Auditor points to payroll problems

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — State audits of county offices in Floyd County turned clean reports in some instances and places for improvement in others.

Audits conducted for the sheriff's department and the county clerk's office showed no problems with compliance. However, there were issues with the fiscal court and overall county functions.

State audits for the fiscal court revealed a lack of "adequate segregation of duties over the payroll function." In particular, it was found that payroll oversight was not provided and, as a result, both Jailer Roger Webb and Floyd County Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall were overpaid $7,608 in the last fiscal year.

"The salary amount for both the judge and the jailer was changed as a result of the comment from the fiscal year audit for 2007-2008," Marshall said in response to the audit. "However, the county will make the necessary efforts to assure that the proper effective date is used to calibrate the salaries."

Marshall also told auditors that both he and Webb had agreed to "make restitution by reducing the amount of their salary until such time as the amount is repaid by the

Jonathan Hall was questioned by Kentucky State Police officers, shortly after being detained last Wednesday. A federal grand jury will soon begin considering whether to indict Hall for the attempted robbery of BB&T in the Glyn View Plaza in Prestonsburg.

PIKEVILLE — Jonathan Hall, the David resident arrested on May 19 for allegedly attempting to rob BB&T in Glyn View Plaza, now faces a federal charge of bank robbery in U.S. District Court in Pikeville.

According to an affidavit filed by FBI Special Agent Steven L. Spahn, "On May 19, 2010, a white male, later identified as Jonathan Hall, entered the BB&T Bank asking for a security deposit box. Hall was told there were no deposit boxes at the bank and shortly thereafter Hall departed. At the time, by defendant's own admission, Hall was disguised as a woman and had on his person a concealed .22 caliber loaded handgun, a metal box, and a dangerous device concealed within a purse, further described as four short tubes filled with an explosive."

After the first visit to the bank, Hall allegedly left the area for a short time. According to the affidavit, Hall returned to the bank again, still armed and disguised as a woman, and inquired about opening a checking account. Employees of the bank reportedly told Hall to wait in the lobby area and then proceeded to contact the Prestonsburg Police Department.

According to Agent Spahn's affidavit, "Officers with the Prestonsburg Police Department arrived shortly thereafter and asked the defendant (Hall) to come outside for further investigation. Hall attempted to flee, whereupon he was apprehended. In his vehicle was found the metal box. Inside the box was a note intended to be used to intimidate bank personnel in an effort to rob the bank."

PRESTONSBURG — A lawsuit that has already named more than 100 plaintiffs who will see settlements will now find 34 more names added to that list.

Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf filed another complaint against Grizzly Processing and Frasure Creek Mining that names 34 more nearby residents who say the coal mining work in the area near their homes at Allen and Banner has adversely affected their quality of life.

Specifically, the 34 residents say that the coal mining that has been taking place for the past five years has contaminated their homes with coal dust and

Grand jury notes problems at Johnson County jail

by SHELDON COMPTON

PAINTSVILLE — The results of an investigation headed up by the Kentucky State Police into the operations of the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center revealed several weaknesses at the facility.

A grand jury returned the results of the investigation earlier this week, shortly after the arrest of Henry "Butch" Williams, the jail's administrator, on a bribery charge.

State police had already been looking into problems at the facility when they received in March 2009 a letter from Johnson County Judge-Executive R.T. "Tucker" Daniel expressing numerous concerns at the location.

Among those concerns were reports of drugs in the jail, the escape of inmates amid questionable circumstances, improper accounting of commissary funds, questionable travel expenses reported by board members, the FRANKFORT — Governor Steve Beshear announced Tuesday that the Kentucky Nonprofit Leadership Initiative (NLI) has been awarded a $250,000 federal grant. The grant is designed to help nonprofits continue to provide services through the economic downturn.

"Nonprofit agencies have a critical role in helping working families to get assistance, training or access that will improve their economic well-being," said Gov. Steve Beshear. "Kentucky's Nonprofit Leadership Initiative is well-positioned to help our state's nonprofit agencies adapt to the changing needs of Kentucky families."

Funds will be used to build the capacity of nonprofit organizations to address broad economic recovery issues in their communities, including helping low-income individuals secure and retain employment, earn higher wages, obtain better-quality jobs and gain greater access to state and federal benefits and tax credits.

Funding was provided by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Strengthening Communities Fund. The Kentucky Nonprofit Leadership Initiative (NLI) in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture was one of the 84 grantees selected from 933 applications.

other "pollutants." In the complaint, Pillersdorf states that these pollutants are the result of heavy equipment use.

Further, the residents claim assault and battery against the two companies, saying that they have been placed in physical contact by inhaling coal particles.

The lawsuit also claims that a former employee of the coal companies, Lloyd Layne, personally asked the operators to manage some environmental control of the work situation, explaining the adverse conditions being placed upon the residents. Pillersdorf says the numerous attempts were disregarded and rejected.

Environmental changes were ordered in the original lawsuit and the company will have 21 days to implement safer conditions at the site.

Frasure Creek Mining has also agreed to look into the feasibility of using a hood on the conveyor belts and of using a truck spray system at the railroad in the area near the scale house.

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable Robert D. Marshall, Floyd County Judge/Executive
The Honorable John K Blackburn, Floyd County Sheriff
Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the Sheriff of Floyd County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2009. This financial statement is the responsibility of the Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the Sheriff's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2009, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated April 6, 2010, on our consideration of the Floyd County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit. This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Sheriff and Fiscal Court of Floyd County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these interested parties.

