Man killed in single-car wreck in Pike

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PIKEVILLE — Alcohol is believed to have been a contributing factor in a fatal wreck that occurred on U.S. 23 South in Pike County over the weekend.

The single-vehicle accident happened Saturday and was reported to the Kentucky State Police post in Pike County by several callers who reported an accident between Booker Fork and Lizzie Fork.

Responding troopers discovered an overturned 1997 Ford pickup truck which contained Kermit Kendrick. Kendrick was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Coroner Russell Roberts.

Witnesses stated that the vehicle was traveling south when it ran off the road and struck a guardrail before crossing back over the highway and overturning several times before coming to a rest.

Trooper Jeff Hamilton is investigating the accident and reported that Kendrick was not wearing a safety belt at the time of the incident.

Expo Center opens doors to the public

PIKEVILLE — After nearly 10 years of planning and construction, the East Kentucky Exposition Center opened its doors Monday evening to state and local officials, media, numerous dignitaries and the general public.

In remarks prior to the opening, Executive Director Donna Damron described how the idea for the arena grew from a need in the community. She said she began pushing the project after witnessing a "rain-soaked Autumn Jam at Pikeville High School."

"As I looked out over a sea of umbrellas, I realized it was time for us to stop talking about what we needed and start doing something about it," Damron said.

But while the center will fill a local need for Pikeville and Pike County, officials stressed that the center would serve the needs of the larger region.

"This is a regional facility and we want to welcome all the folks from other counties ..." said Charles Baird, chairman of the Expo Center's board of directors, as he began ceremonies to open the facility. "I think our ticket sales have shown this is a regional facility."

Many of Monday's speakers also went on the defensive, responding to criticism that the $29 million used to construct the facility could have been put to better use.

Roger Recktenwald, vice chair of the center's board, said Eastern Kentucky has spent years working to take care of basic needs such as water, sewer and roads, but that the Expo Center would improve the area's quality of life.

"This project was special in that it spoke beyond the basic needs we

Couple heading to Lexington cancer march to honor daughter

LEXINGTON — One Pike County family will take a stand Saturday, with thousands of others across the U.S., to raise awareness about one of the nation's silent killers.

They will walk in the memory of Rachel Barnes, 22, during the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society's sixth annual "Light of the Night Walk," held in Lexington and several other U.S. cities.

Barnes, the daughter of Scrappy Louis and Marilyn Barnes, of Williams Hollow Road in Pikeville, was diagnosed with Hodgkin's lymphoma, a rare form of blood cancer, in December 2001. She died in July after a three-and-one-half year battle with the disease.

Barnes always held a confident and determined mindset, her mother said.

"She always maintained her dignity and positive attitude," Marilyn Barnes said. "It wasn't just physical pain she went through, and she never complained. She encouraged me."

The family didn't know that Barnes was sick until she came home from Morehead State University, where she was studying computer networking and administration, to celebrate Thanksgiving in 2001. They found a lump on her neck. She suffered with uncontrollable itching all over her body, her mother said.

After she was diagnosed, doctors found a grapefruit sized tumor

Accounts of robbery differ during hearing

by TOM DOTY

PRESTONSBURG — Two of the three people accused of beating and robbing a Dwale man were in court for a preliminary hearing Monday, at which time conflicting accounts of the robbery were heard.

Melissa Ferrell, 34, Stevie Ed Caudill, 21, and Shawn Sexton, 21, stand accused of beating and robbing Sherman Odell Wallen in his Dwale home last month. Ferrell and Sexton attended the hearing but Caudill could not be there as he was sent to Hazard for a mental evaluation.

Trooper Justin Cornett testified for the prosecution and said that he was dispatched to Wallen's home around 2 a.m. on Sept. 22 and was told that the caller had been beaten and robbed. When he arrived at the location, Wallen told the officer that three people came through his front door while he was on the computer and that one man threw him to the floor and the other choked him while

Ferrell stood back and ordered them to get his wallet.

Wallen told the trooper that the robbers got $300 out of his billfold, but missed an additional $2,000 that was in a side pocket. He also related to Cornett that he knew two of the assailants.

Cornett pointed out that he sent Wallen to Highlands Regional Medical Center to treat a black eye and various contusions to his head. He observed that Wallen, 66, could not defend himself against the group as he was disabled and had lost his left arm.

Cornett was informed that Wallen had spent some

School workers to rally for higher pay

by TOM DOTY

PRESTONSBURG — Support staff for the area schools are gearing up a campaign to raise their salaries above what is considered the poverty line and invite supporters to come out to a pig roast on Saturday, Oct. 8.

The Kentucky Education Support Professionals hopes to raise awareness of the state's inability to meet current living wage norms for the workers it represents, who include bus drivers, maintenance and secretarial staff for schools. The workers are currently being paid less than the living wage standard of $25,386 annually for an adult in a family of four. Many workers actually are paid below the poverty line, which is currently $19,307 per year.

The group will have representatives on hand at the roast, which will be held at 11 a.m. at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park in shelter one.

Therapist claims firing was revenge

by MARY MUSIC
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — An outpatient therapist ousted by Mountain Comprehensive Care says she was fired for the wrong reason.

T. Meshay Tackett, of Harold, filed suit against the mental health agency, claiming that she was fired after complaining about the administration of the agency's facility in Martin.

Tackett, represented by John Harlan Callis III, alleged in an anonymous letter written last year with other anonymous coworkers that problems occurred at the Martin facility because of a "romantic relationship" between the former facility coordinator and a married staff therapist.

"The situation with the coordinator and the therapist is getting so bad that the clients are starting to notice," the letter said. "You know it's getting bad when numerous clients

In Loving Memory of My Dad Clarence Keathley Jr.

October 15, 1949
October 13, 2004

A Year Has Passed

A year has passed since Dad was called away, My heart has been saddened and broken each day.

My, how time has really passed by, Seems like yesterday, I called him just to say, "Hi."

This has been the hardest year for me, His loving face and smile I wish to see.

Dad was a kind man with a heart of gold, He left behind many friends, both young and old.

Being daddy's girl was a great pleasure, My father was my life, a wonderful treasure.

Written by His Daughter Debrah Carroll

Stewart, 29, passed from this life, October 1, 2005 in River Rouge, Michigan.

He was born September 30, 1976, the son of Furry Dean and Janice Stewart.

Will energy conservation become hot again?

When news happens, gas happens — oil, that is. Black gold, Texas tea. From war to interest rates, it all affects prices at the pump. Hurricanes Katrina and Rita were no different.

What is different is that these twisted sister storms could prompt Americans to do something, really do something, about our dependence on non-renewable resources. Even President Bush last month urged motorists to limit driving and told bureaucrats to car pool or take the bus. "There's ways for the federal government to lead when it comes to conservation," Bush said at the Energy Department.

His plea is significant because until now, this administration hasn't led much on the conservation front, concentrating far more heavily on increasing production. Tapping the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge has been a priority, raising automobile mileage standards has not. Vice President Dick Cheney summed it up in 2001, "Conservation may be a sign of personal virtue, but it cannot be the basis of a sound energy policy."

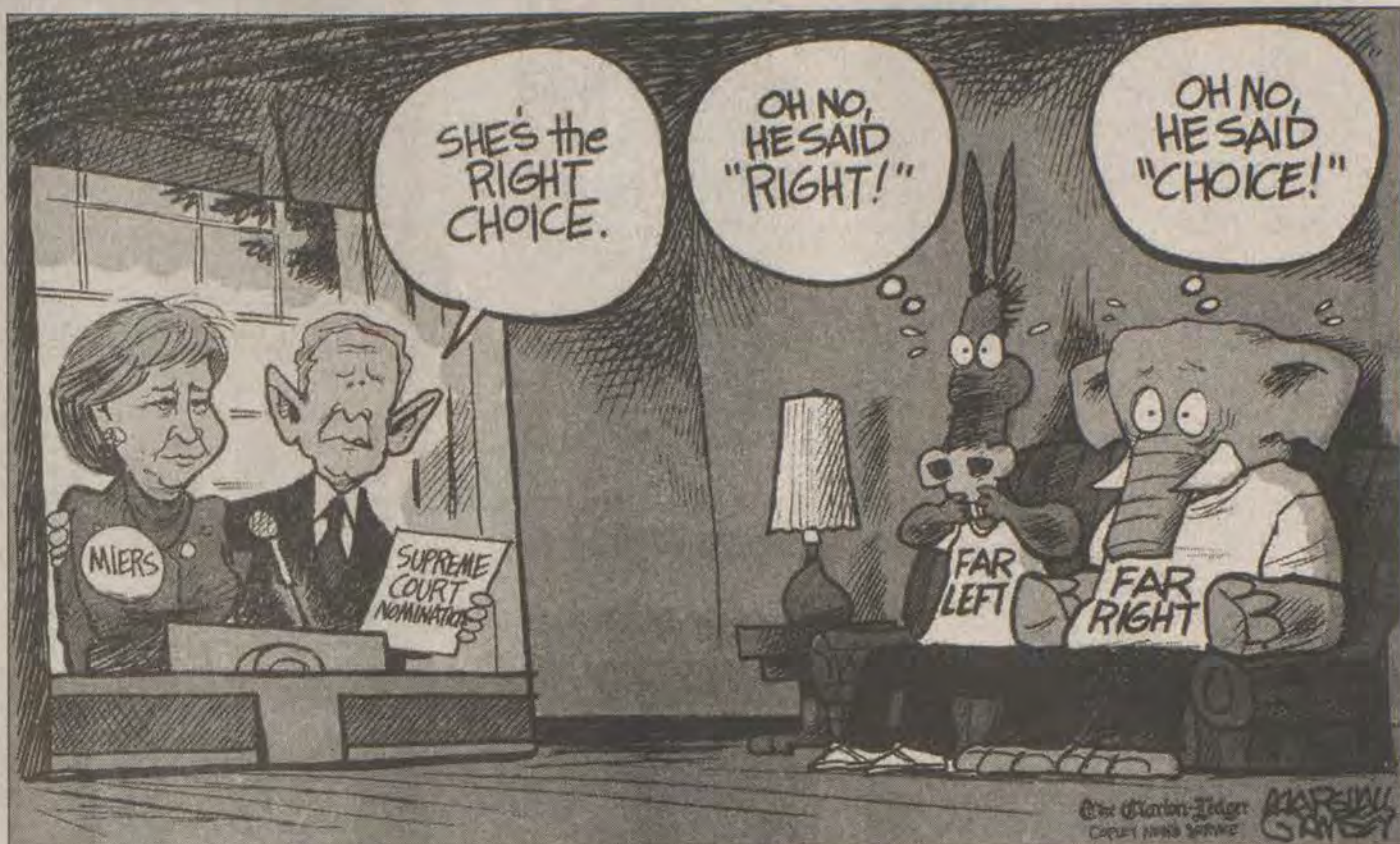

Well, if it can't be the basis, it should at least be a focus. In Bush's recent rhetoric we heard an echo of Jimmy Carter, circa 1979, exhorting consumers for restraint. It's simple; The world is going to run out of oil. It may not happen for 20, 50 or 100 years, and we can drain every drop from Yellowstone and Shawnee National Forest in the meantime, but it's going to happen. Therefore, we need more energy efficiency, conservation and alternatives, sooner rather than later.

Yet the monster energy bill just passed by Congress didn't do diddly to increase refining capacity. Now senior Republicans are chattering about new legislation for that. Likewise, the bill had zilch in the way of mileage standards. Now Democrats are buzzing about that. The bill did tip its hat to alternative energy sources, including ethanol. That's a start.

Jimmy Carter is long gone and yet we're still guzzling oil. Presidential jawboning only goes so far. Ultimately, conservation is an issue of personal responsibility. Our options are nearly infinite: Buy a scooter for short trips around town. Drive a hybrid. Ride a bike. Walk to the grocery. Flip off the light switch. Hand-wash the dishes, hang the clothes to dry.

Will we actually do anything? Given that 21st century Americans have proven themselves notoriously averse to personal sacrifice, we won't hold our breath. We'll save it instead for that walk to the bus stop, when gas prices get so high we don't have much choice.

Pardon advocates take advantage of job controversy

by MARK R. CHELLGREN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — It's an ironic twist on the controversy that erupted when Gov. Ernie Fletcher forgave the nine people indicted for violating personnel laws.

While prosecutors, Democrats and others roundly criticized Fletcher for granting the pardons too quickly and easily and short-circuiting the judicial system, human rights advocates have targeted Fletcher for making it too difficult for people already convicted to get pardons and have their rights restored after serving their sentences.

Convicted felons in Kentucky lose a number of their constitutional rights, and not just their freedom. They cannot vote, hold office, obtain a professional license or carry a gun. And those rights are gone forever, unless restored by the governor, whom the Kentucky Constitution grants broad powers to pardon.

Kentucky is one of only a few states that does not have some system that automatically restores the voting rights of felons who have served their sentences. In 2001, the General Assembly tried to make the restoration easier for people who have served all their time, paid restitution and fulfilled all other provisions of their sentences. The legislation excluded the right to carry firearms from the rights to be restored.

A study by the Catholic Conference of Kentucky indicates that the new system seemed to work initially. The number of felons with their rights restored by the governor went from 575 in the 2001 fiscal year to 1,049 in 2002 and 1,231 in 2003.

But then the trend reversed. In 2004, the number was 626 and for the fiscal year that ended June 30, 2005, the number fell to 464.

The intervening fact was Fletcher's election.

Raoul Cunningham of the NAACP complains that Fletcher has made it more difficult to have civil rights restored.

The administration sometime in 2004 added requirements for three references from applicants, the submission of an "essay" on why voting rights should be restored and allowed local prosecutors what amounts to a veto, Cunningham said.

Administration officials say no essay is needed, only a written application, and has defended the involvement of prosecutors.

Cunningham has questioned the timing of the changes, noting they were installed just as his organization was trying to register voters for the 2004 election.

"They did not do it in an aboveboard fashion," Cunningham said.

But advocates are loath to make the matter too partisan, given they are also asking for Fletcher's assistance. Cunningham noted, however, that Republicans have traditionally constituted the opposition to the restoration of civil rights.

"Our focus is on getting them the right to vote, not on whether it hurts or helps one party or the other," said Ed

Monahan, executive director of the Catholic Conference.

Cunningham said the effect of the barrier is not really partisan.

Historically, stripping a felon of the right to vote was, "aimed at the economically deprived."

"Voting is not limited to certain class, or should not be," Cunningham said.

The political considerations notwithstanding, Monahan and Cunningham said restoring civil rights, particularly the right to vote, is simply the right thing to do.

"What is the hallmark of this country? It's democracy," Monahan said. "And the hallmark of democracy is the right to vote."

Monahan said there is some evidence that restoring the right to vote helps ex-convicts merge back into society and may even reduce recidivism.

"The penal system is based on the premise that people can repay their debt to society and vote. Permanent disenfranchisement negates that whole concept," Cunningham said.

They advocate an amendment to the Constitution to ensure voting rights are restored after a sentence is fully served. But similar proposals in the House and Senate went nowhere during the 2005 legislature.

"It's our position that the right to vote is so precious it should not depend on a governor," Cunningham said.

Club thanks parade helpers

John G. Shiber

COORDINATOR BSCTC COMMUNITY
BIOLOGY CLUB

The Apple Festival has come and gone, and although our float didn't win an award this year, it was still a winner because it delighted all the children along the parade route, who laughed with glee at its lifelike, "musical" animals on board!

I would like to thank everyone who helped out in this event, especially those who joined us early Saturday morning in Paintsville to set up the float, ride on it during the parade, and help disassemble it afterwards.

Driving the tractor was Tom Meade, from the BSCTC Mayo campus, whose two children, Dewey and Eric, were very helpful. People in animal and other costumes included Elaine Shiber, Melinda, Alyssa and Katlin Preston, Angel Caldwell, Cody Sellards, Carolyn (Sue) and Shabree Damron, and Karen McMullin. Travis Daugherty of the Dewey Dam Army Corps of Engineers wore their 'Safety Squirrel' costume. Those passing out candy and flyers were Patricia and Hargis Hurt, Cathy Cole, Thelma Sellards, and Rita & Bobby Newsome.

Other float workers included Whitney Mayo with grandmother Mrs. Wells, Thelma Sellards, Mark Ray, and Jackie Runyon. The signs on the float were created by Mayo campus faculty member Lori Lewis' graphic arts students and Prestonsburg campus student Whitney Mayo. As always, the maintenance crew from both campuses was extremely helpful and supportive.

