by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

WARFIELD — Destiny Brewer, the 10-year-old girl who was killed last month in an accident involving an alleged drunk driver, will be remembered during a candlelight vigil at Warfield Elementary School on July 28. Brewer was a student at the school.

Brewer attended Dance Etc. in Prestonsburg, and friends, family and community members released balloons in her memory earlier this month.

John Evans, Brewer's uncle, said that the vigil will be in support of, "Unity against the rampant drug and alcohol abuse problems in Eastern Kentucky."

Ross Brandon Sluss, the man who was driving the car that crashed into the vehicle driven by Brewer's grandmother, Blanch Robinson, has been charged with murder.

A non-profit organization called "Destiny's Hope" has been formed to promote Destiny's Law, an effort to strengthen DUI laws across Kentucky.

PIKEVILLE — The Floyd County Rescue Squad put its swift water rescue expertise to use on Saturday to help pull 36 people to safety during the devastating flood that ravaged parts of Pike County over the weekend.

"We worked Saturday night," said Floyd County Rescue Squad Cpt. Tim Cooley. "We were on for 13 hours. Our last crew got in at around 10 a.m. on Sunday. We had three teams and we pulled out 36 people that were in trees, mobile homes, houses and cars."

Crews utilized boats, wet-suits, rope and an array of other specialized equipment to rescue those in peril, and Cooley said he believes many of those trapped by the water would have lost their lives if

Fultz files for Wayland mayor

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

With five new candidates the week before, election filings slowed this past week, with only one resident filing paperwork to run for an office.

That candidate was Jerry A. Fultz, of Wayland. Fultz filed to run for mayor against incumbent Tommy Robinson, who has not yet filed.

Attempts to reach Fultz for further comment on his decision were unsuccessful yesterday.

Though the filings may have slowed, there have been some candidates already campaigning at full-steam, such as Floyd Skeans in the District 1 Magistrate race and Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin and his challenger, Philip Simpson. All three have been busy placing signs and making rounds in anticipation of

Local youths benefit from summer work program

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Less than two months after kicking off, the WorkNow Kentucky program employment initiative has placed 3,700 people in summer jobs.

The program employs youths ages 16 to 24 and adults of all ages who have a dependent child, are unemployed or underemployed, with certain income guidelines in place.

As stated when the program launched seven weeks ago, the idea is to place workers at sites with a wide range of volunteer employers including private businesses, state and local government agencies and also nonprofit organizations. WorkNow pays all of the wages and in turn these businesses and others are afforded free labor.

By the time the program comes to an end on Sept. 17, the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) hopes to infuse the local economy with as much as $12 million in wages.

In Prestonsburg, city officials jumped on board and are currently employing several for the summer, including three teens at the Prestonsburg Fire Department —

Two words define our gulf tragedy

Regulatory capture. These two words offer another insight into the ecological disaster and gigantic oily mess that has become the Gulf of Mexico. And, so far, it's the best explanation for how this country's worst environmental disaster occurred. According to Wikipedia, "regulatory capture occurs when a state regulatory agency created to act in the public interest instead acts in favor of the commercial or special interests that dominate in the industry or sector it is charged with regulating. Regulatory capture is a form of government failure, as it can act as an encouragement for large firms to produce negative externalities." Failure. It is a word used a great deal these days when discussing our current system of government. We watched, and worried, while being told we were only hours away from a full-blown depression during the financial market meltdown of 2008 and that our only rescue was throwing trillions of taxpayers dollars at Wall Street to stave off financial Armageddon. And now we watch helplessly as millions of gallons of crude oil pour into the gulf.

It now appears that in both cases, our government, specifically the regulatory agencies that were supposed to watch out for our financial security and properly manage our natural resources, had forgotten their mission.

Not only forgotten their mission, but had began empathizing and the identifying with the folks they were supposed to be watching.

The stories about the Securities and Exchange Commission turning a blind eye to the felonious behavior of people like Ponzi-schemer Bernie Madoff, not heeding the warnings of those who predicted the housing market collapse and doing nothing to control the financial derivative market are disturbing.

But hearing about the complete and utter failure of the federal government's Minerals Management Service to serve as the American's people's watchdog was terrifying.

Stories of jobs offers, drugs, sex and free trips financed by those connected to the oil industry clearly demonstrates what happens when an governmental agency has been "captured" by the industry it is supposed to monitor.

The details of the agency's malfeasance are nearly unbelievable. Oil drilling rig inspectors would allow the oil drillers to fill out inspection reports in pencil so inspectors could doctor the report to make it appear all the necessary safety procedures had been followed.

Those same inspectors got meals and tickets to sporting events from companies they monitored.

According to one report by CNN, an inspector conducted four offshore platform inspections while negotiating a job with the company that operated them.

What's left in the wake of this agency's "capture" by the oil industry? An oil-blackened gulf coast that will take generations to repair.

President Obama's recent statement that the gulf coast will be made whole again is simply unbelievable. And if it ever occurs, it will probably not be in our lifetimes. Only the march of time, with help from sun, water, erosion and evaporation will make what happened whole again.

There are ways minimize the chance of an agency being "captured."

For us, it is to prosecute, and jail if necessary, those inspectors who failed in their jobs to monitor the oil industry. That would send a clear message to the hundreds of other agencies who regulate the industries that can do real damage to our economy and environment.

Demonstrate there are consequences when one doesn't perform up to the expectations of the American public.

Prosecute the very idea of a "regulatory capture" out of our vernacular so events like the gulf disaster become only tragic footnotes in the history of our great republic.

House week in review

by REP. HUBERT COLLINS

The state furloughs announced by the Governor's Office in early July combined with a dire outlook for the state's overburdened public employee pension system are two key issues on state lawmakers' minds as we begin the 2011 fiscal year.

Both the furloughs and the pension problem are at least, in part, symptomatic of the national recession which continues to hold state unemployment at over 10 percent and hamper growth in state revenues.

There have been moments of sunshine, in this economic gloom: Economic briefs released by the state Budget Director's Office for the week of June 25 reported that the number of first-time filers for unemployment fell nationally in the third week of June, and the jobless rates for 93 of Kentucky's 120 counties fell between May 2009 and May 2010. Another news brief indicates that Louisville-area builders are bucking the national housing trend of plunging sales by constructing new homes after years of limiting new residential construction. But overall, Kentucky's economic is still far from healthy.

Furloughs

The 2010 General Assembly gave the governor the authority to use limited furloughs in the current state budget to meet the $131 million in spending reductions required by the budget. And last week, the governor announced that he would do just that — closing state government for six days over this fiscal year, including three days adjacent to holiday weekends and three days in October 2010 and March and June 2011, to save around $24 million. Furloughs in October, March and June would be staggered so state agencies remain open.

