Jonathan Hall remained at the scene, locked in the back of a squad car, while officials worked to defuse the situation following the attempted robery.

After the arrest, the area was secured by officers and the highway around the plaza was blocked to keep traffic away while waiting on a bomb squad from Kentucky State Police Post 9 in Pikeville to arrive. Along with the Prestonsburg Police Department, officers with the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Prestonsburg Fire Department also responded to the scene.

"The FBI and the Kentucky State Police are working on the attempted bank robbery case," said David Beyer, media coordinator for the Louisville division of the FBI.

Jail chief charged in bribe scheme

by SHELDON COMPTON STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG Henry "Butch" Williams, the administrator of the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center, posted bond at the Floyd County Detention Center after being detained there on charges of bribery.

Williams posted a $10,000 cash bond Wednesday after being arrested for allegedly taking a pickup truck in exchange for getting an inmate's wife transferred to the Johnson County jail.

State police say it was part of a deal he made with the inmate in January of last year. According to the criminal PRESTONSBURG - A special event to honor veterans and those currently serving in the military is scheduled to be held at the National Guard Armory in Prestonsburg on Tuesday.

The Patriotic Celebration 2010 Kick-Off will include free food and entertainment, according to Paul Edwards, commander of VFW Post 5839 in Prestonsburg.

"We hope to get a real good crowd," Edwards said. "We want to honor those who have died for our freedom, our veterans and those currently serving our country and communities."

In a patriotic move of his own, Edwards recently replaced a tattered American flag on a veteran's grave with a new one after a concerned citizen approached him about the condition

"I took care of it in about an hour," Edwards said. "The flag was in really bad shape.'

Rand is wrong ... on civil rights, and for Kentucky

That was fast.

Rand Paul, the Tea Party darling who sky-rocketed to national prominence Tuesday with his drubbing of Secretary of State Trey Grayson for the Republican nomination in the U.S. Senate race, came crashing back to earth Wednesday night, when he maintained, live before a national television audience, that the federal government has no right to desegregate business.

And that, if Kentucky voters have but a shred of decency, should be about the end of Mr. Paul's future as a politician in this state.

Oh sure, Paul was careful to paint the issue in terms of property rights, rather than civil rights. He said the federal government has no right to tell the private owners of an establishment who they can allow in their business. He went so far as to say it would be equivalent to telling a bar owner that he must allow patrons to carry guns, if they so desire.

But Paul's analogy only makes his argument that much more bizarre. Only a head-in-the-clouds ideologist could equate the basic human right to live and work in peace with bringing a loaded weapon into an alcohol-soaked environment.

Philosophical idealism rarely works when the rubber meets the road.

Kentucky has worked hard over many years to erase the stereotype that it is a land of ignorant, racist hicks. Now, just as the state is attempting to show its best face to the world with the World Equestrian Games, Rand Paul is a clear and present danger to all that has been accomplished.

It matters little whether or not racist intent lurks behind Paul's words. His willingness to ally himself with those who do possess such intent proves that Rand Paul is the wrong choice at the wrong time.

Beyond the Beltway

Wake me up when it's June

by DONALD KAUL OTHERWORDS

The poet who said April is the cruelest month obviously didn't know about our May.

As the month began, that unpronounceable Icelandic volcano kept spewing out tons of black smoke, soot, grit, acidic gases, and all manner of obnoxious things. Airports in Spain, Italy, and Portugal had to close again.

■ The Greek economy threatened to stumble into a black hole that promised to suck the rest of Europe in with it, until the European Union came to the rescue with a (gasp!) bailout.

The stock market plummeted 1,000 points in 15 minutes on May 6 before bouncing back up 600 like a kangaroo on a pogo stick. And the thing is, nobody yet knows why it plunged or rebounded. The first thought was that maybe a trader hit the wrong button on his computer.

■ That out-of-control well in the Gulf of Mexico continued to gush oil into the water as BP workers struggled, unsuccessfully, to get it under control. Conservatives, most of whom opposed the regulation of offshore drilling that might have averted the spill, have started calling it "Obama's Katrina." (For all I know, they're blaming him for the volcano too.)

