briefs Motorists seeing double at Allen

ALLEN - Drivers on US 23 through Allen in Floyd County are now seeing double. Double red lights, that is.

Traffic signal specialists from Highway District 12 installed the new signal heads Tuesday.

The purpose of the new signal heads, which feature double red balls at the top two stop signals, in other words - is to mhance safety by making the stop signal more conspicuous.

This is the first location in District 12 where this signal configuration is being used.

PRESTONSBURG - It has been 40 years since Floyd County has been visited by a top presidential candidate, but John Edwards will break that stretch when he concludes a special tour in Prestonsburg next week.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy concluded his tour of impoverished regions in Prestonsburg back in 1968 and was the last to visit the city in many years. Current presidential candidate John Edwards has announced he too lift people out of poverty. will also be conducting a similar tour of the region.

Edwards' "Road to One America" tour will begin in New Orleans on Monday, July 16, as he will travel more than 1,800 miles through Louisiana, Mississippi and Ohio, meeting with struggling communities and citizens throughout.

According to a campaign press release, Edwards hopes to focus attention not on just problems, but also on solutions and all of the good work that has been done across the nation to struggles facing the 37 million

MAKING PLANS

Edwards has made this issue the drive for his campaign and is working diligently making sure that he has a plan to end poverty in America.

"Everyday, one in eight Americans wakes up in poverty," said Edwards. "That's not okay. Today, we have two Americas in our country - one America that has everything it needs and another that is struggling to get by.

"Our next president needs not only to understand the Americans living in poverty, but also have to plan to lift them up out of poverty. That is what this tour and my campaign are about — giving them a voice so that we can build One America, where every person has the opportunity to work hard and get ahead."

Floyd County Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall says he plans to have Edwards visit the fiscal courtroom for a special meeting with himself and the citizens of the county. A time has not yet been set, but will be announced later.

by JESSICA HALE STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG - A press conference was held Monday to officially announce the coming of the East Kentucky Fair, and organizers have high hopes for its success in its third year.

County officials and local businesses throughout the fivecounty region make the fair possible each year. With bad weather and the usual trials that come along with starting something new, the fair hopes that everything will turn out in their favor this year and they can provide a very successful regional celebration.

"As with anything else, with an adventure you learn a lot," said Sandy Runyon, fair board secretary.

A vision of former Floyd County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson, the fair features many activities throughout.

Jules and Beck Exhibitions will be providing the carnival at the fair and organizers say they have worked together to provide the most cost-effective solution for admission this year.

"One of the things we learned was that we had to work on pricing," Runyon said.

Jules and Beck was also chosen by organizers for its reputation and commitment to

Guest View Behind closed doors

To most of us, drug company marketing is synonymous with those strange oblique TV ads that barely mention the product's actual purpose and then breathlessly speed through a recitation of potential side effects that seems to include every conceivable nightmarish complication, including death.

But as Sen. Claire McCaskill, D-Mo., reminded members of Congress last week, pharmaceutical companies actually spend close to twice as much pitching their products to doctors ($7.2 billion in 2005) as they do to consumers ($4.2 billion).

During a committee hearing, McCaskill told a story about her brother, who owns a restaurant in Springfield, Mo. In one part of the restaurant, she said, is a private dining room used mostly by drug companies to entertain doctors. Behind those closed doors, she said, drug company representatives order thousands of dollars in expensive wines for their physician guests. Her brother says it's "the most lucrative part of his business."

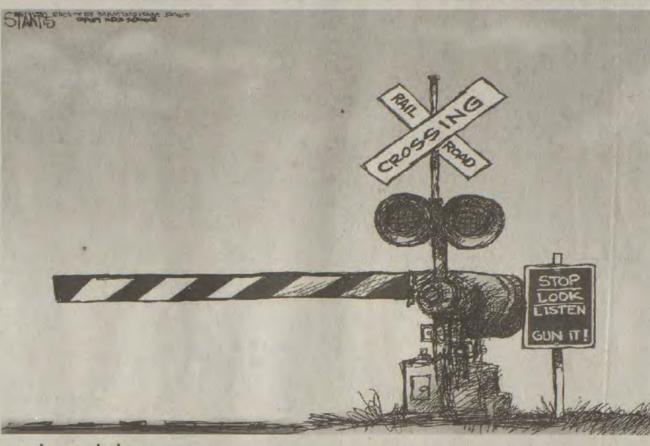

The flood of drug company payments and perks to doctors is old news to health industry observers. But as last week's congressional hearing shows, it's being scrutinized anew. McCaskill and Sen. Herb Kohl, D-Wisc., announced plans for a public registry that would record all payments and gifts from drug companies to physicians. The pharmaceutical industry is, as we might expect, opposed. There is, to be sure, some reason to be skeptical of the true value of such a registry. First and foremost of them is the much more urgent need for overall reform at the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, where a string of drug recalls has raised important safety questions. That should be first on Congress's agenda.

Then there's the sizable amount of effort and manpower - that is, money - that could be required to maintain and police such a vast undertaking. Excessive paperwork already pollutes the health care system; this would add more, regardless of how the idea's details were fleshed out.

Then there are questions about who would have access to the data and how the data would be used. Patients might see a registry as a tool to help them select supposedly untainted doctors, but the truth is that drug companies often direct special marketing efforts to doctors because of the physicians' expertise, not because they're corruptible.

On the other hand, there are equally compelling reasons to go ahead with the registry. First, by making such gifts reportable, the registry would force doctors to give more serious consideration to the nature of their relationships with the pharmaceutical and medical-device industries.