All executive branch employees will be furloughed under the plan, meaning they will not be paid for those six days, and some non-merit employees or political appointees will likely face layoffs in the Executive Branch in coming weeks. Without the furloughs, state officials say over 410 state workers - including rank and file employees - would have to be laid off to meet required budget cuts.

In addition to the furloughs, the state Budget Director is asking state agencies to play to cut their budgets an additional 1.5 percent this fiscal year to help come up with part of the $131 million.

State pension system

Kentucky has struggled for years to keep up its contributions to the state's public employee retirement system and has not succeeded. Part of the problem was addressed two years ago by state lawmakers when we raised the retirement age for employees hired after 2008 (the retirement age for the majority of state employees hired before that date is 27 years) and required those same employees to contribute more toward retirement. At the same time, the state itself agreed to contribute more — adding $245 million to the pension system in the current state budget.

Still, the pension system remains underfunded in the billions of dollars — as much as $16.6 billion, at last count.

What has caused this problem? There are a few causes. One is underfunding by the state. Another is volatility in the stock market. Yet another is the fact that the pension system (which covers over 330,000 state and county workers and retirees) is paying out more than it receives in contributions both from the state and active employees — an imbalance expected to last well into the next decade. All of this means serious trouble for the system, which reportedly will pay out nearly half its assets for retiree benefits each year through 2018.

Some state lawmakers have said cutting retirement benefits to current state workers and retirees should be considered, although current state law prohibits such action under what is called the "inviolable contract" rule to protect state retirees. What can be done to correct the problem will continue to be a major issue in the 2011 session and beyond.

Medicaid

Another issue worth consideration here today is the economic strain on our state's Medicaid program, which has taken on tens of thousands of new enrollees as the economy has tanked.

Changes announced recently are expected to save the state program around $26 million. The changes include new requirements allowing Medicaid to only reimburse the cost of prescriptions written by approved physicians, and only pay for generic, not name-brand, drugs.

More cuts could be forthcoming if the federal government — which provides most of the funding for the state Medicaid program by matching every Kentucky dollar spent on Medicaid with nearly $4 federal — does not extend the higher Medicaid funding match, now scheduled to end this December.

Approximately 800,000 Kentuckians receive their health care through the Medicaid program, with around 3,000 persons added to the state's Medicaid rolls every month.

Next week we will look at some more of the issues facing the Commonwealth at this point in our history. Until then, have a good week.

Cobb, Locke, Evans voted Preseason All-SEC

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Three University of Kentucky football players, — junior wide receiver/quarterback Randall Cobb, senior tailback Derrick Locke and senior defensive end DeQuin Evans — have been named to the Preseason All-Southeastern Conference Team selected by the league coaches, the conference office announced Tuesday.

Cobb, who made the team as an all-purpose player, and Locke were named to the first team while Evans was selected to the second team. The honor for Cobb and Locke is one of many so far this preseason as Cobb has gathered eight preseason honors while Locke has received four. This is the first preseason honor for Evans.

Cobb (Alcoa, Tenn.) was selected to the All-SEC first team by the Associated Press and ESPN.com after an impressive sophomore season. Cobb, considered one of the nation's most versatile performers, finished second in the SEC in touchdowns, third in punt returns, fourth in all-purpose yardage and seventh in scoring last season. The junior led the team in 2009 in receiving with 39 catches for 447 yards and four touchdowns. While operating UK's "WildCobb"

Junior Dragster Nationals set to go green

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BRISTOL, Tenn. — Drag racing fans interested in watching the sport's future stars will want to head to Thunder Valley for the July 24-25 Mike Bos Chassis Craft Junior Dragster Nationals.

Scheduled for the weekend before the July 26-31 NHRA Jr. Drag Racing League Eastern Conference Finals, this event kicks off eight days of Jr. Dragster action and allows racers to gain more time on the track in preparation for the ECF.

Because the event attracts racers from across the East Coast, the Mike Bos Chassis Craft Nationals continues to gain popularity as one of the most popular Jr. Dragster events on the calendar. Drivers ranging in age from eight to 17 will participate in several racing events throughout the course of the weekend.

One exciting part of the event is the return of the Thunder Valley 330'. Not only does this race give participants an extra chance to fine-tune their setups, it gives them the opportunity to show they truly are the best in Thunder Valley. Bragging rights are on the line and only the quickest will survive this battle.

In addition to the Thunder Valley 330', racers will compete in several index and bracket classes and the King/Queen of the Hill competition. Drivers will race in one of four age groups, 8-9, 10-12, 13-14 and 15-17. U.S. Savings Bonds will be awarded to the top finishers in each race.

Index class racing will take place on Saturday in 7.90, 8.90, 9.90, 10.90 and 12.90 classes. The 12.90 index class is reserved for the 8-9 year old class only.

Gates open at noon on Friday with registration and tech inspection also slated for noon. Gates open at 8 a.m. on Saturday with Time Trials beginning at 9 a.m. Index class eliminations take place at 3:30 p.m.

Sunday's gates will open

Venters appeals four-game suspension

TIMES STAFF REPORT

ATLANTA — Atlanta Braves pitcher Jonny Venters' appeal of his four-game suspension for throwing back-to-back pitches at Milwaukee's Prince Fielder will be heard on July 27 in Washington. Venters, a Pikeville native, recorded his first career save for the Braves earlier in the season.

Venters will remain eligible to play until the appeal. The Braves begin a three-game series at the Washington Nationals on the day of the appeal.

Manager Bobby Cox served his one-game suspension in Tuesday night's series opener against the San Diego Padres. Bench coach Chino Cadahia was picked to fill in for Cox.

Cox has continued to insist Venters did not try to hit Fielder.

The incident came one inning after Fielder's homer started a five-run inning for the Brewers in a 6-3 win.

Cox and Venters both said the pitch over Fielder's head was a slider, not a fastball. Venters, a rookie left-hander, said he'll show at his appeal that the four batters he has hit this season have been left-handed hitters.

Cox's ejection was his record 156th and third this season.

CATCHING UP: Phillips keeping Kentucky on its toes

by ANDY BITTER
COLUMBUS LEDGER-ENQUIRER (MCT)

HOOVER, Ala. — Since taking over the Kentucky job in January, Joker Phillips has had only periodic conversations with his predecessor Rich Brooks, whose cell service doesn't always cover the remote fishing holes of Oregon.

But the 68-year-old retiree has imparted several words of wisdom to Phillips, who, after 22 years as an assistant, finally has his first shot as a head coach.

"The best advice I got from Rich was, 'Don't listen to the noise,'" Phillips said. "The noise is you, the media, some of the fans. Just continue to go about your business, make sure you've got a sound plan and stick to your plans."