Providing candy to throw to children along the parade route were BSCTC's Bobby McCool, Linda Dyer, Bryen Goble, Lisa Music, Brenda Miller, Ruth Perry, Linda Lyon, the Family Resource Center and bookstore. BSCTC students who supplied candy were Meridith Duff, Felisha Johnson, Katrina Stumbo, Jason Turner, Jackie Runyon, Angel Caldwell, Whitney Mayo, Brittany Bailey, Ella Compton, Joyce Mills, Thelma Sellards, Melinda Preston, Tiffany Meade, Tim Burke, Annette Grigsby, Fayette Hall, Amanda Webb, Heather White, Shelly Case, Cathy Cole, Carolyn Damron, Hargis Hurt, Carol Johnson, Rita Newsome, and Erin Bundy.

In addition, many thanks to Betsy Layne High School, May Valley Elementary School, Kentucky Fried Chicken of Prestonsburg, and Wal-Mart for providing animal costumes. We also thank Paintsville Elementary School, Johnson Central High School, Lauren Burke, Angel Caldwell, Linda and Tony Shiber, and Van Lear Postmaster Kim Combs for the use of their various musical instruments.

Thank you, one and all! And don't forget The "Annual Reptile Show" being held on Friday, Oct. 28, at 6 p.m. (sharp), in the Gearhart Auditorium. Bring your friends and family. It's free!

OLW honors Sandy Thacker

MARTIN — "A local girl who has kept hometown values alive ... Never knows a stranger; she can talk to anyone. No sacrifice is too great for her. She's there when anyone needs her."

Teresa Turner uses these phrases to describe co-worker Sandy Thacker, recent winner of Our Lady of the Hospital's Waneta Newsome Employee Recognition Award.

For almost 12 years, Thacker has been part of OLW's pharmacy staff. Turner says Thacker is quick to change her pharmacy work schedule when a co-worker is faced with a child's illness — even if she's on vacation. When Christmas rolls around, trust Thacker to work the shift for an employee with children. A patient has no one to pick up a prescription? Thacker will deliver it. An outpatient fails to come to pharmacy on a scheduled day? Thacker calls to check on her. Fund-raising events; Christmas giving projects; volunteering for extra computer training; attending patients' wakes so she can comfort the family — you'll find Thacker involved in all of these.

"I care for everybody," she explained simply. "I try to treat people the way I would want to be treated."

Daily, in her quiet, steadfast way, Thacker goes about the many tasks that make up her day as a pharmacy technician. But she does so much more than that; she genuinely welcomes people into her heart. And she's one of the reasons why people know that OLW is a family place.

Our Lady of the Way is a member of Catholic Health Initiatives, a national non-profit corporation based in Denver, Colo. The Catholic Health Initiatives health system, which is comprised of affiliated non-profit corporations located in 19 states, includes 68 hospitals; 44 long-term care, assisted and independent living and residential facilities; and five community-based health organizations. Catholic Health Initiatives represents more than 67,000 employees and consolidated annual operating revenues of $6.1 billion. It is the second largest Catholic health system in the United States.

Medicare rescinds revocation of Sole Community Hospital status

PIKEVILLE — Pikeville Medical Center received written notice from Medicare today that it will not be losing its Sole Community Hospital status, a designation by Medicare that affects the amount of payments to health care facilities.

PMC was notified by Medicare on August 17 that it would be losing its SCH status effective Oct. 1. Medicare claimed that PMC no longer met a particular criteria for SCH status because it was within 45 minutes of driving time from the nearest "like hospital," McDowell ARH. The removal of this designation, which PMC has held since 1990, would have meant an annual loss of $5 million in revenue for the Medical Center.

PMC immediately began to take action in an effort to reverse the decision. The Medical Center requested that a representative from the Pike County Sheriff's Department drive two different routes to McDowell, both of which took longer than 45 minutes to travel. Pikeville City Ambulance also drove two routes to McDowell. The outcome was the same — a travel time longer than 45 minutes.

The Medical Center asked Medicare for a 30-day extension regarding the revocation of SCH status and continued to work with Medicare's Louisville office, but could not reach a satisfactory conclusion for all parties concerned in the short period of time with which PMC had to work.

During a visit to Pikeville several weeks ago, U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers met with PMC President Walter E. May concerning the problems the hospital was facing. Rogers arranged for an auditor from Administar, a company owned by Anthem, to drive the routes from PMC to McDowell on Sept. 29 with a representative of Rogers' office. Again, the drive time totaled more than 45 minutes for both routes traveled.

The Administar representative reported the information back CMS (Centers for Medicare & Medicare Services) in Washington, D.C., which notified PMC today that the "revocation of SCH status issued Aug. 17, 2005, is rescinded."

The board of directors at PMC had not adopted a new budget for Fiscal Year 2006 (effective Oct. 1). The financial loss that would have been created by the revocation of SCH status would have caused Medical Center to cut needed services, not give employee raises and make other necessary adjustments. That will no longer be the case.

"The future of health care in eastern Kentucky is assured," May said. "I'm so deeply appreciative of the people who went to battle for us and opened doors so our case could be heard. In the past 15 years, Pikeville Medical Center has made great strides. The loss of Sole Community Hospital status would've stopped that growth. Now we can continue to expand and will be able to give our employees raises to show how much we value their hard work. With the reversal of Medicare's decision, we can continue to dream big and big things will happen."

By 6th grade, an alarming number of girls lose interest in math, science & technology. Which means they won't qualify for most future jobs. That's why parents have to keep their interest alive, in every way we can.

It's her future. Do the math.

Highway District 12 to host music, dancing to raise money for hurricane victims

PIKEVILLE — Eleven hours of music, dancing, and good food start at 2 p.m. Saturday at Bob's Mountain Barbecue on South Mayo Trail next to the Days Inn.

Five local bands, including Long Shot and The Whites will play one after another until 1 a.m.

Advance tickets, which include a dinner discount ticket, are $8 each or $13 for a couple. At the door the tickets will be $10 each or $15 a couple. Tickets can be purchased from Judy Pafunda or Menette Robinette at Highway District 12's office on Loraine Street in Pikeville or at Bob's Mountain Barbecue.

All proceeds from the event will go to the American Red Cross for hurricane victims' relief.

"We hope that many people will attend to support this worthy cause," said Judy Pafunda, chairwoman of the event. "People can bring their children in the afternoon and early evening, enjoy the music and have a nice dinner. Later in the evening, make it a date or come single. Have a good meal with the discount ticket and dance the night away. It's a great way to have fun, do something a little different, and know that you're contributing to an important humanitarian effort at the same time."

For more information, contact Pafunda or Robinette at 433-7791 or Bob's Mountain Barbecue, 437-2358.

A Touchstone Energy Cooperative

Dear Members:

The price of energy is rising in every part of the country, and our community is no exception. Whether it's gas, natural gas, electricity or coal, the increase is affecting us all.

Recently, you may have noticed that your electric bill is higher. There are two reasons for this. First, we're required to pay our power supplier more for the coal we burn to make electricity. Second, we now have additional costs to meet government clean air standards.

As a not-for-profit co-op, Big Sandy RECC doesn't make anything from these added charges. And while we can't control the cost of fuel, one of our Touchstone Energy Living programs, including free energy audits, could help reduce your bill.

There are other things you can do to save money. For a free copy of our Simple Savings energy tips, stop by our office or call 606-789-4095.

We understand that these increases are difficult. Your neighbors at Big Sandy RECC are ready to help in any way that we can.

Sincerely,
Bobby D. Sexton

have ... and spoke to the spirit," Recktenwald said.

Gov. Ernie Fletcher, who was on hand for the opening, echoed that sentiment, saying, "This center will allow us to display [our arts and culture] in a way that wasn't possible in the past."

Fletcher also noted that while cities such as Lexington and Louisville have much larger venues, the East Kentucky Expo Center is still attractive to top acts because those cities have far more competition for entertainment dollars, while Pikeville now had 7,000 seats that would be "virtually guaranteed to sell out."

Pike County Judge-Executive Bill Deskins also pointed out more concrete benefits the center is expected to bring, such as a $30 million impact on the local economy and 130 jobs.

Following 90 minutes of speeches and a ribbon-cutting, the doors to the center swung open to give the general public its first look inside. Awaiting the crowd inside were free food, drinks and wine, as well as a big band performance by The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra.

Former Gov. Paul Patton, a Pikeville resident who made the center's construction one of his priorities while in office, was on hand for the opening and found it emotionally satisfying.

"It's one of the last things we worked on to be completed," Patton said. "It's gratifying to know that the things you worked on continue after you are out of office. It's a pretty special night."

time with the suspects earlier the day of the robbery and had given the pair, who were visiting Ferrell's uncle that lived next door to Wallen, some dog food and cigarettes. Cornett reported that the suspects had learned that Wallen was buying medication the next day and may have thought that he had cash on hand for the purchase.

Cornett also related that he interviewed the Ferrell and Caudill after placing them under arrest. He said that Ferrell noted that Shawn Sexton committed the crime and that she and Caudill were not involved. That account drew a shocked look from Sexton, who glared at Ferrell for several moments.

Cornett said that the pair had picked up Sexton in McDowell and returned to the trailer court where they had met Wallen and that the robbery took place some time after that.

Judge Eric Hall found that there was enough evidence to pass the case on for a grand jury to consider. He ordered that all three defendants remain under were placed on them last week the $20,000 cash bonds that at their respective arraignments.

Health Savings Accounts save on medical expenses, taxes

Health Savings Accounts or HSAs were created by Congress to combat rising medical costs by providing an incentive for more consumers to pay "first-dollar" medical expenses. An HSA, is an IRA-like account that is designed exclusively for covering medical expenses incurred by the HSA account beneficiary (the person who establishes the account) and his or her dependents.

HSAs can provide significant tax benefits to eligible individuals. Not only can HSAs provide tax benefits related to paying qualified medical expenses, they may also provide benefits similar to many tax-favored retirement plans. A summary of HSA tax advantages is shown below.

■ HSA contributions - by employer or employee - are excluded from income

■ HSA earnings are tax deferred if used for qualified medical expenses

■ HSA assets are never taxed

■ Unused HSA assets may be used for retirement; however, they will be subject to a 10 percent penalty until the HSA account beneficiary turns age 65. If not used for medical expenses, they will be subject to income taxes

■ Upon death, HSA assets become the property of a named death beneficiary, or of the HSA account beneficiary's estate. A spouse may treat the assets as his or her own HSA, while non-spouse death beneficiaries must treat such assets as ordinary taxable income

In order for HSA assets to retain their tax-free status, they may only be withdrawn and used for certain expenses. Qualified medical expenses include:

■ Actual medical expenses, including doctor visits, prescriptions, transportation to get medical care, and dental care

■ Long term care insurance

■ Healthcare coverage when unemployed

■ Certain continuation-of-benefit healthcare coverage

■ Certain health insurance after age 65

Sole proprietors and others who are self-employed can have an HSA, and are, in fact, often ideal candidates for an HSA. In such situations, the business owner is both employer and employee. HSAs are often advantageous for the self-employed because high deductible health insurance plans generally have modest premium costs, and may be an effective cost-containment mechanism for the employer.

Also, the employer is protected against potentially catastrophic healthcare expenses. Furthermore, the HSA may serve the dual purpose of providing for both medical and retirement expenses.

The total amount you or your employer may contribute to an HSA for any taxable year is dependent upon whether you have individual or family coverage under a high deductible health plan.

HSAs require the following government reporting:

■ HSA holders must report all contributions and distributions on their individual income tax returns

■ An employer contribution is reported on a business tax return, as well as on the W-2 form of any employee receiving an employer contribution

■ All contributions and distributions from an HSA account are also reported by the custodian or trustee where the HSA is held.

First Commonwealth funds scholarships

PRESTONSBURG — In a ceremony Sept. 8, First Commonwealth Bank pledged $25,000 for Big Sandy Community and Technical College scholarships.

Gregory A. Wilson, FCB president and CEO, along with Burl Wells Spurlock, chairman of the FCB Board of Directors presented the first installment of the five-year pledge to Dr. George D. Edwards, president of BSCTC and Judy Bocook, BSCTC manager of advancement. The money will be used to fund First Commonwealth Bank Scholarships which will go to two Big Sandy Community and Technical College students from Floyd County each year.

First Commonwealth Bank has been a long time supporter of post-secondary education. Spurlock has served on the Big Sandy College Educational Foundation Inc. Board for several years. With the many contributions the bank has made to education in Eastern Kentucky, the bank has earned a sterling reputation for service to the community and the future of its citizens.

First Commonwealth Bank opened its doors May 2, 1904, and has been a steady financial influence in the community for over 101 years. FCB has four full-service locations in Prestonsburg, Martin and Betsy Layne. They also operate a loan production office in Pikeville.

For more information on establishing a scholarship for students at Big Sandy Community and Technical College, call Judy Bocook at (606) 886-7369. BSCTC is one of 16 colleges in the Kentucky Community and Technical College System.

Kentuckians know state isn't healthy

The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE — A majority of state residents say the health of their fellow Kentuckians is only fair or poor, according to a new poll.

The latest Bluegrass Poll by the Courier-Journal gives several indications that the state's overall health is below average.

In a telephone survey of 801 respondents, conducted between Sept. 7-13, two-thirds rated the state's health as fair or poor and 27 percent said they smoke cigarettes daily. Also, 20 percent of respondents didn't exercise and about a third ate fried food for a meal three or more times in the week before they were interviewed.

The poll also revealed that people's views of their own health depended on their education level, income and where they live.

Only 14 percent of respondents in households earning $50,000 or more a year rated their health as only fair or poor, while 56 percent of those earning less than $15,000 rated their health as fair or poor. And 43 percent of eastern Kentuckians rated their health as only fair or poor, compared with 30 percent of respondents from Louisville or north central Kentucky.

The frequency of smoking also depended on income.

Among respondents from households earning less than $15,000 a year, 38 percent smoked daily, compared with 19 percent of those in households earning $50,000 or more.

And 34 percent of those in the lowest-earning households did not exercise in the previous week, compared with only 12 percent of the highest-earning households.

Access to health care and medicine also appeared to be a problem for some residents, with 17 percent saying they needed medical care in the past year but didn't get it.

Martha Bucy, 56, of Murray, rated both her health and the state's health as poor. Bucy has had two heart attacks and several illnesses, including Crohn's disease and coronary artery problems.

"I'm going to die of one of these illnesses," said Bucy, who was among respondents who agreed to be interviewed.

Respondents said individuals and the government both play a part in keeping people healthy.

More than 90 percent believe individuals should take a great deal of responsibility for their health, while almost three-quarters believe state and federal governments should take at least some responsibility.

Some respondents, however, said government is not responsible for making sure individuals stay healthy.

"Everybody should be responsible for themselves," said Mike Jackson, a 32-year-old engineer and father from Taylorsville.

Fifty-five percent of those polled said the state should do more to provide health care for low-income people without insurance, and 80 percent of those respondents reported that they would say that even if it meant paying more taxes.

Ivy Craycroft, a 75-year-old Louisville resident who has diabetes and high blood pressure and has survived colon cancer, said the state has a responsibility to do its part to improve health.

"If they can take money out for arenas or for pleasurable things, I think a lot of that money can go for health reasons," Craycroft said. "Arenas are fine. But I think health is the No. 1 priority."

But Craycroft and many others said people also need to take care of themselves.

Laverne Westmoreland of Louisville, a stay-at-home mother married to a pilot, doesn't smoke, tries to eat well and regularly does vigorous exercise.

The 39-year-old former nurse said individuals should adopt healthy lifestyles and think about disease prevention — for themselves and their children.

"Everything starts at home," Westmoreland said. "I just have to be the best example."

Odds & Ends

■ CASPER, Wyo. — New home, new job, new life — new wife.

Robert Baquet and Stephanie Bordelon were married Sunday, just days after their Ville Platte, La., home was destroyed by Hurricane Rita.

Baquet moved to Casper after Hurricane Katrina, hoping the job prospects were better in Wyoming than they were in Louisiana. As soon as he arrived, he decided he'd found a new home.

And a good thing he did — while Katrina missed Ville Platte, Rita hit the town hard.

His first words to Bordelon when she got off the plane: "We're getting married."

"I was a little stunned," she said. "But everyone here has been so great to us."

Linda Henderson, owner of the Sage & Sand Motel, gave them a space for the wedding, and the hotel's maids pooled their tips to help buy Bordelon a wedding dress.

"I've never been anywhere with people who have been so nice," Baquet said. "I want to stay here forever."

■ ANAHEIM, Calif. — The regular season is one thing. But there are no hard feelings in the postseason.

Anaheim Mayor Curt Pringle did not attend a single Angel baseball game this season because of the legal dispute between the city and the club over the team's name change.

But he has decided to put aside the feud — at least for one game — and seat himself in the city suite behind home plate during Tuesday's playoff opener against the New York Yankees.

Pringle said he will wear a red Angel shirt while hosting seven children from the Anaheim Boys & Girls Club. He did not say whether he will attend any other games.

"Having the Angels in the playoffs is exciting for the whole community," Pringle said Monday. "I want to make sure I'm clear in supporting the team. We've been very consistent the whole year in encouraging people to go to the games, and I don't want anything to take away from that."