In other words, this is shaping up to be a really, really ugly month. Seldom has so much stupidity, past and present, been on display simultaneously.

And the thing that disturbed me most about all of it is this: A guy hit the wrong button on his computer? What are you, kidding me? Please don't tell me that some clown at the New York Stock Exchange can do away with half of my net worth in 15 minutes because he hits the wrong button.

As it turns out, that's not what they're telling me. After investigating the matter over the weekend officials now think it was a systemic glitch, which, under certain circumstances, can torpedo the market. But they're going to fix it, probably. Great. Do you ever get the feeling that we're shooting craps with the other guys' dice and the dice don't have spots on them?

The second most troubling thing about the events was Greece. It's bad enough having to bail out a country that has lived beyond its means for decades; the real question is, why would you lend money to Greece in the first place?

Have you ever been to Greece? People there can't even stand in line, let alone pay their bills. The national sport is not paying your taxes. People don't even consider it cheating. The second-most popular sport is bribery. Nothing happens in Greece without someone getting greased.

Lending money to Greece is like giving it to the Bernie Madoff Defense Fund. So why do it? Simple. Europe had no choice.

If Greece's economy goes under, it might very well take the Euro with it and if the Euro collapses, can Europe be far behind? Think of Europe as mountain climbers tied together on one rope as they climb. Greece is the fat guy in the middle who is having a heart attack. If he falls, they all fall. It's not their fault that the guy is fat, but they have to save him or die.

Paradoxically, it could well be that the voters in the United States are so enraged by the bailouts here that they will react by throwing out of power the people who are trying to rescue them and replace them with the guys who caused the problem in the first

As I said, despite the roses and the peonies, this is an ugly month. It would be, even without the oil or volcano.

The film begins with a crackerjack sequence (that has nothing to do with the rest of the movie, but who cares) that showcases how gnarly ninjas can be. We drop in on a New Age Japanese hood getting a tattoo from an old school ink artist. The gangster may sport a rocking hair-do but he's a wannabe tough guy at best. The tattoo guy, on the other hand, actually survived an encounter with a ninja but refuses to even say their name out loud.

The gangster and his cronies think the old guy is hilarious and

YARD OF THE MONTH

Woman's Club recognizes Big Branch home

by JARRID DEATON FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG - While the impressive home and swimming pool of Jerry and Stephanie Wicker might be the first thing one would notice when driving by on the Big Branch of Abbott, the Prestonsburg Womn's Club noticed something more, naming the Wicker's yard as the Yard of the Month for

"We spend quite a bit of time on the yard," said Stephanie Wicker. "We spend less time now because we have a 16-month-old little boy. I didn't think I would really ever care about a yard until I became a homeowner. We like everything to look nice and neat. We joke about my husband because he doesn't even like for people to walk on the yard. We have tons of bushes and trees around here. We've lived here for four years and we landscaped it all ourselves. We really did a lot of work."

After being notified that her yard had been selected as the Yard of the Month for May, Wicker and her husband were both excited because it meant that all of the work they put in to making the landscape surrounding their home special had garnered enough attention to be recognized by an organization that sets out to specifically locate yards that stand out and are meticulously cared for and main-

"We were excited," Wicker said. "I told my husband that all the hard work had paid off. Somebody noticed."

The Prestonsburg Women's Club will soon be on the lookout for a new Yard of the Month for June.

DINNER DIVA

Broccoli block

Broccoli Block. You know, when you forget to turn on the veggies and you have your dinner ready to go but the veggies are sitting on the stovetop, cold, raw and just waiting for someone to turn them on and get them cooked?

Why is that?

I think the reason is we are zooming around the kitchen, multitasking as we should be and for me anyway, the stove isn't where my prep area is (it's to my back) and I just simply forget. Not always, but I have been going through sometimes. It ticks me off! I've been cooking for a LONG time and to forget to turn on the veggies is outside of my realm of thinking, or so I thought. I've thought about the old adage, out of sight, out of mind and thought, that's the ticket! So I've taken to moving my prepped veggies (pot and all) and putting it on the countertop where I am preparing the evening meal. Now it's in my line of vision and I can still stay preoccupied with all the stuff I was so preoccupied with before, but now I won't forget to turn on the veggies!

