MILLARD — The driver of a Pike County school bus and several of his student passengers are recovering after their bus was hit by a gravel truck along Route 460 near Millard Middle School Monday afternoon.

According to state police reports, the school bus was traveling east along Route 460 and the gravel truck, a 1985 Freightliner driven by Kendall Slusher of Salyersville, was driving west.

It was at this time police said Slusher lost control of the gravel truck and slid into the eastbound lane, hitting the bus on the front left side.

The bus was carrying about 45 students at the time of the accident ranging from elementary, middle and high school-age, with the bus driver and one student trapped for a brief time following the accident.

Police said the bus driver, who has not yet been identified, and the student were removed by EMS and rescue personnel.

Of those involved in the accident, 32 were treated at nearby Pikeville Medical Center. Some were taken by ambulance and others were driven by parents from the scene of the accident.

The driver of the bus was transported to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center. His condition was not known as of press time.

Roger Wagner, superintendent of Pike County Schools, said Monday that he and the school board's "thoughts and prayers are with everyone involved in this accident."

The wreck is being investigated by Kentucky State Police Trooper Eddie Crum.

VOLUNTEERISM HAS REWARDS

They're going to Disney World

by JARRID DEATON

MAYTOWN — The promise of a day at Disney recently brought a number of volunteers to Maytown, as the Maytown Center signed on to be one of the hosting organizations for Disney's Give-A-Day, Get-A-Day program. The program provides a free day's admission to those who complete a day of volunteer work.

"One family came all the way from London, and another came from Paintsville," said Erin

Moore, youth worker at the Maytown Center. "Along with them, 11 local students, some of their parents, and the Maytown Center staff all jumped in for a day of picking up trash throughout the area. The group spread out, cleaning up everything from the streets of Maytown, and the trash left alongside the creek, to the trash hidden along the back road to Warco."

Along with a visit to Disney, the staff at the center is planning a trip to Florida for students that will include surfing lessons, visits to beaches, tours, canoeing and other activities.

"Not only did this event bring about a cleaner Maytown, but it also opened up an incredible opportunity for nine local teens," said Moore. "They have the chance to use their free tickets when they head down to Florida for a fun and educational spring break with two of the Maytown Center staff. The students have already done fundraising, community service, and a few have done some leadership training."

Board looking to fill seat after Hopkins resigns

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

The Floyd County Board of Education is currently one member short after the resignation of District 5 Representative Douglas Hopkins earlier this month.

Last May, Attorney General Jack Conway filed a lawsuit seeking to remove Hopkins, alleging that relatives of Hopkins were working for the school district, which would make it illegal for him to serve on the board. Hopkins remained on the board until the end of February by appealing the suit.

"I lost my last appeal, so I resigned," Hopkins said. "I want to thank all my supporters. It was a great opportunity to be an advocate for the children. During my time as a board member, I worked to create a K-5 basketball league, and am currently working on trying to get the traffic situation solved at the entrance to Duff Elementary."

"I hated to lose, out, and it was a hard thing to resign,

Change in law allows jail to add 20 beds

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — The Floyd County Detention Center will soon have 20 more beds after legislation passed to reduce the square footage required for inmates from 50 feet to 40 feet.

Jailer Roger Webb asked for a new bed adjustment based on the legislation and the request was approved.

"Hopefully with these new beds and keeping our county inmates down, we will be able to add more state inmates," Webb said. "We will get an estimated $18,000 more each month from the state."

Also, WestCare, the drug rehabilitation program utilized by the jail, will receive more beds. State inmates are required to attend the program before they are considered for parole.

A large number of the beds will be acquired from the old jail located on the third floor of the Floyd County Courthouse, allowing Webb to increase the amount of inmates without an immediate overhead charge.

Starting in 2011, the jail will receive an additional $9 a day for state inmates, which will raise the total from $50,000 a year to $65,000.

"The additional space that can be created, along with the support of Jailer Roger Webb, will help offset the added expense our jail currently incurs," said Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall, who is supervising the project. "It is an excellent opportunity for money to come into the system and make a difference in the quality of our jail service."

Jailer Roger Webb, Paula Johnson, and Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall came to the third floor of the Floyd County Courthouse on Tuesday to look at the beds from the old jail that will be moved to the Floyd County Detention Center.

~ In Loving Memory ~ Gregory Dean "Bristles" Neeley

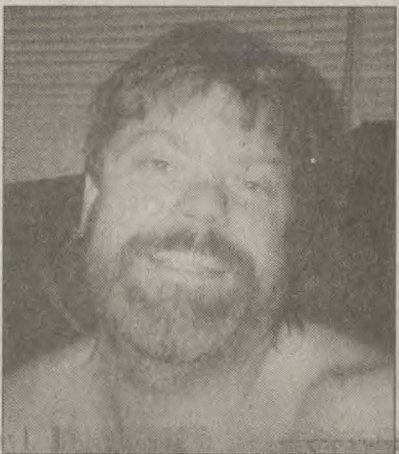

Aug. 4, 1970 - March 22, 2009

No loving arms there to hold you, nor to whisper a sweet, loving good-bye, So many unloved and unwanted to take, but you were chosen; we know not why.

Even though friends were with you, still you were all alone, Had Dad, Mom, Sis or Jess been there, you may not now be gone.

Though you are gone from us, we still feel your presence in our hearts, our lives and our home, But as we grieve and weep each day, we know that you are forever gone.

We will always Love and Remember You

It has been three years, we will always shed the tears. We miss you so, so much, your smile, your kindness and your gentle warm hugs. Your Angel is safe, here on earth. He is just like you, sent from above, to have, to hold, and especially "Love."

Sadly missed by your family and friends

September 12, 1977 - March 26, 2003

You never said "Im leaving," you never said goodbye, You were gone before I knew it, and only God knew why.

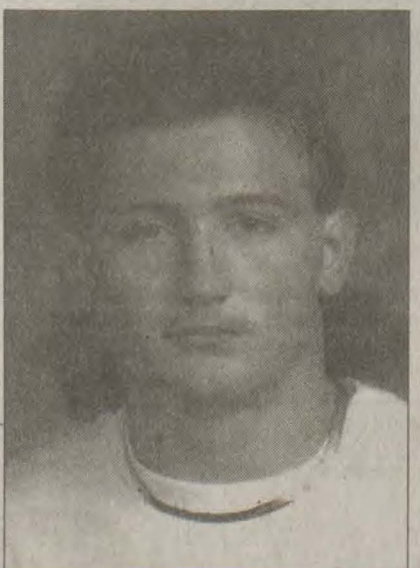

A million times I needed you, a million times I cried. If Love alone could have saved you, you never would have died.

In Life I loved you dearly, in death I love you still.

In my heart you hold a place, that no one could ever fill.

It broke my heart to lose you, but you didn't go alone. For part of me went with you, the day God took you home.

You are always on our minds and in our hearts. We love and miss you very much!

BSCTC Mayo Campus holds Career Awareness Fair and Expo

by DAPHNE KIRK GOBLE

PAINTSVILLE — Big Sandy Community and Technical College (BSCTC) hosted the Career Awareness Fair and Expo (CAFE) event on the Mayo Campus, March 12. The purpose of the CAFE Project is to provide valuable career information to students with disabilities.

Participating high schools included Belfry, Betsy Layne, East Ridge, Magoffin County, Paintsville Independent, Pike Central, Prestonsburg and Shelby Valley. One hundred ten students toured 14 BSCTC technical programs.

Twenty-three BSCTC staff and faculty members participated in the event; seventeen BSCTC students provided mentoring services; four Support Programs were represented, and one external Vocational Rehabilitation representative participated.

The program began at 9:30 a.m. in the BSCTC Mayo Auditorium. Janie Beverley, BSCTC student affairs specialist, welcomed students, guides and guests. Beverley remarked, "The best thing about my job is working with students with disabilities — watching them develop and become who they want to be in life."

Mazola Salmons, BSCTC director of grants served as moderator. Salmons welcomed the students and asked questions about their educational goals. Additionally, she encouraged students to comment on their educational experiences. Salmons told the students, "Do not let a disability stand in the way of what you want to do with your life."

Clayton Case, assistant director of the BSCTC Music and Drama Program and Big Sandy Idol singer, Kendra Hall provided musical performances.

The CAFE event included a panel of successful BSCTC graduates and students with disabilities. This panel shared challenges and success stories. The panel included Wayne Alvey, Anna Burton, Tommy Dial, Keith Martin, Jeff McCoy, Reggie Scott, and Kayla Smith.

BSCTC HVAC student, Wayne Alvey from Thelma, said, "My experience has been positive and beneficial to me in completing my educational goals." Alvey plans to return to Hart County upon completion of his studies at BSCTC.

Anna Burton, a BSCTC graduate and a student at Eastern Kentucky University, BSCTC student Tommy Dial has found the staff and faculty of the college helpful during his studies.

remarked, "My success is due to the education I received at BSCTC and a persistent mother. She encouraged me to go to school and to go to college." Additionally, Burton added, "I am so thankful to BSCTC for the support and guidance provided to me."

Tommy Dial, a BSCTC CAD Program student from Thelma, remarked, "The staff and faculty at BSCTC have been very helpful to me as a student." Dials encouraged the students to determine a course of study or program early in their educational tenure — and work toward that goal. In addition, Dials added, "After the automobile accident that left me paralyzed fifteen years ago, I wanted to do something with my life. My children were a great influence on my decision to return to school to pursue my educational objectives." Dials plans on returning to Adair County upon completion of his studies to pursue a career in Civil Engineering.

Keith Martin, a student of the BSCTC Automotive Program remarked, "Do not let anyone tell you cannot achieve your dreams and goals just because you have a disability." Martin commended former teacher, Sherri Ward, for supporting and influencing him in his educational endeavors. "Though I faced many challenges, Ms. Ward made classes fun, while teaching the fundamentals of education."

BSCTC student, Reggie Scott, commented, "I am excited to be here today and believe that the CAFE event will be a huge success." Additionally, Scott remarked, "This will give students a chance to figure out what they want to do with their lives and help them choose a career."

Kayla Smith, an Associate of Arts graduate from BSCTC stated, "Strive to do what you want to do and work hard toward your goals." Additionally, Smith noted her mother and Janie Beverley as positive influences on her educational accomplishments. Smith is currently an education major at MSU.