Wednesday was Phillips' grand entrance to the SEC stage at SEC Media Days. The coach took the dais not long after Alabama's Nick Saban and just before Florida's Urban Meyer.

"I'm truly living a dream," the Kentucky alum and longtime assistant said. The 47-year-old Phillips has some big shoes to fill. Although Brooks had a 39-47 record in seven years at Kentucky, he made football somewhat relevant in Big Blue basketball country. His teams made bowl games in each of his final four seasons, winning three of them.

"Coach Brooks laid a great foundation," receiver/quarterback Randall Cobb said. But Phillips was his top aide for most of that run, hired as a wide receivers coach/recruiting coordinator in 2003 when Brooks first took the job and able to move up the coaching ranks, serving as offensive coordinator for four years and offensive head coach last season.

Despite his ties to Brooks, Phillips is cut from a different cloth. Brooks was laid back during practice, avuncular in nature. Phillips is on the go all the time, and he expects the same from his players.

"Our intensity is through the roof," running back Derrick Locke said. "Our practices are shorter, but we have a lot more reps. Everything is boom, boom, boom, boom, boom. So when we're in the game, we're used to that. It's second nature."

"It's crazy," defensive end DeQuin Evans said. "We end practice a lot earlier, but we get a lot more reps in."

One of Phillips' first moves was to introduce "Operation Win," a multi-pronged plan to make the Wildcats competitive on the field and the classroom. If a player doesn't want to buy in, Phillips has no problem letting him leave.

"I'm now making the hardcore decisions," Phillips said. "When I say 'hardcore decisions,' before I had a lot of opinions, a lot of ideas. I used to sit in the staff room and give them. A lot of them didn't matter. Now I'm having to be responsible for those."

Phillips made sure the six assistants he hired during the offseason — including former Tennessee quarterback Tee Martin to lead the wide receivers — were from the same mold. He wants them to have what he called "juice."

"So many times I've been around coaches that don't have that at the school they're at," he said. "I want guys with passion, energy and enthusiasm for the job we have here at Kentucky."

That's no problem for Joseph Phillips Jr., whose grandfather gave him the nickname Joker to distinguish him from his father, Joseph Sr.

Joker bleeds blue. He grew up in Franklin, Ky., was a receiver for the Wildcats from 1981-84 and has had two stints as a coach at his alma mater, getting his start there from 1988-96 and returning on Brooks' staff.

It's safe to say his Kentucky credentials are beyond reproach. "He's a Kentucky guy," Evans said. "Everybody loves and respects him. It's one thing to love a person, but to respect him, that's something that you have to earn."

SEC releases TV times for first three weeks

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — The Southeastern Conference has released television selections and game times for the first three weeks of the 2010 football season and the Kentucky Wildcats will appear on ABC, Comcast Sports Southeast (CSS) and the Fox Sports Network.

Kentucky will kick off the season Sept. 4 at Louisville in a game that will be televised at 3:30 p.m. on ABC. The Wildcats' home opener on Sept. 11 versus Western Kentucky University will be televised by CSS at 7:30 p.m. UK's Sept. 18 home game vs. Akron will have a 7 p.m. kickoff and will be televised by at least three channels on the Fox Sports Network — Fox Sports South, Fox Sports Southwest and Sun Sports.

For the remainder of the season, beginning with games of Sept. 25, game times and television selections will be announced 12 days in advance of the game.

First Kickoff Luncheon with Joker Phillips sold out: The Kentucky Kickoff Luncheon, presented by Kroger, is now a sellout for Joker Phillips' first appearance as head coach. UK Athletics is no longer taking reservations for the event, which will be held July 30 at the Lexington Convention Center.

Motorsports Notebook: Edwards, Keselowski put on probation

TIMES STAFF REPORT

NASCAR placed drivers Carl Edwards and Brad Keselowski on probation following their late-race incident during last weekend's Nationwide race at Gateway International Raceway in Madison, Ill.

Edwards was fined $25,000 and docked 60 Nationwide Series driver points, and both Edwards and Keselowski were placed on probation through Dec. 31. Jack Roush, owner of Edwards' No. 60 Ford, was also docked 60 series championship points.

Trouble began as the two drivers were battling for the lead on the final lap.

Keselowski nudged Edwards out of the way to take the lead, and Edwards returned the favor in the final straightaway, sending Keselowski into the outside wall and starting a chain reaction that collected 10 cars in all as Edwards raced to his second victory of the season.

Only one open date left. The open date last weekend gave drivers a chance to take a much-needed break. And with only one open date left in the schedule between now and Thanksgiving, few were going to waste the opportunity to get away from the fast lane.

Even Kyle Busch, racing's iron man, got away to the Bahamas. He skipped last week's Nationwide and Camping World Truck series doubleheader.

"I relaxed a little bit," he said.

Busch will return this week to race in the truck, Nationwide and Sprint Cup Series race at Indianapolis.

Denny Hamlin traveled to Panama. Scott Speed went to the Bahamas. Travis Kvapil went fishing in Wisconsin, and Kurt Busch vacationed in Italy.

The final open date is the last weekend of August.

Labonte, TRG to re-team for four-race deal

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MOORESVILLE, N.C. — After parting ways in June, Bobby Labonte and TRG Motorsports have agreed to a four-race deal: Pocono (Aug. 1), Michigan (Aug. 15), Atlanta (Sept. 5), and Texas (Nov. 7). For all four races, the No. 71 Chevrolet will feature the familiar red-and-black paint scheme of TRG sponsor

TaxSlayer.com. For owner Kevin Buckler, continuing with Labonte and TaxSlayer.com is the right fit.

"We are very happy to have Bobby in the No. 71 car for the four remaining 2010 races with TaxSlayer.com," Buckler said. "Bobby is a series champion. He made his debut with us at Atlanta, and we're pleased to have him in the driver's seat of the TaxSlayer Chevy."

Said to drive No. 83 Toyota at Watkins Glen: Road-course specialist Boris Said will drive the No. 83 Red Bull Toyota on Aug. 8 at Watkins Glen, the team announced Tuesday.

"He's better than the best available," said Jay Frye, Red Bull Racing Team vice president and general manager. "He's a phenomenal talent and an even better guy. He's been close to winning one of these things in the past. We have great history with him, and we have high expectations with him in the car."

Said has nine Cup Series starts at Watkins Glen, including one top-five finish and two top-10s. His best finish of third came at the 2005 race.

"I feel like we'll have a great chance to win this race. It is going to be fun, no matter what. Red Bull participates in so many different forms of racing - this is an exciting opportunity for me and I jumped at the chance."