If you're having Broccoli Block, maybe you want to fix it too, by putting whatever it is you're forgetting, right in the line of fire, so you see it and remember to do it! Part of getting dinner on the table every night is getting all the components ready at the same time. Doesn't take rocket science, but you do have to think about it!

Here's a recipe to make your next dinner a success, especially if

Martha A. Simpson, D.O., M.B.A. Associate Professor of Family Medicine

I had a cold recently that traveled down into my chest. I went to the doctor was told that I had bronchitis. My wife, however, argues that I must have pneumonia since I am coughing so much. Are bronchitis and pneumonia very different, and what are the distinguishing factors that tell them apart? Finally, it seems like both illnesses are treated the same way, so how much does it really matter which one you have?

As you well know, pneumonia and bronchitis are both illness that affect the lungs and bronchial tubes. Although many of the symptoms are similar, indeed, they are very different diseases.

Bronchitis is an inflammation of the bronchi, the twin passages that connect the trachea to each lung. The symptoms can be quite severe and they can also persist in what we call chronic bronchitis. Chronic bronchitis is a type of ongoing obstructive lung disease. It is usually cause by smoking or long-term exposure to cigarette smoke, and it can last for several months. For this comparison, we will focus on the acute (not chron-

Acute bronchitis and pneumonia can both be caused by either viruses or bacteria, meaning that they often start out as a cold or flu, but not always. Both can also be caused by prolonged or intensive exposure to irritants such as eigarette smoke, chemicals or severe dust. Both illnesses can cause a persistent cough. Finally, both illnesses typically last for at least a week and sometimes up to two.

The cough that stems from bronchitis is usually dry in the early days, but then you begin to cough up yellow or green mucus. The cough can be quite harsh and cause pain in the chest wall and, eventually, sore stomach muscles.

It may surprise you that pneumonia may cause a cough: but not always. When it does, the coughing typically produces mucus from the onset. Also, pneumonia patients usually experience a fever of over 101 degrees farenheit. They also have some difficulty taking a deep breath, and they are slightly short of breath.

Acute bronchitis and pneumonia can occur at any age, but both illnesses tend to be worse in smokers, elderly people, or people of any age who have other chronic diseases, such as heart disease

Blood tests and x-rays may be needed to differentiate between the two illnesses. If the infection, is viral, usually supportive care is, all that is needed for treatment of either. If the infection is bacterial, antibiotics are usually prescribed. Based on your specific medical history and illness, your physician will determine the right treatment, plan for you.

Salome's Stars Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your Aries self-esteem level is high, as is your impatience to see more action come your way in the workplace. Good news, Lamb: It could start to happen sooner than you think.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Changing things now could upset a lot of people. But if you feel you're acting because you believe it's the right thing to do, others will understand and even come to support you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A change of mind might not necessarily be a change of heart. You still want to go ahead with your plans, but you might see a better way to make them happen. So go for it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) An old business dispute could re-emerge and possibly affect upcoming negotiations. Consider opening up the situation to include suggestions from others on both sides of the issue.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some Leos and Leonas might find it somewhat difficult to get their ideas accepted or even considered. But that's only for a while. Things will soon return to the way you like them.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The pace seems to be slowing down from the hectic on-the-job run you recently enjoyed. But be assured that you're still in the race to pick up new workplace-related goodies.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Seasonal changes create opportunities for busy Librans. However, be sure to balance your workload with your personal life so

Richard Howard writes me from the University of

The girls don't like it and they decided that all would walk out on him, the next time he told a risque joke or used profanity. One of the male students heard of their plot and told the professor what was afoot.

The next day, the prof began the class by saying, "Have you heard?" All the prostitutes in town are going to New Orleans today.'

This report says a young woman who has been working in the Tom Green county courthouse there claims she did seasonal work for the IRS in Covington, Ky. last year but still hasn't received her W-2 slips from that job.