Respectfully submitted,

UK expert talks about lightning safety

LEXINGTON — “If you can see it, flee it...if you can hear it, clear it.” Those phrases are among the reminders from the National Lightning Safety Institute on how you can best protect yourself and your loved ones during the spring, summer, and fall thunderstorm season.

Tom Priddy, longtime University of Kentucky Extension Agriculture Meteorologist, Department of Biosystems and Agricultural Engineering, and director of the Ag

Weather Center for the College of Agriculture, said lightning basically is, “Electricity on the move following the path of least resistance.”

As a thunderstorm builds, the whole cloud fills up with electrical charges, usually with a negative charge closest to the earth. Since opposites attract each other, that causes a positive charge to build up on the ground beneath the cloud. The ground’s electrical charge concentrates around anything that sticks up, such as mountains, lone trees, people, or even blades of grass. The charge streaming up from these points eventually connects with a charge reaching down from the clouds, and zap, lightning strikes.

“Lightning can occur up to 10 miles away from the center of the thunderstorm,” said Priddy. “When you hear thunder, that means lightning is occurring somewhere.”

Lightning typically strikes the highest point in an area, but there are no absolutes when it comes to this phenomenon.

While this is a great time of the year to enjoy water sports and activities such as fishing, Priddy said that being on or in the water during a thunderstorm is the worst place you can be. “By all means, get out of the pool or lake and take shelter immediately,” said Priddy. “However, do not take cover under a tree. If there is no alternative shelter available, the Lightning Safety Institute recommends you roll up in a big ball and squat down as close to the ground as possible.

“If you are outdoors and there’s lightning, get indoors immediately. But once you are inside, stay away from windows, refrain from talking on a land line telephone, and don’t take a shower or bath until the storm passes. Lightning occurring up the street can enter your home through electrical lines and that’s why you should not be on the phone when there is thunderstorm activity. Likewise, the plumbing coming into your house can conduct electricity and bring it through the faucet into your shower or tub,” said Priddy.

Sound travels about one mile in five seconds. When the amount of time between a bolt of lightning and the sound of thunder is decreasing, it means the lightning is getting closer to you. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) reminds people of the ‘30/30 rule.’ If lightning precedes thunder by less than 30 seconds then the storm is too close and you need to seek shelter. After the storm, wait at least 30 minutes before leaving shelter and resuming outside activities.

Priddy said one of the best investments people can make to protect themselves from lightning and other severe weather is the purchase of a NOAA weather radio. “These radios cover 97 percent of the U.S. population and provide an authoritative early warning system.”

With the large expanses of open land on farms in Kentucky, farmers need to be very aware of approaching storms, as do golfers.

Lightning is the second leading source of storm deaths in the U.S. in most years and hundreds of people annually sustain permanent injuries as a result of being struck by lightning.

If you still need another reminder about lightning safety, remember this saying: “When thunder roars, get indoors.”

Move Kentucky forward: Fix our broken tax system

by SHARRON OXEDINE and K.A. OWENS
— KENTUCKY FORWARD COALITION

A couple of weeks ago, as families and businesses were trying to recover from the destruction from the floods across the state, thousands of us pulled together. We sandbagged, rescued, washed, dried, moved, fed, housed, clothed and hugged each other until we were all safely through the storms. That is who we are. Kentucky is a beautiful place to call home because we take care of our friends and neighbors, knowing that we're all in this together.

When our legislators meet in Frankfort this week, their job is to develop a decent budget, one that allows our communities to get important work done that we can't accomplish as individuals. We created public school systems to provide opportunity, public health systems to keep ourselves well, and environmental and public safety systems to protect our air, water, and people. For these to function — and to support our quality of life and our economy — these systems need adequate, stable investments of our public dollars.

The Kentucky Forward Coalition — a coalition of education and health advocates and faith, labor, and community groups — is working for tax reforms that would generate the money for investments that reflect Kentucky's values, improving our quality of life. Many of us see first-hand how the chronic underfunding of our schools and community health services is damaging our Commonwealth. We teach the students who slip behind because of cuts to after-school programs and swollen class sizes; we console the families of people on waiting lists for treatment for mental illness; we work to keep children safe while coping with a severe shortage of resources; and we are the people who wonder why Kentucky couldn't be among the top in quality of life indicators, instead of always stuck at the bottom. Kentucky deserves better.

The legislators need to stop scrambling for quick fixes every year. Until we fix our broken tax structure, we're going to continue to lag behind the rest of the nation. And to be effective, solutions must include significant steps toward making our tax structure more balanced.

Right now, well over half of Kentuckians - 60 percent - earn up to $47,000. Those of us in this pool pay on average about 11 percent of our income to state and local taxes. Meanwhile, the wealthiest 1 percent contributes only about 6 percent. We need revenue solutions that bring balance, as well as needed funds.

Kentuckians should also beware of so-called solutions that, if adopted, could worsen the inequity in our current tax structure. Some in Kentucky have proposed raising Kentucky's sales tax as a way to earn revenue. Our coalition believes that a sales tax rate increase isn't a good option because it takes a much bigger bite out of the incomes of lower and middle income families. Data by the Institute of Taxation and Economic Policy shows the percentage of our incomes that Kentuckians currently pay in sales taxes. People who earn up to $47,000 pay between 4 and 5 percent of their income to sales taxes, while the wealthiest 1 percent pay less than 1 percent. It's not a solution that is fair or sustainable.