The companies carefully cultivate these relationships, often starting when would-be doctors are medical students. It's fair to say that drug companies aren't spending several billion dollars a year out of altruism.

Letters It finally happened

Two weeks ago, my mother-in-law took a turn for the worse. She became unconscious in my living room. We called for an ambulance.

Guess what! In a trip that normally would have taken just minutes to get to her, because of that barrier on U.S. 23, it took 22 minutes. Now that, to her family, was 22 minutes she went without medical care, 22 minutes her family lost with her, 22 minutes of "I love you" and 22 minutes of her life.

Now just picture this! Now she is loaded into the squad and taken away. She was taken again on a 10-minute trip that took an extra four minutes for the detour because of the "thorn in Katy Friend residents sides."

Now, you public officials and socalled friends in these political games, what if that were your mother? Would you have had that barrier taken out when it was first conceived? Or wait until your loved one lost the battle because of that "thorn"? I do not like it, nor did I approve it. We as a family and group of the Katy Friend Branch area are sick and tired of being thought of as stupid or inbred or not smart enough to speak what is on our minds and now our hearts. She was a voter. She probably put a few of you in on the promises you made to her. She probably supported you because you told her that the facts would speak for themselves. Well, my friends, the simple fact is she is gone. We will never know how long she could have survived and stayed with us. Even the ambulance service tried to apologize to us, but it isn't their fault that those so-called public officials betrayed us so.

CAN'T BELIEVE THE

MY ADMINISTRATION. THEY SEEM TO BELIEVE THE LAW IS A MINOR OBSTACLE.

AND AND AND AND A SARAH

I can never conceive why this was such an important thing to produce. A traffic light and caution lights would have been just as sufficient. If Pikeville can do it, why can't little old Prestonsburg?

Is it the money? If so, we as the residents of Katy Friend are more than willing to help get it done! We can hire a lawyer, not from here, and get this removed at your cost, not ours. I know, becasue I haved looked into this.

I am not one of your so-called Kentucky people. I am from Jackson, Ohio, and proud of it. I am also proud to say I have now lived in Kentucky for the past 16 years. I have a high school diploma and three-and-a-half years college education. I have had business management courses. We residents of Katy Friend are not stupid, I repeat, not stupid. We stand tall with each other and support each other like family and friends do.

I only hope and pray that you neve

Nursing home responds

Prestonsburg Health Care Center (PHCC) recognizes and appreciates all of the hard-working and dedicated members of our staff who deliver the finest in resident care each and every day of the year.

We were unaware in advance o either a vigil or a recent meeting o members of our staff. We too are pray ing for peace and understanding dur ing this bargaining process, through our Spirituality department and company-wide prayer group. We genuinely respect the privacy of our employees and their right to express their concerns, as long as it does not interfere with the day to day care of our residents. PHCC has consistently maintained staffing requirements above the state legislative recommendations. Our facility's staffing levels are set to meet the ongoing medical needs of our residents, while ensuring a healthy work environment for all staff members. The management team of Prestonsburg Health Care Center and Home Quality Management, Inc. remains fully committed to nurturing positive working relationships and to supporting our employees, as they provide the highest quality care to meet the daily needs of our residents.

An increasing share of federal and state revenue is going to pay for prescription drugs. The new Medicare prescription drug program alone is expected to account for nearly 25 percent of all prescription drug spending this year. In 2005, Americans spent nearly $201 billion on prescription drugs - about five times as much as in 1990.

One important factor in that staggering increase has been a switch from older medications to newer brand-name ones that often cost dramatically more but, in some cases, work only marginally better.

Studies have shown that many doctors make decisions on a medication's merits based solely on information from drug company sales representatives. Others have only a hazy idea of the relative costs of one prescription medication over another.

Physician groups and the pharmaceutical industry have approved tougher ethics guidelines in recent years that have eliminated some well-known abuses, but too many loopholes remain.

Consumers should be able to have confidence that doctors make decisions about medications based on their own expertise and judgment about what's best for their patients. Of the many ideas for getting conflicts of interest out of that process, surely the kind of public disclosure that a registry would represent is among the least onerous for doctors and drug companies alike.

As we waited for the ambulance that day, my husband and my two brothers-in-law and sister-in-law held their breath almost until they arrived. The seconds grew into minutes and almost eternity for us.

We were not medical people, but we were doing the best we could for her until help arrived. We should not have had to do that! We should have had immediate attention for her, but, alas, we didn't and we lost her. Our hearts are still tender from the loss.

Part of that reason is that we see her in that room trying to hold on until medical assistance could get to her. We as her loved ones should not have had to struggle to do a medical team's job.

Hollywood imagemaker irons out Fletcher's political pockmarks

by ROGER ALFORD ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT - A tumultuous first term left Gov. Ernie Fletcher politically vulnerable. He had been indicted by a special grand jury on patronage charges. And his poll numbers were abysmal. To win a second term, Fletcher needed to reach out to voters afresh.

He turned to Fred Davis, a Hollywood imagemaker who has worked on any number of high-profile Republican campaigns, including that of President George W. Bush and California Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Davis, chairman of Strategic Perception Inc., put together a persuasive advertising campaign that presented Kentucky's first Republican governor in more than 30 years as the victim of political bullies bent on derailing his reelection campaign.

It worked. Fletcher easily won the Republican primary and will face Democratic challenger Steve Beshear in the Nov. 6 general election.

Brett Hall, a Frankfort political consultant, said Davis' approach resonated with voters.

"It is unique to Americans to take up for the underdog," said Hall, who previously worked with Davis and Fletcher. "Nobody likes to see people being picked on."