The start at Watkins Glen will make Said the fifth driver of the No. 83 car in 2010, after primary driver Brian Vickers had to vacate the car due to blood clots earlier in the season. Reed Sorenson has driven the No. 83 car the past three races and will continue to do so through Indianapolis and Pocono.

formation, he rushed for 573 yards and 10 touchdowns. He also averaged 26.5 yards on kickoff returns and 12.8 yards on punt returns. In 23 career games as a quarterback/wide receiver, Cobb has gathered 889 yards rushing and over 644 yards receiving and scored a total of 24 touchdowns.

Locke (Hugo, Okla.) received several honors last year, including All-SEC first team kickoff returner by CollegeFootballNews.com and an Associated Press All-SEC second team all-purpose player. The 5-foot-9, 190-pound tailback has 1,731 rushing yards — good for 10th on UK's career rushing list — with 12 touchdowns rushing and three touchdowns receiving during his career. Locke has also returned a kickoff for a touchdown in each of the last two seasons, including a 100-yard return for a touchdown against in-state rival Louisville last season. With the 100-yard return, Locke became the only player in school history to have two 100-yarders in a career. In 2009, Locke led the UK squad and ranked sixth in the SEC in rushing with 907 yards and six touchdowns.

Evans (Long Beach, Calif.) posted a tremendous first season as a Wildcat, leading the UK defense in tackles-for-loss and sacks in 2009. Evans played and started in all 13 games last season, gathering 38 tackles, six sacks and 12.5 tackles-for-loss. Last season, Evans was named to the All-SEC fourth team by Phil Steele's College Football and UK's Most Outstanding First-Year Defensive Player by UK's coaches. Evans, a playmaker that made a quick adjustment from junior college to the SEC last season, ranked fifth in the SEC in tackles-for-loss and ninth in sacks. Arguably, one of Evans' best games of the year came against Louisville when he recorded five tackles and two sacks against the in-state rival.

Jacobs Chaffins, 16, Justin Biliter, 18, and Ethan Walker, 19.

"It's helped me out a whole lot," said Biliter, who said he had recommended the program to his friends and called the opportunity "awesome," adding it was a chance to get some "real-life" experience in the workforce.

All three of the boys had previously worked as volunteers at the Middle Creek Volunteer Fire Department, with at least one of them now saying he plans to pursue firefighting as his full-time career. Chaffins says that's the plan now for him, and that for now, the summer job is better than sitting around doing nothing like so many other teens. "It would be good for them," he said.

Chester Davis Jr., assistant chief at the fire department, said having the extra hands at the firehouse has been a big benefit this summer.

"Since they've been here," Davis said, "we've been ahead in every project."

In total, the city of Prestonsburg has 18 people hired on through the program, said the city's economic development director, Brent Graden.

"As you can see these 18 people are at all different levels," Graden said. "We're trying to get these kids a good paycheck for the summer but at the same time they're learning not only how to earn a paycheck, but also how to work well with others."

Rescue

the rescue squad hadn't arrived in time.

Two people died during the flooding, and county officials estimate the damage to be at least $8 million. Other estimates put the total as high as $10 million.

Along with the damage to property and the destruction of roads, over 2,400 residents are reported to be without water. According to an assessment by FEMA, Pike County qualifies as a federal disaster.

"A bomb could have been dropped and it wouldn't have done any worse," Cooley said. "This caught people by surprise and no preparation was able to be made. Brick was being literally pulled off of homes, trees were holding vehicles. Mother Nature, she's just big.

"I don't even want to think about what could have happened without trained personnel. The Swift Water Attack Team is specifically trained to get people out of water and over the water. They know what they are doing and they were able to do it smoothly and quickly."

The Floyd County Rescue Squad, along with the Prestonsburg Fire Department, will return to Pike County today to deliver drinking water to those in need.

in the hospital's lobby to record pledges and accept donations, and a truck will be in the front parking lot to accept drop off donations such as bleach and cleaning supplies, nonperishable food items, clothing and other items for victims.

"As a Christian organization, we are pleased to help the Pike Ministerial Association as area churches come together to respond," said hospital chaplain Randy Johnson. "So many families have lost everything. While every church does what it can, when we combine our efforts and work together, along with the hospital and East Kentucky Broadcasting, the help we can provide grows exponentially."

All donations are tax-deductible and will directly benefit flood relief efforts in Pike County. To donate, call (606) 437-2111 after 1 p.m. on Sunday, or bring donations to the hospital's main lobby.

Court approves policy changes at jail

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

Webb presented Friday. Violations to this policy will result in the firing of the employee, Webb said, and also be made a part of the employee's permanent record.

"They have made these changes through the state," Webb said. "We've had problems throughout the state with this, especially with one of our local facilities."

State laws have now made this violation of policy a class D felony as it was once considered a misdemeanor offense. This statewide change in the wake of dozens of sexual abuse complaints, some of which ended in convictions, at the Otter Creek Correctional Complex in Wheelwright.

"From an employee standpoint, it does create problems," said Floyd County Attorney Keith Bartley. "We've seen a dozen cases come through our courts and it brings more than just the charge because there's underlying problems that come with it." A second change to the jail policy approved by county officials Friday was that the Department of Corrections must be notified within 24 hours and made aware of "all extraordinary or unusual occurrences" and that a written report from the facility must be given to the department within 48 hours.

Some examples of what this procedure change would include would be events such as the death of an inmate, suicides, serious injury, escapes, fires, riots, sexual assaults and an overall one of "any serious event that threatens the safety or security of the facility or staff."

The changes were approved by a unanimous vote and will go into effect immediately.

Floyd County Jailer Roger Webb presents county officials with changes to jail policy for approval. In line with state laws passed this year, the jail will see changes in both its code of ethics and procedures.

PRESTONSBURG — The Floyd County Detention Center saw new policies approved by county officials Friday that will bring the jail's operations manual into compliance with already passed state laws.

Jailer Roger Webb presented the Floyd County Fiscal Court with the changes during the court's regular meeting Friday and by letter the need for the approval four days prior.

The changes were made in two separate sections, the code of ethics and standards and procedures.

In proper order with new state laws, it is now against jail policy for its employees to have personal relationships with inmates during their stay and then an extended six months after the inmates release. This policy applies to inmates housed at the location of the employee or other facility, according to the changes

MOVIES FROM THE BLACK LAGOON

'AVH: Alien vs. Hunter'

by TOM DOTY
TIMES COLUMNIST

All good exploitation film ideas spring from the same source — Roger Corman. Think of him as the Steve Allen of the drive-in set.

Tom Doty
Times Columnist

Corman pioneered all manner of on-the-cheap practices, which helped low-budget films thrive for the last five decades. One of his ideas was to keep an eye on the product of the major film studios. He had no problem cashing in on Hollywood hits (he had "Piranha" on drive-in screens one year after "Jaws"), but he was even better at anticipating what sorts of films would be moneymakers before they were even released.