The event concluded in the Mayo Auditorium at 1:30 p.m. Students completed surveys and won door prizes. Tracy Higdon, a junior at East Ridge High School won a $1,500 BSCTC Scholarship. Tracy is the daughter of Ravene and Eleanor Wallace. She was elated to win the scholarship. Higdon hopes to pursue a nursing or cosmetology career when she enrolls at Big Sandy Community and Technical College in the fall of 2011. The BSCTC scholarship award was presented by Big Sandy student, Keith Martin.

For more information about the CAFE event, contact Janie Beverley, BSCTC student affairs specialist, at (606) 886-3863, ext. 67359 or email janie.beverley@kctcs.edu or Mazola Salmons, BSCTC, director of grants, at (606) 886-3863, ext. 64729 or via email mazola.salmons@kctcs.edu.

To The Voters of District 1:
MY NAME IS CECIL JARRELL, AND I AM A CANDIDATE FOR MAGISTRATE IN DISTRICT 1.
One of the reasons I am running for this position is because I think all the people are tired of the promises and lies that our current and previous magistrates have promised, and have not followed through with.
If you, the voters of District 1, are tired of this and want a change, vote for and elect me, CECIL JARRELL, as your next Magistrate for District 1.
I will not promise you, the voters of District 1, something that I do not intend to follow through with. I will be a magistrate that will stand on his own two feet, not one that goes to fiscal court meetings and just sit there and nod their heads and doesn't stand up for the people in District 1, like our previous magistrates have.
Another reason I am running is because I think it's a shame that our county roads are in the shape they are in. This is one issue that I intend to address IMMEDIATELY, if I am elected your full-time Magistrate, because our kids' safety should be our number one priority.
Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated and will not be forgotten.
Thank you,

Amendment 1

Our View

All in all, a good first step

So, how is everybody handling all of the misery and suffering, the flames shooting from the sky and the plagues of frogs and locusts, now that the world has ended?

That is what was supposed to happen, once health care reform passed, isn't it?

But, of course, it didn't. Like many things in this hyperactive, hyperbolic political atmosphere we now live in, both the pros and cons of the debate were vastly overstated.

While the version of health care reform that passed Congress late Sunday and was signed into law on Tuesday will probably satisfy no one, it was a necessary first step toward corralling runaway health care costs that, if left unchecked, would threaten to bankrupt every state, local and federal government body in the country, and place undue burdens on businesses and individuals.

While the new law does, on the surface, appear to be very costly, what critics failed to realize is that we already are paying those costs for a flawed system.

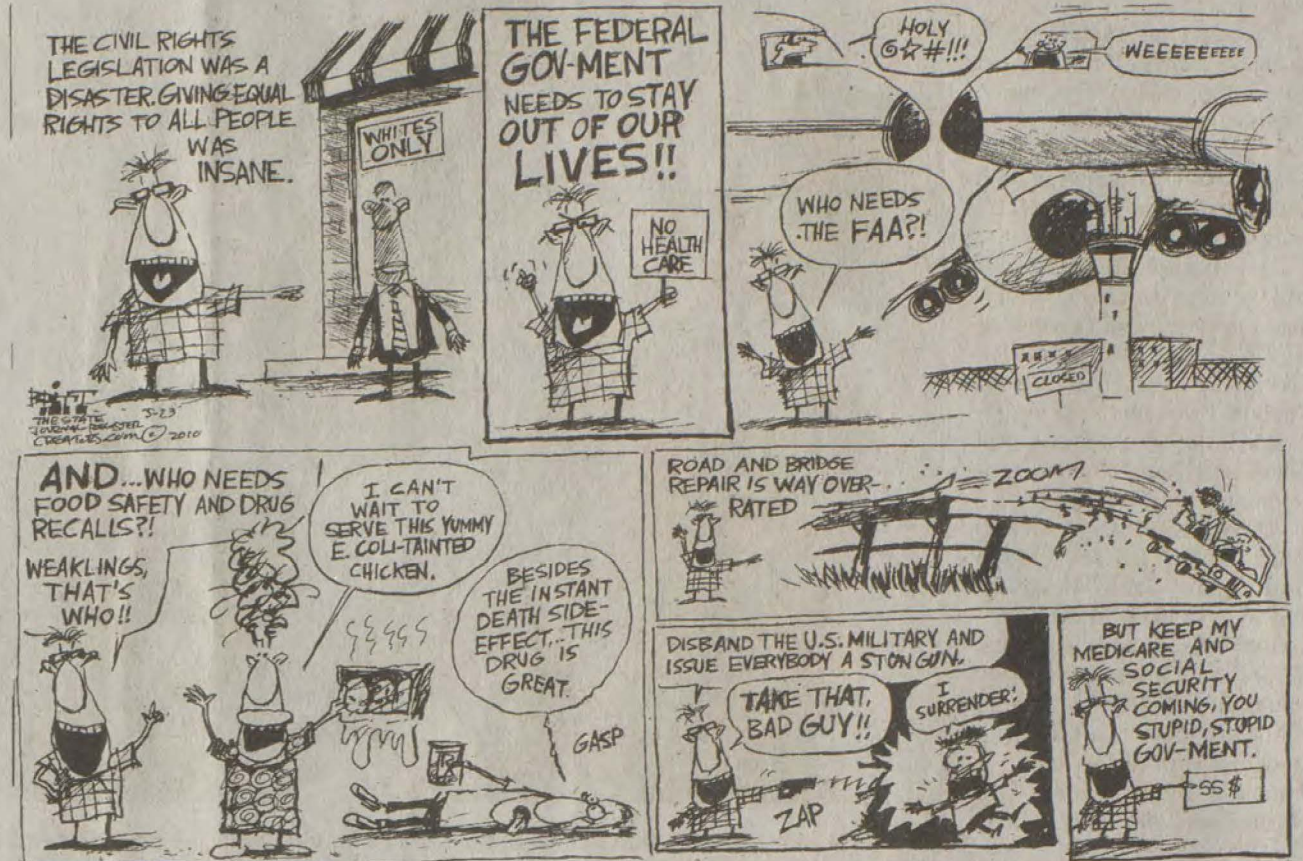

The United States spends double per person what any other industrialized nation spends on health care, and in return has had a system in which costs skyrocket every single year and individuals can be refused coverage or dropped from coverage if they do something unseemly, like getting sick and needing the insurance for which they have paid. Those abuses will end under the new law. Once fully implemented, insurance companies will no longer be able to drop or refuse to cover sick people.

But the additional costs we pay for health care reform now will ultimately pay dividends down the road. The nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office has estimated that the new law will result in savings of $143 billion over the next decade, and even more in the years that follow.

But all the talk about the costs and savings of health care reform cheapens what should be the true goal of all involved — to save lives. The new law should do just that, simply by mandating health coverage for nearly all Americans. Thousands die early deaths every year, simply because they could not afford health insurance.

No, we do not believe the new law will be the answer to all that ails us, but it was a necessary first step. Hopefully, once all of the partisan hubbub about it on both sides dies down, we will be able to make the additional adjustments needed to make health care a reality for all Americans.

Senate week in review

by SEN. JOHNNY RAY TURNER

With approximately nine working days remaining in the 2010 Session, the legislative process is going full steam. Improvements to education, protection for victims of domestic violence and stronger drug laws are just a few pieces of legislation that have passed the Senate this session.

As a growing number of bills move through committees to come before the full Senate, we are digging into the budget plan sent to us by the House. We anticipate moving the budget bill out of the A&R Committee to the Senate for a vote early next week.

There are projects and initiatives important to our region that I am working to include in the final budget. I am looking for ways to ensure that the plan guides the State through its tough budget crisis, while protecting the programs and services Kentuckians depend on every day.

Next week will be busy, as members appointed by each chamber meet in a conference committee to work out a compromise on the budget.

In the meantime, we have passed other bills, including Senate Bill 214, which could send more than $60 million back into our economy through rebates to Kentucky small businesses. Kentucky Employers' Mutual Insurance Authority (KEMI), which the General Assembly created to provide workers compensation insurance to thousands of small businesses, has a surplus of more than $150 million.

SB 214 would require that more than 40 percent of that surplus be issued as dividends to policyholders, with annual dividends thereafter. KEMI needs significant financial reserves to pay claims, but its surplus is more than enough and policyholders deserve a break. Our small businesses need every advantage they can get in this environment, and $60 million spread among them could help our economy greatly.

Sadly, one of the most serious social problems we face in Kentucky is our ongoing battle against methamphetamines and other drugs. For obvious reasons, people who cannot pass a drug test cannot get the jobs we are trying to bring to Kentucky, and cannot perform the jobs if they start using drugs. SB 211, which we also passed this week, gives us another tool against meth. We passed legislation in 2005, requiring anyone buying ephedrine or pseudoephedrine - two of the major precursors to manufacturing meth - to sign a log when they make that purchase. SB 211 would simply block anyone convicted of any drug crime from buying those two precursors over the counter for five years after conviction or court-ordered supervision, whichever is later. They could have a doctor prescribe it for them if necessary, but they would essentially lose access to the two key ingredients for meth. Drug use has one of the highest recidivism rates of any crime, and this will help prevent users from repeating their mistakes.

One of the most high-profile issues of this session has been the plight of domestic violence victims. The nation's attention was on Kentucky last fall when a Lexington woman was murdered, allegedly by a man she had dated. That tragedy showed that domestic violence knows no economic or social boundaries. It affects all Kentuckians, and we need to do more to combat this often-deadly problem.

House week in review

by REP. HUBERT COLLINS

Reaching a state budget agreement in this economic climate in less than nine working days may seem about as likely as finding a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but lawmakers hope to have a two-year spending bill signed, sealed and delivered to the governor for his own signature in that amount of time or less.

The House budget bill—which we passed two weeks ago—is now before the Senate where many of its specifics will surely be modified or replaced with Senate changes. If those modifications reach the House within the next week or so, there is a good chance that the two chambers will be able to go into conference committee and negotiate a final bill before the veto recess begins in late March or early April. Passing the bill ahead of the veto recess would give the General Assembly a chance to override any possible gubernatorial vetoes—something we couldn't do if we wait to pass a budget in the session's final two scheduled days after the recess.

All in all, lawmakers are hopeful we can get a budget passed before the recess and retain our override power for any line-item or other budget vetoes that might come along.