Davis opted to portray Fletcher as a book-toting boy facing the taunts of schoolyard bullies. "Day after day he took it," a narrator said in one of the ads. "Didn't flinch because fighting is not his way. But he got where he was going. He held his head high.

The ad moved from the little boy to Fletcher in the governor's office, the narrator saying he stayed focused on the job and got things done for Kentucky.

Davis also had handled advertising for Fletcher in his first governor's race in 2003. Fletcher that time promised to "clean up the mess" in Frankfort, a reference to scandals under previous Democratic administrations. But Fletcher ended up in his own mess. He was indicted by a special grand jury on charges that he illegally rewarded political supporters with protected state jobs.

The indictment was dismissed in a deal with prosecutors, but the grand jury, in a written report, said Fletcher approved a "widespread and coordinated plan" to skirt state hiring laws.

Davis said he developed the idea for the Fletcher ads based on experiences from his own childhood in Tulsa, Okla. Davis remembered crossing the street to avoid older boys who picked on him when he was a kid.

It seemed to him that Fletcher was being victimized by political bullies. From that developed what was to become the theme of Fletcher's primary election campaign.

Davis, 55, has worked on any number of high-profile Republican campaigns, helping Bush and Schwarzenegger overcome poor poll numbers to win re-election. Davis is the chief creative consultant on Sen. John McCain's 2008 presidential campaign.

addition In to Schwarzenegger, Davis handled advertising last year for Georgia Gov. Sonny Perdue's successful campaign as well as Tennessee Sen. Bob Corker.

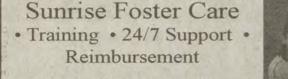

Having built his career on corporate advertising, Davis ventured into the world of politics in 1994. Over the years, he has created ads featuring everything from giant marauding rats to convicts in ballerina tutus.

Marty Ryall, Fletcher's campaign manager, said Davis has an ability to develop ways "to cut through the clutter of all the ads out there competing for the attention of voters."

In the Kentucky general election, Davis and his crews from Strategic Perceptions will be facing Struble Eichenbaum Communications of Washington, which is working for Beshear. Struble Eichenbaum has represented a number of high profile Democratic candidates, including Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia and Virginia Gov. Tim Kaine.

Davis said he believes professional advertising consultants have been good for politics because they can present voters with much clearer pictures of candidates.

"The guys who approach it from a political standpoint will try to find a cheap shot," Davis said. "The pros tend to not do that. Our goal is never to do the cheap shot."

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES

The Republican judgeexecutive denied the allegations, saying they stemmed from partisan politics in the predominantly Democratic county.

Last year, a report from state Auditor Crit Luallen's office questioned county spending during the 2005 fiscal year.

According to the Associated Press, the audit questioned $434,618 of Emergency Federal Management Agency funds, saying the county didn't report how it spent the money, as required by state laws.

At the time, Thompson told the AP that the questionable spending practices dated back to the previous administration.

In 2003, former Judge-Executive Donnie Newsome was convicted of vote-buying and refused to resign his post while he spent 10 months in prison. He submitted his resignation days after being released from jail.

safety. This year, general admission will be $10 a day which will cover all carnival rides and entertainment. Seniors and groups of 25 or more will pay $5 per day. Children under 3 will get in free but will have to pay the $10 admission fee if they choose to enjoy carnival rides.

We wanted everyone to be able to afford to bring their children because that's what it is all about," Runyon said.

According to Runyon, the board was able to form the fair as a 501c organization, which essentially means they operate as a nonprofit organization, allowing them to better serve the community.

Democrats and Republicans started a threeweek break in the Kentucky General Assembly's special legislative session on Tuesday at odds over a series of automated phone calls the state GOP sent out criticizing House members who adjourned without taking any action.

State Democratic Party Chairman Jonathan Miller blamed Gov. Ernie Fletcher, who called for lawmakers to take a break to ease tensions, for the calls.

"On the one hand he's calling for peace, on the other hand he's calling for war," Miller said outside the Capitol Tuesday. "On one hand he's calling to cool down things, on the other hand he's stirring the pot back up."

The Kentucky Republican Party on Monday night targeted more than 40 members of constituents, were geared toward the legislative elections in 2008

"If this is how House Democrats are going to behave, then we're going to hold them accountable for it," Robertson said in an interview Monday. "I guess the House 2008 campaign starts today because we're not going to let them get away with it."

Miller said the calls were evidence that Fletcher's motivation for calling a special session was an attempt to spur his re-election campaign.

BARNSTABLE, Mass. - A Cape Cod man who claimed he was homophobic, racist and a habitual liar to avoid jury duty earned an angry rebuke from a judge on Monday, who referred the case to prosecutors for possible charges.

"In 32 years of service in courtrooms, as a prosecutor, as a defense attorney and now as a judge, I have quite frankly never confronted such a brazen situation of an individual attempting to avoid juror service," Barnstable Superior Court Judge Gary Nickerson told Daniel Ellis, according to a preliminary court transcript of the exchange.

Ellis, of Falmouth, had been called to court with about 60 other potential jurors for possible service on a 23member grand jury.

On a questionnaire that all potential jurors fill out, Ellis wrote that he didn't like homosexuals and blacks. He then echoed those sentiments in an interview with Nickerson.

"You say on your form that you're not a fan of homosexuals," Nickerson said.

"That I'm a racist," Ellis interrupted.

"I'm frequently found to be a liar, too. I can't really help it," Ellis added.

"I'm sorry?" Nickerson said. "I said I'm frequently found to be a liar," Ellis replied. "So, are you lying to me now?" Nickerson asked. "Well, I don't know. I might be," was the response. Ellis then admitted he really didn't want to serve on a jury

"I have the distinct impression that you're intentionally trying to avoid jury service," Nickerson said.