Now, the law clearly states that employers must send out these forms to their workers by the end of January each year. But she has made two phone calls and written at least one letter to the regional IRS officeand no luck.

Finally some brain in the IRS office reached a happy solution for her. He told her she could pick up her W-2 forms, in person-in Kentucky.

Lots of fluff but it's a well made snot-slinger that features a one-time cast that includes Jennifer Garner, Ashton Kutcher, Shirley Maclaine, Hector Elizondo and Julia Roberts.

"Extraordinary Measures" - A desperate father enlists the aid of a maverick doctor to find a cure for his sick child in this better-than-average Lifetime Channel-style disease-of-the-week movie. Star casting helps, with Harrison Ford doing a fine job as the eccentric doctor. Brendan Fraser is also quite good as the father and proves, again, that he is a seasoned dramatic performer who has been exiled to goofy comedies.

"Invictus" - Clint Eastwood continues to make the best films of the decade with this rousing drama about sports and politics. It is a true story about Nelson Mandela's efforts to combat racism in South Africa by pooling his efforts with the country's biggest soccer star. Morgan Freeman and Matt Damon play the leads.

Next week Hollywood celebrates movies that bum the viewer out, with the releases of "Dear John "and 'The Road.'

Odd braking sensation supposedly normal, but could be problem

by TOM and RAY
MAGLIOZZI

Dear Tom and Ray:

Every time I am braking and go over a bump in our 2008 Prius (a frequent occurrence in hilly San Francisco), the anti-lock braking system kicks in. The problem is that when it does so, it feels like the brakes disengage for a second and the car goes faster. Our Toyota dealer tells me this is the way the ABS is supposed to work, and the brakes aren't disengaging - the computer system is just taking over the braking process. Is this true? It just doesn't feel safe to me. If I had to stop suddenly, I don't feel confident that I'd be able to in this car. Thanks. - Betsy

TOM: Gee, Betsy, we hate to kick poor Toyota when it's down. But I guess it's only fair. We've been doing it to GM for the past 35 years.

RAY: I know exactly what you're experiencing, Betsy. I recently was testing a different Toyota hybrid, the RX450h, and had the same sensation with the brakes. And it IS disturbing. There's a moment there where you feel like your brakes are failing.

TOM: Toyota tells us, just like it told you, that this is normal, and not a problem. It says that the ABS system works by momentarily interrupting the braking force to prevent a skid—and the resulting loss of control.

RAY: And that's true. But most ABS systems interrupt the braking force for a fraction of a second. In your case, and in the case of the RX450h, it seemed longer. And scarier.

TOM: So while Toyota might be right that the ABS is working the way it was designed to work, it offers the driver less confidence than ABS systems in other cars. And for that reason, we think a fix is called for. RAY: My own guess — and I want to emphasize that this is pure speculation — is that it has something to do with when the hybrid switches from regenerative braking to traditional friction braking. And that if the ABS deploys (even properly) during that moment of switchover, it creates a strange delay. I would think it's the kind of thing that likely can be fixed with software, but perhaps it's not that easy.

TOM: Interestingly, Toyota has recalled the newer Priuses (the 2010s) to fix what sounds like a very similar problem. Here's Toyota's description of the reason for recalling the 2010s:

"Toyota has received complaints of inconsistent brake feel during slow and steady application of brakes on rough or slick road surfaces when the anti-lock brake system (ABS) is activated in an effort to maintain tire traction.

"The system, in normal operation, engages and disengages rapidly (many times per second) as the control system senses and reacts to tire slippage. If the same brake pedal force is applied under these conditions, in the worst case, this may lead to an increase of vehicle stopping distance and thus raise the possibility of a crash."

RAY: They say that the older Priuses, like yours, use a different ABS system, and so are not subject to this recall. But it sounds like a similar issue. So we have to wonder if the recall eventually will be expanded to include older Priuses, too.

TOM: In the meantime, here's what you can do to help. Go to www.safercar.gov, which is the website of NHTSA, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. It collects reports of safety-related concerns. And if there are enough verifiable complaints, NHTSA can launch an investigation that may lead to a forced recall.

