malfunction":

Eight months after the infamous Janet Jackson Super Bowl halftime show, the Federal Communications Commission finally calculated what a flash of her breast will cost CBS Television parent Viacom Inc. — $550,000. That's the maximum fine of $27,500 for each of Viacom's 20 CBS stations, for airing what FCC Chairman Michael Powell called "a stunt more fitting of a burlesque show."

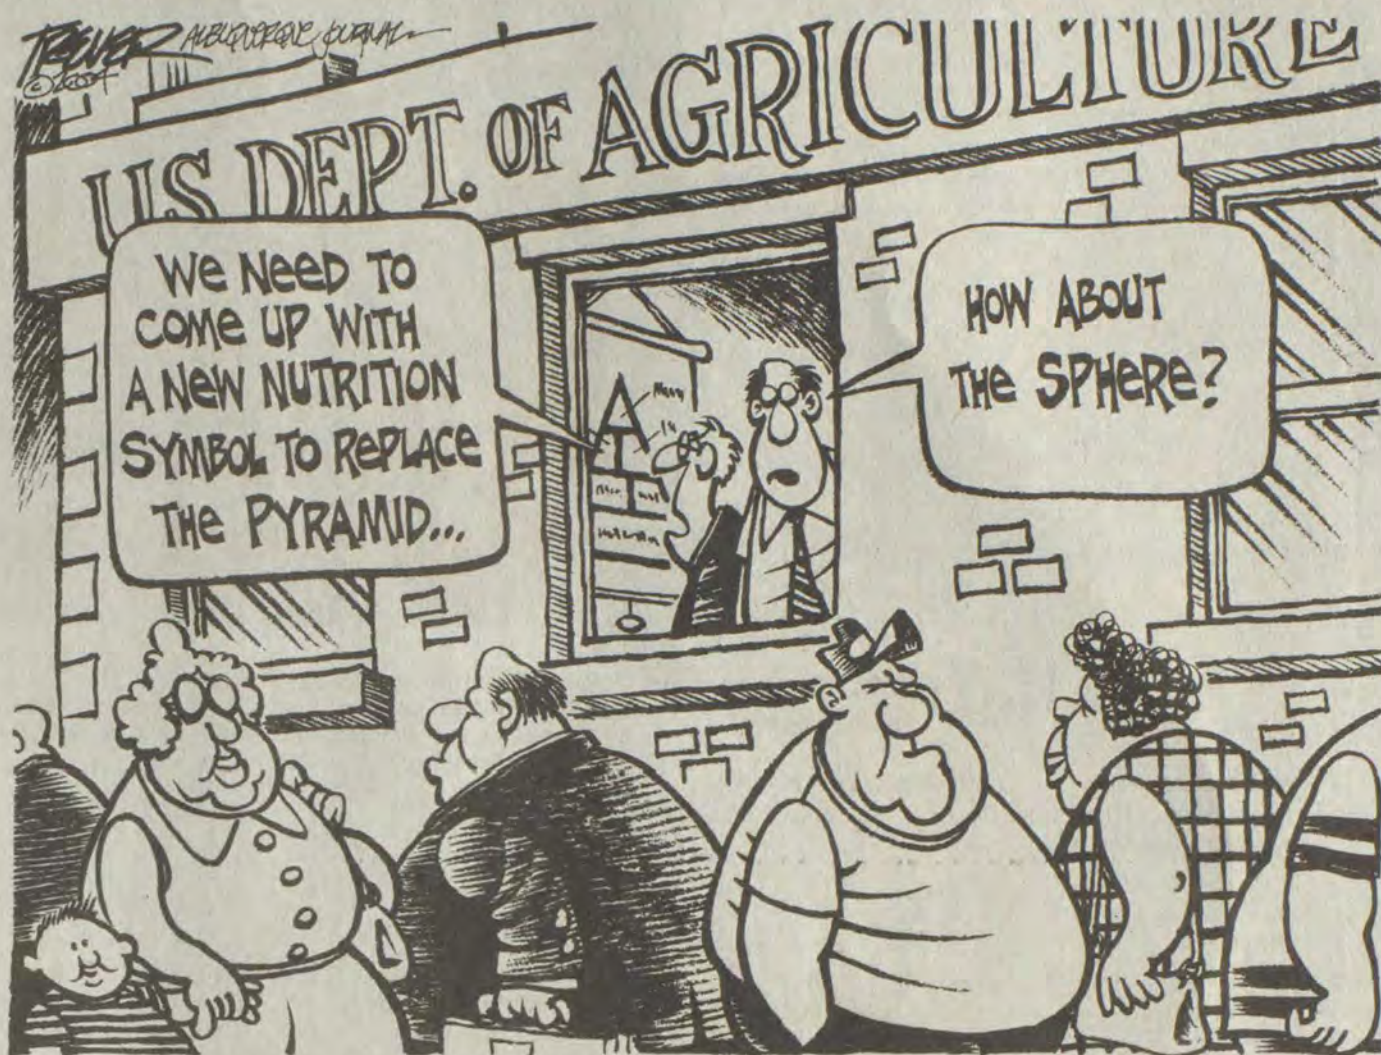

He's right about that. The Jackson performance was either a clumsily staged publicity stunt or a bizarre accident.

But $550,000? That's ridiculous overkill.

There's no public evidence that CBS had any advance knowledge or complicity in the famous "wardrobe malfunction." Nor did those stations have any significant role in what the network aired. Could they have reasonably avoided broadcasting it? No. Has the network moved to prevent such things from happening in the future, via time-delays of live broadcasts? Yes. ...

It's too bad Powell didn't listen to his own arguments and vote against the CBS fine. Instead, he played to the grandstands by scolding broadcasters with a chilling phrase: "The U.S. Constitution is generous in its protection of free expression, but it is not a license to thrill."

... Politicians have pandered to outraged viewers and flogged this election-year issue enough.

Kentucky must return the vote to ex-felons

by JOHN LINDSAY and JANET TUCKER

Gov. Ernie Fletcher is denying the vote to 717 Kentuckians in this important election year. Their applications for the restoration of their rights were denied by the Fletcher administration. How is this democracy?

These 717 are former felons. Under Kentucky state law, felons lose their right to vote, can't run for public office or sit on a jury. They are also prevented from obtaining some professional licenses.

Kentucky has one of the worst systems in the country for allowing the restoration of voting rights to former felons. Demos, a nonprofit research group that works on issues pertinent to democracy, gives Kentucky an "F" on state laws that block former felons' right to vote.

The restoration process for ex-felons is lengthy and intimidating, and requires that reinstatement be granted by the governor. Recently, Fletcher added even more requirements for applicants, including the submission of character references and a written essay stating why the applicant should be able to vote. Despite the difficult and demeaning process, many Kentuckians have endured it to get their rights back.

So far, Gov. Fletcher has only approved around 123 applications since he took office.

Such local facts are particularly troubling considering what happened during the 2000 presidential election, in which thousands of eligible voters from predominately black and Democratic precincts were improperly removed from the rolls in Florida and elsewhere. In Louisville, the Republican Party has announced its intentions of placing poll watchers in predominately African-American precincts. This undemocratic and racist tactic is commonly used to intimidate voters.

Ex-felon disenfranchisement is a problem that has happened in the U.S. for many decades; these disenfranchisement laws go back to Reconstruction and attempts to bar blacks from voting. The Sentencing Project of Washington, D.C., reports that in the "six states that deny the vote to ex-offenders, one in four black men is permanently barred from voting, and, given current rates of incarceration, as many as 40 percent of the next generation of Black males in those states" may end up similarly situated.

In Kentucky, approximately 147,434 adults have been disenfranchised; the total number of disenfranchised African-Americans is 35,955 or 17.4 percent.

Factors contributing to the high population of black men in prison include racial profiling, high rates of arrest, racial bias in prosecuting and sentencing, and under-employment. According to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, Whites are arrested for 71.5 percent of all crimes, and blacks at 25.7 percent.

The powers-that-be say that the reason for high black populations in prison is that blacks commit more crimes than whites, and that a positive correlation exists between poverty and crime.

However, several studies indicate that not only do whites commit more crimes, but they are also more likely to have their charges reduced or receive probation than African- or Hispanic-Americans. Furthermore, even when white and black defendants have attorneys of comparable skills, studies indicate that whites still get less harsh sentences. And yes, a positive correlation does indeed exist between wealth and crime.

Our law requiring ex-felons to go through the difficult process of voting right restoration needs to be changed. In the last legislative session, Rep. Jessie Crenshaw and Sen. Gerald Neal introduced a plan calling for the automatic reinstatement of any ex-felon's voting rights upon the completion of his or her prison sentence; however, the bill never surfaced for a vote. We must remove all of the legal red tape preventing ex-felons from retaining their right to vote.

People have fought and died for the right to vote in the U.S., yet many communities are still being denied this right. We must be committed in the fight against racism and for democracy. It is important that the voices of all people be heard in our democracy, and that citizens exercise their right to vote.

Gov. Fletcher must do the right thing and concede the right to vote to ex-felon applicants. He cannot be allowed to turn his back on democracy.

Bush irresponsible

George Bush turned $5.6 trillion surplus into a $2.8 trillion deficit, according to the Congressional Budget Office.

Bush's irresponsible spending and reckless tax schemes have put our future at risk. And in a second Bush term, it would be even worse. Bush has proposed giveaways that would increase the deficit by $6 trillion over the next four years.

John Kerry has a long record of fighting for balanced budgets and a plan to bring fiscal responsibility back to Washington. He'll roll back the Bush tax giveaways to the super wealthy while cutting taxes for 98 percent of Americans. He'll restrain spending and grow the economy with targeted tax cuts and a plan to create jobs and keep them in America.

This November, we have a choice between four years of failed policies or a new direction for our country. I'm choosing John Kerry.

Where is Bunning?

Has anyone in your town seen our junior US Senator recently? Dr. Dan Mongiardo is making a point of campaigning in every county, but no one I know has seen Jim Bunning lately. Our representative form of democracy requires an informed electorate and an informed electorate requires some interaction with the candidates. Both the League of Women Voters and KET-TV have invited Bunning to appear and speak, but so far, Bunning has failed to accept.

In fact, Bunning has agreed only to a single joint appearance with Mongiardo: on Monday afternoon, October 11, in Lexington. A Lexington television station will air a live "debate" to its listening area. There will be no studio audience, and those of us who live outside the Lexington area will have no way to see it, as the live show will not be videotaped. I think Kentucky voters deserve more respect than Bunning has shown us; after all, we elected him—once.

At the Movies: 'Shark Tale'

by CHRISTY LEMIRE
AP ENTERTAINMENT WRITER

You'll have a sinking feeling that you've seen the all-star animated extravaganza "Shark Tale" before.

That's because you have in the form of "Finding Nemo" and the "Shrek" movies. (One of the movie's three directors, Vicky Jensen, also co-directed on "Shrek.")

Yeah, the colors are bold and the contours are subtle and everything that you've come to expect from such entirely computer-generated fare. (Though it is a little creepy that the fish look like the people voicing them. The Martin Scorsese puffer fish has big, furry eyebrows; the Angelina Jolie femme-fatale fish has big, juicy lips.)

Enough already with the amalgamation of pop culture references, movie lines and product placement that continues to pass for screenwriting. Dusting off MC Hammer's "U Can't Touch This" is not original and it's not funny.

And as for the racial stereotypes in the script from co-director Rob Letterman and Michael J. Wilson, they might be considered offensive if they weren't such lame clichés.

Will Smith lends his voice to

"Shark Tale," a DreamWorks release, was co-directed by Jensen, Letterman and Bibi Bergeron. It's rated PG for some mild language and crude humor. Running time: 90 minutes.