Protecting health insurance for retired teachers is the crux of a bill that cleared its first legislative hurdle last Tuesday when it passed the House budget committee. By increasing amounts paid into the state retired teachers' health insurance fund by active teachers, retired teachers under age 65, school districts, universities and the state, HB 540 would shore up the ailing fund over the next six years. The bill is also expected to cut the plan's "unfunded liability" from $6.2 billion to $3.4 billion. HB 540 now goes to the full House for consideration.

For several years now, the state has borrowed hundreds of millions of dollars from the teachers' pension system to cover the cost of retired teacher health insurance, but another bill, HB 531, would help the state repay that money with over $800 million in authorized bonds while saving the state millions of dollars in interest rate costs. That measure passed the House 97-0 last Tuesday and now goes to the Senate.

Health insurance is not just a concern of our retired teachers. It concerns any Kentuckian who is dealing with diseases or disorders-like autism spectrum disorders—that require specialized treatment not always covered by insurance. Some studies show that as many as one in 110 young people in Kentucky struggle with an autism behavioral disorder that is costly to treat but may not be adequately covered by insurers.

To help autism patients and their families, the House voted 97-0 last Tuesday to pass HB 159 which would require health insurers to cover the cost of autism diagnosis and treatment for children age 1-21 at various levels. Supporters of the bill say it will allow many children to receive innovative new, yet admittedly expensive, treatments before their age 7 when the brain is in peak development. HB 159 now goes to the Senate for its consideration.

Society, like individuals, faces some ills that only criminal penalties can address. That is especially true when it comes to domestic violence. That is why the Senate last week passed a version of HB 1-the get-tough-on-crime bill commonly known as "Amanda's Bill"—that would allow judges to require violators of domestic violence orders (or DVOs) to wear GPS devices that would track their movements. Violators would also pay the cost of the monitoring if financially able. The bill now returns to the House for agreement with the Senate's changes.

To show that the criminal justice system is designed to protect everyone—including those housed in our state prisons and county jails—the House Judiciary Committee last week approved Senate Bill 17 which would make it a felony for prison guards, jail employees or any correctional worker to have sex with an inmate. If convicted, the correctional worker could face up to five years in prison instead of the current misdemeanor penalty of no more than a year in jail. SB 17 now goes to the full House for consideration.

Improved screening for colon cancer in Kentucky received broad support in the House last Tuesday when it passed HB 72 by a vote of 97-0. The bill would provide $600,000 in state funds over the next biennium to cover colonoscopies for the uninsured while allowing the state to develop an income-based payment system to cover its costs. HB 72 now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Other House bills before the Senate for approval as of last week are:

■ HB 10, which passed the House 97-0, would create a nonrefundable tax credit for businesses that hire legally blind or severely disabled persons. The businesses must contract with a Kentucky nonprofit agency or work center in order to receive the credit.

■ HB 513, which passed the House 96-0, would establish a book program for preschool children statewide called "Books for Brains." The bill would provide age-appropriate books for children age 5 and under with restricted funds through local partnerships.

■ HB 498, which passed the House

Senate OKs $17.5 billion budget plan, readies for conference

FRANKFORT — Evenly spread cuts across most of state government and reduced bond funding were among the key changes in the $17.5 billion state budget plan passed by the Senate tonight, paving the way for a conference committee to work out differences between the House and Senate plans.

The Senate approved a bill that cut $1 billion in House-approved projects and restored two days to schools across the state. Instead, the Senate cut most government agencies' budgets by 1.5 percent in the first year of the biennium and 1 percent in the second, while eliminating two House provisions that would have used accounting changes to realize one-time revenues for the two-year spending plan. The revenue portion of the budget was contained in House Bill 530, while the spending portion was House Bill 290.

"The Senate budget makes painful decisions but those decisions are not any different than what families and businesses are weighing," said Sen. Bob Leeper, I-Paducah, who chairs the Senate budget panel. "The Senate developed a budget that supports job creation by the private sector while providing the level of services that we can afford."

As a result of issuing fewer bonds, the Senate plan would reduce the state's debt ratio to 6.88 percent. The governor's original proposal would have created a 7.66 percent debt ratio, while the House version was 7.6 percent. The Senate version also eliminates the fund transfers from agency accounts that have shored up the General Fund in recent budgets.

While adding back the two instructional days for schools, the Senate budget includes language granting more flexibility to local districts to save money, including using capital construction funding for operations, a one-time allowance on class size, and using parent volunteers rather than kindergarten aides.

Beyond the $112 million provided in the road plan, the budget also includes $38.5 million for infrastructure improvements around Fort Knox due to its growth thanks to Base Realignment and Closure.

$18.8 million in bond funding is included to rebuild Northpoint Training Center, the medium-security prison that was heavily damaged in a riot last year. The budget envisions a savings of $3 million in prison costs through a reduction in population, which will be offset by $3 million to hire and equip 50 new probation and parole officers.

"I'm fully convinced ... that this is a good, solid budget," said Senate President David Williams. "In a time of recession, I don't believe there is a state in this union that wouldn't trade places with the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

The Senate's commitment to reduced debt and low taxes, he said, would benefit Kentucky businesses and help lure new companies to the state. To that end, he said, the Senate authorized bonding for economic development incentives and directed the Cabinet for Economic Development to study the benefits and possibilities of luring "angel investors" to Kentucky.

HB 530 passed on a 35-3 vote, while HB 290 passed 35-2 with one abstention. Both bills now move to the House, where the procedure will likely begin to appoint lawmakers to a conference committee to debate the final plan.

Pike student wins state spelling bee

LOUISVILLE — Emily Keaton, a fifth-grade student at Christ Central Training School & Academy in Pike County, is the winner of the 2010 Kentucky Derby Festival State Spelling Bee sponsored by Kentucky Farm Bureau.

After winning the event on Saturday, March 20, at the Frazier International History Museum in Louisville, Keaton, the daughter of Andy and Jill Keaton, was presented with a U.S. Savings Bond valued at $10,000 upon maturity, a trophy, the latest edition of the Merriam Webster collegiate dictionary and a $25 Amazon.com gift card.

Second place went to Lidia Ani, daughter of Samuel and Helen Ani and an eighth-grade student who is homeschooled in Lincoln County. Ani received a savings bond valued at $5,000, a trophy, dictionary and $25 Amazon.com gift card.

Taking third in the event was Madison Janae Harris, daughter of Tim and Jennifer Harris from Carter County. Harris was presented with a $3,000 savings bond, trophy and $25 Amazon.com gift card.

Mackenzie Tallent, daughter of Allen and Beth Tallent and a fifth-grade student at Hannah McClure Elementary in Clark County, finished fourth. Tallent received a $1,500 savings bond and a trophy.

The fifth place award went to Gavon Bailey Mullins, the son of Brian and Stephanie Mullins and a seventh-grade student at Scott County Middle School in Scott County. Mullins received a $1,000 savings bond and a trophy.

Fifty-seven Kentucky and Southern Indiana public and private school students in fourth through eighth grades participated in the 17th annual Kentucky Derby Festival Spelling Bee. Kentucky Farm Bureau has been the sponsor since the spelling bee was added to the Kentucky Derby Festival's line-up of special events in 1994.

Kentucky Farm Bureau president Mark Haney congratulated the winning students and all who competed.

"It continues to be a great pleasure for Kentucky Farm Bureau to support the educational experiences fostered through the state spelling bee," he said. "Not only does this event allow the participant's and the school's academic achievements to be highlighted, but it also encourages communities across the state to honor those students who have displayed an exceptional ability in the classroom."

Bill to criminalize sex between guards, inmates passes

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

FRANKFORT — Legislation passed both Kentucky's House and Senate Monday that would see prison guards face felony rape charges for having consensual sex with inmates.

Guards had previously faced misdemeanor charges. The newly approved legislation will now go to Gov. Steve Beshear to be signed into law. Beshear spoke Monday about the legislation.

"This legislation offers greater protections for inmates in our custody," Beshear said, "and helps eliminate activities that can create security risks in our prisons."

Three months ago, the state ordered 400 female inmates removed from Otter Creek Correctional Complex in Wheelwright, a corporate-operated facility, to Western Kentucky Correctional Complex, a state-operated prison.

Prior to this decision, more than 150 female inmates from Hawaii were pulled from the prison after that state's corrections department cited safety concerns.

Otter Creek has been in the spotlight in the last year following numerous allegations of sexual misconduct, many of which have taken place over the last several years.

In the last three years, there have been 18 alleged cases of sexual misconduct at the prison, while a two-month investigation conducted by the Kentucky Department of Corrections last year revealed another seven allegations.

As the allegations at the prison started to gain the attention of state leaders, House Speaker Greg Stumbo, at one point, called on Beshear to have the state takeover the facility. Now Beshear says this new legislation should bring a better measure of safety across all the state's facilities.

"This measure, which has been a priority for my administration since I took office, further bolsters our commitment to ensure the safety of female inmates," Beshear said.

Corrections Corporation of America, the corporate owners of Otter Creek, offered a statement from spokesman Steve Owen to the Associated Press

Monday following the vote in Frankfort. Owen said the company had taken steps in the past to help prevent sexual assaults in the prison, adding that "the rogue actions of a few bad apples" had resulted in an unfair characterization of guards at the Wheelwright facility.

PRIDE

ple who care about this county."

Prestonsburg will hold its annual PRIDE Spring Roadside Cleanup from 8 a.m. until 12 p.m. on April 13. The city will also be holding its annual hard-trash pickup from April 5 until April 16. Prestonsburg will also hold its annual Arbor Day celebration next month. Over 150 volunteers will plant more than 2,000 tree seedlings from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. at Stonecrest Mountain on April 30.

"Prestonsburg PRIDE will be celebrating its fifth year," said Brent Graden, coordinator for Prestonsburg PRIDE and director of economic development. "Over those last five years, we have collected over 477 tons of trash. We are making our backyards the very best right here in eastern Kentucky. Please help us and pitch-in. It's our backyard, so let's keep it clean."

During the cleanup activities, volunteers will pick up roadside litter. PRIDE will provide t-shirts and cleanup supplies, and will also help local governments to pay for disposing of roadside litter, removing illegal dumps and offering free drop-off events for the community.

"Team PRIDE starts with you," said Karen Engle, with PRIDE. "That's our theme for the 2010 Spring Cleanup. If you volunteer and invite others to join the team with you, then your community will be a cleaner, healthier place to live and visit."

Senate

House Bill 1, "Amanda's Bill," is a good start in protecting these potential victims.