"That's true," Ellis answered.

Nickerson ordered Ellis taken into custody. He was released later Monday morn-

Ellis could face perjury and other charges.

PLYMOUTH, Mich. – Despite an 86-year-old man's objections, his wife will stand trial on accusations of stabJr. testified. "She was taking food off his plate with the fork and flinging it at him."

Schultz said Campbell-Baumgartner leaned across the table at the suburban Detroit restaurant April 22 and nicked her husband's face with the fork. He said he saw blood on Baumgartner's face.

On the witness stand Monday, the husband continued to stick by his wife, The Detroit News reported.

"If I am the complainant of this I have nothing to complain about," Baumgartner said. "If I am the victim, I have nothing to be the victim of.

After the testimony, District Judge Michael Gerou said there was enough evidence for a trial on the charge, which can carry up to four years in prison.

MANCHESTER, N.H. Leaf it to New Hampshire, where a bank branch was held up by a man disguised as a tree.

Just as the Citizen Bank branch opened Saturday morning, a man walked in with leafy boughs duct-taped to his head and torso, and robbed the place.

"He really went out on a limb," police Sgt. Ernie Goodno said Sunday.

Police said the leafy man didn't say anything about having a weapon, just demanded cash, and was given an undisclosed amount.

Although the branches and leaves obscured much of the man's face, someone who saw images from the bank's security camera recognized the robber and called police.

NEW YORK — A bidet company's advertising plans in Times Square are too cheeky for the pastor of a nearby church.

Rev. Neil Rhodes, pastor of the interdenominational Times Square Church, is asking a state court to block a billboard company from posting huge ads that feature naked buttocks with smiley faces on them. The display is to go up on two sides of the Broadway building that houses Rhodes' church, its Bible school and day-care center.

"You walk into a church building, you have naked bodies before your eyes, how are you going to close your eyes and seek God?" Rhodes told the New York Post in an article published Sunday.

The ads promote the Washlet, a bidet-toilet seat that uses warm water and air. They were to go up for 30 days beginning July 1, but the church asked the state Supreme Court to block the displays, saying they would interfere with the church's religious mission.

Adam Silverstein, a lawyer for the advertising company, Van Wagner Communications, told the newspaper that he did not wish to trivialize the church's objections, but that "this is Times Square. It's the billboard capital of the world, and it's home to some of the most sensational advertisements in the universe."

A ruling was expected Monday.

POISON OAK On catching a bug

'd swear on a stack of Roy Acuff 78 RPM records, that when I was a kid more than 60 years ago, I never had a cruel bone in my skinny little body.

Yet, I was one of those people who considered the June bug as one of my favorite toys, and spent hours at a time catching them, tying strings around hind their legs, and letting them fly arm's at length around my head.

Although I haven't seen a single one this year, June bugs came to mind the other day when I read an extensive article in the paper about the area's annual July and August infestation of Japanese beetles. I thought about June bugs, because a few years ago, when Japanese beetles were crawling all over the hedge in front of my house, I mentioned it to a friend who lives in another part of the county. She remarked that she hadn't had a problem with Japanese beetles, but those "baby June bugs" were about to drive her crazy.

Knowing absolutely nothing about entomology, I've no earthly idea whether or not the two are closely related. But Japanese beetles, do indeed, look as if they could be baby June bugs.

Anyway, as I read how experts advised a "comprehensive integrated

d Way Horse Show successful event

by KATHY J. PRATER FEATURES EDITOR

Decked out in their very finest riding gear and sitting proudly atop welltrained and elegant steed, equestrians turned out in good numbers to support the United Way of Eastern Kentucky's first annual horse show.

'We're just tickled to death," said Pam Compton, director, United Way of Eastern Kentucky, this past Monday morning. "We're very pleased with the turnout, pleased with all that came out to support our event."

With 30 line events, the horse show kept spectators entertained from beginning to end. "We love coming out to these things," said Jocelyn Williamson, who attended the show with daughter, Chanah, and little "Tico," the family's pet chihuahua. Sporting a tiny straw hat of his own, Tico was as much a scene-stealer at the event as the many beautifully groomed horses. "We show horses, too," Williamson continued, "but today, we just came out to watch."

The show, which took place at the StoneCrest Equine Park, in Prestonsburg, was a fully-sanctioned show with 27 line classes and three championship classes. All proceeds from the event will be used to benefit the 16 non-profit agencies the United Way of Eastern Kentucky helps support in the Big Sandy area.

"Every dime, every single dime, we made at this event will go to our local United Way charities," Compton said. "Our corporate sponsor, Wal-Mart, paid all the bills," she said, "and UPS (United Parcel Service) paid for the trophies and ribbons. Without this assistance, we would not have near the same amount to provide to our agencies. We, so very much, appreciate our corporate sponsors, as well as our line

Make a difference

by KATHY MULLINS DIRECTOR, FLOYD COUNTY ANIMAL SHELTER

The cutest little "girl" came into the shelter today - a little teacup Poodle. She was brought in by her owners who told us that she could not be housebroken. "April" had matted hair, a touch of mange and was very wormy. As I looked over this little girl's condition, I thought to myself. "It's time to start talking about neglect and cruelty." One of our most important jobs at the Floyd County Animal Shelter is to teach those who don't know the right way to take care of animals.

April falls under the "neglect" category. I don't know how long she had lived in such a state of neglect, but from my assessment of her condition, it had been for quite awhile. April is now about 10 years old. How sad to think this precious little girl's life had been like this for so long that her hair had been allowed to mat badly, she had been exposed to an untreated mange condition and her little body had been ravaged by worms.