Instead, we can pass fair revenue reforms that we can depend on year after year. One proposal that meets these criteria calls for comprehensive tax reform that would tax luxury services, income above $75,000, and non-farm estates. This proposal would also direct $100 million in tax reductions to more than 300,000 Kentucky families with incomes less than $42,000. All together, this plan would generate about $300 million in revenue a year — a significant step toward addressing our chronic budget gaps. This plan, sponsored by Rep. Wayne, sets the benchmark for needed reforms, and we'd gladly support other good ideas, as well.

Kentuckians have long understood that united, we stand. Now is the time to put aside ideologies that only tear down, and stand together for solutions that help us work together to make sure that Kentucky is a place where our kids can drink clean water and work in good jobs. It's time to come together to move Kentucky forward.

House week in review

by REP. HUBERT COLLINS

This is it—the week when the governor calls us back to Frankfort to finish our work on a state budget for the next two years and pass a budget, hopefully by week's end.

You might already have the skinny on the governor's budget proposal for this week's special session, but just in case you do not, I thought you might want some details. Please be sure and keep in mind as you read this that the plan is changeable. Although state legislative leaders had not voiced much (if any) opposition to the governor's proposal in the week leading up to this special session, lawmakers are at liberty to—and often do—alter the governor's proposals to meet the needs of the citizens of the Commonwealth.

I expect the budget plan to change very little, though, and here's why.

Governor Beshear has said that his budget proposal for this special session would combine parts of his original 2010-12 budget announced in January with some provisions found in last session's House and Senate budget plans. Those plans made it through their respective houses but not both the House and Senate, which is why we are back in session now.

The new budget plan, like last session's budget plans, would not raise taxes and would protect spending in certain areas. But the new plan is different from the other plans in some ways, too. For one thing, the new plan would not fully exempt K-12 education, State Police, Corrections, prosecutors and other critical areas from budget cuts. Any hope to hold those areas harmless, as some say, went out the window when state budget experts determined Kentucky wouldn't have enough new recurring revenue over the next two years to support the programs at current funding levels. The good news is that the biennial, or two-year, budget that the governor proposes this special session would protect SEEK (per pupil) school dollars at the same level proposed by the House last session while giving schools, agencies and universities more freedom to plan for the financial uncertainties that could later affect our state.

Cuts in critical areas like K-12 education and some other areas I mentioned would not be as extreme as cuts proposed by the governor for most agencies. The majority of agencies—which have already experienced significant cuts over the past four years—would have their budgets reduced by an additional 3.5 percent in the next fiscal year starting July 1 and 4.5 percent in fiscal year 2012 under the new proposal. More money can be added to these budgets in the next regular session in January if the money is there, but the governor says additional cuts and not a continuation budget is what lawmakers must consider at this time given the state's steady high unemployment rate and other problems.

As the governor himself said in a recent press release, "Any sort of continuation budget is unacceptable. We have received no indication that revenue estimates are going to get any better, and though these are tough decisions, making tough decisions in tough times is what the people of Kentucky elected us to do..."

Those concerned with increasing the state debt will be happy to know that the governor's proposal would bond a limited number of projects for job creation while keeping General Fund supported debt at its lowest level since the 1996 budget cycle. And the many folks who were against a pro-positional last session to cut two days from the school calendar will be pleased to know that the new proposal maintains the calendar at 177 days.

The governor's proposal is also expected to lessen the possibility of deeper budget cuts later in the biennium by freeing up around $279 million to be carried forward to fiscal year 2012.

Funding for General Fund and Agency bond projects in the governor's new budget proposal will be the same amount agreed to last session says the governor, who has pledged to fund state Medicaid at the same levels proposed in last session's House budget while moving forward with cost containment measures found in the governor's original 2010-12 budget proposal. Those measures would improve benefit management and increase revenue collections, saving the state an estimated $244 million in fiscal year 2011 and $117 million in fiscal year 2012. Other government savings totaling around $126 million next year and $164 million in fiscal year 2012 found in the proposal will come from government efficiencies like cuts in contract spending, decreasing non-merit employee spending and other means.

News reports last Thursday said the governor might ask lawmakers to pass bills on other issues this special session—issues like charter schools, the state's unemployment insurance trust fund and showcasing bourbon at the upcoming Alltech FEI World Equestrian Games. I will have more to share with you on all these matters next week. If you want to leave a message for me or another lawmaker about any of these matters during the special session, please call me in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181. I would also encourage you to follow all session happenings online via the Legislature's home page at www.lrc.ky.gov. Have a great week.

Appalachian Artisan Center awarded $3,600 at annual tourism week event

SOMERSET — TOUR Southern and Eastern Kentucky (TOUR SEKY) held its annual National Tourism Week event May 11, 2010 at The Center for Rural Development in Somerset, Kentucky. During the ceremony TOUR awarded more than $400,000 through its Community Initiative in Tourism for You (C.I.T.Y) and Let's Paint the Town programs. The Appalachian Artisan Center in Hindman was awarded a total of $3,600. Funded projects include the patio on Troublesome Creek and a mural project. Tricia Watts, Executive Director of the Appalachian Artisan Center applied for the funding through the "Let's Paint the Town" program.

More than 200 guests were on hand as TOUR SEKY celebrated the marriage between Tourism Development and Downtown Revitalization. Communities throughout TOUR's 47 county service area were eligible to apply for the funding.