RAY: But before it ever gets to that, we hope that Toyota will learn from the mistakes of GM and, more recently, Toyota, and step up and offer a fix. If for no other reason than that customers like you, Betsy, are lacking confidence in their cars.

How does computer know that spare tire is low?

low? Dear Tom and Ray:

I have enjoyed your column for years and have always admired your bottomless knowledge and advice for car owners, abusers, know-nothings and BYMs (backyard mechanics). I have but one question I need you to resolve, and then I can drive happily ever after. The "Low Tire Pressure" warning light on my dash came on this morning. So I looked at all four tires, and they appeared OK. Just to be safe, I fired up my air compressor (with apologies to my sleeping neighbors) and topped off all four tires. The tire warning light returned! I eventually checked the manual of my Toyota Tundra, and it told me to check the spare, too. I did, and sure enough, it was low. My question to you is: How did it know? How does the computer system know that the air pressure is low in my spare tire? Weight? Sonar? Internet? Seismic vibrations? Make me happy and tell me the answer, boys. -

TOM: It works via a wireless transmitter inside the tire, Kim.

CLICK & CLACK
Talk Cars

RAY: It was first tried with wires, but they kept getting all wrapped up in the axles.

TOM: There's a small pressure gauge and wireless transmitter that are part of the valve stem (where you put the air in) in most tires these days. When the pressure drops below a predetermined level, it signals the car's computer wirelessly, and the indicator on your dashboard lights up. Pretty neat, huh?

RAY: On some higherend cars, the computer even differentiates between the tires. So the computer can tell you, for instance, that your "left front tire is low." Of course, that means you have to reprogram the system every time you rotate your tires, but no one said progress would be easy, Kim.

Lagoon

they enjoy watching him wince as they chant "Ninja." Teasing the elderly turns out to be the last bit of fun these doofs enjoy, as ninjas promptly show up and reduce the gang into assorted puddles of guts. Now the film actually starts to develop a plot (or excuse to have a bunch of ninjas kill people) as we meet a disgraced member of the ancient art of killing, named Raizo. Flashbacks reveal that he was raised in the Ozunu Clan. Ozunu turns out to be a Dickensian sort that lures orphans into his school, where he can beat on them. If they survive his abuse, they become ninjas; if they don't, then they are pulped and transformed into a valuable mulch for his Banzai gar-

Raizo does pretty well at his classes, which include learning to walk silently, learning to kill guys using all body parts and understanding the valuable lesson of being in pain (which Ozunu gets a perverse pleasure out of teaching).

Trouble looms when he falls for the only female student, but that goes south when she challenges Ozunu's methods and becomes the latest nutrient in the garden.

Raizo eventually decides to leave the school, but not before scarring Ozunu with a nasty looking ninja weapon (that appears to be a large fish hook attached to a length of chain).

Raizo is on the run, but when a female agent is tar■ Continued from p1 geted by his former cronies, he finally gets a chance to save a woman from Ozunu's wrath. Luckily this means he'll have to take on everyone from his old school in awesome battle scenes that will require lots of acrobatics, CGI effects and copious amounts of gore.

It all comes full circle when Raizo must square off against his master while their school burns down around them. Great stuff that barely stops for a breather.

This is the ninja movie we've all been waiting for, and it doesn't disappoint. They only slow down for brief scenes involving dull European spies who begin to suspect that there is more to ninja lore than a series of movies starring Michael Dudikof. In that way this is like one of those "Aliens vs. Predator" films, as it must rely on these interludes to set up the action (and allow the audience time to microwave an egg roll).

The acting is adequate and ninja fans will be happy to note that Sho Kosugi (who starred in all of those American made ninja flicks of the 1980s) is cast as the evil Ozunu. It's a fitting tribute to the genre, and Kosugi still has the chops.

This is macho escapism at its best. Enjoy.

Prep baseball, softball seasons winding down by RICK BENTLEY

It's been a rainy, wet, nasty week here in Eastern Kentucky, and don't expect it to get better the next couple of weeks.

TIMES COLUMNIST

What's this got to do with sports? Simple. Baseball and softball tournaments begin on Monday. That's as sure a sign of rain as turned-over leaves or black clouds.