One-and-a-half stars out of four.

a little fish named Oscar (how's THAT for wishful thinking?) who lives in a reef that looks like Times Square and works at a whale wash but craves the good life.

When he runs into his best friend and co-worker, Angie (Renee Zellweger), he says things like, "Angie needs to get her freak on!" and greets others with a hearty "Yo, dog!"

Robert De Niro plays Don Lino, the head of a great white shark family who's ready to retire and pass the business on to his sons — tough-guy Frankie (Michael Imperioli, Christopher on "The Sopranos") and Lenny (Jack Black, taking his versatile voice up a nasal notch), a sensitive vegetarian who likes to dress up as a dolphin. Not that there's anything wrong with that.

Expect a healthy amount of "bada-bing, bada-booms" and "fuhgeddaboutits" in their conversations, as well as hackneyed references to "The Godfather," "GoodFellas" and "Scarface."

Frankie urges his effeminate younger brother to toughen up: "Lenny, if you wanna make pop happy, you gotta kill something." (This is a kids' movie?)

Then after an anchor drops on Frankie and kills him (again, this is a kids' movie?), Oscar mistakenly gets credit and gains fame and popularity throughout the reef as the "shark slayer."

His boss at the whale wash, Sykes (Scorsese), who never liked him, now gloms on as his manager. So does Lola (Jolie), a half-lion fish, half-dragonfish who's all gold digger (and Jolie's smoky, seductive voice makes her a good fit for the part). "Today" show co-host Katie Couric, in a shameless supporting appearance, asks Oscar stupid questions as a reporter named Katie Current.

"I am the shark slayer — Oscar, the shark slayer. That's what people be sayin'," he brags.

And his manager backs him up: "My brutha, my playa, the shark slaya!" he chimes in, and offers a chest bump. (Later, Sykes will show up in a truly humiliating zebra-striped pimp hat.)

Anyway, you get the point. Eventually Oscar does, too, when he comes to terms with the fact that he's a fraud. He also opens his eyes and realizes that Angie has been in love with him all along, and Zellweger's performance is probably the best part of the movie — there's a lovely sweetness to her raspy voice.

We really didn't need to have Oscar shout, during a litany of famous movie lines, "You had me at hello," then have the movie cut to the Renee Zellweger fish looking up at him adoringly.

Like everything that comes before and after, it's drowning in self-conscious cutesiness.

"Shark Tale," a DreamWorks release, was co-directed by Jensen, Letterman and Bibi Bergeron. It's rated PG for some mild language and crude humor. Running time: 90 minutes. One-and-a-half stars out of four.

Rental Central

STAFF WRITER

The last week of September was chock full of new releases, with just about every category of entertainment covered.

First up was Jim Carrey in "Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind." This should connect with fans of Carrey's rubber faced antics as well as anyone who has enjoyed the off-kilter comedies of screenwriter Charles Kaufman ("Adaptation" and "Being John Malkovich"). Carrey plays a man who pays to have all memories of his ex-girlfriend erased after she dumps him. Midway through the procedure, he changes his mind and struggles to retain them. Good and far from routine comedy hijinks ensue.

Action fans will have two choices this week. "The Alamo" is a faithful retelling of the infamous battle for Texas and delivers on the action front while also exploring the motivations and frailties of the historic heroes who stood their ground against overwhelming odds during that epic battle. Billy Bob Thornton and Dennis Quaid star with a script from the dependable John Sayles ("8 Men Out").

Lighter fare can be found in the remake of "Walking Tall." The Rock stars as Buford Pusser this time out (the role was first played by Joe Don Baker), and though they avoid accuracy, this film does deliver on the action.

Classic film fans will enjoy two collector's editions of popular movies from the 1970s and 1980s. The 35th anniversary edition of "Easy Rider" leads the pack and includes a CD of the original soundtrack as well as a book on the making of the rebel classic. Lighter fare is on tap with a special edition of "Footloose." Kevin Bacon stars here as another rebellious youth who eschews motorcycles for the two-step. Look for a young, and very thin, Christopher Penn as a dancer in need of a rhythm transplant.

Documentaries rounded out the week and include the best work of a veteran filmmaker and a breakout film from a first timer. The seasoned Ken Burns put out all of his documentary works this week and its a diverse and inspired collection that includes his seminal masterpiece "The Civil War." Other works from Burns that were released include his documentaries on jazz, baseball, Congress, Mark Twain and Thomas Jefferson.

The new director on the block is Morgan Spurlock. His film "Super-Size Me" was the big winner at the Sundance Festival and is a chilling account of what one month of eating strictly at McDonald's did to his physical and mental health.

Since the film was released, McDonald's has engaged in revamping its menu to include healthier foods, which is a clear indication of the film's power.

Documentaries get another boost next week with the DVD debut of Michael Moore's "Fahrenheit 9/11," just in time to catch voters before next month's presidential election.

Mongiardo campaign responds to Bunning 'Medicaid millionaire' ad

by BRUCE SCHREINER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — U.S. Senate candidate Daniel Mongiardo unveiled a new television ad Wednesday to fend off an attack over his Appalachian medical practice and the lifestyle it purportedly afforded him.

Mongiardo's counter ad says he helped open a free health clinic in his native Hazard. Mongiardo, a surgeon, volunteers at the clinic, which treats people unable to afford private health insurance.

Mongiardo, a state senator, is challenging Republican U.S. Sen. Jim Bunning, who is seeking a second term.

"Jim Bunning wants to attack me. I want to attack the problem of health care," Mongiardo, dressed in surgical scrubs, says in the ad.

Bunning campaign manager David Young said Mongiardo was overreacting.

"Daniel has been attacking Senator Bunning incessantly for nine months nonstop, and if he can't handle the facts just once in a lighthearted contrast ad, then he needs to think about taking a vacation in his private plane," Young said.

Mongiardo's new commercial is meant to counter a Bunning ad that says Mongiardo reaped millions from treating Medicaid patients and implies he used the money to afford a luxurious home and his own airplane.

The ad claims that Mongiardo billed the Medicaid system for more than $3 million for treating patients. Medicaid is the government health care program for the poor and disabled. It is run by the states, and its costs are shared by the federal and state governments.

Citing the Kentucky Department of Medicaid Services, the Bunning campaign said that Mongiardo billed Medicaid more than $440,000 in 1992, more than $665,000 in 1993 and nearly $320,000 in

Bunning's campaign claimed a former state human resources secretary during that period said any billings more than $300,000 "deserve scrutiny."

Mongiardo campaign manager Kim Geveden said he didn't dispute that Mongiardo has received $3 million in Medicaid payments during his career.

"The issue is the implication that he did something wrong in providing health care to people who couldn't afford it,"

Geveden said. "It's just the audacity and the arrogance of a career politician like Jim Bunning to attack a doctor for providing care to poor people."

Geveden says that the mansion shown in the Bunning ad is not Mongiardo's.

Mongiardo spokesman Eric Niloff said the new Mongiardo ad was put together after the Bunning commercial began airing this week.

Mongiardo says in the ad that he would "take on" drug companies to lower prescription costs.

Hazard defeats

Allen Central 2-0

TIMES STAFF REPORT

HAZARD — The Allen Central High volleyball team had its season-worst hitting effort Tuesday and was set back by the host Hazard Bulldogs, 2-0 (25 - 20/25 -13).

The team hit for only .123 with 15 attack errors and only seven kills in 57 attempts. However, Yumekia Hunter smacked in four, Courtney Martin landed two, and Christina Blevins added one tally.

The Rebels started sluggishly, but came on strong in the first game after giving Hazard a 9-point lead at 20-11. Allen Central's Brandi Meade suffered an ankle sprain and was replaced by Tiffany Owens, who stepped up to the challenge. Alesia Hall rotated into the serve and placed six over and the Rebels' defense prevented 15 point attempts by the Bulldogs and got three points, 20-17. The Bulldogs got the ball back, scoring two more, before the Allen Central team could stop them. Tiffany Owens then rotated to serve, getting one of her three aces before the Rebels lost the rally. With the score at 24 - 20, the Bulldogs aced the Rebels for the game.

The second game had both teams battling evenly, but the Bulldogs used strength of their serving game to take a 12-8 advantage and the Rebels could not come back.

Amanda Mills led the team in assists with six on 21 offensive sets and Alesia Hall had two assists on 34 offensive sets. The Rebels served the ball in play 33 times and Tiffany Owens recorded three aces — the high for the night. Martin crashed in one.

Hunter had a superb night defensively, preventing 36 Bulldog points and recording three block assists. Alesia Hall shined as she prevented 24 point attempts, Amanda Mills dug up 17, Tiffany Owens stopped 14 tries, while Martin halted 10 serve attempts and had two block assists and Blevins dug up 10 attempts.

Allen Central was in action last night, playing host to Betsy Layne. Results were unavailable at press time. The Rebels are scheduled to be back in action this Tuesday on the road at Pikeville.

South Floyd Raiders slam Phelps 2-0

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PHELPS — Two of the top volleyball teams in the 15th Region hail from Floyd County. One is Betsy Layne. Another is South Floyd.

South Floyd improved its record to 15-3 Tuesday night with a 2-0 (25-13, 25-18) win over Phelps. The visiting Raiders played aggressive in both games, taking the match and recording win No. 15 in the process. South Floyd has now won two straight matches.

In Tuesday's win over Phelps, Megan Castle had 10 digs, bringing her season total to 104.

Castle was seven-of-nine on serves. She also had three saves and one ace.

Leslie Holbrook was five-of-six on serves for the Raiders. She added 14 assists, seven digs and two saves. Holbrook now has 133 assists.

Katie Cook added eight kills, nine perfect serves, six digs, four saves and one ace. Candice Hall was eight-of-nine serving with three aces, seven assists, one dig and one save. Sabrina Reid, who Prestonsburg High School junior Sean Leslie defended his individual regional title, repeating as Region 11 Champion.

Leslie fired a 74 earlier in the week, tops in the Region 11 boys' golf tournament, held Monday and Tuesday at StoneCrest Golf Course. Leslie, who won a playoff for top individual honors last year, is headed back to the state tournament. But he won't be alone. He'll be joined by his teammates. As a team, Prestonsburg, a collective group of five talented golfers, shot a 325, besting second-place Paintsville, which finished with a score of 332.

Brooks Herrick, another Prestonsburg golfer, fired a 76. Herrick was this year's Floyd County Conference Champion.

The future already looks bright for the Prestonsburg High golf team. All five members of the squad are juniors.

Both Prestonsburg and Paintsville advance to next week's state tournament.

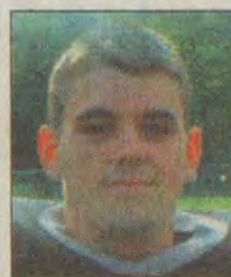

Other individuals advancing to next week's state tournament include Zack Meadows (Johnson Central); Chase Carpenter (Magoffin County) and Colby Hayes (South Floyd).

The Leachman Buick/GMC KHSAA State Golf Championships will be held next week in Bowling Green. The girls' tournament will be played Oct. 5-6 at the Bowling Green Country Club and the boys' tournament will be played Oct. 7-8 at Indian Hills Golf Course in Bowling Green.

Region 11 tournament results follow. Team results are listed in no particular order.

Prestonsburg, 325: Brooks Herrick, 76; Sean Leslie, 74; Austin May, 88; Michael Stephens, 91; Andrew Shepherd, 87. Shelby Valley, 439: Jacob Bryant, 93; Justin Smith, 92; Alex Smallwood, 123; Patrick Smith, 131; Jeremy Belcher, 181. Sheldon Clark, 44: Tyler Chapman, 96; Shawn Johnson, 103; Sean-Craig Preece,

Parker could be back for Ohio game

LEXINGTON — When fielding questions earlier in the week during a press conference, University of Kentucky senior receiver Gerad Parker said he was hopefully that he could get back into action this week as the Wildcats prepare for Ohio University. The senior receiver also sounded upbeat when talking about his recovery from a "freak accident" that required him to have stitches in one of his legs following a run-in with a mechanical lift during a practice after the season-opener against Louisville.