During this event, TOUR SEKY took the first steps toward becoming a "green" organization. TOUR launched its paperless registration process and opted not to print programs or agenda's for the event. "Going green isn't about the economic impact, it's about lessening our impact on the environment," said Jeff Crowe, TOUR SEKY President/CEO. "This is just the first step in our efforts to go green; my goal is to make TOUR SEKY a paper free organization in the near future."

"Let's Paint the Town" is a community based program to clean up, paint and revitalize communities in southern and eastern Kentucky. Annually, projects will be eligible for the program with funding of as much as $2,000 each. Some of the eligible projects under the program include new windows, signage, awnings, planters and murals. These opportunities are available through the efforts of Congressman Hal Rogers.

The C.I.T.Y. program is intended to assist southern and eastern Kentucky downtowns in attracting people to live, work, shop and play. The program has secured more than $700,000 for revitalization efforts in the region's downtowns. C.I.T.Y. eligible projects include downtown/streetscape master plans, facade improvements and landscape projects, among others.

For more information about each cities' award and projects the funding will support, please contact Michelle Allen, 606-677-6142 or mallen@tourseky.com.

TOUR SEKY is an award winning initiative of Congressman Hal Rogers. The organization's mission is to educate, expand, develop and market the existing and potential tourism industry throughout southern and eastern Kentucky, while contributing to the economic, cultural growth, health and awareness, and overall quality of life of the region. ### State to receive $5,211,420 for emergency management capabilities

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers announced Friday that Kentucky is slated to receive $5,211,420 in U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Emergency Management Performance Grants.

These funds assist state and local emergency operations centers — the nerve centers for multi-agency response and preparedness to man-made and natural disasters. Emergency management agencies bring together law enforcement, fire, EMS and public health, to coordinate government resources and maximize preparedness, response and recovery measures.

Nine die on Kentucky roadways

FRANKFORT — Preliminary statistics indicate that nine people died in nine separate crashes on Kentucky roadways from Monday, May 17, through Sunday, May 23.

Five of the crashes involved motor vehicles and three of the victims were not wearing seat belts. Single-fatality crashes occurred in Knott, Perry (2), Pulaski and Union counties. The suspected use of alcohol was a factor in the Union County crash.

Three pedestrian involved fatal crashes occurred in Fayette, Franklin and Jefferson counties.

Through May 23 preliminary statistics indicate that 240 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2010. This is 66 fewer fatalities than reported for the same time period in 2009.

There were 200 motor vehicle fatalities and 106 of those victims were not wearing seat belts. Thirty-two of those crashes involved a commercial motor vehicle. Twenty-four fatal crashes involved a pedestrian and one involved a scooter. Twelve crashes involved a motorcycle and four of those victims were not wearing helmets. Two crashes involved an ATV and one victim was not wearing a helmet. A total of 52 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas.

KSP wins gold in National Honor Guard Competition

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky State Police Honor Guard earned a gold medal for a first place finish in the Fraternal Order of Police National Honor Guard Competition held in Washington, DC on May 14. The event is held each year to test the skills of law enforcement honor guard units that perform ceremonial and patriotic tributes for the public.

Facing units from eight agencies throughout the U.S. and one from Canada, the KSP team placed first in each of the competition's three phases: uniform inspection, posting of colors (flags) and specialized demonstration.

For the demonstration phase, the KSP Honor Guard folded a Commonwealth of Kentucky flag over a specially detailed coffin honoring the fallen troopers of the Kentucky State Police. The donated coffin was painted gray and black with the KSP emblem and listed the names of troopers who have given their life in service to the Commonwealth. While a U.S. flag is traditionally folded from one end, the KSP Honor Guard folded the Commonwealth flag from both ends to reveal the state seal at the final fold.

The competition was judged by members of the famous 3rd U.S. Infantry Regiment, known for their precision and attention to detail. Nicknamed "The Old Guard," the unit provides high-visibility ceremonial services in Washington such as state funerals, presidential escorts and salutes and sentinel duties at the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery.

"This was the first time our honor guard competed in this prestigious event," said KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer. "To achieve this level of success under such circumstances is highly commendable and I congratulate all those involved in the effort. It reflects well on the state and gives Kentucky positive exposure on a national level."

Obama. During the wreath-laying ceremony that followed, the KSP unit escorted police officers who were wounded in the March 2010 shooting incident at the Pentagon.

Members of the KSP Honor Guard who participated in the competition include: Lt. Blake Slone, Post 7 Richmond; Sgt. Scott Hopkins, Drivers Testing; Tpr. Manuel J. Cruz, Post 4 Elizabethtown; Tpr. Jason Bunch, Post 10 Harlan; Tpr. Bryan E. Johnson, Post 10 Harlan; Tpr. Joe Lucas, Post 7 Richmond; Tpr. Corey Nokes, Post 4 Elizabethtown and Tpr. Mark Treadway, Post 12 Frankfort. The remaining members of the team, who served as alternates and support for the competing team members included: Tpr. Scott King, Post 7 Richmond; Tpr. Seth Lee, Post 4 Elizabethtown; Tpr. Chris Masters, Post 12 Frankfort; Tpr. Camileo D. Threatt, Post 2 Madisonville and Tpr. Dwaine Barnett, Executive Security.

According to event officials, KSP's victory was the first time that a team has won the event on their first visit to the competition. It was also the first time a team has won each of the three phases on their first try.

Due to their winning efforts, the KSP Honor Guard also participated in the 29th Annual National Peace Officer's Memorial Service on May 15th at the U.S. Capitol. Tpr. Jason Bunch, of KSP Post 10 in Harlan, was selected to be on stage during the service, which included remarks by President tional format, this request includes asking for the school's name to be the Renaissance Learning Center."