One of the problems with our current domestic violence statutes is that they are civil, not criminal issues. If a victim decides not to continue a case and returns to her/his abuser, there is little the justice system can do. HB 1 allows a judge to work with the victim and the county attorney to pursue criminal charges when necessary. Many times, victims seek help but then back away because of the financial or physical situation they are in. Once they return home, the abuse resumes. Under HB 1, the courts would be able to still seek justice even for those who are reluctant to pursue criminal charges.

A major component of the bill involves GPS tracking devices through ankle monitors. While they are a valuable tool, they have limitations. They depend on cell phone technology, and nearly half of Kentucky counties have areas without a signal. One of the great things about ankle monitors is that they provide real-time tracking, so victims seeking shelter can know if their abuser is too close. Without that signal, the protection is lost. This bill would require judges to inform victims of those limits, so they understand the dangers that remain.

Under this proposal, judges would statutorily have access to more information about the alleged offender, including criminal history and any previous domestic violence incidents. These are thorny situations for everyone involved, and each circumstance is different. We need fully informed public servants if they are to truly protect those in need.

Finally, we addressed another difficult situation that many Kentucky families find themselves in at some point or another. Many people know they can attach a sticker to their driver's license to donate their organs when they die, but the process is somewhat more complicated than that. The law, unfortunately, is somewhat vague as to whether the deceased will be an organ donor if the potential donor never made his or her preferences clear.

SB 4 would align Kentucky with most other states through the Revised Uniform Anatomical Gift Act, clearly stating how to make your wishes known, and who makes that decision if you never tell anyone. For the first time, SB 4 would even allow those who do not wish to donate their organs to make that declaration, thereby insuring that their loved ones will honor their wishes. SB 4 also clarifies the long-standing medical principle that no caregiver can withhold medical attention, food, or water, in order to hasten death and make organs available — a common concern among potential donors.

It was certainly a busy week, but the true rush of legislation is just beginning. With only one full week left, the budget is our top priority. # M-Power leadership students tour BSCTC technical programs

by DAPHENE KIRK GOBLE

PAINTSVILLE — Big Sandy Community and Technical College recently hosted three area high schools with tours of the various technical programs offered on the BSCTC Mayo and Hager Hill Campuses.

Participating schools included Johnson Central High School, Johnson County Alternative School and Paintsville Independent High School.

The Big Sandy Community Action Program (CAP) shepherds the M-Power Program — a leadership program that assists high school juniors and seniors in preparation and completion of high school.

Additionally, the M-Power

Program prepares students for post-secondary education and/or vocational training. The program provides support and guidance in educational training and employment opportunities.

The CAP M-Power Program is division of the Workforce Investment Act (WIA). BSACAP Representatives, Willie Owens, Marie Baldrige and Kayla Jude accompanied the students.

Information about the BSACAP M-Power Program is available by contacting, Willie Owens, Marie Baldrige or Kayla Jude at (606) 789-3641 or via e-mails at wowens@bsacap.org, mbaldrige@bsacap.org and kjude@bsacap.org.

Fruit, vegetable program open to schools

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Department of Education (KDE) is seeking elementary schools to participate in the federal Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program (FFVP) during the upcoming 2010-11 school year.

Kentucky has been allocated $1,842,089 for use during the period beginning July 1, 2010, and ending June 30, 2011. At a minimum of $60 per student over the course of the year, approximately 30,701 students can be served through the program.

Eligible schools are those containing grades preschool-6 or any combination thereof.

Participating schools must agree to offer free fresh fruits and vegetables to all enrolled students during the school day for a minimum of three days per week and at a time other than meal service periods.

Multiple schools from the same district can apply, although not all are guaranteed to be chosen.

Schools will be selected based on guidance and oversight by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). Section 19(d) of the National School Lunch Act outlines the selection criteria for schools to participate in this program:

■ Schools must have 50 percent or more of their students eligible for free/reduced-price meals.

■ To the maximum extent possible, highest priority will be given to schools with the highest percentage of low-income students.

■ Schools must be elementary schools or have the ability to separate out elementary students in a K-12 program.

■ Schools must operate the National School Lunch Program.

■ Schools must complete an annual FFVP application.

Funding for the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program is available for the 2010-11 school year through the Food, Conservation and Energy Act of 2008 (the Farm Bill), which amended the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act by adding Section 19, the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program. The purpose of the program is to increase fresh fruit and vegetable consumption of elementary school children, particularly low-income students who have fewer opportunities to consume fresh fruits and vegetables on a regular basis.

Interested schools should download the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program Handbook, which provides basics of the grant requirement. The handbook can be found at <http://www.fns.usda.gov/cnd/>

The grant application is located at <http://nhs.ky.gov>. Applications are due May 1, and awards will be announced no later than June 1. Funds will be available when school starts in August, and awarded school districts must enter into a written agreement with KDE.

Notice of Intent to File an Application

The purpose of this notice is to inform the public that the Southeast Floyd Volunteer Fire Department will be filing an application for financial assistance with the U.S. Department of Agriculture — Rural Development to fund the purchase of a fire truck. A general public meeting will be held on April 7, 2010 at 6:00 p.m. at the Fire Station located at Melvin to further discuss the proposed project.

Rohl and Conn Hold Southeast Asia Meetings

In modern archaeological circles the Old Testament is generally believed to be nothing more than a work of fanciful fiction. However, one British Egyptologist and Ancient Historian disagrees. David Rohl has proposed that the blind acceptance of now-proven false assumptions has led to this erroneous conclusion. Rohl suggests that several hundred years have been mistakenly added to the conventional chronology of established Old Testament history. This error has prevented archaeologists from finding evidence as to the existence of the people and events from the Old Testament period. In short, archeologists have been looking in the right places but in the wrong times.

Rohl has been an insider in the archaeological world and was formerly the director of the Institute for the Study of Interdisciplinary Sciences. Rohl has degrees in Egyptology and Ancient History and can hold his own against his most vocal critics. Rohl wants to improve man's understanding of the Old Testament time period but acknowledges that this is perhaps boring to some. Rohl, a realist, knows that the real importance of his work is its ability to change the view of the future—should his theory prevail—because each artifact from the Old Testament time period potentially provides a better understanding of the historical lives and events God chose as examples for man.

Eric C. Conn is a prominent local attorney. Conn has made his wealth by representing the disabled in Disabled Social Security and SSI proceedings. Conn has also been a regular contributor to several charitable causes concerning assistance for the poor. Conn continues to practice in the Disabled Social Security and SSI field.

Conn believes that Rohl's timeline theory regarding the Old Testament period has been wrongfully suppressed by non-believers because they know that it supports the truthfulness of the Old Testament. Conn says, "Believers have been mocked by non-believers for years for their steadfast belief that the Old Testament was accurate. Now, David's theory shows that the believers were right all along." Conn has offered financial support to assist in the releasing to the public about the archaeological accuracy of the Old Testament. Conn said he is doing this for his late grandmother who never faltered in her belief in the accuracy of the Old Testament.

Rohl and Conn will hold meetings from March 22, 2010 to March 27, 2010.

Kentucky is a pro-life state, but our House of Representatives will not pass a pro-life bill!

Kentucky is ranked 12th in the nation for being pro-life and yet our House of Representatives has blocked all pro-life bills since 2004. Every Session since 2004, the Senate has passed a pro-life bill by an overwhelming bipartisan vote (32 to 4 this year) and House Leadership "arranges" for it to die in one of its committees.

Why? Because a handful of extreme, pro-abortion legislators (about 8 or 10) helped install the current group of five House Leaders with their block vote . . . and for that block vote they demanded a promise that no pro-life bills come to the House Floor.

Now The Ultrasound Bill is dying once again. (This is the the fourth time in four years that this particular bill has been killed in the House.)

All The Ultrasound Bill does is require the abortionist to offer his patient a view of her ultrasound and have a face-to-face consultation with her. He's already done an ultrasound to help "price" his abortion (the older the baby, the more money he charges) so it does not add to the cost . . . And a face-to-face consultation is normal for ALL other procedures — Who has surgery without talking face-to-face with their surgeon?

Here are the five House Leaders (and Greg Stumbo is your Representative!):

Majority Whip John Will Stacey      Majority Floor Leader Rocky Adkins

Speaker Pro Tempore Larry Clark      Majority Caucus Chairman Bob Damron

and House Speaker Greg Stumbo

Now there's one week left in the 2010 Session. Please make one toll-free phone call and leave one message for all five Leaders.

Simply call 1-800-372-7181 and say . . .

"Pass The Ultrasound Bill!"

Then ask the operator to "copy" your message to all five Leaders. The line is open TONIGHT . . . from 7:00 AM until 11:00 PM.

KSP gearing up for third annual motorcycle safety event

FRANKFORT — Last year, over 200 motorcyclists and enthusiasts from across the Commonwealth attended the annual 'Motorcycle Safety Awareness Day' event. This year's event is scheduled for May 12 and promises to be bigger and better. A full day of activities is scheduled that include motorcycle safety exhibits, vendor displays, a free safety seminar, news conference and the 'Cruise for Safety Awareness' ride.

Commander, Lt. David Jude is organizing the 2010 event in an effort to bring awareness to both motorists and riders about the importance of sharing the road.

"It is all about safety and changing driving behavior to reduce the number of motorcycle deaths in Kentucky. Last year was our first warm-weather week, which brought out the motorcycles," said Jude.

"Unfortunately, during that time, there were 21 crashes involving motorcycles where 3 motorcyclists were killed."

In 2009, Kentucky had 1,873 crashes involving motorcycles with 78 of those crashes resulting in death. Of those, 51 of the victims were not wearing helmets. Last year, there were 104,687 motorcycles licensed in the Commonwealth.

Jude is reaching out to riders, the motoring public and the motorcycle industry in an effort to bring all parties to the venue.

"Our principle concern is to increase driver recognition of motorcyclists in traffic, while at the same time encouraging cyclists to engage in the overall safe operation of their bikes."

"We already have representatives from the cycle industry onboard for this event. Many of these vendors who plan to participate will feature the latest safety apparel and equipment available to riders," adds Jude.

The "Cruise for Safety Awareness" ride will be escorted by KSP and the University of Kentucky Police Motorcycle Unit, traveling from Frankfort through scenic Woodford County.

Jude said the event will also include a free motorcycle safety seminar taught by a certified Motorcycle Safety Foundation RiderCoach.