In the 1980s, this talent allowed him to get three underwater horror films in theaters before James Cameron ("Avatar") could finish editing "The Abyss." Cameron wasn't too mad because even he studied under Corman (his first flick was the sequel to "Piranha," which he made for Roger).

Now we have Asylum Studios continuing this tradition. They started their company by getting "Snakes on a Train" in videostores before the larger-budgeted version (starring Samuel L. Jackson) had a chance to tank at the box office. Here we have their effort to

This Town, That World

Editor's Note: For years, Floyd County Times founder and former publisher Norman Allen wrote a weekly column that looked at Floyd County through his eyes. His columns are being reprinted due to request.

One can imagine several situations existing in the case at hand. It could be a display of male chauvinism. Or a protest against Women's Lib. Or the plain reaction of a marriage partner who had been eclipsed by the feats of the other half. Whatever the story, the Australian who inserted this advertisement in the Canberra Times appears to be of heroic mold:

"My wife (the ad reads) played her best round of golf last Tuesday. Would those who have not yet heard about it please phone 73-1103 for full details of every shot."

THE REASON?

They tell me that snakes are more numerous, these days. Some say the varmints are thriving because forest fires are less numerous. I wouldn't know. But they agree that for the last 10 years they've been increasing. The only explanation I can give is, that's about the time I gave up golf.

HERE TO HELP

St. Vincent Mission tackles Appalachian poverty

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

DAVID — Billy Ousley is ready to help the St. Vincent Mission in David achieve its goal of fighting poverty in the mountains as part of his duties as a Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) worker through the AmeriCorps program.

"My task in particular is to inform the community and others outside the region about the efforts at St. Vincent Mission to fight poverty in the mountains, as well as to promote the selection of locally made artwork and décor available at David Appalachian Crafts," Ousley said. "VISTA workers come from all walks of life and all parts of the country, most having to leave their home region to serve in another state. Having lived in these hills for the majority of my life, however, I feel extremely fortunate to now have a position here through which I can directly aid underprivileged members of our community."

Ousley said that the St. Vincent Mission, founded in Martin in 1968, has touched many lives despite not being a large and well-known organization.

"Offering services such as home repair for the underprivileged, disabled and elderly, a fully stocked food pantry for community members in need, scholarships, an affordable Christmas store, and financial assistance for

David Appalachian Crafts, located on the second floor of St. Vincent Mission, attends a variety of craft shows and festivals in the region.

electric bills, the mission is truly a shining star in a struggling community," Ousley said. "The mission is able to provide these services by relying on a dedicated pool of volunteers, financial support from private donors, craft sales and grants, and most importantly, community engagement from the people of Floyd County. If you would like to support the mission, donations of food, money, household items, and clothing are accepted year-round. You can also volunteer your time to help better the community."

Poison ivy allergy can occur at any age

Q I got poison ivy this spring for the first time in my life, and I am 58 years old. I thought I couldn't get it since I never had before. People are saying it's really bad this year. How can I prevent this from happening again?

A Unfortunately, about 85 percent of all American react to poison ivy, also known as a Rhus allergy, at some time in their lives. The Rhus family includes poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac, and as you've found out, you can develop a reaction to the plants at any time in your life.

The plants in the Rhus family are delicate and easily damaged. Damage to the plant allows a substance called urushiol oil to leak out. This oil is very hearty and can live outside of the plant for up to five years, maybe longer.

Many times people have no idea how they got poison ivy, denying any contact with the plants. It's not uncommon for poison ivy, also called Rhus dermatitis, to come from contact with an item that has been contaminated by the urushiol oil rather than from direct contact with the skin. The oil can get on your clothes, your shoes, a ball that rolled into some plants, or a pet that has been outside. When you touch the oil on one of these objects, your immune system responds to the oil with an allergic reaction.

Once you've come in contact with urushiol, it's only about 15 minutes until the allergic reaction begins. You can limit the reaction by washing the oil off quickly, but again, you may not realize you've had contact with the oil. Itching is usually the first symptom, followed by a raised, blister-like rash, which can be localized or widespread.

While you might get poison ivy from contact with someone who has been in contact with the oil but has not yet washed it off of their skin, poison ivy cannot be spread from person to person by touching fluid from broken, weeping poison ivy blisters. Also, poison ivy cannot be spread from one part of your body to another in that way. That is an old wives' tale. The only way you will experience an allergic reaction to poison ivy is to have had direct contact with the plant oil, itself.

Some people react not just at the specific point of contact, but have an allergic reaction to the urushiol oil so severe that it causes hives all over their body as well as swelling of the face. This is a medical emergency and needs to be treated promptly in an emergency room.

Prevention is the best treatment for any Rhus dermatitis. As soon as you realize that you have been exposed, wash the area with soap and water. If you get poison ivy easily, carry hand sanitizer with you in the woods and use it on exposed skin as needed. Wear clothing that covers your exposed skin when you venture into the woods or even into your garden. Wash your outside clothes and clean off your shoes after you have been in the woods or the yard. And wipe off your pets with a damp cloth when they come in to help remove oil from their coats, as well.

Maybe the fish population would have a chance if I gave up on that sport, too. But I, somehow have vague doubts about that.

My efforts in that direction have become so unavailing that the other day, when the youngest son loped in with a good bass, I gave him the eye like Fleagle.

ECUMENICITY

Didn't get to see Steve Bond when he was here last week, but am taking advantage of him by telling (as best I can recall) one of his stories as it came to me via his uncle, J.D. Bond. It relates to the attempt of Israel to breed some goodwill. Her advisers finally convinced Goldia Maier that it would be good public relations to stage a golf tournament and to invite to same a representative from every nation creed, color, and so on.

A slight complication arose when the Catholic Church failed to find a golfer to represent it, but this was solved when Jack Nicklaus was engaged to play as its entry in the great tournament. But, strangely enough, Nicklaus didn't win, and he went to Rome, had audience with the Pope and regrettably told him of his defeat.

The Pope was magnanimous about it, reminded Jack that we can't win 'em all and so on. Then he paused and asked:

"Tell me, who did win the tournament."
"The Israleli entry."

"Who represented Israel?"

Said Nicklaus: "Rabbi Trevino."

A screech owl has taken up his or her abode in the trees out back at our house and for two nights now has been making the darkness a bit eerier with a tremolo of shivery sound. I deliberately shun harking back, especially in print, but I couldn't blot out the recollection of the time, some years back, when a boy, staring out beyond the edge of the pale light an oil lamp threw onto the snow outside the window listened to a feathery creature of this sort out there in the darkness and cold quaver and quiver till he got the crazy idea the poor thing was freezing to death.