Anaheim sued the team after owner Arte Moreno changed the club name from the Anaheim Angels to the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim.

■ NEW YORK — Kimchi shared the barrel with garlic dills as pickle vendors from around the region celebrated the fifth annual New York City International Pickle Day.

Smaller and quirkier than other street fairs, Pickle Day took up two blocks on the Lower East Side on Sunday and featured a vinegary bounty to sample and to buy — a peck of pickled peppers and then some.

"It's the best day of the year," said Kaycee Wimbish, who said she's been talking up Pickle Day since at least August. "I love pickled products and all things pickled."

Employees of old-style Lower East Side picklers like Guss's Pickles and Pickle Guys doled out kosher dills while more eclectic fare included tamarind chutney from Kalustyan's, a store that specializes in Middle Eastern and Asian grocery items.

Kim DePole, wearing a necklace of plastic vegetables in honor of the occasion, was surprised by the turnips pickled in beet juice.

"It tastes like fresh air!" she said. "Very crisp tasting."

Jeremy Campbell was of the opinion that "every day should be Pickle Day" but had one complaint: "I'm really kind of disappointed not to find a jar of pickled asparagus."

■ YAKIMA, Wash. — Mike Gambrell thinks he and a buddy should get a reward for reporting a marijuana farm while out bow hunting. But that's not how officials see it.

Gambrell said four men came after him and his friend with rifles after they spotted the plants. The pair said they used a walkie-talkie to alert a friend, who called 911 on his cellular telephone.

Gambrell said he later learned of a hot line offering up to $5,000 for tips leading to the seizure of marijuana, but was denied any money. Officials said tips have to be phoned into a special 1-800 line, not 911.

"To have guys chasing you with firearms, I mean, we should get something out of this deal," Gambrell said. "The people running this program, they just don't want to give up the money. It's a joke."

Capt. Mark Couey said a tipster must call the hot line before alerting any other law enforcement agency and then call back within two weeks. "I feel for him, but this program is designed specifically to entice people who would not otherwise normally come forward."

State troopers and county sheriff's deputies seized 1,079 marijuana plants but found no one to arrest.

■ MANNING, S.C. — A warm teddy bear helped lead deputies to a man wanted for an armed robbery and carjacking.

Officers went to a home Wednesday night after received a tip that Gregory L. Mouzon was inside.

One of the investigators saw a pile of clothes in a closet and picked up a teddy bear on top that was unusually warm, Chief Deputy Joe Bradham said.

Other officers, including Investigator Tommy Burgess, started picking up the clothes and found Mouzon underneath the pile.

Mouzon "stuck his head up and said, 'Hello, Mr. Burgess,'" Bradham said.

Deputies had been looking for Mouzon for about 18 hours since he went into a gas station, robbed the clerk, then carjacked a 1996 Ford Taurus from an acquaintance who had driven him to the store, authorities said.

■ KOTA BAHRU, Malaysia — A Malaysian state is searching for the most soporific soprano.

The Islamic government of the northeastern state of Kelantan will hold a lullaby contest for wives singing their husbands to sleep, the state chief minister Nik Aziz Nik Mat announced Saturday.

The contest was in line with singing allowed by Islam, said Nik Aziz, whose Pan-Malaysian Islamic Party governs Kelantan. The party has recently been trying to shed its headline image.

Nik Aziz said the lullaby contest will strengthen family ties. "This is important. For example, a husband returns home tired and when the wife sings to him, he can sleep soundly," he said.

"When he awakes, he is a happy man and this will help build a great relationship between husband and wife. We will have judges to evaluate the songs," he said.

He did not say when the contest will be held.

■ GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. — Add yeast to the list of items not allowed in jails.

The Mesa County sheriff's department recently confiscated two toothpaste tubes full of brewer's yeast that somebody tried to smuggle into the county jail.

Initial tests on the substance were negative for marijuana, cocaine and hash, Sheriff Stan Hilkey said. Later, authorities determined the true nature of the substance, which can help in making "jailhouse hooch."

Hilkey said he figured either an inmate made a connection with a worker at the jail-item supply company that sent the yeast or somebody intercepted the package and repackaged the items with the yeast inside.

"We don't want to lay all the blame on the vendor," Hilkey said. "It could be something as benign as someone who used to be an inmate and he just wanted to brighten someone's day. We may never know."

■ MADISON, Wis. — Some book worms live outside the book.

Matthew Brooke, 26, allegedly smashed a display case at the Wisconsin Historical Society to steal a Revolutionary War-era volume worth $5,000. He was charged Friday with felony theft of library materials and criminal damage to property.

Brooke went to the Historical Society on Thursday, according to a criminal complaint, and smashed the window on a second-floor antique display case with his elbow. He allegedly swiped the "Pennsylvania Evening Post" from inside the case.

The book is a collection of the newspaper's issues dating from January to April 1777.

A police officer found the book stuck in the waistband of Brooke's pants, the complaint said. Brooke told detectives he took the book because he wanted to read a story on page 106 about a historical figure named William Hill.

Grand jury continues its investigation

by MARK R. CHELLGREN
Associated Press

FRANKFORT — The special grand jury investigating Fletcher administration personnel practices turned its attention back to Gov. Ernie Fletcher's office on Monday.

Kathy Harman, who was an assistant to former Fletcher personnel aide Basil Turbyfill, spent nearly two hours before the grand jury. Turbyfill, who was indicted for conspiracy to violate personnel laws before Fletcher pardoned him and eight others, was later fired by Fletcher.

Also testifying Monday was Wayne Harman, Kathy Harman's husband and a commissioner in the Personnel Cabinet.

The Harmans and their attorney declined to answer questions about their testimony.

The grand jury, impaneled on June 6, has indicted 11 current or former members of Fletcher's administration on charges they violated personnel laws by making hiring and firing decisions based on political considerations. Other charges have grown from the personnel allegations, including felony charges of evidence and witness tampering. Fletcher's pardons covered the first nine indicted, but a question hangs over how far the pardon extends.

Acting Transportation Cabinet Secretary Bill Nighbert was indicted for seeking to retaliate against an agency employee who was cooperating with the investigation.

Just last week, two more former Fletcher aides were indicted for personnel violations — ex-chief of staff Daniel Groves and Vince Fields, former director of the Fletcher local outreach program called Local Initiative for a New Kentucky, LINK. They are alleged to have filled a highway department job in Breathitt County based on political considerations.

Lawyers for all three said Fletcher's pardon covers their clients even on the latest charges. Prosecutors said the pardon can cover people and specific charges, not vague topics. Prosecutor Scott Crawford-Sutherland said Nighbert's arraignment has been postponed so it can be held at the same time as Groves' and Fields', which have not yet been scheduled. Crawford-Sutherland said he expects attorneys for all three to seek dismissal of the charges based on the Fletcher pardon.

"There has to be a limit on a governor's power to issue amnesty for a person's conduct," Crawford-Sutherland said.

The grand jury appeared to return to another topic on Monday, hearing from Mark Cornett, a staff assistant in the Cabinet for Health and Family Services.

Last week, several cabinet employees testified about the circumstances surrounding a family services job filled in Powell County.

Cornett confirmed he was asked about the Powell County matter during nearly two hours of testimony.

On a related topic, the State Board of Elections has answered an Open Records law request from the attorney general's office about the work and status of Dave Disponett, a Lawrenceburg builder who has become closely identified with the personnel investigation.

Disponett, the treasurer of the Kentucky Republican Party, had an office in the Capitol and a state government secretary while acting as an unpaid volunteer for Fletcher. While Fletcher said Disponett was advising him on political appointments, court documents indicate he was also involved in Merit System job decisions.

Disponett is a longtime gubernatorial appointee to the elections panel. The agency was asked to provide records on Disponett's pay and benefits and use of state offices and personnel.

Board Director Sara Johnson declined on Monday to provide the same information to The Associated Press without a formal request. Even after the request was filed, the records were not made available Monday

Today in History

The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 5, the 278th day of 2005. There are 87 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On Oct. 5, 1947, President Truman delivered the first televised White House address.

On this date:

■ In 1830, the 21st president of the United States, Chester Arthur, was born in Fairfield, Vt.

■ In 1892, the Dalton Gang, notorious for its train robberies, was practically wiped out while attempting to rob a pair of banks in Coffeyville, Kan.

■ In 1921, the World Series was broadcast on radio for the first time.

■ In 1937, President Roosevelt called for a "quarantine" of aggressor nations.

■ In 1941, former Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis — the first Jewish member of the nation's highest court — died in Washington, D.C., at age 84.

■ In 1953, Earl Warren was sworn in as the 14th chief justice of the United States, succeeding Fred M. Vinson.

■ In 1955, a stage adaptation of "The Diary of Anne Frank" by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett opened at the Cort Theatre in New York.

■ In 1962, the Beatles' first hit, "Love Me Do," was first released in the United Kingdom.

■ In 1983, Solidarity founder Lech Walesa was named winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

■ In 1989, a jury in Charlotte, N.C., convicted former PTL evangelist Jim Bakker of using his television show to defraud followers.

Ten years ago: Seamus Heaney of Ireland won the 1995 Nobel Prize in literature. Bosnia's combatants agreed to a 60-day cease-fire and new talks on ending their 3 1/2 years of battle.

Five years ago: In the only debate of presidential running mates during the 2000 campaign, Republican Dick Cheney and Democrat Joseph Lieberman disagreed firmly but politely about military readiness, tax cuts and the future of Social Security.

One year ago: Vice President Dick Cheney and Democratic rival John Edwards slugged it out over Iraq, jobs and each other's judgment in their one and only vice-presidential debate. Americans' supply of flu vaccine was abruptly cut in half as British regulators unexpectedly shut down Chiron Corp., a major supplier. Americans David Gross, H. David Politzer and Frank Wilczek won the Nobel Prize in physics. A state judge threw out Louisiana's constitutional amendment banning same-sex marriage. Tiger Woods married Swedish model Elin Nordegren in Barbados. Comedian Rodney Dangerfield died in Los Angeles at age 82.

Today's Birthdays: "Family Circus" cartoonist Bil Keane is 83. Actress Glynis Johns is 82. Comedian Bill Dana is 81. Actress Diane Cilento is 72. The former president of the Czech Republic, Vaclav Havel, is 69. Country singer Johnny Duncan is 67. Rhythm-and-blues singer Arlene Smith (The Chantels) is 64. Singer Richard Street is 63. Singer-musician Steve Miller is 62. Rock singer Brian Johnson (AC/DC) is 58. Actor Jeff Conaway is 55. Actress Karen Allen is 54. Writer-producer-director Clive Barker is 53. October could bring major danger of forest fires

Ah, fall, when the leaves turn vibrant, then brown, then drift to the forest floor where they become ...

Kindling. Fuel for what University of Kentucky Extension Forester Doug McLaren warns could be the worst wildfire season in four years.

"We're headed into a real bad season. We've had very little rain, and that means there is a lot of dried leaves, twigs, limbs and logs in our forests," McLaren says.

"We have all these fuels, and they're extremely dry. We have the accumulation of these fuels building up on our forest floors," he says.

The last time Kentucky faced a fall forest-fire season with the potential volatility of this one was 2001. Since then, the state's forests have enjoyed seasons largely free of fires — but that situation has permitted a build up of broken limbs, dead trees and other materials waiting for a spark.

"There are three types of fuels in our forests: fine fuel, like twigs on the ground and fallen leaves; medium fuel like limbs; and heavy fuel like logs. It's all out there right now," he says.

McLaren notes forest fires don't simply threaten trees and property in the immediate area. The fires also fill the air with smoke that can drift a hundred miles or so away, reducing the quality of air for a wide area.

The way too many of these fires start is a major cause of frustration, he says. "The majority of our forest fires in Kentucky are arsonist-related," McLaren says.

But not always. "This is the time of year that a lot of people want to clear their fields, so they burn off the debris left after harvest," he says. Sometimes sparks from the burn-off settles on the forest floor's kindling.

"We also have a lot of people who still have burn barrels for their household garbage. Sometimes their fires get away from them," McLaren says.

McLaren notes that naturally occurring forest fires are a part of nature's pattern of renewal. That's why foresters will conduct "prescribed burning" that targets small areas of forests and is intended to clear potential volatile debris away.

But those burns are performed when conditions are right — when there's enough moisture in the trees and large logs, and when weather conditions offer a likelihood of rain and low wind.

"We don't do prescribed burns in the spring or fall, because those seasons favor the growth of a forest fire. We wait for a day when we've had moisture buildup," McLaren says.

But 2005's summer didn't produce much rain, leaving forests dry and waiting for a spark.

"People need to be aware there's a danger," McLaren says.

Web design workshop offered

PAINTSVILLE — "Website Design Workshop" is a workshop for prospective and/or small business owners being offered by Kentucky Highlands Entrepreneur Center and the Big Sandy Community & Technical College.

The workshop will be presented by Jason Kretser, webmaster for the Big Sandy Community & Technical College, on Monday, Oct. 17, at the Kentucky Highlands Entrepreneur Center, 120 Scott Perry Dr., Teays Branch Road in Paintsville. The workshop is scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m.

The topics to be covered at this workshop is how to start a business website with little to no training.

Additional information and pre-registration are available by calling Lea Souther or Barb Strugill at the Kentucky Highlands Entrepreneur Center at (606) 788-6000. The cost of the workshop is $25 with seating limited to the first 10 applicants

Housing loan limits on the rise

USDA Rural Development increased maximum loan limits for the Direct Homeownership Program effective Oct. 1.

State Director Kenneth Slone said, "The current loan limits are being increased to compensate for the increased costs of housing. The new loan limits were determined based on residential cost data, plus the cost of a developed site, and represent the maximum value of property Rural Development will finance in a given locality."

There are a total of five loan limits for the state and the counties in each category are as follows:

The loan limit in Floyd and Johnson counties has increased to $137,500; Martin County $127,000; Pike County $147,500.

"These new limits represent a substantial increase and will have a very positive impact on new construction for the Direct

Homeownership Program, said Slone. "The Guaranteed Homeownership Program will not be affected by this change."

Home ownership loans may be used to buy, build, improve, repair, or rehabilitate homes and to provide adequate water and waste disposal systems. For additional information, the local office for USDA Rural Development can be contacted at 214 South Central Ave., Suite 101 in Prestonsburg, the telephone number is (606) 886-9545, ext. 4.

Firing

(whom suffer mental illnesses) recognize the staff's behavior." Tackett claims that the coordinator "started to plot revenge" against her, and afterwards sent her to cover for a site supervisor who was on vacation in Minnie. Upon her return, Tackett was suspended without pay for documentation inaccuracies regarding Medicaid claims. Tackett was terminated by Director Mona May in a Dec. 9, 2004, memo for allegedly yelling at clients in Minnie, telling certain employees to "shut up." Tackett, initially denied unemployment benefits, was not fired for "good cause," the Department for Employment Services later ruled. Tackett claimed that her coordinator used witness statements about the alleged incident from "three people causing trouble," four statements from people who were not present, including a coworker that was in his office on the phone at the time of the alleged incident and others who were in an outside smoking area. Tackett's witness, who spoke on her behalf during the unemployment appeal hearing, claims that the coordinator asked the witness to sign a statement against Tackett. The witness refused, the suit says, because he or she "knew" Tackett did nothing wrong. Tackett did not file a grievance or pursue any administrative remedies from her termination, said Mountain Comprehensive Care attorney Suzanne Daniels, denying that Tackett was discharged inappropriately. "She was terminated for her treatment of the clients," Daniels said. "It's pretty straightforward ... We don't like to terminate staff. We try to keep our staff, especially those that are trained and have certification." In the termination memo, May said that multiple clients called the program supervisor, complaining that Tackett had been "extremely rude and verbally abusive to them." Tackett told the unemployment office that she "did tell some unruly patients that they needed to be quieter because they were being too loud." Daniels would not disclose whether Tackett had previous disciplinary or other work-related problems during the length of her five-year employment with the company. The Martin site coordinator resigned from her position about a month ago and is now working elsewhere, Daniels said.

Lawson asks judge to suspend sentence

by MARY MUSIC
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — A Floyd County man who pleaded guilty this year to first-degree sexual abuse and sexual misconduct wants his sentence suspended. Christopher Lawson, 28, filed pro-se motions in circuit court to suspend further execution of his sentence and to proceed in forma pauperis (without an attorney). Indicted in July 2004, Lawson faced charges of attempted rape and first-degree sexual abuse. He was also charged as a persistent felony offender. Accepting a plea offer from the commonwealth, Lawson pleaded guilty to two of the charges in return for the dismissal the persistent felony offender charge, which could have enhanced his sentence. The first-degree sexual abuse charge was amended because of a typographical error, said Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Wayne Taylor. In April, Circuit Judge John David Caudill sentenced Lawson to three years for the sexual abuse charge. In June, he was given a 12-month sentence on the amended sexual misconduct charge, a sentence running concurrently, or at the same time, as the other sentence already imposed on him. He was ordered to register as a lifetime sex offender and to participate in a three-year conditional discharge upon his release from prison. Lawson, represented by former public advocate Jim Adkins, argues that he received ineffective counsel. His motions do not explore the specific reasons for the allegation.