"There's often an obstacle facing new riders," says Jude. "They'd like to buy their first bike or maybe upgrade to a newer, more powerful one, but worry about their ability to handle it safely. Rider education programs are the answer for both beginning and seasoned riders. We advocate attending refresher courses that help riders keep their edge by sharpening their skills."

Jude advised that space is limited for the free seminar to the first 100 participants who register. Information about the seminar and other scheduled events for 'Motorcycle Safety Awareness Day' can be found on the KSP webpage at www.kentuckystatepolice.org or by contacting the office at 502-695-6353.

All event activities are open to the public and free of charge. They will take place at KSP Headquarters located at 919 Versailles Road in Frankfort and begin at 11 a.m.

Scams

corrected Form W-2 for fear of IRS retaliation. Taxpayers should resist any temptation to participate in any of the variations of this scheme. Filings of this type of return may result in a $5,000 penalty.

Misuse of Trusts

For years, unscrupulous promoters have urged taxpayers to transfer assets into trusts. While there are many legitimate, valid uses of trusts in tax and estate planning, some promoted transactions promise reduction of income subject to tax, deductions for personal expenses and reduced estate or gift taxes. Such trusts rarely deliver the tax benefits promised and are used primarily as a means to avoid income tax liability and to hide assets from creditors, including the IRS.

The IRS has recently seen an increase in the improper use of private annuity trusts and foreign trusts to shift income and deduct personal expenses. As with other arrangements, taxpayers should seek the advice of a trusted professional before entering into a trust arrangement.

Fuel Tax Credit Scams

The IRS receives claims for the fuel tax credit that are excessive. Some taxpayers, such as farmers who use fuel for off-highway business purposes, may be eligible for the fuel tax credit. But other individuals are claiming the tax credit for nontaxable uses of fuel when their occupation or income level makes the claim unreasonable. Fraud involving the fuel tax credit is considered a frivolous tax claim and potentially subjects those who improperly claim the credit to a $5,000 penalty.

How to Report Suspected Tax Fraud Activity

Suspected tax fraud can be reported to the IRS using Form 3949-A, Information Referral. Form 3949-A is available for download from the IRS Web site at IRS.gov. The completed form or a letter detailing the alleged fraudulent activity should be addressed to the Internal Revenue Service, Fresno, CA 93888. The mailing should include specific information about who is being reported, the activity being reported, how the activity became known, when the alleged violation took place, the amount of money involved and any other information that might be helpful in an investigation. The person filing the report is not required to self-identify, although it is helpful to do so. The identity of the person filing the report can be kept confidential.

Whistleblowers also may provide allegations of fraud to the IRS and may be eligible for a reward by filing Form 211, Application for Award for Original Information, and following the procedures outlined in Notice, 2008-4, Claims Submitted to the IRS Whistleblower Office under Section 7623.

Five deaths on Kentucky highways last week

FRANKFORT - Preliminary statistics indicate that five people died in five separate crashes on Kentucky roadways from Monday, March 15, through Sunday, March 21.

Two of the crashes involved motor vehicles and neither of those victims were wearing seat belts. Single-fatality crashes occurred in Fayette and Jefferson counties.

Three of the crashes involved motorcycles and none of those victims were wearing helmets. Those crashes occurred in Barren, McCracken and Todd counties. The suspected use of alcohol was a factor in the Barren County crash.

Through March 21, preliminary statistics indicate that 121 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2010. This is 35 less fatalities than reported for the same time period in 2009.

There were 104 motor vehicle fatalities and 59 of those victims were not wearing seat belts. Thirteen of those crashes involved a commercial motor vehicle. Twelve fatal crashes involved a pedestrian and one involved a scooter. Three crashes involved a motorcycle and none of the victims were wearing helmets. One crash involved an ATV and the victim was not wearing a helmet. A total of 26 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas. Crash data for this report is generated from the Kentucky Fatality Analysis Reporting System (FARS).

SAFELY MICROWAVE Quick and Easy Meals

FAST FAMILY DINNERS FOR THE RUSH HOUR

FAMILY FEATURES

It's that frantic time of day — after work, after school, after day care, and after sports events — when you have to get dinner on the table. Overwhelming! It's more than enough to drive you to the fast food lane.

But relax! You own a microwave oven! In mere minutes, you can zap a nutritious, home-cooked, family-friendly dinner — even if the meat is still in the freezer when you get home.

The microwave oven has been called one of the greatest inventions of the 20th century. Over 90 percent of homes in America have at least one. In fact, if you have ever been without one for a few days, you find out just how much you rely on it. But most folks are using theirs only for reheating leftovers, defrosting food or making popcorn.

Loyalists testify that the microwave is great for cooking ground meats, poultry, and vegetables — three items that can make a fast, family dinner. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) would like to add “safe” to that. Microwave ovens cook food to temperatures hot enough to kill bacteria, but they can cook food unevenly and leave “cold spots” where harmful bacteria survive.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), not cooking food to high enough temperatures to destroy bacteria is one of the top two causes of foodborne illness. For this reason, it is important to use a food thermometer to verify that foods reach USDA-recommended temperatures.

Know the wattage of your microwave

It's important to know the wattage of your oven when using cooking directions from various sources. Microwave ovens vary in wattage, and the higher the wattage of a microwave oven, the faster it will cook food.

If you don't know the wattage of your microwave oven, try looking inside the door, on the back of the oven, or in the owner's manual. If you can't find it, read the publication “Microwave Ovens and Food Safety” at www.fsis.usda.gov to learn how to use a “Time-to-Boil” test to estimate your oven's wattage. This publication also tells how to determine if a utensil is safe to use in a microwave oven.

Microwave frozen convenience foods until safely cooked

In addition to microwaving home-cooked foods safely, it's also very important to follow handling and cooking instructions on frozen convenience foods. Some frozen foods, such as breaded chicken cutlets, can look fully cooked. However, many people have gotten sick from such products that were undercooked. Just thawing them in the microwave isn't enough to make them safe. You must microwave such foods to a safe minimum internal temperature of 165°F to be safely cooked.

Microwave Safety Tips

Following the USDA's microwave recommendations will help you get dinner prepared speedily but safely.

- Know your microwave's wattage.
- Before freezing a package of ground beef, form it in a donut shape to thaw faster.
- Remove frozen meat and poultry from packaging before thawing to avoid chemical contamination. Transfer the frozen meat or poultry to a microwave-safe dish.
- Remove thawed portions of ground meat and transfer them to a plate; return frozen portion to the microwave for additional defrosting.
- When thawing chicken parts, break them apart as they defrost and rotate them in the dish so that the frozen areas are to the outside of the dish.
- Cook meat and poultry immediately after microwave defrosting because some areas of the frozen food may get warm or begin to cook during the defrosting time. Do not hold partially cooked food to use later.
- To remove fat from ground beef, crumble the meat into a hard-plastic colander set over a microwave-safe casserole. After microwaving, discard the fat that has drained into the casserole.
- Cover food to create steam that helps destroy harmful bacteria.
- Follow package directions to make sure all foods reach safe internal temperatures. Sometimes frozen foods look fully cooked, but they actually require cooking to be safe.
- Microwave foods to safe minimum internal temperatures as measured with a food thermometer (165°F for poultry; 160°F for ground meats).
- After microwaving, allow the food to rest so cooking is completed.
- Use cooked meat and poultry within 4 days. Leftovers may be frozen.

Consumers with food safety questions can “Ask Karen,” the FSIS virtual representative available 24 hours a day at AskKaren.gov. The toll-free USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline, 1-888-MPHotline (1-888-674-6854), is available in English and Spanish and can be reached from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (Eastern Time) Monday through Friday. Recorded food safety messages are available 24 hours a day.

12-Minute Sombbrero Supper

Tested in an 800-watt microwave oven
Makes 4 servings

- 1 pound lean ground beef or ground turkey
- 1 small green bell pepper, cored and chopped
- 1 (1.25-ounce) taco seasoning packet
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 1 (14.5-ounce) can dark red kidney beans, drained
- Round tortilla chips
- 1 cup shredded cheese

Crumble ground beef into a hard plastic colander set over a 2-quart microwave-safe casserole. Microwave on high 3 minutes. Stir to break up beef and scatter bell pepper over the top. Microwave on high 3 minutes.

Discard fat that has drained into casserole dish, and transfer meat mixture into same casserole. Stir in taco seasoning and tomato sauce. Cover and microwave on high 3 minutes. Stir and add kidney beans. Re-cover and microwave on high 3 minutes. Test meat mixture with a food thermometer to make sure it reaches 160°F. Let mixture rest 2 minutes before serving.

Two ways to serve: (1) Transfer meat mixture to the center of a large platter; or (2) divide the meat mixture among 4 individual plates. Surround the meat mixture with tortilla chips to resemble a hat brim. Scatter cheese over the meat mixture to resemble a straw hat, and serve hot.

Serving suggestion: To make a complete meal, accompany the dish with a salad and a green vegetable.

Quick Chicken Nuggets

Tested in an 800-watt microwave oven
Makes 4 to 6 servings

- 1 1/2 pounds boneless chicken breasts
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup dry herb stuffing
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 teaspoon dry basil leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme

Cut chicken into bite-size chunks. Place butter or margarine in a glass pie plate and microwave on high 1 minute, or until melted.

Put dry stuffing on a piece of wax paper and crush with a rolling pin. Add cheese, basil and thyme; mix. Dip chicken chunks into melted butter and then roll in stuffing mixture.

Arrange coated chicken in a single layer in a 2-quart rectangular glass dish. Cover with wax paper and microwave on high 3 minutes.

Using a fork, move less-done chicken to the edges of the dish. Re-cover and microwave on high 3 to 4 minutes, or until chicken reaches 165°F as measured with a food thermometer. Let stand 2 minutes before serving.

Serving suggestion: To make a complete meal, accompany the dish with side dishes of rice or potatoes and a green vegetable.

Beware of IRS' 'Dirty Dozen' tax scams

The Internal Revenue Service issued its 2010 "dirty dozen" list of tax scams, including schemes involving return preparer fraud, hiding income offshore and phishing. "Taxpayers should be wary of anyone peddling scams that seem too good to be true," IRS Commissioner Doug Shulman said. "The IRS fights fraud by pursuing taxpayers who hide income abroad and by ensuring taxpayers get competent, ethical service from qualified professionals at home in the U.S."