We at the shelter see these sort of things on a daily basis, but that doesn't make it any easier to accept.

All dogs with hair that grows need regular grooming. Domestic animals need baths every once in awhile, and tiny breeds, such as April, were definitely intended to be kept inside, not out.

Sometimes I just have to stop in my tracks and wonder, "Do other people see what I see?"

Despite all that April has been through, she is still a very sweet little girl. A precious pet for anyone who is ready to love her and give her the care and attention she needs. We will eventually get her placed in a "forev-

Miss Maggie and Boomer are both Golden Labrador Retrievers and Booger is what John and Bonnie refer toas a "volunteer" (what other folks refer to as a "stray").

Miss Maggie was adopted by the Faulkners from the Floyd County Animal Shelter about seven years ago. She gets her nickname, Miss Maggie, according to Bonnie, from her formal name "Princess Margaret" (aka, "She who must be obeyed"). Boomer and Booger, then, Bonnie says, both serve as her "loyal subjects." Miss Maggie is a "dog school graduate" and is also recognized by AKC as an official "Canine Good Citizen." Awesome, guys!

It seems many early listeners had bug problems, and literally hundreds of these neverfail gadgets were sold at a couple of dollars apiece.

What sparked the newspaper story about them, however, also eventually sparked a version of a "truth in advertising" law. What the bug killer that promised to kill "any bug" turned out to be, was two little three-inch blocks of wood er home," and that will be a commit to this animal for its wonderful day, but there are so many more that are still waiting, and suffering. Our furry friends can't tell us when they hurt or about when someone that is supposed to love them is being abusive. Many times, and more often than not, an animal is blamed for its "inability" to be housebroken. Animals are smart. When housebreaking is a problem, it is generally the fault of the owner for not being consistent or for not taking the time to fully teach the animal what is expected. It takes time and patience to housetrain an animal. With good, consistent practices, it can be done. But when consistency is not adhered to, or when abusive practices are used, the animal cannot learn.

Animals want to please their owners. You have to be kind and loving while at the same time being firm and consistent in order for your animal to be trained.

Again, our furry friends can't speak, that is why we have to be their voices. That is why I had to write this article. Here are a few questions I would like to pose to you, questions you need to consider before deciding to bring a furry friend into your home: "Do you have the time to care and training? Can you afford to take care of its needs? Does the animal fit in well with your type of lifestyle?"

Please, before you make the decision to bring a pet into your home, give these questions your full attention and be completely honest with your responses.

And remember, just because your lifestyle may not be conducive to pet ownership, or just because your living conditions do not allow you to have a pet (apartment living or rental), it doesn't mean you can't make a difference in the lives of animals. The Floyd County Animal Shelter welcomes volunteers as well as donations of food, blankets, toys, shampoos, towels, and cash donations as well.

And if you can't afford to purchase supplies or make donations, then please, feel free to donate your time to help us bathe our animals. walk them or simply sit for a spell and share some love with them.

Reffitt competes in American Miss pageant

Miss Katarina Reffitt, seven-year-old daughter of John and Kashetta Reffitt, of Martin, participated in the American Miss pageant, held on June 30, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, in Lexington. Katarina competed in the age 7-10 category.

Those selected as state finalists, in their respective categories, now have the opportunity to advance to the national American Miss pageant, to be held at Disneyland, in California.

State finalists received a $1,000 cash award, an official crown and banner, a bouquet of roses, and air transportation to the Disneyland pageant.

National American Miss pageants are for "Today's Girls" and "Tomorrow's Leaders." The pageants are offered in a spirit of fun with friends and family. Emphasis is placed on gaining self-confidence, learning new skills, developing good attitudes, and setting and achieving personal goals.

Katarina enjoys camping, reading, writing, swimming, wearing dresses, and playing with her brother and their

P'burg 11-Year-Olds outlast Morgan for district title; earn trip to State

by JAMIE HOWELL CONTRIBUTING WRITER

PAINTSVILLE - After falling just short of a trip to the Little League State Tournament in 2006 in the 9-10-year-old division, the Prestonsburg 11-year-old All-Stars entered the 2007 District 7 Tournament with something to prove. Manager Les Stapleton has coached the current group of All-Stars throughout the past several seasons. During that time, he has watched his players improve each and every year. Hard work paid off for the Prestonsburg 11-year-olds Sunday night in the form of a thrilling 11-10 district cham-falling in somewhat of an upset in the opening game of the tournament, a determined Prestonsburg team wouldn't be denied.

Prestonsburg sent Adam Griffith to the mound on Sunday in hopes of picking up the win and advancing to the state tournament. Early trouble, however, put the Prestonsburg youngsters' backs against the wall. After Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard in the bottom portion of the first inning with two runs, Morgan County took a 4-2 lead in the second frame. Four straight Morgan County hits led to the four runs. Morgan County built a 9-4 lead heading to the bottom of the fifth before Prestonsburg pionship victory over Morgan County. After come on strong. Hunter Brown led off the fifth inning with a hit and Trey Stapleton followed with a two-run home run over the right field fence. Stapleton's blast cut the Morgan County lead to 9-6. After a walk to Aaron Griffith, a single from Adam Griffith put runners at the corners. Two more runs crossed the plate when the Griffiths score. As a result, the game headed into the sixth inning with Morgan County out in front 9-

Kinzer finishes third in Lucas Oil Late Model feature by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS EDITOR

BULLS GAP, Tenn. - Allen-Ased driver Brandon Kinzer had another top-10 effort over the weekend in a highly-touted feature race, finishing third in the Lucas Oil Late Model Dirt Series Pizza Plus/Rusty Wallace Automotive Group 60 at Volunteer Speedway. Kinzer, who is gearing up for a run at the Southern Nationals title, claimed a pair of sixth-place finishes one week earlier. He finished sixth in another Lucas Oil Late Model feature race Saturday night at Tazewell (Tenn.) Speedway.