High school and middle school students have been placed at Opportunities Unlimited when they didn't demonstrate the ability to function academically and/or behaviorally in their home school setting.

According to the staff recommendations and rationale addressing the change, "The purpose of the Renaissance Learning Center is to provide performance-based learning with individualized interventions that address learning gaps. A performance-based program allows students to advance through curriculum at their own rate of learning. Each student's program is individualized in order to provide the support needed to allow him/her to return to his/her home school with the skills needed to continue study with his/her peers and function successfully in school and community settings. After completion, students will return to their home high school to re-enter classes and graduate with peers."

The objectives of the Renaissance Learning

Center include increasing the graduation rate, serving as an intervention program, providing remediation, providing credit recovery, improving student attendance, cooperating with various state agencies in order to maximize services and benefits available to students and providing student counseling services.

The Renaissance Learning Center is located on Main Street in Martin.

Jail

"selling" of transfers of inmates to and from the jail, concerns about contracts with architects and the trend of inmates appearing for court appearances while under the influence.

A Johnson County grand jury returned a partial report on the investigation and complaints outside the original scope of that investigation.

Additional problems brought up in the May 19 report include a lack of control over the jail guard's actions in general and specifically toward inmates, physical and mental mistreatment of inmates, the use of inmates for personal gain by and for jail employees and their families, missing money, use of inmates for purposes of peep shows, improperly requiring payments of "booking fees" as a condition to release from the jail in the face of court orders mandating release, bringing drugs into the jail and a failure to maintain inventory records.

As part of the grand jury's action, it was stated in the documents that the jail administration "must be educated on their responsibilities as board members," including the by-laws which govern all jail boards and should "set aside political influences when exercising their decision-making functions," saying further that "when politics guide the management of the jail...administration lose the ability to make the tough decisions that must be made for the betterment of the jail."

The final section of the grand jury's report says that an "overhaul" of the jail administration could prevent many of the actions laid out following the investigation.

the Kentucky State Police arrived at the scene, an x-ray of the box allegedly revealed a wire.

Based on the information received during the investigation, Agent Spahn said that, "There is reasonable and probable cause that on May 19, 2010, Jonathan Hall attempted to take by force and/or intimidation, from the BB&T Bank the deposits which are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, U.S. currency."

The allegation will now be considered by a federal grand jury, which will decide whether to indict Hall on the charge.

work together seamlessly," said Rogers. "These funds will increase Kentucky's ability to manage the threats that face our state and coordinate assets like National Guard troops, deployable generators, law enforcement personnel, and hospital beds, toward keeping Kentuckians out of harm's way. Ensuring open communication and situational awareness from the onset of a widespread emergency is imperative to protecting lives and minimizing the damages. I applaud DHS for their continued investment in the Bluegrass state and this grant will go a long way toward providing for the safety and security of the citizens of the Commonwealth."

The Emergency Management Performance Grant program provides funding to state agencies, including the Kentucky Office of Homeland Security, to boost capabilities at emergency operations centers across the country. DHS will release $329,799,991 for this program to improve nationwide preparedness and response in 2010.

Rogers is the Ranking Member on the House

Homeland Security Appropriations Subcommittee, which writes the federal budget for DHS and has direct oversight of the Department's wide-ranging security efforts. As a senior member of this committee, Rogers works to secure funding for important initiatives in Kentucky.

county."

Also noted in the audit report was the fact that several county employees took more than 10 consecutive days of sick time without following proper administrative code, such as providing a doctor's excuse and the approval of Marshall for the time taken off.

In addition, the state audit noted that employees were not using time cards appropriately. In many instances, it was found that employees were signing the name of their supervisor to approve work hours, essentially signing and approving their own time cards.

Following the report, Marshall said the county would make moves to see that stronger oversight is put in place for payroll, adding that he had informed all supervisors that his signature would be required on all time cards in the future.

Other points brought out in the audit was that the fiscal court were not maintaining proper records of financial statements for its public properties fund.

The report from the state auditor can be found in its entirety at www.auditor.ky.gov.

Jones, Vargas to play for Kentucky

2010 Class gets better for Cats

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — Terrence Jones and Eloy Vargas have both signed a financial aid offer to play basketball at the University of Kentucky, Head Coach John Calipari announced on Friday.

A senior at Jefferson High School in Portland, Ore., Jones ranks ninth on ESPN's Top 100, and 13th overall by Rivals.com and is rated eighth by Scout.com recruiting services.

"Terrence is perfectly suited for our dribble-drive offense," Calipari said. "He's a lefty that can score inside and out on the perimeter. His ability in open space is what makes him a special player."

The 6-foot-9 Jones averaged 30.0 points, 14.0

rebounds, and 6.0 assists this past season at Jefferson High. The 2010 McDonald's All-American tallied 14 points in the McDonald's All-American game, teaming with fellow UK signees Brandon Knight and Doron Lamb to help lead the West team to a 107-104 victory.

Jones also participated in the 2010 Jordan Brand Classic All-American game along with Knight and Lamb, teaming up with Lamb on the West squad. He finished with 17 points and nine rebounds in helping lead the West to a 129-125 win.

A 6-foot-11 native of the Dominican Republic, Vargas averaged 25.0 points, 13.0 rebounds and five blocks as a sophomore at Miami-Dade Community College last season. He was named the 2010 Southern Conference Player of the Year, First Team All-Southern Conference and FCCAA All-State.