"It is going pretty well," Parker said, when asked about his recovery. "I am hoping to get back this week."

At one time the state's leading all-time high school receiver, Parker has played in many big games and understands the significance of last week's squandered opportunity on the road at Florida.

"It was a missed opportunity," Parker added. "The defense played really well, couple of different quarterbacks launching passes their way.

The responsibility of playing quarterback and leading the Blackcat offense has been placed on the shoulders of two players - senior Trevor Compton and junior Dave Shaffer. Through five games, Compton had completed 13-of-21 passes for 248 passes and four touchdowns, opposed to one interception. Shaffer had completed 18-of-39 passes for 209 yards and one touchdown. Prior to this week's game, Shaffer had thrown three interceptions.

Through five games, Compton had scored 32 points.

Junior Brandon Peters has been a leader in the defensive secondary throughout the season. Through five games, Peters had picked off two passes. Jeremy Carr and Billy Joe Hicks each had an interception apiece.

Blackburn and Compton each have a fumble recovery. Compton returned his recovery for a score.

Results from the Prestonsburg-Magoffin County game will appear in Sunday's edition.

Marshall sacks Miami (Ohio), 33-25

TIMES STAFF REPORT

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. - Marshall senior defensive end Jonathan Goddard amassed a career-high four sacks, forced a fumble, recovered two fumbles, and made nine tackles in leading an inspired Marshall football team to a, 33-25, win over Mid-American Conference rival Miami, Wednesday night at Joan C. Edwards Stadium.

"I just went out and played hard every down," Goddard said. "This was a big game, a rivalry game, and everyone on our team did what we had to do to get the win over a good team."

Marshall (1-3, 1-0 MAC) scored a season-high 33 points in the win that was televised nationally by ESPN2, however the defense managed to harass the RedHawks (2-2, 1-1 MAC) throughout forcing five turnovers and limiting Miami to only 263 total yards of offense. Much of that disruption came from Goddard.

"I thought our defense played very well tonight," Marshall coach Bob Pruett said. "We forced some turnovers and got good pressure on them. He (Goddard) was awesome. He changed the whole game...they could not stop him."

Marshall established the tone early with a Curtis Keyes interception of a Josh Betts pass on the first play of the game. The Thundering Herd managed to convert a 31-yard field goal attempt to take the early 3-0 lead. Miami's next possession ended with Goddard sacking Betts for an eight yard loss and forcing a fumble that he would recover at the Miami 27.

From there, Marshall quarterback Stan Hill fired a 27-yard touchdown pass to senior receiver Brad Bates to put the Herd up, 10-0, at the 8:54 mark of the first quarter.

Miami would answer, however with a six play, 80-yard drive that ended with a Mike Smith four yard touchdown run to cut the lead to 10-7, before going ahead, 14-10, with 59 seconds to go in the first half on a one yard touchdown pass.

Marshall answered the call in the second quarter with a 16-yard pass from Hill to Josh Davis at the 10:37 mark and a 29-yard Ian O'Connor field goal at the 9:00 mark, to take a 20-14 lead at halftime.

In the second half, the Herd showed signs of pulling away. Hill connected with Bates on a six-yard touchdown pass with 7:47 to go in the quarter to widen the gap to 26-14 (Marshall's two-point conversion attempt failed), and on the Herd's following possession Donte Newsome broke free for a 52-yard touchdown run to put Marshall up 33-14.

The RedHawks refused to go away and capped off a 10-play, 70-yard drive with a 27-yard field goal to close out the third quarter of action. Miami would later score on a Josh Betts one yard quarterback sneak and convert on a two-point conversion to make it a one possession game with seven minutes to play.

On the Herd's next possession, Miami's Joey Card would intercept a Stan Hill pass that was tipped by a receiver and return it to the Marshall 16 yard line. With momentum swinging, Marshall's defense rose to the occasion, forcing a Miami fumble that would bound out of the endzone for a touchback just three plays later. In addition to this, Marshall's defense prevented Miami from scoring on its final possession to preserve the win.

"I'm really proud of our football team," Pruett said. "We needed this win and now we need to continue."

Marshall recorded 338 total yards of offense to Miami's 263, and managed 22 first downs to the RedHawks 16.

In addition to Goddard's impressive night, senior linebacker Kevin Atkins tallied 10 tackles and one interception, and senior defensive end Jamus Martin posted eight tackles (three for a loss), forced a fumble, and was responsible for two sacks.

Offensively, senior running back Earl Charles rushed for 122 yards and Hill completed 23 of 37 passes for 184 yards and three touchdowns.

Josh Davis grabbed a game-high seven receptions for 61 yards and touchdown, while Brad Bates managed six catches for 66 yards and two scores.

Davis' seven receptions moved him into second all-time in MAC receptions with 238, just behind Marshall's Darius Watts who holds the league record with 272.

Miami was led by Mike Smith's 95 rushing yards and a touchdown. Betts finished the night, 14-of-23 passing for 144 yards and one touchdown. He threw two interceptions.

Marshall now turns its attention to another rival, Ohio. The Herd will travel to Athens to take on the Bobcats on Saturday, Oct. 9. Kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m. in the annual "Battle for the Bell."

they got some key turnovers. We walk away thinking if we could put up a little bit better performance we could have had a chance down at The Swamp."

In the opening game against Louisville, Wildcat senior quarterback Shane Boyd looked Parker's way as the Lawrence County High grad got the call. Parker, for one, has faith in Boyd.

"You can't question Shane's work ethic," Parker conveyed. "It is great and he has a lot on his shoulders. He has more pressure than anyone else on the offense, so I don't question anything he has done. His coaches will make the necessary corrections through film and he will realize what he had done wrong and make the corrections for the next game."

With Parker and some of his other fellow wide receivers out, Boyd has taken on an even bigger role.

"We are missing key guys, losing (wide receivers) Tommy (Cook) and Keenan (Burton) with the hand injury, it's tough," Parker added. "Those guys had an opportunity that I didn't get when I was so young. I was really pleased with how they reacted at The Swamp."

Parker is looking forward to a return to the gridiron as he and his UK teammates continue in quest of a winning season and a possible bowl bid.

It isn't The Swamp this weekend. Kentucky will return home Saturday to host Ohio. Kickoff for the Ohio-Kentucky game is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Bengals put Webster on injured list, promote receiver

CINCINNATI - The Bengals put middle linebacker Nate Webster on injured reserve Wednesday, officially ending his season.

Webster tore a tendon in his knee during a 23-9 loss to the Ravens on Sunday. He had surgery a day later.

The Bengals signed receiver Cliff Russell off their practice squad to fill his roster spot. Russell played three games for Washington last season and was waived on Aug. 31.

DeWalt's athleticism proving useful for Kentucky

by MURRAY EVANS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — Anyone at Rupp Arena who saw the play won't soon forget it.

With his Warren Central team nursing a six-point lead in the final minutes of the state high school basketball championship game in March against defending champion Mason County, Lonnell DeWalt swooped in from the side of the basket, one-handed a rebound off a missed shot by a teammate and dunked tomahawk-style, all in one motion.

That play effectively clinched the title for the Bowling Green school. Now the 6-foot-6, 220-pound DeWalt is using that athleticism in another sport. Three games into his freshman football season at Kentucky, DeWalt already has risen to second-team status at wide receiver, and he's stood out on special teams, blocking two kicks.

"His athleticism is something we're going to continue to try to take advantage of," Kentucky offensive coordinator Ron Hudson said.

DeWalt is one of a growing number of freshmen making contributions for Kentucky (1-2), which will host Ohio (2-2) on Saturday at Commonwealth Stadium. He's the Wildcats' third-leading receiver, with five catches for 61 yards.

Kentucky coaches ideally would have worked DeWalt into the receiving rotation more slowly. But season-ending injuries to the team's two top returning receivers (Tommy Cook and Keenan Burton) have forced them to turn to DeWalt sooner than expected.

"I don't want to put a lot on freshmen," Kentucky head coach Rich Brooks said. "A lot of freshmen struggle to even be able to match up physically, and then (make) the mental adjustment."

"Freshmen, when you play them, you're going to have some problems with them. The trade-off is, we have some freshmen who have made some outstanding plays. Hopefully the downside will decrease and the upside will increase as we go through the season."

DeWalt is exhibit A in that regard, Hudson said.

"Lonnell, when he goes to the right area, he's doing really well," Hudson said. "We've tried to get the ball to him a few times, but you can see, we throw the ball deep to him a couple of times and he had the chance to catch them but didn't. That's just where he is."

DeWalt said the learning curve can be steep for a freshman.

"You've got to learn how to play hard and work hard every play and come out here and know your stuff," DeWalt said. "You've got to be ready. It's not like high school."

Given an opportunity to play on Kentucky's special teams, DeWalt blocked a Louisville field-goal attempt during the season opener, then blocked a Florida field-goal try last Saturday. DeWalt said the secret is not so much in his vertical leap — he said his best effort is only 28 inches — but in his long arms.

"I just go out behind my linemen," DeWalt said. "They push them real far back, and I just jump as hard as I can," DeWalt said.

Kentucky doesn't keep records for most blocked kicks in a season, but DeWalt already has as many as the entire team did last season. Kentucky had eight blocked kicks in 2002.

"He is tremendously blessed," senior wide receiver Gerard Parker said of DeWalt. "If he keeps on the right track and keeps on learning the game, he's got a great future ahead of him. He really does."

DeWalt plans to walk on to the Kentucky basketball team once the football season is over, something Brooks gave his blessing to when he recruited DeWalt. How long DeWalt will play both sports is unknown, but he did have one promise for Kentucky football fans.

"We're going to win a bowl before I leave," he said. "I know that for sure."

Flowers, Ruth earn game captain roles

TIMES STAFF REPORT

Senior cornerback Earven Flowers and senior kicker Clint Ruth are the game captains for this week's contest vs. Ohio, Coach Rich Brooks has announced.

Game captains are selected each week based on their performance in the previous week's game. Flowers made three tackles, including one for loss, in the game at Florida and did an excellent job in pass coverage. Ruth nailed touchbacks on both of his kickoffs, giving him seven touchbacks in 12 kickoffs this season (58.3 percent).

Flowers and Ruth will join permanent captains Sweet Pea Burns and Shane Boyd at the pregame coin toss.

Members of the 1984 Kentucky football team that won the Hall of Fame Bowl will gather this weekend for a 20th-anniversary reunion.

The '84 Wildcats posted a 9-3 record. They finished the regular season with a 17-12 win over Tennessee in Knoxville and capped the campaign with a 20-19 victory over Wisconsin in the Hall of Fame Bowl.

The Wildcat offense featured three of the top running backs in school history — senior George Adams and freshmen Mark Higgs and Marc Logan. Adams led the team in rushing with 1,085 yards and 13 touchdowns.

The stingy defense was led by All-America safety/punter Paul Calhoun and All-SEC linebacker Cam Jacobs.

The team will have a golf outing this afternoon, a cookout on tonight, breakfast on Saturday morning, and will be introduced at halftime of the Ohio game.