Lawson waived his right to an appeal when he entered a guilty plea. Taylor says Lawson's attempts to overturn his sentence are "not unusual." "He entered a plea agreement," Taylor said. "It's not like it went to trial where he went down fighting saying he was not guilty. He entered a guilty plea, was formally sentenced, and that was that." After incarceration, Lawson filed a motion for shock probation, but was denied. His current attorney, Jane Harlan, did not return inquiry calls.

Highlands adds Guest Services, New Signage, and a New Entrance

Coming into a facility for the first time and trying to find your way an office or a department can be confusing as well as frustrating. To improve customer service, related to way finding, Highlands has added a Guest Services area in the Medical Center's main entrance, the Atrium of the Medical Office Building. Teresa Fitch, Guest Services Supervisor, has a role similar to that of a hotel concierge. As Guest Services Supervisor, Teresa is available to assist patients and visitors with directions on how to get to different areas within the Medical Center, to offer wheelchair assistance for those with difficulty walking, and to provide information about Medical Center services. A Guest Services Information Center is under construction and will be installed in the near future.

On Tuesday, October 4, a new hospital entrance opened adjacent to the covered entrance. The main entrance to the Medical Center is now through the large glass Atrium of the Medical Office Building. The new hospital entrance offers patients and families convenient access to Outpatient Surgery, Surgery, the Intensive Care Unit, and patient elevators. The new entrance is part of Highlands, renovation plans to relocate PBX, Security, and the Administrative Offices, allowing for a major expansion of Outpatient Surgical Services. A further enhancement to customer service in the Medical Center involves the installation of new signage, hospital-wide, directing patients and visitors to specific departments, doctors offices, and other areas. These efforts are being done as part of Highlands' ongoing commitment to Customer Service for patients, families, and visitors.

the group also intends to share information about how support workers for schools are paid at much higher rates across the country. Kentucky is currently ranked at 44th in the country. KESPA President Nancy Toombs said that the wants of support staff are not overwhelming. "They want to be able to live in Barnes' chest, but they reassured the family that they had found the problem in time to save her.

Barnes underwent chemotherapy in 2002, multiple biopsies, radiation, had an autologous stem cell transplant (from her own cells) in July 2003 and had an allogeneic stem cell transplant (from her sister's cells) in 2004.

The treatments didn't work. Barnes said her daughter, after failed attempts to rid her body of the disease, chose to improve the quality of her life rather than continue taking treatments and medications that adversely affected her heart and her lungs.

"Her last doctor's appointment was June 6 and she was supposed to go back on the following Monday," her mother said. "She told me about two days later. She said, 'I can't go back, I can't do this' ... Even then, she still didn't give up. She still made the best of every day that she could. She was very determined, always was that way, even when she was little. She was my daughter and my best friend."

Barnes, a former teacher at Betsy Layne Elementary, retired from the Floyd County school district in January so that she could stay home and care for her daughter. She said she was inspired by her daughter's "inner strength, reliance on God, her family and how she never gave up."

Barnes hopes her daughter's strength will raise awareness about the need for cancer research and inspire others to stay strong in their battles with cancer.

The family is continuing to fight cancer by raising money for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society.

"It's a dream of mine to see it [cancer] be eradicated," she said. "I hope they come up with a solution so that people don't have to go through so much chemotherapy. I hope they find a cure for it."

The Barnes family picked the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society because it is an organization with a strong volunteer base, which means that more donation dollars go toward helping families and funding research.

The group will also address long- and short-term needs of blood cancer patients in areas affected by Hurricane Katrina. The society is committing $1 million toward getting blood cancer treatment centers and patient support services in the hurricane-devastated areas operational again. Half of the funds will come from the "Light the Night Walk" on Saturday, the other half was raised from this year's "School and Youth Programs."

The Society, headquartered in New York, is working to cure leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's disease and myeloma. They also strive to improve the quality of life for cancer patients and their families. It is the world's largest voluntary health organization dedicated to funding blood cancer research and providing educational and patient services. Since it was founded in 1949, the Society has invested more than $424 million in research.

An online memorial for Rachel Barnes, a Pikeville High School graduate, is available at www.rachel-barnes.memory-of.com/About.aspx.

To participate in the walk Saturday, or to make a donation, visit the Society's website at www.lightthenight.org.

Rebels find Hazard hard to handle

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

EASTERN – Allen Central High started the latest football season with a 2-1 record. After falling to Hazard Friday night, Allen Central hasn't won in over one month. The Bulldogs got off to somewhat of a slow start Friday night, but collected themselves in timely fashion. Hazard got its offense going on all cylinders against Allen Central and rolled to a 59-0 shutout victory.

Hazard senior quarterback Durrell Olinger continued to stake his claim as one of the state's top signal-callers, completing 12-of-15 passes for 305 yards and four touchdowns.

Hazard, which remains undefeated at 6-0, never was really threatened Friday night, despite allowing Allen Central (2-4) to cross over into its territory early on.

The Bulldogs are 2-0 in Class A, District 8. Hazard now has non-district wins over Perry County Central, Prestonsburg, Berea and Knott County Central.

Chuck O'Steen, one of the area's most athletic high school football players, added 143 yards and two touchdowns for the Bulldogs.

Hazard scored on its first possession when Olinger kept and worked his way through the Rebel defense, scoring on a 23-yard run with 9:55 remaining in the opening quarter. Hazard running back Preston Smith was stopped when the Bulldogs tried to get into the endzone via the run on the two-point conversion attempt.

Early on, Allen Central gained some ground

Allen Central High head coach Jeremy Hall talked with his team during the first half Friday night. Hazard rolled over the Rebels, winning 59-0.

Raiders rout Jenkins

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

HI HAT – South Floyd returned to the win column in Class A, District 8 Friday night. The Raiders won their second straight game, beating Jenkins 52-16.

On Senior Night, six South Floyd seniors played their final regular-season game. Seniors Ryan Johnson, Justin Slone, T.J. Hall, Kyle Hall, Brock Slone and Ryan Little were all recognized during Senior Night ceremonies.

The Raiders took care of business on the football field, too. South Floyd led 46-0 at half-time and cruised to the lopsided victory over the Cavaliers (0-7).

South Floyd (3-5) has now put together back-to-back wins following four straight losses.

Junior Ethan Johnson led South Floyd in rushing with 144 yards and two touchdowns on 11 carries. The talented junior scored four touchdowns, also hauling in a pair of TD catches. He caught two passes for 79 yards.

Justin Slone finished the game with 10 carries for 126 yards and one touchdown. Ryan Johnson ended the game with one rushing touchdown and two scoring aeriels. The Raider starting quarterback was four-of-six passing for 87 yards and two touchdowns.

South Floyd led 16-0 at the end of the first quarter. The Raiders allowed Jenkins to cross into the endzone one time in the third period and led 52-8 when play began in the fourth quarter.

Fullback Kyle Hall added another rushing touchdown for the Raiders. Hall finished with 71 yards on 11 carries. He scored four two-point conversions.

The Raiders have crucial district games coming up versus Hazard, Allen Central and Paintsville. For South Floyd, an open date arrives in the final Donnie Little and his horse, Spirits Bay Design, took the World Grand Champion honor during the 34th Annual Racking Horse World Celebration Horse Show.

Locals take world championship in Alabama

TIMES STAFF REPORT

The 34th Annual Racking Horse World Celebration Horse Show was held in late-September in Decatur, Ala. Locally, Spirits Bay Design was shown by Kelly France of Gray Stables of Prestonsburg in Amateur Flat Shod

Racking. The entry received three out of five first-place ties, giving Spirits Bay Design the title of World Champion Flat Shod horse and qualifying it for the Flat Shod Stake Class later in the competition.

Horse owner Donnie Little, of Melvin, rode Spirits Bay Design in the Flat Shod Stake Class. The horse again received three of five first-place ties, giving Little and Design the new title of 2005 World Grand Champion Flat Shod Horse.

Horse and owner are the first from Floyd County to bring home the World Grand Champion Flat Shod Horse title.

Pineville shuts out Betsy Layne

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BETSY LAYNE – Host Betsy Layne fell behind early on Friday night and never fully recovered. The Pineville Mountain Lions visited Floyd County and left with a win, blanking the Bobcats 37-0.

For Pineville, the win snapped a three-game losing streak. The Mountain Lions (3-3) are now off to their best start since the 2001 season when they got out to a 3-1 beginning.

Betsy Layne (0-7) was held scoreless for the second time in three games.

Pineville put together five scoring drives – all of which went for 40 or more yards.

Michael Bailey put Pineville on the scoreboard first in the opening quarter when he fought his way into the endzone from one yard out. Matthew Combs added the extra-point kick following Bailey's touchdown and the Mountain Lions led 7-0.

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIPPA PASSES – The Alice Lloyd College's cross country team participated in its third meet of the 2005 season at Asbury College in Wilmore Saturday. Jeff Musgrave led the way for the Eagles with his best finish of the season. Musgrave finished the 8K course with a time of 34:48, finishing ninth among all runners. Senior David Hatfield finished 15th in his first collegiate Cross Country meet. Campbellsville runner T.J. Eubanks led his team to the win as he finished the course with a time of 28:46.

Alice Lloyd's freshman runner Jessica Drake continues to run well. In only her third collegiate meet, Drake finished Injuries and sickness sidelined three of Alice Lloyd's runners for this past Saturday's meet. However, each runner will be expected to return to action by the next competition.

Coach Jamie Hughes was once again pleased with the teams' effort, but feels things will only get better for the young team. "We really needed the break that we're getting," said Hughes. "Having the next two weeks off from competition will give us time to work of our speed and also some time to nurse some injuries."

Alice Lloyd's next meet will be in three weeks, when they traveled to Grayson to run in the final meet of the regular season at Kentucky Christian. The following week the team will bring the 2005 season to a close with the regional meet in Louisville.

■ The Alice Lloyd College women's tennis team traveled to Asbury College for another KIAC tennis match Thursday. The young and inexperienced team lost all six singles matches and all three doubles matches. However, they did win some individual games and Coach Loretta Rowan is pleased with the improvements being made by the team.

The next match is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 10 at Midway College. The team will then travel to Berea College on Saturday, Oct. 15 for matches against Berea, Kentucky Wesleyan and Oakland City (Ind.).

week of the regular-season.

"It was a good win for us," South Floyd Coach Donny Daniels said, commenting on the win over Jenkins. "Our kids remain focused on working hard and we still have a goal of making it into the playoffs. Right now, we need to get ready for Hazard."

Several different Raiders touched the football in Friday night's win. Anthony Barker, Colby Little and Kyle Howell also carried the football for host South Floyd. Receiving, Brock Slone added a two-point conversion for the Raiders.

"Anytime we can get the football in the hands of some different kids, we want to do that," Daniels added. "We have some big district games coming up and we have to be ready both offensively and defensively, as well as special teams."

Hazard, South Floyd's next opponent, had little trouble Friday night. The Bulldogs, which are set to host the Raiders, beat Allen Central handily, 59-0.

rushing the football, led by the running efforts of Raymon Spurlock, Corey Click and Robbie Vanderpool. Allen Central was a fourth-and-five inside Bulldog territory with 5:43 left in the first quarter when the Hazard defense wrapped Vanderpool up short of the first down. The Hazard offense then took over on downs and proceeded to add a second touchdown when Olinger passed for his first scoring toss.

Hazard exited the first quarter with a 14-0 lead, already well out in front of the host team.

The Bulldogs piled on the points in the second quarter and went into halftime with a comfortable 47-0 cushion.

Friday night's loss to Hazard gave Allen Central its second scoreless setback this season. Earlier in the season, Pikeville blanked Allen Central 48-0.

Allen Central is scheduled to return to action Friday on the road at district rival Phelps. The Rebels have other district games remaining versus South Floyd (Oct. 14) and Jenkins (Oct. 21)

Jarrett wins at Talladega, Chase standings shuffled

by JENNA FRYER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALLADEGA, Ala.— Dale Jarrett's voice was hoarse and choked with emotion. He had just won a frantic shootout to end a 98-race drought and steal the spotlight from NASCAR's championship drivers.

Jarrett, a hardened veteran, could hardly believe what had happened Sunday during a crash-filled race at Talladega Superspeedway that shuffled the points standings and moved Tony Stewart back on top of the Nextel Cup leaderboard.

"When you get to this point of your career, you're not exactly sure when that last victory is going to be there so you learn to cherish each one," Jarrett said. "It is very emotional. When I was coming down that back-stretch, it was very emotional."

Jarrett, an also-ran most of the race, used a three-wide pass to challenge Tony Stewart for the lead on the final lap of a three-lap overtime shootout, then passed Stewart on the backstretch in the UAW-Ford 500 for his first victory since 2003 at the now-defunct North Carolina Speedway.

"Everybody was talking about the top 10 cars in the Chase," said crew chief Todd Parrott, "and the old faithful one here (Jarrett) kind of hanging around where he needed to hang around and to be around at the end and then to make the move that he did is pretty special."

"Me and this guy have worked a lot of magic together and we're not done."

Kyle Petty spun to bring out a caution before the leaders crossed the finish line, freezing the field. NASCAR then had to review tape to establish a final finishing order.

The final decision had Stewart second and in the points lead after the third of 10 Chase for the championship races.

"The big picture is what we were worried about today," Stewart said. "Even if we finished 10th and gained points, that was the big thing. I wish we could have won it, but if we couldn't, I was glad to see DJ do it."

Matt Kenseth finished third and Ryan Newman was fourth. Stewart holds a four-point advantage over Newman — who originally thought he was the new points leader — after a race that shuffled the Chase standings.

Meanwhile, Jimmie Johnson's reputation and championship hopes were damaged after he was blamed for causing an early accident. Johnson, who started the day as the points leader, was involved in two accidents and dropped to fourth in the standings — 98 points back.

Talladega is the wild card of NASCAR's 10-race championship hunt. Because drivers are forced to use horsepower-sapping restrictor plates, the cars all run in one tight pack and the slightest bobbie is capable of wiping out half the field.

So it's the one track where the 10 Chase drivers started the race knowing their title hopes could be crippled before the day was over.

When the dust settled, at least five Chase drivers suffered some sort of accident-related damage and Johnson's track record at Talladega had taken another huge hit — this time for a wreck he was involved in 20 laps into the race.

It was here that Johnson started a 25-car accident in April that led Dale Earnhardt Jr. to call him an "idiot" and start a rash of backlash against Johnson's perceived aggressive driving.

This time, Johnson ran into the back of race-leader Elliott Sadler's car, igniting a frightening eight-car accident that sent Michael Waltrip flipping down the track.

The drivers involved widely blamed Johnson for the accident.

"I'm really upset at Jimmie," Sadler snapped. "I guess he's trying to keep his streak alive — he caused a big wreck here last year and he caused a big one again this year. Maybe that's his way of racing here at Talladega ... try to get rid of everybody so he can win the race."

But Johnson wasn't positive he was at fault. He believed he was pushed into Sadler when Earnhardt ran into the back of Johnson.

Either way, he knew his reputation was taking a hit.

"It's real easy to sit on your couch and point fingers and say, 'So-and-so did something wrong,'" Johnson said. "But until you are out there in these cars, at these speeds, and seeing all the near-misses and what is really going on, it is not worth forming an opinion."

Johnson's accident ended the race for Chase driver Mark Martin, whose car was totaled. Martin came into the race fourth in the standings, but dropped to ninth after the race.

"I'm glad this is over with," Martin said. "I didn't even work up a sweat."

Johnson was in a second eight-car accident that started when Newman hit Casey Mears. That accident damaged the cars of Chase drivers Rusty Wallace and Greg Biffle. Both were able to get back on the track to run for points, but Biffle knew it was fruitless.

"We'll just try to get as many points as we can and hope that Ryan makes a few more wrecks and we can gain some positions," Biffle cracked.

Stewart, meanwhile, climbed four spots in the standings after dropping out of the lead last week. He had spent seven weeks as the points leader before slipping to fifth coming into Talladega.

For Jarrett, it was a victory that proved he may be on track to turn his slumping program around. He was reunited with Parrott last week and the two proved they still have chemistry.

The two clicked from the start of their relationship, winning their very first race together, the 1996 Daytona 500.

They went on to win 26 races, including a second Daytona 500, and the 1999 championship. But Parrott left at the end of the 2002 season and Jarrett has run through seven crew chief changes since.

"You know, driver-crew chief relationships, if you get six good years, that is longer than a lot of marriages," Jarrett said. "We do have a huge amount of respect for each other, and Todd has brought back a leadership that we haven't seen since he left, really."