The postseason action begins at five schools around the region next week, and here's hoping for good weather so they can get them all played in a timely fashion. Normally things are a little rough weather-wise during the tournaments; let's hope this year is the exception.

I wouldn't count on it though. Not with the weather we've had these last six months. There's hardly been a dry day, it seems, so hoping for a couple of weeks of it isn't EASTERN - Allen Central High School senior setter Jaimie Mullins signed with St. Catharine College last week during a ceremony that included family, coaches, friends and teammates. Mullins, a setter for Allen Central throughout her senior season, earned All-Floyd County Conference recognition during her high school career. She was also named to allregion and all-district tournament teams.

During her senior season, Mullins served at 90 percent, recording 29 aces. She hit 70 percent with three kills while running the offense 1,045 times and earning 227 assists. Mullins had 21 reception attempts and logged 15 digs.

Mullins is the second Allen Central volleyball player from the 2010 class to sign a scholarship agreement. Earlier in the year, reigning 15th Region Tournament Most Valuable Player Kelsey Jones signed with nearby Pikeville College St. Catharine College competes in the Mid-South Conference along with Pikeville, Georgetown, Campbellsville, Rio Grande, Lindsey Wilson, Cumberlands and West Virginia Tech.

Mullins is currently competing in her senior season with the Allen Central softball program.

Family and friends joined Allen Central High School senior Jaimie Mullins during a cermony held last week as she signed with St. Catharine College. Mullins is the second ACHS volleyball player from the Class of 2010 to sign to play at the next level. Earlier in the year, Kelsey Jones signed with Pikeville College.

Rebels rout South Floyd

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS EDITOR

DRIFT - Allen Central posted its third straight win on the baseball diamond last Friday, blanking 58th District/Floyd County Conference foe South Floyd 20-0. The visiting Rebels jumped out in front and defeating longtime rival South Floyd convincingly in the road game.

Senior Logan Crowder was the offensive leader for the Allen Central baseball club. Crowder was 4-for-4 with a two-run home run for Rebels. Allen Central hurler Jake Prater was the winning pitcher. Strong from start to finish for Allen Central, Prater tossed a threehitter.

Every Allen Central starter provided at least one hit as the Rebels notched their 13th win of the season.

Following a weekend off, Allen Central returned to action at the start of the week. Johnson Central sent the Rebels back into the loss column on Monday, defeating Allen Central 8-3.

The Rebels (13-12) are scheduled to visit Phelps today for a regular-season finale. Start time for the Allen Central-Phelps game is set for 6 p.m.

NASCAR THIS WEEK: A Hall fit for Kings

by MONTE DUTTON

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - NASCAR opened its Hall of Fame on May 11, giving stock-car racing a shrine to rival baseball's in Cooperstown, N.Y., football's in Canton, Ohio, and basketball's in Springfield, Mass.

As former Charlotte Motor Speedway president H.A. "Humpy" Wheeler, noted, "This is where the peach basket was put up in 1949, right out on Little Rock Road near the airport." Wheeler was referring to the site of NASCAR's first major race, run on June 19, 1949, on a 3/4-mile dirt track that existed through 1956. That track was located near the present site of Charlotte Douglas International Airport. The NASCAR Hall of Fame occupies a prominent share of the downtown skyline. It bears some resemblance to the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum in Nashville. Above its massive walls, the Hall takes an oval shape, and there's a practical reason. Inside, that oval shape translates into something of a simulated short track - and also a banked ramp to the second floor - with still, full-sized race cars placed around it, frozen in fanciful race mode.

* The main floor is 10,000 square feet. Exhibit space exceeds 40,000 square feet. The overall budget was $154.5 million. The exhibit budget alone was $31 million.

The May 23 Induction Ceremony will officially enshrine NASCAR founder William H.G. (Big Bill) France; his successor and son, William C. (Bill Jr.) France; Richard Petty, stock-car racing's most prolific winner; Dale Earnhardt; the only other driver to win seven championships; and Junior Johnson, who earned enduring fame as driver, mechanic and owner.