Veteran driver Scott Bloomquist, who calls East Tennessee home, won the Pizza Plus/Rusty Wallace Automotive Group 60. Brady Smith finished behind Bloomquist and just ahead of Kinzer in the runner-up position.

Campbellsville resident Justin Rattliff, the O'Reilly NARA Battle of the Bluegrass feature winner at 201 Speedway on Saturday, June 30, finished ninth.

A complete rundown of the Lucas Oil Late Model Dirt Series feature race held at the Bulls Gap, Tenn., track, follows.

UK-UofL football game gets national telecast nod

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON - Kentucky's Sept. 15 home football game versus Louisville has been selected for live national telecast on ESPN Classic. The game also will be telecast live on WKYT in Lexington and WHAS in Louisville. Game time has been set for 7:30 p.m. in Commonwealth Stadium.

This will be the sixth-consecutive season that the game will be shown on an ESPN affiliate. ESPN Classic reaches 63 million homes in the United States. The game has been on live national or regional television 10 out of 14 times since the renewal of the series in 1994.

Under certain conditions, Southeastern Conference television contracts permit live "point-topoint" over-the-air telecasts in the home markets of the competing teams. This enabled UK officials to arrange to have the game also shown over-the-air in Lexington and Louisville. WKYT and WHAS will carry the ESPN Classic telecast.

Kentucky now has at least two games that will be nationally televised on an ESPN affiliate this season. UK's game at South Carolina on Oct. 4 will be a Thursday night telecast on ESPN. More live TV opportunities will arise beginning with games of Sept. 22, when the SEC networks - CBS, ESPN and Lincoln Financial Sports - begin their 12-day advance selections.

BRISTOL, Tenn. - For the fourth year in a row, Bristol Dragway will host the National Hot Rod Association's O'Reilly Auto Parts Junior Drag Racing League Eastern Conference Finals. The 2007 edition, which will take place July 11-14, is expected to attract more than 700 racers from all states east of the Mississippi River.

The first Junior Dragster National Finals, held in 1994, was a one-day event at Indianapolis Raceway Park. The popularity of the Jr. Dragster series led to the creation of two finals, the Eastern Conference Final in Bristol and the Western Conference Final at Bandimere Speedway in Denver, Colo. The

Veteran racer Force gets first victory of season at Bristol Dragway

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

BRISTOL, Tenn. - An emotional John Force celebrated his 123rd Funny Car victory like it was his first, erasing the memories of a very tough first half of '07 Sunday afternoon with a huge win at Bristol Dragway. Force shared Thunder Valley's winner's circle with Top Fuel winner Brandon Bernstein and Pro Stock titlist Jeg Coughlin Jr., who are both challenging the points leaders in their categories from their second-place rankings.

Force outlasted Cruz Pedregon in the final - 4.99 to 5.02 - to score his first win of the season. Prior to this weekend's seventh annual O'Reilly NHRA Thunder Valley Nationals presented by Q, the 14-time champion hadn't advanced past the quarterfinals. Bernstein zoomed away from an up-in-smoke Bob Vandergriff Jr., while Coughlin survived a starting line scare against Kenny Koretsky to win his second race of the year.

As soon as Force completed his top-end interviews with ESPN2 and shook hands with Pedregon, he climbed aboard a scooter and zipped back to the starting line for a long hug with John Medlen, the father of the late Eric Medlen, who lost his life earlier this year as the result of a testing accident. Eric Medlen drove a fourth Funny Car for John Force Racing.

Force was obviously up for the finals, leaving with a stellar .052-second reaction time to Pedregon's .073-second start, and never looking back, winning with a 4.993 at 284.62 mph in his Castrol GTX High Mileage Ford Mustang to Pedregon's 5.024 at 279.73 mph in his Advance Auto Parts Chevrolet Impala SS.

Despite all of his struggles this year, Force's win puts him' in a tie for 13th place, just 63 points behind the Countdown to the Championship cut-off point.

Bernstein had an easy victory pass after Vandergriff smoked his tires right at the hit of the throttle. Just to make sure, he kept the Budweiser machine in the middle of the lane and posted a 4.648 at 317.57 mph to claim his fourth win of the year in five finals. He now has a career final-round record of 16-5.

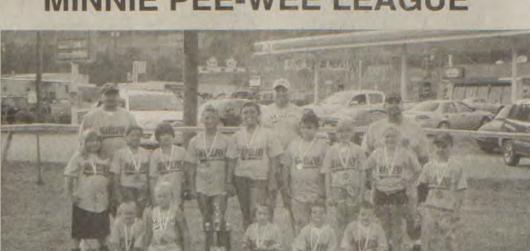

Vandergriff padded his sixth-place position in the POWERade rankings with his ninth visit to the trophy round. At 0-9 lifetime in final rounds, he also matched Force's dubious start that ended in Montreal in 1987 when he won his first race in his 10th final.

After three forgettable races that resulted in him dropping from first to fourth place, Bernstein moved back up to second Sunday with his big win. He now trails "Hot Rod" Fuller by 74 points.