Players who have committed to return for the reunion include Steve Boeckmann, Kenny Brown, Cisco Bryant, Cornell Burbage, Mike Cahill, Paul Calhoun, Allen Carter, Tony Czack, Brian Denham, Kevin Dooley, Jon Dumbauld, Scott Endris, Eric Haas, Thomas Howard, Matt Housh, Gordon Jackson, Vernon Johnson, Tim Jones, Jeff Kremer, Greg

Coaches who have committed to attend include Terry Strock, Donnie Daniels, Jerry Eisaman, Bill Glaser, Jake Hallum, and Rodney Stiles. Team staff members who will be in attendance include equipment manager Tom Kalinowski, athletic trainer Walt McCombs, student manager Steven Chandler, and sports information director Russell Rice.

UK's honorary captains for the Ohio game, David Thompson, Oliver White, and Bill Ransdell, are from the 1984 Hall of Fame Bowl team. Thompson and White were the captains of the '84 team. Ransdell, who currently serves as the analyst on UKTV Network telecasts, was the quarterback in 1984 and has been instrumental in helping coordinate the reunion.

The "Throwback Game" is part of the year-long celebration of the 114 seasons of Kentucky football.

The Throwback Game was the idea of Rick Thompson, UK Associate Athletics Director for Marketing, Licensing and Media Relations, and Jason Schlafer, UK Marketing Director for Football.

The most noticeable element of the game will be the player uniforms. Designed by Nike, the uniforms are not from one specific season, but are a combination of elements from different years.

The helmet design is from the 1973-74 seasons, when the Wildcats wore white helmets with blue stripes, a blue cat head and a blue outline of the state. Tonight's helmets will be the same design but the colors will be reversed, with a blue helmet and white stripes, cat head and outline of the state.

DES MOINES, Iowa — Scott Phaydavong rushed for 173 yards, including a 64-yard touchdown run, and Michael Bialas scored twice, leading Drake to a 42-12 victory over Morehead State on Saturday.

Connor Jostes threw two touchdowns passes to help Drake (2-2) pull away after leading just 14-12 late in the first half.

Morehead State (1-3) had four turnovers, three on interceptions by freshman Brian Yost, who was just 9-for-21 for 100 yards after throwing two TD passes in a 15-7 victory over Butler the week before.

The Bulldogs sacked Yost four times and Nick Ross returned the first interception 22 yards for a touchdown only 47 seconds into the game.

Drake rushed for 334 of its 490 total yards. Phaydavong ran 29 times in topping 100 yards for the third straight game, while Bialas carried 15 times for 93 yards, scoring on runs of 11 and 27 yards.

Morehead State cut the lead to 14-12 on Casey McCoy's 1-yard touchdown run with 3:38 left in the first half. Drake took over on its own 36 after the kickoff and on the Bulldogs' first play, Phaydavong took a handoff from Jostes, sped through a hole and outran the pursuit to the end zone.

Jostes threw second-half touchdown passes of 3 yards to Daniel Marx and 9 yards to James Mickle. He finished 14 of 27 for 156 yards and one interception.

carries. Senior Wes Hall has 781 yards on 92 carries. Osborne has scored seven touchdowns and Hall has made it into the endzone on a scoring effort on nine different occasions. The senior has combined to score 114 of South Floyd's 214 points. As a whole, South Floyd has outscored opponents 214-197.

As a team, South Floyd has rushed for 1,951 yards. The Raiders have passed for an additional 548 yards.

Since becoming an integral part of the Raider offense during the third week of the season, junior quarterback Ryan Johnson has enjoyed a successful stint under center. Johnson has completed 31-of-49 passes for 514 yards and five touchdowns. Opposing defenses have intercepted two Johnson-thrown passes.

Junior Justin Stone leads South Floyd in receiving with 26 catches for 476 yards and five touchdowns. Another top target for Johnson is fellow junior teammate T.J. Hall.

For the Raiders, it's district football the rest of the regular-season. After tonight, South Floyd will play its final three games of the season at home, hosting Hazard (Oct. 8), Allen Central (Oct. 15) and Paintsville (Oct. 22). The Raiders have the final week of the regular-season as an open date.

Kickoff for tonight's South Floyd-Jenkins game is set for 7:30 p.m.

Louisville's defense surprisingly among nation's best

by CHRIS DUNCAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — Louisville's defense starts every practice from the sideline.

At the sound of a whistle, the unit races onto the field, forms a huddle and shouts "Red Swarm!" before the players fan out to their positions.

A play is run and if first-year defensive coordinator Mike Cassity doesn't like what he sees, he orders punishing sprints or up-down exercises before his players restart the drill.

During one August practice, Cassity estimated the Cardinals ran about a half-mile worth of 100-yard dashes.

"They got the message pretty quickly," said Cassity, a journeyman defensive coach at his 12th college stop.

So far, his methods are working well in Louisville.

The No. 22 Cardinals (3-0, 1-0 Conference USA) have shut out two of their first three opponents and rank third in the nation in scoring defense (7 points per game) heading into Saturday's game against East Carolina (0-3, 0-1).

Louisville coach Bobby

Petrino is pleasantly surprised, considering the Cardinals gave up an average of 40 points and 416 yards in the last five games in 2003.

"I probably didn't think they would play this well when we started," Petrino said.

Petrino and middle linebacker Robert McCune, the team's leading tackler, said experience is a major factor in the improvement. Seven starters returned from last year's squad and six are now seniors.

"It's slowed down a lot for a lot of guys on defense," McCune said. "Guys are comfortable playing the game out there."

Petrino also traces the turnaround to a phone call with Cassity shortly after the Cardinals' 49-28 loss to Miami, Ohio in the GMAC Bowl. The two knew each other through Louisville assistants Mike Summers and Greg Nord, who fish with Cassity in western Kentucky every July.

When they spoke, Cassity had just been fired after three seasons as the defensive coordinator at Illinois. That didn't faze Petrino.

"In the middle of the conversation, I was thinking,

Carson Palmer going through growing pains

by JOE KAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Carson Palmer saw speedy receiver Chad Johnson running deep down the field with man-to-man coverage. Sure, the safety was lurking somewhere, but this was too tempting.

Palmer reared back and let it fly and immediately regretted it. Again.

Twice during the Bengals' 23-9 loss to the Ravens on Sunday, Palmer got a little greedy and threw interceptions near the end zone, extending their streak without a touchdown.

They've gone 30 possessions and eight quarters without one on offense, a reflection on their banged-up offensive line and their growing pains under a first-year quarterback who leads the NFL in pass attempts.

Coach Marvin Lewis knew there would be such days when he elevated Palmer in the off-season, putting the inexperienced Heisman Trophy winner in charge. Under pressure from the Ravens' blitzing defense, Palmer had three interceptions and a fumble.

"When you're a young quarterback, you get greedy, and I have to fight that temptation," Palmer said.

The futility is growing and Lewis' urge to protect his quarterback. On Wednesday, he suggested that everyone should ease up.

"Our object is to win the game, not see how many times we can throw it into the end zone and get intercepted," Lewis said. "What we don't want to have is the interception we had last week. To Carson's credit, he hasn't done that (often)."

"If you guys keep writing about it, pretty soon he'll get frustrated and I'll really have a problem."

Not really. Palmer expected some rough times and is handling them very well. So is the rest of the offense, which knew he would need time to shine.

The fans are another matter. Encouraged by the 8-8 finish in Lewis' first season, fans bought tickets and expected playoffs. The first two home games drew the two largest crowds in the stadium's 5-year history.

Their patience has run out already. The Bengals (1-2) got booed in their own stadium Sunday. Some fans started calling for backup quarterback Jon Kitna — last year's NFL comeback player of the year — to make another comeback.

It won't happen.

"I share their disappointment, but we're not going to share their panic," Lewis said. "We're going to stay our course and do fine. Carson made a number of fine plays. There's a couple of plays he'll learn from and never do again, I'm sure."

For the most part, he's looked good.

Palmer got a lot of attention for his impressive debut, a 31-24 loss to the Jets. He went 18-of-27 for 248 yards with two touchdowns and one interception, which translated into a gaudy 105.2 passer rating.

The Dolphins and Ravens took a different approach, blitzing him often and forcing quick decisions that led to occasional mistakes. He threw for only 147 yards against Miami.

The four turnovers against Baltimore undercut his first 300-yard passing game. Palmer was 25-of-52 for 316 yards.

Heading into a game Sunday at Pittsburgh, Palmer leads the NFL with 117 passes thrown.

"That's definitely not our intention," Palmer said. "We're a running team. We want to run the ball more. When you're down, we have to start throwing. We definitely want to get up quick in this game and run the ball and really grind it down."

Lewis is worried that his team is starting to get worn down by the criticism of its ragged start. The defense is giving up 5.7 yards per carry, worst in the league, and the offense hasn't scored a touchdown in two games.

"Our expectations are high," Lewis said. "People are chipping at them. That's why I close them in and protect them as much as I can."

"Let's look back to where we were a year ago at this time. Things are significantly different, but not where we want them to be."

Notes: RB Chris Perry, the 26th overall pick in last April's draft, is expected to make his debut in Pittsburgh. Perry pulled a hamstring in the final preseason game. The Bengals plan to use him as a complement to starter Rudi Johnson. ... MLB Nate Webster went on injured reserve Wednesday, ending his season. He had surgery for a torn tendon in his knee on Monday. WR Cliff Russell was promoted from the practice squad.

Peace Rules retired; Jockey Club Gold Cup field dwindles

by RICHARD ROSENBLATT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Peace Rules has been retired after a slight injury to the colt's left front leg was discovered during training for Saturday's $1 million Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

Trainer Bobby Frankel said Wednesday the injury was nothing serious, but it would prevent the 4-year-old colt from racing again this year.

"Everything's normal today, but this is a part of the business," Frankel said. "He's been sold as a stallion."

Peace Rules won the Suburban Handicap at Belmont on July 4, and finished a tiring sixth in the Whitney Handicap at Saratoga on Aug. 7 in his last start.

The chestnut son of Jules won nine of 19 races and earned $3,084,278 for owner Edmund Gann.

In 2003, Peace Rules won the Louisiana Derby and the Blue Grass Stakes before finishing third to Funny Cide in the Kentucky Derby. He defeated Funny Cide in the Haskell Invitational, and also owns two wins over the gelding this year, in the Suburban and in the New Orleans Handicap.

"He's been a very courageous horse, he tried all the time," Frankel said. "He gave me a lot of thrills."

The retirement comes a day after 2002 Belmont Stakes winner Sarava was retired with a slight injury, leaving the prestigious Jockey Club Gold Cup with a potentially small field.

With entries to be drawn

Thursday, the probables include Funny Cide, Domestic Dispute, Evening Attire, Love of Money and The Cliff's Edge.