Tax schemes are illegal and can lead to imprisonment and fines for both scam artists and taxpayers. Taxpayers pulled into these schemes must repay unpaid taxes plus interest and penalties. The IRS pursues and shuts down promoters of these and numerous other scams.

The IRS urges taxpayers to avoid these common schemes:

Return Preparer Fraud
Dishonest return preparers can cause trouble for taxpayers who fall victim to their ploys. Such preparers derive financial gain by skimming a portion of their clients' refunds, charging inflated fees for return preparation services and attracting new clients by promising refunds that are too good to be true. Taxpayers should choose carefully when hiring a tax preparer. Federal courts have issued injunctions ordering hundreds of individuals to cease preparing returns and promoting fraud, and the Department of Justice has filed complaints against dozens of others, which are pending in court.

To increase confidence in the tax system and improve compliance with the tax law, the IRS is implementing a number of steps for future filing seasons. These include a requirement that all paid tax return preparers register with the IRS and obtain a preparer tax identification number, as well as both competency tests and ongoing continuing professional education for all paid tax return preparers except attorneys, certified public accountants and enrolled agents.

Setting higher standards for the tax preparer community will significantly enhance protections and services for taxpayers, increase confidence in the tax system and result in greater compliance with tax laws over the long term. Other measures the IRS anticipates taking are highlighted in the IRS Return Preparer Review issued in December 2009.

Hiding Income Offshore
The IRS aggressively pursues taxpayers involved in abusive offshore transactions as well as the promoters, professionals and others who facilitate or enable these schemes. Taxpayers have tried to avoid or evade U.S. income tax by hiding income in offshore banks, brokerage accounts or through the use of nominee entities. Taxpayers also evade taxes by using offshore debit cards, credit cards, wire transfers, foreign trusts, employee-leasing schemes, private annuities or insurance plans. IRS agents continue to develop their investigations of these offshore tax avoidance transactions using information gained from over 14,700 voluntary disclosures received last year. While special civil-penalty provisions for those with undisclosed offshore accounts expired in 2009, the IRS continues to urge taxpayers with offshore accounts or entities to voluntarily come forward and resolve their tax matters. By making a voluntary disclosure, taxpayers may mitigate their risk of criminal prosecution.

Phishing
Phishing is a tactic used by scam artists to trick unsuspecting victims into revealing personal or financial information online. IRS impersonation schemes flourish during the filing season and can take the form of e-mails, tweets or phony Web sites. Scammers may also use phones and faxes to reach their victims.

Scam artists will try to mislead consumers by telling them they are entitled to a tax refund from the IRS and that they must reveal personal information to claim it. Criminals use the information they get to steal the victim's identity, access bank accounts, run up credit card charges or apply for loans in the victim's name.

Taxpayers who receive suspicious e-mails claiming to come from the IRS should not open any attachments or click on any of the links in the e-mail. Suspicious e-mails claiming to be from the IRS or Web addresses that do not begin with <http://www.irs.gov> should be forwarded to the IRS mailbox: phishing@irs.gov.

Filing False or Misleading Forms
The IRS is seeing various instances where scam artists file false or misleading returns to claim refunds that they are not entitled to. Under the scheme, taxpayers fabricate an information return and falsely claim the corresponding amount as withholding as a way to seek a tax refund. Phony information returns, such as a Form 1099-Original Issue Discount, claiming false withholding credits usually are used to legitimize erroneous refund claims. One version of the scheme is based on a false theory that the federal government maintains secret accounts for its citizens, and that taxpayers can gain access to funds in those accounts by issuing 1099-OID forms to their creditors, including the IRS.

Nontaxable Social Security Benefits with Exaggerated Withholding Credit
The IRS has identified returns where taxpayers report nontaxable Social Security Benefits with excessive withholding. This tactic results in no income reported to the IRS on the tax return. Often both the withholding amount and the reported income are incorrect. Taxpayers should avoid making these mistakes. Filings of this type of return may result in a $5,000 penalty.

Abuse of Charitable Organizations and Deductions
The IRS continues to observe the misuse of tax-exempt organizations. Abuse includes arrangements to improperly shield income or assets from taxation and attempts by donors to maintain control over donated assets or income from donated property. The IRS also continues to investigate various schemes involving the donation of non-cash assets including situations where several organizations claim the full value for both the receipt and distribution of the same non-cash contribution. Often these donations are highly overvalued or the organization receiving the donation promises that the donor can repurchase the items later at a price set by the donor. The Pension Protection Act of 2006 imposed increased penalties for inaccurate appraisals and set new definitions of qualified appraisals and qualified appraisers for taxpayers claiming charitable contributions.

Frivolous Arguments
Promoters of frivolous schemes encourage people to make unreasonable and outlandish claims to avoid paying the taxes they owe. If a scheme seems too good to be true, it probably is. The IRS has a list of frivolous legal positions that taxpayers should avoid. These arguments are false and have been thrown out of court. While taxpayers have the right to contest their tax liabilities in court, no one has the right to disobey the law or IRS guidance.

Abusive Retirement Plans
The IRS continues to find abuses in retirement plan arrangements, including Roth Individual Retirement Arrangements. The IRS is looking for transactions that taxpayers use to avoid the limits on contributions to IRAs, as well as transactions that are not properly reported as early distributions. Taxpayers should be wary of advisers who encourage them to shift appreciated assets at less than fair market value into IRAs or companies owned by their IRAs to circumvent annual contribution limits. Other variations have included the use of limited liability companies to engage in activity that is considered prohibited.

Disguised Corporate Ownership
Corporations and other entities are formed and operated in certain states for the purpose of disguising the ownership of the business or financial activity by means such as improperly using a third party to request an employer identification number.

Such entities can be used to facilitate underreporting of income, fictitious deductions, non-filing of tax returns, participating in listed transactions, money laundering, financial crimes and even terrorist financing. The IRS is working with state authorities to identify these entities and to bring the owners of these entities into compliance with the law.

Zero Wages
Filing a phony wage- or income-related information return to replace a legitimate information return has been used as an illegal method to lower the amount of taxes owed. Typically, a Form 4852, Substitute Form W-2 or a "corrected" Form 1099 is used as a way to improperly reduce taxable income to zero. The taxpayer also may submit a statement rebutting wages and taxes reported by a payer to the IRS. Sometimes fraudsters even include an explanation on their Form 4852 that cites statutory language on the definition of wages or may include some reference to a paying company that refuses to issue a

Vote Kenneth Prater

MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2

Hi, my name is Kenneth Prater. I am running for Magistrate in District 2. I would like to take this opportunity to tell everyone a little about myself.

I'm from the right fork of Middle Creek (formerly known as Brainard, KY). I have been married to my wife, Camille (Dodd) Prater, of Salyersville, for over 35 years. Our oldest daughter, Missy "Prater" Price, passed away on November 18, 2004. She left behind our two grandsons, Zackory, Kenneth Ray Price and Sebastian Charles Eric Tackett. The boys now live with our youngest daughter, Melinda "Prater" White. Melinda and the boys live in Dry Ridge, Ky. I also had another child, Gregory Lee Prater. He passed away on June 17, 1990, at the age of 16.

My grandparents were Bob and Lula "Whitaker" Prater. My grandfather was a farmer and a disabled state worker. My grandmother ran the Brainard Post Office for over 20 years. My father, Charlie Prater, was an electrician and worked for the county for several years.

I am a retired electrician. If elected, I can devote all my efforts full-time, not part-time, for the job of Magistrate in District 2.

While campaigning, I have had the opportunity to observe the condition of our county roads in this district. It seems to me that a lot have been neglected.

If elected, I will devote myself over the next four years to work on all county roads, not just a select few!! I would greatly appreciate your support and vote in the upcoming election.

Your Vote and Support is Greatly Appreciated!
Thank you, KENNETH PRATER

Paid for by the candidate.

EVERYBODY'S SCIENCE

One smart lady

by SANDY MILLER HAYS
AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH SERVICE

Does it ever seem to you that we've barely scratched the surface in terms of discovering all the benefits that Mother Nature has to offer us? I certainly feel that way — and that also seems to be the case with the scientists of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS).

You might suppose that scientists are all into cutting-edge chemicals and the latest and greatest high-tech toys. But at ARS, there's a lot of focus on finding ways to use Nature's products to solve problems that previously might have been dispatched with a great galloping dose of some synthetic substance.

Here are a couple of the latest examples:

■ We all know that keeping pests out of stored foods is a problem, whether you're talking about a warehouse or your own kitchen pantry. But here's a potential new solution that you've just got to admire: fungal fumes!

The fungus in question is called Muscodor albus, and it was first isolated from the bark of a Honduran cinnamon tree some dozen years ago. Recently, ARS scientists in Washington state have been testing Muscodor fumes against the potato tuber moth. In its larval stage, this pest feeds on the potato plant's leaves and the spud itself, burrowing deep inside the potato until it's time to emerge and spin a cocoon elsewhere.

Yes, there are pesticides to deal with these kinds of problems, but some of them can't be used within two weeks of harvesting the potatoes. And that can be plenty of time for the surviving moths to lay their eggs on the potatoes before those spuds are harvested and packed off for storage or sale.

But the ARS scientists say fumigating the stored spuds with Muscodor fumes could offer a safe, biobased way to finish off those surviving moths. In fumigation-chamber tests, the scientists report that 85 to 91 percent of adult potato tuber moths died when exposed to the Muscodor fumes, and between 62 and 73 percent of the larvae died or failed to pupate.

Potatoes aren't the only crop to benefit from those fungal fumes. In a different ARS study, the Muscodor fumes successfully overcame the apple codling moth which, in its larval stage, bores into apples to feed. But in tests with stored apples, a 14-day exposure to the Muscodor fumes killed every one of the moths in their overwintering stage — cocooned larvae — which is when they're typically the hardest to control.

Now the scientists are looking at Muscodor's effectiveness in biofumigating sealed cartons of apples stored at various temperatures. So far, they've seen no adverse effects on the apples' color or firmness.

■ Here's another natural wonder to ponder: Chinese bush clover. This is a common pasture plant with an amazing power to help grazing ruminant animals fight off damaging gastrointestinal nematodes — what we non-scientist types would call "worms" — that can make the animal sick or even kill it.

One of the worst of these intestinal worms is Haemonchus contortus, the barber pole worm. This is a truly disgusting creature that attaches to the ruminant animal's abomasal (true stomach) wall and feeds on the animal's blood. The female worm can produce more than 5,000 eggs per day, which are passed out of the animal's body in its manure.