Godly behavior

by KIM LITTLE FRASURE

Christians hear a lot about "Godly behavior," but some often wonder what that actually means. As Christians we are expected to live to a higher standard, because we are representatives of God on Earth. So striving to live a God-centered life is important, because when we exhibit Godly behavior we are providing a good witness to those around us.

God expects Christians to live by a higher standard. He wants us to be examples of Christ rather than living by the world's standards. Reading our Bible, praying, and doing regular devotions are helpful ways for us to know God's expectations and live a life focused on God. Many times, the B. I. B. L. E has been referred to as Basic Instructions Before Leaving Earth and that is an awesome explanation in my opinion.

Kim Little Frasure

Ephesians 5:8 - "For once you were full of darkness, but now you have light from the Lord. So live as people of light!" (NLT)
One of the greatest witnesses we can hope to achieve is setting a Godly example. Unfortunately some of us fall short some times and our behavior is anything but "Godly".

Yes, we are human, and life and loved ones and friends and others can toss us curve balls at times that can take our knees right out from under us.

Sometimes we need to take the time to look in the mirror and ask ourselves how our behavior and our tongues and even our appearance are being perceived by others. Everything we do and say as Christian's influences what people think of Christians and of God. We are a representative of Him, and our behavior is part of demonstrating our relationship with Him. Does this mean we will be perfect? No. We all make mistakes and sin. However, it is so important to keep striving to walk in Jesus' footsteps as best we can.

Matthew 5:16 - "In the same way, let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and praise your Father in heaven." (NIV)

'Til next week, God bless!

Salome's Stars Weekly Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Don't gnash those pearly whites because you might have to delay your plans. This could give the Lucky Lamb a better perspective of what's been done, and what still needs doing.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Scoring financial bull's-eyes is easy for the focused Bovine who knows the ins and outs of the marketplace. But even with your success record, caution is still the watchword.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Watch that tendency to over-romanticize a situation that should be given closer scrutiny. Better to be suspicious now and ask for an explanation, or face a sad surprise later.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Bruised self-confidence can make things difficult unless you accept the fact that you have what it takes. Ignore the critics and concentrate on believing in yourself. Good luck.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Congratulations on what you've accomplished. But this is no time to curl up for some serious catnapping. Your rivals are probably already working on plans to overtake your lead.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your adventurous side wants to play a more dominant role this week, and you might want to oblige. Try to arrange for some getaway time with that special person.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Taking logical approaches to pesky workplace issues can help resolve even long-standing problems. A shift in policy might catch you by surprise. Be alert to signs of change.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your kindness and compassion are exactly what are needed in dealing with an awkward situation in the early part of the week. Share the weekend fun with family and friends.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Keeping your focus straight and true is a good way of getting your points across. Save any variations for a later time. The musical arts are important this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Reject advice to cut corners in reaching your goal. Better to take a little more time to do the job as you promised. You'll gain new respect for your honesty and integrity.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Don't allow a troublesome situation to grow so big that it will be increasingly difficult to deal with. The sooner you speak up, the sooner everyone will be able to benefit.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Confronting someone who is making a lot of mistakes could be the kindest thing you can do both for that person and for anyone who could be adversely affected by the errors.

BORN THIS WEEK: You absolutely glow when you see beautiful things, and everyone around you is warmed by your light.

Crazy driving will wear cars out, but let Dad have his outlet

by TOM and RAY MAGLIOZZI

Dear Tom and Ray:
Could you please settle an ongoing discussion that my family has had for years? On one side is

CLICK & CLACK

my mother, my six sisters and me (that is not a typo; I really am one of seven girls. The baby is now 19, and we all are licensed drivers). On the other side is my father. You would think that after 40 years of being more and more severely outnumbered, he would've learned to just nod and go along with what we say like a good boy, but on this one point, he has proven himself to be ridiculously stubborn. There are very few things my mother, my sisters and I agree on, but one of them is this: None of us likes Dad to drive our car because, in our collective opinion, he is too rough on a car. He waits until the last possible nanosecond to stop at a red light, but pulls away from a green light like the devil himself is on his tail. He weaves in and out of traffic like he's forever in a hurry. Furthermore, he seems to never hear the little odd noises that any vehicle makes to tell you that something might be amiss, and then wonders why his vehicles are forever breaking down. In fact, he just lost the transmission in his F-150 and swears that it just "went." But I'd swear that it was making weird grinding noises weeks before he had to park it permanently in the driveway. Here's the kicker: My father SWEARS that the way one drives has no bearing whatsoever on how long a car lasts. We, the Female Collective of our family, not only think he's dead wrong, we think he's nuts. Could you please impress upon my dad that he kills cars with the way he drives and that we are justified in being reluctant to let him borrow ours when he, yet again, runs whatever he's driving into the ground? Thanks. — Rachel TOM: Well, of course you and your mother and sisters are absolutely right, Rachel. You're right on all counts. And he's wrong on all counts. He's driving the cars hard, and they're breaking down because of it. But I would just forget about it and pretend you never wrote to us.

RAY: Me, too. What you're failing to see is that driving like a nut is your Dad's only outlet. And if you deny him that important escape valve, it might be HE who blows the next gasket rather than his Ford F-150.

TOM: This is his way of dealing with 40 years of having to wait hours for the bathroom, of coming home to a house that smells like the ladies' department at Macy's, of having to live among interior walls painted colors he's never even heard of, and of having to spend his evenings watching TiVo'd episodes of "The View." This guy has a stressful life, Rachel!

RAY: His car is the only place where the poor guy has any autonomy. And now you want to bully him out of that, too?

TOM: I wouldn't do it, Rachel. It's clear that you love your dad. We can tell from your letter. And it's clear that — having given in to the sisterhood on everything else — he loves you, too. So I say, let the poor guy run his cars into the ground in peace. And get to work making him some grandsons.

Read disc brakes versus drum brakes

Dear Tom and Ray:
All of the cheapest cars these days seem to have drum brakes on the rear instead of disc brakes. But drum brakes have more parts than disc brakes, and are much harder to assemble (I know from experience). You'd think that would add assembly-line costs and that it would be cheaper to put the better disc brakes on the cheapo econo-cars. What's up with that, guys? What am I not understanding? — Barnaby

TOM: The missing element is the parking brake, Barnaby.

RAY: Right. A drum brake also can serve as a parking brake. So you're essentially getting two for one.

TOM: Disc brakes make lousy parking brakes. So if you put disc brakes on all four wheels, you then have to add two additional, separate drum brakes on the rear wheels to serve as parking brakes.

RAY: Or you have to add a very expensive, and failure-prone, component to the rear disc-brake calipers to make them work as parking brakes.

TOM: But drum brakes naturally make good parking brakes, because they have a binding, or self-wrapping, action (that's also what makes them lock up, and makes them less desirable than disc brakes for stopping the car).