ST. LOUIS — The final day of the regular season was doubly pleasing to St. Louis Cardinals pitching coach Dave Duncan. His team won its first NL ERA title since 1969 and his son, Chris, hit the game-winning home run.

"I'm proud of them both," Duncan said after the Cardinals posted their 100th victory by rallying past Cincinnati 7-5 Sunday in the last regular-season game at Busch Stadium. "A lot of work goes into winning an ERA title, these guys have to really put their nose to the grindstone and be consistent."

"But I also know a lot of hard work has gone into Chris' career."

Reggie Sanders warmed up for the post-season with a home run and double for the NL Central champions, who will begin the best-of-five playoffs Tuesday at home against NL West champion San Diego. The Padres won the season series 4-3.

"I know the stories that some people want to write, which is the team with the worst record beats the team with the best record," manager Tony La Russa said. "But during the season they played us very tough."

The Cardinals swept the three-game series to reach the century mark in consecutive years for the second time in franchise history and first time since 1942-44. It's also the fourth 100-win season for La Russa, who did it twice with the Oakland Athletics.

The Cardinals finished 1,760-1,409 in regular-season games at Busch, which opened May 12, 1966. This has been their best decade with a 307-180 record.

St. Louis overcame a fourth straight mediocre outing by its starting pitcher, this one by Matt Morris, and came back from a 5-1 third-inning deficit. The Cardinals used eight relievers, tying a major league record for a nine-inning game.

"I'm pretty concerned," Dave Duncan said. "It sounds to me like the trainers and doctors are concerned, so naturally I'm concerned about it."

Sanders' 21st homer in the sixth off Brandon Claussen (10-11) gave him 10 RBIs in the last six games and tied the score.

The next batter, Duncan, hit his first career homer to give the Cardinals a 6-5 lead. Dave Duncan led the welcoming committee in the dugout.

"He had a big grin on his face when I came in," Chris Duncan said. "It was pretty neat. It was a rush."

A sellout crowd of 50,434, the largest of the season, gave the Cardinals a franchise record 3,538,988 in attendance, with only 357 no-shows. They finished third in the majors behind the Yankees and Dodgers.

Felipe Lopez, Adam Dunn and Austin Kearns hit consecutive homers leading off the third for the Reds, who lost seven of their last eight and finished at 73-89, fifth place in the Central.

"We just kind of stopped after that," Ryan Freel said. "That's been our story a lot of the year."

As a consolation prize, the Reds hit 222 homers to break the franchise record of 221 set in 1956.

"You win games with pitching," manager Jerry Narron said. "It's nice to score a lot of runs ... but this game is all about pitching and defense."

Morris, the longest tenured Cardinal who has been with the team since 1997, gave up five runs on eight hits in only three innings in his 128th appearance at Busch. Morris, who began the season 10-1 and finished 14-10 with a 4.11 ERA, is the likely starter for Game 3 of the division series against the Padres.

Morris was relieved the Cardinals won the ERA title in spite of him.

"Did we?" he said. "I was afraid to ask."

Jason Isringhausen worked the ninth for his 39th save in 43 chances. Brad Thompson (4-0) worked a perfect fifth.

Consecutive doubles by Austin Kearns and Jose Valentin produced the game's first run in the second and Lopez, Dunn and Kearns connected in a span of six pitches in the third to put the Reds ahead 5-1.

Sanders doubled and scored on Mark Grudzielanek's infield hit off the second-base bag in the bottom of the second, the Cardinals got five straight singles in a three-run fourth that cut the gap to a run.

David Eckstein's RBI single in the seventh off Josh Hancock put the Cardinals ahead 7-5.

Notes: The Cardinals won the ERA title by three percentage points over the Astros. ... Broadcaster and former Cardinals player Mike Shannon threw out a pair of first pitches with Hall of Famer Red Schoendienst on the receiving end. ... The last time the Reds hit three straight homers was Aug. 3, 2001, at San Diego when Dmitri Young, Jason La Rue and Pokey Reese connected. ... Albert Pujols had an infield hit in four at-bats, finishing at .330 with 41 homers and 117 RBIs — all among the league leaders.

Strong Yankee Wins Kentucky Futurity

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — Strong Yankee held on for a 1 1/4-length win over Vivid Photo in a third heat Saturday to win the 113th Kentucky Futurity.

Setting up the runoff, Strong Yankee won the first heat in 1:50.6, and Vivid Photo won the second heat in 1:52.2 to force the race-off.

Strong Yankee paid $3.40 with the win. Trainer Trond Smedshammer won his second consecutive Kentucky Futurity after claiming the Triple Crown last year with Windsong's Legacy.

"The horse is a steady horse, he never makes a mistake," Smedshammer said.

In the third heat of the Futurity, Strong Yankee's driver Brian Sears wasted no time going to the front, winning the mile race in 1:51.4.

Strong Yankee led by three lengths in the opening quarter, but Vivid Photo and Hammer closed on him in the second quarter mile. But Sears and Strong Yankee pulled away to hit the three-quarter mark in 1:23.0 before charging down the stretch for the win.

Smedshammer trains Strong Yankee for Strong Yankee Stable of Port Perry, Ontario, who bought the colt after his first win as a 2-year-old.

"This has been a long journey," said Ernie Martinez, a member of the Strong Yankee syndicate. "People had been second-guessing his ability all year, but we knew he had it in him."

There was no Triple Crown on the line this year after Roger Hammer's Vivid Photo opted not to enter the Yonkers Trot following his win in the Hambletonian, the first leg of the Triple Crown. Strong Yankee finished fifth in the Hambletonian before winning the Yonkers Trot.

Bengals 16, Texans 10

by JOE KAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Carson Palmer's shoulder bore a nasty red scrape. Blood trickled from an inch-long gash on the bridge of Willie Anderson's nose. Chad Johnson wore a bandage above his skinned knee.

These Bengals were beaten up, but still unbeaten.

The Bengals improved to 4-0 for the first time since 1988 — the last they made the Super Bowl — with a 16-10 victory Sunday over the Houston Texans, who couldn't take advantage of their penalties or their pain.

"Everybody was going with some type of injury," said Anderson, a Pro Bowl right tackle who threw his back out before the kickoff and hurt his nose during the game. "That's the type of character this team has now."

Four wins will do that.

The Bengals had 14 penalties for 117 yards — one of them wiped out T.J. Houshmandzadeh's touchdown catch — and lost both of their veteran centers to knee injuries in the second quarter.

They absorbed the penalties, shuffled the line and gritted it out. "We had some dumb mistakes," Palmer said. "We're not always perfect."

But so far, good enough.

Houshmandzadeh, who refuses to dance after a touchdown, kept the Bengals in their best start since the days of the Moke Shuffle. He caught eight coverage. It was ridiculous, exotic coverages that they might have drawn up in the dirt."

The Texans' offense ran smoother under a new offensive coordinator. They fired Chris Palmer during their bye week and promoted line coach Joe Pendry, hoping to stop the deluge of mistakes that limited the offense to two touchdowns in two games.

There were fewer mistakes, but the result was the same — only one touchdown again. Carr was 17-of-26 for 174 yards with seven sacks.

"I felt like we were playing to our potential today," said Carr, who was sacked eight times in his last game. "I just wish we had a win to go along with that feeling. But I'm happy that our guys are playing with some confidence."

By contrast, Palmer went 25-of-34 for 276 yards and a touchdown in an offense that had to adjust on the fly because of injuries.

Centers Rich Braham and Larry Moore went down with knee injuries in the second quarter, forcing guard Eric Steinbach to peel off his blocking gloves and snap the ball for the first time.

The offense was out of sync while it adjusted to a major line shuffle, and never moved the ball consistently because of the penalties.

"It was a tough game," Houshmandzadeh said. "But hey, we're winning, man. I'm happy about that, just to be 4-0."

CINCINNATI — The Bengals lost both centers to knee injuries during the first half Sunday, forcing guard Eric Steinbach to take off his gloves and play the position.

Rich Braham, the Bengals' 12th-year veteran, hurt a knee during the second quarter against the Houston Texans. The severity of the injury wasn't immediately known, but the Bengals said he wasn't expected to return.

Backup center Larry Moore hurt his right knee while blocking on a run play later in the second quarter and was taken off the field on a cart.

U of L's Dean, UK's Rondo named Preseason All-America

Taquan Dean

marks the 25th edition of the Blue Ribbon yearbook. An NABC All-District 7 and All-Conference USA selection last season, Dean averaged 14.4 points, 4.0 rebounds and 2.4 assists last year despite playing about two months of the season with mononucleosis. His 122 three-point goals set a new Louisville single season record while shooting 44.7 percent from three-point range (122-of-273), ninth best in the nation. Usually at his best in big games, Dean was the Most Valuable Player of the 2005 Conference USA Tournament and Billy Minardi Classic and was honored on the all-tournament teams of the NCAA Albuquerque Region and the EA Sports Maui Invitational. The three-time captain will open his senior year with 1,118 career points, within reach of the Cardinals' all-time scoring top ten. Last month, Dean was named as one of the top 50 preseason candidates for the John R. Wooden Award All-America team.

University of Kentucky sophomore guard Rajon Rondo was named to the Blue Ribbon Fourth Team. The Blue Ribbon College Basketball All-America team is as follows:

UK fans snatch up Big Blue Madness tickets

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — University of Kentucky fans apparently like the idea of Big Blue Madness moving to Rupp Arena and starting earlier, as 20,000 tickets were snapped up in the first 35 minutes of availability — Saturday morning. Madness, the official start of UK's basketball practice, will be held at Rupp Arena this year for the first time. And, unlike past years when the Wildcats took the court at midnight, Madness now begins at 9 p.m., thanks to a new NCAA regulation. Hundreds of fans were present at UK's Memorial Coliseum ticket office Saturday at 8 a.m. when the distribution of free tickets began. Others obtained their tickets via the school's Website, ukathletics.com, and at TicketMaster locations throughout Kentucky. Less than 3,000 tickets remained available as of noon Saturday. Fans wishing to acquire one of the last tickets can do so online and at TicketMaster.

Big Blue Madness, scheduled for Friday, Oct. 14, tips off a year-long celebration marking 30 years of Kentucky basketball at the Wildcats' home court in downtown Lexington. Memorial Coliseum has been the site of Big Blue Madness since its inception in 1982. However, due to the practice facility renovations being done at the 55-year-old building, spectator seating will be limited to 5,600, down from the normal capacity of 8,700. This reduction led UK to move the event to 23,000-seat Rupp Arena.

Belfry 49, Pike Central 0

by J.L. BALL
WILLIAMSON (W.VA.) DAILY NEWS

BUCKLEY'S CREEK — Instead of raining on Pike Central's homecoming, the Belfry Pirates destroyed it in a hurry. When the smoke cleared, the third-ranked Bucs held Pike Central to just 88 yards total offense and pitched a 49-0 shutout victory Friday night. "I thought we played without a lot of enthusiasm early on in the game," Belfry head football coach Philip Haywood said. "Our kids played with more focus later in the game." Sophomore running back Dustin May scored on runs of 14, five and two yards, respectively. He finished with a team-high 125 yards on just 11 carries. May's performance solidified the balance in the Pirates' backfield. "We have three backs that can carry us at any given moment," Haywood added. "They do a tremendous job working with our offensive line to find the right holes." Belfry, which won for the fifth straight time, shook off a sluggish first-quarter performance that included a bobbled punt return that gave put the Hawks at their closest point of a score — at the Belfry 20-yard line. The Pirates (5-1) have outscored Pike County Central by a combined score of 186-to-

9 over the past four seasons. Senior quarterback Jordan Phillips plunged in from one yard out with 5:08 left in the second quarter to give the Bucs a 19-0 lead at the half. "We wanted to work on a few things tonight, especially in our passing game," Haywood added. Phillips completed 2-of-10 passes for 27 yards. "It's coming along," Phillips said. "We had a few passes dropped and so forth... It's just a work in progress." Senior running back Matt Maynard, who finished with 122 yards on eight carries, hit paydirt from 10 yards out with 5:08 left in the third period. Phillips' conversion pass to Aaron Chapman was caught to make it 19-0. Maynard scored twice, including a 40-yard sprint early in the second quarter. Heath Varney tacked on the Bucs' final score of the game when he plowed in from a yard out with 6:33 remaining in the game. Ivan Lee added the PAT kick. "I see some small things that we are still doing wrong," Haywood continued, "but I see many of those small things being corrected. I've said all along that we are a young team and a work in progress. Our staff is extremely pleased with our kids. Each day we step on the field, we walk off an improved team."

Belfry rolled up 366 yards of total offense in the game. Defensively, Tommy Church tallied 11 tackles. Chapman added seven. Pike Central running back Quirvon Merchant was held to just 40 yards on 12 carries. Gordon Varney added 24 yards on 17 carries. Belfry returns to action Friday at Prestonsburg, while Pike Central plays host to East Ridge. Each game is set for 7:30 p.m. at Buckley's Creek, Ky.

Pikeville blanks Phelps, 60-0

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PHELPS — The host Hornets could do very little in the way of even containing Pikeville Friday night. Pikeville senior running back Weston Robinson scored five touchdowns in the first half and the Panthers rolled. Pikeville (5-2) was also especially tough on defense, allowing the Phelps offense to gain just 79 yards. Robinson finished with 129 yards on just nine carries. He had a long touchdown run of 36 yards. Leslie County 60, Knott County Central 13: Leslie County raced out to an early lead and never looked back in its win over visiting Knott County Central. The Eagles won on homecoming night. Leslie County senior quarterback Quinton Morgan threw for 279 yards and two touchdowns. The Eagles never allowed Knott County Central (2-3) to score in the first half. Leslie County senior wide receiver B.J. Young had two touchdown catches for the Eagles (6-1). Young had scoring catches of 72- and 65-yards. Junior running back Ryan Howard finished with 10 carries for 127 yards and two touchdowns. Mason County 40, Boyd County 26: Royal quarterback Ty Sargent was eight-for-11 passing for 113 yards with two touchdowns, leading Mason County (5-1) over Boyd County (4-3). The Royal defense came up with five interceptions in the winning effort. Letcher Central 28, Shelby Valley 20: Senior running back Phillip Bentley ran for over 200 yards and scored all four Letcher Central touchdowns as the Cougars won on the road over Shelby Valley in a game played at Johnson Brothers Athletic Complex.

Cards rattle East Ridge

by J.L. BALL
WILLIAMSON (W.VA.) DAILY NEWS

INEZ — Sophomore running back Adam Dials rushed for 134 yards on 21 carries and scored two times Friday night as the Sheldon Clark Cardinals bounced East Ridge, 43-8, at Cardinal Stadium. The Cardinals, now 4-2, won for the fourth straight time. East Ridge (1-4) lost its third consecutive game. Freshman fullback Ryan Kelly added 108 yards on 15 carries for The Cards. He scored a pair of touchdowns on runs of three and one yards, respectively. Senior lineman Jon Wells extended SC's lead to 43-0 when he stripped the ball from East Ridge running back Travis Bartley and ran it in from 31 yards out with 4:56 left in the game. The Warriors' only score came when Brandon Vanover returned the ensuing kickoff 80 yards to paydirt. Bartley finished with 42 yards on nine carries. SC quarterback Damen Hensley completed 3-of-9 passes for 51 yards. Daniel Harless, who rushed for a touchdown in the third quarter, led all receivers with 25 yards on two grabs. Sheldon Clark returns to action Thursday at Shelby Valley. East Ridge goes to Pike County Central Thursday. Each game is set for 7:30 p.m. at Blacklog, Ky.

Cardinals regroup at half, rout Schnellenberger's Owls

by CHRIS DUNCAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — In Howard Schnellenberger's first seasons at Louisville, the fans would shrug at halftime deficits, understanding how far the Cardinals were from the nation's elite.

On Saturday, with Schnellenberger listening from across the field, the Cardinals heard boos from the capacity crowd as they trotted off the field at halftime, despite leading 20-10.

Thanks in a large part to Schnellenberger, the standards are much higher at Louisville now.

Thanks to Michael Bush, the fans were happy again 20 seconds into Saturday's second half.

On the first scrimmage play of the third quarter, the junior running back sidestepped two tacklers, then outran Florida Atlantic's secondary for a 73-yard touchdown that turned the jeers to cheers in an eventual 61-10 blowout.

"I saw a big ol' hole and I got to it," said Bush, who recorded his third 100-yard rushing game of the season. "I just cut back and after that, I saw nothing but fans and I had to get to them."

The play sparked the Cardinals (3-1), who finished six consecutive drives with touchdowns.

"Michael is huge," said sophomore quarterback Brian Brohm. "Whenever we break a big play, things start to roll."

Bush ran for a career-high 204 yards as the 24th-ranked Cardinals spoiled Schnellenberger's homecoming and rebounded from last Saturday's stunning loss at South Florida.