Once those eggs hit the ground and hatch, the larvae molt several times and wind up stuck on leaves of grass that the animals inadvertently gobble as they graze, starting the whole vicious cycle again.

This problem has been a major hindrance to goat production worldwide. And while there are chemical treatments for these worms, the parasites

The application deadline is April 15.

Thirty-three teachers from Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio will be selected to participate in the program, which is titled the We the People ... The Citizen and the Constitution Ohio-Indiana-Kentucky Summer Institute. The institute instructors are constitutional scholars.

Ten Years Ago

(March 19, 22 and 24, 2000)

A man known for trying to bring more money into the county to be used for improvements discovered a treasure chest in his own back yard. During Friday's fiscal court meeting an elated Paul Hunt Thompson revealed what he had found. In a single act of refinancing the county's bonds last year, County Judge-Executive Thompson saved area taxpayers an estimated $1.15 million in interest payments.

Students at Allen Central Middle School were captivated by both the content and style of Dr. Don Frazier's presentation, Tuesday, as he gave the students an opportunity to see real examples of human body organs not normally found in a typical health or science class. Frazier is director of the Outreach Center for Science and Health Careers at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

The House of Representatives has backed a comprehensive piece of legislation that will make the law much tougher on drunk drivers. One of the key provisions lowers the blood-alcohol level for a DUI charge from .10 to .08. House Bill 366 was passed 91-5.

A preliminary hearing of a Prestonsburg man was postponed after he failed to obtain a lawyer for his case. Larry D. Vance was arrested, Tuesday, and charged on multiple charges that included drug trafficking.

County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson had ended a ban on outdoor burning which had been in effect since March 6. The ban was reinstated on Friday, due to a recent change in the weather.

Members of the Middle Creek Development Club have gathered 82 signatures in the form of a petition protesting the lack of fire hydrants being installed in their area. The petition states "We the Middle Creek Development Club, appreciate the city water being run on Middle Creek to the state road. We feel it is very important to have fire hydrants installed for our protection from fire."

With the beginning of spring, as the greens and rough areas on Prestonsburg's Golf Course are being tended, the course's future continues to lead discussions of the Prestonsburg Golf Course management Committee. Members Paul Hughes, Jerry Fannin, Ted Nairn, Gorman Collins, Joe Burchett and Richard Clark assembled for a meeting on Tuesday. The committee is still in discussion on the financial future of the course.

Liz Swick, a high school representative from the Pittsburgh Art Institute was at Prestonsburg High School on Friday to give a presentation on the various careers in art, graphic design, interior decorating, industrial arts, photography and computer animation. Swick used work from the Art Institute to do her presentation. The Art Institute of Pittsburgh was founded in 1921 and was the first School of the Art Institute International. Prestonsburg Police Chief Darrell Conley, said there has been an "increase in counterfeit bills in the area." Two area merchants recently reported incidents of receiving bogus bills in the $100 and/or $20 denominations.

A Johnson County man surrendered to sheriff's deputies yesterday after spending a night in the forest eluding state police. Kentucky State Police say Harold Hughes, 53, of Riceville, fled into the woods on a four-wheeler after learning he had been indicted a grand jury on a single count of first-degree wanton endangerment.

In a special-called meeting of the Wheelwright City Commission—described by city attorney Tim Parker as an air-clearing meeting—members dealt with one agenda item: a round table discussion with the utility commission: One item for discussion was a proposed $1.77 across the board raise for utility workers. In a previous meeting, the city commission had vetoed the proposal by the utilities board and Jimmy Little said that asking for a $1.77 raise for the workers at the same time was "a lot of money."

A state auditor's report says County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson owes the county $2,683 and suggests he clear the deficit with personal funds. The report, released by state auditor Ed Hatchett's office, examines the sheriff's Department's finances from 1997, at which time Thompson served as sheriff prior to winning his current position of judge-executive in 1998.

Construction is set to continue on Prestonsburg's championship golf course. Ranger will be back on the job the first of April. Crews will be looking at topsoil erosion problems, seeding, and the lining of the ponds along holes three, five and seven. A motion was passed to line two ponds located on the 18th hole at an additional cost of $38,650.

Former county judge-executive Ben Hale says he welcomes his latest job change. Hale, of Blue River, became the assistant director for commission operations with the Kentucky Appalachian Commission on March 1.

Twenty Years Ago

(March 19, 1980)

William Riley Wells, who has three liquor charges currently against him, was released from jail, Sunday, where he was sentenced to serve 80 days for a fourth liquor charge. He served 25 of those 80 days and his probation orders him to leave the county, by at least 60 miles, for a period one year.

Once again the members of the Floyd Cable TV Commission found themselves caught up in a political, legal and philosophical battle last week. The question this time stems from the order that cable TV service be provided to the isolated area of Whitaker Hill near Little Paint. This would require a rate increase from $7.50 to $9.10 per month to cover the cost of the extended service, according to the owner of the cable company.

The new bonding authority sought by Gov. John Y. Brown, and the federal reclamation monies due to be returned to Kentucky if the state wins primary responsibility for enforcing stripmine laws here, might yield funds for cleaning up Dewey Lake and developing Prestonsburg as a major recreational area.

Nevard Wells, former chief reclamation inspector who was dismissed from his job on Aug. 31, on the charge of disregard of state regulations, abuse of the public trust and official misconduct, has been reinstated after his denial of the charges and his appeal to the personnel board.

Three persons were wounded, one seriously, in weekend shooting frays in this county. A single shotgun blast fired into a car on the Old Middle Creek road, resulted in the wounding of 14-year-old Paul David Ousley, a passenger in a car driven by Johnny Lee Newsome who suffered a slight shoulder wound. Ellis "Bo" Campbell was jailed on first degree assault charges, as was Orville Tom Hall for a second shooting which wounded Eugene Tackett of Mud Creek.

Ten Harold families have been isolated for two weeks following road and rail construction there, a resident told the Floyd Fiscal Court last week.

A Bible, a wedding gift which has been missing for 21 years, was returned to its owner, Mary Lou Joseph of Prestonsburg, recently. The Bible was the last remaining memory Joseph had of her marriage to her late husband, Ronnie Stanley, and it was found by a stranger in Zapato, Texas, along with her marriage license and son's birth certificate. Joseph had never recovered the items from her home in Indiana, and she is mystified about how it ended up in Texas.

Winners of this year's 15th Regional crown are the Betsy Layne Bobcats. In a rip and tuck thriller, Tuesday night, at the Prestonsburg Gymnasium, the Bobcats defeated a powerful Virgie team in the final seconds of the game, 72-70, to earn the title and a state tournament berth.

There died: Darrell Keith Stratton, 41, of Martin, Wednesday, at UK Medical Center; Edna Rice Griffith, 78, of David, Monday, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Ishmael Sparkman, 72, of Larkslane, March 11, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Mae Ford Hyden, 91, of Prestonsburg, Monday, at Riverview Manor Nursing Home; Ruby Moore Ramey Hatcher, 65, of Pikeville, March 12, at Pikeville Methodist Hospital; Ola Watson, 67, of David, March 11, at Riverview Manor; Julia Moore, 72, of East McDowell, Tuesday, at Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington; Infant Hall, son of Curt and Rosetta Ramey Hall, at birth, Monday, at OLWH; Rosie Warrix Calhoun, 77, of Water Gap, March 10, at OLWH; J.S. "Francis" Reynolds, 83, of Beaver, Tuesday, at the home of her daughter; Ishmael Little, 46, Monday, at his Melvin home; Georgia E. Allen, of Covington, formerly of this county, Feb. 14, at a Covington hospital.

Due to the uneven amount of publications in each year, there was no entry for 1970 in the Our Yesterdays column this week.

Low-rent housing and taxation together produced tension-packed issues at Monday night's city council session. One five-man faction of the council cast aside three of the four appointments made by Mayor Edward B. Leslie to form a Housing Commission and named a commission of its own choosing. Three remaining members walked out of the meeting at the end of the discussion and were at the point of submitting their resignations. All this took place after the votes on low-rent housing had been tabulated. For housing, 596; against 26.

A one-cent tax on purchase of 15 to 44 cents will be the starting point for consumers who pay Kentucky's new sales tax beginning July 1.

The privilege or license tax enacted by the city council at its hectic meeting, Monday night, was vetoed by Mayor Edward Leslie.

Coach Don Wallen and his Wheelwright Trojans came home to a hero's welcome after winning the 58th district basketball tournament held at Prestonsburg, March 5.

have developed resistance to those treatments.

Enter the ARS scientists, who have developed and patented formulations of Chinese bush clover that can be added as dry hay or in pelletized form to the feed of goats and sheep. Chinese bush clover—Sericea lespedeza—isn't some rare plant only found in the Amazonian rain forest; it was introduced into the United States in the 1930s to minimize soil erosion. Feeding this plant to the animals thwarts the reproductive cycle of the worms, and it's especially effective against that awful barber pole worm.

It just goes to show that Mom (Mother Nature, that is) really does know best, if we're smart enough to listen!

ALC cheerleaders participate in Dr. Seuss Day at McDowell Elementary

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MCDOWELL — Alice Lloyd College cheerleaders have always loved to work with elementary school kids, and they recently paid a visit to McDowell Elementary School with Coach Kristi Crum, to participate in the national Dr. Seuss Reading Day that took place on March 1.

Theodor Seuss Geisel, better known to everyone as Dr. Seuss, has written some of the most popular children's books of all time. He is beloved for writing and illustrating over 40 wonderful stories including "The Cat in the Hat" and "How the Grinch Stole Christmas." It is fitting that an event involving children and reading would honor his name.

Members of the Alice Lloyd College cheerleading squad went to classrooms to read these and other books to a group of eager youngsters. Their goal was to not only show the children the importance of reading, but also to demonstrate how much fun that reading can be.

When asked about her impressions of the event, freshman cheerleader Rachel Lindon commented, "I am an education major with plans to teach on this younger grade level after graduation. At first I was nervous to be in front of a class of children and was not sure how they would respond to me since I was a visitor. However, they quickly made me feel welcome, and I immediately relaxed." She further added, "I loved to see how they got so excited about the stories. Their reactions to each page I read were priceless, and they really got into the books! I now feel that I am pursuing the right career profession for me."