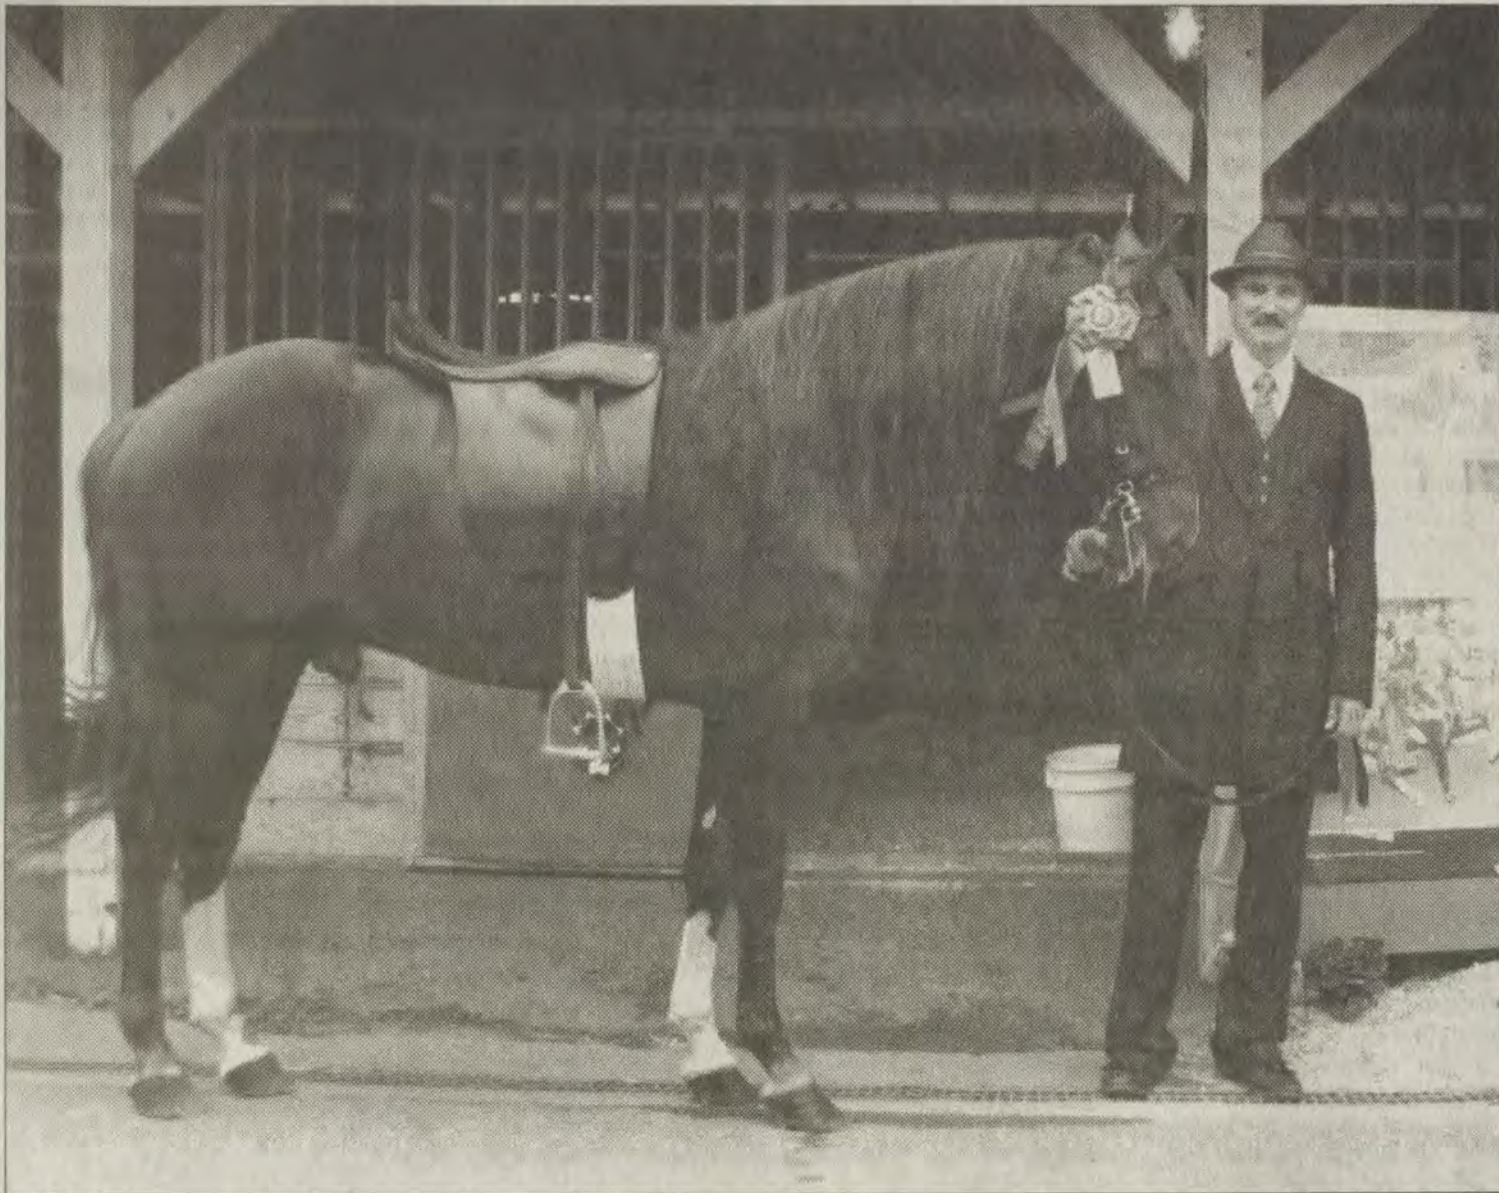

Trainer Barclay Tagg said Wednesday he was leaning toward the Jockey Club Gold Cup, but he wouldn't rule out Saturday's Hawthorne Gold Cup in Chicago. A decision will be made following Funny Cide's scheduled workout Thursday morning.

Funny Cide, beaten five lengths by Evening Attire in the Saratoga Breeders' Cup Handicap on Aug. 22 in his last start, has won two of eight races this year.

Frankel said Powerful Touch, a 4-year-old gelding with wins in his last three starts, is under consideration for both races, with a final decision Thursday.

Other possible starters include Bowman's Band and Newfoundland.

Finish lines: Jose Santos returns to ride Funny Cide on Saturday. Santos fractured his arm in July and was replaced by Edgar Prado when Funny Cide ran second in the Saratoga Breeders' Cup Handicap. ... ESPN will feature two hours of racing coverage Saturday, from Belmont and Santa Anita. ... The four Grade 1 races from Belmont are the Jockey Club Gold Cup, the Joe Hirsch Turf Classic Invitational (Kitten's Joy is the likely favorite), the Flower Bowl Invitational (Riskaverse, Wonder Again highlight the field), and the Vosburgh (Cajun Beat, Pico Central and Speightstown top the field). ... From Santa Anita, it'll be the Yellow Ribbon Stakes.

Local stables score huge wins at Horse Park event

TIMES STAFF REPORT

Prince Albert Stables, a local training facility located in Prestonsburg recently participated in The International Rocky Mountain Horse Show at the Horse Park in Lexington.

After a long spring and summer of the regional appearances in Florida, North Carolina, Indiana and Tennessee as well as Kentucky, the local facility returned to the Horse Park for the Seasons finally. The Rocky Mountain International Show is in its 15th season. And it continues to grow in spectator attendance and class entries.

This year was no exception, over 1,540 horses entered the arena to compete for the World Champion titles, trophies and reconditions.

The barns and arenas were full of curious onlookers and horse enthusiasts.

All of North America as well as a few European countries were represented.

But the big star this year, as always, was the horse.

Horses traveled from as far away as the West Coast and several provinces of Canada to attend this elaborate affair.

A fast and growing breed this Rocky Mountain Horse owes its modern day stature to a few concerned folks that gathered together in the early eighties in an attempt to preserve this unique animal that had served the people of Eastern Kentucky well.

These individuals came to appreciate the qualities of this animal and had the desire to share it with the world. And so it has been.

The heart of the Rocky Mountain Horse country lies East of Interstate 75 and South of the Ohio River. This horse has for decades made its home in the Mountainous regions of Eastern Kentucky. There with cautious and carefully breeding practices it was confirmed in its gait by the old time breeders. They also preserved its pleasing look and eye appeal and gentle nature that have become the signature of this great animal.

Wendell and Sue Wells and the staff of Prince Albert Stables share the love for this horse as well.

They work exclusively with this breed in the promotion, exhibition, training and breeding of Rocky Mountain Horse.

Their customer list includes families from Georgia, California, Tennessee, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana as well as all the state of Kentucky.

Prince Albert Stables traveled to this years show with over forty horses, were their juvenile riders and horses dominated the show.

Miss Whitney May claimed the coveted Autry Hytry Youth Versatility Award for the second consecutive year.

This is a grueling two-day event competing with only one horse in all divisions.

Whitney was honored Saturday afternoon in a Center Ring ceremony to a packed house along with her horse Hershey's Chocolate Kisses.

Miss Myranda Elliott took the Youth Grand as well as the 12-17 Youth Championship this year aboard the talented young mare Hershey's Marilyn Monroe.

Marilyn has was recently named Judges Choice Horse at the State show in Harrodsburg, a once in a lifetime honor in it self.

Myranda and Marilyn have it all together.

Among one of the most rewarding was the Championship ride of Dr. Don Bryson of Oil Springs aboard the exciting young stallion Trojan's Fancy.

Trojan and Don peaked at the right time, when they rode to the Blue Ribbon circle in the Men's Amateur Championship.

Miss Kit's Amazing Grace a multi World Champion Mare with Will Whitson in the irons turned in a Great performance — A very talented mare and with a gifted young rider.

It was a tiring but rewarding experience that provided over one hundred classes spread over a four-day period for these horses with some classes having to be split because of the excess amount of entries.

The off spring of Ole Time Hershey did not go unnoticed. The favorite local breeding stallion produced Six World Champions with only six off spring at the show.

His get claimed titles in the Five Year Old Geldings, Three Year old Stallions, Three Year Old Mares, Two Year Old Trail Pleasure, Gelding and Mare Championships. Hershey continues to sire great horses.

In all, the local stables came away with 23 World Champion titles and many additional honors and an enduring love of the little bitty horse from the Mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

The popularity of this animal continues to grow as it is exposed to the world.

Floyd County U12 Tide midfielder Nathaniel "Blonde Bomber" Fraley took a corner kick Saturday during the first half of the Tide's 5-1 victory over the Belfry Fire. The East Kentucky Youth Soccer Association (EKYSA) fall season continues this weekend with matches scheduled in Floyd and surrounding counties.

Defense

"How do we get this guy here to help us out?" Petrino said.

Louisville defensive coordinator Mike Gillhamer was eventually hired by the Carolina Panthers, opening the position for Cassidy.

By the time spring practices began, Cassidy realized his task was more psychological than physical.

"It was a group that lacked confidence," Cassidy said. "There was a lot of attention given to how poorly they had played last year."

He stressed the positives as he went to work.

"When we saw one good play, we'd show it to them over and over and say, 'Here it is. This is what we're looking for,'" he said. "And then that became two plays and then four plays. And then it just started to roll."

Cassidy and Petrino agreed the unit had to revisit the fundamentals of tackling and pursuing ball carriers.

Senior safety J.T. Haskins said Cassidy excels at 1-on-1 instruction.

"He has a way of telling you what to do, when to do it and how to do it," said Haskins, who has one of Louisville's six sacks. "On game days, all you have to do is execute."

The Cardinals' defense dominated in an opening 28-0 win over Kentucky, holding the Wildcats to 66 rushing yards. Army sprang some big plays in a 52-21 loss to Louisville on Sept. 11, but those came mostly against reserves.

Still, Petrino wasn't entirely convinced of his defense's strength until last Saturday's 34-0 win at North Carolina. The Tar Heels had averaged 478 yards in their first three games, but the Cardinals held them to 222.

"Our defense did an outstanding job of playing team defense and sprinting to the ball," Petrino said. "We took them out of what they wanted to do as far as the run game and got pressure on the quarterback once they had to throw the ball. And then we came up with plays."

Louisville's defense is getting help from one of the nation's most efficient offenses. The Cardinals are chewing up nearly 36 minutes of possession time per game and have committed only two turnovers. Louisville is plus-5 in turnover margin.

"Any time your defense isn't on the field that much, its numbers are going to be better," Cassidy said.

The Cardinals' offense is averaging 489 yards per game and Cassidy said facing it every day is another reason the defense is playing so well.

"We're very fortunate. That's a luxury a lot of teams don't have," Cassidy said. "Defending this offense is a real challenge."