After stealing away holeshot wins from points leader Greg Anderson and third-place runner Dave Connolly en route to his second career final, Koretsky almost did it again in the round against money Coughlin. The veteran racer left first, .013 to .041 seconds, and led past the 1,000-foot timer before Coughlin's Jegs.com Chevrolet Cobalt blew by to take the win by .0024 second. The final numbers had Coughlin crossing in 6.809 at 203.22 mph to Koretsky's 6.839 at 201.82 mph in his Indicom Electric/Nitro Fish Cobalt.

Coughlin's second win of the year combined with points leader Anderson's first-round exit allowed Coughlin to pare Anderson's once gigantic lead to just 86 points. Over the last nine races, Coughlin has outscored Anderson by a margin of 804-718 points.

Koretsky averaged a .013second reaction time on the day. He was runner-up to Anderson at the 2004 Indy race.

The Marlins (pictured above) finished runner-up in the Minnie Pee-Wee League. The league included eight teams. Other league teams (pictured) were the Outlaws, Hurricanes, Sluggers, Angels, Bengals and Rockhounds.

McMurray ends 166-race winless streak with Daytona victory

by JENNA FRYER ASSOCIATED PRESS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. – Jamie McMurray made a costly mistake early, a dramatic move late and ended a long day of racing in a somewhat unfamiliar spot – Victory Lane.

McMurray ended a 166race winless streak in dramatic fashion, rallying from 35th after an early penalty for driving below the yellow line to set up a drag race with Busch to the finish of Saturday night's Pepsi 400.

The two raced side by side for much of the final two laps around Daytona International Speedway, and McMurray nosed across the finish line a mere 0.005 seconds ahead of Busch, who received no help from his Hendrick Motorsports teammates in the closing moments.

It was his first win since October 2002 at Charlotte, when he set a NASCAR record by winning in his second career start. He was a replacement driver for injured Sterling Marlin at the time.

"I always said for five years, however long, there would never be another victory like Charlotte," McMurray said in an emotional Victory Lane. "And you wait so long to win. Every driver out here can tell you how special it is. I started crying, and I'm like, 'Why are you crying?' Because I was so happy. Celebrating."

The victory ended the fourth longest losing streak in NASCAR history. Bill Elliott held the record at 226 races between wins, followed by Jeff Burton (175) and Marlin (170).

The significance was not lost on McMurray, who was later embarrassed about his emotional celebration but said it was warranted after a difficult four seasons of losing.

"Here's the deal: You work very hard for something and I don't know that there's anyone out there that's went from the season that I had to winning Daytona – and that's an emotional time," he said. "It's hard to explain to somebody that feeling of not only seeing your team work so hard but also you.

"I worked really hard this year to get my mind and my body (right). When you work out every day and you do all that stuff and you're not winning ... you almost taste it. It's a little bit emotional. You work so hard for something and then you get it. It's hard to explain to somebody the feeling that you have."

McMurray denied Busch a shot at a rare double victory – he won the rain rescheduled Busch Series race 12 hours earlier, while McMurray finished

18th. Busch then blamed a lack of cooperation from his Hendrick Motorsports teammates for failing to help him win the race. Casey Mears – were all at the front late in the race and had to pick and choose their spots on the track. But Busch often seemed to be on his own, as

"There were a few opportunities for them to get behind me and push me," Busch said. "Especially (Jeff Gordon), he chose not to do so and stayed up high and helped another Roush car."

Kurt Busch finished third and was followed by Carl Edwards, Gordon and Greg Biffle. Clint Bowyer, Matt Kenseth, Kasey Kahne and Jimmie Johnson rounded out the top 10.

Tony Stewart was denied a chance to climb the fence for a third consecutive year when he wrecked with teammate Denny Hamlin as the two were leading the race just 14 laps in. Stewart, the two-time defending race winner, finished 38th and Hamlin was last in 43rd.

"We've got two guys who are very competitive, running up front, we've got real good cars and this is something that can happen," team owner Joe Gibbs said. "It's just one of those unfortunate things."

Busch thought his own situation was unfortunate as he pondered his second-place finish while McMurray celebrated.

The four Hendrick drivers – Busch, Gordon, Johnson and Casey Mears – were all at the front late in the race and had to pick and choose their spots on the track. But Busch often seemed to be on his own, as Johnson and Gordon took turns lining up behind Mears when he was leading, then working together on the outside as Busch stayed low.

So Busch wasn't surprised when he had no help getting past McMurray on the final two laps, and he said he "got blown off" by Gordon when he tried to congratulate him on Victory Lane.

"I guess I'm on the outside looking in now," Busch said. "T'm probably not going to be invited to the team meetings next week. I think bliss is over at Hendrick Motorsports for Kyle Busch. We're getting ready for 2008."

Older brother Kurt tried to put the situation in perspective.

"At the end of a race, a restrictor-plate race, you don't have any teammates," Kurt Busch said. "The advice I would offer to Kyle is understand you are out their working as your own individual."

McMurray was the benefactor of all the Hendrick drama, winning despite an early penalty for driving under the yellow line. It was a redemption of sorts for a driver who suffered through a terrible 2006 season, his first at Roush. He negotiated his way out of his contract with Chip Ganassi Racing in a highly publicized battle between car owners jockeying to put McMurray in their car.

So it was a disaster when McMurray finished a careerworst 25th in the standings, scored only seven top 10 finishes and ran through two crew chiefs.

He hand-picked Larry Carter for this year, raising the stakes for him to win this season. So when he finally crossed the line, he wasn't sure he had won and couldn't tell because of all the screaming on his radio.

There was no such confusion for Stewart, the heavy favorite to win for the third straight year. But just like the Daytona 500, when he wrecked with Kurt Busch while leading, Stewart was knocked out in another fluke accident.