Vargas was rated the No. 26 prospect in the 2008 Rivals 150 by Rivals.com, 41st by ESPN and was rated a four-star top 50 recruit in 2008 by Scout.com recruiting service.

"Eloy is a long, big forward who is skilled both offensively and defensively," Calipari said. "He immediately adds a shot-blocking presence and a versatile front-court player to our team next season."

Vargas played one season at Florida (2008-09), but appeared in only nine games after suffering an ankle injury.

Jones and Vargas join Enes Kanter, Knight, Lamb and Stacey Poole Jr. in UK's 2010 signing class.

Klee, a 5-11 post, averaged 8.6 points and 9.3 rebounds as a senior at St. Patrick High School. As a junior, she tossed in 12.3 points and grabbed 12 rebounds per contest for the Lady Saints. Klee is an outstanding student who has completed 50 hours of credit

EVERYBODY'S SCIENCE

Nutritional jewels in a tiny package

by SANDY MILLER HAYS
 AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH SERVICE

I admit it: I came late to my love affair with rice.

In my defense, I didn't get off to a great start with rice. When I was a kid, our standard weekend morning fare was cold white rice with milk and a little bit of sugar. To this day, I can enjoy rice prepared in a multitude of ways, but never with milk and sugar, thank you very much.

What changed my mind about rice was writing about agriculture. In my ag reporting days for the Arkansas Democrat, I visited dozens of farm families, and if my visit fell around lunchtime, I was invariably invited to share in the noon meal. And in Arkansas, one of the nation's leading rice-producing states, that was going to include some sort of rice dish, always delicious. Those kindly farm wives completely changed my mind about rice.

But there still was a problem—the cooking time. Plus I just didn't seem to have the knack to make the rice come out like I wanted, with every kernel separate and a bit firm, instead of a solid lump of mush.

On a whim, I bought a rice cooker, and was promptly intimidated beyond belief. The cooker came from Japan, complete with instructions that made cooking a simple bowl of rice sound like an all-day undertaking. The rice cooker gathered dust until I came across a marvelous cookbook that demystified its use, and now I can whip out a perfect batch of rice in less time than it takes to stir up a tasty sauce (still no sugar, please!).

I typically go for brown rice, because I love that slightly nutty flavor. But if you shy away from brown rice because of its longer cooking time—as much as 50 minutes—the scientists of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) have some very good news for you.

They've come up with a patented brown rice treatment that can trim brown rice's cooking time to just 20 minutes, the same as that of white rice. That patented technology is now available to commercial licensees, which could land that quicker-cooking brown rice on our grocery stores shelves very quickly.

Why bother with rice at all? According to the 2005 Dietary Guidelines for Americans, if you're aged 9 to 50 or older, you should try to consume three "ounce equivalents" of whole-grain foods daily. You can usually get about 2/3 of that recommended daily amount in one cup of brown rice.

If you've ever wondered about the difference between brown rice and white rice—for example, are they different types of plants? (here's where you can stop wondering. White rice actually starts life as brown rice; it's just that the rice kernel has been completely milled and polished to remove the outer brown bran layer. And incidentally, almost all U.S. white rice is subsequently enriched with powdered nutrients, so it ends up with nearly the same nutrient content as brown rice. Both enriched white rice and whole-grain brown rice contain 15 vitamins and minerals, including B vitamins, potassium, magnesium, selenium and iron.

That's what rice has. Now let's talk about what it doesn't have: cholesterol, sodium and gluten. It's also low in calories and fat, it has no trans fats, and it's a great source of complex carbohydrates.

Yes, rice has starches, but that's not necessarily a bad thing. Whole-grain rice contains both "resistant starches" and "slowly digestible starches." Resistant starch is considered a form of dietary fiber, and it

The image of Rosie the Riveter is ingrained in the nation's history, serving as a tribute to the women who worked in factories during World War II while the men that normally worked those jobs were serving in the military, and Roma Tuttle, of Floyd County, was recently appointed as a state director for the Rosie the Riveter Association.

"There's more of us Rosies around here, but I need to find them," Tuttle said.

Tuttle, 86, was recruited at the age of 18 from Martin High School and she traveled to Michigan to work at the Ford plant, which had been converted to serve as an airplane factory.

"It was something I had never done," Tuttle said. "I had never been away from home before. We were doing jobs that men had usually done."

According to information provided by the Rosie the Riveter Association, "About 65 million women workers helped build planes, bombs, tanks, and other weapons that would be used to win World War II. In all, about 18 million women worked in some way for the war effort, in every sector of the economy. They came forward without hesitation and learned to do many things that only men had done in the past. They drove streetcars, operated heavy machinery, worked in lumber and steel mills, and much more. They proved to themselves, and to the country, that they could do 'a man's job' and could do it well."

reaches the large intestine intact, so it doesn't turn into sugar and cause a sugar rise. And the "slowly digestible starches" lead to a more gradual boost in blood sugar levels than rapidly digestible starches. Plus, the scientists say, both of these starches hold promise for their ability to satisfy hunger.

If those bags of rice at your grocery store look awfully big, especially for a one- or two-person household, there's good news there, too. Whole-grain rice will stay fresh in your pantry for about six months, and can be refrigerated to last even longer—and enriched white rice will last longer still.

So, ladies and gentlemen, fire up those rice cookers!