RAY: So if you use drum brakes in the rear to stop the car, you already have your parking brake, and you save money that way.

Lagoon

copy the success of the match up that all film fans watched for ("Alien vs. Predator"). Their version is about as good as the actual films, which isn't saying much, but at least the movie comes on a DVD that holds two other efforts from this fledgling studio and is priced to sell (under five bucks, which appears to match their average film budget).

The story opens with our main character, intrepid reporter Lee, jogging across a bridge. Turns out that intrepid doesn't mean observant, as he totally misses a huge spaceship soaring over his head and crashing in some hills. Turns out his walkman tuned out the noise, but that's no excuse for what happens next.

His policeman buddy pulls him over and tells him that a UFO crashed nearby and even offers Lee a ride to the scene. Our ace investigator actually states that he would rather go home and shower. Luckily the policeman talks him into going, but as a former reporter I can't relate to a writer who turns down a story tip as well as a ride to the scene.

Once at the crash site, our story picks up immensely as an alien arachnid emerges from the woods and eats the policeman. Lee runs like a rabbit and soon hooks up with other townspeople. They band together and decide that the local survivalist has the equipment they need to escape. Unfortunately they soon realize that there is another alien afoot and it means to kill the spider-like E.T., as well as any humans that cross its path.

It all leads to a lot of head-scratching, as our barely drawn characters prove that they share a decision-making disorder which makes them do incredibly stupid things (like splitting up and walking around in tunnels without a light source). Actually they crawl through a lot of tunnels, too. In fact this movie spends a little too-much time on aimless wandering, though it gets points for plenty of gruesome alien attacks between scenes of people doing dumb stuff.

The final solution amounts to getting out of the way while the aliens fight. That's right, folks — this one leads up to an exciting climax wherein nobody does anything, Slacker paradise.

This film is at least fun to watch. The cast is made up of the people they probably hired to move equipment around, though they do manage to cast William Katt as Lee.

If you remember Mr. Katt, then you're a "Baby Boomer," as he was big after starring in "Carrie," and then hitting 1980s TV with a starring role on "The Greatest American Hero." Age has caught up to Mr.

Katt and his curly locks hang limp while a scraggly goatee sees him starting to resemble Col. Sanders. Sadly, he phones it in, but Dedee Pfeiffer, a veteran of several television series, deserves a special award for acting like she has no idea that the film she is in is this terrible. Her timing is phenomenal. She also manages to read her lines in a convincing manner. She's the only one here who could probably use a clip from this on her talent reel.

The special effects crew appears to have had a ball creating the spider alien, but their take on the "Predator" type is decidedly lame and adds up to some poor sap rocking a wok on his head while decked out in rubber.

Best line: "It came from outer space, it crawls on the ceiling, it looks like a spider on steroids. It's an alien." 2007, rated R.

Strange ... but true

It was British mathematician, historian and philosopher Bertrand Russell who made the following sage observation: "If there were in the world today any large number of people who desired their own happiness more than they desired the unhappiness of others, we could have paradise in a few years."

Do you know why camels are artiodactyls, while humans aren't? It's because dromedaries have an even number of toes (two) on each foot, while we have an odd number.

According to a poll conducted in the United Kingdom, 80 percent of male college freshmen and sophomores in that country have never done a load of laundry in their lives.

At weddings here in the United States, it is common for the bride to toss her bouquet to determine who will be the next to be married. At weddings in Finland the custom is a bit different, though the outcome is the same: There, the bride traditionally wears a golden crown, and at the reception she is blindfolded and spun around. Then all the single girls in attendance dance around her while the bride, still blindfolded, tries to place the crown on one of them. It's believed that the lucky girl who ends up wearing the crown will be the next to wed.

It takes about 2.5 pounds of grapes to make a single bottle of wine.

Ever wonder where the phrase "cool as a cucumber" came from? It's actually an established fact that the interior of a cucumber can be up to 20 degrees cooler than the ambient air temperature surrounding it.

GOOD HEALTH

Don't let bladder rule your life

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I, like the letter-writer P.G., had to run to the bathroom constantly in order not to have an accident. I wanted to see my grandson graduate from college, so I consulted a urologist. He sent me to a place where treatment with an electrical probe were given. I went for six weeks and also did Kegel exercises. The quality of my life changed for the better, and now I square dance and do aerobics. Incontinence is no longer a problem. — E.M.

ANSWER: Electrical stimulation of the pelvic muscles has successfully allowed many women to regain bladder control. It doesn't work for all, however. The stimulation strengthens muscles that keep the bladder closed, and controls overactive bladder wall muscles that contract forcefully and frequently.

Another technique is a device that delivers electric current to spinal nerves in the lower back. If those nerves respond to the current and keep the bladder closed, then a small unit is implanted under the skin for a permanent solution to this problem. One such device is called the InterStim.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have an EKG done every year. I also have worn a monitor that records heart activity for three days. Everything is fine.

When I fall asleep most nights, I wake after about 10 minutes with a rapid heartbeat, and sometimes it takes quite a time before it settles down and I can get back to sleep. I rarely have such a rapid beat at any other time of the day. Do you know what causes this, or what it might be? I am 57. — S.B.

ANSWER: If I had to make a guess, it would be paroxysmal atrial tachycardia, a sudden heart speedup for no reason. It's usually not a serious condition, and it doesn't indicate heart disease. If the rate is really fast or if the episode lasts for a prolonged period, then treatment would be needed.

No one can be sure unless the rhythm comes on when a doctor is present or when you are hooked up to an EKG machine. That monitor you wore for three days can be left on for longer stretches of time. Or you could have someone take you to the emergency department of a hospital if you can reach it somewhat quickly. You can't obtain a diagnosis without such information.

The booklet on heartbeat disorders discusses their more common forms. Readers can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue -- No. 107W, Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My wife, 76, has degenerative arthritis of the spine. Can you tell me if this condition will progress to total disability? — J.D.

ANSWER: Degenerative arthritis is another name for osteoarthritis, the most common kind of arthritis. Almost every 70-year-old has a touch of it. It can be in the back, knee, hip, hand, fingers and ankle, or any of these locations. The rate of progression is unpredictable. A good many can continue to do most of the activities of life with minimum disruption.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him or request an order form of available health newsletters at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Rental Central

by TOM DOTY
TIMES COLUMNIST

Light entertainment was the main course this week for renters. One biographical drama about a rock band was also a little light on angst but entertaining.

"The Losers" — High-octane action and plenty of laughs are in store for brave viewers who try this effort. A special forces unit finds its latest assignment fraught with danger, betrayals and a lot of stuff blowing up. If you can't wait for the "A-Team" movie to hit DVD, then this well-paced effort should suffice. A solid cast includes Jeffrey Dean Morgan (The Comedian in "The Watchmen"), Idris Elba ("The Wire") and Zoe Saldana.