Sophomore cheerleader Heather Hannah exclaimed, "I really enjoyed seeing the looks on the kid's faces and how excited they were to have the opportunity to interact with the story. I really feel the experience will inspire them to read more in the future. As for me, it was so rewarding to know that I was able to make a difference, and hopefully, I had a positive influence on the children!"

Morehead State falls at Boston

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BOSTON, Mass. — Heading into Monday night's game, the Morehead State University men's basketball team had only been outrebounded five previous times this season, but four of those resulted in losses for the Eagles. That trend held true Monday night.

Boston University pulled down three more rebounds than MSU, including 19 on the offensive end to upend the Eagles 91-89 in overtime of the College Basketball Invitational quarterfinals at Case Gymnasium.

It was just the second time this year that Morehead has pulled down more than 40 rebounds and lost and it overshadowed career performances by senior Maze Stallworth and sophomore Terrance Hill. MSU also committed 19 turnovers, 16 of which were because of BU steals.

Stallworth finished with season-high 27 points, draining a career-high equaling eight 3-pointers. Hill had his first 20-point game, sinking five triples en route to a career-high 21-point performance. He hit one at the end of regulation that along with a pair of Steve Peterson free throws sent the game to overtime, and then Hill added two more 3-pointers in the extra frame to put the Eagles in a position to win.

Morehead State, down 11 in the second half, rallied following 3-pointers from Stallworth and Peterson. The teams traded free throws, and then with less than a minute left and his team down five, Hill stroked a clutch

3-pointer from the wing to make it a two-point game with 31 seconds left. The Eagles promptly stole the ensuing inbounds pass and Peterson, trying to score a quick bucket, was fouled. He tied the game by swishing both freebies, and BU couldn't get any of its three shot attempts in the final 10 seconds to fall.

"I thought our team showed a lot of grit and toughness battling back to force overtime," MSU Coach Donnie Tyndall said. "I thought the difference was that they outrebounded us by three, they had 19 offensive rebounds in addition to us giving up 19 turnovers. It was just too much to overcome."

The Terriers scored the first seven points of overtime, but the Eagles again rallied, cutting the deficit to four on a Hill 3-pointer and to two on a dunk by junior Kenneth Faried, who had his 25th double-double of the season. Tyler Morris made two free throws for BU, but Hill drilled a 3-pointer with three seconds left to make it a one-point game.

Jeff Pelage was fouled with 0.6 seconds left, and he missed the first and made the second. MSU had a chance at a quick catch and shoot, but junior Demonte Harper's desperation half-court shot was off the mark.

Faried finished with 19 points and 11 rebounds and three blocks. Junior Sam Goodman had a career-high five assists and Harper and senior Brandon Shingles each checked in with four.

The Eagles took a quick 8-0 lead in the first half and led by as many as 11 points, but Boston closed the gap with a Jake O'Brien 3-pointer sandwiched by a pair of Morris lay-ups. BU took the lead for the first time on another three by O'Brien, who was 5-of-8 from long range and the Terriers threatened to open a big lead at the end of the half, but a jumper by Goodman and a trey by Hill made it a one-point BU advantage at halftime.

The Eagles shot 42.3 percent from the field for the game, and 47.1 percent from beyond the arc. Boston was 36.2 percent from the field, but almost as good from long range, hitting 46.4 percent of their shots. The Terriers had 15 second chance points and 27 points off of turnovers.

Morehead State finished the season at 24-11, one win shy of the school record for victories. It was the first time in MSU history the Eagles have had back-to-back 20-win seasons and back-to-back postseason (non-OVC) wins. Tyndall, who completed his fourth season at the helm of his alma mater, finished with more wins than the previous year for the fourth straight season. MSU also set a school record with 15 OVC wins during the regular season.

Monday also marked the final game in an Eagle uniform for seniors Stallworth, Shingles and Les Simmons.

"When you look back, this was one of the best seasons in Eagle basketball history," Tyndall said. "I'm extremely proud of our team, we will miss our three seniors tremendously."

Calipari, Wall receive coveted Rupp Awards

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — University of Kentucky head coach John Calipari and freshman John Wall have been awarded the Adolph Rupp Cup and Adolph Rupp Trophy, honoring the National Coach of the Year and National Player of the Year.

It marks the first time in the 38-year history of the award that a Kentucky coach or player has ever won a Rupp Award; and it is also the first time that both recipients came from the same school.

This year marks the first time that Calipari has won the award. In his inaugural season in Lexington, Calipari has led the Wildcats to a 34-2 record, the program's 44th SEC Championship, 26th SEC Tournament championship and the school's first appearance in the Sweet 16 since 2005.

Calipari got off to the best start in UK history by a coach in his inaugural season, leading the Wildcats to a 19-0 start. He recorded his fifth-straight 30-win season, an unprecedented mark in NCAA Division I coaching history.

Wall becomes the first player in the illustrious history of the UK basketball program to receive any one of the primary national player of the year awards. The 6-4 freshman leads the Wildcats in scoring (16.8), assists (6.5) and steals (1.7). He has set all-time UK freshman records in scoring, assists and free throws made.

The Raleigh, N.C. native has five double-doubles on the season, three in points and assists and two in points in rebounds, making him the first player in UK history to record double-doubles in points and rebounds and points and assists.

Earlier this season, Wall broke the UK single-game assist record with 16 and entering the Sweet 16 is only four assists shy of the UK single-season assist mark of 232 set back in 1986.

The honors are awarded by the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky, a non-profit organization established in 1972 by former players and of former UK head coach Adolph Rupp. The awards are determined by a select national voting panel consisting of over 50 sportswriters, coaches and athletic directors representing every major Division I conference and all geographic regions of the country.

Calipari named a Naismith Finalist: University of Kentucky head coach John Calipari, one of only two multiple Naismith winners, is among four finalists for the 2010 Naismith Men's College Coach of the Year as announced by the Atlanta Tipoff Club Thursday.

The first-year Kentucky coach has led his squad to 32-2 record (14-2 in conference), and the Southeastern Conference tournament championship — the school's first since 2005. He has now captured five consecutive conference tournament championships and regular season titles as a head coach. He also won 30 games for the fifth straight year, the only coach in NCAA Division I history to do so. Calipari won the Naismith award most recently at Memphis (2008) and also at Massachusetts (1996). The resurgent Wildcats earned the number-one seed in the East Region of the NCAA Tournament.

Calipari is joined by three would-be first-time Naismith honorees in Steve Alford (New Mexico), Jim Boheim (Syracuse) and Frank Martin (Kansas State). Those four make up the final ballot for the most prestigious national award presented annually to the top men's college basketball coach. The winner will be announced in early April.

The finalists were voted on by the Atlanta Tipoff Club's National Voting Academy, comprised of leading basketball journalists, coaches and administrators from around the country. The academy based its criteria on coaching performances this season.

Johnson earns 50th career victory in Food City 500

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BRISTOL, Tenn. — Jimmie Johnson claimed the Food City 500 on Sunday, his first at Bristol Motor Speedway, and passed a milestone in the process.

Johnson, who had failed to win at the half-mile oval in 16 career starts, earned the 50th win of his career, a win that ties him with Ned Jarrett and Junior Johnson for 10th on the all time list.

Close racing and a late race caution provided an exciting dash to the finish. Matt Kenseth, Greg Biffle and Tony Stewart took two tires during the last caution, while several teams opted for four tires to help make their cars more maneuverable. Johnson and Kurt Busch, two of the fastest cars all day, were the first cars off pit road with four new Goodyears.

As the green flag flew, Johnson jumped to the high side of the track and began picking off the cars on two tires. Kurt Busch tried to run down Johnson, but came up short.

"We have worked so hard for this," Johnson said, "but the four tires were the difference. I am so proud of the team and setting a mark and accomplishing it."

"Before I was in NASCAR, we tuned into see a few races, obviously the Daytona 500, but if you want to watch an action-packed race, you watch Bristol. There are parties for this race, fans get excited. When you come here, you look around and want to do well. As a fan you get excited for this track, I wanted to be excited about this track and now I can."

"Every win is special," he continued, "but when a track kicks your butt for so long, it is great when you knock one off."

When asked about his decision to take four tires, Johnson's crew chief Chad Knaus said there really was no other option.

"It was a pretty easy decision for us," Knaus explained. "I felt if we had a good pit stop, we could roll out fourth. We ended up sixth. I figured we would have a good solid top five. It was a pretty easy decision."

Allgaier claims first win in Scotts Turf Builder 300

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BRISTOL, Tenn. — Justin Allgaier drove through multiple wrecks and spins to collect his first career victory in the Scotts Turf Builder 300 after a wild Saturday afternoon at Bristol Motor Speedway.

While he qualified deep in the field, the Riverton, Ill. native was able to steadily move from his 30th place starting position as soon as the green flag dropped.

Allgaier, who edged teammate Brad Keselowski for the win, was thrilled to earn his first career victory, and was proud to earn it at the World's Fastest Half-Mile.

"I couldn't be happier to be here," he said from Victory Lane. "I want to thank the fans. I couldn't be happier to see the two Penske cars running for the win. This is pretty awesome. It is unbelievable... this is one of my favorite race tracks."

"I hope this is the first of many to come. I want to thank God, too. He has given me a lot of good doors to walk through."

Eight cautions slowed the event and sent several cars to the garage with twisted metal and frustrated drivers.

One accident saw the cars of Colin Braun and Steve Wallace turned in to a mangled heap. NASCAR officials red flagged the event for a little more than 12 minutes to clean up the carnage on lap 91.

Keselowski, who came to Victory Lane to congratulate Allgaier, said that if he had to finish second to anyone, he was glad it was Allgaier.

"I'm proud of Justin," said Keselowski. "He had the opportunity to rough me up and he didn't. I'm happy for Penske and glad to have another top finish."

Third place went to Kyle Busch, Carl Edwards finished fourth and Kevin Harvick spun

Joey Logano on the final lap to claim fifth. Harvick described his side of the incident after the race.

"I raced with him and raced with him and he kept chopping me and I got into him," Harvick explained. "I hate that happened...but you got to do what you got to do."

Keselowski, known for aggressive driving, was asked if he also would have moved the driver in front of him if it was someone other than his teammate. He held his answer close to his chest.

"You never really know until you are in that circumstance," Keselowski said with a laugh.

The Scotts Turf Builder 300 was the first event of a Saturday doubleheader at BMS. The second event, the Scotts EZ Seed Showdown, features several of the sport's legendary drivers, including David Pearson, Cale Yarborough and Harry Gant.