Wallace follows father's footsteps into Bristol's victory lane with UARA Late Model Win

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

BRISTOL, Tenn. — Steve Wallace captured his first career UARA Late Model win on the series' biggest stage Saturday night under the lights at Bristol Motor Speedway. Wallace's win came exactly one month to the day after a violent crash in a Hooter's ProCup Series race at Bristol, making his victory all the more sweet.

Wallace, driving the No. 02 Food City Dodge, took the lead on Lap 83 and stayed in front for the remainder of the race. The 17-year-old Wallace's previous best UARA finish was a third-place effort earlier this year at Anderson Motor Speedway in South Carolina.

"Man this is crazy, we blew a motor in practice and had to work all weekend and now I've got a huge trophy just like my dad," said Wallace, the son of NEXTEL Cup Series driver and nine-time Bristol winner Rusty Wallace. "My dad has won here, my Uncle Kenny's won here, and now I've won here and it's awesome."

Wallace started on the outside of the second row thanks to his win in the night's second of six heat races. "These past five weeks we've worked hard and this is a big boost for us and we're getting better all the time."

"Dad's advice helped me come about running here, but the Hooters ProCup race helped me more than anything."

Ironically, just after the race's half-way mark Wallace got loose on the backstretch and nearly lost control of his car in the same spot and in a similar manner as he did last month in the Hooters ProCup race. "I had to check up behind [Lee] Tisot and got real loose and I thought, oh no here comes the Bristol wall again. But I straightened it out and got back on the throttle and fortunately we were okay."

Josh Adams, driving the lone Toyota in the field finished second. "There at the end we hooked up coming off, but we just couldn't run Steve down."

"But we come out of here with a second place run and we'll take that. Finishing second to Rusty Wallace's son must be pretty good because you know he had to have had some pretty good coaching coming into this event."

Jamey Caudill, Keith Stiltner and Jamie Yelton rounded out the top-five.

UARA points leader Jason York suffered a setback early on in the race as he and the No. 44 of Mark King got together in Turn 1 to bring out the race's third caution on Lap 36.

The race's early stages featured heated racing action between defending series champion Lee Tisot and Tennessee's Joe Buford. Tisot took the lead on Lap 2 and held it until Lap 42 when Buford moved out front for 27 laps before falling off the pace.

The race produced seven caution periods for a total of 41 laps, most a result of tire failures.

The INEX Thunder Roadsters and the Aaron's Pro Challenge Series staged two races prior to the 150-lap Late Model feature. Wade Day captured the INEX Thunder Roadster win in a 30-lap sprint packed with plenty of exciting side-by-side racing. Day, from nearby Elizabethton, Tenn., battled Drew Calhoun for several laps before the two made contact on Lap 28. Calhoun smacked the backstretch wall as Day drove on to the winner's circle.

"It's special to win at Bristol no matter what you're driving," said Day who also competes in Late Models and on the ASA Series. "If I do nothing else, I can say I won at Bristol."

A last lap duel between Brad Housewright and Jamie Blanton highlighted the Aaron's Pro Challenge Series 30-lap race. Coming up on lapped traffic as the two exited Turn 4 on the final lap, Blanton moved to the inside setting up a side-by-side finish. Housewright, from Kingsport, Tenn., held on to win by less than a car-length.

"It's a rush and winning at Bristol is something all these guys running local short track programs dream about," said Housewright. "I felt Jamie [Blanton] coming up along side out of Turn 4 and we had to deal with the lapped traffic, but I knew I could hold him off."

Youth hunting opportunities this fall

FRANKFORT — Hunters age 15 and under should relish the second weekend in October. The youth waterfowl hunting season for the Eastern Youth Waterfowl Zone is October 9 and 10, 2004 as is the youth only firearms deer hunting weekend.

Hunters age 15 and under may hunt ducks, coots, mergansers and geese on October 9 and 10. Juniors hunting waterfowl on this weekend must comply with hunter education and hunting license requirements. They must also be accompanied by an adult at least 18 years of age.

The eastern youth waterfowl zone consists of all counties east of Daviess, Ohio, Butler, Warren and Simpson counties. All other counties west of and including Daviess, Ohio, Butler, Warren and Simpson are in the Western Youth Waterfowl Zone. The youth waterfowl season for the Western Youth Waterfowl Zone is February 5 and 6, 2005.

The bag limits are the same as the regular duck and goose seasons. Also on October 9 and 10, hunters age 15 and under may hunt deer with a modern firearm statewide. During the October youth deer hunting weekend, the appropriate hunting license and deer permits are required and all other zone restrictions and hunter requirements apply to those participating.

Junior hunters age 15 and under must be accompanied by an adult who shall be in position to take immediate control of the junior hunter's firearm at all times while hunting. The accompanying adult must not carry firearms. The adult is not required to possess a hunting license or deer permit if the adult is not deer hunting. The hunter orange clothing requirement applies to both the junior deer hunter and accompanying adult.

For more information about fall hunting in Kentucky, please call 1-800-858-1549 or log on to fw.ky.gov. Hunters are encouraged to obtain a copy of the Fall 2004 and Spring 2005 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide available wherever hunting licenses are sold.

Bailey-Osbourne duo wins tourney

PRESTONSBURG — The Tug Valley Bass Anglers recently hosted the Bull Creek Marathon Bass Classic Bass Tournament.

A field of 15 boats competed for a tournament purse of $1,000 for first place, $600 for second and $300 for third. The team of Jerry Bailey and Dennis Osbourne won the first-place prize.

Sponsors for the tournament included Bull Creek Marathon, J & J Medical, Coke, Big Sandy Cardiology, Trimble Oil, Magoffin County Farm Bureau, Floyd County Farm Bureau, Hi Tech Signs & Graphics and Lucky Craft Lures for providing some really nice lures.

The tournament began with a 7 a.m. blast off from the swimming pool hollow boat ramp. As the anglers made the run to their first spot, the day was dawning on what was a perfect day for a tournament. The weather was great, with sunny skies, warm temperatures and a slight breeze.

The lake had been up eight to 10 feet prior to the event because of several days of rain during the week before the tournament. The water for the tournament was still a couple of feet high and ranged from very muddy to stained with quite a bit of floating debris. Reports from earlier in the week when the water was coming up was the fish were shallow and they were biting. Wednesday before the tournament the Corps. started pulling the water down and the fishing suffered. Reports from guys who fished the day before the tournament was the fishing had become very tough because of the falling water. This probably explains why there was only 15 boats fishing the tournament. But, someone always figures it out and there were a lot of good fish caught, that just goes to show you its never too bad to fish.

The falling water made the fish pull out away from the banks and really turned them off. Anglers reported slow fishing with most not catching many fish during the day. The winning pattern was fishing crankbaits out away from the banks, probably for suspended fish. The second place pattern involved flipping jigs to fish suspended in the branches of laydowns. Not sure how the third place team caught their fish, but I saw them fishing some that morning and it looked like they were throwing everything at them.

After eight hours of competition the contestants had to check back in by 3 p.m. After all the boats checked in everyone loaded their boats and trailered to the weigh-in site at the Bull Creek Marathon station. All the boats were lined up and the anglers were placed in the boat. The anglers drove up to the weigh in stage where they got their fish out of the livewell in front of an enthusiastic crowd and walked up on the stage to weigh their catch. When the tournament concluded the aerated tank was hauled back to the lake and all the fish were released 100-percent alive.

The top teams:
First-Place — Jerry Bailey & Dennis Osbourne (5 bass limit — 10.30 lbs.)

Second-Place — Tee Watkins & Dr. Tackett (3 bass — 6.41 lbs.)

Third-Place — Doug Green & Mark Compton (3 bass — 6.26 lbs.)

Fourth-Place — Jason Patton & Marty Gibson (1 bass — 5.09 lbs.) (Big Bass)

Fifth-Place — Brandon Staten & Mo (2 bass — 4.00 lbs.)

Sixth-Place — Brad May & Tommy Hopkins (2 bass — 3.45 lbs.)

Seventh-Place — Wes Halbert & Hubert Halbert (2 bass — 3.29 lbs.)

Eighth-Place — Jeff Samons & John Samons (1 bass — 2.11 lbs.)

Ninth-Place — Allen Rose & Joe Hopson (1 bass — 1.90 lbs.)

Gordon on top after round 2

by JENNA FRYER ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — It's only fitting Jeff Gordon has bypassed Dale Earnhardt Jr. for the lead in NASCAR's race to the championship.

After all, the series is headed to Talladega Superspeedway for the third round of NASCAR's 10-race playoff system, and it was Gordon who ended Earnhardt's dominance on restrictor-plate tracks.

Gordon won at Talladega in April, nipping Earnhardt in a slightly controversial race. Earnhardt was attempting to pass for the lead with three laps left when an accident occurred behind them, freezing the field and preventing the two from racing to the finish.

Earnhardt then failed to redeem himself at Daytona in July, finishing third as he watched Gordon sail to another restrictor-plate victory.

Gordon now goes to Talladega with the points lead in the battle for the Nextel Cup championship, two consecutive restrictor-plate victories and a chance to match a record. A win Sunday at Talladega would tie Gordon with the late Dale Earnhardt as the only two drivers to win three plate races in one season.

But Gordon isn't concerned with chasing history. He's more focused on avoiding the trademark multicar Talladega crashes. If he — or any other chase contender — gets caught in one, their title hopes will certainly be over.

"The best way to avoid the big wreck is to be out front or near the lead," Gordon said. "Ideally, I'd like to be in the lead pack running single file with everyone else battling two and three-wide behind me."

"But that rarely happens because there are 42 other drivers with the same goal, and that's to win."

The list of viable chase contenders has been whittled to six.

Gordon holds a one-point lead over Kurt Busch, and Earnhardt Jr. is in third place.

Jimmie Johnson and Mark Martin are tied for fourth, putting Elliott Sadler in sixth.

But reigning series champion Matt Kenseth plummeted to seventh, and more or less saw his hopes at repeating his title destroyed when he wrecked while trying to enter the pits Sunday in Dover, Del.

He ended up 32nd after his Roush Racing crew frantically made enough repairs to get his Ford back on the track.

Ryan Newman won Sunday in Dover, but failed to make up much ground and is eighth in the standings.

Tony Stewart and Jeremy Mayfield had the same fate as Newman. Both had solid runs last weekend, but are still stuck in ninth and 10th, desperately trying to crawl closer to the lead.

Talladega is the one race that radically can jumble the standings.

Because of the constant three- and four-wide racing in huge packs at speeds above 190 mph, "the big one" — the almost inevitable multicar wreck — is always looming.

"Talladega could be the wild card in the chase," Martin said. "You really can't control what goes on there, and our goal is to not wreck, avoid the 'big one' and try to get a high finish."

THROUGH MY EYES

I have a wonderful, wonderful aunt who always manages to give me just what I need - sometimes when I don't even ask for it. "Aunt Barb" is not my aunt by blood, but heart bonds are much greater than any other kind and without her, I don't what I would ever do.

On my birthday, this past August, she gave me a little book entitled, "Live and Learn and Pass It On," written and compiled by

H. Jackson Brown Jr. It's chock full of discoveries "about life, love, and other good stuff," shared by people ages 7 to 92. Today, I've scanned it looking for some of the best quotes to share with you. In looking over what I've collected, I think I've composed a mini-mosaic of myself. Hope you enjoy what I've shared.

"I've learned that mothers don't always know best. Sometimes they're learning as they go along."

"I've learned that the only time you're guaranteed not to get something you want is when you don't try for it."

"I've learned that having someone tell you he loves you and having someone show you he

The Lexington Philharmonic Pops rock at the Paramount Arts Center

On Sunday, October 10 at 2 p.m., the Philharmonic takes its Pops season on the road and stops off at the Paramount Arts Center. Ride along with us on a trip back to 1969 when flower power ruled and the music changed a generation forever!