Ten Years Ago (May 21, May 24 and May 26, 2000)

Floyd County voters will go to the polls, Tuesday, to make their selections on a ballot which is light in weight, but heavy in competitiveness in at least two races. Democrats will face the bulk of choices in Kentucky's closed primary, which only allows voters to vote for candidates in the party to which they belong. Republicans can cast their votes in only one race, for president, and that race has long been decided with the withdrawal of all candidates except presumed nominee George W. Bush, Texas governor and son of former President George Bush.

Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court gave final approval to the county's budget for 2000-2001. Friday as they met in a regularly scheduled meeting. Projected appropriations for the court total $12,084,576 for the coming year.

Residents looking for relief in homeowner's insurance may be glad to know the Big Sandy Area Development District has received a grant to purchase fire hydrants for the county. That announcement was made during the regularly scheduled meeting of the Floyd Fiscal Court on Friday. Plagued by calls and letters requesting fire hydrants, the court plans to meet with local fire districts to discuss sharing further purchases.

Two events have transpired to help solve the mystery of the grave marker about which the Times reported April 30. Alan and Beth Speidlitz, of Goebel Branch, found the stone and began trying to find the origin of the stone. Shortly after the article ran in the Times, Danese Amburgey, who sold the house to the Speidlitzs, came home from Florida and saw the article. She explained that her husband, William Harris Amburgey, replaced several markers at Carr Fork Memorial Cemetery when graves were moved for the construction of Carr Dam and said she didn't know for sure what her husband was planning to do with the marker unless he wanted to save it as a sample of old-time markers. A celebration of the county's roots will be held this summer as Floyd County commemorates its bicentennial. All eight of the county's communities are encouraged to plan local celebrations of the county's birthday and then to assemble together for a grand birthday bash beginning Saturday, July 1.

Hard work is what Arnold Brent Turner attribute to his victory in the race for commonwealth's attorney. Turner won the election with 68 percent of the vote, dominating almost every precinct by a better than 2-to-1 margin. Turner received 7,141 votes to Patton's 3,397.

As expected, Floyd County decided the outcome of the 29th District state Senate race, putting a 20-year incumbent out of office and giving the job to a political newcomer. Johnson Central basketball coach and Drift resident Johnny Ray Turner unseated incumbent Sen. Benny Ray Bailey by sweeping Floyd County by 1,776 votes.

Floyd County voters for the most part followed the rest of the state when casting ballots for president and congressman. Local voters gave Democratic Vice President Al Gore and Republican Texas Gov. George W. Bush decisive margins of victory, reflecting similar margins across the state.

In addition to losing his race for commonwealth's attorney, Tuesday night, Prestonsburg attorney Jerry Patton received more bad news the day before when the chairman of the local school board filed a $110,000 defamation suit against him. "They have defamed the reputation of the plaintiff" states a civil suit filed, Monday, in Floyd Circuit Court, against defendant Jerry Patton.

For the third time in the last two years, parents in the Betsy Layne area are going through a meningitis scare. Betsy Layne Elementary began sending students home after receiving confirmation that a first-grader there had contracted an early stage of the disease. That student was sent to Pikeville Methodist Hospital, where he was said to be doing well.

Seven counts of first-degree cruelty to animals. That's what is waiting for an unknown person who threw seven newborn puppies into a ravine near Prestonsburg. Sharon Johnson of Prestonsburg, called Prestonsburg City Police to inform them she heard kittens or puppies crying near the South Central Bell building at Water Gap, Friday afternoon. Firefighter John Bryant went to the area and discovered the puppies.

A Floyd County jury apparently agreed with a Prestonsburg man's assertion that police forced him to confess to engaging in sodomy with a child and found him not guilty at the end of his trial, Thursday. Proceedings began Wednesday in the sodomy trial of Jason Wallen, 23.

The trial saw Sgt. Bobby Johnson of the Kentucky State Police read verbatim a statement Wallen had allegedly given him confessing to the incident. The jury deliberated for three-and-one-half hours before reaching its verdict.

Gary Risner, 43, of Prestonsburg, was arrested Monday, for the alleged sexual abuse of a child. He was charged with first-degree sexual abuse after he allegedly subjected a seven-year-old girl to sexual contact.

There died: Luna E. Rose, 61, of Elkhart, Indiana, Wednesday, May 17, at St. Joseph Hospital in South Bend, Indiana; Carl J. Moore, 62, of Tipp City, Ohio, Wednesday, May 17, at Upper Valley Medical Center, Troy, Ohio; Brandi Lynn Mosley, 14, of Allen, Thursday, May 18, at UK Medical Center, Lexington; Olive Cooley Martin Pruitt, 83, Friday, May 19, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Arlen Calhoun, 73, of Prestonsburg, Sunday, May 21, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Alta Mae Howard, 90, of East Point, Monday, May 22, at the Riverview Manor Nursing Home in Prestonsburg; Katie Prater, 91, of Hippo, Friday, May

Honorable Robert Marshall, Floyd County Judge/Executive
Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Floyd County, Kentucky, as of and for the year ended June 30, 2009, which collectively comprise the county's basic financial statements, as listed in the table of contents. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Floyd County Fiscal Court. Our responsibility is to express opinions on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for Fiscal Court Audits issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinions.