The Owls (0-5), meanwhile, suffered the worst loss in their five-year history.

"Needless to say, the Cardinals recovered from their loss last week," said Schnellenberger, who coached the Cardinals from 1985-94. "As you can tell, we're still a long way from being able to play a team of this magnitude."

The 71-year-old

Schnellenberger was born in Louisville and spearheaded fund-raising efforts for the $63 million Papa John's Cardinal Stadium. The venue opened three years after he had departed and he was coaching there for the first time on Saturday.

He downplayed his emotions this week, but held back tears at the end of his postgame news conference.

"Wouldn't it have been wonderful if we could have had a win like this when we were here?" Schnellenberger said.

Louisville coach Bobby Petrino greeted Schnellenberger near midfield before the game. Petrino, in his third season, said a simple "Thank you" for the foundation Schnellenberger laid.

"I'm really thankful for what he's done because it's made my job easier," Petrino said.

Schnellenberger was inducted into the University of Louisville's athletic hall of fame on Friday night and the school named its football complex after him before Saturday's game.

"It was very touching,"

Schnellenberger said. "I've always been treated better than I should've been here. We're very indebted and very appreciative."

His good mood didn't last long.

The Cardinals went over 60 points for the fifth time in Petrino's three seasons and won their eighth straight at home.

With the score tied 3-3, Brohm started the second quarter with a 25-yard pass to Montrell Jones. Kolby Smith then darted 23 yards to the Owls' 1 and dived over the pile on the next play. Dumervil forced an Owls' punt after picking up his 10th sack and a 45-yard pass from Brohm to Mario Urrutia set up a 24-yard field goal by Carmody.

The Owls faced third-and-6 from their 38 when quarterback Danny Embick found Thomas Parker for a 37-yard gain. Louisville's secondary looked lost again when Embick hit a wide-open Casey Magahee for a 15-yard touchdown that drew the Owls to 13-10. The Cardinals dominated from there, finishing their next six drives with touchdowns.

Bush carried six times for 65 yards on the first, including a 2-yard TD run. He had 103 yards at halftime.

"Michael had a good first half with over 100 yards and that's something I look at," Petrino said.

Louisville's defense looked much stronger after the break, holding the Owls without a first down on their first two possessions. The Cardinals scored touchdowns after each punt, on short runs by Brohm and Smith.

Brohm threw a 76-yard touchdown pass to Urrutia later in the third quarter, but Carmody got the extra-point kick blocked, snapping a streak of 97 consecutive PATs.

Bush went over 200 yards on a 10-yard TD run early in the fourth quarter.

Schnellenberger shook hands with several Cardinals after the game and spoke briefly with Brohm, whose older brother, Jeff, played for Schnellenberger from 1990-93.

Trojans remain unbeaten following win

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TEMPE, Ariz. — The strength and speed of LenDale White and Reggie Bush lifted No. 1 USC out of trouble on a sweltering Saturday in the desert.

White rushed for 197 yards in 19 attempts, Bush gained 158 in 17 carries, and the Trojans rallied from 18 points down at the half to beat No. 14 Arizona State 38-28, breaking a Pac-10 and school record with their 26th victory in a row.

The Trojans (4-0, 2-0 Pac-10) outrushed the Sun Devils 373-68 in a matchup of two of the nation's most prolific offenses.

Bush had touchdown runs of 24 and 34 yards, the second one giving the Trojans the lead for good 31-28 with 3:44 to go. White scored on romps of 32 and 46 yard, the latter putting USC up 38-28 with 2:22 left after Arizona State's Sam Keller was intercepted for the fourth time.

Keller completed 26 of 45 for 347 yards and two touchdowns but was intercepted five times, four in the second half after the Sun Devils (3-2, 1-1) took a 21-3 lead at the break. Keller had been intercepted only twice going into the game, both in the season opener.

It was the second week in a row that USC fell behind on the road and rallied. Last week at Oregon, the Trojans trailed 13-0 but scored the next 45 points to win.

Michigan 34, No. 11 Michigan State 31, OT

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Mike Hart ran for 218 yards and a touchdown in his return from an injury, and Garrett Rivas made up for missing a field goal in the final minute of regulation by kicking a 35-yarder in overtime for Michigan.

Hart's return from a hamstring injury that caused him to miss two-plus games allowed the Wolverines (3-2, 1-1 Big Ten) to avoid their worst start since 1967.

Drew Stanton was 20-of-30 for 282 yards with a TD and an interception for the Spartans (4-1, 1-1) who lost their fourth straight game in the rivalry. Michigan State's John Goss narrowly missed a 37-yard field goal in overtime.

Last year, Michigan State had a 27-10 lead against Michigan with 8:43 left before losing in triple overtime.

The Wolverines began the season ranked fourth but losses to Notre Dame and Wisconsin dropped them out of the Top 25 for 1998, snapping the nation's longest streak of 114-straight poll appearances.

No. 2 Texas 51, Missouri 20

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Vince Young ran for 108 yards and a touchdown, and Texas converted three turnovers by Missouri quarterback Brad Smith into touchdowns.

The Longhorns (4-0, 1-0 Big 12) have now won 11 straight road games and 11 straight games overall. Jamaal Charles had one rushing and one receiving touchdown for Texas, which is 4-0 for the fourth time in five seasons and beat Missouri (2-2, 0-1) for the 14th time in 15 games.

The Longhorns had plenty of offense, totaling 585 yards, to offset 135 yards in penalties, a fumble out of the end zone by Charles in the third quarter and a second-quarter drive that stalled at the Missouri 5.

Smith scored on a pair of short runs for Missouri, which stayed with Texas for much of the first half but was shut out after the break. The Longhorns led 14-13 after one quarter and then ran off 37 straight points before Smith scored again with 3:54 left.

No. 3 Virginia Tech 34, West Virginia 17

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — Marcus Vick threw for two touchdowns and ran for another and Virginia Tech converted two West Virginia turnovers into scores in the finale of a 33-year series between the former Big East rivals.

Vick, facing the Mountaineers (4-1) for the first time, ran for a season-high 74 yards and was 15-of-17 passing for 177 yards.

The Hokies (5-0) never trailed and kept the Mountaineers offense off the field for most of the second half. Vick efficiently guided long scoring drives on Virginia Tech's first two possessions after halftime. His 23-yard scramble set up Cedric Humes' 4-yard TD run early in the fourth quarter for the final margin.

West Virginia failed to score a second-half touchdown for the second straight game and the third time this season.

No. 4 LSU 37, Mississippi State 7

STARKVILLE, Miss. — An efficient JaMarcus Russell threw two touchdown passes to Dwayne Bowe, and LSU bounced back from a bitter defeat by routing Mississippi State.

Russell finished 20-of-23 for 197 yards for the Tigers, who were eager to make up for an overtime home loss to No. 10 Tennessee five days earlier in which they blew a three-touchdown lead.

LSU (2-1, 1-1 Southeastern Conference) scored on three consecutive first-half possessions and rolled to their 13th victory over Mississippi State in 14 meetings. LSU has outscored the Bulldogs 202-26 during the past five games.

Mississippi State (2-3, 0-3) has been outscored 60-17 in back-to-back home losses to Georgia and LSU, both top-10 teams.

No. 15 Alabama 31, No. 5 Florida 3

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — Brodie Croyle threw for three TDs, including an 87-yarder to Tyrone Prothro and a 65-yarder to Keith Brown, to help Alabama hand Florida its first loss under coach Urban Meyer.

Alabama (5-0, 3-0 SEC), which hadn't beaten a top-five team at Bryant-Denny Stadium in five previous tries, got its biggest win since a 34-7 victory over Florida in the 1999 SEC championship game.

Croyle completed 15 of 18 passes for 286 yards. Coming into the game, Croyle hadn't completed a pass longer than 52 yards all season.

Chris Leak, meanwhile, was harassed into a 5-of-16 performance in the first half and his first two interceptions of the season, leaving him three passes shy of Danny Wuerffel's school record streak of 121 without a pick.

It was the Gators' worst defeat since losing 36-7 to LSU in 2002 and ended Meyer's personal 20-game winning streak at Utah and Florida (4-1, 2-1).

No. 6 Florida St 38, Syracuse 14

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Drew Weatherford passed for 234 yards and three touchdowns, including a 71-yard swing pass to Lorenzo Booker, and Florida State defeated Syracuse (1-3).

Weatherford, a redshirt freshman making his fourth collegiate start, also scored a touchdown as the Seminoles rolled up a 24-0 lead.

Florida State (4-0), which had nine sacks in its opener against Miami, got Syracuse quarterback Perry Patterson seven times.

Syracuse's Damien Rhodes, who came into the game ranked 10th nationally with an average of 120.3 rushing yards, was held to 44 yards on 15 carries, but added 70 more with four catches.

Weatherford completed 17 of 26 passes, also throwing touchdown passes covering 43 yards to Willie Reid and 15 yards to Chris Davis.

No. 10 Tennessee 27, Mississippi 10

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Gerald Riggs ran for a touchdown and Jonathan Wade returned an interception for another score in the first quarter, and Tennessee beat Mississippi for the 12th straight time.

The Vols (3-1, 2-1 SEC) looked as if they were headed for a rout after going ahead quickly. But the Ole Miss defense stiffened and held Tennessee to three field-goal attempts the rest of the first half. James Wilhoit made a 25-yarder, missed a 44-yarder and had a 51-yarder blocked.

Tennessee's defense had another strong effort, and the Rebels (1-3, 0-2) didn't score a touchdown until 10:18 to go in the game.

No. 17 Wisconsin 41, Indiana 24

MADISON, Wis. — Brandon Williams caught two touchdown passes and returned a punt 63 yards for a score as Wisconsin defeated previously unbeaten Indiana.

The Badgers (5-0, 2-0 Big Ten) won for the 10th straight time at Camp Randall Stadium, their longest home winning streak since reeling off 25 straight from 1900-03, when their opponents included the likes of Hyde Park High School, Milwaukee Medical and the Osteopaths.

Wisconsin also denied the Hoosiers (3-1, 0-1) their first 4-0 start in 15 years.

Williams, who had all six of his receptions for 113 yards by halftime, became the fourth player in school history to top 2,000 career yards receiving and also the fourth to return two punts for TDs in a season. He

Cards' football building named for Schnellenberger

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LOUISVILLE — The University of Louisville has named its football complex, located in the north end zone of Papa John's Cardinal Stadium, in honor of former U of L Football Coach Howard Schnellenberger.

The naming honor was unveiled in a ceremony prior to the Cardinals' football game against Florida Atlantic, a team currently coached by Schnellenberger. He was also one of six former Cardinal greats inducted into the U of L Athletic Hall of Fame on Friday night.

"One of the most impressive things about Coach Schnellenberger was the great vision he had for this football program," said U of L Vice President for Athletics Tom Jurich. "He inspired everyone to believe that this university could be competitive on a national level. He has been good to me since I've been at Louisville and we're proud to have this facility named in his honor."

Schnellenberger arrived at Louisville in 1985 just two years after guiding Miami to the 1983 National Championship, providing U of L with immediate national credibility. He had a bold vision for U of L with his statement of "We're on a collision course with the national championship. The only variable is time."

Schnellenberger guided the Cardinals to some of their most impressive seasons in school history. His 1990 U of L team capped a 10-1-1 season with a dominating 34-7 victory over Alabama in the Fiesta Bowl as the Cardinals earned a No. 12 final national ranking. The Cardinals' 1993 team was 9-3 with victories over Arizona State, Texas and a season-ending 18-7 bowl win over Michigan State.

A native of Louisville, Schnellenberger was the driving force behind the construction of Papa John's Cardinal Stadium. He was a huge factor in renewing the annual football rivalry with Kentucky, agreeing to play in Louisville for the first four years while the Cards' new stadium was under construction.

Schnellenberger had a 10-year coaching record of 54-56-2 with the Cardinals, but nearly half of those losses came in his first three seasons while laying the groundwork for the program (U of L was 8-26-1 his first three years). U of L had endured nine straight losing seasons before his 1988 squad produced an 8-3 record.

Pikeville 4-0, wins streak at 5 after KWC win

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — A second-half rally and a lethal passing combination came together to keep No. 9 Pikeville College unbeaten this season after a 47-33 win over visiting Kentucky Wesleyan College.

The victory made the Bears 4-0, including consecutive wins over the Mid-South Conference West Division. They'll play their final MSC West foe this season next week when they visit Cumberland (Tenn.) University.

Trailing 20-7 before the half, the Bears got a 41-yard field goal by Kyle Briscoe with 30 seconds remaining in the half to pull within 10.

And when James Kirby opened the second half by returning the kickoff 84 yards for a score, the Bears were back within a field goal and in business.

Three minutes later, Chip English hit Nick Jamerson for the second of three touchdown passes, this one covering 59 yards, to put the Bears in front 23-20 after Briscoe's PAT.

Both English and Jamerson finished the game with terrific numbers. The quarterback was 22-of-34 for 387 and four touchdowns with only a single interception. The yardage is second most in school history, as was the touchdowns. In his last two games, English's stats are simply gaudy: 43-of-68 for 710 yards with five scores and only one pick.

Jamerson, the Prestonsburg product who transferred from Kentucky, hauled in four balls for 144 and three scores on the day.

But Wesleyan (0-4) wasn't quite finished yet. The Panthers took eight plays to cover 53 yards with the last 12 coming on a pass from Ward Tanner to Josh Smith for a touchdown, regaining the lead at 27-23 with 6:21 left in the third.

But English countered twice before the period ended, finding Jeff Mitchell for 17 yards and Jamerson from 30 to push the Bears ahead 37-27 with 58 seconds left in the third period.

Briscoe added a 43-yard field goal with 12:36 to play for a 40-27 lead. The teams traded touchdowns — Tanner finding Calvin Bini on a 29-yard score before Calvin Joplin ran in from 10 — to set the final score.

Kentucky Wesleyan charged out of the gate and posted 20 first-quarter points. A safety got the scoring started as the snap from center sailed over English's head and through the end zone.

After the Bears responded with Jamerson's first score, a 15-yard pass from English, to take a 7-0 lead, Tanner scored on a one-yard run to lead 8-7 after the PAT was blocked, and on the ensuing kick Ron Rapiere fell on a fumble in the end zone for a 20-7 lead after this kick was blocked as well.

Of Pikeville's first seven drives, four ended on turnovers and one on a safety before they righted the ship.

English spread the wealth on Saturday, hitting eight different receivers. In addition to Jamerson, Jason Wolfe and Mitchell caught for 62 yards on five and four catches respectively, while Antwan Marsh caught three for 52.

It was another stellar outing for senior tailback Calvin Joplin, who finished with 119 yards on 22 carries. Most of his damage came in the second half, when he had half his carries and 85 yards. He now has 534 yards and seven touchdowns on the season.

Letiz Arnold led the way for Kentucky Wesleyan, picking up 127 yards on 23 carries. Ward Tanner was 24-of-57 in the air for 256 yards with three touchdowns and two interceptions.

In the air, Jason Simpson was the money man, hauling in 10 passes for 84 yards and a score. Bini had 89 yards on four catches and four the end zone once, while Josh Smith caught five for 57 and a score.

Marsh had nine tackles to lead the Bears, with seven being solos.

He also forced a fumble and had one of Pikeville's three interceptions. Matt Brown posted seven solo tackles, two for loss, while Lamont Sturdivant had five tackles, all solo, broke up three passes and blocked a kick.

Noah Harris had 10 tackles, including six solos, forced a fumble and broke up a pass to lead Panther defenders.

Colonels beat Gamecocks for first time

TIMES STAFF REPORT

JACKSONVILLE, Ala. — In a battle of the Ohio Valley Conference preseason favorites, Eastern Kentucky outlasted the host Jacksonville State Gamecock football squad Saturday evening at Paul Snow Memorial Stadium, 31-14. The win a first for Eastern (2-3, 2-0 OVC) in its three meetings with the Gamecocks (1-4, 1-1) and allowed the Colonels to move to 2-0 in conference play for the first time since 1999.

"We weren't at full strength tonight and to score as many points as we did against a very good Jacksonville State team makes this a milestone win for our program," ECU head coach Danny Hope said.

Sophomore quarterback Josh Greco spread the ball around to seven different receivers and finished 21-of-36 for 195 yards and two touchdowns passes in the win. Eastern Kentucky's defense, which allowed Jacksonville State to score on two of its first four possessions, held the Gamecocks scoreless in their final 12 touches of the evening. Junior Steven Cassell led the Colonels with nine tackles and one sack while freshman Chris Coy notched six tackles and two sacks.

The tide of the game turned on a mishandled Jacksonville State punt return midway through the second quarter. With the Gamecocks ahead 14-7, junior Antwan Molden recovered a Gamecock fumble on the JSU 20-yard line. After Greco and sophomore Kyle Barber hooked up for Eastern Kentucky's first third-down conversion of the night, sophomore Wes Wolfe caught a one-yard touchdown pass from Greco to even the score at 14-14.