Woodstock Revisited is classic rock played by people who really know the classics! Tickets are $25, $20, $15 and $10. This event is sponsored by WVHU, WIRO and Kentucky Arts on Tour. Partial funding has been provided by the Kentucky Arts Council, a state agency in the Commerce Cabinet, with support from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Head back to the era where bell bottoms and peace signs ruled and the music played on forever! This performance will feature special arrangements of music by Crosby Stills Nash &

Young, Blood Sweat & Tears, The Who, Santana, and Creedence Clearwater Revival.

Woodstock Revisited will also showcase the talent of guest conductor, Jay Flippin along with vocalists Jeff Johnson, Roy Pyle, and James & Vincent Grino. There is a reason that Woodstock was the most famous music festival to ever grace New York, and at this concert, we'll remind you why.

Jay Flippin, who is very well known and respected in this area, has appeared with the Count Basie Band, Rosemary Clooney, the Platters and the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, just to name a few. He opened the Paramount's Jazz Alley Series last season to rave reviews.

The program is scheduled to consist of the music of Crosby Stills Nash & Young, including "Woodstock," "Teach

In this photo from Hall's book, onlookers and grieving family members gathered as bus no. 27 was pulled from the Big Sandy, on Sunday, March 22, 1958, at 3:55 p.m. Some four thousand people lined the river bank as the bus was pulled from the muddy waters.

Hall releases book on '58 school bus tragedy

FEATURES EDITOR

As mothers gathered the breakfast dishes and began to organize in their heads lists of chores to be done for the day; as fathers drove along the winding highways on their way to work, or perhaps, walked toward their barns in long, determined gaits vowing to get as much work done as possible before the winter sun set; and as schoolchildren around the county piled off buses, books in hand, jostling their classmates and teasing one another, preparing for yet one more day of study before the freedom of the coming weekend, events were shaping along the roadway of U.S. 23, near Knotley Hollow. Events that would come together in a matter of minutes, on a cold February morning, that would claim the lives of twenty-seven...and alter the lives of thousands forevermore.

Forty-six years ago, on February 28, 1958, Floyd County school bus number 27, carrying 48 students, and their driver, plunged into the Big Sandy river. Those nearby immediately began heroic efforts to save the passengers. Within minutes, the word had spread that a school bus, loaded with precious cargo, had gone into the river. Stories are told of those that ran, by foot, not waiting, hearts pounding, to the edge of the bank where their children had last been seen. Anguished cries filled the frosty air as the word was spread, throughout the nation, of a tragedy that ultimately claimed the lives of 26 children, many of whom whose bodies were not discovered until months later, and their driver. Twenty-two survivors escaped a watery grave, only to have their lives forever altered.

The magic swing

Roughly two years ago, Elmer Keesee popped into Appalshop just to see for himself what the place looked like.

He had driven to Whitesburg from Belcher in Pike County, a little east of Elkhorn City, the better part of an hour's drive. He was a big man who filled up a room, tall and strongly built. He had a penchant for bibbed overalls. He wore glasses, had thick dark hair going to gray, and flashed a smile that would light up the darkness.

Filling the door of the WMMT office, he said, "Hey, I listen to this station all the time, in my truck, in the house and in my workshop. I just took a notion I wanted to see what it was like over here."

Actually, that kind of incident is not unusual. In fact, it happens with some regularity. Most of us with radio shows have had listen-

THINGS TO PONDER

Styles of Anger

by DR. MABLE ROWE LINEBERGER, Ph.D.

As you know, the most recent topic of the day has been ANGER - where it comes from, how it shows itself, how you can display it, and what to do with it. In reading some other information, an article by a self-identified "Stress Doc" (Mark Gorkin, LSW) was found that focused on "Seven Self-Defeating Styles of Anger." A guess was that everyone should be able to benefit from knowing as much as possible about anger. If you don't need it, you will be able to use it to detect others' need to blow up.

Plan to Get Even. This anger reaction often occurs when you've been unfairly treated or criticized, or feel that you have been. Your eyes may widen and/or you have a mighty biochemical rush as you plot revenge! Then you may be into prevention with a "Do it to others before they can do it to you" type attitude.

Consuming Anger. In response to this type of anger, you try to drink or eat it away and/or it consumes you. Instead of compulsive eating, some folks try to control their hurt and rage through false saintliness or exclaiming untrue positive remarks. These individuals may identify with "The Self-Righteous Rap: Are you a martyr in self-imposed prison? Denying your needs becomes 'heaven's vision.'

When you've been hurt you just quietly pray, but inside you wish you could scream - "Go ahead...Make my day!"

Intellectual Intimidation. The intellectual bully's techniques range from finely judgmental observations to condescending characterizations. "Oh, you don't really believe that, do you?" "What's wrong with you?" "You should have done it this way." The aggressor's competitive edge is frequently a cover for self-doubt or a win-lose, dominant-submissive survival strategy. "When battling for position you won't stop cause you know your place - you're always on top!"

Frequent Flasher. This quick-to-be-triggered, reactive person is a fiery flamethrower. This flasher shows his true inner self and often feels exposed himself.

An explosive type of "HE man" can be either male or female. Supposedly, this aggressive, impatient, hyper person is driven by two underlying complexes barely disguised with sparks and smoke: "H" is for "Humiliation," related to often perceived rejection, feeling shown up, and deep-seated unworthiness; and "E" is for "Emptiness," created by separation anxiety and feelings of abandonment. A story was told of an important Mr. Manager, who was in the middle of a typical, increasingly heated blood-starting-to-boil meeting. He suddenly announced, "Excuse me, I need to photocopy some documents. I'll be back in five minutes." He walked outside, found an empty office, shouted some

Weddings

Tackett-Hagan

Namon and Irene Tackett, of Craynor, are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Desirae Anjelica Tackett, to Joseph Mark Hagan, the son of Jim and Kay Sexton, of Paducah, and R. Lee and Kathryn Hagan, of Orange Beach, Alabama. Desirae is a 2000 graduate of Betsy Layne High School and a 2004 graduate of Morehead State University. She is currently employed at CompUSA, in Lexington, as instructor and supervisor of training. She is the granddaughter of the late Narvin and Edna Hall, formerly of Craynor, the late Asa Tackett, also formerly of Craynor, and the late Phyllis Gean (Wells) Tackett, formerly of Boldman. Mark is a 1995 graduate of Paducah Tilghman High School. He is currently employed as manager of Thomas & King-Applebee's Neighborhood Bar & Grill. He is the grandson of the late Cecil and Lou Annie Wyatt, formerly of Graves County, and the late R. L. Hagan and Eloise (Hayes) Hagan, formerly of Paducah. The couple will wed in a ceremony that will take place on Saturday, October 9, 2004, at half past four o'clock in the afternoon, at the Betsy Layne Free Will Baptist Church, in Betsy Layne. Following, a reception will be held at the Holiday Inn, in Prestonsburg. Afterwards, the couple will honeymoon in the southern Caribbean. Upon their return, they will reside in Lexington.

Bates-Samons

Ronnie and Mary Alice Bates, of Martin, are pleased to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Brittany Lynn Bates, to Freddie Jay Samons, the son of JoAnn Samons, of Martin, and the late Freddie Samons Jr. Brittany is a 2004 graduate of Allen Central High School. She is currently a student at the Big Sandy Community and Technical College. She is the granddaughter of the late Melvin and Margaret Ousley, formerly of Crney, and Ruby Bates, of Bevinsville, and the late Clyde Bates, formerly of Buckingham. Jay is a fireman for the Martin Fire Department. He is the grandson of Floyd and Irene Hughes, of Martin. The couple will wed in a ceremony that will take place on Saturday, October 9, 2004, at Cold Springs Church, at Caney. A reception will immediately follow. The couple plan to reside in Martin.

Anniversaries

Wards Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ward, of McDowell, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on May 15, 2004, at Ponderosa Steakhouse, in Paintsville. Their daughter, Debbie Hardee, and son, Steve Ward, hosted the dinner, which was attended by over 75 family members who all brought along best wishes to the anniversary couple. Mr. and Mrs. Ward say that they had a wonderfully special day and loved all the nice gifts they received.

Wilson's 55th wedding anniversary

Rex and Elizabeth Rife Wilson recently celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary. Married on September 26, 1949, at Wheelwright, they are the parents of two children, Rex David (Brenda) Wilson, of Prestonsburg, and the late Beverly (Terry) Ratliff, of Raccoon. The couple have three grandchildren, Angela Wilson Curtis, Ashley Wilson Meade, and Lincoln R. Ratliff. They also have three great-grandchildren, Faith Curtis, and Kate and Ryan Meade.

Little-Chaffins

Ms. Caryn Meadows, of Pikeville, and Mr. Hobert Little, of Melvin, are pleased to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Shawna LeeAnn Little, to Mr. John Wesley Chaffins, of Virgie. Mr. Chaffins is the son of Mrs. Jan Chaffins, of Prestonsburg, and the late Damon Chaffins. The bride-elect is currently studying criminal law at the Big Sandy Community and Technical College-Prestonsburg campus. The prospective groom is employed by Frazier Mining Company, of Robinson Creek. The couple will wed in a ceremony that will be held on Saturday, October 9, 2004, at three o'clock in the afternoon, at the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church. A reception will follow in the church fellowship hall. The gracious custom of an open church wedding will be observed.

Enlarged breasts common in teenage boys go away on their own

Question: My 15-year-old son — 5 feet 10 inches tall, 125 pounds — wants treatment or surgery for his large breast buds. He is ashamed to take off his shirt in public. What type of physician specializes in concerns of this nature?

Answer: Breast development in males, called gynecomastia in doctor lingo, can be either a normal phenomenon or a signal of disease. It depends on the timing and what other symptoms may also be present.

Male breast development is due to an excess of the female hormone estrogen compared to male hormones, most noticeably testosterone. The normal ratio of testosterone to estrogens in the blood circulation of a male is about 300 to 1. If the relative amount of estrogen increases — either as a result of too much estrogen or not enough testosterone — gynecomastia can result.

There are three times in a male's development when we commonly see breast development. First is in the newborn. This is due to estrogen from the mother. This is seen in male and female newborns and may also be associated with milk discharge. The folk name for this is "witch's milk." It usually goes away a few weeks after birth.

The second time that a male may have enlarged breasts as part of his normal development is during puberty. This benign gynecomastia of adolescence is commonly seen in mid to late adolescence. Frequently, it is one-sided or unequal and is associated with breast tenderness. In one to two years this condition subsides and goes away on its own.

A man approaching his "senior years" is in the third time period where "normal" breast development can occur. Most common after age 65, gynecomastia at that time is usually due to the decreasing amount of males hormones that are being produced in the man's testicles.

Male breast enlargement can run in families and is a genetic trait carried on the X chromosome. This "genetic form" of gynecomastia causes breast development during puberty in males and has no other known consequences. Certain medications can also cause breast enlargement in men. This includes chemotherapy and some blood pressure medications. Illicit drugs such as marijuana, methadone, heroin and the anabolic steroids some unwisely use for body building can be at the root of male breast enlargement.

There are some medical conditions that can cause gynecomastia. These include hyperthyroidism, renal failure, some malignancies and hormone secreting tumors. While the odds are that none of these is what is wrong with your son, I'd recommend that you take him to your family physician just to make sure. If he or she finds that your son is developing as an otherwise healthy male, you'll be reassured that there is nothing to be concerned about. In the rare event that your family doctor suspects something more is going on, your son will probably be referred to a pediatric endocrinologist.

ers drop by out of curiosity, especially those who play bluegrass music.