As described in note 1, Floyd County, Kentucky, prepares its financial statements in accordance with the modified cash basis, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Floyd County, Kentucky, as of June 30, 2009, and the respective changes in financial position and cash flows, where applicable, thereof for the year then ended in conformity with the basis of accounting described in Note 1. The county has not presented the management's discussion and analysis that the Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) has determined is necessary to supplement, although not required to be a part of, the basic financial statements. The budgetary comparison information is not a required part of the basic financial statements but is supplementary information required by the GASB. We have applied certain limited procedures, which consisted principally of inquiries of management regarding the methods of measurement and presentation of the required supplementary information. However, we did not audit the information and express no opinion on it. Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming opinions on the financial statements that collectively comprise Floyd County, Kentucky's basic financial statements. The accompanying combining fund financial statements are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. CRIT LUAllen

The Honorable Robert D. Marshall, Floyd County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Chris Waugh, Floyd County Clerk
Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Clerk of Floyd County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2009. This financial statement is the responsibility of the County Clerk. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the County Clerk's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 2009, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated April 12, 2010, on our consideration of the Floyd County Clerk's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the County Clerk and Fiscal Court of Floyd County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Respectfully submitted,

Local residents in amazement yesterday as Collectors provide a stimulus package to Prestonsburg!

They are paying out right on the spot for my stuff. Unbelievable!!

Spokesperson for the event said he expects to spend in excess of $200,000.00 this week for vintage items and precious metals from local residents. Here are some examples of what is going on in the event that started yesterday in the Comfort Suites.

One person sold an old Gibson guitar that was purchased in the 1960's for less than $250.00 to a collector at the event for $2175.00

Another person had a pocket watch collection that sold for $4600.00., with one of the watches in this collection bringing $375.00 of the $4600.00 talley.

A husband and wife brought in a box of old Jewelry, wristwatches, coins, and two German daggers from WW2 and left $785.00 richer.

This is cool that something like this would come here to our town. Where else would this stuff ever be sold? The refinery has teamed up with the collectors for a 24 month tour of the United States, both big and small towns to dig up hidden gems.

"I'm glad I came in! I really need the money."
CLAUDIA MCDONALD says, who received $825 for a gold coin minted in 1986.

Dozens cash in yesterday with jewelry, railroad watches and guitars. An estimated $200,000 in Prestonsburg!

The first day of the reclamation drive in Prestonsburg was a hit with those looking to sell their gold and silver. Representatives were on hand Tuesday purchasing all types of unwanted and broken jewelry. An estimated 55 people left the event with over $200 dollars from old class rings, wedding bands, herringbones, and gold teeth. Coins dated before 1964 were bringing big premiums as well. Silver dollars, halves and quarters arrived in large quantities. Lots of gold coins were also brought in. Rebecca Hughes walked away with over $1200.00 after selling an original $20 gold piece from 1888.

On the other side of the room were representatives from the Antique Association. They were purchasing all types of guitars, large currency bills dated before 1923, military items and pocket watches. One watch was purchased by a collector in Montana for $835 dollars. There were piles of sterling silver items like old silverware sets and tea pots. One gentleman rolled a cart in with 3 boxes full of silver coins. Company officials reported spending over $80,000 the first day of the event, alone. Brian Eades with Ohio Valley said "we have had an overwhelming turnout this first day and we expect to get busier each day". The event continues today and runs through Thursday. The event is free and the public is welcome.

Silver and Gold Coin Prices Up During Poor Economy.

Collectors and Enthusiasts in Prestonsburg with $200,000 to Purchase Yours!

By CHRISTINA BUTLER

Got Coin? It might be just the time to cash in. This week, starting Tuesday and continuing through Thursday, the International Collectors Association in conjunction with the Ohio Valley Gold & Silver Refinery will be purchasing all types of silver and gold coins direct from the public. All types are welcome and the event is free.

Collectors will be on hand to identify and sort your coins. Then the quality or grade will be determined. The better the grade the more they are worth according to collectors I talked to. With the silver and gold markets high prices of older coins are too. Any coins minted before 1964 in the U.S. are 90% silver except nickels and pennies.

The coins worth is determined by the rarity and the grade. Old silver dollars are worth a great premium right now even well worn heavy circulated ones are bringing good premiums. Franklin and Kennedy halves, Washington quarters, Mercury and Roosevelt dimes are all worth many times the face value. While older types like Seated Liberty, Standing Liberties, and Barber coins are worth even more.

Gold coins are really worth a lot right now according to Brian Eades of the International Collectors Association. This country didn't start minting coins until 1792 says Eades. Before that people would trade goods using gold dust and nuggets. Some shop keepers would take more gold than needed to pay for items purchased. There was no uniform system of making change. The government opened the first mints and began distributing the coins in 1792. By the beginning of the 19th century coins and paper currency were wide spread and our monetary system was here to stay. In 1933 Roosevelt required all banking institutions to turn in all gold coins.

Once all banks turned in this gold the president raised the gold standard from $20.00 per ounce to $33.00 per ounce. This was his way of stimulating the economy during the great depression. However gold coins were never redistributed after the recall. Not all gold coins were turned in. Many folks during that time didn't completely trust the government and choose to keep their gold.

These gold coins are sought after collectors today and bring many times the face value. Any gold coins with the mint marks of CC, D or O will bring nice premiums. Collectors at the event will be glad to show you where to look. Other types of coins will also be purchase including foreign coins, Indian head cents, two cent pieces, half dimes, three cent pieces and buffalo nickels to name a few.

Collectors warn people against trying to clean their coins as significant damage can be done and the coins value lessened.

Items we will accept include:

Scrap Jewelry
Dental Gold
Sterling Silverware
Sterling Silver Tea Sets
Silver Dollars
All Coins Dated before 1964