In the final minute of the first half, ECU's hurry-up offense helped give the Colonels the advantage heading into the locker rooms. Greco completed a 33-yard pass, this time to senior Andre Green, to move Eastern Kentucky inside the JSU 20. With 10 ticks showing on the clock, freshman Taylor Long booted a 34-yard field goal to put Eastern Kentucky ahead, 17-14.

After holding Jacksonville State on its first two possessions of the second half, Eastern Kentucky put together its longest touchdown drive of the season to go ahead by 10 points. A 22-yard completion from Greco to junior tight end Patrick Bugg moved the Colonels into Jacksonville territory. Four plays later, sophomore running back Mark Dunn scampered 30 yards around the right end to cap the 11-play, 94-yard touchdown drive.

Sophomore Derrick Huff's second interception of the night helped seal the victory. The corner back slipped in front of a Jacksonville State receiver and returned the pass 45 yards to the Jacksonville four-yard line. On ECU's ensuing play, freshman running back Adam Patrick ran around the left end and found the end zone to make the score, 31-14.

The Colonels return home to face Samford Saturday, Oct. 8, with kickoff slated for 6:30 p.m.

Football Eagles beat Butler, 58-10

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS

Morehead State scored via the kick, the run, and on special teams early and often Saturday en route to a 58-10 win over Butler.

The Eagles rolled to a 34-10 halftime lead in the new-look Butler Bowl and added three more rushing scores and a field goal in the final two periods to improve to 4-1. The Bulldogs fell to 0-5.

Freshman Nick Feldman scored on a 53-yard punt return in the second quarter and junior fullback Jabari McGee rushed for a season high 87 yards and three touchdowns as the Eagles rolled up their most points since a 63-34 win over Kentucky Wesleyan in the 2000 season.

Feldman also nearly scored a second TD on a punt return as he took one back 51 yards to set up the second of Adam Jones' three field goals, a 24-yarder, as time expired in the first half. Jones, who was 0-for-2 entering the day, also added successful boots of 30 and 28 yards. Feldman finished with eight returns for 181 yards.

The Eagles produced 469 total yards on offense, including 338 on the ground as MSU tallied six rushing touchdowns. Sophomore quarterback Brian Yost completed 6-for-13 for 105 yards and one interception and rushed for another 57 on the ground while adding a 10-yard TD scamper.

On defense, freshman Ricky Stautberg led MSU with six tackles. Freshman David Hyland had four stops and picked off a pass, while sophomore linebacker Andrew Sturzenbecker recorded three tackles for loss. Freshman Ryan Messer picked up two tackles for loss as the Eagles totaled 10.5 tackles for a loss as a unit and held Butler to just 275 total offensive yards.

Jones got the Eagle scoring barrage started with 6:40 left in the first on a 30-yard field goal for a 3-0 Eagle lead. McGee found paydirt with 1:01 left in the first on a five-yard TD jump. Feldman started the second quarter off in style with his 53-yard punt return for a score to make it 17-0 MSU.

The Bulldogs finally broke the ice with a Jordan Quiroz field goal from 25 yards at 10:54 in the second quarter for a 17-3 Eagle advantage.

MSU increased its lead to 31-10 as Eli Parkes found the end zone at the 7:44 mark on a four-yard run. McGee tallied his second rushing score a minute later on a eight-yard scamper.

Billy Nardini answered at 4:04 for Butler on a 10-yard run to make it a 31-10 MSU lead. Feldman then scooted 51 yards on a punt return to set up the Jones' 24-yard field goal attempt with no time left in the first half.

In the second half, MSU scored three more rushing scores, including a McGee one-yard run, a Yost seven-yard run, and a 20-yard run by Eric Banks.

Centre winning streak stopped

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

SEWANEEN, Tenn. — A 24-yard field goal with four seconds left sent the Centre College football team to its first loss of the season, falling to Sewanee-The University of the South Saturday. Sewanee prevailed, winning 31-28.

The Colonels, which had one five straight games dating back to last year, fall to 4-1 and 1-1 in the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference. Sewanee has now won two straight after starting the season 0-3 to improve to 2-3 overall and 1-0 in league play.

For the second consecutive week, freshman Adam Hay (Cincinnati, Ohio) intercepted a pass on the opponents first drive of the game. On second and nine at the Sewanee 38, Hay picked off Tigers' quarterback Wes Satterfield and returned it to the Sewanee 13-yard-line.

One play later, Centre jumped on the scoreboard as senior running back Adam Blandford (Middletown, Ohio) took the hand-off and rumbled 13 yards for the score. It was Blandford's first touchdown of the season.

The Tigers answered on their next drive. Satterfield led Sewanee on a five-play 75-yard drive, capped off by a 45-yard touchdown run by the junior quarterback to tie the game at seven apiece.

On the Colonels first possession of the second quarter sophomore Jarrod Williams (Carrollton) led the offense to the Sewanee 17-yard line, where senior kicker Ryan Gardner (White House, Tenn.) connected on a 34-yard field goal to put Centre up 10-7.

Once again, the Tigers would respond on their next possession and once again Satterfield would cap the drive with another rushing touchdown, this time from 13 yards out.

Trailing for the first time in the game, Centre drove 64 yards Sewanee 11-yard-line, Williams found sophomore receiver Kyle Barnette (Louisia) for the 11-yard touchdown reception and a 17-14 Centre lead. It was Barnette's first career touchdown in a Centre uniform.

The final three drives of the half did not produce any points and the score remained 17-14 in favor of Centre at the intermission.

The Colonels initial drive of the second half ended with a punt. From the Sewanee 16-yard-line, the Tigers moved the ball to their own 29-yard-line. On first and 10 Satterfield handed off to running back Blake Mears who took the ball 71 yards to the end zone to give Sewanee a 21-17 lead.

The game moved to the fourth quarter with the same 21-17 score. For the third time in the game, Centre scored on its first possession of a quarter. The Colonels drove to the Sewanee five-yard-line but had to settle for a 22-yard field goal by Gardner to make the score 21-20.

The Tigers kept to form answering back with a score of their own on their next possession. On third and nine from their own 27-yard-line, Satterfield found Mears in the air this time for a 73-yard scoring strike to put Sewanee ahead 28-20 with 10:38 left in the game.

On Centre's ensuing possession, Williams led the offense 69-yards on 10 plays. Senior running back Joe Conley (Paris) plunged in from two-yards out for his third touchdown of the season. Williams then hooked up with junior Zach Brooks (Owensboro) for the two-point conversion and a 28-28 tie with 7:06 remaining. Williams completed four of his six pass attempts on the drive for 63 yards.

Sewanee marched right back down the field to the Centre eight-yard-line. After Satterfield was tackled for a one-yard loss on third and goal from the seven, Sewanee kicker Andrew Gould missed wide left

The Colonels took over and moved the ball to their own 40-yard-line. On fourth and one, Williams was stuffed for no gain and Centre would turn the ball over on downs with at the 1:11 mark in the fourth quarter.

A 12-yard complete pass and defensive holding penalty on a seven-yard-run put the ball at the Centre 16-yard line. After two running plays to the Centre seven-yard-line, Gould connected on the game-winning kick from 24 yard out for the 31-28 win.

Sewanee out-gained the Colonels 470 yards to 418 yards, including a 321-168 advantage on the ground. The Tigers also had a big advantage in third down conversions converting on nine of 14 attempts compared to Centre's three of 14.

Williams finished the day 23 of 34 for 238 yards with one touchdown and one interception. The sophomore quarterback also carried the ball 11 times for 51 yards. Blandford rushed for 61 yards on 13 carries and junior receiver Adam Clark (Frankfort) caught nine passes for 70 yards.

Sophomore linebacker Matt Johnson (Ashland) led the Colonels defense with 13 total tackles on the day. Along with his interception, Hay posted three tackles, including two tackles for loss and a sack.

Centre will return home Saturday, Oct. 8, to host Millsaps College. The SCAC contest is slated to begin at 1:30 p.m. in Danville.

Western Kentucky 38, Indiana St. 28

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.

Justin Haddix (Breathitt County HS) threw for 228 yards and three touchdowns and ran for another score as Western Kentucky rallied to beat Indiana State 38-28 on Saturday in the Gateway Conference opener for both teams.

The Hilltoppers (3-1, 1-0 Gateway) scored 10 points in the third quarter while holding Indiana State scoreless to overcome a 21-14 halftime deficit.

Blayne Baggett completed 32 of 53 passes for 297 yards for the Sycamores (0-5, 0-1). But he connected for only one TD, in the second quarter — a 15-yard pass to Jami Petrowski, who led all receivers with 133 yards on 10 carries.

Haddix, meanwhile, hit 15 of 22 throws and was intercepted once. He opened up scoring with a 73-yard scoring pass to Maurice Perkins in the first, ran for a 2-yard TD in the second, then hit Jamison Link and Curtis Hamilton for TD passes of 47 and 30 yards, respectively, in the final 10 minutes.

With the score tied at 7-7 in the second, the Sycamores lined up for a field goal on fourth down on the WKU 7 but Sam Logan hit Andy Jones for a 7-yard TD pass and Indiana State took the lead at 2:15 before halftime.

The Hilltoppers used a 25-yard field goal by Chris James and a 2-yard TD run by Leron Moore to score 10 unanswered points in the third to take a 24-21 lead.

The Sycamores scored once more on a 1-yard run by Cornel Johnson before Haddix's final two TD passes put the game away for Western Kentucky.

Cumberlands defeats Campbellsville

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

WILLIAMSBURG

The Patriots returned home after three weeks of road games to entertain the Campbellsville University Tigers. Campbellsville University (0-4, 0-0) was no match for the determined Patriots of the University of the Cumberlands (formerly Cumberland College) (4-1, 0-0) as the Patriots defeated the Tigers 48-21.

The Patriots started off sluggish to begin the game but broke open what was a 14-14 tie by scoring two touchdowns in the last minute of the first half. Freshman fullback Marlon Jones (Valdosta, Ga.) powered his way to a 28-yard touchdown run with 0:53 left in the half. Campbellsville gave the ball right back to the Patriots with an errand snap from center on the ensuing possession that was recovered by junior Lemuel Holifield (Johnson City, Tenn.). With just nine seconds remaining in the half, senior Larry Hay (Henderson) found fellow senior Jeremy Vaught (Danville) for an 18-yard touchdown pass, to give the Patriots a 28-14 halftime lead. After the game, Vaught commented, "He (Larry Hay) just threw one in the hole and trusted me to make a play on it."

Cochran (Thomasville, Ga.) each eclipsed the 1000 yard mark in career rushing with their performances on Saturday. Junior quarterback Casey Clark (Tutwiler, Miss.) led the Patriots in rushing with 114 yards on seven carries and a touchdown. As a team, the Patriots ran for 481 yards on the game. Holifield finished the game with eight tackles, four of which were for loss, two sacks, and the fumble recovery right before the half.

On his team's performance

Cumberlands' Head Coach Chuck King commented, "We were pretty good overall. People were talking we were right for the upset and a letdown after last week. We took care of things ourselves, took charge of some big plays early, and then settled down to play some good football."

The Patriots will travel to McKenzie, Tenn., to face the Wildcats of Bethel College next weekend. Kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 EST on Saturday.

Store-porch logic and coal-camp pondering

Now, I don't claim to be a philosopher, or anything like that, but I have done some really deep pondering in my day. I mean, all those long, dusty summer afternoons I spent as a boy, sitting on the front porch steps of the Northeast Coal Company store in Muddy Branch, back in the 1940s, surely must have served some useful purpose that I can apply to my later years. I'll admit that I couldn't spit nor whittle as well as some of the grown men, but even if I do say so myself, I could flat ponder.

About a dozen years ago, when I was a high school English teacher, my seniors studied Elizabethan poet John Donne's "Holy Sonnet 6," and I decided that Mr. Donne must have done his fair share of pondering, too, when he suggested that "fate, chance, and desperate men" hold dominion over our lives.

The older I get, the more apt I am to adopt the opinion that the first two play less of a role than the latter.

I guess I'm like a lot of folks who don't take much stock in fate, thinking it a synonym for luck, and believing that, for the most part, we make our own.

Likewise with chance. I think I believe that we make choices as to what we do, and that which we call chance is not really chance at all, but rather a result of the choices we make.

Yet, while I tend to resist fate and chance as factors that govern our existence on a day-to-day basis, I have more than a little problem shooting holes in the "kings and desperate men" part of the theory.

For example, every time I put gas in my car, I can't help but think just how accurate Donne was. Here I am in eastern Kentucky, more than 400 years after he penned his verse, and the simple act of gassing up my car is dictated by some wealthy wannabe king on the other side of the planet, who decided I need to pay nearly three

Ricky Skaggs to perform in Hazard Oct. 22

The Greater Hazard Area Performing Arts Series announces Ricky Skaggs & Kentucky Thunder, performing Saturday, Oct. 22, 7 p.m., The Forum, Hal Rogers Center, 2001 marked Ricky's 30th year as a professional musician, and this nine-time Grammy Award winner continues to do his part to lead the recent roots revival in music. Known affectionately today as bluegrass music's official ambassador, Ricky has brought the genre to greater levels of popularity in the past six years than the father of bluegrass music - legendary Bill Monroe - could ever have imagined. Ricky Skaggs added to his impressive list of career accomplishments this year at the 46th Annual Grammy Awards when he received his ninth Grammy in the Best Country Performance by a Group or Duo with Vocals category. Going into this year's awards, Skaggs was Nashville's leading Country nominee with five separate nominations in

Carl D. Perkins Job Corps students compete in Academic Olympics

Philadelphia Region Job Corps tests students' academic knowledge

Students from the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center, Prestonsburg, competed at the District Academic Olympics Competition on August 31, in Bristol, Va. The winning teams advanced to the regional competition in Ocean City, Md.

"This competition motivates students to excel in their academic performance," said Shirley Bryant, one of the Academic Olympics coaches at Perkins. "It's an excellent teaching tool for preparing students for our high school diploma and GED programs." Susie

Tiffany Blevins (forefront), of Lick Fork, says that taking computer instruction classes at the Auxier Center is "lots of fun." Sue Schaffer, who, along with husband Charlie, co-directs the learning center, shows off some of the greeting cards made by those enrolled in the center's greeting card making class. Charlie Schaffer is pictured among the many computers awaiting give-away to those graduating from his basic computer skills courses. Some have enrolled in computer classes at the center in order to learn skills that then enabled them to author books such as those shown here.

Auxier Center improving lives through computer skills courses

by Kathy J. Prater
FEATURES EDITOR

No matter the season, the Auxier Lifetime Learning Center is busy with keeping local citizens busy with one task or the other. All in an effort to improve the quality of the lives of those participating.

Currently, Charlie Schaffer, who, along with wife, Sue, co-directs the center, is busy at work himself teaching computer skills to those enrolled in the center's various classes. No matter how little, or how much, one may know about the use of computers, Schaffer attests that there is something to be learned at the Auxier center.

"We have folks who come in not knowing so much as how to turn a computer on, to those who know quite a bit but want to learn more about a specific thing. For instance, we have had several older people come in, some wanting to learn the basics and others wanting to learn about word processing, so that they could write a book," said Charlie Schaffer.

Still others are more interested in learning the "crafty" end of things, and for those individuals, explains Sue Schaffer, the center is currently conducting a greeting card making class. "They get to learn how to design and create their own greeting cards," she said. "And then take them home for their own personal use." The greeting card class uses programs designed by Hallmark cards. Grants were obtained from AppalSeed, a faith-based grant; Wal-Mart ($1,000); Christian Appalachian Project ($1,000); Citizens National Bank ($250); and Darby & Allen Insurance ($50). "We depend on our grants to be able to offer the programs we teach," said Sue Schaffer. "Without our grants and community support, we wouldn't be able to accomplish all that we do. We really appreciate those who help us to improve lives."

"I love coming here," said Tiffany Blevins, of Lick Fork, a 2005 home-schooled high school graduate. "I just thought it would be good to learn about computers. I didn't know much about them. It's been fun coming here and learning."

CRITTER CORNER

Dog Flu

By Dr. Carol Combs-Morris, DVM

During lunch the other day, someone asked me if I had seen the report on "Dog Flu" on the news the night before. Of course I had not (I am never home), and admitted I didn't know anything about it.

Apparently I was the only person who did not see that particular broadcast. In the days that followed, our office received quite a few phone calls from pet owners asking questions that I couldn't answer. On Friday we received a fax from the Kentucky State Veterinarian's Office on the subject. I am using that information, plus a media briefing issued by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), both of which are sources that I trust, to try to explain this disease.

Canine Influenza, or Dog Flu, started showing up a few years ago as a respiratory problem in racing Greyhounds in Florida. When routine lab tests failed to identify the exact cause of the disease, samples were sent to a researcher at Cornell University. What he found was a virus that appeared to be a type of influenza.