What separated Elmer is that he kept coming back, often bringing gifts. He was retired and now devoted himself to woodworking. He made all sorts of hand-tooled pieces, from wagons to quilt racks.

You dare not admire anything too much, or in a week or so, he'd bring you a freshly minted one. He refused to take any pay. The smile on his face led you to believe that the giving of the gift was his best payment.

Elmer got to know many of the DJs at the station and called them regularly with kind words and song requests. Although he preferred bluegrass, he listened to everything.

During our on-air fund drive, he would call several shows and pledge generously, as would his wife Patricia, and they always paid up before a reminder had to be sent.

For whatever reason, Elmer got into building swings. One day he came in and announced he had something in his truck he wanted us to see. Several of us went outside with him. There in the back of the pickup was a beautiful swing. In fat, black letters on the top board in back was "WMMT-FM 88.7." On the board below was the word "Appalshop," with red hearts carved into the wood.

He came prepared to set it up. Inside the Appalshop lobby, he drilled two holes in the ceiling and put in large hooks. Then he hauled out a thick metal chain, cut it to measure and attached the swing to the hooks.

Everybody in the building emerged to take a turn in the swing. It became, in fact, a kind of magical swing. If you were depressed or stressed out, you could retreat to the swing and a soothing would occur.

Later, programmer Willard Hall made a stand for the swing and we put it outside near the entrance to the building. This summer, the young people working on films for the Appalachian Media Institute discovered its relaxing powers. When you saw one sitting there, you could figure that he — or she — had reached an impasse in his film and needed to regroup.

In a frenzy of building, Elmer made similar swings for just about everyone who expressed admiration for the WMMT swing. He tried mightily to get me to take one, but I could not since the loss a few years ago of my dog Dudley when a porch swing fell.

We came to love this burly bear of a man. We assumed he would be with us for many years to come.

About a year ago, he was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. He would call and give us optimistic reports, but within a few months we knew there would be no happy ending.

Last spring he did manage to come to a Bluegrass Express Live concert at Appalshop. I recognized him only because I recognized Patricia. He was a shadow of his former self. His body was well on its way to disappearing. His face was lined and gaunt. He had to lean on his wife to move. But the warm, bright smile was still there.

Last Sunday Elmer's body could take no more. The man who gave so much to others finally gave up.

We miss him, but we are, oh so, grateful to have known him. I think his caring spirit is in that swing.

Bus Tragedy

For 46 years, the school bus tragedy of 1958 has remained a scar on the psyche of Floyd County. For 46 years, hearts have broken as those related, and those unrelated, to the victims have heard the stories and relived the memories.

For one Floyd Countian, Jackie Branham Hall, the event was one that has "haunted" her all of her life. "When I was six and a half years old," Hall said, "I fell asleep in my granddaddy's truck and was suddenly awakened when we almost collided, on a winding point on Spurlock Road, with a big, yellow school bus. That big yellow bus was the first thing I saw when I opened my eyes. We didn't collide, but I'll never forget the sight of seeing that big bus so near when I opened my eyes."

Neither will she forget when, that very night, she woke from a frightening dream — a dream in which she fell, along with several other bodies, from the sky. "I fell, and, I landed," she said. "And when I landed, I looked up to see other objects falling all around me. Those objects turned out to be other children. I can remember wondering what was going on and in my dream I can remember crawling along, all the time spitting sand out of my mouth. And when I would reach a body, I would turn it over...and it would have no face."

Hall spoke of how, when she first learned of the school bus wreck, that the memories of that day and that dream came back to her. "I felt a feeling I just really can't describe," she said. "Something just washed right over me...I was 13 years old and from that moment on, I began collecting everything I could that was connected to that event. I don't know why, exactly, but I've spent 46 years doing it."

In that time, Hall has interviewed countless scores of those involved in a painstaking attempt to recreate the events of that tragic morning. This year, she was finally able to publish her book, "Portrait of a Disaster - A Pictorial History of the 1958 School Bus Disaster." The book is only the first in a series planned by Hall, with the second in the series planned for release in June, 2005.

"I thought I'd start with a pictorial history," she said. "Then, in later books, I'll tell my personal story and the stories of those I've interviewed. I'm very excited, just so excited, that this much has now been done," she said.

Hall says that she intends for the books to be a "testimony, a memorial, to the children." In her books, Hall attempts to unravel the mystery of what caused the ill-fated bus to plunge into the chilly waters. This, the first of the series, contains news articles and photographs, many never published before, of the events of that tragic day and the many weeks that followed.

Hall's book can be purchased, for now, directly through her and at some area bookstores for $35. A book signing event is currently being planned by Wal-Mart of Prestonsburg, date to be announced later.

Hall may be contacted at her home telephone number, (606) 886-6988 for more information.

"This is an event that should never be forgotten," she said. "Why those children had to die that way...that's something that we may never know, but we should never, ever forget them."

expletives, then returned, and delivered his anger in an adult fashion to his very surprised opponents.

The Holy Smolder. Some individuals try to hold in their anger, even though they realize their Mount St. Helens potential. Showing anger is a sign of weakness for other individuals; you allowed people to get to you or it shows that you are out of control. My, what a primitive display. It's no wonder that such rigid and righteous thinking leads to early heart attacks. As the anger is bound in, the person smolders away until he implodes and ends up with conditions like high blood pressure and major depression. Or he may explode — the "Volcanus Eruptus" syndrome. Usually the interval between eruptions decreases. The "SHE man" is the susceptible person here, who may be a "nice guy" or a "good girl," and the psychic partner to the "HE man." The "S" stands for "Savior," not really much of an individual, but more one who blindly and self-righteously upholds "the one right way." This rescuer is always ready to sacrifice or give advice ... at a price you are expected to pay — unquestioned loyalty and everlasting appreciation. Similar to the HE man, the SHE man's overdependence with and upon others has the major purpose of distracting from feelings of "Humiliation" and "Emptiness."

Silent or Tearful Impasse. This style of anger can range from "the pouting to the spouting." Stony silence or aggressive detachment can be a potent weapon. Remember that dysfunctional anger may fuel the desire to be REMOTE and in CONTROL. An additional common misguided expression of anger — only tears explode — is often seen in women more than men. The problem is that she stays "bottled up," since she can't or doesn't know how to channel her aggression into acceptable shows of emotion, energy, and words. This show of tears by men and women does not necessarily represent fear or hurt feelings, but are more likely associated with shock and incense by your insensitivity or clueless cruelty.

Passive Aggressive. This is the person who is chronically late, shows persistent procrastination or, "Oh, I'm sorry. I guess I forgot your report for the third time this week. Just had too many big projects on my plate." That really shows you where you stand. There is also the "Yes, but" person. When wanting to respond to this type of reaction, a suggestion is that you not come back quickly with contrary facts or logic; encourage the doubter to praise his position and to take your argument apart. Recognize the other's position before talking about your own. The idea is that in reality we don't argue just facts, but also the status and power aspects of a relationship. There is the possibility that the "Yes, but" person will turn around and say "But, yes." Thus, the all too familiar power struggle may be left behind. Then, there is an aggressively stylish variation on "Tea for Two" with a narcissist's version: "You for me and me for me. Oh how nurturing you will be." Another one is, "Forget 'to be or not to be?' Just simply think of ME, ME, ME!"

Well, where do you and those you interact with stand? Did you recognize yourself? A general truth is that, if you don't feel good about what you say and do, stop and think about what other choices you have. Identify the consequences for each choice and then decide which one you want to accept. Then, follow through consistently. Another big question is, after stopping to examine the interaction, "What is this really worth?" Remember, life needs to be enjoyed not wasted. It is up to each of us what we do.

Your Children," "Southern Cross," and "Suite Judy Blue Eyes." Blood Sweat & Tears numbers to be featured are "Spinning Wheel," "You've Made Me So Very Happy," "Hide-Go (That Old Sweet Roll)," and "Lucretia MacEvil."

Work from The Who will include "My Generation," "I Can See For Miles," and selections from Won't Get Fooled Again, Who Are You, and Pinball Wizard. Santana will be represented by "Oye Como Va," "Black Magic Woman," "Evil Ways," and "Persuasion."

And Creedence Clearwater Revival numbers will include "Down on the Corner," "Bad Moon Rising," "Who'll Stop the Rain," and "Proud Mary." But keep in mind that the program is subject to change.

Now while it may not be the actual bands, the music represented is an amazing array of classics that defined a generation and served as background music for the Peace Movement. It may be a different time now, and unfortunately a different war, but for one afternoon in Ashland, you will be able to forget the troubles in the world right now and remember what Peace, Love and Hope were and are all about.

Pull on your peace sign, break out the beads. Join your friends, bring your children, send your students. It's Woodstock Revisited.

If you remember the music from the first time around or are ready to "Teach Your Children" all about the Woodstock impact, then don't be a "Spinning Wheel." Get your tickets today! Remember, the concert is at the Paramount Arts Center, "Down on the Corner" of 13th and Winchester. Don't procrastinate getting your tickets. Change your "Evil Ways" and buy them now!

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

A BIBLICAL "EFFICIENCY EXPERT", PAR EXCELLENCE!

WHEN PHARAOH WAS ADVISED BY JOSEPH TO STORE UP ALL THE FOOD GROWN IN THE LAND, DURING SEVEN YEARS OF PLENTY, AGAINST THE TIME WHEN THERE WOULD BE SEVEN YEARS FAMINE, ALL OF WHICH JOSEPH HAD PREDICTED BY INTERPRETING PHARAOH'S DREAM (GENESIS 41:25-44), PHARAOH WAS SO PLEASED HE MADE JOSEPH RULER OF THE ENTIRE LAND, SECOND ONLY TO PHARAOH, HIMSELF!

JOSEPH IMMEDIATELY HAD HUGE STORE-HOUSES BUILT TO HOARD EGYPT'S PRODUCE AND, WHEN THE FAMINE SET IN THERE WAS FOOD APLENTY—BUT JOSEPH DIDN'T GIVE THE FOOD TO THE PEOPLE—HE SOLD IT TO THEM, AND WHEN THEY RAN OUT OF MONEY, HE TOOK THEIR ANIMALS IN PAYMENT ON THE GRAIN THEY NEEDED FOR FOOD AND TO PLANT AS SEED....

AFTER THAT, JOSEPH GAVE THE PEOPLE FREE GRAIN WITH WHICH TO PLANT MORE CROPS BUT THEY HAD TO GIVE TO PHARAOH ONE-FIFTH OF ALL THAT THEIR LAND PRODUCED, FROM THEN ON / WITHOUT A DOUBT, THIS WAS THE MOST EFFECTIVE TAKE-OVER OF A LAND BY ONE MAN THAT HISTORY HAS EVER RECORDED—"EFFICIENCY EXPERT" IS A MILD TERM FOR A MAN OF JOSEPH'S CALIBER, WHO HAD COME INTO EGYPT AS A SLAVE AND, IN DUE TIME, ENSLAVED THE ENTIRE NATION—ALL BY HIMSELF!

FINALLY, WHEN THE FARMERS NEEDED MORE FOOD AND GRAIN, THEY HAD NOTHING LEFT BUT THEIR LAND WHICH JOSEPH TOOK TITLE TO IN THE NAME OF PHARAOH IN PAYMENT FOR MORE FOOD AND GRAIN—SO THE PHARAOH WOUND UP OWNING ALL THE LAND OF EGYPT WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THOSE LANDS OWNED BY THE PRIESTHOOD! THE PRIESTS, WHO BY TRADITIONAL LAW, WERE FED FROM PHARAOH'S STORES, HENCE THEY HADN'T TO BUY ANY FOOD OR GRAIN AND KEPT THEIR LANDS!