"Cop Out" — Action tropes are trotted out here as mismatched cops encounter all manner of dicey situations while tracking down a rare baseball card. The cops are essayed by Bruce Willis and Tracy Morgan (as the crazy one). They all have a great time with a gag-filled script by the Cullen Brothers (Robb and Mark), under the supervision of New Jersey bad boy Kevin Smith.

"The Runaways" — The story of Joan Jett, Cherie Currie and their rock-and-roll band becomes light fodder that's more fun, in a nostalgic way, than a tell-all biography. Kristen Stewart ("Twilight") and Dakota Fanning are fine as Jett and Currie, but this doesn't exactly shed much light on the band, though that may be because all of the principals are still around.

"Galaxy of Terror" — The Shout Factory follows up their release of Roger Corman's "Death Race 2000" with this obscure horror/sci-fi mix that throws plenty of gore and titillation at the audience with no regard for continuity. Who cares, as it's all in good fun as a team of misfits is sent to a faraway planet to rescue a crew that's gone off the grid. Each member of the crew harbors a secret, however, and the planet seems capable of using them against the team. The film includes plenty of gore effects and is best known for the first on-screen assault by a giant worm. It also rocks a tremendous cast of exploitation kings which include Robert Englund, Zalman King, Sid Haig and Erin Moran ("Joanie Loves Chachi"). Sets look pretty good, too, and were supplied by a young James Cameron ("Avatar") who glued Big Mac boxes together and spray painted them to stand in for space ship interiors.

Next week look for a remake of "Clash of the Titans" and check out the "Repo Men."

Go Bananas!

FAMILY FEATURES

Easy ways to grill up something surprisingly good

Bananas aren't just for breakfast or lunch anymore. By grilling this popular fruit, you can add a whole new flavor dimension to a dinnertime recipe and turn a basic dessert into something wow.

Adding bananas to your summer grilling routine is a fun way to eat fruit. You can grill them in their peels while the BBQ coals are still hot or add peeled slices to a tasty kabob—it's that simple. From kid-friendly desserts to grown-up dishes with a tropical twist, make it easy on yourself and go bananas on the grill.

Did You Know?

- With no fat, cholesterol or sodium, vitamin-packed bananas are a guilt-free summertime treat.
- Banana peels are great for polishing shoes. Use (the inside of) an empty peel on your leather shoes as you would shoe polish and then buff off with a soft cloth. The banana's oils soak into the leather and, like most commercial shoe polishes, contains potassium.
- As bananas ripen, the starch in the fruit turns to sugar. Therefore, the riper the banana, the sweeter it will taste.
- Ten or more bananas growing together are called "hands" and a single banana is called a "finger." Four to six bananas sold in the store are called a "cluster."

Island Kabobs with Tropical Fruit Salsa

Preparation: 10 minutes
Grill Time: 10 minutes
Makes: 4 servings

- 2 ripe, firm Dole® Bananas, peeled, each cut into 6 pieces, plus 1 ripe Dole Banana, peeled and diced
- 12 chunks Dole Tropical Gold Pineapple
- 16 extra large or jumbo shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 1 green or red bell pepper, cut into 8 pieces
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1 mango, peeled and diced
- 1 tablespoon chopped mint
- 1 Dole Green Onion, minced
- 2 to 3 teaspoons minced jalapeño pepper

Thread banana pieces, pineapple, shrimp and bell pepper pieces equally onto skewers.

Whisk together lime juice, oil and allspice in small bowl. Brush 2 tablespoons over kabobs.

Combine remaining marinade with diced banana, mango, mint, green onion and jalapeño pepper; place in a serving dish.

Grill kabobs over medium high heat 8 to 10 minutes, turning once or until the shrimp are opaque. Arrange the kabobs on top of the salsa.

Teriyaki Pork Chops with Grilled Bananas

Preparation: 20 minutes
Grill Time: 20 minutes
Makes: 3 to 4 servings

- 1/4 cup dry sherry
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 pound boneless pork chops (3 to 4)
- 2 large firm Dole Bananas, peeled
- 1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
- 2 cups hot cooked rice
- 2 tablespoons sliced Dole Green Onion
- 1 tablespoon toasted sesame seed

Combine sherry, soy sauce, brown sugar and oil in small bowl. Remove 2 tablespoons sherry mixture and brush on pork chops and bananas.

Grill pork 8 to 10 minutes on each side until cooked through. Grill bananas 2 to 3 minutes on each side until heated through. Cut each into 1-inch pieces.

Combine remaining sherry mixture and cornstarch in small saucepan; cook, stirring until thickened.

Arrange pork and bananas over rice on serving plate; drizzle with sauce. Sprinkle with green onion and sesame seed.

Grilled Bananas

No prep needed.
Grill Time: 10 minutes
Makes: 4 servings

- 4 Dole Bananas, unpeeled
- Assorted favorite dessert toppings

Place unpeeled bananas on grill over medium high heat. Grill 4 to 5 minutes on each side until peels blacken and soften. Insides will be custard-like. Serve warm or chilled with your favorite toppings such as fresh fruit, chopped nuts, miniature marshmallows, chocolate bits, caramel or frozen yogurt.

How to Store Bananas

- Remove bananas from plastic produce bag and store at room temperature. The warmer it is, the faster the bananas will ripen.
- To slow ripening, refrigerate (peel will turn black but the fruit inside will be fresh and ripe). Bananas can be frozen once the banana is peeled and stored in a freezer bag until ready to use (use a bit of fresh lemon juice to reduce browning).
- If bananas are too green, place them in a brown paper bag, in a warm dry area (but not in direct sunlight) for a day or two to encourage ripening. If there is still not enough yellow appearing on the peel, place a ripe apple in the bag with the bananas.

Grilled Caribbean Fruit Salsa

Preparation: 10 minutes
Grill Time: 8 minutes
Makes: 4 servings

- 1/2 fresh Dole Tropical Gold Pineapple, peeled and sliced vertically
- 1 large, ripe firm Dole Banana, slice in half vertically
- 1 mango, skinned, peeled and sliced in half vertically
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
- 1/4 cup red onion, minced
- 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
- 2 kiwi, diced

Combine pineapple, banana and mango slices with the olive oil and lime juice. Brush to coat the fruit. Place fruit on grill. Grill fruit 4 to 5 minutes each side, remove and cool slightly.

Roughly chop the grilled fruit, reserving juices. Combine fruit and reserved juices with the red onion, red pepper flakes and kiwi. Serve warm or room temperature. Great with grilled chicken or fish.