NASCAR has been around since 1948, but only five men get into the Hall of Fame each year. Inductions in succeeding years will be eagerly anticipated with legendary drivers like David Pearson, Bobby Allison, Cale Yarborough, Darrell Waltrip, Lee Petty and Curtis Turner still waiting in the wings, so to speak.

Among the Hall's features: - A theater screen 65 feet wide and 15 feet high, along with a video wall containing 64 plasma-screen televisions. Visitors will wear either video cards or wristbands with computer chips, enabling holders to activate interactive parts of the museum like racing simulations and trivia. Each Hall of Fame inductee will have a "spire" with a video, emblematic photo and quote about him.

HIGHWAY

In the past two years many yard sale sites stretched through Floyd County. Many people received permission from property owners to set-up on their property.

This year, we encourage people to continue to repeat those locations, if they desire.

Also, we are inviting folks to set-up at the Mountain Arts Center. The Christmas in July Car Show will be there, too, with their event.

This is a great way to raise money for your organization.

Please call us at 606-886-1341 to let us know if you want to participate.

WIC Wants You To Know!!!!!!

Anticipation High as Ohio Valley Gold and Silver Refinery Opens for Business Next Week in Prestonsburg!

By CHRISTINA BUTLER STAFF WRITER

Been following the gold and silver market lately? Well if you have a jewelry box or lock box full of gold or a coffee can full of old coins you should be according to Ohio Valley Refinery spokesperson John Miller. "The gold and silver markets have not been this strong for over 30 years" said Miller. Typically when the U.S. dollar is weak and the economy is flat gold and silver markets soar. "That's good news if you are setting on a few gold necklaces or an old class ring" says Miller.

Next week, starting Tuesday at 9am and continuing every day next week through Thursday, the Ohio Valley Refinery will be setting up a satellite refinery right here in Prestonsburg at the Comfort Suites. During their 3 day stay anyone can bring gold, silver or platinum items and turn them in for immediate payment, explains John Miller. "Just about everybody has some amount of gold or silver just lying around collecting dust and next week anybody can sell theirs direct to our refinery. Typically selling direct to a refinery is reserved for larger wholesale customers like jewelry stores, pawn shops, and laboratories" says Miller. "We are changing how business is done" he explains "we want to do business with everybody so we took our business to the streets". "Our teams visits various cities around the country hosting 3 day events allowing the general public to take advantage of our services. The turnout has been overwhelming" says Miller. "Usually each day is busier than the previous day. It seems once people come to us and sell something they are so amazed what an old ring or gold coin is worth they go home and start digging around for more and telling relatives, friends and neighbors. It's like a feeding frenzy by the third day. People line up with everything from gold jewelry to sterling silver flatware sets to old coins. I think during this bad economy everybody can use extra money but most people say they are taking advantage of selling direct to our refinery because of the higher prices we pay"

During this special event anyone is welcome to bring all types of gold, silver and platinum to the refinery and turn it in for instant payment. The types of items they will accept include all gold jewelry, gold coins, gold ounces, dental gold, old coins made before 1964 including Silver Dollars, halves, quarters and dimes, anything marked "sterling" including flat ware sets, tea pots, silver bars, silver ounces and all industrial precious metals.

What should you expect if you go to the event to sell your gold and/ or silver? Just gather up all gold silver and platinum in any form. If you are not sure if its gold or silver bring it in and they will test it for free. When you arrive at the event you will be asked to fill out a simple registration card and will be issued a number. Seating will be available. When your number is called you will be escorted to a table where your items will be examined, tested and sorted. This only takes a few minutes using their expertise and specialized equipment. Items will be counted and/or weighed. The value of the items will be determined based on up to the minute market prices. Live feeds will be available at the event displaying current market prices of all precious metals. If you choose to sell your items they will be bagged and tagged and you will be escorted to the cashier to collect your payment. Waiting time to sell your items may range from just a few minutes to 1 hour so bring something to read.

If you are the owner of a jewelry store, pawn shop, dentist office or a dealer you are encouraged to call ahead to make an appointment with the smelt master to discuss their special dealer programs. They can be reached during refinery hours at (606) 886-2555.