After more study, they found that not only was the virus influenza, but it very closely resembled a type found in horses. Although it doesn't happen very often, sometimes a virus can "jump species." In other words, a disease that only affects one species changes, or mutates, in a way that allows it to survive in a new host.

Parvovirus is a good recent example of a disease that jumped species—it is believed to have originally been a cats-only virus that mutated into a form that infects dogs. Once a virus jumps to a new species it becomes a whole new disease. Dogs don't continue to get Parvo from

Skills

In addition to learning new skills in a fun, relaxed and easy-paced environment, each individual who successfully completes the computer skills course will receive a computer of their very own to take home with them, courtesy of the learning center.

"Earning their own computer is a real incentive to learning," Charlie Schaffer said. "For many of our students, being able to buy a computer is something they wouldn't be able to afford to do. We hope that by teaching them computer skills, and giving them a computer, it will lead them to getting their GED, taking college courses, or gaining employment."

Currently at the center, classes are being conducted in basic computer skills, intermediate computer skills, and computer keyboarding. Beginning mid-month in October, greeting card making and "Introduction to the Internet" classes will get underway. The internet class will be taught by Ray Tackett, Floyd County Extension Agent for Agriculture, UK Cooperative Extension Service.

Nominal fees are required for each class, but nothing to "break the bank." Basic, intermediate and keyboarding classes require a registration fee of $30, but, successful completion of the initial course can earn the student a computer of their own to take home, with no added fee.

Card making and internet introduction courses require fees of $8 and $4, respectively.

dollars a gallon for regular.

I guess my cynicism is showing, but I just can't buy it. As I watched those old coal miners early 60 years ago, sit on their haunches in the shade, cram their jaws full of Red Man, and ponder out loud on the actions of FDR and John L. Lewis and Ewell Blackwell and the Cincinnati Red Legs, I think I might have learned something. I became acutely aware that it didn't take all day back then to decide what to do with a bully.

Old John Donne may have genuinely believed that we can't do much about fate and chance, but my store-porch logic and coal-camp pondering, suggests that a swift kick in the oil can might be all that's needed to get the attention of a few so-called kings and desperate men.

Critter

cats; it was a one-time mutation that caused Canine Parvovirus, a disease that is now transmitted exclusively from dog to dog. So it is with Canine Influenza—your dog is not going to get infected by the horse next door.

Anyway, the disease is starting to crop up in the general dog population. So far most of the cases have been in Florida, but it is starting to spread. I suspect that the mass movement of dogs affected by the hurricanes in the Gulf will contribute to its speed.

This virus is very contagious, and since it is new and there is no vaccine, essentially all dogs are susceptible—nearly 100% of dogs exposed to the virus will become infected. The disease may take one of two forms.

There is a mild form that presents as a cough that hangs on for ten days to three weeks. The cough may be soft and moist or it may be dry and harsh. They may also develop a nasal discharge. It is easy to mistake these cases for "kennel cough", which is a term that lumps together several diseases caused by the bacteria Bordetella and/or the Parainfluenza virus (totally unrelated to Influenza). The kennel cough syndrome is more common, more treatable, and in general less of a problem.

Canine Influenza may take on a more serious form with high fevers and pneumonia.

This form can even be fatal. In either form, treatment consists of fluids, rest, antibiotics for secondary bacterial infections, and cough medications. So far the death rate of dogs, even with the severe form, is less than 5%.

The virus is spread pretty much like any other flu—carried in respiratory secretions through the air or on contaminated objects such as toys or even people's clothing. Once exposed, dogs start to show signs of illness within two to five days. Sick dogs can spread the virus for seven to ten days after becoming ill.

For some reason, about 20% of exposed dogs develop a "silent infection." They never develop a clinical illness, but still are able to spread the virus and infect other dogs.

So what can we do as pet owners? First, let's not panic. The disease is real, and it probably will eventually show up here. Sounds like a lot of dogs will get infected. There is no test for the disease and no vaccine yet. Our best defense is common sense.

We can look at this disease in the light of the yearly human influenza outbreaks. Every year that virus changes slightly, so the general population is at risk. Lots of people will get sick, some seriously, and a few people will die. Those most likely to have a serious or fatal bout with the flu are the very old, the very young and those with some problem that weakens their immune system. We have vaccines, but they are not always 100% effective and they are often in short supply. So we try to keep newborns, the elderly and the immune compromised away from crowded situations. When we are in a doctor's waiting room we try to avoid the person sneezing uncontrollably. We are a little more aware of hygiene. We call our doctor if we think we are getting sick. Few of us go into seclusion, however. We use sensible precautions and continue our lives.

It makes sense to use these same guidelines with our dogs. None of the experts seem to think it is necessary to stop going to the groomer, the boarding kennel or obedience class. If there is a dog in the vet's waiting room coughing his head off, tell the receptionist you will wait in the car. If you are the owner of the hacking dog, everyone will appreciate it if you wait in the car. Researchers believe that routine disinfectants like 10% household bleach will kill the virus on surfaces.

This disease bears watching, but does not warrant hysteria. I'll keep everyone posted of any new developments as I learn of them.

EXTENSION NOTES

Ladybugs

Ray Tackett

FLOYD COUNTY EXTENSION OFFICE

During the last year or so I have been receiving more and more calls involving what local residents not so affectionately refer to as "those spotted bugs" that have invaded their homes. I am referring to the Lady Beetle, better known as the Lady Bug. Floyd county residents from all parts of the county have made reports of these insects finding their way into their homes. County residents, as well others all across the state, have been surprised to enter their homes only to be greeted by this little insect. In the following article I will try to provide more information on some of the typical questions that I have received through our office.

People first started reporting large aggregations of lady beetles (ladybugs) on homes and buildings in Kentucky during the fall of 1993. Ladybugs are normally considered beneficial insects because they feed outdoors on aphids and other harmful plant pests. However, these beetles are congregating on the sides of buildings, and if given the opportunity, moving inside. Lady beetles do not sting or carry diseases, nor do they infest food, clothing, or wood. Nonetheless, this particular species (Harmonia axyridis) can become a nuisance when large numbers begin crawling on windows, walls, light fixtures, and other indoor surfaces. When disturbed, they also secrete a foul-smelling orange-colored fluid that can spot and stain walls, carpeting, and other surfaces.

Where Did They Come From?

H. axyridis, sometimes known as the Asian Lady Beetle, is new to Kentucky. Our earliest records date back to a few specimens collected in Hickman County in 1992. The beetle is native to eastern Asia, where it is an important predator of scale and aphid pests on trees. The first specimens recovered in the United States were collected in Louisiana in 1988. Since then the beetle has increased its distribution to include most areas of the United States and parts of Canada.

Description and Habits

Adult Asian lady beetles are oval, convex, about 1/4 inch long, and pale yellow-orange to dark orange-red. They often have several black spots on the wing covers, although on some specimens the spots may be indistinct or entirely absent. Most specimens have a small, dark "M"-shaped marking on the whitish area directly behind the head.

Eggs are yellow, oval-shaped, and typically laid in clusters on the undersides of leaves. The developing larvae are often red and black and shaped like tiny alligators. Larvae complete their development on plants where their food is abundant. The immobile pupal (cocoon) stage remains attached to vegetation by its molted skin, but occasionally may be found clinging to exterior walls and foundations of buildings. The average time from egg to adult is about one month, and there are multiple generations per year.

The millions of forested acres throughout Kentucky provide a vast habitat for H. axyridis, which is abundant on trees such as apple, pine, oak, maple, and yellow poplar. The beetle also inhabits ornamental and agricultural crops including roses and tobacco. Throughout the spring and summer, the larvae and adults feed mainly upon aphids.

Movement into Buildings
As autumn approaches, the adult beetles are attracted to buildings or rock outcroppings (their natural gathering sites) in search of protected places to overwinter. In Kentucky, movement to buildings generally begins in October, continuing through mid-November.

Preliminary research indicates that the beetles fly well above the tree tops, and are able to detect preferred aggregation sites from long distances (at least several hundred yards).

While the beetles tend to be more attracted to lighter colored buildings, illumination or brightness appears to be an even stronger attractant than color. For this reason, beetles tend to initially congregate on the sunnier (southwest) side of most buildings. Homes or buildings that are not brightly illuminated by sun, especially if shaded on the southwest side, are less likely to attract lady beetles.

Because the Asian lady beetle is a tree-dwelling insect, homes and buildings in forested areas are especially prone to infestation. Suburban and landscaped industrial settings adjacent to wooded areas have also had large lady beetle aggregations.

Once the beetles land on the sunny side of the building, they attempt to locate cracks and other dark openings for hibernation sites. These locations may ultimately be on any side of the structure. Common overwintering sites include cracks and crevices around window and door frames, porches, garages and outbuildings, beneath exterior siding and roof shingles, and within wall voids, attics, and soffits. Structures in poor repair or with many cracks and openings are especially vulnerable to problems.

As temperatures warm in late winter and spring, the hibernating beetles once again become active. Adult reemergence often occurs sooner on the sunnier, southwest side of the structure. As the awakening beetles attempt to escape to their natural habitat outdoors, some inadvertently disperse inward through cracks and openings around door and window casings, underneath baseboards, from above false ceilings, and around light fixtures and ventilators. Since ladybugs are attracted to light, they are often drawn toward windows and light fixtures.

Ladybug Management

Ladybugs are very beneficial in nature because they help maintain landscape and agricultural pests at non-damaging levels. As spring approaches, beetles overwintering in and around structures will again disperse outdoors to play their important role as beneficial insects. Lady beetles unable to find their way outside will eventually succumb to a lack of food and die.

As noted, lady beetles do not injure humans, nor can they breed or reproduce indoors like fleas or cockroaches. Nonetheless, some people will not tolerate insects of any kind in their homes. Hospitals, food processors, and similar hygienic establishments have zero tolerance for contaminants of any kind, including insects. Given these varying levels of tolerance, we offer the following management options.

Vacuuming

The easiest way to remove ladybugs, once they are indoors, is with a vacuum cleaner (Figure 2). If you wish to subsequently release beetles outside place a handkerchief between the vacuum hose and the dust collection bag to act as a trap. A broom can also be used to remove beetles indoors, but is more likely to cause staining. (The orange-colored fluid that the beetles secrete when picked up or disturbed is harmless, but will stain walls and other surfaces.)

Pest Proofing

Because H. axyridis seeks out overwintering sites in the fall, exterior cracks and openings can be sealed as a long-term, preventive measure.

■ Adjust or install tight-fitting door sweeps or thresholds at the bottom of all exterior entry doors. Gaps of 1/8" or less will permit entry of lady beetles and other insects. Garage door bottoms should be fitted with a bottom seal constructed of rubber (vinyl seals poorly in cold weather). Gaps under sliding glass doors may be sealed with foam weatherstripping.

Workforce Summit to discuss future needs

The University Center of the Mountains (UCM) is hosting the "Building Our Workforce by Degrees Summit" luncheon on Tuesday Oct. 25, at 11 a.m. in the First Federal Center on the Hazard Campus of Hazard and Community and Technical College.

The purpose of the event is to get information from the major job suppliers and creators in the eight county region of the Kentucky River Area Development District (KRADD) in the job market in "three" and "eight" years and determine what advanced degrees and training will employees in the market need. The UCM has contracted Chmura Economic and Analytics to conduct a comprehensive needs assessment on advanced degrees the UCM partners should provide in the region to build the region's workforce, grow the regional economy and improve the quality of life here. Chmura representatives will present their tentative findings and seek more input and answers from our employers and community development leaders.

"Ideas from the public are very important to the UCM partners as we make plans to bring more degrees and learning opportunities to the region," noted Ron Daley, UCM director.

For more information, contact Daley at (800) 246-7521 ext. 73158 or by email at Ron.Daley@kctes.edu.

Selecting plants to combat Japanese Beetles

By Ray Tackett,

FLOYD COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT FOR AGRICULTURE AND NATURAL RESOURCES

Keeping Japanese beetles at bay has been a losing battle for many Kentuckians this summer. Controlling these pests proved challenging for even the most seasoned gardeners.

So what's a homeowner to do?

Creating a habitat that is less suitable for Japanese beetles might be your best bet. Specifically, carefully selecting plant species when replacing or adding to your landscape could be the key to avoiding an annual battle with Japanese beetles.

Although Japanese beetles feed on about 300 species of plants, they feed sparingly or not at all on many common trees and shrubs. These include: red maple; silver maple; boxwood; flowering dogwood; euonymus (all species); white ash, green ash; holly (all species); tuliptree; magnolia (all species); red mulberry; white poplar; common pear; white oak; scarlet oak; red oak; black oak; rhododendron; American elder; and common lilac.

Likewise, most evergreen ornamentals, including Abies (fir), Juniperus, Taxus, Thuja (arborvitae), Rhododendron, Picea (spruce), Pinus (pine) and Tsuga (hemlock) are not attacked.

Boxelder, shagbark hickory, persimmon and American sweetgum are also options but may suffer occasional light feeding.

Plants to avoid using in your landscape include: Japanese maple; Norway maple; horse chestnut; hollyhock; gray birch; American chestnut; Rose-of-Sharon; shrub althea; black walnut; flowering crabapple; apple; London planetree; Lombardy poplar; cherry, black cherry, plum and peach trees; rose; sassafras; American mountain-ash; American linden; American elm; English elm; and table grapes. These plants are nearly always severely attacked by Japanese beetles.

You might find it surprising that Japanese beetles are also fond of certain weeds and noneconomic plants such as multiflora rose, Indian mallow, poison ivy, smartweed, and wild summer grape. If you get rid of these plants, you likely eliminate a continuous source of infestation.

In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that DFM, Inc., P.O. Box 367, Old U.S. 23, Allen, Kentucky 41601, has applied for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation, located 1.5 mile north of Gunlock in Magoffin/Floyd County. The amendment operation will add 157.57 acres of surface disturbance and 131.77 acres of highwall/thin seam mining area, making a total area of 1378.73 acres within the amended permit boundary. The proposed amendment area is approximately 0.7 mile north from Brushy Fork Road's junction with Ky. Route 7, and located on Molly Branch.

The proposed amendment is located on the David U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed by the amendment is owned by Big Branch Holding Co., LLC, David L. Francis, John Arnett Heirs, Tonie Wireman Heirs, Sandy Shepherd, Marie Whitaker, Ruth Shepherd, Nancy Whitaker, Luther Shepherd, Edgar Fleming, and Kelly Hale Heirs. The highwall/thin seam mining will underlie Big Branch Holding Co., LLC, David L. Francis, John Arnett Heirs, Astro Clay Collins, et al., Rose Collins, and Vonda & James Kerns. The operation will use the area mining and highwall/thin seam methods of mining.

The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Natural Resources, Prestonsburg Regional Office, 3140 South Lake Drive, Suite 6, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, and requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Mine Permits, No. 2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127, South, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

This is the final advertisement for this application. All comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE PURSUANT TO APPLICATION NO. 836-5238 AMENDMENT NO. 3

1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that CONSOL of Kentucky Inc., P.O. Box 130, Mousie, Ky. 41839, has applied for an amendment to an existing surface and underground coal mining and reclamation operation, located 0.9 mile northeast of Handshoe, in Knott and Floyd Counties. This amendment will not add any surface disturbance, but will underlie an additional 1992.0 acres, making a total area of 3595.7 acres within the amended permit boundary.

2) The proposed amendment is approximately 0.2 mile west from County Road 1280's junction with Ky. Hwy. 2029, and located along Lick Fork.

3) The proposed amendment is located on the Handshoe U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the underground method of mining. The surface area is owned by CONSOL of Kentucky Inc., and Leslie Bradley. The amendment area will underlie land owned by Kentucky Department of Transportation, CONSOL of Kentucky Inc., Mitchell Stephens, Leslie Bradley, Floyd Co. Fiscal Court, Johnny Hoover Heirs, First Commonwealth Bank, Lindburg Hale, Nadene Howard, Gary Handshoe, Pheba Handshoe Bryan, Clinton Handshoe, Ratliff Turner, Hershel and Margaret Handshoe, Bessie Conley, Lois Conley, Oakley Conley, Bradford Handshoe, Cletis Howard, Kirstina Strohschein and Beulah Leitch, Sharon Chaffins, Michael Crager, Wanda Hutchinson, Marvin and Janet Shepherd, Levisa Coburn Estate, Western Pocahontas Properties Ltd., Rex and Madge Hicks, Rosa Oney, Veltan Prater, Charles and Becky Howard, Kenneth Bailey, Clyde Bailey, D.D. Compton and Betty Compton. The operation will affect an area within 100' of public road Ky. Hwy. 2029 and Lick Fork Road. The operation will not involve relocation or closure of the public roads.

4) The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 3140 South Lake Drive, Suite 6, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653-1410.