The Joe Gibbs Racing drivers were running first and second 14 laps into the race when Hamlin wiggled, Stewart ran into the back of him and the two careened into the wall.

Stewart, still seeking his first win of the season, was angry with his teammate.

"He just wrecked two really good race cars. He tried to wreck us in practice on Friday and didn't get it done, at least he finished it off today," Stewart said. "He's a young guy and he wants to be successful, but I don't know if he knows what the definition of team is right now."

Hamlin, coming off his first win of the season last week in New Hampshire, didn't want to debate Stewart.

"If he wants to blame it on me, I'll be the bigger man and take responsibility for it," Hamlin said. "He's been around this sport longer than I have and he probably knows more than I do, so I'll just take it for what it's worth."

Gibbs, meanwhile, tried to play peacemaker as he watched his crews hammer away at sheet metal as the raceroared on around them.

"Both our guys are very aggressive, they love to race, they are good teammates and they want to win every race," Gibbs said. "Sometimes guys get upset, which is understandable."

Reds send Bailey to minors over All-Star break

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI – Rookie right-hander Homer Bailey was optioned to the minors Sunday so the Cincinnati Reds' top prospect can keep pitching over the All-Star break.

The Reds called up infielder Pedro Lopez from Triple-A Louisville to take his roster spot and give the team some depth while it struggles with injuries. The 21-year-old Bailey gave up only two hits and a run in five innings of a 5-4 victory over Arizona on Saturday night. After getting hit hard in his two previous starts, he fixed a flaw in his delivery and looked to be back on track.

Sending him to Louisville will allow Bailey to stay on schedule.

"It wouldn't have happened without the All-Star break," general manager Wayne

Reds 4, Diamondbacks 3, 11 innings followed a familiar pattern.

Krivsky said. "He wouldn't have pitched until eight or nine days from now. He understands completely."

By bringing up the 23-yearold Lopez, the Reds shored up an injury-thinned roster. Outfielder Josh Hamilton sprained his wrist on Saturday night, a few hours after utility infielder Juan Castro went on the 15-day disabled list with a partially torn ligament in his throwing elbow.

CINCINNATI – Maybe it's the new manager. Maybe it's and we come back in the eighth e it's and ninth before losing it late," it's manager Bob Melvin said. in their own way."

Harang allowed only one run over the first eight innings – a solo homer by Chris Young – before turning a 3-1 lead over to just the law of averages.

There's no clear-cut explanation for the Cincinnati Reds' weeklong revival, which reached an upbeat conclusion Sunday with an 11-inning, 4-3 victory over the slumping Arizona Diamondbacks.

Scott Hatteberg's two-out single, his fourth hit of the game, gave the Reds their first four-game winning streak of the season and left them 5-1 under interim manager Pete Mackanin, who took over for Jerry Narron a week ago.

The change shook things up in the short-term.

"It's something showing signs of management not afraid to make some changes," said Hatteberg, who had a solo homer and three singles. "We've played poorly. The first thing that goes is usually the manager, but players soon follow. So maybe it's a collective wake-up."

The Diamondbacks are dazed heading into the All-Star break.

Arizona has lost five straight — matching its season high and eight of nine overall. After being tied for first place in the NL West on June 27, the Diamondbacks have slipped to third in large part because they can't get clutch hits.

They got one in the ninth to prolong the game, but couldn't get another to win it. Kirk Saarloos (1-4) induced a double play that scuttled an Arizona threat in the top of the 11th and "We've got to find ways to get more competitive at-bats early in the game."

"We don't do anything early,

For the second day in a row, one of the NL's worst bullpens blew a late lead before the Reds recovered. They pulled off their first sweep of the season and their first over Arizona since 1999.

During Narron's days, a bullpen meltdown usually meant another chin-dropping loss. It hasn't been that way so far under the new management.

"More than anything, it's a blow to everybody when a manager gets fired," said Mackanin, who was the Reds' advance scout until last week. "It's no fun. It's like a wake-up call to everybody."

Edwin Encarnacion started the decisive rally by drawing a leadoff walk from Jose Valverde (0-2) in the 11th. Encarnacion stole second, David Ross walked and Norris Hopper grounded into a forceout at second, bringing up Hatteberg.

The first baseman had opened the Reds' first inning with a homer. He ended it by slapping a single to left field on the first pitch he saw from the Diamondbacks' All-Star closer. His teammates huddled around him and celebrated after he touched first base.

"Guys have been playing loose and having fun," starter Aaron Harang said. "Everybody's been contributing David Weathers. The closer had converted his last six opportunities and 17 of 19 overall, and has been the only dependable reliever on the staff.

He couldn't get the last out to close it out.

Jeff Salazar singled with two outs and came around on Miguel Montero's double to the wall in left-center. Orlando Hudson, who was out of the starting lineup getting some rest before his All-Star trip to San Francisco, pinch-hit and tied it with a single to right.

It was a rare clutch hit for the slumping Diamondbacks, who are batting .144 with runners in scoring position over their last 14 games and last in the league in that category overall

"I know we had a stretch there when we won a lot of those one-run and two-run games, but right now we're struggling," catcher Chris Snyder said. "Hopefully we can get through the break, get back on Friday and start the second half strong."

Hatteberg and Ross had solo homers off right-hander Yusmeiro Petit, who was called up on July 3 when left-hander Randy Johnson went on the disabled list again with a bad back. Petit struck out a career-high eight Reds in five innings, including all three batters in the fourth.

The Reds struck out 16 times overall, matching their season high.