Silver and Gold Coin Prices Up During Poor Economy.

Collectors and Enthusiasts in Prestonsburg with $200,000 to Purchase Yours!

By CHRISTINA BUTLER STAFF WRITER

Got Coin? It might be just the time to eash in. Next week, starting Tuesday and continuing through Thursday, the International Collectors Association in conjunction with the Ohio Valley Gold & Silver Refinery will be purchasing all types of silver and gold coins direct from the public. All types are welcome and the event Collectors will be on hand to identify and sort your coins. Then the quality or grade will be determined. The better the grade the more they are worth according to collectors I talked to. With the silver and gold markets high prices of older coins are too. Any coins minted before 1964 in the U.S. are 90% silver except nickels and pennies.

The coins worth is determined by the rarity and the grade. Old silver dollars are worth a great premium right now even well worn heavy circulated ones are bringing good premiums. Franklin and Kennedy halves, Washing ton quarters, Mercury and Roosevelt dimes are all worth many times the face value. While older types like Seated Liberty, Standing Liberties, and Barber coins are worth even more.

Gold coins are really worth a lot right now according to Brian Eades of the International Collectors Association. This country didn't start minting coins until 1792 says Eades. Before that people would trade goods using gold dust and nuggets. Some shop keepers would take more gold than needed to pay for items purchased. There was no uniform system of making change.

The government opened the first mints and began distributing the coins in 1792. By the beginning of the 19th century coins and paper currency were wide spread and our monetary system was here to stay. In 1933 Roosevelt required all banking institutions to turn in all gold coins.

Once all banks turned in this gold the president raised the gold standard from $20.00 per ounce to $33.00 per ounce. This was his way of stimulating the economy during the great depression. However gold coins were never redistributed after the recall. Not all gold coins were turned in. Many folks during that time didn't completely trust the government and choose to keep their gold.

These gold coins are sought after collectors today and bring many times the face value. Any gold coins with the mint marks of CC, D or O will bring nice premiums. Collectors at the event will be glad to show you where to look. Other types of coins will also be purchase including foreign coins, Indian head cents, two cent pieces, half dimes, three cent pieces and buffalo nickels to name a Collectors warn people against trying to clean their coins as significant damage can be done and the coins value lessened.

Items we will accept include:

Scrap Jewelry Dental Gold Sterling Silverware Sterling Silver Tea Sets Silver Dollars All Coins Dated before 1964 Industrial Scrap All forms of Platinum

Items of Interest:

Vintage Guitars: Martin, Gibson, Fender, National, Rickenbacker, Gretsch, Mandolins, Banjos and others

Pocket Watches:

Hamilton, Illinois, Waltham, Patek Phillipe, Ball, Howard, South Bend, Elgin and others Wrist watches: Omega, Accutron, Longines, Hamilton, Breitling and many

Old paper money: United States, Confederate States, Blanket Bills, $1000.00 bills and more Antique Toys: Trains, Tin wind-ups, Mechanical Banks, Robots, Pressed Steel trucks, and many more

War Memorabilia: Swords, Bayonets, Helmets, German, Confederate, Union, USA, and others

Local records reveal to our research department that recent vintage guitar sold for $2400.00 and another for $12,000.00 to a collector that will be tied into the event next week via live database feed.

Local Residents are ready to cash in!

Internationa antique buyers in town this week and ready to stimulate economy!

By CHRISTINA BUTLER STAFF WRITER

Hundreds of phone calls from local residents this week to the corporate office of the Ohio Valley Gold and Silver Refinery pour in inquiring about items to be purchased next week by the team of antique buyers that is on site with OVGSR.

The team of buyers next week are purchasing a vast array of vintage items (see below) along with coins, gold jewelry, and sterling silver items the refinery deals in. It is a Local shot in the arm for our economy. The spokesperson for the event expects to spend in excess of $200,000 next week at the Comfort Suites paying local residents on the spot. The spokesperson for the company explained that these collectors are paying collector price for vintage items. It's a great way for people to get a great value for their items.
